Dominica; Εὐκτήρια & Προσευκτήρια, that is, Oratories, or Οἶκοι εὐκτήριοι, or προσευκτήριοι, or the like: ſeldom Ναοὶ, or Templa; that *appellation being grown, by the uſe of both ſides, into a name of diſtinction of the Houſes of Gentile Superſtition from thoſe of Chriſtian Worſhip. Which that I affirm not upon bare conjecture, theſe Examples will make manifeſt. Firſt, that of Aurelian the Emperor, before alledged, in his Epiſtle to the Senate, De Libris Sibyllinis inſpiciendis: (a) "Miror vos, Patres ſanc-"ti, tamdiu de aperiendis Sibyl-"linis dubitâſſe libris, perinde quaſi "in Chriſtianorum ECCLESIA, "non in TEMPLO Deorum om-"nium, tractaretis. And that of Zeno Veronenſis, in his Sermon de Continentia: (b) "Proponamus itaque, ut ſæpe contingit, in "unum ſibi convenire diverſæ reli-"gionis diem, quo tibi ECCLE-"SIA, illi adeunda ſint TEM-"PLA. (He ſpeaks of a Chriſtian woman married to a Gentile.) That alſo of S. Hierom in his Epiſtle ad Riparium, ſaying of Julian the Apoſtate, (c) "Quòd Sanctorum "BASILICAS aut deſtruxerit, "aut in TEMPLA converterit. Thus they ſpake when they would diſtinguiſh: Otherwiſe, now and then, the Chriſtian Fathers uſe the word Ναὸς or Templum for Eccleſia; but reſpecting the Temple of the true God at Jeruſalem, not the notion of the Gentiles.

* According to this notion of Templum, Tertull. cap. 15. de Idololatria, Si Templis renunciâſti, nè feceris Templum januam tuam. Et de Corona mil. cap. 11. Excubabit (nempe Chriſtianus) pro Templis quibus renunciavit? & cœnabit illic ubi Apoſtolo non placet? id eſt, in Idoleo. 1 Cor. 8. 10.

(a) I wonder (ſacred Fathers) that ye demurre ſo long about opening and conſulting the Sibyll's books; as if ye were treating (or debating this matter) in the Chriſtians CHURCH, and not in the TEMPLE of all the Gods.

(b) Let us propound the caſe, and ſuppoſe (as it often comes to paſs) that the performance of theſe different Religions may fall out upon one and the ſame day, wherein thou (being a Chriſtian) muſt go to the CHURCH, and he (thy Husband, a Gentile) muſt at the ſame time repair to the TEMPLES.

(c) That he either deſtroyed the Churches of the Saints, or elſe turned them into Temples.

1. That this Anſwer is true and genuine, I prove, firſt, Becauſe the Gentiles themſelves, who objected this want to the Chriſtians, neither were nor could be ignorant that they had Oratories where they performed their Chriſtian ſervice; when they were ſo notoriouſly known (as we ſaw before) to the Emperours Galienus and Aurelian, and a controverſie about one of them referred unto the latter; when alſo the Emperour's Edicts flew about in every City for demoliſhing them. Why therefore do they object in this manner, but becauſe, for the defect of ſomething they thought thereto neceſſary, they eſteemed not thoſe Oratories for Temples?

2. Secondly, Becauſe in that diſpute between Origen and Celſus it is ſuppoſed by both that the Perſians and Jews were, as concerning this matter, in like condition with the Chriſtians, neither of both enduring to worſhip their Gods in Temples. Hear Origen ſpeak, Lib. 7. p. 385, 386. (d) "Licèt "Scythæ Afrique Numidæ, & * im-"pii Seres, ut Celſus ait, aliæque gen-"tes, atque etiam Perſæ * averſen-"tur TEMPLA, ARAS, STA-"TUAS; non eandem averſandi "cauſam eſſe illis & nobis: and a little after; "Inter abhorrentes * ab "ARARUM, TEMPLORUM, "STATUARUM ceremoniis, Scy-"thæ, Numidæ, impiique Seres & "Perſæ aliis moventur rationibus

(d) Although the Scythians, the Numidians in Africk, and the irreligious or Atheiſtical Seres (as Celſus characterizes them) beſides other Nations——yea and the Perſians too cannot endure TEMPLES, ALTARS and STATUES or IMAGES; yet is not their and our averſeneſs from theſe things founded upon the ſame Grounds and Conſiderations. And a little after (ſaith Origen,) Among thoſe that are averſe from worſhipping the Deity in and by ALTARS, TEMPLES and IMAGES, the Scythians, Numidians, and the irreligious Seres and the Perſians

* Σῆρες (ὃς φησιν ἀθέως ἔτι ὁ Κέλσος) * οὐκ ἀνέχονται.

* παρὰ βωμοῖς, καὶ ναοῖς, καὶ ἀγάλμασι σέβειν τὸ θεῖον.

quàm

alſo go upon other Grounds and Principles, then the Chriſtians and Jews, who hold it utterly unlawfull to worſhip God after that manner. For none of thoſe Nations is averſe from erecting and ſetting up Temples, Altars and Images upon this account, as being apprehenſive of that unworthy Hypotheſis and notion of the other Gentiles, who ſuppoſed that the Demons were encloſed and ſhut up faſt in certain Places (viz. Temples) and Images, being either confined thither by Magicall Spells, or elſe having preoccupied ſuch places of themſelves, where they did greedily feed and feaſt themſelves with the Nidour and Savour of the Sacrifices. But now Chriſtians, and alſo the Jews, are utterly averſe from ſuch things, out of a conſcientious reſpect to that in the Law, (Deuter. 6. 13.) Thou ſhalt fear the Lord thy God, and him onely ſhalt thou ſerve; as alſo in obedience to that in the Decalogue, Thou ſhalt have no other Gods but me; and again, Thou ſhalt not make to thy ſelf any Image, &c.

"quàm Chriſtiani & Judæi, quibus "religio eſt ſic numen colere. Illarum "enim gentium nemo ab his alienus "eſt ——quòd intelligat, Dæmonas "DEVINCTOS hærere CER-"TIS LOCIS & STATU-"IS, ſive incantatos quibuſdam "magicis carminibus, ſive aliàs in-"cubantes locis ſemel præoccupatis, "ubi lurconum more ſe oblectant vi-"ctimarum nidoribus.— Cæterùm "Chriſtiani homines & Judæi ſibi "temperant ab his, propter illud Le-"gis, Dominum Deum tuum timebis, "& ipſi ſoli ſervies; item propter "illud, Non erunt tibi alieni Dii "præter me; &, Non facies tibiipſi "ſimulacrum, &c. Lo here, it is all one with Origen to have Templa, as to worſhip * other Gods: as it was a little before with Minutius Felix his Octavius (if you mark it) to have Delubra & Simulacra. 1 Cor. 11. 22.

* So with Tertullian, in the places before alledged in the margin, Renunciâſſe Templis dicitur, qui Idolis.

Yet certainly neither Celſus nor Origen, whatſoever they here ſay of the Perſians and Jews, were ignorant that the Perſians had their * Pyræa or Pyrathæa, (Houſes where the Fire was worſhipped) though * without Images or Statues; alſo that the Jews had both then, and alſo formerly, their Synagogues and Proſeuchæ in the places and Countries where they were diſperſed; and once a moſt glorious and magnificent Temple or Sanctuary: Ergo, by Temples they underſtand not Houſes of prayer and religious rites in the general; but Εἰδωλεῖα, Places where Demons were incloiſtered by the poſition of an Idol or conſecrated Statue. And here let me adde (becauſe it is not impertinent) what I have obſerved in reading the Itinerarium of Benjamin Tudelenſis the Jew; namely, that he expreſſes conſtantly after this manner the Oratories of Jews, Turks and Chriſtians by differing names: thoſe of the Jews he calls בית כנסת, i. Houſes of aſſembly or Synagogues; the Turkiſh Moſquees בית תפלה Houſes of prayer; but the Chriſtian Churches, becauſe of Images, (yea that renowned Church of S. Sophie it ſelf) he called always במות Bamoth, the name of the Idol-Temples in the Old Teſtament, which we tranſlate High-places. This I note for an example of that proneneſs in Religions of a contrary Rite thus to diſtinguiſh, as other things, ſo their Places of worſhip, by diverſity of names, though they communicate in the ſame common nature and uſe.

* Strabo li. 15. in append. ad Herodot. Theod. li. 5. c. 38. Yea, ſee de Ἱερῷ Nanææ in Elymaide Perſidis; 1 Mac. 6. 2. 2 Mac. 1. 13. * i. Ἱερᾷ, not Ναοῖ.

Thirdly, That the Anſwer I have given to theſe objected paſſages is genuine, I prove, Becauſe ſome of theſe Authors acknowledge elſewhere that Chriſtians had Houſes of Sacred worſhip in their time. As namely Arnobius (whoſe words were as preſſing as any of the reſt, yet) in the ſelfſame Books acknowledges the Chriſtians Oratories by the name of Conventicula or Meeting-places; by that name endeavouring, I ſuppoſe, to expreſs the Greek word Ἐκκλησία. The place is about the end of his fourth Book adverſus Gentes: (a) "Quòd ſi haberet vos (ſaith he) a-"liqua veſtris pro religionibus indig-"natio, has potiùs literas, (he means

3.

(a) If there were in you any zeal for your Religion, (any juſt indignation againſt what doth manifeſtly diſhonour it,) ye ought rather to burn thoſe Books and Writings of your Poets so full of prophane fables and fictions of your Gods, and to throw down those Theatres wherein the Gods are every day openly dishonoured by your Poets shamefull tales and contumelious fictions of them. But as for our Sacred Writings (i. the Books of Scripture,) how did they deserve to be burnt? and why were our Meeting-Places so furiously demolished? wherein the most High God was prayed unto, Peace and Pardon was prayed for in the behalf of all men, Magistrates, Armies, Kings, Friends, Enemies, those that are alive, and those that are loosed from the bonds of these gross earthly Bodies.

1 Cor. 11.22.

* Liturgia Christianæ descriptio.

the Poets absurd and blasphemous fictions and tales of their Gods,) "hos exurere debuistis olim libros; "demoliri, dissolvere Theatra hæc "potiùs, in quibus infamiæ numi- "num propudiosis quotidie publi- "cantur in fabulis, (of this their scurrilous dishonouring of their Gods upon the Stage he had spoken much before.) "Nam nostra "quidem scripta cur ignibus meru- "erint dari? cur immaniter CON- "VENTICULA dirui? in qui- "bus * summus oratur Deus, pax "cunctis & venia postulatur, Magistratibus, Exercitibus, Regibus, Famili- "aribus, Inimicis, adhuc vitam degentibus, & resolutis corporum vinctione, &c. He alludes unto the burning of the Books of Scripture and demolition of the Christians Oratories by Diocletian; of which see Eusebius, Lib. 8. c. 2. And know from hence when Arnobius wrote.

Nay Origen himself, one of the first brought to depose against us, (if Rufinus his Translator deserve any credit) will in his Homily upon the 9. chap. of Josua testifie both for Churches and Altars among Christians in his time. For thus he allegorizeth there the story of the Gibeonites, whose lives Josua and the Elders spared, but gave them no better entertainment then to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Congregation and for the Altar of the Lord: (a)"Sunt quidam in Ecclesia (saith "he)* credentes quidem, & habentes "fidem in Deum, & acquiescentes in "omnibus divinis præceptis, quique "etiam erga servos Dei religiosi sunt "& servire eis cupiunt; sed & ad or- "natum ECCLESIÆ vel ministe- "rium satis prompti paratique sunt: "in actibus verò suis & conversati- "one propria obscœnitatibus & vitiis "involuti, nec omnino deponentes "veterem hominem cum actibus suis, "sed involuti vetustis vitiis & ob- "scœnitatibus suis, sicut & isti (i. Ga-"baonitæ) pannis & calceamentis "veteribus obtecti: præter hoc, quòd "in Deum credunt, & erga servos "Dei vel ECCLESIÆ cultum (i. "ornatum) videntur esse devoti, "nihil adhibent emendationis vel "innovationis in mores, &c. And a little after; "Veruntamen sci- "endum est, quantum ex hujusce- "modi figurarum adumbrationibus "edocemur, quòd si qui tales sunt in "nobis, quorum fides hoc tantummo- "do habet, ut ad ECCLESIAM "veniant, & inclinent caput su-

* Jam. 2.18,19.

(a) There are a sort of men in the Church that believe and have faith in God, that assent to all Divine precepts, who are also very officious toward the servants of God, and are ready to serve them; yea and are exceeding ready and forward to the adorning of the CHURCH and the service thereof: But yet all this while, as to their actions and the course of their lives and conversations, they are altogether engaged and entangled in sin and filthiness; they care not at all to put off the old man with his deeds, [Col. 3.9.] but keep on their old dress and habit, their old sins and filthinesses, just as these Gibeonites came to Josua with their old shoes on their feet and in their old garments. Now these men, (setting this aside, that they profess to believe in God, and seem to be devoutly affected towards the servants of God and the adorning of the CHURCH) what do they doe? even nothing at all towards inward reformation and real amendment of their lives——And a little after (saith Origen,) But here we are to know, (that which we are taught from what is shadowed out by these and the like Figures and Types in the Old Testament, particularly from this History of the Gibeonites,) That if there be any such Christians among us, whose Faith signifies onely thus much & goes no further then this, viz. That they come duly to the CHURCH, and bow their heads to the Priests, perform their duties, honour the ſervants of God, and withall contribute ſomething to the adorning of the ALTAR or the CHURCH, and yet do not ſeriouſly endeavour to reform and amend their lives and actions, and leaving off their former vices, to follow after chaſtity and purity, nor labour in good earneſt to ſubdue their anger, their covetouſneſs, and that ravenous diſpoſition in them, unſatisfiedly and greedily catching at more and more ſtill; —— If (I ſay) there be any ſuch, let them know this and conſider it, That as for all ſuch Chriſtians as theſe, who mind not to amend their ways, to reform themſelves, but even to their old age continue in their ſins, our Lord Jeſus (of whom Joſua was a Type) will give them their part and portion with the Gibeonites.

"um ſacerdotibus, (mark here a "cuſtome) officia exhibeant, ſer- 1 Cor. 11. 22
"vos Dei honorent, ad ornatum quo-
"que ALTARIS vel ECCLE-
"SIÆ aliquid conferant, non ta-
"men adhibent ſtudium ut etiam
"mores ſuos excolant, actus emen-
"dent, vitia deponant, caſtita-
"tem colant, iracundiam mitigent,
"avaritiam reprimant, rapacitatem
"refrænent;—ſciant, ſibi, qui tales
"ſunt, qui emendare ſe nolunt, ſed
"in his uſque in ſenectutem ultimam
"perſeverant, partem ſortémque ab
"Jeſu Domino cum Gabaonitis eſſe
"tribuendam.

Thus Origen by his Interpreter. And if anywhere Ruſinus may be truſted, ſure he may in this; foraſmuch as in his Peroration in Epiſt. ad Romanos he hath given us his word, that in his tranſlation of this and the next Book he took not his wonted liberty to inſert or alter any thing, but ſimply expreſſed every thing as he found it. Hear his words; (a) "Illa (ſaith he) quæ in
"Jeſu Nave & in Judicum librum
"& in 36, 37, & 38. Pſalm. ſcripſi-
"mus, ſimpliciter expreſſimus ut in-
"venimus, & non multo cum labore
"tranſtulimus. Vide locum & Era- ſmi Cenſuram Lib. Origen. Beſides, he that but conſiders the matter together with the brevity of this Homily, cannot ſee a poſſibility how theſe paſſages can be an addition or ſupplement of the Tranſlator's, unleſs he made the whole Homily; becauſe the contents of them are the only argument thereof, and being taken from it nothing would be remaining.

(a) As to what we have written upon Joſua the ſon of Nave or Nun, as alſo upon the Book of Judges, and upon Pſal. 36, and 37, and 38. we have ſimply expreſſed every thing therein as we found it in Origen, whoſe Comments upon theſe parts of Scripture we tranſlated without any great labour.

Laſtly, Becauſe the fore-alledged words of Lactantius are ſo uſually brought againſt us, though they be nothing urgent, and his time be altogether repugnant to any ſuch inference; yet abſolutely to take away all ſcruple, let us hear him alſo, Inſtit. Lib. 5. c. 2. expreſly giving evidence for us, and that even by the name of Templum. (b) "Ego (ſaith he)
"cum in Bithynia literas oratorias
"accitus docerem, contigiſſétque
"eodem tempore ut Dei Templum
"everteretur; duo exſtiterunt ibi-
"dem, qui jacenti atque abjectæ ve-
"ritati, (the Chriſtian verity) neſcio
"utrùm ſuperbiùs an importuniùs, inſultárunt. See the reſt which follows. This was when the Edict of Diocletian came forth for the demoliſhing of the Chriſtians Churches.

(b) As I was teaching Oratory in Bithynia, (whither I was ſent for and called to that end,) at which time alſo it fell out that the Temple of God was thrown down; there were two then upon the place that inſulted, whether more proudly or importunely I know not, over the Chriſtian Verity then in a low and afflicted condition.

And thus having removed that ſtumbling-ſtone which hath been the main inducement to the contrary opinion, ſo prejudicial to thoſe works of religious bounty and piety; I hope my Proofs will finde the freer paſſage with thoſe of underſtanding and judgement, to whoſe pious conſideration I have devoted this my Diſcourſe.

THE REVERENCE OF GODS HOUSE.

ECCLESIASTES 5. 1.

Look to thy foot [or feet] when thou comeſt to the Houſe of God: and be more ready to obey, then to offer the ſacrifice of fools; for they know not that they doe evil.

[This Sermon was preached at S. Marie's in Cambridge, on S. Matthias's day, Anno 163⅝.]

SOLOMON, whom God choſe to build that ſacred and glorious Temple to his Name, it hath pleaſed his holy Spirit to make alſo our principal Inſtructor how we ought to demean our ſelves in ſuch ſacred places. This appears, as by that his ſolemn and famous Prayer made at the Dedication thereof, ſo alſo by this Scripture which I have now begun to reade; the firſt ſeven verſes of this Chapter, if we will rightly underſtand them, being wholly ſpent upon that argument, and containing precepts and inſtructions fitted to the ſeveral duties of holy worſhip we are to perform, both at our coming thither, and whileſt we remain there.

To unfold them all, were too much for the ſhortneſs of the time allotted me: May it pleaſe you therefore to vouchſafe me your Chriſtian patience and charitable attention, whileſt I utter my thoughts upon the words I have now read. For the better and more diſtinct explication whereof, conſider in them theſe two parts; An Admonition, and a Caution. 1. An Admonition of reverent and awfull demeanour when we come to God's Houſe; Look to thy foot, or feet, when thou comeſt to the Houſe of God. 2. A Caution, not to prefer the ſecondary Service of God before the firſt and principal; Be more ready to obey, then to offer the ſacrifice of fools; for they know not that they doe evil. In the firſt, or Admonition, I will conſider two things: 1. The Place, God's Houſe; 2. The Duty of thoſe who come thither, Look to thy feet. Of theſe in order, and firſt of the Place, God's Houſe.

SECTION I.

THE Houſe of God is the place ſet apart for his Worſhip and ſervice, and ſo hath peculiar Relation unto him; wherewith being inveſted it becomes ſacred and holy; not only whileſt Divine duties are performed therein, as ſome erroneouſly affirm, but as long as it is for ſuch uſe; namely, according to the nature of other Sacred things, which continue their ſtate of ſeparateneſs and ſanctitie ſo long as that relation they have unto God (wherein this Sanctity conſiſts) is not quite aboliſhed.

To erect and ſet apart ſuch Places as theſe for the exerciſe of the Rites of Religion, is derived from the Inſtinct of Nature, and approved of God from the beginning. It began not with that Tabernacle or ambulatorie Temple which Moſes cauſed to be made by God's appointment at Mount Sinai, but was much more ancient. Noah built an Altar as ſoon as he came out of the Ark. Abraham, Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, (whereſoever they came to pitch their Tents,) erected Places for Divine worſhip, (that is, Altars with their ſepts and encloſures) without any ſpecial appointment from God. Jacob in particular vowed a place for Divine worſhip by the name of God's Houſe, where he would pay the Tithes of all that God ſhould give him, Geneſ. 28.19, &c. Lo here a Church endowed. Yea Moſes himſelf, Exod. 33.7. before the Ark and that glorious Tabernacle were yet made, pitched a Tabernacle for the ſame purpoſe without the Camp, whether every one that ſought the Lord was to goe. And all this was done tanquam recepti moris, as a thing of cuſtome, and as mankind by Tradition had learned to accommodate the Worſhip of their God, by appropriating ſome Place to that uſe; Nature teaching them, that the work was honoured and dignified by the peculiarneſs of the place appointed for the ſame; and that if any work were ſo to be honoured, there was nothing it more beſeemed then the Worſhip and ſervice of Almighty God, the moſt peculiar and incommunicable act of all other. Eccleſ. 5. 1.

Nay more then this; It was believed in thoſe elder times, That that Country or Territory wherein no Place was ſet apart for the Worſhip of God was unhallowed and unclean. Which, I think, I rightly gather from that Story in the Book of Joſua, of the Altar built by Reuben, Gad and the half Tribe of Manaſſeh upon the bank of the River Jordan; which Joſua and the Elders, as their words intimate, ſuppoſed they had done leſt the land of their poſſeſſion, being by the River Jordan cut off from the land of Canaan, (where the Lord's Tabernacle was) and ſo having no place therein conſecrated to the worſhip of their God, might otherwiſe be an unclean and unhallowed habitation. Hear the words of Phinehas and the Princes ſent to diſſwade them, Joſua 22.19. and judge whether they import not as I have ſaid. If the land (ſay they) of your poſſeſſion be *unclean, then paſſe ye over unto the land of the poſſeſſion of the LORD, where the LORD's Tabernacle dwelleth, and take poſſeſſion amongſt us: but rebell not againſt the LORD, nor againſt us, in building you an Altar beſides the Altar of the LORD your God.

* Note that our Copies of the LXX here corruptly reade μιαρὰ for μιανθεῖσα.

Now concerning the condition and propertie of Places thus ſanctified or hallowed, what it is, whence can we learn better then from that which the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, Exod. 20. immediately after he had pronounced the Decalogue from Mount Sinai: where premiſing that they ſhould not make with him gods of gold and gods of ſilver, but that they ſhould make him an Altar of earth (as namely their ambulatory ſtate then permitted, otherwiſe of ſtone) and thereon ſacrifice their burnt-offerings and peace-offerings; he adds, in all places where I record my Name, I will come unto thee, and bleſſe thee, בְּכָל־הַמָּקוֹם אֲשֶׁר אַזְכִּיר אֶת־שְׁמִי, In every place where the remembrance or memoriall of my Name ſhall be, or, Whereſoever that is which I have or ſhall appoint to be the remembrance or memorial of my Name and preſence, there I will come unto thee, and bleſs thee. Lo here a deſcription of the Place ſet apart for Divine worſhip: It is the Place where God records his Name, and comes unto men to bleſs them. Two things are here ſpecified: The Monument, Record or Memorial of God's Name; ſecondly, His coming or meeting there with men. Of both let us enquire diſtinctly, what they mean. Verſ. 23, 24.

I know it would not be untrue to ſay in general, That God's Name is recorded or remembred in that place upon which his Name is called, or which is called by his Name, (as the Scripture ſpeaks,) that is, which is dedicate to his worſhip and ſervice: But there is ſome more ſpecial thing intended here; namely, the Memorial or Monument of God's Name is that token or Symbole whereby he teſtifieth his Covenant and commerce with men. Now although the Ark, called the Ark of the Eccleſ. 5. 1. * Heb. 9. 4.

Covenant or Teſtimony, (wherein lay the two Tables*, namely the Book or Articles of the Covenant, and Manna, the Bread of the Covenant) were afterwards made for this purpoſe, to be the ſtanding Memorial of God's Name and Preſence with his people: yet cannot that be here either only, or ſpecially aimed at; becauſe when theſe words were ſpoken, it had no being, nor was there yet any commandment given concerning the making thereof. Wherefore the Record here mentioned I underſtand with a more general reference to any Memorial whereby God's Covenant and commerce with men was teſtified: ſuch as were the Sacrifices immediately before ſpoken of, and the ſeat of them the Altar; which therefore may ſeem to be in ſome ſort the more particularly here pointed unto. For that theſe were Rites of remembrance, whereby the Name of God was commemorated or recorded, and his Covenant with men renewed and teſtified, might be eaſily proved. Whence it is that that which was burned upon the Altar is ſo often called the Memorial; as in Leviticus the 2. 5. 6, and 24. chapters. Accordingly the ſon of Sirach tells us, chap. 45. 16. that Aaron was choſen out of all men living, to offer Sacrifices to the Lord, incenſe and a ſweet ſavour, for a Memorial, to make reconciliation for his people. Adde alſo that, Eſay 66. 3. Qui recordatur thure, quaſi qui benedicat Idolo; He that (without true contrition and humiliation before the Lord) recordeth or maketh remembrance with incenſe, is as if he bleſſed an Idol. But I muſt not ſtay too long upon this.

Luke 22. 19. 1 Cor. 11. 24.

You will ſay, What is all this to us now in the time of the Goſpel? I anſwer, Yes: For did not Chriſt ordain the holy Euchariſt to be the Memorial of his Name in the New Teſtament? This (ſaith he) is my Body, τῦτο ποιεῖτε εἰς τλὴ ἐμὴν Ἀνάμνησιν, Doe this for my Commemoration, or in Memorial of me. And what if I ſhould affirm that Chriſt is as much preſent here as the Lord was upon the Mercy-ſeat between the Cherubims? Why ſhould not then the Place of this Memorial under the Goſpel have ſome ſemblable ſanctity to that where the Name of God was recorded in the Law? And though we be not now tied to one onely Place, as thoſe under the Law were; and that God heareth the faithful prayers of his Servants whereſoever they are made unto him, (as alſo he did then:) yet ſhould not the Places of his Memorial be promiſcuous and common, but ſet apart to that ſacred purpoſe. In a word, All thoſe ſacred Memorials of the Jewiſh Temple are both comprehended and excelled in this One of Chriſtians, the Sacrifices, Shew-bread, and Ark of the Covenant; Chriſt's Body and Bloud in the Euchariſt being all theſe unto us in the New Teſtament, agreeable to that of the Apoſtle, Rom. 3. 25. God hath ſet forth Jeſus Chriſt to be our ἱλαστήριον through faith in his bloud, that is, our Propitiatory or Mercy-ſeat; for ſo it is called in the Greek both of the Old and New Teſtament; nor is the word, I think, ever uſed but in that ſenſe, unleſs in Ezekiel 43. for the Settle of the Altar.

But you will ſay, This Chriſtian Memorial is not always actually preſent in our Churches, as ſome one or other at leaſt of thoſe in the Law were in the Temple. I anſwer, It is enough, it is wont to be; as the Chair of State loſes not its relation and due reſpect, though the King be not alwaies there. And remember that the Ark of the Covenant was not in Jeruſalem when Daniel opened his windows and prayed thitherward, yea, that it was wanting in the Holy Place (I mean that ſacred Cabinet made by Moſes) all the time of the ſecond (or Zorobabel's) Temple; and yet the place eſteemed notwithſtanding as if it had been there.

You will yet except and ſay, That in the Old Teſtament thoſe things were appointed by divine Law and Commandment, but in the New we we finde no ſuch thing. I anſwer, In things for which we finde no new Rule given in the New Teſtament, there we are referred and left to the Analogy of the Old. This the Apoſtle's proof taken from thence for the maintenance of the Miniſters of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9. 13, 14. [viz. Thus were they, Ergo, So God hath ordained that we] wil give us to underſtand; likewiſe the practice of the Church in baptizing Infants, derived ſurely from the Analogy of Circumciſion; the hallowing of every firſt-day of the week, as one in every ſeven, from the Analogy of the Jewiſh Sabbath; and other the like. S. Hierome witneſſeth the ſame in that ſaying of his, "Ut ſciamus traditiones Apoſtolicas ſumptas ex Veteri Teſtamento; quod "Aaron & filii ejus atque Levitæ in Templo fuerunt, hoc ſibi Epiſcopi, Pres- "byteri atque Diaconi vendicant in Eccleſia: That we may know (ſaith he) "that the Apoſtolick traditions were derived from the Old Teſtament; that "which Aaron, his Sons and the Levites were in the Temple, the ſame do "Biſhops, Prieſts and Deacons claim in the Church. For we are to conſider, That the end of Chriſt's coming into the world was not properly to give new Laws unto men, but to accompliſh the Law already given, and to publiſh the Goſpel of Reconciliation, through his Name, to thoſe who had tranſgreſſed it. Whence it is that we finde not the ſtyle of the New Teſtament to carry a form of enacting Laws almoſt any where; but thoſe which are there mentioned, to be brought in occaſionally, only by way of proof, of interpretation, exhortation, application, or the like, and not as by way of conſtitution or re-enacting. Meanwhile, leſt I ſhould be miſtaken, mark well that I ſaid not, the Old Teſtament was to be our Rule ſimply in the caſe mentioned, but the Analogy thereof only; that is, this regulation is to be made according to that proportion which the difference of the two Covenants and the things in them admits, and no further: the more particular application and limitation of which Analogy is to be referred to the judgement and prudence of the Church.

Eccleſ. 5. 1; Ad Evagrium. Matt. 5. 17, 18.

There comes here very fitly into my minde a paſſage of Clemens, (a man of the Apoſtolick age, he whoſe name S. Paul ſaith was written in the Book life) in his genuine Epiſtle Ad Corinthios, lately ſet forth, pag. 52. "Πάντα (ſaith he) τάξει ποιεῖν ὀφείλομεν, ὅσα ὁ δεσπότης ὁπιτελεῖν ἐκέ- "λευσε· κ) καιροὺς τεταγμένους τάς τε προσφορὰς καὶ λειτουργίας ὁπιτε- "λεῖσθαι. Καὶ [γὰ] οὐκ εἰκῇ ἢ ἀτάκτως ἐκέλευσε γίνεσθαι, ἀλλ' ὡρισμένοις "χρόνοις κ) ὥραις· ΠΟΥ τε κ) διὰ ΤΙΝΩΝ ὁπιτελεῖσθαι θέλει, αὐτὸς "ὥρισε τῇ ὑπερτάτῃ αὐτοῦ βουλήσει· that is, All thoſe duties which the Lord "hath commanded us to doe, we ought to doe them regularly and orderly; our "Oblations and divine Services to celebrate them on ſet and appointed times. "For ſo he hath ordained, not that we ſhould doe them at hap-hazard and with- "out order, but at certain determined daies and times: WHERE alſo and "BY WHOM he will have them executed, himſelf hath defined according "to his ſupreme will. But where hath the Lord defined theſe things, unleſs he hath left us to the Analogy of the Old Teſtament?

Phil. 4. 3.

It follows in the Text alledged, There I will come unto thee, and bleſs thee. In the Place where the Lord's Memoriall is, where his Colours, as I may ſo ſpeak, are diſplayed and ſet up, there, in a ſpecial manner, he vouchſafes his preſence with the ſons of men to bleſs them: or, to ſpeak rotundè, where his Memoriall is, there His שכינה SHECINAH or Δόξα is, (as the Hebrew Maſters term it,) that is, His GLORY. * The Gentiles aſcribed the preſence of their Gods to the places where Images and Statues were erected and conſecrated for them: But ſuch perſonal ſimilitudes the God of Iſrael abhors, and forbids to be made unto Him; yet promiſeth his preſence in every place where the Memoriall or Record of his Name ſhall be;

* Hermes Triſm. in Aſclepio. Athenag: Legat. pro Chriſt. Origen: contra Celſ. l. 7. & 3. Euſeb. Præpar. Ev. lib. 5. c. 17.

Eccles. 5. 1. but of his own appointment, not of man's devising. For thus, I suppose, is the Text there to be understood, and to be construed by way of Antithesis or opposition: You shall not make with me gods of silver, nor gods of gold: * Verse 25. *An Altar only of earth, or of * stone, shalt thou make unto me, to offer thy Sacrifices upon. For in every place where I shall record my Name, I will come unto thee, and bless thee.* And here take notice, that for this reason the Tabernacle of the Lord was called אֹהֶל מוֹעֵד The Tabernacle of meeting; not of mens meeting together, as is commonly supposed, when we translate it, Tabernacle of the Congregation, but of God's meeting there with men. I have a good author for it; for so the Lord himself gives the reason of the name in three severall places of the Law, אֹהֶל מוֹעֵד אֲשֶׁר אִוָּעֵד לָכֶם שָׁמָּה, The Tabernacle of meeting, where I will meet with you. See Exod. 29. 42. 30. 36. Num. 17. 4. and Masius in Jos. c. 18.

Section II.

THUS we have seen What is the condition and property of that Place which in my Text is called God's House. But before I proceed to speak of the Duty of those who come thither, (which was the second thing I propounded) there is one thing yet to be cleared concerning that which I last mentioned, namely, How God is said to come unto, or to be present with, men in one place more then another; seeing his Presence fills every place, Heaven being his throne, and the whole Earth his footstool. For although we reade often in Holy Scripture of such a SHECINAH, or Specialitie of the Divine presence, and have it often in our mouths; yet what it is, and wherein the Ratio thereof consisteth, is seldom, if at all, enquired into. When we speak of Churches, we content our selves to say, That God's special presence there is in his Word and Sacraments: But though it be true that the Divine Majesty is there specially present where his Word and Sacraments are; yet seems not this Speciality of presence to be the same with his Word and Sacraments, but a diverse relation from them. This may be gathered, in some sort, out of those words of Exodus whereupon we have so long dwelt, as where the recording of God's Name and his coming thither are spoken of as two: but is more strongly evinced by such instances of Scripture, where the Lord is said to have been specially present in places where this Record of his Word and Sacraments was not; as for example, to Moses in the Bush, to Jacob at Bethel, and the like. The true Ratio therefore of this SHECINAH or Speciality of Divine Presence must be sought and defined by something which is common to all these, and not by that which is proper to some only.

Well then, to hold you no longer in suspence, This Specification of the Divine presence, whereby God is said to be in one place more then another, I suppose (under correction) to consist in his train or retinue. A King is there where his Court is, where his train and retinue are: So God the Lord of Hosts is there specially present where the Heavenly Guard, the blessed Angels, keep their sacred station and rendezvous.

That this is consonant to the revelation of holy Scripture, I shew, first, from the collection or inference which the Patriarch Jacob makes upon that Divine vision of his at Bethel: where having seen a ladder reaching from heaven to earth, and the Angels of God ascending and de-
Gen. 28. 16, 17. scending upon it; Surely, (saith he) the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not. How dreadfull is this place! It is no other but the House of God, even the gate of Heaven, that is, Heaven's Guild-hall, Heaven's Court; namely, because becauſe of the Angels: For the Gate was wont to be the Judgement-Hall, and the Place where Kings and Senators uſed to ſit, attended by their guard and miniſters. Eccleſ. 5. 1.

Secondly, I prove it from that interpretative expreſſion uſed in the New Teſtament of the Lord's deſcent upon Mount Sinai when the Law was given; intimating, that the Specification of the preſence of the Divine Majeſty there alſo conſiſted in the Angelical retinue there encamping. For ſo S. Steven, Act. 7. 53. You who have received the Law by the diſpoſition of Angels, and have not kept it. S. Paul twice; firſt, Gal. 3. 19. The Law was added becauſe of tranſgreſſions, διαταγὶς δια᾽ ἀγγέλων ἐν χειρὶ μεσίτου, ordained by Angels in the hand of a Mediator: and again, Heb. 2. 2. he calls the Law, λόγον λαληθεὶς δι᾽ ἀγγέλων, the word ſpoken by Angels. Howbeit in the ſtory it ſelf we find no ſuch thing expreſſed, but onely that the Lord deſcended upon the Mount in a fiery and ſmoking cloud, accompanied with thunders and lightnings, with an earthquake, and the voice of a trumpet. Whence then ſhould this expreſſion of S. Steven and the Apoſtle proceed, but from a ſuppoſition, that the Special preſence of the Divine Majeſty, whereſoever it is ſaid to be, conſiſted in the encamping of his ſacred retinue the Angels? for that of himſelf, He, who filleth the Heaven and the Earth, could not deſcend, nor be in one place more then another. Exod. 19. 18; 18.

Yea all the Apparitions of the Divine Majeſty in Scripture are deſcribed by this retinue. That of the Ancient of dayes coming to judgement, Dan. 7. 10. Thouſand thouſands miniſtred unto him, and ten thouſand times ten thouſand ſtood before him; to wit, of Angels. Whence we reade in the Goſpel, that Chriſt our Saviour ſhall come in the glory of his Father, that is, with an Hoſt of Angels, as the Holy Ghoſt himſelf in the ſame places expounds it: for Δόξα or Glory here ſignifies the Preſence of the Divine Majeſty. Matt. 16. 27. Mark 8. 38.

In the ſame ſtyle, of the ſame Appearing, propheſied Enoch, the ſeventh from Adam, Jude verſ. 14. Ἰδοὺ, ἦλθε Κύριος ἐν ταῖς ἁγίαις μυριάσιν αὐτοῦ, Behold, the Lord cometh with his holy Myriads, or ten thouſands; for ſo it ought to be rendred, and not, as we have it, with ten thouſand of his Saints. Wherefore here the vulgar Latine comes nearer, which hath, Ecce, venit Dominus in ſanctis millibus ſuis. A like expreſſion whereunto of the Divine preſence we ſhall find in Moſes Bleſſing, Deut. 33. 2. The Lord (ſaith he) came * from Sinai unto them, (i. unto Iſrael) and roſe up from Seir unto them; he ſhined forth from mount Paran, he came with his holy ten thouſands, or holy Myriads, (for ſo it ſhould be tranſlated: then it follows,) from his right hand went a fiery law for them. From whence perhaps that notion of the Jewiſh Doctors, followed by S. Steven and the Apoſtle, That the Law was given by Angels, had its beginning. And thus you have heard out of Scripture What that is whereby the Special preſence of the Divine Majeſty is (as I ſuppoſe) defined, that is, wherein it conſiſts; namely, ſuch as is appliable to all places wherein he is ſaid to be thus preſent, even to Heaven it ſelf his Throne and Seat of glory, the proper place (as every one knows) of Angelical reſidence.

* That is, came unto them reſting upon Sinai. Compare Pſal. 68. verſ. 17, or 18.

Now, according to this manner of preſence is the Divine Majeſty to be acknowledged preſent in the Places where his Name is recorded, as in his Temple under the Law, and in our Chriſtian Oratories or Churches under the Goſpel; namely, that the heavenly Guard there attend and keep their rendezvous, as in their Maſter's Houſe: according to that viſion which the Prophet Eſay had thereof, Eſay 6. 1. I ſaw the Lord (ſaith he) ſitting upon a Throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the Temple, [Septuagint, and John 12. 41. Δόξα αὐτοῦ] that is, the Angels and Seraphims his his stipatores; as may be gathered from that which immediately follows, ver. 3. where it is said, The Seraphims cried one unto another, Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God of hosts; the whole earth is full of his Glory.

Eccles. 5. 1.

* De Bello Jud. lib. 2. cap. 16.

This King Agrippa in * Josephus intimates, in that Oration he is said to have made unto the Jews a little before that fatal siege, dehorting them from rebelling against the Romans: where speaking to the people hard by, and in view of that sacred Temple, he hath these words; "Μαρτύρομαι δὲ ἐγὼ "μὴ ὑμᾶς τὰ Ἅγια καὶ τὸν ἱερὸν ἀγγέλους τοῦ Θεοῦ, I call to witness your sa- "cred Temple and * the holy Angels of God; namely, which encamp there.

* To whom some think that voice may be referred before the destruction of the Temple, Migremus hinc, Let us depart hence.

The same is implied in that of the 138. Psalm, 1, v. 2. according to the translation of the Septuagint and Vulgar; Ἐνώπιον ἀγγέλων, In conspectu Angelorum psallam tibi; Adorabo ad Templum sanctum tuum, & confitebor Nomini tuo: Before the Angels I will sing praise unto thee; I will worship towards thy holy Temple, and praise thy Name.

Vers. 4, 5, 6.

And according to this sense I understand that of Solomon in this Book of Ecclesiastes within two or three verses of my Text, concerning vows to be made in God's House: When thou vowest a vow, defer not to pay it——Better it is thou shouldest not vow, then vow and not pay. Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin; neither say thou BEFORE THE ANGEL, It was an errour;——that is, Let not such a foolish excuse come from thee in the house of God, before the holy Angels. For note that the word Angel may be taken * collectively, for more then one.

* As tree for trees, leaf for leaves, Gen. 3. 2, 7, &c.

* Exod. 26. 36. 37. chap. 1 Kings 6.

For this cause all the curtains of the * Tabernacle were filled with the pictures of Cherubims, and the * walls of Solomon's Temple within with carved Cherubims; * the Ark of the Testimony overspred and covered with two mighty Cherubims, having their faces looking towards it and the Mercy-seat, (ἱλαστήριον) with their wings stretched forth on high, called Heb. 9. 5. The Cherubims of glory, that is, of the Divine Presence: All to signifie, that where God's sacred Memoriall is, the ensigne of his Covenant and commerce with men, there the blessed Angels out of duty give their attendance.

Nor is it to be overpassed, that the Jews at this day continue the like opinion of their modern Places of worship; namely, that the blessed Angels frequent their assemblies, and praise and laud God with them in their Synagogues: notwithstanding they have no other Memoriall of his there then an imitative one only, to wit, a Chest with a Volume or Roll of the Law therein, in stead of the Ark with the two Tables. For thus speaks the Seder Tephilloth, or Form of prayer used by the Jews of Portugal; O Lord our God, the Angels, that supernall company, gathered together with thy people Israel here below, do crown thee with praises, and all together do thrice redouble and cry that spoken of by thy Prophet, Holy, Holy, Holy Lord God of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory. They allude to Esay's Vision of the Glory of God, above mentioned.

You will say, Such a presence of Angels perhaps there was in that Temple under the Law; but there is no such thing in the Gospel. No? why? Are the Memorials of God's Covenant, his Insignia in the Gospel, less worthy of their attendance then those of the Law? or have the Angels, since the nature of man, Jesus Christ our Lord, became their Head and King, gotten an exemption from this service? Surely not. S. Paul, if we will understand and believe him, supposes the contrary, in his first Epistle to the Corinthians, chap. 11. verse 10. where treating of a comely and decent accommodation to be observed in Church-assemblies, and in particular of womens being covered or veiled there, he enforces it from this presence of Angels; For this cause (saith he) ought the woman to have a covering on her head, διὰ τοὺς Ἀγγέλους, because of the Angels; namely, which are there present. For otherwise the reason holds not, that she should more be covered in the Place of Prayer then any where else, unless the Angels be more there then elsewhere. This place much troubleth the Expositors: but see what it is to admit a truth; for now there is no difficulty in it. Eccles. 5. 1.

διὰ

And that the ancient Fathers conceived no less venerably of their Christian Oratories in this particular then the Jews did of their Temple, appears by S. Chrysostome, who is very frequent in urging an awfull and reverent behaviour in God's house from this motive of Angelical presence. As in his Homily * 36. in 1 Corinth. where reproving the irreverent behaviour of his Auditory in that Church, in talking, walking, saluting, and the like, (which he saith was peculiar unto them, and such as no Christians elsewhere in the world presumed to doe,) he enforces his reproof with words that come home to our purpose: "Non tonstrina, (inquit,) neque unguentaria officina, "neque ulla alia opificum qui sunt in foro taberna, est Ecclesia; sed Locus "Angelorum, Locus Archangelorum, Regia Dei, ipsum Cœlum: The Church "(saith he) is no Barber's or Drug-seller's shop, nor any other crafts-mans "or merchants workhouse or warehouse in the market-place; but the place of "Angels, the place of Archangels, the Palace of God, Heaven it self. * in Moral.

And in his 4. Homily De incomprehensibili Dei natura, towards the end; "Cogita apud quem proximè stas, quibuscum invoces Deum; scil. cum Cherubim, cum Seraphim, cum omnibus cœli Virtutibus: animadverte quos habeas socios: satis hoc tibi sit ad sobrietatem, cùm recorderis te corpore constantem & carne coagmentatum, admitti cum Virtutibus incorporeis celebrare "omnium Dominum: Think near whom thou standest, with whom thou invocatest God; namely, with Cherubims and Seraphims, and all the Powers of "Heaven: consider but what companions thou hast: let it be sufficient to perswade thee to sobriety, when thou remembrest that thou, who art compounded "of flesh and bloud, art admitted with the incorporeall Powers to celebrate the "common Lord of all. But all this, you will say, the Angels may doe in Heaven. Well, let it be so, yet is it not altogether out of our way: but the next places I shall bring will not be so eluded.

Namely, that in his 15. Homily upon the Epistle to the Hebrews, against those that laughed in the Church: "Regiam quidem ingrediens, & habitu, "& aspectu, & incessu, & omnibus aliis te ornas & componis: Hîc autem verè "est Regia, & planè hîc talia qualia cœlestia; & rides? Atque scio quidem "quòd tu non vides. Audi autem, quòd ubique adsunt Angeli, & maximè "in Domo Dei adsistunt Regi, & omnia sunt impleta incorporeis illis Potestatibus: When thou goest into a King's Palace, thou composest thy self to a "comelineß in thy habit, in thy look, in thy gate, and in all thy whole guise: "But here is indeed the Palace of a King, and the like attendance to that in "Heaven; and dost thou laugh? I know well enough thou seest it not. But "hear thou me, and know that Angels are every where, and that chiefly in the "House of God they attend upon their King, where all is filled with these incorporeall Powers.

The like unto this you shall finde in his 24. Homily upon the Acts of the Apostles; "Knowest thou not that thou standest here with Angels, that with "them thou singest, with them thou laudest God with Hymns? and dost thou "laugh? See the rest. Οὐκ οἶδας ὅτι μετὰ Ἀγγέλων ἕστηκας, μετ' ἐκείνων ᾄδεις, μετ' ἐκείνων ὑμνεῖς; καὶ ἕστηκας γελῶν;

I will alledge but one passage more of his, lest I should grow tedious, and that is out of his 6. Book de Sacerdotio, not very far from the beginning; where speaking of the time when the holy Eucharist is celebrated, "τότε (saith he) "καὶ Ἄγγελοι παρεστήκασι τῷ ἱερεῖ, καὶ ὅλον δυνάμεων ἅπαν τὸ "βῆμα βοᾷ, καὶ ὁ περὶ τὸ θυσιαστήριον πληθὺς τόπος, εἰς τιμὴν τῆς καινῆς

"Then

Eccles. 5. 1. "Then the Angels stand by the Priest, and the whole Quire resounds with ce-
"lestial Powers, and the place about the Altar is filled with them, in honour of "him who is laid thereon, that is, of his Memorial. Compare with it a like passage in his 3. Hom. De incomprehensibili Dei natura; Item Hom. 1. De verbis Isaiæ.

S. Ambrose acknowledgeth the same in c. 1. Luc. (a) "Non dubites
"assistere Angelum, quando Christus
"assistit, Christus immolatur.

(a) Doubt not but an Angel is present, when Christ is present, when Christ is sacrificed.

Yea Tertullian, (in whose time, which was within two hundred years after Christ, some will scarcely believe that Christians had any such Places as Churches at all,) if I understand him, intimates as much in his Lib. de Oratione c. 12. where reprehending the irreverent gesture of some in sitting at the time of Prayer in the Church; "Si quidem (saith he) irreverens
"est assidere sub conspectu contrâque conspectum ejus quem cùm maximè reve-
"reari ac venereris; quantò magis sub conspectu Dei vivi, ANGELO ad-
"huc ORATIONIS adstante, factum illud irreligiosissimum est; nisi
"exprobramus Deo, quòd nos oratio fatigaverit? If it be an irreverent thing
"to sit in the sight and before him whom thou in a special manner honourest and
"reverencest; how much more is it an act most irreligious to doe it in the pre- "sence of the living God, the ANGEL OF PRAYER yet standing
"by; unless we upbraid God, that we have wearied our selves with praying?
Mark, [In the presence of the living God, the Angel of Prayer standing by] that is, in the presence of the living God specified by his Angel; the latter being an explanation of the former. It is like unto that in this chapter of my Text, Say not thou before the Angel, It was an errour: yet I believe not borrowed thence; forasmuch as the Septuagint, whose translation Tertullian was onely acquainted with and every where follows, have no mention of Angel in that place, but of God; rendring it, Μὴ εἴπῃς ἔμπροσθεν προσώπου τοῦ Θεοῦ, Say not before the presence of God. Which shews how they understood it.

I cite the passages of these Fathers thus at large, lest I might to some seem to broach a Novelty. And though some of those of S. Chrysostome be Hyperbolically expressed; yet for the main and substance of what he intended, I believe it to be true, and ground my belief upon the authority of S. Paul before alledged, Διὰ τοὺς Ἀγγέλους, Because of the Angels. If any shall say, whatsoever were then, they will not believe there is any such kind of presence in our Churches now: I must tell them, If it be so, it is because of our irreverent and unseemly behaviour in them, which makes those blessed Spirits loath our company. For though they be invisible and incorporeal creatures, yet can they not look into our hearts, (that is God their Master's prerogative) but are witnesses of our outward behaviour and actions onely; and it was a case of external decorum, wherein the Apostle mentions this presence of theirs for a motive or reason; For this cause ought the woman to have a covering on her head, because of the Angels. For they love not to behold any thing that is uncomely and unbeseeming, but fly from it: and if we lose their company, the best members of our congregation are wanting.

Thus you have heard what is the dignity and prerogative of God's House. Who now that considers and believes this, (and there was a time when it was believed,) will not say with the Patriarch Jacob, when he saw the Angels ascending and descending at Bethel, Quàm reverenda sunt hæc loca! How reverend are these places! For every Place where the name of God is recorded is Bethel, where the Angels of God are ascending and descending, that that is, God in a special manner present and meeting with men. How seemly therefore, orderly and awfully should we compose our selves in them? how reverent should our manner be at our coming into them? which is the second thing I propounded to speak of. Thus much therefore of God's House: I come now to the Duty of those who come thither; Look to thy feet when thou comest to the House of God. Eccles. 5. 1.

SECTION III.

LOOK to thy feet, שמר רגליך; for so the Cethib or Textual reading hath it: the Masorites in the margin note another reading, רגלך in the singular number. But which way soever of the two it be read, the sense is still the same; Look to thy foot being to be expounded plurally Look to thy feet, as in other places of Scripture. The symbolical application of this Precept to the purifying and ridding the Mind of corrupt and fleshly thoughts, though it be usefull, and the thing it self true, yet I will let pass, as being not argumentative; and betake my self wholly to the πραγματικὸν or literal meaning, which the symbolical or tropological signification destroyeth not, but presupposeth. The meaning therefore in general is; Have a care that thy feet be as they should be when thou goest (or comest) to the House of God. But what is that? Most of the Interpreters (saith Aben Ezra) compare it with that which is said of Mephibosheth, 2 Sam. 19. 24. לא עשה רגליו He dressed not his feet, that is, He washed them not: So here, Look to thy feet when thou goest to the House of God, is as much as to say, Come not into God's House illotis pedibus, with unwashed feet. This is true, but goes not far enough. For I suppose here is an allusion in particular to that Rite of Discalceation used by the Jews and other Nations of the Orient at their coming into Sacred places; namely, that whereof the Lord spake to Moses, Exod. 3. 5. and again to Josua, Jos. 5. 15. Exue calceamenta tua de pedibus tuis; locus enim in quo stas terra sancta est: Put thy shoes from off thy feet; for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

For although the verb ילך here used signifies properly motum à loco, that is, to go, and not in locum, to come, (in which respect the Rite of washing the feet perhaps, being a preparatory act, might agree better with it;) yet is it not always so used: besides, it is an usual trope in Scripture, ex antecedente intelligere consequens, by the antecedent to understand the consequent; which hath place here. That whereby I gather it is, because the Precepts following my Text, whereunto this word of motion belongs κοινῶς, (that is, in common) are not of things to be done when we are going to the House of God, but when we are come thither: as, When thou comest to the House of God, be not rash nor hasty to utter any thing before God, &c. When thou comest to the House of God, and makest a vow before him, defer not to pay it,——neither say thou before the Angel, &c.——To which may be added the latter part of my Text, When thou comest to the House of God, be more ready to hear, or obey, then to offer the sacrifice of fools. All, as you see, are of things to be done when we are come into God's house. Therefore כאשר תלך, which is common to them, should rather note motum in termino ad quem; not when thou goest, but when thou comest to the House of God; and accordingly this admonition of care to be had of the feet, to intend something to be observed when we come there, rather then when we are going thither: Which was, as I have said, among the Jews and other Nations, of the Orient especially, that Rite of Discalceation, or putting off their shoes, still used and continued amongst them unto this day, when they come into their Temples and Sacred places.

Accordingly the vulgar Latin hath ingrediens Domum Dei, Entring into the House of God.

Which that I affirm not without good warrant, in case any one shall doubt thereof, these Testimonies following will sufficiently evidence. First, That Symbole of Pythagoras, Ἀνυπόδητος σὺν ϗ προσεύχου, OFFER SACRIFICE AND WORSHIP WITH THY SHOES OFF. What mystical or symbolical sense he intended, I enquire not; but it is plain, his expression alludes to some such custome then used by those who came to worship in the Temples of their Gods.

Eccles. 5. 1.

Apud Iamblich. Protrept. 21.

Wherein that my collection fails me not, Justin Martyr will bear me witness in his second Apology, where he tells us, That those who came to worship in the Sanctuaries and Temples of the Gentiles were commanded by their Priests ἀπολύεσθαι, that is, to put off their shoes: which their Gods learned (saith he) by way of imitation, from that which the Lord spake to Moses out of the flaming Bush, Loose thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. This Testimony for the antiquity of the practice is without exception. Yet by the Father's good leave, I am prone to think that those words unto Moses gave not the first beginning unto it, but were an admonition onely of the Divine presence, thereby commanding the Rite then accustomed in places so hallowed: and that therefore it was rather, as other Religious Rites, derived unto the Gentiles by Tradition from the Patriarchs before Moses; of whom both the Jews and those Nations of the Orient which agreed with them in this custom were descended. Concerning whose present custom Drusius in his Notes upon Josua affirmeth, "Quòd etiam nunc apud pleraſque Orientis Nationes piaculum ſit, calceato pede "Templorum pavimenta calcâſſe: That even to this day among most of the Na- "tions of the Orient it is reputed a piacular crime, to tread upon the pave- "ments of their Temples with their shoes on their feet.

Edit. Pariſ. pag. 95.

For the Jews in particular, that this Rite of Veneration was anciently used by them in Places sanctified by the Divine presence, Maimonides puts us out of doubt, telling us in his Beth Habbechirah, cap. 7. "That it was "not lawful for a man to come into the Mountain of God's House with HIS "SHOES ON HIS FEET, or with his staffe, or in his working-gar- "ment, or with dust on his feet, and the like. The same hath Rabbi Solomon upon the 19. of Levit. vers. 30.

It is further confirmed by their modern practice in their Synagogues; even here in these Western and colder parts of the world: where though no such custome be in use as in the Orient, nor our manners with conveniencie capable thereof, yet they still observe it, as far as the guise of the West will permit them; an argument it descends unto them by a strong and rooted Tradition from their forefathers. My Author is Buxtorf. Synagog. Judaic. lib. 5. c. 5. where he hath these words; "Ante Synago- "gam vel Scholam ipſorum ferrum quoddam habent immuratum, ad quod qui- "libet calceos immundos aut carnoſos abſtergere tenetur; idque Salomonis an- "theritate, qui, Custodi, ait, pedem tuum——Quiſquis crepidis indutus eſt, "is eas immundas de pedibus ſuis detrahere tenetur——prout ſcriptum eſt, "Solve calceamenta tua de pedibus tuis, &c. that is, Before their Syna- "gogues they have a certain iron fastned in a wall, whereat every one is bound "to make clean his foul or dirty shoes; and that by the authority of Solomon, "who saith, Look to thy foot, &c. Whosoever hath slippers on, is bound, "they being foul, to put them quite off, (viz. before he enters into the Syna-" gogue) according as it is written, Loose thy shoes from off thy "feet, &c.

And for the Mahumetans, what they doe in their Mosquees, Bartlemew Georgievz, who was a long time a captive amongst them, can best inform us, in his Book De ritu & ceremoniis Turcarum. "Quicunque (saith he) ve- "niunt ad orationem, debent abluere manus, pedes, &c. poſtremò ter ſpargunt

"aquam

"aquam super capita, recitando hæc verba, ELHEMDU LILLAHI, Eccles. 5. 1.
"(i. gloria Deo meo:) Deinde exutis calceamentis Patsmagh dictis, iisque ante
"januam Templi relictis, introeunt, alii NUDIS PEDIBUS, alii
"habentes munda calceamenta Mesth dicta. That is, Such as come to pray,
"their duty is first to wash their hands, feet, &c. at last they sprinkle water
"over their heads thrice, repeating these words, ELHEMDU LILLAHI,
"(that is, Glory be to my God:) Then putting off their shoes, called Patsmagh,
"and leaving them before the door of the Temple, they enter, some bare-foot-
"ed, others having a clean kinde of Sandall, which they call Mesth; namely as the custome is with us, when we pull off our hats, to wear a cap.

Lastly, That we may not want an instance among Christians, Zaga Zabo, an Æthiopian Bishop, sent Ambassador from David King of the Abyssines to John the third King of Portugal, above an hundred years since, in his Description of the Religion and Rites of the Abyssine Christians, thus informs us: * "Prohibitum est apud vos (saith he) nè aut gentes, aut canes, aut alia
"hujusmodi animalia, in Templa nostra intrent. Item non datur potestas
"nobis adeundi Templum, nisi NUDIS PEDIBUS; neque licet nobis
"in ipso Templo ridere, obambulare, aut de rebus prophanis loqui, neque spuere
"aut sceare in ipso Templo. Quia Ecclesiæ Æthiopum non sunt similes
"terræ illi ubi populus Israel comedit Agnum Paschalem decedens ab Ægypto,
"(in quo loco, propter terræ pollutionem, jussit eos Deus comedere indutos cal-
"ceamentis & zonis accinctos;) sed similes sunt monti Sinai, ubi Dominus
"locutus est Mosi, dicens, Exue calceamenta tua de pedibus tuis, quoniam
"terra quam pedes tui premunt sancta est. That is, It is prohibited amongst "us that either Pagans, or dogs, or any other beasts should come into our "Churches. Moreover, it is not permitted to us to go into the Church, but
"BARE-FOOTED; nor is it lawfull for us in the Church to * laugh, or
"to walk up and down, or to speak of secular matters, no not to spit, hauk or
"hem in the Church. Because the Churches of Æthiopia are not like unto "that Land where the people of Israel, ready to depart out of Egypt, ate the "Paschal Lamb, (where, because of the pollution of the country, God com- "manded them to eat it with their shoes on their feet and their loyns girded;)
"but they are like unto Mount Sinai, where God spake unto Moses, saying, Put off
"thy shoes from thy feet, for the ground whereon thy feet tread is holy.
Thus Zaga Zabo of the Abyssine Christians, whereof he was a Bishop. And till the contrary be shewed me, I am prone to believe that some other Christians of the Jacobite sect may have the like custome, as it is certain that in most of their Rites they agree with them.

* Vide Damianum a Goes De Æthiopum moribus.

* Eadem planè Judæorum magistri prohibent à suis in Synagogis fieri, apud Maimonidem, Misnæ Part. 1. l. 2. Trac. 7. De benedictionibus & consecr. per preces, quæ & in Templo olim observari solita. Et Greg. Nazian. in Orat. fun. pro patre laudat matrem suam Nonnam, quòd in Templo Dei nè vocem quidem emitteret nisi de rebus mysticis & divinis, neque unquam tergum altari obverteret, aut sacrum pavimentum conspueret. De quibus Lector prò prudentia suâ statuat, an & quousque nobis imitari conducat.

Now the religious guise of the Jews and other Nations of the Orient having anciently been (and still being) such as you have heard, when they entered into their Temples, or remained in them; the words of my Text, Look to thy Foot or Feet, being taken for an expression borrowed from and alluding thereto, will have the same sense, as if we, inflecting them to our manners, should say, Look unto thy Head, (that is, have a care thy Head be fitted as it ought to be) when thou comest into the House of God; meaning that he should put off his hat, or be uncovered, when he comes thither, and use such other reverence as is wont to accompany it. For know that the Holy Ghost, mentioning or specifying but one Rite, is yet so to be understood as implying therewith the rest of the same order accustomed to go with it; according to that usual Trope of Scripture, by a part, or that which is more notable or obvious in any kinde or rank of things, to imply the rest; the rule whereby we interpret the Decalogue, and is the more fitly appliable here, because this guise of Discalceation was a leading Ceremonie to the other gestures of Sacred veneration then used, as that of putting off the hat

Eccles. 5. 1.

(in civil use at least) is wont to be with us. Not as if Solomon or the Holy Ghost in this Admonition intended the outward Ceremonie only, and no more; (that were ridiculous to imagine;) but the whole act of Sacred reverence commenced in the heart and affection, whereof this was the accustomed and leading gesture: to wit, the very same and all that which the Lord commandeth in that original law, Lev. 19. 30. Sanctuarium meum reveremini, Reverence my Sanctuary; which Jonathan's Targum explaineth, לביח מקדשי תהון אולין ברחלתא, Ye shall go to the House of my Sanctuary with reverence; Solomon paralleleth here with, Look to thy foot when thou goest to the House of God. For so is the manner of Scripture almost every where, under the name of the Gesture only to understand and imply the whole dutie of Veneration which such Gesture representeth and importeth.

But as this is most true, so is it on the other side as false, if any shall from hence collect, That therefore the Outward worship may securely be neglected, (in Time and Place where and when it may be done,) so the Inward be performed. Nay the contrary follows: For if the Inward worship be chiefly intended when the Outward or Bodily is only named, as it is granted; is it not then absurd to imagine, that where that which is not expresly named is meant, there that which is only mentioned should be excluded? Nay surely, where the Outward is mentioned, (as here in my Text,) there no doubt but the Outward, in one kinde or other, is a part of the dutie commanded, whatsoever besides it be intended. And because it is a disease almost proper to our time, (for our forefathers were mostly sick of the other extreme,) so farre to slight and disesteem (that I may not say disdain) the worship of God by the Body, as to think it may be omitted and neglected even in Time and Place convenient, as in God's House and publick service, without all guilt of sin; give me therefore leave to propound a few Considerations for the cure of such as are sick of that maladie. For as that which seems but some lighter Symptome at the first, if the cure thereof be neglected and contemned oftentimes proves fatal, and destroys life it self; so may this. I would have them therefore consider,

1. That we all look not only for the Glorification of our Souls, but of our Bodies in the life to come: Now a Reward presupposeth a Work. It is meet and right therefore we should worship and glorifie God here in this life with the Bodie as well as the Soul, if we look that God should one day glorifie both.

2. That as the Outward worship without the Inward is dead, so the Inward without the Outward is not complete; even as the Glorification of the Soul separate from the Bodie is not, nor shall not be consummate, till the Bodie be again united unto it.

3. That those who derogate so much from Bodily worship in the service of the true God, as kneeling, bowing, and the like, make by consequent Idolatrie a sin far less hainous in degree then it is. For is not Idolatrie to communicate that honour with a creature which is due unto the Creator alone? By how much therefore the worship of gesture and posture is less due unto God when we doe our homage unto him, by so much is the sin the less hainous and grievous when the same is given unto an Idol. For I believe, they will not deny but part of the sin of Idolatrie consists even in the outward worship given unto an Idol, as kneeling, bowing, and falling down before it, and the like.

4. Lastly, That although Bodily worship, being considered in it self, be one of the minora Legis, of the lesser things of the Law, and the honour done unto God thereby of no great value (though not of none) in his sight; ſight; yet may a voluntary and preſumptuous neglect even of ſo ſmall a duty be a great and hainous ſin, becauſe ſuch a neglect proceeds from a prophane diſpoſition and election of the heart. For a ſin is not always to be eſteemed according to the value of the duty omitted, but from the heart's election in omitting it. Non eſt bonum per ſe (ſaith Seneca) munda veſtis, ſed mundæ veſtis electio; quia non in re bonum eſt, ſed in electione: that is, A clean garment hath no goodneſs of it ſelf, but it is the election of a clean garment which is commended; becauſe the goodneſs conſiſts not in the thing, but in the election thereof. So ſay I here; It is not the value or merit of the work which aggravates the ſin in omitting the doing thereof, but the election not to doe it. Eccleſ. 5. 1. Epiſt. 92.

Now therefore to return to my Hypotheſis; By that which hath been delivered it appears, That it is not only lawfull to uſe ſome Reverential geſture when we come into God's Houſe, (which yet ſome think they are very liberal if they grant,) but that it is a duty commanded by God himſelf, and ſo no Will-worſhip; as namely in that Divine admonition given firſt to Moſes, and afterward to Joſua, Put thy ſhoes from off thy feet, &c. in that Law, Reverence my Sanctuary; in this Inſtruction by Solomon, Look to thy feet when thou comeſt to the Houſe of God: That the Saints and people of God in the Old Teſtament, and Chriſtians in the New, have uſed ſuch Reverence: That the neglect thereof is condemned of Prophaneneſs by the practice of Jews, * Gentiles, Pagans, Mahumetans, all Religions whatſoever: if any be to be excepted (proh pudor & dolor!) it is our ſelves.

* Seneca lib. 7. Nat. qq. c. 30. Intramus Templa compoſiti, ad ſacrificium acceſſuri vultum ſubmittimus, togam adducimus, in omne argumentum modeſtia fingimur. We enter our Temples with a compoſed geſture, coming to ſacrifice we let fall our Countenance; draw in our Gown, are framed to all ſhew of Humility.

But without doubt, in this we are not in the right, nor was it ſo from the beginning. Whatſoever is dedicated unto God in general, or (to ſpeak in the phraſe of Scripture) whatſoever is called by his Name, that is, is His by peculiar relation, ought to be uſed with a different reſpect from things common: and God's Houſe (as you have heard) hath ſomething ſingular from the reſt. Should we then come into it as into a Barn or Stable? It was not (once) good manners ſo to come into a mans houſe: For our Bleſſed Saviour, when he ſent forth his Diſciples to preach the Goſpel, Matt. 10. 12. ſaid, εἰσερχόμενοι εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, ἀσπάζεσθε αὐτὴν, when ye enter into an houſe, ſalute it. Why ſhould we not think it a part of religious manners to doe ſomething anſwerable when we come into the Houſe of God? that is, to bleſs the Maſter thereof, (you know how far that word extendeth;) and if not to ſay, God be here, (which hath been the form, and is ſomewhere ſtill, when we enter into a mans Houſe) yet to ſay with * Jacob at Bethel, God is here; and to teſtifie in ſome manner or other, as the Saints of God were wont to doe, that we acknowledge it; and that both at our firſt coming thither, and while we continue there; for the one follows from the other. And becauſe I paralleled before that Oriental rite of Diſcalceation (whereunto I ſuppoſed the words of my Text to have reference) with ours of Uncovering the Head, by the name of a leading ceremonie; if any ſhall therefore ask me, what other Geſture I implied thereby as fitting to accompany this in the caſe we ſpeak of; I anſwer, That belongs to the diſcretion of our Superiours and the authority of the Church to appoint, not to me to determine. For here, as in other Ceremonies, the Church is not tied, but hath liberty to ordain (having reſpect to the Analogy of the Old Teſtament) what ſhe ſhall judge moſt ſutable and agreeable to the time, place, and manners of the people where ſhe lives. But if I may without offence or preſumption ſpeak what I think, then I ſay, That Adoration, or Bowing of the body, with ſome ſhort ejaculation, (which the Church of Iſrael uſed in their Temple together with Diſcalceation, and which the Chriſtians of the Orient uſe at this day, and time out of minde Eccleſ. 5. 1. have done, at their ingreſs into their Churches,) is of all other the moſt ſeemly, ready and fitting to our manners; which yet I ſubmit: namely, according to that of the 132. Pſal. v. 7. Introibimus in Tabernacula ejus, incurvabimus nos ſcabello pedum ejus: We will go into his Tabernacles, and worſhip before (or toward) his Footſtool, that is, the Ark of the Covenant or Mercy-ſeat, which you ſhall finde thus ſtyled, 1 Chron. 28. 2. and according to that, Pſal. 5. 7. I will enter into thine Houſe in the multitude of thy mercies; in thy fear will I worſhip toward thy holy Temple, (i. Ναὸν, for they ſtood in the Courts when they worſhipped) which is the Form the Jews uſe at this day when they come firſt into their Places of worſhip; and ſo might we too, for any thing I know. The ordinary form among the Greeks is that of the Publican, God be mercifull to me a ſinner; yet ſometimes they premiſe this of the Pſalm before it.

* Gen. 28. 16.

SECTION IV.

AND thus I have done with the Firſt part of my Text, which for diſtinction ſake I called The Admonition: I come now to the Second, which I termed A Caution; Be more ready to obey, then to offer the Sacrifice of fools: as much as to ſay, Preferre not the Secondary ſervice of God before the Firſt and Principal. Our Tranſlation hath, Be more ready to hear, then, &c. whereby ſome have taken occaſion childiſhly to apply this Scripture againſt that cuſtome of a ſhort and private Prayer at our firſt coming into the Church, before we joyn with the Congregation. For we ſhould (ſay they) rather hear and liſten to what the Miniſter is reading or ſpeaking, (as Solomon here bids us) then at ſuch a time to betake our ſelves to any private devotion; which, ſay they, is but the Sacrifice of fools. But I would themſelves who thus argue were as wiſe as they ſhould be: For if they were, they would conſider both that Solomon (according to the time wherein he ſpake) muſt needs mean of another kinde of Sacrifice then what ſo looſe a notion importeth, namely of ſuch as were then uſed in the Temple he had built; and beſides, that this ſenſe of theirs directly thwarts the purport and meaning of the words going before, which is, that we ought to uſe ſome ſigne of reverence when we come into the houſe of God, ſuch as according to the cuſtome of the Weſt is this. But though none of theſe things were, yet would this Text be nothing to their purpoſe: Foraſmuch as by Hearing in this place is not meant auricular hearing, but practicall, that is, Obedience to God's commandments, according as the Vulgar hath, (a) Melior eſt obedientia quàm victimæ ſtultorum. For it is the ſame with 1 Sam. 15. 22. that proverbial ſentence of Scripture, Obedience is better then ſacrifice, which Samuel uſed in that bitter reproof of King Saul, for ſparing Agag and the beſt of the ſpoil of the Amalekites, upon a pretence of ſacrificing to the Lord in Gilgal. Hath the Lord (ſaith he) as great delight in burnt-offerings and ſacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better then ſacrifice; and to hearken, then the fat of rams. The word here twice rendered obey, is שמע, the ſame which is in my Text, and it is an ordinary ſignification thereof in Scripture. The caſe is clear.

(a) Obedience is better then the Sacrifice of fools.

But was not the offering of Sacrifice, will ſome man ſay, part of the obedience due unto the divine Law? How come they then to be thus oppoſed one to the other? Give me leave therefore, before I give my full explication of this paſſage, to enquire and conſider of ſome others, of much more difficulty difficulty in this reſpect, yet their meaning conducing to the underſtanding of this. Eccleſ. 5. 1.

There are divers places in Scripture diſparaging and vilifying Sacrifices, yea ſo farre, as if Sacrifice were a ſervice which God neither appointed nor approved. As Pſal. 51. 16, 17. Thou deſireſt not ſacrifice, (ſaith David,) elſe would I have given it thee; but thou delighteſt not in burnt-offerings. The ſacrifice of God is a troubled ſpirit; a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe. Hoſea 6. 6. I will have mercy, and not ſacrifice. Micah 6. 6. Wherewith ſhall I come before the Lord, and bow my ſelf before the moſt High? ſhall I come before him with burnt-offerings, with calves of a year old? 7. Will the Lord be pleaſed with thouſands of rams, and with ten thouſands of rivers of oile? ſhall I give my firſt-born for my tranſgreſſion, the fruit of my body for the ſin of my ſoul? 8. He hath ſhewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to doe juſtly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? Nay, Jer. 7. 21, 22, 23. he ſeems to ſay expreſly, that he never commanded them: Put (ſaith he) your burnt-offerings unto your ſacrifices, and eat fleſh. For I ſpake not unto your Fathers, nor commanded them, in the day that I brought them out of the Land of Egypt, concerning burnt-offerings and ſacrifices: But this thing commanded I them, ſaying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people; and walk ye in the waies that I have commanded you, that it may be well with you.

Yet nothing is more plain then that God ordained Sacrifices at Mount Sinai. How then ſhall this difficulty be reſolved? Some, and thoſe of the Ancients too, have affirmed, that theſe Ordinances of Sacrifice were not given to Iſrael at firſt, nor (a) prima intentione Dei; but were (as they call them) ἐπίκαινα, ſuperinducta, afterwards impoſed upon them, when they had committed Idolatry in making and worſhipping the golden Calf. But the contrary to this is alſo apparent. For to paſs by Cain and Abel's ſacrifices and the ſacrifices of Noah and Abraham; when the Lord pronounced the Decalogue from Mount Sinai, he added this, as it were an Appendix thereto, Ye ſhall not make with me gods of ſilver, neither ſhall ye make unto you gods of gold: Onely an Altar thou ſhalt make unto me, and ſhalt ſacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, thy ſheep and thine oxen, &c. and this before Moſes came down from the Mount, or the Calf was yet made. Nay, more then all this, when Moſes and Aaron were ſent unto Pharaoh, the effect of their Embaſſie was, The God of the Hebrews ſaith, Let my people go, that they may ſacrifice unto me, three daies journey in the wilderneſs. And when Pharaoh would have given them leave to have ſacrificed to their God in the Land; No, (ſaith Moſes) we will go three daies journey into the wilderneſs, and there ſacrifice to the Lord our God, as he hath commanded us. What ſhall we anſwer then to thoſe paſſages of Scripture where God diſclaimeth Sacrifice, ſaying, he required no ſuch Service at his peoples hands; yea, that he commanded them no ſuch thing when he brought them out of the Land of Egypt?

(a) By the firſt intention of God.

Exod. 20. 23, 24.

Exod. 3. 18. & 5. 1, 3, 8.

Exod. 8. 27.

For the aſſoiling of this difficulty, according to the differing quality of the paſſages which are or may be produced to this purpoſe, I lay down theſe three Propoſitions.

1. That according to the propriety and genius of the Hebrew tongue, a Comparative ſenſe is often expreſſed after the form of an Antitheſis: As, in that of Joel, Rent your hearts, and not your garments; that is, more, or rather then your garments: Prov. 8. 10. Receive my inſtruction, and not ſilver; Joel 2. 13.

Eccleſ. 5. 1. ſilver; that is, rather then ſilver, as the words following teach us to conſtrue it, And knowledge rather then choice gold. Likewiſe in the New Teſtament, Lay not up treaſures for your ſelves on earth, but lay up for your ſelves treaſures in heaven; that is, Treaſures in heaven rather then treaſures on earth; have more care to lay up the one then the other.

Matt. 19. 20.

According to this conſtruction only, without more adoe, ſome of the aforeſaid paſſages will be diſcharged of their difficulty: as namely that of Hoſea, I deſired mercy, and not ſacrifice, that is, more or rather then ſacrifice; as the following words give us to underſtand, which are, and the knowledge of God more then burnt-offerings; and according as the ſame ſenſe is elſewhere expreſſed, as Prov. 21. 3. To doe juſtice and judgement, is more acceptable to the Lord then ſacrifice. But all will not be thus ſalved.

2. Wherefore I lay down this ſecond Propoſition; That antecedenter, antecedently, it is true, that God commanded not Sacrifice ſhould be offered unto him, neither when the Law was given, nor before; but conſequenter, conſequently only. For the underſtanding whereof we muſt know, That Sacrifice was a rite whereby men renewed a Covenant with God, by making atonement for their ſin; therefore it preſuppoſed a breach and tranſgreſſion of the Law. But the will of God was not, that men ſhould tranſgreſs his Law, and violate the Covenant he had made with them, but that they ſhould obſerve and keep it; which if they did, Sacrifice would have no place. This is that I mean, when I ſay that God required not nor commanded Sacrifice antecedently, but that men ſhould keep his Commandments. But in caſe ſin were committed, and the Articles of his Covenant violated, then and in ſuch a ſtate God ordained and admitted of Sacrifice for a Rite of atonement and redintegration of his Covenant with men: that is, he commanded Sacrifice only conſequenter, conſequently, as a remedy, if ſin were committed. And if thoſe Ancients could be thus underſtood who ſay that Sacrifice was not ordained when the Law was firſt given, but after it was tranſgreſſed; namely, if their meaning were only, that the ordinance of Sacrifice preſuppoſed a tranſgreſſion of the Law; then their Aſſertion were true: but otherwiſe hiſtorically taken, it cannot be defended. Now according to this propoſition is that of Jeremy 7. 22, 23. to be underſtood, (or if there be any other like it) I ſpake not unto your Fathers, nor commanded them, in the day that I brought them out of the Land of Egypt, concerning burnt-offerings and ſacrifices: But this thing commanded I them; Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people: and walk ye in all the waies that I have commanded you, that it may be well with you.

3. My third Propoſition is this; That when Sacrifice was to be offered in caſe of ſin, yet even then God accepted not thereof primariò, primarily and for it ſelf, as though any refreſhment or emolument accrued to him thereby, (as the Gentiles fondly ſuppoſed of their gods;) but ſecondarily only, as a teſtimony of the conſcience of the offerer, deſiring with humble repentance to glorifie him with a Preſent, and by that Rite to renew a covenant with him. For Sacrifice (as I have ſaid) was oblatio fœderalis a federal oblation. Now Almighty God renews a Covenant with, or receiveth again into his favour, none but the repentant ſinner; and therefore accepts of Sacrifice in no other regard, but as a token and effect of this. Otherwiſe it is an abomination unto him, as whereby men profeſſed a deſire of being reconciled unto God, when they had offended him, and yet had no ſuch meaning. Hence God rejects all Sacrifices wherein there is no Contrition, nor Purpoſe to forſake ſin and keep his commandments, which are the parts of Repentance. So is to be taken that in the firſt of Eſay:

Vet. 11—18.

To

To what purpoſe is the multitude of your ſacrifices? ——Bring no more vain oblations; incenſe is an abomination unto me. ——Waſh ye, make you clean, put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes, ceaſe to doe evil: ——then (if you offer ſacrifice unto me) though your ſins be as ſcarlet, they ſhall be as white as ſnow, &c. and that Eſay the laſt: To this man will I look, to him that is poor and of a contrite ſpirit. He that killeth an ox, (namely otherwiſe,) is as if he ſlew a man; he that ſacrificeth a lamb, (unleſs he comes with this diſpoſition) as if he cut off a dog's neck; he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered bloud; he that burneth incenſe, as if he bleſſed an Idol. And ſurely, he that bleſſeth an Idol is ſo farre from renewing a Covenant with the Lord his God, that he breaks it. So did they who without conſcience of Repentance preſumed to come before him with a Sacrifice, not procure atonement, but aggravate their breach. Eccleſ. 5. 1 Verſ. 2, 3.

According to one of theſe three ſenſes are all paſſages in the Old Teſtament diſparaging and rejecting Sacrifices literally to be underſtood: namely, when men preferred them before the greater things of the Law; valued them out of their degree, as an antecedent duty; or placed their efficacy in the naked Rite, as if ought accrued to God thereby; God would no longer own them for any ordinance of his: nor indeed in that diſguiſe put upon them were they.

I will except onely one Paſſage out of the number, which I ſuppoſe to have a ſingular meaning; to wit, that of David in the 51 Pſalm, v. 16, 17. which the ancient tranſlations thus expreſs: Quoniam ſi voluiſſes ſacrificium, dediſſem utique; ſed holocauſtis non oblectaberis, (vel, holocauſtum non acceptabis.) Sacrificium Deo ſpiritus contribulatus, &c. ——If thou wouldſt have had a ſacrifice, I would have offered it; but thou wilt accept no burnt-offering, &c. ——For this ſeems to be meant of that ſpecial caſe of Adulterie and Murther which David here deploreth: for which Sins the Lord had provided no Sacrifice in his Law. Wherefore David in this his Penitential confeſſion tells him, That if he had appointed any Sacrifice for expiation of this kind of ſin, he would have given it him; but he had ordained none, ſave only a broken ſpirit and a contrite heart: which thou, O God, (ſaith he) wilt not deſpiſe, but accept that alone for a Sacrifice in this caſe, without which Sacrifice in no caſe is accepted.

Now out of this Diſcourſe we are ſufficiently furniſhed for the underſtanding of this Caution of Solomon in my Text, Be more ready to obey, then to offer the ſacrifice of fools; or, as the words in the Original import, Be more approching God with a purpoſe and reſolution of obedience to his Commandments, then with the ſacrifice of fools; that is, Have a care rather to approch the Divine Majeſty with an offering of an obediential diſpoſition, then with the bare and naked Rite. But the ſenſe is ſtill the ſame, namely, the Houſe of God at Jeruſalem was an Houſe of ſacrifice, which they who came thither to worſhip offered unto the Divine Majeſty, to make way for their prayers and ſupplications unto him, or to find favour in his ſight. Solomon therefore gives them here a caveat, not to place their Religion either only or chiefly in the external Rite, but in their readineſs to hear and keep the Commandments of God; without which that Rite alone would avail them nothing, but be no better then the ſacrifice of fools, who when they doe evil, think they doe well. For without this readineſs to obey, this purpoſe of heart to live according to his Commandments, God accepts of no Sacrifice from thoſe who approch him, nor will pardon their tranſgreſſions when they come before him. He therefore that makes no conſcience of ſinning againſt God, and yet thinks to be expiate by Sacrifice, is an ignorant fool, how wiſe and religious ſoever he may think himſelf to be, or appear unto men;

Eccleſ. 5. 1. men, by the multitude or greatneſs of his Sacrifices. The reaſon, Becauſe the Lord requires Obedience antecedently and abſolutely, but Sacrifice conſequently onely; and then too not primariò, or chiefly and for it ſelf, but ſecondarily onely, as a teſtimony of Contrition, and a ready deſire and purpoſe in the offerer to continue in his favour by Obedience.

This is Solomon's the Preacher's meaning: Wherein behold, as in a glaſs, the condition of all external Service of God in general, as that which he accepteth no otherwiſe then ſecondarily; namely, as iſſuing from a Heart reſpectively affected with that devotion it importeth. For God, as he is a living God, ſo he requires a living worſhip: But as the Body without the Soul is but a carkaſs; ſo is all external and bodily worſhip wherein the pulſe of the Heart's devotion beats not.

But if this be ſo, you will ſay, it were better to uſe no external worſhip at all of courſe, as we do the worſhip of the Body in the geſtures of bowing, kneeling, ſtanding, and the like, then to incur this danger of ſerving God with a dead and hypocritical ſervice; becauſe it is not like the Heart will be always duely affected when the outward worſhip ſhall be required. I anſwer; Where there is a true and real intent to honour God with outward and bodily worſhip, there the act is not Hypocriſie, though accompanied with many defects and imperfections. Here therefore that Rule of our Saviour touching the greater and leſſer things of the Law muſt have place:

Matt. 23. 23. & Luke 11. 42. ταῦτα ἔδει ποιῆσαι, κἀκεῖνα μὴ ἀφιέναι, Theſe things (that is, the greater things of the Law) we ought to doe, and not to leave the other (though the leſſer) undone. For otherwiſe, if this reaſoning were admitted, a man might upon the ſame ground abſent himſelf from coming to Church upon the dayes and times appointed, or come thither but now and then, alledging the indiſpoſition of his Heart to joyn with the Church in her publick worſhip at other times: or if he came thither, act a mute, and when others ſing and praiſe God, be altogether ſilent, and not open his mouth, nor ſay Amen when others do. For all theſe are external ſervices; and the ſervice of the voice and geſture are in this reſpect all one, there is no difference. But who would not think this to be very abſurd? We ſhould rather upon every ſuch occaſion rouſe and ſtir up our Affections with fit and ſeaſonable meditations, that what the order and decency of a Church-aſſembly requires to be done of every member outwardly, we may likewiſe doe devoutly and acceptably. Theſe things we ought to doe, and not leave the other undone.

But you will ſay, What if I cannot bring my Heart unto that religious fear and devotion which the outward worſhip I ſhould perform requireth? I could ſay that ſome of the outward worſhip which a man performs in a Church-aſſembly, he does not as a ſingular man, but as a member of the Congregation. But howſoever, I anſwer; Let the worſhip of thy Body, in ſuch a caſe, be at leaſt a confeſſion and acknowledgement before God of that love, fear and eſteem of his Divine Majeſty thou oughteſt to have, but haſt not. For though to come before God without that inward devotion requiſite, be a ſin: yet to confeſs and acknowledge by what our outward geſture importeth the duty we owe unto him, but are defective in, I hope is not; no more then the confeſſion of any other ſin. For our Worſhip, in ſuch a caſe, if we will ſo intend it, is an act of Repentance: and as the modern Greeks are wont to call their Adorations, Μετανοίας, Repentances; ſo may we in this caſe make ours to be: namely, as if we ſaid, Lord, I ought to come before thee with that religious fear, humble reverence, and lifting up of Heart, which the geſture, the poſture I here preſent importeth; but, Lord, be merciful to me a ſinner. If any mans Heart be ſo prophane and irreligious as not to acknowledge thus much, I yield that such a one might better spare his labour, and not come into the presence of God at all. Otherwise I conclude still with our Blessed Saviour's determination in the like case, Those greater things we ought to do, and not to leave the other undone. Eccles. 5. 1.

that

THE CHRISTIAN SACRIFICE

MALACHI I. 11.

*Ab ortu Solis usque ad occasum, * magnum erit Nomen meum in Gentibus; & in omni loco * offeretur Incensum Nomini meo, & * Munus purum: quia magnum erit Nomen meum in Gentibus, dicit Dominus exercituum.*

From the rising of the Sun even unto the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place Incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure Offering: for my Name shall be great among the Heathen, saith the Lord of hosts.

* LXX. δοξασθήσεται. * προσάγεται. Heb. מֻקְטָר * θυσία καθαρὰ, Heb. מִנְחָה טְהוֹרָה

CHAP. I.

The Text a Prophecy of the Christian Sacrifice, according to the judgement of the ancient Fathers in the Second, Third and Fourth Centuries. The difficulty of explaining the Christian Sacrifice: The Reasons of this difficulty. The Method and Order propounded for this Discourse.

THIS place of Scripture, howsoever now in a manner silenced and forgotten, was once, and that in the eldest and purest times of the Church, a Text of eminent note, and familiarly known to every Christian, being alledged by their Pastours and Teachers, as an express and undoubted Prophecie of the Christian Sacrifice or Solemn Worship in the Eucharist, taught by our Blessed Saviour unto his Disciples, to be observed of all that should believe in his Name: and this so generally and grantedly, as could never have been, at least so early, unless they had learned thus to apply it by tradition from the Apostles.

For in the Age immediately succeeding them, being the second hundred of years after Christ, we find it alledged to this purpose by Justin Martyr and Irenaus, the Pillars of that Age; the former of them flourishing within little more then thirty years after the death of S. John, and the latter a Disciple of Polycarp, S. John's Scholar. In the Age following, or third Seculum, it is alledged by Tertullian, Zeno Veronensis and Cyprian: in the fourth Seculum by Eusebius, Chrysostome, Hierom and Augustine; and in the after-Ages by whom not? Nor is it alledged by them as some singular opinion

Mal. 1. 11. opinion or private conceit of their own, but as the received Tradition of the Church; whence in some Liturgies (as that of the Church of Alexandria, commonly called the Liturgy of S. Mark) it is inserted into the Hymn, or Preface, which begins, Ἀληθῶς ἄξιόν ἐστιν καὶ δίκαιον, It is truly meet and right; the conclusion of the Hymn or Laud there being, Εὐχαριστοῦντες προσφέρομεν τὴν λογικὴν καὶ ἀναίμακτον λατρείαν ταύτην, ἣν προσφέρουσί σοι, Κύριε, πάντα τὰ ἔθνη ἀπὸ ἀνατολῶν ἡλίου καὶ μέχρι δυσμῶν· ὅτι μέγα τὸ ὄνομά σου ἐν πᾶσι τοῖς ἔθνεσι, καὶ ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ θυμίαμα προσφέρεται τῷ ὀνόματι τῷ ἁγίῳ σου, καὶ θυσία καὶ προσφορά· Giving thanks we offer unto thee, O Lord, this reasonable and unbloudy Service, even that which all Nations from the rising of the Sun to the going down of the same offer unto thee, O Lord: for thy Name shall be great among all Nations; and in every place Incense is offered unto thy holy Name, and Sacrifice and Oblation.

Thus you see the antiquity of Tradition for the meaning and application of this Prophecy.

But for the Christian Sacrifice it self whereunto it is applied, What the ancient Church understood thereby, What and Wherein the Nature of this Sacrifice consisted, is a point, though most needful to be known, yet beyond belief obscure, intricate and perplext. He that shall make triall, will find I say true. A reverend and learned Prelate of ours acknowledges as much: Apud veteres Patres (saith he) (ut quod res est liberè fateamur) de sacrificio corporis Christi in Eucharistia incruento frequens est mentio; quæ dici vix potest quantopere quorundam, alioqui doctorum hominum, ingenia exercuerit, torserit, vexaverit: To speak the plain truth, In the Writings of the ancient Fathers there is frequent mention of The unbloudy Sacrifice of the Body of Christ in the Eucharist; a point which hath beyond expression puzzled and vext the minds of several men otherwise not unlearned. The reason of this obscurity hath grown partly from the changing of the Notion of the Church thereabout in following times; partly by the violence of the Controversies of this last Age, whilest each party finding the knot, and studying not so much the right way of untying it, as how to give the least advantage to the adverse party, have infinitely intangled the same, and made it more indissoluble then before.

I have acquainted my self long with this Argument, and spent many a thought thereabout, using the best means I could conceive to be inform'd; namely, Not so much to relie upon the opinions of modern writers, as to peruse and compare the passages of the Ancients themselves, and their Forms of Liturgies, out of which I was assur'd the Truth might be learned, if I were but able to understand them.

What I have found and learned I desire to give an account of in this place, as I shall have occasion; the Argument being such as befits no other Auditorie but the Schools of the Prophets. Nor will the Discourse be unprofitable for such as mean to be acquainted with the Writings of the Fathers and Antiquities of the Church: there being nothing in them so like to stumble the Reader as this.

To come then to the matter: where I will chalk out my Discourse in this order.

First, I shall premise, as the ground thereof, A Definition of The Christian Sacrifice as the ancient Church meant it.

Secondly, Explain the meaning of my Text, by application thereto.

Thirdly, Prove each part of the Definition I shall give, by the Testimonies of the Fathers, Councils and Liturgies of the first and best Ages; interlacing therewith such passages as may make for the better understanding either of the Testimonies I bring, or of the matter it self for which they are brought.

CHAP.

Mal. 1. 11.

Chap. II.

The Christian Sacrifice defined, and briefly explained. The two parts or double Object of this Sacrifice. What meant by Sacrificium Quod, what by Sacrificium Quo.

To begin with the First, The Definition of the Christian Sacrifice: Under which name first know, That the ancient Church understood not, as many suppose, the mere Sacrament of the Body and Bloud of Christ; but the whole Sacred Action or Solemn Service of the Church assembled, whereof this Sacred Mysterie was then a prime and principal part, and as it were the Pearl or Jewel of that Ring, no publick Service of the Church being without it. This observed and remembred, I define the Christian Sacrifice, ex mente antiquæ Ecclesiæ, according to the meaning of the ancient Church, in this manner: I.

An Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer to God the Father * through Jesus Christ and his Sacrifice commemorated in the Creatures of Bread and Wine, * wherewith God had first been agniz'd. So that this Sacrifice as you see hath a double object or matter: first, Praise and Prayer, which you may call Sacrificium Quod; secondly, The commemoration of Christ's Sacrifice on the Cross, which is Sacrificium Quo, the Sacrifice whereby the other is accepted. For all the Prayers, Thanksgivings and Devotions of a Christian, are tendred up unto God in the name of Jesus Christ crucified. According whereunto we are wont to conclude our Prayers with Through Jesus Christ our Lord. And this is the specification whereby the Worship of a Christian is distinguisht from that of the Jew. Now that which we in all our Prayers and Thanksgivings doe vocally, when we say, Through Jesus Christ our Lord, the ancient Church in her publick and solemn Service did visibly, by representing him, according as he commanded, in the Symbols of his Body and Bloud: And why not? Is not Christ there commemorated and received by us for the same end for which he was given and suffered for us? Is not that, that through him we receiving forgiveness of our sins, God our Father might accept our service and hear our prayers we make unto him? What time then so fit and seasonable to commend our devotions unto God, as when the Lamb of God lies slain upon the Holy Table, and we receive visibly, though mystically, those gracious Pledges of his blessed Body and Bloud? This was that Sacrifice of the ancient Church the Fathers so much ring in our ears; The Sacrifice of Praise and Prayer through Jesus Christ mystically represented in the Creatures of Bread and Wine.

* or, through the Sacrifice of Jesus Christ upon the Cross.
* or, first offered to God to agnize him.

But yet we have not all, there is one thing more my Definition intimates, when I say, Through the Sacrifice of Jesus Christ commemorated in the Creatures of Bread and Wine, wherewith God had first been agnized. The Body and Bloud of Christ were not made of common Bread and common Wine, but of Bread and Wine first sanctified, by being offered and set before God as a Present to agnize him the Lord and Giver of all: according to that, * The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; and, * Let no man appear before the Lord emptie. Therefore as this Sacrifice consisted of two parts, as I told you, of Praise and Prayer, (which in respect of the other I call Sacrificium Quod,) and of the Commemoration of Christ crucified, (which I call Sacrificium Quo:) so the Symbols of Bread and Wine traversed both; being first presented as Symbols of Praise and Thanksgiving to agnize God the Lord of the Creature, in the Sacrificium Quod; then, by invocation of the Holy Ghost, made the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of Christ, in the Sacrificium

* Psal. 24. 1.
* Deut. 16. 16.

Mal. 1. 11. Quo. So that the whole Service throughout consisted of a reasonable part, and of a material part, as of a Soul and a Body: of which I shall speak more fully hereafter, when I come to prove this I have said by the Testimonies of the Ancients.

Chap. III.

The words of the Text explained, and applied to the foregoing Definition of the Christian Sacrifice. Incense denotes the rational part of this Sacrifice, Mincha the material part thereof. What meant by Mincha purum. Two Interpretations of the Purity of the Christian Mincha given by the Fathers; a third propounded by the Author.

II. AND this is that Sacrifice which Malachi foretold the Gentiles should one day offer unto God; In every place Incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure Mincha: for my Name shall be great among the Heathen, saith the Lord of hosts. Which Words I am now, according to the order I propounded, to explicate, and apply to my Definition.

Know therefore that the Prophet in the foregoing words upbraids the Jews with despising and disesteeming their God; forasmuch as they offered unto him for sacrifice not of the best, but the lame, the torn and the sick; as though he had not been the great King, Creator and Lord of the whole World, but some petty God, and of an inferiour rank, for whom any thing were good enough. Vers. 6, 7. If I be a Father, where is mine honour? If I be Dominus, where is my fear? saith the Lord of Hosts unto you, O Priests, that despise my name; and ye say, Wherein have we despised it? Ye offer polluted bread upon mine Altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? [I'le tell you] In that ye say, The Table of the Lord is contemptible, or, not so much to be regarded; that is, you think so, as appears by the baseness of your Offering: for the Present shews what esteem the giver hath of him he honoureth therewith. But you offer that to me which ye would not think fit to offer to your Prorex or Governour under the King of Persia; which shews you have but a mean esteem of me in your hearts, and that you believe not I am He that I am. It may be, because you see me acknowledged of no other Nation but yours, and that ye have been subdued by the Gentiles, and brought into this miserable and despicable condition wherein you now are, you imagine me to be some Topical God, and as of small jurisdiction, so of little power. But know, that howsoever I now seem to be but the Lord of a poor Nation, yet the days are coming, when from the rising of the Sun to the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place Incense shall be offered to my Name, and a pure Offering: for my Name shall be great among the Heathen, saith the Lord of Hosts: it follows, though you have prophaned it, in that ye say, The Table of the Lord is contemptible; whereas I am a great King, and my Name shall be dreadful among the Heathen.

* Revel. 8. 3. * Esay 66. 3. Qui recordatur thure. Levit. 24. 7. Ecclus. 45. 16.

This is the coherence and dependence of the Words. Now to apply them. Incense (as the Scripture it self tells) notes the * Prayers of the Saints. It was also that wherewith the * remembrance was made in the Sacrifices, or God put in mind. Mincha, which we turn Munus, a Gift or Offering, is Oblatio farrea, an Offering made of meal or flower baked or fried, or dried or parched corn. We, in our English, when we make distinction, call it a Meat-offering; but might call it a Bread-offering, of which the Libamen or the Drink-offering being an indivisible concomitant, both are implied under the name Mincha, where it alone is named.

The

The Application then is eaſy: Incenſe here notes the rational part of our Chriſtian Sacrifice, which is Prayer, Thankſgiving, and Commemoration; Mincha the material part thereof, which is Oblatio farrea, a Preſent of Bread and Wine. Mal. 1. 11.

BUT this Mincha is characteriſed in the Text with an attribute not to be overpaſt, Mincha purum; In omni loco offeretur incenſum Nomini meo, & Mincha purum, In every place Incenſe ſhall be offered to my Name, and a pure Mincha: The Meat-offering which the Gentiles ſhould one day preſent the God of Iſrael with ſhould be Munus purum, a pure Offering, or, as the Septuagint, θυσία καθαρὰ, a pure Sacrifice. Let us learn, if we can, what this Purity is, and wherein it conſiſteth, or in what reſpect the Gentiles Oblation is ſo ſtyled.

1. Some of the Fathers take this Pure Offering, to be an Offering that is purely or ſpiritually offered: The old Sacrifices both of the Jew and Gentile were offered modo corporali, in a corporeal manner, by ſlaughter, fire, and incenſe; but this of Chriſtians ſhould be offered only λόγῳ εὐχῆς καὶ εὐχαριστίας, by way of Prayer and Thankſgiving, as Juſtin Martyr* expreſſes it; whence it is uſually called λογικὴ καὶ ἀναίμακτος θυσία, a reaſonable and unbloudy Sacrifice; namely, of the * manner of offering it: not that there was no material thing uſed therein, as ſome miſtake, (for we know there was Bread and Wine;) but becauſe it is offered unto God immaterially or λογικῶς onely; which the Fathers in the firſt Council of Nice call ἀδύτως θύεσθαι, to be ſacrificed without ſacrificing rites. This ſenſe of Pure Sacrifice is followed by Tertullian, as may appear by his words ad Scapulam, where ſpeaking of the Chriſtian Liturgie, Sacrificamus (ſaith he) pro ſalute Imperatoris;——*ſed, quomodo præcepit Deus, purâ prece: Non enim eget Deus, Conditor Univerſitatis, odoris aut ſanguinis alicujus; hæc enim Dæmoniorum pabula ſunt: We offer Sacrifice for the health and welfare of the Emperour; but it is (according as God hath commanded) the Sacrifice of * pure prayer: For God, the maker of the World, ſtands not in need of the ſmell or ſavour or of the bloud of any creature: Theſe indeed are the food and diet which the Devils love.* Alſo in his third Book againſt Marcion cap. 22. In omni loco offertur Sacrificium Nomini meo--In every place Sacrifice ſhall be offered to my Name——& ſacrificium mundum, and a pure Sacrifice; that is, (ſaith he) gloriæ relatio, benedictio, laus & hymni, giving glory to God, bleſſing, praiſe and hymns: which he preſently calls munditias ſacrificiorum, the purities of Sacrifices. The ſame way go ſome others. But this ſenſe, though it fitly ſerves to difference our Chriſtian Sacrifice from the old Sacrifices of the Jews and Gentiles, and the thing it ſelf be moſt true; yet I cannot ſee how it can agree with the context of our Prophet, where the word Incenſe (though I confeſs myſtically underſtood) is expreſſed together with Munus purum a pure Offering: For it would make the Literal ſenſe of our Prophet to be abſurd, and to ſay, In every place Incenſe is offered to my Name, and an Offering without Incenſe. And yet this would be the Literal meaning, if Pure here ſignified without Incenſe.

* Apol. 2.

* Καὶ τοιαύτη τις εὐχαριστίας θυσία τοῖς ἀνθρώποις ἀποτελεῖται, ἁγνὴ μὲ αἵματος, ἁγνὴ δὲ πάσης βίας· ἣν δὲ μὲ ὀσμὴ λιβάνου ἐπιποθεῖται, ἢ δὲ πυρκαϊὰ, καθαρὸν δὲ φῶς, &c. Conſtant. in Orat. ad Sanctor. cœt. c. 12. apud Euſeb.

* Pure prayer, that is, Prayer not defiled with ſhedding of bloud and ſmoke of Incenſe, according to the manner of the Gentiles. This to be the meaning of purâ prece, the words immediately following will tell us, Non enim eget Deus, &c. [Thus the Author in another paper where this paſſage of Tertullian was ſet down.]

2. Let us hear therefore a ſecond Interpretation of this Puritie of the Chriſtian Mincha, more agreeable to the dependence of the words; and that is à conſcientia offerentis, from the diſpoſition and affection of the offerer; according to that of the Apoſtle, Tit. 1. 15, 16. To the pure all things are pure; but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure, but even their mind and conſcience is defiled: They profeſs they know God, but in works they deny him. The Jews offering was prophane and polluted, becauſe it proceeded not out of a due belief, and a conſcience throughly perſwaded of the Greatneſs of their God, that he was the Creator and Lord of

Mal. 1. 11. the whole earth, but rather ſome petty and particular God, like the Gods of other Nations: But the Gentiles, who ſhould ſee him not onely the God of one Nation, but univerſally acknowledged over all the earth, ſhould have no ſuch reaſon to doubt, but firmly believe him to be the Great God, Creator of heaven and earth, and worſhip him as ſuch; and ſo their Offering be a Pure Offering, not polluted with unbelief. And it is to be obſerved, that all the ancient Chriſtian Liturgies begin with this acknowledgement: For the Summe of the Euchariſtical Doxologie, when the Bread and Wine is firſt Chap. 4. 11. preſented before God, is comprehended in that of the Apocalyps, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glorie, and honour, and power: for thou haſt created all things, and for thy pleaſure they are and were created.

And to this way of interpreting the Purity of the Chriſtian Sacrifice, to wit, from the conſcience and affection of the offerers, the Fathers moſtly bend. Irenæus lib. 4. cap. 34. Sacrificia non ſanctificant hominem, (non enim indiget Deus ſacrificio) ſed conſcientia ejus qui offert ſanctificat ſacrificium, pura exſiſtens —— Quoniam igitur cum ſimplicitate Eccleſia offert, juſtè munus ejus purum ſacrificium apud Deum deputatum eſt: Sacrifices do not ſanctify a man, (for God ſtands not in need of any of our Sacrifices;) but the Conſcience of him that offers, being pure, ſanctifies the Sacrifice —— And becauſe the Church offereth with Simplicity, (with a Conſcience purified from all malice and hypocriſy) rightly therefore is her Oblation accounted by God a Pure Sacrifice. And a little after, Oportet enim nos oblationem Deo facere, & in omnibus gratos inveniri fabricatori Deo, in ſententia pura & fide ſine hypocriſi, &c. For it behoveth us to preſent God with our Oblations, and in all things to be found thankful unto God our maker; with pure minds and faith unfeigned, with ſtedfaſt hope and fervent love offering unto him the Firſt-fruits, or a Preſent, of his Creatures. Neither is Tertullian, whom I alledged before for the other interpretation, averſe from this; for in his fourth Book Cont. Marc. c. 1. Sacrificium mundum, a pure Sacrifice, that is, ſaith he, ſimplex oratio de conſcientia pura, ſincere Prayer proceeding from a pure Conſcience. But this conſcientious purity they ſeem to reſtrain, at leaſt chiefly, to freedom from malice, as that ſingular puritie whereby this Chriſtian Sacrifice is differenced from that of the Jew, becauſe none can offer it but he Matt. 5. 23, 24. that is in charity with his brother; according to that in the Goſpel, When thou bringeſt thy gift unto the Altar, and remembreſt thy brother hath ought againſt thee —— Go firſt and be reconciled to thy brother, &c. And therefore in the beginning of this Chriſtian Service, the Deacon was anciently wont to cry, Μή τις κατά τινος, Let no man have ought againſt his brother; and then followed oſculum ſanctum, the kiſs of reconciliation. Thus the Fathers of the firſt Council of Nice took Sacrificium purum, as appears Can. 5. where they expound δῶρον καθαρὸν the pure Gift or Oblation, to be that which is offered πάσης μικροψυχίας ἀναιρεμένης, omni ſimultate depoſitâ, all malice and hypocriſy, and the like inſtances of an unworthy and ignoble ſpirit, being laid aſide.

But according to this Expoſition, the Puritie of the Chriſtian Sacrifice will not be oppoſite to the pollution of the Jewiſh in the ſame kind, as it would if more generally taken, but in another kind; and ſo the ſenſe ſtands thus; You will not offer me a pure offering, but the Gentiles one day ſhall, and that with a puritie of another manner of ſtamp then that my Law requires of you. And thus I have told you the two waies according to which the Ancients underſtood this Puritie; and I prefer the latter, as I think they did.

3. But there is a third Interpretation, were it back'd by their Authority, (which I confeſs it is not) which I would prefer before them both; and, I think, you will wonder with me they ſhould be ſo ſilent therein: namely, that that this title of Puritie is given to the Christian Mincha in respect of Christ whom it signifies and represents, who is a Sacrifice without all spot, blemish and imperfection. This the Antithesis of this Sacrifice to that of the Jews might seem to imply: For the Jews are charged with offering polluted Bread upon God's Altar; whereby what is meant the words following tell us, If you offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if you offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? and in the end of the Chapter, Cursed be the deceiver, who hath in his flock a male, and voweth and sacrificeth to the Lord a corrupt thing. Now, if the Sacrifice of the Gentiles be called Pure in opposition to this; is it not so called in respect of that most perfect, unblemisht and unvaluable Sacrifice it represents, Jesus Christ the Lamb of God? I leave it to your consideration.

Mal. 1. 11.

Vers. 14.

Chap. IV.

Six Particulars contained in the Definition of the Christian Sacrifice. The First, viz. That this Christian Service is an Oblation, proved out of Antiquity. How long the Apostles Age lasted, or when it ended. Proofs out of the Epistles of Clemens and Ignatius. Προσφορὰ, Θυσία and Δοχὴ how distinguished in Ignatius. Θυσία mentioned by S. Peter and S. Paul to this Sense. The Christian Service is properly Προσφορὰ, but improperly Θυσία according to the strict and prime sense of the word.

III. THUS having absolved the Two first things I propounded; given you a Definition of the Christian Sacrifice, and explained the words of my Text: I come now to the Third and longest part of my task, To prove each particular contained in my Definition by the Testimonies and Authorities of the ancient Fathers and Writers of the first and purest Ages of the Church. The Particulars I am to prove are in number Six.

1. That this Christian Service is an Oblation, and expressed under that Notion by the utmost Antiquity.

2. That it is an Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

3. An Oblation through Jesus Christ commemorated in the creatures of Bread and Wine.

4. That this Commemoration of Christ, according to the style of the ancient Church, is also a Sacrifice.

5. That the Body and Bloud of Christ, in this Mystical Service, was made of Bread and Wine which had first been offered unto God, to agnize him the Lord of the Creature.

6. That this Sacrifice was placed in Commemoration onely of Christ's sacrifice upon the Cross, and not in a real offering of his Body and Bloud anew.

When I shall have proved all these by sufficient Authority, I hope you will give me leave to conclude my Definition for true, That the Christian Sacrifice (ex mente antiquæ Ecclesiæ, according to the meaning of the ancient Church) was An Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer to God the Father, through the Sacrifice of Jesus Christ commemorated in the Creatures of Bread and Wine, wherewith God had first been agnized.

I. Let us begin then with the first, That this Christian Service is an Oblation, and under that notion expressed by all Antiquitie. The names whereby the Ancient Church called this Service are, Προσφορὰ, Θυσία, Oblation, Sacrifice; Εὐχαριστία, Eucharist, (a word, if rightly understood, of equipollent sense;) Θυσία αἰνέσεως, Θυσία λογικὴ καὶ ἀναίμακτος, a Sacrifice of Praise, a reasonable and unbloudy Sacrifice; Sacrificium Mediatoris,

Mal. 1. 11.

Sacrificium Altaris, Sacrificium pretii noſtri, Sacrificium Corporis & Sanguinis Chriſti, the Sacrifice of our Mediatour, the Sacrifice of the Altar, the Sacrifice of our Ranſome, the Sacrifice of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt. It would be infinite to note all the Places and Authors where and by whom it is thus called. The four laſt are * S. Auguſtine's; Προσφορὰ and Θυσία are to be found with Juſtin Martyr and Irenæus, whoſe antiquitie is the Age next the Apoſtles. But, you will ſay, the Fathers even ſo early had ſwerved from the ſtyle of the Apoſtolick Age, during which theſe kind of terms were not uſed; as appears, by that we finde them not any where in their Epiſtles and Writings. But what if the contrary may be evinced, That this language was uſed even while the Apoſtles yet lived? For grant they are neither found in the Acts of the Apoſtles, nor in S. Paul's and S. Peter's Writings; yet this proves not they were not uſed in the Apoſtles times, no more then that Εὐχαριστία was not, whoſe caſe in this point is the ſame with the other. But know, that to confine the Apoſtles Age within the limits of S. Paul's and S. Peter's lives, is a general miſtake: For the Apoſtles Age ended not till S. John's death, Anno Chriſti 99. and ſo laſted as long, within a year or thereabouts, after S. Paul's and S. Peter's ſuffering, as it was from our Saviour's Aſcenſion to their Deaths, that is, one and thirty years. And this too for the moſt part was after the Excidium or Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, in which time it is likely the Church received no little improvement in Eccleſiaſtical Rites and Expreſſions; both becauſe it was the time of her greateſt increaſe; and becauſe, whileſt the Jews Polity ſtood, her Polity, for its full eſtabliſhment, ſtood in ſome ſort ſuſpended. This appears by S. John's Writings, which are the onely Scripture written after that time, and in which we finde two Eccleſiaſtick terms of Λόγος, The Word, for the Deitie of Chriſt, and Κυριακὴ ἡμέρα, The Lord's day, for the firſt day of the week; neither of both ſeeming to have been in uſe in S. Paul's and S. Peter's times: and why may we not believe the like happened in others, and by name in theſe now queſtioned?

* In Enchirid. ad Lauren. cap. 109. & Confeſs. l. 9. c. 12.

Which, that I may not ſeem only to gueſs, I think I can prove by two witneſſes which then lived; the one Clemens, he whoſe name * S. Paul ſays was written in the Book of life; and the other Ignatius. Clemens in his undoubted Epiſtle ad Corinthios (a long time miſſing, but now of late come again to light.) In this Epiſtle the word Προσφορὰ is three times uſed of the Chriſtian Service. Pag. 52. All thoſe duties (ſaith he) which the Lord hath commanded us to doe, we ought to doe them regularly and orderly; κατὰ καιροὺς πεταγμένους τάς τε προσφορὰς καὶ λειτουργίας ἐπιτελεῖσθαι, Our Oblations and divine Services to celebrate them on ſet and appointed times. And a little after, Οἱ οὖν τοῖς προστεταγμένοις καιροῖς ποιοῦντες τὰς προσφορὰς αὐτῶν, εὐπρόσδεκτοί τε καὶ μακάριοι· τοῖς νομίμοις τοῦ Δεσπότου ἀκολουθοῦντες οὐ διαμαρτάνουσιν. They therefore that perform their Oblations on ſet and appointed times, are acceptable to God and bleſſed: for obſerving the Commandments of the Lord, they offend not. The other, Ignatius, in his Epiſtle ad Smyrnenſes, hath both Προσφορὰ and Θυσία. Non licet (ſaith he) abſque Epiſcopo οὔτε βαπτίζειν, οὔτε προσφέρειν, οὔτε θυσίαν προσκομίζειν, οὔτε δοχὴν ἐπιτελεῖν· It is not lawful without the Biſhop either to baptiſe, or to celebrate the Sacrifice, or to * communicate. Where Προσφορὰ he calls, in a ſtricter ſenſe, the firſt part of this ſacred and myſtical Service, to wit, the Thankſgiving, wherein the Bread and the Wine, as I told you, were offered unto God, to agnize his Dominion. Θυσία he calls the myſtical Commemoration of Chriſt's Body and Bloud; and Δοχὴ the receiving and participation of the ſame. For know that Θυσία and Προσφορὰ are ſometimes uſed for the whole Action, and ſometimes thus diſtinguiſhed. Of the genuineneſs of this Epiſtle

* Phil. 4. 3.

* The ancient Latine Tranſlation renders δοχὴν ἐπιτελεῖν Agapen facere, to celebrate the Feaſt of Charity, which at firſt did accompany the Euchariſt.

Epiſtle the learned doubt not; but if any one do, I ſuppoſe they will grant that Theodoret had his genuine Epiſtles. Let them hear then a paſſage which he, in his third Dialogue, cites out of the Epiſtles of Ignatius, againſt ſome Hereticks; Εὐχαριστίας καὶ προσφορᾶς οὐκ ἀποδέχονται, διὰ τὸ μὴ ὁμολογεῖν τὴν Εὐχαριστίαν σάρκα εἶναι τοῦ Σωτῆρος ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, τὴν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν παθοῦσαν. They do not admit, or allow of, Euchariſts and Oblations, becauſe they do not acknowledge the Euchariſt to be the fleſh of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, which ſuffered for our ſins. Here you ſee Oblations and Euchariſts exegetically joyned together. And ſo, I think, I have proved theſe terms of Προσφορὰ and Θυσία to have been in uſe in the Church in the latter part of the Apoſtles Age. Mal. 1. 11

But what if one of them, namely Θυσία, were uſed ſooner, even in S. Paul's and S. Peter's time? In the firſt Epiſtle of Peter, ch. 2. 5. You are (ſaith he, ſpeaking to the Body of the Church) an holy Prieſthood, to offer πνευματικὰς θυσίας ſpiritual Sacrifices to God by Jeſus Chriſt. In the Epiſtle to the Heb. 13. 15. By him (that is, through Chriſt our Altar) let us offer θυσίαν αἰνέσεως διαπαντὸς τῷ Θεῷ, the Sacrifice of praiſe to God continually. Why ſhould I not think S. Paul and S. Peter ſpeak here of the ſolemn and publick Service of Chriſtians, wherein the Paſſion of Chriſt was commemorated? I am ſure the Fathers frequently call this ſacrifice θυσίαν αἰνέσεως the Sacrifice of Praiſe. And in ſome ancient Liturgies, immediately before the Conſecration, the Church gives thanks unto God for chuſing them to be an holy Prieſthood to offer ſacrifices unto him, as it were alluding to S. Peter. Thus you ſee, firſt or laſt or both, the words Προσφορὰ and Θυσία were no ſtrangers to the Apoſtles Age.

I will now make but one Quære, and anſwer it, and ſo conclude this point: Whether theſe words or names were uſed (ſeeing they were uſed) properly, or improperly (καταχρηστικῶς,) of the ſubject we ſpeak of. I anſwer briefly; This Chriſtian Service, as we have defined it, is an Oblation properly: For whereſoever any thing is tendred or preſented unto God, there is truly and properly an * Oblation; be it ſpiritual or viſible, it matters not; for Oblatio is the Genus: and * Irenæus tells me here, Non genus oblationum reprobatum eſt; oblationes enim & illic, oblationes autem & hîc; ſacrificia in populo, ſacrificia & in Eccleſia; ſed ſpecies immutata eſt tantùm: For Offerings in the general are not reprobated; there were Offerings there, (viz. in the Old Teſtament) there are alſo Offerings here, (viz. in the New Teſtament;) there were Sacrifices among the people, (that is, the Jews,) there are Sacrifices alſo in the Church: but the Specification only is changed. But as for Θυσία or Sacrifice, according to its prime ſignification, it ſignifies a Slaughter-offering, as in Hebrew, ſo in Greek of Θύω, macto, to ſlay; as the Angel Acts 10. 13. ſayes to S. Peter, Πέτρε, θῦσον καὶ φάγε, Peter, kill and eat. Now we in our Chriſtian Service ſlay no offering, but commemorate him onely that was ſlain and offered upon the Croſs: Therefore our Service is called Θυσία improperly and Metaphorically. But if Θυσία be Synecdochically taken for an Offering in general, as it is both in the New Teſtament and elſewhere, then the Chriſtian Sacrifice is as truly called Θυσία as Προσφορὰ or Εὐχαριστία.

* Heb. 5. 7. & Ch. 13. 15. 1 Pet. 2. 5.
* lib. 4. c. 34.

Mal. 1. 11.

Chap. V.

The Second Particular, That the Christian Sacrifice is an Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer, proved from Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Clemens Alexand. &c. The Altar, or Holy Table, anciently the place of the publick Prayers of the Church. Prayer, Oblation and Sacrifice promiscuously used by the Fathers when they speak of the Christian Sacrifice. The Conjunction of Prayer and the Eucharist argued from Acts 2. 42. and from Ignatius ad Ephes. The three parts of which the Christian Synaxis consisted.

II. NOW I come to the Second particular contained in my Definition; To prove that the Christian Sacrifice, according to the meaning of the ancient Church, is an Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

My first Author shall be Justin Martyr, in his Dialogue with Tryphon the Jew; where, to the Evasion of the Jews, labouring to bereave the Christians of this Text (by saying it was meant of the Prayers which the dispersed Jews at that time offered unto God in all places where they lived among the Gentiles; which Sacrifices, though they wanted the material Rite, yet were more acceptable unto God in regard of their sincerity then those prophaned ones at Jerusalem; and not that here was meant any Sacrifice which the Gentiles should offer to the God of Israel: to this Evasion) Justin replies, Ὅτι μὲν δὴ εὐχαὶ καὶ εὐχαριστίαι ὑπὸ τῶν ἀξίων γινόμεναι τέλειαι μόναι καὶ εὐάρεστοί εἰσι τῷ Θεῷ θυσίαι, καὶ αὐτὸς φημι· ταῦτα γὰρ μόνα καὶ Χριστιανοὶ παρέλαβον ποιεῖν. That Prayers and Thanksgivings made by those that are worthy are the onely Sacrifices that are perfect and acceptable unto God, I do also affirm; for these alone have Christians learnt by Tradition they should perform. If you ask where, and how; he tells you, ἐπ' ἀναμνήσει δὲ τῆς προφῆς αὐτῶν ξηρᾶς τε καὶ ὑγρᾶς, ἐν ᾗ καὶ τῷ πάθει ὃ πέπονθε δι' αὐτὸ ὁ Θεὸς τὸν Θεὸν [leg. ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ Θεοῦ] μέμνηται· in that thankful remembrance of their food both dry and liquid, wherein also is commemorated the Passion which the Son of God suffered by himself. It is a description of the Eucharist, wherein, as I have already told you, the Bread and Wine were first presented unto God, as the Primitiæ or a kind of First-fruit-Offering, to agnize him the Giver of our Food both dry and liquid; and then consecrated to be the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of Christ.

[See a like passage out of Justin M. in Chap. 8. of this Discourse.]

My next Author shall be Tertullian ad Scap. in the *place before alledged: Sacrificamus (saith he) pro salute Imperatoris;——sed, quomodo præcepit Deus, purâ prece: Non enim eget Deus, Conditor Universitatis, odoris & sanguinis alicujus; hæc enim Dæmoniorum pabula sunt. The Gentiles so thought, that their Gods were refreshed and nourisht with the smell and savour of their Sacrifices. Besides, in his third Book contra Marcionem cap. 22. In omni loco sacrificium nomini meo offertur, & sacrificium mundum, (to wit, saith he) Gloriæ relatio, benedictio, laus & hymni; and Lib. 4. ca. 1. Sacrificium mundum, scilicet simplex oratio de conscientia pura.

* [See Chap. 3. of this Treatise, pag. 355. where these two passages are translated.]

Thirdly, Clemens Alexandrinus Lib. 7. Stromat. ἡμεῖς δι' εὐχῆς τιμῶμεν τὸν Θεόν, We (Christians) honour God by Prayer; καὶ ταύτην τὴν θυσίαν ἀρίστην τε καὶ ἁγιωτάτην ἀναπέμπομεν, τῷ ἁγιωτάτῳ λόγῳ χρώμενοι, δι' οὗ παραλαμβάνομεν τὴν γνῶσιν, And this we send up unto him as the best and holiest Sacrifice, honouring him by that most sacred Word, whereby we receive knowledge; that is, by Christ. Again, ἡ θυσία τῆς Ἐκκλησίας λόγος ἐστὶν ἀπὸ καθαρῶν ἁγίων ψυχῶν ἀναθυμιώμενος, The sacrifice of the Church is an oration exhaled from sanctified souls. He speaks not of the private Prayer of every every Chriſtian, but of the publick Prayer of the Church as a Body, as will be evident to him that reads the place, and appears by the words quoted, Θυσία τ῀ Ἐκκλησίας, The Sacrifice of the Church; and ἀπὸ τῶν ἁγίων ψυχῶν ἀναθυμιώμενον, exhaled (not from a ſanctified ſoul, but) from ſanctified ſouls. For to private Prayer was not given this title of the Chriſtian Sacrifice, but unto the publick, which the Church offered unto God when ſhe preſented her ſelf before him, as one Body in Chriſt, by the myſtical Communication of his Body and Bloud. Mal. 1. 11.

This my next Author, Cyprian, will make plain in his 16. Epiſt. ad Moſen & Maximum. Nos quidem (ſaith he) veſtri diebus & noctibus memores, & quando in ſacrificiis precem cum pluribus facimus, & cum in ſeceſſu privatis precibus oramus: We indeed are mindfull of you day and night; both when we in our Sacrifices pray publickly with others, and when we pray privately in our retirements: where we ſee the Sacrifice of Prayer to be, cùm precem cum pluribus facimus, and diſtinguiſht from that we doe cùm in ſeceſſu privatis precibus oramus.

Theſe Authorities are all within the firſt three hundred years: to which I will adde one of the fourth; Optatus Milevitanus Lib. 6. contra Parmenianum, where he thus expoſtulates with the Donatiſts for breaking and defacing the Altars of the Catholicks: Quid eſt enim tam ſacrilegum (ſaith he) *quàm Altaria Dei (in quibus & vos aliquando obtuliſtis) frangere, radere, removere? in quibus Vota Populi & Membra Chriſti * portata ſunt; quò Deus omnipotens invocatus ſit: For what is there ſo ſacrilegious as to break and deface, nay and quite take away, the Altars of God, whereon ye your ſelves have ſometimes offered; thoſe Altars which did bear both the Prayers of the People and the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, that ſo Almighty God might be invocated?* Mark here Altaria in quibus Vota populi & Membra Chriſti portata ſunt, and gather hence what parts the Chriſtian Sacrifice conſiſted of: Vota populi are the Prayers of the Church, Membra Chriſti the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, which the Prayers were offered with; both of them upon the Altar. For it is worthy your notice, That the ancient Church had no other Place whereat ſhe offered her publick Prayers and Oriſons but that whereon the memory of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt was celebrated; that as they were joyned in their Uſe, ſo they might not be ſevered in their Place.

[* Vide infrà —Fregiſtis etiam Calices, Dominici Sanguinis portatores.]

According to which uſe, and agreeable to this paſſage of Optatus, ſpeaks the Council of Rhemes, commanding the Table of Chriſt (that is, the Altar) to be reverenced and honoured, Quia Corpus Domini ibi conſecratur, & ſanguis ejus hauritur; Preces quoque & Vota populi in conſpectu Dei à Sacerdote offeruntur: Becauſe there the Body of Chriſt is conſecrated, and his Bloud is drunk; there alſo the Prayers and Deſires of the People are offered up by the Prieſt before God.

Furthermore, That the Chriſtian Sacrifice was an Oblation of Prayer, and conſiſted in Invocation, is alſo another way to be evinc'd; namely, Becauſe the Fathers, when they ſpeak thereof, uſe the terms of Prayer, Oblation and Sacrifice promiſcuouſly and interchangeably one for the other, as words importing the ſame thing.

Tertullian Exhort. ad Caſt. diſſwading a Widower from marrying again, becauſe it would be uncomely in the Sacrifice of the Church to make mention (as the manner then was) of more Wives then one, and that too by the mouth of an once-married Prieſt, ſpeaks thus; Neque enim priſtinam poteris odiſſe, cui etiam religioſiorem reſervas affectionem, ut jam recepta apud Dominum, pro cujus ſpiritu poſtulas, pro qua oblationes annuas reddis. Stabis ergo ad Dominum cum tot uxoribus quot in oratione commemoras? & offeres pro duabus? & commendabis illas duas per Sacerdotem de monogamia ordinatum?

Mal. 1. 11.

tum? circundatum virginibus & univiris? & ascendet sacrificium tuum cum liberâ fronte? For thou canst not hate thy former wife, for whom thou reservest a more religious affection, as being received already with the Lord, for whose spirit thou makest request, for whom thou rendrest yearly Oblations. Wilt thou then stand before the Lord with as many wives as in thy prayers thou makest mention of? Wilt thou offer for two? and commend those two by a Priest ordained after his having been once married? encompassed with virgins and with women once married? and shall thy Sacrifice ascend freely and confidently? Here postulatio and oblatio, oratio and offerre, oratio and sacrificium are interchangeably put one for the other. So also, in his Book De Oratione, are Oratio and Sacrificium; where he speaks of the kiss of Peace, and Reconcilement, used at the Eucharist: Quæ oratio (saith he) cum divortio sancti osculi integra? quale sacrificium, à quo sine pace receditur? What Prayer can be complete that is without the holy kiss? what a kinde of Sacrifice is that, from which Christians come away without the kiss of Peace?

Augustine De Civit. Dei Lib. 8. cap. 27. speaking of the honour of Martyrs; Nec Martyribus (saith he) sacrificia constituimus —— quis audivit aliquando fidelium, stantem Sacerdotem ad Altare (etiam super sanctum corpus Martyris) ad Dei honorem cultúmque constructum, dicere in Precibus, Offero tibi sacrificium, Petre, vel Paule? &c. We do not sacrifice to Martyrs ——Who among the faithful, while the Priest was standing at the Altar built for the honour and worship of God, (nay though it were over the holy body of the Martyr,) I say, who ever heard the Priest to say thus in Prayer, To thee, O Peter, or O Paul, do I offer Sacrifice? Here Sacrificium is expounded by Preces, and Preces put for Sacrificium.

And Lib. 22. cap. 8. concerning one Hesperius, a man of quality in the City whereof Austin was Bishop, who, by the affliction of his cattel and servants, perceiving his Country-Grange liable to some malignant power of evil spirits, Rogavit nostros, (saith S. Austin) me absente, Presbyteros, ut aliquis eorum illo pergeret, cujus orationibus cederent. Perrexit unus, obtulit ibi sacrificium corporis Christi, orans, quantum potuit, ut cessaret illa vexatio. Deo protinus miserante cessavit. He entreated our Presbyters, in my absence, that some one of them would goe to the place, through the prevalency of whose Prayers he hoped the evil spirits would be forced away. Accordingly one of them went thither, and offered there the Sacrifice of Christ's Body, praying earnestly with all his might for the ceasing of that sore affliction: and it ceased forthwith through God's mercy. The Priest was entreated to pray there; he went, and offered sacrifice, and so prayed.

For this reason the Christian Sacrifice is among the Fathers, by way of distinction, called Θυσία αἰνέσεως, Sacrificium laudis, that is, of Confession and Invocation of God; namely, to difference it from those of Bloud and Incense. Augustine Lib. 1. contra Adversarium Legis & Prophetarum cap. 20. Ecclesia immolat Deo in corpore Christi sacrificium laudis, ex quo Deus Deorum locutus vocavit terram à Solis ortu usque ad occasum: The Church offereth to God the Sacrifice of praise, ever since the fulfilling of that in Psal. 50. The God of Gods hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the Sun to the going down thereof. Again, Epist. 86. Sacrificium laudis ab Ecclesia toto orbe diffusa diebus omnibus immolatur: The Sacrifice of Praise is continually offered by the Christian Church dispersed all the world over. And elsewhere. And amongst the Greek Fathers this term is so frequent as I shall not need to quote any of them.

Now this joyning of the Prayers of the Church with the mystical commemoration of Christ in the Sacrament of his Body and Bloud, was no after-Invention of the Fathers, but took its original from the Apostles times, and the very beginning of Christianity: For so we reade of the first believers Acts 2. 42. that they were προσκαρτεροῦντες τῇ διδαχῇ τῶν Ἀποστόλων, καὶ τῇ κοινωνίᾳ, καὶ τῇ κλάσει τοῦ ἄρτου, καὶ ταῖς προσευχαῖς· which the Vulgar Latine turns, Erant autem perseverantes in doctrina Apostolorum, & communicatione fractionis panis, & orationibus; And they persevered in the doctrine of the Apostles, and in the communication of the breaking of bread, and Prayers: but the Syriack, Perseverantes erant in doctrina Apostolorum, ומשרותהון דהוו בצלותא ובקציא דאוכרסטיא; hoc est, Assidui erant in audiendis Apostolis, & sacrificio Christiano celebrando: They persevered in the doctrine of the Apostles, and communicated in Prayer and in breaking of the Eucharist; that is, They were assiduous and constant in hearing the Apostles, and in celebrating the Christian Sacrifice. Both which Translations teach us, that κλάσις τοῦ ἄρτου and προσευχαὶ, Breaking of Bread and Prayers, are to be referred to κοινωνία Communion, as the Exegesis thereof; namely, that this Communion of the Church consisted in the Breaking of Bread and Prayers; and so the conjunction καὶ to be Exegetically taken, as if the Greek were rendred thus, Erant perseverantes in (audienda) doctrina Apostolorum, & in communicatione, videlicet, fractione panis, & orationibus. And who knows not that the Synaxis of the ancient Christians consisted of these three parts, Of hearing the Word of God, of Prayers, and Commemoration of Christ in the Eucharist? Our Translation therefore here is not so right, which refers κοινωνία to Ἀποστόλων, and translates it, The fellowship of the Apostles.

and

Mal. 1. 11

The Antiquity also of this conjunction we speak of appears out of Ignatius, in his Epistle to the Ephesians, where speaking of the damage which Schismaticks incurre by dividing themselves from the communion of the Church, he utters it in this manner; Μηδεὶς πλανάσθω. ἐὰν μή τις ἐντὸς ᾖ τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου, ὑστερεῖται τοῦ ἄρτου τοῦ Θεοῦ. Εἰ γὰρ ἑνὸς καὶ δευτέρου προσευχὴ τοσαύτην ἰσχὺν ἔχει, ὥστε τὸν Χριστὸν ἐν αὐτοῖς εἶναι, πόσῳ μᾶλλον ἡ τε τοῦ Ἐπισκόπου καὶ πάσης τῆς Ἐκκλησίας προσευχὴ, σύμφωνος ἀνιοῦσα πρὸς Θεὸν, πείσει παραχεθῆναι αὐτοῖς πάντα τὰ ἐν Χριστῷ αἰτήματα; Let no man (saith he) deceive himself: unless a man be within the Altar, he is deprived of the Bread of God. And if the prayer of one or two be of that force as to set Christ in the midst of them, how much more shall the joynt prayer of the Bishop and whole Church, sent up unto God, prevail with him to grant us all our requests in Christ? These words of Ignatius directly imply that the Altar was the place as of the Bread of God, so of the Publick Prayers of the Church; and that they were so nearly linked together, that he that was not within the Altar, (that is, who should be divided therefrom) had no benefit of either.

Chap. VI.

The Third Particular, That the Christian Sacrifice is an Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer through Jesus Christ Commemorated in the Creatures of Bread and Wine. Sacrifices under the Law were Rites to invocate God by. That the Eucharist is a Rite to give thanks and invocate God by, proved from several Testimonies of the Fathers and the Greek Liturgies. A passage out of Mr. Perkins agreeable to this notion. What meant by that usual expression of the Ancients speaking of the Eucharist, [Through Jesus Christ the great High Priest.] By Nomen Dei in Mal. 1. Justin M. and Irenæus understood Christ. Why in the Eucharist Prayers were to be directed to God the Father.

THE

Mal. 1. 11.

III. THE ſecond Particular thus proved, the Third comes next in place, which is, That this Oblation of Thankſgiving and Prayer was made through Jeſus Chriſt commemorated in the creatures of Bread and Wine: Namely, they believed that our Bleſſed Saviour ordained this Sacrament of his Body and Bloud as a Rite to bleſs and invocate his Father by, in ſtead of the manifold and bloudy Sacrifices of the Law. For, * That thoſe bloudy Sacrifices of the Law were Rites to invocate God by, is a Truth, though not ſo vulgarly known, yet undeniable; and may, on the Gentiles behalf, be proved out of Homer and other Authors; * on the Jews, by that ſpeech of Saul, 1 *Sam.*13. 12. when Samuel expoſtulated with him for having offered a burnt-offering: I ſaid, ſaith he, The Philiſtines will come down upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made ſupplication to the Lord; I forced my ſelf therefore, and offered a burnt-offering: upon which place Kimchi notes, that על ידי העולות היתה תפלתם ברוב, Sacrifice was a Rite or Medium, whereby Prayer was uſually preſented unto God. The ſame is likewiſe true of their Hymns and Doxologies, as is to be ſeen 2 *Chron.*29. 27. and by the words of the Chaldee Paraphraſt Jonathan, upon Exod. 38. 8. concerning the women that aſſembled at the door of the Tabernacle: The Women (ſaith he) which came לצלאה to pray, ſtood at the door of the Tabernacle * by their Oblation, ומשבחן ומודן and they praiſed and confeſſed; afterwards they returning to their husbands, brought forth righteous children.

It is further confirmed for Invocation in general, by that which the Scripture ſo often reports of Abraham and Iſaac, * That they built Altars where they came, and there they called upon the name of the Lord: But the Altar was a place for Sacrifice.

In ſtead therefore of the ſlaying of Beaſts and burning of Incenſe, whereby they called upon the Name of God in the Old Teſtament; the Fathers, I ſay, believed our Saviour ordained this Sacrament of Bread and Wine, as a Rite whereby to give thanks and make ſupplication to his Father in his Name.

The myſtery of which Rite they took to be this: That as Chriſt, by preſenting his Death and Satisfaction to his Father, continually intercedes for us in Heaven; ſo the Church on Earth ſemblably approches the Throne of Grace, by repreſenting Chriſt unto his Father in theſe holy Myſteries of his Death and Paſſion. Veteres enim, (ſaith Caſſander) in hoc myſtico ſacrificio, non tam peracta ſemel in Cruce oblationis, cujus hîc memoria celebratur, quàm perpetui Sacerdotii & jugis ſacrificii, quod quotidie in Cœlis ſempiternus Sacerdos offert, rationem habuerunt; cujus hîc Imago per ſolennes Miniſtrorum preces exprimitur. The Ancients did not in this myſtical Sacrifice ſo much conſider and reſpect the Oblation once made upon the Croſs, (the memory whereof is here celebrated,) as the everlaſting Prieſthood of Chriſt and the perpetual Sacrifice which he, our High Prieſt for ever, doth continually offer in Heaven; the reſemblance whereof is here on earth expreſt by the ſolemn prayers of God's Miniſters.

This a Reverend and famous Divine of bleſſed memory, once of this Society, and interr'd in this place, ſaw more clearly, or expreſt more plainly, then any other Reformed Writer I have yet ſeen, in his Demonſtratio Problematis, and title de Sacrificio Miſſæ; where he ſpeaks thus: Veteres Cœnam Domini, ſeu totam cœnæ actionem, vocârunt Sacrificium, variis de cauſis: ——quia eſt commemoratio, adeóque repræſentatio Deo Patri, ſacrificii Chriſti in cruce immolati: The ancient Fathers uſed to call the Supper of the Lord, or the whole action of the Supper, a Sacrifice; and that for divers reaſons—Becauſe it is a Commemoration, and alſo a Repreſentation unto God the Father,

of

*[See this more fully proved in the following Diſcourſe.]

*See 1 *Sam.*7.9. Ezra 6. 10. Pſal. 116. 13. Prov. 15. 8. Baruch 1.10, 11. 1 *Mac.*12. 11. 2 *Chron.*7. 12.

* Ab. Ezra upon this place obſerves, נתנו מראותיהם נדבה that theſe religious women deſpiſing the vain delights of this world, gave, as a Free-will-offering for the making of the Laver, their Looking-glaſſes, by which they were wont to dreſs and adorn themſelves; not caring to uſe them any longer for ſuch purpoſes.

*Gen.12.7. 13. 4. 26.25. 33.20.

of the Sacrifice of Christ offered upon the Cross. He goes on, Hoc modo fideles etiam inter orandum Christum offerunt Deo Patri victimam pro suis peccatis, dum scilicet mente affectúque ad sacrificium ejus unicum feruntur, ut Deum sibi habeant faciántque propitium: In this sense the Faithful in their prayers do offer Christ as a Sacrifice unto God the Father for their sins, in being wholly carried away in their minds and affections unto that onely and true Sacrifice, thereby to procure and obtain God's favour to them. That which every Christian doth mentally and vocally, when he commends his prayers to God the Father through Jesus Christ, making mention of his death and satisfaction; that in the publick service of the Church was done by that Rite which our Saviour commanded to be used in Commemoration of him. Mal. 1. 11.

These things thus explained, Let us now see by what Testimonies and Authorities it may be proved the ancient Church had this meaning. I will begin with S. Ambrose, because his Testimony is punctual to our explication. Offic. lib. 1. cap. 48. Antè (saith he) *Agnus offerebatur, offerebatur & Vitulus: nunc Christus offertur; sed offertur quasi homo, quasi recipiens passionem; & * offert seipsum quasi sacerdos, ut peccata nostra dimittat: hîc in imagine, ibi in veritate, ubi apud Patrem pro nobis quasi advocatus intervenit. Heretofore (under the Law) was wont to be offered a Lamb, and a Bullock: (Exod. 29.) But now (under the Gospel) Christ is offered; but he is offered as a man, and as one that suffered; and he also as a Priest offers himself, for the forgiveness of our sins. Here (on earth) this is done in a resemblance and representation; there (in Heaven) in truth, where he as our Advocate intercedes for us with his Father.* And in his Missa or Liturgie, after the confractorium, the Priest prayes in this manner; Ipsius præceptum est, Domine, quod agimus, in cujus nunc te præsentiâ postulamus: Da sacrificio Authorem suum, ut impleatur fides rei in sublimitate mysterii; ut sicuti veritatem cœlestis sacrificii exsequimur, sic veritatem Dominici corporis & sanguinis hauriamus. It is his Commandment, O Lord, that we are now a doing, in whose presence we now pray unto thee: Adde unto the Sacrifice the Author and Instituter thereof, that the belief of the thing may be completed in the sublimity of the Mystery; that as we thus express the truth of the heavenly Sacrifice, so we may partake of the truth of the Lord's Body and Bloud.

*In Lit. Chrysost. σὺ γὰρ εἶ ὁ προσφέρων, καὶ ὁ προσφερόμενος, Thou, O Christ, art both the Offerer, and the Offering it self.

An Author which Cassander in his Consultations quotes without name, expresses this mystery fully; Non impiè à nobis (saith he) *Christus occiditur, sed piè sacrificatur; & hoc modo mortem Domini annunciamus donec veniat: hoc enim hîc per eum humiliter agimus in terris, quod pro nobis ipse potenter (sicut filius pro sua reverentia exaudiendus) agit in Cœlis; ubi apud Patrem pro nobis quasi advocatus intervenit; cui est pro nobis intervenire, carnem quam pro nobis & de nobis sumpsit, Deo Patri quodammodo pro nobis ingerere. Christ is not wickedly slain by us, but piously sacrificed; and thus we shew the Lord's death till he come: For we by him doe that here on earth in a meaner way, which he (as a Son to be heard for his reverence or piety) doth for us in heaven powerfully and prevailingly, where he as our Advocate mediates for us with the Father, whose office it is to intercede for us, and to present that flesh which he took for us and of us, to God the Father in our behalf.

* So the Vulg. Lat. Hebr. 5. 7. renders εἰσακουσθεὶς ἀπὸ τῆς εὐλαβείας, which (according to Grotius and others) should be rendred, Exauditus (i. liberatus) à metu. The like phrase in Psal. 22. 22.

My next Author shall be Eusebius, Demonstrat. Evangel. lib. 1. cap. 10. where mentioning that of the 23. Psalm, Thou hast prepared a Table before me, &c. Thou anointedst my head with oyl; Herein, saith he, are plainly signified the Mystical unction, καὶ τὰ σεμνὰ τῆς Χριστοῦ τραπέζης δύματα, and the venerable Sacrifices of Christ's table; (he means the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of Christ) δι' ὧν καλλιερῦντες, πᾶς ἀναίμους καὶ λογικὰς αὐτῷ τε προσηνεῖς θυσίας διὰ παντὸς βίου τῷ ὑπὲρ πάντων προσφέρειν Θεῷ, διὰ τοῦ πάν-τῷ πάντων ἀνωτάτῳ Ἀρχιερέως αὐτοῦ, δι' ἃ διδαγμάτα, whereby propitiating God, we are taught to offer up all our life long unto the Lord of all, unbloudy and reasonable Sacrifices, most acceptable to him, by his most glorious High-Priest, Jesus Christ. Here Eusebius affirms that Christians are taught to offer unto God reasonable and unbloudy sacrifices, that is, Prayer and Thanksgiving, διὰ σεμνῶν τῆς Χριστοῦ τραπέζης θυμάτων καλλιερῦντες, propitiating, or finding favour with God, through the venerable mysteries of Christ's Table. For καλλιερεῖν is, litare, i. e. propitiare, or placare Numen, votum impetrare, εὐαρεστεῖν, gratum facere.

Mal. 1. 11.

Next I produce Cyrill of Jerusalem (or more likely John his successour) Author of those five Catecheses Mystagogicæ: In the last of which, relating and expounding the meaning of that which was said or done in the celebration of the Eucharist, according to the use of his time, amongst other things he says thus; Μετὰ τὸ ἀπαρτισθῆναι τὴν πνευματικὴν θυσίαν, τὴν ἀναίμακτον λατρείαν, After that Spiritual Sacrifice, that unbloudy Service, that is, After the Thanksgiving and Invocation of the Holy Ghost upon the Bread and the Wine, to make it the Body and Bloud of Christ, (of which he was speaking before) was done, *ὑπὲρ τῆς θυσίας ἐκείνης τοῦ ἱλασμοῦ παρακαλοῦμεν τὸν Θεὸν ὑπὲρ κοινῆς τοῦ Ἐκκλησιῶν εἰρήνης, ὑπὲρ τῆς τοῦ κόσμου εὐσταθείας, ὑπὲρ βασιλέων, &c. We do over that Propitiatory Sacrifice beseech God for the common peace of the Churches, for the good estate of the World, for Kings, their Armies and Confederates, for the sick and the afflicted, and in fine for all that are in an helpless condition. And this is the manner of the Greek Liturgies, immediately upon the Consecration of the Dona (viz. the Bread and Wine) to be the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of Christ, and the Commemoration thereon of his Passion, Resurrection and Ascension, *to offer to the Divine Majesty, as it were over the Lamb of God then lying upon the Table, their Supplications and Prayers, * for the whole state of Christ's Church and all sorts and degrees therein, together with all other their suits and requests; and that ever and anon interposing the word προσφέρομεν, we offer unto thee, for these and these, that is, we commemorate Christ in this mystical Rite for them. This Prayer therefore our Author Cyrill in the place afore-quoted calls Δέησιν τῆς ἁγίας καὶ φρικωδεστάτης προκειμένης θυσίας, the prayer of the holy and most worthily dreaded Sacrifice lying then upon the Table: and saith, that it is a most powerfull Prayer, as that wherein we offer unto the Divine Majesty Χριστὸν ἐσφαγιασμένον ὑπὲρ τῶν ἡμετέρων ἁμαρτημάτων, Christ that was once slain for our sins, ἱλεούμενοι ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν καὶ ἡμῶν τὸν φιλάνθρωπον, propitiating the merciful God for our selves and others we pray for.

* 1 Mac. 12. 11. ἐφ' ὧν προσφέρομεν θυσιῶν, Super iis quæ offerimus Sacrificiis.

* Προσευχὰς ὑπὲρ τὰ θεῖα σύμβολα χρηστοεδῶς ὁπλέγειν, Dionys. Areop. Ep. ad Demoph. Therapeutam.

* Θυσίαις ἀναίμοις καὶ μυστικαῖς ἱερουργίαις τὸ θεῖον ἱλάσκονται ὑπὲρ τῆς κοινῆς εἰρήνης, ὑπὲρ τῆς Ἐκκλησίας τοῦ Θεοῦ, αὐτοῦ τε Βασιλέως, ὑπὲρ τοσούτων αἰτίας, παίδων τ' αὐτοῦ θεοφιλῶν, ἱκετηρίους ἐυχὰς τῷ Θεῷ προσαναφέροντες. Euseb. de Vita Constant. lib. 4. c. 45.

And this is that, if I mistake not, which Tertullian means lib. de Oratione cap. 11. where he says of the Christians, that they did Dominicâ passione orare. Nos vero (inquit) non attollimus tantum [manus,] sed etiam expandimus; & Dominicâ passione orantes confitemur Christo, id est, Christum; We do not onely lift up, but spread forth our hands, and praying with the Lord's passion, (that is, by the Commemoration thereof in the Eucharist) confess unto Christ, that is, confess and acknowledge Christ; according to the Dialect of the Scripture, Confitemur Domino for Confitemur Dominum: For by commemorating Christ and offering our Prayers to the Father in his Name, we confess and acknowledge him to be our Mediator. So Eusebius de Laude Const. calls it, ὁμολογίαν Χριστοῦ· εὐχὰς δι' αὐτοῦ πρὸς τὸν τῶν ὅλων Θεὸν ἀναπέμπειν, To send up Prayers in his Name to the God of all.

The same with Tertullian means S. Austin, describing the Christian Sacrifice to be, immolare Deo in Corpore Christi sacrificium Laudis, lib. 1. contra Adver-

Adversarium Legis & Prophetarum, cap. 20. Ecclesia (saith he) immolat Deo, in Corpore Christi, sacrificium Laudis, ex quo Deus Deorum locutus vocavit terram à Solis ortu usque ad occasum, Psalm. 50. 1. The Church offereth unto God the Sacrifice of Praise in the Body of Christ, ever since the fulfilling of that in Psal. 50. The God of Gods hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the Sun to the going down thereof. Mal. 1. 11.

Lastly, That the representation of the Body and Bloud of Christ in this Christian Service was intended and used as a Rite whereby to find grace and favour with God, when the Church addressed her self unto him, (which is that I undertook to prove,) is apparent by a saying of Origen Hom. 13. in Levit. where treating of the Shew-bread, which was continually set before the Lord with Incense, for a memorial of the children of Israel, that is, to put God in mind of them, he makes it in this respect to have been a lively figure of the Christians Eucharist; for, saith he, Ista est commemoratio sola quæ propitium facit Deum hominibus; That's the onely Commemoration which renders God propitious to men.

All these Testimonies have been expres for our purpose, That the Thanksgivings and Prayers of the Church in the Christian Sacrifice were offered unto the Divine Majestie through Christ commemorated in the Symbols of Bread and Wine, as by a Medium whereby to find acceptance.

There is, besides these, an usual expression of the Fathers, when they speak of the Eucharist; which though it be not direct and punctual, as the former, yet I verily believe it aimed at the same Mysterie: namely, when they say that in this Sacrifice they offer Praise and Prayer to God the Father, through Jesus Christ the great High-Priest. I will quote an Example or two. Clemens, or the Author of the Constitutions, lib. 2. cap. 29. al. 25. Ὑμεῖς σήμερον, ὦ Ἐπίσκοποι, ἐστὲ τῷ λαῷ ὑμῶν ἱερεῖς Λευῖται ——παρεστῶτες τῷ θυσιαστηρίῳ Κυρίου τοῦ Θεοῦ ἡμῶν, You, (saith he) O Bishops, are now unto your people as Priests and Levites,——standing at the Altar of the Lord our God, καὶ προσάγοντες αὐτῷ τὰς λογικὰς καὶ ἀναιμάκτους θυσίας, διὰ Ἰησοῦ τοῦ μεγάλου Ἀρχιερέως, and offering unto him reasonable and unbloudy Sacrifices through Jesus Christ the great High-Priest.

The same Clemens, in a more undoubted writing of his, to wit his Epist. ad Corinthios, quoting that of the 50. Psalm after the Septuagint, Θυσία αἰνέσεως δοξάσει με, The sacrifice of Praise shall glorifie me; καὶ ἐκεῖ ὁδὸς ἣ δείξω αὐτῷ τὸ σωτήριον τοῦ Θεοῦ,——and there is the way wherein I shall shew to him that sacrificeth the salvation of God; Αὕτη ἡ ὁδὸς, This is the way, saith Clemens, that is, the Sacrifice of Praise is the way, ἐν ᾗ εὑρομεν τὸ σωτήριον ἡμῶν, Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν, τὸν ἀρχιερέα τῶν προσφορῶν ἡμῶν, wherein we have found our salvation, Jesus Christ, the High-Priest of all our offerings. The Fathers are wont to expound this place of the Eucharist; and therefore I doubt not but Clemens means of the same, and tells us that in this Sacrifice Christ, the High-Priest of our offerings, is found, that is, represented and commemorated.

In the same style speaks Just. Mar. Dial. cum Tryphone. Οὐδὲ ἔν ὅλως ἔστι τὸ γένος ἀνθρώπων, εἴτε βαρβάρων, εἴτε Ἑλλήνων, εἴτε ἁπλῶς ὁπωνοῦν ὀνόματι προσαγορευομένων——ἐν οἷς μὴ διὰ τοῦ ὀνόματος τοῦ σταυρωθέντος Ἰησοῦ εὐχαὶ καὶ εὐχαριστίαι τῷ Πατρὶ καὶ ποιητῇ τῶν ὅλων γίνονται· There is not any sort of men in the world, whether Barbarians, or Greeks, or of what denomination soever——amongst whom Prayers and Thanksgivings are not made to the Father and Maker of all through the name of the crucified Jesus. He is speaking of the Christian sacrifice, and our Text in Malachi, In omni loco offeretur Incensum Nomini meo: where note that by Nomen Dei the Name of God he understands Christ, through whom in this Sacrifice our devotions

Mal. 1. 11. are offered. So doth Irenæus and others. Iren. lib. 4. cap. 33. Quod eſt aliud Nomen quod in Gentibus glorificatur, quàm quod eſt Domini noſtri, per quem glorificatur Pater, & glorificatur homo? ——quoniam ergo Nomen Filii proprium Patris eſt, & in Deo omnipotente, per Jeſum Chriſtum offert Eccleſia; bene ait ſecundùm utraque, Et in omni loco offeretur Incenſum Nomini meo, & Sacrificium purum. What other Name is there that is glorified among the Gentiles, then the Name of our Lord, by whom the Father is glorified, and man alſo is glorified? ——And becauſe the Name of the Son is the Father's, and in Almighty God, the Church offers through Jeſus Chriſt; well ſaith the Prophet in reſpect of both, And in every place Incenſe ſhall be offered to my Name, and a pure Sacrifice.

Now how this Incenſe and Sacrifice, which the Prophet ſaith the Gentiles ſhould offer to the Name of God, may be expounded, Offered by the Name of God, to wit, by Chriſt, Origen. lib. 8. contra Celſ. will inform us; τὸν ἕνα Θεὸν, καὶ τὸν ἕνα υἱὸν αὐτοῦ καὶ λόγον καὶ εἰκόνα, ταῖς κατὰ τὸ δυνατὸν ἡμῶν ἱκεσίαις καὶ ἀξιώσεσι σέβομεν, προσαγόντες τῷ Θεῷ τῶν ὅλων τὰς εὐχὰς διὰ τοῦ μονογενοῦς αὐτοῦ, ΤΟΝ ΠΡΩΤΟΝ ΠΡΟΣΦΕΡΟΜΕΝ ΑΥΤΑΣ, αἰτούντες αὐτὸν, ἱλασμὸν ὄντα [περὶ] τῶν ἁμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν, προσαγαγεῖν ὡς Ἀρχιερέα καὶ εὐχὰς καὶ τὰς θυσίας καὶ τὰς ἐντεύξεις ἡμῶν τῷ ὄντι πάσι Θεῷ. We worſhip, (ſaith he) as we are able, with our Prayers and Supplications the one God and his onely Son, the Word and Image of God, Jeſus Chriſt; offering to the God of the Univerſe our Prayers by his onely-begotten Son, TO WHOM WE FIRST OFFER THEM, beſeeching him, that he, being the Propitiation (i. Propitiatour) for our ſins, would vouchſafe, as our High-Prieſt, to preſent our PRAYERS and SACRIFICES and INTERCESSIONS to God moſt High. The ſumme whereof is this, That which we offer to the Father by Chriſt, we offer firſt to Chriſt; that he, as our High-Prieſt, might preſent it to his Father. More paſſages hath Origen in the ſame Books of this kind.

But I will not weary you too much in this rugged way; Only I will adde, that out of this which we have hitherto diſcourſed and proved, may be underſtood the meaning and reaſon of that Decree of the third Council of Carthage and Hippo, namely, Ut nemo in Precibus, vel Patrem pro Filio, vel Filium pro Patre, nominet: Et cum Altari aſſiſtitur [N. B.] ſemper ad Patrem dirigatur oratio: That none in their Prayers ſhould name either the Son for the Father, or the Father for the Son: And that, when they ſtand at the Altar, they ought always to direct their Prayer to the Father. The reaſon, Becauſe
1 Cor. 8. 6. the Father is properly the Object εἰς ὃν, to whom; the Son onely δι' ὃν, by whom, in this Myſtical ſervice; and therefore to direct here our Prayers and Thankſgivings to the Son, were to pervert the order of the Myſtery, which is, as hath been proved, An Oblation of Praiſe and Prayer to God the Father through the Interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt, repreſented in the Symbols of Bread and Wine.

Chap. VII.

The Fourth Particular, That the Euchariſt is a Sacrifice, according to the ſtyle of the ancient Church. How Sacrifices are diſtinguiſhed from all other Offerings. A Sacrifice defined. The univerſal Cuſtome of mankind to contract or confirm Covenants and Friendſhip by eating and drinking together: This illuſtrated from Teſtimonies of Scripture and humane Authors. Sacrifices were Federal Feaſts, wherein God and men did feaſt together in token of amity and friendſhip. What was God's Meſſe or portion in the Sacrifices. The different Laws of Burnt-offerings, Sin and Treſpaſſe-offerings, offerings, and the Peace-offerings. Burnt-offerings had Meat and Drink-offerings annexed to them, and were regularly accompanied with Peace-offerings. That Sacrifices were Feaſts of amity between God and men, proved by four Arguments. The reaſon of theſe phraſes, Secare fœdus and Icere fœdus. That in theſe Sacrificial Feaſts (and alſo in the Euchariſt) God is to be conſidered as the Convivator, and Man as the Conviva. This cleared by ſeveral paſſages in this and the following Chapter. Mal. 1. 11.

THE Fourth Particular propounded was this, That the Sacrament of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, or Lord's Supper, is a Sacrifice, according to the ſtyle of the ancient Church. IV.

It is one thing to ſay, That the Lord's Supper is a Sacrifice, and another to ſay, That Chriſt is properly ſacrificed therein. Theſe are not the ſame: For there may be a Sacrifice which is a repreſentation of another Sacrifice, and yet a Sacrifice too. And ſuch a Sacrifice is this of the New Teſtament, a Sacrifice wherein another Sacrifice, that of Chriſt's death upon the Croſs, is commemorated. Thus the Papiſts gain nothing by this Notion of Antiquity, and our aſſerting the ſame: For their Tenet is, That Chriſt in this Sacrifice is really and properly ſacrificed; which we ſhall ſhew in due time that the Ancients never meant.

To begin with this, That the Supper or Myſtical Rite of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt is a Sacrifice: As in the Old Teſtament the name of Sacrifice was otherwhile given to the whole Action in which the Rite was uſed, ſometimes to the Rite alone: ſo in the Notion and Language of the ancient Church, ſometimes the whole Action or Chriſtian Service (wherein the Lord's Supper was a part) is comprehended under that name, as ye have already heard; ſometimes the Rite of the Sacred Supper it ſelf is ſo termed, and truly, as you ſhall now hear.

The reſolution of this Point depends altogether upon the true Definition of a Sacrifice, as it is diſtinguiſhed from all other Offerings. Which, though it be ſo neceſſary that all diſputation without it is vain; yet ſhall we not find that either party intereſſed in this queſtion hath been ſo exact therein as were to be wiſhed. This appears by the differing Definitions given and confuted by Divines on both ſides: The reaſon of which defect is, becauſe neither are deduced from the Notion of Scripture, but built upon other conceptions. Let us ſee therefore if it may be learned out of Scripture what that is which the Scripture, in a ſtrict and ſpecial ſenſe, calls a Sacrifice.

Every Sacrifice is an Oblation or Offering: but every Offering is not a Sacrifice, in that ſtrict and proper acception we ſeek. For Tithes, Firſt-fruits, and all other called Heave-offerings in the Law, and whatſoever indeed is conſecrated unto God, are Oblations or Offerings; but none of them Sacrifices, nor ever ſo called in the Old Teſtament. What Offerings are then called Sacrifices? I anſwer, Burnt-offerings, Sin-offerings, Treſpaſs-offerings and Peace-offerings. Theſe, and no other, are called by that name.

Out of theſe therefore muſt we pick the true and proper ratio and nature of a Sacrifice. It is true, indeed, that theſe Sacrifices were Offerings of beaſts, of beeves, of ſheep, of goats, of fowls: but the ratio or eſſence of any thing conſiſts not in the matter thereof; as the Gowns we wear are ſtill the ſame kind of apparel, though made of differing ſtuffs. Theſe Sacrifices alſo were ſlain, and offered by Fire and Incenſe: but neither is the modus of any thing the ratio or eſſential Form thereof. That therefore may have the nature and formale of a Sacrifice which conſiſts of another matter, and is offered after another and differing manner. Thoſe we call Sacraments of the Old Teſtament, Circumciſion and the Paſſover, were by effuſion of bloud; ours are not, and yet we eſteem them nevertheleſs true Sacraments: So it may be here. Mal. 1. 11.

To hold you therefore no longer in ſuſpence: A Sacrifice, I think, ſhould be defined thus; An Offering whereby the offerer is made partaker of his God's Table, in token of Covenant and Friendſhip with him, &c. or more explicately thus; An Offering unto the Divine Majeſty of that which is given for the Food of man, that the offerer partaking thereof might, as by way of pledge, be certified of his acceptation into Covenant and fellowſhip with his God, by eating and drinking at his Table. S. Auguſtine comes toward this Notion, when he defines a Sacrifice (though in a larger ſenſe) Quod Deo nuncupamus, reddimus & dedicamus, hoc fine, ut ſanctâ ſocietate ipſi adhæreamus; That which we devote, dedicate and render unto God, for this end, that we may have an holy ſociety and fellowſhip with him. For to have ſociety and fellowſhip with God, what is it elſe but to be in league and covenant with him?

In a word, a Sacrifice is Oblatio fœderalis. For the true and right underſtanding whereof, we muſt know, That it was the univerſal cuſtome of mankind, and ſtill remains in uſe, to contract covenants and make leagues and friendſhip by eating and drinking together. When Iſaac made a covenant with Abimelech the King of Gerar, the Text ſaith, He made him and thoſe that were with him a Feaſt, and they did eat and drink, and roſe up betimes in the morning, and ſware one to another, Gen. 26. 30, 31. When Jacob made a covenant with Laban, after they had ſworn together, he made him a Feaſt, and called his brethren to eat Bread, Gen. 31. 54. When David made a league with Abner, upon his promiſe to bring all Iſrael unto him, David made Abner and the men that came with him a Feaſt, 2 Sam. 3. 20. * Hence in the Hebrew tongue a Covenant is called בְּרִית of בָּרָה To eat; as if they ſhould ſay An eating: which derivation is ſo natural, that it deſerves to be preferred before that from the * other ſignification of the ſame Verb, which is To chuſe. And this will ſuffice for the cuſtome of the Hebrews.

* Vide etiam Joſ. 9. 14, 15. Pſal. 41. 10. Vir pacis meæ, in quo fidebam, qui comedebat panem meum.
* בָּרָה & בְּרִית Eligere, quia Fœdus pangitur conditionibus certis quas duæ partes eligunt.

Now for the Gentiles, Herodotus tells us, the Perſians were wont to contract leagues and friendſhip inter Vinum & Epulas, in a full Feaſt, whereat their wives, children and friends were preſent. The like Tacitus reports of the Germans. Amongſt the Greeks and other Nations, the Covenantees ate Bread and Salt together. Unto which comes near that Ceremonie ſomewhere uſed at Weddings, that the Bridegroom, when he comes home from Church, takes a piece of Cake, taſts it, then gives it to his Bride to taſt it likewiſe; as a token of a Covenant made between them. The Emperour of Ruſſia at this day, when he would ſhew extraordinary grace and favour unto any, ſends him Bread and Salt from his Table: And when he invited Baron Sigiſmond, the Emperour Ferdinand's Ambaſſador, he did it in this form; Sigiſmunde, comedes ſal & panem noſtrum nobiſcum, Sigiſmond, you ſhall eat our Bread and Salt with us. Hence that Symbol of Pythagoras, Ἄρτον μὴ κατεσθίειν, Break no bread, is interpreted by Eraſmus and others to mean Break no friendſhip. Moreover the Egyptians, Thracians, and Libyans in ſpecial, are ſaid to have uſed to make leagues and contract friendſhip by preſenting a cup of Wine one to another; which cuſtome we find ſtill in uſe amongſt our Weſtern Nations. And what is our I'le pledge you, but I take it as a pledge of league and friendſhip from you? Yea it is a rule in Law, that if a man drink to him againſt whom he hath an accuſation of ſlander or other verbal injurie, he loſes his Action, becauſe it is ſuppoſed he is reconciled with him.

Vide Turcicum ritum apud Busbequium, Epiſt. 1. 11.

Such now as were theſe Covenant-feaſtings and eatings and drinkings in token of league and amity between men and men, ſuch are Sacrifices between

Man

Man and his God; Epula fœderales, Federal feasts, wherein God deigneth to entertain Man to eat and drink with or before him, in token of favour and reconcilement. For so it becomes the condition of the parties; that he which hath offended the other, and seeks for favour and forgiveness, should be entertained by him to whom he is obnoxious; and not è contrá: that is, that God should be the Convivator, the entertainer or maker of the Feast, and man the Conviva, or Guest. To which end the Viands for this sacred Epulum were first to be offered unto God, and so made his; that he might entertain the offerer, and not the offerer him. For we are to observe, that what the Fire consumed was accounted as God's own Mess, and called by himself the meat of his Fire-offerings: the rest was for his guests, which they were partakers of either by themselves, as in all the Peace-offerings; or by their proxies the Priests, as in the rest, to wit, the Holocausts, the Sin and Trespass-offerings. The reason of which difference was, I suppose, because the one was ad impetrandum or renovandum fœdus, for the making or renewing the Covenant with God, where therefore a Mediator was needfull; the other, to wit, the Peace-offerings, ad confirmandum & consignandum, for the confirming the Covenant onely, wherein therefore they addressed themselves before the Divine Majesty with greater confidence. If any shall object, That the Holocaust was wholly burnt and consumed, and so no body partaker thereof; I answer, It is true, the Beast which was slain was wholly burnt, and so all of it as it were God's Mess: But there was * a Meat-offering and Drink-offering annexed thereunto, as a part of the holy Feast; of which a handfull onely was burnt for a memorial, the remainder was for the *Priests to eat in the holy place. Besides, Burnt-offerings were regularly accompanied with Peace-offerings (as you shall find them in Scripture ordinarily joyned together;) now in these the people that offered had the greatest share. In a word, That those who offered Sacrifice, both among Jews and Gentiles, were partakers of the same, is a thing to be taken for granted; as appears by the warning God gave the Israelites, Exod. 34. 12, 15. That they should make no covenants with the inhabitants of the land, Lest, when they went a whoring after their Gods, and offered a sacrifice unto them, they might call them, and they also eat of their sacrifice. Also by that Psal. 106. 28. They joyned themselves to Baal-Peor, and ate the sacrifices of the dead. By that of S. Paul, Hebr. 13. 10. We have an Altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve at the Tabernacle. So that of this there need be no question.

Mal. 1. 11.

Levit. 3. 11, & 16. Num. 28. 2, & 24.

* Levit. 23. 13, 18. Num. 8. 8. & 15. 4, 5. & 28. 20, 28, 31. & 29. 6, 11, 19. Vide & Nehem. 10. 33.

* Lev. 7. 9. with Lev. 2. 2, 3, 9, 10.

It remains only that we prove, That these sacred Epula were Epula fœderales, Federal Feasts, and so our Definition will stand good. Now this will appear, first in general, by that expression of Scripture, wherein the Covenant which God makes with Man is expressed by eating and drinking at his Table. Luke 13. 26. Those to whom the Lord opens not, plead for themselves, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets, &c. Chap. 22. 29, 30. Our Saviour tells his Disciples, I appoint you a Kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; That ye may eat and drink at my Table in my Kingdom. Apocal. 3. 20. Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in unto him, and will sup with him, and he with me. But these passages, you will say, shew rather how fitly Sacrifices might be Feasts of amity between God and men, then prove they were so indeed: Hear therefore such proofs as I think come home to the point.

First, Every sacrifice, saith our Saviour, Mark 9. 49. is salted with salt. This Salt is called Levit. 2. 13. The salt of the Covenant of God; that is, a Symbol of the perpetuity thereof. Now if the Salt which seasoned the

Mal. 1. 11.

Sacrifice were Sal fœderis Dei, the Salt of the Covenant of God, what was the Sacrifice it ſelf but Epulum fœderis, the Feaſt of the Covenant?

Secondly, Moſes calls the Bloud of the Burnt-offerings and Peace-offerings, wherewith he ſprinkled the children of Iſrael when they received the Law, The Bloud of the Covenant which the Lord had made with them; This is, ſaith he, the Bloud of the Covenant which the Lord hath made with you; Exod. 24. 8.

Thirdly, But above all, this may moſt evidently be evinced out of the 50. Pſalm, the whole Argument whereof is concerning Sacrifices: There God ſaith, verſ. 5. Gather my Saints together unto me, which make covenant with me by ſacrifice, לְחָתַי בְּרִיתִי עָלֵי־זָבַח. And verſ. 16. of the Sacrifices of the wicked and ſuch as amend not their lives, Unto the wicked God ſaith, What haſt thou to doe to declare my Statutes חֻקַּי, and take my Covenant in thy mouth? ſeeing thou hateſt inſtruction, &c. Statutes here are Rites and Ordinances, and particularly thoſe of Sacrifice, which whoſo bringeth unto God, and thereby ſupplicates and calls upon his Name, is ſaid to take the Covenant of God in his mouth; foraſmuch as to invocate God with this Rite, was to doe it by way of commemoration of his Covenant, and to ſay, Remember, Lord, thy Covenant; and, For thy Covenant's ſake, Lord, hear my prayer and ſupplication. For what hath man to doe with God, to beg any favour at his hands, unleſs he be in Covenant with him? Whereby appears the reaſon why mankind, from the beginning of the world, uſed to approach their God by this Rite of ſacrificing, that is, ritu fœderali, by a federal Rite.

Fourthly, I adde in this laſt place, for a further confirmation yet, That when God was to make a Covenant with Abram, Gen. 15. he commanded him to offer him a Sacrifice, verſ. 9. Offer unto me (ſaith he, * ſo it ſhould be turned) a heifer, a ſhe-goat, and a ram, each of three years old, a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon. All which he offered accordingly, and divided them in the midſt, laying each piece or moiety one againſt the other; and when the Sun went down, God in the likeneſs of a ſmoaking furnace and burning lamp paſt between the pieces, and ſo, as the Text ſays, made a Covenant with Abram, ſaying, Unto thy ſeed will I give this land, &c. By which Rite of paſſing between the parts, God condeſcended to the manner of men. And note here, that the Gentiles, and Jews likewiſe, in their more ſolemn Covenants between men and men, (which were made under pain of curſe or execration) uſed this Rite of Sacrifice, whereby men covenanted with their God, as it were to make their God both a witneſs and party with them. And here the Jews cut the Sacrifice in ſunder, and paſt between the parts thereof; as God did here with Abram: which was as much as if they had ſaid, Thus let me be divided and cut in pieces, if I violate the oath I have now made in the preſence of my God. The Gentiles, beſides other ceremonies, uſed not to eat at all of theſe Sacrifices, but to fling them into the Sea, or bury them in the Earth; as if they had ſaid, If I break Covenant, thus let me be excluded from all amity and favour with my God, as I am now from eating of his Sacrifice. Hence came thoſe phraſes of לכרות ברית, in the Hebrew; of ferire, percutere & icere fœdus, in Latine; of ὅρκια τέμνειν, in Homer, To cut or to ſtrike a Covenant; à feriendis, percutiendis, & ſecandis ſacrificiis in fœderibus ſanciendis, from the cuſtome of ſtriking and cutting the Sacrifices aſunder at the making of Covenants between man and man. Though this manner of ſpeech may be alſo derived from their ordinary Epula fœderales, wherein they killed Beaſts, which the Ancients in their ordinary diet did not.

* And ſo the Chaldee Par. for the Hebrew קָחָה לִי, hath קְרִיב קֳדָמַי Offer before me.

See Jerem. ch. 34. verſ. 18, 19.

Having thus ſeen what is the nature of a Sacrifice, and wherein the ratio or

or eſſentiall Form thereof conſiſteth; it will not be hard to judge, whether the ancient Chriſtians did rightly in giving the Euchariſt that name, or not. For that the Lord's Supper is Epulum fœderale a Fœderal Feaſt we all grant; and our Saviour expreſly affirms it of the Cup in the inſtitution, τοῦτο τὸ ποτήριον ἡ καινὴ ΔΙΑΘΗΚΗ ἐν τῷ αἵματί μου, τὸ ὑπὲρ πολλῶν ἐκχυνόμενον εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν, This Cup is the Rite of the new Covenant in my Bloud, which is poured out for many for the remiſſion of ſins; evidently implying, That the bloudy Sacrifices of the Law, with their Meat and Drink-offerings, were Rites of an old Covenant, and that this ſucceeded them as the Rite of the * New: That that was contracted with the bloud of beeves, ſheep and goats; but this founded in the bloud of Chriſt. This parallel is ſo plain, as I think none will deny it. There is nothing then remains to make this ſacred Epulum a full Sacrifice, but that the Viands thereof ſhould be firſt offered unto God, that he may be the Convivator, we the Convivæ or the Gueſts.

Mal. 1. 11

* Euſebius (Demonſt. Evang. lib. 9.) vinum myſticum ſacroſanctæ Euchariſtiæ vocat χρᾶμα πιγκὸν τῆς Καινῆς Διαθήκης. Caſaub. exerc. ad Ann. 32. N. 26.

Chap. VIII.

The Fifth Particular, That the Body and Bloud of Chriſt in the Euchariſt was made of Bread and Wine which had firſt been offered to God, to agnize him the Lord of the Creature. This proved from the Teſtimonies of Antiquity next to the Apoſtles times, and from ancient Liturgies; as alſo from the Fathers arguing from this oblation of the Creature in the Euchariſt to God, that the Father of Chriſt was the Creator of the world, in confutation of ſome Hereticks in their days; and laſtly from S. Paul's parallel of the Lord's Supper and the Sacrifices of the Gentiles. Two Queſtions anſwered. 1. Whence may it appear that our Saviour at the Inſtitution of the Euchariſt did firſt offer the Bread and Wine to God, to agnize him the Lord of the Creature? 2. Is not the celebration of the Euchariſt in the Weſtern Churches (whether the Reformed or the Roman) therefore defective, becauſe no ſuch Oblation is there in uſe?

MY laſt task was to prove, That not only the whole Action of the celebration of the Euchariſt, according to the Definition I gave thereof, but even the Rite of the Lord's Supper is indeed a Sacrifice, not in a Metaphorical, but a proper ſenſe; and this, if the nature of Sacrifice be truly defined, no whit repugnant to the Principles of the Reformed Religion.

To evidence which I ſhewed, That a Sacrifice was nothing elſe but a Sacred Feaſt, namely Epulum fœderale, wherein God myſtically entertained Man at his own Table, in token of amity and friendſhip with him: Which that he might doe, the Viands of that Feaſt were firſt made God's by oblation, and ſo eaten of, not as of Man's, but God's proviſion.

There is nothing then wanting to make this ſacred Epulum, of which we ſpeak, full out a Sacrifice; but that we ſhew, That the Viands thereof were in like manner firſt offered unto God; that ſo being his, he might be the Convivator, Man the Conviva, or the Gueſt. And this the ancient Church was wont to doe; this they believed our Bleſſed Saviour himſelf did, when, at the inſtitution of this holy Rite, he took the Bread and the Cup into his ſacred hands, and looking up to heaven gave thanks and bleſſed. And, after his example, they firſt offered the Bread and Wine unto God, to agnize him the Lord of the Creature, and then received them from him again in a Banquet, as the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of his Son. This is that I am now to prove out of the Teſtimonies of Antiquity, not long after, but next unto the Apoſtles times, when it is not likely the Church had altered the form they left her for the celebration of this Myſtery.

V.

I will

Mal. 1. 11.

I will begin with Irenæus as the moſt full and copious in this point. He, in his fourth Book cap. 32. ſpeaks thus; Dominus Diſcipulis ſuis dans conſilium Primitias Deo offerre ex ſuis Creaturis, non quaſi indigenti, ſed ut ipſi nec infructuoſi nec ingrati ſint; eum qui ex Creatura panis eſt accepit, & gratias egit, dicens, Hoc eſt corpus meum; & Calicem ſimiliter, qui eſt ex ea Creatura quæ eſt ſecundum nos, ſuum ſanguinem confeſſus eſt: & Novi Teſtamenti novam docuit oblationem, quam Eccleſia ab Apoſtolis accipiens, in univerſo mundo offert Deo, ei qui alimenta nobis præſtat, primitias ſuorum munerum in Novo Teſtamento: Our Lord counſelling his Diſciples to offer unto God the Firſt-fruits (or a Preſent) of his Creatures, not for that God hath any need thereof, but that they might ſhew themſelves neither unfruitfull nor ungratefull, He took that Bread which was made of his Creature, and gave thanks, ſaying, This is my Body; and he likewiſe acknowledged the Cup, conſiſting of the Creature which we uſe, to be his Bloud: And thus taught the new oblation of the New Teſtament, which the Church receiving from the Apoſtles, offers throughout the world unto God, that feeds and nouriſheth us, being the Firſt-fruits of his own gifts in the New Teſtament.

And Cap. 34. Igitur Eccleſiæ oblatio, quam Dominus docuit offerri in univerſo mundo, purum ſacrificium reputatum eſt apud Deum, & acceptum eſt ei; non quòd indigeat à nobis ſacrificium, ſed quoniam is qui offert, glorificatur ipſe in eo quod offert, ſi acceptetur munus ejus: Per munus enim erga Regem honos & affectio oſtenditur. Therefore the Oblation of the Church, which our Lord taught and appointed to be offered through all the world, is accounted a pure Sacrifice with God, and is acceptable unto him; not becauſe God ſtands in need of our Sacrifice, but becauſe the offerer is himſelf honoured in that he offers, if his Preſent be accepted: For by the Preſent it appears what affection and eſteem the Giver hath for the King he honoureth therewith. He alludes to that in Malachi 1. 14. I am a great King, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts.

Ibid. Oportet nos oblationem Deo facere, & in omnibus gratos inveniri Fabricatori Deo—Primitias earum quæ ſunt ejus Creaturarum offerentes: & hanc oblationem Eccleſia ſola puram offert Fabricatori, offerens ei cum gratiarum actione ex Creatura ejus: It behoveth us to preſent God with our Oblations, and in all things to be found thankful unto God our Maker——offering unto him the Firſt-fruits of his Creatures: and it is the Church onely that offers this Pure Oblation unto the Creatour of the world, while it offers unto him a Preſent out of his Creatures with thankſgiving.

In the ſame place, Offerimus autem ei, non quaſi indigenti, ſed gratias agentes Dominationi ejus, & ſanctificantes creaturam: But we offer unto him, not as if he needed, but as giving thanks to his Soveraignty, and ſanctifying the Creature. He alludes again to that in this Chapter of Malachi, v. 6. If I be Dominus, where is my fear, ſaith the Lord of hoſts unto you, O Prieſts, that offer polluted Bread upon mine Altar?

My next witneſs ſhall be Juſtin Martyr, in time elder then Irenæus, though I reſerved him for the ſecond place. He, in his Dialogue with Tryphon, (the place before alledged) telling the Jew, That the Sacrifices of Chriſtians are Εὐχαὶ καὶ Εὐχαριςίαι, Supplications and giving of Thanks; ταῦτα γὰρ μόνα καὶ Χριςιανοὶ παρέλαβον ποιεῖν, ἐπ' ἀναμνήσει δὲ τῆς τροφῆς αὐτῶν ξηρᾶς τε καὶ ὑγρᾶς, and that theſe are the onely Sacrifices which Chriſtians have been taught they ſhould perform, in that thankful remembrance of their food both dry and liquid; ἐν ᾗ καὶ τῶ πάθους ὃ πέπονθε δι' αὐτῶ ὁ υἱὸς τῶ Θεῶ μέμνηται, wherein alſo is commemorated the Paſſion which the Son of God ſuffered by himſelf. Here is a twofold commemoration witneſſed to be made in the Euchariſt: The firſt, as he ſpeaks, of our food dry and liquid, that is, of our meat and drink, by agnizing God, and recording him the Creator and giver thereof; thereof; the ſecond, of the Paſſion of Chriſt the Son of God, in one and the ſame food. And again, in the ſame Dialogue, *Panem Euchariſtiæ in commemorationem paſſionis ſuæ Chriſtus fieri tradidit, Chriſt hath taught us that the Euchariſtical Bread ſhould be conſecrated for the Commemoration of his Paſſion; ἵνα ἅμα τε ευχαριςῶμεν τῷ Θεῷ, ὑπέρ τε τῆ τὸν κόσμον ἐκτικέναι σὺν πᾶσι τοῖς ἐν αὐτῷ διὰ τὸν ἄνθρωπον, καὶ ὑπὲρ τῆ δοὺ τῆς κακίας ἐν ᾗ γεγόναμεν ἐλευθερωκέναι ἡμᾶς, καὶ πὰς ἀρχὰς καὶ πὰς ἐξυσίας καταλελυκέναι τελέαν κατάλυσιν, διὰ τῆ παθητῆ γενομένυ κατὰ τὴν βυλὴν αὐτῆ· *that withall we may give thanks to God for having made the world with all things therein for man, and for having freed us from that evil and miſery wherein we were, and having utterly overthrown *Principalities and Powers, by him that became paſſible according to his counſel and will. To which he immediately ſubjoyns the Text, and applies it to the Euchariſt. Thus Juſtin Martyr.

Mal. 1. 11.

* εἰς ἀνάμνησιν τῆ παθυς.

[* So the evil Angels are called, Coloſſ 2.15. Eph. 6.12.]

* Acts 2. 23. & c. 4. 28.

My third witneſs is Origen in his 8. Book Contra Celſ. Celſus (ſaith he) thinks it ſeemly we ſhould be thankful to Demons, and to offer them * Χαριςήρια· but we think him to live moſt comely, τὸν μεμνημένον τίς ὁ Δημιυργήσας, that remembers who is the Creator: unto whom we Chriſtians are careful not to be unthankful, with whoſe benefits we are filled, and whoſe Creatures we are. Ἔςι δὲ καὶ σύμβολον ἡμῖν τῆς πρὸς Θεὸν ευχαριςίας, ἄρτος Ἐυχαριςία καλούμεν· that is, And we have alſo a Symbol of our Thankſgiving unto God, the Bread which is called Ἐυχαριςία. Where note that the Euchariſtical Bread is ſaid to be a Symbol not onely of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, but a Symbol of that Thankſgiving which we render to the Creator through him.

* Thank-offerings, or Grateful acknowledgements.

Again, in the ſame Book, where Celſus likewiſe would have mankind thankful unto Demons, as thoſe to whom the charge of things here upon earth is committed, and to offer unto them Ἀπαρχὰς καὶ ευχὰς, Firſt-fruits and Prayers; Origen thus takes him up, Κέλσ. μὲν, ὡς ἀγνοῶν Θεὸν, τὰ Χαριςήρια δαίμοσιν ἀποδιδότω. ἡμεῖς δὲ τῷ τῆ παντὸς δημιυργῷ ευαρες-ῦντες, καὶ τὰς μετ' ευχαριςίας καὶ ευχῆς τῆς ὅτι τοῖς δοθεῖσι προσαγομένυς ἄρτυς ἐδιόμεν, σῶμα γινομένυς, διὰ τὴν ευχὴν, ἁγιόν τι· Let Celſus, as being void of the true knowledge of God, render Χαριςήρια to the Demons. As for us Chriſtians, whoſe onely deſire it is to pleaſe the Creatour of the Univerſe, we eat the Bread that was offered unto him with Prayer and Thankſgiving for his Gifts, and then made a kind of holy Body by Prayer. Mark here, Bread offered unto God with Prayer and Thankſgiving pro datis, for that he hath given us, and then by Prayer made a holy Body, and ſo eaten.

Thus much out of Fathers; all of them within leſs then two hundred and fifty years after Chriſt, and leſs then one hundred and fifty after the death of S. John.

Videetiam Can. Apoſtol. II. (al. III) Can. XL. Synod. Carthag. Can. VII. Edicti Theophili Alexandrini apud Balſamon.

The ſame appears in the Forms of the ancient Liturgies. As in that of Clemens, where the Prieſt in the name of the whole Church aſſembled ſpeaks thus; (a) Προσφέρομέν σοι τῷ Βασιλεῖ καὶ Θεῷ, We offer unto thee our King and God, καλὰ τὴν αὐτῆ διάταξιν, according to his (that is, Chriſt's) appointment, τὸν ἄρτον τοῦτον καὶ τὸ ποτήριον τοῦτο, this Bread and this Cup; ευχαριςῦντές σοι διὰ αὐτῆ, ἐφ' οἷς καταξίωσας ἡμᾶς ἑςάναι ενώπιόν συ καὶ ἱερατεύειν σοι· καὶ αἰτῦμέν σε ὅπως ἐυμένως ὑπιβλέψῃς ὅπι τὰ προκείμενα δῶρα ἐνώπιόν σε, σὺ ἀνενδεὴς Θεὸς, καὶ ἐυδοκήσῃς ἐπ' αὐτοῖς εἰς τιμὴν τῆ Χριςῆ σε, &c. Giving thanks unto thee through him, for that thou haſt vouchſafed us (he ſpeaks of the whole Church) to ſtand before thee and to miniſter unto thee: And we beſeech thee, thou God that wanteſt nothing, that thou wouldeſt look favourably upon theſe Gifts here ſet before thee, and accept them to the honour of thy Chriſt, &c.

(a) Conſt. Clem. l. 8. c. 12.

(b) Conſt. Clem. l. 8. c. 13.

Again, (b) Ὑπὲρ ὧν δώρυ ὧν προσομιλέντ. Κυρίῳ τῷ Θεῷ ἡμῶν δεηδῶμεν, Non poteſt hoc accipi de Symbolis corporis Chriſti, verùm de Symbolis ευχαριςίας: quomodo enim Chriſtus ipſe offerretur Deo per interceſſionem Chriſti?

Mal. 1. 11.

δεηθῶμεν, ὅπως ὁ ἀγαθὸς Θεὸς προσδέξηται αὐτὸ διὰ τῆς μεσιτείας τοῦ Χριστοῦ αὐτοῦ εἰς τὸ ἐπουράνιον αὐτοῦ θυσιαστήριον εἰς ὀσμὴν εὐωδίας. For the Gift or Oblation that is offered to the Lord our God, let us pray that our good God would receive it through the mediation of his Christ to his heavenly Altar for a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour.

Yea, in the Canon of the * Romane Church, though the Rite be not uſed, yet the words remain ſtill; as when the Prieſt, long before the conſecration of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, prays, Te, Clementiſſime Pater, per Jeſum Chriſtum Filium tuum, Dominum noſtrum, ſupplices rogamus, ut accepta habeas & benedicas hac Dona, hac Munera: We humbly beſeech and intreat thee, moſt merciful Father, through Jeſus Chriſt thy Son, our Lord, to accept and bleſs theſe Gifts, theſe Preſents: and other like paſſages, which now they wreſt to a new-found Oblation of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, which the ancient Church knew not of.

* In Ordine Romano, dimiſſis Catechumenis, Rubrica habet, Poſtea incipiunt cantores cantare offertorium, & populus dat oblationes ſuas, id eſt, Panem & Vinum; & offerunt cum Fanonibus, id eſt, velis candidis, primò Maſculi, deinde Fœminæ, noviſſimè Sacerdotes & Diaconi; ſed ſolum panem, & hoc ante Altare: Tunc accipiens Archidiaconus à Subdiaconis oblatas, ponit tantas ſuper Altare quantæ poſſunt populo ſufficere ad communionem. Videatur Theodoret. in hiſt. de Theodoſio offerente, Ἐπειδὴ δὲ ὁ καιρὸς ἐκάλει τὴν ἱερὰν παρασκευὴν προτίθησιν, ἀναβὰς, &c. l. 5. c. 17. Conſule Cyprian. de Op. & Eleemoſ.—Quæ in Dominicum ſine ſacrificio venis; quæ partem de Sacrificio quod pauper obtulit ſumis. Auguſt. de Temp. Serm. CCXV. Oblationes quæ in Altari conſecrantur offerte: Erubeſcere debet homo idoneus, ſi de aliena Oblatione communicaverit.

But, of all others, this Rite is moſt ſtrongly confirmed by that wont of the Ancient Fathers to confute the Hereticks of thoſe firſt times (who held the Creator of the world to be ſome inferiour Deity, and not the Father of Chriſt,) out of the Euchariſt: For, ſay they, unleſs the Father of Chriſt be the Creator of the world, why is the Creature offered unto him in the Euchariſt as if he were? would he be agnized the Author and Lord of that he is not?

Hear Irenæus, Adverſus Hæreſ. lib. 4. cap. 34. Hæreticorum Synagogæ (ſaith he) non offerunt [Euchariſticam oblationem quam Dominus offerri docuit;] Alterum enim præter Fabricatorem dicentes Patrem, ideo quæ ſecundum nos Creaturæ ſunt offerentes ei, cupidum alieni oſtendunt eum, & aliena concupiſcentem: The Synagogues of the Hereticks do not offer [the very Euchariſtical oblation which our Lord taught and appointed to be offered;] for they affirming another beſides the Creatour of the world to be the Father of Chriſt, do therefore, while they offer unto him the Creatures which are here with us, repreſent him to be deſirous of that which is anothers, and to covet that which is not his: and a little after, *Quomodo autem conſtabit eis eum panem * in quo gratiæ actæ ſunt Corpus eſſe Domini ſui, & Calicem ſanguinis ejus, ſi non ipſum Fabricatoris mundi Filium dicant, id eſt, Verbum ejus per quod lignum fructificat, & defluunt fontes, & terra dat primùm quidem * gramen, poſt deinde ſpicam, deinde plenum triticum in ſpica? How ſhall it appear to them that that Bread for which Thanks have been given is the Body of their Lord, and that Cup the Cup of his Bloud, if they deny him to be the Son of the Creator of the world, that is to ſay, to be the Word of him by whom the Tree brings forth fruit, Fountains ſend forth water, and the Earth brings forth firſt green corn like graſs, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear?*

* So Juſtin Martyr in Apol. 2. calls it ἄρτον εὐχαριστηθέντα and προφὴν εὐχαριστηθεῖσαν.
* χόρτον, Mar. 4. 28.

From the ſame ground Tertullian argues againſt Marcion, Contra Marc. lib. 1. cap. 23. Non putem (ſaith he) impudentiorem quàm qui in aliena aqua alii Deo tinguitur, ad alienum Cœlum alii Deo expanditur, in aliena terra alii Deo ſternitur, ſuper alienum panem alii Deo gratiarum actionibus fungitur: I cannot conceive any one more impudent then he that is baptized to a God in a water that is none of his, that in prayer to a God ſpreads forth his hands towards an Heaven that is none of his, that proſtrates himſelf to a God upon an Earth that is not his, that gives thanks to a God for that Bread which is none of his.

Origen

Origen againſt the ſame Heretick uſeth the ſame Argument, Dialog. Adverſ. Marc. 3. paulò ante finem: Dominus aſpiciens in cœlum gratias agit: Ecquid non agit conditori gratias? Cùm panem accepiſſet, & poculum, & benedixiſſet, quid? alterine pro Creaturis conditoris benedicit? an potiùs illi qui effecit & exhibuit? Our Lord looking up to heaven gave thanks. What? did not he give thanks to the Creator of the world? When he took the Bread and the Cup, and bleſſed; did he bleſs and give thanks to any other for the Creatures of God the Maker of the world, and not rather bleſs and give thanks to him who made them and gave them us? Mal. 1. 11.

Laſtly, This Oblation of the Bread and Wine is implied in S. Paul's parallel of the Lord's Supper and the Sacrifices of the Gentiles: You cannot (ſaith he) be partakers of the Table of the Lord, and the Table of Devils; namely, becauſe they imply contrary Covenants, incompatible one with the other; a Sacrifice, as I told you, being Epulum fœderale a Federal Feaſt. Now here it is manifeſt that the Table of Devils is ſo called, becauſe it conſiſted of Viands offered to Devils, (for ſo S. Paul expreſly tells us,) whereby thoſe that eat thereof, eat of the Devil's meat; Ergo, The Table of the Lord is likewiſe called his Table, not becauſe he ordained it, but becauſe it conſiſted of Viands offered unto him. 1 Cor. 10. 21.

Having thus, as I think, ſufficiently proved what I took in hand, I think it not amiſs to anſwer two Queſtions which this Diſcourſe may beget. The firſt is, How the Ancients could gather out of the Inſtitution, that our Saviour did as hath been ſhewed. I anſwer, They believed that he did as the Jews were wont to doe: But they did thus. How, will you ſay, doth this appear? I anſwer, It may appear thus. The Paſſeover was a Sacrifice, and therefore the Viands here, as in all other holy Feaſts, were firſt offered unto God. Now the Bread and Wine, which our Saviour took when he bleſſed and gave thanks, was the Mincha or Meat-offering of the Paſſeover. If then he did as the Jews uſed to doe, he agnized his Father and bleſſed him, by oblation of theſe his Creatures unto him, uſing the like or the ſame Form of words; ברוך אתה יהוה אלהנו מלך העולם המוציא לחם מן הארץ, Bleſſed be thou, O Lord our God, the King of the world, which bringeſt forth Bread out of the earth: and over the Wine, ברוך אתה יהוה אלהנו מלך העולם בורא פרי הגפן, Bleſſed be thou, O Lord our God, the King of the world, which createſt the fruit of the Vine. Moreover the Church ab initio applied that Precept of our Saviour, Matt. 5. 23. If thou bring thy gift to the Altar, &c. to the Euchariſt; for they believed that he would not enact a new Law concerning Legal Sacrifices which he was preſently to aboliſh, but that it had reference to that Oblation which was to continue under the Goſpel.

The other Queſtion is, If all this be ſo, how is not our celebration of the Euchariſt defective, where no ſuch Oblation is uſed? I anſwer, This concerns not us alone, but all the Churches of the Weſt of the Roman Communion, who, as in other things they have depraved this myſtery, and ſwerved from the Primitive patern thereof, ſo have they for many Ages diſuſed this Oblation of Bread and Wine, and brought in, in lieu thereof, a real and Hypoſtatical oblation of Chriſt himſelf. This blaſphemous Oblation we have taken away, and juſtly; but not reduced again that expreſs and formal uſe of the other. Howſoever, though we doe it not with a ſet ceremony and form of words; yet in deed and effect we doe it, ſo often as we ſet the Bread and Wine upon the Holy Table: For whatſoever we ſet upon God's Table, is ipſo facto dedicated and offered unto him; according to that of our Saviour Matt. 23. 19. τὸ θυσιαστήριον ἁγιάζει τὸ δῶρον, The Altar ſanctifies the gift, that is, conſecrates it unto God, and appropriates it to his uſe. In which reſpect it were much to be wiſht that this were more ſolemnly done then is usual; namely, not until the time of the administration, and by the hand of the Minister, in the name and sight of the whole Congregation standing up and shewing some sign of due and lowly reverence; according as the Deacon was wont to admonish the people in Ancient Liturgies, Ὀρθοὶ πρὸς Κύριον μετὰ φόβου καὶ τρόμου ἑστῶτες ὦμεν προσφέρειν, Let us stand in an upright posture before God to offer with fear and trembling.

Mal. 1. 11.

Constit. Clem. l. 8. c. 12.

Chap. IX.

The Sixth Particular, That Christ is offered in the Eucharist Commemoratively onely, and not otherwise. This Commemorative Sacrifice, or the Commemoration in the Eucharist, explained. That Christ is offered by way of Commemoration onely, was the sense of the ancient Church. This proved from ancient Liturgies and Fathers. The Conclusion, containing an elegant description of the Christian Sacrifice out of the History of S. Andrew's Martyrdome.

VI. THE Sixth and last thing to be proved was, That Christ is offered in this Sacrifice Commemoratively onely, and not otherwise.

Though the Eucharist be a Sacrifice, (that is, an Oblation wherein the Offerer banquets with his God) yet is Christ in this Sacrifice no otherwise offered then by way of Commemoration onely of his Sacrifice once offered upon the Cross, as a learned Prelate of ours hath lately written, objectivè onely, not subjectivè. And this is that which our Saviour himself said when he ordained this sacred Rite, τοῦτο ποιεῖτε εἰς τὴν ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν, This doe in commemoration of me.

But this Commemoration is to be made to God his Father, and is not a bare remembring or putting our selves in mind onely, (as is commonly supposed,) but a putting of God in mind: For every Sacrifice is directed unto God, and the Oblation therein, whatsoever it be, hath him for its Object, and not Man. If therefore the Eucharist be Sacrificium Christi commemorativum, a Commemorative Sacrifice of Christ, as ours grant, then must the Commemoration therein be made unto God: And if Christ therein be offered objectivè, that is, as the Object of the Commemoration there made, (as that learned Bishop speaks,) if the Commemoration of him be an Oblation of him, to whom is this Oblation, that is, Commemoration, made but unto God?

Well then, Christ is offered in this Sacred Supper, not Hypostatically, as the Papists would have him, (for so he was but once offered,) but Commemoratively only: that is, By this Sacred Rite of Bread and Wine we represent and inculcate his blessed Passion to his Father; we put him in mind thereof, by setting the Monuments thereof before him; we testifie our own mindfulness thereof unto his Sacred Majesty; that so he would, for his sake, according to the tenour of his Covenant, in him be favourable and propitious unto us miserable sinners.

That this, and no other Offering of Christ in the blessed Eucharist, the Ancient Church ever meant or intended, I am now to shew by authentical Testimonies.

First, by the constant form of all the Liturgies; in which, after the reciting of the words of Institution, is subjoyned, Μεμνημένοι προσφέρομεν, commemorantes, or commemorando, offerimus, Commemorating, or by Commemorating, we offer.

* Const. Clem. l. 8. c. 12.

* Clemens, Μεμνημένοι τοίνυν τοῦ πάθους αὐτοῦ, καὶ τοῦ θανάτου, καὶ τῆς ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀναστάσεως, καὶ τῆς εἰς οὐρανὸν ἀναδόυ —— προσφέρομέν σοι τῷ Βασιλεῖ σιλεῖ καὶ Θεῷ τὸν ἄρτον τοῦτον καὶ τὸ ποτήριον τοῦτο· Therefore commemorating his Paſſion, and Death, and Reſurrection from the dead, and Aſcenſion into Heaven —— we offer to thee our King and God this Bread and this Cup. Mark here, Commemorating we offer, that is, We offer by Commemorating. But this Commemoration is made unto God to whom we offer. This is the tenour of all the Greek Liturgies, ſave that ſome, in ſtead of We offer unto thee this Bread and this Cup, have προσφέρομέν σοι τῷ φοβερῷ ταύτῃ καὶ ἀναίμακτον θυσίαν, We offer unto thee this dreadful and unbloudy Sacrifice; as that of Jeruſalem (called S. James his Liturgie:) others, τῷ λογικῷ ταύτῃ καὶ ἀναίμακτον λατρείαν, this reaſonable and unbloudy Service; as that of S. Chryſoſtome: others, τὰ σὰ ἐκ τῶν σῶν, thine own of thine own; as that of Baſil and of Alexandria (called S. Mark's:) but all, Μεμνημένοι προσφέρομεν, Commemorantes offerimus, Commemorating we offer. Mal. 1. 11.

In the ſame form runs the Ordo Romanus, Memores, Domine, nos ſervi tui, ſed & Plebs tua ſancta, ejuſdem Chriſti Filii tui Domini Dei noſtri, tum beatæ Paſſionis, nec non ab inferis Reſurrectionis, ſed & in Cœlum glorioſæ Aſcenſionis, Offerimus præclaræ Majeſtati tuæ, de tuis donis ac datis, hoſtiam puram, hoſtiam ſanctam, hoſtiam immaculatam, panem ſanctum vitæ æternæ & calicem ſalutis perpetuæ: We, O Lord, thy ſervants, as alſo thy holy people, being mindful both of the bleſſed Paſſion and Reſurrection from the dead, as alſo of the glorious Aſcenſion into Heaven, of the ſame Chriſt thy Son our Lord, Offer unto thy excellent Majeſty of thy own Gifts a pure Sacrifice, a holy Sacrifice, an immaculate Sacrifice, the holy Bread of eternal life and the Cup of everlaſting Salvation. Note here alſo Memores offerimus, Being mindful of, —— or Commemorating, we offer.

Which Ivo Carnotenſis explains thus; Memores offerimus Majeſtati tuæ (id eſt, oblatam commemoramus per hæc dona viſibilia) hoſtiam puram —— ſanctam, immaculatam, &c. Et hanc veri ſacrificii commemorationem poſtulat ſacerdos ita Deo Patri fore acceptam, ſicut accepta fuerunt munera Abel, &c. Remembring, or being mindful, we offer to thy Majeſty a pure, holy, an immaculate Sacrifice, that is, (ſaith he) we commemorate the ſame offered unto God by theſe viſible Gifts. And the Prieſt accordingly prays that this Commemoration of the true Sacrifice may in like manner be acceptable to God the Father, as the Gifts of Abel were accepted of him. Thus he.

Memores therefore in the Latin Canon is Commemorantes, which the Greek expreſſes better Μεμνημένοι[a] of the ſenſe whereof that we may not doubt, hear the explication of that great Council of Epheſus in this manner: Καταγγέλλοντες τὸν θάνατον τοῦ μονογενοῦς υἱοῦ τοῦ Θεοῦ, τυπτίσιν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, τήν τε ἐκ νεκρῶν ἀναβίωσιν, καὶ τὴν εἰς οὐρανοὺς ἀνάληψιν ὁμολογοῦντες, τὴν ἀναίμακτον ἐν ταῖς ἐκκλησίαις τελοῦμεν θυσίαν· Shewing forth the Death of the onely-begotten Son of God, Jeſus Chriſt, as alſo confeſſing his Reſurrection and Aſcenſion into heaven, we celebrate in our Churches the unbloudy Sacrifice or Service.

Μεμνημένοι Commemorating therefore is Shewing forth and Confeſſing: But unto whom ſhould we confeſs but unto God? To him therefore, and not unto our ſelves, is that Ἀνάμνησις or Commemoration to be made which Chriſt commended to his Church, when he ſaid, Doe this εἰς τὴν ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν, for my commemoration, or in remembrance of me.

[a] So the Syr. Paraphr. (in 1 Cor. 11. 26.) renders καταγγέλλετε ye ſhew forth by סעדרין אנתון ye commemorate.

In this Council of Epheſus Cyril of Alexandria was chief Actor and Preſident: and it is to be noted, that the Liturgie of the Church of Alexandria (uſually called S. Mark's) hath in ſtead of Μεμνημένοι the ſelf-ſame words, Καταγγέλλοντες καὶ ὁμολογοῦντες, ſhewing forth and confeſſing, which I now quoted out of the Council for an explication of the ſame:

Mal. 1. 11. which argues, as I take it, Cyril to have been the pen-man of the Decree of the Council, and the Liturgie of his Church to have then run in this form.

I shall need alledge no more of the Latine Liturgies; there is no material difference amongst them; so that if you know the form of one, you know of all. I will adde onely out of S. Ambrose an Explication following those words of the Institution, Doe this in remembrance of me, expresst in this manner; Mandans & dicens ad eos, Quotiescunque hoc feceritis, toties commemorationem mei facietis, Mortem meam pradicabitis, Resurrectionem meam annuntiabitis, Adventum sperabitis, donec iterum adveniam: Commanding and saying to them, As often as ye shall doe this, ye shall commemorate me, declare my Death, shew forth my Resurrection, expres your hope of my Coming, until I come again.

This may suffice for Liturgies. Now let us hear the Fathers speak.

I quoted heretofore a passage out of Justin Martyr affirming a twofold Ἀνάμνησις or Commemoration to be made in the Eucharist; the one of our Food, dry and liquid, (as he speaks) that is, of our meat and drink, by agnizing and recording him the Lord and Giver of the same; the other an Ἀνάμνησις in the same Food τῦ πάθυς τ̃ υ̃ῦ τ̃ῦ Θεῦ, of the Passion of the Son of God. The first of these Commemorations is made unto God; for to whom else should we tender our thankfulnes for the Creature? Ergo, the second, the Commemoration of the Passion of the Son of God, is made to him likewise.

My next Father is Origen, Homil. 13. in Lev. cap. 24. where comparing the Eucharist to the Shew-bread which was every Sabbath set for a Memorial before the Lord, Ista est (saith he, meaning the Eucharist) commemoratio sola quæ propitium facit Deum hominibus; That's the onely Commemoration which renders God propitious to men. Where note, that both this Commemoration is made unto God as that of the Shew-bread was; and that the end thereof is to make him propitious to men: According to that of S. Augustine l. 9. c. 13. Illa quæ in cœna Christus exhibet, Fides accepta interponit inter peccata nostra & iram Dei, tanquam satisfactionem & propitiationem: Those things which Christ exhibits in his Supper, Faith having received them, interposeth them as a Satisfaction and Propitiation between our sins and God's wrath.

My next witnes is Eusebius, Demonst. Evan. lib. 1. cap. 10. Μετὰ πάν͂τα τοίνυν τὸ θαυμάσιον τοῦτο καὶ σφάγιον ἐξαίρετον τῷ Παντὶ καλλιερησάμενος, ὑπὲρ τ̃ῆς ἁπάντων ἡμῶν ἀνήνεγκε σωτηρίας, μνήμην καὶ ἡμῖν παραδοὺς ἀντὶ θυσίας τῷ Θεῷ διηνεκῶς προσφέρειν· After all other things done, (saith he, speaking of Christ) he made that so wonderful an Oblation and excellent Sacrifice to God for the Salvation of us all, appointing us to offer continually unto God a Remembrance thereof in stead of a Sacrifice. And again, toward the end of that Chapter, having cited this place of Malachi which I have chosen for my Text, and alluding thereunto, Θυμιῶμεν δὲ προφητικὸν θυμίαμα, We offer the Incense spoken of by the Prophet. Θύομεν καὶ θυμιῶμεν· τότε μὲν τὴν μνήμην τοῦ μεγάλου θύματος κατὰ ἃ καὶ πρὸς αὐτοῦ παραδοθέντα μυστήρια ἐπιτελοῦντες, καὶ τὴν ὑπὲρ σωτηρίας ἡμῶν Εὐχαριστίαν δι' ὑποθεσέων ὕμνων τε καὶ εὐχῶν τῷ Θεῷ προσκομίζοντες· τότε δὲ σφᾶς αὐτοὺς ὅλως καθιερεύοντες αὐτῷ, καὶ τῷ γε Ἀρχιερεῖ αὐτοῦ λόγῳ, αὐτῷ σώματι καὶ ψυχῇ ἀνακείμενοι· We offer Sacrifice and Incense, while we celebrate the remembrance of the Great Sacrifice according to the mysteries given to us by him, and offer the Eucharist with holy Hymns and Prayers to God for the Salvation of our Souls; as also in that we consecrate our selves wholy unto him, and dedicate our selves both Soul and Body to his High Priest the Word.

But above all other, S. Chrysostome speaks so full and home to the point

as

as nothing can be more; to wit, Hom. 17. in Epiſt. ad Hebræos, upon theſe words cap. 9. v. 26. But now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away ſin by the ſacrifice of himſelf: τί οὖν; ἡμεῖς καθ' ἑκάστην ἡμέραν οὐ προσφέρομεν; What then? (ſaith he) Do not we offer every day? He anſwers, Προσφέρομεν μέν, ἀλλ' ἀνάμνησιν ποιούμενοι τοῦ θανάτου αὐτοῦ· καὶ μία θυσία αὕτη, καὶ οὐ πολλαί· We offer indeed, but it is by making a Commemoration of his death: And this Sacrifice is one, and not many.——πῶς μία, καὶ οὐ πολλαί; But how is it one, and not many? ἐπεὶ ἅπαξ προσηνέχθη, οὐχ ὥσπερ ἐκείνη εἰς τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων. τοῦτο ἐκείνης τύπος ἦν, καὶ αὕτη ἐκείνης· Becauſe it was once offered, not as that which was carried into the Holy of holies. That was the figure of this, and this [the Truth] of that. And a little after, Ὁ Ἀρχιερεὺς ἡμῶν ἐκεῖνός ἐστιν ὁ τὴν θυσίαν τὴν καθαίρουσαν ἡμᾶς προσενεγκών. ἐκείνην προσφέρομεν καὶ νῦν, τὴν τότε προσενεχθεῖσαν, τὴν ἀνάλωτον. τοῦτο εἰς ἀνάμνησιν γίνεται τοῦ τότε γινομένου· Τοῦτο γὰρ ποιεῖτε, φησὶν, εἰς τὴν ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν. Οὐκ ἄλλην θυσίαν, καθάπερ ὁ ἀρχιερεὺς τότε, ἀλλὰ τὴν αὐτὴν ἀεὶ ποιοῦμεν, μᾶλλον δὲ ἀνάμνησιν ἐργαζόμεθα θυσίας· He (that is, Chriſt) is our High-prieſt who offered that Sacrifice which purifieth us. The ſame do we alſo offer now, that then was offered, and is yet unconſumed. This is done in remembrance of that which was then done; For, Doe this (ſaith he) in remembrance of me. We offer not another, not a different, Sacrifice, as the Jewiſh High-prieſt did of old, but ſtill one and the ſame; or rather we perform the remembrance of a Sacrifice. What can be more expreſs then this is? Mal. 1. 11.

Primaſius is ſhort, but no leſs to the purpoſe. Offerunt quidem, ſaith he, Sacerdotes noſtri, ſed ad recordationem mortis ejus, in 10. cap. ad Hebræos: Our Prieſts indeed offer, but it is in remembrance of his death. S. Auguſtine calls it Memoriale ſacrificium a Sacrifice by way of remembrance, in his Book againſt Fauſtus.

In a word, The Sacrifice of Chriſtians is nothing but that one Sacrifice of Chriſt once offered upon the Croſs, again and again commemorated.

Which is elegantly expreſt by thoſe words of S. Andrew, recorded in the Hiſtory of his Paſſion, written by the Presbyters of Achaia: where Ægeas the Proconſul requiring of him to ſacrifice to Idols, he is ſaid to have anſwered thus; Omnipotenti Deo, qui unus & verus eſt, ego omni die ſacrifico, non thuris fumum, nec taurorum mugientium carnes, nec hircorum ſanguinem; ſed immaculatum Agnum quotidie in Altari crucis ſacrifico; cujus carnes poſtquam omnis populus credentium manducaverit, & ejus ſanguinem biberit, Agnus qui ſacrificatus eſt integer perſeverat & vivus: I ſacrifice daily to Almighty God, but what? not the ſmoke of Frankinſenſe, nor the fleſh of bellowing Bulls, nor the bloud of Goats: No, but I offer daily the unſpotted Lamb of God on the Altar of the Croſs; whoſe Fleſh and Bloud though all the Faithful eat and drink of, yet after all this notwithſtanding, the Lamb that was ſacrificed remains entire and alive ſtill. This Riddle though Ægeas the Proconſul were not able to unfold, I make no queſtion but you are. And here I conclude.

EZRA VI. X.

That they may offer Sacrifices of ſweet ſavour unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the King, and of his Sons.

THE words of the Decree of King Darius, for the building and furniſhing of the ſervice of the Temple of God at Jeruſalem; That (ſaith he) which they have need of for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, both young bullocks, rams and lambs, wheat, ſalt, wine and oyl, let it be given them day by day without fail: That they may offer Sacrifices of ſweet ſavour unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the King, and of his Sons.

[What is more generally and briefly hinted in the foregoing Diſcourſe, Chap. 6. is more particularly proved in this.]

I have made choice of this Scripture, to ſhew that Sacrifice was Species Orationis, or a Rite of Supplication unto God: Such a one, namely, wherein the Supplicant came not with naked Prayer, but preſented ſomething unto his God whereby to find favour in his ſight. The nature and quality of the thing preſented was Munus fœderale a Federal Gift, conſiſting of meat and drink; in the tender whereof, as a ſinner agnized himſelf to be his God's vaſſal and ſervant, ſo by acceptance of the ſame he was reconciled and reſtored to his Covenant, by the atonement and forgiveneſs of his ſin. Foraſmuch as, according to the uſe and cuſtom of Mankind, to receive meat and drink from the hand of another was a ſign of amity and friendſhip; much more to make another partaker of his Table, as the ſinner was here of God's, by eating of his Oblation: hence thoſe who came to make ſupplication unto the Divine Majeſty, whom they had offended, were wont by this Rite to make way for their ſute, by removing the obſtacle of his offence. For what hope of ſpeeding could there be, whileſt the party to whom we tendred our ſupplication ſhould be at enmity with us? when God might ſay, Pſal. 50. 16, 17. What haſt thou to doe to take my Covenant in thy mouth, ſeeing thou hateſt inſtruction, and caſteſt my words behinde thee? For the foundation of all Invocation is, Remember thy Covenant; and of Impetration, the Remiſsion of our ſins.

For this cauſe therefore was Sacrifice uſed as Medium deprecandi Deum, as a Rite of addreſs unto God, when we were to make prayer and ſupplication unto him; yea or to bleſs, or give thanks. But this is not to my preſent purpoſe, but the uſe for Prayer onely; which to have been thus addreſſed as I ſpeak, appears not onely by the words of my Text, That they may offer, &c. and pray, &c. but ſundry other places of Scripture, which I mean to rehearſe.

As firſt, by that ſo often inculcated of Abraham and Iſaac, that where they pitched down their Tents, they built alſo an Altar, and there called upon the Name of the Lord: But an Altar was a place for Sacrifice: Therefore Sacrifice muſt be a Rite whereby they called upon the Name of God.

The ſame appears by that ſpeech of Saul, 1 Sam. 13. 12. when Samuel reproving him for having offered a Burnt-offering, I ſaid, (ſaith he) The Philiſtines will come down upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made ſupplication unto the Lord: I forced my ſelf therefore, and offered a Burnt-offering: Therefore to offer a Burnt-offering, was to make Supplication.

It

It is yet more plain out of 1 Sam. 7. 8. The Children of Iſrael ſaid to Samuel, Ceaſe not (or be not ſilent) to cry unto the Lord our God for us, that he will ſave us out of the hands of the Philiſtines. And Samuel (ſaith the Text, v. 9.) took a ſucking Lamb, and offered it for a Burnt-offering unto the Lord; and Samuel cried unto the Lord for Iſrael, and the Lord heard him. Ezra 6. 10.

It is further proved by that in the 116. Pſalm, v. 13. I will take the Cup of ſalvation, and call upon the Name of the Lord: For this Cup of ſalvation is the Libamen or Drink-offering annexed and poured upon the Sacrifice, at what time they uſed (as here you ſee) to call upon the Name of the Lord. 'Tis a Synecdoche, where the part is put for the whole. Alſo [to take] is here to offer, by that Figure, quâ ex Antecedente intelligitur Conſequens.

The ſame is implied by that of Micah 6. 6. Wherewith ſhall I come before the Lord, and bow my ſelf before the moſt High? Shall I come before him with burnt-offerings, with calves of a year old?

And by that Antitheſis, Prov. 15. 8. The Sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord; but the Prayer of the upright is his delight: For here the words of Sacrifice and Prayer are taken the one for the other: it being all one as if it had been ſaid, for [Prayer of the upright] the Sacrifice of the upright, or for [Sacrifice of the wicked] the Prayer of the wicked. Hence it follows, That Sacrifice was Species Orationis, or a Rite of Supplication unto God.

The like may be inferred out of Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the Temple, and the Lord's anſwer to the ſame: For in that dedicatory prayer is no mention at all of Sacrifice to be there offered, but onely that the Lord would be pleaſed to hear from heaven the Prayers of ſuch and ſuch as ſhould be made in that place, or towards it. Nevertheleſs, when God appeared to Solomon in the night, he ſaith unto him, I have heard thy Prayer, and have choſen this place to my ſelf for an houſe of Sacrifice, 2 Chron. 7. 12. plainly implying, That to be an houſe of Sacrifice was to be an houſe of Prayer.

Adde to theſe that in 1 Mac. 12. 11. where the Jews in their Epiſtle to the Lacedæmonians ſpeak on this manner; We at all times (ſay they) without ceaſing, both in our Feaſts and other convenient dayes, do remember you in the Sacrifices which we offer, and in our prayers; ἐν δὲ ταῖς θυσίαις ἡμῶν, for in our prayers at our Sacrifices. Certainly it may be gathered hence, that Prayers were annexed to their Sacrifices, and that Sacrifice was a Rite of Prayer.

The like we ſhall find in the firſt of Baruch, where we reade that thoſe who were carried Captive with Jechonias made a Collection of Money, and ſent it to Jeruſalem, ſaying, Behold, we have ſent you money to buy you Burnt-offerings and Sin-offerings and Incenſe; and prepare ye the Meat-offering, and offer upon the Altar of the Lord our God: And pray for the life of Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, and for the life of Balthaſar his ſon, that their dayes on earth may be as the dayes of heaven; juſt to that of my Text, that they may offer Sacrifices of ſweet ſavour unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the King, and of his Sons. Verſ. 10, 11.

Hence appears the reaſon why * Joſephus, when the Scripture mentions no more but that Noah offered a Sacrifice when he came out of the Ark, attributes unto him a Prayer. Νῶχος (ſaith he) φοβούμενος μὴ καθέκαστον ἔτος ὁμοίως τὴν γῆν ὁ Θεὸς, φθορᾶν ἀνθρώπων καταψηφισάμενος, ἱερεῖα καίσας ἐδεῖτο τοῦ λοιποῦ τὸν Θεὸν ὅπως τῆς τρωπῆς μένειν αὐταξίας, &c. Noah fearing leſt God (having adjudged men to a general deſtruction) ſhould every year thus drown the earth, offered Sacrifices unto God, beſeeching him that hereafter all things may continue in that good order and primitive ſtate, &c. * Antiq. Jud. l. 1. c. 4.

Ezra 6. 10.

I could be as plentiful in Profane Testimonies to this point as I have been in Sacred; and could alledge the Testimonies of Homer, (where we have Examples of Sacrifices with the forms of Prayer,) of Herodotus, and others. But what need we the Testimonies of the Gentiles, save to know that in this point the Jews and they agreed? It is enough to have proved it out of Scripture, that this was the use and nature of Sacrifice: wherein I have been so much the longer, because though the thing be of it self most apparent and evident, yet it is very little taken notice of.

But you will enquire now, What profit hath this Discourse, or what use is there of this thing being known? I answer, Yes; it will help our conceit very much to understand in what sense and for what respect the ancient Church called the Eucharist or Lord's Supper a Sacrifice, and how harmless that notion was; namely, They took this Sacrament to have been ordained by our Blessed Saviour to succeed those bloudy Sacrifices of the Law, and to be a Medium deprecandi Deum, a mean of Supplication and address to God, in the New Testament, as they were in the Old, by representing the Body and Bloud of Christ unto his Father, κ) τὴν διάταξιν αὐτῦ according to his appointment: Forasmuch as they saw them both to be Rites of a like kind, as consisting of Meats and Drinks; both Epulæ fœderales, Federal Feasts, those of the Old Covenant, this of the New, [Τῦτο τὸ ποτήριον ἡ καινὴ διαθήκη, This Cup is the New Testament,] both Rites of Atonement or for Impetration of Remission of sin, [Τῦτο γάρ ἐςι τὸ αἷμά μυ, saith our Saviour, τὸ περὶ πολλῶν ἐκχυνόμενον εἰς ἄφεσιν ἁμαρτιῶν, This is my Bloud, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.] Besides, the Eucharist was by the time of its institution as it were substituted in place of the Passeover, which was a Sacrifice of that kind called Pacifica. All these things considered, how obvious was it for them to think, that it was in the Institution intended for the same End and Use the other were, namely, for a Commemoration, whereby to have access and find favour with God, when we address our selves unto him in the New Testament?

And that this was no new device of later ages, but derived from the first times, may appear out of Cyril (or his Successour John of Jerusalem) Author of the 5. Catech. Mystag. In the last whereof, relating and expounding the meaning of that which was said or done at the celebration of the holy Eucharist, according to the use of his time, (which was the Fourth Seculum current) amongst other things he saith, Μετὰ τὸ ἀπαρτισθῆναι τὴν πνευματικὴν θυσίαν, &c. [See this passage quoted in the foregoing Discourse, Chap. 6. pag. 466.]

Yea that it was the use in the dayes of Constantine thus adhibere Eucharistiam ad preces, to use the Eucharist as a Rite of impetration in their prayers, appears out of Eusebius in his De vita Constantini, lib. 4. c. 45. where speaking of a great Synod of Bishops assembled at Jerusalem by the Emperour's Command, to celebrate the dedication of a Church erected over the place of our Saviour's Sepulchre, and telling how the Bishops there met employ'd themselves during that Solemnity; Some (saith he) by Panegyrick Orations set forth the Emperour's felicity; others were employed in preaching and expounding the Mysteries of Holy Scripture; another part ἀναίμαις θυσίαις τὸ θεῖον ἱλάσκοντο, ὑπὲρ τῆς κοινῆς εἰρήνης, ὑπὲρ τῆς Ἐκκλησίας τ Θεῦ, αὐτῦ τε βασιλέως, ὑπὲρ τ τοσύτων αἰτίυ, παίδων τ᾽ αὐτῦ θεοφιλῶν, ἱκετηρίυς εὐχὰς τῷ Θεῷ προσαναφέροντες, did propitiate God and sought his favour by unbloudy Sacrifices, offering unto God humble Prayers for the publick peace, for the Church of God, for the King the Author of so much good, and for his children beloved of God; namely, as the Jews in their Sacrifices prayed for the life of the King and his Sons, according to my Text.

But

Ezra 6. 10.

But for the more full underſtanding the notion and practice of this Age, take alſo a paſſage of S. Auſtin: it is in his 22. Book De civitate Dei, concerning one Heſperius, &c. [See this paſſage quoted in the foregoing Diſcourſe, Chap. 5. pag. 462.]

But ſome will ſuſpect perhaps that this Cuſtome began in the dayes of Conſtantine. No, it did not: It was in uſe in the dayes of Cyprian 60. years before, as appears in his 16. Epiſtle ad Moſen & Maximum. * Nos quidem veſtri memores, & quando in Sacrificiis precem cum pluribus facimus, &c. [See this paſſage quoted in the foregoing Diſcourſe, Chap. 5. pag. 461.]

Let us aſcend a little higher yet unto the days of Tertullian, within 200 years after Chriſt. He, in his Book De Oratione, makes expreſs mention of Orationes Sacrificiorum, Prayers that accompanied the celebration of the Chriſtian Sacrifice, ſuch namely as S. Cyprian (Biſhop of the ſame City whereof Tertullian was Presbyter, to wit of Carthage) even now ſpake of. And in his Book ad Scapulam, Sacrificamus (ſaith he) purâ prece, We ſacrifice with pure prayer. But you will ſay, This is againſt me rather, becauſe he ſaith purâ prece, implying there was nothing elſe. No, it is not: For by purâ prece he means not nudâ & ſolitariâ prece, bare and naked prayer, but * prayer not defiled with ſhedding of bloud and ſmoke of Incenſe, according to the manner of the Gentiles. And thus (as Sozomen in l. 2. c. 14. relates) Conſtantine writes to Sapores the Perſian King in behalf of the Chriſtians, μόναις ἐυχαῖς ἀναιμάκτοις πρὸς ἱλασίαν θεοῦ ἀρκεῖσθαι, that they did ſatisfy themſelves and acquieſce in offering up Prayers without bloud for the intreating of God's favour, ᾧ γὰρ αἵματος φίλον αἱμάτων χύσις, μόνη δὲ χαίρει ψυχὴ καθαρᾷ, for that the ſhedding of bloud was no way acceptable to God, whoſe ſole and chief delight was in a purified Soul.

And that it was the manner in Tertullian's time adhibere Euchariſtiam ad preces, may be further confirmed by the promiſcuous uſe of the words ſignifying the one and the other. For in his * Exhort. ad Caſtitatem, Oratio and Offerre, Oratio and Sacrificium are interchangeably put the one for the other. It was obſerved before, how that Joſephus attributes unto Noah a Prayer when the Scripture mentions onely his offering a Sacrifice. And for that which is ſaid (Acts 6. 6.) in the ſtory of the ſeven Deacons ſet before the Apoſtles to be ordained by them, καὶ προσευξάμενοι, and when they had prayed, &c. we have in Conſtit. Apoſtol. l. 8. c. ult. ἡμεῖς προσενεγκόντες καθὰ τὴν διάταξιν αὐτῶ θυσίαν καθαρὰν καὶ ἀναίμακτον, &c. We having offered (according to his appointment) a pure and unbloudy Sacrifice, ordained Biſhops, Presbyters, and Deacons, in number ſeven.

* Adde hereunto that of Cyprian in his De Orat. Dom. Et quando in unum cum fratribus convenimus, & SACRIFICIA Divina cum Dei Sacerdote celebramus, verecundiæ & diſciplinæ memores eſſe debemus, non paſſim ventilare PRECES noſtras inconditis vocibus, &c.

* This to be his meaning, appears from the words immediately following, Non eget Deus odoris & ſanguinis alicujus, &c. See Chap. 5. of the foregoing Diſcourſe, pag. 460.

* [See the paſſage quoted in the foregoing Diſcourſe, Chap. 5. pag. 461.]

[What remains in the Manuſcript, conſiſts of Teſtimonies quoted out of Juſtin Martyr his Dialogue with Trypho, and Ignatius his Epiſtle to the Epheſians, and Acts 2. 42. All which Paſſages are quoted at large in the foregoing Diſcourſe, Chap. 5.]

Of

Of the Name ALTAR, OR ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ, anciently given to the HOLY TABLE.

✠

A Chappel Common-place, An. 1635.

GENTLE READER,

A Long Preface would not become a Treatiſe of ſo ſmall a bulk. Onely therefore, in a word or two, thou art deſired to take notice, That this Diſcourſe was a private Exerciſe *delivered in a Colledge Chappel, above two full years ſince, and ſo before the preſent Controverſie about that Subject whereof it treats was commenced by any publick Writing; and therefore not to be ſuſpected to aim at, or to have relation to, any mans opinion or perſon ſince intereſſed therein.

*An. 1635.

That it was never intended for the publick view, but, as thou mayeſt eaſily perceive by the form it ſtill carries unaltered, fitted properly to that private Auditory and time, wherein it was uttered. But when, by occaſion of the late Polemicks, it was copied out, to communicate to ſome friends for their better reſolution in the controverted point; it chanced to fall into the hands of ſome, who ſo well liked it, as that they thought, the time of its compoſure eſpecially conſidered, (which by way of caution was then prefixed in the front) it would, being made publick, conduce to peace, and ſettling of mens minds and judgements in this queſtion.

The hope of ſo deſirable a good prevailed with the Author (otherwiſe the moſt unwilling of any man to come abroad) to permit it to the Preſs. For whom would it not grieve to ſee, that the very NAME of That, the approch whereunto was wont, and ſtill ſhould, diſſolve all differences, ſhould now become the occaſion of ſo much quarell?

Matt. 5.23,24.

Thus much I thought good to admoniſh thee: and ſo hoping thou wilt make a favourable and candid conſtruction of what is preſented unto thee, with no ill meaning, (I dare aſſure thee) I bid thee Farewell.

SECTION

SECTION I.

HAVING made so long a Tractation about the Eucharist or Christian Sacrifice, I hold it not unfit, before I pass to another Theme, to speak somewhat of the Seat or raised Fabrick whereon this holy Mystery hath been celebrated; as an Appendix to my former Discourses thereof: and the rather, because some questions and scruples are moved thereabout. And though others commonly pronounce of these things according to vulgar opinion and hear-say, without further search and enquiry; yet it becomes not us, who live in the Schools of the Prophets, to doe so; but to give our verdict, when we do give it, out of judgement and due examination.

To come then to the matter: The Seat or raised Fabrick appointed for the setting and celebration of this holy Mysterie was the HOLY TABLE, or ALTAR: for by both these names hath that sacred Biere (as I may call it) of the Body and Bloud of Christ been ever promiscuously and indifferently called in the Church. Of the name TABLE there is no question; it is granted by all: But concerning the name ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ, or ALTAR, many will not believe it. Let us therefore see what may be alledged for the antiquity of the use of it, as well as of that of TABLE. And take notice, that I speak not here either of the matter or form, (wherewith men are wont to entangle this question) but of the name and notion onely, whatsoever the form or matter were.

I will begin with Tertullian, the most ancient of the Latine Fathers now extant; who flourished about 100. years after the death of S. John the Evangelist, and 200. after the birth of Christ. He, in his Book De oratione, in fine, reprehending their scrupulosity who thought it not so lawful to partake the Eucharist upon their station or weekly fast-dayes, lest their Fast thereby should be dissolved, expresses himself after this manner. Tertullian An. 200. See also c. 10.

(a) "Similiter de stationum die- 1.
"bus, (saith he) non putant plerique
"sacrificiorum orationibus interveni-
"endum, quòd statio solvenda sit ac-
"cepto corpore Domini. Ergo devo-
"tum Deo obsequium Eucharistia re-
"solvit, an magis Deo obligat? Non-
"ne solennior erit statio tua si & ad
"ARAM Dei steteris? Accepto cor-
"pore Domini & reservato, utrumque
"salvum est, & participatio sacrifi-
"cii, & executio officii.

(a) And so for the Station or Fast-days, there are many so scrupulous as to think they may not be present at the Prayers of the Christian Sacrifices, because their Fast would be dissolved (as they suppose) upon their receiving the Lord's Body. But what? Does the Eucharist then dissolve that their Service devoted to God? Does it not rather the more strictly engage them to God and his Service? Nay will not thy Station or Fast be the more solemn if thou shalt also stand at God's ALTAR, where thou maist receive the Lord's Body, and reserve it to be eaten at home when thy Fast is ended? And thus both shall be salved; thou maiest partake of the Sacrifice, and withall goe on in the performance of thy Devotions.

Again, in his De Exhortatione castitatis, c. 10. endeavouring to prove (though erroneously) that a soul conscious of the act of the marriage-bed could not be fit for the duties of prayer and devotion, he speaks thus; (b) "Si spiritus reus apud se sit, & 2.
"conscientia erubescit, quomodo au-
"debit orationem dicere ad Altare?

(b) If a Soul be conscious of its guilt, and thereupon Conscience be ashamed, how shall it dare to pray at the ALTAR?

These two places shew, that in Tertullian's time, as the name Sacrifice was used used for the Eucharist, so was that of ALTAR for the HOLY TABLE: Besides that, the Prayers of the Church used there to be offered up unto God.

Sect. I.

Cyprian. An. 250.

Within 50. years after Tertullian lived S. Cyprian, Bishop of the same Church where Tertullian was Presbyter; to whom this language was so familiar, that I have observed it ten times at least in his Epistles onely: but whether he ever useth the name TABLE, I know not. I will recite onely five or six of the most pregnant and evident places, and not easie to be eluded.

1. And first, that in his 47. Epist. or 2. ad Cornelium; where, to shew that he favoured his part against Novatianus at the beginning, though he was not fully informed then of the lawfulness of his election, he relates, That having read his letters in the Church-assembly, he refused to publish those Libellous criminations against him which Novatianus had sent by his messengers to be there read. (a) "Honoris "(saith he) communis memores, & "gravitatis sacerdotalis ac sanctitatis "respectum tenentes, ea quæ ex di- "verso in librum ad nos transmissum "congesta fuerant acerbationibus cri- "minosis, respuimus; considerantes pa- "riter & ponderantes, quòd in tanto "fratrum religioso que conventu, con- "sidentibus Dei sacerdotibus, & ALTARI POSITO, nec legi debeant "nec audiri. 'Tis a description or Periphrasis of an Ecclesiastical assembly, or, as he calls it, religiosus conventus.

(a) Being mindfull of our common honour and dignity, and regardful of the Sacerdotal gravity and holiness, we have utterly rejected all that was raked up against you in a Writing that was sent us, full of a deal of provoking and reproachful stuff, seriously considering and weighing with our selves, that in so full and religious an assembly of the Brethren, God's Priests being set, and the ALTAR placed, it was no way fit such libellous criminations should be either read or heard.

2. Likewise in his 54. Epistle; where declaiming against some lapsed Christians, who in time of Persecution having sacrificed unto Idols, were yet so proud and insolent as to endeavour by threats and violence to be received again into the Church, without undergoing publick penance and the satisfaction accustomed, he speaks on this manner: If such Insolency as this be tolerated, and those who sacrifice unto Idols once come to be received again into the Church without due satisfaction, (b) "Quid superest, quàm "ut Ecclesia Capitolio cedat, & rece- "dentibus sacerdotibus, ac Domini "nostri ALTARE removentibus, in "Cleri nostri sacrum venerandúmque "* CONSESSUM (i. e. in Presbyte-"rium, seu ὃ ἅγιον Βῆμα) simulachra "atque idola cum ARIS suis trans- "eant?

(b) What then remains but that the Church should yield to the Capitol, and that the Priests withdrawing themselves, and taking away the Lord's ALTAR, Images and Idol-Gods together with their Altars should succeed and take possession of the place proper to the sacred and venerable Bench of our Clergy?

* Consessus here notes the place, as in Gr. Συνέδριον.

3. Again, in his 64. Ep. against one Fortunatianus a Bishop, who having lapsed in the time of Persecution would nevertheless return to the office of a Bishop, he hath these words; (c) "Cùm debeat satisfacere, & ad Domi- "num exorandum diebus ac noctibus "lacrymis & orationibus & precibus "incumbere; audet sibi adhuc sacerdo- "tium quod prodidit vindicare, quasi "post ARAS Diaboli accedere ad AL-"TARE Dei fas sit? And in the same Ep.

(c) Whenas he ought to make due satisfaction, and with earnest supplications, prayers and tears both day and night intreat God's mercy; does he as yet dare to claim the Sacerdotal dignity which he had betrayed; as if it were a fit thing for one to come immediately from the Devil's Altars to the Altar of God?

Sect. 1.

Ep. (a) "Nè tales ad Altaris "impiamenta & contagia fratrum de- "nuo redeant, omnibus viribus ex- "cubandum eſt. In theſe two laſt places note, 1. The name Altar uſed for the Holy Table: 2. That thoſe Fathers, when they would diſtinguiſh between the Altar of the true God and the Altars of Idols, do uſually call the one Ara, and the other Altare; of which more hereafter.

(a) We ought to uſe our utmoſt care and induſtry, that ſuch lapſed and apoſtatiz'd perſons do not return again to their charge, to the defiling of the Altar and the infecting of the Brethren.

A fourth Teſtimony is to be found in his 70. Epiſtle ad Januar. & cæteros, where to prove that Hereticks cannot give true Baptiſm, he reaſons thus; (b) "Porrò autem (ſaith he) "Euchariſtia, &, unde Baptizati un- "guntur, Oleum, in Altari ſan- "ctificatur. Sanctificare autem non "potuit olei creaturam, qui nec Al- "tare habuit nec Eccleſiam. Unde "nec unctio ſpiritalis apud Hæreticos "poteſt eſſe, quando conſtet oleum ſan- "ctificari & Euchariſtiam fieri apud "illos omnino non poſſe.

4.

(b) And moreover we are to conſider that as the Euchariſt, ſo the Oile alſo wherewith the baptized ones are anointed, is conſecrated on the Altar. But how can any ſuch conſecrate the Creature of Oile, as have neither Altar nor Church? And therefore there can be no ſpiritual unction amongſt the Hereticks, ſince it is evident that neither can the Oile be conſecrated nor the Euchariſt celebrated by ſuch as are Hereticks.

A fifth Teſtimony of this uſe of ſpeech we may have in his 63. Epiſt. ad Cæcilium, where he ſaith, (c) "Sed & per Solomonem Spiri- "tus Sanctus typum Dominici ſacrifi- "cii antè præmonſtrat, immolatæ ho- "ſtiæ, & panis & vini; ſed & Al- "taris & Apoſtolorum faciens men- "tionem. Sapientia, inquit, ædifica- "vit ſibi domum, & ſubdidit colum- "*nas ſeptem; * mactavit ſuas hoſti-* "as, miſcuit in cratera vinum ſuum, "& paravit menſam ſuam; & miſit "*ſervos ſuos, * convocans cum excel-* "ſa prædicatione ad crateram, di- "cens, &c.

5.

Prov. 9. 1, &c.
* LXX. Ἔθυσε τὰ ἑαυτῆς θύματα.
* LXX. συγκαλέσα μετὰ ὑψηλῆς κηρύγματος ἐπὶ κρατῆρα.

(c) But withall the Holy Ghoſt by Solomon doth foreſhew the Type of the Lord's Sacrifice, the Oblation there offered, and the Bread and Wine; as alſo makes mention of the Altar and the Apoſtles, ſaying, Wiſedom hath built her ſelf an houſe, and hath ſet it upon ſeven pillars; She hath killed her Sacrifices, ſhe hath mingled her Wine in her Cup; ſhe hath alſo prepared her table, and ſent forth her ſervants, calling with a loud voice and inviting all unto her Cup, ſaying, &c.

A like paſſage whereto is to be found alſo in his Teſtimoniorum adverſus Judæos lib. 2. c. 2. (d) "Quòd Sa- "pientia Dei Chriſtus, & de Sacra- "mento Incarnationis ejus, & Paſſio- "nis & Calicis, & Altaris, & A- "poſtolorum qui miſsi prædicaverunt "[Teſtimonium exſtat] apud Solo- "monem in Paræmiis: Sapientia a- "dificavit ſibi domum, & ſubdidit co- "lumnas ſeptem; mactavit hoſtias "ſuas, miſcuit in cratera vinum ſu- "um, & paravit ſuam menſam, &c.

6.

(d) That Chriſt is the Wiſedom of God, as alſo concerning the myſtery of his Incarnation, and of his Paſſion and Cup, and the Altar, and the Apoſtles who being ſent preached the Goſpel, there is a plain Teſtimony in Solomon's Proverbs, viz. Wiſedom hath built herſelf an houſe, and ſet it upon ſeven pillars; She hath killed her Sacrifices, ſhe hath mingled her wine in her cup, and prepared her table, &c.

By which two paſſages it appears, that the name Altar was ſo familiarly and ordinarily uſed of the Holy Table in his time, that he interprets Solomon's * Menſa by that name, tanquam per notius, as by the better known. Otherwiſe what need he have expounded Solomon's menſa by Altare Chriſti? Menſa Chriſti would have ſerved the turn. I have deduced theſe Teſtimonies of Cyprian the more at large, becauſe of thoſe Objections wont to be alledged alledged out of Arnobius to the contrary, who notwithſtanding lived fifty years after him; and out of Lactantius, who, being Tutor to Conſtantine's ſon Criſpus, was yonger then he.

* As Athanaſius likewiſe doth Diſp. cont. Arium in Con. Nic. p. 90 To. 1. τράπεζαν, ἤτοι (inquit) τὸ ἅγιον Θυσιαστήριον, καὶ ἐπ' αὐτῷ ἄρτον ἐφόδιον καὶ ἀφθαρσίαν.

Sect. 1.

Zeno Veronenſis. An. 260.

Not long after Cyprian, about the year 260. lived Zeno Veronenſis, as appears by himſelf in his Book De Continentia. Caſaubon calls him Scriptor vetuſtiſſimus & elegantiſſimus. This Author in the 9. of his Paſchal Sermons Ad Neophytos, Invitatione ad Fontem tertiâ, ſayes of the Church, then a child-bearing mother unto God of many ſons by Baptiſm, That ſhe brought forth far cleaner children then a natural Mother uſeth to do, being her ſelf (a) "non fœtidis cunis, ſed "ſuavè-redolentibus SACRI AL- "TARIS feliciter enutrita cancellis. Here it is not onely ALTARE, but ALTARIS cancelli, the ſepts whereby it was ſeparated from the reſt of the Church or place of ſacred aſſembly.

(a) happily nouriſhed and brought up (not in ill-ſented cradles, but) within the pleaſant Septs of the holy ALTAR.

Euſeb. Hiſtor. Eccleſ. l. 10. c. 4.

And for the days of Conſtantine (whoſe reign began ſome fifty years after) Euſebius hath left us a copy of a Panegyrick Oration made at the dedication of a ſumptuous and magnificent Church at Tyre; the ſtructure and garniſhing whereof the Panegyriſt deſcribing at large, and amongſt the reſt the ſeats erected in the Sacrarium or Quire, for the honour (as he ſpeaks) τῶν προέδρων, of the Prelacy and Prieſtly Order, he adds, (b) "Καὶ "τὸ ἅγιον ἁγίων ΘΥΣΙΑΣ- "ΤΗΡΙΟΝ ἐν μέσῳ θεὶς, & ſacro- "ſancto ALTARI in medio collo- "cato; iſta rurſus, [ὡς ἂν εἴη τοῖς "πολλοῖς ἄβατα] ut à multitudinis "acceſſu prohiberentur, [τοῖς ἀπὸ ξύλου περιφεράτοις δικτύοις,] reticulati operis "cancellis ex ligno fabricatis circumdedit, adeò ad ſummum ſolertis artificii "elaboratis, ut mirabile intuentibus præbeat ſpectaculum. Lo here again ALTARI, and cancelli ejus.

(b) And placing the moſt holy ALTAR in the middle; that the multitude might be hindred from preſsing too near it, he compaſſed it about with a wooden rail of network, of a moſt curious artifice, admirable to behold.

But the ſame Euſebius, in his Book De laudibus Conſtantini, verſùs finem, hath a more full paſſage, and which ſhews this language to have been at that time common and uſual. For there, magnifying and ſetting forth the ſtupendious and unparallel'd power of Chriſt our Lord and Saviour, teſtified abundantly by that wonderful and never-before-exemplified change which he had then wrought in the world, amongſt other inſtances he hath this paſſage: (c) "Quis alius, ſolo Servatore no- "ſtro excepto, [a] coëpulonibus ſuis "incruenta & rationalia ſacrificia "precibus & [b] arcanâ Θεολογίᾳ per- "agenda tradidit? Quorum cauſâ "tum [c] ALTARIA in toto terrarum "orbe conſtituta ſunt, tum Eccleſia- "rum dedicationes factæ; ſolique "omnium moderatori Deo divina ſa- "crificiorum, ſolâ [d] mente & ratione "obeundorum, miniſteria ab omnibus "gentibus exhibita. Sacrificia verò "ſanguine, cruore & fumo peragi ſo- "lita--vi quadam occultâ & inviſi- "bili deleta & extincta ſunt. Lo here ALTARIA in toto terrarum orbe conſtituta, for the offering of the Chriſtian Sacrifice.

(c) Who elſe beſides our Bleſſed Saviour did ever teach and appoint his Gueſts to celebrate Unbloudy and Reaſonable Sacrifices, ſuch as were to be performed by prayer and myſterious Theology? And hence it was that ALTARS were erected, and Churches alſo conſecrated, throughout all the world; as alſo Intellectual and Reaſonable Sacrifices were by all Nations offered up to God the King of the whole world. But as for the bloudy and ſmoaky Sacrifices, they are by a ſecret and inviſible power quite extinguiſhed, and are no more in uſe.

[a] Gr. Ἀναίμας καὶ λογικὰς θυσίας ἐδίδαξε αὐτὸς διασώτοις ὁπτελεῖν παρέδωκεν.

[b] Gr. δι' ἀπορρήτου Θεολογίας.

[c] Gr. ὑπὲρ τοῦ καθ' ὅλης οἰκουμένης ἀνθρώπων Θυσιαστήρια συνέστη, Ἐκκλησιῶν τε ἀφιερώματα.

[d] Gr. τῶν νοερῶν καὶ λογικῶν θυσιῶν.

Where I thought not good to omit that what Euſebius ſpeaks here of the World

World in general, S. Chryſoſtome affirms in particular of our Britiſh Iſlands; "Καὶ γὰρ (ſaith he) αἱ Βρεττανικαὶ νῆσοι, αἱ τῆς Θαλάττης ὀχλοῦσι κείμεναι ταύ- "της, καὶ ἐν αὐτῷ ὄυσαι τῷ Ὠκεανῷ, τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ ῥήματος ἥψαντο· καὶ γὰρ "καὶ Ἐκκλησίαι καὶ ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΑ πεπήγασιν. The Britiſh Iſlands, "which lie out of this ſea, and are in the Ocean it ſelf, have felt the power "of the Word: for even there alſo Churches and ALTARS are erected.

Sect. 2.

In Demon. adv. Judæos & Gent. Ὅτι θεὸς ὁ Χριστός. Edit. Sav. Tom. 6. p. 635.

SECTION II.

BUT will ſome ſay, 'Tis true indeed, that from two hundred years after Chriſt, and forward, the name of ALTAR was much frequented; but before that time it cannot be ſhewed to have been uſed by the teſtimony of any Authentick Writer; and therefore nothing ſo ancient as that of TABLE. So ſome of ours affirm indeed; but they will be tried by no other Authors and Records of thoſe times then ſuch onely as themſelves hold for genuine, as Juſtin Martyr, Theophilus Antiochenus, Irenæus, or it may be another ſmall Tractator or two (with whom this name is not found.) Of whom the works of the two principal, Juſtin and Irenæus, the moſt likely to have informed us, are near the one half periſhed.

But before I make further Anſwer to this Exception, I would know to what end it is made, and what advantage the Authors thereof do hope to gain by it. For the reaſon, I think, why the name ALTAR is ſo much ſcrupled at is, becauſe it is thought to imply Sacrifice. But Juſtin Martyr and Irenæus are well enough known to call the Euchariſt both an Oblation and Sacrifice; yea the latter to dwell upon that theme. What gain is there then, that the name ALTAR is not to be found in thoſe works of theirs which remain, if that of Oblation and Sacrifice (for which the name of ALTAR is diſliked) be? Beſides, what likelihood that thoſe who conceived of the Euchariſt under the notion of a Sacrifice, ſhould not call the place thereof, as well as their Succeſſors did, ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗ'ΡΙΟΝ?

Secondly, I would know of the Authors and uſers of this Exception, whether in thoſe Writers and Fathers before the two hundred years after Chriſt, which they acknowledged for genuine, the name of TABLE be to be found, or not, given to that whereon the holy Euchariſt was celebrated. If it be not, then this Exception of two hundred years after Chriſt, (which yet is but one hundred after the Apoſtles) makes no more againſt the one then the other, if neither be to be found in the works extant of the Fathers which then lived. For by this it will appear, they had no occaſion to mention this ſacred BOARD either by one name or other in thoſe works of theirs which are left unto us. Now for my part, though I have with diligence ſought to inform my ſelf herein, yet hitherto it hath never been my hap to find the Name of TABLE in any of them more then of ALTAR. I have enquired of others, and yet they have not ſhewed it me. And therefore till I ſee it, I will believe it cannot be ſhewn.

But perhaps you will ſay, What matters it whether the Fathers we ſpeak of have it or not, if the Scripture hath? For doth not S. Paul ſay, You cannot be partakers of the Table of the Lord and of the Table of Devils? 'Tis true. There is this onely place to be alledged to that purpoſe: I know no other. And yet this too, if the judgement of ſome of our own Expoſitors be taken, is not ſufficient to prove it neither. For Table here might ſignifie, not the inſtrument or ſeat, but the Epulum or meat it ſelf; it being the uſe of all Languages (I am ſure of thoſe learned ones) to expreſs * diet by Table; yea whether it be ſet thereon or not. And the matter of the Apoſtle's ſtle's diſcourſe ſeems to require this ſenſe; for he ſpeaks of Idolothyta or meats ſacrificed to Idols. And not to be out-vied with Antiquity, I could likewiſe (as ſome do) parallel this place for TABLE with another, of a much like nature, for the name ALTAR; namely, that Heb. 13. 10. where the Apoſtle ſaith, We (i. e. we Chriſtians) have an ALTAR, whereof they have no right to eat which ſerve at the Tabernacle. I know what you would be ready to except, namely, that by the ALTAR here named is meant Chriſt: which I for my own part ſhould willingly admit, ſo it be underſtood with this caution, Chriſt as he is to be eaten in the Euchariſt. For the Apoſtle ſpeaks here of an ALTAR to be eaten of; which is not the material inſtrument or ſeat, but the Sacrifice uſed thereon. Thus if theſe two places, capable of, if not requiring, the like interpretation, be ſet the one againſt the other, we have not all this while found one jot more for the Antiquity of the name TABLE then of ALTAR.

* Pſal. 78. 19. Can God furniſh a TABLE in the wilderneſs? See the verſe after, where לֶחֶם Fleſh or Food is rendred Τράπεζα Menſa a TABLE by the LXX and Vulgar. So is לֶחֶם Bread or Food rendred Τράπεζα a TABLE by the LXX twice in 1 Sam. 20. 23, 26. al. 24, 27. And בָּשָׂר Meat is rendred Τράπεζα four times in Dan. 1.

Sect. 2.

But now to anſwer more directly to the Queſtion, Whether the name of ALTAR were uſed in the Church before two hundred years after Chriſt or not; I anſwer, It was. For proof whereof, why may I not alledge the Canons called the Apoſtles? Which though the Apoſtles compiled not, yet are more ancient ſure (at leaſt many of them) then two hundred years after Chriſt, being not improbably to be thought to have been the Codex Canonum whereby the Church in thoſe firſt ages (eſpecially of the Orient) was ordered and governed. And in Queſtions of uſe and cuſtome (ſuch as this is) not genuineneſs of Titles onely, but whatſoever Antiquity, though masked under a wrong and untrue name, may be admitted, I think, to give evidence according to the age thereof. Beſides, if it be credible that the Apoſtles, or thoſe to whom they committed the Churches, Apoſtolical men, might leave unto the Church ſome Rules of Order and Diſcipline, beſides thoſe mentioned in Scripture, (and whence otherwiſe ſhould thoſe Catholick and generally-received Traditions of the Church be derived?) why may not ſome of theſe, which bear that name, be of that number? And if any be, then none more likely then thoſe which are firſt in order: namely, becauſe Collections of this nature are wont in proceſs of time like ſnowballs to receive increaſe by new additions ever and anon put unto them, and yet notwithſtanding continue ſtill the name and Title of their firſt Authors; though ſometimes not the one half of the contents will be owned by them. Upon which ſuppoſition we have, for the reſolving of the preſent queſtion, as much advantage as can be; conſidering that the Canon we are to alledge is the ſecond, or at the moſt (according as ſome others divide them) but the third in order from the beginning; and ſo (howſoever the Collection hath in time been encreaſed) one of the firſt and moſt ancient of them. Let us therefore hear how it ſpeaks.

Canones Apoſt.

* Gr. χόνδρος, mitis grana fricta aut toſta, Latini Graneas dixere. De ſignificatione τοῦ χόνδρου vid. LXX. Lev. 2. 14, 16. & ca 23. 14. Caſaub. in Athenæum, lib. 14. 16 Male hîc Baliſmon & alii, Legumina. Conſer Can. Syn. Carthag. quæ habet, ἢ ἀπὸ χαμαιζήλων χόρτου.

(a) If any Biſhop or Presbyter ſhall bring to the ALTAR any thing beſides what is appointed by our Lord concerning the Chriſtian Sacrifice [that is to ſay, beſides Bread and Wine,] be it Honey, or Milk, or in ſtead of Wine ſtrong Drink prepared with all poſſible coſt and art, or Fowls, or any other Creatures beſides what is appointed by our Lord; let him be depoſed. Nor let it be lawful to offer any thing at the time of the holy Oblation (or Euchariſt,) beſides new corn parched or baken, and grapes in their ſeaſon; except

Canon Apoſt. 2. (a) "Si quis "Epiſcopus aut Presbyter præter Do-
"mini de ſacrificio ordinationem [i.
"præter Panem & Vinum] alia
"quædam [ἅπερ ὁ ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗ-
"ΡΙΟΝ] ad ALTARE attulerit,
"ſive mel, ſive lac, ſive vini loco
"ſiceram ſtudiosè confectam, vel a-
"ves, vel animalia quævis (præter
"ordinationem) deponatur. Præter
"novas farra aut uvam tempore op-*
"portuno, non licitum eſſe aliud quid
"ad ALTARE (quàm oleum ad lu- minare,

Sect. 2.

it be Oile for the Candlestick, and Incense.

" minare, & incensum) tempore san-
" ctæ Oblationis offerre.

Here the name ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗ'ΡΙΟΝ or ALTAR is twice used for the HOLY TABLE. The latter part of the Canon the Greek hath thus: πλὼ νέων χίδρων, ἢ ϛαφυλῆς τῷ καιρῷ τῷ δέοντι, μὴ ἐξὸν ἔϛω προσήχθαί τι ἕτερον πρὸς τὸ Θυσιαϛήριον, ἢ ἔλαιον εἰς τλὼ λυχνίαν ϗ θυμίαμα, τῷ καιρῷ τ ἁγίας προσφορᾶς. Where consider whether it might not be read, ἢ ἔλαιον ἢ θυμίαμα, that is, (a) sive oleum ad luminare, sive incensum; implying that at another time they might be offered there, but not tempore sanctæ Oblationis, at the time of the holy Eucharist. For the better judgement whereof, and of the right meaning of the Canon (because the readings, distinction, and translations somewhat vary) take also a Canon of the Council of Carthage under Aurelius (Anno 397.) very like unto it, and made undoubtedly in imitation thereof.

(a) Whether Oile for the Candlestick, or Incense.

Syn. Carth. Can. apud Balsam.

(b) " Non licere præter panem & vi-
" num aquâ mixtum quidquam in
" sanctis mysteriis offerre. Ut nihil
" ampliùs quàm Corpus & Sanguis
" Domini offeratur, quemadmodum
" Dominus ipse tradidit; hoc est, Pa-
" nis & Vinum aquâ mixtum. Pri-
" mitiæ autem, sive mel, sive lac, offe-
" rantur, ut moris est, uno die consueto,
" ad Infantium mysterium (putà in " Baptismo.) Etsi enim maximè [ὃν
" Θυσιαϛηρίῳ] ad ALTARE offeran-
" *tur, propriam tamen suam habeant
" benedictionem. Nihil autem am-
" plius in primitiis [nimirum ad Al-
" tare, in sanctis mysteriis] offeratur
" quàm ex uvis & frumento. Which onely were permitted to be offered at the time of the Eucharist, (as may seem) because Bread and Wine are made of them.

(b) That it is not lawful to offer any thing but Bread and Wine mingled with water at the time of celebrating the holy Mysteries. Let nothing else besides the Lord's Body and Bloud be offered, as our Lord himself hath ordained; that is to say, Bread and Wine mingled with water. But as for the First-fruits, whether of Honey or Milk, let them be offered (as the manner is) upon one solemn and accustomed day, at the Baptism of Infants. And though these (viz. Honey and Milk) more especially are offered at the ALTAR, yet they are to have their proper and peculiar benediction, different and apart from the blessing of the Bread and Wine, or the consecration of the Lord's Body and Bloud. Nor let there be any thing presented as a kind of First-fruit-offering there (viz. at the Altar, at the time of celebrating the holy Mysteries) but Grapes and Corn.

* ἰδίαν ἐχέτω ἐυλογίαν, ὡς ὂν τῇ ἁγιασμένος τῇ Κυριακῇ σώματος ϗ αἵματος δίχεσθαι.

But I will not set my rest upon a Pseudepigraphal Testimony, but alledge a witness past exception, and for antiquity beyond them all: And that is, that holy and blessed Martyr Ignatius, Bishop of that City where the name of Christians was first given to the Disciples of Christ; who lived and saw the latter end of the Apostles times. This blessed Martyr, in those Epistles of his which none that are learned or judicious now make question of, thrice useth the name ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗ'ΡΙΟΝ or ALTAR for the Lord's TABLE, in his Epistles Ad Philadelphenses, Trallenses, & Ephesios.

Ignat. Ep. Antioch.

In the first whereof ad Philadelph. he speaks thus: (c) " Scribo ad vos, mo- 1.
" neóque ut unâ fide, unâ prædicatio-
" ne, unâ Eucharistiâ utamini: una e-
" nim est caro Domini nostri Jesu
" Christi, unus illius sanguis qui pro
" nobis effusus est; unus item panis om-
" nibus confractus, & unus CALIX
" qui omnibus distributus est; unum
" ALTARE omni Ecclesiæ, & unus E-

(c) I write unto you and warn you that you use one Faith, one Doctrine, one Eucharist: For there is one Flesh of our Lord Jesus Christ, one Bloud of the same our Lord Jesus Christ which was shed for us; one Bread broken for us, and one Cup distributed to all; one ALTAR to every Church, and one Bishop with the Presbytery and Deacons my fellow-Servants.

Sect. 2. "piscopus cum Presbyterio & Diaconis conservis meis. In this place Vedelius* expressly acknowledgeth the name ALTAR to be used by Ignatius for the HOLY TABLE, (though otherwise he be no friend to that name) because he knew not how to elude it. I thought good therefore to put it in the head of the file, to lead on the rest which follow. Whereof

* P. 236. Exer. 6. in Epist. Ad Ephesios.

2. That Ad Ephesios shall have the next place; where exhorting them to be subject and at unity with their Bishop and Presbyterie, he enforceth it thus: (a) "Nemo erret; (saith he) "Nisi quis intra ALTARE sit, [Gr. "ἐντὸς τοῦ ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΥ] "privatur pane Dei. Si enim unius aut alterius precatio tantarum virium sit, ut Christum inter illos statuat; quanto plus Episcopi & totius Ecclesiæ oratio consona ad Deum ascendens (for this used to be presented at the Altar) exorabit, ut omnia quæ petiverint in Christo dentur ipsis? As if he had said, Be not deceived, but take notice, that as every one who is not at peace with his brother is excluded from the Altar, [Matt. 5. 24.] so much more he that through disobedience is in schism and discord with his Bishop and spiritual Fathers is excluded thence; that is, hath no right to offer his Gift thereat; and consequently is deprived of the Bread of God, (the holy Eucharist,) and of the benefit of those precious and efficacious Prayers therewith offered up to God by the Bishop and Priestly Order in the name of the whole Church. Which how great a benefit it is may appear by this, That if the prayer of one or two be of that efficacie as to place Christ in the midst of them; how much more shall the united prayer of the Bishop and the whole Church be of force to prevail with the Divine Majesty to grant them all they shall ask in Christ's name? It follows, (b) "Quisquis igitur ab his "separatur, neque concurrit cum βυλῇ "θυσιῶν, & Ecclesiâ primogenitorum "conscriptorum in cœlis, Lupus est "sub ovina pelle, faciem mentiens "mansuetam: that is, An Infidel in a Christian's coat. Where by βυλῇ θυσιῶν, Concilium or Senatus sacrificiorum, he understands the Bishop and his Clergie, who are Senatus rei Divinæ, or sacris faciundis. Therefore Vedelius, who will needs here, without reason or copy, in stead of βυλῇ θυσιῶν reade βυλῇ ὁσίων (the better to make way for his conceit, That the body of the Church in general should be the Altar Ignatius here speaks of) did but correct the Magnificat, and pervert Ignatius his meaning, which he understood not. For that this which I have said is the meaning of Ignatius in this place, appears more plainly by the third Testimony I am now to alledge of his, viz.

(a) Let no man deceive himself; Unless a man be within the ALTAR, he is deprived of the Bread of God. And if the prayer of one or two be of that force, as to set Christ in the midst of them; how much more shall the joynt-prayer of the Bishop and whole Church sent up unto God prevail with him to grant us all our requests in Christ?

(b) Whosoever therefore separates himself from these, and joyns not with the Council of the Clergy, whose office it is to celebrate the Christian Sacrifices, nor with the Church of the First-born which are enrolled in heaven, (Heb. 12. 23.) Whosoever is thus in schism and discord with them, is a Woolf in a Sheeps skin, pretending meekness under that disguise.

3. Ex Epist. ad TRALLENSES ante med. (c) "Reveremini (inquit) "Episcopum vestrum sicut Christum, "quemadmodum beati nobis præcepe-"runt Apostoli. Qui intra ALTARE "est, mundus est; quare & obtempe-"rat Episcopo & Presbyteris. Qui "verò

(c) Reverence the Bishop, as ye do Christ, as the blessed Apostles have commanded us. He that is within the ALTAR, is clean; and therefore obeys the Bishop and Presbyters. But he that is without, is he that does any thing without the Bishop, Presbyters and Deacons: and such a one hath a defiled Conscience, and is worse then an Infidel. "verò extrà est, hic est qui sine Epi-

"copo, Presbyteris & Diaconis quip-
"piam agit: & talis inquinatam ha-
"bet conscientiam, & Infideli deterior est: 1. He is a Woolf in a Sheeps skin, as he said in the other Epistle. The places are twins, and the one is a gloss unto the other. Sect. 2.

Now, by warrant of these Testimonies, I think I may safely conclude, That the use of the name ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ or Altar. (for ought that any hitherto hath shewed to the contrary) is no less ancient in Christianity then that of ἱερὰ τράπεζα, of the Holy Table or Table Of The Lord; and that both have been promiscuously used from the Apostles times.

Nor is it any marvel it should be so; for these names are of an equivalent notion, and signifie one and the self-same thing. For what is an Altar but of those kind of things we call Tables? what Genus else can we referr it to? The difference is, That an Altar notes not a common, but an Holy Table, a Table for an Holy Feast, such as I have heretofore shewed a Sacrifice to be, Epulum ex oblatis, or a Feast of an Oblation made unto God: That is, there is no more difference between a Table and an Altar, then between another Cup and a Chalice. An Altar is not every Table or a Table for a common Feast, but an Holy Table; and an Holy Table is an Altar. The difference is not (as many suppose) either in the matter, as of wood or stone; for an Altar may be of wood (as both the golden Altar and that of Burnt-offering were in the Tabernacle, namely of Shittim-wood) and a Table may be of stone: nor in the posture or manner of standing, whether in the middle, or against a wall; (for the Altar of Burnt-offering stood in the midst of the Priests court, and the Altar of Incense up against the veil:) But this is the true difference, that a Table is a common Name, and an Altar is an Holy Table. "This Holy Altar (saith Gregory Nyssene, Sermone de Baptismo
"Christi) whereat we stand, is by nature a common stone, nothing differing "from other slates; but being consecrated to the service of God, and having re- "ceived the benediction, it is Τράπεζα ἁγία, Θυσιαστήριον ἄχεαυλον, an
"Holy Table, an Altar inviolable. See he makes one to be the Exegesis of the other. For in times past (when men perhaps were as wise as we are now) it was thought fit and decent, that things set apart unto God and sacred should be distinguished not onely in use, but in * name also from things common. For what is a Temple or Church but an House? yet distinguished in name from other Houses. What is a Sacrifice but a Feast? yet distinguished in name from other Feasts? So what is an Altar but a Table? yet distinguished in name from other Tables.

* Yea and in form and fashion too. See Maimon. apud Ainsw. upon Lev. 19. 30. For both Sanctity and Sanctification consists in Discrimination.

Well, let all this be granted, may some man say, that there is no greater difference between these two names then as you affirm; yet ought the Language of the Church to be conformed to the Style of the New Testament. But where in the New Testament should those Ancients finde any Text whereon to ground the application of this name to the Holy Table? I answer, There, I am prone to believe, whence they derived the Oblation of the Bread and Wine in the Eucharist, and that Rite of Reconciliation at their entrance thereunto; (where the Deacon was wont to proclaim, (a) Μή τις κατά τινος, Nè quis contra aliquem, or in some other words to like effect; and then every one to salute his brother in token of Reconciliation and Peace) and that was from that Ordinance of our Blessed Saviour in his Sermon upon the Mount, viz. If thou bringest thy Gift unto the Altar, and there remembrest that thy Brother hath ought a- gainſt thee; leave thy GIFT before the ALTAR, and go, firſt be reconciled to thy Brother, and then come and offer thy GIFT. Which Scripture they took to be an Evangelical conſtitution, wherein our Saviour implied, by way of Anticipation, that he would leave ſome Rite to his Church in ſtead, and after the manner of, the Sacrifices of the Law, which ſhould begin with an Oblation, as they did; and that to require this proper and peculiar qualification in the Offerer, To be at peace and without enmity with his Brother: Inſomuch as Irenæus ſeems to place that Purity of the Evangelical oblation propheſied of by * Malachi, even in this requiſite. Vide l. 4. c. 34. Hence alſo they may ſeem to have learned to call the Bread and Wine (in reſpect of this Oblation) Ἅγια δῶρα, the Holy GIFTS, from the word our Saviour here uſeth.

(a) Let no man have ought against his Brother.

Matt. 5. 23, 24.

Sect. 2.

* Chap. 1. 11.

For that they derived from this Text that Rite of Peace and Reconciliation before the Offertorie, appears expreſly out of Conſtit. Apoſt. l. 2. c. 57. Iren. lib. 4. 34. Edit. Fevard. Tertull. De Oratione c. 10. Euſebius De vita Conſtantini, lib. 4. c. 41. Cyril of Jeruſalem Catech. Myſt. 5. Why then may I not believe as well that they might derive from the ſame Text the Offertory it ſelf, and the application of the name Altar to the Holy Table; ſeeing all three in the Text depend one upon another, and that there is not in the New Teſtament any other paſſage of Scripture whereon ſo ancient and univerſal a practice of the Church, as was in all theſe three particulars, could expreſly be grounded? And, beſides that the Primitive practice of the Catholick Church is a good Rule to interpret Scripture by, there may be good Reaſons found from the circumſtances of the Text, and Sermon it ſelf, to perſwade it to be an Evangelical Conſtitution.

1. Becauſe there was no ſuch thing commanded in the Law to ſuch as came to offer Sacrifice; nor any ſuch Deuteroſis to be found amongſt the Traditions of the Elders. Now it is altogether improbable our Saviour would then annex a new Rite to the Legal ſacrifices, when he was ſo ſoon after to aboliſh them by his ſacrifice upon the Croſs, yea (if the Harmoniſts of the Goſpel are not deceived) within leſs then two years after; for they place this Sermon between his ſecond and third Paſſeover. Ergo he intended it for an Ordinance of the Kingdom of God, (as the Scripture ſpeaks) that is, for the Church of his Goſpel.

2. Becauſe the Sermon whereof this was part is that famous Sermon of our Saviour upon the Mount, which he read as a Lecture to his Diſciples, to inſtruct them in the Myſteries of the Kingdom of God, a little before he ſent them out to preach; and ſo, in all likelihood, contained the Summe of that they were to preach; which no doubt was Doctrine Evangelical. In all other parts of the Sermon we finde it ſo; wherefore then ſhould we not ſo eſteem it even in this alſo?

3. Becauſe it is brought in (and that in the firſt place) as an exemplification of that righteouſneſs wherein the Citizens of the Kingdom of Chriſt were to outgo the righteouſneſs of the Scribes and Phariſees: I ſay unto you, (ſaith our Saviour) except your righteouſneſs ſhall exceed the righteouſneſs of the Scribes and Phariſees, ye ſhall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Then follows this Text, ſhewing how far we are to outſtrip the Scribes and Phariſees in our obedience to the Precept, Thou ſhalt not kill.

Verſ. 20.

4. This paſſage ſhould be Evangelical, foraſmuch as it ſeems, together with the reſt that follow it, to be a part of that πλήρωσις or Complementum Legis whereof our Saviour ſpake a little before, ſaying, Think not that I am come to diſſolve the Law and the Prophets, (i. to aboliſh or abrogate the obſervation of them in my Kingdom) ἀλλὰ πληρῶσαι, but to accompliſh, ſupply, or perfect them. For this to be the meaning of that πληρῶσαι, the whole diſcourſe course following it seemeth to evince, wherein namely our Saviour puts in practice and makes good de facto in several particulars what he formerly said he came to doe. Sect. 3.

Verſ. 17.

Section III.

BUT there is one thing yet behind, by no means to be forgotten in this Argument, That what I have hitherto spoken of the name Altar is to be understood of Θυσιαστήριον, not of Βωμός. For these two are not the same. ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ is the Altar of the true God, ΒΩΜΟΣ the Altar of an Idol. Wherefore the ancient Fathers and Christians (which spake the Greek tongue) never used to call the Altar of Christ Βωμὸν, (though it were the usual word in that language) but ever Θυσιαστήριον. Which difference they learned out of the Greek Bible; in all which the Altar of the true God is * no where termed Βωμὸς, but always Θυσιαστήριον. On the contrary, Βωμὸς is never used (when it is used) but of an Idolatrous Altar or Altar of an Idol. This difference of these two words may be evidently seen and confirmed by one passage in the first Book of Maccabees, c. 1. v. * 59. where concerning the Ministers of Antiochus Epiphanes, who had erected an Altar to Jupiter Olympius upon the great brazen Altar in the Temple of the Lord, and sacrificed thereon, the Greek expresseth it in this manner, Θυσιάζοντες ἦσαν ἐπὶ τὸν Βωμὸν, ὃς ἦν ἐπὶ τοῦ Θυσιαστηρίου, They sacrificed upon the Βωμὸς, which was upon the Θυσιαστήριον which our Translation rightly renders, They sacrificed upon the Idol-Altar, which was upon the Altar of God; the circumstances of the place leading them thereunto. And that this Testimony may not goe alone, take with it a like expression or two in S. Chrysostom, who in his 24. Homil. in 1. Ad Corinthios, brings in our Saviour thus speaking; Εἰ αἵματος ἐπιθυμεῖς, μὴ τὸν εἰδώλων Βωμὸν τῷ τῶν ἀλόγων φόνῳ, ἀλλὰ τὸ Θυσιαστήριον τὸ ἐμὸν τῷ ἐμῷ φοίνισσε αἵματι· If thou desirest bloud, make not the Idols Βωμὸς ruddy with the slaughter of Beasts, but my Θυσιαστήριον with my bloud. 'Tis upon that passage, The cup of blessing which we blesse, is it not the communion of the bloud of Christ? With the same style in the Homily a little before quoted [Demonstrat. Quòd Christus sit Deus] he magnifies the speedy propagation of the Gospel, that in so short a time Βωμοὶ καὶ ξόανα (Bomoi & Simulacra) were abolished, and Θυσιαστήρια were erected throughout the Roman Empire, yea among the Persians, Scythians, Moors and Indians. To all which adde another observation, That ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ is a word not used by any Pagan Writer, but is a mere Ecclesiastical and Hellenistical term, first devised (as * Philo in his Vita Mosis would give us to understand) by the Septuagint to expresse the Hebrew word מִזְבֵּחַ, and to distinguish the Altar of the God of Israel from the Altars of the Idol-Gods of the Gentiles.

But you will ask me now, Wherein consisted the real difference between these two, which made them so nice to call the one by the name of the other? or was it verbal onely? I answer, It was real. For the Altar of the true God, Θυσιαστήριον, was onely (as the name implies) a Table for sacrifice; viz. in the Law, of those bloudy Sacrifices which were then offered to God by Fire and Incense; in the Gospel, of the reasonable and spiritual Sacrifice, sent up unto God λόγῳ καὶ πνεύματι, onely by the word of thanksgiving and prayer. But Βωμοὶ or the Altars of the Gentiles were Suggesta or Scabella sculptilium & simulacrorum, Idol-stools or Foot-stools of their Images, in respect of the accommodation the one had to the other; which was such, as their Idols were placed before, upon, or above their Altars. This may

* Except only Siracides, and the 2. Book of Maccab. whose style gentilizeth.
* al. 62.

* De vit. Mosis li. 3. ἐν ᾧ πάλαι Βωμὸν εἴωθε (Moses nempe gracissans) καλεῖν τὸ Θυσιαστήριον.

Mark here who they are that have turned the Christians Θυσιαστήριον into the Gentiles Βωμός.

Sect. 3.

may appear in ſome ſort by thoſe paſſages of S. Chryſoſtom which I now quoted, eſpecially the latter. And by that of S. Auſtin, Hom. 6. De verbis Domini, where he proves from this poſture, that the Gentiles took and worſhipped their Idol-ſtatues for Gods, becauſe they placed them upon their Altars. "Nam illi (inquit) quòd Numen habeant & pro Numine accipiant illam ſta-"tuam, Ara teſtatur. And this alſo the name Βωμὸς fitly intimates, as properly importing a Baſis, whereon ſomething ſtandeth, quaſi Βῆμα, of the word Βαίνω, as Euſtathius notes; and is accordingly uſed by * Homer for the Baſes whereon ſtood the gilded Statues of Boyes holding lights at a banquet;

* Odyſſ. H.

Χρύσειοι δ' ἄρα κοῦροι ἐϋδμήτων ἐπὶ βωμῶν
Ἕστασαν, αἰθομένας δαΐδας μετὰ χερσὶν ἔχοντες.

So 2. Chron. 34. 4. we reade, That Joſiah cauſed the Altars of Baalim to be broken down, and the Images that were on high above them. Aaron, when he ſet up the golden calf, is ſaid in like manner to have built an Altar before it, Ex. 32. 5. This connexion between the Gentile-Altars and Idol-ſtatues or Images may alſo be gathered out of that *fore-cited paſſage of S. Cyprian, Epiſt. 55. where declaiming againſt ſome lapſed Chriſtians, who having in time of Perſecution ſacrificed unto Idols, would for all that be admitted again into the Church without due ſatisfaction, If this be ſuffered, (ſaith he) "Quid ſupereſt, "quàm ut Ecclesia Capitolio cedat, & recedentibus ſacerdotibus, ac Domini "noſtri Altare removentibus, in Cleri noſtri ſacrum venerandúmque conſeſ-"ſum (i. in ſacrarium noſtrum, ſeu *τὸ ἅγιον Βῆμα) Simulacra atque Idola "cum Aris ſuis tranſeant? In this not long paſſage are many things worthy obſerving. 1. Eccleſia uſed for the place of Holy aſſembly, and oppoſed to Capitolium, which ſtands here for any Gentile Temple. 2. The place of the Clergie next the Altar, and diſtinguiſhed from that of the Laiety. 3. The coupling of Simulacra and Idola cum Aris ſuis, as individui comites, and the oppoſition thereof to Altare Domini noſtri, i. Chriſti. 4. That the Latin Fathers ſometimes imitated the Greek, in diſtinguiſhing, as well as they could, the names of the Altars of Chriſt and the Altars of Idols, calling Θυσιαστήριον Altare, and Βωμὸς Ara. Which the Author of the vulgar Latine ſo farre obſerves, that throughout the Canonical Scripture he never calls the Altar of the true God Ara, but the Altars of Idols onely, as the Septuagint uſeth the name Βωμός.

* See Sect. 1. of this Treatiſe, pag. 488.

* Or, as this part of the Church is termed in a ſtory of the ſame time in Euſ. τὸ Ἁγίασμα, the name whereby the LXX call the Sanctuary in the Old Teſt. Hiſt. Eccleſ. l. 7. cap. 18. de Marino Martyre, "Addu-"ctus ad Ec-"cleſiam ſtatuit "intus prope "τὸ Ἁγί-"ασμα.

I have proſecuted this obſervation of the difference between Θυσιαστήριον and Βωμὸς the more largely, becauſe it will help us through thoſe doubtful and ſtumbling paſſages which are found in Origen, Minutius Felix, Arnobius and Lactantius, in their diſputes againſt the Gentiles. Who although they lived, the two firſt in the third Century, (after Tertullian) the two latter about the beginning of the fourth Seculum, in the dayes of Diocletian and Conſtantine, fifty years after S. Cyprian; during all which time, it is apparent, confeſſed, and may be invincibly proved againſt ſuch as ſhall deny it, That Chriſtians had Oratories and Houſes of worſhip to perform the Rites of their Religion in; as alſo (by thoſe Teſtimonies alledged) that they uſually called the Holy Table there placed by the name of Altare and ΘΥΣΙΑΣΤΗΡΙΟΝ: yet theſe Authors afore-named, when the Gentiles object Atheiſm to the Chriſtians, as who had no Temple, no Ara, no Simulacra, are wont in their Apologies to anſwer by way of Conceſſion, not onely that they had none, but more, that they ought not to have. What ſhould this mean? why this; They anſwer the Gentiles according to the notion wherein they objected this unto them; to wit, that they had no Βωμοὶ, no Idol-ſtools, or Simulacrorum ſcabella; not that they had no Θυσιαστήρια:

ἀστήρια. Therefore the word which Origen there uſeth is Βωμοί. And in all thoſe paſſages you ſhall ever finde Aræ & Simulacra to go together. Sect. 3.

Origen; (a) "Ὁ Κέλσος φησὶν ἡμᾶς "Βωμοὺς καὶ ἀγάλματα καὶ νεὼς ἱδρύσθαι "φεύγειν· Celſus ait nos Ararum & "Statuarum Templorúmque fundati-"ones fugere. Minutius Felix; (b) "Cur nullas Aras habent, Templa "nulla, nulla nota Simulacra? Arnobius; (c) "In hac conſuêſtis parte "crimen nobis maximum impietatis "affigere—Quòd non Deorum ali-"cujus ſimulacrum conſtituamus aut "formam, non Altaria fabricemus, "* NON ARAS. Lactantius; (d) "Quid ſibi Templa, quid Aræ volunt, quid "denique ipſa Simulacra, &c?

(a) Celſus affirms that we Chriſtians decline the building or ſetting up of Altars, Images and Temples.

(b) Why have the Chriſtians no Altars, no Temples, no Images?

(c) Herein ye are wont to charge us with hideous impiety and irreligion, viz. that we do not make any Image or Repreſentation of any God, nor build any kind of Altars at all.

(d) What can Temples and Altars mean? what do Statues ſignifie?

And as for Temples, their meaning was, they had no ſuch clauſtra Numinum as the Gentiles ſuppoſed Temples to be, and to which they * appropriated that name, viz. Places whereunto the Gods, by the power of ſpels and magical conſecrations, were confined and limited, and for the preſencing of whom a Statue was neceſſary; places wherein they dwelt, ſhut up as Birds in a cage, or as the Devil confined within a circle, that ſo they might be ready at hand when men had occaſion to ſeek unto them: That Chriſtians indeed had no ſuch dwellings for their God as theſe; for that their God dwelt not in Temples made with hands: But not, that they had not (e) [a] τόπους θρησκευσίμους, no [b] οἴκους προσευκτηρίους, Κυριακὰ, or [c] Ἐκκλησίας. For ſuch the ſtories and monuments of thoſe times expreſly inform us they had; and the Gentiles themſelves that objected this defect knew it too well; as may appear by their Emperors Reſcripts for demoliſhing them, and ſometimes for reſtoring them, when the Perſecution ceaſed. All which he that will may finde in Euſebius his Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory, before either Arnobius or Lactantius wrote: Whither I refer them that would be more fully ſatisfied; yea to Arnobius himſelf in the end of his 4. Book adverſus Gentes, where he ſpeaks of the burning of the Chriſtians ſacred Books, and demolition of their Places of aſſembly. And thus I conclude my Diſcourſe.

(e) Worſhipping-places, Houſes of Prayer, Churches.

* Perhaps he addes this by way of correction of his word Altaria.

* According to which ſtyle S. Hierome Ep. ad Riparium ſaith de Jul. Apoſtat. Quòd ſanctorum Baſilicas deſtruxerit, aut in Templa converterit. Ep. 10.

[a] Galienus in ed. ap. Euſ. l. 7. 13'.
[b] Apud eund. Hiſt. l. 7. c. 1, 2.
[c] Ibid. c. 3.

PSAL.

PSALM CXXXII. VII.

We will goe into his Tabernacle, we will worship towards his Footstool.

SO the Hebrew לַהֲדֹם רַגְלָיו is rightly rendered; and those who say Before his Footstool, imply the same, if it be rightly construed. The LXX. hath εἰς τὸν τόπον οὗ ἔστησαν οἱ πόδες αὐτοῦ, Toward the Place where his feet stand, which is a Periphrasis of a Footstool.

THE LORD'S FOOTSTOOL here mentioned was either the Ark of the Testimony it self, or the place at least where it stood, called DEBIR or the Holy of Holies, towards which the Jews in their Temple used to worship. The very next words following my Text argue so much, Arise, O Lord, into thy rest, thou and the Ark of thy strength. And it is plain out of 1 Chron. 28. 2. where David saith concerning his purpose to have built God an House, I had in mine heart to build an House of rest for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, and for the FOOTSTOOL of our God. Where the Conjunction [and] is Exegetical and the same with [that is.] According to this expression the Prophet Jeremy also, in the beginning of the second of his Lamentations, bewaileth that The Lord had cast down the beauty of Israel, (that is, * his glorious Temple) and remembred not his FOOTSTOOL, (that is, the Ark of his Covenant) in the day of his wrath.

Vers. 1.

* As Isa. 60. 7. & 64. 11. Psal. 96. 6.

This to be the true and genuine meaning of this phrase of worshipping the Lord towards his footstool, besides the confessed Custome of the time, is evidently confirmed by a parallel expression of this worshipping posture, Psalm 28. 2. Hear the voice of my supplication when I cry unto thee, when I lift up mine hands אֶל־דְּבִיר קָדְשֶׁךָ towards thine HOLY ORACLE; that is, toward the most Holy place where the Ark stood, and from whence God gave his answers. For that the דביר DEBIR, which is here translated ORACLE, was the Sanctum Sanctorum or Most holy place, is clear out of the 6. and 8. Chapters of the first Book of Kings; where in the * former we reade, that Solomon prepared the ORACLE or DEBIR, to set the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord there: in the * latter, that the Priests brought in the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord unto his place, into the Oracle of the House, to the most holy place, even under the wings of the Cherubims. Wherefore the Authors of the Translation used in our Liturgy rendred this passage of the Psalm, When I hold up my hands toward the Mercy-seat of thy holy Temple; namely, having respect to the meaning thereof. Thus you see that one of the two must needs be this Scabellum pedum or FOOTSTOOL of God, either the Ark or Mercy-seat it self, or the Adytum Templi, the Most holy place where it stood. For that it is not the whole Temple at large (though that might be so called) but some thing or part to those that are within it, the first words of my Text [We will go into his Tabernacles] do argue. If then it be the Ark, (whose Cover was that we call the Mercy-seat) it seems to have been so called in respect of God's sitting upon the Cherubims, under which the Ark lay, as it were his Footstool: whence sometimes it is described, The Ark of the Covenant of the Lord

* V. 19.
* V. 6.

1 Sam. 4. 4.

Lord of Hosts, which sitteth upon the Cherubims. If the Ark, with the Cover thereof the Mercy-seat, be it self considered as God's Throne; then the place thereof, the DEBIR, may not unfitly be termed his Footstool. Or lastly, if we consider Heaven to be the Throne of God, as indeed it is, then whatsoever place or monument of Presence he hath here on Earth is in true esteem no more but his Footstool. Psal. 132. 7.

Thus the meaning of the Text is plain, which I thought good to make choice of for the Argument of my Discourse at this time, for our better information concerning the lawfulness of that practice of worshipping God towards the holy Table or Altar: For it becomes not us who live in such places as these, where Knowledge is taught, and should be derived to other parts of the Church, to be ignorant of the reason and quality of any thing, especially concerning the Worship of God, which either we doe our selves, or see others doe; lest in the first we be guilty of Imprudence, in the other of Uncharitableness in miscensuring others. And in this particular, Information is so much the more needful, because many scruple at this kind of posture in God's Worship, esteeming it little better then Idolatry, as being of like nature with worshipping God by an Image: wherein how much they are deceived I shall make now to appear.

Know therefore, That to worship God by an Image, and to worship him towards some place or monument of his Presence, are things of a differing nature: For the first is absolutely forbidden by the Divine Law; the latter we find continually practised by the people of God in the Old Testament, and that with his allowance and approbation. Thus in the Wilderness they worshipped him towards the Cloud, as the sign or monument of his Presence going with them, Exod. 34. 5, 8. In the Tabernacle and Temple they directed their posture toward the Ark of the Covenant, or most Holy place, as my Text (and that parallel place now alledged out of Psalm 28. for confirmation) witnesseth; namely, as to the place of his Throne and Footstool. Unto which I adde for a third Testimony, that of Psal. 99. 5. Exalt ye the Lord our God, and worship towards his Footstool: There goes before it in the beginning of the Psalm, The Lord reigneth, let the people tremble; he sitteth between [or upon] the Cherubims. The same thing is meant or implied by that expression of worshipping the Lord toward his holy Temple, in the 5. and 138. Psalms; in the first whereof, v. 7. I will come into thine House (saith David) in the multitude of thy mercy, and in thy fear will I worship toward thy Holy Temple. Mark; I will come into thine House, and then worship, &c. This form the Jews at this day are wont to pronounce in the Adoration which they make at their entrance into their Synagogues, turning themselves at the same time toward an Ark or Cabinet, wherein they lay the Book of the Law, made and placed in imitation of the Ark of the Covenant with the Two Tables. In the other Psalm likewise, v. 1, 2. the Psalmist saith, Before the Gods (that is, the Angels) will I sing praise unto thee: I will worship towards thy holy Temple; that is, toward the place of the Ark or Mercy-seat. For we are to take notice, that the people or Layety came no nearer then into the Courts of the Temple onely, and the Priests themselves entred no farther but when they were to order the Lamps, and burn Incense evening and morning, or renew the Shew-bread; otherwise they also stood and officiated without in the Court appointed for them, called the Priests Court: so that both (the people especially) standing in the Courts when they worshipped, they directed their faces toward the Temple or ΝΑΟΣ strictly so called, where the Ark and Mercy-seat were. Hence comes this expression of worshipping the Lord toward his holy Temple: as much as to say, We will come into thy Courts, and worship thee toward the place where thy memorial, or Psal. 132. 7. monument of thy Presence is. With these places may be compared that of the 134. Psalm, where the Levites (standing namely in the Priests Court) are exhorted to lift up their hands toward the Sanctuary [LXX. εἰς τὰ ἅγια· Targ. לות דוכן קודשא toward his holy seat] and to bless the Lord.

Besides this, when they were absent from the Temple, yea though in a strange and forein Country, and that farre remote, yet when they prayed or worshipped, they turned their faces thitherward: as appears by 1 Kings 8. 44, &c. in the prayer of Solomon at the dedication thereof; and the example of Daniel, Dan. 6. 10. who opened his windows towards Jerusalem, and kneeling upon his knees three times a day, prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he was wont; yea, even then when the Temple and holy City were burnt and destroyed, and the Ark of the Testimony not then there, but onely the place where it was wont to be. Zorobabel also, 3 Esd. 4. 58. lifted up his face to heaven toward Jerusalem, and praised the King of Heaven. And this custome the Jews in their devotions still observe unto this day. Yea all this may seem (for ought that can be shewed to the contrary) to have been done out of the use of mankind, without any special Precept to that purpose, which is no where to be shewn. For as for the prayer of Solomon (besides that Precepts are not wont to be given in prayers) it is there presupposed only as a rite of custome; * Nature it seems having taught mankind, as in their addresses unto men to look unto their Face, so in their addresses unto the Divine Majesty to look that way, or toward that place, where his Presence is more demonstrated then elsewhere; whether φύσει, (if I may so speak) as in the Heavens, or θέσει, as in Temples and like sacred places, where his Name and Presence either is, or is wont to be recorded. Hence it appears, that to worship God versus locum præsentiæ, towards the place where any sign or specification of his Presence is, is no Idolatry, nor forbidden by the Second Commandment: For surely that which was no Idolatry in the Old Testament, is no Idolatry in the New; whatsoever fault otherwise it might have.

* Plutarch. in Aristide de Pausania: Lacrymis oppletus convertit se ad Fanum Junonis, manúsque ad cœlum tendens, precatur Citheroniam Junonem, &c. Varro l. 4. de lingua Lat. de Curtio se devovente: Ad Concordiæ (sub. ædem) conversus, &c. Sic emendat Scalig. quem vide in Collectaneis, & quæ ibidem ex Livio adducit ad hanc rem facientia.

The reason of this difference, between worshipping God by an Image and worshipping him towards some place where his Presence is specified, is this, Because in the first the Creature is used objectively to the act of Divine worship, (that is, as the thing worshipped;) but in the other as a local circumstance of worship onely. For we are to know that a Creature may be used in the act of Divine worship by way of Object, by way of Local circumstance, or by way of Instrument. The first, by way of Object, that is, as that to which the Act of worship is directed and terminated upon, without question is Idolatry. For the Lord our God is a jealous God, and cannot endure that any created thing should partake with him by way of Object in the Act of his worship. But he that useth an Image in the act of Divine worship as an Image, that is, interposing it in the same as the representation of that he worshippeth, makes it not the term of his posture onely (as any other Creature might be, and some always will be,) but the Butt (as I may so speak) or Object of his Act. For in the act of worship, to look or attend unto any thing as that which representeth unto him the Object unto which he is tendring his act, is to make it an Object representative; and consequently, such as in part and as by way of intervention receiveth the Act which by it is tendred to the Prototype. Which although it be no more but to be only relatively worshipped, and for the examples sake, and not absolutely and for it self; yet is it more then the jealousie of God can endure, as is manifest by his so strict prohibition and frequent detestation thereof.

But as for the two other ways of using a creature in the act of God's worship, by way of Instrument onely, or Local circumstance, neither of them is impious or unlawful.

First,

First, Not to use it therein as (or by way of) an Instrument whereby it is performed: for then it would be unlawful to use a Table or a Chalice in the celebration of the holy Eucharist, or the like; to use a Book when we pray, sing, or give thanks unto God; to praise him with Instruments of Musick, as David ordained; to use a Book to swear upon, when we take an oath; for to swear is as much an Act of Religious worship, and as much appropriated unto God in Scripture, as any other worship due unto him. Wherefore the Rites used therein (as to turn toward, lay our hands upon, and kiss the Book of the holy Gospels, as the Tables of the new Covenant of God with men in Christ) if they be well examined, will afford much light toward the decision of this Question of posture in our adoration of God in the Church: especially if it be considered that the very same Rites, for the same purpose, have been anciently used upon an * Altar. But this by the way.

Psal. 132. 7.

Secondly, Neither is it impious or unlawful in God's worship to use a creature in way of a Local circumstance thereof; namely, as that whereby the place of our worship is determined: for then it would be unlawful to use Temples or Churches to worship God in, or to have any designed place there accommodated for the Priest to minister or officiate at. But this our practice shews we esteem and acknowledge lawful. Now if it be lawful to make use of a creature for the Ubi, or place where, of the worship we give unto God, why not as well for the place WHICH-WARD, or which-way we worship him? UBI & QUO Where and Which-way being both alike differences and relations of Place; and the worship of God no more communicated thereby with the Creature, whereby we determine the one, then whereby we determine the other. Indeed the Creature by this means is honoured and dignified; but that honour the Creature receiveth lies onely in this, in being chosen and preferred before any other for such sacred use. Which honour, I trow, is of no other or higher nature, then what any Sacred thing according to the fitness and propriety it hath may be respected with.

* See 1 King. ch. 8. v. 31. Furantes Aras tangebant; Cicer. pro Flacco. Plautus Rudent. Virg. 12. Æneid. Juven. Sat. 14. Justin. l. 24. Vid. Pont. p. 3. p. 146.

Moreover, if it should not be lawful in Divine worship to direct our posture towards a Creature, and that too in regard of some special relation it hath to God-ward; it would be unlawfull to set our faces and lift up our hands and eyes to Heaven in our prayers and invocations tendered unto the Divine Majesty, which I know not any that makes scruple of. And yet if the determination of our posture only by a creature in Divine worship be Idolatry; why might we not justly scruple, lest this posture of our hands and faces to Heaven-ward at such a time might make us guilty of worshipping the Host of Heaven, that is, the Sun, Moon, Starrs and Planets, as the Gentiles and Israelitish Idolaters did? But for our warrant herein, our Blessed Saviour, in that Prayer he hath left unto his Church, hath taught us to say, Our Father which art in heaven. For without doubt, if we may without impiety determine the Divine presence thus in our speech, we may also (yea fit, I think, we should) doe the like at the same time with our posture; which is no more but to express that visibly by our gesture, which we utter vocally with our mouths. For not that which is before us only in our posture, but that which is the terminus of our Act, is the Object of our Worship. Nor to determine our posture only by a creature, but to communicate the Worship we give unto God therewith, is that which the Divine Law forbiddeth. And that this difference must be admitted, is evinced by the severe and peremptory prohibition of the one, and the frequent examples of the other practised by holy men in Scripture. Besides that the admission thereof openeth the true way how to answer our adversaries, when they alledge the aforementioned places of Scripture in patronage of their Idolatrous worship.

Psal. 132. 7.

Now then to apply all this to the Hypotheſis: ἡ ἁγία τράπεζα, the HOLY TABLE or ALTAR, (for the difference is but verbal) in our Chriſtian Churches, anſwers unto the Ark or Mercy-ſeat in the Jewiſh Temple, being Solium Chriſti, and in the language of Antiquity the Chriſtian * Sanctum Sanctorum; where the Book of the Goſpels (by ancient cuſtome laid thereon) parallels the * two Tables, the holy Euchariſt the golden Pot of Manna, that is, the ſacred monuments and ſymbols of the new Covenant thoſe of the old. Why may not then a like reſpect be had to it in the poſture of our Chriſtian adoration, which the Jews in their worſhip had, not only to the Ark of the Teſtimony, but to the Altars which ſtood before it, yea even to the Temple it ſelf, when they could not come to perform their devotions therein; and that too (as I have already obſerved) when that Ark which Moſes made by God's appointment, with thoſe two ſacred Symbols (the two Tables and Pot of Manna) were no more there, as in the ſecond Temple they were not, but onely the place ordained for them, or at the moſt (if that) ſome imitative Ark onely with a Roll of the Law put therein, ſuch as the Jews at this day are known to have in their Synagogues, and to direct their poſture toward it when they worſhip, as formerly they did to that in the Temple? See Buxtorf. Synagog. Judaic. cap. 5.

* Orat. Paneg. ap. Euſeb. Hiſt. lib. 10. cap. 4. Dionyſ. Ar. ep. 8. ad Demophilum.

* May not our order of ſetting the Ten Commandments over the Communion-Table have had ſome reference this way? See Orders Anno 1565. 7 Eliz. Artic. 7.

Laſtly, all Nations and Religions have been wont to uſe ſome reverential geſture when they enter into their Temples. And our Bleſſed Saviour in the Goſpel would not have his Diſciples to enter into a man's houſe without ſome ſalutation; εἰσερχόμενοι εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν (ſaith he) ἀσπάσασθε αὐτὴν, when ye enter into an houſe, ſalute it. Why ſhould we not think it to be a part of Religious manners to doe as much when we come into the houſe of God? Now of all Geſtures, Adoration or bowing of the Body ſeems to be the moſt comely and ready for that purpoſe; and of all poſtures in the doing thereof (and ſome poſture there muſt needs be) that which is directed towards that which is the moſt ſacred and of moſt preeminent relation to God in the Church; that, namely, where he is commemorated, and the bleſſed Symbols of his Body and Bloud reached forth unto us, (who is our * Propitiatory through faith in his Bloud, and by whom alone and whoſe Sacrifice we have acceſs unto his Father,) the HOLY TABLE or ALTAR. What place then ſo fit to be both in our eye and mind, when we make our addreſſes unto Him, as this?

Matt. 10. 12.

* ἱλαστήριον, Rom. 3. 25. the name whereby the Mercy-ſeat is called in the old Teſtament.

The Iſraelites worſhipped towards the place of their ἱλαστήριον, which was a Type of ours; why may not we worſhip in like manner toward the place of our ἱλαστήριον, the Truth of theirs?

Of the practice of Antiquity.

THAT the ancient Chriſtians worſhipped * towards the Eaſt, (that is, the ſame way they did their firſt homage to God * in their Baptiſm) is manifeſt to all that have but looked into Antiquity.

* See the Author Quaſt. & Reſp. ad orthod. in Juſtin Mart. Quaſt. 118. Clem. Alex. Strom. 7. ante med. Tertul. Apol. c. 16. item Ad nationes l. 1. c. 13. Origen. Hom. 5. in Numer. cap. 4. p. 210. * Dionyſ. Areop. de Eccleſiaſt. Hier. c. 3.

That their Altars alſo were uſually placed toward the ſame in their Churches, is a Truth that can hardly be queſtioned.

It follows therefore that when they worſhipped, they turned themſelves or looked toward the Altar alſo.

If it be asked, Which of the two they reſpected in this their poſture: I anſwer, they reſpected both; and therefore placed the Altar accordingly to the Eaſtward that both might be obſerved; even as the Jews placed their Altars both of Incenſe and Burnt-offering toward the Weſt, becauſe they worſhipped ped that way. But if they could not observe both, then they preferred the Altar, as in that Church at Antioch, where (if * Socrates say true) the Altar, or place thereof, the Chancel, (for so θυσιαστήριον sometimes signifies) stood toward the West, contrary (as he there acknowledgeth) to the manner of other Churches. Now he that considers well the Custome of Antiquity, and remembers that which Gregory Nazianzen testifies of his mother * Nonna, will not think it credible they should either turn their backs upon the Altar, or their faces from the Priest, whilest he officiated thereat, as then he alwaies did; which yet they must needs doe, if, notwithstanding that situation of the Altar, they had worshipped toward the East. Howsoever, if the nature of the things be considered, there can be no difference given, for the point of lawfulness, between the one and the other; nor why this should more intrench upon impiety and Superstition then that.

Psal. 132. 7.

* Lib. 5. Histor. Eccles. c. 22. Ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ ἡ τῆς Συρίας, ἡ ἐκκλησία ἀντίστροφον ἔχει τὴν θέσιν· οὐ γὰρ πρὸς ἀνατολὰς τὸ θυσιαστήριον, ἀλλὰ πρὸς δύσιν ὁρᾷ.

* Namely, that she at no time turned her back upon the Altar; that is, not so much as out of the time of worship.

Thus much we find of the Christians posture in general, when they worshipped God. But what reverential Guise, Ceremony or Worship they used at their ingress into God's House in the Ages next to the Apostles (and some I believe they did) is buried in silence and oblivion. The Jews before them (from whom the Christian Religion sprang) used, as I have already shewn, to bow themselves down with their faces toward the Testimony or Mercy-Seat. The Christians after them, in the Greek and Oriental Churches, have, time out of mind, and without any known beginning thereof, used to bow in like manner, with their posture toward the Altar, or Holy Table, saying that of the Publican in the Gospel, Ὁ Θεὸς ἱλάσθητί μοι τῷ ἁμαρτωλῷ, God be merciful to me a sinner; as appears by the Liturgies of S. Chrysostome and S. Basil, and as they are still known, both Laietie and Clergie, to doe at this day. Which custome of theirs, not being found to have been ordained or established by the Decree or Canon of any Council, and being so agreeable to the use of God's people of the Old Testament, may therefore seem to have been derived unto them from very remote and ancient Tradition. Nothing therefore can be known of the use of those first Ages of the Church, farther then it shall seem probable they might imitate the Jews, God's people before them, or have given beginning to the custome of the Churches after them. And if kneeling, bowing or inclination of the head could be proved, or, for want of testimony, may be supposed to have been their gesture at their ingress; surely there were no reason why we should not believe they bowed, kneeled, or inclined their heads the same way then, which they used to pray and worship at other times.

In the Latine Church this gesture of bowing towards the Altar may seem to have been proper to the Clergie in their approches to it, and recess from it, at least to such as came into the Quire; the Laiety at their first entrance into the Church kneeling onely. Card. Bessarion, (a Greek) in his * Epistle to the Tutor of the Sons of Thomas Palaeologus, instructing them how to carry and behave themselves among the Latines, In Ecclesiam Latinorum (saith he) cùm ingredientur, in genua procumbentes preces dicant, ut Latinis mos est: When they shall enter into any Church of the Latines, let them kneel down and say their prayers, as the manner of the Latines is. For in Greece, as is aforesaid, their manner was to bow. Yet whether they used not some other gesture in Spain, would be enquired, because of those words of Isidorus Hispalensis, De Ecclesiasticis officiis lib. 1. c. 10. concerning those that came into the Church after the Service or Lessons were begun; Si superveniat quisque (saith he) cùm Lectio celebratur, adoret tantum Deum, & præsignatâ fronte aurem sollicitè accommodet: If any shall come into the Church when the Lesson is a reading, let him onely adore God, and crossing his forehead attend diligently to what is read.

* Apud Meursium, & in Notis Pontani ad Protovestiarium.

Psal. 132. 7.

I will adde here two the most ancient Testimonies, I think, extant of a Reverential respect used to be given to the Holy Table or Altar; and that, as I conceive, (if not both of them, one at least) of a more direct nature then that wherewith the same is honoured by being made the term only of our posture when we worship God.

One is out of Dionysius called Areopagita, (or whosoever were the Author, for sure ancient he is) Eccleſiaſt. Hierarch. cap. 2. De myſterio Baptiſmi, where he saith, That after the Hymn accustomed was sung, the Priest or Bishop ἀσπασάμενος ἢ ἱερὸν ψάμμαν, having saluted or kissed (for either way may ἀσπασάμενος be rendered) the Holy Table, he goes thence and questions the party to be baptized, &c.

The other is of S. Athanasius, in fine Sermonis Adverſus eos qui Humanæ in Chriſto Domino Naturæ confeſſores ſpem ſuam in Homine defigere dicunt, Edit. Commel. tom. 2. pag. 255. in these words; Quid? quòd & nunc [οἱ προσιόντες ἁγίῳ θυσιαστηρίῳ] qui ad ſanctum Altare accedunt, [περιπλυσόμενοι δὲ τοῦτο, καὶ μετὰ φόβου καὶ χαρᾶς ἀσπαζόμενοι] illúdque amplectuntur, & cum timore & lætitia ſalutant (vel oſculantur,) non in lapidibus aut lignis, ſed in Gratiâ per lapides aut ligna piis commemoratâ animo inſiſtunt. Understand here by ΧΑΡΙΣ, or GRATIA, the holy EUCHARIST, for so the Fathers are wont to call it. See Caſaubon. Exercit. 16. §. 46. The meaning therefore is, That those who, when they approch the holy Altar, do with fear and joy embrace and kiss it, (as the manner then was) attend it not as wood and stones, but as that whereby the Body and Blood of Christ is commemorated to his holy Ones.

Concio

Concio ad Clerum,

DE SANCTUARIO DEI, SEU DE SANCTITATE RELATIVA.

LEVITICI 19. 30.

מִקְדָּשִׁי תִּירָאוּ Sanctuarium meum reveremini.

QUALEM Philosophi Virtuti sedem posuerunt ab Extremis utrinque remotam, talem quoque Sacræ Scripturæ stylus Pietatis laudat semitam; Viam nempe mediam, quâ neque dextrorsum itur neque siniſtrorsum: Hanc qui tenent, viam rectam insistere, perfectè coram Deo ambulare; qui verò ab ea aliquoversum deflexerint, tantundem dicuntur à recto deviâsse. Nos autem (heu miserum genus!) nescio quo Naturæ nostræ vitio, dicam? an fato, tantum ferè ab aurea hac Mediocritate absumus, quantum ipsa ab Extremis suis Mediocritas. In arduo illo regulatæ Pietatis jugo vix momento consistimus, quin, ut decantatum illud Sisyphi saxum, ad ima vitiorum relabimur inquieti.

Hoc cùm in aliis quamplurimis observatu est proclive, tum vel maximè in hac, de qua nunc agendum mihi est, Reverentia Sacra. Quid enim? naufragium hîc multorum video, his Scyllæ allisâ, illis Charybdi absorptâ nave; dum hi Venerationis prætextu Idololatriam, illi hujus fugâ Contemptum inducunt omnis rei Sacræ.

Mihi, (Viri Patres Fratrésque) dum rem istam altiùs paulò cogitatiúsque mecum expendo, utrique horum videntur in extrema abiisse nimis, & terminos movisse ab antiquo positos: Quos ego, pace Vestrâ, (Viri Ornatissimi) aliquatenus dignoscendi & reponendi spe, naviculâ meâ, tenui licèt, audebo per hoc fretum; nullo (Deum testor καρδιογνώστην) aut Superstitionis amore, aut Christianæ Simplicitatis odio, sed solius Veritatis investigandæ studio; neque tam ut mores obsoletos revocem, qui nobis fortasse ex usu non fuerint, quàm ut decoram rebus Christianis Majestatem asseram, & opportunam de aliorum factis judicandi modestiam charitati & prudentiæ Christianæ subjiciam.

Quod ut faciam, duo mihi hodie explicanda sunt ad totidem hujus Scripturæ Verba: Primum est De Sanctuario Dei, alterum De Reverentia seu Veneratione Sacra. De Sanctuario duo dicam; primò Quid sit, deinde An locum usúmve habeat sub Evangelio. Est igitur Sanctuarium locus Sanctus, id est, Locus Deo consecratus ad usus Divinos. Sancta autem quàm verè & quo sensu nuncupentur Loca hujusmodi, id verò ex diversa Sanctitatis notione eruendum est. Diversam dico, & quam triplici notâ disparaverim in Essentialem, Virtuosam & Relativam.

Levit. 19. 30.

Sanctitatis triplex notio.

Essentiali Sanctitate Deus ipse Sanctus est, cujus Sanctitas non est aliud ab ipso. Virtuosâ nos debemus, id est, Pietate, imbui; qualitate nimirum sanctâ, quam Virtutem viri pii, seu Virtutem finieris religiosam; cujusmodi Græcis propriè Ὁσιότης dicitur, Latinis Sanctimonia.

Atqui Locum, puta rem inanimem, neque hâc neque illâ Sanctitate vel Sanctum ducimus, vel dicimus Sanctuarium, sed tertiâ solâ Sanctitatis notione, quam dixi Relativam. Hanc autem definio Peculiaritatem rei versus Deum à certo Præsentiæ ipsius aut Dominii modo. Hujusmodi Sanctitatem Relativam appello: Qualitatis enim aut Virtutis nihil habet quod inhæreat, ut superstitiosuli multi credunt, sed pura puta Relatio est, cujus participes res Græci ἱερὰς, Latini sacras nominârint; nec facilè in hac verbi notione alternârunt aut hi aut illi. Addo versus Deum: neque enim quod cuivis peculiare, neque si Angelis ipsis, id Sanctum ullo modo est habendum, sed quod soli Deo vivo & æterno. Postremò subjungo, à certo Præsentiæ ipsius aut Dominii modo: quibus verbis geminam Sanctitatis hujus efficientem designare volui, simúlque innuere duos inde oriri Sanctitatis modos, naturâ quidem diversos, re sæpenumero conjunctos, Præsentiæ & Proprietatis. Priorem ostendit illud Dei ad Mosem, Exod. 3. 5. Extrahe calceamenta de pedibus tuis; Locus enim in quo stas, terra sancta est: propterea scilicet, quòd Deus illic visibili specie apparuit, & singulari modo præsentem se exhibuit. Alioquin, quid, quæso, intererat inter istum Locum & reliqua illius Deserti loca? Sola Præsentia Dei singularis hunc locum singularem fecerat, & adhuc facit omnem locum ubicunque habet singulariter. Alterius modi sunt, ut omnes olim sub Lege Oblationes, ita sub Evangelio Bona (ut nunc loquimur) Ecclesiastica. Hinc enim (cùm in hominum Bonis ampliùs non sint) Deo peculiare illud jus & Dominium acquiritur à quo Sancta omnino sunt censenda.

Sanctitatis Relativæ definitio.

Quamvis jam Loca præcipuè sancta sunt ob Præsentiam; Templi tamen & Sanctuarii ratio utrumque Sanctitatis hujus modum comprehendit: quà enim Locus est, à Præsentiæ modo; quà Domus est Deo Diviníque addicta, à Dominio peculiari sacrum est. Ita Templum Hierosolymitanum utrâque ratione fuit sanctum; tum à Dominio Dei, nam Dei Domus dicebatur, & Templum Domini; tum à Præsentiæ singularitate, cùm * Dei habitaculum audiret, eò quòd ibi Deus cum hominibus colloqui, ibi homines Deum convenire, audire, orare, & de rebus obscuris consulere solebant: ut taceam, tot Sacrificia, tot rerum Typicarum Mysteria, totidem fuisse Dei præsentis Symbola.

* 2 Chro. 6. 2.

Duplicem hanc Templariæ Sanctitatis rationem mirum quàm pulchre Apostolus Paulus Fidelium corporibus accommodavit, primâ ad Cor. cap. 6. An ignoratis (inquit) corpus vestrum esse Templum Spiritûs sancti qui in vobis est, (audite Præsentiam) neque vos esse vestri juris? audite Proprietatem. Item alibi, * Vos (inquit) estis Templum Dei viventis. quare autem? quia (inquit) dixit Deus, Habitabo in iis & inambulabo, (hoc Præsentiæ est) deinde quia dixit, Et ero illorum Deus, & ipsi erunt mihi populus; hoc Dominii est.

* 2 Cor. 6. 16.

An Evangelium agnoscat Loca Sacra.

ATQUE ita Locorum Sanctorum indolem & naturam explicavi: Cujusmodi sub Lege obtinuisse cùm nemo dubitet, restat porrò inquirendum, an ulla Loca hujusmodi agnoscat Evangelium. Certè agnoscit Evangelium Ecclesias seu Templa Evangelica: habent Christiani & omnino habere debent sua Oratoria, sua (sic loquar) Eucharisteria, & Dei Domus, non ejusdem (fateor) cum Judaico rationis; si tamen Typi rationem excipias, perinde atque illud sancta atque reverenda. Sancta (inquam) non à Dominio Dei solo seu Proprietate, verùm etiam à Præsentia peculiaritate. Annon enim in illis nos Deum quasi convenire solemus, & Deus nos Ministerii sacri ore compellare?

pellare? Ubi sunt duo aut tres* (ait Servator) congregati in nomine meo, ibi ego sum in medio illorum. Et verò, quod longè maximum est, ineffabili modo adest in mystico Panis & Vini Sacramento. Haud enim verebor dicere, in Sacrosancta Eucharistia non minùs peculiariter & visibiliter nobis adesse Deum, quàm Mosi in ardenti Rubo: nec Templum aut Tabernaculum Judaicum magis Christi Corpus præfigurâsse, quàm hunc Panem nobis exhibere. Locus igitur Rubo circumpositus sanctus erat; & non erit Sacra Mensa? Templum Judæorum, & non nostra Eucharisteria? Et quid si non ibi jugiter exhibeatur hoc Sacramentum? Locus tamen sanctus erit, ubi solet exhiberi. Filiæ Pharaonis fas non erat habitare in domo Davidis, quia, ut dicitur 2 Chron. 8. 23. Sancta sunt ista, in qua ingressa est Arca Jehovæ. Annon multò magis nostra Eucharisteria sacra (de Sanctitate enim Relativa semper loquor) ubi vera Domini Arca exhibetur, cujus illa tantùm umbra?

Levit. 19. 30.
*Matt. 18. 20.
[v. 11. sec. divis. Angl.]

Breviter igitur & uno quasi ictu sic concludo rem totam. Si ulla sint hodie usquam terrarum aut gentium Loca Deo magis peculiaria quàm omnia, aut verè hæc omnia Sancta, id est Sacra, dixero, aut Sanctitatem Relativam nondum verè definivi.

Summa dictorum.

AT verò inquiunt in Evangelio nulli loco alligatum esse Deum, neque nos ad Deum colendum. Id enim unius Legis fuisse proprium, ut in uno Loco invocetur & adoretur Deus, in Typum Mediatoris unici; hodie non ita. De nobis & nostris temporibus vaticinari Malachiam, In omni loco suffimentum offeretur Nomini meo, & munus purum; quia magnum Nomen meum erit in Gentibus, ait Dominus Sabaoth. Quin & Paulus ad * Timoth. in omni loco jubet orare Christianum. Ecce igitur Christianis promiscuè Deum colendum, non Templis, non Locis ad hunc usum Sacris: eodem illis loco habenda esse omnia omnino Loca. Secundò, (ut porrò sciamus hoc Legis fuisse proprium) nulla primæva illa Christianitas hujusmodi Loca sacra novit, non vidit Apostolorum ætas: Quin imo in privatis domibus obibant illi sua Sacra; non certis, non sanctis, sed quibusvis, ut occasio tulit, locis. Denique palmarium illud est, quo vel ex Gentibus erant qui oppugnârunt Templa Gentium; ubique esse Deum, non habitare in Templis manufactis.

Object.
Cap. 1. 11.
* 1 Ep. 2. 8.

Videtis, ut in campum elicui & in aciem præcipuas Hieroclastôn copias: cum quibus nunc strenuè mihi confligendum; & proterendæ singulæ eo quo produxi ordine. Aiunt, Legis fuisse proprium, ut loco certo, & peculiariter huc destinato, invocetur Deus; Evangelio liberum, ut in omni. Imò verò Legi fuit proprium, non tam ut certo, quàm ut unico Loco publicè colatur Deus; Evangelio liberum ut in multis, impossibile ut in omni. Quod igitur Paulus, omni loco orandum, de privata Oratione dixit, non de publica: Quod Propheta, in omni loco suffitum Deo offerendum, aut siquid simile ab aliis, de omnibus Locorum generibus aiunt, non de singulis omnium generum. Genera Locorum intelligo diversarum terrarum Loca; quasi dixisset Malachias, In omnibus terris erunt Loca ubi Gentes invocabunt nomen Dei. Nunquam enim futurum erat aut est ut in singulis singularum terrarum locis publico ritu invocetur Deus; sed tantùm in aliquibus omnis terræ locis.

Solut.

Præterea, Omnia Loca esse hodie æquè sancta, verum est de eo quod fas sit & liberum, non de eo quod sit actu. In Evangelio nullus Locus hoc privilegio gaudet, ut solus possit dicari in usum Præsentiæ Divinæ: & tamen multa hodie sunt Loca quæ sola actu sacra sunt Præsentiæ Divinæ. Ut enim si quotamvis Bonorum partem liceat Deo consecrare, non idcirco dixeris omnes esse sacras; nec si quemvis Septimanæ diem liberum sit sacris Conventibus obligare, ideo omnem diem esse diem Festum: idem hîc putate; Omni quidem Loco fas esse, omnem tamen non esse sanctum.

In Lege Ministerium sacrum erat uni Familiæ adstrictum; Ecclesia uni Genti. In Evangelio utrumque est Catholicum & commune; omni Familiæ

Ministerium

Levit. 19. 30. Ministerium, Ecclesia omni Genti: nec tamen sunt ex omni Familia Sacrorum administri, nec in omni Gente Ecclesia Dei. Idem hîc puta: liberum esse apud Christianos Deo Templum in omni Loco poni, non tamen positum esse in omni Loco.

Pergunt, & Apostolorum (inquiunt) ævo Templa nulla aut Fana. Imò vos, inquam, Objectionum vani estis. Nam quid ingeritis mihi Tempora extraordinaria ad legem & mensuram ordinariorum? Sed non utar hoc effugio, quinimo fidenter assevero, Christianis jam Apostolorum ævo fuisse Loca sua Sacra seu Sacella; neque in omni promiscuè loco ad publicum Dei cultum conveniisse. Sacella, inquam, habuerunt, in primis forsan initiis occulta illa, neque adeò vulgo Gentium conspicua; quia aut partes aut intra ambitum essent privatarum ædium; ipsa tamen nequaquam privata. Fallunt enim & falluntur qui, quasi publicum non esset quod semotum à conspectu publico, nimis importunè urgent, eò quòd palàm Synaxes suas non celebrârint primi Christiani, ideo non publicis, sed privatis conveniisse Locis. At verò aliud omnino innuit Apostolus de Ecclesia Corinthiaca 1 Cor. c. 11. De Ecclesiæ notione in hoc loco non contendam, an nempe Cœtum ipsum Paulus Ecclesiam dixerit, an Locum Cœtûs; sed de re ipsa. Habuerunt, inquam, Corinthii Locum Sacris usibus peculiariter destinatum; non privati, sed publici juris. Quid enim? Annon objurgat eos Apostolus quòd propriam quisque cœnam sumeret in loco sacro? Enimvero, inquit, num domos non habetis ad comedendum & bibendum? aut Ecclesiam Dei contemnitis? Ergò Ecclesia Dei, seu mavis, Locus Ecclesiæ, non erat domus ad comedendum & bibendum; ergò non privati juris, neque ad usus cujusvis privatos & communes. Iterum, Quòd siquis esurit, ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ, id est, domi, edat; nè ad condemnationem conveniatis: Ergò locus sacrorum Conventuum non erat ubi quispiam domi erat. Hæc enim duo adeò abjungit Apostolus, ut contrarium ei significet ἡ οἰκία Loco ad Religionis Conventum sacro.

Ultimum mihi restat sternendum agmen, quod sub Omnipræsentiæ Vexillo. Ubique aiunt esse Deum, & ex Sacris Literis nos doceri non habitare eum in Templis manufactis. Rectè. At verò idipsum sub Lege dictum aio, & de Templo Solomonis: non magis igitur nobis Templi rationem adimet quàm Judæis ademerat. Certè, inquies, apud Jeremiam dicit Dominus, Ego cœlum & terram impleo. Fateor: At tu interim mihi expedias velim, quare Cœlum speciatim vocetur Dei Habitaculum, quare ipsum Templum Domus Habitationis Dei, 1 Reg. 8. quorsum illud Jacobi spectat Bethele à Viso Divino evigilantis, Certè, inquit, Jehova est in hoc loco; attamen ego nesciveram: Quid hîc putas? an ignorâsse Omnipræsentiam Dei? an nondum fortè satis evigilâsse Patriarcham? Vide sis ergò, quisquis es, Argumentator, quàm non privatim in nos tuum telum: imò, si te sequamur, quàm manifesta pugna, & indissolubilis planè nodus.

Cap. 23.

Nos idcirco totum hoc difficile hujusmodi expedimus responso: Nempe Deum in Templis habitare non dici inclusione Essentiæ, sed speciali Præsentiæ suæ usu; apud Judæos quidem usu hoc ipsi loco astricto, & tantùm non sacramentaliter alligato; apud Christianos verò libero, singulari tamen: Quod ad Essentiam quidem, ubique esse; quoad specialem Præsentiæ modum, non esse ubique: illâ cœlum & terram implere, hoc in cœlo singulariter habitare, in terra non adeò; in Locis Sacris, non in omnibus adeò Locis. Idcirco Jacob, qui Essentiæ Ubiquitatem probè didicerat, in Bethele tamen nesciverat præsentem fuisse Deum; nimirum tam speciali Præsentiæ modo. Enimvero hic est ille Præsentiæ Divinæ modus, quem Faciem Dei nuncupat Scriptura; hic ille peculiaris Præsentiæ Divinæ usus, quò qui venerint, coram Deo venire, coram Deo stare dicebantur olim Hebraico & prisco usu loquendi. Quod quidem nos, quamvis non planè perinde atque illi, verè tamen men & absque superstitione usurpemus de omni loco ubi solenni ritu Deum aut accedimus audiendum, aut convenimus invocandum. Levit. 19. 30.

ABSOLVI jam de Sanctuario. Transeo itaque ad alteram & longè maximam pensi mei partem, quæ de Veneratione est seu Reverentia Sacra; re profectò, siquid aliud, perplexâ & obscurâ; sed & valde lubricâ: de hac una re tumultuatur Orbis, de hac scinduntur Ecclesiæ. Unde siquid ego in re tanta ac tali ex mea stultitia protulero, & non ex Dei Verbo & Orthodoxæ Fidei analogia, id omne pro non dicto haberi volo; adeóque nullius præjudicio exacerbari, sed omnium charitate tegi & emolliri cupio. Quâ spe fretus, liberè dicam, sed breviter, & multa paucis. Quid enim vela pandam? hoc ipsum timidè, quòd pedem omnino pono in hanc cymbam.

Veneratio igitur universè mihi est Agnitio Eminentiæ habita; eáque duplex, Interna & Externa. Internam finio, quam Mens & Affectus habent: Externam, quæ ab illis foras ostenditur actu aliquo externo; ab illis dico, Mentem autem innuo & Affectum; idque jure, Omnis enim Externa Veneratio aut Significatio, utut operosa, intrinsecùs non oriunda, inanis est; nec Venerationem verè dixeris, sed larvam hujus. Veneratio definita. Veneratio duplex. Interna. Externa.

Porrò utraque harum adhuc trifariam mihi dispertienda, in Religiosam, Sacram, Civilem. Religiosam voco, quæ Essentiali Sanctitati deferenda, & Eminentiæ super omnia sublimi, id est, Deo vero & vivo; & hanc Adorationem propriè dicimus. Sacram appello, quæ relativè Sanctis debetur; & hanc verâ & nativâ vi verbi speciatim Venerationem dicendam arbitror. Civilem, quæ Civili ratione eminentibus. Utraque triplex. Religiosa. Sacra. Civilis.

Jam ex hac Venerationis triga Sacram solam destinavi hodierno sermone illustrandam. Nec id quemquam moveat, quòd Sacram hanc dixi ad differentiam, quasi Religiosa etiam non esset Sacra: ad has enim angustias distinctionum cogit me verborum inopia; quam ut vos (Viri Ornatissimi) rectâ mente suppleatis, quæso sic capiatis meam mentem. Nimirum, Religiosam Venerationem Sacram esse, sed & plusquam Sacram: hanc autem à me speciatim dici Sacram, quæ sit nudè Sacra, non etiam Religiosa.

Utcunque sit, Trichotomiam hanc aliorum in negotio isto Dichotomiis prætuli, ut tutam magis & illustrem. Horrui enim Λατρείας & Δουλείας Acroceraunia; Divisionem principio & ex se non malam, nisi eâ quidam usi malè; nunc certè à λογομαχίᾳ lubricam & perplexam. De altera quoque illa quorundam è nostris in Religiosam & Officiosam, vereor nimis ut illud Officiosum parùm absit à Civili: aut si Sacrum admittat, non tamen pro bono aut claro hujus doctrinæ futurum, ut Sacrum Civili sic eamus confusum.

HACTENUS de Reverentia & Veneratione generatim dixi, deinceps de Veneratione Sacra in specie dicturus. Venerationem igitur Sacram definio Actum rem sanctam sanctè habendi; vel, Quâ verenter habemus rem sanctam. Quid verò sit rem sanctam sanctè habere, id ex Relativa Sanctitatis natura & ingenio sic demonstrabo. Tria sunt Sanctitati Relativæ insita & nativa, Peculiaritas, Discretio, & Eminentia. Peculiaritas de essentia est Sanctitatis, ut ex Definitione est manifestum; duæ reliquæ Proprietates sunt. Discretio, quâ res in aliquo genere sanctæ discriminantur ab aliis in eodem genere rebus. Eminentia dignitas est rebus sanctis à Sanctitate adscita. Differunt res sacræ à non sacris, & præstant res sanctæ communibus. Unde tria hæc simul complexus est Moses, Deut. 26. vers. 18, 19. Jehova, inquit, stipulatus est à te sponsionem hodie; te fore ei populum peculiarem——ut efficiat te sublimem supra omnes Gentes quas fecit, laude, nomine, & gloriâ; & ut sis Populus sanctus Jehovæ Deo tuo. Audite hîc populum peculiarem, sanctum, sublimem: Peculiarem, ideo sanctum; Sanctum, ideo sublimem supra omnem populum. Hinc ergò apparet rem sanctam sanctè habere nihil aliud esse quàm habere prout sanctitatem decet, id est, peculiariter, differenter, & sublimiter. Et Veneratio Sacra definita & illustrata.

hoc

Levit. 19. 30.

hoc demum est ad meam mentem rem sanctam revereri & venerari; nimirum tum interno animi sensu, tum externo agendi usu eam præ aliis peculiariter, ab aliis differenter, & suprà res communes eminenter & sublimiter habere.

Proinde Spiritûs Sancti verbo veneranter habere rem sanctam, sanctificare dicitur. Sanctificabis diem septimum; id est, sanctè seu veneranter habebis, vel sanctè ages hunc diem. Ità Solomon 1 Reg. 8. vers. 64. sanctificavit internam partem atrii quæ erat ante Domum Domini, eò quòd parâsset ibi holocausta & munera; id est, non consecravit, (hoc enim jam antè factum) sed sanctè habuit, & quasi honoravit actibus ibi religiosis. Item sanctificare nomen Domini eodem sensu est nomen ejus sanctè & veneranter habere.

Sanctificatio duplex.

Sciendum tamen est, non semper hoc sensu usurpari sanctificandi verbum: Imò aliquando sanctificare est ex non sancto sanctum facere, id est, Deo addicere & consecrare; hoc Hebræis, si rectè observavi, est * הִקְדִּישׁ in conjugatione Hiphil: Cùm verò significat, ut dixi, sanctè habere, seu sanctè uti, tum iidem * קִדֵּשׁ dicunt in conjugatione Piel. Quo conjugationum discrimine observato, facile erit conciliare duo Mosis loca alioquin apertè pugnantia, quod unum idémque & sanctificari præcipitur & prohibetur. Primus, Exod. 13. 1. Allocutus est Jehova Mosem, dicendo, קַדֵּשׁ Sanctifica mihi omne Primogenitum—— ex hominibus & jumentis; meum enim est. At contrà est locus alter, Levit. 27. 26. Veruntamen, inquit, Primogenitum quod primùm gignitur Jehovæ ex bestiis, nè quis sanctificato (לֹא יְקַדֵּשׁ) illud; Domini est. Hîc facilis, inquam, est conciliatio, si posterior locus de Consecratione loquatur, (non enim iterum consecrandum quod Deus semel sibi consecraverat;) prior de Sancto usu, sanctè enim usurpandum quod Deus sibi sanctum fecerat. Differentia hæc insignis est, ut minùs sit perpetua; & tamen ex iis quæ haud putares ad eam flectas multa. Ego verò me ad id à quo deflexi.

* חִקְדִּישׁ

* קִדֵּשׁ

Confirmatur Venerationis sacræ Definitio.

Dixi Venerationem sacram positam esse in rem sanctam peculiariter & differenter habendo. Hoc quamvìs sit de omni significatione honoris etiam civilis verum, speciatim tamen monstrabo de honore Sacro. Primò igitur de Sacro unguento præceptum, Exod. 30. 31. ut veneranter & sanctè haberetur. Oleum, inquit, unctionis sancta est hoc mihi per generationes vestras; ideo vos usu peculiari illud sanctè habebitis. Carnem enim hominis (inquit) nè quisquam eo ungito, aut secundum confecturam ejus nè facitote simile ei. Rationem subjungit; quia nempe res sancta est: id est, Totum hujus confecturæ genus Deo & sanctis usibus addicitur; ideo (inquit) Res sancta esto vobis, id est, ideo vos sanctè & reverenter habebitis, peculiariter & differenter ab aliis unguentis utendo.

Idem planè de Suffitu sacro legitur vers. 37.

Atqui omnium apertissimè Ezech. 22. 26. Profanatio rerum Sanctarum per Exegesin exponitur non discernere inter sanctum & profanum, hoc est, promiscuè habere utrumque. Et ut tandem testimoniorum desinam, hoc ultimum adducam ponderis non ultimi, Apostolum nempe Paulum profanationem Sacræ cœnæ non aliâ dictione expressisse quàm μὴ διακρίνειν σῶμα τοῦ Κυρίου, id est, peculiariter non habere, neque discernere panem mysticum: Ut hinc discamus Discretionem rei Sacræ esse Venerationem ejus; discretim habere, venerari & sanctè uti.

SATIS jam cognovimusquid sit & in quibus sita Veneratio sacra. At quî, inquies, patebit, hanc quam explicavi talem adhuc dum deberi rebus sacris? Quî, inquam, nisi quòd adhuc in re Christiana sunt res sacræ; ergò & debitum sacrarum rerum? Objectum enim quamdiu manet, manebit etiam officium circa ipsum. Hæc una ratio est, & firma; cui addo idipsum à Deo mandatum in Quarto Decalogi Præcepto.

In hoc enim Præcepto de Peculiis Dei agi affirmo, id est, de quibusvis rebus rebus sacris, ut sanctificentur, id est, sanctè & reverenter habeantur. At, inquis, sola hîc mentio de Sabbato, seu de Tempore Sacro; de reliquis omnino nulla. Mihi verò hoc satis est, quòd de Tempore sacro sanctificando præcipitur; cùm hæc sit Synecdoche Decalogi propria, ut ex una specie intelligeremus omnes ejusdem generis species, ex una rerum sacrarum specie omnes omnino res sacras. Quod quidem ex hoc ipso, de quo ago, versu est manifestum, Sabbata mea sanctificate, & Sanctuarium meum reveremini. Quorsum enim hîc componitur Sanctuarium cum Sabbato, hujus Sanctificatio cum illius Reverentia, nisi quòd idem sit de utroque præceptum, & simile utriusque officium? Præterea, Particularis propositio rationem annexam habens æquipollet Universali quæ foret integri Syllogismi major. Ità hîc, Dies Septimus est Dei dies; Ergò, Dies Septimus est sanctificandus. Enthymema hoc si compleveris, Major propositio erit, Omne quod Dei est jure peculiari, id nobis sanctè habendum est. Jam assumo, Non solùm Tempus sacrum, sed omnes res sacræ, Personæ, Res, Loca, Dei sunt: Ergò, Unumquodque horum est sanctè, id est, honorificè & veneranter, habendum. Levit. 19. 30.

ATQUE ità hactenus definivi, illustravi & asserui Venerationem Sacram: sed id promiscuè & universé. Nunc ampliùs videndum, quid ea Specierum habet, quid Divisionum; quas certè geminas ostendit tum ex se, tum ex Objectorum varietate sumendas.

Per se dividitur, ut omnis universè Veneratio, ità speciatim Sacra, in Internam & Externam. Internam hîc speciatim dico, cùm internè & animo rem sacram habemus peculiarem, differentem, sublimem, id est, uno verbo, sanctè. Externam cùm idipsum externè præstamus actu aliquo externo, nempe Oris, Gestûs, Operis. Ore, cùm honorificè, & pro decoro sublimitatis Sanctæ, si Res fuerit, loquimur; si Persona, alloquimur. Gestu, cùm corpus ipsum singulari & præcipuo quodam motu, situ, habitu, quod intus est Venerationis effigiat. Opere denique, cùm item præcipuo tractamus modo, id est, Sanctis nec ut vulgaribus utimur, nec in iis quæ vulgaria. Veneratio sacra duplex, Interna, Externa. Utraque illustrata.

De Interna Reverentia aut nulla, aut modica lis est; idcirco sufficiat posuisse, non evolvisse. De Externa multa & magna: tum, An sit in Evangelio seu rebus Christianis ullo modo ferenda; tum, si hoc constabit, Quomodo sit facienda. Prior lis iniquissima est, & procul ab omni ratione. Quæ enim cogitare fas, & affectu intus concipere, cur non & proferre liceret Ore, Habitu, Opere? Certè quæ istis ostentare & foras repræsentare nefas, etiam concipere, etiam cogitare impium est. Argumentatio hæc solida est & ἀποδεικτική. Sed rem aliis porrò argumentis evincam, cùm speciatim mihi ventum ad Venerationem Locis Sacris asserendam.

Altera de modo hujus Venerationis lis est, Quâ formâ, quo actuum externorum genere exhibenda. Eam quidem, nè cum Religiosa confundatur, ancipitem agnosco & magnis tenebris involutam: mihi quoque ut difficilem, ità nec adeò tutam explicatu. Quoniam verò mihi in integro jam non est ut sortem quam elegi diffugiam, libabo etiam hîc aliquid, sed suspenso pede &, Homeri verbo, ὑποτροχάδην.

Omnis itaque Externa Veneratio aut Personalis est, aut Realis. Personalem appello quæ actione transeunte absolvitur; idque vel motu gestúve corporis; ut inclinando, incurvando, demittendo, item caput aperiendo, vel certis compellandi & appellandi formulis. Realem Venerationem voco, quæ præter actionem ipsam, rem aliquam inter agendum adhibet, aut agendo efficit, in honoris quem significat symbolum; ut qui Principem aut Dominum suum munere honoraverit, non transeunte ceremoniâ, sed præterea Reali honore ipsum afficit, quia Muneris rem adhibuit inter honorandum. Externa Veneratio duplex, Personalis, Realis. Utraque explicata.

Ità Augurum more, partibus in hoc Venerationis cœlo signatis, venio jam ad Augurium ipsum; dicóque Personalem Venerationem extrinsecus indifferenti usu posse & Deo tribui, & hominibus; aliâ quidem atque aliâ mente fateor, utrique tamen rectè, si mens & intentio recta Venerantium. Ita Deo & hominibus promiscuè genuflectimus, inclinamus, caput aperimus, supplices manus attollimus, alia de externa specie similia promiscuè facimus.

Levit. 19. 30.

At verò de Reali Veneratione alia ratio est; nam multa hîc deprehenduntur ingenio & indole esse ad Deum solum & unicum spectantibus. Quæcunque nimirum aut De Re fiunt, aut Ad Rem solius Dei propriam. De Re dico, id est, de Objecto in solius Dei potestate & jure: & Ad Rem, id est, ad finem ipsi peculiarem. In hoc genere est omnis Consecratio; est enim ad rem sacram faciendam. At res sacra Dei est solius, & ab respectu ad ipsum. Soli igitur Deo est consecrandum. In illo est Sacrificium; est enim Sacrificium de re Animæ quæ subjecta soli Deo: Soli igitur Deo est Sacrificandum. Eódem pertinet Primitiarum & aliarum quarumvis rerum oblatio; sive pro frugum & pecoris incremento, quæ Eucharistica est oblatio; sive pro exauditione precum, quæ Euctica & Votiva oblatio est: nam hæc de rebus sunt in solius Dei potestate ad conferendum. Uni igitur & soli Deo est de his rebus & similibus offerendum.

Porrò etiam illi Venerationis Externæ modi, qui naturâ suâ sunt promiscuè & Deo & hominibus communes, possunt restringi causâ vel Circumstantiæ, vel Moris. Causâ Circumstantiæ, Dei & sacrarum rerum fiunt propria quæcunque fiunt inter ipsa sacra. Causâ Moris, Dei fiunt propria quæ more & instituto legitimo usurpantur erga solum Deum: rerum similiter humanarum quæ in solis humanis rebus.

De Externa Veneratione 4. Consectaria.

Ex hisce Fundamentis quatuor duco Consectaria, quibus de Externa Veneratione quid fas, quid nefas, si mihi censere fas, ita censeo.

1. Qui Creaturis venerandis adhibet quod naturâ & ingenio suo ad Dei solius honorem spectat, purus & propriè dictus Idololatra est: & tales assevero omnes qui sacrificant, qui consecrant, qui vota faciunt Creaturis.

2. Quam Venerationis ceremoniam vel omnium Gentium publicus, vel alicujus privatus mos Deo fecit propriam, extra Deum usurpare Sacrilegium est. Ejusmodi forsan est (aliud in Gestu vix memini) Oculorum elevatio ad cœlum. Sin minùs, tales certè dixerim istos Ecclesiasticæ melodiæ modos Psalmis Deo cantandis peculiariter consecratos.

3. Quod naturâ alioquin adiaphorâ, Circumstantiæ tamen causâ fit rei sacræ proprium, qui tali circumstantiâ transfert ad rem non sacram, profanator est rei sacræ. Hoc Consectarium damnat Salutationes, honoris delationes & allocutiones civiles inter sacra & in loco sacro: Nam quæ impietas est, cùm ad Deum cœperis, ad homines converti, misso Deo? Quodcunque feceris tali loco, tali tempore, ad Deum solum erat faciendum.

4. Quod naturâ pariter & usu indifferens est, aut instituto humano privatim humanis datum, illud fas est Deo & sacris adhiberi; si tamen non abfuerit à decoro sacro. Ut si quæ fuerit Gestûs decori ceremonia adhuc in civilibus tantùm usurpata, potest ea, si Ecclesiæ videbitur, etiam Deo adorando & Sacris reverendis adhiberi.

Altera Divisio Venerationis Sacræ, scil. in Veneration*em* Personarum, Rerum, Locorum, Temporum.

ABSOLVI de Divisione prima: insequor alterum quæ ex Objectis; unde quadruplex mihi exit Veneratio sacra, Personarum, Rerum, Locorum, Temporum; tot enim sunt Peculiorum Dei, seu rerum sacrarum, genera. Ubi in singulis, quæ genere una, specie diversa est Veneratio, propter accommodationem diversam: idque de Veneratione tam Interna quàm Externa verum. Suus est Internæ cuique in affectu modus; Externa in effectu mos venerandi. Virum Dei veneror; etiam mensam Dominicam verenter habeo; item alias res sacras. Atqui lapis est, qui eodem affectu lapidem veneratur quo debuit personam. Simile de Locis & Temporibus sacris mihi cogitate.

Interim non negabo in Veneratione Interna, ut non facilè animadverti,

ita

ita difficillimè explicari quam indico differentiam: Et certè quanta quanta est, non aliunde eris discernendo, quàm ex mente rectâ & recto de re veneranda sensu. Jam verò Externæ Venerationis admodum clara sunt discrimina. Ut enim in rebus naturalibus Formarum differentias vix aut nè vix assequimur; Materiarum oculis usurpamus: eadem hîc ratio; later quod intus est; quod foras prodit, varium se prodit & multiforme. Quod quidem manifestum erit ex ternis istis quas dedi Externæ Reverentiæ partibus, Oris, Gestûs, Operis. Ab ea quæ Ore fit Reverentia incipiam. Ea duplex est, Loquendo, Alloquendo. Loquendo cohonestamus cujusque generis res sacras; Alloquendo, personas solas: honorificè enim loqui oportet de omni re sacra; personas solas alloqui decet honorificé. Jam verò Gestus sive Habitus aut totius corporis est, aut partium. Totius gestu, id est, incurvando, inclinando, procumbendo, gestu, inquam, ipso, aut fallor, aut personis solis exhibenda Veneratio: Partium verò sive gestu sive habitu, etiam non personis, ut Manuum lotione, quam in sacris reverenter tractandis usurpârunt veteres; & Pedum nudatione, quæ solennis erat olim in calcandis locis sacris. At Tempori sancto honorando Gestûs ceremonia nequit adhiberi, nisi quis fortè usitatum illud Festis diebus ornandi & vestiendi studium eò referat. Reverentia denique seu Sanctificatio Externa quæ Opere fit, ea quidem, quod ad personas sacras spectat, in officio peculiari sita est, nempe aut ipsorum erga se, aut aliorum erga ipsos. Levit. 19. 30.

Quod verò ad Res, & reliqua sacrorum genera, Loca nimirum & Tempora sacra, eorum Sanctificatio & Veneratio sita est in usu eorum sacro; ita ut in omnibus hisce suus cuique proprius debeatur usus, opus proprium: Ut Personæ sacræ sint sacris reverenter tractandis & administrandis; Res personis sanctis inservirent sanctè; in Locis & Temporibus sacris Sacra fiant Locis & Temporibus dignè, id est, sanctè, decorè, ordinaté.

SED omnia hæc non audeo singillatim pertransire; adhuc littus tantùm legi. Faciam dehinc quod postulat hujus Scripturæ scopus. Unicam mihi excerpam Locorum & Templorum Reverentiam sacram; in quam altiùs penetrabo, ut exquisitè vobis renuntiem sensum mentémque horum verborum, Sanctuarium meum reveremini.

Primùm igitur hujus Reverentiæ modos & genera indicabo: deinde muniam argumentis & autoritatibus tam Sacris quàm Ecclesiasticis. Locorum Sacrorum Reverentia explicatur secundùm ejus modos & genera.

Reverentia Loci sacri alia Rei est, alia Circumstantiæ rei. Reverentia Rei est, cùm actio ipsa, seu res quæ fit, ad Loci ipsius honorem fit immediatè. Qualis apud nos est Capitis apertio; apud Orientales, præsertim Judæos, Pedum nudatio; ideo quod hæ corporis partes videbantur maximè Locis reverendis accommodatæ, quibus ipsa Loca insistimus & calcamus. Uterque ritus Locum spectat immediatè, neque ullo præterea respectu intuetur; unde mihi ex ipsa Re Veneratio est dicenda.

Jam Reverentia Circumstantiæ est, cùm Actio quidem ipsa Deum, eúmque solum intuetur, Circumstantia verò agendi honorem loci. Hujusmodi sunt Preces, Sacrificia, Adoratio, & siqua præterea sunt similia officia sacra, dum in Loco sacro fiunt, aut, ut olim Judæorum ritu, versùs ipsum. Nam ipsæ quidem Preces, Sacrificia & reliquus cultus Religiosus Deum solum intuentur, & Deo soli fiunt, & ipso quidem cultu Deum veneramur solum; Circumstantia verò colendi, precandi, adorandi, quòd nimirum hîc loci fiant, quòd huc vel illò versùs, illud ipsi Loco honori est, quòd ex illo sanctè habetur & reverenter.

Ut qui Cœlum versùs orat aut adorat, non idcirco cœlum adorat, sed Dominum cœli: ita neque Locum, neque mensam Dominicam, aut mysticum Sacramentum, qui in illo, aut coram illis, aut versùs illa. Ut autem cùm ad cœlum conversi adoramus, hæc gestûs circumstantia in honorificam prælationem expetit cœlo: idem hîc putandum, ità honorificè, veneranter, & ex decoro sancti tatis haberi Loca & Mysteria sacra, cùm in ipsis habentur aut apud ipsa quos Deo soli præstamus actus religiosi. Cogitate mihi Tempus sacrum, ut invicem comparando illustrius fiat quod volo. Vult Deus ut sanctè habeatur, id est, dignè & veneranter agatur, Dies Septimus. At quî tandem hoc aut meliùs fiat, aut magis ex Dei voluntate, quàm solenni Religionis exercitio & cultu publico? Atqui nemo idcirco verè dixerit ipsum Diem religiosè coli, quin imò Deum in die. Idem hîc censete: Cultu ipso Deum, Circumstantiarum accommodatione in cultu & ipsum Locum sanctè cohonestari; atque adeò debere, quia Dei locus.

Levit. 19. 30.

Hinc ego (ut liberè dicam) sententiæ adeò severæ non sum, ut temerè Superstitionis damnarem omnem precum etiam privatarum usum in locis sacris; mente modò rectâ & sanâ fiat, à recto & sano. Nam si quis ità utatur, Venerationis hujus quam ingero partem dixerim, & ab iis qui alterius fortè negotii causâ opus habuerint Templorum ingressu verè ex decoro sacro usurpari. Non quòd à Loco accedat precibus efficacia, sed quòd Loco honor & reverentia à precibus. Actibus enim civilibus & alienis, etiam privatis, profanantur Templa: quidni ergo religiosis honorentur? Quod igitur Nuptiis conciones nuptiales, quod funeribus funebres, quod martyrum cœmeteriis synaxes veterum Christianorum, id sunt Loco sancto preces: Singulæ, inquam, singulis honori adjunctivè (sic loquar) non objectivè; non à re facta, sed à circumstantia faciendi.

Loc. Sacr. Reverentia probatur Ratione, Præceptis & Exemplis.

DIXI de Modis Sacræ Locorum Reverentiæ. Jam afferam ipsam argumentis specialibus & privatis; nam communibus feci, cùm de Reverentia Sacra dixi communiter. Aio igitur Reverentiam etiam Externam esse Sacris Locis exhibendam. Idque primò probo ab impari. Quid enim? Regiæ præsentiæ (ut vocant) Cameram reveremur nos caput aperiendo, suo modo alii: quantò magis locum Divinæ præsentiæ sacrum? Imò Solium Regium veneramur vel absente Rege, eò quòd ibi soleat Rex sese populo ostentare: quantò magis locum sacrum, etiam cùm non fiunt sacra, ideo quia solent ibi fieri?

At inquies, Præceptum aliquod mihi volo è sacris literis. An verò quidquam potest disertiùs præcipi quàm hoc ipsum, Sanctuarium meum reveremini? Audi etiam è rubo Mosi præcipientem Dominum, Exod. 3. 5. Extrahe, inquit, calceamenta tua à pedibus tuis: locus enim in quo stas, terra sancta est. Quod nè aliorsum capias quàm de Loco ob præsentiam Dei sancto externâ ceremoniâ venerando, idem omnino scias à Gentibus factitatum, Justino Martyre attestante, Apol. 2. Horsum spectabat tertium Pythagoræ Symbolum, Discalceatus nudisque pedibus sacrificato, adoratóque. Horsum illud Solomonis, Eccles. 5. Custodi, inquit, pedem tuum, cùm intraveris Dei domum. Cur autem pedem? ritum proculdubio indicat pedum excalceandorum; cujus usus etiam hodie manet apud Abissinos Christianos templa sua ingressuros: Et vestigia hujus moris hucusque cernere est in * Synagogis Judæorum & * Turcarum Moskitis. Quin & Ratio suprà Mosi allegata observanda est; nam, inquit Deus, locus in quo stas, terra sancta est: ergò, inquam, omnis locus sanctus (hic major erit Syllogismi) externâ ceremoniâ honorandus est. Non ego tamen hanc vel illam Externæ venerationis formam urgeo, sed Externam tantùm urgeo quacunque formâ, modesta modò sit, & Gentis cujusque moribus accommodata, & rebus Christianis decora.

*Buxtorf. Syn. Jud. cap. 5.

* Bart. Georgiez de Turcarum moribus.

Si verò quis Exemplis ducatur magis, audiat mihi Jacobum Bethele à somno experrectum, timentem & talia referentem, מה נורא &c. Quàm reverendus hic locus! quare autem reverendus? quia, inquit, Jehova est in hoc loco, Dei domus est & porta cæli. Verùm inquis, agnosco hîc Locum sacrum, agnosco Internæ Reverentiæ exemplum, Externa nondum video.

Gen. 28.

Non

Non vides? quid? in talia verba prorupisse, statuam erexisse, oleo imbuisse, aut Externa sunt dicenda, aut ego tantundem video. Levit. 19. 30.

Pergo, & Israelitarum omnium Exemplum attexo, Exod. c. 19. ubi eos Moses ex Dei præscripto instituit quemadmodum sese compararent ad Deum in monte Sinai conveniendum. Sanctifices eos hodie & cras, inquit, id est, Jubeas eos se sanctificare, ver. 10. Estote parati, ver. 15. primò internè procul dubio, deinde verò externè. Primò abstinentiâ, nè accedite ad uxores: Secundò munditie plusquam ordinariâ; Lavent (inquit) vestimenta, vers. 10. Tertiò de gestu & habitu corporis singulariter sese & reverenter comparando, ver. 12. Cavete vobis nè ascendatis in hunc montem, attingatisve finem ejus. Nimirum eo fine totum hoc factum est, ut mons ille, super quem Deus erat visibiliter descensurus, peculiariter, differenter, & sublimiter haberetur, seu, uno verbo, sanctificaretur. Ita disertè Dominus ad Mosen, Terminum, inquit, pone huic monti, ut sanctifices illum, וְקִדַּשְׁתָּ, id est, ut sanctè habeas seu revearis ritu isthoc externo.

De altera jam Externa Reverentiæ specie quam à Circumstantia dixi: Adjungo speciatim Israelitas, cùm Nubis columnam aspexerint descendentem ad ostia Tentoriorum suorum, adorâsse; ipsam quidem Nubem nequaquam adorantes, sed Deum: at Nubem versùs, quòd singulariter Deus in Nube. Ejusdem Reverentiæ sunt quæ apud Davidem in Psalmis: Adorate ad Scabellum pedum ejus, Psal. 99. 5. Item, Adorabo versùs templum tuum sanctum, Psal. 5. Item, Adorate versùs montem sanctum, Psal. 99. 9. Quousque verò Christianis liceat hanc Venerationis formam imitari haud facilè dixerim; vereor enim ut aliqua Typi ratio hîc latuerit: hoc tamen scio, Idololatriam non fuisse viris sanctis apud Judæos solennem; neque Christianos olim ab hac forma penitus abhorruisse, cùm apud Dionysium lego Hierarch. cap. 2. τὸν ἱερὸν χῶρον, i. e. sacram qui ingrediebantur locum, τὴν ἱερὰν ἀναπαυσάμενοι τράπεζαν, sacram salutâsse mensam; & nostros quoque sciam ad eandem tanquam quoddam præsentiæ Divinæ solium conversos & Deum laudare, & fidem suam confiteri.

Nazianzenus refert de matre sua Nonna, eam quidem Templum Dei adeò esse reveritam, ut in eo nè quidem vocem emitteret, nisi de rebus mysticis & divinis; neque unquam tergum Altari obverteret, aut sacrum pavimentum conspueret: planè Pythagoricè, ita enim ille Symbolo 1. Εἰς ἱερὸν ἀπιὼν προσκυνῆσαι, μηδὲν ἄλλο μεταξὺ βιωτικὸν μήτε λέγε, μήτε πράττε. Possunt forsan illa de pavimento & tergo Altari non obvertendo alicui aut levia aut superstitiosa videri; Nazianzeno tamen laudantur ut πίστεως ῥήματα καὶ πνευματικῆς ζέσεως ἐγχειρήματα· penes alios judicium esto. Ego Patrum Gangrensium Epilogo me defungar hâc pensi mei parte. Τὰς οἴκους, inquiunt illi, τῷ Θεῷ τιμῶμεν· οὐ συγκλείοντες τὴν εὐσέβειαν ἐν τοῖς οἴκοις, ἀλλὰ πάντα τόπον τὸν δι' ὀνόματι τοῦ Θεοῦ οἰκοδομηθέντα τιμῶντες· Dei Domus, inquiunt, reveremur; non Templorum parietibus religionem includentes, sed omnem Locum in Dei nomine ædificatum, id est, Deo consecratum, honorantes: in qua sana & religiosa sententia nos acquiescimus.

Gr. Nazianz. in Orat. 19. τὴν μήτε φωνὴν ἀφεῖσαν ἐν ἱεροῖς ἀκοσθῆναι συλλόγοις ἢ τόποις, ἔξω δὲ ἀναγκαίων καὶ μυστικῶν — Τὸ μήτε νῶτα δοθῆναι τῷ σεβασμίῳ πρὸς τράπεζαν, μηδὲ καταπτυσθῆναι θεῖον ἔδαφος.

PORRO Universam, quam Templis & sacris Locis affero Reverentiam, duplicem adhuc volo intelligi; Reverentiam nudam, & Ornatum. Reverentiam nudam appello quam hucusque exposui. Ornatum quoque sacræ Reverentiæ speciebus accenseo; quòd qui ornat, vel maximè videtur honorare. Ornatum idcirco requiro ad plenam locorum sacrorum Reverentiam; Ornatum quidem duplicem; unum ex Structura, Splendore & Magnificentia, ex Munditie alterum.

ultimò dividitur Loc. Sacr. Rever. in Reverentiam Nudam & Ornatum.

Ornatûs Templarii 2. Species.

Magnificentia, Mundities.

De Templorum Magnificentia dicturus, ut caveam quæ in hac causa multi in hanc vel illam Ornatûs speciem importuni objiciunt, non simpliciter, sed

Levit. 19. 30. comparatè definio de modo & mensurâ Ornatûs sacri; nempe Dei domum esse debere æquè, imò magis quàm profana magnificam. In urbe Templum ædificas? pulcherrimum id sit omnium in urbe Palatiorum. In villa? æquet, imò vincat, reliquas in villa ædes. Ratio mihi talis, Quia Deo non fuerit dignum quod non sit in quocunque rerum genere optimum & dignissimum: contrà si feceris, eandem apud Deum reportabis gratiam, quam qui Malac. 1. claudum & cæcum obtuleruut in sacrificium; vultum tuum non suscipiet cœli Dominus; imò nedum in honoris, sed contumeliæ partem interpretabitur, quòd tu Terræ hujus incola Deo teipsum antepoſueris, cœnum cœlo, creaturam Creatori. Nam Deo sese meliorem & majorem facit, quisquis aut malum ei offert, aut minus suo bonum.

Satis mihi validum videtur hoc Telum, satis firmum Argumentum, quod à Dei ipsius excellentia est ad eorum excellentiam quæ sunt Dei. Quòd si, ut fit, per se validum, à jacientis tamen manu videatur imbecille; agite iterum dabo non à mea, sed à sacra manu jaculatum. 2 Sam. 7. Ego, inquit David, habito in Domo cedrina, dum Arca Dei habitat inter aulæa; quasi diceret prorsus indignam rem esse ut Dei domus magnificentiâ cederet vel ipsis Regum Palatiis. Simile est Hag. 1. An tempus est vobis desidere in domubus vestris contabulatis, cùm Domus hæc mea vasta est? Eódem spectant Solomonis ad Hiramum verba, 2 Chr. 2. Domus quam ædificaturus sum, magna erit, (rationem audi,) quia major est Deus noster omnibus Diis. Cui consonum est illud 1 Chr. 29. Opus verò hoc (inquit, Templi scilicet) magnum est, (rationem adverte) non enim hominis istud Palatium, sed Dei est. Unde 1 Chron. 22. Domum Jehovæ ædificandam (ait) oportet esse summè magnificam.

Alterum quoque Argumentum appono à Fine sumptum. Nam à Fine mensuram accipiunt media quæ ad finem. Cùm igitur Finis sacer sit omnium Finium nobilissimus, & Loca huic Fini addicta debent esse aliis nobiliora Locis, id est, illustria magis & magnifica.

Objct. contra Templorum Magnificentiam solvuntur. SED Fumi aliquot Objectionum mihi tollendi, qui obfuscant hunc splendorem. Typicum aiunt fuisse hanc Magnificentiam; útque ipsum Templum Christum ὀνσαρκοδησόμενον, & Deum in carne habitaturum, ita & Ornatum figurâsse excellentiam & perfectionem hujus carnis seu humanitatis Christi. Audio; at verò neque omnis Templi finis Incarnationi figurandæ: quâ unicum, fateor, quâ sacrificiorum domus; non quâ Dei & orationum. Quid igitur tu Ornatum ad Typi solius partem refers? Apage conjecturas. Davide & Solomone arbitris decidatur lis ista; quos operis sui finem pervidisse haud negaveris. Davidem roga, quare Opus illud tam Magnificum: re- 1 Chron. 29. spondebit, Quia Dei illud palatium est, non hominum. Solomonem: Quia, 2 Chron. 2. inquit, major est Deus noster omnibus Diis. At hi fines ceremoniales non sunt: ergò præcipuus saltem Magnificentiæ istius scopus fuit moralis condecentia, non verùm rei in Christo futuræ umbra.

At magnam nobis invidiam conflatum eunt de pauperum indigentia: Indignum enim esse, ut Auro splendescant Templa hæc externa, dum viva Spiritûs sancti Habitacula fame contabescant & inediâ; in pauperes ut simus lapides, nimiùm in lapides profusi. Fatebor equidem, nec invitus, in Templa non insumendum quod alibi meliùs aut potiùs collocandum. Bonum enim quod efficit quò minùs fiat quod magis bonum, bonum mihi non videtur; malum censeo. At interim meminerint velim hujusmodi sermonis autores, nos non absolutè sed comparatè locutos de Templorum Ornatu, ut nè sint minùs quàm hominum ædes ornatæ. Deinde sciant non Templa sola hoc quod intorquent ariete, sed & Regum conquassari Palatia, sed multas privatorum ædes. Pauperes egent? Quin igitur tu ædes tuas dirue, quin Regum & Nobilium palatia demolire. Pauperes egent? Quid igitur tibi tantus domi aulæorum & tapetum apparatus? Quid tot contignationum & cameratioñum deliciæ? Quid reliqua supellex otiosa, ornatus supervacuus? Aufer, aufer hæc, inquam, sine quibus & tibi satis erit domi, & pauperi inde multum eleemosynæ. Postea si indigeant pauperes, causam non dico quin Templis omnem auferas ornatum, imò ipsa: non enim pro Templis homines, sed pro hominibus Templa sunt condita, ut in re Sabbatica dixit Servator. Levit. 19. 30.

domi

Ut enim David, si aliunde habuisset quod comederet, sanctos panes non comedisset; ita neque tu extra hunc casum spoliabis Sacra. Dum aliunde Veritas potest confirmari, Deus non est eò advocandus Juramento; dum aliis res dubia disceptari modis, ad Sortes non est recurrendum: quippe hoc esset temerè Dei nomen sumere, & profanare quod sanctum est. Idem hîc puta; nisi extrema urgeant, nec spolianda Sacra nec minuenda.

Sed pergunt nobis adversari, & Patrum quosdam aiunt in hunc quem nos tuemur Ornatum effatos multa. At verò Patrum dicta nihil ad nos, qui nullum Ornatum in specie ponimus, sed Sacra non sacris Ornatu & Magnificentiâ præire volumus ædificiis. Nec Patrum istorum argumentis Templorum modò, sed etiam civilium ædificiorum ornamenta perstringi. Denique, nego Patres istos Templorum Ornatum simpliciter damnare, sed immodestum, sed indecorum, sed gravioris momenti rebus prælatum, sed superstitiosum & malâ mente susceptum. Ipsos videat cui otium est, & in verbis eorum disertè inveniet hoc ipsum. In summa; Quod Christus Pharisæis menthæ & anethi decimationem satagentibus, & graviora Legis omittentibus, id illi ingerunt sui ævi Pharisæis; Graviora illa præcipuè facienda, sed minora hæc non omittenda.

ATQUE ita jam absolvi de Magnificentia; transeo ad alteram quam feci Ornatûs Templarii speciem, Munditiem scilicet, rem cumprimis ἐυπρεπῆ & sacra decentem maximé.

Argumenta communia quæ multa possem, taceo: propria tantùm ingero. Et Primò, Præsentiam Divinam minimè decere Immunditiem. Id adeò verum est, ut Israelitarum Castris Munditiem mandaret Deus propter singularem suam in iis Præsentiam: Quia, inquit, Jehova indesinenter ambulat in medio castrorum tuorum, eripiendo te; ideo Castra tua sancta sunto, neque conspiciat in te turpitudinem ullius rei, nè avertat se à te, Deuter. 23. 14.

Secundò, Templa honorificè habenda sunt; at Immundities contemptum maximum & vilissimam vilitatem arguit. Unde Jehu 2 Reg. 10. 27. Ædem Baalis contumeliâ quam potuit maximâ affecturus, in Latrinam vertisse dicitur. At ille Baalis Idoleum, nos Christi (proh pudor!) Domus in Latrinas vertimus. Adeò nobis in Deum ignominia non est, quâ Nebuchadnezar majorem non invenit, quâ Dei nostri blasphematorum ædes conspurcaret, quàm ut in latrinas & sterquilinia redigantur? Dan. 3.

Postremò, adeò Templis Munditiem convenire putavit magnus ille Gentium Doctor, ut Corpora fidelium Templis assimilans, argumentum inde duceret de iisdem morum & vitæ impuritate non temerandis; Vos Templum estis Dei viventis——quapropter impurum nè attingite, 2 Cor. 6. Si imaginem Templi non deceat Immundities, certè non decebit ipsum.

The End of the Second Book.

The Third Book
OF
THE WORKS
OF
The Pious and Profoundly-Learned
JOSEPH MEDE, B.D.

Wherein are contained

I. Clavis & Commentationes Apocalypticæ.
II. Opuſcula nonnulla ad Rem Apocalypticam ſpectantia.
III. A Paraphraſe and Expoſition of S. PETER 2 Ep. Ch. 3.
IV. The Apoſtaſy of the Latter Times.
V. DANIEL's Weeks, with two other Tracts upon DANIEL.

Corrected and enlarged according to the Author's own Manuſcripts.

DANIEL S. IOHN

Dan. 12. 10.
לֹא יָבִינוּ כָל־רְשָׁעִים וְהַמַּשְׂכִּילִים יָבִינוּ

LONDON, Printed for R. Royſton.

R.

3/6

The Second Volume
OF
THE WORKS
OF
JOSEPH MEDE, B.D.

The Third Book
OF
THE WORKS
OF
The Pious and Profoundly-Learned
JOSEPH MEDE, B.D.

Wherein are contained

I. Clavis & Commentationes Apocalypticæ.
II. Opuſcula nonnulla ad Rem Apocalypticam ſpectantia.
III. A Paraphraſe and Expoſition of S. PETER 2 Ep. Ch. 3.
IV. The Apoſtaſy of the Latter Times.
V. DANIEL's Weeks, with two other Tracts upon DANIEL.

Corrected and enlarged according to the Author's own Manuſcripts.

DANIEL S. IOHN

Dan. 12. 10.
לֹא יָבִינוּ כָל־רְשָׁעִים וְהַמַּשְׂכִּילִים יָבִינוּ

LONDON, Printed for R. Royſton.

8208
M·461
1664
v.2

THE CONTENTS
OF
THE THIRD BOOK.

I. Clavis Apocalyptica. pag. 521

II. Commentarius in Apocalypſin. pag. 541

III. Appendix ad Clavem Apocalypticam.

(i. e.)

1. Dan. Laweni Strictura in Clavem Apocal. pag. 671
2. Reſponſio ad D. Laweni Strictura. pag. 683
3. Lud. de Dieu Animadverſiones in Clavem & Comment. Apocalypt. pag. 703
4. Reſponſio ad Ludovici de Dieu Animadverſiones. pag. 707
5. Epiſtola ad Amicum de Reſurrectione Prima & Millennio Apocalyptico. pag. 710
6. De Gogo & Magogo Conjectura. pag. 713
7. Οἰκουμένη μέλλουσα (Hebr. 2. 5.) pag. 716
8. Prophetia Tobiæ moribundi, de Duplici Judæorum Captivitate & Statu Noviſſimo. pag. 719

IV. Παραλειπόμενα or Remains on ſome paſſages in the Apocalyps, enlarged with ſeveral Additions.

CHAP. I. General Conſiderations concerning the Order and Connexion of the Apocalyptical Viſions. pag. 721

CHAP. II. Particular Conſiderations for the underſtanding of the Scheme. pag. 722

CHAP. III. Mr. Mede's Defence of his own, and Anſwer to certain Objections of a Friend, pag. 727

CHAP. IV. Mr. Mede's further clearing of ſome paſſages in the foregoing Chapter: with ſome obſervations upon Dan. 12. 11. Apocal. 11. 19. & ch. 15. 5. pag. 732

CHAP. V. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Wood's ſpecial accommodation of the four firſt Trumpets, Apocal. 8. pag. 733

CHAP. VI. His Anſwer to Mr. Wood's three Arguments endeavouring to prove That the Vials are immediate Conſequents of the 7th Trumpet. pag. 734

CHAP. VII. The Virgin-company of the 144 thouſand Sealed ones, (Apocal. 14.) briefly interpreted. pag. 736

CHAP. VIII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to 6 Enquiries about ſome difficult paſſages in the Apocalyps. pag. 737

CHAP. IX. Five Reaſons demonſtrating That the Anti-chriſtian Times are more then Three ſingle years and an half. pag. 742

997235

CHAP. X. A Diſcourſe of the Beginning and Ending of the 42 Months, or 1260 Days (Rev. 11. 2, 3.) wherein Alſtedius his Four Epocha's are examined. pag. 744

CHAP. XI. Of the 1000 years mentioned in Apocal. 20. with ſome Reflexions upon Euſebius and S. Hierom. pag. 747

CHAP. XII. A Cenſure by way of Correction returned to a Friend concerning a ſomewhat exorbitant Expoſition of his, of Apocal. 20. pag. 748

V. A Paraphraſe and Expoſition of the Prophecy of S. Peter, 2 Ep. Chap. 3. pag. 753

VI. The Apoſtaſy of the Latter Times.

PART I.

CHAP. I. The dependence of the Text (in 1 Timothy Chap. 4. verſ. 1, 2.) upon the laſt verſe in chap. 3. Why in the Deſcription of the Myſtery of Godlineſs thoſe words [Aſſumed into Glory] are ſet laſt. A view of the ſeveral parts of the Text, containing the Method and Order of the enſuing Diſcourſe. The Author's 3 Reaſons for his rendring the Text differently from the common Tranſlation. pag. 767

CHAP. II. Ἀποστασία in the Scripture imports Revolt or Rebellion: That Idolatry is ſuch, proved from Scripture. By Spirits in the Text are meant Doctrines. Διδασκαλίαι Δαιμονίων are to be taken Paſſively, for Doctrines concerning Dæmons: Several inſtances of the like form of Speech in Scripture. pag. 769

CHAP. III. Dæmons (according to the Gentiles Theology) were, 1. for their Nature and degree a middle ſort of Divine Powers between the Sovereign Gods and Men. 2. For their Office they were ſuppoſed to be Mediators between the Gods and Men. This proved out of ſeveral Authors. The Diſtinction of Sovereign Gods and Dæmons proved out of the Old Teſtament, and elegantly alluded to in the New, 1 Cor. 8. pag. 771

CHAP. IV. Dæmons were for their Original the Souls of men Deified or Canonized after death. This proved out of ſundry Authors. Baal or Bel or Belus the firſt Deified King: Hence Dæmons are called Baalim. Another kind of Dæmons, ſuch as never dwelt in Bodies: Theſe anſwer to Angels, as the other to Saints. pag. 775

CHAP. V. The manner of worſhipping Dæmons and retaining their preſence, viz. by conſecrated Images and Pillars. The worſhipping of Images and Columns a piece of Dæmon-doctrine, as was alſo the worſhipping of Dæmons in their Reliques, Shrines and Sepulchers. pag. 778

CHAP. VI. A Summary of the Doctrines of Dæmons: How theſe are revived and reſembled in the Apoſtate Church. That the word Δαιμόνιον is ſometime uſed in Scripture according to the Theology of the Gentiles: That it is ſo uſed in the Text, was the judgement of Epiphanius; an obſervable paſſage quoted out of him to this purpoſe. pag. 781

CHAP. VII. Why thoſe words in the deſcription of the Myſtery of Godlineſs [Received into Glory] are ſet laſt. That praying to Saints, as Mediators and Agents for us with God, is Idolatry. To be prayed to in Heaven

Heaven and to deal as an Agent between us and God, is a Prerogative and Royalty appropriate to Christ. How this was figured under the Law, by the High-priest's alone having to doe in the most Holy place. That Christ purchased this Royalty by suffering an unimitable Death. That Saint-worship is a denial of Christ's Prerogative. How it crept into the Church. pag. 785

CHAP. VIII. That Idolatry is the main Character of the Churche's Apostasy, proved by Three Arguments. pag. 792

CHAP. IX. That Pagan Idolatry is not here meant, nor can the Saracen or Turk be the Antichrist meant in Scripture. An Answer to an Exception, viz. That Antichristianism cannot be charged upon those that acknowledge the true God and Christ. That Antichrist is a Counter-Christ, & his Coming a Counter-resemblance of the Coming of Christ; shewed in several particulars. pag. 794

CHAP. X. The Great Apostasy was to be a General one. That the word [Τινὲς Some] does not (in the Text and several other places) imply a Few or a Smal number. Wherein we and the Papists differ about the Churche's Visibility. In what respects our Church was Visible, and in what Invisible, under the Reign of Antichrist. p. 798

CHAP. XI. That the Last Times in Scripture signify either a Continuation of Time, or an End of Time. That the Last Times simply and in general are the Times of Christianity; the Last Times in special and comparatively, or the Latter Times of the Last Times, are the Times of the Apostasy under Antichrist. pag. 804

CHAP. XII. A more particular account of the Last Times in general, and of the Latter Times of the Last Times. That Daniel's Four Kingdoms are the Great Kalendar of Times. That the Times of the Fourth or Last Kingdom (viz. the Roman) are the Last Times meant in Scripture. That the Latter Times of the Last Times are the Latter Times of the Fourth Kingdom, wherein the Great Apostasy should prevail. pag. 807

CHAP. XIII. The Duration and Length of the Latter Times, viz. 42. months, or 1260 days: That hereby cannot be meant three single years and an half. That the Latter Times take their beginning from the ruine of the Roman Empire. That the ancient Fathers by the τὸ κατέχον (2 Thessal. 2.) understand the Roman Empire, & by the little Horn (Dan. 7.) Antichrist or the Man of sin. p. 808

CHAP. XIV. Three main Degrees of the Roman Empire's ruine. The Empire divided into 10. Kingdoms. Who are those Three Kings whom the little Horn (or Antichrist) is said (Dan. 7.) to have depress, to advance himself. pag. 812

CHAP. XV. That Daniel's 70 Weeks are a lesser Kalendar of Times. That these Phrases in the Epistles to the converted Jews [viz. The Last Hour or Time; The End of all things, The Day approching, &c.] are meant of the End of the Jewish State and Service at the expiring of the 70 Weeks. That the Apostles were not so mistaken as to believe the End of the World should be in their days, proved against Baronius and others. pag. 817

CHAP. XVI. That the Spirit foretold the Great Apostasy πνεῦμα in Dan. 11. vers. 36, 37, 38, 39. These Verses exactly translated and explained. That by Mahoz and Mahuzzim are meant meant Fortreſſes, Bulwarks, Protectors, Guardians, &c. How fitly this Title is appliable to Angels and Saints. pag. 820

CHAP. XVII. A Paraphraſe and Obſervations upon Dan. 11. v. 36, 37, 38, 39. That at the beginning of Saint-worſhip in the Church, Saints and their Reliques were called Bulwarks, Fortreſſes, Walls, Towers, Guardians, &c. according to the prime ſenſe of the word Mahuzzim. pag. 826

PART II. CHAP. I.

The Author's Reaſons for his tranſlating the Text differently from the Common Verſions. That the Preposition [Ἐν] in the Text ſignifies Through or By. The like it ſignifies in other places of Scripture. pag. 832

CHAP. II. What is meant by The Hypocriſy of Liers: That this appeared in 3 things; 1. Lies of Miracles, 2. Fabulous Legends, 3. Counterfeit Writings under the name of Antiquity. That Lies of Miracles appear'd in 1. their Forgery, 2. Illuſion, 3. Miſapplication. What's meant by Having ſeared Conſciences: Inſtances hereof. pag. 834

CHAP. III. That the Worſhip of Saints and their Reliques was brought in by Lying Miracles. No mention of Miracles done by the Reliques of Martyrs in the firſt Ages of the Church. That the Gentiles Dæmon-worſhip was advanced by Lying Miracles. pag. 837

CHAP. IV. That Saint-worſhip was advanced by Fabulous Legends. Reflexions upon Sim. Metaphraſtes, & his Fables of S. Barbara, S. Blaſius, &c. pag. 840

CHAP. V. That Sim. Metaphraſtes his living within the time of the great Oppoſition againſt Saint-worſhip, moved him to deviſe ſuch Stories for the help of the Cauſe then in danger. A brief account of the great Oppoſition in the Greek and Eaſtern Churches againſt Idolatry. A diſcovery of the ſlanders faſtned upon the Council of Conſtantinople againſt Idolatry. pag. 843

CHAP. VI. That Saint-worſhip was promoted by Counterfeit Writings. That Image-worſhip and the Idolatry of the Maſs were promoted by the Hypocriſy of Liars. A foul Story made uſe of in the Second Council of Nice in behalf of Image-worſhip. pag. 847

CHAP. VII. That by the perſons [Forbidding marriage and commanding to abſtain from meats] are decyphered Monks and Friers. That the renouncing of poſſeſſions (another principle in Monkery) may be included under ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων. Of the uſe of the word Βρώματα in Scripture. pag. 849

CHAP. VIII. That Monaſtick life and Saint-worſhip began much about the ſame time. That Monks & Friers were the chief advancers of Saint-worſhip, Image-worſhip, &c. pag. 851

VII. Daniel's Weeks. pag. 857

VIII. Regnum Romanum eſt Regnum quartum Danielis. pag. 875

IX. Revelatio Antichriſti: Sive De Numeris Danielis 1290, 1335. Cap. 12. verſ. 11, 12. quò ſpectent; Eousq; nempe Myſterium Extremorum Temporum, ejúſque qui tunc rerum potiretur, clauſum & obſignatum fore; deinceps reſignatum iri. pag. 882

CLA-

CLAVIS
APOCALYPTICA
EX
INNATIS & INSITIS
VISIONUM
CHARACTERIBUS
Eruta & Demonſtrata.

Ad eorum uſum quibus Deus amorem ſtudiúmque indiderit Prophetiam illam admirandam cognoſcendi ſcrutandíque.

Editio noviſsima ab Authore recognita.

Apocal. 1.3.

Beatus qui legit (id eſt, interpretatur) & qui audiunt (interpretantem) verba Prophetiæ hujus, & obſervant quæ in ea ſcripta ſunt: Tempus enim propè eſt, (id eſt, jam adeſt) quo eadem impleri cœperint, & indies magìs magíſque implebuntur.

LONDINI
Impenſis R. Royſton S. R. MAJESTATIS Bibliopolæ.
M DC LXIII.

CLAVIS APOCALYPTICA:

SEU

Vaticiniorum Apocalypticorum SYNCHRONISMUS ET ORDO

secundùm res gerendas, nullius interpretationis Hypotheſi, aut eventûs rerum præjudicio innixus; ſed ex ipſis Viſionum characteribus à Spiritu S. deditâ operâ inſertis firmiter demonſtratus, juxtáque luculento Schemate ad intuendum propoſitus: ut ſit tanquam Theſeïum filum in ſacro hoc Labyrintho verſaturis, & Lydius lapis ad veram interpretationem indagandam, & alienam redarguendam.

PRÆNOSCENDA.

1. SYNCHRONISMUM Vaticiniorum voco rerum in iiſdem deſignatarum in idem tempus concurſum; quaſi contemporationem dixeris & coætaneitatem: Prophetiæ ſiquidem de rebus contemporaneis συγχρονίζουσι.

2. Ordo Sigillorum, & in iſtis Tubarum, certus eſt & indubitatus; is nimirum quem numerus cuique aſcriptus indigitat I. II. III. IIII. V. VI. VII. Reliquis igitur Vaticiniis primùm inter ſe, deinde cum Sigillis per Synchroniſmum comparatis, elucebit Ordo totius Apocalypſeos: id quod nunc oſtendere σὺν Θεῷ aggredimur.

Tu qui Throno inſides, Túque Agne Stirps Davidis, qui ſolus dignus erat Librum hunc accipere & aperire, aperi oculos ſervi tui, manum ei mentémque dirige, ut in hiſce Myſteriis tuis aliquid cernat promátque, ad Nominis tui gloriam & Eccleſiæ emolumentum.

PARS PRIMA.

SYNCHRONISMUS I.

MULIERIS IN EREMO AGENTIS, BESTIAE SEPTICIPITIS INSTAURATAE,
ATRII EXTERIORIS CALCATI A GENTIBUS,
TESTIUM IN TERRA PROPHETANTIUM IN SACCO.

HIC ordior; primúsque mihi Synchroniſmus erit nobilis iſtius quaternionis Vaticiniorum æqualibus Temporum intervallis inſignium. 1. Mulieris in Eremo agentis per Tempus, Tempora, & dimidium, ſeu (ut ibidem explicatiùs dicitur) Dies 1260. 2. Beſtiæ Septicipitis inſtauratæ rerúmque potituræ Menſibus XLII. 3. Atrii exterioris

Pars I.

(ſeu Civitatis Sanctæ) totidem Menſibus calcati à Gentibus. Denique, Teſtium in ſacco prophetantium Dies 1260.

Hujus Synchroniſmi veritas ferè in confeſſo eſt, & tum aſtrui poſſe videtur, tum verò ſolet, ex ipſa æqualitate Intervallorum: Nam Tempus, Tempora, & Dimidium Temporis, i. tres Anni cum ſemiſſe (ut patet ex collatione verſ. 6, & 14. Cap. 12.) efficiunt Menſes XLII; Menſes XLII Dies 1260.

Sed quoniam neceſſarium non eſt (utcunque in Viſionibus eodem tempore oblatis perquam veriſimile) ut Tempora æqualia ſint etiam σύγχρονα, cùm æqualitas non prohibeat quin alia aliis priora, alia poſteriora eſſe poſſint: ideo Character iſte æqualitatis intervallorum non erit præfracto cogendo idoneus. Proinde Characteres mihi aliunde accerſam, ex quibus demonſtratione clarâ & invictâ rem ſic conficio.

Beſtiæ & Mulieris.

Tempora Beſtiæ & Mulieris eremicolæ ab uno eodémque rerum termino egrediuntur, nimirum à Dracone rufo devicto & in terram deturbato: ergò, æqualia cùm ſint, toto intervallo concurriſſe, & ſimul tandem curriculum ſuum abſolviſſe, neceſſe eſt.

Ab illo autem principio ſeu termino utriuſque tempora inchoari, patet ex Cap. 12. Siquidem, cùm jam dejecto Dracone per Michaelem, ſimul Mulier à facie ejus evadit in Eremum [ver. 6, & 14.] iratus Draco, quòd ipſam eò jam ingredientem obruere incaſſum tentâſſet [verſibus 15, 16, 17.] abiit ut gereret bellum cum reliquis ex ſemine ejus; (iis nimirum quos in Eremo paritura erat, v. 17.] * ſtánſque ſuper arenam Maris, [v. 18.] Beſtiæ Decemcornupetæ indè aſcendenti [Cap. 13. 1.] tradit virtutem ſuam, & thronum ſuum, & poteſtatem magnam; ibid. v. 2.

* Nam procul dubio legendum cum Latinis omnibus, Græco Aldi, anno 1518. & Syro interprete (qui ex Græco vertit) Et ſtetit, non, ut hodie habent exemplaria Græca, Καὶ ἐστάθην Et ſteti. [In Bibl. Polyglott. MS. Alexandrin. habet Καὶ ἔστη Et ſtetit.]

Beſtiæ & Prophetiæ Teſtium.

Tempora Beſtiæ & Prophetiæ Teſtium, perinde æqualia, ſimul finiuntur ad exitum ſextæ Tubæ: ergò ſimul quoque incepiſſe, ac per totum intervallum contemporâſſe, manifeſtum eſt.

Jam quòd ſimul cum ſextæ Tubæ exitu finiantur tempora tum Beſtiæ, tum Teſtium Dei in ſacco & cilicio prophetantium, id verò liquet ex verſ. 14. cap. 11. ubi tam aſcenſus Teſtium in Cœlum (qui pullatæ prophetiæ terminus eſt) quàm Terræmotus iſte magnus (quo, Urbe regiâ disjectâ, de Beſtiæ regno actum eſt) ſignatur articulo, quo VÆ ſecundum (i. Tuba VI.) abierit, VÆq; tertium (ſeu Tuba VII.) protinus adventurum eſſet. Quippe eo temporis momento, Teſtes (quos teſtimonium ſuum in ſacco jam jam finituros (hoc enim eſt ὅταν τελέσωσι) Beſtia quæ ex Abyſſo aſcenderat morte affeciſſet) divinitus reviviſcentes in cœlum aſcendiſſe; [ver. 7, 11, 12.] factóque eâdem horâ [ver. 13.] terræmotu magno, Δίκατον Urbis corruiſſe; eóque rem deveniſſe, ut, ſeptimâ Tubâ clangente, facta ſint regna mundi Domini noſtri & Chriſti ejus, ver. 15.

Teſtium & Atrii (ſive Civitatis Sanctæ) à Gentibus occupati.

Tempora Teſtium & Atrii (ſeu Civitatis Sanctæ) occupati à Gentibus contemporare liquet, tum ex mente textûs, cap. 11. v. 2, 3. tum ex ira Gentium jam exturbatarum, ineunte Tubâ ſeptimâ; id eſt, à fine ſextæ, quando Teſtium quoque dies exierunt, ut jam oſtenſum eſt. Nam non aliæ ſunt Gentes quæ ver. 18. ad ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem irâ inflammari dicuntur, quàm quæ hactenus totis XLII. menſibus Atrium Templi exterius (id eſt, Civitatem Sanctam) conculcâſſent, quæque nunc ideo ab ira Dei perdendæ veniunt. Et hic quidem Synchroniſmus à nemine, quod ſciam aut meminerim, in dubium vocari ſolet. Pars I.

Dei

Teſtium, Atrii, Beſtiæ, Mulieris.

Si Atrii Civitatiſque Sanctæ conculcatio contemporavit Prophetiæ Teſtium, contemporabit quoque Beſtiæ, cui Teſtes contemporaverint; ideóque etiam Mulieri Eremiticæ, cui contemporavit Beſtia. Ità Mulier Eremitica, Dominium Beſtiæ, Calcatio Civitatis Sanctæ, & Prophetia Teſtium, ſingula ſingulis συγχρονίζωσι.

Synchronismus II.

Bestiae Bicornis (qui et Pseudoprophetâ) cum Bestia Decemcornupeta (quae et Imago Bestiae dicitur.)

BEſtia enim Bicornis, conditor eſt, ſeu inſtaurator, Beſtiæ illius Septicipitis, decem cornua diadematis redimitæ; quam ſcilicet, poſt lethalem plagam, ad priſtini cujuſdam ſtatûs Imaginem magno cum Sanctorum malo redintegravit, & verò rerum totis menſibus XLII potituram [cap. 13. ver. 3, 5, 12, 14, 15.] Quo facto, ipſe in conſpectu ipſius omnem poteſtatem ejus exercet; edit quoque, (ſeu facit) ſigna magna in conſpectu ejus [ver. 12, 13. & cap. 19. v. 20.] Tandem verò eadem hæc Beſtia Bicornis (quam aliàs Pſeudoprophetam Joannes vocat) unà cum Beſtia illa altera, in cujus conſpectu ediderat ſigna, tanquam comites individui apprehenduntur, & vivi conjecti ſunt ambo in ſtagnum ignis ardens ſulphure, cap. 19. v. 20. Cùm ergò Beſtia Decemcornupeta (fas enim mihi ſit Beſtiam illam Septicipitem redintegratam ſic evidentiæ causâ appellare) & Bicornis Pſeudopropheta à ſe invicem neque ortu ſuo neque interitu ſeparentur; quinetiam altera alterius poteſtatem ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ, hoc eſt, in præſentia ipſius, adminiſtret: quis non videt illas omni ævo ſuo neceſſariò contemporare? Ut autem res tota rectè percipiatur, ſciendum, nullum alium Beſtiæ Septicipitis ſtatum cap. 13. deſcribi, quàm inſtaurationis, ſeu capitis noviſſimi, quo Decemcornupeta evaſit; id quod tota deſcriptionis ſeries evincit. Quicquid enim mali Beſtia patrâſſe dicitur, quicquid cultûs & adorationis eidem ab incolis terræ delatum eſt, id omne poſt inſtaurationem ipſius, ſeu plagæ curationem, factum perhibetur. Porrò, decem cornua ad caput ſeu ſtatum Beſtiæ noviſſimum (qui ſtatus Inſtaurationis iſtius eſt) pertinere, ex Angeli interpretatione cap. 17. manifeſtum eſt. Siquidem ibi, cùm quinque capita cecidiſſent, id eſt, vices ſuas compleviſſent, ſextum autem jam tum Joannis ævo vicem ſuam obiret; cornuum tamen tempus nondum adveniſſe dicitur. Ergò ad ſeptimum ſeu noviſſimum caput pertinere neceſſe eſt.

Appendix de alternatione Nominum Beſtiæ & Pſeudoprophetæ; item Beſtiæ & Imaginis Beſtiæ.

De utraque enim monebat Titulus Synchroniſmi. Et primò, eandem eſſe Beſtiam Bicornem atque Pſeudoprophetam, ex vetuſtiſſimis Apocalypſeos interpretibus obſervavit Irenæus. Id quod ex collatione ver. 13, 14, 15; 16. cap. 13. cum verſu 20. capitis 19. adeò clarum eſt & manifeſtum, ut ulteriori confirmatione non egeat.

Sed quod porrò præfert Titulus, Beſtiam Decemcornupetam nomine Imaginis Beſtiæ aliàs ſignari ſolitam, id minùs liquidum eſt, & de quo Lectori non nimis forſan attento nihil ſuboleret. Illud tamen ità eſſe, haud temere mihi obſervâſſe videor; ac proinde, ubicunque occurrit Beſtia cum Pſeudopropheta, (id quod ter factum reperio) ibi Beſtiæ cognomento non aliam quàm Decemcornupetam Beſtiam intelligi; cùm per Pſeudoprophetam, Bicornem deſignari ſatìs liqueat. Contrà, ubi cum Beſtia Imaginem Beſtiæ componi videas [ut cap. 14. v. 9, 11. cap. 15. v. 2. cap. 16. 2. cap. 19. 20. & cap. 20. 4.] iſtîc per Beſtiam, Pſeudoprophetam intelligendum eſſe; per Imaginem verò ejus, Beſtiam Decemcornupetam, ſeu Septicipitem reſtitutam: Hæc enim, cùm Pſeudoprophetam inſtauratorem ſuum agnoſcat, ſéque totam arbitrio ejus tanquam ſupremi Domini regendam permittat [cap. 13. v. 12, 14, 15.] non immeritò Imago ejus dicitur; non quidem cujus ſimilitudinem gerit, Genitivo paſſivè ſumpto (eo namque reſpectu alîus Imago eſt, Draconis fortè Septicipitis, aut ſtatûs in quo viguit ante plagam, juxta cujus ideam ſcilicet de integro Deum blaſphemat, bellúmque gerit adverſus Sanctos) ſed Imago, cujus Bicornis iſte Draconiloquus & reſtituendæ author fuit, próque peculio ſuo vendicat, Genitivo nempe Agentem & Poſſeſſorem denotante; quemadmodum in iiſdem illis locis Character Beſtiæ non eſt qui ipſi Beſtiæ imprimitur, ſed quo Beſtia eadem illa cultores ſuos inurit.

Pars I.

Et quidem rem ità ſe habere, ut dixi, de Imagine Beſtiæ, argumento eſt primò, quòd cap. 13. ver. 15. dicitur, illam ipſam Imaginem Beſtiæ, quam ibi animavit Pſeudopropheta, facere ut quicunque non adorârint Imaginem Beſtiæ, occidantur; imò alibi (ut Beſtiam agnoſcas) adorandi verbo ferè ſemper ſubjicitur, tanquam aliquid in quod adoratio competat. Cùm igitur duas tantùm, non plures, delineet Apocalypſis Beſtias; hæc tam improba, cum non diſpari ſive jubendi ſive cogendi poteſtate, Majeſtas non poteſt non earum alterutri convenire. Porrò ubi Beſtia ſimul adeſt cum Pſeudopropheta, Imago Beſtiæ in eadem verborum conſtructione non comparet, quaſi nimirum tunc vicem ejus ſuppleret Appellatio Beſtiæ. Denique, ejuſdem illius eſſe dicitur Imago Beſtiæ cujus eſt Nomen Numerúſque, c. 15. 2. At verò Nomen & Numerus non alterius Beſtiæ dici videntur, c. 13. quàm Bicornis: Ejuſdem igitur (utputa Architecti & Domini) Imaginem quoque dici par eſt. Sed Imago hæc, ſive ſit, ſive non ſit Beſtia illa Decemcornupeta, inſtituto noſtro nihil officit quidquam: huic enim hypotheſi non innititur Synchroniſmus Beſtiarum.

Synchronismus III.

Meretricis Magnæ Seu Babylonis Myſticæ Cum Beſtia Eadem Illa Septicipite Decemcornupeta.

1. TEmpus Beſtiæ eſt tempus Deſerti [Synch. 1. §. 1.] Meretrix autem à Joanne conſpicitur in Deſerto, cap. 17. ver. 3, 4. Sed hic character non multùm cogit.

2. Beſtia Decemcornupeta portat Meretricem, ſeu mavis Mœchatricem, & Meretrix inſidet Beſtiæ: Ergò ambæ ſunt unius ejuſdémque temporis, ver. 3, 7.

3. Decem cornua Beſtiæ (quibus ſcilicet [N. B.] ſupremum ejus noviſſimúmque Caput frondeſcit, cujúſque ſolius ſub vicibus (quibus utique à lethali plaga revixit, reliquorum Capitum vicibus jam antea peractis) Meretrix Beſtiam agit, Beſtiáque Meretricem bajulat,) hæc, inquam, decem Cornua ſunt decem Reges, qui autoritatem ſuam ut Reges ad unam horam accipiunt cum Beſtia, reſtitutâ illâ videlicet, Mœchatricem bajulante, jámque Decemcornupetâ, hoc eſt, ultimi Capitis vices exercente. Hi, expleto tempore quo autoritatem ſuam erant tradituri Beſtiæ [ver. 13, 17.] id eſt, quando jam diſſolvenda venerat compago Beſtiæ, Meretricem odio proſequuntur, deſertam illam reddunt & nudam, tandémque exurunt igne, [ver. 16.]

Ità

Pars I.

Ità igitur Beſtia, quæ in Statu decacorni (quo ſolo eam Joannes propheticè contemplatur) cum Meretrice, hoc eſt, Mœchatrice, primùm cœperat, Meretrici quoque non erit ſuperſtes, neque illi Meretrix: Ergò, Meretrix & Beſtia illa universè & ad amuſſim συγχρονίζουσι· ὅπερ ἔδει δεῖξαι.

SYNCHRONISMUS IV.

CENTUM ET QUADRAGINTA MILLE SIGNATORUM, VIRGINUM, CUM MERETRICE BABYLONICA ET BESTIA.

1. PRimò enim Virgines dicuntur, atque ab eo laudantur, quòd meretriciis complexibus ſeſe non coinquinâſſent, cap. 14. v. 4. Incidunt ergò in meretricia tempora Mœchæ Babylonicæ, quacum fornicantur Reges & incolæ terræ, cap. 17. ver. 2. & 18. 3.

2. Ex Choro hoc Virgineo prodeunt qui ruinam Babylonis denuntiant [verſ. 8. ejuſdem cap. 14.] quíque abſterrent homines ab omni communione Beſtiæ, Imaginis, Characteríſque ipſius: Ergò Cœtus iſte Virgineus contemporat Babyloni & Beſtiæ.

3. Hi denique ſunt Vocati iſti, electi & fideles Agni ſtipatores, verſ. 4. cap. dicti, quibus comitatus cap. 17. 14. bellum gerit cum Regibus ſeu Cornubus Beſtiæ Babylonicæ; quíque ejus auſpiciis (utpote Regis Regum & Domini Dominantium) victoriam tandem reportabunt [ibid.] Illa enim, de Domino Dominantium & Rege Regum, per parentheſin cenſeo legenda, ubi dicit Angelus, Hi cum Agno pugnabunt, & Agnus vincet eos (quoniam Dominus Dominorum eſt & Rex Regum) & qui cum eo ſunt Vocati, & Electi, & Fideles: hoc eſt, Agnus, & qui cum eo ſunt Vocati, Electi & Fideles, vincent decem Reges Babyloniferos.

4. Sed hæc nondum ad contemporationem plenariam & in ſolidum aſtruendam ſufficiunt; poſſunt enim omnia vel cum partiali contemporatione conſiſtere. Sic igitur in univerſum & ad amuſſim Cœtum Signatorum Agni Beſtiæ contemporare demonſtro. Cœtus iſte Signatorum, Beſtiæ ſeu Beſtiiſequarum univerſitatis Ἀντίσυνχον coævum eſt; copiæ videlicet ſanctorum militum, tum cùm cæteri Orbis incolæ deſertores & transfugæ Beſtiæ characterem accepiſſent, in Agni fide etiamnum permanentium. Patet ex textu. Unde, ut olim priſco ritu ſervi & milites ejus cui fidem ſuam addixerant ſtigmate notari & nomine inſcribi ſolebant; ità iſti nomen Agni & Patris ejus in frontibus geſtare perhibentur. Hoc cùm ità ſit, ſequitur, utrumque alteri commenſum eſſe & pari omnino intervallo reſpondere. Poſcit enim hujuſcemodi ἀντισυνχίας ratio, ut Cœtus Signatorum Agni, pro eo quod Viſo iſto intenditur, ex oppoſita Beſtiæ ratione penitus æſtimetur; citra cujus nempe oppoſitionem ipſe, ex mente hujus Viſi, rationem nullam habeat; proindéque cum eadem incipiente incipiat, deſinentéque deſinat.

5. Porrò de finali Contemporatione, id etiam iſto charactere ex cap. 7. evinci poteſt: quia utriuſque, tam Beſtiæ tyrannidis, quàm Cœtûs iſtius Signatorum, limes eſt Turba Palmifera. Beſtiæ, quia de Palmiferis ibidem dicitur, Hi ſunt qui venerunt ex tribulatione magna: quâ verò tribulatione niſi Beſtiæ Sanctos tribulantis? Ergò Beſtiæ tyrannidem à tergo relinquunt, Cœtûs Signatorum, quia eum Turba Palmifera continuò ſequitur, ut ex Tranſitione iſta Μετὰ ταῦτα εἶδον manifeſtum eſt.

Pars I.

V.

CONSECTARIUM

De generali omnium hactenus memoratorum Synchronismo.

ITà Mulieri Eremicolæ, Conculcationi Civitatis Sanctæ, & Teſtibus interea ſacco plangentibus contemporavit Beſtia rediviva ſeu Decemcornupeta, Synch. I. Beſtiæ Decemcornupetæ Beſtia Bicornis, Synch. II. Utrique Meretrix, Synch. III. Meretrici & Beſtiæ Virgineus Signatorum Cœtus, Synch. IV. Ergò omnia omnibus συγχρονίζουσι.

Synchronismus VI.

Atrii interioris calamo Dei commensi Draconisque septicipitis insidiarum et praelii cum Michaele de Puerperio.

SUnt enim proxima antecedentia contemporaneorum; Prælium Draconis ac Mulieris puerperium, Habitationis Mulieris in Eremo Beſtiæque Decemcornupetæ; Atrium interius (ejus enim periphraſis eſt quod de Ναῷ τῷ Θεῷ, Thyſiaſterio & adorantibus illic pro more Sacerdotibus, dicitur) Atrii exterioris ſeu populi, ubi gentes præter jus & fas ſtabulari perhibentur.

Primò enim utrumque, tam puerperium Mulieris quàm dimicatio Draconis cum Michaele, in eundem omnino terminum impingit, Fugam Mulieris in Eremum; quæ utriuſque rem geſtam proximè excepiſſe dicitur. Nam Mulier, ſimul ac peperit, fugit in Eremum, ibi alenda dies 1260. cap. 12. v. 6. Similiter, Dracone deturbato, fugit Mulier in Eremum, ibi alenda à facie Serpentis, ſeu Draconis, per tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis, v. 13, 14. Propterea duo hæc, ut vides, in unum confert titulus Synchroniſmi, tanquam ejuſdem temporis & junctæ omnino rei Viſiones, quáſque in hoc negotio ſeparare adeò opus non fuerit.

Porrò idem illud Duellum, quo Michael Draconem devicit, proximè anteceſſit Beſtiam Septicipitem redintegratam, ſeu Decemcornupetam: nam Draco, ſtatim ut deturbatus eſt in terram, ſtans ſuper arenam maris, Beſtiæ indè emergenti de cætero tradit vices ſuas, i. virtutem ſuam, thronum ſuum & poteſtatem magnam: & (ut cum * Irenæo habet Editio Complut.) unum ex capitibus ſuis quaſi occiſum ad mortem; cujus curatâ plagâ, Beſtiam admirans ſequuta eſt univerſa terra, cap. 13. v. 1, 2, 3.

* Lib. 5. cap. 28. al. 23. & huic quoque lectioni aſtipulatur textus apud Andream Cæſarienſem in Codice Auguſtano; nec non Syrus Interpres qui nuper editus eſt. Imò apud Latinos Primaſius illud (vidi) non legit, quamvis perindè accipit, addendo verbum [fuerit.] Illi impoſuit, quòd Latinè Unum ex capitibus, &c. de caſu ambiguum ſit, non item Græcè.

Atque hucuſque res plana & liquida eſt: ſed de anteceſſu Atrii interioris ad Atrium exterius (quod unum ad Synchroniſmum hunc conficiendum reſtat) paulò difficilior eſt probandi provincia, quia res diu aliter credita, ideóque præjudiciis impedita. Sic tamen oſtendo. Atrium interius, ratione ſtructuræ Templi, ſitu & ordine antecedit Atrium exterius, qui Throno Dei, ſeu τῷ Ναῷ (qui totius ſtructuræ caput) proximus erat. Ergò, ſi res ſignificatæ diverſorum temporum ſint (neque enim novum eſt, ordinem ſitûs ordinem temporis denotare, ut in ſtatua quam ſomniavit Nebuchadnezar videre eſt) ſanè Interioris Atrii ſignificatum Exterioris ſignificato tempore prius prius esse, rationi consentaneum est. Esse autem Atriorum significata diversorum temporum, atque adeò Interioris Atrii significatum antiquius & prius altero, sic porrò demonstro. Quia Visio hæc Atrii Templi & Altaris, seu interioris, mensurandi, exordium est Prophetiæ repetitæ; quæ nempe (ut mox pluribus ostendetur) ab origine & quasi ab ovo relegit tempora Prophetiæ Sigillorum, quorum initium ab ipsa intervalli Apocalyptici Epocha accersendum, nemo dubitaverit: Oportet te (inquit) iterum prophetare (ità libri comesti symbolum explicat) populis, & gentibus, & linguis, & regibus multis. iterum, πάλιν, id est, ordine temporum, de quo antè prophetaverat, repetito. Incipit autem à dimensione isthac τοῦ Ναοῦ & Thysiasterii, eorúmque qui illic adorabant. Si igitur Visio de Mulieris puerperio & Draconis prælio (quæ ipsa pars est Prophetiæ hujusce repetitæ) ad ipsum caput periodi, seu Temporis Apocalyptici ascendat, usque adeò, ut nihil eâ antiquius habeat Apocalypsis, quódve altiùs originem ducat (id quod tum ex rei ipsius ingenio, quæ Partus est, tum ex hactenus firmatis & porrò firmandis patebit Synchronismis:) quidni multò magis ejusdem Prophetiæ exordium, & prima omnium Visio eódem ascendere putaretur? At Atrii exterioris Menses eò ascendere nequeunt; ut qui toti jam Bestiæ Decemcornupetæ contemporaverint. Ergò interioris Atrii τοῦ ἐμμήνου tempora exterioris τοῦ ἀσυμμήνου Menses non solùm antecedere, sed ab origine Prophetiæ repetitæ, unà cum Visione de Puerperio & Dracone, duci debere, mihi quidem liquidissimum est.

Jam tria hæc, Mulieris habitationem in Eremo, Bestiam Decemcornupetam, Atrium exterius à Gentibus calcatum, contemporanea esse, patet ex primo Synchronismo: Ergò Atrii interioris commensi tempora, & Puerperium Mulieris, , unà cum Draconis insidiis & Prælio cum Michaele, sunt proxima antecedentia contemporaneorum; & consequenter ipsa quoque sibi invicem non possunt non contemporare. ὅπερ ἔδει δεῖξαι.

Synchronismus VII.

Septem Phialarum et Bestiæ Babylonisque ad occasum vergentium.

Effusio Phialarum affert ruinam & interitum Bestiæ, ut ex textu ipso manifestum est. Canunt enim victores Bestiæ canticum Mosis ὠδὴν νικίων, cap. 15. vers. 2, 3. Atque porrò speciatim patet de Phiala prima [cap. 16. v. 2.] quæ ulceris plagam immittit in homines habentes characterem Bestiæ & eos qui adorabant Imaginem ejus: De quinta [vers. 10.] quæ effunditur super thronum Bestiæ, & Regnum ejus reddit tenebrosum: Itémque de ultima, quâ effusâ, Babylon funditus exscinditur, [vers. 19.] Ergò Effusio Phialarum contemporat Bestiæ & Babyloni finientibus.

PARS

Pars II.

PARS ALTERA.

PEregi Partem primam ſeptem Synchroniſmis: ſequitur Pars altera Sigillaris, in qua omnium hactenus dictorum, & ſi qua præterea ſunt, Vaticiniorum connexionem cum Sigillis, aliis totidem Synchroniſmis demonſtrabo; unde perſpicuum evadet, (res obſervatione digniſſima, & non parùm interpretaturo momenti, ni fallor, allatura) Apocalypſin totam indè à capite quarto (nam de Septem Eccleſiis jam nihil interpono) in duas diſpertiri Prophetias principales, quarum utraque ab eadem Epocha & quaſi carceribus egreditur, deſinítque in eandem metam. Prima eſt Sigillorum, in iísque Tubarum; nam Sigillum ſeptimum Tubarum eſt Sigillum. id quod ex Grammatico contextûs ſenſu ubique pro conceſſo ſumo. Neque enim qui in cæteris Sigillis omnibus ſenſûs ordo tenetur, is ſeptimo ſolo non convenire putandus eſt: ut quod Sigilli reſerationi ſubjicitur viſum, id Sigilli τὸ πρᾶγμα ſit. Jam autem ſeptimi reſerationem excipit viſio Angelorum ſeptem cum ſeptem Tubis. Altera Prophetia (ſeu mavis, Viſionum Propheticarum Syſtema) eſt τὸ Βιβλαριδίυ, ſeu Libri aperti, quæ ab eodem exorſa Temporis Apocalyptici principio, prioris, quæ Sigillorum eſt, Prophetiæ Tempora relegit, à verſu 8. capitis 10. ad finem libri: Háncque Prophetiæ repetitionem indicari Tranſitione iſtâ verſ. 11. cap. ejuſdem, ubi Joanni ait Angelus, Oportet te iterum (πάλιν) prophetare populis, & gentibus, & linguis, & regibus multis. Porrò illud quoque, Lector, animadverſione tuâ fortaſſe non erit indignum; ad utriuſque iſtarum, perinde atque primæ omnium Viſionis de ſeptem Eccleſiis, quaſi trium integrarum Prophetiarum, initia ſingula Voce tanquam Tubæ de Cælo cum Joanne loquentis proclamari: quaſi hoc indice diſtinguere voluiſſet Spiritus Sanctus à reliquis Vaticiniis, harum principalium partibus, in quibus nihil tale fieri videbis.

Sunt autem hæc, de quibus moneo, Prophetiarum initia, Viſionis quidem ſeptem Eccleſiarum, cap. 1. 10. his verbis, Fui autem Spiritu correptus die Dominico, & audivi à tergo vocem magnam tanquam tubæ dicentis, &c. Prophetiæ autem Sigillorum, cap. 4. verſ. 1. hujuſmodi, Et vox prima, quam audiveram tanquam Tubæ loquentis mecum, dicebat, &c. Denique Prophetiæ Βιβλαριδίυ, cap. 10. verſ. 8. Et vox quam audieram è Cælo (ſcilicet tanquam Tubæ loquentis) rurſus loquebatur mecum, & dixit, &c. Hactenus Præloquium fuit, neque id, ut ſpero, à re quam agimus alienum. ſequuntur jam Synchroniſmi.

CARDO

Pars II.

I.

CARDO SYNCHRONISMORUM,

Seu

Synchronismus

Sigilli septimi, quod ad priores sex Tubas, cum Bestia Decemcornupeta, Bicorni, caeterisque contemporantibus.

Primò enim, Initium Bestiæ contemporat cum initio Sigilli septimi, quod est Tubarum.

NEmpe, cùm Cœtus Signatorum, tanquam Bestiæ regnantis Ἀντίσυνχον, Bestiæ idcirco justè & ad amussim contemporet; idémque Cœtus Signatorum ineat ineunte Sigillo septimo, sive Tubarum; sequitur omnino Bestiam itidem inire cum eodem Sigillo septimo, sive Tubarum.

Jam verò Cœtum Signatorum Bestiæ in solidum & ad amussim contemporare, ostensum est Synch. IV. Part. I. Eundem Cœtum Signatorum inire cum Sigillo VII. liquet ex cap. 7. ubi Signatio ista sexto Sigillo continenter subjungitur. Siquidem sexti Sigilli Viso transacto, cùm septimum, quod Tubarum est, jam erat aperiendum, Electis Dei servis signaculo prospicitur, nè à calamitatum procellis, quæ (jam quatuor Angelis, quatuor mundi cardinum præsidibus, ventos, quos hucusque retinuerant, ad Tubarum sonitum laxaturis,) Orbi terrarum incubituræ essent, perderentur. Quibus deinceps quoque cavetur ad quintæ Tubæ clangorem, cap. 9. v. 4. ut vel eo indicio agnoscas, signationem istam ad Tubarum tempora pertinere. Esse verò finem & exitum Sigilli sexti initium septimi, extra omnem dubitationem est; cùm Sigillorum ad invicem series interrumpi nec possit, nec debeat. Ergò Cœtum CXLIV M Signatorum, qui Sigillum sextum transactum excipit, cum Sigillo septimo, quod eidem Sigillo sexto haud minùs continenter succedit, inire necesse est. Atque ità mirabili consilio (sic sentio) Spiritus Sanct. per hujus Signationis characterem prospexit nobis de connexione ineuntis Bestiæ cum initio Sigilli VII. cùm alia ratio nulla reddi possit, cur hâc Visione Signatorum cap. 7. interpositâ, turbaretur alioquin non interrumpenda Sigillorum series.

Secundò, Finis Bestiæ contemporat cum exitu Tubæ sextæ.

Nam cùm Testium in sacco lugentium Dies 1260 finiantur ad exitum Tubæ VI. seu ineunte septimâ; ibidem quoque Bestiæ Menses 42. finiri necesse est, & per consequens Bestiæ tyrannidem intra sex primarum Tubarum ambitum contineri. ὅπερ ἔδει δεῖξαι.

Bestiæ autem Menses XLII, perinde ut contemporanei eisdem Dies 1260 luctûs Testium, ad sextæ Tubæ exitum finiendos esse, jam suprà demonstratum est, Part. I. Synch. I. § 3. ubi ex capite 11. ostenditur, cùm Testes post triduanam mortem ad vitam denuo suscitati, atque in cœlum subvecti, luctuosæ Prophetiæ suæ Dies compleviſſent, factóque eâdem horâ, seu tempore, ingenti terræmotu, Urbs magna ruinam passa esset, Bestiáque, truculentus Testium hostis, præ clade quam tunc sentiret animam ageret, ut sciremus ubi intervalli Sigillorum & Tubarum hoc acciderit, continuò subjunxisse Spiritum, Væ secundum (hoc est, Tubam VI) jam tum abiisse, & Væ tertium (Tubam scilicet VII) venturum citò. Quem ego Characterem, alterum magni hujus Synchroniſmi indicem, vel eo præcipuè ſine iſthîc loci inſertum credo, ut alter quaſi cardinum eſſet, quibus magna iſta & univerſalis τῦ Βιβλαριδίυ & Sigillorum Prophetiæ commiſſura verteretur. Siquidem alioquin & hoc monitum, & qui protinus ſequitur clangor Tubæ VII, recto & naturali ordine ad finem Prophetiæ Sigillorum cap. 10. collocanda fuiſſent. Sed Spiritus S. ſeptimæ Tubæ myſterio eò loci, ad modum præconii, leviter tantùm, & quantum tunc ſatis videbatur, præſignato, (fore nimirum ut, eâ clangente, myſterium Dei Prophetis evangelizatum conſummaretur) ipſius clangoris editionem & myſterii definitionem diſertam aliquantiſper (nec id proculdubio niſi gravi aliqua de cauſa) ſuſtinere & protelare voluit; donec, nimirum, ad novam Βιβλαριδίυ Prophetiam tranſitione factâ [cap. 10. à verſ. 8. ad finem] primam ejuſdem Viſionem, ſtadio Apocalyptico ſimiliter emenſo, ad eundem rerum exitum provexiſſet. Illud enim lector attentè admodum obſervet velim; unâ hâc capitis undecimi Viſione (Prophetiæ utpote repetitæ primâ) Spiritum ſapientiſſimum totum Sigillaris Prophetiæ intervallum, ceu tramâ ſtamen, percurrere; eandémque ſeptimâ Tubâ, quaſi fibulâ quadam, ſeriei Sigillorum, temporis dirigendi causâ, ſubnectere. Quorſum autem, niſi ut primæ Viſioni ſic fixæ & cum Sigillis comparatæ, per ſuos quoque characteres connexis reliquis quæ ſequuntur Βιβλαριδίυ vaticiniis, totum repetitæ prophetiæ ſyſtema cum Sigillis dextrè componi poſſit?

alterum

Pars II.

Porrò, nè illud fortè cuiquam ſcrupulum injiciat, quòd ea quæ in textu referuntur de Beſtiæ conſternatione, de ruina Urbis ſtragéque hominum à Terræmotu facta, minimè videntur de omnimoda Beſtiæ abolitione intelligi debere; aio, neque hoc ad eum de quo egimus Synchroniſmum poſtulari, ſed ut accipiantur ſaltem de tempore poteſtatis & regni finiendo, quod menſibus XLII determinatur; quóſque, dato Beſtiæ & Teſtium Synchroniſmo, ſimul cum Teſtium Diebus exire neceſſe eſt. Quod verò adhuc aliquantiſper ſupererit Beſtiæ, id adeò (ut hinc colligi datur) diſſimili à priore ſpecie futurum eſt, ut eodem cenſu non ſit habendum; ſed &, haud ità multò pòſt, ſub ſeptima Tuba delendum & abolendum penitus, Factis regnis hujus mundi Domini noſtri & Chriſti ejus.

Atque ità Synchroniſmo hoc cardinali bene conſtituto, reliquos indè Synchroniſmos facilè deduci & cum Sigillis colligari poſſe, manifeſtum erit.

Synchronismus II.

Contemporantium Atrii interioris et Praelii Draconis et Michaelis de Puerperio cum Sex primis Sigillis.

Quia ſunt proxima antecedanea Contemporantium ſuccedaneorum. Nam ſex prima Sigilla proxima ſunt antecedanea ſeptimi. Atrium Interius & dimicatio Michaelis cum Dracone proxima ſunt antecedanea Beſtiæ & Cœtûs CXLIV M Signatorum. Jam verò Sigillum ſeptimum, ſeu (quod perinde eſt) ſex primæ Tubæ, Cœtus Signatorum & Beſtia ſunt contemporanea; ut oſtenſum eſt priori Synchroniſmo.

Synchronismus III.

Phialarum cum Tuba sexta.

Septem Phialæ iræ noviſſimæ, cùm totidem ſint ruinæ & occaſûs Beſtiæ gradus [Synch. VII. Part. I.] proinde neceſſariò ineundæ ſunt ab initio ruentis & occidentis Beſtiæ. Beſtiæ autem regnum, ſextâ Tubâ adhuc adhuc clangente, adeò labefactari cœpit, atque eò demum proceſſerat ruinæ, ut ad ejuſdem illius Tubæ exitum finiretur poteſtas illa XLII. Menſium, quibus ipſi datum fuit dominari, & Sanctos vincere [Synch. I. hujus.] Atqui eò ruinæ & fatalium calamitatum priùs delabi Beſtia non potuit quàm quinta ſaltem Phiala effunderetur : nam tum demum Sedem ejus concutiendam, & Regnum tenebroſum redditum iri, apparet cap. 16. v. 10. Ergò quinque ad minimum Phialarum effunduntur ante deſitum ſextæ Tubæ clangorem ; credo quòd etiam ſexta : Phiala verò ſeptima, quæ conſummationis Phiala eſt, [ibid. ver. 17, 18.] proinde concurret cum initio Tubæ ſeptimæ, quæ itidem conſummationis Tuba eſt, cap. 10. ver. 6.

SYNCHRONISMUS IV.

MILLE ANNORUM LIGATI DRACONIS SEU SATANÆ, CUM TUBA SEPTIMA, SEU INTERVALLO AB EXCIDIO BESTIÆ.

UT hoc de Satanæ ligatione eò meliùs intelligatur, illud demonſtrationi præmittendum eſt ; in * textu dici, Satanam tunc inſuper non tantùm in Abyſſum conjectum, ſed ibidem occluſum eſſe ; adhæc ſignâſſe ſuper eum Angelum, ut non ſeduceret amplius gentes, donec conſummarentur mille anni ; id eſt, firmiter muniiſſe, nè ullatenus pateret exitus. Nam mos erat Hebræis & vicinis gentibus, quando firmiter munitum & obſeratum volebant oſtium, ut ei ſigillum apponerent. Ità lapidem impoſitum foveæ Leonum, quò Daniel conjectus erat, obſignavit Rex Darius annulo ſuo, & annulo procerum ſuorum, Dan. 6. In hiſtoria Apocrypha miniſtri Danielis ædis Beli portas claudunt & obſignant annulo Regis. Similiter Judæi Matth. 27. 66. ſepulcrum Servatoris ἀσφαλίσαντο σφραγίσαντες τὸν λίθον μετὰ κυνοδίας, munierunt, ſeu tutum reddebant, obſignato lapide, &c. ubi obſervandum, ἀσφαλίζειν καὶ σφραγίζειν ſeſe mutuò explicare. Longè igitur aliud eſt, Cælo dejici, cap. 12. (quod adeò multi huic loco accommodant) aliud ligari, abyſſo includi, obſignarique. Illud vagandi & nocendi licentiam non adimit ; hoc de carcere ſuo nullâ ratione egredi patitur. Imò affirmare auſim, nihil prorſus eorum quæ referuntur capite viceſimo in duodecimo comparere ; neque viciſſim de eo quod capite 12. memoratur ullum in viceſimo verbulum exſtare, tantum abeſt ut idem utrobique repræſentetur. Examinemus pauliſper. Capite 20. quatuor de Dracone referuntur : Primum, ab Angelo qui cœlo deſcendit apprehenſum fuiſſe, 2. ligatum, 3. in Abyſſum conjectum, 4. occluſum atque obſignatum fuiſſe. Horum verò nullum in duodecimo reperies. Viciſſim quod unicum narratur capite 12. de Draconis projectione de cœlo in terram, de eo in 20. nè ψιὸ quidem habetur. Imò ex ipſo contextu apertè colligere eſt, illud nequaquam tunc factum eſſe. Dicitur enim ibi, Angelum qui Draconem ligatum veniebat, cælo deſcendiſſe : ergò Draco jam tum ſuper terram fuit. Quorſum enim alioquin Angelus cœlo deſcendiſſet eundem apprehenſum? Hinc c. 12. Michael cœlo non deſcendit, ſed in ipſo cœlo cum Diabolo manum conſeruit. His ità præmiſſis, ad Synchroniſmi ἀπόδειξιν veniamus.

Arg. 1. Sub primis ſex Sigillis Draco ſeu Satanas liber fuit & ſolutus ; itémque ſub primis ſex Tubis Sigilli ſeptimi : Ergò reſtat ut Mille anni ligati Satanæ conjiciantur in Tubam ſeptimam.

Non enim fuiſſe ligatum Satanam ſive Draconem primis ſex Sigillis vicem ſuam adhuc decurrentibus, ex eo liquet, quòd omni iſthoc intervallo, ſeptem capitibus & diadematis rubens, in cœlo dimicavit cum Michaele de puerperio Mulieris, ut modò demonſtratum fuit Synch. II.

Sed neque primis ſex Tubis ſequentis Sigilli id factum eſt : Nam hoc eſt Intervallum Mulieris in Eremo, & dominantis Beſtiæ Decemcornupetæ, ut conſtat ex Synch. I. hujus. Sanè, Muliere in Eremo agente, multum ab-

* cap. 20. 3.

Pars II.

fuit ut ligatus putaretur Draco, qui à Michaele de cœlo præcipitatus, primò eam abiturientem eluvione aquarum, quam ex ore ſuo ejecerat, peſſundare conabatur; deinde, cùm hoc ei ex ſententia non ſucceſſerit (terrâ flumen abſorbente, & Muliere jam in Eremum receptâ) Irâ & furore accenſus, abiit ad gerendum bellum cum reliquis ex ſemine ejus, obſervantibus præcepta Dei, & habentibus teſtimonium Jeſu, cap. 12. ver. 13, 15, 17. Numquid hæc ſunt ligati Satanæ indicia?

Sed de Beſtia quoque videamus; & quàm fuit ſub ejus Regno Draco vinctus, audi: Scilicet, Dedit ei Draco virtutem ſuam, & thronum ſuum, & poteſtatem magnam; & admirans univerſa terra ſequuta eſt Beſtiam, & adorárunt Draconem qui dedit poteſtatem Beſtiæ, [c. 13. v. 2, 3, 4.] At potuit forſan hæc omnia ex carcere ſuo agere Satanas? Certè occluſo & obſignato non potuit. Sed ut nullus ſit tergiverſationi locus, & liquidò appareat quàm adhuc fuit Draco ad ea ipſa facinora liber & ſolutus, à quibus in cuſtodiam ſemel datus coercendus dicitur; en alterum ejus Alumnum Pſeudoprophetam, Decemcornupetæ comitem individuum & Beſtialis poteſtatis Adminiſtratorem, de quo exſertè ſcriptum habes, quòd edat ſigna magna, quódque ſeducat Incolas Terræ per ſigna quæ datum eſt ei facere. Ecquis jam facilè credet, Beſtiis iſtis rerum potiuntibus Draconem, hoc eſt, Satanam, fuiſſe vinctum, fuiſſe in Abyſſum conjectum, & obſignatum ſuper eum, ut non ſeduceret gentes ampliùs? juxta cap. 20. ver. 2, 3.

Quinetiam ex ipſis Tubis (de medio ſaltem tempore) liberi & ſoluti Diaboli non deeſt argumentum. Quid enim? Annon Rex ille Locuſtarum Tubæ quintæ, qui Angelus abyſſi cluet, cui nomen Hebraicè Abaddon, Græcè verò Ἀπολλύων, quémque τὸν ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ πεπτωκότα, eum qui è cœlo jampridem ceciderat in terram, Joannes indigitat, ipſiſſimus eſt Draco & Satanas, quem Michael, nondum clangentibus Tubis, de cœlo in terram deturbaverat? Neque enim in tota Apocalypſi de alio præter ipſum legi memini, in terram cecidiſſe; neque ſcio an in alium quenquam niſi in iſtum competere poſſint elogia illa Angeli Abyſſi & Abaddonis. Utut ſit, certè non fuit tunc temporis ligatus Satanas, non puteus Abyſſi (ut inibi dicitur) ſuper eum occluſus & obſignatus; ſed (ut videre eſt c. 9. 2.) apertus, idque adeò, ut fumus indè aſcenderit ut fumus fornacis magnæ, & obſcuratus eſt Sol & Aer à fumo ejus.

Denique, quin hæc Draconis ſeu Satanæ in ſeducendis Gentibus libertas ad ipſum uſque Beſtiæ excidium perſeverârit, ac proinde fuerit ſex primis Tubis omnino coæva, eum dubitare neutiquam poſſe puto qui ſatis attenderit quid ab Effuſione Phialæ ſextæ factum legatur: quòd nimirum ſeptimâ, hoc eſt, noviſſimâ, mox effundendâ, atque ideo ſupremo Beſtiæ fato jam tum inſtante, Ex ore Draconis atque Vicariorum ejus Beſtiæ & Pſeudopropheta, tres Spiritus impuri, Spiritus damoniorum edentes ſigna abierint ad Reges terræ & totius mundi, congregatum eos ad prælium magni illius Diei Dei omnipotentis, cap. 16. v. 13, 14.

Ità Mille Anni ligati Satanæ, ut Gentes ampliùs non ſeduceret, neque ſub primis ſex Sigillis, neque ſub primis ſex Tubis locum habere poſſunt: Ergò relinquendi ſunt Tubæ ſeptimæ.

Arg. 2. Poſteaquam, Mille Annis abſolutis, Satan de carcere ſuo ad breve tempus ſolutus novos motus concitâſſet; igne cœlitus delapſo conſumptâ, quam collegerat, deceptarum gentium colluvie, ipſe Planus captus & comprehenſus mitti dicitur in ſtagnum ignis & ſulphuris, ὅπου καὶ τὸ θηρίον καὶ ὁ ψευδοπροφήτης, ubi erat & Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta. Adverte hîc, Lector, characterem chronicum, quo innuitur hoc quicquid eſt, de Satana poſt iteratam ſolutionem capto & damnato, id ſuperioris capitis Viſioni de Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta ab eo qui equo albo inſidebat debellatis, captis,

&

Pars II.

& perinde in ſtagnum ignis ardens ſulphure conjectis, ut narrandi ordine, ità quoque tempore rei geſtæ ſuccedere. Non enim alioquin dictum foret, eò miſſum eſſe Satanam, ubi erat & Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta, niſi eò jam antè & Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta miſſi fuiſſent.

Nec cordatus aliquis ad effugium dixerit, hoc capitis 20. poſt Mille annos Bellum non eſſe ab illo ſuperioris capitis diverſum; cùm non tantùm jam allatus character, ſed & omnes utrinque circumſtantiæ refragentur, partes, pugna, & modus cædis, illic gladio, hîc igne; imò & diſſimilis, ut mox re demonſtratâ pateſcet, Belli utriuſque eventus, illic Satanæ ad tempus duntaxat ligatio, hîc verò damnatio ad ignem æternum.

Bellum igitur quo Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta capti mittuntur in ſtagnum ignis, quandoquidem diverſum ſit ab hoc noviſſimo, ad quod eódem tandem ſtagni mittendus Satanas ſtatim à ſolutione ſua Gentes concitâſſet, aut intra ipſos Mille annos geſtum fuiſſe neceſſe eſt, aut illis nondum inchoatis. Intra Mille annos geri non potuit, quia tamdiu Satan vinctus fuiſſe dicitur & occluſus in Abyſſo, ut Gentes non ſeduceret ampliùs, donec Mille anni conſummarentur, cap. 20. verſ. 3. At in Bello quo de Beſtia, Pſeudopropheta & Sociis tandem triumphatum eſt, ſi unquam aliàs, liberrimus & ſolutiſſimus fuit ad decipiendum, ut ex iis conſtat quæ modò ex capite 16. de hujus Belli apparatu allegavimus; quòd nempe ab effuſione Phialæ ſextæ, cùm jam ſeptima, quâ Beſtia penitus conficitur, in propinquo eſſet ut effunderetur, Ex ore Draconis, ex ore Beſtiæ, & Pſeudoprophetæ, tres Spiritus impuri, Spiritus dæmoniorum edentes ſigna abierint ad Reges terræ & totius mundi, congregatum eos ad Prælium magni illius Diei Dei omnipotentis.

Quoniam ergò Mille annorum ratio hujuſmodi turbas & motus Satanicos nequaquam admittit; neceſſe eſt ut Bellum hoc Beſtiale eoſdem tempore præceſſerit. Atque ità demum Mille anni alligati Satanæ contemporabunt Intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ. quod erat demonſtrandum.

Arg. 3. Denique, cùm per eoſdem Mille annos quibus Satan in cuſtodia detinetur, Chriſtus cum ſuis Regnum illud auguſtum & magnificum regnâſſe dicatur; proinde eiſdem argumentis & notis quibus alterutrius Synchroniſmus ſtabilitur, confirmabitur & alterius. Quòd igitur Regnum illud Chriſti auguſtum cum ſeptima Tuba ineat, ſeu ab excidio Beſtiæ, jam eſt ut oſtendamus.

Synchronismus V.

Mille annorum Regni Chriſti Auguſti, et Septimæ Tubæ ſeu intervalli ab Excidio Beſtiæ.

1 REgnum Chriſti ſingulare & auguſtum, iterum & ſæpius in Apocalypſi memoratum, déque cujus adventu Chorus Animalium & Preſbyterorum ovantium hymnos & Doxologias Deo concinere ſolent, ubique ſuccedit Beſtiæ & Babyloni devictis & triumphatis. Primò enim illic ubi de hoc Mille Annorum Regno propriè agitur c. 20. ex numero eorum qui cum Chriſto regnant ſunt Qui Beſtiam non adoraverant neque Imaginem ejus, neque acceperant Characterem ejus in frontibus ſuis aut in manibus ſuis. Annon hæc verba ſatis indicant hoc Chriſti Regnum Regno Beſtiæ, Imagini & ſtigmaticis ejus ſucceſſiſſe? Quorſum enim illis Regni filiis hoc elogium tribueretur, quòd Beſtiam non adoraverant, &c. niſi Beſtia jam præceſſiſſet? Sanè enim benemeritum remunerationem & præmium tempore antecedit. Jam verò Regnum iſthoc (prout ſeries narrationis indicat) Sanctis ut fidei ſuæ & conſtantiæ præmium tribuitur; ídque causâ eorum priùs in ſolenni Judicio cognitâ; cujus utpote confeſſus iis verbis deſcribi-

Pars II.

tur, Et vidi thronos, & ſederunt ſuper eos, & judicium datum eſt illis, id eſt, poteſtas judicandi facta, &c. Ergò tempus quo Sancti, Beſtiâ rerum potiunte, fidem & conſtantiam ſuam Deo approbârunt, Judicium anteceſſit; remuneratio decretum tum factum ſequitur.

2. Idem porrò adhuc magis apparet ex Pæane Presbyterorum & Animalium cantato ad excidium Babylonis cap. 19. 6. Ἀλληλούϊα· ὅτι ἐβασίλευσε Κύριος ὁ Θεὸς ὁ παντοκράτωρ. verſ. 7. Gaudeamus, & exultemus, & demus gloriam ei; quia venerunt Nuptiæ Agni, & Uxor ejus præparavit ſeipſam. Nam quin idem ſit utrobique Regnum nullus dubito.

3. Sed omnium clariſſimè ex cap. 11. verſ. 15, 16, &c. ubi ad ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem, Teſtium diebus, Beſtiæque & Gentium menſibus decurſis, in cœlo acclamatum eſt, Facta ſunt Regna hujus mundi Domini noſtri & Chriſti ejus, & regnabit in ſecula ſeculorum. Et viginti quatuor Seniores in conſpectu Dei ſedentes in thronis ſuis, ceciderunt in facies ſuas, & adoraverunt Deum, dicentes, Gratias agimus tibi, Domine Deus omnipotens, qui es, qui eras, & qui venturus es; quia accepiſti potentiam tuam magnam, & regnum inieris.

Hæc eſt illa conſummatio Myſterii Dei per Prophetas evangelizati, quam ſub ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem Angelus ſuprà cap. 10. futuram prædixerat; quando nec Beſtiæ Menſes, nec Teſtium lugentium Dies, neque omnino aliquid de Periodo temporis, temporum, & dimidii temporis ſupererit ampliùs, ver. 6, 7. Planè juxta quod Danieli prædictum fuit, cap. 7. ver. 25, 26, 27. & antè, de Dominatu Chriſti Oecumenico, ſeu Regno Sanctorum poſt eadem Tempora, eundémque prorſus Judicii conſeſſum, futuro. Item quod cap. 12. verſ. 7. ubi idem qui hîc apud Joannem Angelus, eodem certè geſtu, ritu, iiſdémque ferè (quod ſummè notandum eſt) juris jurandi verbis aſſeverâſſe legitur, Finito demum intervallo iſto Temporis, Temporum, & dimidii * Temporis, diſperſionem populi ſancti, cúmque ea ſimul Noviſſimum illud mirabilium, conſummatum iri.

* Annon hæc ſunt tempora illa gentium Luc. 21. 24 ?

Qui ulteriorem confirmationem hîc deſiderat, etiam ſuperioris Synchroniſmi characteres adhibeat: nam mutuas, ut dixi, præſtant operas.

Synchronismus VI.

Novæ Jerusalem Agni Sponsæ cum Septima Tuba seu intervallo ab Excidio Bestiæ.

1. Nuptiæ Agni & Regnum illud auguſtum Domini Dei omnipotentis ambo ineunt ab excidio Babylonis, unde init Tuba ſeptima. Conſtat ex Hymno Presbyterorum & Animalium, quem in ſuperiori Synchroniſmo laudavimus, ex cap. 19. v. 6, 7. Halleluja, quoniam regnum iniit Dominus Deus noſter omnipotens. Gaudeamus, & exultemus, & demus gloriam ei; quia venerunt Nuptiæ Agni, & Uxor ejus præparavit ſeipſam. At Nova Jeruſalem eſt Sponſa illa Agni, ornata & parata viro ſuo, cap. 21. v. 2. Et civitatem ſanctam (inquit) Novam Jeruſalem vidi deſcendentem à Deo de cœlo, ſicut Sponſam ornatam viro ſuo: & ver. 9. Veni, & oſtendam tibi Sponſam Uxorem Agni, &c. Ergò & illa inibit & contemporabit Tubæ ſeptimæ.

2. Nova Jeruſalem eſt Civitas dilecta; at dilecta illa Civitas, ſtatim atque finiuntur Mille anni, à noviſſimis illis Satanæ tunc laxati copiis circumvallari dicitur, cap. 20. v. 9. Et circuierunt Caſtra Sanctorum & Civitatem dilectam: ergò, jam antè exſtitiſſe eam oportuit, dum adhuc Satan ligabatur. Hiſce duobus argumentis ſive confirmandis, ſive illuſtrandis & ornandis, duo alia viſum eſt adjungere.

3. Effusâ

Pars II.

3. Effusâ Phialâ septimâ, quâ prorsus conficitur & aboletur Bestia, prodiit vox magna è Throno dicens, ΓΕΓΟΝΕ, cap. 16. ver. 17. Itidem, Is qui insidebat Throno dicit Joanni spectanti Novam Jerusalem è cœlo descendentem, [cap. 21. v. 5, 6.] Ecce nova facio omnia —— ΓΕΓΟΝΕ, Ego sum A & Ω, Initium & Finis. Ergò Nova Jerusalem Agni Sponsa init ab ultimo termino Phialarum ΓΕΓΟΝΕ, jam extinctâ Meretrice; atque ità contemporat Intervallo ab Excidio Bestiæ.

4. Unus ex Angelis Phialarum [cap. 17.] ostendit Joanni judicium Meretricis, utpote dum Phialæ effunduntur, & ab illarum saltem una, peragendum. idémque Phialarum Angelus [cap. 21. v. 10.] monstrat eidem Joanni Sponsam Agni Civitatem magnam sanctam Jerusalem; utpote Phialis jam defunctis, hoc est, Bestiâ Babylonéque extinctis, conspicuam futuram.

Synchronismus VII.

Turbæ Palmiferæ innumerabilium ovantium ex omnibus gentibus, tribubus, populis, et linguis, Cap. 7. v. 9. Cum Tuba Septima seu Intervallo ab Excidio Bestiæ.

1. Turba Palmifera proximè succedit Cœtui CXLIV M Signatorum: Cœtus autem iste (ex oppositâ Bestiæ, cui contemporavit, ut ratione, sic duratione, metiendus) cum Bestia quoque periodum suam complevit [Synch. IV. Part. I.] Ergò Turba Palmifera utrumque consequitur; ac proinde cadet in Tubam septimam, quod est Intervallum ab excidio Bestiæ.

2. Turba Palmifera sunt cives Novæ Jerusalem: de ambobus enim dicitur, quòd non esurient, neque sitient, ampliùs, &c. quòd Agnus pascet eos, & ducet eos ad vivos fontes aquarum; quódque absterşurus sit Deus omnem lacrymam ab oculis eorum. Jam Nova Jerusalem contemporavit Tubæ septimæ; ergò & Turba Palmifera.

Epocha Apocalypseos.

Epocha Apocalypseos, quà de futuris vaticinium est, sive eam initio Christianismi statueris, sive in Excidio Politiæ & Ecclesiæ Judaicæ, sive in eo temporis momento quo Revelatio Joanni facta est, seu quomodocunque statuatur (nolo enim interpretem agere, instituti mei memor) quin indè Sigillorum, quod ad res inibi gerendas, initium deducendum sit, dubitaturum arbitror neminem. Sed & ab eadem Epocha arcessendum esse secundæ quoque Prophetiæ seu Βιβλαριδίου initium, si cui ipsa contextûs verba de Prophetia repetenda, & quæ præterea diſſeruimus suprà, ad Synch. VI. Part. I. & in vestibulo Part. II. non satis persuaserint; is vel Synchronismi necessitate eò tandem adigetur, si, juxta jam factas ἀποδείξεις, singulas prophetias ordine & loco suo disponere tentaverit.

Clausula Synchronismorum et Apocalypseos.

Mille annos Regni & damnationem Satanæ excipit Universalis Resurrectio mortuorum, & Judicium ultimum cum Gehenna, c. 20. à v. 11. ad fin. Novam Jerusalem descriptam c. 21. excipit Paradisus, quam scilicet, E-denis inſtar, hinc atque hinc ambit Fluvius, in medio habentem Arborem vitæ: ſic enim capio verba cap. 22. 2. Ἐν μέσῳ τῆς πλατείας αὐτῆ καὶ τοῦ ποταμοῦ, ἐνθεῦθεν, καὶ ἐνθεῦθεν, ſcilicet τῆς πλατείας, ξύλον ζωῆς. Atque hic finis Seculi & Apocalypſeos.

Pars II.

QUod ſupereſt, Lector, en tibi Ordinem & Seriem juxta res gerendas omnium in Apocalypſi Vaticiniorum, in iſthoc Schemate ad oculum delineatam, & uno intuitu ſpectandam: quod ad amuſſim Synchroniſmorum jam demonſtratorum, in meum & (ſi patiaris) in tuum conſtruxi uſum. Retegat Deus oculos mentis utriuſque noſtrûm, ut intueamur mirabilia ejus. AMEN.

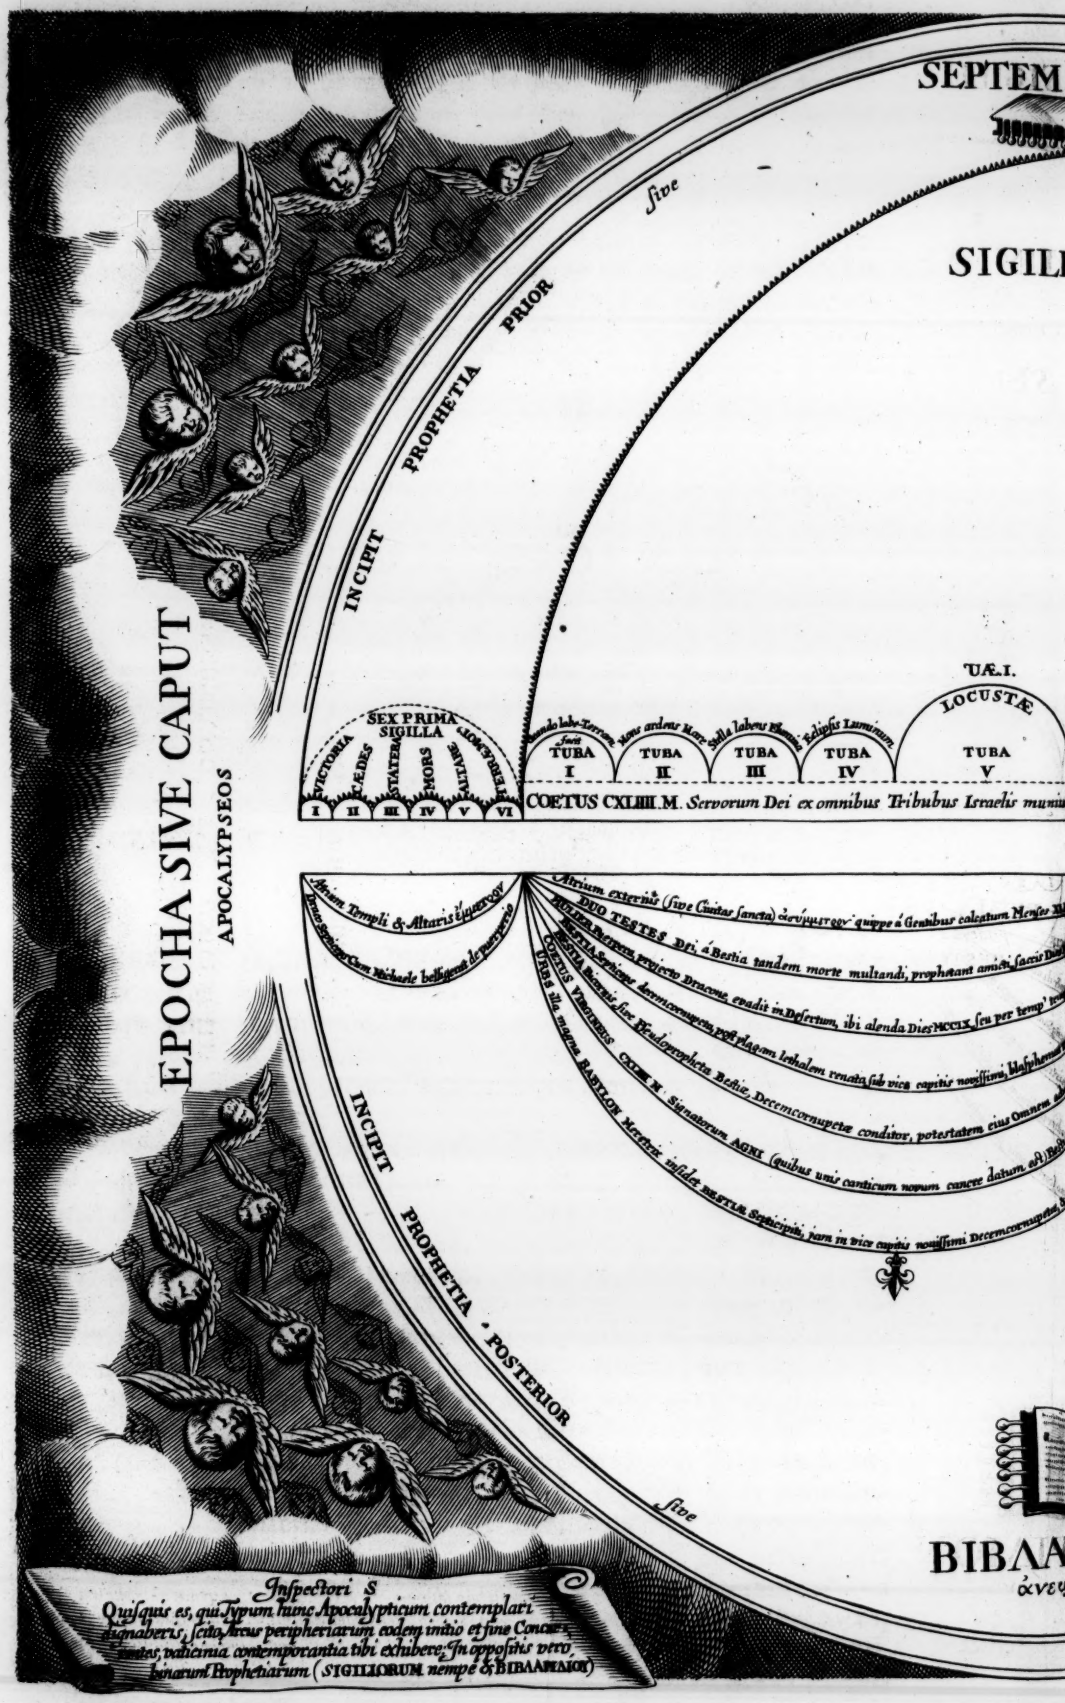
COROLLARIUM DE USU CLAVIS.

1. EX jam dictis conſtare arbitror, Apocalypſin juxta literam tantummodo ſpectatam, ac ſi nuda quædam eſſet rerum geſtarum Hiſtoria, non item Vaticinium myſticis allegoriis & typis involutum, ſignis tamen & characteribus ejuſmodi à Spiritu S. per totam narrationem inſertis inſtructam eſſe, ut indè legitima Viſionum omnium, juxta res ſuo quaſque tempore gerendas, Series, Ordo, Synchroniſmi, erui, componi, & demonſtrari poſſint, abſque Interpretationis ullius datæ hypotheſi aut adminiculo.

2. Tum præterea, prout in Hiſtoriis fieri conſuevit, ut res plures diverſæque à pluribus & diverſis ſimul eodémque tempore geſtæ, ſimul tamen narrari nequeant, ſed ſeorſim & deinceps; ità quoque in Prophetiis iſtis & Viſionibus rerum gerendarum (utut ordine longè commodiſſimo ſapientiſſimóque patefactis) uſuvenire: ut omnino fruſtrà ſint qui Apocalypſin ità interpretatum eunt, quaſi eventus eodem ubique ordine & ſerie ſibi invicem ſuccederent quo Viſiones.

3. Viſionum enimvero Apocalypticarum mentem feliciter indagaturo, principio earum ad ſe invicem juxta res gerendas Series & Connexio, ex memoratis characteribus & notis perveſtigata, atque intrinſecis argumentis demonſtrata, conſtituenda eſt, tanquam omnis ſolidæ & legitimæ interpretationis baſis & fundamentum. Non enim (quod à plurimis perperam factum cernimus) ad Interpretantis arbitrium, pro qualicunque interpretationis concinnitate, Ordo ipſe conformandus eſt; ſed ad jam præſtructam, per Synchroniſmorum characteres, Ordinis hujus chronici Ideam, omnis interpretatio, quaſi ad normam & perpendiculum, exigenda.

4. Abſque hujuſmodi enim fundamento, vix eſt ut ex Apocalypſi quidquam eruas quod interpretationis & applicationis ſuæ ſolidè fidem faciat, quódque authoritate divinâ, ſed mendicatis principiis & puris putis conjecturis nitatur humanis. Contrà verò admiſſo, cùm jam temporis ordiníſque ſepta licenter & pro libitu vagari Applicationem non permiſerint, illico tot variantium, imò & pugnantium, interpretamentorum multivia maximam partem ſublata miraberis; paucis omnino in quibus adhuc mens, de generali ſaltem applicatione, anceps hæreat, iíſque minoris ferè momenti, differentiis relictis: Adeò ut ex hoc libro deinceps, perinde atque ex reliquis Novi Teſtamenti libris, argumenta peti poſſint, in re etiam Prophetica, de interpre-



EPOCHA SIVE CAPUT
APOCALYPSEOS
INCIPIT PROPHETIA PRIOR
sive
SEPTEM
SIGILL
SEX PRIMA SIGILLA
VICTORIA
CÆDES
STATERA
MORS
TENEBRÆ
TERRÆMOTUS
I II III IV V VI
TUBA I
TUBA II
TUBA III
TUBA IV
TUBA V
VÆ I.
LOCUSTÆ
COETUS CXLIII M. Servorum Dei ex omnibus Tribubus Israelis munit INCIPIT PROPHETIA POSTERIOR
sive
BIBΛA
Inspectori S
Quisquis es, qui Typum hunc Apocalypticum contemplari dignaberis, scito, Arcus peripheriarum eodem initio et fine Concentus, vaticinia contemporantia tibi exhibere. In oppositis vero binarum Prophetiarum (SIGILLORUM nempe & BIBAAPAIOI) interpretamento ſecura, quibúſque, tanquam Spiritûs S. oraculis, non humani duntaxat ingenii inventis, fides acquieſcat.

Place this betwixt pag. 536. & 537.

5. Talem tibi, Lector, Clavem, imò Compaſſum, ſi fortè mavis, Apocalypticum, pro ea quam mihi indigno peccatori Deus bonus & benignus in hiſce myſteriis indulſit intelligentiæ menſura, in iſtis Synchroniſmis pro virili demonſtro, & adjuncto Schemate, brevi facilíque compendio, ſpectandum propono. In quo (nè uſum ejus adhuc fortè ignores) ſi modò de præcipui alicujus Vaticinii ſenſu, ejúſque temporibus impletis, ſemel tibi conſtiterit; methodum deinceps ſignatam habes quâ, ex Synchroniſmorum atque Ordinis filo, reliquarum Viſionum mentem perveſtigare, imò & demonſtrare, poteris. Siquidem, quæ iſti tuo Vaticinio jam, ut dixi, cognito cætera contemporaverint Vaticinia, iiſdem proculdubio temporibus ſunt applicanda; quæ autem præcedunt, non niſi de præcedaneis; quæ ſuccedunt, pariter de ſuccedaneis eventibus ſunt interpretanda.

6. Et nè fortè dubites, an uſquam in Apocalypſi ex omnibus illic Viſionibus ullam reperire ſit ejuſmodi, in qua eo quo dixi modo pedem tutò figas, undéque, tanquam ex Statione aliqua aut Specula, reliquam dimetiaris Apocalypſin; ecce huic quoque rei à Spir. Sancto ſapientiſſimo conſilio proſpectum, Illuſtri illâ Viſione de magna MERETRICE, quam nimirum unicam & ſolam omnium Viſionum Angelus præter morem ſuum interpretatur Joanni. Quorſum autem, niſi ut per eam ad reliquas, alioquin inacceſſas, tanquam per januam, aperiatur aditus? Quid vis ampliús? Hàc igitur, invocato Patre luminum, intrato; ingreſſus, ad cætera reſeranda Clavem adhibeto. Experire, expertus fateberis, admirabilem eſſe hanc Prophetiam, quâcum, re penitiùs introſpectâ, nulla Veteris Teſtamenti (ſic decuit Evangelium) nè quidem ipſius Danielis, aut ſingulari patefactionis artificio, aut interpretationis viâ & ratione eruendæ, certitudine ſit conferenda.

Id extremum te volo, Lector, qui in hæc incideris, ut ſi mihi aſſidenti quid fortè revelatum eſſe perſpexeris, aut tibi ipſi aut aliis ad hæc myſteria profuturum, id totum Dei in me miſericordiæ acceptum referas; cui & ego, ob tantillum ſapientiæ ejus radiolum, grates perſolvere nunquam deſinam: ſin quid aberratum ſit, id ſolum meum eſſe memineris, hominis quamtillarum virium, & nullatenus ad hæc (quod probè mihi conſcius ſum) ex meipſo idonei.

Benedictio, honor, & gloria EI
qui inſidet Throno, & AGNO,
in ſecula ſeculorum.

IN SANCTI JOANNIS APOCALYPSIN COMMENTARIUS, AD AMUSSIM CLAVIS APOCALYPTICÆ.

Editio Secunda ab Authore recognita.

APOCAL. 6. 2.
Exivit vincens, & ut vinceret.

CAP. 1. 7.
Ecce, venit cum nubibus, & videbit eum omnis oculus, etiam qui eum transfixerunt.

LONDINI,
Impensis R. Royston S. R. MAJESTATIS Bibliopolæ.
M DC LXIII.

IN

SANCTI IOANNIS

APOCALYPSIN

COMMENTARIUS

AD

AMBROSIUM CLAVIS

APOCALYPTICUM

LECTORI BENEVOLO

Salutem.

ANNUS jam quintus agitur, Lector benevole, cùm CLAVEM meam APOCALYPTICAM primitus typis dederim; ſed propriis impenſis, inque amicorum ſolummodo gratiam. Nihil tum cogitabam de interpretatione adornanda; utpote cui me, tot ab eruditione præſidiis quæ ad eam rem requiri videbantur deſtitutum, planè imparem fore exiſtimavi, neque etiamnum parem puto. Sed cùm opuſculum illud pluribus quàm ſperaverim placuiſſe intelligerem, nonnullíque inſtarent ut ipſe, juxta methodum in CLAVE mea monſtratam, quæ quibus eventis rebúſque geſtis vaticinia applicanda eſſent, manuductionis vice indicare vellem: illis morem geſturus ſententiam meam breviter in chartas conjeci; quódque indè natum fuit, SPECIMINA INTERPRETATIONUM APOCALYPTICARUM indigitavi. Hoc cùm multis lectum & deſcriptum, necnon eo favore ſuſceptum comperi, ut induſtriæ meæ qualiſcunque pœnitendi cauſam non haberem, animos tandem mihi fecit, textum Apocalypticum κατὰ πόδας interpretandi. In hoc incepto cùm aliquouſque progreſſus eſſem, & prout quodque perfeceram amicis legendum tranſmiſiſſem; factum eſt ut Commentationes meas, immaturas adhuc, necdum ad umbilicum perductas, in publicum protruſerit nimia quorundam importunitas, qui utrùm judicio ſuo, an curioſitati potiùs, hac in re indulſerint, equidem neſcio: illud tamen verè teſtari poſſum, admodum moleſtum mihi accidiſſe, à concepta in contrarium ſententia dimoveri, quódque ipſe non probâram, id aliorum voluntati gratificari; nedum ut ambitio ulla aut gloriolæ ſtudium me huc impulerit. Non quòd aliis inviderem, ſi quid fortè eruiſſem quo myſticæ illius Scripturæ ſtudioſi (quos beatos pronuntiat Spir. S.) juvari poſſint; ſed quòd melius fore ſtatuiſſem, privatâ communicatione contentum delitescere, quàm publicâ editione, tot variantia hominum judicia, tot præjudicis partiúmque ſtudiis agitata, cum meo periculo experiri. Hoc te monitum velim.

Alterum eſt quod te rogem: ut (quoniam minimè tibi ignotum ſit in quàm lubrico verſer argumento, quámque ad vanitatem temeritatémque prono) nè ſingula rigidâ nimis cenſurâ æſtimes; illud pro certo habens, niſi in hiſce talibus liberiùs paulò ſentiendi, imò & errandi, venia concedatur, ad profunda illa & latentia veritatis adyta viam nunquam patefactum iri. Sicubi autem à communi ſententia nimiùm fortaſſe tibi divertiſſe videbor, ibi rem totam ad Eccleſiæ Catholicæ Reformatæ & virorum in ea doctorum tribunal defero: quódque ab illis maturè excuſſum erroris deprehenſum fuerit, à me neque dictum neque ſcriptum ampliùs haberi velle ſcito. Patronum operi meo neminem delegi; neque enim ſcio an Patrono dignum ſit. Tu, Lector, ejus defectum ſupplebis, ſi te, prout ſpero, candidum & benignum cenſorem præbueris. Quod quidem, ſi bonus es, vel hâc benevolentiæ tuæ fiduciâ promeritus videbor. Vale.

tibi

E Collegio Chriſti Cantabrigiæ, Menſe Julio, Anno MDCXXXII.

COM-

COMMENTATIONUM APOCALYPTICARUM AD AMUSSIM CLAVIS APOCALYPTICÆ

Pars prima in Prophetiam primam, quæ Sigillis & Tubis continetur; præmisso

De Theatro Apocalyptico.

VISIONUM Apocalypticarum mentem indagaturo, primùm de Theatro illo cœlesti, quò Joannes eas, tanquam in Scena, spectaturus evocatur, deinde de ipsis singillatim Vaticiniis, ad Clavem Apocalypticam examinatis, mihi agendum est.

Christe, Dei Sapientia, cui Apocalypsis à Patre data est, ut indicares servis tuis res futuras, illumina jubare tuo mentem meam, immunditiem sanguine deterge. Da, Te favente, Spiritúque duce, abdita hæc mysteria perlustrem, aliísque pandam. Apoc. 1.

THEATRUM Apocalypticum voco Consessum istum augustum Dei Ecclesiæque capite 4 descriptum, atque ad priscæ illius in deserto cum Israele castrametationis * typum ad amussim conformatum: id quod utriusque ordinem inter se conferenti oppidò erit manifestum. * Num. 1. ver. 52. indéq; ad finem cap. 2.

Siquidem in medio castrorum Israelis collocatum fuit Tabernaculum, ceu Thronus Dei. In circuitu Tabernaculi, proximè castra metabantur Levitæ. Post Levitas demum, ad quatuor cœli plagas, reliquus cœtus Israelis in quatuor Vexilla tributus; ternis nimirum tribubus sub uno Vexillo missis, atque à primaria cohortis suæ tribu nomen sortitis. Unumquodque autem Vexillum signum præferebat: cujus etiamsi Moses generatim tantùm meminit, nec quæ cuique Vexillo inscripta esset effigies omnino exprimit; Hebræi tamen ex vetusta Majorum traditione, (hâc parte non temere aspernandi) rem integre descriptum eunt in hunc modum.

Ad Orientem erat Vexillum Judæ cum sociis tribubus, signo LEONIS.

Ad Occidentem Vexillum Ephraimi, signo BOVIS.

Ad Austrum Vexillum Reubenis, signo HOMINIS.

Ad Septentrionem Danis, signo AQUILÆ.

Aben Ezra ad 2 Num. קדמונינו אמרו, Majores nostri dixerunt, quòd in Reubenis vexillo fuit figura HOMINIS, propter inventas (inquit ille) mandragoras (sed hoc ineptum est;) in vexillo Judæ figura LEONIS, quoniam ei * Jacob ipsum assimilavit; in vexillo Ephraimi figura BOVIS, juxta quod dicitur, * primogenitus Bovis; denique in vexillo Danis figura AQUILÆ. Eadem hîc habet bar Nachman, & Chazkuni ad cap. 3. * Gen. 49. 9. * Deut. 33. 17.

Quamobrem verò horum Animalium effigies reliquis in hunc usum prælatæ fuerint, si quis fortè curiosiùs quærit; præter eam quæ ex Judæ &

Ephraimi ſaltem benedictionibus haud ineptè peti ſoleat, iſtiuſmodi rationem Talmudici innuere videntur. Quatuor, inquiunt, ſunt ſuperbi (vel qui eminent) in mundo; LEO inter Feras, BOS inter Jumenta, AQUILA inter Volucres, & HOMO cui Deus ſupra omnes pulchritudinem largitus eſt, ut omnibus imperaret. Ut ut de ratione ſit, firmari poteſt hæc Judæorum traditio ex quadruplici Cherubinorum facie (cave enim tot capita imagineris) apud Ezechielem; quibus nempe ſignificatum eſt, qui iiſdem vehebatur Dominum fuiſſe & Regem quatuor cohortum ſeu caſtrorum Iſraelis. Quemadmodum enim Principum quadrigæ dominorum ſuorum fulgent inſignibus; ità hîc Cherubini ſignis JEHOVÆ Regis Tetrarchiarum Iſraelis. Neque difficile admodum fuerit, ex Ezechielis & Cherubinorum ad invicem in iſthac viſione poſitu, quam quæque Cherubinorum facies mundi plagam reſpexiſſet colligere. Quippe cùm Ezechiel, * converſo ad Septentrionem vultu, Cherubinos quaſi obviàm ſibi prodeuntes conſpiceret, certè quæ tum ei è regione obverſabatur anterior erat & directa Cherubinorum facies, nimirum HOMINIS; eóque Hominis facies Auſtrum ſpectabat. Unde ſequitur, quæ eidem Ezechieli * ad dextram fuiſſe dicitur, facies LEONIS, Orientem; quæque ei ad ſiniſtram, BOVIS, Occidentem; AQUILINAM denique faciem ſpectâſſe Aquilonem.

Schindler, pag. 266. d.

* Ezech. 1. 4.

* Verſ. 10.

Atque eadem quidem ratio ſuadet ut illos quoque Cherubinos qui Arcam Dei in Templi adyto obumbrabant ſimili, hoc eſt, quadriformi, facie fuiſſe exiſtimemus; præſertim cùm de iis qui in Templi parietibus cælabantur rem ità ſe habuiſſe, teſtetur quod apud eundem de dimidiata ipſorum ſculptura legitur cap. 41. v. 19. ubi, duabus faciebus, ut in ejuſmodi cælatura neceſſe fuit, in plano parietis abſorptis, reliquæ tamen duæ, HOMINIS & LEONIS, hinc indè verſùs palmas utrinque aſcriptas, eminuiſſe perhibeantur. Et quorſum, obſecro, ſculperentur Cherubini aliâ formâ quàm fuiſſent?

Adde, quòd de quatuor Animalibus iſtis, totidem Iſraelis cohortum inſignibus, quidam accipiunt illud Pſalmi 68. 11. חַיָּתְךָ יָשְׁבוּ בָהּ. quod quidem Hieronymus, in verſione illa quæ ab Hebraica veritate nomen habet, ità tranſtulit, Animalia tua habitaverunt in ea; nimirum, ut præceſſit, in hæreditate tua, i. caſtris populi tui quem per Eremum deduxiſti. Similiter Septuag. &, quæ indè expreſſa eſt, Vulgata habent τὰ ζῶά σου, Animalia tua. Et ſanè de illo tempore hîc agi, liquidò oſtendit quod huic & præcedenti verſui præmittitur: Deus, cùm egredereris coram populo tuo, cùm incederes per deſertum; terra tremuit, etiam cæli diſtillaverunt à facie Dei, &c. Itémque quod ſubjungitur de pluvia munifica, pluvia, ni fallor, Mannæ; ideóque vertendum, Pluviam munificam, ſeu liberalem, ſparſiſti, Deus, [quâ] hæreditatem tuam etiam laborantem confortâſti. Nè illud quoque dicam, principium hujus Pſalmi mutuatum ex ea precationis formula quâ Moſes [Num. 10.] in profectione caſtrorum Iſraeliticorum uſus fuerat, Surge, JEHOVA, & diſſipentur inimici.

Spectavimus caſtrametationem Dei Iſraeliticam; jam porrò videamus ut eidem per omnia reſpondet Conſeſſus Apocalypticus.

Cap. 4. 2. ET fui, inquit Joannes, in Spiritu, & ecce Thronus poſitus erat in cælo, & ſupra Thronum ſedens. 3. Et qui ſedebat aſpectu ſimilis erat lapidi jaſpidi & ſardio; & iris erat in circuitu Throni aſpectu ſimilis ſmaragdo.

4. Et in circuitu Throni ſedilia viginti quatuor; & ſuper ſedilia viginti quatuor Presbyteri ſedentes, circumamicti veſtimentis albis, & in capitibus ſuis habebant coronas aureas.

5. Et de Throno procedebant fulgura, & voces, & tonitrua; & ſeptem lampades pades ignis erant ardentes ante Thronum, qui ſunt ſeptem ſpiritus Dei: erat etiam à fronte Throni tanquam mare vitreum ſimile cryſtallo. Ad Cap. 4.

6. In medio autem Throni & in circuitu Throni quatuor Animalia plena oculis antè & retrò. 7. Et Animal primum erat ſimile Leoni; & Animal ſecundum ſimile Bovi; & tertium Animal habens faciem quaſi Hominis; & quartum Animal ſimile Aquilæ volanti.

8. Et quatuor Animalia, ſingula eorum, habebant alas ſenas in circuitu, & intus plena erant oculis; & non interquieſcebant die & nocte dicentia, Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus Dominus Deus Omnipotens, qui erat & qui eſt & qui venturus eſt.

9. Et quando dabunt Animalia illa gloriam & honorem & gratiarum actionem ſedenti ſuper Thronum, viventi in ſecula ſeculorum; 10. Procident viginti quatuor presbyteri ante ſedentem in Throno, & adorabunt viventem in ſecula ſeculorum, & projicient coronas ſuas ante Thronum, dicentes, 11. Dignus es, Domine Deus noſter, accipere gloriam & honorem & virtutem: quia tu creâſti omnia, & propter voluntatem tuam ſunt & creata ſunt.

Annon hîc ſingula ſingulis reſpondent? Primùm enim, Tabernaculum quod attinet, Thronum hîc in medio poſitum, cui Deus inſidebat, non aliud quàm Templum aut Tabernaculum fuiſſe (utriuſque enim hiſtoriæ, quod obſervandum, accommodatur deſcriptio) oſtendunt tum ſeptem lampades ante ipſum ardentes, tum Mare illud vitreum cryſtallo ſimile: quorum illæ Candelabrum ſeptem quoque lucernarum coram Adyto ardentium, hoc Labrum illud immane in Templo Solomonis Mare dictum repræſentat; ſed hoc diſcrimine, quòd illud Solomonis æneum fuit, noſtrum verò ex vitrea pellucidâque materia. Neſcio tamen an hîc alludi ad vetuſtius illud Moſaici Tabernaculi labrum fas ſit ſuſpicari: quandoquidem & illud ex ſpeculari, neſcio quâ, materiâ, videlicet ex ſpeculis mulierum convenientium ad oſtium Tabernaculi, conflatum fuiſſe perhibetur, Exod. 38. 8. Videſis autem Templum Dei Throni nomine inſignitum Eſa. 6. ver. 1. Vidi Dominum ſedentem ſuper Solium excelſum & elevatum, & fimbriæ ejus replebant Templum. Item Jerem. 17. 12. Solium gloriæ altitudinis à principio locus ſanctuarii noſtri. Et Ezech. 43. 7. Locus ſolii mei & locus veſtigiorum pedum meorum, ubi habito in medio filiorum Iſrael in æternum, &c.

Atque hujuſmodi Solium fuiſſe quod Joannes in medio Presbyterorum & Animalium poſitum vidit, paſſim pro conceſſo habet Apocalypſis. Ubínam enim ille Altare coràm vidiſſet, ſub eôque animas mactatorum propter Verbum Dei, cap. 6. 9. niſi in Templo? Undénam illi Altare aureum thymiamatis ante Thronum, cap. 8. 3. ni Templum aut Tabernaculum Thronus iſte fuiſſet? Quídve aliud innuere volunt Quatuor cornua Altaris aurei quod eſt in conſpectu Dei? c. 9. 13. Quid Templum, Atria Templi & Altare, quà calamo Angelico metienda, quà foras ejicienda? cap. 11. 1. Quid apertum Templum Dei in cælo, inibíque Arca Teſtimonii viſui expoſita? cap. 11. 19. Quid Angeli è Templo prodeuntes? c. 14. v. 15, 17, 18. ídque etiam in cælo? v. 17. Quid Citharœdi in crepidine Maris ſeu labri vitrei inſiſtentes, atque ὠδὴν cantillantes? c. 15. 2. & id quoque in cœlo? v. 1. Quid ibidem verſu 5. Templum Tabernaculi Teſtimonii apertum in cælo? idémque Templum v. 8. fumo impletum à Majeſtate Dei? Rem verò extra omnem contradictionis aleam ponit illud cap. 16. v. 17. Et vox magna prodiit ἀπὸ τοῦ Ναοῦ τοῦ ἀπὸ τοῦ Θρόνου, i. è Templo Cæli è Throno.

Porrò in hoc Throno ſeu Templo, nè quid fortè hæreas, Locus ſeſſionis Dei, ſeu (prout Helleniſtæ, 1 Reg. 10. 19. de Solio Solomonis loquuntur) ὁ θρόνος τῆς καθέδρας, interior illa & ſanctiſſima Templi pars fuit, quâ Arca Fœderis cum Propitiatorio condebatur. ibi nempe Deus habitare dicebatur & ſedere inter Cherubinos gloriæ. Quâ demum ratione, tum hîc ſeptem lampades, tum poſtmodum Altare aureum thymiamatis, rectè dicuntur fuiſſe ante Thronum, putà ante adytum Templi; prout id de utriſque totidem planè verbis habetur, 2 Par. 4. 20. & 1 Reg. 6. 20. quorum priore Septuag. habent τὰς λύχνους κατὰ τὸ πρόσωπον τοῦ δαβεὶρ (ſic Hebraicè vocatur adytum) altero, θυσιαςήριον κέδρινον κατὰ πρόσωπον τοῦ δαβεὶρ, mente juxtà cum Apocalypſi, ἐνώπιον τοῦ θρόνου καὶ ἐνώπιον τοῦ Θεοῦ. Ità reliquæ ſive Templi ſive Tabernaculi partes Throno ſpeciatim ſic dicto partim pro fulcris, partim pro gradibus erunt, partim pro ſcabello: cujuſmodi ſeu partes ſeu appendices habuiſſe legitur auguſtum illud Solium Solomonis. Hactenus de Throno.

Ad Cap. 4.

2. Thronum autem proximè cingunt viginti quatuor Presbyteri, qui Epiſcopos exhibent & Antiſtites Eccleſiarum; reſpondéntque & loco & ordine Levitis & Sacerdotibus in caſtris Iſraelis; numerúſque eorum 24. totidem ephemeriis Sacerdotum & Levitarum, ſeu, quod eódem redit, principibus ephemeriarum. Unde, præterquam quòd Deo proximi ſunt, ipſi quoque thronos ſuos habent; præterea *coronas geſtant; quæ ſunt dignitatis & poteſtatis à Deo tributæ inſignia.

* In Oratione Paneg. apud Euſeb. lib. 10. cap. 4. Ω φίλοι θεοῦ καὶ ἱερεῖς, οἱ τὸν ἄγιον ποδήρη, καὶ τὸν ὐράνιον ΣΤΕΦΑΝΟΝ &c. πεπεβελημένοι.

3. Tertiò, idoneo poſt Presbyteros intervallo, quâ lineæ per medium Throni ductæ biſecant Throni latera circumquaque ad quatuor cardines cœli, quatuor viſebantur Animalia; primum figurâ Leonis, ſecundum Bovis (nam μόχος Helleniſtis * bos eſt) tertium effigie Hominis, quartum Aquilæ volantis: repræſentandis nimirum Eccleſiis Chriſtianis juxta quatuor plagas mundi; reſpondéntq; quatuor Caſtris Iſraeliticis, eorundem Animalium vexilliferis. Quod enim in textu Apocalyptico aliquantò obſcuriùs dicitur, ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ θρόνου, καὶ ἐν κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου, in medio Throni, & in circuitu Throni, per figuram ἓν διὰ δυοῖν Hebræis familiarem exponi debet; quaſi nimirum dictum fuiſſet, ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ κύκλου (id eſt περιβόλου) τοῦ θρόνου, in medio ipſius circuitûs ſeu ambitûs Throni; idque in hunc ſenſum: Si Throno, utpote quadrato, figuram quadrangulam parallelam quo deceat à Throno & Presbyteris eum cingentibus intervallo circumducas, in medio vel ad medium uniuſcujuſque quadranguli laterum (nam ἐν μέσῳ diſtributivè ſumendum) quatuor ſeſe exhibebant Animalia; nempe in medio cujuſlibet lateris unum.

* Vide Ezech. 1. 10. Exod. 34. 19. Num. 18. 17. & alibi quadrageſies.

Porrò Animalia iſta deſcribuntur plena oculis antè & retrò, ſenas inſuper alas habentia in circuitu, eaſdémque intus oculorum plenas. Tot oculi multitudinem denotant hominum oculatiſſimorum, & ſcientiæ myſteriorum Dei pleniſſimorum; cujuſmodi in Animalibus ſunt, id eſt, Eccleſiis, quas Animalia repræſentant. Alæ agilitatem & alacritatem ad Dei imperium exſequendum. Alæ oculatæ zelum cum ſcientia & fide conjunctum. Sex denique alæ in circuitu, quaquaverſum volaturientes denotant, id eſt, ad Dei mandata univerſaliter & integrè implenda paratiſſimos.

Additur poſtremò, cujuſmodi eſſet officium utrorumque, tam Animalium quàm Presbyterorum circa Thronum; nempe hujuſmodi, ut quotieſcunque datura eſſent Animalia gloriam & honorem & gratiarum actionem Seſſori Throni, id eſt, quoties Eccleſiæ ſacras ſynaxes facerent, totiès viginti quatuor Presbyteri, pro muneris ratione Animalibus præeuntes, procidere ſoliti ſint coram Deo, dicentes, * Dignus es, Domine, qui accipias gloriam & honorem & virtutem, quia tu condidiſti omnia, &c. Hâc autem interpretatione admiſſâ, dictio Joannis, quam plerique hîc ſolœciſmi inſimulant, quaſi futuris δώσουσι, πεσοῦνται, προσκυνήσουσι, pro præteritis abutentem, facilè ſeſe tuebitur; cùm Hebræis (quorum notione Apoſtolus paſſim utitur) futura denotare ſoleant actum ſolitum aut debitum: ità ut Joannes nequaquam hîc referre putandus ſit quid tum in viſione ab Animalibus & Presbyteris factum ſit, ſed quid pro re nata faciendum eſſet, quódque ipſe poſtmodum in

* Summa hymni illius Euchariſtici quo Eccleſia in omnibus veteribus Liturgiis Deum concelebrat; cujus initium Ἄξιον καὶ δίκαιον, &c. in M. Rom. Præfatio dicitur.

progreſſu

progreſſu viſionum, ſi quando Deum celebrandi occaſio incidiſſet, ab iiſdem factum vidit. Ad Cap. 5.

Atque ità (ut jam tandem finiam) Thronum in auguſto hoc Conſeſſu Tabernaculo ſeu Templo, Presbyteros Levitis & Sacerdotibus, quatuor Animalia quatuor Caſtris Iſraeliticis reſpondere, id eſt, totum Conſeſſum priſcæ illius Caſtrametationis in eremo imaginem eſſe, luculenter oſtendiſſe mihi videor. Quæ res eò quidem fuſiùs mihi pertractanda fuit, quoniam ab ejus potiſſimùm cognitione plurimorum in Apocalypſi typorum rationem pendere animadverteram: id quod quemvis, re penitiùs introſpectâ, juxtà mecum ſenſurum non dubitem.

THeatro in hunc modum adornato, is qui Throno inſidebat Librum intus & à tergo ſcriptum, ſeptémque ſigillis munitum, dextrâ manu porrigit; ſimúlque Angelus in ſcenam prodiens, editâ voce promulgat, ut, ſi cui aperiendi eum facultas data ſit, quò quæ in eo continerentur inſpici & legi poſſent, in manus ſibi ſumeret atque adniteretur; rem proculdubio, ſi perfecerit, omnibus rerum arcanarum ſtudio flagrantibus pergratam facturus. Ad Cap. 5.

Atque revera Liber erat dîgniſſimus, in quo reſignando quis omnes ingenii & induſtriæ ſuæ nervos contenderet; Codex utpote fatidicus ſeu conſiliorum Dei, quo ſeries & ordo rerum gerendarum ad ſecundum illum & glorioſum Chriſti adventum pertexebatur. Ejuſmodi enim certè eſſe liquet quæ deinde ſequitur gemina rerum futurarum Prophetia, quam Codex iſte continebat. Quæ cauſa eſt, ni fallor, cur Joannes, Viſiones ſuas expoſiturus, adventûs iſtius glorioſi hypotypoſin, tanquam ſtadii Apocalyptici metam, fronti hiſtoriæ ſuæ præſcripſerit. Ecce, inquit cap. 1. venit cum nubibus, & videbit eum omnis oculus, etiam qui eum transfixerunt, & plangent ſuper eum omnes tribus terræ; quaſi dicat, Hic ſcopus eſt, hæc meta, quas narrabo, Viſionum.

Sed cùm nemo eorum qui in cælo, quive in terra, quive ſubter terram, Librum reſignare potuerit, réſque jam conclamata videretur, ità ut Joannes præ dolore in fletum eumperet: ecce Agnus, ſpecie tanquam qui occiſus fuerat, id eſt, obitæ mortis ſigna & cicatrices gerens, in medio Throni, Presbyterorum & Animalium ſurrexit, Librúmque reſignandum patefaciendúmque recepit; putà qui ſolus omnium ejus rei facultatem promeruerat. Verſ. 6.

Hoc autem viſo, continuò Chorus Animalium & Presbyterorum, unà cum circumſtantibus Angelis & omnibus in univerſum creaturis, hymnum Agno Patríque gratulabundi decantant. In quo illud ſolum in præſenti obſervare lubitum eſt, quòd facultatem Libri reſignandi merito paſſionis Agni manifeſtò acceptum referant. Dignus es, inquiunt, aperire Librum & ſignacula ejus; quoniam occiſus es, & redemiſti Deo nos in ſanguine tuo ex omni tribu & populo & lingua & gente. Quo ſortaſſe lux fieri poſſit dicto Salvatoris nec dum paſſi nec glorificati, De die verò illa & hora (putà ſecundi adventûs ſui, citiúſne an ſeriùs futurus ſit) nemo novit, neque Angeli in cælo, neque Filius, ſed Pater ſolus: quippe, nondum Apocalypſin Chriſto à Patre datam, neque ordinem rerum ad adventum ipſius gerendarum patefactum fuiſſe. Nihil temere aſſero; rem ſecum Lector expendat.

Agno ſic Librum reſignante, ad ſingula ejus Sigilla ſingulæ rerum futurarum imagines exhibentur: quarum ſyſtema totum ſtadium Apocalypticum percurrit, adeóque primam Prophetiam univerſalem conſtituit. cujus nunc interpretationem, Seſſore Throni & Agno faventibus, aggrediemur.

Ad Cap. 5.

De duabus Prophetiis Apocalypticis.

PROphetia prima, SIGILLORUM, complectitur fata Imperii; altera, BIBΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΥ, fata Ecclesiæ seu Religionis Christianæ: donec tandem utrumque coaluerit in Ecclesia regnante; factis regnis hujus mundi Domini nostri & Christi ejus. Quemadmodum enim in V. T. Daniel, secundùm Imperiorum successiones, tum Christi adventum præsignavit, tum Ecclesiæ Judaicæ fata digessit: ità rem Christianam Apocalypsis, Romani, quod adhuc post Christum superfuturum esset, Imperii rationibus admetiri censenda est. Nec eventus abnuit. Primæ enim Prophetiæ interpretatio ex generali hac hypothesi sic procedit.

De Prophetia prima, quæ Sigillorum est: primóque,
De sex primorum Sigillorum significatis.

SEptem Sigillorum in universum scopus est, ut, discriminatis per eventorum characteres temporis fluxuri intervallis, indicetur, cujusmodi Imperii Romani casuum ordine decurso, futurum esset ut Christus mundi numina, quibuscum bellum susceperat, debellaret: sextâ nimirum vice, seu sexto Sigillo, Gentilis Imperii Romani Deos; septimo autem, cùm Tubarum series ad novissimam pervenerit Tubam, quicquid etiam postea ibidem de novo subortum fuisset, aut uspiam adhuc in mundo esset, idolorum & dæmonum cultûs destructum & deletum iri: nam oportet eum regnare, usquequo ponat omnes inimicos sub pedes suos, id est, omnem principatum, potestatem, & virtutem adversariam aboleverit. 1 Cor. 15. 24, 25. De priore periodo, prout ordo postulat, primo loco agemus.

Vid. Just. Mart. Apol. 2. pag. 82. & Dial. cum Tryph. p. 264. & 327.

Prima igitur sex Sigilla, sextuplici eventorum charactere, (iis haud multùm dissimilium quæ Servator, etiam tempori ruinæ Hierosolymorum designando, præstituerat) totidem distinguunt stantis adhuc & florentis Imperii Romani intervalla; quoad tandem sexto Christus potestatem idolorum & Deastrorum Gentilium in orbe illo funditus demoliretur. Characteres autem voco Casus Romani Imperii admodum insignes, quibus, tanquam emblematis, intervalla discernantur; eósque in prima hac periodo, non foris à Barbaris gentibus illatos, (cujusmodi erunt Imperii sub septem Tubarum plagis postmodum ruentis) sed casus intestinos, in ipsóque Imperio natos. Quod quidem discrimen idcirco à Spiritu S. institutum, uti dissimilibus notis dissimilia rei Romanæ, hîc vigentis, illic occidentis, tempora describantur.

Illud porrò hîc observandum venit: Cùm Characteres isti casuum, quos dixi, vix aut rarò totum Sigilli intervallum pervadant, eóque intervallis suis certo initio & fine circumscribendis neutiquam per se sufficiant; propterea Spiritum S. in quatuor primis Sigillis, (ubi id maximè, tum ob causam jam dictam, tum ob intervallorum inæqualitatem, opus foret) quatuor Animalia porrò in eam rem adhibuisse, quorum unumquodque indicaret Sigilli Epocham cardini suo competentem. Id quomodo fiat, mox videbimus: nunc monuisse sat est.

1. Et

Ad Cap. 6.

1. ET vidi cùm aperuiſſet Agnus unum ex ſeptem Sigillis, & audivi unum ex quatuor Animalibus dicens, tanquam vocem tonitrui, Veni & vide. 2. Et vidi, & ecce Equus albus; & qui ſedebat ſuper illum habebat arcum, & data eſt ei corona; & exivit vincens, & ut vinceret.

3. Et cùm aperuiſſet Sigillum ſecundum, audivi ſecundum Animal dicens, Veni & vide. 4. Et exivit alius Equus rufus; & qui ſedebat ſuper illum, datum eſt ei ut tolleret pacem de terra, & ut invicem ſeſe interficiant; & datus eſt ei gladius magnus.

5. Et cùm aperuiſſet Sigillum tertium, audivi tertium Animal dicens, Veni & vide. Et vidi, & ecce Equus niger; & qui ſedebat ſuper illum habebat ſtateram in manu ſua. 6. Et audivi vocem in medio quatuor Animalium dicentem, Chœnix tritici denario, & tres chœnices hordei denario; & vinum & oleum nè læſeris.

7. Et cùm aperuiſſet Sigillum quartum, audivi vocem quarti Animalis dicentem, Veni & vide. 8. Et ecce Equus pallidus; & qui ſedebat ſuper eum, nomen illi MORS, & Infernus ſequebatur eum: & data eſt illis poteſtas ſuper quaternitatem terræ interficiendi gladio, fame, & morte, & beſtiis terræ.

De SIGILLO I.

PRimus Imperii Romani caſus, & ſanè inſignis, primordium eſt VICTORIÆ Chriſti; quâ Dii Romani debellari, eorúmque cultores, ſagittis Evangelii confixi, paſſim deficere, Chriſtóque victori colla ſubmittere incipiunt. Ἐξῆλθε, inquit, νικῶν, καὶ (N. B.) ἵνα νικήσῃ· id eſt, Nondum jam plenè vicit, ſed fundamenta jecit victoriæ, deinde magis magíſque complendæ.

Ad Cap. 6. Euſeb. Dem. Evang. l. 9. p. 424. ὁ δὲ αὐτὸς τοῦ Θεοῦ Λόγος τοῖς νοητοῖς καὶ λογικοῖς αὐτοῦ βέλεσι τὸν ἐχθρὸν καὶ ἀντικείμενον αὐτῷ διάβολον, πάσας τε τὰς ἀμφ' αὐτὸν ἀοράτους καὶ πονηρὰς δυνάμεις, διὰ κρείττονος καὶ ἀκαταμάχου δυνάμεως ἤλαυνεν, εἰσέτι τε νῦν κυριεύει ἐθνῶν πολλῶν, &c.

Hujus Sigilli index eſt Animal primum, effigie Leonis, ſtatione ad Orientem: monſtrátque ex ſuo cardine prodire Equitem, id eſt, Imperatorem, à cujus in equum aſcenſu ad equitandum, id eſt, imperii ingreſſu, ineundum ſit primi Sigilli intervallum; nempe ab exaltatione glorioſa Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti: cujus ab Oriente Imperatoris ductu & auſpiciis bellum hoc geritur, victoriáque vincitur. Sequentium quidem Sigillorum initia Imperatoribus Romanis diriguntur; ſed ubi Chriſti res geſta deſcribitur, ejus ſolius Imperatoris ratio habenda fuit.

Jam verò, hoc Sigillo circumacto, Deorum oracula per totum orbem Romanum obmutuere; & Joannes, duodecim Chriſti Apoſtolorum ultimus, expletis militiæ ſuæ ſtipendiis, ex hac vita commigravit, coronam immarceſcibilem in cœlis, unà cum coapoſtolis fratribus ſuis, ob rem fortiter & feliciter geſtam, accepturus.

Quòd autem equo vehi poteſtatis ſymbolum ſit, eorúmque qui rerum habenas moderantur, vel ex Helleniſtarum interpretatione Pſal. 45. 5. videre eſt; quibus Proſperare & equita eſt, κατευοδοῦ καὶ ἐπίβαινε, proſperè procede & regna: neque ab hoc ſenſu abit Chaldæus, qui transfert, ut equites ſuper thronum regni. Ità Mulier Beſtiæ inequitans c. 17. exponitur ab Angelo πόλις ἡ ἔχουσα βασιλείαν· eâdémque notione adhibetur equitandi verbum, Deut. 32. v. 13. Eſa. 58. v. 14. Pſal. 66. 12.

De SIGILLO II.

SEcundus Imperii Romani caſus memorabilis, ſecundi Sigilli emblema, eſt Ἀλληλοσφαγία, Cædes & laniena inteſtina; cui vix alia ſimilis in omni hiſtoria Romana. Et datum eſt, inquit, ſedenti in hoc Equo, ut auferat pacem è terra (id eſt, ut, illo Seſſore, pax è terra auferatur,) καὶ ἵνα ἀλλήλους σφάξωσι, & ut ſe invicem homines mactarent. Quæ poſtrema ſententiæ pars firmat explicationem prioris. Nam quo demum ſenſu caperentur iſta, datum eſſe ſedenti in equo, ut homines ſe invicem interficerent? niſi, datum eſſe, ſeu factum, ut, eo quidem ſeſſore, homines mutuis cædibus & lanienis ſævirent.

Ad Cap. 6.

Sigilli hujus index eſt Animal ſecundum, effigie Bovis, ſitu ad Occidentem: dúmque in Viſione ad ſe reſpiciendum jubet, eo monet, Sigillum hoc inire cùm Trajanus Hiſpanus rerum habenas capeſſeret, Imperator ab Occidente. Dion; Trajanus homo Hiſpanus, nec Italus erat nec Italicus: ante eum nemo alterius nationis Imperium Romanum obtinuerat. Atqui ab eo deinceps in eadem generis ſerie regnatum eſt ad Commodum uſque, ubi Sigilli hujus intercapedo definit.

Ab hocigitur Imperatore principio ducto, quæramus memorabilem iſtum Χλιλοσφαγίας caſum. Res verò geſta eſt, tum Trajano tum ſucceſſore ejus Hadriano Imperii clavum tenentibus, à Gentibus & Judæis, tunc unà per orbem Romanum cohabitantibus. Quid ſub Trajano factum, cape non meis, ſed junctis Dionis & Oroſii verbis. Incredibili, inquit Oroſius, motu ſub uno tempore Judæi, quaſi rabie efferati, per univerſas terrarum partes exarſerunt. Nam & per totam Libyam adverſus incolas atrociſſima bella geſſerunt: quæ adeò tunc, interfectis cultoribus, deſolata eſt, ut niſi poſtea Hadrianus Imperator collectas illuc aliunde colonias deduxiſſet, vacua penitus, abraſo habitatore, manſiſſet. Qui circa Cyrenem habitabant, (Dion loquitur) Andreâ quodam duce, Romanos pariter atque Græcos concîdunt, veſcuntur eorum carnibus, edúntque viſcera; tum oblinuntur eorum ſanguine, & pellibus induuntur. Multos à vertice ſerris diſcidere medios, multos objecere beſtiis, multos etiam certare inter ſe coegerunt; ità ut interierint hominum ad DUCENTA VIGINTI MILLIA. Pergit; Præterea in Ægypto conſimilis cædes facta eſt, & in Cypro, Artemione duce; ubi etiam perierunt DUCENTA QUADRAGINTA MILLIA. Salaminem urbem Cypri, interfectis omnibus accolis, deleverunt. [Oroſ. Euſeb.] In Alexandria autem commiſſo prælio victi & attriti ſunt. [Oroſ.] Tandem & ab aliis, & maximè à Lyſio, quem Trajanus miſerat, ſubacti ſunt. In Meſopotamia quoque rebellantibus, juſſu Imperatoris bellum illatum eſt. [Oroſ. Euſeb.] Atque ità multa millia eorum vaſtâ cæde deleta ſunt.

Hactenus quæ ſub Trajano. Sed an, inquies, quicquam ſub Hadriano cum iſtis conferendum? Fuerintne paria, Lector judicet. audeo dicere, haud multò minora. Nec dum enim aliquid de rebellione iſta famigerata, BARCHOCHEBA Pſeudomeſſiâ duce, retulimus. Audi igitur illam quoque ejuſdem Dionis verbis: Cùm, inquit, Hadrianus in Urbem Hieroſolymam coloniam deduxiſſet, ac quo loco Dei Templum fuerat alterum Jovi Capitolino ædificari curaviſſet; magnum & diuturnum bellum indè moveri cæptum, totam Judæam commoveri, Judæos omnes ubique gentium tumultuari, multa damna occultè apertéque Romanis inferre, cúmque iis complures alias gentes lucri cupiditate conjungi, atque ea de re omnem ferè orbem terrarum commotum eſſe. Pergit; Hos Hadrianus, optimis quibuſque ducibus adverſus eos miſſis, ſed (multitudine eorum & deſperatione cognitâ) non niſi ſingulatim eos adoriri auſis, ſerò tandem oppreſſit fregítque; caſis in excurſionibus prælііſque non minùs QUINGENTIS ET OCTOGINTA MILLIBUS. Eorum autem qui fame, morbo, & igne interiere, tanta fuit multitudo, ut numerus indagari non potuit. Sed num ea victoria Romanis facilis fuit & incruenta? Minimè verò: tot enim, ait, ex Romanis quoque in eo bello periere, ut Hadrianus, cùm ſcriberet ad Senatum, non eſt uſus illo exordio quo uti Imperatores conſueverunt, SI VOS LIBERIQUE VESTRI VALETIS, BENE EST, EGO QUIDEM ET EXERCITUS VALEMUS.

Hæc

Hæc ille de motu Judæorum ſub illo Stellæ, ut vocârunt, ſeu mavis, Stellionis filio: quem Euſebius porrò ſcribit nolentes ſibi Chriſtianos adverſùm Romanum militem ferre ſubſidium omnimodis cruciatibus necaviſſe. Ad Cap. 6.

Quòd ſi cui lubitum eſt Judæos ipſos audire cladem ſuorum æſtimantes; author libri Juchaſin ſcribit Hadrianum duplo plures Judæos in hoc bello trucidâſſe quàm egreſſi ſint ex Ægypto. Alius libro qui inſcribitur מלכי רומי, quem Druſius laudat in Præteritis, Non ſic afflixiſſe eos Nebuchadnezarem pag. 126. neque Titum, ſicut Hadrianus Imperator. Adeò hæc clades tribulationis iſtius inauditæ, quam Servator Judæis eventuram prædixerat, graviſſimus omnium paroxyſmus fuiſſe videtur; ideóque non immeritò, cùm tam gentis, quàm tam illuſtris complementi nomine præcelluerit, ſecundo huic intervallo ſignando præ aliis omnibus illius temporis eventis à Spiritu Sancto electus.

De SIGILLO III.

SIgilli tertii index eſt Animal tertium, effigie Humanâ, ſtatione ad Meridiem: proindéque monſtrat, Sigillum hoc inire Imperatore ex illo cardine prodeunte, putà Septimio Severo Afro, Imperatore à Meridie. De quo ſic Eutropius: Oriundus ex Africa, provinciâ Tripolitanâ, oppido Lepti, ſolus omni memoriâ & antea & poſt ex Africa Imperator.

Hujuſce autem Sigilli rem plerique Famem eſſe volunt, ſive annonæ caritatem; ducto argumento tum à colore Equi nigro, tum ab indicatura frumenti, Chœnix tritici denario, & tres chœnices hordei denario: cui quoque trutinam in manu Seſſoris inſervire putant; quippe non tam menſurandam quàm appendendam præ nimia penuria annonam.

Et ſanè hanc interpretationem (adeò primâ fronte concinna eſt viſa) nunquam in dubium vocâſſem, ſi eventus ei reſpondiſſet. Sed nihil hoc ævo hâcque Sigillorum ſerie de Fame reperio ſingulare, & characteris officio dignum. Nam quod ex Tertulliano ad Scapulam affertur, id nequaquam magni ducendum arbitror. Neque enim ſi, quod ille perhibet, meſſis aliquando Hilariano præſide in Africa defecerit, illico id aut generale per orbem Romanum fuerit, aut Severi ævo. Hinc factum, dum Symboli rationem paulò propiùs intueor, ut aliò potiùs ſpectare, haud omnino vanis indiciis, colligere mihi viſus ſim. Quippe non, ut illa interpretatio expoſcit, Statera cum Chœnice ſatis aptè componi poſſe videtur; cùm Libra ponderando, Chœnix verò menſuræ nomen ſit. Præterea, cùm reliquorum Sigillorum ſignificatis admodum congruat conditio Animalis indicantis, Victoriæ Leonis, Mactationi Bovis, ſubſequentis Sigilli Cadaveribus Aquila; hîc nulla futura eſſet ſocietatis ratio. Quæ enim Homini cum Fame convenientia? Color verò niger nec naturâ ſuâ, nec veterum Prophetarum uſu, uni fami alligatus eſt, ſed æquè triſtitiæ, ſqualori & terrori figurando inſervit.

Sit igitur hujuſce Sigilli Res, non Fames aut annonæ caritas, ſed JUSTITIÆ per orbem Romanum procuratio & ſeveritas, præ quàm in ullo retro aut ſubſequentium intervallorum inſignis & notabilis. Nam quod ad figuram attinet, color Equi Juſtitiæ ſeveritati convenit. Libram eſſe Juſtitiæ ſymbolum, tranſlatitium eſt; ut hodiéque Juſtitiam cum Libra pingi nemo neſciat. Illud verò quod de indicatura ſubjungitur, ſi auſcultes, ità tinnire videbitur; Nè cuiquam triticum aut hordeum, niſi juſto pretio perſoluto, auferto: ſimilem quoque juſtitiæ legem in vino & oleo ſervato: quaſi nimirum contra fures caveret, & dixiſſet, Nè furator. Denarius enim fuit operis diurni merces ordinaria, quod ex *Evangelio liquet. fuit etiam diurnum ſtipendium militum. Chœnix ſignificat demenſum diurnum, ἡμερομέτρησιν, φίδα, ſed incertâ admodum menſurâ: variavit enim pro ratione gentium, locorum & hominum. Chœnix militaris (ut minores chœnices prætermittam, opilionum, villicorum, vinitorum) quatuor fuit ſextariorum. Sed veteri Lexicographo Græcolatino χοῖνιξ eſt ſemimodium, id eſt, militaris duplum: imò Helleniſtis Ezech. 45. 10, 11. Χοῖνιξ eſt Bathus, ampliſſima Hebræorum menſura. Ex tam incerta Chœnicis menſura quî poteſt aliquid de fame & annonæ caritate exculpi? Chœnicem igitur hîc accipio pro quolibet demenſo diurno, & Denarium pro quolibet demenſi pretio. Ità interpretationis quam dedi ratio conſtabit.

* Matt. 20.
* Vide Caſpar. Waſerum de Antiq. menſur. l. 2. c. 3.

Ad Cap. 6.

Jam eventus mirum eſt quàm interpretationi faveat, rerum potiuntibus Severo & Alexandro, maximè inclytis Equi nigri ſeſſoribus. De Severo quæ ſparſim apud Aurelium legas, retentis Authoris verbis, in unum colligam; idem poſtmodum Lampridio facturus de Alexandro. Severo, inquit Aurelius, præclarior in republica fuit nemo, legum conditore longè æquabilium. Implacabilis delictis, ſtrenuum quemque præmiis extollebat. Nulli in dominatu ſuo permiſit honores venundari. Nè parva quidem latrocinia impunita patiebatur, in ſuos animadvertens magis, quod vitio ducum aut etiam præfectorum fieri vix experiens intelligeret. Aurelio adſtipulatur Spartianus, dum eum & implacabilem delictis, & latronum ubique hoſtem vocat.

Sed hæc nullo numero fuerint præ iis quæ de Alexandro Mammeæ filio Lampridius; in quibus proinde characteris hujus Sigilli ſumma collocanda videtur. Is, inquit, leges de jure populi & fiſci moderatas & infinitas ſanxit, neque ullam conſtitutionem ſacravit ſine viginti juriſperitis. Severiſſimus judex contra fures, appellans eoſdem quotidianorum ſcelerum reos, & damnans acerrimè; ac ſolos hoſtes inimicoſque reipublicæ vocans, juſſit (de judicibus furibus, ni fallor, loquitur) in civitatibus nunquam videri, & ſi eſſent viſi, deportari per rectores provinciarum. Referebat, inquit, Eucolpius, (quo ille familiariſſimè uſus eſt) illum, ſi unquam furem judicem vidiſſet, paratum habuiſſe digitum ut illi oculum erueret. Addit Septimius, qui vitam ejus non mediocriter exſequutus eſt, tanti ſtomachi fuiſſe Alexandrum in eos judices qui furtorum famâ laborâſſent, etiamſi damnati non eſſent, ut ſi eos caſu aliquo videret, commotione animi ſtomachi choleram evomeret, toto vultu exardeſcente, ut nihil poſſit loqui. Juſſit imò per præconem edici, ut nemo ſalutaret principem qui ſe Furem eſſe nôſſet, nè aliquando detectus capitali ſupplicio ſubderetur. Pergit; Si quis militum de via in alicujus poſſeſſionem deflexiſſet, pro qualitate loci, aut fuſtibus ſubjiciebatur in conſpectu ejus, aut virgis, aut condemnationi; aut, ſi hæc omnia tranſiret dignitas hominis, graviſsimis contumeliis; cùm diceret, Viſne in agro tuo fieri quod alteri facis? clamabátque ſæpius, quod à quibuſdam ſive Judæis ſive Chriſtianis audierat, & tenebat, idque per præconem, cùm aliquem emendaret, dici jubebat, Quod tibi fieri non vis, alteri ne feceris. Quam ſententiam uſque adeò dilexit, ut & in palatio, & in publicis operibus præſcribi juberet.

En tibi, Lector, Equi nigri ſeſſorem auream illam & cœlitus demiſſam Justitiæ trutinam in Theatro orbis terrarum magnificè librantem, Quod tam inſigne fuit in Imperatore Pagano, ut eò in hoc Sigillo Spiritum S. reſpexiſſe nemini mirum videri debeat.

Aliter de tritici & hordei indicatione.

Poteſt & hæc tritici & hordei, &c. indicatura de procuratione rei frumentariæ per hæc tempora inſigni intelligi. Nam videri poteſt hanc quoque verbis iſtis ineſſe mentem; Ità rei frumentariæ de copia proſpiciendum eſſe, ut annona æquo, & cui quiſque ſolvendo ſit, pretio veneat. Chœnix tritici Denario, i. Demenſum diurnum tritici diurno laboris pretio aut ſtipendio aut reditu venditor: ut nè ſcilicet cui opus ſit, plus dietim ad victum erogare quàm ei dietim ſuppetat erogandum. Illud quoque, Tres Chœnices hordei denario, videri poſſit ad æquationem pretii, pro qualitate mercium, pertinere. Si cui iſtiuſmodi interpretatio placuerit, eventus hîc quoque ad amuſſim reſpondebit. Ad Cap. 6.

aut

Spartianus de Severo; Rei, inquit, frumentariæ, quam minimam repererat, ità conſuluit, ut excedens ipſe vitâ ſeptem annorum Canonem populo Romano relinqueret: ità ut quotidiana ſeptuagena quinque millia modiorum expendi poſſent. Populo Romano diurnum oleum gratuitum (primus) donavit; ejus verò tantum reliquit, ut per quinquennium, non ſolùm urbis uſibus, ſed & totius Italiæ, quæ oleo egeret, ſufficeret. Quaſi nimirum implere voluiſſet quod hîc adjicitur, Καὶ ὃ ἔλαιον καὶ τὸν οἶνον μὴ ἀδικήσῃς, In oleo quoque & vino nè ſis injuſtus. Similia habet Lampridius de Alexandro: Commeatum, inquit, populi Romani ſic adjuvit, ut cùm frumenta Heliogabalus evertiſſet, vicem de propria pecunia loco ſuo reponeret. Oleum quoque, inquit idem, quod Severus populo dederat, quódque Heliogabalus imminuerat, integrum reſtituit, addidit & oleum luminibus Thermarum.

De SIGILLO IV.

SIgilli quarti index eſt quartum Animal, effigie Aquilinâ, ſtatione ad Aquilonem: quo monſtratur, initium Sigilli ducendum ab Imperatore illic oriundo, id eſt, Maximino Thrace Septentrionis alumno. Julius Capitolinus; Maximinus de vico Thraciæ vicino Barbaris, Barbaro etiam patre & matre genitus.

Hujus Sigilli character eſt Concurſus GLADII, FAMIS & PESTIS unà, ut aliàs nunquam, ſævientium. Unde Equi ſeſſori Mortis, id eſt, notione Hebræorum, qui abſtractis pro concretis utuntur, Θανατοφόρῳ, ſeu Mortiferi nomen inditum eſſe dicitur, eò quòd tot Mortes ſecum in Orbem inveheret. Nam iiſdem quoque Hebræis, Prophetis præſertim, nomine vocari idem quandoque valet atque eſſe vel exſiſtere, ſed eximio & præcipuo quodam modo: ut Eſa. 7. 14. & 9. 5. Jerem. 23. 6. & 20. 3. Zach. 6. 12. & hîc in Apocalypſi cap. 19. 13. adeò ut Mortis nomen habere nihil aliud hoc loco ſit, quàm eſſe ſingulariter & inſigniter Θανατοφόρον vel Mortiferum. cui rei quoque eſt illud, quòd Orcus eundem tanquam libitinarius comitetur.

Jam de eventu videamus. Et ſanè nunquam ex quo Sigilla cœpere hæc tria junctim támque inſigni modo ſæviere. A Cæde incipiam, & omitto quæ ab externo hoſte pertulit hoc ævum, ſanè graviſſima; Barbaris univerſum ferè imperium, ſub Gallo & Voluſiano Imperatoribus, rapinis & cædibus exhaurientibus: non enim iſta in hunc cenſum veniunt; quærimus inteſtina & domeſtica. Decem igitur plùs minùs Imperatores & Cæſares, qui legitimi habentur, Sigilli hujus intercapedine, id eſt, triginta trium aut paulò plurium annorum ſpatio, gladius, non hoſtium, ſed ſuorum, abſumpſit. Per idem intervallum, ſub unius Gallieni Imperio, triginta illi Tyranni, de quibus Pollio, aut uno aut altero fortè pauciores, in diverſis orbis Romani partibus exorti ſunt: atque hi plerique omnes aut à ſuis, aut à ſe invicem cæſi, aut ab Imperatoribus legitimis trucidati fuere: ut non immeritò de hac plaga dixerit Oroſius, eam non per vulgi cædem, ſed per vulnera mortéſque Principum exaltatam eſſe. De Gladio.

Denique Imperatores ipſi, primus Maximinus, & in noviſſimis Gallienus, quantâ ſævitiâ fuere? Maximinus, Julio Capitolino teſte, tam crudelis fuit ut illum alii Cyclopem, alii Buſiridem, alii Scironem, nonnulli Phalarin, multi Typhonem vel Gygem nominarent. Senatus eum tantum timuit, ut vota in Templis

Ad Cap. 6. Templis publicè privatímque, mulieres etiam cum ſuis liberis, facerent, nè ille unquam Urbem Romam videret. Audiebant enim alios in crucem ſublatos, alios animalibus nuper occiſis incluſos, alios feris objectos, alios fuſtibus eliſos; atque omnia hæc ſine delectu dignitatis. Pergit idem: Ignobilitatis tegendæ causâ, omnes conſcios generis ſui interemit; nonnullos etiam amicos, qui ei ſæpe miſericordiæ & pietatis causâ pleraque donaverant; neque enim fuit crudelius animal in terris. Denique, inquit, ſine judicio, ſine accuſatione, ſine delatore, ſine defenſione omnes (factionis Magni cujuſdam, viri conſularis) interemit, omnium bona ſuſtulit, & plus quatuor millibus hominum occiſis ſe ſaturare non potuit.

Audi etiam quid de Gallieno Trebellius Pollio, libro de 30. Tyrannis. Occiſo, inquit, Ingenuo, qui à Mæſiacis legionibus Imperator eſt dictus, in omnes Mæſiacos, tam milites quàm cives, aſperrimè ſæviit, nec quemquam ſuæ crudelitatis exſortem reliquit: uſque adeò aſper & truculentus, ut pleraſque Civitates vacuas à virili ſexu relinqueret. Idem in vita Gallieni: Scythis, inquit, in Cappadociam pervadentibus, milites iterum de novo Imperatore faciendo cogitaverant; quos omnes Gallienus more ſuo occîdit. Addit in fine: Fuit nimiæ crudelitatis in milites: nam & terna millia, & quaterna millia ſingulis diebus occîdit. Refert quoque in eadem Gallieni vita Pollio memorabile admodum lanienæ Byzantinæ exemplum, quà à militibus, quà ab ipſo Gallieno editum. Nè quid, inquit, mali deeſſet Gallieni temporibus, Byzantinorum Civitas, clara navalibus bellis, & clauſtrum Ponticum, per Gallieni milites ità omnis vaſtata eſt, ut prorſus nemo ſupereſſet. Quorum cladi ulciſcendæ, Gallienus viciſſim Byzantio receptus, omnes milites inermes, armatorum coronâ circundatos, interemit, fracto fœdere quod promiſerat.

De Peſte. Habes de Cædibus: ad PESTEM venio, quæ hîc ex uſu Orientis θάνατος dicitur. Ità Chaldæus Paraphraſtes pro דֶּבֶר peſte amat ponere מוֹתָא mortem, & Helleniſtæ plerumque vertunt θάνατον, ſimiliſque notione Eccleſiaſticis ſcriptoribus mortalitas dici ſolet; quæ jam in multas linguas vernaculas migravit. De Peſte autem res adeò notoria eſt & manifeſta, ut oraculi fidei aſtruendæ non opus ſit multa congerere. verbo expediam. Zonaras author eſt, nec cæteri tacuere, ſub Gallo & Voluſiano Imperatoribus Peſtem ab Æthiopia exortam omnes Romanas provincias pervaſiſſe, & per quindecim continuos annos incredibiliter exhauſiſſe. Nec alia unquam Lipſ. De Conſtant. 2. 23. major lues mihi lecta (inquit vir noſtro ævo celebris) ſpatio temporum, ſive terrarum.

De Fame. Supereſt adhuc ex triga illa calamitatum Fames. Quam quidem ab hoc ævo abeſſe non potuiſſe, etiamſi nemo veterum id prodidiſſet, quivis indè colligat, quòd omne ferè Imperium à Scythis per hæc tempora rapinis & vaſtationibus adeò attonſum & attritum ſit, ut nulla, ſi Zoſimo fides, Romana ditionis gens ab iis libera permanſerit; omnia ferè oppida mœnibus deſtituta, & iiſdem deſtitutorum maxima pars capta fuerint. Quî fieri potuit ut non hujuſmodi vaſtationibus deſererentur agri, negligeretur aratio, & quicquid uſpiam erat ad victum repoſitorum peſſundaretur?

Apud Euſeb. Hiſtor. lib. 7. c. 17. Atque ità quidem reverâ eveniſſe, liquet ex Dionyſii Alexandrini, qui tum vixit, epiſtola ad fratres, ubi diram iſtam, de qua egimus, Luem bello & fami ſucceſſiſſe teſtatur. Poſt hæc, inquit, id eſt, perſecutionem quæ ſub Decio fuit, (nam eam intelligit quæ præceſſit peſtem) καὶ πόλεμος καὶ λιμὸς ἐπίλαβεν, & Bellum & Fames ſecuta ſunt, quæ unà cum Ethnicis pertulimus. & paucis interjectis, At ubi, inquit, cùm nos tum ipſi reſpiraveramus, invaſit Lues iſta; res illis quovis terrore terribilior & calamitate quacunque lamentabilior, nobis verò exercitatio & exploratio nullis reliquis inferior. Adſtipulatur Cyprianus Apologiâ ad Demetrianum: Cùm dicas, inquit, plurimos conqueri, quòd bella crebriùs ſurgant, quòd LUES, quòd FAMES ſæviant, quódque quòdque imbres & pluviæ ſerena longa ſuſpendant, nobis imputari, tacere ultrà non oportet, &c. Ad Cap. 6.

De Beſtiis autem quod porrò in textu additur; ſi quidem à ſuperioribus diverſum ſit, & non potiùs innuat, Tyrannos, qui inſtar Ferarum per ea tempora in Orbe Romano ſævirent, calamitatibus iſtis cauſam daturos; indicabit ſolenne Orientalibus & Auſtralibus regionibus in hoc caſu malum: ut nimirum, Fame & Peſte ſævientibus, Beſtiæ contra homines invaleſcerent, eóſque occiderent; ut videre eſt Levit. 26. Ezech. 14. 15, 21. Sed priori Sententiæ magìs favet Syntaxeos mutatio, ἐν τῷ τέταρτῳ τῆς γῆς, ſi reddas, atque id per Beſtias terræ.

Τὸ τέταρτον τῆς γῆς, quartam partem terræ, in quam Orco & Morti poteſtas ſæviendi data fuiſſe dicitur, (niſi ſi quis vulgatum Interpretem hîc defendi poſſe putet, apud quem τέταρτον τῆς γῆς eſt τετράδιον, id eſt, quaternio, ſeu quatuor partes, terræ) expono de potiſſima & multò maxima Orbis Romani parte. Cùm enim tertia pars terræ (ut ſuo loco dicetur) Orbis Romani amplitudinem deſignet, conſequens eſt, quartam terrarum partem eſſe eandem Ditionem Romanam quartâ parte minús: eóque trigam iſtam ſeu quadrigam calamitatum tres Orbis Romani quadrantes pervaſiſſe, hoc eſt, ferme totum, unico tantùm quadrante ejus immuni. Et certè Oroſius aſtruere videtur, Peſtem non ultrà ſeſe extendiſſe quàm (ut ejus verbis utar) ad profligandas Eccleſias edicta Decii cucurrerunt. De cæteris nihil habeo dicere. Atque hæc de quarto Sigillo.

De SIGILLO V.

DUO quæ ſequuntur Sigilla nullum habent, ut ſuperiora, de exordii ſui tempore ab Animalibus ſubſidium; proindéque nulli hîc equorum Seſſores videndi ampliùs, unde illud Animalium indicium pendebat. Utriuſque igitur intervallum illic auſpicandum eſt ubi antecedentis Sigilli caſus deſierit. Quod quidem facile admodum ſit, ubi Caſus, ut hîc, ejuſmodi fuerint, ut eorum determinatio ob inſignem evidentiam latere nequiret.

Quintum proinde Sigillum inibit ab Imperio Aureliani, anno CC LXVIII. ad quod tempus, quæ diutiſſima fuit prioris Sigilli calamitatum, quindecim annorum Peſtis extincta eſt.

Jam maximè inſignis ſub hoc Sigillo rei Romanæ caſus, quíque omnibus aliis illius temporis eventis præcelluerit, eſt PERSECUTIO illa Chriſtianorum à Diocletiano incepta, ab aliis continuata, longè omnium quæ unquam fuerant acerbiſſima. Nihil præ iſthac viderunt priora ſecula. Omnibus ferè anteactis (verba ſunt Oroſii) diuturnior & immanior fuit. Nam per decem annos incendiis Eccleſiarum, proſcriptionibus innocentium, cædibus Martyrum inceſſabiliter acta eſt. Initio ſtatim decennii iſtius, intra dies triginta ad ſeptendecim hominum millia mactata feruntur, nec progreſſu temporis mitigavit perſequentium furor. In una Ægypto (quantulâ Romani Imperii particulâ?) ſi Domino Ignatio Patriarchæ Antiocheno, apud * Scaligerum, fides, mactata ſunt centena & quadraginta quatuor hominum millia; ſeptingenta autem in exilium acta. unde Æra Diocletiana apud Ægyptios nomen invenerit, ut hodiéque Æra Martyrum nuncuparetur. Quid jam cenſes factum in reliquis per orbem Romanum provinciis? Omnis ferè ſacro Martyrum cruore orbis infectus eſt, inquit Sulpitius Severus. Nullis unquam bellis mundus ſanguine magìs exhauſtus eſt, neque majori unquam (verba ſunt ejuſdem) triumpho Eccleſia vicit, quàm cùm decem annorum ſtragibus vinci non potuit.

* De Emendatione Tempor. lib. 5. de primo anno Diocletiani & Coptitar.

Figuratur hæc laniena viſione Animarum interfectorum propter Verbum Dei, Verſ. 9.

Ad Cap. 6.

Dei, & propter teſtimonium quod habebant, jacentium ſub altari, id eſt, humi ad pedem altaris, inſtar hoſtiarum recèns jugulatarum. Eſt enim * Martyrium genus quoddam ſacrificii. Unde illud Apoſtoli ad Timotheum, inſtante jam Martyrio ſuo, Ἐγὼ ἤδη σπένδομαι, Ego jam libor, & tempus reſolutionis meæ inſtat, 2 Tim. 4. 6. Quò etiam ſpectat illud ejuſdem ad Philippenſes, 2.17. Si immolor ſupra ſacrificium & miniſterium fidei veſtræ, &c.

* Ità Polycarpus martyrium ſubiturus orat apud Euſebium —ἐν τοῖς μαρτυρίοις προσδεχθείην ἐνώπιόν σου σήμερον ἐν θυσίᾳ πίονι καὶ προσδεκτῇ. Euſeb. l. 4. c. 15.

Quòd porrò ad Deum voce magnâ clamare dicantur, ultionem ſanguinis ſui poſcentes, periphraſis eſt crudelitatis extremæ judicióque maturæ, tanquam quæ jam præ immanitate ſua ipſam Dei patientiam ſolicitaret ad vindictam. [a] Uſquè quò, inquiunt, Domine, ſanctus & verax, non judicas, & vindicas ſanguinem noſtrum de iis qui habitant in terra?

a Vers. 10.

Interim [b] datæ ſunt ſingulis ſtolæ albæ, id eſt, cooptantur in ordinem Beatorum. Sumpta parabola ex more Judæorum in probandis & admittendis Sacerdotibus; quos nimirum de genealogia & corporis integritate idoneos judicâſſent, eos candidis ſtolis indutos in Atrium Sacerdotum recipientium, ſícque in ordinem ſacerdotalem cooptantium. Maiemonides in Miſchne lib. 8. tit. Biath hammikdasch, cap. 6. §. 11. Id quod luculenter exprimitur cap. 7. 13, 14, 15. ubi de iſtis qui ſtolis albis amiciebantur dicitur, quòd ante Thronum Dei ſint & colant eum (putà ut * Sacerdotes) die ac nocte in Templo ejus.

b Vers. 11.

* Ἐπὶ τὸ θυσιαστήριον καὶ ἐν ναὸν ἀνέβαινον, οἱ τῶν ἱερέων ἄμωμοι, βύσσον μὴ ἀμπεχόμενοι. Joſeph. de Bell. Jud. l. 6. c. 15.

De clamore verò ſanguinis reſponſum eſt, Ut requieſcerent adhuc tempus modicum, donec compleantur conſervi eorum, & fratres eorum, qui interficiendi ſunt, ſicut & illi: id eſt, ut pauliſper ſuſtinerent, donec fratrum ſuorum aliquot, qui, poſteaquam Chriſtianiſmus jam regnare inciperet, ſub Licinio, Juliano, & * Arrianis, ſimiliter atque ipſi jugulandi erant, numero accederent; túncque clangentibus Tubis, ſolennem vindictam de Imperio tanti ſanguinis reo ſumptum iri.

* In perſecutione Arrianica, ait Baſilius, pluribus tribulationibus afflictæ ſunt Eccleſiæ, quàm ab eo tempore commemorari poſſunt quo primùm Evangelium Chriſti annuntiari cœpit. Baſil. in Epiſt. 182.

De SIGILLO VI.

SIgillum ſextum init ubi quintum deſinit; id eſt, ab anno Chriſti CCCXI, quo atrox illa decem annorum perſecutio quievit.

Hujus autem Sigilli caſus eſt, Cœli terræque motus admirabilis; quo mirifica illa per Conſtantinum M. ejúſque ſucceſſores Agni ſigniferos rei Romanæ Ethnicæ mutatio & ſubverſio figuratur: quâ putà omnes Gentilium Dii cœlo ſuo excuſſi, Pontifices & Sacerdotes exaugurati, dejecti, reditibuſque ſuis in perpetuum exuti; Templa, fana, & delubra Dæmonum per omnem Romanum Orbem conquaſſata, direpta, inflammata, demolita. Adhæc Imperatores, Reges, Dynaſtæ, qui Diis ſuis tam enormiter periclitantibus ſubvenire, bellum Chriſti Vexilliferis indicere, ingentibus copiis decernere, etiam prælio ſuperati bellum vi ſummâ inſtaurare, in animum induxerint, inauditis ſtragibus cæſi, fuſi, fugatíque; donec tandem, re deſperatâ, nemo ampliùs Religioni Romanæ, tanto fragore ruenti, ſuppetias laturus reperiretur. Ità brevi verborum ambitu complexus mihi videor quicquid ſublimibus iſtis ad hoc Sigillum allegoriis Spiritus Sanctus depingere voluit. Atque hoc Victoriæ Chriſti, cujus primo Sigillo jactum erat fundamentum, primum complementum eſt: cui, quâ Imperii ætate futurum eſſet, deſignando, præſignatis temporis quod interea flueret diſcriminibus, quæ hactenus præceſſerint Sigilla inſerviêre. Reſtat jam ut datam interpretationem ſingulis allegoriæ propheticæ partibus applicemus, rationémque ejus oſtendamus: id quod faciemus, integro priùs contextu ob oculos poſito; qui ſic habet.

12. Et

Ad Cap. 6.

12. Et vidi cùm aperuiſſet Sigillum ſextum, & ecce terræ motus magnus factus eſt, & Sol factus eſt niger tanquam ſaccus cilicinus, & Luna [tota] facta eſt ſicut ſanguis.

13. Et Stellæ cœli ceciderunt in terram, ſicut ficus abjicit groſſos ſuos, cùm à vento magno commovetur; receſſitque cœlum ſicut liber qui convolvitur. 14. Et omnis mons & inſula de locis ſuis motæ ſunt.

15. Et Reges terræ & magnates & tribuni, & divites & potentes, & omnis ſervus & liber abſconderunt ſe in ſpeluncis & in petris montium: 16. Et dixerunt montibus & petris, Cadite ſuper nos, & abſcondite nos à facie Sedentis ſuper thronum, & ab IRA AGNI. 17. Quoniam venit DIES MAGNUS IRÆ EJUS, & quis poterit ſtare?

Solennes ſunt iſtæ horridiorum cladium & rerum, ut ità loquar, ſuſque déque converſionis imagines, Prophetis de more Orientis uſitatæ; ut noſtris quoque Poetis ſua ſunt ſchemata, ſuæ picturæ. Ità Jeremias cap. 4. 23, &c. excidium Judææ depingit, ac ſi omnia iterum in antiquum chaos reditura eſſent. Aſpexi terram, inquit, & ecce תֹהוּ וָבֹהוּ inanis erat & vacua; & cœlos, & non erat lux in iis. Vidi montes, & ecce movebantur, & omnes colles conturbati ſunt. Vide cætera. Similiter Joel cap. 2. 10. de horrenda ejuſdem vaſtatione ab exercitu Locuſtarum Aquilonarium, A facie ejus, inquit, contremuit terra, moti ſunt cœli; Sol & Luna obtenebrati ſunt, & ſtellæ retraxerunt ſplendorem ſuum. Sed diſtinctiùs agamus de ſingulis.

Aben Ezra ad illud Hag. 2. 2.
אומרים בימים האלה בארץ ישמעאל בבוא שמועות רעות ממלחמות נהפך העולם.
Maiemonides, More Neb. Part. 2. cap. 29. Arabes, de eo cui ſingulare aliquod infortunium accidit, dicunt quòd Cœlum ejus in Terram converſum ſit, vel ſuper Terram ejus ceciderit. Conſer Thren. 2. 1.

Ecce, inquit, Terræ motus magnus factus eſt. Græcè σεισμὸς, id eſt, Cœli terræque motus, ut in ſequentibus palàm eſt: vox enim Latina Græcæ vim non adæquat. Terræ motus autem iſtiuſmodi, teſte Apoſtolo, Heb. 12. de loco Haggæi [Adhuc ſemel & ego commovebo cœlum & terram] denotat τὴν σαλευομένων τλὼ μετάθεσιν, mutationem eorum quæ commoventur. Quod firmari poteſt ex eodem Haggæo, verſ. 21 & 22 ejuſdem capitis, ubi ipſe hanc parabolam de regnorum mundi mutatione & converſione ἐξηγητικῶς interpretatur: Ego commovebo cœlum & terram, & ſubvertam ſolium regnorum, & diſperdam fortitudinem regnorum Gentium, &c. Nos igitur, ut alibi in Apocalypſi, ità hîc quoque, Terræ Cœlique motum, pro rerum ruina & quaſi ſuſque déque mutatione accipiemus.

Jam verò Mutationis hujuſce, perinde ut priorum quoque ſub Sigillis caſuum, Objectum eſt Imperium Romanum: at non quà politicè à Cæſaribus gubernatum (hâc enim ſui formâ nondum ſolvendum eſt;) ſed quà Satanæ Principi ejúſque Angelis Dæmonibus religioſo nomine ſubditum. Hanc ſcilicet Imperii Romani Dæmonarchiam, quæ hoc Sigillo tempeſtas incumbit maximo cum fragore everſum atque diſſipatum ibit.

Et Sol factus eſt niger ut ſaccus cilicinus, & Luna facta eſt ut ſanguis: id eſt, per ellipſin adjectivi, rubicunda ut ſanguis. Periphraſis autem eſt deliquii Luminarium, in quo Sol ater apparere ſoleat, Luna verò rubicunda. Cui planè geminum eſt illud Iſaiæ cap. 13. 10. de vindicta Babylonis; Obſcurabitur Sol in ortu ſuo, & Luna non ſplendere faciet lumen ſuum. Septuag. Καὶ ἡ σελήνη οὐ δώσει τὸ φῶς αὐτῆς, ut Matth. 24. 29. Nec alium omnino ſenſum habet, juxta Aben Ezræ ſententiam, illud apud * eundem cap. 24. de clade quâ Dominus in Jeruſalem regnaturus (prorſus ut in hoc Sigillo) viſitaret militiam cœli in excelſo, & reges terræ in terra. Erubeſcet, inquit, Luna, & pudore ſuffundetur Sol (id eſt, uterque, quaſi pudore vultum tegeret, tenebris obducetur) cùm regnabit Dominus exercituum in monte Sion & in Jeruſalem, & in conſpectu ſenum ſuorum glorioſè. Sed quid hæc, inquies, ad Dæmonarchiam Romanam? Auſculta, & dicam. Prophetis (ut in ſequentibus quoque Viſionibus ſubindè audies) omne Regnum & Corpus Imperii

* Iſai. 24. 21, 23.

Ad Cap. 6.

Fuisse gentibus Orientis solenne Mundi parabolam rebus pingendis adhibere, vel ex Chymica philosophia ab Arabibus & Ægyptiis profecta constare potest; in qua quodlibet ferè corpus mundanum, mundo assimilatum, ex cœlo, terra & astris conflatum perhibetur.

[a] שמים à שמא, quod hodiéque Arabibus est excellere & supra reliqua eminere.

[b] ארץ Terra ab ארץ iisdem humile & depressum esse. Erpen.

perii Mundum refert; ut partes quoque, Cælum, Terra, Stellæ pro illa imagine sint. Cui evincendo (ut alia taceam) vel unicus ille locus apud Isaiam sufficit, cap. 51. 15. Ego sum Dominus Deus tuus, qui divisi mare (mare autem rubrum) & personuerunt fluctus ejus, Dominus exercituum nomen ejus. Et posui verba mea in ore tuo (id est, Legem meam tibi dedi) & umbrâ manûs meæ protexi te; ut plantarem cælos & fundarem terram, (id est, Te regnum, ceu Mundum politicum, constituerem) & dicerem Sioni, Populus meus es tu. Sermo est de liberatione quâ liberavit Deus populum Israeliticum ex Ægypto, ut ex eo sibi Regnum sive Rempublicam conderet in Terra promissa. Ex quo, quid sit quoque apud eundem (cap. 65, & 66.) Cælum novum & Terra nova, haud difficile erit colligere; nempe novus ejusdem rationis mundus. Pro hac igitur imagine, [a] Cælum notione Propheticâ denotabit quicquid in Regni aut Reipublicæ alicujus universitate, ceu Mundo politico, celsum est; [b] Terra, contrà, quod infimum; Stellæ verò eos qui in Celsitudine ista locum obtinent obeúntque. Quâ ratione Sol & Luna, præcipua cœli lumina, iste primam summámque, hæc à prima proximam regni Majestatem & ἀξίωμα indicabit. Quod quidem adeò verum est, ut Paraphrastes Chaldæus in Prophetis subindè pro Sole & Luna, regnum & gloriam substituat; ut Isa. 60. 20. Jer. 15. 9.

Cicero in Orat. pro Domo ad Pontif.

* Dionys. lib. 2.

Esto igitur SOL in regno Idolorum Romano, jure principatûs, Draco ipse, seu Satanas; præsertim cùm ab eo Spiritus Sanct. cap. 12. totum Imperium Romanum, hoc de quo agitur statu, cognominaverit Draconem rufum septicipitem, ut ibi videbimus. LUNAM, secundum hujus Cœli luminare, dixeris Pontificatum Maximum Majestati Imperatoriæ jam ab origine prima annexum, ejúsque quasi partem; seu mavis, Imperatorem Satanæ Pontificem, cum toto Pontificum Collegio, qui cum Imperatore capite suo unum corpus efficiebant, iidémque & religionibus Deorum & summæ Reipublicæ præerant, neque Senatûs, neque ullius supra se potestati ad reddendam rationem obnoxii; * proindéque in isthoc Regno non immeritò secundas à Dracone ipso habituri. Non semper, fateor, opus est ut in hujusmodi allegoriis tam accurata singulorum ratio exigatur; veruntamen, cùm fieri possit, singula momenta aptemus. SOL igitur, quem diximus, tum niger factus est, & funestæ majestatis suæ deliquium & obscurationem passus, quando Imperatores Romani, ipso cum omnibus Angelis suis, pompis & cultu, per Baptismum ejuratis, Christo Justitiæ Soli sese addixere. SOLE sic denigrato & lumine spoliato, LUNA, quæ à Sole lumen mutuatur, quî salva esse poterit? Et rem quidem ipsam, sive munus Pontificatûs Maximi, statim, ut æquum erat, à se abjecerunt Constantinus, Constantius, Valentinianus, Valens, nolentes deinceps Diabolo operari: nomen tamen, quod mireris, non illico aspernati sunt, sed elogiis suis adscriptum aliquantisper retinuere. Primus Gratianus (bonum factum!) titulum quoque & stolam Pontificalem sibi pro more à Pontificibus oblatam respuit, tanquam indigna homine Christiano. Quæ quidem mutatio tanti fuit, ut Cæsarem Romanum, Pontificatu sic exutum, Spiritus Sanctus deinceps pro novo quasi Bestiæ Romanæ capite & Rege habiturus sit, ut cap. 17. audiemus. Atqui adhuc LUNA isthæc nonnullo lumine, quamvis tristi & imbecilli, fulsit; donec & ipsum Collegium Pontificum cum omni reliqua Sacerdotum turba sustulit malleus ille Ethnicismi Theodosius primus, uno edicto omnium reditibus fisco applicatis. Jam igitur tempus erat ut alium sibi Pontificem M. Satanas quæreret. Sed pergo ad reliqua.

Zosim. l. 4.

Et Stellæ cœli ceciderunt in terram, sicut ficus abjicit grossos suos, cùm à vento magno commovetur; recessitque cælum sicut liber qui convolvitur.

Vel Cælum evanuit, &c. id est, Stellæ cœli disparuere, quemadmodum literæ evanescunt, libro, veterum more, convoluto. Ellipsis enim est utrobique prioris substantivi Hebraismo familiaris, ut Deut. 20. 19. 2 Reg. 18. 31. &

31. & alibi paſſim: ità ut hoc de cæli diſparitione, & illud de ſtellarum caſu, mutuò ſeſe explicent; neque ab invicem ſejungi, ut perperàm diſtinctum eſt, ſed eodem commate includi debuiſſent. Integer autem locus deſumptus ex Iſaiæ cap. 34. v. 4. ubi eâdem planè imagine, ſed inverſo ordine, depingit Spiritus Sanctus cladem & ruinam regni Edomitici, quâ hîc regni Idolorum. Convolventur, inquit, ſicut liber cæli, & totus exercitus eorum (id eſt, ſtellæ) decidet ut folium de vite, & ut deciduus groſſulus è ficu. Cujus ſententiam aliquantò clariorem reddere voluit Spiritus Apocalypticus duplici verborum additamento; illinc τῷ ἀπεχωρίδη, hinc *ἀπὸ μεγάλης ἀνέμου σειομένη. Porrò de eadem ruina Edomitica haud mitioribus quàm Iſaias circumſtantiis agunt Obadias, Jerem. 49. à verſu 7. ad 22. Ezech. 35. per tot. & 25. 12. quod idcirco moneo, nè quis Iſaiæ deſcriptionem non niſi magno illi univerſalis judicii Diei convenire putet. Jam verò, ut ad Apocalypſin redeam, STELLÆ Cœli Deaſtrorum Romani fuere, tum Dii ipſi, Regni iſtius ſub Satana principe ſuo Summates, tum, inferiori licèt gradu, proceres Sacerdotes: namque & ſtellæ ſtellis gradibus & ſublimitate differunt. Hi ergò ſunt qui in motu hoc mirabili rei Romanæ, ſedibus ſuis excuſſi, ceciderunt in terram, ſicut ficus abjicit groſſos ſuos, cùm vento magno concutitur.

Ad Cap. 6.

* ὑπὸ

Clem. Rom. l. 8. c. 7. ὁ ἐξήξας αὐτὸν [τὸν ὄφιν] ὡς ἀσραπὴν ἐξ ὑψαυχῆς εἰς γῆν, ὁ τοπικῷ ῥήγματι, ἀλλ' ἀπὸ τιμῆς εἰς ἀτιμίαν, &c.

Neq; hanc de Diis & Deorum Sacerdotibus STELLARUM interpretationem uſq; adeò mirabitur, qui meminerit tum Deos gentium paſſim in Scriptura ſacra Exercitum cæli audire, tum apud Danielem, Terræ decoris ſeu populi Iſraelitici Sacerdotes & primores, quos Antiochus Epiphanes in terram dejecerat, iſto nomine appellari: Magnificavit ſe, inquit, adverſus Exercitum cæli, & dejecit in terram de exercitu & de ſtellis, & conculcavit eas. Quod ille impiè in populo Dei veri, hoc ipſum piè fecerunt Imperatores Chriſtiani in populo Draconis: eo tamen diſcrimine, quòd illic unus tantùm fuit Exercitûs cœli princeps, JEHOVA, qui fecit cœlum & terram; contra quem ut ſeſe Antiochus magnificare potuit, cœlo tamen deturbare non potuit; hîc autem in COELO Romano plurimi fuere principes ſive Dæmones, quos in univerſum omnes Imperatores Chriſti ſigniferi deturbavêre. Adde quòd firmetur hæc expoſitio Synchroniſmo Draconis de cœlo cum ſatellitio ſuo dejecti cap. 12. Draco pugnabat & Angeli ejus; ſed non prævaluerunt, neque locus eorum ampliùs inventus eſt in cœlo. Nam dejectus eſt Draco ille magnus, qui vocatur Diabolus & Satanas, & Angeli ejus (id eſt, Dæmones Deorum nominibus culti) cum eo, &c.

Sequitur, Et omnes montes & inſulæ locis ſuis emotæ ſunt. Poſſent fortaſſe Montes & Inſulæ de celſioris & humilioris conditionis hominibus accipi, qui ſtatim proximo verſu enumerantur, niſi Inſulæ nomen minùs huic interpretationi faveret. Magis igitur probandum videtur, ſi quidem hàc eatur, ut utrumque celſioris conditionis homines deſignet, quòd utrumque emineat; Montes in terra, Inſulæ in mari. Sed quid ſi Inſulas hîc intelligamus non terras in medio aquarum eminentes, quinimo ædes, cujuſmodi dictæ ſunt quæ circuitu publico privatóve cinctæ, communibus cum vicinis parietibus non utebantur? Utrumque deinde, tam [a] Montes quàm Inſulas, de Templis & Delubris Idolorum hoc turbine per Orbem Romanum diſturbandis accipiamus? Quàm enim hujuſmodi interpretationi prona ſit Montium notio, nemo non videt, cui modò ignotum non ſit idololatris id in more poſitum, in [b] editioribus ejuſmodi locis Aras & Delubra Diis ſuis exſtruere. Unde paſſim in V. T. nomen Excelſorum frequentatum; imò Jerem. 3. 23. ipſorum Collium & Montium de Sacellis idolorum. Verè, inquit, mendaces erant colles & multitudo montium, &c. Jam neque Inſulæ pro ædibus ab hujuſmodi interpretatione abhorrent, quandoquidem Templis id vel maximè proprium eſt, ut ſint [c] inſtar Inſularum; neque communione, vel etiam contactu parietum aliarum ædium polluantur. Sin illud fortè non placuerit, ut unum a Ità Theodoret. Colles & Montes interpretatur in cap. 4. Mich. ver. 1. nempe de Templis Dæmonum in iis ædificatis.

b Vide Deut. 12. 2.

c Vid. Durant. de Rit. Eccleſ. Cathol. lib. 1. cap. 3. § 2. Eccleſiæ Inſulæ appellantur quia ab omnibus ædibus diſtinctæ & ſeparatæ eſſe debent, vel, ut Græcè loquar, οἰκίαι περιάμφοδοι, nullis parietibus continuæ, veluti Inſula quædam in mari.

Ad Cap. 6.

idémque duobus nominibus figuretur, Montes, ſi vis, & ſi placet, de Sacellis ruri & in agris, Inſulas de Templis Idolorum in urbibus accipito. Sed in hiſce talibus minutiæ ejuſmodi ſatagendæ non videntur; ut neque fortaſſe in univerſum quævis Allegoriarum propheticarum momenta tam ſolicitè ad eventum exigenda: ſat eſt, ſi ſumma rei utrobique conveniat.

Facta eſt autem hæc Delubrorum & Templorum demolitio, authore eodem piiſſimo Agni ſignifero Theodoſio. Nam Conſtantinus Magnus Templa Deorum tantùm clauſit, non abolevit, niſi Conſtantinopoli & vicinis locis: Julianus iterum aperuit: Hic tandem funditus demoliri juſſit. Hiſtoria cuivis obvia eſt, neque opus ut quæ ea de re apud Eccleſiaſticos Scriptores memorantur hîc aſcribam. Fortè tamen non injucundum erit Zoſimum, Hiſtoricum paganum, de hoc tam acerbo Deorum ſuorum fato quiritantem aut indignantem audire. Deûm, inquit ille, ſacraria per omnes urbes & agros oppugnabantur; adeóque periculum cunctis imminebat qui Deos eſſe putabant, vel in cœlum omnino ſuſpiciebant, & quæ in eo conſpiciuntur adorabant. Sanè, quemadmodum Dominus, veterem Iſraelem de ſervitute Ægyptiaca educturus, judicium exercuiſſe dicitur in Deos Ægyptiorum, (Exod. 12. 12. Num. 33. 4.) ità hîc populum Chriſtianum à tyrannide Romana liberaturus, judicium exercuit in Deos Romanorum.

Sed nullos, inquies, quando ſic turbatum eſt, & cœlum terræ miſcebatur, habuerunt Dii Atlantes, qui cœlo ſuo ruenti humeros ſupponerent, Chriſtíque vexilliferis ſic omnia ſternentibus contravenirent? Imò verò habuerunt; ſed ſimilem cum Dæmonibus ſuis fortunam expertos. Nam reges terræ, inquit, & magnates & tribuni, & divites & potentes, & omnis ſervus & liber, id eſt, Maximianus Galerius, Maxentius, Maximinus cum Martiniano Cæſare, Licinius, Julianus, Imperatores (adde etiam, ſi vis, Eugenium & Arbogaſtem tyrannos) cum omnibus infidelitatis ſuæ ſociis, cujuſcunque ordinis & gradûs, qui religionem avitam tueri, rei Deorum peſſum eunti ſubvenire, jámque collapſam & perditam reſtituere vi manúque conabantur, eò tandem redacti ſunt anguſtiarum, ut abſconderent ſeipſos in ſpeluncis & in petris montium, dixerintque montibus & petris, Cadite ſuper nos, & abſcondite nos à facie ſedentis ſuper thronum & ab IRA AGNI; quoniam venit Dies magnus iræ ejus, & quis poterit ſtare? Fœda imago eſt quâ fugientium & latitantium, quâ præ rerum ſuarum deſperatione vitæ pertæſorum: cui ſimilem habes de clade Hieroſolymorum Luc. 23. 30. item Hoſ. 10. 8. de clade Samariæ ejúſque idolorum; ſed integram Iſa. 2. 18.

Hîc verò Lector illud inprimis obſervet, contineri verbis iſtis Clavem toti viſioni reſerandæ; agi nempe hîc de ſplendida aliqua AGNI victoria, quâ hoſtes ſuos clade internecinâ domuit & evertit. Porrò cùm AGNUM hoſtem fugiant hi quorum deſcribitur clades, ſéque ab ejus ira occultatos velint; indè liquere poteſt cladem illam, etiamſi nullo Synchroniſmo dirigeretur, ad Reges Chriſtianos nequaquam accommodandam eſſe, ſed à Chriſto alienos; proindéque de cladibus à Gothis reliquíſque barbaris nationibus Imperio, jam recèns Chriſtiano, illatis exponi non debere.

Quod verò ultimò addunt Reges, proceres, tribuni, quíque in eadem cum ipſis cymba fuerunt gentiles cæteri, adveniſſe Diem magnum iræ Agni, neminémque ſtare poſſe; verba ſunt hominum Chriſti, quem ad hoc uſque tempus præ Diis ſuis contempſerant, potentiam agnoſcentium, irritúmque deinceps fore omnem Chriſtianis obſiſtendi conatum reipſâ ſentientium. Et reipſâ quidem ſenſerunt omnes: Galerius verò, Maximinus, Licinius, etiam apertâ confeſſione gloriam vel inviti Deo tribuerunt.

Author enim, cum aliis, Euſebius, Galerium (à quo Chriſtus in hoc judicio initium fecit) fœdiſſimo & horrendo morbo correptum, quo, vermibus nimirum ſcaturientibus, corpus intolerabili fœtore computruit, conſcientiâ demum demum ſcelerum quæ contra Eccleſiam admiſiſſet perculſum eſſe, Deóque culpam ſuam confeſſum, à perſecutione contra Chriſtianos deſtitiſſe, legibúſque & edictis Imperatoriis Eccleſiarum illorum exædificationem maturâſſe, conſuetáſque pro ipſo preces obire mandâſſe; paulóque pòſt animam tantæ quantæ nullius unquam in Chriſtianos ſævitiæ ream effudiſſe. Euſeb. de vita Conſtantini lib. 1. cap. 50. Ad Cap. 6.

Maximinum hoſtem Chriſtianorum immaniſſimum, magiæ, divinationibus idolorum, dæmonúmque oraculis ad omnia quæcunque ageret nixum, à Licinio nihilominus, fidem Chriſtianam adhuc cum Conſtantino collega propugnante, ſemel iterúmque victum, abjectis Imperii inſignibus fugiſſe, in agris & vicis aliquandiu ſervili habitu latitâſſe; tandémque, Tarſo Ciliciæ incluſum ac furore accenſum, multos ſacerdotes & prophetas Deorum, quorum oraculis impulſus bellum ſuſceperat, tanquam præſtigiatores, veteratores, denique ſalutis ipſius proditores, trucidâſſe; deinde Chriſtianorum Deo gloriam tribuentem, decretum pro eorum libertate promulgâſſe: ſed à Deo, pœnas tot ſcelerum in Chriſtianos exigente, diro & lethali angore ſubitò perculſum, carnéque univerſâ pedetentim exeſâ & abſumptâ, tandémque & oculis (juſtâ ſupplicii quod in Chriſtianos excogitaverat talione,) præ æſtu quo totus ardebat exſilientibus, Domino ſe confeſſum eſſe, iſtáque propter amentiam & temeritatem contra Chriſtum meritò ſe perpeti agnoſcentem, animam efflâſſe. Vide eundem Hiſtor. Eccleſ. lib. 9. cap. 8, & 10. & lib. 8. c. 27. Item de vita Conſtantini lib. 1. cap. 51, 52.

Denique Licinium, Chriſtianorum, quorum partibus ſeſe aliquandiu cum Conſtantino addixerat, deſertorem, déque multitudine Deorum ſuorum contra unicum illum, eúmque novitium & peregrinum (ſic enim vocabat) Conſtantini Deum magnificè apud milites ſuos gloriantem, duobus prœliis ingentibus devictum, (quorum uno de exercitu centum & triginta millium vix triginta millia evaſerant) tandem, cùm adhuc quieſcere nollet, à Conſtantino unà cum ſuis belli jure condemnatum, debito ſupplicio addictum fuiſſe. Cùm verò qui prœlii contra Deum ſuſcipiendi authores fuiſſent pariter cum tyranno ad locum ſupplicii adducerentur, ſicut antè, ſpe in Diis vanis locatâ, inſolenter ſeſe extuliſſent; ità nunc Conſtantini Deum, qualis & quàm admirabilis eſſet, reipsâ intellexiſſe, húncque verum & ſolum Deum ſe agnoſcere confeſſi ſunt. De vita Conſtantini lib. 2. c. 4, 5, 18.

APPENDIX.

EX vetuſtis Ægyptiorum, Perſarum & Indorum monumentis, authoribus Tarphane, interprete Pharaonis, Baramo, Saganiſſæ Perſarum Regis, (Diocletiani συγχρόνου) Syrbachamo, Regis Indorum, Ὀνειροκριτικὰ ſeu Apoteleſmata Inſomniorum collegit Apomaſar, vel, ſecundùm alios, Achmetes F. Seirim Arabs; ut fuit ea gens cùm iſtiuſmodi artium aliarúmq; jam ab ultima antiquitate ſtudioſiſſima, tum, florente ipſorum Imperio, omnium ubicunque gentium ſcripta in Arabiſmum transferendi avida. Hunc libellum jam olim Græcè, incertum quo authore, loquentem, ex Jo. Sambuci bibliotheca, Latinè à ſe verſum ſuperiori ſeculo in lucem dedit Joan. Leunclavius, eundem poſtea, anno 1603. ex Bibliotheca Regis Chriſtianiſſimi Græcum communicavit Nicolaus Rigaltius in Onirocriticis, ſuppletis quæ in exemplari Sambucino deerant. In hoc libello videre eſt pleraſque imagines propheticas, quæ noſtris hominibus tantum negotii faceſſunt, gentibus Orientalibus familiares, certè in Divinationibus non inſuetas exſtitiſſe. Authorum verò unde collectio facta eſt antiquiſſimus omnium videtur Tarphan Ægyptius; ut qui non ſolùm ſe Pharaonis interpretem nuncupet, ſed paſſim in interpre-

Vide Jer. 49. 7. & imprimis Baruc. 3. 23.

Ad Cap. 6.

tamentis ſuis pro Rege Pharaonis nomen uſurpet; ut tum vixiſſe videri poſſit dum adhuc Ægyptus reges ſuos habuit, iidémque Pharaones dicebantur. Perſa, cum rege ſuo Saganiſſa, Diocletiani, ut dixi, coætaneus fuit. Indus citerioris eſt ævi, ut qui ſe paſſim Chriſtianum prodat. Sed mirus eſt utriuſque cum Ægyptio conſenſus.

Cùm igitur à gentibus iſtis, populo Hebræo olim finitimis, moribúſque & ſermonis uſu magis cognatis, verborum & phraſium in Sacris literis uſum haud illibenter diſcamus; cur idem hîc in figurarum & imaginum propheticarum ſignificatis (cùm juxta Hebræorum magiſtros deciduum prophetiæ ſit ſomnium) dedignaremur? Nemo igitur vitio mihi vertat, ſi ex hoc authore aſcribam quæ ad modò explicatorum Sigillorum figuras intelligendas facere mihi videntur; idem poſtmodum in Tubis cæteriſque Viſionibus (ſicubi occaſio tulerit) bona cum Lectoris venia facturus.

Maiemonides, More Neb. Part. 2. cap. 36.

Primo igitur Sigillo, partim etiam ſequentibus, lucem faciunt iſta.

CAP. CCXXXIII. ex ſententia Indorum, Perſarum, Ægyptiorúmque, Equus generoſus qui PHARAS dicitur (Heb. פָּרָשׁ, Arab. فَرَس equus) in ſomniorum interpretationibus ad eminentiam & dignitatem refertur. Equi vulgares de nobilitate & gloria quadam inferiore accipiuntur.

Si quis in ſomnis viſus ſibi fuerit Equo agili ac laſciviente vehi, coram populo famam & exiſtimationem ampliſſimam & eminentiam & decus inveniet.

Item, Si quis Equo generoſo vehi viſus fuerit armatus, poteſtatem cum bona fama reperiet, pro armorum ratione.

Cap. CCXLIX. juxta Perſarum & Ægyptiorum interpretationes, Si quis tela cum Arcubus tenuiſſe viſus ſibi fuerit, cum gaudio ſuis hoſtibus inſultabit.

Plura habet eódem pertinentia: ut cap. CLII. ex diſciplina Indorum, de magna & longa Equi cauda, ſignificante poteſtatis comites & pediſſequos; de caudæ præciſa, ſignificante tam libertatis quàm principatûs amiſſionem, ſi nempe princeps fuerit qui ſe tali equo vehi ſomniaverit. Similiter cap. CCXXXIII. deſcenſus ex equo, ſi ſponte fiat, de ſpontanea poteſtatis diminutione; ſin invitè, de ſucceſſore in dignitatem ſurrogando exponitur.

Tertio Sigillo allucebunt iſta.

Cap. XV. ex diſciplina Indorum, Si quis in ſomnis Stateram vel Campanum quod vocant (genus eſt ſtateræ) loco quodam librari viderit, ea de perſona Judicis intelligat. Quòd ſi litem habet, ac inter librandum ea viderit exæquari, jus ſuum obtinebit.

Si Stateram æquam purámque videre videatur, Judicem loci juſtum eſſe cognoſcat: ſin perverſas fractáſque lances viderit, ejus loci Judicem, quo loco ſomnium vidit, injuſtum cogitet.

Item, Modii quoque cum menſuris eandem pro portione interpretationem habent; ſed inferiorum Judicum perſonis accommodantur.

Sexto Sigillo iſta.

Cap. CLXVII. ex Indorum, Perſarum Ægyptiorúmque monumentis, SOL ad Regis perſonam interpretando refertur, & ad principis à Rege ſecundi cundi perſonam LUNA; Venus ad perſonam Auguſtæ; itidem alia maxima ſidera ad viros Regis ampliſſimos. Ad Cap. 6.

Hæc dum lego, parùm abeſt quin exiſtimem, titulum iſtum famoſum Saporis Regis Perſarum in literis ſuis ad Conſtantium Imperatorem datis, [REX REGUM SAPOR, particeps Siderum, frater Solis & Lunæ, Conſtantio Cæſari fratri meo ſalutem] quem Ammianus Marcellinus faſtui Perſico deputat, haud aliud fuiſſe quàm ſtylum genti vernaculum ex hujuſmodi imaginibus natum. Quod eò minùs mirum cuipiam videri debeat, cùm etiam feciales noſtros videamus, Imperatorum & Regum inſignibus enunciandis, Solis, Lunæ, reliquorúmque Planetarum nomina adhibere. Huc quoque referendum Jacobi interpretamentum ſomnii Joſephi filii ſui, de Sole, Luna, & undecim Stellis ipſum adorantibus: quod ille protinus, tanquam parabolarum Orientis minimè ignarus, familiæ ſuæ applicat; Solem & Lunam de ſe & uxore, ceu Rege & Regina, Stellas de filiis, tanquam Familiæ proceribus, interpretando. Geneſ. 37. 10. Sed ad Achmetem noſtrum redeamus. pergit autem ille eodem capite:

Si quis Solem in cælo luce radiiſque carentem videre viſus fuerit, ad perſonam Regis calamitas καὶ ἀδοξία ſpectat.

Si cui Sol defeciſſe viſus fuerit, ea res afflictionem & bellum Regi portendit.

Si quis videre viſus fuerit Solem nube tectum, in afflictionem & in morbos, pro occultationis modo, Rex incidet.

Si quis abſque lumine Solem, Lunam & Sidera congregata videre viſus fuerit, ſi de magnatum numero eſt, propter iſtas tenebras omnino ruet in interitum; ſi Rex eſt, circundatus ab univerſis bello petetur, & magnam in afflictionem incidet.

Cap. CLXVIII. ex obſervationibus Perſarum & Ægyptiorum, Si quis ſidera perexiguo prædita lumine, disjecta & ſparſa caliginoſáque videre viſus fuerit, hoc ad Nobilium & opulentorum calamitatem & ad Regis præſides refertur.

ABſoluto Sigillo ſexto, protinus ad ſeptimum ſeptuplici plagâ fœcundum ordine pergendum foret, ut quod cum ſexto continuo nexu cohæreat. Sed Spiritus Sanctus certo conſilio gradum pauliſper ſuſtinendum duxit; donec Cœtûs cujuſdam ei contemporantis ſtatum ob oculos poneret, ſub plagis ejus cùm incolumis futuri, tum etiam ſuperaturi. Ei igitur Viſioni priùs interpretationis quam poſſumus facem præferemus: deinde cœptum Sigillorum ordinem continuabimus.

VISIO

VISIO
COETUS SERVORUM DEI,
SIVE ECCLESIÆ ELECTÆ & FIDELIS,
Sub Septimi Sigilli ſive Tubarum ruinis conſervandæ, exhibita typo
CXLIV M EX OMNIBUS
TRIBUBUS ISRAELIS SIGNATORUM, Ineunte Sigillo Septimo.

Ad Cap. 7.

BIS ponitur Signatorum Viſio: primò hîc ineuntibus Tubis, in Prophetia prima; iterum, ceu Beſtiæ rerum potiuntis Ἀντίσοιχον, in Prophetia ſecunda, c. 14. Duplici etiam reſpectu: hîc quà conſervandorum ſub Tubarum ruinis; illic quà collaudandorum ob fidem Deo & Agno ſervatam, cùm cæteri Orbis Incolæ, deſertores & transfugæ, Beſtiæ characterem accepiſſent. Ex quo liquidò apparet, Vaticinium Beſtiæ Tubarum rebus contemporare: quouſque autem, aliunde judicandum eſt; nempe non ultra Tubæ ſextæ exitum, quo Beſtiæ menſes cum Teſtium lugentium diebus finiuntur, cap. 11. 14. Nobis in præſenti inſtitutum eſt, priori Signatorum Viſioni, quâ de iiſdem conſervandis agitur, faculam interpretationis allucere: de collaudandis poſtea, cùm eò ventum.

Poſtea, inquit (id eſt, ſexti Sigilli viſione tranſactâ, ſeptimóque, quod Tubarum eſt, jam inituro) vidi quatuor Angelos ſtantes ſuper quatuor angulos terræ, retinentes quatuor ventos terræ, nè flaret ventus ſuper terram, neque ſuper mare, neque in ullam arborem.

Rabbi Tedacus Levi in lib. de 10. Numerationibus, Et illis quatuor Ventis creavit quatuor Angelos, qui præfecti ſunt ſuper eos in die & nocte. Apud Reuchlin. de Arte Cabbal. lib. 3. verſùs finem.

Senſus eſt, Vidit Angelos qui præeſſent ventis, id eſt, bellorum & calamitatum procellis, quacunque ex mundi plaga prodituræ eſſent, quouſque Deo viſum coercendis; ad ejus verò nutum, ſignum ſiquando daret, in Orbem terrarum laxandis: non quidem eoſdem cum Tubarum Angelis, ſed qui ad illorum tamen ſonitum Ventos iſtos modò ex hac, modò exilla mundi parte laxaturi eſſent, rei Romanæ diſſipandæ ac proſternendæ. Ventorum enim parabola apud Prophetas motus bellicos & hoſtiles impetus atque impreßiones deſignat: ut Jer. 49. 36. Inducam ſuper Elam quatuor ventos à quatuor plagis cæli, & ventilabo eos in omnes ventos iſtos; & non erit gens ad quam non perveniant profugi Elam. Vide cætera. Item cap. 51. 1, 2. Ecce ego, dicit Dominus, excitabo ſuper Babel, &c. ventum corrumpentem. Et emittam in Babel ventilatores, & ventilabunt eam, & evacuabunt terram ejus. Adde quoque cap. 18. 17. Sicut ventus Orientalis diſpergam eos (id eſt, Judæos) coram inimico, hoc eſt, Rege Babylonis. Huc quoque referendum videtur illud Danielis cap. 7. 2, 3. Ecce quatuor venti cæli pugnabant in mari magno; Et quatuor Beſtiæ grandes aſcendebant de mari: id eſt, ex gentium undique bello ferróque inter ſeſe concurrentium, de ditionéque & imperio concertantium conflictu, nata ſunt quatuor Regna magna.

Et

Et vidi, inquit, alium Angelum aſcendentem * ab ortu Solis, habentem ſigillum Dei vivi: (fortè igitur Chriſtus Dominus eſt) & clamavit voce magnâ quatuor Angelis, quibus datum eſt (ventos nempe laxando, quos retinuerant) lædere terram & mare, dicens, Nè lædite terram, neque mare, neque arbores, quouſque ſignaverimus Servos Dei noſtri in frontibus ſuis.

Ad Cap. 7.

* Qui baptizabantur ſtabant ad Orientem converſi, atque indè Sigillum Dei accipiebant.

Id eſt, Ventos nè laxetis, néve iiſdem in Orbem eundi, furendi poteſtatem faciatis. Terram autem, mare & arbores nominat ventorum imagini congruenter, utpote quibus venti damnum inferre ſoleant; terræ, ædificiorum ruinis; mari, naufragiis; arboribus, ſtrage & laceratione multifariâ. Suſtinete, inquit, quouſque ſignaverimus ſervos Dei noſtri in frontibus ſuis: id eſt, notâ impreſsâ diſcreverimus, ceu electum Dei Cœtum, in quem perditoribus iſtis ventis, reliquam hominum ſocietatem in exitium daturis, nihil juris ſit; ſed cui, ſigillo ſuo animadverſo, Providentia Divina jugiter invigilaret, nè hâc rei Romanæ ruinâ quam afferrent Tubæ ſancta ipſorum progenies extingueretur. Ità enim rem comparatam fore, ut neque impunè laturi ſint qui læſerint, tanquam juris à Deo conceſſi limites tranſgreſſi; porrò damnum, ſi quod datum fuerit, à Deo protinus reſarciretur. Alluſum verò eſt ad locum Ezechielis cap. 9. ubi ab Angelo ſignantur ſuſpirantes, & exclamantes propter abominationes Jeruſalem, ad hoc, nè parem cum impiis & reprobis cladem à percuſſoribus ſuſtineant.

Et ſanè, eventum quod attinet, ſi quis temporum de quibus hîc agitur ſtatum perpenderit, miraculi inſtar videbitur, fieri potuiſſe, ut Imperio Rom. tanta cum urbium atque incolarum ſuorum ſtrage diſſipato & deſtructo, ità ut, veteribus incolis propemodum extinctis, à barbaris & à Chriſto alienis gentibus habitaretur, Eccleſia tamen ibidem in mediis hiſce malis, & quaſi mundo in caput ipſius corruente, perennaret; imò etiam, Beſtiâ eodem tempore (ut ſuo loco audiemus) univerſum Chriſtianiſmum cultu idololatrico inceſtante, Cœtum nihilominus (qualis hic eſt) illibatum, eóque nomine Deo curæ, in ſinu ſuo foveret. Tanti erat Dei ſignaculo munitam fuiſſe.

Et audivi, inquit, numerum ſignatorum; centum quadraginta quatuor millia ſignati ſunt ex omnibus tribubus filiorum Iſrael, id eſt, duodecies duodecim millia, ex ſingulis tribubus duodena millia.

Quemadmodum enim initio, Theatrum Viſionum ſeu Conſeſſum Apocalypticum pro veteris Synagogæ imagine ſtatúque deſcriptum vidimus, magnáque pars hujus libri Typorum eódem ſpectat, adeò ut etiam Pſeudo-Chriſtiani in Epiſtolis ad Eccleſias ea de cauſa Pſeudo-Judæi audiant: ità quoque hîc Eccleſia gentium catholica, ſigillo Dei munienda, figuratur typo Iſraelis; duodecim illius Apoſtolis totidem hujus Patriarchis commodè reſpondentibus. Nec id quidem immeritò fit, cùm alias ob cauſas, tum maximè quòd Eccleſia, quæ indè à rejectione Judæorum hucuſque ex Gentibus colligitur, in Iſraelis vicem ſucceſſerit, ſítque, ut ità loquar, ſurrogatus ISRAEL, eóq; loco apud Deum tantiſper habenda, dum, veteri populo ſuo denuo miſericordiam conſecuto, plenitudo gentium introierit; id eſt, Turba illa innumera ex omnibus gentibus, tribubus, populis & linguis, quam, finitâ demum Iſraelis hujuſce ſignaturâ, Joannes ſe vidiſſe teſtatur laudes Deo & Agno concinentem. Hoc enimvero illud eſt, (de ſurrogatione loquor) quod Apoſtolus Paulus docere voluit ad Rom. c. 11. dum inculcat, ruinam Judæorum ſalutem attuliſſe Gentibus, & eorum abjectionem fuiſſe reconciliationem mundi. Non quòd aliter Gentes ſuo tempore vocandæ non fuiſſent, (cùm totus Prophetarum chorus clamet, Gentes ad gloriam Iſraelis aggregandas, & ad Dominum convertendas fuiſſe; quod neque ipſi Judæi jam olim, neque hodie diffitentur:) ſed quòd non hâc, quæ per anticipationem, ſurrogationem, & ad zelotypiam lotypiam facta eſt, vocatione, niſi Judæi Chriſto renunciâſſent. Intelligens ſciet quid velim. Vobis neceſſe fuit, inquit Apoſtolus Act. 13. primùm exponi Verbum Dei: poſtquam autem ipſum repellitis, & indignos vos ipſos decernitis æternâ vitâ; ecce, convertimus nos ad Gentes. De Gentium verò converſione anticipata (id eſt, quæ Judæorum inſtaurationem præcederet) accipiendum videtur (ut hoc quoque moneam) teſtimonium illud Amoſi à Jacobo in Concilio Apoſtolorum Act. 15. laudatum; eóque fortaſſe nomine cæteris, quæ de Gentium in populum Dei cooptatione aliàs haberi potuiſſent, vaticiniis tunc prælatum. Innuit enim, non tantùm nomen Domini ſuper gentes invocandum fuiſſe (id eſt, futuras ei Gentes in populum;) ſed etiam illud ex parte tunc futurum, dum adhuc tabernaculum Davidis collapſum jaceret, id eſt, regnum Iſraelis nondum per Chriſtum inſtauraretur. Poſthæc, inquit, revertar, & readificabo tabernaculum Davidis collapſum, & diruta ejus readificabo, & erigam illud: ut requirant cæteri hominum Dominum, & omnes gentes ſuper quas ἐπικέκληται invocatum eſſet nomen meum. hoc eſt, ut reliquiæ hominum, unà cum gentibus iſtis ſuper quas jam antea nomen meum invocatum eſſet, tum demum me verum Deum requirerent & colerent. Pro eo enim quod nunc in textu Hebraico habetur, לְמַעַן יִירְשׁוּ אֶת שְׁאֵרִית אָדָם, id eſt, ὅπως ἂν κατακληρονομήσωσι τὸ κατάλοιπον τῆς Ἰδυμαίας, olim ſcriptum lectum videtur, לְמַעַן יִדְרְשׁוּ אֶל שְׁאֵרִית אָדָם, id eſt, ὅπως ἂν ἐκζητήσωσιν οἱ κατάλοιποι τῶν ἀνθρώπων τὸν Κύριον. Quinimo ex Hebraica lectione quæ nunc obtinet, idem de anticipata gentium in Dei populum cooptatione colligi poſſe videtur; nempe iſto ſenſu: Judæos reduces, tum cùm tabernaculum Davidis collapſum denuo inſtauraretur, reliquias Edom, necnon Gentes ſuper quas nomen Domini jam antea invocatum eſſet, hæreditario jure adituros: ergò Gentium aliquas in Dei populum futuras ante inſtaurationem tabernaculi Davidici. Sed de iſtis ſatis.

Ad Cap. 7.

Numerum ſignatorum quod attinet, Duodenarius numerus Apoſtolici generis inſigne eſt; qui tribuum tam ſingularum quàm univerſarum millenos multiplicando progeniem denotat Apoſtolicam; progeniem putà, licèt in plures millenos auctam, minimè tamen degenerem, ſed parentes ſuos fide & ſanctitate exprimentem. Nimirum, quemadmodum Beſtiæ numerum habere, (ut poſtea audiemus) gentem Beſtianam ſeu Beſtiæ ſectatricem; ità & Apoſtolorum numerum gerere, legitimam Apoſtolorum ſobolem deſignat. Hanc eſſe duodenariæ illius multiplicationis veriſſimam mentem, oſtendit analogia novæ Jeruſalem; in cujus ſtructura & dimenſionibus portarum, fundamentorum areæ, murorum ambitûs, longitudinis, latitudinis, altitudinis, idem duodenarius numerus, aut duodenaria multiplicatio adhibetur. Et nè ampliùs hæſitaremus duodenarius iſte quorſum tandem reſpiciat, ecce de duodecim muri fundamentis diſertè dicitur quòd inſcripta fuerint nominibus duodecim Apoſtolorum Agni, cap. 21. 14.

Ex tribu Judæ, ex tribubus Reubenis, Gad, Aſeris, Nephthali, Manaſſis, Simeonis, Levi, Iſacharis, Zabulonis, Joſephi, Benjaminis, ex ſingulis ſignata ſunt duodecim millia.

Nuſquam alibi in tota Scriptura hoc ordine Tribus recenſentur, etiamſi aliàs numerentur diverſimodè. Præterquam enim quòd Dan prorſus non compareat, neque Ephraimi nomen audiatur; in cæteris ab omnium quæ alibi habentur recenſionum lege diſceditur, neque aut nativitatis, aut dignitatis natalium, aut habitationis ordo ſervatur; ſed extremæ permiſcentur mediis, & ancillarum filii natu minores ſemel atque iterum majoribus natu uxorum liberis præponuntur: ut minimè dubitandum ſit, quin præcipuum aliquod Typi myſterium in ordine tam novo ac inſolito lateat. Hoc, Deo cœptis adſpirante, aliquatenus eruiſſe videmur; nempe hujuſmodi.

Primùm, ab hoc Typo abjicitur Dan, tacetur Ephraim, tanquam ἀνοσίας Iſraeliticæ

Iſraeliticæ anteſignani & primipili (Jud.capp. 17, & 18.) iidémque, tempore Regni, publicorum idolorum Dane & Bethele hoſpites; propterea religionis purioris cultoribus figurandis omnino inepti. Ad Cap. 7.

Ut autem nihilominus duodenarius numerus compleatur, pro Dane Levi ſubſtituitur, tacitum Ephraimi nomen ſupplet Joſephi.

Numero ſic conſtituto, uxorum & ancillarum filii, inſuper habitâ natalium dignitate, permiſcentur, ac ancillarum liberi in Dominarum adoptantur. In Chriſto enim neque ſervus eſt, neque liber, ſed omnes unius rationis ſunt.

Cùm igitur Leæ filii, quà naturales, quà adoptivi, duplo plures ſint quàm Rachelis; illius nempe octo, hujus tantùm quatuor: proinde ordo iſte in recenſendo obſervatur, ut duplâ quoque ratione quaterni Leæ filii alternatim cum binis Rachelis conferrentur: utrobique autem eæ Tribus reliquis, tanquam potiores, præferantur, quas factum aliquod ſuum aut ſuorum, in Sacris literis memoratum, de vero Dei cultu & erga eundem zelo commendaverat. Primum verò agmen ducit proſapia Leæ propter Chriſti, Principis Cœtûs, prærogativam, ex ejus utique ſtirpe oriundi: hoc modo.

Primus quaternio filiorum LEAE.	1 JUDA	Alter quaternio filiorum LEAE.	7 Simeon
	2 Reuben		8 Levi
	3 Gad		9 Iſachar
	4 Aſer.		10 Zabulon.
Prima biga filiorum RACHELIS.	5 Nephthali	Altera biga filiorum RACHELIS.	11 Joſeph
	6 Manaſſe.		12 Benjamin.

Ratio ordinis filiorum Leæ.

Ex LEÆ, ut vides, filiis primum quaternionem conſtituunt Juda, Reuben, Gad, Aſer, utpote præ cæteris eo nomine cui Typus figurando eſt nobilitati.

In iſtis primus locus, ut par eſt, tribuitur Judæ, ob Chriſtum Regem fidelium eâ tribu proſeminatum.

Secundus Reubeni, quem illuſtris illa proteſtatio de altari μνημονευτικῷ ad Jordanis ripam exſtructo nobilitavit; quâque meruit, nè nativitatis prærogativam (primogenitus enim fuit) alii quàm Judæ tribui regiæ ſubmitteret.

Tertium locum ſortitur Gad, utpote Reubenis in celebri iſta proteſtatione de vero Dei cultu retinendo ſocius; & porrò Eliâ Prophetâ & Jehu Rege, Baaliſmi deſtructoribus, inſignis.

Quartum denique, & in hoc quaternione noviſſimum, locum capeſſit Aſer, viduâ Sareptanâ, quæ Eliam pavit, illuſtris, (nam ad Aſeris ſortem ſpectavit Sarepta) necnon Annâ Prophetiſsâ Aſeritide, quæ Chriſto, cùm in Templo juxta Legem ſiſteretur, teſtimonium perhibuit, nobilis; ſed tribus præcedentibus, quòd utraque fœmina eſſet, nequaquam comparandus.

In ultimum quaternionem rejiciuntur Simeon, Levi, Iſachar, Zabulon; nempe aut nullis, aut paucioribus nominibus condecorati, aut, ſi quæ habuerint, ſcelere aliquo poſtmodum obliteratis. Siquidem Levi zelum, quo ſe in deſerto probavit, (ut taceam de ſeditione Korachi) obliteravit ejus cum apoſtatis & idololatris Iſraeliticis indè ab initio conſortium. Tam enim Michæ Ephraimitæ quàm furibus Danitis, primis à morte Joſuæ idololatris, Jonathan Levites Moſis nepos operam ſuam in idolorum cultu condixit, Jud. 17. 10. & 18. 30. Fieri etiam poteſt ut Levi in poſtremum quaternionem detruſerit ſubſtitutio in locum Danis.

Porrò, cùm nihil habeant hujus quaternionis fratres quo alii aliis præcellant; ideo nativitatis ordinem ſervant immutatum, & quo quiſque ordine natus eſt, juxta eum recenſetur.

Ad Cap. 8.

Ratio ordinis filiorum Rachelis.

Inter RACHELIS autem posteros familiam ducit biga Nephthalis & Manassis; agmen claudunt Joseph & Benjamin. Præferuntur Nephthali & Manasse; quia ille, ut Baraco Siseræ Cananæi debellatore, ità Hiramo instrumentorum & supellectilis Templi Dei artifice ex patre Nephthalita, (1 Reg. 7. 14. cum 2 Chron. 2. 14.) sed & majori adhuc nomine (de quo postea) inclytus; hic Gideone Baalis subversore, & Elisæo Prophetâ nobilis fuit.

Nephthalim verò, licèt ancillæ filium, supra Manassen extulit gloria incolatûs Christi; qui utique munus suum orsurus, in nobilissima Nephthaliticæ sortis urbe, totiúsque Galilææ metropoli, Capernaum, domicilium & prædicationis suæ sedem fixit: unde tanquam ex urbe Episcopali totam Galilæam cum Apostolis suis semel iterúmque obivit, in omnibus Synagogis & vicis docens Evangelium regni & miraculis sanationum coruscans. Id enim, Lector, ex Evangelica historia notes velim (quia multos fugit) Servatorem nostrum omni tempore quo in terris versabatur in Galilæa habitâsse; in Judæa verò, præcipuâ tum gentis tum tribûs suæ sede, non nisi festis temporibus conspectum fuisse. Hócque illud esse quod Isaias jam olim prædixerat (Isa. 9. Matth. 4. 14.) Consiliarium illum admirabilem, Deum fortem, Authorem æternitatis (Septuag. Πατέρα τοῦ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος) Principem pacis, uno verbo MESSIAM, Galilæum futurum; & quasi in compensationem & solatium captivitatis, quam prima omnium Terræ sanctæ regionum ab Assyrio tum recèns Galilæa pertulerat, (2 Reg. 15. 29.) illum præcipuè tractum præsentiâ suâ illustraturum; in specie autem viam illam publicam, dictam VIAM MARIS, quò loci ex Syria veniens Jordanem per mediam Capernaum transit, indéque secundùm Mare Galilææ pergens in Ægyptum ducit. Audiamus ipsum: כָּעֵת הָרִאשׁוֹן הֵקַל אַרְצָה זְבֻלוּן וְאַרְצָה נַפְתָּלִי וְהָאַחֲרוֹן הִכְבִּיד דֶּרֶךְ הַיָּם עֵבֶר הַיַּרְדֵּן גְּלִיל הַגּוֹיִם הָעָם הַהֹלְכִים בַּחֹשֶׁךְ רָאוּ אוֹר גָּדוֹל יֹשְׁבֵי בְּאֶרֶץ צַלְמָוֶת אוֹר נָנַהּ עֲלֵיהֶם.

Vid. Adrichom. Tab. Nephthal. ipsúmque pag. 115. b.

Quod, distinctione vulgatâ posthabitâ, sponte & ad literam ità sonat: Sicut tempore primo vilem reddidit terram Zabulon & terram Nephthali; (utique, ut dixi, per Tiglath-peleserem) ità in novissimo glorioſam [& inclytam] faciet. Via [enim] Maris (ab Assyrio calcata) ad transitum Jordanis (ibi Capernaum sita) Galilæa gentium, populus qui ambulabat in tenebris (nempe afflictionum) vidit lucem magnam, habitantibus in regione umbræ mortis lux exorta est, &c. Vin' scire unde, & quo authore ità beabitur Galilæa, in eâque via illa maritima ubi trajectus est Jordanis? statim subjicit, Quia parvulus natus est nobis, filius datus est nobis, & erit principatus super humerum ejus, & vocabitur nomen ejus Admirabilis, Consiliarius, Deus fortis, Pater æternitatis, Princeps pacis.

Vel tempore primo vilem reddidit, &c. sed in novissimo, &c.

Verba autem illa כִּי לֹא מוּעָף לָאֲשֶׁר מוֹצַק לָהּ (à quibus nostri ferè, Judæorum, qui nunquam hanc prophetiam intellexerunt, vestigia prementes, caput hoc, magnâ sensûs perturbatione, ordiuntur) cum Hieronymo & Bibliis Regiis præcedentis capitis sententiæ annecto; vertóque, quoniam non est obscuratio ei qui angustia est ipsi: id est, in calamitoso isto & afflicto rerum statu, in quem respublica Israelitica tunc temporis, juxta Legis comminationem, incidisse memoratur, atque oculis quasi subjicitur, ad indignationem & desperationem homines adactos, quòd hostem quo premebantur viderint perpetuis successibus uti, neq; ullum ei infortunium obvenire. Magni profectò fidei Christianæ interest, oraculum hoc de Messia Galilæo clarè intelligi, atque Matthæi ipsum allegantis fidem asseri: propterea lucem ei qualemcunque hâc occasione fœnerare volui, sperans Lectorem id non ingratum habiturum. Ad Apocalypsin redeo, illúdque porrò addam, priusquam Nephthalim dimisero, Quòd quemadmodum in Leæ filiis primum locum sortitus ſit Juda, propter Chriſti genus; ità inter Rachelidas Nephthali, ob ejus domicilium; ut utrobique ſuperemineat Chriſti prærogativa, cujus nomine, ceu Domini & Imperatoris, Cœtus iſte (ut ſuo loco audiemus) inſcribitur. Ad Cap. 7. Cap. 14. 1.

tus

Reſtant Joſeph & Benjamin, ad poſtremum Rachelidarum bigam rejecti. quorum illum in hunc locum detruſit peccatum Ephraimiticum: ſiquidem Ephraim eſt, qui Joſephi nomine tegitur, indignus qui ſuo (tum quia Idololatriæ Iſraeliticæ, authore Michâ, anteſignanus fuit; tum ob immanem illam, Jeroboamo & Achabo authoribus, ἀποστασίαν) in hoc catalogo audiatur. Benjaminem denique, aliàs natu minimum, altiori gradu prohibet Saulis Benjaminitæ adverſus Davidem (utpote Chriſti genearcham typúmque) odium, & Schimei in eundem maledicta.

¶ Sententia memorialis ex nominum quibus Tribus appellentur ſignificatis conflata; quâ, cùm Tribuum ſignatarum ordo, tum Cœtûs ipſius indoles, lucta, atque à Deo pramium declarantur.

Juda	Confitetur Deo	Cultus purus & ritè Chriſtianus.
Reuben	intuendo filium
Gad	Cœtus
Aser	benedictus.
Nephthalim	Luctantur cum	Lucta.
Manasse	obliviſcentibus
Simeon	obedientiam.
Levi	Adhæſio, ſcil. Chriſto,	Præmium.
Isachar	mercedem
Zabulon	habitaculi, ſc. aterni,
Joseph	adjiciet
Benjamin	filio dextræ.

Confitetur, vel celebrat Deum, intuendo filium, (id eſt, Chriſtum mediatorem unicum) Cœtus benedictus, (cœtus ſignatorum.) Luctantur cum obliviſcentibus obedientiam (id eſt, cum Antichriſtianis.) Adhæſio Chriſto mercedem habitaculi (nempe aterni) adjiciet filio dextræ, (id eſt, ei quem Deus magni facit:) vel aliter, Adhærentibus Deo mercedem habitaculi (id eſt, aternæ vitæ) adjiciet Filius dextræ, (id eſt, Chriſtus.)

Contractiori huic & afflictiori Eccleſiæ ſtatui Typo ſignatorum ex Iſraele, ſuccedit ampliſſimus longéque feliciſſimus ejuſdem ſtatus, imagine Palmiferorum innumerabilium, ex omni gente, populo, tribu, & lingua. Poſthæc, inquit, vidi, & ecce turba multa, quam numerare nemo poterat, ex omni gente, & tribubus, & populis, & linguis, ſtantes ante thronum, & ante Agnum, amicti veſtibus albis, & palmæ in manibus eorum. Et clamabant voce magnâ, dicentes, Salus Deo noſtro qui ſedet ſuper thronum, & Agno, &c. Atqui hæc Viſio cùm ad Tubam ſeptimam pertineat, neque alibi commodè & dilucidè ob tot prænoſcenda explicari poſſit, eò ſcholium ejus differemus. Præſenti loco ſufficiat quod modò in genere dictum eſt, Lectorémque memoriâ tenere, ambas quidem Viſiones iſtas junctim totum Sigilli ſeptimi ſeu Tubarum intervallum pervadere; ſeorſim verò Cœtum Signatorum ſex primis Tubis, Turbam Palmiferorum Tubæ ſeptimæ συγχρονίζειν. Atque ità interjectæ Viſionis Viſionúmve interpretatione defuncti, intermiſſam Sigillorum ſeriem reſumamus.

MENS SIGILLI SEPTIMI, Id eſt, SEPTEM TUBARUM.

Ad Cap. 8.

Uerunt SEX PRIMA SIGILLA, quibus ſtantis adhuc & vigentis Imperii ſtatus, uſque dum poteſtas Idolorum rueret, caſibus inteſtinis deſcribebatur: Succedit Septimum, cujus τὸ πεῖγμα, SEPTEM TUBÆ, quo Imperii labantis & cadentis fata, ſeptuplici plagarum ordine, bellicum canentibus Tubis, ruituri, conſuetis ad eam rem imaginibus panduntur; Deo nempe ſanguinis tot Martyrum Romanis auſpiciis effuſi iſthâc Ruinâ pœnas exigente.

Qui enim nè brutis quidem animantibus, ſi quando hominem imaginem ſuam occiderint, parci velit, annon ille ſanguinem ſervorum ſuorum ab Imperio tot annis Martyricidâ repoſceret? Neque ſera Chriſtianorum Imperatorum ibi rerum potiuntium pietas juſtitiæ Dei intercedere debuit, non magìs quàm pietas Joſiæ ut regnum Judæ, ſanguinis à Manaſſe effuſi reum, excidium à Deo decretum effugeret. Hanc ultionem animæ Martyrum, ſub immani illa Sigilli quinti laniena gementes, precibus efflagitârunt: hanc Deus promiſit, quamprimùm Tyrannus Romanus, eorum acceſſione qui tum adhuc jugulandi reſtabant, menſuram ſuam implêſſet, cap. 6. 11. Hoc tempus jam advenerat. Quapropter preces iſtas Angelus cœli Sacerdos ad Altare thymiamatis (ut moris erat precibus populi in Templo factis) ſuffitu ad Thronum Dei tranſmittit, eíque in memoriam revocat. Interea ſilentium in cœlo factum eſt ad ſemihoram; pro Templi nempe ritu in iſtiuſmodi ſacro obeundo. Conſtat enim, in ſacris ubivis ferè Gentium Silentium de Religione fuiſſe. Favere linguis, dicebant. Id à populo Dei obſervatum, tum cùm Incenſum fieret. Dum enim Sacrificia offerebantur, (quæ [a] prima pars λειτουργίας fuit, Templum canticis, tubis, aliíſque inſtrumentis muſicis perſonabat, 2 Chron. 29. 25. uſque ad 28. At tempore incenſi omnia [b] ſilebant, & populus tacitè ſecum precabatur, Luc. 1. 10. Huc igitur alluſum eſt, dum Angelo ad Altare aureum ſacra facturo, factum eſſe dicitur in Cœlo Silentium ad ſemihoram, id eſt, toto tempore Incenſi.

Quo demum peracto, [c] Implevit Angelus thuribulum ex igne Altaris, abjecítque in terram. Nempe, ut hoc ritu indicaret quorſum ſpectarent preces iſtæ, quas ad Deum commeantes grato odore perfuderat; ſcilicet ad vindictam in Terricolas impetrandam, qui Sanctos læſerant, imò ſanguinem eorum effuderant.

Preces autem continuò reſponſum ferunt. Nam facta ſunt, inquit, (ſcilicet ex Throno ſeu adyto Templi, ut cap. 4. 5.) Voces & tonitrua & fulgura & [d] terræ motus. Quibus verbis deſcribitur oraculum בת קול BATH KOL, id eſt, Filia vocis ſeu tonitrui, quo Deus olim in veteri populo reſponſa dabat, eodémque hîc precibus Sanctorum annuit. Hebræo autem ſermone ſciendum φωναὶ καὶ βρονταὶ idem ſonare; Tonitrua enim קולות appellari, id eſt, Voces. Aut igitur καὶ ſumendum ἐξηγητικῶς pro hoc eſt; aut, quod malim, per figuram [e] ἐν διὰ δυοῖν, Voces & tonitrua ſunt Voces tonitrui aut cum tonitru.

Scilicet

a Refert Philo in lib. de Sacrificiis, Incenſum matutinum πρὸ τῆς ἑωθινῆς θυσίας fieri ſolitum, veſpertinum poſt.

b Fortè huc alluditur Pſal. 62. 2. Ad Deum דוּמִיָּה ſilet omnis anima; & Pſal. 65. 2.

c Verſ. 5.

d Ità quoque Act. 4. 31. Deus Apoſtolorum precibus terræ motu annuebat. Vid. Pſal. 18. prout habetur 2 Sam. 22. à verſ. 7. ad 9. ubi השמים pro eo quod in Pſal. הָרִים

Ad Cap. 8.

Scilicet Deus ut plurimùm cum tonitru placita ſua edebat, quemadmodum & Legem tulit, Exod. 19. 16. imò unicum id oraculum Judæis reliquum poſt captivitatem Babylonicam manſit. Cujus exemplum eſt apud Evangeliſtam noſtrum, cap. 12. 28. cùm dixiſſet Dominus, Πάτερ, δόξασόν σου τὸ ὄνομα, Pater glorifica Nomen tuum; venit, inquit, φωνὴ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, Καὶ ἐδόξασα, καὶ πάλιν δοξάσω. Sequitur ibi, Et turba quæ aſtabat & audierat, dicebat, Tonitru eſſe factum. Alii dicebant, Angelus ei locutus eſt. Id eſt, alii בת קול, tonitru Divinum, ſeu conjunctum cum voce Divina, Filiam nempe tonitrui, dicebant; alii verò, Angelum loqui. Atque hinc eſt quòd in Apocalypſi, non hoc tantùm loco, ſed alibi paſſim, cum oraculis vocibúſque Divinis tonitru conjungitur; ut cap. 4. 5. cap. 6. 1. cap. 10. 3. Videſis Clariſſimi Danielis Heinſii Ariſtarchum ſacrum, pag. 277, & 455.

Sacro ſic peracto, & Deo voce tonitrui Sanctorum precibus annuente, Septem Angeli qui habebant ſeptem Tubas præparaverunt ſe ut clangerent. Verſ. 6.

Opera Divinæ providentiæ & gubernationis Angelis adminiſtris geri, apud omnes Theologos in confeſſo eſt. Angeli igitur in Viſionibus iſtis eorum locum tenent quibus ad res gerendas à Deo præponuntur; quódque communibus operis tam Angelorum quàm hominum geritur, id Angelis authoribus, tanquam auſpicibus & ducibus, geri dicitur. Ut omnino à ſcopo aberrare mihi videantur qui ſub iſtis Angelorum nominibus aliud aliquod myſterium latere putent. Angeli igitur Tubicines, de quibus hîc ſermo, ſunt qui ad gubernandas Tubarum plagas, adhibitis ad gerendum per quos Deo decreta ſua exſequi viſum hominibus, conſtituti ſunt.

Harum verò Tubarum quatuor primæ anguſtiorum & minorum plagarum ſunt; utpote quibus, Orbi Occidentali ſeu Latino maximam partem incumbentibus, ſanandis fuit Epiſcopus Romanus, dehinc Orbi ſaltem iſti in caput futurus. Quarum imaginibus ritè accommodandis, hîc quoque Lector obſervet, Univerſitatem Romanam cum reliquis Orbis Imperiis à Spiritu S. tacitè aſſimilari Syſtemati Mundano, cujus partes ſunt Terra, Mare, Flumina, Cœlum, Stellæ; eâ ratione, ut Imperii cujuſque Syſtema ſuam quoque Terram habeat, quæ ſit inſtar illius Telluris, nempe imum quoddam & Baſin cui totius politiæ moles incumbat: Mare item, quod, Terram ſuam circumfundendo, Maris ſimilitudinem (hæc Ditionis amplitudo ſeu extenſio eſt) omnimodo gerat: Flumina quoque politica, quæ aliorum fluminum ritu ex Mari ſuo originem ducant eodémque revertantur; cujuſmodi ſunt Magiſtratus provinciales cæteríque ditionis adminiſtri, unà cum illorum Fluminum alveis provinciis ipſis: Solem denique aliáſque Stellas in Supremæ poteſtatis cœlo, Solem, Lunam, Stelláſque in cœlo mundano referentes. Hâc analogiâ obſervatâ, Interpretatio, ut ſimilibus veterum Prophetarum figuris omnimodo munita, ità proclivis erit & rei geſtæ omnino appoſitiſſima.

Quod autem paſſim de Tertia parte, ut de tertia parte Arborum terræ, tertia parte Maris, Fluminum, Cœli, inculcatur, id de finibus Imperii Romani accipio, tertiam Orbis terrarum Joannis ævo cogniti partem ambitu ſuo complectentis. Id quod ex eo probari poſſe videtur, quòd poſtea cap. 12. DRACO ille Septiceps decacornis (id eſt, Imperium Romanum Ethnicum) tertiam partem Stellarum Cœli caudâ ſuâ traxiſſe & in terram abjeciſſe dicitur; id eſt, tertiam partem Principum & Dynaſtarum Orbis Imperio ſuo ſubjeciſſe. His ità poſitis, ad ſingularum interpretationem veniamus.

7. Et primus Angelus clanxit, & facta eſt GRANDO & IGNIS miſta ſanguine, & miſſa ſunt in TERRAM: & tertia pars terræ combuſta eſt, &

Ad Cap. 8.

*Χόρτον Helleniſtis ſignificare herbam adeò ex tribus primis Geneſeos capitibus manifeſtum eſt, ut negari nequeat.

*tertia pars arborum concremata eſt, omníſque herba viridis exuſta eſt.

8. Et ſecundus Angelus clanxit, & tanquam MONS MAGNUS igne ardens miſſus eſt in MARE; & facta eſt tertia pars maris ſanguis: 9. Et mortua eſt tertia pars creaturarum in mari animas habentium, & tertia pars navium periit.

10. Et tertius Angelus clanxit, & cecidit de cœlo STELLA MAGNA, ardens tanquam lampas, cecidítque in tertiam partem FLUMINUM, & in FONTES aquarum. 11. Et nomen STELLÆ dicitur ABSINTHIUM: & facta eſt tertia pars aquarum in abſinthium; & multi homines mortui ſunt ex aquis, quòd amaræ factæ eſſent.

12. Et quartus Angelus clanxit, & percuſſa eſt tertia pars SOLIS & tertia pars LUNÆ & tertia pars STELLARUM; ità ut obſcuraretur tertia pars eorum, & diei non luceret pars tertia, & noctis ſimiliter.

TUBA I.

PRima ſeptimi Sigilli Tuba ab Idolarchia Romana ſexti Sigilli exitu jam prorſus diſturbata atque excuſſa init; primámque Imperio jam ruituro plagam datura, TERRÆ trientem horrifico GRANDINIS cum Igne Sanguinéque nimbo peſſundat: id eſt, Territorium populúmve Orbis Romani (univerſi ſcilicet illius politici baſin & Tellurem) terribili & cruentâ Gentium Septentrionalium irruptione depopulatur, magnates plebeióſque proſternit abſumítque.

Videſis eódem ſpectantem Grandinis imaginem, ad impreſſionem, inquam, hoſtilem, Iſai. cap. 28. v. 2. Ecce validus & fortis Domino, (Salmanaſſarem indigitat) ſicut tempeſtas GRANDINIS & turbo exciſionis, ſicut tempeſtas aquarum multarum inundantium dejiciet in terram fortiter. Pedibus calcabuntur Corona ſuperbiæ, temulenti Ephraim. Item Iſaiæ 30. 30. de clade Aſſyriis ventura, Et audiri faciet Dominus majeſtatem vocis ſuæ, & deſcenſionem brachii ſui oſtendet in ira furoris & flamma ignis conſumentis, diſperſione & turbine & lapide GRANDINIS; quia à voce Domini conteretur Aſſur, &c. Hîc obſervandum, quia Grando cum fulmine, in calidioribus præſertim regionibus, eſſe ſoleat, ideo cum Grandinis mentione ignem conjungi, cùm hîc apud Joannem & Iſaiam, tum Pſal. 18. 13, 14. imò in hiſtoria Exod. 9. 23. Sed Joannes ſanguinem quoque præter naturam commiſcuit, ut Imaginem totam hoc indicio ad cædem ſpectare innueret. De Grandinis imagine videat quoque Lector Iſai. 32. 19. ibíque Chaldæum Paraphraſtem.

Adhæc, Arbores in parabolis propheticis ſignificare Magnates & divites, docet idem Paraphraſtes; qui pro quercubus Baſan, Iſa. 2. 13. ſubſtituit principes provinciarum; pro cedris, Iſai. 14. 8. divites; pro abietibus, modò principes, Iſai. 37. 24. modò reges, Iſai. 14. 8. Qui quoque illud Zach. 11. 2. Ululá abies, quia cecidit cedrus, quoniam magnifici vaſtati ſunt: Ululate quercus Baſan, quia cecidit ſylva munita, ſic παραφράζει· Ululate Reges, quia contriti ſunt principes; qui opibus erant divites, vaſtati ſunt: Ululate Satrapæ provinciarum, quia vaſtata eſt regio fortitudinis veſtræ. Unde ex analogia facilè colligitur, HERBAS de Plebeiis capiendas, quando, ut hîc, cum Arboribus componuntur.

Jam, ut de eventu aliquid ex hiſtoria delibemus, initium hujus Tubæ, donec certius quid conſtiterit, ducam à morte Theodoſii primi, id eſt, ab anno Chriſti CCCXCV; quòd tunc Religio Chriſtiana de Diis Gentilium lium planè triumphâſſe videtur, & ſimul, tanquam in ſuperioris Sigilli deſinentis & hujus incipientis communi quodam termino, Barbarorum irruptiones nonnihil antehac tentatæ, ſed proximis annis, pacato iterum Imperio, compreſſæ, horribiliter denuo cieri, & univerſo ferè Orbi Romano ferro & igne continuè & immaniter vaſtando populandóque incumbere cœperunt. Ad Cap. 8.

Hoc ipſo enim anno ALARICUS primùm, cum ingenti Gothorum aliorúmque Barbarorum exercitu, ex Thracia in Macedoniam irrumpit, nullis neque oppidis neque hominibus parcens. Indè per Theſſaliam progreſſus, Thermopylarúmque anguſtiis occupatis, in Græciam, id eſt Achaiam, deſcendit, quaſvis urbes præter Thebas & Athenas exſcindit. In Peloponneſum irruit, Corinthum, Argos, Spartam vaſtat. Indè in Epirum ſeſe intulit, ubi eaſdem populationes & vaſtitates edere pergit.

Anno ſequenti Epiro egreſſus Achaiam incurſavit, eámque cum Epiro finitimíſque provinciis quadriennio toto incendiis & populationibus fœdè vaſtare contendit.

Cùm ſic per quinquennium immanibus Orientem direptionibus vexâſſet, animum ad invadendum Occidentem adjicit, in Dalmatiam & Pannoniam tranſit, eáſque regiones latè populatur. Triſtiſſimum hujus temporis ſtatum, hucuſque graſſante tempeſtate, audi deplorantem, qui tum vixit, Hieronymum, Epiſt. 3. Inter Conſtantinopolin & Alpes Julias quotidie Romanus ſanguis effunditur; Scythiam, Thraciam, Macedoniam, Dardaniam, Daciam, Theſſaliam, Achaiam, Epiros, Dalmatiam, cunctáſque Pannonias Gothus, Sarmata, Quadus, Alanus, Hunni, Vandali, Marcomanni inſtant, rapiunt. Quot matronæ, quot virgines Dei, & ingenua nobiliáque corpora his belluis fuere ludibrio? capti Epiſcopi, interfecti Presbyteri, & diverſorum officia Clericorum: ſubverſæ Eccleſiæ, ad altaria Chriſti ſtabulati equi, martyrum effoſſæ reliquiæ. ROMANUS ORBIS RUIT. Quid putas nunc habere animi Corinthios, Athenienſes, Lacedæmonios, Arcadas, cunctámque Græciam, quibus imperant Barbari?

Anno verò ſequenti, Chriſti 401, idem Alaricus, Gothis, Alanis, Hunníſque ſubſequentibus, in Italia quoque bellum geſturus, Noricum perrumpit, & per Tridentinum ſaltum in Venetiam venit, eas urbes brevi tempore in poteſtatem redigit, Honorium Imperatorem Haſtæ obſidet; adeò ut omnes ferè in Italia jam de relinquendis ſedibus cogitarent. Sed hîc tandem Stilico Honorii Dux, magno comparato exercitu, furorem ejus ſufflaminavit, & ſemel iterúmque victum atque adverſis præliis fatigatum in Pannoniam, unde venerat, pedem referre coegit. Ex qua paulò pòſt, fœdere percuſſo, atque militari præfecturâ ab Honorio honoratus, in Illyricum Orientis provinciam ſeceſſit.

Quieſcente aliquantiſper Alarico, nè tamen ullo deinceps tempore Occidens feriaretur, ſtatim anno 404. memorabilis altera Barbarorum irruptio in Italiam eſt inſtructa, Radagaiſo homine Scythâ duce; qui cum Gothorum, Sarmatarum & Germanorum exercitu ad ducenta millia, præſidiis in Alpibus dejectis, in Venetiam regionem, Æmiliam & Hetruriam tranſit, Florentiam obſidet; ubi à Stilicone ingenti ſtrage devictus capitur atque obtruncatur.

Hoc hoſte, utcunque terribili, brevi temporis ſpatio & minori cum damno ſublato, ſtatim anno 406. tertia, eáque graviſſima maximéque exitioſa, in Occidentem irruptio Vandalorum & Alanorun, aſſumptis ſecum Marcomannis, Herulis, Suevis, Alemannis, Burgundionibus, aliorúmque Barbarorum colluvie, facta eſt; quâ Gallia primùm, indè Hiſpania, & poſtremò Africa ſunt occupatæ, & omnis generis calamitatibus afflictæ. Quas clades ità Hieronymus Epistolâ 11. partim expressit, partim significavit: Innumerabiles, inquit, & ferocissimæ nationes universas Gallias occupârunt: quicquid inter Alpes & Pyrenæum est, quod Oceano & Rhodano includitur, Quadus, Vandalus, Sarmata, Alani, Gipedes, Heruli, Saxones, Burgundiones, Alemanni, & hostes Pannonii vastârunt. Magunciacum capta atque subversa est, & in ecclesia multa hominum millia trucidata. Vangiones longâ obsidione deleti; Rhemorum urbs præpotens, Ambiani, Atrebates, Morini, Tornacus, Nemetæ, Argentoratus translati in Germaniam. Aquitania, Novémque populorum, Lugdunensis & Narbonensis provinciæ, præter paucas urbes, populata sunt cuncta. Non possum absque lacrymis Tolosæ facere mentionem, quæ ut hucusque non ruerit, sancti Episcopi Exuperii merita præstiterunt. Ipsæ Hispaniæ jam jámque perituræ contremiscunt. Roma vitam auro redimit.

Ad Cap. 8.

Atque hic fuit terribilis iste Grandinis cum igne & sanguine Nimbus; Imago quidem applicationis adeò obviæ, ut Nicephoro Gregoræ lib. 2. c. 7. de Apocalypsi nè cogitanti unquam, sed de Scythis tamen agenti, adeò concinnum quid exciderit, ut non possim non ascribere: Ut, inquit, terrores de cœlo sæpe hominibus à Deo incutiuntur, ut fulmina, incendia, & crebri imbres, &c. ità hi à Deo asservantur Septentrionales & Hyperborei terrores, ut pro pœna, quando & quibus Providentiæ visum fuerit, immittantur. Sed corollarium quoque ex Achmete adjiciam, adhuc magìs confirmando Lectori.

Corollarium ex Achmete de significatis Grandinis, Ignis & Arborum in interpretatione Somniorum.

Capite CXCI. ex Indorum, Persarum & Ægyptiorum rationibus, Nix, grando, gelu ærumnas, solicitudines & tormenta portendunt.

Si quis videre visus fuerit grandinem alicubi delapsam, hostilem impressionem subitam exspectet.

Si videre visus fuerit grandinem, quæ frumenti hordeíque culmos læserit, in eo loco, prout culmi fracti fuerint, bellicæ cædes evenient.

Eidem cap. CLIX. ex Indorum, Apoteles. CLX ex Persarum & Ægyptiorum explicatione, Ignis interitum, bellum, pugnas, punitionem & afflictionem significat, si quid aut quem urere visus fuerit.

Item cap. CLI. Persæ, Indi, Ægyptii Arbores de hominibus, præcipuè Magistratibus, proceribus, & viris amplissimis interpretantur: ut, Si quis visus sibi fuerit irrigare arbores & excolere, vir amplissimus & populi nutritius erit.

Si Rex visus sibi fuerit arbores plantâsse, novos magistratus instituet. Item, Si arbores diuturnitate temporis vitiatæ ac putrefactæ corruerint, naturali morte proceres Regis morientur.

Si videre visus fuerit virgulta quæ in arbores excreverint, hoc ad successionem magnatum ipsius pertinet.

Si plebeius arborum folia visus sibi fuerit in domum collegisse, opes à magnatibus pro foliorum modo consequetur, &c.

TUBA II.

SEcunda Tuba Mundum Romanum, terrâ suâ jam satìs vastatum, graviore adhuc plagâ labefactatura, MARE impetit; cujus qui eò pertinebat trientem, MONTIS magni ei antiquitus imminentis, jam verò conflagrantis casu, çaſu, totum cruentum reddit; magnâ cùm ibi degentium animantium ſeu piſcium, tum navigiorum, ſtrage. Hoc eſt, ROMÆ urbis magnæ, ſemel iterúmque captæ, ſpoliatæ, atque hoſtilibus flammis ardentis, clades in amplitudinis ditionis jurisdictioníſve Romanæ interitum erupit; provincias ejus, præ capitis ſic afflicti debilitate, jam pro libitu rapientibus, atque in nova Regna diſcerpentibus Barbaris, irreparabili cum legionum inibi ad tutelam degentium ſtrage, omniúmque poteſtatis retinendæ & ſuſtentandæ (quaſi negotiandi) adminiculorum jacturâ.

Ad Cap. 8.

MARE mundi politici, ut dixi, eſt Ditionis illa amplitudo incolas univerſos ejuſdem juris politici communione amplectens. Hâc imagine Babylonis Ditio exprimitur Jer. 51.36. ubi minatur Dominus, ſe exſiccaturum MARE ejus, & arefacturum venam ejus: quod v. 44. exponitur eâdem retentâ metaphorâ, non confluxuras ad eam ampliùs Gentes. Amplitudo quoque Regni Aſſyriaci ſic deſcribitur Ezech. 31.4. Aquæ creſcere fecerunt eam, (ſcil. cedrum Aſſyriacam) Abyſſus ſeu Mare exaltavit eam. Fortè etiam Pharaonis Ditio Mare eſt, Iſai. 19.5. ubi de Regni ejus interitu dicitur, defecturas aquas de Mari ejus, id eſt, ablatum iri ditionem ejus. Indè Imperia illa magna apud Danielem conſpiciuntur ex MARI aſcendere, id eſt, ex Ditionis amplitudine oriri.

Quòd autem tertia Maris pars, id eſt, MARE Romanum, ſanguineum factum dicitur; ſciendum, Sanguinem primò pro cæde uſurpari, deinde pro morte etiam ſine ſanguine: Mortem autem in genere pro interitu ſumi, etiam rei vitâ carentis. Vide Ezech. 14.19. & 3.18, 20. & 18.13. Amoſ. 2.2. Rom. 7.9. Unde ſanguinem vel ſanguineum fieri imago eſt rei interitum paſſæ, quaſi nempe cruore manantis inſtar animalis occiſi aut laniati. Quòd igitur hîc Mare montis magni caſu cruentum factum dicitur, nihil aliud denotat quàm mortem quandam ſeu interitum violentum illo caſu paſſum eſſe. Id quod in Phialis, ubi eadem eſt imago, aliquantò apertiùs dicitur, factum eſſe quaſi ſanguis mortui, i. occiſi. Mens eſt, Ditionem ſeu Amplitudinem Romanam cladem paſſam eſſe, truncatam, dilaniatam, perditam eſſe.

Simile etiam Montis ſymbolum urbi ſignificandæ de veteri Babylone reperire eſt Jerem. 51.25. Ecce ego ad te, MONS peſtifer (ſeu corruptor) qui corrumpis univerſam terram, & extendam manum meam, &c. & dabo te in MONTEM COMBUSTIONIS: ubi Septuag. habent ὄρος ἐμπεπυρισμένον, eodem ſenſu quo hîc Joannes ὄρος πυρὶ καιόμενον. De eadem Iſai. 13.2. Super MONTEM eminentem levate vexillum: Targum, Super civitatem habitantem confidenter. Item c. 37.24. ad Sennacheribum regem Aſſyriæ, Exprobrâſti, inquit, Domino, & dixiſti, In multitudine quadrigarum mearum aſcendi altitudinem Montium: Targum, Aſcendi in munitionem Civitatum eorum. Sed an rectè dubito.

Porrò, quòd Mons hîc in Mare mitti ſeu projici dicatur, τὸ πρέπον eſt figuræ, cùm non aliâ ratione Mons Mari nocere poſſet quàm ſi in ipſam projiceretur. Atque hoc in ſequenti quoque Tuba, de Stella cadente, locum habere memineris.

Hiſtoriam quod attinet, Roma primùm capta eſt Anno 410. ídque ab eodem Alarico Gothorum rege, qui in priore Tuba fati quaſi præludium exhibuerat: jam verò poſt mortem Stiliconis novos motus ciente, novámq; & fatalem in Italiam expeditionem adornante; quâ quidem Honorium in tantas anguſtias redegit, ut ipſe Barbarus novum Imperatorem, Attalum nomine, Romæ daret, quocum Honorium Auguſtum Ravennæ obſideret, jam, præ rerum ſuarum deſperatione, in Orientem, Occidente relicto, fugere cogitantem. Sed hoſtis pœnitentiâ ductus, Attalo Imperio abrogato, Honorium in integrum reſtituit.

Hanc

Ad Cap. 8.

Hanc urbis Romæ cladem Ditionis Romanæ dilaceratio continuò ſequuta eſt. Teſtem advoco Sigonium: Romanam cladem, inquit ille, miſerabilis Italiæ vaſtitas, continua Galliæ atque Hiſpaniæ bella, ac nova demum Barbarorum in utraque provincia regum imperia exceperunt.

Primùm enim Honorius, ut Romam cum Imperio recuperaret, fœdere cum Alarico icto, Gothis ſedes & regnum in Galliis permittere coactus eſt.

Biennio pòſt, Anno 412, Hunnis quoque ſeſe in Pannonia, quam Gothi reliquerant, effundentibus, idem, viribus ad reſiſtendum in tantis difficultatibus deſtitutus, fœdus cum iis, datis acceptísque obſidibus, fecit.

Deinde Anno 413, Conſtantius, ejuſdem Honorii Dux, Burgundiones, qui, ſic turbatis prioribus hiſce annis rebus, unà cum Vandalis in Galliam ſeſe contulerant, nè in aliquam fortè belli difficultatem incideret, libenter in amicitiam recepit, atque ſedes ad Rhodanum aſſignavit.

Anno denique 415, idem Honorius, (ut tradit Procopius) cùm Gothi paulò pòſt in vicinam Hiſpaniam tranſiiſſent, Vandalis quoque cum Rege ſuo Gunderico, ex Gallia à Francis nuperrimè expulſis, ſedes quas occupârunt conceſſit habitandas, pacto Gothis bellum inferendi. Qui plura ſcire cupit, conſulat paulò antè nominatum Sigonium de Occidentali Imperio, lib. 10, & 11. unde nos hæc deſumpſimus.

Atque ità deinceps Amplitudo Ditionis Romanæ quotidie magìs magísque laniata atque diſtruncata eſt, donec, iterum Româ Anno 455 à Genſerico Vandalo captâ atque direptâ, ſequenti ſtatim anno, aut non ità multò pòſt, totum Imperii corpus in decem omnino regna diviſum apparuit: quæ, unà cum populorum regúmque nominibus, & provinciis quibus regnatum eſt, adhæc quibuſdam ex hiſtoria annotatis ad majorem lucem faciendam, ſequens Tabella exhibebit.

¶ Typus

Ad Cap. 8.

¶ Typus dilacerationis Imperii ſeu Ditionis Romanæ ad annum CHRISTI 456. & deinceps.

	REGNA	Provinciæ quibus regnatum eſt	Nomina Regum ad An. 456. regnantiũ	Obſervanda quædam.
1	Britonum	In Britannia.	Vortimerus.
2	Saxonum		Hengiſtus.
3	Francorum	In Gal. Belgic. primùm, mox & Celtica.	Childericus.
4	Burgundionum	In Gal. Sequan. & Lugdunenſ.	Gundericus.	Regnum Burgundionum ann. 526. à Francis ſubjugatum atq; extinctum eſt. Sed numero denario cõplendo cõmodè Oſtrogothorum Ditio eodem tempore in duo Regna diſſiliit; Pannoniâ, quæ illis hucuſq; paruerat, à Longobardis occupatâ, & Italiâ ſolâ regibus Oſtrogoth. relictâ.
5	Wiſigothorum	In Aquitania & parte Hiſpaniæ.	Theodoricus II.
6	Suevorum & Alanorum	In illo Hiſpaniæ tractu qui Gallæciâ & Luſitaniâ continetur.	Riciarius.
7	Vandalorum	In Africa, ſed paulò antè in Hiſpania.	Genſericus.
8	Alemannorum	In Germaniæ tractu qui Rhætia dicebatur.	Sumanus.	Alemannorum regnum ab ann. 475. cum Herulorum, quamdiu illi rerũ in Italia potiti ſunt, coaluit, ann. nimirum 16.
9	Oſtrogothorum	In Pannonia, debellatis Hunnis. nec ſeculum hoc exierat, cùm iidem in Italiam quoq; regnum propagârint.	Theodemirus	Oſtrogothis etiam in Italia ſucceſſerunt Longobardi, à Narſete, poſtquã Oſtrogothorum regnum deſtruxerat, evocati anno 567. Sedes autem ſuas in Pannonia Hunnis & Avaribus deinceps fruendas tradiderunt.
10	Græcorum	In reſiduo Ditionis Imperii. Siquidem, Antiq. Romæ Imperio diſſoluto, Græcorum, Regnis annumerand. eſt, in quæ Ditio Urbis latè quondam regnantis diſſilierat.	Marcianus.

Atque hoc demum modo Decem illa regna, in quæ Romanum Imperium noviſſimè diviſum iri tum apud Danielem tum Joannem Spiritus S. prænunciaverat, ſupputanda videntur; neque ex tot Regionum aut terræ tractuum nudis, ut vulgò fit, nominibus, quinimo Regnis, in quæ Ditio & Dominium Imperii dilacerandum foret, omnino æſtimanda. Interim tamen non tam rigidè Denarii iſtius circumſcriptionem interpretandam putamus, ut plura quovis tempore regna, aut cui cui modi Dynaſtias, excludat: ſed quòd in decem ad minimum, vel in decem præcipua Regna, Imperium ſcindendum eſſet. Id quod jam indè à primordiali iſthac quam repræſentavimus dilaceratione, uſque ad noſtrum ſeculum, ſub tot variantium Rerumpu-

Ad Cap. 8. rumpublicarum & Regnorum fatis & converſionibus, ſemper verum fuiſſe opinor; licèt oraculi fidei aſtruendæ ſufficeret, ſi vel initio ſolùm in tot Regna diviſum fuiſſet, ut ut poſtmodum fortaſſe imminuto numero. Ità autem ut dixi, nec aliter, intelligendam eſſe circumſcriptionem iſtam Decadis regnorum, ſimile de Monarchiæ Alexandræ dilaceratione Vaticinium nos edocere poteſt: in qua, licèt ultra quatuor illa præcipua, Macedoniæ, Aſiæ, Syriæ & Ægypti Regna, etiam quintum Thraciæ, conditore Lyſimacho, acceſſerit; Spiritus S. tamen multiplicitatem iſtam quaternario definierit: tot putà ad minimum futura eſſent, aut tot præcipua regna. Regno enim Thracico, licèt ſimul cum reliquis cœperit, & ad 40 annos duraverit, ſucceſſum non fuit, ſed cum primo rege Lyſimacho exſpiravit; ideóque in numerum non referendum. Similiter huic de decuplici diviſione Romana judicandum. Propterea neminem moveat, ſi præter enumerata modò in Galliis regna, etiam Alanorum Aurelianenſium regnum, item Armoricarum Civitatum Dynaſtiam, ibidem fortè invenerit, uſque ab Honorii Imperio ad hæc tempora permanentia. Hanc ſiquidem modicæ admodum ditionis fuiſſe; illud modico deinceps tempore, nempe decem plurimùm annos, durâſſe comperiet. Neutrum igitur cum reliquis pari loco & ordine habendum eſt, nec ſi cujuſdammodi quid alibi inveniri poſſit.

TUBA III.

TUBA tertia fulgidam Stellam, HESPERUM ſcilicet Roman. ſeu OCCIDENTIS Cæſarem, jam indè ex quo Genſericus Vandalorum Rex Romam captam ſpoliaverat præcipitem, & morti aliquantiſper ſub iſtis nihili Cæſarum, Aviti, Majorani, Severi, Anthemii, Olybrii, Glycerii, Nepotis, mutuis inſidiis & lanienis intereuntium, nominibus quaſi obluctatum, tandem anno 476 ſub fatali Auguſtuli nomine extremum ſpiritum ducentem, Odoacre Herulorum Rege immiſſo, de Cœlo poteſtatis ſuæ revulſum penitus deturbavit atque extinxit; amariſſimo Fontium & Fluminum, id eſt, Urbium & Magiſtratuum provincialium, fato.

Cæſarem Heſperium hîc eum intelligo qui, à firmata jam indè à morte Theodoſii primi Imperii in Orientis & Occidentis diviſione, Romæ antiquæ & Occidenti adhuc Imperator manſit, ſed brevis admodum ævi; utpote poſt annum 91 de cœlo ſuo ad hujus Tubæ clangorem penitus lapſurus.

Quòd enim Epiſcopus Romanus annis pluſquam trecentis & viginti poſtquam Cæſar iſte Heſperius in Auguſtulo occiderat Reges Francorum (qui poſtea Gemanorum) in id nominis & titulum de novo ſubrogavit, nihil aliud effecit quàm ut hoc quaſi Cæſaris redivivi, ceu ſexti capitis Beſtiæ adhuc regnantis, oppanſo velo, nè ipſe pro capite noviſſimo, id eſt, Antichriſto, tandem à minùs perſpicacibus tam liquidò haberetur.

Atqui Cæſar iſte Papanus ad capita Beſtiæ Romanæ non pertinet; verùm ad cornua ſeu regna in quæ ſexti capitis Imperium, jam capiti noviſſimo vices ceſſurum, dilacerandum fuerat. Neque enim poſt tantum temporis intervallum quantum eſt annorum 325 (tot autem ſunt ab Auguſtulo ad Carolum Magnum) Heſperiorum Cæſarum quaſi ſeriei continuandæ ſuccedi potuit.

Sed age, textui Joannis porrò faciamus lucem, ut interpretationis ratio conſtet. Et cecidit, inquit, è cælo Stella magna ardens ut lampas. Stellam Verſ. 10.

crinitam

crinitam ſeu Cometam deſcribere videtur, cujus inter ſpecies à Plinio recenſitas eſt Lampadias ſpeciatim ſic dicta. Et profectò non incommodè Cæſar Occidentis hujuſmodi ſtellâ figuretur, ob brevem durationem. De quo idcirco cap. 17. dicetur, Oportere eum cùm venerit ad exiguum tempus manere. Stella autem magna fuit; utpote ſummæ Majeſtati aptiùs figurandæ, cujus ſplendorem aliàs Sol in parabolis propheticis repræſentet. Et ſanè notum eſt, Cometas fuiſſe qui vel Solem magnitudine æquâſſe viſi ſint; cujuſmodi & hanc Stellam fuiſſe fortè non abetrabit qui diceret. Ad Cap. 8.

Similem autem Stellæ cadentis parabolam, nè de applicatione dubites, adhibet Iſaias, cap. 14. 12. de caſu Regis Babylonis: Quomodo, inquit, cecidiſti de cælo, Lucifer fili auroræ? reſectus es in terram qui debilitâſti gentes? Alibi quoque, ut loco Iſaiæ cap. 34. 4. jam antè laudato, Stellæ cælo cadentes de Principum & Summatum ruina intelliguntur. Stella igitur ſingularis & inuſitatæ magnitudinis, ſupra communem ſortem Principum Principem deſignat, hoc eſt, magnum & eximium. Sequitur Et nomen STELLÆ dicitur ABSINTHIUM. Schema eſt propheticum, quo, nominis quaſi proprii impoſitione, rei aut perſonæ de qua agitur qualitas aut fatum indicetur; cùm aliàs etiam in Hebraiſmo דָּבָר ῥῆμα ſit τὸ πρᾶγμα, ut Luc. 1. 37. Non eſt impoßibile Deo πᾶν ῥῆμα· & Vocari idem valeat quod Eſſe vel Exſiſtere, ut Iſa. 56. 7. Domus mea Domus orationis vocabitur, pro quo Luc. 19. 46. Domus orationis ἔσται, eſt, erit, habebitur; & Gen. 21. 12. In Iſaac vocabitur tibi ſemen, id eſt, erit. Videſis quoque Septuag. Iſai. 14. 20. Ruth 4. 11. Schematis autem quod dixi exempla paſſim obvia ſunt. Sic enim Iſai. 7. 14. de Chriſto, Vocabitur nomen ejus Emmanuel; i. Μεθερμηνευόμενον erit. Et cap. 9. 6. Vocabitur nomen ejus Admirabilis, Conſiliarius, Deus fortis, Pater futuri ſeculi, Princeps pacis; id eſt, erit hæc omnia. Item Jerem. 23. 6. Et hoc eſt nomen quo vocabunt eum, DOMINUS JUSTITIA NOSTRA. Et Zachariæ 6. 12. Ecce vir GERMEN nomen ejus: ſequitur, quia ex loco ſuo germinabit, &c. Adde Apocalyps. 19. 13. Vocatur nomen ejus VERBUM DEI; id eſt, ipſe eſt Verbum illud Dei. Iſtis gemina ſunt quæ habentur Jer. 20. 3, 4. Non Paſhurem vocat Dominus nomen tuum, ſed Magor-miſſabib, [id eſt, formidinem circumquaque] Nam ſic ait Dominus, Ecce ego inditurus ſum tibi formidinem, tibi & omnibus amicis tuis. Et Ezech. 23. 4. Nomina earum (id eſt, Mulierum Samariæ & Jeruſalem) Aholah & Aholibah. Adde Iſai. 8. 3. Hoſ. 1. 6, 7. Vers. 11.

Simili omnino figurâ Stella hæc lapſabunda ABSINTHIUM dicitur, id eſt, (notione Hebræorum, quibus abſtracta pro concretis adhibeantur) ABSINTHITES, Princeps nempe amaritudinum & ærumnarum. Cujuſmodi reverâ fuit, ſi quis unquam, Cæſar iſte Heſperius, perpetuis ærumnis à primo exortu ſuo ad finem uſque exercitus. Quo nimirum rerum potiunte, Imperium Romanum ruiturum eſſet: cujus imò conſtitutione occaſio ruinæ data, eò quòd, invectâ iſtiuſmodi Imperii diviſione, via Barbaris patefacta, réſque Romana in atrociſſimas calamitates conjecta fuerit. Annon hìc propter amaram ſibi & aliis ſortem Abſinthium meritò diceretur? juxta illud Naomi, Nè vocate me Naomin, vocate me Maran; eò quòd amaritudine affecit me Omnipotens, Ruth 1. 20.

Sed priuſquam hinc abeam, de Civitatis reíque Romanæ, poſt iſtum Cæſaris ſui caſum, ſtatu aliquid dicendum eſt, ut via ſequentis Tubæ interpretationi muniatur. Cæſare igitur Occidentis ſic deturbato atque extincto, interea Odoacer Herulus Italiam annis 16 Regio nomine obtinuit; qui Romæ & Occidenti Conſulatum, quem tamen initio iratus ademerat, poſt biennium reſtituit, adhúcque conſervavit. Hunc excepit Oſtrogothorum Rex Theodoricus; ídque, ut refert Paulus Diaconus, Imperatore Orientis Zenone Italiam ei per pragmaticam tradente, ac ſacro velamine capiti impoſito confirmante. Qui, Odoacre devicto ac trucidato, præter Dalmatiam & Rhætiam, quæ Odoacris provinciæ erant, Siciliam quoque regno adjecit, Urbis Romæ mœnia nonnullâque ædificia, ingenti ad eam rem pecuniæ ſummâ collatâ, refecit; adeò ut ad præteritæ fortunæ faſtigium nihil deſiderari poſſe, exemptâ Urbis direptæ atque incenſæ infamiâ, videretur: regnum ſapientiſſimè ordinavit, nullum Romanum inſtitutum mutavit, ſed Senatum & Conſules, Patricios, Præfectos prætorio, Præfectum urbis, Quæſtorem, Comitem ſacrarum largitionum, Comitem privatarum, & militiæ, Comitem domeſticorum, Magiſtros peditum & equitum, cæteróſque qui fuerant in Imperio magiſtratus retinuit, eóſque Romanis hominibus tantùm mandavit. Id quod à ſucceſſoribus quoque, Athalarico, Theodohato, Vitige, regibus Italiæ Oſtrogothicis, aliquandiu ſervatum eſt. Vide Sigonium de Imperio Occidentali lib. 15. anno 479. lib. 16. annis 493, 494, 500.

Ad Cap. 8.

TUBA IV.

QUARTA Tuba ulteriùs adhuc progreſſa, MAJESTATIS ROMANÆ in Urbe Roma Lumen, quo ſub Oſtrogothis etiam regibus eouſque ſplenduerat, penitus ademptum ivit; poſtquam nimirum, ab anno 542, in Bello iſto Oſtrogothico, Beliſario primùm, deinde Narſete, Juſtiniani ducibus, Italiæ recuperandæ geſto, Conſulatus Romæ defecerat; deinde ipſa à Totila ſemel iterúmque capta, incenſa, tertiâque ſui parte demolita, incolis inſuper omnibus (memorandum fortunæ ludibrium!) deſtituta, à Narſete tandem poſt tot funera & clades recepta, verùm turbine paulò pòſt & fulguribus proſtrata, Urbium quondàm REGINA Conſulari poteſtate, Senatûs authoritate, reliquíſque quibus tanquam Stellis Orbem hactenus irradiaverat Magiſtratibus nunc demum orbata, in neſcio quem ignobilem Ducatum ex tanto gloriæ ſúlgore dilapſa eſt, Ravennæ, cui olim imperaverat, deinceps ſub Exarchatu ſervire coacta (heu tenebras!) & tributa pendere.

Quomodo ſedet ſolitaria civitas copioſa populo? facta eſt velut vidua? copioſa in gentibus, Domina in Provinciis facta eſt tributaria? Thren. 1. 1.

Atque hæc fuit quæ * hîc memoratur Solis, Lunæ & Stellarum tertiâ parte percuſſio, quâ factum eſt ut tertia pars diei non luceret, & tertia pars noctis ſimiliter. Ubi Diei nomine vocatur Lumen diurnum, quod Solis eſt; Noctis verò, Lumen nocturnum, quod Lunæ & Stellarum; juxta illud Jerem. 31. 35. Qui dat Solem in lumen Diei, & ſtatuta Lunæ & Stellarum in lumen Noctis. Sol Romæ fulſit, quamdiu Conſularis dignitas & Regnum ſuper alias urbes & provincias penes ipſam fuit: Luna & Stellæ ibidem luxerunt, quamdiu priſtina Senatûs reliquorúmque Magiſtratuum authoritas adhuc manſit. At his omnibus ſublatis, (quod hâc Tubâ factum eſt) quid niſi tenebræ & Luminis tam diurni quàm nocturni omnimodum deliquium fuit? nempe quod ipſam attinebat, cui tertia pars Luminis Cœli debebatur.

* Verſ. 12.

Frequentiſſima eſt hâc mente Solis, Lunæ & Stellarum Imago apud Prophetas. Ut Iſai. 13. 10. item 60. 20. ubi pro, Non occidet ultrà Sol tuus, & Luna tua non minuetur, &c. Targum habet, Non ceſſabit ampliùs Regnum tuum, (Jeruſalem alloquitur) & gloria tua non auferetur. Etiam Jerem. 15. 9. ubi de Jeruſalem, Occidit Sol ejus, cùm adhuc eſſet Dies: Targum vertit, Migravit gloria eorum in vita eorum. Et Ezech. 32. 7. idem Paraphraſtes illud de Pharaone, Operiam, cùm extinxero te, cœlos, & Stellas nigreſcere nigreſcere faciam, vertit, Operiet te tribulatio, cùm extinxero ſplendorem gloriæ regni tui, &c. Ad Cap. 8.

Transferat huc Lector etiam quæ ſuprà ex Achmete notavi, ad lucem Sigillo ſexto faciendam: quæ mirum eſt quàm conveniant.

DE TRIBUS VÆ-TUBIS.

REſtant adhuc tres Tubæ omnium maximæ & graviſſimæ, ideóque trium VÆ appellatione à prioribus diſcriminatæ. Nam poſt quartæ Tubæ ἐξήγησιν, Vidi & audivi, inquit, Angelum quendam volantem Verſ. 13. per medium cœli, dicentem voce magnâ, VÆ, VÆ, VÆ habitantibus ſuper terram, à reliquis vocibus Tubæ trium Angelorum qui deinceps clangituri ſunt. Item cap. 9. 12. & 11. 14. Nimirum, cùm Chriſtiani Romani Orbis incolæ interim dum priores Tubæ clangerent novorum idolorum cultu ſeſe contaminâſſent, duplici jam peccato vindicando, quæ ſupererant Tubæ auctiores factæ ſunt. Nam iſtud quoque Romani Orbis peccatum, cum priori cædis Martyrum, deinde in criminis vindicandi cenſum venire, apparet ex eo quòd ſecundo VÆ ſubnectitur elogium; nempe, Reliquos homines qui iſtis plagis (ſcilicet, ut ego quidem intelligo, VÆ iſto & priore) occiſi non fuerint, non reſipuiſſe ab operibus manuum ſuarum, ut nè adorarent dæmonia, & ſimulacra aurea, & argentea, & ærea, & lapidea, & lignea, quæ neque cernere poſſunt, neque audire, neque ambulare. Cap. 9. 20.

PRIMA VÆ-TUBA, SEU TUBA V.

PRIMA VÆ-Tuba jamdudum præteriit. Ea horrenda LOCUSTARUM agmina ex tartareo Abyſſi, jam SATANÆ operâ adapertæ, fumo ſcaturientium, Orbi vaſtando emiſit; id eſt, SARACENOS ſive ARABES (gentem populoſam & numeroſam Locuſtarum inſtar) ſtupendâ Muhammedis Pſeudoprophetiâ in tot Gentium exitium concitatos. Ad Cap. 9.

Fumus enim ex infernali puteo aſcendens Muhammediſmus eſt, quem Verſ. 2. Nebulones Muhammedani Iſlamiſmum vocant. Hic Orbem terrarum, Chriſti Solis juſtitiæ imperio & diſciplinâ, diſcuſſis Gentilium errorum tenebris, jamdudum illuminatum novâ caligine obduxit.

Et eò quidem concinnior eſt LOCUSTARUM typus, quia Locuſtæ Verſ. 3. quoque Ægyptiacæ ex eadem Arabia venerunt, Ægypto nempe ad Orientem conterminâ. Ità enim Exod. 10. 13, 14. Dominus adduxit ventum Orientalem in terram —— & apportavit locuſtas; & aſcenderunt locuſtæ ſuper totam terram Ægypti, reſederúntque in ora tota Ægypti. Adhæc Arabes, propter inſignem Gentis multitudinem, locuſtis aſſimilantur. Judic. 7. 12. Midianitæ & Amalekitæ, & omnes filii Kedem, ſeu Orientis, jacebant in con-

Ad Cap. 9. valle tanquam locuſtæ multitudine ; camelíſque eorum non erat numerus, ſicut arena quæ eſt in littore maris multitudine. Ubi obſervandum, Arabes in Sacris literis peculiariter Filios Orientis nominari, ut & Arabiam ipſam קֶדֶם KEDEM ſeu Orientem ; utique reſpectu Ægypti, ubi Iſraelitæ ſic loqui didicerant. Videſis Gen. 10. 30. & 25. 6. 1 Reg. 4. 30. Iſai. 11. 14. Jer. 49. 28. fortè & Matth. 2. 1. Eâdem planè ratione quâ hodie Aſia minor Natolia dicitur, & Arabia felix reliquis Arabiis ad Auſtrum ſita Ayaman, i. Meridies. Unde Regina Auſtri, Matth. 12. 42. Sed hæc obiter.

Similem autem Locuſtarum Imaginem, de Aſſyriis Babyloniíſque Judæam vaſtaturis, videre eſt apud Joelem, duobus primis capitibus : unde hunc typum mutuatum eſſe non negabit qui utriuſque deſcriptionem contulerit.

Ejus verò interpretationem ad hoſtiles copias referendam eſſe oſtendit ex uſu Orientis Achmetes, cujus verba hoc loco inſerenda putavi. Sic igitur ille cap. CCC. ex Indorum, Perſarum & Ægyptiorum diſciplinis :

LOCUSTA generaliter ad hoſtium multitudinem haud dubiè refertur. Sic enim in Sacris literis perſcriptum eſt, Locuſtas juſſu divino ad vaſtationes regionum inſtar alicujus exercitûs proficiſci. Hoc de Sacris literis Indorum ſolorum eſt, ut quicquid in hoc libro Religionis Chriſtianæ notitiam ſapiat, ſicut legenti apparebit. Pergit :

Si quis aut Rex, aut poteſtate præditus, LOCUSTAS adverſus aliquam regionem profectas videre viſus fuerit, eo in loco multitudinem hoſtium cum magna potentia exſpectet ; quantúmque Locuſtæ damni dederint, tantundem & illi nocebunt.

Jam igitur firmatâ imagine, de reliqua deſcriptione videbimus.

Data eſt illis (inquit ver. 3.) poteſtas qualem habent terreſtres Scorpii : nam habebant (verſ. 10.) caudas ſimiles ſcorpionibus, in iíſque aculeos quibus nocerent ; & (verſ. 5.) tormentum earum ut tormentum Scorpii, quando percuſſerit hominem.

Id eſt, non ſolùm poteſtatem haberent Locuſtis propriam, regiones quas permearent erodendi & depopulandi ; ſed, quod monſtri ſimile, Caudas inſtar Scorpionum, quorum ictu venenum quoque diffunderent. Mira res, Locuſta Scorpio! Quid autem mali innuat, loqui videtur ſpeciei Serpentinæ ſymbolum : ſiquidem Scorpio ſerpentini generis eſt. Hujus autem ſpecie, quâ primùm genus humanum decepit à Deóque avertit Diabolus, amat ipſum Spiritus S. porrò homines ſeducturum introducere. Unde eſt illud, Ὁ ὄφις ὁ ἀρχαῖος ὁ πλανῶν τὴν οἰκουμένην, cap. 12. 9. & 20. 2. Cauda igitur Scorpionis cum aculeo Diabolicæ illius Pſeudoprophetiæ Mohammedicæ propaginem cum toto apparatu ſuo denotat, quibus LOCUSTÆ ARABICÆ, haud minùs quàm vi bellicâ fretæ, ubi ubi gentium graſſatæ ſint (infandum!) nocuere. Imò hoc fœdiſſimorum errorum ſyrma primi poſt homines natos poſt ſe traxerunt SARACENI ; nec ſimili (credo) de religione impoſturâ, prætextúque deſtruendi Idolorum cultûs, ulla unquam gens ante hos ſubnixa, ad Orbis Imperium contenderat.

Verſ. 4. Sed ipſis dictum eſt, Ἵνα μὴ ἀδικήσωσι τὸν χόρτον τῆς γῆς, οὐδὲ πᾶν χλωρὸν, οὐδὲ πᾶν δένδρον· εἰ μὴ τοὺς ἀνθρώπους μόνους, homines ſolos qui non haberent ſignum Dei in frontibus ſuis.

Pro ſignificatione particulæ εἰ μὴ, ſenſus eſt vel exceptivus, ut nullam neq; herbam (nam hæc eſt χόρτος Helleniſtis) neque viride neque arborem læderent, niſi eas herbas ſolas, arbores & viridia quæ Dei ſigno non erant inſcripta (nempe ut homines, ac herbæ, arbores & viridia mutuò ſeſe explicent:) Vel poteſt non exceptivè, ſed adverſativè exponi, pro uſu particulæ εἰ μὴ in Helleniſmo * ſacro pro ἀλλά· nempe quòd dictum ſit ipſis, non ut, pro vulgarium Locuſtarum more, aut herbas, aut arbores, aut ullum omnino viride ride depaſcerent; quinimo ut, illis inſuper habitis, homines ſolos depopularentur; ex eorum ſcilicet numero quos Angeli Sigillum initio Tubarum ab earum plagis immunes non fecerat. Ad Cap. 9.

* Matt. 12. 4. Rom. 14. 14. & alibi.

Utro utro modo accipiatur, de ſignificatione & diſcrimine Graminis viridis & arborum fruſtrà eſſemus ſoliciti; utpote quæ ad τὸ πρέπον figuræ referenda ſint, in quo myſterium non eſt quærendum. Sic enim de Locuſtis Ægyptiacis Exod. 10. 15. Operiebant ſuperficiem totius terræ, ità ut obſcuraretur terra, abſumebántque omnem herbam (Septuag. χόρτον) terræ & omnem fructum arboris, neque reſidua facta eſt ulla viriditas (χλωρὸν) in ulla arbore aut in herba agri per totam terram Ægyptiorum. Quòd verò noſtræ Locuſtæ homines ipſos affligerent, hinc patet non eſſe eas ex Inſectorum genere, putà naturales Locuſtas, ſed ſymbolicas. Quâ occaſione operæ pretium erit regulam iſtam ſemel ponere, Quando quid Typo prophetico tribuitur quod eidem per naturam non competat, id ad rei typo ſignificatæ intellectum manuducere, próque ejus conditione interpretationem faciendam monere. Id quod quater ad minimum in hac Viſione fieri animadvertes; ut cùm Locuſtis tribuitur non tantùm poteſtas homines ipſos invadendi, ſed & facies humana, capilli muliebres, coronæ aureæ, loricæ ferreæ: quibus omnibus innuitur, non inſecta, ſed homines deſignari; eóſque minimè cucullatos, ut multi autumant, ſed omnino qui armis in aliorum perniciem graſſentur. De quibus Locuſtis porrò dicitur, Datum eſſe illis, non ut occiderent homines, ſed ut torquerent eos menſes quinque. Verſ. 5. Nempe hoc differunt LOCUSTÆ ARABICÆ ab Equitibus Euphratæis, de quibus in ſequenti Tuba. Datum erat Saracenis, Romani nominis gentes diu & immaniter cruciare; ſed ipſum Triental, ut ità loquar, Romanum alterutra ex parte vitâ ſpoliare, nequaquam datum erat. Nam cùm, interea dum priores Tubæ clangerent, ex politici ſtatûs ruinis, Regnum novum Pontificale veteris Romæ, quaſi pari cum alterius ruina paſſu, ſuccreverat: neque hujus, neque novæ illius Romæ Conſtantinopolis Regnum Saraceni delere potuerint. Contrà Turcæ, urbe regiâ captâ, Conſtantinopolitanum funditus è medio ſuſtulere, ut in ſequenti Tuba audiemus. De menſibus autem quinque, quibus iſte à Locuſtis cruciatus definitur, commodiùs dicemus ubi ad eorum repetitionem ventum v. 10.

Per eos dies homines quarent mortem, & non invenient eam: & cupient mori, & fugiet mors ab iis; Verſ. 6. id eſt, Tanta eſſet iſtorum temporum calamitas, ut homines vitæ ſuæ tæderet.

Nè enim putes nudis perſuaſionibus aut deceptionum præſtigiis actum fuiſſe; armis, ídque ex ipſius Muhammedis inſtituto, rem geſſere. Quorum apparatus ſatìs quidem terribilis, unà cum dominationis acquirendæ amplitudine, Gentíſque belligerantis habitu, luculentâ imagine depingitur. Bellicus apparatus ità: Et figuræ locuſtarum ſimiles equis (id eſt, equitibus) paratis ad prælium. Verſ. 7, 8. Dentes earum ut Leonum (id eſt, fortes erant ad devorandum, Joel. 1. 6. Dan. 7. v. 7, 23.) Et habebant loricas ut loricas ferreas; & ſonitus alarum ipſarum ut ſonitus curruum, equis multis currentibus ad bellum. Verſ. 9. Tota deſcriptio ex Joele petita eſt, unde ipſa, ut dixi, Locuſtarum Imago. Vid. cap. 2. 4. cap. 1. 6. cap. 2. 5. Succeſſum & dominationis acquirendæ amplitudinem indicant Impoſitæ capitibus earum tanquam coronæ ſimiles auro. Verſ. 7. Neque ſanè immeritò. Nulli unquam Genti tam latè regnatum fuit, neque tam brevi temporis ſpatio unquam tot regna, tot regiones, ſub jugum miſſa. Incredibile dictu, veriſſimum tamen eſt, Octoginta, aut non multò plurium, annorum ſpacio ſubjugârunt illi & Diabolico regno Muhammedis acquiſiverunt Palæſtinam, Syriam, Armeniam utramque, totam ferme Aſiam minorem, Perſiam, Indiam, Ægyptum, Numidiam, Barbariam totam ad Nigrum uſque fluvium, Luſitaniam, Hiſpaniam.

Ad Cap. 9.

Neque hîc ſtetit illorum fortuna, aut ambitio, donec & Italiæ magnam quoque partem adjecerint, ad portas uſque Urbis Romæ; quinetiam Siciliam, Candiam, Cyprum & reliquas Maris mediterranei inſulas. Deus bone, quantus hic terrarum tractus! quot hîc corona! Unde dignum quoque obſervatu eſt, non hîc, ut in cæteris Tubis, Trientis mentionem fieri: ſiquidem non minùs extra Imperii Romani fines quàm intra ipſum caderet hæc clades, ad extremos uſque Indos ſeſe porrectura.

Reſtat de Gentis belligerantis habitu. Et facies earum, inquit, ut facies hominum. Fuerunt Locuſtæ iſtæ facie humanâ, id eſt, reverâ homines, (nè quis fortè de Inſectis agi putet) habentes capillos ut capillos mulierum, id eſt, natione ARABES, qui, inquit Plinius, intonſo utuntur crine, & (mulierum more) mitrati degunt, Plin. lib. 6. capite 28. quibus hodiéque moris eſt, ut peregrinatores affirmant, ituris in prælium, ex proprio capillo ſibi cornua & cincinnos nectere; Camerar. Operum ſubciſ. Tom. 1. c. 93. Unde perſpicuum evadit, locum à Brightmanno noſtro ex Herodoto in Thalia, quaſi pro Arabum tonſura, laudatum, non de capitis, ſed aut de barbæ tondendæ ritu aliquo Arabibus Bacchi imitatione uſitato, cujus & Plinius aliquatenus meminit, cùm barbam iiſdem abradi ſolitam dicit, præterquam in ſuperiori labro; aut de extremorum crinium rotundatione, citra integram capitis tonſuram, accipiendum eſſe. Quorum utrumque, fortè quia Bacchi, vicini ipſis Deaſtri, cultorum inſigne fuit, Deus populo ſuo vetuit, Levit. 19. 27. & 21. 5. Ut ut ſit, quin Plinius Arabes Romæ vidiſſet nullus dubito.

Verſ. 8.

Sequitur de plagæ duratione, quæ quidem Quinque menſibus determinatur, pro typo Locuſtarum, quæ totidem menſibus durant; nempe ab exortu Vergiliarum (veteribus exitu Veris dicto, uno circiter ab Æquinoctio verno menſe) quando ex ovis in terra per hyemem relictis in lucem emittuntur, uſque ad initium Autumni, quando, alteris ovis ad ſubſequentis anni ſobolem in terram depoſitis, ſtatim moriuntur. Videſis Plinium lib. 11. c. 29.

Voluit tamen Deus hanc temporis notationem non modò typo ſed etiam antitypo convenire, cùm principem terrarum Italiam, & peccati quod plagam attraxerit anteſignanam, Locuſtis Saracenicis infeſtandam tradidit, ab anno 830 ad annum 980, id eſt, annis 150, ſeu menſibus annalibus quinque.

Alibi quidem terrarum diutiùs, ſed ordine quodam, & aliis atque aliis temporum intervallis, incubuit plaga; maximè regionibus Orientalibus, Syriæ, Ægypti atque minoris Aſiæ, quæ capiti imperii iſtius quod Damaſci primùm, deinde Bagdadi, fuit conterminæ, in anteriores quaſi corporis Saracenici partes per multa ſecula ceſſere.

Utque illud notem; Licèt quaſcunque occupârunt terras, earum incolas venenato illo Caudæ Scorpioniæ, quem dixi, ictu cruciavere; tamen Itali aliâ neſcio quâ & ſingulari ratione Caudæ Locuſtarum ictum ſenſiſſe videntur. Toto enim examine corpori affimilato, anterioribúſque partibus, ut par eſt, Orienti aſſignatis, quid agmina Africana erunt, tanto à capite intervallo in Occidentem porrecta, niſi Cauda? Atqui ab iſtis omnis Italiæ calamitas, quam utique obliquo (vide Scorpionum ingenium) per Mare mediterraneum, ejúſque inſulas Sardiniam & Siciliam, ictu continenter feriebant: quaſi huc nimirum digitum intenderet Spiritus S. cùm, iteratâ mentione Menſium, dixerit, Et habebant caudas ſimiles Scorpionibus & aculeos; & in caudis ſuis habebant poteſtatem nocendi hominibus MENSES QUINQUE. Ità enim legit Codex Complutenſis, ſuffragantibus Syro, Primaſio, Andrea, & Areta. Cujuſmodi interpretatio licèt temporis deſignationi non inconcinna foret; tamen aliam eſſe, multóque latiùs ſeſe diffundentem, Verſ. 10.

Syrmatis

Syrmatis illius ſerpentini ſignificationem, jam ſuprà dixi, neque hîc muto. Si quis de ſecundario aliquo ſenſu (cujuſmodi ego haud facilè admittere ſoleo) perſuaderi ſibi patietur, per me quidem licet. Ad Cap. 9. Cap. 14. 1.

Atque hæc una ratio eſt quâ Quinque menſes typi Locuſtarum rei geſtæ aptari poſſint. Eſt & alia, ſi modò ex eo quòd Menſes iſti quinque bis ponantur geminetur calculus: quaſi nimirum voluiſſet Spiritus Sanct. quinarium numerum adhibere, propter analogiam & τὸ πρέπον Typi; duplicare verò, ut antitypo inſigniori aliquo intervallo reſponderet. Quorſum enim alioquin Menſium iſtorum notationem iiſdem penè verbis iteraret? Annon myſterium aliquod huic iterationi ſubeſt? Simile enim alibi, in continua ejuſdem Typi deſcriptione, factum non memini.

Hoc igitur ſi arriſerit, comprehendent ANNI TRECENTI, quot bis quinque menſes annales efficiunt, nobile illud Regni Saracenici intervallum, quod ab initio Caliphatûs Abaſidarum, (qui primi Bagdadi Imperii ſedem fixerunt) ad eandem Bagdadam à Rege Turcarum Togrulbeco (qui noſtris Tangrolipix audit) captam ducitur; id eſt, ab anno Chriſti 750 ad annum 1055. Amplius quidem hoc ſpatium eſt annis circiter quinque; ſed cùm per menſes numeratio fit, dierum aliquot non magìs habenda ratio eſt quàm, ubi per dies computatur, horarum ſoleat. Illud quoque addi poteſt, commodè incipere hoc intervallum à ſublato ab Urbe Roma Exarchatûs jugo, quo præcedentis Tubæ calamitas deſiit. Hoc enim eodem tempore, fortè etiam anno, contigit.

Si quæras adhuc, quorſum Spiritus S. integram plagæ Saracenicæ durationem numeris hiſce non comprehenderet, cùm ante hunc Abaſidarum principatum, ab anno nempe 630, Saraceni continuis ſucceſſibus adeò imperium propagâſſent, ut jam quaſi ad ἀκμὴν ſuam perveniſſet: reſponderi poteſt, quia numerus iſte quinque menſium magìs typi Locuſtarum fuit, quàm antitypi Saracenorum; ideóque qui illis propriè competebat, ſat erat ſi in iſtis inſigniori aliquâ intervalli ratione exhiberetur, etiamſi non integre menſuraret. Nihil tamen hîc ſtatuo, ſed aliis, quibus plus à Deo datum fuerit, ampliùs diſquirendum relinquo. Hæc interim difficultas interpretationi de Saracenis nihil præjudicat. Nam quamcunque interpretationem ſequeris, eadem difficultas te urgebit.

Reſtat adhuc de Rege & nomine ejus. Habebant, inquit, ſuper ſe Regem Angelum abyſſi, cui nomen Hebraicè ABADDON, Græcè verò APOLLYON, id eſt, Perdens. Vers. 11.

Videtur Spiritus Sanctus, quòd Angelum Abyſſi Regem dicit, innuere, Locuſtas haſce fore Gentem, non Chriſtianam, ſed infidelem quæ Chriſto nomen non dediſſet. Dicuntur enim Paulo, Epheſ. 2. 2. filii incredulitatis, ſeu Pagani, Principi ſubeſſe cui poteſtas eſt aëris; qui non alius eſt quàm Abyſſi Angelus: contrà, qui Chriſtiani fiunt, è Satanæ poteſtate erepti ad Deum converti, Act. 26. 18.

Quicquid ſit, res eſt diſquiſitione digniſſima, cur hunc Abyſſi Principem hîc nomine planè novo & inaudito appellet; neque, ut ſolet, Diabolum, Satanam, Serpentem, aut Draconem: aut, ſi à perdendi notione maluiſſet, cur non potiùs Aſmodæum, nomine ἰσοδυναμοῦντι, quo eum Judæi vocare jam aſſueverant, Abaddonem verò nunquam. An quia, cùm Muhammedani gloriarentur non alium ſe Deum colere & adorare quàm unum illum & ſolum Deum Demiurgum ſeu Factorem Univerſi, qui Chaldæis & Syris עבודא ABUDA audit, ipſísque adeò Arabibus epitheto אברי ABDI, id eſt, æterni, inſignitur, iis Spiritus Sanctus occurrere voluerit contrarii ſenſûs, ſed ſimilis ſoni, vocabulo? quo nimirum innueret, tantum abeſſe ut illi (quicquid contendant) ABUDAN vel ABDIN, æternum illum Mundi opificem, venerarentur, ut Dei ipſius æſtimatione, quem μονοπρόσωπον eſſe volunt, neque per Chriſtum adeundum, non ipſum, ſed Angelum nequam ABADDONEM, id eſt, Mundi non Factorem, ſed Perditorem, Regis ſeu Numinis loco haberent. Sic cùm putarent Jeroboamitæ ſe Deum Iſraelis in vitulis ſuis coluiſſe, ait tamen Scriptura, eos Dæmonibus ſacrificâſſe, 2 Par. 11. 15.

Ad Cap. 9.

An verò alluſum eſſe dicemus ad commune Regum Arabiæ nomen ejus tractûs, unde Muhammedes primitus cum Locuſtis proditurus erat; qui à priſco Rege OBODA in Deorum numerum à ſuis relato, cujúſque à ſepulchro OBODA regioni Nabatæorum nomen manſit, OBODÆ deinceps, poteſtatis nomine, dicti ſunt, ſicut Ægypti Reges Pharaones & Ptolemæi, Romanorum Cæſares, Parthorum Arſacæ, & contermini Petræorum Arabum Reges Aretæ? Stephanus enim Byzantinus, ex Uranii, rerum Arabicarum ſcriptoris, lib. 4. [a] ΟΒΟΔΑ, inquit, χωρίον * Ναβαταίων, ὅπου [a] ΟΒΟΔΗΣ ὁ Βασιλεὺς, ὃν θεοποιῦσι, πάλαι. Ab hoc autem deinceps iſtius tractûs Reges communi nomine OBODAS dictos, fidem mihi faciunt Strabo & Joſephus. Quorum hic duos ejus nominis commemorat: [b] unum bellicoſum, nimiúmq; Judæis clade Alexandri Jamnei regis ſui notum; quem nempe OBODAS iſte Arabs, toto exercitu ejus in Galaadenſi regione cæſo, Hieroſolymam fugere coegit, annis ante Chriſtum plus minùs nonaginta; quem non immeritò Judæi levi immutatione ABADDON, id eſt, Perditorem, vocare potuiſſent. [c] Alterum ſegnem & inertem, Herodis magni σύγχρονον, cujus Procurator Syllæus (qui res ejus pro libitu adminiſtrabat) Salomen Herodis ſororem in matrimonium ſibi depoſcebat: ſed voto fruſtratus, atque inimicus Herodi factus, eundem calumniis apud Auguſtum in non exiguum diſcrimen adduxit. Hujus OBODÆ ſemel atque iterum meminit Strabo in Ælii Galli expeditione Arabica, ídque cum eadem pigritiei nota; aítque eundem vicino Regi Aretæ (commune & hoc nomen, ut dixi, conterminorum Petræ Regum fuit) affinitate conjunctum fuiſſe. Ex eodem colligere eſt, OBODÆ regnum magis Auſtrum versùs ſitum ad mare rubrum pertinuiſſe: quo terrarum tractu Iſmaelitas & Saracenos habitâſſe credo. Certè enim Nabathæos, quorum tractûs, Uranio teſte, OBODAM regionem complectebatur, Iſmaelitas fuiſſe conſtat, à [d] Nabaiotho Iſmaelis primogenito id nominis ſortitos. Addit Joſephus, OBODA vitâ defuncto, Aretam, favente Auguſto, regnum ejus ſuo adjunxiſſe.

Si quis igitur, tantâ rerum convenientiâ & concinnitate permotus, opinabitur Spiritum S. hoc nomen ABADDON de induſtria adhibuiſſe, ut παρωνομασίᾳ quadam nominis Regii ad eam Gentem digitum intenderet, cui in more poſitum Reges ſuos, imò & Deos, ſimili appellatione cognominare, ego quidem eum veniâ dignum putem; præſertim cùm utraque vox ab eadem radice eſſe videatur, Hebræis & Arabibus communi, licèt, ut aliàs quoque fit, ſignificatione contrariâ; cúmque apud veteres Prophetas haud omnino diſſimilium alluſionum exempla quandoque occurrant. Sic quòd Iſaias Chriſtum נֵצֶר NEZER, id eſt, ſurculum, vocaverit, Matthæus ad Jeſu NAZARENI nomen traduxit c. 2. verſ. ult. Videſis etiam Jer. 1. 11, 12. שָׁקֵד SGHAKED amygdalus, שָׁקַד SCHOKED advigilo. Amoſ. 8. 2. caniſtrum קַיִץ KAJITZ, id eſt, æſtivorum fructuum, quia venit קֵץ KETZ, id eſt, finis, &c. Et verò etiam ab ejuſmodi agnominationibus non abhorruiſſe citerioris ſeculi Judæos, vel illud argumento ſit, quòd paulò ante Salvatoris adventum, propterea quòd Acheron, Inferorum (ut ex Græcis audierant) [e] fluvius, ſono non abluderet ab Accaron civitate Palæſtinorum (ſic enim olim Ekron pronuntiatum * eſt) ex Beelzebub hujus Deo nomen fecere Satanæ, illius, id eſt, Inferorum, Principi. Hinc enim, ut quidem conjicio, in Evangelio Beelzebub Princeps Dæmoniorum.

SECUNDA

* Annon igitur 1 Mac. 12. 31. pro Ζαβαδαίους reponendum Ὠβαδαίους? Nam Joſephus de iiſdem agens Ναβαταίους vocat. Vid. Ant. Jud. l. 13. c. 9. & Zabadæorum nomen aliàs inauditum.

a De Oboda Arabum Deo vid. Tertul. ad Nat. l. 2. c. 8. & ibi Gothofredi notas. Vide & Euſeb. De laudibus Conſtantini, p. 478. Ἀραβες Δώσιπρίν τινα καὶ Ὄβοδον θεὸν ἀνηγόρευσαν.

b De bello Judaic. lib. 1. cap. 3.

c Antiquit. Jud. lib. 16. c. 11, 13, 14, 15.

d Gen. 25. 13.

e Vid. LXX.

Ad Cap. 9.

SECUNDA VÆ-TUBA, SEU TUBA VI.

VÆ PLAGARUM altera (quæ etiamnum (proh dolor!) incumbit) TURCARUM Tetrarchas, equitatu numerosissimo, ab Euphrate (ubi jam diu hæserant) in Orbem Romanum evocat.

Solve (inquit vox ex quatuor cornibus Altaris thymiamatis) quatuor illos Angelos alligatos ad magnum flumen Euphratem. Angeli ponuntur pro *Gentibus quibus præesse credebantur, noninusitatâ in hoc Libro metonymiâ. Id ex eo apparet, quòd qui continuò ex oraculi præscripto solvuntur, Exercitus equestres sunt, hominibus occidendis emissi. Vers. 14.

* Videatur Epiphanius Hær. 51. contra Alogos in fine. Exponit autem de Assyriis, Babyloniis, Medis atque Persis. Ibid. Gentes Angelis esse subjectas probat ex Deut. 32. 8.

Angelos alligatos jubet solvi, ut qui, durante adhuc superiore plagâ, in Romanas regiones irrumpentes, ad Euphratem aliquot seculis cohibiti fuerant, nè porrò pro libitu grassarentur. Principio quidem paulò ulteriùs sunt progressi, ad Nicæam Bithyniæ usque; sed ab Argonautis Christianis in expeditione Hierosolymitana, devicto Solimanno, denuo ad Euphratem compulsi.

Porrò Angeli quatuor totidem Sultanias seu Regna significant, in quæ, Turcæ, cùm primùm, trajecto Euphrate, in vicinos Asiæ & Syriæ tractus sese effudissent, dispertiebantur. Hæc ex Scilice authore Græco sic enumerat Christophorus Richerius de origine Turcarum; Asianum, Alepiense, Damascenum, & quartum Antiochenum. Quorum primum Asianum seu minoris Asiæ exordium suum debuit Cutlumuso, (Elmachino, ni fallor, alio nomine Sedijduddaulæ dicto) Tangrolipicis illius qui Bagdadum primus cœperat propinquo. Is, eodem teste, Cæsareâ Cappadociæ circa annum Christi 1080 expugnatâ & Romanis ademptâ, sibi & posteris suis in Asiæ partibus Euphrati conterminis regnum inchoavit. Cujus fines deinde ampliavit successor Solimannus ad Nicæam Bithyniæ usque; sed à nostris in famigerata illa expeditione Hierosolymitana devictus, universam quam acquisierat regionem relinquere & ad Euphratem recedere coactus est. Atque hujus Tetrarchiæ sedes, etsi initio alibi, maximam tamen partem Iconii in eadem Cappadocia fuit. 1.

Secunda Tetrarchia Alepiensis fuit, metropoli Alepo, quæ ramo Euphratis eò à Sultanorum quodam deducto adluitur. Hujus Rex primus (teste Elmachino) Sjarsuddaulas, anno 1079 Alepo potitus. Cui successit Roduwanus Salghucides, anno 1095. 2.

Tertia Tetrarchia, metropoli Damasco, conditorem habuit (eodem teste) Tagjuddaulam Nisum Togrulbeci (seu Tangrolipicis) nepotem, qui Damascum subjugavit eodem anno 1079. Hujus successor Ducathes seu Decacus fuit, Roduwani Sultani Alepiensis frater, anno 1095. Cui, inquit Scilix, parebat omnis regio Decapoleos. Hæc autem Euphratem attingebat. 3.

Hisce quartam annumerat Scilix Antiochenam, modicis finibus contentam. Nam, inquit, Laodiceam usque Syriæ Caliphas Ægypti è gente Saracenica possidebat regiones. Sed cùm regnum illud Antiochenum, ut ab Euphrate paulò remotius, ità non nisi quatuordecim annis duraverit, Antiochiâ statim, Boamundo duce, à nostris captâ; præstiterit forsan, eo expuncto, 4.

Ad Cap. 9. expuncto, Imperium Bagdadenſe ſeu Perſicum ab altera Euphratis ripa (nam Scilix tantùm Turcarum qui Euphratem trajecerant rationem habuit) quaternario complendo adjicere; ut ità Imperium Turcicum univerſum, ultra citráque Euphratem, in quatuor iſtas Sultanias diviſum intelligatur. Quas cum Regum ſive Sultanorum aliquouſque ſerie, en tibi, Lector, ſequenti diagrammate diſtinctiùs contemplandas.

¶ Regni Turcici ad Euphratem quadripartiti Diagramma, ab anno 1080 & deinceps, ex Elmachino Arabe & Scilice authore Græco.

Ultra Euphr.	Cis Euphra-		-tem.
BAGDADI.	* CÆSAREÆ Cappadociæ & ICONII, &c. in Aſia minore.	ALEPI.	DAMASCI.
Togrulbecus
Olbarſalanus
.....	.....	.....	.....
Ghelaluddaulas ann. 1071	Sedijduddaulas cognomine Cutlumuſus	Sjarfuddulas	Tagjuddaulas
Barkyarucus	Solimannus	Roduwanus	Decacus
Muhammedus	Taniſmanius	Tagjuddaulas fil.	Ababacus, adhuc in vivis anno 1115.
Mahmudus, cæpit ann. 1117.	Maſutus	Bulgarus, cæpit anno 1117.	*******
	Caliſaſtlanus		Sanguinus
&c.	&c.		Noradinus
			&c.

* quam in Hiſtoria Saracen. Elmachini Siaiẓarum dici puto, quomodo apud Benjaminem Tudelenſem Caſarea Palæſtinæ שיוריא p. 37.

Atque iſte rerum Turcicarum ſtatus fuit cùm primùm Euphratem trajecerant, &, quaſi irruptionis in terras Romanas ſpecimine dato, præſtitutis ad Euphratem carceribus coercerentur. Ut ut autem iſte Sultaniarum quaternio ad tempus laxationis integer non permanſerit, ſed varias mutationum vices ſubierit: tamen Spiritus Sanct. gentem æſtimat ex primæ irruptionis ſtatu, quo, Euphrate trajecto, ligati ſunt ad tempus conſtitutum.

Verſ. 15. Et ſoluti ſunt quatuor iſti Angeli, parati ad horam & diem & menſem & annum, ut occiderent tertiam partem hominum.

Solutio hæc Turcarum contigit paulò ante annum 1300, Caliphatu Bagdadenſi (quocum VÆ primum penitus exſpiravit) jam à Tartaris ann. 1258 extincto, & Turcarum reliquiis, qui ab altera Euphratis ripa rerum in Perſide hucuſque potiti fuerant, ab iiſdem ann. 1289, quaſi ex funda, in regiones Romanas cis Euphratem ejectis. Sic enim rebus comparatis, accidit quoque ut eodem tempore Latini, qui primis Turcarum irruptionibus jam ducentis ferè annis fræna & compedes injecerant, ex Syria & Palæſtina, anno utique 1291, expellerentur. Interea Turcæ, licèt in varias adhuc Satrapias diſtracti, totam ferè Aſiam minorem incurſare, inter ſeſe hæreditario jure poſſidendam dividere, tandémque ſub unius Othomanni imperio coeuntes, omnimodo laxatis habenis immanè graſſari, in Europam trajicere: neque ullâ ampliùs vi iiſdem obſiſti potuit, donec Imperium Conſtantinopolitanum univerſum miſerandis ſtragibus exſcidiſſent.

Sed & hujus cladis Conſtantinopolitanæ tempus quoque, ni fallor, deſignat Oraculum: fore nempe eam poſt Diem, Menſem, & Annum, id eſt, annos 396, quàm Turcæ, dato iis Imperio Saracenico, à Deo parari cœperant; id eſt, à Bagdado ab iiſdem capta. Hoc enim irruptionis Turcicæ initium fuit, quo Imperium Saracenicum demoliri cœptum, & Ditio Romanorum norum affligi; ità tamen, ut vis mali ad præſtitutum laxationi tempus coercenda eſſet. Intervallum certè temporis ad unguem congruit. Refert enim is, quem jam aliquoties laudavi, Elmachinus hiſtoricus Arabs, quo nemo temporum momenta accuratiùs annotavit, Togrulbecum Salghucidem, Turcarum principem, (hic eſt qui noſtris Tangrolipix dicitur, ex familia Zelzuccia) captâ regiâ urbe Bagdado, à Calipha Cajimo Biamrilla veſte imperiali indutum, atque regno inauguratum fuiſſe, ann. Hegiræ 449, id eſt, Chriſti 1057. tunc, inquit, ſtabilitum ei fuit imperium. Ab hoc igitur tempore Turcæ, datâ iis Imperii Saracenici arce cum tota ditione Tranſeuphratenſi, præparati ſunt ut poſt Diem, menſem, & annum propheticum occiderent tertiam partem hominum; id eſt, anno Chriſti 1453, Imperii Romani in Oriente reliquum, captâ regiâ urbe Conſtantinopoli, funditus exſcinderent. Intervallum enim ab anno 1057 ad annum 1453 captæ Conſtantinopoleos eſt præcisè annorum 396. quorum Dies efficit unum, Menſis 30, Annus 365. Tanta eſt hîc accuratio calculi, ut facilè quis in ſuſpicionem deveniat, etiam Horam (quæ juxta cæterorum rationem quindecim dies efficeret) eventui pariter reſponſuram, ſi menſis quoque inaugurationis Togrulbeciana perinde atque annus proditus fuiſſet. Interim, donec illud conſtiterit, Ὡρα hîc ſumi poteſt, non pro viceſima diei parte, ſed pro tempore opportuno, & conjunctio Καὶ exponi ἐξηγητικῶς, quaſi Parati in tempus opportunum, nempe, in diem, menſem & annum, ut occiderent tertiam partem hominum. Quot verò anni deinceps currerent ad Regni Turcici excidium, nuſquam habetur; tantummodo, ad finem temporum BESTIÆ id futurum dicitur; nempe VÆ ſecundum tunc abiturum quando VÆ tertium Regno BESTIÆ abolendo immineret, cap. 11. verſ. 14, 15.

Ad Cap. 9.

Sed priuſquam hinc abeam, illud haud ſanè invitus fatebor, Ni tam exacta prophetiæ cum re geſta convenientia quaſi manus mihi injiceret, aliam, nempe iſtiuſmodi, interpretationem haudquaquam diſpliciturum fuiſſe; Angelos iſtos ad omnem occaſionem paratos & inſtructos fuiſſe, ſive horâ, ſive die, ſive menſe, ſive etiam anno ad rem gerendam opus fuerit. Sed an veriſimile ſit, tam accuratum temporis reſponſum qualem hîc eventus exhibet caſu contigiſſe, penès alios judicium eſto. Erit fortè cui religio erit exiſtimare.

Sequitur de qualitate & numero copiarum: Et numerus, inquit, τῆ ἱππικῆ, exercitûs equeſtris, duæ myriades myriadum. EQUITATUM nominat, nec quid præterea copiarum in tota plagæ deſcriptione; quaſi hic hoſtis ab Euphrate totus Equitatus eſſet. An quia in militia Turcica Equitatus peditatum tantum ſuperet, ut hic præ illo nullo numero ſit? Imò (quod Spiritum S. præcipuè reſpexiſſe credo) quia hic ipſe character eſt, jam dudum ab Ezech. ſacratus, Gentis MAGOG, quâ Turcæ oriundi ſunt. Sic enim ille in prophetia illa celeberrima de GOGO (nomen hoc fuit Ezechielis ævo Regum Magogicorum * commune, ſicut Pharao Ægyptiorum) gentem eam deſcribit ab Equeſtri militia, cap. 38. 4. Et educam te, inquit, & omnem exercitum tuum, EQUOS & EQUITES, loricis veſtitos univerſos. Iterum v. 15. Et venies de loco tuo à lateribus Aquilonis, tu & populi multi tecum, ASCENSORES EQUORUM UNIVERSI, &c. Porrò GOGUS iſte vocatur princeps primarius Meſchek & Tubal, id eſt, qui finibus ſuis egreſſus, utrique Armeniæ, ultrà citràque Euphratem, imperitaret. Citerioris hîc Armeniæ nomine Cappadocas comprehendo, antiquitus Meſchinos & Moſchos nuncupatos, ubi & oppidum primarium Mazaca, poſtea Cæſarea dicta, & in eodem tractu Moſchici montes, incolarum à Meſchek oriundorum non obſcura indicia. Ulterior ſeu major Armenia eſt, quæ hodie à Turcarum incolatu Turcomania dicitur; in qua olim Urbs

Verſ. 16.

* R. Moſes bar Nachman in Pentateuchum, Gog, inquit, nomen generale quo vocatur omnis princeps Magog. Idem Joannes Baptiſta ex Judæo Chriſtianus in Prologo partis ſecundæ. Leunclavius in Pandectis Hiſtoriæ Turcicæ p. 186. Gog Turcis hodie dicitur Gioc vel Kioc, unicâ tantùm ſyllabâ: unde Kioc Can, qui alibi Gog Can, &c. Gog Elp qui & Guo Elp.

Ad Cap. 9.

Urbs Thelbalana, Tibareni & Balbiteni populi, Teleboas fluvius, & alia nominis Tubal veſtigia. Non tamen quod Ezechiel narrat bellum de hac quam Joannes deſcribit Turcarum irruptione capiendum, (hanc ille tantummodo innuere videtur) verùm de alia ſub Judæorum reditum noviſſima, ídque, ſi fas eſt conjicere, hâc quæ nunc occupat priùs nonnihil recedente, intelligendum eſt.

Sed de Equitatûs typo eſt & aliud quod bona Lectoris cum venia adjiciam: ſed pacto, nè quis me putet nominum & etymologiarum ludificationibus plùs nimiò indulgere. Cibi etiam ſolidi & bene præparati cum condimento ſuaviores eſſe ſolent. Nè igitur faſtidiat Lector, ſi ejuſmodi quid apponam: Turcas ſcilicet, ante ſolutionem, longo jam incolatu Perſas fuiſſe, eóque nomine Byzantinis hiſtoricis paſſim appellatos. Certè Nicetas, qui maximam temporis partem quo apud Euphratem cohibiti ſunt hiſtoriâ complexus eſt, ferè ſemper Perſas vocat, rariſſimè Turcas. PERSÆ autem, ſi attendas, vel ipſo nominis ſono EQUITES ſunt; quandoquidem פרס PARAS, quo nomine in Sacris libris vocatur Perſia (quacum eadem eſt, aliâ tantùm pronunciatione, Parthia) tribus linguis Orientalibus, Hebraicâ, Chaldaicâ, Arabicâ, Equum vel Equitem deſignat. Hâc igitur ratione EQUITES Euphratæi ſunt TURCO-PERSÆ, id eſt, Euphratis accolæ gentilitio nomine Equites dicti.

Nec deeſſe videtur (ſi quis fortè inſolentiam objiciat) hujuſmodi alluſionis exemplum apud Danielem cap. 8. ubi Macedones, qui tunc temporis ÆGEADES (hoc eſt, Caprini) dicebantur, typo Caprarum, Réxque Hirci figurâ deſignatur. Ecce, inquit, HIRCUS caprarum (id eſt, caprarum maritus) venit ab Occidente, &c. Innuit autem Alexandrum Magnum, Ægeadum regem. Illi Macedones ſunt. Ità enim Gens iſta vocabatur quâ prima Regni ſedes erat, à Carano conditore, ducentis plus minùs ante Danielem annis. Occaſionem nominis ex Trogo refert Epitomator Juſtinus lib. 7. cujus verba aſcribere non gravabor. Caranus, inquit, cum magna multitudine Græcorum, ſedes in Macedonia reſponſo Oraculi juſſus quærere, cùm in Æmathiam veniſſet, urbem Ædeſſam, non ſentientibus oppidanis propter imbrium & nebulæ magnitudinem, gregem Caprarum imbrem fugientium ſecutus, occupavit: revocatúſque in memoriam oraculi, quo juſſus erat ducibus Capris imperium quærere, regni ſedem ſtatuit; religioſéque poſtea obſervavit, quócunque agmen moveret, ante ſigna eaſdem Capras habere, cæptorum duces habiturus quas regni habuerat authores. Urbem Ædeſſam ob memoriam muneris ÆGEAS, populum ÆGEADAS vocavit. Vide cætera.

Tanta eſt hîc concinnitas, ut quis ſuſpicari poſſit etiam Arietis de Rege Perſarum in eadem Viſione typum ad nominis ELAM (quod alterum duorum eſt quo ea Gens appelletur) ſignificatum alludere. איל enim Hebræis (unde nomen אַיִל Aries) & אלם atque עלם Chaldæis, idem ſignificant, nempe Fortem ſeu robuſtum eſſe. Fortè igitur עילם ELAM iſtis, ut illis אַיִל Arietem ſonabat, indéque Rex ELAM hoc typo Danieli figuratur. Ut ut ſit, quando res ipſa aliunde firmatur, non poteſt non hujuſmodi nominum cum typo convenientia harum rerum ſtudioſis pio oblectamento eſſe; ſive id caſu, ſive ſecùs accidiſſe credendum ſit. Atque hæc obiter.

Verſ. 16.

Jam iterum in viam ad Equites Euphratæos redeo; quorum numerus, inquit, Δύο μυριάδες μυριάδων, duæ myriades myriadum. Alii, μυριάδες μυριάδων, expuncto δύο, ut c. 5. 11. Significatur autem multitudo immenſa, ut Pſal. 68. 17. Curruum Dei duæ myriades, millia duplicia. eſt enim Μυριὰς רִבּוֹא vel רִבָּבָה ex iis vocibus numerabilibus quæ in Hebraiſmo ſolent indefinitè ſumi, ut apud Latinos Sexcenti; neque decem millium millium numerum, ſed ingentem quemcunque denotare, præſertim cùm ſic geminetur, ut Dan. 7. 10. videre eſt. Quantæ autem quámque immenſæ in expeditionibus ſuis Turcarum copiæ fuerint, hodiéque eſſe ſoleant, nemini ignotum eſt. Ad Cap. 9.

Et audivi, inquit, numerum eorum. Siquidem quæri potuit unde Joanni de numero conſtiterit, ut quem in Viſione ſubducere haud ei fuerit poſſibile. Audivi, inquit. Simile in aliis quoque Viſionibus fieri exiſtimandum, quoties narratur aliquid quod Viſo exhiberi non poterat; nempe de eo voce admonitum fuiſſe Apoſtolum.

Sequitur de armatura: Atque ità vidi, inquit, equos aſpectu, & qui inſidebant ipſis, habentes (ſcilicet) thoraces igneos, hyacinthinos & ſulphureos; & capita equorum quaſi capita leonum, & quaſi ex ore eorum prodierat ignis, fumus & ſulphur; à quibus occiſa fuit tertia pars hominum. Verſ. 17.

Nuſquam apud ullum Prophetarum aut alibi in Sacris literis occurrit Imago hujuſmodi de Igne, fumo hyacinthino, & ſulphure. Quare juxta literam accipio, de novo illo & ante hanc Tubam prorſus incognito armorum genere, quibus hoſtes iſti Euphratæi ſtatim poſt ſolutionem ſuam uſuri eſſent: Bombardas intelligo, ignem, fumum & ſulphur evomentes. Pulvis enim bombardicus pulvis eſt ignivomus, fumo hyacinthino, materiâ ſulphureâ: quo qui in bello utantur, hoſtium ſeſe ſenſibus ingerunt quaſi loricis igneis, hyacinthinis & ſulphureis obtectos, ob medium igne, fumo, & ſulphuris odore corruptum: ob quod & Equorum capita truci & terribili ſpecie cernuntur, quaſi Leonum. Hinc Joannes dicit, ſe vidiſſe Equos & equites, non reverâ, ſed aſpectu tales; aſpectu, inquam, ἐν ὁράσει, non reverâ, habentes thoraces igneos, hyacinthinos & ſulphureos; aſpectu, habentes capita inſtar Leonum; denique aſpectu, non reverâ, ex ore equorum prodiiſſe ignem, fumum & ſulphur; quippe res ità ex adverſo intuentibus apparere ſolet. Hæc eſt vis τῷ ἐν ὁράσει, quod bis hoc ſenſu uſurpatum Capite quarto, verſ. 3. Ὅμοιος ὁράσει λίθῳ ἰάσπιδι, καὶ ἴρις ὁμοία ὁράσει σμαραγδίνῳ. Neque alibi, niſi ſemel tantùm, vox illa in N. T. comparet.

A Triga verò iſta bombardica, Ignis, fumi & ſulphuris, addit, occiſam eſſe tertiam partem hominum, id eſt, qui ex TRIENTE illo hominum fuerant quem Orbem Romanum diximus. Neque enim neceſſe eſt hîc aut alibi, ubi Trientis mentio, univerſum Trientem intelligi, ſed partitivè ſumi. Cujuſmodi Ellipſeos voculæ partitivæ cùm alibi in his literis, tum in hoc libro occurrunt exempla: ut Jud. 12. 7. Sepultus eſt Jephte in Urbibus Gilead, hoc eſt, aliquâ urbium; & Apoc. 17. 16. Decem cornua odio proſequentur Meretricem, id eſt, aliqua ex illis. Sic Occiſa fuit Tertia pars (τὸ τρίτον) hominum, id eſt, qui ex Tertia illa parte.

Hoc autem in Conſtantinopolitano excidio quis neſcit abundè impletum eſſe? Annon Urbs illa nobiliſſima, TRIENTIS hominum caput, machinis iſtis ignivomis expugnata & internecioni data fuit? Audi Chalcocondylam. Mechmetes, inquit, in expeditione contra Byzantium Bombardas fieri curavit maximas, quantas novimus eâ tempeſtate nunquam exſtitiſſe——Eas undique per caſtra diſperſit, ut globulos in Græco jactarent——Quarum unius tanta fuit magnitudo, ut à ſeptuaginta jugis boum & à viris bis mille trahenda fuerit——Huic ab utroque latere aliæ duæ quoque maximæ adjungebantur, quarum ſingulæ lapidem emittebant cujus pondus erat dimidium talentum. ——Eas ſequebatur Bombarda illa admiranda, quæ torquebat globum cujus pondus continebat tria circiter talenta, & magnam muri partem ſternebat ——Cujus tonitru tantum fuiſſe traditum eſt, ut finitima regio uſque ad quadraginta ſtadia concuteretur——Hæc Bombarda interdiu ſeptem ejaculabatur globos, noctu unum, qui diei ſignum erat, & indicabat ubinam eo die globos torqueri oporteret. Qui plura ſcire deſiderat, útque etiam in oppugnatione maritima Bombardæ adhibitæ fuerint, útque mœnia quadraginta diebus Bombardis fortiter quaſſata tandem corruerint, útque LONGUS Genuenſium Dux cum ſuis Bombardarum globulis icti locum deſeruerint, atque viam Turcis in urbem patefecerint, adeat Chalcocondylam ipſum. Ab eodem quinetiam diſcet, iiſdem armis ab Amurathe, Mechmetis hujus patre, Iſthmum Peloponneſiacum quoque expugnatum, & Peloponneſiacos imperata facere coactos; à Mechmete autem ipſo, ſtatim poſt captam Conſtantinopolin, vi quoque ignivomâ expugnatâ Corintho, penitus ſubjugatos fuiſſe.

Ad Cap. 9.

Verſ. 19. Huic de armis ſubjungitur aliud de Equorum & Equitum ingenio. Poteſtatem ipſorum eſſe non in ore tantùm (de qua hactenus) ſed & in caudis. Nam caudæ eorum ſimiles eſſe ſerpentibus, habentes capita per quæ lædunt. Hoc eſt, idem quod de SARACENIS ſuprà dictum fuit de TURCIS quoque obtinere: eos nempe non vi modò hoſtili, ſed & Muhammedicæ impoſturæ ſyrmate, perniciem ubi graſſentur afferre. Unde non minùs hi quàm LOCUSTÆ Saracenicæ (quarum religionem imbiberant,) caudâ ſerpentes ſunt. Quòd verò alia his, alia illis attribuatur Cauda ſerpentinæ ſpecies, id ex naturali effigiei utriuſque, Locuſtarum & Equorum, diverſitate naſcitur; quâ illis ſpiculata Scorpionum cauda, his caudæ ſerpentinis capitibus conveniebant maximé.

Verſ. 20. Cæterùm reliqui hominum, qui non occiſi ſunt his plagis, (ſeu qui has plagas evaſerant) non reſipuerunt ab operibus manuum ſuarum, ut nè adorarent DÆMONIA, & ſimulacra aurea & argentea & ærea & lapidea & lignea, quæ neque cernere poſſunt, neque audire, neque ambulare, &c.

Qui verò iſti ſint haud difficile erit colligere; cùm in toto Orbe Romano, aut cis Euphratem, nulli jam ſint qui Simulacra colant (proh pudor & dolor!) præter Chriſtianos. Annon igitur iidem illi Dæmonia quoque colant neceſſe eſt, cùm utrumque iiſdem hoc loco aſcribatur? At quæ tandem Dæmonia? inquies. Non ſanè quæ ipſimet pro impuris ſpiritibus habeant, ſícque vocitent (quis enim hos ſciens volénſque coleret Chriſtianus?) ſed quæ hoc nomine à Gentilium Theologis intelligebantur, Deaſtros, quà Angelorum, quà * Mortuorum nominibus conſecratos, tanquam Mediatores inter Deum & homines. Πᾶν τὸ Δαιμόνιον, inquit * Plato, μεταξὺ Θεῦ τε καὶ θνητοῦ· DÆMONES medii ſunt inter Deos & mortales. Item, Θεὸς ἀνθρώπῳ οὐ μίγνυται, ἀλλὰ διὰ Δαιμονίου πᾶσα ἡ ὁμιλία καὶ ἡ διάλεκτος Θεοῖς πρὸς ἀνθρώπους. Idem cæteri Platonici, & plerique aliarum ſectarum Philoſophi, Epicureis exceptis. Apuleii ſolius verba aſcribam, quibus Platonis & reliquorum ſententia plenè & perſpicuè continetur. DÆMONES, inquit, ſunt mediæ Poteſtates, per quas & deſideria noſtra & merita ad Deos commeant, inter mortales cælicolaſque vectores, hinc precum, indè donorum; qui ultrò citróque portant, hinc petitiones, indè ſuppetias; ſeu quidam utrinque interpretes & ſalutigeri. Neque enim, inquit, pro Majeſtate Deûm cæleſtium fuerit, hæc curare. Scilicet duplices Deos habuere: Cæleſtes, qui in cœlo & ſtellis perpetuò reſidentes, neque ad hæc terrena prope ſe demitterent, neque eorum contagione temerandi (hi propriè & ſingulariter Dii dicebantur;) Alios Dæmones, qui, tanquam medioxuma numina, & cœleſtium ſeu ſummorum Deorum adminiſtri, res humanas procurarent. Illos Scriptura ſacra (ſi quid conjicio) Exercitum cæli; hos (præſertim qui ex mortuis fiebant) BAALES vocat, à Rege Babyloniorum ſive Aſyriorum Baale, ſive, Chaldaicâ pronunciatione, Belo, qui primus poſt mortem à ſuis in DÆMONEM conſecratus eſt; unde poſtea factum ut iſtiuſmodi numina BAALIM, id eſt, Baales, dicerentur, ut Baalpeor, Baalberith, Baalzebub, Baalmoloch (Jer. 19.) quemadmodum à primo Imperatore Julio Cæſare reliqui deinde Imperatores

* Vide Heſiod. Ἔργα, verſ. 121.
* In Sympoſio.

De Dæmonio Socratis.

Conſulat Lector Auguſtin. de Civit. Dei lib. 8, & 9.

Videſis Hieron. in c. 23. Ezech. Item in Hoſ. c. 2. & Iſaiæ c. 46.

tores Romani Cæsares dicti sunt. Quàm autem hæc DÆMONUM Theologia conveniat cum Sanctorum & Angelorum cultu apud Pseudochristianos, res ipsa loquitur: hoc tantùm discrimine, quòd illis plures erant Dii supremi seu cœlestes; nobis tantùm unicus est, Pater omnium. Et verò unicum quoque Mediatorem esse oportuit, Dominum nostrum Jesum Christum, nisi quòd Pseudoprophetæ plures instar DÆMONUM introduxerint. Planè juxta quod Paulus prophetavit, 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2, 3. futurum posterioribus temporibus, per falsiloquorum hypocrisin miraculorum mendacia confingentium, pérque ementitam Monachorum conjugio & cibis ex voto abstinentium sanctitatem, ut διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, id est, Theologia hæc DEASTRORUM, in Orbem postliminiò reduceretur. Quadrabit interpretatio, si Genitivum δαιμονίων passivè sumas, ut sit Doctrina de Dæmonibus, sicut Heb. 6. 2. διδαχὴ βαπτισμῶν, διδαχὴ ἐπιθέσεως χειρῶν, &c. Nam sanè illud Ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, & quæ sequuntur, ut syntaxeos ratio salva sit, per rectionem duorum substantivorum exponendum est, ΕΝ præpositione instrumentum & causam (quod ex Hebraismo familiare est) denotante. Sed de hoc loco alibi, in peculiari tractatu, fusiùs disserui, neque hîc repetere animus est. Ad Cap. 9.

TERTIÆ VÆ-TUBÆ, SEU TUBÆ VII.

Præconium.

ABsoluto sextæ Tubæ Viso (nam unius Tubæ unicum tantùm Visum est, sicuti & Sigillorum & Phialarum) proximus locus ordine rerum debebatur clangori Septimæ. Quo tamen Spiritus S. in Prophetiam ΒΙΒΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΝ, quò jam transiturus est, dilato, nè quid interea Prophetiæ SIGILLORUM modò finiendæ ad complementum sui deesset, vicem clangoris differendi supplet juramento, quo eventus Tubæ saltem de genere indicatur. Fore nimirum, cùm Angelus iste clanxerit, ut Bestiâ Romanâ, finitis novissimi capitis temporibus, deletâ, Mysterium Dei consummetur, sicut annunciavit servis suis Prophetis. Ità enim jam olim Danieli prædictum fuit, Bestiâ quartâ interfectâ, Regem Sanctorum universo Orbi terrarum imperaturum (c. 7.) unáque promissum illud glorioſum de instauratione Israelis impletum iri, (c. 12.) Quin enim Regnum hoc illud sit quod Mysterii Dei complementum vocat, dubitare non sinet acclamatio illa eidem Tubæ postmodùm clangenti subjuncta, Facta sunt regna hujus Mundi Domini nostri & Christi ejus, & regnabit in secula seculorum: ut mirum sit, reperiri potuisse qui id aliorsum acciperent. Igitur nec tempus illud, cujus hîc jurat Angelus nihil superfore ampliùs, aliud esse potest quàm aut Tempus 4. Monarchiarum universè, aut (quod vero propius, sed tantundem est) novissimi Regni, id est, Romani, periodus novissima TEMPORIS, TEMPORUM, & DIMIDII TEMPORIS: cùm idem quod hîc apud Joannem dicitur futurum cùm tempus non erit ampliùs, id apud Danielem tum futurum ostendatur cùm periodus ista novissimorum temporum absolvetur. Ad Cap. 10.

Atque hæc quidem consummatio MYSTERII Dei Septimæ Tubæ τὸ πρᾶγμα est; cui comites adduntur Septem Tonitrua: non enim sunt πρᾶγμα ipſum quod exhibet Tuba, ſed contemporaneum ejus. Scilicet, dum Angelus præconium ſuum de Tubæ Myſterio exſequitur, Septem tonitrua voces ſuas edunt. Clamavit, inquit, voce magnâ, ſicut Leo rugit; & cùm clamâſſet, loquuta ſunt ſeptem tonitrua voces ſuas: id eſt, cùm ille præconium ſuum jam exorſus eſſet, Septem quoque tonitrua cœperunt loqui. Neque non Tubæ ſeptimæ contemporare poſſunt; cùm quod ſextam Tubam ſequitur, neceſſariò in ſeptimam incidat. Vox autem tonitrui quid? num בת קול BATH KOL? Si hoc, erunt Septem Tonitrua ORACULA totidem, quibus ſeptimæ Tubæ intervallum quaſi periodis quibuſdam diſtinguetur; ſed ignorandæ omnino rei, nec niſi ſuis temporibus percipiendæ. Quod innuit, Joanni voces tonitruum ſcripturo cœlitus facta prohibitio, Obſigna quæ locuta ſunt ſeptem tonitrua, & nè ea ſcribas. Fruſtrà igitur nos inquirendo erimus quæ Deus occulta eſſe voluit, & ſuis temporibus reſervanda.

Ad Cap. 10.

Atque ità Tubæ ſeptimæ ſuo loco & ordine commodè ſatis inſervitum fuit, licèt clangoris ipſius patefactione, quâ totum Myſterium plenè reſeratur, aliò rejectâ. Cujus Rejectionis conſilium, cum toto diſpoſitionis hujuſce artificio, tametſi de eo in CLAVE APOCALYPTICA monitum, tamen hîc denuo & paulò fuſiùs reponere nec ſupervacaneum nec infructuoſum fuerit, cùm pleroſque Interpretum de eodem ratio fugiat. Facem mihi primùm hîc alluxit, atque etiam tibi, Lector, ni fallor, allucebit, Syſtematis Viſionum Apocalypticarum per Synchroniſmorum characteres conſtructi diligens contemplatio. Res verò (ut eam quâ poſſim orationis tum perſpicuitate tum compendio recludam) ſic ſe habet.

Vid. Clav. Apocal. part. 1. Synchron. 6. & part. 2. in initio, & Synchron. 1.

Utraque Prophetia, tam SIGILLORUM quàm ΒΙΒΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΥ, uno eodémque rerum exitu clauditur; eo nimirum quem exhibet Tuba ſeptima. Cui indicando, Spiritus Sanctus, Tubæ ſeptimæ myſterio ſuo loco in Tubarum ſerie leviter & quantum ibi ſatis erat præſignato, clangoris ipſius pleniorem patefactionem diſtulit, donec, ad novam ΒΙΒΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΥ prophetiam tranſitione factâ, (cap. 10. à verſ. 8. ad finem) primam ejus Viſionem, ſtadio Apocalyptico ſimiliter emenſo, ad eundem rerum exitum provexiſſet (cap. 11. 14.) túncque MYSTERIUM illud Tubæ ſeptimæ, utriuſque Prophetiæ Cataſtrophe communis, & in priori Prophetia (quæ Sigillorum erat) de genere tantùm promulgatum, hîc clangore demum edito plenè evolvitur: atque id quidem ordine commodiſſimo; cùm alioquin, abſque utriuſque Prophetiæ præcognitione, quod ab utraque pendebat intelligi non potuiſſet.

Atque hinc factum eſt ut Tranſlationis iſtius negotium non ab aliquo Tubarum Angelo procuratum ſit, ſed ab Angelo illo magno & illuſtri qui ΒΙΒΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΝ, ſecundæ Prophetiæ ſymbolum, manu teneret, Joanni mox devorandum. Ejus nempe intererat qui ſecundam Prophetiam revelaret, ut iſtius clangoris patefactio qui utriuſque Prophetiæ Cataſtrophen contineret eouſque differretur. Imò ſi Angelus iſte; ut ex auguſtiori amictu totóque apparatu colligi poſſe videtur, Chriſtus Dominus ſit, nulli magis jus hoc clangorem noviſſimum in alterius Prophetiæ gratiam ſuſpendendi competet quàm ipſi, qui utriuſque Prophetiæ author erat. Hactenus quidem Agni formâ apparuerat, nunc verò Angeli perſonam induiſſe videtur; quippe idem Conſummationis myſterium Joanni revelaturus quod olim Danieli, eâdem Angeli ſpecie, eodémque jurisjurandi ritu & verbis, revelaverat. Videſis Danielem cap. 12. verſ. 6, 7. cum ver. 5. capitis decimi.

ΤΟΥ̃

Ad Cap. 16.

ΤΟΥ̃

BIBΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΥ,

SEU

SYSTEMATIS ALTERIUS VISIONUM APOCALYPTICARUM INTERPRETATIO, ad amuſſim Clavis Apocalypticæ.

PERACTO SIGILLORUM curriculo, quo Res Imperii deſcribebantur, ad alteram Prophetiam itur, multò nobiliſſimam, utpote ECCLESIÆ ſeu Religionis fata continentem. Ad eam inſtituitur Joannes traditione & comeſtione Libri aperti, quaſi Doctoratu facultatis propheticæ imbuendus.

Et vox, inquit, quam audieram de cælo, rurſum loquuta eſt mecum (vox nimirum illa tanquam Tubæ loquentis, cap. 4.) & dixit, Abi, & accipe libellum illum apertum in manu Angeli ſtantis ſuper mare & ſuper terram.

Abii igitur ad Angelum, dicens ei, Da mihi libellum. Et dixit mihi, Accipe, & devora eum, &c.

Porrò cùm Prophetia modò revelanda, ut ſolet omnis rerum Divinarum & arcanarum, præſertim futurarum, cognitio, perceptu quidem ſuavis & jucunda foret, ſed, propter calamitoſum Eccleſiæ ſtatum, tanquam aloën, in abdito ejus contentum, aut ipſarum fortè allegoriarum typorúmque quibus tegitur obſcuritatem, enucleantis & in ſenſa ejus penetrantis animum haud mediocriter lancinaret; ideo Liber comedendus dicitur Apoſtolo futurus in ore quidem dulcis, id eſt, primâ facie primóque guſtu mentem ejus oblectaturus, in ventre verò receptus & concoquendus amaritudinem allaturus: Et amaritudinem, inquit, adferet ventri tuo, ſed in ore tuo erit dulcis tanquam mel. Tota autem imago ex Ezechiele petita eſt; niſi quòd ibi dulcedinis quidem in ore, at amaritudinis in ventre aut nulla aut obſcura mentio.

Libro ſic accepto & deglutito, mens ſymboli clariſſimis & diſertiſſimis verbis aperitur; nempe Joanni alterius adhuc & nobilioris multò Prophetiæ, quæque prioris tramitem relegeret, à Chriſto accipiendæ, ínque Eccleſiæ notitiam deferendæ, munus impoſitum eſſe.

Et accepi, inquit, libellum è manu Angeli, & devoravi eum: erátque in ore meo dulcis tanquam Mel; ſed cùm devorâſſem eum, amaruit venter meus.

Tum dixit, Oportet te iterum prophetare (hæc mens ſymboli) coram populis, & gentibus, & linguis, & regibus multis.

Verbis iſtis; Oportet te (πάλιν) itcrum prophetare, (quibus Libri comeſti ſymbolum explicatur) innuitur ſequens Viſionum Syſtema Tempus Apocalypticum ab ovo relegere. Atqui ſi ulla Syſtematis illius prophetici viſio ab initio periodi ſeu temporis Apocalyptici auſpicanda ſit, certè rationi conſentaneum eſt ut prima illius Syſtematis viſio indè initium ſumat, tum quòd prima ſit, tum quòd ſequentium omnium ſumma & compendium, Ad Cap. 11. Sic fuit Joannis inauguratio; ſequitur Prophetia, quæ ab ejuſdem circa Templum Dei facto inchoat; eóque duplicis Atrii imagine, unius dimenſi, alterius ob Gentium prophanationem rejecti, duplicem Eccleſiæ ſtatum ordine futurum commonſtrat.

MENS
ATRII INTERIORIS
calamo Dei dimenſi.

Verſ. 1. ATRIUM TEMPLI interius cum inibi adorantibus, calamo divino menſurabile, Statum Eccleſiæ Chriſtianæ primævum denotat, ad verbi Divini regulam examinatum & examuſſim ſanctum; necdum verò, ut poſtea, (cùm ad Exterioris Atrii tempora perventum) cultûs idololatrici contagione ἀσύμμετρον, quinimo Deum per aliquot ſecula in unico Mediatore Jeſu Chriſto normaliter colentem.

Hujuſmodi enim commenſum etiam Angelicæ dimenſionis apud Ezechielem typo propoſitum fuiſſe, ex eo colligere mihi videor quod eidem dicitur cap. 43. indè à verſ. 7. ad 10. & deinceps; Tu autem, fili hominis, oſtende domui Iſrael Templum, & erubeſcant propter iniquitates ſuas, & metiantur exemplar. Videſis locum. Sin quis aliter ſenſerit, & maluerit dimenſionis typum ad ædificationis ſignificationem referre, ut quod Architectis Graphis ſeu γραμμικὴ, futuri nempe operis deſignatio, id ſit Deo apud Prophetas menſuratio; ad eundem tamen ſenſum collineabit. Nam quid tum denotabit Atrium hoc divino calamo dimenſum, quàm Eccleſiæ ſtatum eo figuratum facturam Dei eſſe, ædificatam ſuper fundamentum Apoſtolorum & Prophetarum, Chriſto angulari lapide? contrà quàm Atrium ſequens, quod Deus pro ſtructura ſua non agnoſceret, ideóque Joannes ipſum metiri prohibetur. Hoc aut illo modo interpreteris, res, ut vides, eódem redibit. Sed qui in diverſum ſenſum interpretabitur, aut fallor, aut nullum è Scriptura interpretationis ſuæ exemplum proferre poteſt. Quàm verò appoſitè Altaris in hoc Atrio ſitus frequentes ſub eo Eccleſiæ ſtatu Martyriorum hoſtias adumbret, id tum ex re ipſa, tum ex contemporanea DRACONIS rufi cum MICHAELE de Mulieris puerperio pugnantis Viſione, tunc cùm ad ejus interpretationem ventum, patebit.

MENS
ATRII EXTERIORIS CUM
Civitate S. à Gentibus conculcati, proindéque in dimenſione negligendi foràſque ejiciendi.

Alluſum eſt ad prophanationem Antiochi, quam deſcribit Pſal. 79. Videſis 1 Macc. 7. 17. & Pſ. 79. verſ. 1, 2, 3, &c. Deus, venerunt Gentes in hæreditatem tuam, polluerunt Templum ſanctum tuum, poſuerunt Jeruſalem in acervos, &c.

ATRIUM exterius à Gentibus conculcatum & dimenſioni Divinæ rejiculum deſignat Civitatem Dei ſanctam, ſeu Eccleſiam Chriſtianam, mox ab exitu temporum ATRII normalis (cui proximè ſuccedit) novis Ido- lolatris

latris dandam, rebúſque ejus, demolito jam penitus ſub prioris Atrii ſtatu Gentilium cultu, confirmatis, redintegratæ Idololatriæ, tanquam redivivi Ethniciſmi, contagione, prophanandam; uno verbo, Apoſtaſiam Antichriſtianam menſibus XLII annalibus in Eccleſia regnaturam. De qua in BESTIÆ hiſtoria, ATRIO huic contemporante, congeneríſque rei Viſione, plenè & particulatim agetur. Sed verba textûs in cujus interpretatione verſamur conſideremus.

Ad Cap. 11.

Datus eſt, inquit, mihi calamus ſimilis virgæ, adſtitítque Angelus dicens, Surge, & metire Templum Dei & Altare & adorantes in eo. 2. *Sed Atrium quod eſt extra Templum ejice foras, & nè metiaris illud: nam datum eſt Gentibus, & * Civitatem ſanctam * calcabunt menſibus XLII.* Verſ. 1.

* 1 Mac. 3. 45. ἁγίασμα καταπατούμενον· & verſ. 51. ἁγιά σου καταπεπάτηται καὶ βεβήλωται· & cap. 4. 60. μήποτε τὰ ἔθνη καταπατήσωσι.

Quorum verborum mentem ut dextre percipiamus, ſciendum, ΤΟ ΙΕΡΟΝ (quo nomine univerſum Templi ædificium complector) duplici Atrio diſtinctum fuiſſe; uno Interiori, in quo Ναὸς ſeu Templum ipſum (unà cum Altari holocauſti pro foribus ejus) ſitum fuit, patebátque ſolis Sacerdotibus & Levitis; altero Exteriori, quod 2. Paralip. 4. 9. Atrium magnum dicitur, Ezechieli pluſquam duodecies חֲצַר הַחִיצוֹנָה, id eſt, Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν ſeu ἐξωτέρα. Hoc Iſraelitarum erat ſeu populi Iſraelitici, ideóque Iſraelis Atrium haud incommodè dicendum, licèt Judæis ſpeciatim ſic vocabatur ea hujus Atrii pars quæ virorum erat. Prius Atrium nominibus Templi & Θυσιαστηρίου indicatur. Surge, inquit, & metire Templum Dei (Ναὸν) & Thyſiaſterium. Ubi Θυσιαστήριον non Altare tantùm holocauſti, quod ibi ſitum, ſed ſpatium etiam circumjectum, id eſt, totum Altaris & ſacrificii locum, deſignat; ut ex verbis ei proximè cohærentibus colligitur, καὶ προσκυνοῦντας ἐν αὐτῷ, id eſt, ἐν τῷ Θυσιαστηρίῳ. Quomodo etiam Θυσιαστήριον ſumitur cap. 14. v. 18. & cap. 16. 7. Vide Bezam. Unde Lexicon vetus Græcolat. Θυσιαστήριον interpretatur Altarium, Sacrarium: & vice versâ Gloſſarium Philoxeni, Sacrarium, ἱερῶον, Θυσιαστήριον. Hoc autem Θυσιαστήριον, unà cum Templi, id eſt, τοῦ Ναοῦ, Area, nomine Interioris Atrii rectè comprehendi, ex Tabernaculi deſcriptione diſco; ubi ſimiliter totum illud Septum quod הַמִּשְׁכָּן Habitaculum ac Altare Holocauſti ambibat, unius Atrii nomine cenſetur: ut liquet Exod. 40. 33. Tantum de Atrio priore, quod Joannes metiri jubetur. Atrium autem poſterius ſatìs clarè nomine ſuo deſignatur, Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν τοῦ Ναοῦ, id eſt, per Ellipſin prioris Subſtantivi, Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν τῆς Αὐλῆς ἡ περιβόλου τοῦ Ναοῦ, Atrium quod eſt extra Templi & altaris ſeptum. In hoc cùm Gentes, præter jus & fas admiſſæ, ſtabularentur, nequaquam menſurari, ſed ejici jubetur & pro prophano haberi.

Ità Socrates Θυσιαστήριον vocat, non ſacram menſam, ſed ἱερατεῖον. Vid. lib. 1. cap. 25. Gr. λζ'. & confer cum Theodoreto, lib. 1. cap. 14. Vide & Canon. Trull. 69. Zoſimum lib. 5. τράπεζα τοῦ καλουμένου Θυσιαστηρίου. Item Nicephorum lib. 8. cap. 30. diſſertiſs. Imò Joſephus etiam vaſa, quorum in Sacrificiis uſus, appellare videtur Θυσιαστήρια, ut ex collatione Antiquit. lib. 12. cap. 7. cum 1 Mac. 1. 22. apparere poteſt.

Sed inquies, non Atrium exterius, ſed Civitatem ſanctam à Gentibus conculcatam dici. Reſpondeo, Atrium exterius & Civitatem ſanctam ſeſe mutuò explicare, cùm Atrium exterius locus fuerit Civitati ſanctæ, ſeu populo Iſraelis, ad Divina conveniendi; imò in Deſerto, unicum tantùm Atrium habente Tabernaculo, (quod non niſi Sacerdotibus ac Levitis ordinariè ingredi fas erat) Atrium exterius nullum fuit, præter Caſtra Iſraelis ſeu Civitatem ſanctam. Perinde igitur ſenſus eſt ac ſi diceretur, Atrium quod extra Templum eſt ejice foras, & nè metiaris illud: nam datum eſt Gentibus, & calcabunt (illud) menſibus XLII. Pro Relativo autem (illud) ſubſtituitur Subſtantivum, & quidem ejuſmodi quod rem Antecedenti deſignatam declaret; Civitatem, inquit, ſanctam calcabunt menſibus XLII. Enallage autem Subſtantivi pro Relativo ſæpe, tum in hoc Libro, tum alibi, occurrit; nempe cùm aut Subſtantivum quod præceſſit loco Relativi repetitur, aut ejus ſynonymum Relativi vice ſubſtituitur. Poſterioris modi exemplum hîc habes, & Act. 25. 21. Et ſanè quid aliud eſſe dicemus Gentibus dari, hoc eſt, occupandi poteſtatem fieri, quàm calcari? & quid tandem calcarent Gentes niſi id quod eis datum fuerat? ut hæ quoque voces, non minùs quàm Atrii & Civitatis ſanctæ, ſeſe mutuò explicare videantur.

Ad Cap. 11.

¶ Ichnographia ΤΟΥ̃ ΙΕΡΟΥ̃, id eſt, Templi & Atriorum ejus.

AAAA Atrium interius.
BBBB BBB Atrium exterius.
α β ΝΑΟΣ ſive Templum.
α Sanctum Sanctorum.
β Sanctum.
γ δ Altare holocauſti.
Aγ Aδ Thyſiaſterium.

Duobus hiſce Atriis (quorum, & non plurium, Scriptura meminit) poſterioribus ſeculis, in Templo nimirum Herodiano, alio adhuc muro in Templi ambitu exſtructo, tertium additum fuit, quod Gentium & immundorum dicebatur; ſed pro ſacro non habitum: quinimo in columnis ibi poſitis, tum Græcis tum Latinis literis, inſcriptum fuit, Μὴ δεῖν ἀλλόφυλον ἐντὸς τοῦ ἁγίου παρίναι, In Atrium ſanctum tranſire alienigenam non debere. Joſephus de Bello Judaic. l. 6. cap. 6. Græc. ιδ'.

MYSTE-

Ad Cap. 11.

MYSTERIUM DUORUM TESTIUM

in ſacco prophetantium.

GEntibus in Atrio populi Dei ſeu Civitate ſancta ſtabulantibus, TESTES ſeu PROPHETÆ à Deo bini prædicant pullati & amicti ſaccis. Hi ſunt veritatis Divinæ Interpretes & Aſſertores, qui fœdam illam & lacrymabilem Eccleſiæ Chriſti contaminationem aſſiduis querelis deflerent, quóſque Deus indeſinenter Orbi Chriſtiano cum Gentibus ſcortanti monitores, Sanctíſque ſuis fidem ſervantibus duces, excitaturus eſſet. Nempe ad inſtar Parium illorum illuſtrium ſub Veteri Teſtamento, MOSIS & AARONIS in Eremo, ELIÆ & ELISÆI ſub Apoſtaſia Baalitica, ZOROBABELIS & JESUÆ ſub ſervitute Babylonica. Ex illorum putà numero, conditione, poteſtate, réque geſta, Teſtes iſti Apocalyptici manifeſtè deſcribuntur; quemadmodum & Eccleſiæ ſtatus in quo prophetârunt, Iſraelitico congruenter, Babylonis, Eremi & Gentiliſmi ſeu Baaliſmi imaginibus figuretur. Quod de Teſtium deſcriptione dixi, id in ſequenti tabella, Lector, oculis tuis uſurpato.

Moſes & Aaron.	Elias & Eliſæus.	Zorobabel & Jeſua.
Ἐξουσίαν ἔχοντες τῶν ὑδάτων, στρέφειν αὐτὰ εἰς αἷμα, καὶ παταξαι τὴν γῆν πάσῃ πληγῇ. v. 6.	Ἐξουσίαν ἔχοντες κλεῖσαι τὸν οὐρανὸν, ἵνα μὴ βρέχῃ. verſ. 6.	Οὗτοί εἰσιν αἱ δύο Ἐλαῖαι καὶ δύο Λυχνίαι, αἱ ἐνώπιον τοῦ Κυρίου τῆς γῆς ἑστῶσαι. verſ. 4.
Οὖς ἐὰν θέλῃ ἀδικῆσαι, πῦρ ἐκπορεύεται ἐκ τοῦ στόματος αὐτῶν, καὶ κατεσθίει τοὺς ἐχθροὺς αὐτῶν. verſ. 5.
De Moſe & Aarone videſis Num. 16. De Elia 2 Reg. c. 1.

Jam ad textum accedamus. Et dabo, inquit, duobus Teſtibus meis, ut prophetent diebus MCCLX amicti ſaccis. Ubi illud primò notandum venit, totam quæ ſequitur prophetiam, ab hoc commate ad clangorem Tubæ ſeptimæ, rei naturâ ſic poſtulante, non viſo exhibitam, ſed ab Angelo Chriſti perſonam ſuſtinente Joanni dictatam fuiſſe; id quod obſervâſſe ad genium allegoriæ ſeu typi rectiùs percipiendum haud parùm facit. Verſ. 3.

Duobus Teſtibus meis] Duos dicit propter typum, qui, ut dixi, binorum eſt; acſi dixiſſet, Dabo Zorobabeli & Jeſuæ meis, Eliæ & Eliſæo meis, Moſi & Aaroni meis. Cui accedit quòd Teſtes eos vocat, Teſtes autem ex Lege duos eſſe oportuit ad ſtabiliendum omne verbum. Adde, quòd Duo dici poſſint, pro numero Tabularum Dei, quas in prophetia ſua adhiberent, Veteris & Novi Teſtamenti, quaſi duorum Teſtamentorum Teſtes.

Ut prophetent amicti ſaccis] Nempe lugubriter plangendo conculcationem Civitatis ſanctæ ex Gentilium cultu introducto, Dei veritati Teſtimonium perhibendo, & cohortando ad reſipiſcentiam.

Diebus 1260] Quot nempe in menſibus 42. continentur. Quos non ſſe

Ad Cap. 11.

eſſe dies horarios liquet, tum ex tribus illis diebus & dimidio, horum dierum partibus, paulò pòſt Teſtium morti aſſignandis; quos pro diebus horariis accipi non poſſe, arguunt quæ tunc gerenda prædicuntur: tum ex eo quòd Beſtia (cujus item duratio ſint) Cœtui 144 M. Signatorum, Cœtus autem Signatorum ſex primis Tubis contemporet, Tubarum verò res tantillo tempore quantum eſt dierum 1260 horariorum, ſeu triennii & ſemeſtris, decurri non poſſint. Sed cur, inquies, Gentium profanatio Menſibus, Teſtium autem purum Dei cultum aſſerentium prophetia Diebus menſuretur? Nempe, quia cultus Idolorum omnéque peccatum & error poteſtatis tenebrarum & noctis ſit, quibus Luna præſidet; contrà Religio vera Luci & Diei comparetur, quarum penes Solem præfectura eſt. Ideo Act. 26. 18. Pauli miſſio ad Gentes ab idolis convertendas dicitur, ad convertendum eas à Tenebris ad Lucem, à poteſtate Satanæ ad Deum. Quâ mente eſt & illud, Quæ ſocietas luci cum tenebris? Jam verò Menſes LUNÆ, tenebrarum dominæ, Dies & Anni SOLIS, qui luci præſidet, motu dirigun-

* Cap. 13. 5. tur. Eadem de cauſa, ut *poſtea videbimus, Beſtiæ blaſphemia, ſimiliter ad motum LUNÆ, menſibus; Mulieris verò in Eremo manſio, annis & diebus, ad motum SOLIS, numerabitur.

Verſ. 4. Hi ſunt duæ illæ oleæ & duo candelabra, coram Domino terræ conſiſtentes. Id eſt, ſunt inſtar ZOROBABELIS & JESUÆ, quos olim Dominus unxerat ad Eccleſiam Judaicam ſub captivitate Babylonica perditam denuo inſtaurandam, atque Teſtibus hiſce conſimiliter ſub Gentium ſervitute procurandam. Alluſum enim eſt ad duas iſtas oleas quas Zacharias viderat utrinque Candelabri aurei creſcentes, oleúmque Lucernis ejus ſuppeditantes, Zach. 4. de quibus Angelus rogatus, quid ſibi vellent; Hi ſunt, inquit, duo filii olei ſtantes coram Domino totius terræ; indigitans duo Eccleſiæ ſub gentibus tum ſervientis capita, ZOROBABELEM ducem & JESUAM Pontificem, de quibus paulò antè prophetaverat.

Candelabrum enim ibi ſeptem lucernarum Templum deſignabat, ejúſque typo illius temporis Eccleſiam: cujus inſtaurationem conſervationémque duo Uncti iſti procuraturi eſſent, non copiis, non robore, ullóve adminiculo

Zach. 4. 6. humano, ſed virtute ſolius Dei, modo quodam inviſibili & mirabili operantis; quemadmodum Oleæ iſtæ Candelabro utrinque aſſiſtentes oleum luminibus ejus ſufficiebant viâ planè extraordinariâ nec perceptibili.

At quorſum, inquies, hîc apud Joannem non unius, ut apud Zachariam, ſed duorum Candelabrorum mentio, quibus itidem, & non Oleis duntaxat, duo iſti Prophetæ aſſimilari videntur? Fateor me hîc hærere, necdum ſatis expeditam & liquidam hujus diſcriminis rationem inveniſſe. Interim in verbis puto Hebraiſmum latere, eſſéque acſi dixiſſet, Hi ſunt duæ illæ Oleæ, ad vel juxta duo candelabra, coram Domino terræ conſiſtentes: ità ut Teſtium ſolummodo cum Oleis comparatio fiat, Candelabrorum verò adjectio non niſi ad Olearum deſcriptionem pertinere judicetur. Nam copulativa Hebræis quandoque vice ב præpoſitionis eſt, id eſt, pro cum, juxta, apud; ut 1 Sam. 14. 18. Quia erat arca Dei in die illo & filii Iſrael, id eſt, cum filiis Iſrael. Vide Lexicon Schindleri. Sed manebit nihilominus difficultas de duobus Candelabris. An igitur dicendum unicum illud apud Zachariam Candelabrum hîc pro duplici cenſeri, propter nempe geminum ab utraque parte ſcapi lucernarum ordinem, & duas oleas utriſque ſeorſim oleum infundentes? Eſt quoque apud Zachariam ſeptem & ſeptem, i. bis ſeptem, infuſoriorum mentio; ſed quorſum ſpectet non ſatis liquet. An verò binarium iſtum putemus ad Eccleſiæ Chriſtianæ conditionem deſignandam privatim pertinere? nempe, aut quaſi ex duobus populis, Judæis & Gentibus, congeminantis; aut, quod vero forſan propius, quia tempore quo Teſtes pullati ingemiſcerent, unà cum Imperio Romano, in Orientis & Occi-

Occidentis dividendæ? Ut ut ſit, certum eſt, Candelabra, non Prophetas aut Antiſtites Eccleſiarum, ſed Eccleſias ipſas denotare, ex eo quòd ſuprà cap. 1. Angelus ſeptem Candelabra totidem Eccleſias interpretetur: Septem, inquit, candelabra quæ vidiſti ſeptem Eccleſiæ ſunt. Ad Cap. 11.

Quos ſi quis voluerit lædere, ignis prodit ex ore ipſorum & devorat inimicos eorum: Et ſi quis voluerit eos lædere, ità oportet eum occîdi. Verſ. 5.

Non manu, non ferro aut pugionibus ſeſe ulciſcuntur Teſtes, ſi quando ab hoſtibus læſi fuerint; ſed ex ore ipſorum prodit vindicta, id eſt, oralibus telis inimicos configunt; dum nempe iram Dei miniſtrorum ejus violatoribus impendentem denunciant, aut precibus & gemitibus ſuis ultionem impetrant. Ignis enim hic qui ex ore Teſtium egredi perhibetur, Ultionis verbum eſt; juxta illud Domini ad Jeremiam cap. 5. 14. Ecce ego do verba mea in ore tuo in IGNEM, & populum iſtum in ligna, & vorabit eos. Moſes quidem & Aaron, & poſtmodum Elias, illi in ſeditionis Korachicæ conjuratos, hic verò in Ahaziæ Regis Bialicolæ miniſtros, ignem propriè dictum cœlo devocârunt: at noſtrorum Teſtium ignis myſticè interpretandus eſt, cùm, monente mox Spiritu S. Ægyptus noſtra, proindéque Eremus, πνευματικῶς accipiantur. Porrò quod Prophetæ in nomine Dei denunciant, idem & ipſi patrare dicuntur, ut oſtendit quod ad eundem Jeremiam ait Dominus, c. 1. 10. Præfeci te, inquit, gentibus & regnis, ad exſtirpandum & demoliendum, & ad perdendum & deſtruendum, ad ædificandum & plantandum: nè quis jam miretur, quòd ex ore Teſtium prodire dicatur ignis ſeu vindicta Divina, penes quos tamen ſola denunciandi aut à Deo impetrandi poteſtas ſit.

Ità propriam injuriam ulciſcuntur Teſtes: Sequitur, quâ ratione etiam contumeliam Templo Dei illatam. Videlicet Poteſtatem habent claudendi cælum, nè pluat (pluviâ nempe myſticâ) in diebus prophetiæ ipſorum. Verſ. 6.

Hoc eſt, *clavium poteſtate inſtructi ſunt, quâ novis iſtis Gentilibus, cultûs Chriſtiani contaminatoribus, cœlum claudant, nè ſanguinis Chriſti gratia per Baptiſmum obſignata tamdiu ſuper eos ſtillet ad remiſſionem peccatorum, quamdiu idololatriis & ſuperſtitionibus ſuis pullatæ Teſtium prophetiæ cauſa eſſe perſeveraverint. Dicam planiùs. Spe vitæ æternæ, ſolis puris Dei cultoribus promiſſæ, novos iſtos Idololatras ex verbo Dei arcent; donec, ſtipulationis in Baptiſmo memores, ad unius Dei cultum per unicum Mediatorem Jeſum Chriſtum, abjectis Satanæ cultibus, redierint, ſícque finem lugubri Teſtium prophetiæ impoſuerint. Quemadmodum & Elias non priùs Iſraelitis, ſiccitate jam propè enectis, pluviam reddiderit, quàm Baalis prophetæ ejúſque cultus exterminarentur.

Vid. Deut. 11. v. 16, 17.

*In Gem. Sanhedrin Elias obtinuiſſe dicitur ארקליא דמטרא clavem pluviæ.

Hujuſce autem poteſtatis Teſtium exemplum habemus infrà cap. 14. 9. Si quis, inquiunt, adoraverit Beſtiam & imaginem ejus, & acceperit characterem in fronte ſua aut manu ſua; Bibet hic ex vino iræ Dei, ex mero miſto in calice iræ ipſius, & cruciabitur igne & ſulphure, in conſpectu Angelorum ſanctorum & in conſpectu Agni: Et fumus tormenti ipſorum aſcendet in ſecula ſeculorum, &c.

Denique poteſtatem habent ſuper aquas, convertendi eas in ſanguinem, & percutiendi terram omni plagâ, quotieſcunque voluerint.

Cujuſmodi nempe poteſtatem exercuerint Moſes & Aaron Iſraelem ex Ægyptiaca ſervitute educturi. Unde colligo, poteſtatem Teſtium, typo iſthoc figuratam, non ad omnes Prophetiæ pullatæ dies, ſed ad finem eorum pertinere, ſeu tempus Phialarum; quando nimirum Teſtium ſeu Prophetarum iſtorum auſpiciis, quaſi Moſis & Aaronis, populus Chriſtianus, plagis Ægyptiacarum imagine expreſſis, ſimiliter de Beſtiæ tyrannide atque ſervitute educendus eſt. Siquidem prima phialarum plaga terram ulcere percutit; ſecunda ſecundâ & tertiâ aquæ in ſanguinem vertuntur; cæteræ aliis adhuc gravioribus Beſtianos ſeu gentes in Atrio Templi ſtabulantes plagis conficiunt. Quarum omnium interpretationem ſuo loco ſervamus. Sufficiat hîc, noviſſimam hanc poteſtatem ad Phialarum effuſionem retuliſſe. Sequitur, Verſ. 7. Sed cùm finituri ſunt teſtimonium ſuum, Beſtia quæ aſcendit ex Abyſſo faciet adverſus eos bellum, & vincet eos, & occîdet eos.

Ad Cap. 11.

De munere & poteſtate Teſtium hactenus; ſequitur jam de fato quod ad finem prophetiæ ſuæ experirentur. Cujus deſcriptio ex hiſtoria Paſſionis Dominicæ tota conflata eſt. Dominus enim Jeſus conſimiliter, cùm prædicationem ſuam totidem circiter quot Teſtium prophetia dierum finiret, à Præſide Romano Beſtiæ hujus qua cum Teſtibus bellum eſt (ſed ſexti capitis ſui vice) legato occiſus eſt. Tertio pòſt die, facto item terræ motu magno, reſurrexit; paulóque pòſt, die nempe quadrageſimo, in cœlum nube receptus aſcendit. Quæ omnia in hac Teſtium ſeu Prophetarum ipſius clade voluit Deus repræſentari: ut ſicuti in muneris ſui ſtatu Parium iſtorum illuſtrium (de quibus antè) ſimilitudinem geſſerant; ità in perpeſſione & morte Chriſto Domino ſuo, Teſti illi fideli, conformes efficerentur; quod quidem ipſis in mediis ærumnis ſuis & ſolatio eſſe debet & gloriæ.

Sed textui lucem faciamus. Cùm finituri ſint, inquit, teſtimonium ſuum (ſic enim ὅταν τελέσωσι vertendum, non de præterito, cùm finierint) Beſtia quæ aſcendit ex abyſſo faciet cum iis bellum, & vincet eos, & occîdet eos: Id eſt, cùm jam, parte Civitatis Sanctæ ſeu Orbis Chriſtiani incolarum, de idololatriis & abominationibus ſuis, agnitâ Gentiliſmi fœditate, reſipiſcente, & Templum Dei apud ſeſe repurgante, Teſtes gratulabundi ſaccum exuere & diuturno planctu ſuo defungi inciperent, nondum tamen penitus defuncti eſſent; BESTIA illa Romana ſepticeps vicis noviſſimæ (de qua cap. 13.) uſque eò pullatorum iſtorum concionem valuiſſe indignata, faciet eis bellum, vincet & occîdet eos. Quorum primum, de Teſtium planctu finiri cœpto, ab initio Eccleſiæ reformatæ hucuſque continuè factitatum eſt.

Alterum, de bello & cæde, etiamnum futurum eſſe ſuſpicor. Brightmannus quidem noſter illud jamdudum, in Bello nimirum Smalcaldico, ſub Carolo V. Cæſare impletum cenſuit. Alii modernæ Eccleſiarum Germanicarum ſtragi accommodant. Et quis tam triſtem Eccleſiæ Caſum non multò magis præteriiſſe mallet quàm adhuc metuendum ſupereſſe? Sed non eſt ex voto noſtro interpretatio dirigenda: imò majori cum periculo in partem iſtam quàm è contrà errabitur: plus ſiquidem ad pietatem valet calamitatis futuræ exſpectatio, quàm credula nimis de ea quaſi jam tranſacta ſecuritas. Adhuc autem metuendam eſſe cladem iſtam noviſſimam duo mihi perſuadent. Primum, quòd luctuoſa illa Gentium Civitatem Sanctam ſeu Religionem Chriſtianam conculcantium tempora, ſive MENSES XLII, tantiſper dum Beſtia regnaverit periodum ſuam compleviſſe dici non poſſint; proindéque neque contemporanei ac coævi iiſdem Teſtium in ſacco & cilicio plangentium DIES. Alterum, quòd hæc Teſtium clades proximè anteceſſura ſit (ut paulò pòſt audiemus) cladem & ruinam Urbis magnæ, id eſt, ROMÆ, quam tam propè abeſſe non patitur Phialarum ſeries; utpote quarum quartam (quamvis in præſenti rerum motu id agi ſperandum) nondum prætervecti ſimus, ut ibi docebitur. Atqui Urbis ruinam ad quintam ſpectare mox oſtendemus, cujus idcirco prodromam fore cladem iſtam de qua agimus, admodum vero conſentaneum eſt; præſertim cùm Chriſto Imperatori noſtro ſolenne ſit, non niſi crucis methodo hoſtes debellare & victoriam ſuis largiri. Neque tamen, ex eo quòd clades hæc noviſſima ſit atque etiamnum futura, quicquam de gravitate ejus ſupra omnes quæ præceſſerunt certò ſtatui poteſt. Fortè enim non tam gravitatis nomine (certè non diuturnitatis) quàm quòd in ſignum eſſet protinus tum finiendi luctûs Teſtium, atque inſtantis ruinæ Romanæ Urbis, ideo ſola ex omnibus quibus Beſtia Sanctos contritura eſſet cladibus ſingularem mentionem & deſcriptionem meruit: perinde nempe ut circundatio Hieroſolymorum ab exercitu Ceſtii Galli, paulò ante fatalem per Titum obſidionem, in excidii ejuſdem tunc inſtantis & pro foribus ſignum prædicta fuerit. Ut quemadmodum Apoſtolis, de temporis illius excidii ſignis quærentibus, dixerit Servator, Cùm videritis circundari ab exercitu Jeruſalem, tunc ſcitote quòd appropinquavit deſolatio ejus: ſimile hîc innui putetur de excidio Babylonis; Cùm videritis triennalem iſtam & dimidii anni Teſtium cædem, ſcitote quòd appropinquavit deſolatio Urbis magnæ. Ad Cap. 11. Luc. 21. 20.

finiendi

Cædem autem quâ Teſtes à BESTIA ſternendi prædicuntur intelligi puto ſignificatione generaliſſimâ, quâ necem etiam comprehendat metaphoricè ſeu analogicè dictam. Mori enim eâ notione dicitur qui in quocunque ſtatu conſtitutus, ſive Politico ſive Eccleſiaſtico, ſeu quovis alio, deſinit eſſe quod fuit; unde & occîdit qui tali morte quemquam afficit. Siquidem in ſtylo ſacro Vivere ſubindè eſt Eſſe, Mori Non eſſe. Quâ mente Satanæ & peccato mori dicimur, cùm eorum mancipia in poſterum eſſe deſinimus; & Chriſto vivere, cùm ejus eſſe incipimus. Et omnino poſcere videtur oppoſitionis ratio, ut cujuſmodi futura ſit poſt patratam cædem reſurrectio Teſtium ad vitam, talis foret & ipſa cædes: Illam verò analogicam eſſe patet, quia nulla reſurrectio propriè dicta futura ſit ante Chriſti adventum ſub Tuba VII. hæc verò fit, currente adhuc ſextâ.

Teſtium igitur in bello occubitus, ſi ad iſtiuſmodi intelligendi normam exponamus, videbitur eſſe illorum ab officio & ſtatione quam in Eccleſia, vi prædicationis ſuæ reformatâ, aliquantiſper conſecuti ſint deturbatio & dejectio; ſive ea cum morte corporali conjuncta ſit, ſive ſecús: adeò ut vitam, qualem tum vixerant, propheticam deinceps non vivant, muniáve ejus exerceant ampliús. Quo ſimul neceſſe eſt futurum ut, columnis ſuis ſubductis, Beſtiæque pſeudoprophetis in locum prophetarum Chriſti poſtliminiò ſubſtitutis, tota Eccleſiæ Reformatæ politia, quàm latè hoc acciderit, in terram concidat. Quod citiúſne an ſeriùs futurum ſit, ſolus ille novit in cujus manu ſunt tempora & opportunitates.

Interim, nè fortè quis decipiatur, illud accuratè animadvertendum, Bellum hoc BESTIÆ noviſſimum non eſſe ejuſdem generis cum eo quod adverſus Sanctorum cœtum hucuſque continuè geſſerat (de quo nempe in BESTIÆ hiſtoria dicatur cap. 13. quòd datum ſit ei bellum gerere cum ſanctis, & eos vincere;) ſed omnino diverſi. Quorſum enim illud tanquam ultimis Beſtiæ temporibus peculiare narraretur, quod ſi non ab incunabulis ſuis, ſaltem jam indè ab ἀκμῇ ſua, ei ſolenne fuerat? Aliud igitur eſt bellum quod Beſtia geſſit contra ſanctos universè, aliud quod in noviſſimo ſuo gerit cum Prophetis, qui jam cilicio exui planctúmque ſuum propheticum finire cœpiſſent, id eſt, Antiſtitibus Eccleſiæ parte ſuâ reformatæ. Id quod ampliùs ex diverſo utriuſque belli eventu manifeſtum eſt; illic ſanè proſpero, hîc admodum funeſto. Illic enim poteſtatem conſequuta eſt Beſtia in omnem tribum, linguam & gentem, &c. hîc verò ſubitam & fatalem ſibi ruinam accerſit, ut in textu videre eſt.

Et cadavera eorum (jacebunt) in πλατείᾳ URBIS magnæ, quæ vocatur ſpiritualiter Sodoma & Ægyptus, ubi & Dominus ipſorum crucifixus eſt. Verſ. 8.

URBS illa cognomine Magna ROMA eſt, ſic dicta, non tam quantitatis intuitu, quàm quòd aliarum Urbium regina eſſet; juxta illud Angeli cap. 17. ult. Mulier quam vidiſti eſt URBS illa MAGNA, quæ regnum habet ſuper reges terræ. Quemadmodum nomine REGIS magni (quomodo Deus appellatur Pſ. 48. 3. & Matth. 5. 35. quíque titulus olim peculiariter Regibus Aſſyriorum & Perſarum competebat) innuitur Rex regum, qui in alios reges poteſtatem habet. Unde per totam Apocalypſin, quocunq; aliàs nomine

Ad Cap. 11.

Roma appelletur, ſive Babylonis, ſive Meretricis, ſemper hoc titulo Magna inſignitur; ut Babylon illa Magna, Meretrix illa Magna. Adde, quòd in tota Apocalypſi nulli præter ipſam urbi titulus iſte tribuatur, niſi demum poſt excidium ejus, Novæ iſti Jeruſalem de cœlo deſcenſuræ, in cujus lumine

Cap. 21. 10. deinceps ambularent Gentes: quam qui hîc ſignificari putaret, ei ſanè helleboro opus eſſet. Atqui nec Jeruſalem Joannis ævo fuit, neque ulla alia Jeruſalem præter ipſam unquam futura eſt Urbs Magna, ſeu aliarum Orbis urbium caput & regina.

Additur, Quæ vocatur ſpiritualiter Sodoma & Ægyptus: Ægyptus, ob tyrannidem in populum Dei, inſtar Ægyptiacæ; Sodoma, ob ſcortationem, ſcilicet ſpiritualem. Eſt autem hîc (quod Lector diligenter obſervet) Clavis allegoriæ, (cujuſmodi plures in hoc libro occurrunt) quâ nempe Spiritus Sanct. ſemel innuere voluit, quicquid uſpiam de plagis Ægyptiacis aut Sodomorum clade in hiſce Viſionibus exhibeatur, id omne πνευματικῶς, id eſt, myſticè, interpretandum eſſe; cùm nempe Roma, ſtatúſve rei Romanæ, plagarum iſtarum omnium ſubjectum, Sodoma ſit atque Ægyptus myſtica. Occurrunt autem de plagis Ægyptiacis, in deſcriptione Tubarum & Phialarum, necnon in hac ipſa Teſtium hiſtoria; de Sodomorum clade, in Judicio Beſtiæ, c. 19. 20. & 20. 10. quorum omnium ſenſus hâc Clave aperiendus eſt. Hinc etiam demonſtrari poteſt, Tubarum ſubjectum eſſe ditionem Romanam: quoniam ex earum plagis quædam Ægyptiacæ ſint; cui autem plagæ Ægyptiacæ inferrentur niſi Ægypto? atqui hæc, Spiritu S. authore, Roma eſt.

Ità de Urbe magna res plana eſt. Sed quid ſit πλατεῖα illa Urbis, cujus hîc mentio, non adeò ſcitu facile eſt. Sanè enim pro vico, aut eo quod Latinè plateam dicimus, aut foro, aut loco quovis alio intra Urbem, ſumi non poſſe videtur; ídque ob ſequentes rationes.

Primò enim Chriſtus Dominus, qui in hac πλατείᾳ crucifixus dicitur, neque in Urbis Romæ neque Hieroſolymorum vico aliquo, aut foro, aut areâ crucifixus eſt; quinimo extra hujus portam, (Hebr. 13. 12.) in illius autem provincia duntaxat, à Pilato Præſide. Ergò πλατεῖα τῆς πόλεως τῆς μεγάλης non eſt vicus aliquis, aut via latior, intra alterutrius Urbis mœnia, ſed locus extra Urbem.

2. Πλατείαν ſingulari numero poſitam, ejus generis rem deſignare veriſimile eſt cujuſmodi unicam Urbs habeat, non plures. At vici in qualibet Urbe, ſaltem inſigniori, plures ſunt.

3. Ibi jacere corpora Teſtium putandum eſt ubi bello victi ſunt. At bello congredi non ſolet intra Urbis mœnia, ſed, ſi non in hoſtico, ſaltem in regione & provinciis Urbi ſubjectis.

4. Quorum occiſorum cadavera per tres dies & dimidium populi, tribus, linguæ & gentes coràm intueri potuerint, & curare nè ſepelirentur, ea non in Urbis magnæ vico aliquo aut platea jacebant, ſed aut diſperſa fuiſſe, aut circumlata per provincias videntur; ad quas idcirco ſignificatio τῆς πλατείας accommodari debeat. Et ſi quis dixerit, exercitum Beſtiæ quo Teſtes ſuſi cæſíque ſunt ex variis populis & linguis conflatum eſſe, ideóque facilè cadavera eorum cernere potuiſſe quos ceciderant: ad argumentum ſuperius recurrendum eſt, Cum tantis exercitibus congredi non ſolere intra Urbis mœnia. Nam omnino res ità explicanda eſt, præſertim ubi nulla allegoriæ ratio obtendi poteſt, ut nè ſenſui literali quid abſurdi inſit.

Quid igitur hîc aliud dicemus, quàm πλατείας nomenclaturâ regionem & territorium univerſum Urbis ditioni ſubjectum deſignari; ídque ſignificationis vel ab Hebraico רחב traxiſſe, cui ſæpe in verſione Septuag. reſpondeat? nimirum pro more & uſu linguæ Helleniſticæ, quæ vocem Græcam voci Hebrææ πολυσήμῳ unâ ſignificatione juxta uſum ſuum nativum reſpondentem, etiam alteri ſignificationi adhibere ſoleat; ut multis exemplis probari poſſit, ſi res eſſet hujus inſtituti. Jam verò רחב Hebræis ſignificat quicquid omnino extrà ſit, ſive extra ædes, ut vicos & vias in urbibus, ſive extra urbem, ut χώραν regionem ſeu agrum circumjectum. Sanè Job. 5. 10. ubi in Hebræo eſt עַל פְּנֵי חוּצוֹת, Chaldæus reddit, Qui dat pluviam ſuper faciem terræ, & mittit aquas ſuper faciem provinciæ ſeu regionis populorum. Vel à notione latitudinis, ut ſit idem quod πλάτος τῆς γῆς, Iſa. 8. 8. Et extenſio alarum ejus (id eſt, Aſſyrii) implebit latitudinem terræ tuæ, ô Immanuel: & Apoc. 20. 9. de Gog & Magog, ἀνέβησαν ἐπὶ τὸ πλάτος τῆς γῆς, καὶ ἐκύκλωσαν——τὴν πόλιν τὴν ἠγαπημένην. Huc enim facit quòd רְחָב quæ vox altera eſt quam Septuag. πλατεῖαν transferunt, & רְחֹב quæ latitudinem ſeu πλάτος ſignificat, eaſdem omnino literas habeant, & utraque Chaldæis unâ eâdémque voce פַּתְאָה dicatur. Vel denique notione latitudinis, quæ voci πλατεῖα nativa eſt, innuere voluit Spiritus Sanctus amplitudinem ditionis Urbis illius magnæ, quâ omnes Urbes ſuperaverit, hodiéque ſuperet: acſi ἐπὶ τῆς πλατείας poſitum eſſet pro ἐπὶ χώρας τῆς πλατείας, &c. Sanè vox πλατεῖα Adjectivum eſt Subſtantivè poſitum, proindéque ſubintelligi aliquid debet; & verò aliud atque aliud poteſt, ad ſignificationem ejus explanandam. nec ſcio an illa vici ſignificatio apud veteres ſcriptores Græcos admodum reperiatur. Ad Cap. 11.

quic-

Jam verò autem, cui hæc interpretatio ſeſe probaverit, ei ampliùs obſcurum eſſe non poteſt, aut quâ ratione Chriſtus in πλατείᾳ urbis Romanæ crucifixus dicatur, aut ubi Teſtium occiſorum cadavera abjicienda ſint; nempe non in Urbe Roma, ſed intra ditionem Romanam. Scio equidem, complures noſtrorum, ut ad eundem ſcopum perveniant, hîc Urbis nomine totam Urbis ditionem intelligere. Sed quid tum, amabò, πλατεῖα erit? Nam quorum alterutrum ut ſit propè neceſſarium videtur, neutrum eſſe poteſt. Non ditio, ut quæ jam ipſius Urbis nomine deſignetur: Non provincia aliqua, ut quas Urbs magna plures habeat; πλατεῖα verò unum quid & ſingulare, ſingulari numero poſitum, innuat. Atque hæc de πλατείᾳ τῆς πόλεως τῆς μεγάλης notâſſe ſufficiat: jam pergamus ad reliqua.

Et cernent (homines) ex tribubus & populis & gentibus cadavera eorum per tres dies & dimidium, & cadavera eorum non ſinent poni in monumentis. Vel, Et erunt * ex tribubus & populis & gentibus qui cernent cadavera eorum, &c. Verſ. 9.

* De partitiva hac locutione Hebræis & Syris familiariſſima vid. Ludovic. de Dieu Com. in Evangel. p. 134. in fine.

Utrùm hoc in immanitatis, an verò beneficii partem accipiendum ſit, in ambiguo eſt; nec niſi ex prophetiæ complemento determinandum. Poteſt enim accipi vel tanquam ab hoſtibus profectum, hoc inſuper ignominiæ ad cumulum quam patraverant cædis adjicientibus, ut interfectorum corpora ſepulturâ prohiberent: Vel tanquam ab amicis & fautoribus Teſtium, hâc nimirum ratione, quaſi mox revicturis conſulentibus. Ut ut enim maximæ alioquin immanitatis ſit non ſepelire mortuos, & inſepultum abjici, præſertim apud Judæos, pro ſumma ignominia habebatur; tamen qui ità occubuerunt ut non planè deſperatum ſit quin adhuc vitæ reſtitui poſſint, eos ſepulcri clauſtris tantiſper prohibere in beneficii loco ponendum eſt. Si prius ſtatuendum, innui hoc typo videtur aliqua infamiæ aut ignominiæ nota quâ Beſtiani, ſuſtuliſſe Teſtes haud contenti, eoſdem inſuper mulctabunt. Sin poſterius, ſubſidii aliquid à populis Reformatis, quorum formidine, utpote multitudinis longè maximæ, ideóque, recenti adhuc vulnere rebúſque nondum confirmatis, ad deſperationem haud impunè provocandæ, aut ſaltem operâ & favore occulto, futurum ſit, nè ità cum Teſtibus agatur ut nulla ſpes ſit reviviſcendi. Achmetes ex Indorum diſciplina, Apotel. 130. Si quis in ſomnis viſus ſibi fuerit ſepultus, ſepulcrum ipſum ad plenam certitudinem interitûs ejus ſpectat. Si videre viſus fuerit defectum aliquem rerum ad ſepulturam pertinentium, is defectus ad ſpem refertur. Si jam quæras, ecquid in textu appareat quod ad hanc interpretationem potiùs inclinet quàm ad illam? Ego verò illud in hujus rei argumentum traherem, quòd cùm diverſo modo & verbis ſuppoſitum hîc enuntiet atque cùm de hoſtibus ſequenti verſu agat, non eoſdem hîc atque illic intelligi velit, ſed diverſos; illic quidem hoſtes, hîc verò amicos Teſtium. Nam de hoſtibus in ſequenti verſu exſultantibus & munera invicem mittentibus dicit, Οἱ κατοικοῦντες ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς· de iſtis verò qui Teſtium cadavera non ſinent poni in monumentis, Ἐκ τῶν φυλῶν καὶ λαῶν καὶ γλωσσῶν καὶ ἐθνῶν, partitivè, quaſi certos quoſdam notaret diverſo à reliquis ingenio. Judicet Lector.

Ad Cap. 11.

Per tres dies & dimidium.

Id eſt, ut videtur, triennium & ſemeſtre. Nam de diebus horariis intelligi non poſſe arguunt quæ tunc gerenda prædicuntur. Ecquis enim credat, tridui & dimidii diei ſpatiolum aut famæ necis Teſtium per Orbem diſſeminandæ, aut Legatis cum muneribus ultrò citróque inter gentes mittendis, ſufficere? Imò nè parandis quidem ſufficeret. Adde quòd dimidium diei horarii, ſeu horæ duodecim, hujuſmodi actibus determinandis prorſus ineptum ſit. Non enim ad horas res iſtiuſmodi obſervari ſolent, quinimo ad menſes, ſaltem ad dies integros. Interim animadvertendum, tempus hîc computari non Teſtium occidendorum, ſed quo jacebunt mortui & inanimes poſtquam jam occubuerint. Quamdiu autem bellum ipſum durabit, quantúmque temporis dabitur Prophetis interficiendis, non niſi Vaticinii complementum docebit.

Verſ. 10. Et qui habitant ſuper terram gaudebunt ſuper illis, & hilares erunt, & munera mittent invicem, quòd hi duo Prophetæ torſerant habitantes ſuper terram.

De more mittendorum munerum in publico gaudio aut in magna lætitia, vide Eſtheræ c. 9. 19, 22.

Verſ. 11. Sed poſt tres dies & dimidium, Spiritus vitæ à Deo ingreſſus eſt in illos, ſteterúntque in pedes ſuos; & metus magnus cecidit in eos qui ſpectârint ipſos.

Qualis erat Teſtium mors, talis erit excitatio à mortuis ſeu reſurrectio, nempe reſtitutio in ſtatum priſtinum; ídque non tam operâ aliquâ aut auxilio humano, quàm digito Dei, qui mirabilis eſt in operibus ſuis. Hoc enim innuit, Spiritus vitæ à Deo ingreſſus eſt in illos. Achmetes Apoteleſm. 6, & 7. ex Ægyptiorum & Perſarum diſciplina: Si quis in ſomnis ſuſcitationem mortuorum videre viſus fuerit, ea res vinctorum liberationem ac bellorum finem ſignificat. Apot. 6. ex calamitatibus ereptionem. Videſis Ezech. cap. 37.

Verſ. 12. Et audierunt vocem magnam de cælo dicentem ipſis, Aſcendite huc. Aſcenderúntque in cælum per nubem (vel in nube;) & conſpexerunt illos inimici eorum.

Non reſtituentur ſolummodo Teſtes in locum & ſtationem priſtinam, quinimo evehentur in ſublimiorem aliquem honoris & poteſtatis gradum. Id enim nube vehi & in cælum aſcendere ſignificat. Vide Dan. 7. 13. Iſai. c. 14. 13. & * 19. 1. Unde in Apoteleſmatis inſomniorum, quæ ex priſcis Ægyptiorum & Perſarum monumentis collegit Arabs ille quem toties laudavi, Apomaſar an Achmetes? legitur, Si Rex in nubibus conſediſſe ſibi viſus fuerit, & vehi quócunque libeat, barbari hoſtes ei ſervitutem ſervient, quibus ipſe cum imperio præerit. Item, Si Rex ad cælum quaſi volâſſe viſus ſibi fuerit ubi ſidera eſſent, ſuper Reges cateros eminentiâ potietur & famâ. Item, Si Rex viſus ſibi fuerit ſurſum profectus in cælo conſediſſe, regionem eâ majorem quam poſſidet in poteſtatem rediget. Apotel. 162, & 164. Hæc eò adduco ut oſtendam, parabolam iſtam eâ quam dico ſignificatione apud Dei Prophetas ex uſu Orientis adhibitam. Non igitur,

* Targ. in nube gloriæ ſuæ.

ut

ut antea, miniſterium Teſtium deſpicatui erit, neque ipſi pro abjectæ & contemptæ ſortis hominibus habendi. Adeò illud quod Salvator de ſeipſo dixit Luc. 24. 26. Nonne hæc oportuit pati Chriſtum, & [deinde] introire in gloriam ſuam? in Prophetis quoque ſuis vim ſuam & veritatem conſequetur. Et quis novit annon Eccleſia Reformata probrum Chriſto hâc parte illatum, Teſtium ad tempus ſublatione, luitura ſit; quòd eos pro legationis dignitate, dum fruebantur, non habuiſſent? Notum eſt nimis quid ab Eccleſiis Reformatis in hanc partem peccatum ſit: útque dum Prophetæ Chriſti Templo Dei repurgando ſtrenuè incubuere, alii interim, gazis ejus expilandis oblationibúſque intervertendis, ſanctiſſimum opus commaculârunt; nè alimentis quidem alicubi (magno veræ Religionis dedecore) relictis, quibus Miniſtri ejus honeſtè & pro ordinis ſui dignitate ſuſtentarentur; nedum ut quod ſuperabundaret ad Rei reformatæ amplificationem, belli ſacri neceſſitates, afflictorum fratrum ſubſidium, aliósque pios uſus ſeponerent. Annon verò id genus fuit prævaricatio illa, ob quam olim Templum Judaicum Antiocho Epiphani prophanandum, atque Religio veri Dei triennio ſimiliter conculcanda data fuerit? Exercitus, inquit Daniel, dabitur ei contra juge Sacrificium propter prævaricationem, & projiciet veritatem in terram, & faciet, & proſperabitur, cap. 8. 12. Vide autem hiſtoriam lib. 2. Mac. ab initio cap. 3. ad 5. & judica. Sed nolo ampliùs unguem in hoc ulcere. Hoc tantùm adjiciam, Fortè hoc honoris & poteſtatis augmentum Teſtibus à reſurrectione ſua, ſupremi magiſtratûs juſſu (quæ vox illa de cælo eſſe videtur) obventurum, tanquam in infamiæ illius atque ignominiæ compenſationem, quâ eoſdem Beſtiani mortuos multaverant; ſi modò id ſignificatum fuerit prohibitione iſtâ ſepulturæ. Ad Cap. 11.

Et in illa hora factus eſt terræ motus magnus, & decima pars Urbis (pura illius magnæ) cecidit, & occiſa ſunt in terræ motu nomina hominum ſeptiesmille. Verſ. 13.

Quo tempore Teſtes ſeu Prophetæ in vitam redierunt atque aſcenderunt in cœlum, factus eſt terræ motus magnus, i. magna gentium commotio & rerum politicarum converſio; quâ nempe Teſtibus via aperta, atque facultas data ſit in vitam redeundi, cum tanto dignitatis & poteſtatis auctario. Eo gentium motu ΔΕ'ΚΑΤΟΝ Urbis corruit, & occiſa ſunt nomina hominum ſeptiesmille. Quorum verborum ſententiam ut quantum in re futura fieri poſſit vero quàm proximam aſſequamur, duo nobis præſtruenda ſunt & probanda. Primum, cùm nullus non Beſtiæ ruentis caſus Phialarum aliquâ contineatur, eandem igitur hîc Beſtiæ cladem deſcribi quæ ad effuſionem Phialæ quintæ. Argumento eſt idem utrobique plagæ ſubjectum; illic ſedes ſeu thronus Beſtiæ, hîc URBS illa magna. Eſſe enim URBEM illam magnam, ROMAM nempe, Beſtiæ ſedem, notius eſt quàm ut probari opus ſit. Firmatur ampliùs, Quia clades quæ hîc deſcribitur tam propè antecedat plenariam Beſtiæ abolitionem ad Tubam VII, ut nihil interea interveniſſe narretur præter abitionem VÆ ſecundi. Jam verò omnimoda Beſtiæ abolitio opus eſt Phialæ noviſſimæ; Abitio VÆ ſecundi, ſeu plagæ illius ab Euphrate, Phialæ ſextæ. Ergò Urbis magnæ clades, quæ abitionem iſtam proximè antevertat, competit in Phialam quintam. Alterum à nobis præſtruendum, eſt, Urbis magnæ caſum iſtum eſſe ipſiſſimam Babylonis cladem, quæ cantatur cap. 18. Probatur, quia ex eodem capite certum eſt iſtam Babylonis ſeu Urbis Romanæ cladem prægreſſuram eſſe plenarium Beſtiæ excidium, & auguſtum Chriſti regnum cum VII Tuba ineundum. Jam verò quæ hîc narratur Urbis ejuſdem clades idem illud regnum tam propè antecedit, ut Spiritus, nullius præterea cladis mentione injectâ, ad Regnum illud & Tubæ VII deſcriptionem ſtatim tranſeat. Neceſſe eſt igitur eandem utrobique Urbis illius cladem deſcribi.

Ad Cap. 11. Quis enim in animum ſibi inducat, ut credat Spiritum S. cladem illam maximam omnino prætermiſſurum fuiſſe, minoris alicujus cladis mentione interpoſitâ, & cum illa nullo modo comparandæ?

His ità ſe habentibus, ſequitur, hujus loci interpretationem ad illius normam dirigendam, & quaſi ad Lydium lapidem probandam eſſe; adeóque iſtiuſmodi horum verborum mentem quærendam quæ cum cladis illius Babylonicæ deſcriptione conſentiat. Quod quâ ratione fieri poſſit jam videamus. Philippus Nicolai, Auguſtanæ confeſſionis Theologus, vir doctus & acutus, per Δ Ε΄ ΚΑΤΟΝ τῆ πόλεως intelligi putat Decarchiam URBIS, ſeu decem Regna ditioni ejus ſubdita, quæ nempe in hoc gentium motu à Roma, cujus imperio tot annis ſuberant, ſeceſſu facto deficerent, juſſa ejus deinceps non facturæ. Idipſum nimirum quod alibi dicitur, Decem Reges qui poteſtatem ſuam tradiderant Beſtiæ, tum cùm ſermones Dei completi fuerint, odio habebunt Meretricem, ſolitariam eam efficient & nudam, carnes ejus comedent, ipſámque exurent igne. Sed hujuſmodi notio vocis Δίκατον, ut ut mihi ipſi de hujus loci ſententia cogitanti prima ſeſe obtulerit, & rei ipſius concinnitate valde abblandiebatur, poſtea tamen rem propiùs intuenti duriuſcula viſa eſt & inſolens; ut verear nè iis qui ſimplicem & incoactam interpretationem deſiderent haud facilè ſeſe ſit probatura.

Aliam igitur interpretationem quæro. Et primò animum ſubit, Δίκατον fortaſſe Tributi nomen eſſe; ſive ejus quod Pontifex ex toto Beſtiæ regno, ſive ejus quod ex latifundiis ſuis URBS ipſa dominii jure accipit. Hanc URBIS decimam in magna iſta rerum commotione caſuram, i. defecturam eſſe; eóque innui, URBIS principatum prorſus extinctum iri: ſcilicet, agro ſibi pro patrimonio attributo ſpoliatam, & Pontifice vi indè pulſo, prærogativam & dominium quod in urbes populóſque longè latéque exercere ſolebat amiſſuram, cùm quod ei prærogativam & dominium conciliaverat non ampliùs futura eſſet, purà Regni Beſtiani metropolis, aut Pſeudoprophetæ ſedes. Notum eſt enim, Tributum eſſe dominii ſymbolum, ejúſque nomine pleraſque ſub antiquæ Romæ imperio provincias omnium fructuum partem decimam quotannis perſolviſſe. Quod in Orientis quoque regnis ſolenne fuiſſe, tum ex 1. Maccab. cap. 10. 31. & 11. v. 35. tum ex illa juris regii ſummula, 1 Sam. 8. (cave enim quod de decimis ibi dicitur, de decimis ſacris accipias; Regiæ fuerunt, regibus tanquam Vicediis pendi ſolitæ) probari poteſt; quod & Ariſtoteles confirmat Oeconomicorum l. 2. Non igitur inſolens videri debuit ſi quis hîc affirmaret, nomine decimæ, ſpeciei tam vulgatæ, quodvis in genere URBIS tributum ſignificari poſſe. Sed eò devenire non eſt opus, cùm in Italia ea tributi ratio necdum obſoleverit, & præterea Pontifex Romanus in Imperio ſuo Eccleſiaſtico imaginem ejus jam olim inſtauraverit, omnium beneficiorum Eccleſiaſticorum partem decimam quotannis exigendo. Atqui huic interpretationi obſtat, quòd tunc potiùs Δεκάτη dicendum fuiſſe videtur quàm Δίκατον. Præterea vox ἔτους, quâ neceſſe eſt effectum aliquem terræ motui congruum deſignari, hujuſmodi interpretationi non ſatis obſequens eſt. Imò ſi ſtare poſſet, ruinam tamen Babylonis, quacum eandem eſſe præſupponimus, nimis obſcurè & dilutè, nec ut par erat, exprimere videretur.

V. 15, & 17.

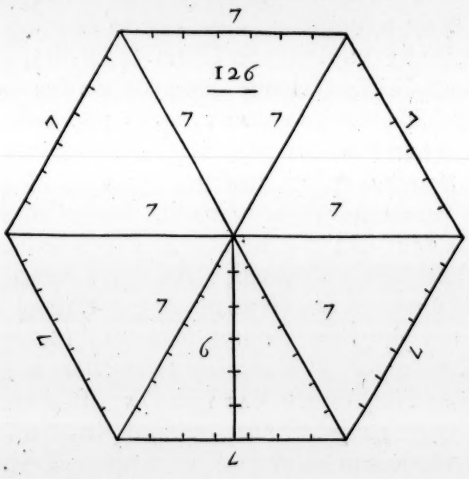
Tandem igitur, donec quis certius aliquid & textui magìs conſonum edocebit, eò dilabor, ut exiſtimem per Δ Ε΄ ΚΑΤΟΝ τῆ πόλεως partem quidem Urbis intelligi, verùm non hodiernæ Urbis partem aliquam, ſed totam; totam dico ROMAM Pontificiam, quæ decima pars eſt illius antiquæ. Quod quidem ità eſſe, neque veteris illius Romæ qualis Joannis ævo fuit hodie ſupereſſe pluſquam decimam, ex ſequenti ratiocinio perſpicere licet.

Siqui-

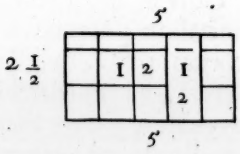
Siquidem Romam illam veterem, qualis Joannis ævo fuit, adſtruit Lipſius, formam quod attinet, propemodum rotundam fuiſſe, haud tamen juſtè; ſemidiametrum ejus, à milliario aureo in capite Fori Romani ſtatuto ad extrema ædificiorum, habuiſſe ad ſeptem millia paſſuum, ambitum denique fuiſſe milliarium 42. Cùm igitur exactè rotunda non fuerit, ad aream ejus metiendam minuamus ſemidiametrum uno milliari (quantum ſcilicet in figura ſexangula pro perpendiculari in latus minuendum eſſet) erit 6. quæ cum 21 dimidio peripheriæ multiplicata dabit aream Urbis 126. Ad Cap. 11.

Jam verò Roma hodierna ſeu Pontificia ambitum habet non niſi 13, aut 15 milliarium, ut nôrunt, inquit Lipſius, qui dimenſi ſunt; formam, ut ex ichnographia ejus videre eſt, quadrangulari proximam, oblongam, proportione quaſi duplâ. Cui idcirco dimetiendæ conſtituatur parallelogrammum rectangulum, cujus perimeter ſit 15, longitudo ad latitudinem dupla: cujuſmodi nimirum erit ex lateribus $2\frac{1}{2}$, & 5. quibus inter ſeſe multiplicatis, prodibit Area $12\frac{1}{2}$. Jam numerus 126 numerum $12\frac{1}{2}$ decies comprehendit. Eſt igitur Area poſterior prioris, ideóque Roma hodierna illius antiquæ, pars decima; quod erat demonſtrandum. Cui hujuſmodi ratiocinationes minùs uſitatæ ſunt, oculorum ſuorum judicium adhibeat in ſequentibus diagrammatis. Admirand. lib. 3.

Roma vetus XLII milliarium ambitu.



Roma hodierna XV mille paſſuum ambitu.



ΔΕΚΑΤΟΝ τῆς πόλεως.

Non poſſumus quidem hîc omnia ad lineam & regulam examinare; ſed mirum eſt, id quod poſſumus tam propè convenire. Urbis autem hodiernæ ambitum definio, quibus ea nunc cingitur muris: nam extrà, contrà quàm olim, hodie non habitatur, ſed tota quanta quanta eſt muris includitur; muris verò quos ei Hadrianus I & Leo IV Pontifices, ceu Pontificalis regni ſedi jam factæ, terminum fatali quaſi inſtinctu poſuere. Nam ità tradit Blondus, muros qui nunc exſtant ab Hadriano I centenis aureorum millibus è Thuſcia contractis exſtructos. Eos poſtmodum, ut ex aliis notum, Leo IV, ad annum Domini 850, ſive refecit, ſive perfecit, & Tranſtiberi ſeu Leoninâ Civitate adjectâ, Urbem in eam quâ nunc cernitur formam & ambitum complevit. Et quamvis ſpatii muris incluſi multum habet vacuum & deſertum, tamen cùm muri in præcipuis Urbis operibus numerandi ſint, Urbs ipſa muris ſuis anguſtior putari nequit; amplior quidem

Ad Cap. 11. dem esse potuerit, si, ut olim vetus illa, continentibus ædificiis quaquaversum extra muros porrigeretur.

Ut jam tandem finiam, summa huc redit; Id dicere sive innuere velle Spiritum Sanct. tantum Urbis magnæ quantum ad hunc terræ motum superfuerat id temporis ruinam fecisse, videlicet δέκατον τ πόλεως· neque enim amplius eousque superfuturum esse. Novem partes multis antè seculis casuræ erant, & verò nos vidimus cecidisse; partim cladibus & vastationibus quas Barbari tot vicibus intulerint, partim vetustate nimiâ fatiscentes, partim etiam (ut ad quartam Tubam indicavimus) fulminibus disturbatas: DECIMA Pontifici Romano fato servata fuit, novi Imperii caput constituenda & Meretricularum Christianarum mater. Hanc terræ motus iste qui cum Testium resurrectione conjunctus erit funditus demolietur.

Nec tamen fortasse necessarium fuerit ut Spiritum S. de Urbis decima parte locutum tam rigidè, ut fecimus, ad leges Geometricas interpretemur: sat fuerit si, ut olim cùm de populi Judaici excidio apud Isaiam agens dixerat, Decimam ejus servatum iri, ac in terram suam reducem fore; Isa. 6. 13. ità hîc intelligamus, non tam justè decimam, quàm partem aliquam minimam, quasi decimam, de pristina illa Romanæ Urbis amplitudine ad Bestiæ hujus sedem & cladem novissimam superfuturam esse.

Additur, Et occisa sunt in terræ motu nomina hominum septies mille.

Hîc si nominibus hominum hominum capita, seu singulos homines, intelligamus, nimiùm exilis videtur numerus, neque pro magnitudine cladis quam alibi innuit Spiritus S. Ecquid enim in excidio Babylonis non longè major erit occisorum numerus quàm septem millium hominum? Et num effusionem Phialæ quintæ in THRONUM Bestiæ tantillâ hominum strage abituram verisimile est? Huic scrupulo ut aliquo pacto satisfiat, primò advertendum est, Urbis nomine hîc intelligi non Cives & incolas, sed ædificia ac mœnia, id est, Regiam Bestiæ; sicque duplicem BABYLONIS interitum in hisce Vaticiniis describi: primò BABYLONIS pro Urbe Bestiæ Regia, puta, URBE Romana, ad Phialam quintam; deinde BABYLONIS pro civibus aut Civitate Romana, quam nimirum constituit Papa cum Cardinalium purpuratorum senatu, reliquâque civium, præsertim Ecclesiasticorum, turbâ, qui, ROMA destructâ & concrematâ, aliò sese habitatum conferent, ad Phialam novissimam reservandi. Ad cujus nempe effusionem dicitur, præter alias ubivis terrarum Gentium & Civitatum, in terræ motu illo longè omnium qui unquam fuerunt maximo, ruinas, etiam BABYLONEM illam magnam venisse in memoriam coram Deo, ut daret illi calicem indignationis iræ suæ: cùm tamen BABYLONIS illa crematio & excidium, quod capitibus 18, & 19 describitur, omnino plenariam Bestiæ & Pseudoprophetæ exterminationem antevertat, ut in textu ibidem manifestum est. Scio quosdam aliter hunc nodum expedire, dicendo, BABYLONEM, cujus ad Phialam novissimam mentio, esse Constantinopolin, Turcarum metropolin: sed nunquam mihi persuadebunt Spiritum S. in primaria & præcipua omnium imagine tam insigni homonymiâ usum, & duas, non verò unicam semper & eandem, licèt duplici respectu, BABYLONEM intelligere. Ad propositum igitur ut veniamus. Fieri fortasse potest ut prior illa BABYLONIS clades, id est, Romanæ Urbis devastatio & excidium, absque immani aliqua, nedum totali, civium nece peragenda sit. Et Vid. Isa. 34. 10. quamvis fumus ejus ascensurus sit in secula seculorum, id est, ipsa tota in cineres vertetur, & solo æquabitur, nunquam iterum habitanda; tamen magnam partem Civium ex Urbis clade evasuram; vel quia fugâ sibi tempestivè consuluerint, vel alia de causa, quam eventus manifestam faciet.

Atque hæc una ratio est quâ scrupulo de exili nimiùm cæsorum numero satisfieri possit. Altera est, si dicamus per ὀνόματα ἀνθρώπων fortasse designari deſignari ἀνθρώπους ὀνομάτων, Viros nominis. Hujuſmodi enim Hypallage, in Scripturis non infrequens eſt, ut in rectione nominum id quod epitheti loco eſt præcedat. Teſtantur Argentum ſiclorum Lev. 5, pro ſiclis argenti ſeu argenteis; immunditia hominis, pro homine immunditiei, i. immundo, ibid. c. 7. lex juſtitiæ, pro juſtitia Legis, Rom. 9. divitiæ gratiæ, pro gratia divite; & ſimilia. Nomen autem pro celebritate omnibus ferè linguis familiare eſt, præſertim ſanctæ; in qua אַנְשֵׁי שֵׁם Viri nominis ſunt Viri illuſtres: Filii בְּלִי שֵׁם abſque nomine (Job 30.) ἄτιμοι, ignobiles, Chaldæo Idiotæ. Unde Beza in annotationibus ad Epheſ. 1. 21. & Phil. 2. 9. de exaltatione Chriſti ſuper omne nomen, ut & Heb. 1. 4. nomen accipit ſignificatione dignitatis & ἀξιώματος. Hujuſmodi interpretationem ſi ſequamur, (nec video quid opponi poſſit) nomina hominum erunt ἀξιώματα ἀνθρώπων, dignitates hominum; ὀνομαστοὶ, Viri nominis, homines illuſtres & dignitate præcellentes; quorum ad ſeptem millia (& quid ſi pſeudoprophetici ordinis, quem illi Eccleſiaſticum vocant?) in hoc rerum gentiúmque motu concidentur: numerum tamen ſeptem millium ità definitum eſſe opinor, ut paulò major vel minor pro more Scripturæ intelligi poſſit. Ex plebeiis quantus numerus in hoc bello caſurus eſſet nihil attinebat dicere, cùm illud ex illuſtrium clade conjici potuerit, nec Spiritus S. ad fæcem occiſorum calculo ſubducendam deſcendere voluit. Ad Cap. 11.

Sed & alia adhuc interpretatio dari poteſt, ut non opus ſit ad hominum capita devenire: nempe ſi nomina hominum hominum cœtus & ſocietates interpretemur, propriis ſuis nominibus haud minùs quàm ſingulares homines appellari ſolitos, ut ſunt Civitates, municipia, parœciæ, pagi, cœnobia, & ſimiles communitatum humanarum tituli. Hæc enim quid aliud ſunt, ſi rem putare velimus, quàm ὀνόματα ἀνθρώπων; Sic enim Æſchini Thebanorum politia vocatur Θηβαίων ὄνομα, & nomen Romanum ponitur pro Romanis. Quid ſi igitur ex iſtis communitatum humanarum titulis, quicunque tandem ſint, & ſive Romæ, ſive in Statu quem vocant Eccleſiæ, ad ſepties mille in hoc gentium motu occidendi ſint, id eſt, adverſæ poteſtati ſuccubituri, quod Scriptura pro more ſuo necem vocaverit? Sed non eſt quid temerè de re futura pronuntiandum, cùm prophetiæ commentarius ſit eventus rerum prædictarum. Hæc tamen eo fine in medium attuli, ut appareat multò hîc quod verba attinet liberiorem interpretationem eſſe quàm fortè vulgò putetur; cùm Nominis vocabulum Scripturæ uſus ad unam aliquam & certam ſignificationem non aſtringat. Nec enim ὀνόματα ἀνθρώπων conjunctim extra locum quem præ manibus habemus uſquam reperire eſt; nec ὀνόματα ſimpliciter de capitibus hominum, niſi bis tantùm, Act. 1. 15. Apoc. 3. 4. alibi aliâ atque aliâ ſignificatione adhibetur. Reſtat,

Et reliqui territi ſunt, & dederunt gloriam Deo Cœli.

Nempe conſternatione ſuâ, quâ vel inviti & ingrati digitum ejus agnoſcant. Dei enim ſapientiam, bonitatem, aut potentiam quocunque indicio agnoſcere, eſt gloriam ei tribuere. Sicut qui à Deo deprehenſi peccata ſua confitentur, dicuntur gloriam Deo tribuere, ut Achan. Sequitur

VÆ ſecundum abiit, & ecce VÆ tertium venit citò. Verſ. 14.

Sententia eſt, Terræ motum iſtum magnum ad exitum VÆ ſecundi ſive Tubæ ſextæ continuatum iri, cum eóque unà lugubrem Teſtium prophetiam tandem finiendam eſſe; ſiquidem poſt tantam de Beſtianis victoriam, ipſorúmque in cœlum poteſtatis & honoris aſcenſum, ſacco non induentur ampliùs. Si jam autem VÆ ſecundum, ſeu Tubæ ſextæ plaga, ſit illa Turcarum ab Euphrate jam olim in Orbem Romanum exundatio, ut ibi interpretati ſumus; fieri vix poteſt quin hæc ejuſdem plagæ abitio ſit exſiccatio illa aquarum Euphratis futura ad effuſionem Phialæ quintæ, Ad Cap. 11. quintæ, quò paretur via regibus ab ortu Solis venturis, cap. 16. 12. A quo quidem Regum Orientis adventu (nè hiatus alioquin inter utramque Tubam relinquatur) inire videtur Tuba ſeptima; adeóque mirificum illum Draconis, Beſtiæ & Pſeudoprophetæ ad bellum Armageddunte gerendum apparatum, (ibidem ver. 13, 14.) unà cum eventu ejus ad Phialam noviſſimam (ver. 17, &c.) in ejuſdem ſeptimæ Tubæ initium conjici debere. Et ſanè admodum congruum videtur, ut apparatus ad bellum ad eandem quò prælium ipſum Tubam pertineat.

Sed ex hoc dubitatio oboritur quæ ſolutionem expoſcit, ideóque ſilentio haud prætereunda. Cùm enim idem ſit Menſium XLII Beſtiæ terminus qui eſt Dierum 1260 luctûs Teſtium, & verò Dies iſti luctûs Teſtium ad abitionem plagæ Tubæ ſextæ, ſeu VÆ ſecundi, finiantur; quæri non immeritò poteſt quare Beſtiæ menſes non ulteriùs putarentur, cùm poſt iſtum terminum haud modicum Beſtiæ etiamnum ſuperſit, non niſi inchoatâ Tubâ ſeptimâ abolendum.

Reſponderi poteſt, hoc fieri vel quia tunc Converſio Iſraelis & novum quaſi Regnum init (nuncupantur enim REGES ab ortu Solis;) vel quia in Beſtiæ duratione ad Romanæ Urbis imperium potiſſimùm attenditur. Urbs verò illa magna Beſtiæ regia in iſthoc terræ motu capitur & disjicitur: uſque adeò ut Beſtia deinceps formam quaſi mutaverit, cùm, Metropoli ſuâ ſic depulſa, pro ſeptem montium Regno (quæ altera ſeptem ejus capitum ſignificatio eſt) ampliùs haberi nequiverit.

Supereſt in textu de clangore Tubæ ſeptimæ, & auguſto Chriſti Regno in MAGNO ILLO DIE JUDICII. Cujus interpretationem ad calcem Libri differemus, ut omnia eò pertinentia Vaticinia ibi ſimul & quaſi uno intuitu repræſentemus.

MENS
DRACONIS RUFI SEPTICIPITIS
cum Michaele dimicantis de Puerperio.

Ad Cap. 12. PRima ΒΙΒΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΝ Viſio, qua de egimus cap. 11. ſtadium Apocalypticum totum ab initio ad finem permeavit, ídque, ut alibi monuimus, ad connexionem ejuſdem cum SIGILLIS & TUBIS indicandam. Ei jam Viſioni reliqua ejuſdem intervalli reíque Eccleſiaſticæ Vaticinia, ad Βιβλαριδιν ſyſtema complendum, connectenda veniunt. Ex quibus Bellum Draconis rufi ſepticipitis cum Michaele idem complectitur cum ATRIO normali rei Eccleſiaſticæ intervallum; quo nimirum in Eccleſiam Puerperam, de Chriſto in Regem Orbi Romano edendo laborantem, Imperium Romanum DRACONICOLA diris perſecutionibus ſæviit, pérque annos minimùm trecentos bellum geſſit contra Chriſti Spiritum in ſervis ſuis potenter operantem. Sed MULIER tandem poſt multos in parturiendo dolores, ſectiones, lanienas, Chriſtum qualem parturiebat, Regem enixa eſt, recturum gentes virgâ ferreâ; DRACONEque de ſolio Romano deturbato, facta eſt in ORBE illo ſalus & potentia & regnum Dei noſtri, & poteſtas Chriſti ejus.

Hâc

Hâc ſummâ totius rei evidentiæ causâ præmiſsâ, ad textum particulatim explicandum veniamus. Ad Cap. 12.

Et ſignum magnum, inquit, viſum eſt in cælo. Verſ. 1.

Quò nempe ſpectatum Joannes initio evocatus fuerat, & ubi ſuperiores Viſiones omnes ſpectaverat. Nec alium puto hujus circumſtantiæ ſenſum quærendum eſſe. Manifeſtum eſt enim vel ex fine capitis præcedentis, Joannem hucuſque in cœlo ſpectâſſe.

Mulier circumamicta Sole, & Luna ſub pedibus ejus, & in capite ejus corona ſtellarum duodecim.

Signum verò & imago pulcherrima Ecclesiæ primitivæ puerperæ; Chriſti nimirum Juſtitiæ Solis fide circumfulgentis, elementa mundi (umbráſne Legales, an Gentilis ſuperſtitionis tenebras?) pedibus conculcantis, Apoſtolicæ denique originis inſignibus glorioſæ.

Plerique Lunam ſymbolum eſſe volunt rerum terrenarum & mutabilium, quas Eccleſia Chriſti infra ſe deſpicit. Quod etſi verum ſit, tamen nuſquam, ut opinor, in tota Scriptura Luna de hac proprietate celebratur. Symbolorum autem Propheticorum interpretatio haud facilè aliunde petenda eſt quàm ex iis proprietatibus quibus Scriptura alicubi atteſtetur. Jam verò illud certum eſt, pleraque Feſtorum quibus cultui typico operabatur ad Lunæ motum deſcripta fuiſſe, ut Novilunia, Paſcha, Pentecoſte, Feſtum tabernaculorum; imò totius anni Eccleſiaſtici rationem ab ejus motu pependiſſe; quò fortè ſpectat illud Pſal. 104. 19. fecit Lunam למועדים, id eſt, εἰς ἑορτάς. Quidni igitur Lunæ ſymbolum ad cultum Moſaicum referri poteſt? quem nempe Eccleſia revelatione Chriſti quaſi proſtratum cernit & pedibus ſuis ſubjectum: juxta illud Apoſtoli ad Coloſſenſes cap. 2. 14. aſſerentis, Chriſtum deleviſſe quod adverſùm nos erat chirographum rituum, & cruci ſuæ affixum è medio ſuſtuliſſe.

Methodius apud Andream Caſar. hujuſmodi quid quaſi per tranſennam vidit, ubi utramq; interpretationem conjungit hiſce verbis. Καὶ γὰρ (inquit) νομικὸν φῶς τῆς ψυχοφανοῦς σελήνης, καὶ τὴν ὡς σελήνην ἀλλοιουμένην κοσμικὴν ζωὴν, ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας κέκτηται. Eccleſia enim legalem nocte-lucentis Lunæ lucem, vitámque mundanam quæ inſtar Lunæ mutabilis & inconſtans exſtitit, ſub pedibus proſtratam tenet.

Porrò, cùm Deus Solem luminare majus ad dominium diei creâſſe dicatur, Lunam verò luminare minus ad dominium noctis; quidni Lunæ noctis præfecturam ſortitæ ſymbolum, quod eſt poteſtatis tenebrarum ſeu apparatum caliginis, id eſt, Satanæ dæmonúmque ejus in idolis cultum, ſignificet? Ità quidem ut res tota ad Baptiſmum transferri poſſit, quo Eccleſia illuminanda Chriſtúmque indutura cultum idolorum, Satanæ, ejúſque Angelorum, cultuum & pomparum abrenunciatione, proculcat. Hæc enim omnia vetus abrenunciationis formula diſertè continebat; & præterea abjuraturi ad Occidentem convertebantur, tanquam ad plagam cœli unde Nox oritur; ſicut è contrario fidem Chriſto & Deo vero Uni-trino profeſſuri, ad Orientem, tanquam plagam unde Sol abactâ nocte reducit diem. Dionyſ. Areop. de Hierarch. Eccleſ. cap. 2. Cyrillus Hieroſol. Catecheſ. 1. myſtagog. Gregor. Naz. Orat. 40. Hieron. ad cap. 6. Amoſ. Ambroſ. De iis qui myſteriis initiantur, cap. 2. Quinetiam ejuſdem figuræ intuitu (ut ſuprà quoque obſervatum) duratio Apoſtaſiæ ſeu contaminati idolis Chriſtianiſmi menſibus, ad motum Lunæ, definitur; Mulieris autem & Teſtium in Chriſti fide perſeverantium, annis & diebus, ad motum Solis. Utri tamen interpretationi potiùs accederem in ambiguo ſum, & an alterutri tantùm, an utrique. Sanè Apoſtolus ad Galatas, cap. 4. utrumque, tam pædagogiam Moſaicam quàm cultum idolorum Gentilium, promiſcuè Elementa mundi vocare videtur; utrumque Eccleſia Chriſti pedibus ſuis ſubjectum gloriatur. Utatur Lector judicio ſuo.

Vid. Athenag. p. 15.

Et in utero habens, clamabat parturiens, & diſtorquebatur ad pariendum.

Eccleſia, quà universè & abſtractè velut Idea ſpectatur, Mater eſt; quà verò reſpectu ſingulorum qui in ea continuò gignuntur, ſobolem habet, quam Deo parturire & parere dicitur. Hoc in Prophetis adeò obvium, ut de eo non opus ſit ampliùs verbum addere. Videſis Ezech. cap. 16. Verſ. 2.

uſque

Ad Cap. 12.

uſque ad v. 21. item cap. 23. v. 4. Iſai. cap. 54. Hoſeam c. 2. v. 4, 5. Non eſt igitur allegoria hâc parte cujuſvis importunitate vexanda, quòd ſcilicet Matrem à ſobole diſtinguat, quæ tamen alioquin in unam eandémque Eccleſiam coaleſcant. Kimchi ad Hoſ. 2. v. 2, 3. Comparatur Synagoga, ſeu Congregatio, Matri עַל דֶּרֶךְ כְּלָל viâ univerſalitatis; at הַפְּרָטִים ſinguli quique, filiis.

Ὠδῖνες verò iſtæ & cruciatus ob quos clamabat Puerpera, perſecutiones illæ graviſſimæ fuerunt quas Eccleſia primitiva inter pariendum experta eſt. Notum eſt enim, tribulationes & anguſtias parturientium doloribus aſſimilari. Unde verba illa Iſaiæ cap. 66. 7. Antequam parturiret, peperit; antequam veniret partus ejus, peperit maſculum, Chaldæus παραφεάζει, Antequam veniat ei tribulatio, redempta erit; antequam veniat ei tremor ſicut dolores parturientis, revelabitur Rex ejus, id eſt, Messiah. Jeremias verò cap. 30. v. 6, 7. ipſe imaginem hanc interpretatur. Interrogate, inquit, & videte ſi pariat maſculus. Quare ergò vidi omnis viri manum ſuper lumbum ſuum, quaſi parturientis, & converſæ ſunt univerſæ facies in auriginem? Væ, quia magna Dies illa, nec eſt ſimilis ejus: tempúſque tribulationis eſt Jaacob; verùm ex ipſa ſalvabitur. Vide etiam quid Servator ὠδῖνας vocet Matth. 24. 8, 9. Mar. 13. 9. ταῦτα ἀρχὴ ὠδίνων, &c.

Verſ. 3. Et viſum eſt aliud ſignum in cœlo; nam ecce DRACO magnus rufus, habens capita ſeptem & cornua decem, & in capitibus ejus ſeptem diademata.

Verſ. 4. Et Cauda ejus trahebat tertiam partem ſtellarum cœli, & abjecit eas in terram.

Signum ſeu Imago Imperii Romani Ethnici Draconicolæ; cujus utpote inſignia universè ſunt ſeptem capita & decem cornua: ſeptem quidem capita, tum ob ſeptem colles quibus Urbs inædificata eſt, tum ob ſeptem Regum ſive Dynaſtarum ordines qui imperium illius Urbis ſucceſſivè recturi erant; decem verò cornua ob decem regna quæ noviſſimi capitis vice (cui innaſcuntur) ſurrectura eſſent. Quæ interpretatio non mea eſt, ſed Angeli cap. 17. ubi commodior erit de his, ſi quid addendum ſit, agendi locus. Interim iſtis alius Imperii Romani character hîc additur, quòd tertiam partem ſtellarum cœli caudâ ſuâ traxiſſe & in terram abjeciſſe dicitur; id eſt, tertiam partem Principum & Dynaſtarum Orbis imperio ſuo ſubjeciſſe. Tantundem enim, putà trientem Orbis terrarum Joannis ævo cogniti, Ditio Romana finibus ſuis circumſcribebat. Cauda autem, ex diſciplina Indorum apud Achmetem, in genere poteſtatis comites & pediſſequos ſignificat, Apot. 152. quid verò ampliùs Serpentis cauda innuat, mox videbitur. Atque hi quidem characteres Imperii Romani fuerunt universè; ſed Draconis effigies porrò Draconicolam & Seminis Mulieris hoſtem in ſpecie determinat, id eſt, Ethnicum & Chriſtiani nominis adverſarium; & cùm rufus quoque ſit, truculentum & ſanctorum ſanguine rubentem. Adde quòd Draconis typo reſpici videtur ad Pharaonem, veteris Synagogæ in Ægypto parientis, juxtà atque Romanus Puerperæ Chriſtianæ, hoſtem dirum & malignum. Nam & is ſimiliter, eadémque de cauſa, Draconis imagine induitur, Pſal. 74. v. 13, 14. Tu contriviſti fortitudine tuâ mare; confregiſti capita DRACONUM (id eſt, Ægyptiorum) in aquis. Tu confregiſti capita LEVIATHAN, (Chaldæus, Pharaonis) dediſti eum eſcam populo deſerta incolenti. Iſai. c. 51. 9. Suſcita te, ſuſcita te, indue fortitudinem, brachium Domini: Suſcita te ſecundùm dies antiquos, ſecundùm generationes ſeculorum. Nonne tu es brachium illud olim proſcindens ſuperbam Ægyptum & conficiens DRACONEM? Ità Ezech. 29. 3. Pharao Rex Ægypti, DRACO magne. In omnibus hiſce locis in Hebræo eſt תנין, quam vocem LXX, Symmachus chus & Hieronymus Draconem interpretantur; & verò Syrus interpres Draconem in Apocalypsi semper eâ voce nuncupat. Cui firmando, inquit Drusius, est lingua Arabica, in qua Draco Thennin vocatur. Et * Exod. 7. Projecit Aharon virgam suam coram Pharaone, & versa est לתנין, in serpentem seu draconem. Significat quidem alioquin Cetum seu Balænam, sed tanquam Draconem marinum, cujus nempe formam quandam referat. Sed quorsum, inquies, de voce hac adeò satagitur? Nempe ut ostenderem, quâ effigie olim abusus est Satanas primo Adamo evertendo, illius infamati & maledicti animalis typo in more esse Spiritui S. regna Diabolo infessa, atque Ecclesiæ suæ Mulieris semini infesta, designare. Ad Cap. 12. * Vers. 10.

Et stetit DRACO ante Mulierem paritúram, ut cùm peperisset Filium ejus devoraret.

Nempe ut Pharao Israeli veteri in Ægypto nascenti, útque deinde Herodes Christo Mariæ, Domino nostro; ità DRACO Romanus Christo mystico, quem Ecclesia paritura erat, insidiatus est, ut eum statim à partu opprimeret.

Et peperit filium masculum, qui recturus erat omnes gentes virgâ [seu sceptro] ferreâ. Vers. 5.

Id est, peperit Christum mysticum, seu Christum in membris suis formatum, non Mariæ, sed Ecclesiæ filium; juxta illud Apostoli ad Galatas cap. 4. 19. Filioli mei, quos iterum parturio donec Christus formetur in vobis. Nam cùm verba sint Christi periphrasis, necesse est ut iisdem Christus aliquis designetur; nempe, ut in typis propheticis fieri amat, non verè, sed analogicè dictus. Qui, inquit, recturus erat omnes gentes sceptro ferreo, id est, potestate vi ferri seu bello partâ; utpote in eos imperium habiturus qui non ab origine cives fuerint, sed aut hostes aut alieni; ut eos priùs subjugare opus habuerit quàm regeret. Verba sunt ex Psalm. 2. 9. non juxta hodiernam * Masoretharum, sed veterem LXX & Apostolorum, lectionem petita. Quorum hanc esse mentem colligere mihi videor ex cap. 19. v. 15. ubi itidem, ut in Psalmo, de Christo Domino nostro, cui primariò competunt, adhibentur: Ex ore ejus, inquit, prodibat gladius acutus, ut eo percuteret gentes; ipse enim reget eos virgâ ferreâ. Hîc autem tribuuntur Christo mystico seu homini Christiano, Ecclesiæ apud Gentes partui, qui ad Christi capitis sui typum pingitur; cuíque ejusdammodi suæ similem potestatem se aliquando daturum esse sub nomine Thyatirensis Ecclesiæ pollicetur Dominus: Qui vicerit, inquit, & observaverit ad finem opera mea, dabo ei potestatem in gentes, & reget eos virgâ ferreâ, & tanquam fictilia conterentur; sicut & ego accepi à Patre meo. Juvabit hîc nonnihil, audire Andreæ verba quibus ex Methodii mente ad hunc locum commentatur: Ecclesia, inquit, per eos qui Baptismo initiantur, citra intermissionem generat Christum, utpote in illis formandum usque ad consummatam spiritualis ætatis plenitudinem. Filius masculus est Ecclesiæ populus——per quem Christus Deus manibus Romanorum, quasi ferrum robustis, gentes regit. Alludit ad typum Regni 4. apud Danielem, de quo ei non assentior; (quomodo enim eo David spectâsset?) cæteroquin haud multum abest à scopo, ut jam apparebit.

Non הרעם sed הרעם

Vide, ut pulchrè rem hanc explicat Author Operis imperfecti in Matthæum, Homil. 49.

Et raptus est filius ejus ad Deum & thronum ejus.

Ἐν Ἀρᾷ δυοῖν, pro Ad thronum Dei. Raptus est Mulieris Filius ad thronum Dei, id est, ad Solium Romanum subvectus, ubi, eâ quâ dicebatur potestate recturus, gentes regeret. Verè quidem Christus Mariæ ad solium Dei subvectus est; sed Christus mysticus seu formatus, quem Ecclesia Apostolica peperit, analogicè: siquidem Thronus potestatum (ut Apostolus vocat) supereminentium Thronus Dei est, terrestre cœlum: Non est, inquit, potestas nisi à Deo. Unde in Apotelesmatis insomniorum, Si quis sibi in somno visus fuerit ad cœlum subvehi, de regia sublimitate interpretantur.

Ad Cap. 12. Notum quoque eſt, in lingua ſancta Magiſtratus אלהים, id eſt, Deos, appellari: Stetit Deus in ſynedrio Dei, in medio Deorum judicat: item, Dixi, Vos Dii eſtis & filii Excelſi omnes. Quemadmodum igitur in Moſis cathedra ſedere dicuntur qui doctrinam docent à Moſe traditam; ità in Dei throno, qui vices ejus in terris obeunt. Quòd ideo partus Eccleſiæ Apoſtolicæ dicitur rapi ſeu recipi ad thronum Dei, tantundem eſt atque eò celſitudinis ſubvehi, ut quaſi juxta Deum ſedeat; quod, inquam, regiæ ſublimitatis eſt. Hoc autem tum impletum fuit, cùm jam ſub CONSTANTINO magno & ſucceſſoribus ejus Chriſtiani, deturbato DRACONE, rerum potiti ſunt.

Verùm, inquies, cùm Chriſtus iſte myſticus Gentes quibus imperitaret, perinde ac Chriſtus Dominus, ferreo Sceptro recturus dicebatur, quali demum bello quibúſve præliis (ſi hæc ferrei illius Sceptri ſignificatio ſit) PARTUS ISTE Eccleſiæ Apoſtolicæ Orbem Romanum ſibi ſubjugavit? Aio verò duplici bello: Primo ſpirituali, mirabili & divino, adverſus Dæmones Orbis illius principes & Deos; quod quidem, exercitu Angelorum cœleſtium ſecum adverſus hoſtes dimicante, viriliter geſſit; de quo in ſequentibus agetur: Altero verò, cùm jam ſolium apprehendiſſet, etiam corporali; quod teſtantur tot illuſtres victoriæ, partim Conſtantini adverſus Maxentium, Maximinianum & Licinium, partim Theodoſii illius magni adverſus tum alios, tum Eugenium & Arbogaſtum, Dæmonum vexilliferos, priuſquam Gentilium Draconicolarum imperio Chriſtiano rebellium contumacia & ſuperbia penitus fracta & contrita conquieverit.

Sed priuſquam hinc abeamus, unum adhuc monendum reſtat; nempe, non ſtatim atque editus eſt MULIERIS partus, ad thronum Dei ſubvectum fuiſſe, verùm quamprimùm regno maturuiſſet. Ideo dicitur peperiſſe filium, ὃς μέλλει ποιμαίνειν, nempe non ſtatim, ſed cùm adoleviſſet. Quemadmodum & Chriſtus Mariæ, Dominus noſter, (cujus imaginem in omnibus exprimit Chriſtus iſte myſticus, Eccleſiæ partus) non ſimulatque natus erat, ſed cùm ſimiliter ad juſtam ætatem perveniſſet, ad thronum Dei ſublatus regnum adiit, ibi ſeſſurus donec poſuerit inimicos ſuos ſcabellum pedum ſuorum. Sequitur, Verſ. 6. Mulier verò fugit in deſertum, ubi habet locum paratum à Deo, ut ibi alerent eam diebus MCCLX.

Quod cùm poſtea repetendum, & aliquantò pleniùs deſcribendum ſit, eò explicationem differemus.

Verſ. 7. Et factum eſt prælium in cœlo; Michael & Angeli ejus præliati ſunt Verſ. 8. cum Dracone, & Draco pugnavit & Angeli ejus: Sed non prævaluerunt, neque locus eorum ampliùs inventus eſt in cœlo.

Dictum eſt. Puerperam, partu ſuo ſalvo, Draconis inſidias effugiſſe. Sed quî factum ſit ut qui eam tam diligenter obſervârat, conatu tamen ſuo exciderit, jam demum commemorari incipit. Scilicet id Michaelis operâ atque auſpiciis contigiſſe, qui Draconem inſidiantem ſtrenuè oppugnatum ivit, eúmque, ſuperior tandem factus, de cœlo deturbavit in terram. Indè Mulieris filium non tantùm ſalvum evaſiſſe, ſed ad thronum Dei evectum eſſe, ipſámque in tutum à Draconis furore locum ſeceſſiſſe.

Et factum eſt, inquit, prælium in cœlo, &c.] nempe, dum pareret Mulier, non poſtquam peperiſſet, ut multi accipiunt. Nam certum eſt ex v. 14. bellum hoc geſtum eſſe ante Mulieris fugam in Eremum. Mulier autem in Eremum non fugit priuſquam peperiſſet, & Filius ejus raptus ſit ad thronum Majeſtatis, v. 5, & 6. Michael & Angeli ejus præliati ſunt cum Dracone] non ſoli, ſed adhibitis, quorum gratiâ dimicabant, Chriſti regis ſui Martyribus & Confeſſoribus; de quibus proinde paulò pòſt in Epinicio cantabitur, quòd vicerunt eum propter ſanguinem AGNI & propter ſermonem teſtimonii ſui, ſui, neque dilexerunt animas ſuas uſque ad mortem: id quod de nudis & ſolis Angelis dici non poteſt. Et DRACO pugnavit & Angeli ejus.] id eſt, Dæmones, adhibitis itidem cultoribus ſuis Tyrannis Romanis eorúmque miniſtris. Sed quis, inquies, eſt iſte MICHAEL? Non, opinor, Chriſtus ipſe, ſed, ut apud Danielem, ni fallor, liquet, ex principibus primariis, ſeu ſeptem Archangelis, unus, imò primus, cap. 10. nempe Angelus ille magnus qui apud eundem ſtare dicitur à partibus populi Dei, cap. 12. quémque adeò Chriſtus magnus ille Archiſtrategus, Angelorúmque perinde atque hominum Rex, Satanæ ejúſque ſatellitii contra ſuos furori oppoſuit. Mittuntur enim Angeli ob ſalutem eorum qui ſunt Dei hæredes, Heb. 1. ult. eóſque pro ſuo agendi modo, abſcondito & inviſibili, contra malos Spiritus, qui in hominibus Dei Chriſtíque ſui hoſtibus operantur, protegunt & tuentur, etiamſi viſibili ſpecie non appareant. Ità in hoc quo de agitur bello primitivæ Chriſti Eccleſiæ contra Draconicolas Romanos partes ſuas egerunt Angeli Michaele duce; quà nempe ſanctos Chriſti Martyres & Confeſſores contra tyrannorum minas & vim tormentorum corroborando, & in agonibus ipſorum dolores minuendo, quandoque & doloris ſenſum planè adimendo; quà Spirituum adverſariorum impetus frangendo & debilitando, perſecutoribúſque, qui eorum inſtinctu agebantur, nunc obſtacula & impedimenta ex improviſo objiciendo, conatus elidendo, nunc terrores aliáſve mentis alienationes injiciendo, ità ut incepto ſubindè deſiſtentes, Eccleſiæ vel inviti inducias & reſpirandi ſpatium conceſſerint: donec tandem, poſt trecentûm annorum bellum, cùm Chriſto ſuos jam ſatìs exercuiſſe viſum eſſet, atque Angelis ſuis plenam victoriam largiri vellet, Partu Mulieris, Chriſtianis rerum potiuntibus, in Imperii ſolio collocato, Diaboli regnum expugnatum mirabili ruinâ concidit. Hoc enim eſt quod inquit, Draco non prævaluit, neque locus ei amplius inventus eſt in cœlo, id eſt, cum omnibus copiis ſuis fuſus fugatúſque cœlo exutus eſt. (In dictione Non prævaluit Hebraiſmus eſt, de quo poſtea.)

Ad Cap. 12.

Verſ. 9.

Et projectus eſt Draco ille magnus, ſerpens antiquus, qui vocatur Diabolus & Satanas, qui ſeducit univerſum Orbem, (id eſt, ad Idololatriam impellit, hactenúſque Imperium Romanum inſederat) projectus eſt in terram, & Angeli ejus cum eo projecti ſunt.

Id eſt, ipſe cum omnibus Dæmonibus ſuis, hactenus pro Diis cultis, de culmine divinitatis quo gaudebant in imum exſecrationis & contemptûs devoluti ſunt. Ut, quod olim in liberatione Iſraelis à tyrannide Pharaonis Ægyptii, cujus Draco iſte imaginem geſſit, factum legitur, exercuiſſe Deum judicia in Deos Ægyptiorum*; idem hîc ſaltem κατὰ τὸ ῥηθὲν locum invenerit. Tradunt Judæi, quòd etiam illic. Vide enim utrumque Targum, R. Salomonem, R. Aben Ezra, cum R. Moſe ben Nachman, &c. Nec eſt quòd quis clara Scripturæ verba aliò detorqueat, præſertim cùm eò alludi videatur Iſai. 19. 1.

Clem. Rom. l. 8. c. 7. ὁ ῥύ-ξας αὐτὸν (Satanam) ὡς ἀγραπὴν ἐξ ἀρχῆς εἰς γῆν, ὁ τοπικῷ ῥήγματι, ἀλλ' ἀπὸ πηγῆς εἰς ἀτιμίαν, &c.

* Exod. 12. 12. Num. 33. 4.

Non prævaluit, pro devictus eſt, figura eſt, ut dixi, Hebraica, quâ adverbia negandi ejus cui adhibentur contrarium ſignificant; prout in hac ipſa Viſione paulò pòſt habetur, Non dilexerunt animam ſuam uſque ad mortem, id eſt, nihili fecerunt vitam ſuam, ſeu prodegerunt, pro Chriſto. Eſt enim hoc dicendi genus Hebræis non ἐλαττωτικὸν, ſed αὐξητικόν. Sic Prov. 12. 3. Non ſtabilitur homo in improbitate, id eſt, radicitus commovetur & eradicatur. Ibid. 10. 2. Non proſunt theſauri iniquitatis, id eſt, nocent, damnoſi ſunt. 17. 21. Non lætabitur pater ſtulti, id eſt, mœrore afficietur. Et 1 Cor. 16. 22. Si quis non amat Dominum Jeſum Chriſtum, ſit anathema, id eſt, quiſquis odit & exſecratur. Vide Buxtorf. Theſaur. Gram. lib. 2. cap. 19. Ità hîc, Non prævaluerunt Draco & Angeli ejus, idem eſt atque, prorſus devicti ſunt.

Ad Cap. 12. Pleniorem autem hujus victoriæ hiſtoriam jam dedi ad interpretationem Sigilli ſexti, quocum caſus iſte DRACONIS contemporat; imò Sigilli illius argumentum eſt, quantum ad inſignem Imperii Romani mutationem ſpectat. Quod autem de Partu Mulieris in Imperii ſolio collocato & Chriſtianis tunc rerum potiuntibus dixi, id verò ex Epinicio quod ſubjungitur clarum & expeditum eſt.

Verſ. 10. Audivi, inquit, vocem magnam in cælo dicentem, Nunc facta eſt ſalus & potentia & regnum Dei noſtri, & poteſtas Chriſti ejus; quoniam projectus eſt Accuſator fratrum noſtrorum, qui accuſabat illos ante conſpectum Dei noſtri die & nocte.

Verſ. 11. Sed ipſi vicerunt eum per ſanguinem Agni, & per Verbum teſtimonii ſui, & non dilexerunt animas ſuas uſque ad mortem.——

Quæ verba, ut ſunt clariſſima & abſque omni allegoriæ velo prolata, ità Clavis ſunt totius Viſionis interpretandæ. Nam hinc liquidò perſpici poteſt, tum quæ fuerit illa Partûs Mulieris ad Thronum Dei ſubvectio, nempe, ſalutis, potentiæ, & regni Dei, & poteſtatis Chriſti ejus in Solium Romanum introductio; tum quo hoſte debellato ad regnum pervenerit, nempe deturbato Κατήγορῳ ſeu Accuſatore illo qui dies noctéſque fratres calumniatur & traducit coram Deo; denique cujuſmodi ſecum copias adhibuerint Michael & Angeli ejus in iſthoc adverſus Draconem ejúſque ſatellitium prælio, ſanctos ſcilicet Martyres & Confeſſores, qui vicerunt eum per ſanguinem AGNI, & per ſermonem teſtimonii ſui, eò quòd non dilexerunt, id eſt, prodegerunt, animas ſuas uſque ad mortem. Et verò omnino impoſſibile eſt ut illa Partûs Mulieris evectio, Draconis deturbatio, Regníque Dei & Chriſti introductio, non ad unum & eundem rerum eventum collineent; cùm ab omnibus, tanquam ab uno quodam rerum termino, incipiat Mulieris Fuga in Eremum, verſ. 6, & 14.

Quòd verò Satanas hîc nomine novo Κατήγορος ſeu Accuſator nuncupetur, qui antea Draco & Diabolus audiit; ſciendum & hoc ab Hebræorum uſu profectum eſſe, quibus eodem quidem nomine, quod illi ſuum fecerunt, jam olim appellatus eſt. Dicunt enim קטיגור Kategor. R. Juda in libro Muſar, citante Druſio, Kategor, inquit, eſt Satan, adverſarius vel calumniator malus, qui adverſatur homini, aut calumniatur eum coram Creatore benedicto. Maiemonides ad Pirke Avoth, (ubi in Gnome R. Eliezer & hæc & contrariæ ſignificationis vox Paraclit, à Græcis quoque derivata, occurrit) פרקליט הוא מליץ טוב על האדם לטלך : קטיגור הוא הפך וזה רהוא המלשין אדם ומשתדל לטיתו. Id eſt, PARACLIT παράκλητος dicitur, qui interpellat in bonum pro homine apud Regem: cujus contrarium eſt KATEGOR; is enim eſt qui traducit hominem apud Regem, & conatur occidere eum. Et ſanè, ſi aliàs unquam, durante hoc puerperio & bello, Satan Κατήγορος & calumniatoris nomen dignè promeruit. Quod teſtantur tot convitia & probra quibus Chriſtianos toto hoc tempore Draconicolæ obruebant, objicientes iis Thyeſtæas cœnas, inceſtus Oedipodios, adulterium, promiſcuas libidines, homicidia, conjurationes in Principes, peſtes, famem, incendia, & quicquid publicæ calamitatis erat. Sed videtur hîc potiùs reſpici ad hiſtoriam Job, ubi Satanas calumniando & accuſando effecit ut Job ſibi à Deo tentationibus & tribulationibus probandus permitteretur. Id quod hîc quoque innuit Spiritus Sanct. ab eo pro more ſuo factum eſſe. Sciens intelliget quid velim. Sequitur in Epinicio, Verſ. 12. Propterea lætamini cæli & qui habitatis in iis (id eſt, ſancti Angeli & beati ſpiritus, quorum feliciter navatâ operâ victoria hæc parta eſt.) Væ incolentibus terram & mare, (id eſt, Orbem terrarum) nam deſcendit Diabolus ad vos, habens iram magnam, (ideóque novum aliquod malum machinatur us) ut qui ſciat ſe exiguum tempus habere.

Nam

Nam licèt indè uſque à Conſtantino Magno ſolio Romano dejectus fuit, aliquandiu tamen apud populum hæſit Draconis cultus: unde cùm haud ità multò pòſt ſe tandem quoque expellendum, & univerſum Orbem Romanum Baptiſmo Chriſti imbuendum fore, rebus eouſque progreſſis, præſentiſceret; totus irâ & furore percitus, conſilium iniit Eccleſiæ victoriam quacunque adhuc ratione potuit in diſcrimen adducendi, &, ſi conatu excideret, vel ejectus, eam novo aliquo machinamento ſubruendi. Quorum utroque ſibi non defuiſſe nequiſſimum ſpiritum jam videbimus. Ad Cap. 12.

MYSTERIUM MULIERIS EREMICOLÆ.

MULIER Puerpera, debellato DRACONE, deinceps degit in Eremo: quo Eccleſiæ ab Ethnica tyrannide liberatæ ſtatus uſque ad Tubam ſeptimam & ſecundum Chriſti adventum figuratur; non latentis & inviſibilis, ſed quaſi mediæ cujuſdam conditionis typo, Iſraeliticæ in deſerto peregrinantis ſimilis, ab exitu ex Ægypto ad ingreſſum Canaanitidis; ſtatus utique ejus à DRACONIS illius rufi, tanquam Pharaonis, furore tutæ, nondum tamen eò gloriæ appulſæ quò tandem, reliquis hoſtibus debellatis, quaſi ad Canaanææ poſſeſſionem, perventura eſt. Status equidem qui Ethnicæ illius tyrannidis ſervitute (ex qua tanquam ex ſervitute Ægyptiaca populus Chriſtianus Chriſti potentiâ emerſit) extrinſecus melior eſſet; utpote poteſtate exinde, Chriſtianorum Imperatorum & Regum auſpiciis, factâ Chriſtum liberè colendi, ſimiliter atque Iſraelitis Eremicolis JEHOVAM; Templis quoque, ceu cultûs Chriſtiani Tabernaculis, magnificè exſtructis, Eccleſiæ politiâ legibus, reditibus ſacris, decimis oblationibúſque conſtitutâ: ſed Apoſtaſiâ multimodâ, non minùs quàm Iſrael Eremicola Vitulo, Baalpeoro, Balaamo, Koracho, &c. infelix. Neque illud fortaſſe prætereundum fuerit, Mulieris hujuſce Chriſtianæ Eremicolæ Menſes XLII. totidem Iſraelis in Deſerto manſionibus reſpondere. Vid. Num. 33.

Typi ratione & indole ſic expoſitâ, textum particulatim illuſtremus, reíque geſtæ aptemus.

Cùm igitur vidiſſet Draco quòd projectus eſſet in terram, perſecutus eſt Mulierem quæ peperit maſculum. 14. Siquidem datæ ſunt Mulieri duæ alæ Aquilæ magnæ, ut volaret à facie Serpentis in deſertum in locum ſuum, ubi aleretur per tempus & tempora & dimidium temporis. 15. Ejecit autem Serpens ex ore ſuo poſt Mulierem aquam tanquam flumen, ut eam à flumine abripi faceret. Verſ. 13.

Hic primus Satanæ dejecti, nondum verò penitus ejecti, ſed in imo aliquantiſper hærentis, conatus fuit; ut MULIEREM, rerum potiunte partu ejus, in Eremiticum ſtatum concedentem, ſi quo modo poſſet, obrueret, antequam penitus eò à furore ipſius tuta ſe reciperet. Non enim ſtatim ut evadere cœpit, ſed aliquâ temporis morâ interjectâ, in Eremum pervenit: quemadmodum & Iſrael in profectione ſua eódem ex Ægypto ſuſcepta aliquantum temporis inſumpſit. Verba autem hîc poſita ità concipienda ſunt, ut ad illud quod ſuperiùs de eadem MULIERIS in Eremum fuga dictum erat aliquo pacto referri videatur, hâc aut ſimili ſententiâ; Cùm vidiſſet Draco quòd dejectus eſſet in terram, perſecutus eſt MULIEREM quæ peperit maſculum. Nam cùm (ut ſuprà dictum) MULIERI poſt editum & in thronum ſubvectum partum ejus datum fuit (nempe alis duabus Aquilæ magnæ eidem commodatis, quaſi volatu quodam) in Eremum concedere, ubi aleretur per tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis; ejecit ille ex ore ſuo poſt eam aquam tanquam flumen, ut eam à flumine abripi faceret. Ità quoque Pharao populum Iſraeliticum de ditione ſua in Eremum contendentem perſecutus eſt, ſed alio flumine.

Ad Cap. 12.

Aquila magna Imperium eſt Romanum. Alæ ejus duæ, duo Cæſares bipartiti jam Imperii, Occidentis & Orientis, quorum tutelâ & auſpiciis Eccleſia in Eremiticum ſtatum conceſſit. Notum eſt enim, Imperium Romanum ſimul ut fidem Chriſtianam ſuſcepit bipartitum evaſiſſe, & geminis quaſi Cæſarum alis volâſſe. Hanc interpretationem nemini non obviam facit Aquila Imperii Romani inſigne. Sed quid vetat etiam ex ſcriptore Apocrypho typi prophetici ſignificationem confirmare? Is eſt Eſdras prophetes, (hoc enim eum nomine Clemens Alexandrinus laudat, Strom. lib. 3. paulò ante finem) apud quem Aquilæ typus Regnum quartum ſignificat, duodecim alæ pennatæ totidem ejus Cæſares primos. Vide cap. 11, & 12. Sed dic, Lector, annon etiam hîc reſpici dixeris ad illud Domini de exitu Iſraelis ex Ægypto, Exod. 19. 4. Vidiſtis, inquit, quæ fecerim Ægyptiis, ut portaverim vos ſuper alas Aquilarum, & adduxerim ad me, ſcilicet in Deſertum?

2 Eſdr. c. 11, & 12.

Verùm aliud adhuc hoc verſu eſt quod enodari poſtulet: Quorſum Tempus incolatûs MULIERIS in Eremo, quod paulò antè Diebus numerabatur, hîc in Annos convertatur, ſeu tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis. Ego verò aliam alternationis iſtius cauſam indagare nequeo, quàm ut Clavis eſſet ſimilis apud Danielem temporis notationis, nóſque moneret, in iis ipſis temporibus nunc verſari Eccleſiam quæ ille temporis, temporum & dimidii temporis periodo definiverit. Et ſanè abſque hoc indice illa temporis deſignatio incertiſſima & inexplicabilis fuiſſet. Unde enim aut quo demum indicio ſciri potuerit, tempus denotare Annum? aut ſi hoc, tempora non plures quàm biennium? Jam verò ex hac commutatione clarum eſt intervallum illud in Dies 1260 reſolvendum eſſe, eóque ſignificare Annum, biennium, & ſemeſtre.

Iſtis verò in hunc modum illuſtratis, diſpiciamus tandem quid Aqua illa fuerit, quam inſtar fluminis Draco ex ore ſuo eructaverit, ad Mulierem dum in Eremum contenderet ſubmergendam. Oris ſcaturigo eſt ſermo & doctrina; juxta illud Prov. 18. 4. Aquæ profundæ verba oris viri, torrens ſcaturiens eſt vena ſapientiæ. Unde verbum נבע, quod ἀναβλύζειν & inſtar fontis ſcaturire ſignificat, de doctrina adhibetur: ut Pſal. 78. 2. Aperiam in parabolis os meum, eructabo vel ſcaturiam abſcondita à conſtitutione mundi: id quod de doctrina Servatoris allegatur Matth. 13. 35. Ità Prov. 1. 23. Sapientia prædicare dicitur in plateis, Eructabo vobis ſpiritum meum, ſcire faciam vos verba mea. Quid igitur ſcaturigo ex ore Serpentis, Beſtiæ venenatæ, niſi doctrina peſtifera, id eſt, hæreſis, erit? juxta illud Prov. 15. 28. Os impiorum eructabit, vel ſcaturiet, mala. Eam verò hujus temporis hiſtoria inſtar fluminis ex ore Draconis prodeuntem exhibet; Arrianiſmum dico & ſobolem ejus. Hoc Flumine ſuo Draco Mulierem penè abripi fecerat; voluit certé. Et profectò mirum fuit ni Imperatores Romani, qui tum recentes Chriſto nomen dederant, necdum rem Chriſtianam plenè confirmârant, tam horrendo inter Chriſtianos (vel tantillum à perſecutione reſpirantes) dogmatum in re tam primaria diſſidio, tam internecinis partium odiis, tumultibus, crudelitate in fratres, vel illam Ethnicorum exæquante, offenſi atque abalienati fidem abjeciſſent.

Verſ. 16. Sed ſuccurrit Terra Mulieri; nam aperuit terra os ſuum, & abſorpſit flumen quod ejecerat Draco ex ore ſuo.

Id

Id eſt, Multitudo Chriſtianorum in Conciliis orthodoxâ fide prævalentium inundationem Diabolicam exhauſit; quemadmodum Terra aquam ſolet, cùm ſiccitate prævaluerit. Nam ſi Aqua (ſed venenata & peſtifera, qualis ex Serpentis ore prodit) hæreſim repræſentet; omnino poſtulabat analogiæ ratio, ut quod eandem abſumptum atque abolitum iret, terrâ figuretur, ut quæ eluviones aquarum ariditate ſua ſoleat exhaurire. Quod quidem hac in re eò commodiùs ad rem geſtam ſignificandam accidit, quia etiam aliàs in oratione hiſtorica & ſimplici Terra paſſim pro terræ incolis poni ſoleat. Vide Gen. 41. 57. 1 Sam. 14. 25. Deut. 9. 28. & paſſim alibi. Ad Cap. 12.

DE BESTIA DECEMCORNUPETA Deum blaſphemante, ET BESTIA BICORNI SEU PSEUDOPROPHETA authore & Hierarcha ejus.

MULIEREM Eremi fines ingreſſam nova malorum ſcena invaſit: nam in Beſtiam continuò incidit geminam, ſpecie quidem minimè reformidandam, quippe Draconis aut Serpentis, cujus ſolius horret figuram, nihil, ſed Pantheram aut Agnum præ ſe ferentem; reverâ tamen Draconis illius dejecti fiduciariam, ejuſque vice ſoboliquam in Eremo paritura erat magnas ærumnas daturam. Ad Cap. 13.

Et iratus eſt Draco adverſus Mulierem, (indè enim capitis hujus hiſtoriam accerſo) & abiit bellum facturus cum reliquis ex ſemine ejus, (iis nimirum quos in Eremo paritura erat) qui cuſtodiunt mandata Dei, & habent teſtimonium Jeſu Chriſti; ſtetitque ſuper arenam maris.

Id eſt, Cùm vidiſſet Draco (ille qui Romano imperio jam modò exutus erat) ſe, ad obruendam Mulierem in Eremum contendentem, Arrianiſmi eluvione nihil profeciſſe, quin ſalva nihilominus in Eremum perveniſſet; præterea neque ampliùs paſſurum Romanum Orbem ut ipſe proprio nomine rerum ibi, ut olim, potiretur: aliâ ratione eam aggreditur, nempe Regnum vicarium ſibi tacitè ſubſtituendo; eóque fine ſtetit ſuper arenam Maris, ut novam Regni Romani faciem tunc orituram vicariam ſibi faceret. Duplicis autem BESTIÆ rem Romanam geſturæ hiſtoria ſequitur, unius DECEMCORNUPETÆ, alterius BICORNIS, ſummâ neceſſitudine inter ſeſe devinctarum, utriuſque ſimul eâdémque Orbis ditione regnantis. Quarum primam DECEMCORNUPETAM, Secularem; alteram BICORNEM, Eccleſiaſticam, ſi lubet, voca.

Ad Cap. 13.

De BESTIA DECEMCORNUPETA.

BESTIA Decemcornupeta ſeu Secularis, eſt UNIVERSITAS illa Decem plus minùs regnorum (in quæ Cæſarum, poſt exturbatum Draconem, Imperium Barbaricâ plagâ diſſilierat) in unam denuo Rempublicam Romanam, redintegratâ Draconis impietate, coaleſcentium.

Vidi, inquit, Beſtiam è Mari aſcendentem, habentem capita ſeptem & cornua decem, & ſuper cornibus ejus decem diademata, & ſuper capitibus ejus nomina blaſphemiæ.

Eadem hîc Beſtia deſcribitur quæ infrà cap. 17. MERETRICEM bajulat; Beſtia autem ſepticeps Romana ſub vice capitis noviſſimi. Vidi, inquit Joannes, typum Regni Romani ſtatûs illius noviſſimi, quo nimirum ſub ſeptimo capite agens in decem regna diviſum eſſet, adhúcque, perinde atque ſub prioribus capitibus ſuis fecerat, Deum Opt. Max. idolorum cultu blaſphemaret. Nam ſeptem capitum numerus Romani regni inſigne eſt, ut & decem cornuum geſtamen. Nomen blaſphemiæ idololatriæ nota. Cornibus (quæ ſolius noviſſimi capitis ſunt) impoſita diademata, Regnum illud ſub noviſſimi capitis vice exhiberi oſtendunt; id quod reliquâ BESTIÆ deſcriptione ampliùs confirmabitur.

Verſ. 2. Et Beſtia quam vidi erat ſimilis Pardo, & pedes ejus ut Urſi, & os ejus ut os Leonis.

Id eſt, Regnum hoc, partim regiminis & ſtatûs, partim indolis ſuæ reſpectu, ità comparatum eſſet, ut tres iſtas Monarchias, olim Danieli hiſce Beſtiis figuratas, confuſo quodam temperamento effingeret. Siquidem reliquâ corporis ſpecie Græcum eſſet; pedibus, ut Perſarum regnum, inceſſu geſtionéque inſiſteret; ore, inſtar Babylonii, facienda ediceret. Pardus enim Regni Græcorum, Urſus Perſarum, Leo Babyloniorum typus eſt.

Primùm igitur, Regnum iſtud corpore ſuo planè Græci inſtar eſſet, puta Regnum inſtar illius in plura Regna diviſum, Dan. 7. 6. & 8. 8, 22. Græcum enim quadrifidum, Romanum hoc noviſſimum in decem regna ſecandum erat; cui typo eſt decem cornuum geſtamen in capite Beſtiæ noviſſimo, quæ Angelo poſtea interprete cap. 17. ſunt decem reges, ſeu regna, in quæ Imperium Romanum ſexti capitis dilaceratum, in novum regnum ſub ſeptimo coaleſceret, MERETRICI bajulandæ. Eſſe autem Cornua illa decem ſolius capitis noviſſimi, id eſt, ſeptimi, neque, ut vulgò putatur, promiſcuè omnium, ſic demonſtro. Florente capite floreſcunt cornua; quo occidente, etiam cornua indè enaſcentia occidere neceſſe eſt. In primis igitur quinque capitibus cornua ineſſe non poterant, quia quinque illa capita, aiente Angelo cap. 17, jam Joannis ævo abierant, & unà cum capitum vicibus cornuum quoque iiſdem innaſcentium vices abiiſſent; neque in ſexto, quoniam eo Joannis ævo (ut etiam diſertè affirmat Angelus) regnante, cornuum tamen tempus nondum advenerat; nam, inquit, decem cornua ſunt decem Reges qui regnum nondum acceperunt. Relinquuntur igitur Capiti noviſſimo. Apagite igitur pictores, qui hîc pro libitu decem cornua in ſeptem capita diſtribuitis, aliis ſingula, aliis, pro liberalitate veſtra, bina largientes. quod quàm inconcinnum ſit & omni textûs fundamento procul, imò Angeli interpretationi planè repugnans, nemo qui jam monitus rem ſecum ſeriò perpenderit non confitebitur. Pro vero igitur & certo habendum, ſolum caput ſeptimum, in illa capitum ſeſe invicem ſcandentium ſcala ſitu ſummum, vice noviſſimum, cornuum nuum geſtamine ſuperbire. Jam igitur pergo reliquam ejuſdem BESTIÆ noviſſimæ effigiem exponere. Ad Cap. 13.

Ea verò Pedibus, quibus corpus innititur, quibus movetur incedítque, quorúmque anteriores Beſtiis pro manibus brachiíſque ſunt, tractando, rapiendo, pugnando, pedibus, inquam, Perſarum imperium admodum refert: cùm, ſicut illi in rebus gerendis Magorum ſuorum conſiliis innitebantur; ità Regnum Romanum ſtatûs noviſſimi Monachorum Clericorúmque idololatricorum, Magis illis ſimillimorum, authoritate regitur. Quò illud ſpectat quod de BESTIA illa altera Pſeudoprophetica poſtmodum dicetur, quòd totam Beſtiæ hujus DECEMCORNUPETÆ poteſtatem exerceat in conſpectu ejus. Pedes enim hîc non ut infima & indigniora corporis membra conſiderandi, ſed cujuſmodi ſint in Beſtiis, non tantùm inceſſûs ſed & pugnandi prædandíque organa; in quibus & Urſis (de pedibus anterioribus loquor) præcipuum corporis robur ineſt. Neque pedes hîc intelligendi ſunt ea tantùm pars quæ veſtigium ponit in ſolo, ſed quod cum pede illo minore dicto crura quoque & brachia comprehendit.

Denique BESTIA Decemcornupeta Ore Babylonico facienda ediceret; ſcilicet Deaſtrorum & Imaginum cultum jubendo, pœnâ mortis & vivicomburii abnuentibus indictâ; perinde ut Nebuchadnezar ille Judæis Imaginem auream, quam Belo ſuo erexerat ſexaginta cubitos longam, adorare nolentibus, Dan. c. 3. Interim aliorum interpretationi nihil hâc meâ præjudicatum velim; eorum nempe qui ad naturalem potiùs trium harum Beſtiarum indolem reſpiciendum putent; quarum omnium ingenium vel feritatem DECEMCORNUPETA exprimeret. Utatur quiſque judicio ſuo.

Et tradidit ei Draco (dejectus ille qui ſtetit ſuper arenam Maris) potentiam ſuam (id eſt, vires ſeu copias ſuas חֵיל vel עֻבְאוֹ) & thronum ſuum & poteſtatem magnam.

Δύναμις Helleniſtis copias ſive exercitum ſignificat, ex uſu, ut videtur, חֵיל Hebræorum, quo utrumque, tum robur & virtus, tum exercitus denotatur: LXX Exod. 14. 28. de exercitu Pharaonis ſubmerſo, Operuerunt aquæ πᾶσαν τὴν δύναμιν Φαραὼ, omnem exercitum Pharaonis; & 15. 4. τὴν δύναμιν αὐτοῦ ἔῤῥιψεν εἰς θάλασσαν, exercitum ejus dejecit in Mare; & ſic paſſim: nec apud eos ſolos, ſed etiam apud profanos ſcriptores. Ab hac notione ſunt, Κύριος δυνάμεων, Dominus exercituum; & Matth. 24. 29. δυνάμεις τῶν οὐρανῶν σαλευθήσονται, copiæ ſeu exercitus cæleſtes commovebuntur: item ver. proximo, Filius hominis venturus dicitur in nubibus cæli, μετὰ δυνάμεως καὶ δόξης πολλῆς· quod * capite ſequente exponitur, ἐν τῇ δόξῃ αὐτοῦ, καὶ πάντες οἱ ἅγιοι ἄγγελοι μετ' αὐτοῦ, in gloria ſua, & cum omnibus ſanctis Angelis ſuis. Ità hoc loco, Tradidit Draco [ſeu Satanas] BESTIÆ Decemcornupetæ τὴν δύναμιν αὐτοῦ, id eſt, copias ſuas, ſeu exercitum ſuum. Satanæ autem copiæ ſunt Angeli ejus ſeu Dæmones, & idola Dæmonum receptacula. Has ille copias ſcilicet BESTIÆ huic noviſſimæ tradidit excolendas ornandáſque, unà cum throno ſuo & poteſtate magna; id eſt, uno verbo, poteſtatem illam univerſam quâ nuper per Michaelem & ſanctos Chriſti Martyres & Confeſſores victus & debellatus exciderat. Ità quidem ut Draco ſeu Satanas in hac noviſſimi ſtatûs BESTIA priſtinum ſuum dominium quod in Rufa exercuerat quodammodo recuperaret; ſed adeò diſſimili à priore ſpecie, ut MULIERIS in Eremo SEMEN id minimè ſtatim animadverteret. Non enim jam Draco draconis, ut antea, ſpecie ſe ingeſſit, id eſt, ſe eum eſſe qui fuit profeſſus eſt, juratum Chriſtiani nominis hoſtem: Hoc enim ſi feciſſet, ſtatim eum agnoviſſet, ſibíque, tanquam ab hoſte ſæviſſimo, caviſſet Mulieris Semen; ex innata videlicet ἀντιπαθείᾳ illa quam Deus jam indè ab exordio mundi inter utrumque fore edixerat; Ponam, inquit, inimicitiam inter te & Mulierem, & inter ſemen tuum & ſemen * Verſ. 31.

Ad Cap. 13.

ſemen ejus. At verò cùm ſe, non Serpentis, ſed alterius Beſtiæ nequicquam cognationis cum Serpente habentis, formâ induiſſet, haud ità difficile ei fuit Mulieris ſemini, id eſt, Eccleſiæ Chriſtianæ, ob nuperam victoriam lætæ, jámque Draconis ſecuræ, imponere, atque ad morem ſibi gerendum allicere. Quod quidem tam rectè & ſubdolè, ſub Beſtiæ ſibi non amatæ larva, fecit Veterator, ut non niſi ſerò demum ſeſe ab antiquo hoſte deceptam, atque ſub hac larva Draconem venerari, Eccleſia agnoſceret. Quis enim ſuſpicatus eſſet ſub Pardalis ſeu (quod idem eſt) Panthera figura latitâſſe Draconem, id eſt, ſub ſpecie illius animalis quod, cùm cæteræ Beſtiæ ſive cutis pulchritudine, ſive odoris ſuavitate illectæ, accedere & contemplari ament, ſolus penè Draco horrere & fugere dicitur? Vel, ut aliquantò clariùs rem explicem, Quis ſub Imperio Religionis Chriſtianæ, Idolorum demolitricis, cultum præ ſe ferente, Idololatriam nefandam & antiquatum pridem Ethniciſmum immani ſtudio inſtaurari, legibus & edictis promoveri, exiſtimâſſet?

Iſidor. lib. 12. 2. Πάνθης dictus, quòd omnium animalium amicus ſit, excepto dracone.

Verſ. 3.

Et vidi unum ex capitibus ejus (ſextum nimirum) quaſi caſum fuiſſet ad mortem, (hoc factum in prælio cum Michaele & ſanctis Martyribus) & plaga lethalis ejus curata fuit, ſcilicet vicariæ hujuſce poteſtatis pharmaco.

Fuiſſe autem Draconem illum ſepticipitem (Imperium utique Romanum ab antiquo Serpente inſeſſum, id eſt, Ethnicum) ſexti capitis BESTIAM, tum ex eo liquere poteſt quod infrà cap. 17. de capitibus iſtis dicitur, Quinque jam Joannis ævo cecidiſſe, unum (quod ſextum eſt) tunc temporis rem Romanam geſſiſſe; tum maximè, quòd BESTIA hæc vicis noviſſimæ eidem proximè in eodem throno ſucceſſerit. Draco, inquam, thronum ſuum hîc ceſſiſſe dicitur BESTIÆ vicis noviſſimæ ſeu capitis ſeptimi; Ergò proximus ejus Deceſſor fuit, ſeu penultimi capitis BESTIA. Nec id quemquam moveat, quòd adhuc ſub ſexti capitis vice ſepticeps tamen illic in Viſione apparuit. Quamvis enim non ſimul, ſed ordine & deinceps, Capita vices ſuas egerint; tamen BESTIA cum toto capitum & cornuum ſuorum apparatu, ſub quovis ſtatu exhibetur, ut unum idémque Regnum Romanum, aliis licèt atque aliis Dynaſtiarum vicibus, ubique deſignetur.

Sed ad textum redeamus; ubi Editio Complutenſis, ſuffragantibus Irenæo, Areta, Syro Paraphraſte nuper edito, & inter Latinos Primaſio, illud [Vidi] non agnoſcit, ſed verba μίαν ἐκ τῶν κεφαλῶν conjungit cum verbo ἔδωκεν, quaſi in hanc ſententiam; Tradidit ei Draco vires ſuas & thronum ſuum & poteſtatem magnam, & unum ex capitibus ſuis lethali plagâ ſauciatum, ut curaretur. Suſpicor & vulgatam Latinam olim ſic legiſſe, propter illud [de capitibus ſuis;] nam alioquin [de capitibus ejus] dicturus videretur. Lectio verò hæc an alteri præferenda ſit, haud temere affirmârim; illud tantùm, admodum eam antiquam videri, ut mirer non eſſe à R. Stephano annotatam. Sed quicquid ſit, Lectio recepta, ſi rectè & prout res ipſa omnino poſcit interpretemur, eundem planè ſenſum reddet: Vidi, inquit, unum ex capitibus ejus ὡς ἐσφαγμένην εἰς θάνατον, i. quaſi caſum fuiſſet ad mortem; nempe, non tunc vidente Apoſtolo, ſed priuſquam hâc ſpecie ex mari emergeret, ὑπερσυνηλικῶς ſeu ſenſu pluſquam perfecti: Quemadmodum ſuprà c. 5. v. 6. ſe vidiſſe dixerat in medio Presbyterorum & Animalium Agnum ſtantem ὡς ἐσφαγμένον, i. tanquam qui mactatus fuiſſet, non ipſo tunc vidente mactatum.

[In Bibl. Polyglott. MS. Alexandr. non agnoſcit illud Εἶδον Vidi.]

Quod autem de plagæ curatione additur, id aut dum adhuc è mari emergit BESTIA factum vidit, aut ſimulac indè emerſit. Neque enim (quod à pleriſque tamen hucuſque creditum eſt) ſanatio iſthæc fatum aliquod poſterius fuit, ſed ipſa nativitas BESTIÆ noviſſimæ. A reliquorum capitum ſingulis ad capitis ſuccedentis vicem abſque plaga tranſitum fuit; atqui in tranſitu à ſexto ad noviſſimum BESTIA lethali vulnere decubuit: à cujus aio ſanatione, nec priùs aut citiùs, BESTIAM Decemcornupetam, ſeu noviſſimæ vicis, exordium ſumpſiſſe, neque altiùs originem ſuam ducere. Id quod ità eſſe tota ſequentis narrationis ſeries evincit. Quodcunque enim mali BESTIA patrâſſe memoratur, quicquid cultûs & adorationis ei ab incolis terræ tributum, id omne poſt plagæ iſtius curationem factum dicitur. Vidi, inquit, unum ex capitibus ejus quaſi cæſum fuiſſet ad mortem, & plaga mortis ejus, ſeu lethalis, ſanata fuit; & admirans univerſa terra ſecuta eſt Beſtiam, nempe jam ſanatam, & adorârunt Draconem, &c. Tunc quoque datum eſt ei os loquens grandia & blaſphemias, &c. Et aperuit os ſuum adverſus Deum, &c. Omnia iſta poſt ſanationem facta ſunt: ante verò iſtam nulla BESTIÆ prædicantur facinora, nullius ei à Gentibus delatæ ſubjectionis aut honoris mentio. Quicquid antea commemoratur, partim ad BESTIÆ formam, partim ad ortûs occaſionem modúmque pertinet. Et quorſum, obſecro, Beſtiam Antichriſtianam nobis fingeremus, cujus per aliquod tempus nulla narrentur facta, nulla memoretur perſecutio? Imò, ſi Irenæi & Complutenſem lectionem ſequamur, expuncto Vidi, nullus erit ampliùs ejuſcemodi interpretationi locus. Ad Cap. 13.

atqui

Et admirata eſt univerſa terra poſt Beſtiam.

Id eſt, ſummâ approbatione & conſenſu iverunt in partes Beſtiæ.

Et adorârunt Draconem qui dedit poteſtatem Beſtiæ, & adorârunt Beſtiam, Verſ. 4.
dicentes, Quis ſimilis Beſtiæ? quis poterit pugnare cum ea?

Hoc eſt, non BESTIAM ſimpliciter adorârunt, quà Beſtia, ſed etiam quà Draconis vicaria; eóque non ſolam BESTIAM, ſed ſub Beſtiæ larvâ Draconem quoque ipſum venerati ſunt. Nam BESTIAM, niſi quà Draconis vicem agebat Idololatra, adorare, quo ſenſu hîc dicitur, non magis impium fuiſſet quàm cuivis poteſtati mundanæ morem gerere. Scilicet Beſtia regnum denotat. Beſtiam autem adorare, ex Hebraiſmi & Orientis uſu, nihil aliud eſt quàm eidem ſubjici: quod non obſcurè oſtendit ἐξήγησις illa Adorandi verbo ſubjuncta, Adorârunt, inquit, Beſtiam, dicentes, Quis ſimilis Beſtiæ? quis potis eſt pugnare cum ea? Quaſi dixerit, in BESTIÆ ſeſe obſequium ſponte dederunt, tanquam quæ poteſtate ſuperârit adeò, ut nemo ei reſiſtendo eſſet aut belligerando. Quo eodem ſenſu v. 12. Terra ipſa, non modò incolæ ejus, BESTIAM adorâſſe dicitur, id eſt, in ditionem ejus conceſſiſſe. Καὶ ἐποίει, inquit, τὴν γῆν καὶ τοὺς ἐν αὐτῇ κατοικοῦντας, ἵνα προσκυνήσωσι, &c. Ità in benedictione Jacobi, Gen. 27. 29. Serviant tibi populi, καὶ προσκυνησάτωσάν σοι, adorent te nationes: eſto Dominus fratribus tuis, καὶ προσκυνήσουσί σοι, & adorent te Filii matris tuæ. De hac porrò notione τοῦ προσκυνεῖν vide Gen. 37. 7. & 49. 8. in benedictione Judæ, item Iſai. 45. 14. At verò BESTIÆ juxta conſtitutionem ſuam religioſam ſubjici, quà Draconem ſepticipitem referat, id verò in Deum blaſphemum eſt & impium. Unde qui ſic Beſtiam adorant, Beſtiam adorando Draconem adorare dicuntur.

Datúmque eſt ei os loquens grandia & blaſphemias, & data eſt ei poteſtas Verſ. 5.
faciendi menſes quadraginta duos.

Hactenus de conſtitutione & ſtatu BESTIÆ: deinceps exponitur, quibus demum rebus commiſſam ſibi à Dracone poteſtatem exſeruit; ſcilicet duabus, blaſphemiâ in Deum, & perſecutione Sanctorum. Tota autem deſcriptio petita eſt ex prophetia Danielis cap. 7. ubi de eadem agitur, quâ hîc, Beſtia Romana ſtatûs noviſſimi. Sed quæ ibi Danieli ab Angelo ſuccinctiùs narrantur, ea hîc Joanni, interjectâ quaſi explicatione, fuſiùs diducuntur.

Datum eſt ei, inquit, os loquens grandia. Os loquens grandia, Danielis eſt; est; sed hîc verba illa grandia explicantur per blasphemias: quo nomine cultum idololatricum designari, rem utpote summæ in Deum contumeliæ, mox dicetur. Porrò ait, Bestiam sic blasphematuram menses XLII, annales scilicet; eodem prorsus temporis spatio quo Atrium Templi exterius sive Civitatem sanctam conculcarent Gentes. Nec immeritò, cùm illa Gentium prophanatio in eandem omnino impietatem collineet cum isthac BESTIÆ blasphemia; utraque potestatis tenebrarum & noctis rem designet, ideóque non annis aut diebus, ad motum Solis, sed mensibus, ad motum Lunæ quæ præest nocti, mensuratam. Et sanè, nisi Spiritus S. temporis designationem ad blasphemiam referri voluisset, quorsum eam hoc loco, statim post mentionem blasphemiæ, inseruit? Non igitur ab initio truculentiæ aut belli contra Sanctos, sed blasphemiæ, numerandi sunt BESTIÆ Menses. Ut si verbum Faciendi certum aliquem potestatis Bestiæ actum statúmve significaret, (cujusmodi quid Agendi seu Faciendi potestatem hîc vocari nonnulli autument) id omnino ad blasphemandi actum referendum esset. Sed videtur potiùs τὸ ποιῆσαι durandi seu permanendi significatione adhiberi, ut aliàs solet cum vocabulis temporis. Sic enim Act. 15. 33. ποιήσαντες δὲ χρόνον, facto aliquanto tempore; & 18. 23. ποιήσας χρόνον τινὰ, cùm egisset aliquod tempus, seu aliquandiu; & 20. 3. ποιήσας τε μῆνας τρεῖς, cùm fecisset menses tres; 2 Cor. 11. 25. νυχθήμερον ἐν τῷ βυθῷ πεποίηκα, noctem ac diem in profundo egi. Adde Jacob. 4. 13. Hodie vel cras ibimus in illam civitatem, καὶ ποιήσομεν ἐκεῖ ἐνιαυτὸν ἕνα, & faciemus ibi annum unum. Ubi Drusius annotat, sic עשה usurpari Eccles. 6. 12. & facere in Latio. Seneca Epist. 67. Quamvis paucissimos unà fecerimus dies. In tabella marmorea, Cum qua fecit annos VIIII. Apud Alfenum 1. c. Is servus fugerat, & annum in fuga fecerat, id est, egerat, manserat, finierat, transegerat. His ità se habentibus, quidni BESTIA fecit menses quadraginta duos, sit, vixit totidem, mansit, blasphemando peregit? Cujus locutionis vim qui non intellexerunt, illud πόλεμον, quod in quibusdam exemplaribus exstat, textui inseruisse videntur.

Ad Cap. 13.

Jam quòd dixi, hîc nomine blasphemiæ, quasi per excellentiam, idololatriam seu scortationem spiritualem designari, id duplici aut etiam triplici argumento evinci potest. Primò, quòd BABYLON, BESTIÆ hujus Metropolis, Mater scortorum audiat, cum eâque scortari dicantur reges & incolæ terræ. Atqui BESTIA qua de agimus nihil aliud est quàm Regum istorum & incolarum universitas. Secundò, ejusmodi blasphemiam esse oportet quæ in proximè antecedentis, imò omnium reliquorum capitum vices competat; omnibus enim indita fuerunt nomina blasphemiæ, ver. 1. Adde quòd BESTIA isthac vicis novissimæ ex impietatis Decessoris sui vicis sextæ redintegratione nata & conflata est. Quæ autem istis omnibus communis dari potest blasphemia præter unam idololatriam? Omnino nulla.

Accedit usus Scripturæ, Idololatriam veteris populi hoc nomine exprimentis. Quod ut intelligatur, sciendum tria in Hebræo esse verba ab interpretibus Græcis & vulgatâ Latinâ Blasphemiæ notione reddita, גדף, חרף, & נאץ. quorum nullo non Idololatriam signatam leges.

* גדפו Verbo גדף Ezech. 20. 27. Adhuc & in hoc * blasphemaverunt me Patres vestri, cùm induxissem eos in terram, super quam levavi manum meam ut darem eis: Viderunt omnem collem excelsum & omne lignum nemorosum, & immolaverunt ibi victimas suas, &c.

Verbo חרף Isaiæ 65. 7. Qui sacrificaverunt super montes, & super colles חרפוני probro affecerunt me. Nostrates, blaspheméd me. Et certè חרף ad unguem respondet Græco βλασφημεῖν, ut Theodotion transtulit Prov.

Prov. 14. 31. nam utrumque ſignificat contumeliâ ſeu probrò afficere. Unde 2 Reg. 19. 22. cum נדף jungitur tanquam ſynonymum, ut & Pſal. 44. 16. Septuag. utrumque reddere ſolent per ὀνειδίζω, παροξύνω· utrumque etiam Chaldæus per ſuum חרם. Porrò (ut hoc quoque addam) non Iſaiæ ſolùm, ſed & citerioris ævi Judæis uſitatum fuiſſe, probri ſeu blaſphemiæ nomenclaturâ idolorum cultum intelligere, vel ex Hagiographorum Paraphraſte colligi poteſt; ubi Pſal. 69. 10. pro verbis illis, Opprobrium exprobrantium tibi cecidit ſuper me, Chaldæus habet, Vituperia impiorum qui vituperant te, dum participia faciunt idola ſua gloriæ tuæ, ceciderunt ſuper me. Ad Cap. 13.

Supereſt de verbo נאץ, quod è duobus alterum eſt cui apud LXX reſpondet βλασφημεῖν. Forſtero eſt, Contumeliis, convitiis, verbis maledicis inceſſere. Hieronymus in Pſalmis juxta veritatem Hebraicam, quoties occurrit, (occurrit autem quinquies) ſemper transfert blaſphemare: aliis eſt contemnere, aut contemptim irritare; adeò ut veriſſima ſignificatio ejus eſſe videatur, probris & contumeliis provocare ad iram. Hoc, inquam, verbo perinde Idololatriam deſignari ac prioribus, liquere poteſt ex Deut. 31. 20. Cùm comederint, inquit, & ſaturati fuerint, avertentur ad Deos alienos, & ſervient eis, וְנִאֲצוּנִי detrahéntque mihi. Sic quidem hoc loco Vulgata, ſenſu blaſphemandi, licèt non voce. Nam quid aliud eſt Deo detrahere, quam eundem blaſphemare? Sed alibi vocem quoque exprimit, ut Jer. 23. 15, 17. A Prophetis Jeruſalem egreſſa eſt pollutio ſuper omnem terram. Dicunt לְמְנַאֲצַי his qui blaſphemant me, (de Idololatris autem ſermo eſt) Locutus eſt Dominus, Pax erit vobis & omni qui ambulat in pravitate cordis ſui.

Iſtis, ſi placet, addi poſſunt, nempe illuſtrandi causâ, quòd Antiochi profanationes quibus Templum Dei & ſacra ejus polluerat appellentur βλασφημίαι, 1 Mac. 2. 6. & 2 Mac. 8. 4. Item quòd Kimchius haud diſſimili notione illud Gen. 4. 26. Tunc profanatum fuit invocando Nomen Domini, interpretetur, Tunc errârunt homines poſt idola, & invocatio Nominis Divini fuit polluta & profanata. Quàm verò rectè non inquiro; ſic tamen vertit & accepit. Ità Iſaiæ 66. 3. pro מְבָרֵךְ אָוֶן benedicens idolo, LXX habent ὡς βλάσφημος.

Hinc apud Doctores Scholaſticos tres ſunt blaſphemiæ ſpecies: Una, cùm attribuitur Deo quod ei non convenit; altera, cùm ab eo removetur quod ei convenit; tertia, cùm attribuitur creaturæ quod Deo appropriatur, ut in idololatria. Nam ſicut uxor adultera probro afficit maritum, ità Eccleſia idolis ſe proſtituens Deum; cùm ſit idololatria ſpirituale adulterium.

Et aperuit os ſuum ad blaſphemiam adverſus Deum, ut blaſphemaret Nomen ejus, & tabernaculum ejus, & eos qui in cælo habitant. Verſ. 6.

Quod antea in genere de blaſphemia dixerat, hîc ſpeciatim exſequitur, triplicémque BESTIÆ idololatriam diſtinguit. Primò enim Nomen Dei blaſphemat; ſcilicet in cultu imaginum, Incommunicabile Nomen lignis & lapidibus imponendo, Sap. 14. 21. vel Nomen Dei, i. eſt perſonam (fas ſit ſic loqui;) quod tunc fit, cùm quicquam præter ipſum Deum Divino honore colitur. Secundò, Tabernaculum ejus, i. humanam Chriſti naturam in qua Deitas ὑποστατικῶς habitat. Ὁ λόγος σὰρξ ἐγένετο, καὶ ἐσκήνωσεν ἐν ἡμῖν, Joan. 1. 14. Et apud eundem, 2. 19. Solvite templum hoc, & in tribus diebus excitabo illud. Locutus eſt autem, inquit Evangeliſta, de Templo corporis ſui. Annon etiàm huc ſpectat illud, [manufacto perfectius multò Tabernaculum?] Heb. 9. 11. Hoc, inquam, Tabernaculum blaſphemat BESTIA, dum Chriſti corpus ex pane à Tranſubſtantiatore ſacrificulo quotidie factum credit, eóque Panem pro Chriſto Tabernaculo Dei adorat; imò in ſacrificium propitiatorium pro vivis & mortuis oblatum ſuſpicit, quaſi de integro Chriſtum crucifigens. Etiam Cælites blaſphemat, id eſt, Angelos & ſanctos Cœlicolas, dum eorum nominibus vocat quos colit Dæmones & Idola. Quantum hoc in beatos Spiritus convitium est? imò in Christum etiam Dominum ipsorum contumelia? in cujus prærogativæ & gloriæ diminutionem, vel inviti, mediatores & interpretes apud Deum, patroni & præsides mortalium Ethnico ritu constituantur. Vide quæ ex Gentilium Theologia de Dæmonibus eorúmque officiis scripsimus ad finem Tubæ sextæ. Neque hoc solo contenta BESTIA, insuper contumeliosis & improbis fabulis & miraculis beatos Spiritus dehonestat; ut dubites, cultúne, quem se iisdem exhibere videri vult, an fabularum contumeliis, peccet magis.

Ad Cap. 13.

Hactenus de Blasphemia; sequitur de altera parte impietatis BESTIÆ, quâ se Draconis illius rufi vicariam ostenderet, Persecutione Sanctorum.

Vers. 7. Nam insuper datum est ei, inquit, bellum facere cum Sanctis, & eos vincere. Daniel sic; Faciebat bellum cum Sanctis, & prævalebat eis. Cum Sanctis autem? id est, cum Semine quod Mulieri in Eremo obvenerat. Jam licèt tota BESTIÆ dominatio quoddam sit contra Sanctos bellum, (juxta quod initio dicebatur, abiisse Draconem iratum, ut sub Bestiæ hujusce larva bellum faceret cum reliquis de semine Mulieris custodientibus mandata Dei, & habentibus testimonium Jesu) tamen aliusmodi bellum hîc intelligitur; ut apparet v. 10. ubi de talione aliquando BESTIÆ reddenda dicitur, Si quis in captivitatem agit, &c. si quis gladio occiderit, oportet eum gladio occîdi. Bellum idcirco est quod cæde & sanguine geritur. Adde quòd in BESTIÆ, non Ecclesiasticæ, sed Secularis descriptione adhuc versamur, in quam alterius generis bellum per se vix competat.

Bellum autem isthoc non statim ab initio suo gessit BESTIA, sed postquam jam ad ἀκμὴν suam pervenerat, currente seculo à Christo nato duodecimo. Prima ejus expeditio incubuit in Albigenses & Waldenses, & si quo alio nomine tunc appellati sint veri Christi cultores: quorum tanta strages edita fuit, ut per Galliam solam, si P. Periopius in ejus belli historia rectè calculum inierit, occisa sint ad DECIES CENTENA HOMINUM MILLIA. Non enim vivicomburiis tantummodo, bonorum jacturis, exiliis, aliisque id genus suppliciis grassatum fuit; sed, nè quid tam immani persecutioni ad justum Belli nomen deesset, integri exercitus adversus eos conscripti, & Cruciatis illis expeditionibus, contra Saracenos primitus institutis, jam in castæ puræque religionis Christianos qui BESTIAM adorare abnuerant conversis, ad annos circiter septuaginta furore & immanitate incredibili sævitum. Hujus lanienæ historiæ præstò sunt, ad quas Lectorem remitto. Lubet tamen Thuani, clarissimi, sed aliarum partium, historici verba ascribere: Contra Valdenses (inquit, Præfat. hist. sui temp.) cùm exquisita supplicia parùm proficerent, & remedio quod intempestivè adhibitum fuerat malum exacerbaretur, numerúsque eorum indies cresceret, justi tandem exercitus conscripti sunt, nec minoris molis bellum, quàm quod antè nostri adversus Saracenos gesserant, contra eos decretum est; cujus is exitus fuit, ut potiùs cæsi, fugati, bonis & dignitatibus ubique spoliati, atque hinc illuc dissipati sint, quàm erroris convicti resipuerint. Itaque qui armis se initio tutati fuerant, postremò armis victi in Provinciam apud nos & Gallicæ ditionis Alpes vicinas confugerunt, latebráque vitæ & doctrinæ suæ iis in locis repererunt: pars in Calabriam concessit, atque in ea diu, atque adeò usque ad PII IV. Pontificatum, se continuit: pars in Germaniam transiit, atque apud Boëmos, in Polonia, & Livonia larem fixit: alii ad Occidentem versi in Britannia perfugium habuerunt.

* Ex Epist. Prælatorum Galliæ qui Crucesignatorum castra tum secuti fuut, ad calcem Continuationis Belli sacri, Edit. Basil. ann. 1560. pag. 240.

In hoc verò bello illud quoque memoratu dignum accidit, quòd ipsi Albigenses à Simone Monfortio Crucesignatorum duce magnâ clade aliquando ad Morellum victi, hanc de Sanctis à Bestia vincendis prophetiam in argumentum solatii & constantiæ arripuisse visi sint. Nam cùm * Episcopus Tolosanus stragi intercedens, eos qui adhuc residui in tentoriis fortè manserant, rant, missō quodam Religioso, admoneret, ut tanto quasi Dei irati & contra eos pronunciantis flagello convicti, jam tandem, feritate depositâ, ad fidem quam vocant Catholicam converterentur: illi verò, SE POPULUM CHRISTI VICTUM retorquentes, hoc quasi clypeo tentationis impetum frustrati sunt, atque ad unum omnes à recurrentium militum manu interfecti fortiter occubuerunt. Ad Cap. 13.

Post hoc in Waldenses & Albigenses bellum, adversus tum alias atque alias ipsorum, aliisque in locis, reliquias, tum cæteros ubicunque terrarum ejusdem castæ Religionis socios, variis modis sævitum fuit: donec tandem nihilominus post annum 1500. integra Regna, Principatus, Respublicæ, Reformatis Ecclesiis, à BESTIÆ ditione in partes Sanctorum secesserint. Contra quos deinceps bellum geritur, hodiéque durat, nec finietur donec BESTIA in exitium ierit.

Jam si quis totam lanienæ hujus seriem, annis paulò ampliùs quadringentis & quinquaginta comprehensam, animo diligenter metiatur, numerúmque occisorum ad calculos revocet; aut fallor, aut BESTIÆ persecutionem decem illas Ethnicas (cùm Draco proprio adhuc nomine rerum potiretur) non modò æquâsse, sed & superâsse, mirabitur. Albigensium & Waldensium cæsorum numerum DECIES CENTENIS hominum MILLIBUS æstimatum jam antea monuimus. Exinde ad Ecclesiæ Reformationem, partim flammis, partim gladio, partim aliis cruciatibus absumptorum nemo calculum inivit, cùm tamen numerum haud exiguum fuisse notum sit. Ab origine Jesuitarum ad annum 1580, hoc est, paulò pluribus quàm 30 annis, Orthodoxorum NONGENTA ferè MILLIA fuisse trucidata, notat Balduinus de Antichristo. In Belgio solo, ídque manu solùm carnificis, sævus ille Pugil Romanæ Sedis Dux Albanus ad 36 animarum millia, se authore, intra paucos annos sublata gloriatus * est. Testatur [a] Vergerius, qui optimè novit, Inquisitionem, ut vocant, hæreticæ pravitatis, vix triginta annorum spatio, CENTUM QUINQUAGINTA Christianorum MILL. diversis afflictationum generibus consumpsisse. Fatetur [b] Sanderus, infinitos Lolhardos & Sacramentarios in tota Europa ignibus traditos fuisse; quos tamen ait ille non à Papa & Episcopis, sed à politicis Magistratibus neci datos fuisse. Nimirum sic juxta prophetiam rem geri oportuit: nam de Seculari BESTIA dicitur, quòd Sanctis bellum faceret, eósque vinceret, & de decem Regibus, cap. 17. eos AGNO & electis & fidelibus ejus bellum illaturos; de BESTIA verò Ecclesiastica, non quidem ipsam gladio occidere, sed facere ut quicunque Imaginem Bestiæ non adoraverint, ab ipsa Imagine gladio occidantur, ut paulò pòst videbimus. Sequitur, Cap. 6. n. 41.

* Fran. Jun. & Tilenus ad Bellar. lib. 3. de Pont. Rom. cap. 7.

[a] Dounam de Antich. pag. 450.

[b] De visibili Monarch. lib. 8. dem. 34.

Et data est ei potestas in omnem tribum, & linguam, & gentem.

Quæ autem hæc potestas? num debellandi Sanctos? quasi ea sese extenderet quàm latè pateat Ditio Romana. nam fortè non de dominii, sed persecutionis amplitudine sermo est. Sin quis alterum malit, sensus erit, Tantam fore BESTIÆ authoritatem, ut nulla tribus, lingua, aut gens impietati ejus refragaretur. Non autem de singularibus hîc intelligi vult, (quippe quorum multi omni seculo reperti sunt qui Agno fidem servârint) sed de integris tribubus, linguis, & gentibus, id est, politiis hominum; quarum verissimum est nullam repertam esse, quam non BESTIA in impietatis suæ obsequium flexam per multa secula detinuerat: adeò ut qui hîc illic per BESTIÆ provincias dispersi degerent veri nominis Christiani, soli per id temporis Ecclesiam illibatam atque Virgineam constituerent; ut quæ nullam professionis suæ civitatem, rempublicam, nedum principatum aut regnum (proh dolor!) habuerit. Hîc autem animo tenendum, BESTIÆ formam esse impietatem illam Draconi succenturiatam; cujus utique communione plura illa, ut diximus, ditionis Romanæ Regna in unam Bestiam

Ad Cap. 13. Vers. 8. coaleſcunt. Hanc igitur qui ſuſceperint in poteſtatem BESTIÆ concedere dicuntur: quod fecerunt omnes tribus, linguæ & gentes.

Et adorabunt eam omnes incolæ terræ, quorum non ſunt ſcripta nomina in libro vitæ Agni illius mactati ab origine mundi. 9. Siquis habet aurem, audiat.

Nè quis autem tam univerſali & catholico in BESTIÆ leges conſenſu faſcinatus id piè rectéque fieri, ſibíque abſque periculo, tot gentium, nationum populorúmque exemplum ſequendum eſſe præſumat, aut etiam perſecutionis atrocitate fractus & debilitatus fidem Agno datam violet, ínque BESTIÆ cultum concedat, Spiritus Sanct. quo loco & numero apud Deum ſint qui huic monſtro impietatis morigeros ſeſe exhibuerint elogio planè metuendo denunciat: Eos nempe in AGNI illius occiſi matricula non haberi, ſed regni Dei exſortes æternùm perituros.

Admonitioni iſti formidoloſæ ſubjungitur Apoſtrophe attentioni movendæ; Si quis, inquit, habet aurem, audiat: quaſi dicat, Eho, pii Chriſticolæ, advertite aures, imíſque animis recondite quod de infelici adeò Beſtiiſequarum ſorte modò profatum eſt; neque enim parvi momenti res eſt, quinimo talis in qua cardo ſalutis veſtræ vertitur. Ità nempe verba iſta ad ſuperiora referri debent, non ad ſequentia; pari modo quo eadem in Epiſtolis ad Eccleſias haud ſemel referri perſpicuum eſt. Vide cap. 2. ver. ult. cap. 3. verſ. 6, 13, 22.

Vers. 10. Si quis in captivitatem agit, in captivitatem abit: Si quis gladio occiderit, oportet eum gladio occidi.

Epiphonema conſolatorium piorum, in quos BESTIA, parere ſibi recuſantes, bello, carceribus, & ſuppliciis immaniſſimis graſſaretur: Futurum nempe aliquando ut Deus, juſtus ſuorum vindex, tot lanienarum, tantarum crudelitatum pœnas repoſcat, atque Belluæ rabioſæ talionem retribuat.

Atque hîc eſt, inquit, tolerantia & fides Sanctorum.

Id eſt, Sancti, hâc ſuperni Numinis æquitate, rebúſque humanis ordinandis juſtitiâ freti, ad ea quæ paſſuri ſint minimè conturbentur aut animis concidant, ſed animosè BESTIÆ contranitentes vindictam à Deo certò & cumulatè eventuram firmiter & patienter exſpectent.

Atque hactenus de BESTIA Seculari actum: jam ad alterius BESTIÆ à ſe viſæ deſcriptionem progreditur Apoſtolus, BESTIÆ nimirum Eccleſiaſticæ, ſeu mavis Pſeudoprophetica, quæ prioris BESTIÆ ejúſque blaſphemiarum præfecturam gerit.

DE
BESTIA ALTERA BICORNI, ſive Pſeudopropheta.

BESTIA Bicornis ſive Pſeudopropheta PONTIFEX eſt Romanus cum ſuo Clero; cornua quidem habens inſtar AGNI, cujus ſe poteſtatis ligandi & ſolvendi in terris Vicarium jactat, ſed loquens idololatrias & Sanctorum lanienas ut Draco. Hæc enim BESTIA BESTIÆ illius Decemcornupetæ, Draconi à tyrannide & blaſphemiis ſub Chriſtianæ profeſſionis larva ſuccenturiatæ, author fuit & conditor. Cujus proinde ut poteſtate, Hierar-

Hierarchæ munere, fungitur; ità quoque Pontifex ipſe ejuſdem, non minùs quàm Cleri ſui, (quocum ſeorſim BESTIAM Pſeudopropheticam conſtituit) ſeſe Caput & Monarcham gerit, ſeptimum illud noviſſimúmque Rei Romanæ caput in URBE ſepticolli exhibens. Qui nempe Signis & Miraculis quæ ei cum Clero ſuo facere aut fingere datum eſt, Excommunicationis præſertim tanquam cœleſtis vindictæ fulmine, eò ſenſim Reges ex diſſipato Cæſarum Imperio nuper in Orbe Romano natos induxit, ut ſibi, caſſæque jam alioquin imperio Romæ, colla unanimiter ſubmittentes, priſtini jámque demoliti Imperii Ethnici IMAGINEM induerent. Id quod ei tam commodè proceſſit, ut non tantùm BESTIA illa Romana capite Cæſareo ſauciata in IMAGINE iſta planè revixerit, ſed & IMAGO ipſa ad PSEUDOPROPHETÆ nutum in quoſcunque formæ ſuæ reclamantes incidiſſet, gladio ſeculari animadverteret, perinde ut PSEUDOPROPHETA ſpirituali. Ad Cap. 13.

Et vidi, inquit, aliam Beſtiam aſcendentem de terra, & habebat duo cornua ſimilia Agni, ſed loquebatur ut Draco. Verſ. 11.

Vidit aliam Beſtiam, Pſeudopropheticam nempe, ſeu Pſeudoeccleſiaſticam, quam conſtituit, ut diximus, PONTIFEX Romanus cum ſuo Clero. PONTIFEX enim per ſe & ſolus, ut Pſeudopropheta dici poſſit, Beſtiam tamen non efficit, niſi adſcito ſuo Clero; cùm Beſtia cœtum hominum quodam membrorum ordine inſtar animalis gaudentem denotet, non ſingularem hominem. Vidit autem aſcendentem de terra: id eſt, non, ut prior illa, ex mari ſeu Orbis ditionibus, nobiliori ſcilicet origine, prognatam; ſed ex ima rerum conditione editam: vel potiùs, non exercituum populorúmve bello decertantium confluge, ut SECULARIS illa, genitam; ſed tacitè & ſine ſtrepitu, inſtar herbarum & ſtirpium de terra naſcentium, ſuccreſcentem. Mare enim, ut quamvis populorum in unam ditionem confluge, ità in bello exercitum ſignificat. Et habebat duo cornua ſimilia AGNI:] id eſt, poteſtatem illam bipartitam ligandi & ſolvendi, Petro cæteríſque Apoſtolis à Chriſto delegatam, atque eatenus quidem ipſius AGNI ſimilem, quatenus dixit, Sicut me miſit Pater, ità & ego mitto vos. Hanc quidem poteſtatem BESTIA præ ſe fert, ſéque in ea Chriſti vicariam agere: ſed loquitur ut Draco, Draco verò rufus, quem Michael paulò antè deturbaverat atque Imperio Romano exuerat; dum quidem, ut ille, Deaſtrorum & idolorum cultui authoritate & decretis ſuis patrocinatur, paríque modo veros & caſtos AGNI illius mactati cultores perſecutionibus & lanienis exterminari facit.

Nam poteſtatem prioris Beſtiæ omnem exſequitur in conſpectu ejus. Verſ. 12.

Poteſtatem Draconis fiduciariam illam priori BESTIÆ concreditam, ínque idololatrico cultu ſitam, exſequitur BESTIA Bicornis, tanquam Hierarcha, cujus eſt obeundis ſacris præeſſe. In conſpectu autem Beſtiæ idem eſt ac apud ipſum ſive in gratiam ejus; quaſi dicat, BESTIA hæc Bicornis BESTIÆ Decemcornupetæ à ſacris eſt, ut mirum videri non debeat ſi loquatur ut Draco. Ità enim Hebræorum לִפְנֵי, cui ἐνώπιον reſpondet, nonnunquam æquipollet dativo perſonæ cui aliquid acquiritur vel in cujus gratiam fit; ut pro eo quod 1 Sam. 2. 18. dicitur, Erat Samuel λειτουργῶν ἐνώπιον τῷ Κυρίῳ, eſt cap. 3. 1. λειτουργῶν τῷ Κυρίῳ. Speciatim verò PONTIFEX Romanus hujus BESTIÆ caput, illius quoque BESTIÆ ſupremum regimen exercet.

Adhæc facit ut terra & habitantes in ea adorent Beſtiam primam, cujus plaga mortifera curata eſt.

Id eſt, quicquid omnino eſt BESTIA illa prior, quicquid obſequii à gentibus impietati ejus delatum eſt, id omne Hierarchæ huic tanquam parenti acceptum refert: cujus nimirum operâ effectum ſit ut terra & incolæ ejus

Ad Cap. 13. adorarent BESTIAM illam primam, quæ plagâ mortiferâ ſanatâ è Mari emerſerat. Id quâ ratione, quibus mediis machiniſve effectum dedit, id particulatim ἐν τοῖς ἔξω exponit.

Verſ. 13. Etenim, inquit, facit ſigna magna, adeò ut etiam ignem faciat è cælo deſcendere in terram in conſpectu hominum.

Verſ. 14. Et ſeducit incolas terræ propter ſigna quæ datum ei facere in conſpectu Beſtiæ, dicens incolis terræ ut faciant Imaginem Beſtiæ quæ gladio vulnerata fuit: Et revixit.

Etenim facit, καὶ ποιεῖ. Vau enim Hebræorum & indè καὶ in Scriptura Conjunctio eſt non tantùm copulativa, ſed & disjunctiva, rationalis, cauſalis, ordinativa, explanativa, prout ſenſûs ratio exigit: id quod ſemel monuiſſe ſufficiat. Jam ad rem. BESTIA Pſeudoprophetica ſeu Pontificia author fuit gentibus BESTIÆ illius Decemcornupetæ quâ Draconis poteſtas revixit conſtituendæ. Signis enim & miraculis iiſdem perſuaſit, ut ſecum in Imaginem Beſtiæ ſexto capite mactatæ fabricandam conſentirent. Quâ demum ad nutum ejus efformatâ, Plaga illa ſtatu Draconis accepta, novâ idololatriâ & tyrannide ad priorum ſimilitudinem introductis, curari, Beſtiáque Draconicola renovari viſa eſt. nam BESTIA Romanæ capitis novißimi eſt IMAGO Beſtiæ ſexto capite mactatæ. Dixit, inquit, incolis terræ, ut facerent Imaginem Beſtiæ quæ habebat plagam gladii; id eſt, imaginem ejus eâ quâ fuit conditione cùm accipiebat plagam. Καὶ ἔζησε, id eſt, atque ità demum BESTIA revixit ſeu redintegrata fuit. Verba enim iſta non pertinent ad deſcriptionem Beſtiæ cujus erat imago exprimenda, quaſi verba loquentis Pſeudoprophetæ; ſed ſunt Angeli eventum conſilii iſtius referentis, ſive ſubjicientis, nempe ſic Beſtiam illam cæſam revixiſſe. Eſtque acſi plenè diceretur hoc modo; Λέγων τοῖς κατοικοῦσιν ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς, ποιῆσαι εἰκόνα τῷ Θηρίῳ ὃ ἔσχε πληγὴν τῆς μαχαίρας· [οἱ δὲ ἐποίησαν οὕτω] καὶ ἔζησε, Dicens incolis terræ ut faciant Imaginem Beſtiæ quæ habebat plagam gladii; [illi verò fecerunt ità] & revixit. Ut 2 Reg. 20. 7. Dixit Iſaias, Tollite maſſam ficuum. Et tulerunt, & poſuerunt ſuper ulcus: וַיְחִי וְיַחִי καὶ ἔζησε, Et convaluit, ſcilicet Ezechias vel ulcus.

Nimirum hoc illud eſt quod in BESTIÆ illius Secularis deſcriptione dicebatur, tradidiſſe ei Draconem copias ſuas & poteſtatem magnam, eóque plagam illius lethalem convaluiſſe; id eſt, impreſſiſſe Draconem cultûs & poteſtatis ſuæ formam Beſtiæ religionis alienæ, dum Angelos ſuos ſeu Dæmones non quidem, ut olim, iis titulis quibus ſe Chriſti Domini noſtri hoſtes profitebantur, ſed ſub tegmine religionis Chriſtianæ, Sanctorum & Angelorum bonorum, imò & Chriſti ipſius (vah blaſphemiam!) nominibus ſuppoſuit colendos. Nam Idola qui colit, quocunque nomine vocet, colit Dæmonia.

Imò, nè quid ad plenam Beſtiæ cæſæ, id eſt, Draconis, imaginem deeſſet; quod Imperatores Draconicolæ quidam fecerant, ipſe quoque PONTIFEX ſibi deferri curavit, honores ſcilicet divinos & authoritatem Deo peculiarem: adeò ut in Templo Dei tanquam Deus ſedeat, præſe ferens ſe eſſe Deum, ut Paulus inquit. Quod etſi Joannes, ſeu Angelus ipſi BESTIÆ hiſtoriam pandens, hîc ſpeciatim non attingit; tamen generali Imaginis nomine, tanquam ſimilitudinis iſtius partem quâ Beſtia cæſa refertur, comprehenſam voluit.

Atque hactenus de Imagine fabricanda; jam de Signis ad ſuaſionem ejus adhibitis. Facit, inquit, Signa magna, adeò ut etiam ignem faciat è cælo deſcendere in terram. Haud invitus hîc irem in ſententiam Graſeri, ſi modò illa ex Hebræorum ſcriptis confirmari poſſet, hoc de Ignis deductione de cælo hyperbolê proverbiali dictum eſſe, εἰς αὔξησιν ejus quod præceſſit: acſi dictum eſſet, Facit ſigna magna, imò talia ac tanta, ut vel ab ipſius Eliæ miraculis miraculis quibus veri Dei cultum asseruit haud longè abesse videantur. Judæi enim vulgò, inquit Graserus, isti Eliæ miraculo tantum tribuunt, ut proverbialiter illud de omnibus stupendis factis, in quibus nempe Dei dignitas elucet, usurpent. Ad Cap. 13.

Sed cui hoc non placuerit, is lectionem Complutensem, aliis quoque exemplaribus testatam, sequatur, [ποιεῖ σημεῖα μεγάλα ἵνα καὶ πῦρ ποιῇ καταβαίνειν, facit signa magna & ut ignis è cœlo descendat in terram] atque adeò, tanquam eorum quæ deinceps fusiùs exponuntur summa hisce verbis proponeretur, de duplici mediorum genere interpretatum est quibus PSEUDOPROPHETA usurus esset ut Orbis Christiani incolas induceret ad Imaginem BESTIÆ sexto suo capite cæsæ refingendam, Miraculorum scilicet apparatu, & Excommunicationis fulmine: quorum altero gentium animos in errorem pelliceret; altero, immorigerorum contumaciam & superbiam frangeret. Etenim de horum utrisque quorsúmque spectarent in sequentibus ordine agitur. De Signis quidem verbis istis, Et seducit incolas terræ per signa quæ datum est ei facere, dicens incolis terræ ut faciant IMAGINEM Bestiæ quæ gladio vulnerata fuit, & quæ sequuntur ad v. 16. De Excommunicatione verò istis, Facit ut omnes accipiant characterem in manu dextra aut in frontibus suis, & ut nè quis possit emere aut vendere, nisi qui habuerit characterem aut nomen BESTIÆ, aut numerum nominis ejus. Locutio Synecdochica, quâ, ex interdicto aliorum commercio, Anathematis Ecclesiastici censura innuitur. Nec ea sanè inconcinnè igni cœlesti seu fulmini assimilatur. Quid enim est, obsecro, in Dei nomine æterno illi igni quempiam addicere, quàm ignem cœlo devocare? præsertim cùm impiorum illa à Deo profectura pœna lacu ignis & sulphuris, seu Asphaltite, ubi Sodoma & Gomorrha igne cœlitus depluto conflagrârunt, semel iterúmque in hoc libro figuretur. Imò conflagrationem istam docet Apostolus Petrus, 2 Ep. 2. 6. constituisse Deum ὑπόδειγμα μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν, id est, per ellipsim prioris substantivi in Hebraismo usitatam, ὑπόδειγμα κολάσεως μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν, exemplar pœnæ eorum qui impiè victuri sunt: Et Judas hîc Petri mentem clariùs efferens, πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκην ὑπέχειν, id est, ignis æterni similitudinem seu typum sustinere, seu ignis æterni pœnam exhibere. Ità enim, vel in sensum aliquem similem, Judæ verba interpretanda esse, utriusque Apostoli verborum invicem collatio & rei ipsius ingenium attento Lectori persuadebunt. Jud. 7.

Quâ occasione & illud quoque addere mihi liceat, Propterea memorabile admodum fuisse, & triste Judæis jam à Deo rejectis omen, quod in ipso initio fatalis istius Belli iis accidisse narret Josephus, clade ad trajectum Jordanis è regione Jerichuntis acceptâ: Nempe cùm alii ab hoste in flumen projicerentur, alii vim eorum non sustinentes sponte eò desilirent, Lacum ASPHALTITEM prono flumine devolutis cadaveribus oppletum fuisse, quo casu, inquit, plaga, licèt per se gravissima, Judæis tamen seipsâ major visa fuit. De Bello Jud. lib. 5. cap. 3. secundùm Rufini distinctionem.

Sed eventum Vaticinii quod attinet, De Signis quidem res notissima est, universam quæ in Bestiæ regno jam à duodecim plùs minùs seculis obtinuit idololatriam, tum primogenitam illam in Sanctorum demortuorum, reliquiarum & Angelorum cultu sitam, tum proximum natu cultum imaginum, denique novissimam illam Dei panacei blasphemiam, denso Signorum agmine, curationibus putâ & visionibus miraculosis, coercitionibus specie tenus dæmonum, aliísque non unius generis mirandis effectibus, infelicibus Christianis primò quasi commendatam, deinde persuasam & confirmatam esse. Quæ quidem omnia BESTIA Bicornis, seu PONTIFEX Romanus cum satellitio suo Pseudoprophetico, fecisse dicitur; quatenus vel ipsi confinxerunt, vel ab aliis conficta authoritate suâ approbârunt, vel quæ malorum dæmonum reverâ operationes & præſtigiæ fuerint, pro veris & Divinis miraculis Orbi Chriſtiano ſeducendo obtruſerunt. Scilicet hoc illud ipſum eſt quod Apoſtolus Paulus ad Theſſalonicenſes prædixit, Adventum hominis peccati fore ſecundùm efficaciam Satanæ, cum omni potentia & ſignis ac prodigiis mendacibus, & cum omni ſeductione injuſtitiæ.

Ad Cap. 13. 2 Theſſ. 2. 9,10.

Fulminis verò ſeu Anathematis Pontificii exempla, quo ille ſuam in decernendo jubendóque authoritatem vindicavit, ea quidem adeò cuivis ſunt obvia, ut meo ex Annalibus Eccleſiæ huc convehendi labori omnino parci poſſit. Unum commemorare lubitum eſt admodum inſigne, & quod Imaginem de qua fabricanda agitur tam propè attingat, ut vel ſolum ad Prophetiæ hujus veritatem aſtruendam poſſit ſufficere.

Nempe in controverſia illa Iconomachica apud Græcos anno circiter 720 exorta, atque per annos 120 ingenti fervore & idololatrarum perſecutione agitata, dici vix poteſt in quantum diſcrimen Imago illa Draconis cæſi, tunc adhuc rudis & imperfecta, nec ultimam artificis manum conſecuta, adducta fuerit. Nec enim in illâ controverſia, ut vulgò creditur, Imaginum ſolarum cultus, ſed & Sanctorum demortuorum & Reliquiarum ſtrenuè oppugnabatur. Leo Iſauricus (inquit Theophanes hiſt. Miſcel. lib. 21. cap. 23.) non ſolùm circa venerabilium affectivam imaginum adorationem errabat impius [χετικλω τῶν σεπτῶν εἰκόνων προσκύνησιν] ſed & circa interceſſiones caſtiſſimæ Dei genitricis omniúmque Sanctorum, quorum & reliquias ſceleſtiſſimus, ut magiſtri ejus Arabes, (id eſt, Muhammedani) abominabatur. Idem de Conſtantino, quem per contumeliam Idolorum patroni Copronymum vocârunt, ibid. cap. ult. Hic, inquit, pernicioſiſſimus & agreſtis, ferus, &c. primò quidem à Deo & intemerata Matre ipſius ac omnibus Sanctis abſcedit. Ità pium Imperatorem blaſphemat Græculus Idololatra. Iterum lib. 22. c. 42. Ubique interceſſiones ſanctæ Virginis & Dei genitricis ac omnium Sanctorum in ſcriptis, ut inutiles, ac ſine ſcripto repellebat, per quas nobis emanat omne ſuffragium, ſanctas eorum reliquias ejiciens & inviſas reddens: ſicubique inſignis cujuſquam audiebatur ad animarum ſanitatem & corporum rejacere, vel, ſicut moris eſt, à piè agentibus honorari, mox ergò mortem adverſus hujuſmodi tanquam impiè agentes minabatur; ſin autem, proſcriptiones, exilia, tormenta: Deo autem gratiſſimum lipſanum, utpote quidam theſaurus poſſeſſoribus habitus, auferebatur, inviſum de cætero efficiendum. Videat quoque Lector cap. 54. Idem cap. 48. Sicubi quiſquam corruens vel dolens ſolitam Chriſtianorum vocem emitteret, dicens, DEI GENITRIX JUVA, aut vigilias agens deprehenderetur, &c.——ut inimicus Imperatoris damnabatur, & IMMEMORABILIS nominabatur. Imò adhuc ſub Theophilo, quinque Imperatorum Iconomachorum ultimo, Sanctorum cultum oppugnatum apparet ex Hymno illo Theodori, quo Eccleſia Conſtantinopolitana victricis tandem Idololatriæ memoriam quotannis (proh ſcelus & dolor!) recolere ſolebat. Ibi namque Ode 8. habetur, Τὰ ἱερὰ τῶν ἁγίων λείψανα, καὶ τὰς εἰκόνας αὐτῶν, Λέζιξ ὁ δεινὸς ἅμα τῷ Ἰωάννῃ ὃδ' ὅλως προσκυνεῖσθαι ἔφασκον ἀνόμως, οἱ ἀρνηταὶ τῆς ὁσιότητος· id eſt, Sacras Sanctorum reliquias, & ipſorum imagines, Lezius ille ferus unà cum Joanne (hic fuit Patriarcha Conſtantinopolitanus ſub Theophilo) nullo pacto venerandas impiè aſſerebant, pietatis deſertores.

Quid igitur hîc PONTIFEX Romanus? Succurrit IMAGINI Beſtianæ, immane quantum de fractione periclitanti: & cùm literis & minis nihil proficeret, ad fulmineas artes ſe convertit. Leonem Iſaurum Iconomachorum anteſignanum anathemate percutit, ſubditos in Italia ab obedientiæ juramento abſolvit, Exarchatu Ravennate & reliquâ eò loci ditione, quantum quidem in ipſo erat, privavit. Quo facto, ut Idololatricæ in Oriente factioni animos addidit, ità Reges Occidentis tempeſtivè abſterruit nè quid ſimile conaconarentur. Eodem fulmine Albigenſes, eorúmque defenſores & receptores afflandos ſanxit & verò afflavit Synodus Lateranenſis 280 Epiſcoporum ſub Alexandro III. Idem quoque fulmen Concilium Lateranenſe magnum ſub Innocentio devocandum cernit in Dominos temporales, qui requiſiti & moniti ab Eccleſia terras ſuas ab iiſdem purgare neglexerint; nempe, ut per Metropolitanos & cæteros comprovinciales Epiſcopos Excommunicationis vinculo innodentur; &, ſi ſatisfacere contempſerint, per Pontificem Rom. vaſalli eorum à fidelitate ſua denuncientur abſoluti, & terræ eorum exponantur Catholicis occupandæ. Ad Cap. 13. Tom. 4. Concil. Edit. Rom. an. 1612. pag. 44, 45.

Ejus enim à libro 17 eſt hiſtoria Miſcella dicta, quæ ab Anaſtaſio Biblioth. è Græco verſa, falsò Pauli Diaconi nomine circumfertur. Floruit ſub Nicep. & Leone Armeno. Vide Baron. Ann. 719. 20. & 813. 8, 9, 10.

Apud Baron. anno 842. 28.

Datúmque eſt ei dare ſpiritum Imagini Beſtiæ, ut & loquatur Imago Beſtiæ, & faciat ut quicunque non adoraverint Imaginem Beſtiæ occidantur. Verſ. 15.

Ni vitali facultate prædita fuiſſet IMAGO, non ejus effictione Beſtia cæſa revixiſſet. Neque enim Beſtia draconicola, quam referre debuit, Beſtia iners fuit; ſed quæ ſtrenuè admodum ſeſe movere, & in quoſvis genio ſuo contrarios impetum facere ſolebat. Ejuſmodi igitur imaginem eam eſſe oportuit in qua denuo reviviſceret. Proinde PSEUDOPROPHETÆ datum dicitur, non ſolùm ut populum Chriſtianum ad Imaginem ipſius in Beſtia vicis noviſſimæ fabricandam pelliceret; ſed ut ipſe vitam eidem largiretur, quâ & edictis pari modo juberet quæ ad dignitatem ſuam tuendam opus eſſent, tum in inobſequentes & conſtitutioni ipſius religioſæ ſubeſſe detrectantes gladio, ſeu nece ſeculari, animadverteret. Et ſanè totam illam poteſtatem quam habet IMAGO, ſeu Beſtia Secularis idololatrica, in Sanctos ſæviendi, eam non niſi à BESTIA Pſeudoprophetica ſibi traditam exercet. Ità enim res geritur, ut quos BESTIA Pſeudoprophetica hæreſeos (ut vocant) ſeu Imaginis violatæ condemnaverit, eos demum BESTIÆ Seculari poteſtatem facit occidendi: cujuſmodi ſcilicet à ſeſe nullam habet, niſi ab Eccleſiaſtico judicio pendentem. Atque hæc eſt illa quam vocant Traditionem poteſtati ſeculari in hiſtoriis carnificinæ Beſtianæ nullibi non obviam. BESTIA ſcilicet Pſeudoprophetica, ut quidem videri vult, non occîdit ipſa, ſed tamen ſententiâ ſuâ damnatos Seculari tanquam Carnifici tradit occidendos.

Et facit ut omnes, parvi & magni, divites & pauperes, liberi & ſervi (id eſt, cujuſcunque ſint ordinis, ſtatûs & conditionis) accipiant characterem in manu ſua dextra aut in frontibus ſuis: Et nè quis poſſit emere aut vendere, niſi qui habeat characterem aut nomen Beſtiæ, aut numerum nominis ejus. Verſ. 16. Verſ. 17.

Quid ſibi velit emendi & vendendi interdictum (ut περιῦσσον incipiam) jam antè oſtendi; nempe Papalem Excommunicationem notari, in quam qui incidunt reliquorum civium conſuetudine & commercio arcentur. Ità Canon iſte Concilii Lateranenſis ſub Alexandro, cujus paulò antè mentio facta, contra Waldenſes & Albigenſes editus, ſub anathemate prohibet ſignanter, Nè quis eos in domo vel in terra ſua tenere vel fovere, vel NEGOTIATIONEM cum iis exercere præſumat. Et Synodus Turonenſis in Gallia ſub eodem ſimili interminatione prohibet, Nè ubi cogniti fuerint illius (ut vocant) hæreſeos ſectatores, receptaculum quiſquam eis in terra ſua præbere aut præſidium impertiri præſumat; ſed nec in VENDITIONE & EMPTIONE aliqua cum iis communio habeatur. Et quid? nonne hîc quoque loquitur PSEUDOPROPHETA ut Draco? Draco enim Diocletianus ſimile edictum edidit, Nè quis quidquam Chriſtianis venderet aut ſubminiſtraret, niſi priùs thura Diis adoleviſſent: de quo in Hymno Juſtini martyris ità canit Beda; Tom. 4. Concil. Edit. Rom. pag. 37. Apud Rev. Armachan. de ſucceſſione Eccleſiæ, pag. 239.

Non

Ad Cap. 13.

Non illis emendi quidquam
Aut vendendi copia:
Nec ipſam haurire aquam
Dabatur licentia,
Antequam thurificarent
Deteſtandis idolis.

Hanc autem locutionem Synecdochicam propterea fortaſſe Spiritus S. adhibuit, ut innueret, anathema illud Papale, licèt ſeſe abſciſſione ab interna & inviſibili Chriſti communione venditet, reverâ tamen ultrà vim non habere quàm ut ab externo & viſibili aliorum civium commercio excludat.

Jam quod de Charactere dicitur; Character Beſtiæ non eſt propriè niſi Nominis; ideo dicitur Character ſeu Nomen Beſtiæ, & capite ſequente Character Nominis ejus. Nempe alluſum eſt ad morem veterem, quo Servi Dominorum, milites Imperatoris ſui nominibus (atque illi quidem præcipuè in fronte, iſti in manibus) inſcribi ſolebant. Itaque pari ratione AGNI quoque Satellitium capite ſequenti, quod ſatellitio BESTIÆ ἀντιστοιχεῖ, Agni & Patris nominibus in fronte ſcribuntur; eodem utrobique typi ſenſu, ad indicandum cujus Domini ſit, cuíque militet uterque Cœtus; illos Beſtiæ & Imaginis ejus, hoſce Chriſti & Patris ejus ſeſe ſervos profiteri.

Numerum quod attinet, is Nominis ſeu Characteris Beſtiæ appendix potiùs cenſendus eſt quàm Character; & quidem reverâ non tam Nominis Beſtiæ, quàm Beſtiæ ipſius Numerus eſt; quomodo etiam ſtatim vocatur. Numerus autem Nominis ideo tantùm dicitur, quòd Nominis Beſtiæ literis in numeros relatis, Deo ità diſponente, contineatur. Neque tamen ſequitur, quia cum Nomine Numerus tam intimè cohæreat, ideo Numerum Beſtiæ cum Nomine confundendum eſſe: Exigit enim ἀντιστοιχίας ratio ut, quemadmodum in Agni Cœtu Character Nominis à Cœtûs Numero diſtinguitur, ità quoque in Cœtu Beſtiano fiat. Adde quòd diverſæ omnino rei ſunt, ſignificationis, inquam, Character Nominis atque Numerus, ſi ad aliorum locorum analogiam interpretationem dirigamus. Alter enim, Character Nominis, cui Domino ſeſe addixerint qui geſtant; alter, putà Numerus, quâ proſapiâ undéque genus ſuum deducant qui eodem inſigniuntur, oſtendit: ut numerus duodenarius, éxque duodenario multiplicando factus, tam in Cœtu Virgineo quàm in ſtructura & dimenſionibus Novæ Hieruſalem emicans, Apoſtolici generis atque indolis ſymbolum eſt.

Sed nè diutiùs in generalibus iſtis immoremur: videamus tandem quodnam ſit illud Beſtiæ NOMEN, quo Numerus quoque ejuſdem à Spiritu S. notatus contineatur. Eſt verò, quod jam tum cùm Apocalypſis adhuc recèns ſcripta eſſet nonnulli ſuſpicati ſunt, decantatum illud ΛΑΤΕΙΝΟΣ. Hoc enim nomine, poſt imperii diviſionem & decem Reges in provinciis ejus exortos, neque priùs, Pſeudopropheta Romanus, cum reliquis Occidentis incolis, diſcriminis ergô appellatus eſt; ídque ab illis ipſis, quibus Apocalypſis ſcripta eſt, ſeptem Aſiæ Eccleſiis. Namque Græci & reliqui Orientales, penes quos in dilaceratione illa Imperii nomen manſerat, ſeipſos ſolos Romanos dici voluere; nos, cum Pontifice noſtro & ſub eo Epiſcopis, Regibus, Dynaſtis, fatali quodam inſtinctu LATINOS dixere. Atque hoc ipſum Nomen, literis ſuis Græcorum & Hebræorum more ſubductis, numerum conficit à Spiritu S. notatum, numerum autem myſticum, quo indicatur cujus proſapiæ ſit BESTIA, quámque falsò ſeſe chori Apoſtolici ſucceſſorem venditet, cùm ſit reverâ Draconis.

Numerus enim NOMINIS Beſtiæ eſt 666. Quem ſi ex duodenario, Apoſtolici generis Symbolo, deducere ſatagas, fruſtrà laborabis; nunquam enim enim indè, quomodocunque multiplicaveris, 666 efficies: At verò è Senario, qui DRACONIS illius rufi, putà BESTIÆ ſexti capitis, numerus eſt, facillimè; cùm ex Senariis totus, quantus quantus eſt, conflatus ſit, monadum, decadum, hecatontadum; quaſi Draconis illius ſperma totum BESTIÆ hujus noviſſimæ corpus omnéſque artus ejus pervaſiſſet. Ad Cap. 13.

Hîc eſt ſapientia (inquit Spiritus.) Qui intelligentiam habet, computet Numerum Beſtiæ: numerus enim hominis eſt; & Numerus ejus 666. Verſ. 18.

Quem quidem omnino ad eum quem dixi modum computari debere, videor mihi colligere ex Cœtûs Virginei analogia, cujus Numerus 144, contrà quàm Beſtiæ, totus Apoſtolicus eſt, ex duodenario in ſeipſum multiplicato genitus. Contrariorum autem contraria eſt ratio. Atque ibi quidem utrumque, tam Nomen inſcriptum quàm inſcripti Cœtûs numerum, Spiritus Sanctus expreſſit; hîc verò Nomen ex Numero conjiciendum reliquit.

Eſt igitur, ut rem in pauca conferam, Nominis BESTIÆ characterem accipere, ejus poteſtati ſe addicere, & Dominium confiteri; Numerum verò, impietatem ejus, Draconis traducem, idololatriam nempe LATINAM, amplecti. Unde illud fortè conſideratione non indignum erit; Licèt nemo poteſt Nominis Beſtiani characterem accipere, ſeu ejus poteſtati ſubditus eſſe, quin ſimul quoque Numerum ejus accipere, hoc eſt, impietati communicare, neceſſe habuerit: poſſe tamen fieri ut quis Numerum ſeu impietatem Beſtiæ admittat, Characterem verò ſeu Nomen reſpuat. Id quod in Græcos jamdiu competit, qui utut eandem impietatis formam Draconis traducem ſeu idololatriam Latinam amplectantur, eámque primitus PONTIFICIS Latini, IMAGINEM Draconis cæſi illic quoque erigi adlaborantis, auſpiciis in Concilio iſto altero Niceno apud ſe confirmatam; Pontifici tamen Latino ſubeſſe, ſeu Nomen ejus ut olim (antequam ſchiſmate facto ſeceſſerint) geſtare, jam à ſeptingentis annis recuſant.

DE
COETU VIRGINEO CXLIIII M
Signatorum Agni.

COETUS Virgineus AGNI Sionei ſatellitium, idémque ſelectum illud Iſraelis ex Gentibus ſurrogati Agmen, de quo ad initium SIGILLI ſeptimi, (geminâ namque Viſione, ut ibi monuimus, Prophetiæ SIGILLORUM cum BIBΛΑΡΙΔΙΟΥ connectendæ causâ, deſcribitur) ſignificat Eccleſiam, in medio illo Chriſtiani nominis Orbe Beſtiam affectantium AGNO fidelem, ſúbque BABYLONE Virginem: germanam illam nec degenerem duodecim Apoſtolorum Apoſtolicè multiplicatam progeniem; ſolam utiquè, ad exemplum Chori cœleſtis, AGNUM PATREMque cantu Evangelico caſtè ritéque celebrare edoctam; quod nemo Beſtianorum malo ſuo fato addiſcere potuit: Adhuc populum non uni alicui, ut Beſtiani, ſedi addictum, ſed AGNUM comitantem quócunque gentium ierit: Beſtiæ cultores denique, de cultûs Evangelici præſcripto Deſque in Idololatras patefacta ſeveritate ſæpius & acriter commonefacientem; tandémque omnibus, ni in æternum perire velint, ut ab ejus commercio quantocyùs ſe ſubducerent denunciantem. Hæc Viſionis ſumma eſt. Jam textum ad ejus normam elucidemus. Ad Cap. 14. Comment. in cap. 7.

Et

Ad Cap. 14.

* Vers. 1. * Et vidi, & ecce AGNUS ſtabat ſupra montem Sion, & cum eo centum quadraginta quatuor millia.

Ex numero 144 ſeu duodecies duodecim millium apparet, eundem hîc Cœtum deſcribi qui ad ſeptimi Sigilli ingreſſum ſignabatur; nimirum legitimam illam nec degenerem Apoſtolorum ſobolem, numerum hunc duodenarium tanquam generis ſui inſigne gerentem. Recolat Lector quæ illic notavimus.

Comment. in cap. 7.

Mons Sion autem ſolium fuit Regni Davidici, idémque Civitas Davidis dicta, quòd eum ille Jebuſæis ereptum extus mœnibus novis, intus arce regiâ, vicis, plateíſque conſtruxerat. Ergò hîc parabolicè adhibitus, illum terrarum locum deſignabit quem Chriſtus, debellato DRACONE, Regni ſeu Eccleſiæ ſuæ domicilium fecerat, id eſt, Chriſtiani nominis Orbem. In hoc Orbe Eccleſia Virginea manſionem habet, inibíque AGNO fidem & pudicitiam illibatam etiamnum ſervat, cùm omnia ſtupris ac cædibus Beſtia contaminâſſe, peſſundediſſe, nihílque integrum aut intactum reliquiſſe videretur.

Habentes nomen Agni, & nomen Patris ejus ſcriptum in frontibus ſuis.

Legit & Cyprianus lib. 2. Teſt. adverſ. Judæos, cap. 22. [In Bib. Polyglot. MS. Alexandrin. habet ὄνομα αὐτῦ (i. e. τῦ ἀρνίς) καὶ τὸ ὄνομα τῦ πατρὸς, &c.]

Malè è quibuſdam exemplaribus excidit illud nomen Agni, quod agnoſcunt Vulgata, Primaſius, Andreas, Aretas, Editio Complutenſis, Syrus Interpres; ut eam veram lectionem eſſe non ſit dubitandum. quin ut ità legatur rem ipſam poſtulare, in progreſſu interpretationis clarè patebit. Alluditur enim (ut in Beſtiæ quoque hiſtoria notavimus) ad ritum priſcum, quo tam Servi Dominorum quàm Milites Imperatoris ſui nomine aut ſtigmate olim inſcripti cernebantur; atque ſervi quidem præcipuè in frontibus (teſte Rhodigino lib. 5. 33.) milites verò in manibus. Vegetius lib. 2. 5. Victuris in cute punctis milites ſcripti, & matriculis inſerti jurare ſolent. Ætius autem l. 8. 12. Stigmata vocant quæ in facie aut alia parte corporis inſcribuntur, qualia ſunt MILITUM in manibus. De militum verò inſcriptione pleniùs nos inſtruet Lipſius, lib. 1. de Milit. Rom. dialog. 9. Sub principibus, inquit, tirones jam captos compungebant, & in cute ſignabant [Romani.] Vera hæc ſtigmata erant & manibus militum impreſſa. Erant inſcripti nomine Imperatoris: hinc Auguſtinus regium characterem vocat, & Chryſoſtomus σφραγίδα. Petitum hoc vel ab eo, quòd olim nomen Imperatoris in ſcutis, haſtis, vexillis inſcribi ſolitum, atque eo exemplo in cute: vel à ſacris; quos enim Deo conſecrabant vel initiabant, hos ſtigmatibus inurebant. Ad rem igitur. Illi nomen Agni & Patris ejus in frontibus ſuis gerunt, qui fidem quâ ſe Agno, ceu Imperatori & Domino, & Patri ejus in Baptiſmo mancipârunt, non frangunt, neque ad Satanæ ejúſque Angelorum cultum pompáſque quæ ſemel ejurârunt relabuntur. Ità enim antiquitus (ut illud ad pleniorem dicendorum lucem hoc loco inferam) Abrenunciationis in Baptiſmo formula in pleriſque Eccleſiis * concipiebatur: Ἀποτάσσομαι τῷ Σατανᾷ, καὶ πᾶσι τοῖς ἔργοις αὐτῦ, καὶ πάσαις πομπαῖς αὐτῦ, καὶ πάσῃ τῇ λατρείᾳ αὐτῦ, Renuncio Satanæ, & omnibus operibus ejus, & pompis ejus, & omni cultui ejus. In multis, iíſque antiquiſſimis, Liturgiis additum, [a] καὶ τοῖς ἀγγέλοις αὐτῦ, & Angelis ejus. In aliis, [b] Et omnibus inventis ejus, & omnibus qui ſub ipſo ſunt. In aliis eodem ſenſu, [c] Et mundo ejus. Quæ omnia ſtylo Apocalyptico expeditè efferre licet, Ἀποτάσσομαι τῷ Δράκοντι, καὶ πάσῃ τῇ δυνάμει αὐτῦ, Renuncio Draconi, & omnibus copiis ejus, id eſt, ut Cyrillus [d] Alexandrinus Baptiſmi formulam explicat, Dæmoniorum turbis valedico, omnem pompam eorum & cultum reſpuo. Romana Eccleſia hîc aliis paulò contractior fuit. Sola enim apud eam Satanæ, pomparum & operum ejus mentio: ubi ſub Satanæ, tanquam Principis, nomine, Angelos quoque ejus; pomparum & operum, cultum idololatricum omnémque apparatum ejus intelligit.

* Vid. Conſtit. Apoſt. lib. 7. c. 42. Cyrill. Hieroſ. Catech. myſtagog. 1. Chryſoſt. Hom. 21. ad popul. Antioch.
[a] Conſtit. Apoſtol. ibidem.
[b] Tertul. de Spectac. cap. 4. Ambr. Hexam. lib. 1. cap. 4.
[c] Author Conſtit. Apoſt. ibid. Ambr. de iis qui myſter. initiant. cap. 2. Hieron. ad cap. 5. Mat.
[d] Lib. 7. contr. Jul.

Eſſe jam Baptiſmi Sacramentum, utpote quo fidem Agno & Patri ſolenniter niter profitemur, quóque nomen eorum ſuſcipimus & Chriſtiani dicimur, Dominicum Signaculum, paſſim Patres, ídque à prima Eccleſiæ antiquitate, prædicant. Hinc illud * Origenis, Immortale LAVACRUM portemus in frontibus noſtris. cùm Dæmones viderint, contremiſcent. [a] Auguſtinus etiam regium characterem vocat, characterem Imperatoris, characterem Redemptoris. Iidem porrò Signaculum hoc idololatriâ & ſuperſtitione induci & quaſi obliterari docent. Tertullianus de Spectac. cap. 4. de Baptiſmo ſub Signaculi nomine agens; Cùm, inquit, aquam ingreſſi Chriſtianam fidem in legis ſuæ verba profitemur, renunciâſſe nos DIABOLO, & POMPÆ & ANGELIS EJUS, ore noſtro conteſtamur. Quid erit ſummum ac præcipuum in quo Diabolus & Pompæ & Angeli ejus cenſeantur, quàm Idololatria? & cap. 24. Nonne ejeramus & reſcindimus SIGNACULUM reſcindendo teſtationem ejus? Ejuſdem generis eſt & illud lib. de Idololat. cap. 19. Non convenit ſigno Chriſti & ſigno Diaboli. Similiter Auguſt. Tract. 7. in Joan. Perdidit ſignum Chriſti, accepit ſignum Diaboli. Non vult Chriſtus communionem, ſolus vult poſſidere quod emit. Cum iſtis facit Iſidor. Origin. lib. 18. cap. 59. de Spectaculorum exſecratione; Deum negat qui talia præſumit, & fidei Chriſtianæ prævaricator effectus eſt qui id denuo appetit cui in lavacro jampridem renunciavit, id eſt, Diabolo, pompis & operibus ejus.

Ad Cap. 14.

* Hom. 8. in diverſos Evangelii locos.

[a] In Joan. tract. 6. Secundi contra Petilianum ultimo. Primi contra Creſconium 30. & alibi. Vide quóque eum 6. de Baptiſ. cap. 1. Epiſt. 23, 50, 200.

Omnes igitur qui BESTIÆ characterem acceperint, Chriſti & Patris abnegârunt, ejerârunt, irritum fecerunt, ac pro eo habentur acſi nunquam accepiſſent. Soli centum iſti & quadraginta quatuor mille qui ad BESTIÆ caſtra non transfugerant, ſed Agno firmiter adhærebant, Characterem Dominicum etiamnum in frontibus ſuis oſtendunt.

Unum adhuc monendum reſtat; nempe illud, Quòd licèt Signati utrobique, tam hîc quàm cap. 7, iidem ſint, tamen ſignaculi rationem non utrobique eandem eſſe; ídque ex diverſo ſignandi fine: Illic enim tutelæ res agebatur, hîc ſervitii & fidelitatis. Sed nec opus eſt ut propterea aliud ibi ſignaculum quæramus à Baptiſmi Sacramento planè diverſum: nam utrumque præſtat Baptiſmus. Siquidem præter illud quod eſt profeſſionis noſtræ, Deus aliud, gratiæ nimirum ſuæ, ſignaculum ſuperaddit, quo pro ſuis agnoſcit qui tinguntur, ínque tutelam ſuam ſuſcipit. De hoc igitur in priori Signatorum Viſione; de illo in præſenti, ni fallor, agitur. Atque huic ſententiæ faver, quòd Clemens Alexandrinus apud Euſebium lib. 3. cap. 17. Baptiſma nuncupet τέλειον φυλακτήριον, perfectam cuſtodiam: Item quòd Nazianzenus, Orat. in ſanctum Baptiſma, idem Sigillum dici, ὡς συνήρησιν, quia conſervatio eſt: Denique illud Baſilii Exhortat. ad Baptiſmum, Niſi ſignatus ſit ſuper te vultus Domini, niſi characterem in te agnoſcat Angelus, quomodo pro te pugnabit, aut ab inimicis vindicabit? ubi Nicetas Scholiaſtes, Quia per eum conſignati, cujuſnam Domini ſimus agnoſcimur, atque ab inſidiis tuti conſervamur. Jam pergamus ad reliqua.

Et audivi vocem de cœlo, tanquam vocem aquarum multarum, & tanquam vocem tonitrui magni: & vox quam audivi erat ſicut citharœdorum citharizantium citharis ſuis. Verſ. 2.

3. Et cantabant quaſi canticum novum ante thronum, & ante quatuor Animalia & Presbyteros, &c.

Vocem verò indicat & canticum Angelorum cœleſtium Patrem & Agnum glorificantium; quomodo feciſſe leguntur cùm primùm Agnus Librum fatorum reſignandum ſuſcepiſſet. Ad hos Angelos utique reſpiciens, mox verſu 6 dicit, Et vidi alium Angelum volantem in medio cœli, id eſt, alium à præcentoribus iſtis. Nullius enim ante hunc Angeli meminiſſet, niſi dicamus ſymphoniacos iſtos Angelorum chorum fuiſſe. Cap. 5. 11.

Vox autem aquarum multarum & tonitrui inſtar, non ſignificat aliud

Ad Cap. 14. quàm vocem numerosæ & confertæ multitudinis; cujusmodi in Templo dum adhuc florebat audiri soleret, cantorum Levitarum, voce & instrumentis musicis Dei laudes resonantium: quorum præ multitudine, simul & acclamantis populi, sonitus reddebatur, quasi marinorum fluctuum & fragoris tonitrualis. Non conjectura est, sed res manifesta; quippe quod Ver. 6. in epinicio cap. 19, ubi eadem est parabola, disertè exprimitur. Audivi, inquit, quasi vocem turbæ multæ (audi, turbæ multæ) & sicut vocem aquarum multarum, & sicut vocem tonitruorum magnorum, dicentium, Halleluja. Hinc apud Ezechiel. cap. 43. 2. ubi in Hebræo simpliciter est, Vox ejus (i. gloriæ Dei Israelis) quasi vox aquarum multarum, Septuag. Vid. R. D. Kimch. paraphrasticè reddunt, Φωνὴ τῆς παρεμβολῆς, ὡς φωνὴ διπλασιαζόντων πολλῶν, Vox castrorum ejus, quasi vox geminantium multorum. Chaldæus similiter, Vox benedicentium nomen ejus, sicut vox aquarum multarum. Adde illud ex eodem Propheta de Cherubinis cap. 1. 24. Audivi, inquit, vocem alarum eorum, tanquam vocem aquarum multarum, tanquam vocem Omnipotentis, vocem loquelæ tanquam vocem castrorum. Denique ab hac notione est, quòd in descriptione personæ Filii Dei exordio Apocalypseos ex Dan. 10. 6. Daniele expressâ, pro quo apud Danielem est, Vox multitudinis, à Joanne substituitur, Vox aquarum multarum. Quod enim Daniel habet, Pedes ejus quasi species æris candentis, & vox verborum ejus sicut vox multitu- Apocal. 1. 15. dinis; id Joannes enuntiat, Pedes ejus similes aurichalco, sicut in camino ardenti; & vox ejus tanquam vox aquarum multarum.

Canticum porrò novum est, cujusmodi post Christum mundo exhibitum Deo canitur: quo nempe Sessori Throni & Agno, unà solísque, redemptio, potentia, divitiæ, sapientia, fortitudo, honor, gloria & benedictio Vers. 12, 13. religiosè & evangelicè deferuntur. Hujus cantici formula exstat cap. 5, ídque titulo cantici novi: ut eò hîc respici vix dubitandum sit, cùm nusquam in hoc libro alibi cantici novi mentio audiatur. Dignus est, inquiunt, AGNUS qui occisus fuit (id est, prout antè à Presbyteris & Animalibus paulò explicatiùs dicitur, propterea quòd occisus fuit) accipere potentiam, & divitias, & sapientiam, & fortitudinem, & honorem, & gloriam, & benedictionem. Sedenti igitur super thronum & AGNO sit benedictio, & honor, & gloria, & robur in secula seculorum, Amen. Hæc novi cantici formula est, quam si Deus aliquando penitius intelligere dederit, latiùs fortasse explicando diducam: altiùs enim in animo meo insedit, universum cultûs Evangelici mysterium eo contineri.

Quod appositi rationem attinet, Novum dici videtur, vel quasi alterum & diversum ab eo quod Christo nondum missо canebatur (sub hoc 2 Cor. 5. 17. enim, secundùm effatum illud Apostoli, Vetera transierunt, & ecce facta sunt omnia nova;) vel ob novum in adventu ejus beneficium, priorum mundi ætatum nulli, sed temporibus tantùm novissimis, concessum. de quo verò beneficio Deus exinde tam ab Angelis quàm hominibus δοξολογεῖται. Et huic quidem nominis rationi firmandæ erit tum illud Isaiæ cap. 42. 9, 10. Nova ego annuntio, Cantate Domino canticum novum: tum quæ in Psalmis occurrit aliquoties cantici novi appellatio, haud aliter, ut videtur, intelligenda, quàm aut de eo quo Divinum numen ob novum aliquod, liberationis præsertim, beneficium celebratur (juxta illud Psal. Vers. 2, 3. 40. Eduxit me de luto cænoso, &c. & indidit ori meo canticum novum;) aut saltem quod, ad istiusmodi canticorum morem, cum lætitia & jucunditate haud vulgari canitur: quorum utrumque cantico Evangelico convenire haud est cur multis ostendere conarer. res in aperto est.

Et nemo poterat discere Canticum illud, nisi illa centum quadraginta quatuor millia, qui empti sunt de terra.

In toto Orbe Christiano nemo, quamdiu Bestia rerum potiretur, canticum cum Angelorum cantare sciret, præter eos qui de numero centum istorum quadraginta quatuor millium Agni assèclarum fuerint: Siquidem hi soli, citra omnem idololatriæ labem, Patrem & Agnum glorificant in terris, sicuti beati Angeli in cœlis; idipsum nimirum quod in Oratione Dominica Ecclesia ab omnibus ut fiat Patrem indesinenter rogat, Fiat voluntas tua, sicut in cœlo, sic etiam in terra. Adeò Divinum Numen legitimè ritéque colendi idea exemplúmve absolutum aliunde quàm à cœlitibus peti nequeat. Ad Cap. 14.

Hi sunt qui cum mulieribus non sunt inquinati; Virgines enim sunt. Vers. 4.

Id est, cum mulieribus impudicis seu meretricibus non consueverunt. At quænam ista mulieres sunt? Sanè, non quæ vulgariter sic dicuntur, sed, Prophetarum more, Civitates; atque eæ Christiani quidem nominis, sed idolis deditæ, quarum regina est BABYLON illa magna, mater scortorum dicta, quacum fornicantur Reges & incolæ terræ. Cum talibus, qui ex Agni Cœtu sunt non consueverunt, hoc est, incestu idololatrico sese non contaminârunt. Virgines enim sunt, id est, ab omni idololatriæ labe immunes. Omnino enim postulat analogiæ ratio, ut eodem sensu isti Virgines dicantur quo cæteri, Reges & populi, cum Babylone scortari perhibentur. Præterea, cùm Babylon ista scortorum mater audiat, consequens est ut filiæ ipsius, reliquæ civitates, scortilla quoque sint, quibuscum incolæ cuique subditi spirituali scortatione polluantur.

Hi sunt qui sequuntur Agnum quòcunque ierit.

Hoc est, fidelissimè ei adhærent, neque ullâ occasione deserunt; ductâ Metaphorâ ab iis qui à latere cujuspiam nunquam recedunt, sed comitantur omni loco. Vel sic; In quacunque civitate, regione, territorio Agnus tentorium suum fixerit, eò eundem sectantur: contrà quàm reliqui hominum, qui licèt Christiani audiant, Agnum tamen, nisi Romæ apud Petri sedem habitârit, alibi quærere & sectari nollent.

Hi empti sunt ex hominibus, primitiæ (ἀπαρχὴ) Deo & Agno.

Id est, ex reliqua turba prophana redempti, ut essent Deo & Agno peculium sacrum, instar primitiarum. Neque enim, ut vulgò creditur, Ἀπαρχὴ, seu Primitiæ primitivos tantùm fructus denotant, sed etiam in genere quicquid prophanis usibus exemptum Deo consecratur; idipsum nempe quod Hebræis תְּרוּמָה, quo nomine cùm ipsas decimas, tum quicquid oblationum fuit, præter ignitas, Scriptura comprehendit. Unde Chrysostomus, quas Abrahamus Melchisedeco solvit decimas, * ἀπαρχὰς vocat: Itémque Irenæus, quas sibi in Ecclesia asserit Deum etiamnum exigere creaturæ suæ primitias, contendit non debere esse minores decimâ: cùm Christus, inquit ille, naturalia Legis non dissolverit, sed extenderit; & verò Christiani non minorem, sed majorem, quàm Judæi spem habeant. Vide eum adversus Hæres. lib. 4. cap. 27, & 34. juxta editionem Fevardent. Quid, quòd Callimachus etiam, Hymno in Delum, decimas Apollini mitti solitas ἀπαρχὰς δεκαπφόρους, id est, primitias decimiferas, nuncupet? Ex quibus omnibus appareat vocem ἀπαρχὴ non primitivorum duntaxat oblationem, quæ Hebræis est רֵאשִׁית vel בִּכּוּרִים, sed & quamvis aliam denotare; nominisque rationem indè esse, quia Deo portio sua priùs reddenda sit quàm aliquid in nostros usus insumatur. Porrò, quoniam vox Primitiarum quotæ partis definitionem non includit, hinc factum ut veteres Christiani καρποφορίας suas, seu fructuum oblationes, licèt minores esse non debere putârint quàm partem decimam, tamen ἀπαρχὰς seu primitias

In Epist. ad Hebr. Hom. 12. Vide quoque eundem Hom. 35. in Gen.

* Sic & Philo quas promisit Jacob. Qui & de solvendis decimis sæpiusculè utitur voce ἀπάρχεσθαι, & ἀπάρχεσθαι δεκάτας.

Philo De congressu quærendæ eruditionis gratiâ, & De Charitate. Idem De mutatione Nominum, Decimas decimarum appellat ἀπαρχῆς ἀπαρχήν· ἔστι δὲ (inquit) ἡ ἀπαρχῆς ἀπαρχὴ ὁ ἐκατοστὸς λόγος, ὃν Λευῖται τοῖς ἱερωμένοις ἀπάρχουσαι. Ibidem, δεκάτην ἱερὸν ἀπαρχήν. Similiter Dionys. Halicarnassæus apud Euseb. Præpar. Evang. l. 4. c. 16. fructuum, pecorum, sed & hominum decimas quas Pelasgos in Italia Apollini, Jovique ex voto debuisse refert, semel iterúmque ἀπαρχὰς vocat.

Ad Cap. 14.

mitias appellare maluerint quàm decimas; tanquam ſcilicet nomine libertatis, non ſervitutis. Hæc, licèt ad inſtitutum meum pleraque ex parte non facientia, annotare tamen volui, ut iis qui apud nos Decimarum in Eccleſia Chriſtiana ſolvendarum antiquitati & juri ex Patribus & Conciliis eruendis quandoque navant operam gratum, ſi poſſim, facerem. Interim (ut eò redeam unde pauliſper digreſſus ſum) fatendum eſt, ſtrictiorem quoque primitiarum ſignificationem huic loco non malè convenire; nempe, ut COETUS Virgineus dicantur primitiæ reſpectu Turbæ palmiferorum eum aliquando auctiori numero excepturæ. Liberum itaque Lectori judicium ſuum eſto.

Verſ. 5. [In Bibl. Polyglott. MS. Alexandr. habet ψεῦδος mendacium,]

Et in ore eorum non eſt inventum mendacium [Ità Vulgata, Syrus, Complutenſis, Aretas, & in exemplari Palatino Andreas; aliis dolus] ſine macula enim ſunt.

Non eſt inventum mendacium. Cujuſmodi nimirum invenitur in ore Beſtianorum ſeu Chriſtiani nominis idololatrarum omnium; qui ſe quidem Agnum & Patrem colere præ ſe ferunt, reapſe tamen honorem Divino Numini proprium creaturis tribuunt. Sanè omnis idololatra mendax eſt, cùm pro Deo colat quod non eſt Deus. Quò ſpectat illud Apoſtoli ad Rom. 1. 25. Commutârunt veritatem Dei in mendacium, dum coluerunt & ſervierunt creaturæ παρὰ τὸν κτίσαντα, prout Creatori. Unde idola dicuntur mendacia: ut Amoſ. 2. 4. Errare fecerunt, ſive ſeduxerunt, eos mendacia ipſorum (Vulgat. idola) poſt quæ abierunt patres eorum. Similiter Iſa. 28. 15. poſuimus mendacium ſpem noſtram. R. Sal. עַבְרָה זָרָה. Item Jerem. 16. 19, 20. Venient gentes à finibus terræ, & dicent, Verè mendacium poſſederunt (Chaldæus פָּלְחוּ coluerunt) Patres noſtri, vanitatem in qua non eſt utilitas. Numquid faciet ſibi homo Deos, & ipſi non ſunt Dii? Hinc autem Apoc. 21. 8. Idololatræ & mendaces, itémque verſ. 27. facientes abominationem & mendacium, ἐκ παραλλήλου ſeu tanquam ſynonyma poni videntur. Porrò, cùm quorumvis hominum idololatria mendacium ſit, tum verò eorum qui ſe interim veri Numinis cultores ſimulant propriiſſimè dolus eſt, ſeu mendacium fraudulentum: ut ſi Beſtianorum, quorum oppoſitione Cœtus iſte ſignatorum Agni deſcribitur, attendamus hypocriſin, lectio quæ dolum, alteri quæ mendacium habet, præferenda videbitur; quamvis ad rem ipſam haud ità multum interſit. Interim, ad pleniorem hujus loci intellectum, conferat Lector illum Zephan. 3. 13. ſanè huic quàm ſimillimum: Reliquiæ Iſrael non facient iniquitatem, nec loquentur mendacium, & non invenietur in ore eorum lingua doloſa.

Verſ. 6.

Et vidi alium Angelum volantem ἐν μεσουρανήματι, in faſtigio cæli, habentem Evangelium æternum, ut evangelizaret habitantibus ſuper terram, & omni genti, & tribui, & linguæ, & populo,

Finitâ Cœtûs deſcriptione, ſequitur rerum, eo Eccleſiæ ſtatu, quà à Cœtu Agni Ducis ſui auſpiciis, quà ab Agno ipſo, in transfugas & perduelles gerendarum hiſtoria. Harum ordo duplex: primò Admonitionis trigeminæ ad Beſtianos, totidem Angelorum celeuſmatis repræſentatæ; ſecundò Vindiciarum, parabolâ Meſſis & Vindemiæ. Monitorum Angelorum primus eſt iſte quem hîc alium dicit: alium verò, ut dixi, ob Angelos ſymphoniacos paulò antè memoratos, quorum è numero Evangeliſtes iſte non fuerit. Atque hîc in memoriam revocandum eſt, (quod jam in ſuperioribus monui) Angelos in hujuſmodi Viſionibus eorum vicem repræſentare quorum gubernationi præſint; quódque communibus utrorumque operis geritur, id Angelis authoribus, tanquam rei geſtæ auſpicibus & ducibus, factum dici. Hinc verò protinus ſuſpicari datur, Angelum tam ſublimè volantem (ſi modò & illud in cenſu parabolæ deputari debeat) non cujuſvis ſortis hominum, ſed ſed celſioris conditionis præſidem eſſe, talibúſque in Evangelio ſuo annunciando uſurum. Porrò Evangelium illud αἰώνιον ſeu æternum dicitur; ídque, ut opinor, non tam futuri, quàm præteriti reſpectu, quaſi quod ἀπ' αἰῶνος, id eſt, à ſeculo, ſeu ab origine mundi, promiſſum fuerit; ſcilicet, Semen mulieris aliquando contriturum caput Serpentis, i. Chriſti adventu deſtruendum regnum Diaboli, & conſtituendum regnum Dei. Quo ſenſu & Apoſtolus dicit, illud à Deo promiſſum fuiſſe πρὸ χρόνων αἰωνίων, ad Tit. 1. 2. Sic igitur αἰώνιον idem hîc erit quod ἀπ' αἰῶνος, & εὐαγγέλιον αἰώνιον quod Hebræis eſſet בשורת עולם, evangelium antiquum: quemadmodum ἔρημοι αἰώνιοι, Iſai. 58. 12. τρίβοι αἰώνιοι, Jer. 6. 16. & βουνοὶ αἰώναιοι, Deut. 33. 15. ſunt colles, ſemitæ, deſolationes antiquæ. Ad Cap. 14.

Dicentem voce magnâ, Timete Deum, & date ei gloriam, quia venit tempus judicii ejus: & adorate illum qui fecit cœlum, & terram, & mare, & fontes aquarum. Verſ. 7.

PRimus Angelus, jam tempus regni Dei adeſſe commemorans quo judicium ejus in idola & idololatras exercendum ſit, adeóque jam, proſtratis & ſolio Romano exutis Dæmonibus, exerceri cœperit, eapropter hortatur gentes, tribus, linguas & populos, qui exinde in nomen Chriſti conceſſerant, ut hujus rei memores, unicum illum verum Deum Creatorem, prout in Evangelio annunciatur, colant, caveántque ab idolis: Deum, inquit, timete, id eſt, reveremini, & date ei gloriam, gloriam verò adorationis & cultûs religioſi; ut ſequentibus verbis exponitur. Quia venit tempus judicii ejus] hoc eſt, quo Chriſtus per crucem ſuam exſpoliavit imperia & principatus, Gentibúſque, quas per tot ſecula ſiverat in viis ſuis ambulare, annunciavit per Apoſtolos & Evangeliſtas ut ab idolis converterentur: ſin minùs, morte æternâ, ipſo de cœlis redeunte, plectendos fore. Quorſum igitur Chriſtiani, qui in hunc Judicem & Dæmonum triumphatorem Jeſum Chriſtum fidem profiteantur, ad idola & dæmones colendos poſtliminiò reverterentur?

Potuit fortaſſe tempus judicii hîc ſtrictiùs accipi, de judicio nimirum Dei pridem in DRACONEM ejúſque aſſeclas exſerto, quo Ethniciſmus corruit: ſed mallem illud latiùs extendere, & universè accipere, de Regno Chriſti temporibus noviſſimis inito & promulgato, in quo idola ampliùs non ſint ferenda; juxta nimirum illud Salvatoris apud Joannem in Evangelio cap. 12. 31. Nunc Judicium eſt mundi hujus, nunc princeps mundi hujus ejicietur foras. Vide & cap. 16. 11. A quo enimvero Judicio Paulus quoque Apoſtolus (quomodo hîc Angelus) argumentum duxit Paganos Athenienſes ab idolorum cultu dehortandi, Act. 17. 30, 31. Deus, inquit, temporibus ignorantiæ hucuſque neglectis, nunc demum mandat omnibus ubique hominibus ut reſipiſcant; Eò quòd ſtatuit diem quo juſtè judicaturus eſt Orbem terrarum per eum virum quem definivit; fide ejus rei palàm factâ omnibus, illo ex mortuis ſuſcitato. Cui gemina eſt ejuſdem commonefactio ad Lycaonios, cap. 14. 15, 16. Annunciamus, inquit, vobis, ut à vanis iſtis rebus convertamini ad Deum vivum, qui fecit cœlum & terram, & mare, & omnia quæ in iis ſunt; Quique præteritis ætatibus ſivit omnes gentes (nempe, judicio ſuo nondum iis manifeſtato) ſuis ipſarum viis incedere. Supplendum eſt, Jam verò judicium ſuum omnibus promulgat: id quod Angelus hîc expreſſit, dicendo, Venit tempus judicii ejus.

Sed quando, inquies, & ubi gentium, quibúſque tandem adminiſtris, Angelus iſte prædicatione ſuâ functus eſt? Præludia quædam ejus edita ſunt cùm primùm ſuperſtitio ad memorias & circa reliquias Martyrum in Eccleſia gliſcere cœperit; ut patet ex hiſtoria Vigilantii, quocum iſtiuſmodi ſuperſtitioni intercedente plures alios, etiam ex Epiſcopis ejus temporis, ſenſiſſe, teſtis eſt adverſarius Hieronymus, qui eum immeritò hoc nomine exagitat. Sed omnium manifeſtiſſimè præconium hoc impletum liquet ab anno Domini 720 in Eccleſiis Græcis & Orientis, ubi omnino Angelus Evangeliſtes volavit ἐν μεσουρανήματι, in cæli faſtigio, id eſt, loco celſo & ſublimi; quippe qui Evangelii ſui adminiſtris uſus eſt, non imæ & vulgaris ſortis hominibus, ſed ſummis in Orbe Chriſtiano poteſtatibus; Imperatoribus putà Conſtantinopolitanis, Leone Iſauro, Conſtantino Iconomacho, Leone Armenio, Michaele Balbo, & Theophilo, qui omnes, potiſſimùm autem primi, pro cultu Religionis uni Deo Creatori exhibendo, contra cultum creaturæ, non ſolùm qui in veneratione Imaginum, ſed etiam qui circa Divos eorúmque reliquias exercebatur, edictis & decretis ſuis acerrimè proteſtati ſunt. Repetat Lector teſtimonia quæ hac de re ex Theophane laudavi, cùm de Beſtia Bicorni agerem. Porrò autem ſecundi auſpiciis Concilium Conſtantinopoli convocatum eſt Epiſcoporum 338, concordibúſque ſuffragiis Imaginum adoratio impietatis accerſita & damnata. Dices, Lector, ſi legere non pigebit, Definitionem Synodi ipſiſſimam Angeli hujus concionem eſſe, eodémque quo illius, juxta interpretationem noſtram, fundamento ſubnixam. Cùm verò nonnullorum fraude ibi contigerit, qui in Imaginum quidem damnationem cum reliquis conſenſerant, Divorum verò invocationi adhuc faverent, (neque enim paribus ſuffragiis in hanc atque in illam ſuperſtitionem itum eſt,) ut duo Canones, unus de Beata Maria Deipara, alter de reliquis Sanctis cœlitibus religiosâ invocatione colendis, Concilii decretis initio immixti fuerint; eos Conſtantinus Imperator cum ſanioris ſententiæ Patribus cùm advertiſſent, illico erroris arguerunt, ínque judicii ſui teſtimonium induci, atque de codice deleri curaverunt. Cujus facti teſtem habeo, ſi quis dubitet, primò Authorem refutationis Definitionis iſtius Conſtantinopolitanæ, Actis Concilii Niceni ſecundi inſertæ; qui cùm primam ejus editionem ſibi refutandam ſumpſiſſet, ad iſtos Canones ſic infit: Μετὰ τὴν ἔκδοσιν αὐτῶν παύτην, καὶ τὴν τῶν πρεσβειῶν ὑπερόσδεκτον τῷ Θεῷ προσαγωγὴν ἀπεβάλοντο, λειώσαντες παύτην ἐκ τῶνδε αὐτῶν συγγράμματος· καὶ τοῦτο ἴσασι πάντες· Poſt hanc editionem ſuam, inquit, etiam interceſſionum Deo acceptabilem oblationem abjecerunt, delentes hanc ex hoc ſcripto ſuo. Deinde Acta Stephani Monachi pſeudomartyris; apud quem cùm Epiſcopi qui ad eum convincendum ab Imperatore miſſi fuerant Concilii decretum recitare inciperent; ille verò ſtatim excipere adverſus Concilii titulum, Sancti, illud ſanctum dici non debere, propterea quòd ſancta proſcripſiſſet. Annon, inquit, ſacram ſupellectilem imaginibus exornatam concerpſiſtis? Annon adjectivum hoc Ἅγιος ab omnibus juſtis, ab omnibus Apoſtolis, à Prophetis, à Martyribus piiſque viris abjeciſtis? Sancitum enim à vobis eſt, ô generoſi viri, ut cùm quiſquam ad horum aliquem adiret, ex eóque quæreretur quò abiret, reſponderet, Ad Apoſtolos, Ad quadraginta Martyres; ſive unde veniret, itidem reſponderet, Ex Templo Martyris Theodori, ex Templo Martyris Georgii. Annon hæ veſtræ doctrinæ ſunt? Quonam ergò pacto qui ſancta proſcripſiſtis, Sanctum Concilium coegiſtis? Hæc Stephanus ipſemet. Audiamus porrò Actorum ejus deſcriptorem (qui eodémque tempore vixit) in eoſdem ob Deiparæ cultum imminutum tragicè exclamantem: Quonam pacto, Chriſte, lenitatem illam tuam, quæ nullis verbis explicari poteſt, non admirer? Quonam pacto benignitatis tuæ, quæ vim ſermonis omnem ſuperat, abyſſum exponere queam? Adhuc porrò audaciſſimæ illæ linguæ eò proruperunt, ut ingens quoque illud & improbum eloqui non dubitârint; nimirum illam ipſam Dei genitricem Virginem, inutilem quandam poſt mortem & commodi omnis expertem rem eſſe, nec cuiquam omnino adjumento ac præſidio eſſe poſſe. Adhuc iſtis teſtem adduco Cedrenum. Refert ille Conſtantinum Legem univerſalem edidiſſe (proculdubio ex Concilii ſententia, cujus Acta hodie præter ſolam Definitionem deſiderantur) nè

Ad Cap. 14.

Apud Surium, Tom. 6. Nov. 28.

quiſ-

quiſquam prorſus ſervorum Domini Ἅγιος diceretur; ſed, ut eorum reliquiæ repertæ contemnerentur: (nè ſuperſtitiosè venerarentur, Cedrene, etiamſi veræ fuerint; ſin falſæ, ut è Templis abjicerentur) néve ipſorum interceſſio poſceretur; nihil enim valere. Adjecit etiam ſceleſtus, inquit, Nè Mariæ quidem interceſſionem quisquam implorat. Jam liceat mihi Lectorem convenire, annon ex hiſce teſtimoniis clarum eſſe putet, aliquid in Concilio iſto actum adverſus Sanctorum cultum & reliquiarum. In hoc autem probando aliquanto diutiùs immoratus ſum, quoniam non eſt ut illud de Imaginibus perinde omnibus notum. Ad Cap. 14.

Sed nondum hîc defuncti ſumus: priùs illa de epitheto Sancti juſtis, quaſi per diminutionem & contumeliam, abjudicato, calumnia detergenda eſt. Palàm enim eſt ex ipſa Definitione Synodi (quæ hodiéque in Actis Niceni ſecundi exſtat) Apoſtolos & juſtos à Patribus iſtis paſſim Sanctitatis titulo honorari; non igitur ſimpliciter prohibuiſſe credendi ſunt quod ipſimet factitarent. Sed, ut conjicere datur, illius ſeculi opinione nomen ἅγιος (nam de hoc ſolo ſermo eſt) videbatur interceſſionis honorem inferre: unde, ut ſuperſtitioni quovis pacto iretur obviàm, illius uſu in communi ſermone de Templis, præſertim cùm eò precatum ibant, interdictum fuit. Nempe ἅγιος ab ἄγος deflexum videtur: quâ voce ſignificatur σέβασμα ἢ σεβάσματος ἄξιον, Veneratio, aut res veneratione & adoratione digna. Unde Heſychio, "Αγιοι, σεβάσμιοι" utrumque ab ἄζω, veneror, colo. Imò, quod ad cultum mortuorum manifeſtò ducat, communis eſt originis cum ἐναγίζειν, ſacra mortuis facere, parentare, & cum ἐνάγισμος, parentatio, inferiæ. Præterea (ut illud quoque bona Lectoris cum venia, & citra futilitatis notam, adjiciam) fieri potuit ut nomen Ἅγιος Græcorum vulgo (quippe ſimilium vulgi hallucinationum exempla apud nos quandoque obſervare eſt) ſonare videretur, licèt falsò, δι' ὃ εὐχαὶ ἡμῶν πρὸς Θεὸν ἄγονται, eum per quem preces noſtræ Deo offeruntur, id eſt, προσαγωγέα, admiſſionalem & interpretem apud Deum: quomodo Gregorius Nazian. Chriſtum Dominum nuncupat; juxta Apoſtoli illud ad Epheſ. 2. 18. Δι' αὐτοῦ ἔχομεν προσαγωγὴν πρὸς τὸν Πατέρα.

Quicquid ſit, illud ex allatis modò teſtimoniis apparet, tum temporis exiſtimatum fuiſſe, hujuſce vocis uſu ſuperſtitionem illam erga ſanctos vitâ defunctos ali atque foveri. Cui ut omni ratione & machinâ occurreretur, ejus uſu interdictum fuit: non quidem ſimpliciter & universè, quod adverſarii calumniantur; ſed in Templis appellandis ſolummodo, quæ Apoſtolorum & Martyrum memoriis nuncupabantur. Errori, ut videtur, minuendo, quo, vel ea loca eſſe creditum eſt Deum per Martyrum interceſſiones adeundi, vel eorum quorum nominibus ferebantur venerationi ſacra. Ideo in vicem cognominis Ἁγίων, illud Apoſtolorum & Martyrum, non minùs certè honorificum, ſubſtituere viſum fuit. Satíſne verò conſideratè & conſultò, illius eſt judicare qui temporis illius circumſtantias factíque rationes omnes probè plenéque perſpectas habuerit. Interim Eccleſiæ virginitati aut puritati nihil quicquam detrahit, ſi fortè aliquando in talibus quæ ad rationem & modum rei gerendæ ſpectent minùs ſapienter judicaverit. Non enim neceſſe eſt ut perpetuò aut prudenter agat aut loquatur quæ caſta ſit. Simili ferè de cauſa Sacerdotis vocabulum de Presbyteris Evangelicis, Sacrificii de Sacramento Euchariſtiæ, (nè hujuſmodi alia nominem) apud pleraſque Eccleſias reformatas in deſuetudinem abire juſſa ſunt. Nec id quidem omnino temere, niſi quòd (ut quibuſdam videtur) in prioris locum non commodum ſatis vocabulum ſubſtitutum, Miniſtrorum: quo licèt omnes qui ſacro fungantur munere ritè & ex Scripturæ uſu appellentur; non tamen eo Presbyteri à Diaconis diſtinguuntur. Annon igitur Presbyteros potiùs dixiſſemus nomine Apoſtolico, ſi noluiſſemus Sacerdotes? Sed hæc alterius loci ſunt.

Ad Cap. 14.

Porrò, non in Oriente ſolùm, verùm etiam in Occidente, fremente licèt Pontifice Romano, Angeli hujus præconium inſonuit; non quidem plenis, ut illic, buccis, voce tamen publicâ & ſolenni. Primùm, anno 790, in Synodo Francofurdiana ſub Carolo M. 300 ferè Epiſcoporum, præter Abbates & alios: ubi cultus & adoratio Imaginum, unà cum Concilio Niceno ſecundo quod eam ſtabiliverat, quódque Hadrianus Papa per Legatos ſuos rexerat & approbaverat, damnata ſunt. Iterúmque in Synodo Pariſienſi, anno 825, juſſu Ludovici congregatâ: in qua tum ex authoritate Divina tum Patrum ſententiis prolixè oſtenditur, adorationem Imaginum rem nefariam ac impiam eſſe, Synodúmque Nicenam ejuſmodi ſuperſtitionis ream reprobandam eſſe. Adde Commentarium à Carolo Magno ad Hadrianum Pontificem, idolorum propugnatorem, poſt Concilium illud Francofurtenſe miſſum; ut hîc quoque Angelum in Cœli faſtigio volâſſe agnoſcas. Atque hactenus primi Angeli hortamentum percepimus: jam ſecundi præconium auſcultemus.

Habetur in Catal. Teſt. ver. edit. 1608. pag. 1123.

SEcundus Angelus ROMAM, ob ſpurcitiem & multitudinem idololatriarum quibus, primi Angeli hortatione ſpretâ, tum ipſa ſeſe contaminaverat, tum ut idem ſecum facerent cunctis in Orbe ſuo gentibus author & princeps exſtiterat, è civitate Dei in BABYLONEM verſam denuntiat; eapropter, ſententiæ Divinæ in omnes Idololatras latæ jam penitus per impœnitentiam ſuam obnoxiam factam, diutiùs non ferendam, ſed irrevocabili decreto perdendam atque exſcindendam eſſe; eíque excidio uſque ab hoc præconio apparatum continenter & aſſiduè inſtitutum iri.

Atque hujus quidem præconii adminiſtri exſtitere, verbo partim, partim facto, Waldenſium & Albigenſium Cœtus, ut qui omnium mortalium primi Eccleſiam Romanam ab idololatria ſeu ſcortatione myſtica renuntiârunt BABYLONEM eſſe Apocalypticam; iidémque primum quoque ei ad ruinam fecere gradum, quandoquidem ſic detectam extemplo magna hominum multitudo eam abominari, privatímque per omnes ditionis ejus provincias defectionem facere; adhæc authoritatem ejus exinde indies magìs magíſque labefactari, ruinámque tunc fieri cœpiſſe, quæ non ſtitura ſit donec tandem ad Urbis ipſius cremationem ſit deventum. Verbo dicam; ab hujúſque Angeli præconio quaſi delectus ſanctorum militum Babyloni diruendæ continenter fieri cœpit.

Verſ. 8. Ceeidit, cecidit Babylon.

Quaſi dicat, Jam nunc Ruinæ Babylonis jaciuntur fundamenta: ab hoc enim tempore Belli contra ipſam gerendi apparatus ſuſcipietur. Imitatur autem Iſaiam cap. 21. qui iiſdem planè verbis, nec diſſimili rerum occaſione, veteris illius Babylonis interitum non jam factum retulit, ſed, ut hîc, jactis rerum fundamentis, certo certiùs futurum prænunciavit. Quippe, ut docet Chronologia, eodem tempore Iſaias hoc vaticinium ſuum edidit quo Medi, Babylonem aliquando vaſtaturi, excuſſo Aſſyriorum jugo, ſeſe in libertatem aſſeruerint, conditâque ſub novo Rege Dejoce Ecbatanâ, Regni tum Nino tum Babyloni fatalis fundamina poſuere.

——Quia ex vino veneficii ſcortationis ſuæ potavit omnes gentes.

Vino veneficii ſcortationis ſuæ] id eſt, philtris, vino potionato dementavit. Θυμὸς enim hîc non iram aut excandeſcentiam valet, ſed ex uſu Helleniſtico venenum; nempe voci Hebrææ חֲמַת parem eſſe voluere, quæ iram modò, modò venenum ſignificat. Hinc Deut. 32. 33. Septuag. Θυμὸς δρακόντων ὁ οἶνος αὐτῶν, καὶ θυμὸς ἀσπίδων ἀνίατος, i. Fel Draconum vinum eorum, & venenum aſpidum inſanabile. Item Job. 20. 16. Θυμὸν δρακόντων θηλάσειεν, ἀνελοι δὲ αὐτὸν γλῶσσα ὄφεως, id eſt, Venenum draconum ſugat, occidat eum lingua ſerpentis. Adde Pſal. 58. 4. Θυμὸς αὐτοῖς κατὰ τὴν ὁμοίωσιν τοῦ ὄφεως, Venenum illis ſecundùm ſimilitudinem tudinem ſerpentis. Vide etiam, ſi lubet, Deut. 32. 24. Job. 6. 4. Imò ubicunque in V. T. veneni ſignificatio occurrit, eam aliter quàm aut hâc aut voce χολῆς non niſi ſemel tantùm expreſſam videbis. Ad Cap. 14.

Duplicis autem in Apocalypſi οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ, ſeu vini ejuſmodi potionati, mentio habetur: οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς πορνείας, quo, ut dixi, amatorium virus ſeu philtrum deſignatur (juxta quod idem cap. 18. 23. φαρμακεία, ſeu veneficium, conſueto ad eam rem vocabulo, nuncupatur;) & οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς ὀργῆς, quæ ſupplicio afficiendorum potio eſt: ſiquidem illo ſpiritualis ſcortationis illecebram, ex conſuetudine Meretricum philtris amorem conciliantium, Spiritus Sanctus expreſſit; hoc ad morem Judæorum alluſit, qui morte afficiendis, ut torporem iis inducerent, calicem vini, cui myrrha, aut aliud id genus aroma amarum immixtum fuerit, præbere conſueverant. Cujuſmodi proinde potionem Servatori cruci jamjam affigendo iidem exhibuiſſe perhibentur; ſed ille bibere recuſavit: Matt. 27. 34. Dederunt ei, inquit, vinum μετὰ χολῆς μεμιγμένον, cum felle mixtum, id eſt, οἶνον τοῦ θυμοῦ. Χολὴ enim & θυμὸς idem valent. Voce autem χολῆς Evangeliſta ſpeciem amaram in genere deſignavit, pro Helleniſtarum uſu (quibus & Abſinthium χολὴ dicitur.) Hanc Marcus myrrham fuiſſe determinat; Et dederunt ei, inquit, bibendum vinum myrrhatum. Myrrha verò, Hebraicè מור, Syriacè מורא, ab amaritudine ſumma nomen traxit. Atque hinc factum videtur ut Prophetæ in cladibus depingendis toties * Calicis parabolâ uterentur; utpote qui ex more gentis perituris porrigi ſoleret. Sic fuit Angeli ſecundi præconium, quem mox excepit tertius. Is quid novi adhuc moniti ſuperaddat pronis auribus excipiamus.

Marc. 15. 23. * Targ. in Thren. 4. 21. de Conſtantinopoli: Deſcendent te Parthevæi (i. Africani) & tranſibit ſuper te Calix maledictionis: inebriaberis & evacuaberis.

TErtius Angelus, priores duos ſupergreſſus, Beſtiæ cultores admonet quàm horrendum eiſdem impendeat periculum, ſiquidem ejus ſequaces adhuc eſſe perrexerint; ideóque ſuadet ut, omni cunctatione abjectâ, protinus ſeſe à conſortio ejus ſubducant, hócque pacto ſaluti ſuæ conſultum eant; neque enim qui poſthac ei adhæſerint ſalvos eſſe poſſe. Quod quidem præconium maximè omnium inſigne, Lutheri ſociorúmque ejus & ſucceſſorum operâ, ſuperiori ſeculo feliciſſimè adimpletum eſt: quod nimirum eximia illa quam cernimus Eccleſiarum Reformatio eſt conſecuta; hominibus non jam ſingulatim, ut ad præcedentis Angeli vocem factum erat, ſed provinciatim & tributim, aſſerendæ & repurgandæ Religioni paſſim Beſtiæ jugum excutientibus.

Verſ. 9, &c.

Et tertius Angelus, inquit, ſequutus eſt illos, (i. priores duos) dicens voce magnâ, Si quis adoraverit Beſtiam & imaginem ejus, & acceperit characterem in fronte ſua aut in manu ſua; Hic bibet de vino iræ Dei, [τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ] quod mixtum eſt mero in calice iræ ipſius, & cruciabitur igne & ſulphure in conſpectu Angelorum ſanctorum, & ante conſpectum Agni; Et fumus tormenti eorum aſcendet in ſecula ſeculorum: nec habent requiem die aut nocte qui adorant Beſtiam & imaginem ejus, & ſi quis acceperit characterem Nominis ejus.

Pœnæ atrocis atrox deſcriptio, cui vix quicquam ſimile habet totius Canonis ambitus. Οἶνος τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς ὀργῆς ſupplicii potio eſt perituris dari ſolita, ut ad verſ. 8. monuimus. Vinum merum, id eſt, aquâ non dilutum, fortiùs inebriat, adhúcque magìs ſi diverſa vinorum genera miſceantur: cujuſmodi igitur nonnulli hîc intelligi volunt verbis iſtis κεκερασμένου ἀκράτου, id eſt, meri mixti; cùm alioquin pugnantia diceret. Sed magìs ſeſe mihi probat, ut ἄκρατον κεκερασμένον idem ſit quod merum myrrhâ, felle, thure, ſimilíve ſaporis amari pharmaco mixtum, quod in poculo Judæis maledictionis dicto, ex more gentis, uſitatum; alluſúmque ad illud Pſalmi 75. 9. juxta Septuag. ποτήριον ἐν χειρὶ Κυρίου οἴνου ἀκράτου πλῆρες κεράσμα-κεράσματος. Ubi Chaldæus habet, Calix maledictionis in manu Domini, & vinum forte, plenum mixtione amaritudinis, ad tollendum per illud ſcientiam improborum. Diximus enim, potionem illam exhibitam ut morituro rationis uſus tolleretur. Pro eo autem quod Septuaginta habent, οἴνου ἀκράτου, in Hebræo eſt יין חמר vinum rubens, nempe quod aquæ admixtione colorem non perdiderat. Erant enim vina in Terra ſancta rubra. Reliqua deſcriptionis per ſe patent.

Ad Cap. 14.

Juvabit autem hîc triplicis iſtius præconii gradus pauliſper obſervare, útque poſterior priorem gravitate ſuperet. Primus enim Angelus ſolius officii admonuit, Deum ritè ex Evangelii præſcripto colendi; culpam hâc parte commiſſam non exprobravit. Secundus ulteriùs progreſſus, Mœchationis ſpiritualis crimen intentat, atque id interitu & exitio inevitabiliter luendum; ſed quod ſoli adhuc Babyloni, criminis principi & architectæ, nondum participibus ejus, comminetur. Tertius verò, omnibus gravitatis numeris expletis, univerſæ Beſtiæ cohorti cunctiſque in obſequio ejus permanſuris horrendos atque infandos cruciatus, eóſque nec finem nec remiſſionem ullam habituros, denuntiat. Sequitur Verſ. 12. Hîc patientia Sanctorum eſt: Hîc qui cuſtodiunt mandata Dei & fidem Jeſu.

Quaſi diceret, Hoc præconium Lydius lapis erit probandæ tum patientiæ tum obedientiæ Sanctorum. Patientiæ quidem; ſi tam atrocis pœnæ, taliſque quæ omnem moram compenſabit, exſpectationi acquieſcentes, nihil tam diuturnis Beſtiæ ſucceſſibus perturbentur, néve ad eam, quâ in refractarios & imperio ſuo immorigeros graſſabitur perſecutionum rabie, quicquam animis concidant: Obedientiæ verò erga Dei mandata & fidem Jeſu; ſi hâc comminatione auditâ, nihil cunctati protinus ſeſe à Beſtiæ communione ſubducant, imagini & characteri ipſius renuncient. Hi ſunt qui cuſtodiunt mandata Dei & fidem Jeſu, id eſt, qui ritè ac Evangelicè Deum colunt in fide Jeſu Chriſti; propterea*que* Evangelicorum nomine haud immeritò dicendi.

SIc Eccleſiâ Virgineâ triplici monitione ſuâ defunctâ, ſuccedit Aſſertio ejus contra hoſtes, typo Meſſis & Vindemiæ; quibus ſemel peractis, non differtur ampliùs beata juſtorum remuneratio, ut teſtatum facit denunciatio iſta de cœlo utriuſque deſcriptioni præmiſſa;

Verſ. 13. Audivi, inquit, vocem de cœlo dicentem mihi, Scribe, Beati mortui qui in Domino moriuntur, ab hoc tempore: Etiam, dicit Spiritus, ut requieſcant à laboribus ſuis; opera verò eorum ſequuntur eos.

Scio pleroſque pronunciatum hoc cœleſte ad ſuperiora referre, tanquam conſolandis Sanctis jam graviſſima quæque à Beſtia, præcedenti celeuſmate irritata, paſſuris. In qua ſententia & ipſe pridem fui: Nunc verò, re accuratiùs perpenſâ, eò inclino, ut ad ſequentia potiùs referendum putem, tanquam commonefactionem jam inſtantis Reſurrectionis & Judicii ſub Tuba ſeptima; cujus utpote apparatus in ſequenti Viſione agi inciperet. Ità ut illud ἀπάρτι, ab hoc tempore, dicatur, non reſpectu rei præcedenti Viſione exhibitæ, ſed proximè ſequenti exhibendæ; quam nimirum protinus exciperet Reſurrectio mortuorum & Judicium. Quaſi dixiſſet, Nunc ad illud deventum eſt quod unicum reſtat implendum, ad tempus illud quo Mortui in Domino ad beatam vitam ſuſcitabuntur. Sic enim in Evangelio Matth. 23. verſ. ult. Dominus ad Judæos, Non me videbitis ἀπ' ἄρτι, donec dicatis, Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini; id eſt, non à temporis momento quo hæc loquutus erat, ſed à tempore Paſchatis, quod tunc celebratum ibat: poſt quod vulgo Judæorum non ampliùs ſe conſpiciendum præbuit. Ratio autem mihi ſic, ut dico, ſentiendi triplex eſt. Primùm, quòd non meminerim uſpiam in ſacra Scriptura ptura diem mortis * Diem mercedis indigitari, ſed Diem ſolum Reſurrectionis & Judicii. Secundò, Denunciatio de cœlo, cum mandato ſcribendi, non niſi ad inſigne aliquod rerum momentum indicandum videtur adhibitum. Certè ejuſmodi mandatum alibi nuſquam, præterquam initio totius Prophetiæ, reperire eſt. Denique pronunciato huic, ſi bene attendatur, ſenſu omnino convenit cum illo ad clangorem Tubæ ſeptimæ, *cap. 11. quando tempus affore dicitur quo mortuorum (nempe, propter Chriſtum) cauſa judicabitur, Deúſq; redditurus ſit mercedem ſervis ſuis Prophetis, & Sanctis, & timentibus nomen ejus parvis & magnis, & perditurus eos qui perdunt terram. Ità hîc, Beati, inquit, ab hoc tempore mortui qui in Domino mortem occubuere, ut requieſcant à laboribus ſuis, id eſt, vitam deinceps priſtinorum malorum & calamitatum ſecuram degant (quo ſanè hoſtium & tyrannorum exterminium innuitur:) & opera eorum ſequuntur eos, id eſt, perpeſſionum ſuarum & rectè factorum omnium mercedem conſequentur beatiſſimam.

Ad Cap. 14.

* Vid. Auth. Quæſt. & Reſp. ad Orthodoxos, Qu. LXXV, LXXVI.

* Verſ. 18.

Interim, hâc interpretatione admiſſâ, de ſenſu verborum Οἱ ἐν Κυρίῳ ἀποθνήσκοντες nihil muto; adhuc ea cum prioris ſententiæ ſequacibus, non de quibuſvis in Chriſti fide obdormientibus, ſed ſpeciatim de Martyribus, intelligendo, qui vitam pro Chriſto profuderunt (talibus enim conſtat Reſurrectio prima:) ut cum Beza reddendum putem, qui propter Dominum, ſeu Domini cauſâ, moriuntur. Quemadmodum ad Epheſ. 4. 1. Δέσμιος ἐν Κυρίῳ, Vinctus in Domino, eſt Vinctus propter Dominum; idem ſcilicet quod Δέσμιος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, cap. 3. 1. Quo eodem ſenſu veteres (ut ex Tertulliano conjicere datur) acceperunt illud 1 Theſ. 4. 16. Mortui in Chriſto reſurgent primi, id eſt, Martyres, qui propter Chriſti confeſſionem neci dati fuerint. Videſis eum de Anima c. 55. Quippe notum eſt, Latinis ablativum, & Græcis perinde dativum, qui aliàs inſtrumentum & modum agendi ſignificat, etiam cauſam ob quam ſive propter quam denotare; ut, Verberat odio, invidiâ pulſus eſt, & ſimilia. Hunc autem ablativum ſive dativum cùm Hebræi per præpoſitionem ב enuncient, & eorum imitatione Scriptura Græca per ἘΝ; indè factum ut ἘΝ quoque ibidem cauſam propter quam deſignet. Rarior quidem eſt hæc ſignificatio cum hac particula; ſed non dubito quin plura ſuppeditârit * exempla obſervatio diligens, quàm mihi nunc in promptu ſint.

* Vid. Lud. de Dieu in Act. 24. 16. ἐν τούτῳ propter hoc. Matth. 6. 7. ἐν τῇ πολυλογίᾳ αὐτῶν, i. διὰ τὴν πολυλογίαν. Epheſ. 3. 13. ἐν ταῖς θλίψεσί μου, propter afflictiones meas. Col. 2. 16. ἐν βρώσει, propter cibum. Hebraiſmus eſt, ubi ב in ſæpe valet propter. Vid. Gen. 18. 28. בַּחֲמִשָּׁה propter quinque.

TAntum de pronunciato cœleſti. Jam bigæ Viſionum, cui præmitti diximus, ſenſum, quantum in re futura licet, quâque decet ſobrietate & modeſtiâ, indagemus: & primò MESSIS, quâ primus ad conſummationem gradus ſternitur.

Verſ. 14.

Et vidi, inquit, & ecce nubem candidam; & ſuper nubem ſedentem ſimilem Filio hominis, habentem in capite ſuo coronam auream, & in manu ſua falcem acutam. 15. Et alius Angelus exivit de Templo, clamans voce magnâ ad ſedentem ſuper nubem, Mitte falcem tuam & mete; quia venit hora metendi, quoniam aruit Meßis terræ. 16. Et miſit qui ſedebat ſuper nubem falcem ſuam in terram; & demeſſa eſt terra.

Meßis nomen tria complectitur; ſegetis deſectionem, collectionem, & trituram. Unde factum ut duplicem in ſacris contrariíque ſenſûs parabolam conſtituat: modò ſtragis & excidii, quaſi deſectionis & trituræ; modò reſtitutionis & ſalutis, pro collectionis ingenio. Illius exemplum obvium apud Jeremiam, cap. 51. 33. ubi ſic de clade Babylonis, Filia Babylonis quaſi Area, tempus trituræ ejus: adhuc modicum & veniet tempus meßionis ejus. Item Iſaiæ cap. 17. 3, &c. de excidio Damaſci, & clade Iſraelis per Thiglath-peleſarem, Ceſſabit adjutorium ab Ephraim, & regnum à Damaſco, &c. Et erit perinde ac ſi colligeret meſſor ſegetem, & brachium ejus ſpicas demeteret. Hujus verò exemplum vix alibi quàm in N. T. reperire eſt. Meßis, ait Salvator, magna eſt, operarii verò pauci. Matt. 9. 37.

Non

Ad Cap. 14. Non deſunt tamen qui ab hac notione interpretentur querelam iſtam Iſraelis apud Jerem. 8. 20. Præteriit Meßis, conſumpta eſt æſtas, & nos non ſumus ſalvati; i. Tranſiit tempus quo putavimus nos ſalvos fore, & non ſalvati ſumus. Utrius autem figuram MESSIS hoc loco ſuſtineat, eruamus, ſi poſſimus, ex rerum gerendarum ordine quas alibi Spiritus Sanct. de iiſdem Eccleſiæ temporibus repræſentaverit.

Calcationem torcularis, quâ Vindemia MESSEM iſtam ſubſequens defungitur, eandem eſſe cum ſtrage illa cruenta ab Equi albi Seſſore patranda cap. 19. palàm eſt ex eo quod ejuſdem Seſſoris deſcriptioni inſeritur; Is eſt qui calcat torculare furoris iræ Dei omnipotentis. Jam verò hoc dato & poſito, neceſſe eſt parabolas propheticas, quæ utramque pariter immediatè, & nullo ampliùs Viſo interveniente, prævertant, aut rem eandem denotare, aut ſi diverſas, tamen aliquo pacto inter ſe conjunctas & devinctas. Cùm idcirco hîc Vindemiam proximè antecedat MESSIS iſta; illic verò Stragem eam atrocem Apparatus nuptiarum Agni, unà cum Excidio Babylonis: ſequitur omnino, aut Apparatum iſtum, aut Excidium, eſſe MESSEM quam quærimus, aut eódem cum MESSE, aut cum iis MESSEM; pertinere.

Si dixerimus Vaſtationem Babylonis MESSEM eſſe, id tum Typi ingenio, qui deſectionem & trituram ſubindicat, ſatis conſentaneum foret; tum præſertim ſubblandiretur Jeremiæ exemplo veteris quoque Babylonis caſum eâdem figurâ prædicentis. Locus eſt quem paulò antè laudavi: Filia Babylonis quaſi area, tempus trituræ ejus: adhuc modicum & veniet tempus meßionis ejus. Huic quoque accedit quòd cùm utraque, tam Meßis quàm Vindemia, quòd Annum abſolvant, rerum finem & conſummationem denotet, Meßis verò Vindemiam tempore præcedat; ideo, ſi conſummationi tyrannidis Romanæ ſignificandæ utramque deſervire compertum eſſet, ſanè appoſitè admodum MESSIS Urbis ipſius cladem, tanquam excidii plenarii Præmetium, VINDEMIA Meſſi ſuccedens univerſi Regni Beſtiani interitum, haud longo eam intervallo ſubſecuturum, deſignatum iret.

Nec ſanè quicquam eſt quod huic accommodationi obſtet præterquam illud unum, quòd Stragem illam internecinam cap. 19. Vindemiæ quoque imagine expreſſam, non Babylonis vaſtatio, ut hactenus præſuppoſuimus, ſed alius rerum eventus, (Babylonis vaſtationem (ut videtur) ſubſequens) Apparatus nempe Nuptiarum Agni, ſeu Sponſæ ejus exornatio, proximè anteire deprehenditur. Annon igitur MESSIS Apparationi iſti ſignificandæ erit, aut (ſi hoc incongruum) rei alicui cum ea gerendæ? At quænam, inquies, Apparatio illa Sponſæ eſt? quídve illud quod cum ea ſimul gerendum ſit? Sanè Apparatio illa Sponſæ, nondum video quid aliud eſſe poſſit quàm illa tot ſeculis exſpectata converſio & collectio Iſ-
Matth. 22. raelis; illius quæ olim (juxta Salvatoris parabolam) ad nuptias Filii Regis invitata, venire recuſavit, nunc verò tandem prompta & parata accurret. Non enim Gentes Sponſa illa dici poſſe videntur, cùm illæ jam olim & à multis ſeculis Chriſto deſponſatæ fuerint. Judæi idcirco ſunt, qui adhuc Agni Sponſa futuri exſpectantur. Cum hac autem Converſione & Reductione Iſraelis (quâ illa in Cœtum Agni Virgineum cooptabitur, ejúſque pars fiet) conjuncta erit Turcici Imperii demeſſio ſeu excidium; juxta quod ad Phialam ſextam legitur, ſed aliâ figurâ, Aquas magni illius fluminis Euphratis exſiccandas eſſe, ut paretur via Regum ab ortu Solis. Tempus enim hujus Phialæ planiſſimè ad tempus Apparationis iſtius Sponſæ convenit; cùm ſicut iſta excidio Babylonis & ſtragi hoſtium noviſſimæ interjecta ſit, ità hæc Phiala Phialæ quæ in Thronum Beſtiæ effunditur, & Phialæ noviſſimæ media intervenit. Nempe Eccleſia Chriſti, ut converſione Iſraelis quaſi gemina evaſura ſit; ità utraque pars proprium

&

& peculiarem id temporis hoſtem videtur habitura: illa BESTIAM Romanam origine incircumcisâ; hæc Imperium MUHAMMEDICUM circumciſæ Gentis, atque ortu Iſmaelitico, Iſaacidis ominoſo. Quorum utriuſque exterminio ſub adventum Chriſti peragendo, quidni hujus MESSIS, illius autem VINDEMIA repræſentando deſerviat? Ad Cap. 14.

Porrò huic MESSIS interpretationi ſi minùs firmitudinem, ſpeciem ſaltem aliquam, conciliet Vaticinium illud Joelis, unde utraque Imago tam Meßis quàm Vindemiæ deſumpta eſt. Illic enim de tempore convertendi Iſraelis agi, vel ex primis Oraculi verbis manifeſtum eſt. In diebus illis, inquit, & tempore illo quo reducam captivitatem Judæ & Jeruſalem; Congregabo omnes gentes in vallem Joſaphati, & diſceptabo cum iis ibi ſuper populo meo & hæreditate mea Iſrael, quos diſperſerunt in nationibus, terrámque meam diviſerunt. Deinde in apparatûs bellici hypotypoſi ſequitur, Immittite falces, quoniam maturavit Meßis: Venite & deſcendite, quia plenum eſt torcular, exuberant torcularia, quia magna eſt malitia eorum. Utcunque igitur in hac Figuræ MESSIS accommodatione id obſervare liceat, rem gerendam ità comparatam eſſe ut ei utraque Meßis notio, tam deſectionis & trituræ quàm collectionis, aptari poſſit; hæc ex parte Iſraelis in Eccleſiæ horreum colligendæ, illa ſtragis hoſtium cum ea conjunctim futuræ: tamen cùm de Eccleſiæ contra hoſtes aſſertione noviſſima hîc agatur, ideo omnino deſectionis & trituræ notionem præferendam cenſeo. Cap. 3.

Sed quicquid MESSIS futura ſit, certè Dominum ejus & meſſionis Auſpicem ipſum Chriſtum Regem fore arguit deſcriptio. Ecquid enim ulli præter ipſum Regi Titulus iſte FILII HOMINIS cum NUBIS carpento in univerſa Scriptura tribuitur? Ut minimè tutum ſit, meâ quidem ſententiâ, id aliò torquere. Potiùs colligendum videtur, Divini Numinis potentiam in MESSE iſthàc defungenda, ſicut & in proximè futura VINDEMIA, magìs conſpicuam & illuſtrem futuram quàm in ullis hactenus operibus factum eſt eorum quæ Angelorum tantùm nominibus gerebantur.

HACTENUS de MESSE conjectavimus; pergamus nunc ad VINDEMIAM, quam, utì in Anni tempeſtatibus fieri conſuevit, ità hîc ordine rei gerendæ MESSEM ſequi, rationi conſentaneum eſt.

Et alius Angelus exivit de Templo quod eſt in cælo, habens & ipſe falcem acutam. 18. Et alius Angelus exivit de altari, qui habebat poteſtatem in ignem: & clamavit voce magnâ ad eum qui habebat falcem acutam, dicens, Mitte falcem tuam acutam, & vindemia botros vineæ terræ; quoniam maturæ ſunt uvæ ejus. 19. Et miſit Angelus falcem ſuam acutam in terram, & vindemiavit vineam terræ, & miſit in lacum iræ Dei magnum. 20. Et calcatus eſt lacus extra Urbem, & exivit ſanguis de lacu uſque ad frænos equorum per ſtadia mille ſexcenta. Verſ. 17.

Hæc VINDEMIÆ deſcriptio eſt. Ad cujus interpretationem eò certiùs collineabimus, quò hîc parabolæ ſignificatio minùs in ambiguo poſita, & expreſſior habetur botrorum calcandorum deſignatio. Siquidem Calcatio vindemialis in Scriptura parabolica cladem atrocem, cruentam & internecinam conſtanter denotat. Hoc primum. Deinde cladem qua de hîc agitur eandem eſſe cum Clade illa magna cap. 19, oſtendunt (ut paulò antè admonui) verba illa de calcando torculari iræ Dei deſcriptioni ejus inſerta. Ergò eadem quoque erit cum Bello magni illius diei Dei omnipotentis ad Phialam noviſſimam: quocum Cladem illam internecinam cap. 19. eandem eſſe, illud dubitare non ſinit, quòd utraque ejuſdem omnino hoſtis clades noviſſima ſit; utraque enim in Beſtiam, Pſeudoprophetam, eorúmque Confœderatos ultimò incubitura eſt. At eorundem clades ultima non poteſt eſſe niſi una. Jam ſi Vindemia noſtra eandem cum iſtis cladem deſignet, in eoſdem quoque hoſtes incubituram neceſſe eſt; ergò in Beſtiam & Pſeudoprophetam. Vitis igitur, seu Vinea terræ, cujus hîc mentio, Bestiæ Ditio est. Uvæ ad vindemiandum maturæ, Bestiani sanguinis reatu turgentes, maturi judicio. Lacus denique seu Torcular, Locus cædis; idem nimirum qui ad Phialam septimam Hebraicè interpretatus ARMAGEDDON dicitur, forsan quòd ibi ad internecionem Bestiæ turmæ seu copiæ delebuntur. ARMA enim חרמא excidium sonat; GEDON seu GEDDON גדון turmam, exercitum, seu exercitum eorum. * Congregavit, inquit, eos in locum qui vocatur Hebraicè ARMAGEDDON. (libri à Plantino excusi simplici Δ ARMAGEDON) Et septimus Angelus effudit Phialam suam in Aerem: & exivit Vox magna è Templo Cœli è Throno, dicens, Factum est.

Ad Cap. 14.

Vide Druſ. Præterit. l. 10. p. 434. * Rev. 16. 16.

Ubi autem hic Lacus seu locus futurus sit calcandarum Uvarum, adhuc in Dei arcanis est; nec igitur nobis curiosè nimis satagendum, nedum definiendum, donec aut eventus ipse patefecerit, aut eidem proximior rerum status aliquod ejus fortasse indicium præbuerit. Illud tamen monere fas erit citra temeritatis notam, Ex tam diligenti intervalli per quod Cædes extenderetur dimensione, videri posse Spiritum Sanct. ad regionem ejusmodi aliquam digitum intendere, quæ stadia mille sexcenta in longitudinem pateat: per tot enim stadia stragem faciendam esse docet extra URBEM, hoc est, ni fallor, in regione seu ditione URBIS. Hinc factum ut quidam circuitione istâ Terram Sanctam designari putarent, ut quæ tot ad amussim stadia longitudine suâ colligat, id est, Italica milliaria ducenta, Græca verò non ampliùs centum sexaginta; quantam esse Terræ Sanctæ longitudinem perhibet Hieronymus Epistolâ ad Dardanum. Græci enim, inquiunt illi, milliare suum metiebantur stadiis decem, quorum singula erant passuum centum; passus autem (quam orgyam appellant) pedum Romanorum sex: ità in universum continebat milliare Græcum 6000 pedes Romanos. E diverso Romani passum quinque pedibus definiunt, stadium passibus 125, milliare octo stadiis, id est, pedibus tantùm 5000. Unde factum ut milliare Græcum, tametsi mille passuum numero cum Romano conveniret, Romano tamen quintâ parte majus esset. Quâ ratione milliaria Romana 200 efficiunt non ampliùs 160 Græca. Hæc ratiocinii summa est. Præterea, nec illud conjecturæ omnino nihil momenti addit, quòd loci nomen ARMAGEDDON Hebraicè nuncupetur, quasi futuri in Terra Hebræorum. Sed quâ tandem ratione hoc fieri poterit? Sanè illis qui Antichristum ex Oriente proditurum opinantur hæc sententia facilis admodum & expedita est; nobis non item: nisi quis fortè illud verisimile existimet, Pseudoprophetam post eversam Romam in Orientem migraturum, ibíque sedem collocaturum: quod quidem ex ipsis Bestiæ asseclis non desunt qui affirment; nempe, ante supremum Judicii diem Pontificem Romanum Hierosolymis sedem habiturum. Nam illud certè, Bestiam, rebus suis domi in Occidente in tali qualis supponitur statu & discrimine constitutis, iterum (utì olim in expeditione Hierosolymitana) exercitum in Palæstinam ducturam, tot hostibus à tergo relictis, atque ibi demum funditus deletum iri, nullâ verisimilitudine affirmari posset. Quinimo, nè nos qui Occidentalem Antichristum asserimus, illis qui Orientalem ab hac parte inferiores simus, in vicino item locus est cui dictus stadiorum numerus perinde convenit; putà STATO DELLA CHIESA, seu Ecclesiæ Romanæ Latifundium, quod ab Urbe Roma usque ad ultimum Padi ostium & paludes Veronenses porrigitur spatio milliarium Italicorum ducentorum, id est, stadiorum 1600.

Sed quò abeo? fibulam tandem curiositati imponamus, cui forsan hactenus nimis indulsimus. Ad alia deveniamus, in quibus majus sit operæpretium. Atque adeò illud imprimis attendat Lector, Non eundem esse hîc botrorum putatorem atque calcatorem torcularis; sed prout diversa sunt munia Vindemiatoris & Torculatoris, ità quoque diversos authores habere;

Vindemi-

Vindemiationem ſeu putationem, Angelum falce vinitoriâ inſtructum, Calcationem, Chriſtum ipſum Regem equitatu cœleſti comitatum; id quod ex Viſione capitis 19, (quam aliquoties laudavi) liquidò conſtare poteſt. Illic enim vidit Joannes * Cœlum apertum, & ecce Equus albus; & qui ſedebat ſuper eum vocatur fidelis & verax, & cum juſtitia judicat & pugnat ——Et veſtitus erat veſte aſperſâ ſanguine, (ſanguine autem uvarum) & vocatur nomen ejus VERBUM DEI. Et exercitus qui ſunt in cœlo ſequebantur eum in equis albis, veſtiti byſſino albo & mundo. Et de ore ejus prodit gladius acutus, ut in ipſo percuteret gentes: Ipſe enim regit eas virgâ ferreâ; & is eſt QUI CALCAT TORCULAR VINI FURORIS DEI OMNIPOTENTIS,——&c. Ecquid clariùs dici potuit? Proindéque in contextu, cui lucem pro virili facimus, neutiquam dicitur, Angelum qui vindemiavit ſive putavit botros eundem quoque Lacum calcâſſe; ſed ſolummodo botros putatos in lacum miſiſſe; quo facto, calcatum eſſe Lacum extra Urbem. A quo autem niſi à Chriſto Rege, è cœlo cum cœleſti Equitatu prodeunte? Id nimirum eſt quod Spiritus Sanctus ſignificare voluit, ſtatim additâ Equorum mentione: Et exivit, inquit, ſanguis è Lacu uſque ad frænos Equorum. Quorſum enim illud de Equis inſertum, niſi ut hoc indicio ſubmoneret, ab eo Lacum calcatum eſſe ad quem comitatus iſte equeſtris pertinebat? Ad Cap. 14. * Verſ. 11, &c.

Ut igitur rem in pauca conferam; hæc Viſionis iſtius Vindemialis ſumma eſt: Angelus Vindemiator, adhibitis Sanctis, quorum ad hoc negotium ei præfectura demandata eſt, botros Beſtianos putabit abſcindétque; eâque putatione ſuâ faciet in ARMAGEDDUNTEM congregari; congregatos demùm calcabit Dominus Jeſus in adventu ſuo: juxta quod Paulus ait de Homine peccati, (qui ipſiſſima hæc Beſtia eſt) eum à Domino deſtruendum fore, ὃν ὁ κύριος Ἰησοῦς ἀναλώσει τῷ πνεύματι τοῦ στόματος αὐτοῦ καὶ καταργήσει τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ. 2 Theſ. 2. 8.

Utraque autem tam MESSIS quàm VINDEMIA precibus impetratur: illa quidem (ut videtur) Eccleſiæ in univerſum; unde qui ſupplicum perſonam ibi ſuſtinet Angelus, è Templo generatim prodire dicitur: hæc verò magis Martyrum & Confeſſorum, in quos lanienis atque tormentis ſævierint impii, ac Chriſto victimam fecerint; propterea qui ad hanc inclamat Angelus è Thyſiaſterio ſeu Altaris ſepto egreditur, atque in ignem poteſtatem habere dicitur, ignem autem martyrii. Notum verò illud in vulgus eſt, ſanguinem Martyrum ad Deum pro vindicta clamare. Sanè enim paſſim teſtatur Scriptura, Divinum Numen Eccleſiæ neque res ſecundas, neque in hoſtes vindictam, citra preces ſuorum largiri velle. Ità ad preces Danielis ſolvitur Captivitas Babylonica: & in parabola de Vidua iniquum Judicem clamoribus ſuis fatigante, apodoſis eſt, Deum ſimiliter precibus electorum ſuorum adactum tandem aliquando ad vindictam ſurrecturum eſſe. Adde quòd, cùm Tubæ clancturæ eſſent demoliendæ rei Romanæ, priùs Martyrum preces, facto ſuffitu, Deo in memoriam revocantur.

Audi igitur, ô Chriſte Rex, & in memoriam apud Patrem tuum revoca tot ſupplices tuorum pro regno tuo preces, tot afflictorum & interfectorum pro nomine tuo gemitus; & cùm tempus quod tibi opportunum videbitur advenerit, Surge, mete & vindemia.

¶ Hucuſque, Lector, fuſiore hoc interpretandi genere progredi potui, nec ultrà. In reliqua quæ ſuperſunt Vaticinia SPECIMINA tantùm do; eorum nimirum partem quæ ante triennium aut quadriennium in pleraſque Viſiones Apocalypticas cum amicis privatim communicaveram. Ea, qualiacunque ſint, candori tuo, Lector, commendo, útque benignè interpreteris obſecro; donec D. O. M. vires & otium mihi largiatur & iſta (niſi doctorum & piorum virorum judicia abſterruerint) ſimili quo priora filo pertexendi. Porrò ſciæ in hiſce capitum ordinem adeò ad amuſſim ſervare non libuiſſe, quin BABYLONIS myſterium PHIALARUM Viſioni anteponerem; quod tamen Joannes poſtpoſuit: an quia ex Phialarum Angelis unus illud monſtraverat? an quia præcedentibus Viſionibus omnibus tanquam CLAVEM reſerandis ſubjicere voluit? Utrumque in cauſa fuiſſe videtur: Sed non idem interpretanti atque narranti ordo ubique commodus eſt.

DE
METROPOLI ἈΠΟΣΤΑΣΙΑΣ CHRISTIANITATIS, BABYLONE MYSTICA.

Ad Cap. 17. METropolis Ἀποστασίας BABYLON μυστήριον ſeu myſtica, Urbs ROMA eſt, ſeu, ut nunc loquimur, SEDES ROMANA, ex Sponſa olim Chriſti facta non ſolùm Meretrix, ſed & Μήτηρ πορνῶν, METROPOLIS MERETRICULARUM, id eſt, caput Chriſtiani nominis Urbium cum ipſa ſpiritualiter fornicantium. Ubi illud, Lector, vel inprimis obſerves velim, (quoniam in ipſa jam Arce verſamur Apocalypſeos) non aliis hæreſibus aut erroribus ullis, quàm illâ tantopere veteri quoque Iſraeli exprobratâ MOECHATIONE ſpirituali, magnam illam & catholicam viſibilis Eccleſiæ Chriſtianæ Ἀποστασίαν à Spiritu Sancto definitam & conſignatam eſſe. Hanc igitur unicam, tanquam Cynoſuram, ab eo ſpectari oportere, quiſquis Apoſtaſiæ Chriſtianitatis initium, progreſſum, ſtatum & decrementum, ex rerum Eccleſiaſticarum tabulis perveſtigare voluerit. In hunc ſcopum ſi intendât, vel palpari poteſt quod quæritur; ſin aliter, aut fruſtrà, aut incertus erit. Sit enim licèt aliorum errorum, imò hæreſeôn, BABYLON iſta rea (neque enim novum eſt, Meretrices atque Mœchas aliis quoque vitiis & ſceleribus infames eſſe;) cùm tamen iſtarum nullâ magnam illam viſibilis Eccleſiæ Ἀποστασίαν notaverit Spiritus Sanctus, proinde aut pro ſolis Apoſtaſiæ illius ſymptomatis, aut pro erroribus adventitiis, aliorúmque æquè temporum & Sectarum communibus; aut ſi magni fortè momenti hæreſis fuerit, ejuſmodi tamen (ut eſt illa de Juſtificatione & ſalute ex meritis Operum ſperanda) quæ ſerò demum, & ætate jam provectâ admodum MERETRICE, in Eccleſiam, tanquam πλάνης τῆς μεγάλης ἀντιμισθία, juſto Dei judicio ſit admiſſa: nè nimirum qui Dei longanimitatem TESTIUMque prædicationem tamdiu támque pertinaciter contempſerant, poſtmodum (uti contra protoplaſtas cautum fuiſſe legimus) manum extendentes acciperent de fructu Arboris vitæ, comederéntque victuri in ſeculum.

Rom. 1. 27.

Gen. 3. 22.

Porrò illud, Lector, hoc loco ſingulare eſt, nec levi animadverſione prætereundum (de quo proinde in CLAVE Apocalyptica te monebam;) nimirum, hanc de MERETRICE magna BESTIAque ipſam bajulante Viſionem ab Angelo, præter morem ſuum, Joanni nobiſque interpretatione longè pulcherrima reſeratam eſſe: eo proculdubio fine, ut ejus interpretationis beneficio, utpote præcipuæ omnium Viſionis, cætera quoque myſteria ſteria Apocalyptica, hactenus quidem clauſa, ſed ex illa mirabili artificio pendentia, panderentur. Hîc igitur adeſto animis, & nè fruſtrà, quod te attinet, Angelus operam iſtam ſumpſerit, illud probè probéque memento, Allegoriæ ſeu Parabolæ interpretationem (cujuſmodi hæc Angeli eſt) novam Allegoriam aut Parabolam non eſſe. Nam quæ hæc inſolentia eſſet, aut veriùs inſania, interpretis? quíſve fructus Allegoriam Allegoriâ, aut Parabolam aliâ Parabolâ interpretandi? Nè igitur tu hîc neſcio quas mundi ætates, aut ſimilia attendas figmenta; quinimo Angeli fatidici, οὐκ ἔτι ἀλλ' ἀληθῶς, verùm interpretantis, mentem prout litera ſonat accipito; non Allegoriæ, ut alibi uſuvenit, ſententiam recludendi, ſed interpretationem ejus jam datam rebus ipſis applicandi partes tibi reſtare ſciens. Ad Cap. 17.

Quam ad Applicationem, quatenus Deus mihi revelaverit, ſic tibi præibo.

1.

MULIER quam vidit Joannes BESTIÆ inſidentem, Urbs illa magna eſt quæ tum regnum habebat ſuper Reges terræ, ver. 18.

Applicatio. Quæ iſthæc niſi ROMA eſt?

2.

BESTIA eam Meretricem factam bajulans, illa Beſtia eſt quæ etiam ante Viſionem iſtam Joanni exhibitam aliâ quadam ſui ſpecie fuerat, ſed eâ tamen quâ Meretricem bajularet nondum tum fuiſſet; tali verò poſtmodum ex. Abyſſo ſurrectura erat, in eâque funditus tandem interitura: id eſt, ſpecies illa quâ Meretricem bajularet Beſtiæ noviſſima foret, ultra quam vitam ſuam non produceret, v. 8. Sequitur eodem verſu (ut iſthoc quoque charactere agnoſcas ipſiſſimam hanc Beſtiam eſſe c. 13. oſtenſam) Et mirabuntur incolæ terræ, quorum nomina non ſunt ſcripta in libro vitæ à jacto mundi fundamento, cernentes Beſtiam quæ erat, & non eſt, & tamen adfutura eſt, Græc. ἢ παρέσται. Sic enim lego cum editione Complutenſi, Primaſio & Syro Interprete, ut cum præcedenti deſcriptione ſenſu congruat, Beſtia quæ fuit, & non eſt, ſed aliquando aſcenſura eſt ex Abyſſo. Quâ verò ſpecie jam antè fuerat BESTIA, quâ adhuc futurum erat ut ex Abyſſo aſcenderet, illud ex iis quæ mox ſubjungit Angelus ſingillatim cognoſcemus.

Applic. Interim, ſi MULIER ipſa ROMA eſt, quid tandem eſſe poſſit Beſtia iſthæc multiformis cui inequitat (id eſt, imperat) præter Regnum ſeu Imperium Romanum?

3.

Septem BESTIÆ capita duplex typus: primò, ſeptem montes ſeu colles ſunt, ſuper quos Urbs Beſtiæ metropolis ſita eſt; deinde, ſeptem quoque ídque in iiſdem (quod unitas Typi denotat) collibus

(Hoc teneas vultus mutantem Protea nodo)

Regum ſeu Dynaſtarum ſucceſſivorum ordines. Quorum quidem quinque, Regum, Conſulum, Tribunorum, Decemvirorum, Dictatorum, Joannis ævo jam præterierant: unus [Cæſarum] adhuc ſuperfuerat; ſed is quoque ſub Cæſaribus Chriſtianis ità mutaturus, ut quaſi alius, ſed brevis admodum ævi, Dynaſtes videretur, reverâ tamen non alius: noviſſimus verò, & mutati, ut jam dixi, Cæſareatûs reſpectu octavus, ſed reverâ non niſi ſeptimus, (nam ſeptem tantùm ſunt Beſtiæ capita) is ipſus eſt ſub quo Beſtia demum Πορνοφόρος eſſet, id eſt, myſticæ Meretricis bajula, atque eo ſtatu ſpecíque quâ à Joanne in præſenti Viſione conſpecta eſt; cujus nimirum ætate dici potuit, Et jam olim eam fuiſſe, necdum tamen natam eſſe. Olim enim fuerat BESTIA ſub priorum quinque, partim etiam ſexti, capitum vicibus; nondum tamen fuit noviſſimi illius (putà Pontificii) Capitis vice, quâ demum bajularet MERETRICEM.

Applic. Nunc igitur, Lector, auſculta. Si ſextum BESTIÆ Romanæ caput, quod Joannis ætate in Urbe ſepticolli regnabat, jam à duodecim ferè ſeculis ibidem regnare deſiit; neceſſe eſt eum qui nunc ibi rerum potitur (cùm nequaquam illud quaſi-ſeptimum, brevíſque ævi Caput dici poſſit) eſſe noviſſimum illum, longævum & verè ſeptimum Septem collium Dynaſten; proindéque Statum illum, ſeu Rem-gentium-publicam, cui Roma nunc incubat diúque incubavit, Dynaſtiam illam eſſe quam Joannes præviderat Meretricem bajulaturam.

Ad Cap. 17.

4.

Decem Beſtiæ cornua, noviſſimi Capitis inſignia, dècem ſunt Regna, Joannis quidem ævo nondum nata, ſed in quæ tandem Bestiæ Romanæ corpus vice ſuâ noviſſimâ ex Capitis Cæſarei vulnere dilaceraretur; quæque omnem poteſtatem ſuam unanimiter conferrent Bestiæ, ſub Capitis iſtius noviſſimi imperio, integrandæ reſtituendæque.

Applic. Atqui niſi jam indè ex quo Cæſares Romæ regnare deſierint, Romanum Imperium in decem pluráve Regna (etiam Gentium Joannis ævo ab Imperio alienarum barbararúmque) diviſum & dilaceratum ſit, quando, quæſo, unquam, quâve tandem ratione illud dividendum exſpectabimus?

5.

Decem autem illa quæ ità coaluerint Regna, Pſeudoprophetæ Capitis ſui auſpiciis, cum Agno pugnabunt, victoriâ tamen tandem penes Agnum Dominum noſtrum futurâ.

Applic. Illud dudum factum eſt, hodiéque etiamnum fit: Hoc etiam aliquatenus factum, ſed multò glorioſiori victoriâ quandoque impletum iri ſperamus.

Siquidem ex iiſdem decem cornibus ſeu Regibus erunt qui Meretricem, cui tamdiu bajulandæ inſervierint, odio tandem proſequentur, (quod partim impletum cernimus) deſertam illam reddent & nudam, carnes ejus comedent, ipſámque exurent igne. Deus enim, cujus providentiâ factum eſt ut tam mirabili conſenſu in hanc noviſſimi capitis Beſtiam, uſque ad tempus ei præſtitutum, coaleſcerent, idem aliquando cordibus eorum indet ut voluntatem quoque ipſius in Metropolin ſuam Meretricem exſequantur. Hæc Angelus.

Quod verò præterea in Parabolæ deſcriptione habetur, Meretricem iſtam poculum aureum in manu ſua tenere, plenum abominationibus & immunditiâ ſcortationis ſuæ, item, nomen ſuum in fronte ſcriptum præferre; id Angeli interpretatione non egebat: ſiquidem utroque alluſum eſt ad Meretricum & Lupanarium olim conſuetudinem; quorum illæ in calice aureo philtra amaſiis ſuis propinare ſolebant; in iſtis cellæ meretricum nomine inſcribebantur, utì docet Tertulliani illud Lib. de Pudicitia—ſub ipſis libidinum januis, ſub ipſis libidinum titulis; ſed clariùs Seneca Controverſ. 2. lib. 1. Meretrix (ait) vocata es, in communi loco ſtetiſti, ſuperpoſitus eſt cellæ tuæ titulus. Vide & Martialem lib. 11. Epigr. 46. Quinetiam, ſi famoſa eſſet meretrix, videtur non tantùm in cella, ſed in fronte, nomen & elogium ſcriptum prætuliſſe. Innuit id Seneca loco citato: Nomen, inquit, tuum pependit in fronte, pretia ſtupri accepiſti, & manus, quæ Diis datura erat ſacra, capturas tulit. Quò & Juvenalis forſan reſpexit, Sat. 6. de Meſſalinæ Auguſtæ impotenti libidine,

——nuda papillis
Conſtitit auratis titulum mentita Lyciſcæ.

Quòd ſi illud Senecæ de cellæ fronte accipiendum ſit, poteſt & hoc de Babylone ſic accipi; neque id durum erit, propter figuræ ingenium, quæ utrumque, tam Meretricem quàm locum ſeu fornicem in quo proſtat, comprehendit.

OCCA-

OCCASUS ANTICHRISTI,

SEU

MENS SEPTEM PHIALARUM

Quantum adhuc intelligere datum eſt.

Primóque

De PHIALIS generatim.

PHIALARUM Angelorúmque Effuſorum hiſtoriam bifariàm proponit Spiritus Sanctus Primò generatim, ab initio Cap. 15. uſque ad verſûs 5 finem: ubi ſeptem Angelorum ſeptem Phialas habentium Viſo ſummâ tenus commemorato, priuſquam ad particularem ſive Angelorum ſive Phialarum deſcriptionem ventum, alterius unà cum illis Viſionis exhibitæ narratio inſtituitur, quâ Eccleſiæ fervente Effuſione ſtatus figuratur, ab inquinamentis & ſordibus idololatricis in ſacro illo ex materia non ænea, ut Solomonis, ſed cryſtallino Templi labro, ſeu Mari, ablutæ, totóque effuſionis tempore * Ἐπινίκιον de BESTIA ſuperata cantillantis; ídque dum adhuc Labri ipſius crepidini inſiſtebat, quaſi vixdum balneo quo ſeſe abluerat egreſſa. Ad Cap. 15.

Deinde ad Angelorum amictum apparatúmque, Phialáſque ſpeciatim deſcribendas, acceditur, ab illis verſûs 6 verbis, Καὶ ἐξῆλθον οἱ ἑπτὰ Ἄγγελοι οἱ ἔχοντες τὰς ἑπτὰ πληγὰς, ἐκ τοῦ ναοῦ, &c. Et exierunt ſeptem iſti Angeli habentes ſeptem plagas, è Templo, induti lino mundo & ſplendido, & præcincti circa pectora zonis aureis, id eſt, habitu & cinctu * Sacerdotali ornati. Cave enim nè verba quæ poſuimus cum illis verſûs præcedentis conjungas: ſiquidem quod ibi dicitur de Templo Tabernaculi teſtimonii in cælo aperto, id non ad initium, ſed eventum Phialarum pertinet; ſcilicet Templum quod interim dum Phialæ effundebantur impletum erat fumo à Majeſtate Dei & à virtute ejus, adeò ut nemo ingredi poſſet, ver. 8. (alluſum eſt tum ad Tabernaculi, Exod. 40. 34. tum ad Templi dedicationem ſeptiduanam, 1. Reg. 8. 10. 2. Paralip. 5. 13.) peractis demum Phialis ità ſerenabit, ut ipſa Arca teſtimonii [Chriſtus] conſpicua futura ſit: utì habetur ad ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem [cap. 11. ver. ult.] quacum noviſſimam Phialarum contemporare oſtenſum eſt Synch. III. Part. 2.

* Canticum Moſis & Agni dictum; nempe Dominum ſolum colendum eſſe & glorificandum ut Deum. Quæ Cantici hujus ſententia à Moſe pariter & Agno hominibus promulgata eſt.

* Ezech. 44. 17, 18. Maiemon. de Vaſis Sanctuarii, c. 10. Sect. 1.

De PHIALIS ſingillatim Hypotheſes.

1. EFfuſio Phialarum ſignificat Ruinam BESTIÆ Antichriſtianæ. Apparet ex textu; de quo vide Synch. VII. Part. I. Quemadmodum enim prior illa & antiquior Regni Romani Πολιτεία Tubarum, ità noviſſima hæc Phialarum plagis ſubruenda eſt. Hæc tantæ inter utraſque ſimilitu- Ad Cap. 16.

Ad Cap. 16.

militudinis cauſa eſt, cùm & prioris Politiæ Romanæ poſtrema hæc imaginem gerat.

2. Septem Phialæ totidem ſunt iſtius Ruinæ gradus. Sicut enim Bestia gradatim ſuccrevit, ità gradatim quoque abolenda eſt.

3. Quicquid tandem ſit in quod Phialarum quæque effunditur, id damnum & jacturam patitur à Phiala; cùm Phialarum effuſio ſit effuſio iræ Dei [cap. 15. v. 1.] Nulla igitur interpretatio hîc ſtare poteſt, quâ Phialæ effuſio in bonum ejus cedat in quod effunditur.

4. Terra, Mare, Fluvii, Sol, aliquid ſunt de Bestia Antichriſtiana, inſtar Terræ, inſtar Maris, inſtar Fluviorum, inſtar Solis. Nam Phialæ omnes in Bestiam effunduntur: ergò & ſingulæ in aliquid Bestiæ, aut ſaltem quod Bestiæ ſaluti innexum, ejúſque intereſt.

5. Totum Bestiæ corpus, ſeu Univerſitas Antichriſtiana, à Spiritu Sancto, ſimiliter ut in Tubis factum, tacitè comparatur Syſtemati mundano, cujus partes ſunt Terra, Mare, Flumina, Cœlum, Luminaria: ità ut Terra in Univerſitate Pontificia dicatur id quod ſit inſtar Telluris in Mundo phyſico; Mare, quod ſit Maris inſtar; Fluvii, quod Fluviorum; Sol, quod Solis.

Ità & plagæ Ægyptiacæ Angelorum operâ exercebantur; ut innuitur Pſal. 78. 49.

6. Denique (ut jam ſemel iterúmque monuimus) quoniam Deus Angelos adhibet providentiæ ſuæ in rerum humanarum motubus & converſionibus ciendis gubernandíſque adminiſtros, idcirco quæ multorum manibus peraguntur, Angelo tamen, tanquam rei gerendæ Præſidi & Duci, pro communi loquendi more, tribuuntur.

Expoſitio Phialarum ad amuſſim Hypotheſeon.

PHIALA I. IN TERRAM Univerſitatis Beſtianæ.

Terra in Univerſitate Antichriſtiana deſignat populum, ſive vulgus Chriſtianum, ſcabellum (proh pudor!) Antichriſti; cui tanquam Baſi ſuperſtructa moles illa Hierarchico-papana, inſtar Turris Babylonicæ —— vertice ad auras Ætherias tendit.

In hanc Terram Beſtianam effuſâ Phialâ, eam ab effuſione affectionem contraxit, ut Beſtiæ ſectatores furiis & intemperiis tanquam ulceribus impleret, iiſdémque tetris adeò & malignis ut ſanari non potuerint, ſed nec cicatrice ullâ obduci, quâ non diruptâ illico renovarentur.

Hoc impletum cùm vulgus Chriſtianum, Waldenſium, Albigenſium, Wiclifiſtarum, Huſſitarum, aliíſque nominibus appellatum, authoritati Beſtiæ paſſim renunciare cœpit, Romam BABYLONEM Apocalypticam clamitans, Papam Antichriſtum. Quo Terræ ſuæ jam zelo Dei torridæ afflatu pulſati Beſtiani, doloris & indignationis ulceribus toti excanduerunt; quibus in rabiem acti ferro & flammâ per annos complures mirabiliter ſævierint: ſed fruſtrà; quippe ulcere malo & inſanabili percuſſi, quod, quò magìs ſeſe commovebant, eò indies ingraveſcebat magís. Sic olim Terra Ægypti pulvere cinereo divinitus conſperſa, Pharaonitas omnes cum jumentis ſuis ulceribus oppletos reddidit. Orbis autem Beſtianus jam capite 11. Ægyptus πνευματικὴ perhibetur; proindéque hîc plaga ulceris πνευματικῶς, id eſt, myſticè & ex analogia, interpretanda: id quod in duarum quoque ſequentium Plagarum figuris, ex eadem hiſtoria petitis, diligenter obſervandum eſt.

Exod. 9. 8, 9.

PHIALA

Ad Cap. 16.

PHIALA II. IN MARE

Mundi Beſtiani.

Mare in Mundo Antichriſtiano eſt communionis Pontificiæ comprehenſio, quâ non ſinguli tantùm Chriſtiani, ſed integræ gentes, populi, regna, provinciæ, diœceſes, alioquin inter ſe disjuncta divulſáque, in unum congregantur: vel ſic, Mare Antichriſtianum eſt Juriſdictionis ſeu Ditionis Pontificalis ambitus, homines & gentes Chriſticolas circumplectens & involvens, ſicut Mare Terram.

In hoc Mare Phialâ ſecundâ effuſâ, factum eſt illico ut cruor cadaveris, ſeu ſanguis gelidus & concretus, qualis mortuorum & occiſorum, ſeu membri abſciſſi, eſſe ſoleat, cùm ſoluto cum vitali fonte commercio, ſpiritûs caloríſque influxu deſtituitur. Senſus eſt, Mare Pontificale quaſi morte, truncatione, lanienâ mactatum eſſe. αἷμα νεκροῦ. Νεκρὸς Cadaver paſſim apud Cteſiam de Aſtyage, Dati & Artaxerxe.

Hoc autem impletum cùm Lutheri cæterorûmque illûſtrium illius ævi Eccleſiæ Reformatorum operâ, Deo cœptis mirabiliter aſpirante, non jam è Chriſtianitatis vulgo ſolummodo ſingulæ aliquot perſonæ, quinimo integræ Provinciæ, Diœceſes, Regna, Nationes, Urbes communioni Beſtianæ renunciârunt, magnâque ampliſſimæ olim Ditionis mutilatione factâ, à corpore Beſtiano avulſæ receſſerunt. Quo caſu Mare ditionis Pontificiæ evaſit magnâ ſuâ parte mortuum, inſtárque cruoris cadaveris, in quo Animalia Pontificia ſpirare ampliùs & vivere non potuerint.

PHIALA III. IN FLUMINA ET FONTES

Mundi Beſtiani.

Flumina & Fontes aquarum Orbis Beſtiani ſunt Juriſdictionis Antichriſtianæ Miniſtri & Propugnatores; ſive Eccleſiaſtici, ut Jeſuita aliíque Sacerdotes emiſſarii; ſive etiam Seculares & Laici, ut Pugiles Hiſpanici: quorum utriſque ut à Juriſdictione iſta cauſam, quam Catholicam vocant, procurandi promovendíque mandatur munus, perinde ut Flumina originem ſuam ducunt ex Mari; ità quoque eidem amplificandæ & conſervandæ operam & opes ſuas conferunt, ſicut & Flumina ad Mare revertuntur.

Hæc autem Flumina dum alveos ſuos, quò jam illis ultrà integrum non erat, temere proſequuntur, juſto Dei judicio à tertiæ Phialæ effuſione cruentanda veniunt, quomodo & ipſi Sanctos Dei & Prophetas ejus jam olim cruentâſſent. Nempe ab hac Phiala res Beſtiana in eum ſtatum deventura eſſet, ut Miniſtri & Propugnatores ejus, jam mutatis vicibus, eaſdem cædes perferre cogerentur quibus Sanctos & Prophetas Dei, florente ipſorum dominatione, mactare conſueviſſent: ut diſertè habetur ver. 5, 6. tanquam Clavis parabolæ reſerandæ.

Quod de Emiſſariis Eccleſiaſticis cum aſſeclis ſuis tunc impletum opinor cùm in Anglia noſtra, glorioſæ memoriæ Eliſabethâ regnante, atque etiam poſtea, ſanguinarii iſti authoritatis Beſtianæ procuratores, etiam

latis

Ad Cap. 16.

latis eo nomine legibus, procurationem ſuam ſanguine (quod iis antea nunquam ſic acciderat) luerunt. Nec iſti ſolùm, ſed qui iſtis multò formidabiliores fuerint, cauſæ Beſtianæ Pugiles Hiſpani, ſuam Eccleſiæ Romanæ ditionem armis recuperaturi, ſanguinem ſitientes, ſanguinem, clade præſertim illâ memorabili anni 88 & ſequentium aliquot annorum, plenis hauſtibus biberunt; Anglis & Belgis terrâ marîque calicem potenti Dei manu affatim infundentibus. Adeò ut juſtis & veris Dei in utroſque judiciis, non ab Inſulanis tantummodo ipſis, ſanguinem ſuorum olim effuſum jam ulciſcentibus, ſed etiam à vicinis Gallis ſub cruce adhuc & Altari, imò recenti tum lanienâ anni 1572, gementibus, mirificè acclamatum fuerit. Atque hucuſque Phialæ progreſſæ videntur: reliquæ adhuc effundendæ ſuperſunt.

PHIALA IV. IN SOLEM

Cœli Beſtiani.

SOL quid ſit in Mundo Beſtiano ut indagemus, priùs quid Cælum ibi ſit pervidendum eſt, nè alioquin analogiæ filo deſtituti, nimium quantum à ſcopo aberremus. SOL enim non niſi in Cælo ſibi congruo ponendus aut concipiendus eſt. Cælum igitur Mundi Antichriſtiani vel eſt ipſa Suprema & Univerſalis poteſtas Pontificia, vel omnino quicquid uſpiam eſt ſublimioris regiæque poteſtatis in Mundo iſto Beſtiano, id eſt, in tota Univerſitate Provinciarum Pontificem Romanum pro Capite agnoſcentium. Ità enim in Mundo phyſico totum id quod ſurſum eſt, ſupráque terram & aquas, notione Hebræorum & Spiritûs Sancti Cælum appellatur. Jam in iſthoc Cælo Antichriſtiano (ad naturalis Cœli typum) plurimæ ſunt Stellæ diverſæque magnitudinis, Principes, Duces, Præſules, Reguli, Reges; ſunt & magna Luminaria inſtar Solis & Lunæ: quæ omnia Cæli iſtius motu circumaguntur, ex ejúſque lege viciſſitudines ſuas obeunt. Ex iſtis verò ſplendidiſſimum, & longè omnium quæ in Papali firmamento radiant maximum, Luminare eſt Imperium Germanicum, Domûs Auſtriacæ jam à ducentis plùs minùs annis peculium. Annon igitur hic SOL eſt illius Cœli?

In hunc verò SOLEM Phiala quarta jam jámque eſt effundenda; ut is Cælo Beſtiano revulſus, alióque radians, æſtu & ardore ad blaſphemiam uſque torreat torqueátque Orbis Antichriſtiani indigenas, quos antea calore & jubare ſuo multùm recreare ſolebat.

Atque ecce, dum hæc quæ pridem commentatus eram in lucem edo, fama totum Chriſtianum Orbem, piis gratulantibus, implevit, adveniſſe jam tandem Vindicem Dei ab Aquilone, ut afflictæ & laboranti Germaniæ ſuccurreret, Regem Pium, Felicem, & quaquà venit Victorem, cujus ſucceſſus Aquilæ volatum ſuperent. Annon hic eſt quem Dominus exercituum ad hujuſce Phialæ opus exſequendum deſtinavit? Ità ſpero, & precor animitus. Accingere igitur gladio tuo, REX MAGNE, proſperè procede & regna, propter veritatem, manſuetudinem & juſtitiam; nam deducet te mirabiliter dextra tua.

PHIALA

Ad Cap. 16.

PHIALA V. IN THRONUM BESTIÆ.

PHiala quinta in Thronum ſeu Sedem Beſtiæ effundenda eſt; hoc eſt, in ROMAM ipſam: ubi nullo ampliùs Spiritus Sanctus rem abſcondit figurarum aut allegoriarum velo; fortè propter ingens tunc oriturum Vaticiniis iſtis lumen, hoc quaſi Mercuriali ſigno conſpecto, quo non ultrà erit ambiguum quantum itineris Phialæ jam confecerint, quantúmve adhuc iis conficiendum reſtet.

In Geogr. Arab. כראסי Curiſi (i. Throni ſeu Sedes) quatuor; Roma, Antiochia, Alexandria, & Domus Sanctuarii. כראסי Sedes maxima Roma. Vid. Schindl. p. 879.

Hâc verò URBIS Romanæ clade (quam illam ipſam eſſe puto quæ Teſtium reſurrectionem aſcenſionémque exceptura dicitur, cap. 11. v. 13.) Nomen Pontificium non quidem penitus interibit, ſed gloriâ & ſplendore ſuo deinceps ſpoliabitur, adeò ut linguas mordeant præ dolore: interim tamen, in impœnitentia ſua adhuc obfirmatis animis perſeverantes, doloribus ſuis ad ulteriorem blaſphemiam abutentur.

PHIALA VI. IN EUPHRATEM.

PHiala ſexta effundetur in Flumen illud magnum EUPHRATEM, ut, eo exſiccato, tranſitus paretur novis Beſtiæ hoſtibus ab Oriente venturis, hoc eſt, Iſraelitis ad puram Chriſti fidem cultúmque mirabiliter convertendis, jámque Regni tot ſeculis promiſſi candidatis. Quos Beſtiani forſan, ſic ulciſcente Deo erroris pervicaciam, pro fictitii Antichriſti ſui ex Judæis oriundi exercitu ſint habituri; cujus & nos prodromos eſſe hodiéque aſſerere non dubitant.

Hoſce autem Reges ab ortu Solis, ut dicitur, venturos, ut de Judæis accipiam, duo faciunt. Primò, quòd penultima hæc Phiala eſt; ad quam proinde nisi Judæi converterentur, neceſſariò futurum eſſet ut cum reliquis Chriſti hoſtibus, in quorum numero & ipſi adhuc eſſent, in magno illo univerſalis ultionis & Judicii Die, quam proxima & noviſſima Phiala ſuperinducet, perderentur. Deinde me huc adducit eódem ſpectans Iſaiæ locus, unde hunc Apocalyſeos mutuatum eſſe perquam veriſimile eſt: Et deſolabit (inquit cap. 11. v. 15, 16.) Dominus (malim, Quemadmodum deſolavit Dominus) Linguam Maris Ægypti, & (malim, ità) levabit manum ſuam ſuper FLUMEN (Targ. Flumen Euphratem) in fortitudine Spiritûs ſui, & percutiet eum in ſeptem rivos, ità ut tranſeant per eum calceati. 16. Et erit via reſiduo populo meo, qui relinquetur ab Aſſyriis, (ergò Euphrates intelligitur) ſicut fuit in die illa quâ aſcendit de terra Ægypti. Videat Lector Zach. 10. ver. 10, 11. ibíque Chaldæum Paraphraſtem.

Sed quid tandem Euphratem hunc eſſe, cujus aquæ ſiccabuntur, dicemus? Annon enim juxta literam id accipiendum ſit, præſertim in Iſaiæ loco, aliquatenus dubito. Interim huic Apocalypſeos malim parabolæ & allegoriæ nonnihil, nec tamen adeò multum, aſpergi; ut reliquarum Phialarum analogia de effuſionis objecto hîc quoque ſarta tecta maneat. Habitura enim videtur, non ſecùs ac vetus illa, ſuum quoque Babylon myſtica Euphratem; Imperium, opinor, Ottomanicum, unicum futurum novis iſtis ab Oriente hoſtibus obſtaculum, Beſtiæque ab ea parte munimentum. Neque hujuſmodi Euphratis intellectus abſque Iſaiæ ipſius exemplo erit, qui cap. 8. ver. 7.

Ad Cap. 16. Vide Jer. 47. 2, &c.

ver. 7. ſimili Euphratis parabolâ Aſſyrium exercitum ejuſdem Fluminis accolam expreſſit. Dominus, inquit, faciet ut aſcendant contra iſtos (Syros & Iſraelitas) aquæ illius FLUMINIS (ſic Euphrates κατ' ἐξοχὴν dici ſolet) fortiſſimæ & ampliſſimæ, REX ASSYRIÆ & omnis gloria ejus (Targum, exercitus ejus,) &c. Quidni jam pari ratione Euphrates iſte Phialarum de Turcis acciperetur? non minùs utique quàm Aſſyrii Euphratis, ante exundationem ſuam, accolis, imò ejuſdem tractûs incolis. Hùc non parùm facit, quòd Solutionem ingentis illius & diu vincti ad magnum Flumen Euphratem exercitûs equeſtris, ad ſextæ Tubæ clangorem, cap. 9. ver. 15. de TURCIS indè in Orbem Romanum exundaturis, Tubarum ſeriem reíque concinnam veritatem ſecuti, interpretati ſumus.

Per ſextam igitur Phialam exſiccabitur Diluvium iſthoc Euphratæum. Planè juxta quod c. 11. dicitur, proximè poſt illam URBIS cladem in magno terræ motu futuram (quam ſuperiori Phialæ ibi aptavimus) VÆ ſecundum, id eſt, ſextæ Tubæ plagam, abiturum. Id verò quâ ratione quibúſque tandem authoribus ſit futurum, (utrúmne ab ipſis Judæis (quod forſan Ezechiel innuit cap. 38. & 39.) Terram ſanctam poſtliminiò occupaturis; an ex diſſidio aliquo inteſtino horum reditum commodè præceſſuro; an utroque forſan, ſed ordine & deinceps; an aliâ causâ) fruſtrà conjectando, utpote re adhuc totâ futurâ, laborabimus. Quicquid ſit, hoc obice remoto, viam aliquò eundi parari dicitur novis iſtis ab Oriente Chriſtianis; ídque expeditionem, ut videtur, contra Beſtiam facturis, cujus exitio Phialæ omnes inſerviunt. Unde enim alioquin & quamobrem tanta ab hac ſiccatione trepidatio & pavor Beſtianos, imò Dæmones, ut videtur, ipſos eveſtigio inceſſeret, ut tam horribili & inaudito ad bellum apparatui, qualis hîc deſcribitur, cauſam daret; niſi ipſi jam cum tota cohorte Diabolica extrema quæque à novorum iſtorum Orientis Regum acceſſione metuerent?

PHIALA VII. IN AEREM.

SEptima & noviſſima Phiala in Aerem effunditur, id eſt, in POTESTATEM Aeream, ſeu Satanæ; non Beſtiæ tantummodo, ſed omnium ubicunque terrarum Chriſti Domini noſtri hoſtium Ditiones ſinu ſuo complectentem atque animantem. Ex hac autem ut ſpiritum & vitam jam ab initio duxit Beſtia, ità ejus præcipuè virtute & auſpiciis nitentur noviſſimæ Beſtianorum fortunæ: id quod tum ex tot fœderum auxiliorúmque in Phialæ hujus noviſſimæ bellum apparatu, artibus, ut perhibetur, Diabolicis conciliando, conſtare poteſt; tum ex eo quòd Draco Satanas jam, non ſolùm per Vicarios ſuos, Beſtiam & Pſeudoprophetam, res ſuas in Exercitu iſto Oecumenico conflando ſatagat, ſed ipſe per ſe, tanquam in ultimo Regni ſui diſcrimine, partes quoque proprias & peculiares videatur habiturus [v. 13.] illis præſertim in Belli hujus ſocietatem evocandis, apud quos alioquin Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta, ut nequaquam authoritate, ità nec gratiâ, aut communis forſan periculi repræſentatione, valuiſſent.

In tot igitur hoſtes Aereæ Poteſtatis auſpiciis in unum congregatos, atque Armageddunte quaſi in cavea concluſos, Phiala ſeptima, non humanâ jam ampliùs manu, ſed cœleſti & fulmineâ vindictâ (magni enim illius Diei, & Dei omnipotentis prælium eſt) detonabit. Hâc Beſtiæ excidium penitus conſummabitur; neque cellæ tantùm, ſeu Urbis Babylonis, ut priùs ſub Tuba quinta, quinta, ſed Civitatis ipſius, id eſt, Senatûs populíque Babylonici, ubi ubi poſt Urbis cladem ſuperfuerit; adhæc Regum Civitatúmque omnium eouſque cum idolis & Deaſtris fornicantium, reliquorúmque Sanctam Chriſti Eccleſiam unà oppugnantium tyrannorum, exterminium in ſolidum peragetur. Ad Cap. 16.

DE MILLE ANNIS TUBÆ SEPTIMÆ, CÆTERISQUE EIDEM

contemporantibus rerum mirabilium Vaticiniis.

HIC breviter, Lector, quod ſentio abſolvam, neque in re ob inveterata jamdiu præjudicia incredibili, omniúmque totius Scripturæ propheticæ abſtruſiſſimâ maximéque admirandâ, orationem nimis diducam. In tanto myſterio ſat erit rem generatim tenere, neque ſingulorum rationes curioſiùs inquirere: nè liberiùs fortè quàm par eſt exſpatianti illud Solomonis occinatur, In multitudine verborum non deerit prævaricatio. Ad Cap. 20, &c. Pro. 10. 19.

Rem verò ipſam quod attinet, ea irrefragabili ordinis Apocalyptici ſequelâ, quam antea demonſtravi, nititur; eandémque reliquarum Scripturarum, præſertim Propheticarum, conſenſus mirificè confirmat. Id adeò proximi poſt Apoſtolos ſeculi Chriſtianis fuit perſpectum, ut Juſtinus Martyr non ſeipſum ſolum, ſed, ſi qui eſſent tunc temporis orthodoxæ per omnia ſententiæ Chriſtiani, ſummâ idipſum conſenſione credidiſſe atteſtetur. Dial. cum Tryphone.

Quam tamen primorum Chriſtianorum ſententiam, ſive aſſumentis quibuſdam poſtmodum deformatam, ſive iniquè & perperàm (ut quidem arbitror) intellectam, rejecerunt eorundem poſt unum & alterum ſeculum poſteri: eouſque tamen, priuſquam res confici potuit, progreſſo (quod meritò mireris & doleas) contentionis ardore, ut qui aliter ſeſe ab adverſariæ ſententiæ vi, Apocalypſeos fundamento ſubnixâ, expedire nequîſſent, diviniſſimam, omnibúſque Apoſtolorum diſcipulis proximíſque eorum ſucceſſoribus teſtatam & conſignatam Prophetiam, in dubium potiùs vocare, imò confictis in eam rem præſumptionibus authoritatem ejus apertè & audacter elevare, quàm ſuccumbere & victas manus dare, maluerint: donec tandem commodam MILLENNII iſtius interpretationem (ut ipſi quidem tum rebantur) nacti, incolumi relictâ Apocalypſeos authoritate, ab incepto impietatis crimini haud facilè eximendo, poſteríſque tremendo, quieverunt.

Ego verò, Lector, (nè te diutiùs in veſtibulo diſtineam) ità rem totam expediam, ut à ſententia recepta de Die adventûs Chriſti, excidium Antichriſti eveſtigiò ſecuturo, quàm minimùm fieri poſſit abiiſſe videar. Tu rem, omni ſemoto præjudicio, in Dei timore expendas, mihíque, ſicubi erravero, ex charitatis judicio ignoſcas. Sic igitur habeto.

TUBAM SEPTIMAM cum tota ΧΙΛΙΕΤΗΡΙΔΙ, cæteríſque eódem ſpectantibus oraculis, deſignare MAGNUM illum priſcæ Eccleſiæ Judaicæ, Chriſtóque & Apoſtolis ejus celebratum JUDICII DIEM יום דינא רבא, non breve aliquot (ut vulgò creditur) horarum ſpatiolum, ſed (pro more Hebræorum, Diem pro * tempore uſurpantium) continuatum multorum annorum intervallum, duabúſque Reſurrectionibus, tanquam terminis, circumſcriptum: DIEM, inquam, à particulari primùm

* Apud Prophetas paſſim (ut cùm dicunt, In die illo) & alibi in V.T. In Novo autem Matth. 6. 11. cum Luc. 11.3. Joan. 16. 26. 2 Cor. 6.2. Heb. 3.8,9,13, &c. item cap. 4. deniq; 2 Pet. 3. v. ult. ubi ἡμέρα αἰῶνος.

Ad Cap. 20, &c.

mùm & quaſi matutino Antichriſti cæterorúmq; vivorum Eccleſiæ hoſtium Judicio, per glorioſam Domini noſtri ἐν πυρὶ φλογὸς ἐπιφάνειαν, inchoandum; tandémque poſt MILLE ANNORUM regnum Novæ Jeruſalem, Sponſæ ſuæ ſanctiſſimæ, in his terris indultum, novorúmque adhuc ſuborituorum, DIE magno adveſperaſcente, Satanâque iterum ſoluto, hoſtium παγγενεθρίαν, Univerſali demum omnium mortuorum tum Reſurrectione tum Judicio abſolvendum. Quibus peractis, Impii in Gehennam æternùm cruciandi, Sancti verò in Cœlum cum Chriſto æternùm victuri transferentur.

Hoc nimirum eſt Tempus illud Dei in gentes iræ, mortuorúmque propter Chriſtum cauſæ judicandæ, de quo ad ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem, cap. * 11. Presbyteri ovantes gratulantur, Quòd eo utique Deus daturus eſt mercedem ſervis ſuis Prophetis & Sanctis, & timentibus nomen ejus, parvis & magnis, eóſque perditurus qui perdunt terram.

* Verſ. 18.

Hic eſt DIES ille Judicii & perditionis impiorum hominum, de quo Petrus 2 Epiſt. c. 3. v. 7. locutus, ſtatim ſubjicit, Unum verò hoc non lateat vos, chariſſimi, (nempe quòd Diem modò dixi) unum Diem apud Dominum eſſe ſicut Mille anni, & Mille annos ſicut unus Dies. Quo eodem enimvero Die Apoſtolus cum fratribus & contribulibus ſuis Judæis (ad quos ſcribit) Novam illam rerum faciem futuram exſpectat, de qua * mox inquit, NOVOS VERO COELOS ET NOVAM TERRAM, ſecundùm promiſſum ejus, exſpectamus, in quibus juſtitia habitat. Nota, ſecundùm promiſſum ejus. Ubi autem exſtabat hæc de Cœlis novis & Terra nova Promiſſio (cùm nondum Joannes Apocalypſin vidiſſet) niſi Iſaiæ cap. 65. 17. & 66. 22? Quam certè Promiſſionem qui legerit, mirarer ſi eam alibi quàm in his terris exiſtimaret impletum iri.

* Verſ. 13.

Hoc quoque eſt Regnum illud cum Chriſti Mundum judicaturi ἐπιφανείᾳ conjunctum, de quo Paulus ad Timotheum, 2 Epiſt. cap. 4. v. 1. Obteſtor te coram Domino noſtro Jeſu Chriſto, qui judicaturus eſt vivos & mortuos in APPARITIONE ſua & REGNO ſuo. Nam poſt ultimam ac univerſalem Reſurrectionem, eodem teſte, 1 Cor. 15. Chriſtus Morte, hoſtium ultimo, ſublatâ, Regnum tradet Patri, ut ipſe ſubjiciatur ei qui ei ſubjecit omnia; nedum ut tunc novum aliquod regnum inire dicatur. Quod igitur Regnum neque ante Domini noſtri ἐπιφάνειαν, neque poſt ultimam Reſurrectionem eſt futurum, id neceſſariò inter utrumque eſt concludendum.

Hoc eſt Regnum illud quod Daniel vidit, Filii hominis, expletis CORNU Antichriſtiani temporibus, ſeu finitis temporibus Gentium (Luc. 21. 24.) apparituri in nubibus cæli, quando ei dabitur poteſtas, gloria & regnum; ut omnes populi, nationes & linguæ ei ſerviant: ſeu quando (ut Angelus mox exponit) Regnum, poteſtas, & amplitudo regnorum ſubter omne cælum [N.B.] dabitur populo Sanctorum Altiſſimi. Dan. 7. 13, 14. item 18, 22, 26, 27. Neque enim (ut modò dixi) Regnum hoc poſt ultimam Reſurrectionem eſt futurum; quandoquidem tunc FILIO hominis non regnum ineundum eſt, ſed, Paulo teſte, deponendum & Patri tradendum. De eodem autem Regno utrobique, tum apud Joannem tum apud Danielem, agi, duobus hiſce argumentis evinci poteſt. Primùm, quòd utrumque ab eodem termino, nempe Beſtiæ quartæ ſeu Romanæ exterminio, ineat: illud Danielis, quando Beſtia ſub noviſſimo illo Cornu, oculati regimine agens neci data fuit, & corpus ejus traditum combuſtioni ignis, Dan. 7. 11, 22, 27. illud Apocalypſeos, cùm Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta (improbum illud Cornu apud Danielem os & oculos capitis inſtar habens) apprehenſi ſunt, & ambo vivi miſſi in Stagnum ignis ardens ſulphure. Secundò, ab eodem JUDICII conſeſſu utrique præmiſſo: Alterum enim ab altero mutuatum eſſe, atque in eandem omnino rem intendere, collatis utriuſque deſcriptionis verbis apparebit.

DAN.

Dan. cap. VII.	Apoc. XX. 4. [b]
V. 9. Videbam donec throni [a] positi sunt. Ità enim cum Vulg LXX. & Theod. reddendum; sicque vox רמה seu רמי de solio usurpatur in Targum ad vers. 15. cap. 1. Jeremiæ.	Et vidi thronos.
10. Et Judicium sedit. Id est, Judices ut in magno Judæorum Synedrio, ad cujus normam tota descriptio conformatur.	Et sederunt super eos.
22. Et Judicium datum est Sanctis excelsis. Id est, potestas judicandi. Hinc illud Pauli, Sancti judicabunt mundum.	Et Judicium datum est illis.
Et regnum obtinuerunt Sancti. Scilicet cum Filio hominis, qui veniebat in nubibus cœli.	Et Sancti vixerunt & regnârunt cum Christo Mille annis.

Ad Cap. 20, &c.

a Vide 2. Macc. 14. 21. καὶ προῆλθον, καὶ παρ' ἐχάστε διαφόρως ἔθεσαν δίφρους.

b Cyprianus locum hunc Apocal. nobiscum exponit de mercede martyribus promissa in Die Judicii. Vide eum de Exhortatione Martyrii.

Porrò illud Lectorem monitum velim; Quicquid ferè à Judæis sani, quicquid à Domino in Evangelio, vel uspiam in N. T. ab Apostolis de Die Judicii magni proditum est, id ex hac Danielis Visione haustum esse: nempe Judicium illud igne peragendum, venturum Christum in nubibus cœli, venturum in gloria Patris cum multitudine Angelorum, Sanctos cum eo Mundum judicaturos, Antichristum abolendum ἐν τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ, &c. Ut omnino fidei Evangelicæ de glorioso Christi adventu columnam subductum eant qui, vetustâ Ecclesiæ traditione neglectâ, Prophetiam istam aliò transferre conantur.

Denique, ut finem faciam, Hoc est Regnum illud amplissimum, quod, Daniele interprete, in Statua illa quatuor Regnorum fatidica Nebuchadnesari præmonstratum fuit: Non illud Lapidis superstite adhuc Monarchiarum serie ex monte abscissi, (nam hic præsens Regni Christi status est;) sed Lapidis, iisdem funditus comminutis & deletis, in Montem evasuri atque universum impleturi terrarum Orbem.

Hæc ità, Lector, disserui, non temerè asserui. Rem verò totam Ecclesiæ ex verbo Dei arbitrandam defero: cujus judicio, ut par est, meam de hoc mysterio sententiam lubens submitto.

JUSTINI MARTYRIS
DIALOGO CUM
TRYPHONE JUDÆO
Locus insignis de Millennio Regni Christi emendatus & notis illustratus.

TRYPHO.

DIC autem mihi verum; Vósne locum hunc Jerusalem denuo instaurandum fatemini, & populum vestrum congregatum, atque lætitiâ evectum iri cum Christo simul & Patriarchis & Prophetis & his [a] qui generis nostri sunt, aut etiam eorum qui [b] ante Christi vestri adventum Proselytæ fuere, exspectatis? an, ut videare nos superare in quæstionibus, eò decurris, ut ista fateare?

JUSTINUS.

Non sum eò miseriæ redactus, ô TRYPHO, ut alia quàm sentio loquar. Confessus sum tibi & [c] antea, me quidem & alios complures mecum sentire id, sicut planè scitis, futurum. Πολλοὺς δ' ἄν σὲ καὶ τῶν [οὐ] τῆς καθαρᾶς καὶ εὐσεβοῦς ὄντων Χριστιανῶν γνώμης, τοῦτο μὴ γνωρίζειν, ἐσήμανά σοι. τοὺς γὰρ λεγομένους μὲν Χριστιανοὺς, ὄντας δὲ ἀθέους καὶ ἀσεβεῖς αἱρετιώτας, ὅτι κατὰ πάντα βλάσφημα καὶ ἄθεα καὶ ἀνόητα διδάσκουσι, ἐδήλωσά σοι. i. E contrà verò, eorum [d] qui puræ piæque Christianorum sententiæ [non] sunt, multos hoc non agnoscere tibi significavi: eos enim tibi designabam qui nomine quidem Christiani dicuntur, sunt verò athei & impii hæretici, quòd omnino blasphema & impia & stulta doceant. Ut autem non tantummodo apud vos me hoc dicere sciatis, disputationum harum nostrarum omnium, quoad potero, opus componam: ubi hoc ipsum me profiteri quod coram vobis fateor conscribam. Non enim homines aut humanas doctrinas, sed Deum & disciplinam ab eo traditam consectandam mihi esse statuo.

Nam tametsi cum quibusdam verba communicâstis qui Christiani dicuntur, atque hoc ipsum non confitentur, sed maledicere audent Deo A-

[a] Qui generis nostri sunt] vel erunt; ut ad Judæorum vocationem referatur.

[b] Ante Christi vestri adventum proselytæ] Ità distinguendum & vertendum. Nam interpres Langus non videtur hîc Justini mentem assecutus. Ità enim vertit ac si Trypho quæreret, an hæc omnia ante Christi nostri adventum (nempe secundum) futura essent. Omnino præter authoris mentem.

[c] Antea] Scilicet in hoc ipso cum Tryphone Dialogo; quod tamen jam nusquam comparet, sive consilio, sive fraude eorum quibus Justinus in hac sententia non placuit.

[d] Qui puræ piæque Christianorum sententiæ non sunt] Negatio in nostris libris intercidit. Sed omnino cum negatione legi oportere manifestum est, tum ex verbis proximè per epexegesin subjunctis (subdit enim, se eos intellexisse qui nomine quidem Christiani dicuntur, sunt verò athei & impii hæretici;) tum ex sequenti orationis serie, ubi eadem quæ hîc de contrasentientibus dixerat denuo & quidem satis fusè inculcat, esse nimirum tantùm nomine tenus Christianos, & eodem censu habendos quo Sadducæi & similes hæretici sunt apud Judæos. Hæc tamen, utut manifesta, cùm Interpres non viderit, neque aliàs ex epexegesi quam dixi ullum sensum congruum elicere potuerit, transferendo immutavit. Sed non ægrè feramus unius particulæ jacturam, quâ forsan effectum est nè totus hic locus (utpote sic satis multatus) penitus expungeretur. Non enim nostro primùm ævo nata est ars expurgandi: antiqua res est, quæ olim in hujus dogmatis memoria ex antecessorum Patrum scriptis eliminanda tyrocinium fecit, postquam nimirum per complures annos non exiguo partium servore agitatum, tandem Damasi Pontificis authoritate succubuerat; id quod ex hodiernis Irenæi, Victorini Pictavionensis, & Sulpitii Severi exemplaribus, cuivis manifestum est.

braæ,

braæ, & Deo Iſaaci, & Deo Jacobi; quíque dicunt [a] non eſſe mortuorum reſurrectionem, verùm ſimulatque moriantur [b] animas ipſorum in cœlum recipi: nè tamen exiſtimetis eos eſſe Chriſtianos; perinde ut neque Judæos, ſi quis rectè ſentiat, dicat eſſe Sadducæos, aut perſimiles hæreſes Geniſtarum, & Meriſtarum, & Galilæorum, & Hellenianorum, & Phariſæorum baptiſtarum, (nè cum moleſtia me omnia quæ ſentio dicentem audiatis) ſed Judæos quidem appellari & filios Abraæ, & confitentes labiis Deum, cor autem illorum (ut ipſe Deus clamat) longè abeſſe ab eo. ΕΓΩ ΔΕ, ΚΑΙ ΕΙ ΤΙΝΕΣ ΕΙΣΙΝ ΟΡΘΟΓΝΩΜΟΝΕΣ ΚΑΤΑ ΠΑΝΤΑ ΧΡΙΣΤΙΑΝΟΙ, EGO AUTEM, ET SI QUI SUNT PER OMNIA [c] ORTHODOXÆ SENTENTIÆ CHRISTIANI, & carnis reſurrectionem futuram novimus, & MILLE ANNOS in Jeruſalem inſtauratâ & exornatâ & dilatatâ; ſicut prophetæ Ezechiel & Eſaias & alii promulgant.

Sic namque Eſaias de Mille iſtorum annorum tempore [περὶ τῆς χιλιονταετηρίδος τούτου] loquutus eſt. * Erit enim Cœlum novum & Terra nova, & non recordabuntur priorum, neque eorum illa venient in corda: ſed lætitiam & exſultationem invenient in his quæ ego creo. Quia ecce facio Jeruſalem exſultationem & populum meum lætitiam, &c. ad finem capitis. De illo verò [Nam ſecundùm dies [d] ligni vitæ dies populi mei] ſubjungit. In his verbis Mille annos arcanè deſignari intelligimus. Ut enim Adæ dictum eſt, quo die de ligno comediſſet, eo die moriturum etiam eſſe; ſcimus eum mille annos non impleviſſe. Novimus quoque [pergit] dictum illud, quòd * dies Domini ſit ſicut mille anni, huc pertinere. Et Vir apud nos quidam, cui nomen Joannes, [e] è duodecim Apoſtolis Chriſti unus, in ea quæ illi exhibita eſt Revelatione, Chriſti fideles noſtros Annos mille Hieroſolymis peracturos eſſe prophetavit; ac poſtea univerſalem & (ut ſemel dicam) ſempiternam omnium unanimiter ſimul Reſurrectionem, & Judicium futurum: id quod & Dominus noſter dixit, quòd nuptum neque daturi, neque accepturi, ſed Angelis æquales futuri ſint; utpote filii Dei reſurrectionis. Apud nos enim huc uſque etiam prophetica exſtant dona, &c. *

[a] Non eſſe mortuorum reſurrectionem] Baſilidiani, Valentiniani, Saturniniani, Ophita, Carpocratiani, Colabarſiani, Cerdoniani, Marcionitæ, Apellitæ negárunt reſurrectionem carnis; iidémque omnes, cum Menandrianis & Cerinthianis, blaſphemârunt Deum Legis & Prophetarum, ſupremum eum Deum fuiſſe negantes, ſed aut Angelum, eúmque malum & turbulentum, aut Virtutem neſcio quam inferiorem dicentes; Chriſtúmque homines ab ejus poteſtate liberatum veniſſe. Atque hinc videre eſt cur Tertullianus iſthoc de Millenario dogma aſſerat contra Marcionitas; itémq; Irenæus Tract. contra omnes hæreſes. Quamvis enim id negare hæreſis non fuerit, (cùm de modo & qualitate ſecundi adventûs Chriſti quæſtio ſit, non de re ipſa; illis tamen temporibus videtur ab hæreticis quos dixi præcipuè, ſi non ſolis, negatum fuiſſe, iáque privatam ob cauſam; nè ſcilicet hoc admiſſo, confiterentur & carnis reſurrectionem, & Deum Legis & Prophetarum eſſe Patrem Domini noſtri Jeſu Chriſti.

[b] Animas ipſorum in cœlum recipi] Plerique enim * Patrum ſic cenſuere, Animas juſtorum in Paradiſo quodam, ſeu loco felicitatis & refrigerii, requieſcere, non tamen in cœlo conſummari ante reſurrectionem. Nobiſtamen hîc licebit aliter opinari.

[c] Orthodoxæ ſententiæ Chriſtiani] Si primarios Fidei Articulos excipias, neſcio an ſimile Teſtimonium afferri poſſit de ullo dogmate Chriſtiano. Magnum hoc præjudicium eſt, ſeculo ab Apoſtolis proximo omnes Orthodoxos ità ſenſiſſe. Factus enim eſt Juſtinus ex Philoſopho Chriſtianus annis circiter triginta à morte Joannis Apoſtoli; quo tempore plùs quàm veriſimile eſt, plures adhuc ſuperſtites fuiſſe qui ipſos Apoſtolos docentes audiverant. * Iſa. 65. 17.

[d] Ligni vitæ] In Hebræo eſt ſimpliciter עֵץ, at Septuag. τῆς ξύλου τῆς ζωῆς· quibus etiam ſuffragatur Chaldæus paraphraſtes, ut hinc appareat, Traditionem de Arbore vitæ hoc loco intelligenda ſatis antiquam eſſe. Sítne verò ſolida an ſecùs, alius judicet. Interim videtur Juſtinus exiſtimâſſe, Vitam ligni vitæ, ſeu hominis in ſtatu Paradiſi, futuram fuiſſe Mille annorum; id eſt, tamdiu hominem, ſi non peccâſſet, victurum fuiſſe in hoc mundo, poſtea in beatiorem locum & conditionem transferendum. Jam autem, quòd peccâſſet Adam de fructu vetito comedendo, neque ipſum, neque ex poſteris ejus aliquem qui maximè longævus fuerit, iſtum annorum numerum attigiſſe, ſed intra magnum illum diem mortuum eſſe. * 2 Pet. 3. 8.

[e] E duodecim Apoſtolis Chriſti unus] Hoc imprimis obſervandum contra Dionyſium Alexandrinum & aſſeclas ejus Chiliomaſtigas, qui, controverſiâ illâ circa finem ſeculi tertii fervente, ut Apocalypſeos quâ premebantur authoritatem aliqua ex parte imminuerent, eam non Joanni Apoſtolo, ſed alii neſcio cui Joanni attributam volebant; Juſtini, Irenæi & omnium Patrum anteceſſorum ſuorum traditione reclamante.

* In eodem Dial. Juſt. M. Dico τὰς μὲν τῶν εὐσεβῶν [ψυχὰς] ἐν κρείττονι τοι χώρῳ μένειν, τὰς δὲ ἀδίκους καὶ πονηρὰς ἐν χείρονι, τὸν τῆς κρίσεως ἐνδεχομένας χρόνον ποτέ.

* Adde quæ in eodem Dialogo habentur de loco Eſaiæ c. 66. à v. 5. In quibus verbis (inquit) ἐστὶ τὸ μυστήριον πάλιν τῆς γενέσεως ἡμῶν, καὶ ἁπλῶς πάντων τῶν τὸν Χριστὸν ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ φανήσασθαι προσδοκώντων, καὶ δι' ἔργων ἐναρετῶν ἑαυτῷ παιδαζόντων.

Locus alius ibidem eódem ſpectans.

[Poſt ſermonem de Magno die Judicii (quem τῷ μεγάλῳ ἡμέραν τῆς κρίσεως vocat) quando Judæi plangerent Chriſtum quem pupugerunt, ipſéque Chriſtus, inauguratus ſecundùm ordinem Melchizedec, judex futurus eſſet vivorum & mortuorum, ſtatim ſubjicit,]

In cujus ſecundo adventu, nè exiſtimetis Eſaiam aut alios Prophetas admonere ut * ſacrificia ſanguinis aut libationum ſuper altari offerantur, ſed veræ atque ſpirituales laudes & gratiarum actiones.

*Sacrificia ſanguinis, &c.] Fidem tuam, Hieronyme!

qui cum Dionyſio tuo Alexandrino Millenariorum dogmati promiſcuè affingitis Circumciſionis injuriam, Victimarum ſanguinem, cæteráſque Legis ceremonias poſtliminiò inſtaurandas. Scilicet quæ Judæi, aut fortè ex Judaiſmo hæretici (ſi modò vera ſint quæ ex Gaio neſcio quo de Cerintho affertis) de ſuo Millenario ſomniârunt, vos Chriſtianis odiosè impingitis. Hoccine verò candorem veſtrum decuit? Imò tu, Hieronyme, vel ipſo judice, prodis criminationem iſtam falſam eſſe. Sic enim ſcribis in Jeremiam, cap. 19. v. 10. Poſt captivitatem quæ ſub Veſpaſiano & Tito, & poſtea accidit ſub Hadriano, uſque ad conſummationem ſeculi ruinæ Hieruſalem permanſuræ ſunt: quanquam ſibi Judæi auream atque gemmatam Hieruſalem reſtituendam putent; ruſúſque victimas & ſacrificia, & conjugia ſanctorum, & regnum in terris Domini Salvatoris: quæ licèt non ſequamur, damnare tamen non poſſumus; quia multi virorum Eccleſiaſticorum & Martyrum iſta dixerunt. Unuſquiſque in ſuo ſenſu abundet, & Domini cuncta judicio reſerventur. Hæc verba tua ſunt, Hieronyme. Sed dic ſodes, An viri iſti Eccleſiaſtici & Martyres ſanctiſſimi dixerunt, circumciſionem & victimas in regno illo Chriſti reſtituendas? cave dixeris. Aut ſi ità credidiſſe ſcires, annon ſine cunctatione damnares? Quod autem Cerinthum attinet, ſi quid hujuſmodi erraverit, ex Judaiſmo attulit (Judæus enim fuit;) Chriſtianis non imputandum. Mirum tamen eſt de hac Cerinthi hæreſi apud Irenæum & Tertullianum nè γρῦ quidem reperiri, qui tamen exproſeſſo de erroribus ejus ſcripſerunt. Totum hoc nititur fide cujuſdam Gaii, hominis obſcuri, quem neſcio an ex Alogorum hæreticorum numero fuerit, quos teſtatur Epiphanius tam Joannis Evangelium quàm Apocalypſin Cerintho adſcripſiſſe. Certè eodem tempore vixit: & Apocalypſin quod attinet, ab eorum ſententia non abhorruiſſe, quicunque verba ejus apud Euſebium haud oſcitanter legeris, fatebitur.

Placita

Placita Doctorum Hebræorum

DE

MAGNO DIE JUDICII,

ET REGNO MESSIÆ TUNC FUTURO.

Septimum Millenarium ab universa Cabbalistarum Schola vocari Magnum diem Judicii, asserit Carpentarius Com. in Alcinoum Platonis pag. 322. quòd tunc arbitrentur (inquit ille) Deum cunctorum animas judicaturum. Cabbalistarum nomine innuit (ni fallor) Doctores Talmudicos; apud quos, non uno authore, traditionem istam celebrari compertum est. Ità enim legitur in Gemara Sanhedrin, Perek Chelek. אמר רב קטינא שית אלפי שנה הוי עלמא וחד חריב שנאמר ונשגב יהוה לבדו ביום ההוא. Dixit R. Ketina, Sex annorum millibus stat mundus, & uno vastabitur; de quo dicitur, Et exaltabitur Dominus solus die illo. Vastationem verò intelligit quæ futura est per ignem, quo mundus ut aurum excoctus repurgabitur, atque à servitute maledictionis, sub qua nunc propter hominis peccatum ingemiscit, asseretur in libertatem gloriæ filiorum Dei, Rom. 8. Sequitur paulò pòst, תניא כותיה דרב קטינא כשם שהשביעית משמטת שנה לשבעה שנים כך העולם משמט אלף שנים לשבעת אלפים שנה שנאמר ונשגב ה' לבדו ביום ההוא ואומר מזמור שיר ליום השבת יום שכולו שבת ואומר כי אלף שנים בעיניך כיום אתמול: Id est, Traditio adstipulatur R. Ketina: Sicut è septenis annis septimus quisque Annus remissionis est; ità è septem millibus annorum mundi, septimus millenarius millenarius remissionis erit, quemadmodum dicitur, Et exaltabitur Dominus solus die illo. Dicitur item (Psal. 92.) Psalmus canticum de die Sabbati; id est, de die qui totus quies est. Dicitur etiam (Psal. 90.) Nam mille anni in oculis tuis velut dies hesternus. Isai. cap. 2. vers. 11, 17.

Hîc duo notet lector. Primum, veteres Judæos prophetiam illam Isaiæ cap. 2. ubi verba illa [Et exaltabitur Dominus solus Die illo] bis habentur, de Die Judicii magni & Christi regno accepisse: à quorum vestigiis nec posteriores Rabbini abeunt. ביום ההוא הוא יום הדין, inquit R. Schelomo, In die illo, id est, in Die Judicii. Item, בקומו Cùm surrexerit ad conterendum terram, id est, inquit, ליום הדין in Die Judicii, quo conteret Dominus impios terræ. Rabbi David Kimchi, ביום ההוא בימות המשיח כשיעשה האל משפט ברשעים, In die illo, id est, in diebus Messiæ, quando exsequetur Deus judicium in improbos. Idem, Et exaltabitur Dominus solus in Die illo; perinde est ac si dixerat, והיה יהוה למלך לכל הארץ, Et erit Dominus Rex super omnem terram. Alterum notandum est, Titulum Psalmi 92, ליום השבת, à Magistris istis ad Psalmi argumentum spectare putatum, atque de Mille annorum Sabbatismo intelligi debere.

Jam verò ex istis palàm esse arbitror, priscos Judæos Diem quem Judicii nominârunt millennio definiisse. id quod ampliùs confirmatur ex Midrasch tehillim, super illud Psal. 90. 15. LÆTIFICA NOS PRO DIE-

DIEBUS (vel ſecundùm dies) QUIBUS AFFLIXISTI NOS: videlicet (inquit) per Babyloniam, per Græciam, & per Romanos, idque in diebus Meſſiæ. Et quot ſunt dies Meſſiæ? R. Jehoſuas dixit, quòd ſunt DUO MILLIA annorum; ſicut dictum eſt, SECUNDUM DIES [כימות] QUIBUS NOS HUMILIASTI, id eſt, ſecundùm duos Dies. DIES ENIM UNA DEI SANCTI ET BENEDICTI SUNT MILLE ANNI; juxta illud, QUONIAM MILLE ANNI IN OCULIS TUIS TANQUAM DIES HESTERNA. Dixerunt etiam Magiſtri, quòd ſeculum futurum (ἐν οἷς ἔρχομένῃ τῇ μελλούσῃ, Heb. 2. 5.) DIES MESSIÆ erit una. Deus enim ſanctus & benedictus in futuro [in ſeculo futuro] faciet ei Diem unam, de qua dictum eſt (Zach. cap. 14.) ET ERIT DIES UNA, ET IPSA EST NOTA DEO, NON DIES NEQUE NOX; ET ERIT, AD TEMPUS VESPERI ERIT LUX. Hæc dies eſt SECULUM FUTURUM & vivificatio mortuorum.

Quoto verò millenario Dies iſta futura eſſet, de eo inter ipſos non convenit; neque enim omnibus illa de ſeptimo millenario ſententia arriſit. Fuerunt, nec minoris authoritatis, qui de ſexto cenſuerunt, ut Domus Eliæ, cujus traditio de millennio Judicii magni exſtat in hæc verba; תני דבית אליהו צדיקים שעתיד הקדוש בריך הוא להחיותן אינן חוזרין לעפרם ואם תאמר אותן אלף שנים שעתיד הקדוש בריך הוא לחדש בהן את עולמו שנאמר ונשגב ה' לבדו ביום ההוא צדיקין מה הן עושין &c. id eſt, Traditio Domûs Eliæ. Juſti quos reſuſcitabit Deus (nempe reſurrectione * primâ) non redigentur iterum in pulverem. Si quæras autem, MILLE ANNIS iſtis quibus Deus Sanctus benedictus renovaturus eſt mundum ſuum, de quo dicitur, ET DOMINUS SOLUS EXALTABITUR DIE ILLO, quid juſtis futurum ſit; ſciendum, quòd Deus ſanctus benedictus dabit illis alas quaſi aquilarum, ut volent ſuper facie aquarum: unde dicitur [Pſal. 46. 3.] Propterea non percellemur cùm mutabitur terra. At fortè, inquies, Erit ipſis afflictioni: Sed occurrit illud [Iſai. 40. 31.] Exſpectantibus Dominum innovabuntur vires, efferentur alâ inſtar aquilarum.

* Quam magiſtri agnoſcunt paſſim, necnon author lib. Sapientiæ cap. 3. verſ. 7, 8.

Idem tamen Mundum non niſi ſex annorum millibus duraturum ſtatuit. Ità enim habet traditio ejus; ששת אלפים שנה הוי עלמא שני אלפים תוהו שני אלפים תורה שני אלפים ימות המשיח: id eſt, Sex mille annos durat mundus: Bis mille annis inanitas; bis mille annis Lex; denique bis mille annis Dies Chriſti. Quorum idcirco millenariorum alter, ex ejus ſententia, Dies ille magnus futurus erat de quo dicitur, Et exaltabitur Dominus ſolus die illo.

Eadem fuit ſententia R. Aſche F. R. Abbæ, ut ibidem expreſsè dicitur; nempe, ex ſententia R. Chanan fil. Thahaliphæ אין הקדוש בריך הוא מחדש את עולמו אלא לאחר שבעת אלפים שנה, non renovaturum Deum ſanctum benedictum Mundum ſuum, niſi ad ſeptimum millenarium: R. Aſche verò dixiſſe, id futurum לאחר חמשת אלפים שנה poſt quintum millenarium.

Quid porrò amplius de Meſſiæ regno in magno illo Die futuro olim cenſuerint Judæorum Magiſtri, ex iis quæ nunc ſubjiciam aliquatenus cognoſcere licet.

In capitulis magni Rabbi Eliezar (qui vixit paulò poſt Templum ſecundum) cap. 34. ità dicitur; חי אני נאם יהוה שאני מעמיד אתכם לעתיד לבא בתחיית המתים ומרבץ אתכם עם כל ישראל לארץ ישראל Hoc eſt, Vivo ego, dicit Dominus, quòd ſuſcitabo vos in tempore futuro, in Reſurrectione mortuorum, & congregabo vos cum univerſo Iſrael in terram Iſrael. Petrus Galat. lib. 12. cap. 1.

Sic quoque Paraphraſtes Jonathan (qui ante Chriſtum vixit) ad 14 cap. Hoſeæ verſ. 8. Congregabuntur de medio captivitatis ſuæ, habitabunt in umbra CHRISTI ſui, & vivent mortui, accreſcétque bonum in terra, necnon erit memo- memoriale bonitatis eorum fructificans & indeficiens, juxtà ac memoria clangoris Tubarum ſuper vino veteri quod libari ſolet in Sanctuario.

Targum Pſalm. 50. 3. Dicent juſti ביום דינא רבא in Die Judicii magni, Veniet Deus noſter, & non ſilebit, ut faciat ultionem populi ſui.

R. Saadias (ex iis Doctoribus quos הגאונים, id eſt eximios, vocant) ad illud Danielis cap. 7. v. 10. Et Judicium ſedit & libri aperti ſunt, &c. הוא יום הדין נכתיב כי הנה יום בא בוער כתנור וכתיב וינבה יהוה צבאות במשפט וכתיב לכן חכו לי נאם יהוה הוא יום הגדול בעת יקום אלוה למשפט, i. Iſte eſt DIES JUDICII, ſicut ſcriptum eſt, * ECCE DIES VENIT ARDENS TANQUAM CLIBANUS; item, * ET EXALTABITUR DOMINUS EXERCITUUM IN JUDICIO; item, * QUAPROPTER EXSPECTATE ME, DIXIT DOMINUS. Ille eſt Dies magnus, quo tempore exſurget Deus ad judicium. Et paulò pòſt; ודע כי דינא יתיב וספרין פתיחו אשר ביארתי למעלה יום דין ויום פקוד הוא יום העתיד לדרוש כל מעשה בני אדם החיים והמתים, i. Et ſcito quòd [JUDICIUM SEDIT ET LIBRI APERTI SUNT,] quod expoſui ſuprà de DIE JUDICII & Die * viſitationis, ſit Dies futurus, quo inquiretur in omne opus filiorum hominis, tam vivorum quàm mortuorum. Idem ad v. 18. Suſcipient regnum Sancti Dei altiſſimi. על אשר ימרדו ישראל ביהוה תנטל מהם מלכותם ותנתן לאלו ארבע מלכיות וירשו המלכות בעולם הזה וינלו ישראל וישתעבדו תחתם עד העולם הבא עד שימלוך משיח: i. Propterea quòd rebellârunt Iſraelitæ contra Dominum, anferetur ab illis regnum ipſorum, & dabitur hiſce quatuor Monarchiis, quæ poſſidebunt regnum in hoc ſeculo & captivum ducent & ſubjugabunt ſibi Iſraelem uſque ad SECULUM FUTURUM, donec regnaverit MESSIAH.

* Mal. 4. 1.
* Iſai. 5. 16.
* Zeph. 3. 8.
* Sapient. cap. 3. 7, & 13. Confer 1 Pet. 2. 12. & cap. 5. 6. juxta Vulg. & quædam exempl. Græca.

Confer Luc. 21. 24, &c. ſcilicet, Judæi captivi ducentur in omnes gentes, & Jeruſalem calcabitur à Gentibus, uſque dum impleantur tempora gentium. Tunc videbunt Filium hominis venientem in nube, &c. Et illud Tertulliani adverſ. Marcionem lib. 5. cap. 10. Chriſtus præputiati Sacerdotii Pontifex, cognituram ſe quandoque Circumciſionem & Abrahæ gentem, cùm ultimò advenerit, acceptatione & benedictione dignabitur.

Huic conſentaneum eſt quod in libro Berachoth cap. מאימתי קורין (fide Petri Galatini) ità legitur; Dixit Ben Zuma, Futurum eſt ut Iſrael non faciat memoriam exitûs ex Ægypto in FUTURO SECULO & in diebus Meſſiæ. Et quid eſt hujus rei probatio? Quod ſcriptum eſt [Jerem. 23.] ECCE DIES VENIUNT, ET NON DICENT ULTRA, VIVIT DOMINUS QUI ASCENDERE FECIT FILIOS ISRAEL DE TERRA ÆGYPTI, &c. Dixerunt Sapientes, Non quòd evellendum eſſet nomen Ægypti de loco ſuo, ſed quòd mirabilia quæ fient in diebus Regnorum (i. quando Meſſias regna mundi deſtruet) erunt principale עקר, & Ægyptus erit טפלה, i. acceſſorium. Lib. 11. c. 1.

Ex his & ſimilibus diſcat Lector cur Hieronymus Millenariis toties Judaiſmum exprobret; quod quidem adeò ſtudiosè facit, ut hoc ei palmarium argumentum fuiſſe videatur quo dogma illud erroris convincat. Sed utut de dogmate ſit, perperámne ſenſerint Patres iſti, an ſecus; ſanè cum Judæis ſentire non ſemper in vitio ponendum eſt. Sin aliter, quin igitur Seculum futurum, Gehennam, Paradiſum quoque explodimus? annon enim hæc cum Judæis communia tenemus Chriſtiani? Numquid non nomina ipſa (ſicut & Regni cælorum, & Diei Judicii) à Judæorum Magiſtris tradita accepimus? Ubi enim illa in Veteris Teſtamenti Canone comparent, quæ tamen apud Doctores Judæorum frequentiſſima ſunt?

Præterea, quis jam, veterum Hebræorum dogmate de Millennio Diei Judicii audito, non ſtatim ſe ad credendum ſolicitari ſentiat, Apoſtolum Petrum Petrum apud eoſdem (nam utraque Epiſtola ad Judæos data eſt) de Die Judicii differentem, & continuò ad ejus mentionem ſubjicientem, Hoc vos non lateat, Unum Diem apud Dominum eſſe ſicut mille anni, Magiſtrorum ea de re traditionem confirmare voluiſſe? præſertim cùm verba illa non ex Pſalmo, (ut vulgò perſuaſum eſt) ſed ex formula Judæorum de Die illo loquentium tritâ mutuata eſſe videantur. Imò ampliùs cogitabit, Niſi Chriſtus Dominus & Apoſtoli ejus nomen DIEI JUDICII à Judæorum Magiſtris profectum, eâdem cum ipſis mente frequentâſſent, quorſum id nè verbulo quidem uſpiam indicârint? Annon enim periculi plena res eſt, imò proclivis ad fallendum via, errantium verba & phraſes inter docendum adhibere, abſque omni cautione aut diſſimilis ſenſûs indicio?

His ità ſe habentibus, viris doctis & de hujuſmodi in Theologia myſteriis judicare valentibus expendendum relinquo, annon hæc optima & facillima cum Judæis agendi ratio eſſet; non ut clariſſimæ illæ de rebus in ſecundo & glorioſo Chriſti adventu Prophetiæ ad primum torqueantur, verùm ut illis perſuadeatur, nullum alium Meſſiam ipſis exſpectandum eſſe qui iſta omnia, mutatis nempe mutandis, (neque enim hîc Chriſtiano cum Judæis penitus, ſed ad fidei Chriſtianæ libellam ſentiendum) impleret, quàm Jeſum illum Nazarenum, quem Majores ipſorum crucifixerunt: id quod Apocalypſis paſſim támque ſtudiosè inculcat. Ecce, (inquit ſtatim ab initio) [JESUS CHRISTUS, primogenitus ille ex mortuis, qui dilexit nos & lavit nos à peccatis noſtris per ſanguinem ſuum] venit cum nubibus, & videbit eum omnis oculus, etiam qui eum transfixerunt, & plangent coram eo omnes tribus terræ. Ego ſum A & Ω, principium & finis, dicit Dominus, qui eſt & qui erat & qui venturus eſt, &c. Item, dum paſſim Regnum illud auguſtum AGNO, id eſt occiſo illi Jeſu, tribuit: ut c. 7. de Turba palmifera, AGNUS paſcet eos, &c. cap. 17. 14. AGNUS vincet illos, quia Dominus dominantium & Rex regum eſt; cap. 19. 7. Venerunt nuptiæ AGNI, &c. cap. 21. 9. de Nova Jeruſalem, Oſtendam tibi Sponſam AGNI, &c. & ver. 23. Lucerna ejus eſt AGNUS, &c. Dum enim nos clariſſimas illas de rebus in ſecundo Chriſti adventu Prophetias ad primum torquemus, Judæi nos deriſui habent, & in infidelitate ſua magìs obfirmantur.

Hanc Judæos convertendi rationem, niſi nimiùm fallor, ſecutus eſt Apoſtolus Petrus, Act. 3. v. 19, &c. Reſipiſcite, inquit, & convertimini, ad delenda peccata veſtra; ut * veniant tempora Refrigerii à facie Domini; Et mittat priùs prædicatum vobis JESUM CHRISTUM; Quem oportet quidem cælos capere ad tempora Reſtitutionis omnium, de quibus loquutus eſt Deus à ſeculo per os omnium ſanctorum ſuorum Prophetarum.

* ὅπως ἂν ἔλθωσι. Vid. Iren. l. 3. c. 12. Tertull. lib. de Reſurr. carnis, & Syrum.

1 Theſſ. 5. 21.

OMNIA PROBATE; QUOD BONUM EST TENETE.

Τῷ Κυρίῳ καὶ Σωτῆρι ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστῷ δόξα καὶ νῦν καὶ εἰς ἡμέραν αἰῶνος. Ἀμήν.

A P-

APPENDIX
AD
CLAVEM
&
COMMENTATIONES APOCALYPTICAS.

Danielis Laweni

STRICTURÆ

In partem Primam

CLAVIS APOCALYPTICÆ.

Duobus Præcognitis (quorum unum est Nominis, alterum Rei) valere jußis, video quatuor in primis in toto hoc discursu chronologico præsupponi quæ censuram merentur.

Primum, Quòd Liber ille clausus & obsignatus sit hic ipse Liber Apocalypseos. Hanc ego opinionem ut erroneam validißimis argumentis confodi in Notationibus meis proœmialibus ad Visionem secundam. Demonstravi insuper per eundem illum librum nullum alium intelligi posse, quàm librum veterum Prophetarum clausum & obsignatum cæcis ac obstinatis Judæis, durante hâc eorum reprobatione; juxta id quod prædictum erat ab Esaia cap. 29. v. 11. Et erit vobis visio omnium sicut verba libri signati.

Secundum, Quòd nullæ fiant futurorum prædictiones ante reserationem Sigilli primi. At contrarium liquet ex ipso capite quarto, & quinto, quæ Sigillum primum antecedunt, & visiones continent non præparationis, sed prædictionis: multa enim in illis futura prædici constat ex Græcis codicibus; Requiem non habebunt; cùm dederint; procident, & adorabunt; projicient coronas, &c. in quibus omnino servanda est temporis proprietas: In primis verò manifesta in futurum prophetia est in illis verbis Seniorum Apoc. 5. 10. Regnabimus super terram.

Tertium, Quòd Tubæ necessariam habeant connexionem cum Sigillo septimo. Sed hoc partim est impossibile, partim absurdum. Impossibile, Quia Sigillum sextum tempus est secundi adventûs; uti apparet ex illis verbis, quoniam veniet dies magnus iræ ejus, Apoc. 6. 17. Græcè est ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ μεγάλη, ille dies, ille magnus, id est, notus ac celebris; hanc enim Emphasin habet articulus duplicatus: item ex prognosticis illius adventûs, Matt. 24. 29. quæ hoc Sigillo repetuntur: At Tubæ saltem sex priores secundum Domini adventum præcedunt. Absurdum, Quia Turba palmifera gaudentium in fine capitis septimi incidit, ipso Synchronistâ confitente, in Tubam novißimam. Quomodo ergò cum ea connectuntur sex Tubæ priores? quæ tamen necesse est fieri, si necessariam habeant connexionem cum Sigillo septimo.

Quartum, Quòd quadraginta duo illi menses sint tota duratio sex Tubarum. Atqui menses illi rejiciuntur in finem sextæ, Apoc. 11. 2. Quomodo ergò se extendunt usque ad initium Tubæ primæ? Quemadmodum Sigillorum non est turbanda series; sic nec Tubarum: Turbatur autem cùm eventus posteriorum in priores transfunduntur. Et certum est menses illos propriè & secundùm literam accipiendos esse de mensibus dierum, non annorum; ut qui propterea in dies resolvantur, Apoc. 11. 3. nemo autem facilè dicet tempus sex priorum tubarum exhauriri spatio quadraginta duorum mensium propriè dictorum.

His præmißis, venio ad ipsos Synchronismos: quorum primus est Muli-eris in Eremo agentis, Bestiæ septicipitis instauratæ, Atrii cum civitate sancta calcati, Testium interea prophetantium in sacco.

In quo primùm noto, Bestiam diu fuisse Septicipitem antequam fuit instaurata; ac proinde non bene hæc conjungi tanquam synchrona. Antecedens ex eo liquet, quòd Joannes viderit hanc Bestiam è mari ascendentem sub capite suo septimo, Apoc. 13. 1. Nam sextum caput ipsius tempore exstabat, Apoc. 17. 10. Et grassata est Bestia aliquandiu sub septimo illo capite antequam plagam gladii accepit; ac aliquandiu sub accepta illa plaga gemuit antequam ex ea revixit, quæ hîc dicitur illius instauratio. Vide Apoc. 13. 3. Septiceps ergò fuit ante instaurationem.

Secundò, Instauratio Bestiæ initium quidem sumit cum initio peregrinationis Mulieris in deserto; ipsa tamen longiùs perduravit: nam post exspiratum tempus peregrinationis eremiticæ, Bestia instaurata non nisi certis gradibus & tractu temporis declinavit ad interitum, donec tandem totaliter ac finaliter exstirpata fuit ad effusionem Phialæ septimæ: Ortu itaque contemporant, non interitu.

Tertiò, Quadraginta duo menses non sunt tota duratio regni Bestiæ instauratæ, nedum Septicipitis; sed tantùm regni sævissimi, & novissimæ persecutionis. Potestas enim faciendi menses quadraginta duos, Apoc. 13. 5. non est potestas regnandi simpliciter, sed potestas grassandi pro libitu, & persequendi sanctos: ut constat ex quibusdam Græcis exemplaribus, quæ legunt πολεμῳ, i.e. faciendi bellum.

Quartò, Atrium à Gentibus calcatum esse nescio unde hauserit Synchronista, cùm nulla ejus mentio fiat Apoc. 11. 2. Dicitur quidem Atrium exterius Gentibus esse datum, sed datum esse ad conculcandum non dicitur. Alibi per Atrium illud exterius intelligit Atrium Israelis; quod atrium erat exterius respectu atrii sacerdotum, quod erat interius. Sed atrium Israelis comprehenditur sub illis verbis, Et adorantes in eo. Præter illud atrium Israelis, erat adhuc aliud atrium Gentium, in quod ingrediebantur immundi Judæi & Gentes alienigenæ: & hoc est Atrium exterius, quod nolit mensurari angelus, quia nimirum est Atrium Gentium, & non Israelis.

Quintò, Prophetia Testium, licèt initium sumat cum instauratione Bestiæ, non tamen cum eadem terminatur: nam Bestia duos illos Testes vincet & occidet, ac cadaveribus eorum aliquandiu insultabit, Apoc. 11. 7, 9. Imò nè quidem cum exitu Tubæ sextæ præcisè terminantur tempora Bestiæ; sed potiùs cum initio & progressu septimæ, in quam incidit effusio Phialarum, ut suo loco demonstrabitur. Aliud enim est Urbem decimâ sui parte concuti, Apoc. 11. 13. aliud verò Bestiam finaliter interire: quamvis certus sim illum qualemcunque Urbis casum certissimum fore prænuncium ruinæ statim certis gradibus secuturæ sub Tuba septima; sub qua mysterium Dei de restitutione regni Israelis, & eversionis omnium regnorum adversantium, consummabitur, Apoc. 10. 7.

Secundus Synchronismus est Bestiæ Bicornis (quæ & Pseudopropheta) cum Bestia Septicipite (quæ & Imago Bestiæ dicitur.)

At Bestia Bicornis ortu posterior est Bestiâ Septicipite: unde hæc prior appellatur, Apoc. 13. 12. Et nata demum videtur circa instaurationem illius Bestiæ prioris; utpote quæ fecerit adorare bestiam primam, cujus curata est plaga, Apoc. 13. 12.

Deinde Bestiam Bicornem conditorem seu instauratorem esse Bestiæ Septicipitis, nescio unde colligat author. Illius certè nec conditor nec instaurator est. Non conditor, quia illa tempore prior est, hæc posterior. Non instaurator, quia opus illud disertè attribuitur Draconi, qui hoc nomine simul cum ipsa adoratur, Apocal. 13. 4. Bestia quidem Bicornis cornis Beſtiæ Septicipiti imaginem poſuit, ſed Beſtiæ inſtauratæ, cujus curata erat plaga, Apoc. 13. 14.

Præterea, Beſtiam Septicipitem nomine Imaginis beſtiæ aliàs ſignari ſolitam, merum eſt Synchroniſtæ ſomnium: aliud enim Beſtia eſt, aliud Imago beſtiæ; & hæc paſſim ab illa diſtinguitur, Beſtia & Imago ejus. At inquit, Nomine beſtiæ, ubi cum beſtia imago beſtiæ componitur, intelligitur Beſtia Bicornis. Fallitur, ut liquidò conſtat ex eo ipſo loco quem citavit, Apoc. 14. 9. Si quis adoraverit beſtiam & imaginem ejus; Beſtiam intellige Septicipitem, quam beſtia Bicornis fecit adorari, faciendo ei imaginem, quam adorari voluit, Apoc. 13. 15. ſic ut adoratio cultus ſit & honor conferendus beſtiæ Septicipiti, non Bicorni. Opinionem tamen ſuam probare nititur tribus argumentis.

Primò, Quia, juxta Græcorum codicum lectionem, Imago beſtiæ, quam animavit Pſeudopropheta, facit ut quicunque non adorârint imaginem beſtiæ occidantur.

Secundò, Quia ubi Beſtia ſimul adeſt cum Pſeudopropheta, Imago beſtiæ non comparet.

Tertiò, Quia ejuſdem dicitur Imago beſtiæ cujus eſt nomen numerúſque: At nomen numerúſque non alterius ſunt quàm beſtiæ Bicornis.

Verùm hæc omnia inepta ſunt & frivola. Imagini beſtiæ adſcribitur quod Pſeudopropheta fecit, illius imaginis author, Metonymiâ effecti pro efficiente: quod apparet ex Regio exemplari Montani, in quo legitur, ϗ ποιεῖ, & facit (nempe Beſtia Bicornis.) Quam lectionem ſequuntur Andreas, Aretas, & alii.

Interdum & Imago beſtiæ comparet ubi Beſtia adeſt cum Pſeudopropheta: ut videre eſt Apoc. 19. 20. ubi hæc tria memorantur, Beſtia, Pſeudopropheta, Imago beſtiæ.

Nomen numerúſque non Beſtiæ eſt Bicornis, ſed Beſtiæ Septicipitis; quæ paſſim ſimpliciter & abſolutè Beſtia nominatur: à qua ut Bicornis diſtingueretur, paſſim in ſequentibus non Beſtia ſed Pſeudopropheta nuncupatur; in quo conſpirant omnes interpretes.

Denique, falſum eſt Beſtiam Septicipitem reſtitutam totam ſe arbitrio Pſeudoprophetæ tanquam ſupremi ſui domini regendam permittere. Univerſa terra admirata eſt poſt beſtiam ſepticipitem, Apoc. 13. 3. & omnes reprobi eam adorârunt, Apoc. 13. 8. At Pſeudopropheta non ſeipſum, ſed Beſtiam Septicipitem adorari voluit in imagine tanquam ſupremum dominum, & in omnibus illius cauſam promovit ut ipſius procurator & miniſter, Apoc. 13. 12. ut bene obſervavit Irenæus, quem ſtatim laudavit Synchroniſta. hinc eam vocat Antichriſti armigerum.

Tertius Synchroniſmus, Meretricis magnæ ſeu Babylonis myſticæ cum Beſtia eadem illa Septicipite Decemcornupeta, neceſſariâ indiget caſtigatione. Mulier enim meretrix eſt urbs Roma ab ipſis temporibus Joannis; ut apparet ex illis verbis, Mulier quam vidiſti eſt civitas magna, quæ habet regnum ſuper reges terræ, Apoc. 17. 18. At Beſtia Septiceps nondum exſtabat temporibus Joannis in ſeptimo ſuo capite; ut liquidò conſtat ex iſtis, Quinque ceciderunt, unus eſt, & alius (ſeptimus) nondum venit: Mulier ergò iſta cum Beſtia Septicipite quà tali non συγχρονίζει.

In primis ſuſpecta mihi eſt lacinia iſta, Decemcornupeta; quaſi Beſtia demum facta eſſet Decemcornupeta ſub ſeptimo, id eſt, noviſſimo ſuo capite. Verba Apocalypſeos clarè & diſertè docent decem illa cornua ipſis temporibus Joannis exſtitiſſe; Decem cornua ſunt decem reges, qui (in præſenti) regnum nondum acceperunt, quia nimirum Romano imperio nunc erant ſubjecti, ſed poteſtatem tanquam reges accipient in futuro, Apoc. 17. 12. Certum eſt ex hiſtoriis, Imperium Romanum, dum hæc ſcriberet Joannes, ex decem regnis, ſive regalibus provinciis, tanquam totidem partibus principalibus, conſtitiſſe, quas hoc modo enumerat ipſe Strabo; Italia, Hiſpania, Gallia, Germania, Hungaria & Bulgaria, Græcia, Natolia ſive Aſia minor, Syria & Aſſyria, Ægyptus, Africa: de quibus conſulendus Molinæus in Complemento prophetiarum. Quomodo autem ſingula quæ in Apocalypſi de decem cornibus dicuntur, decem illis regnis ſeu regionibus conveniant, explicatum dedi in annotationibus meis proœmialibus ad Viſionem ſextam.

Quartus Synchroniſmus, Centum & quadraginta quatuor mille Virginum, capite 14. cum Meretrice Babylonica & Beſtia, eodem vitio laborat quo duo antecedentes. Non enim in ſolidum contemporant hæc, ſed tantummodo ex parte. Meretrix exſtitit ipſo tempore Iounis; quemadmodum & Beſtia ſub ſexto ſuo capite. Sed centum & quadraginta quatuor mille Virgines ſunt recentioris originis. Incidunt quidem in tempora meretricis Babylonicæ, utpote quæ laudantur quia ſe illius complexibus non coinquinârunt; ſed in tempora illius poſtrema, nempe quia Primitiæ ſunt in reſtitutione, poſt finitam noviſſimam Beſtiæ Septicipitis inſtauratæ perſecutionem, Apoc. 14. 4. quando ipſa declinavit ad interitum, Apoc. 14. 8. Et quemadmodum recentioris ſunt originis, ſic longioris erunt durationis, ut quæ Meretricis & Beſtiæ futuræ ſunt victrices, ac proinde illis ſunt ſupervicturæ.

Quintus Synchroniſmus, de generali omnium hactenus dictorum Synchroniſmo, præterquam quòd ſuperiorum errores recapitulet, prorſus eſt ſupervacaneus, cùm non contineat niſi nudam repetitionem memoratorum: ideóque omitti potuiſſet, niſi numerum ſeptenarium attingere voluiſſet author. Si duos ſequentes Synchroniſmos ſimiliter repetat, habebimus numerum octonarium.

Sextus Synchroniſmus, Atrii interioris calamo Dei menſurabilis & Prælii Draconis cum Michaele, peccat, primò ἀνωμαλίᾳ verborum; nam Apocalypſis expreſsè non meminit Atrii menſurabilis; ideo malim retineri nomen expreſſum Templi menſurabilis: nec ſi expreſsè illius meminiſſet, ullum hîc aliud intelligendum foret atrium, quàm atrium Iſraelis, quod author eſt atrium exterius. Suprà enim monui atrium Iſraelis Spiritui Apocalyptico eſſe interius; ut qui nomine exterioris atrii intelligat atrium Gentium. Deinde peccat confuſione temporum: nam licèt prælium Michaelis incidat in tempus Templi menſurabilis; Templum tamen non priùs & citiùs menſurandum fuiſſe quàm commiſſum fuit prælium Draconis, neſcio quo argumento confirmari poſſit. Non enim quia proximè antecedentia ſunt contemporaneorum, idcirco eſt neceſſe utriuſque originem æquè altùm deducendam eſſe. Equidem fateor Apocalypſin nihil habere antiquius quódve altiùs originem ducat Muliere puerperâ, cujus partui inſidiatus eſt Draco; attamen ipſe partus quem excipit prælium Draconis multò eſt recentior; cùm partus ſit noviſſimi temporis, in finali Iudæorum converſione, ut poſtea demonſtrabitur: quemadmodum etiam eſt recentior Templi commenſuratio, quæ incidit in noviſſima tempora Tubæ ſextæ. A qua exordium velle ducere Prophetiæ repetitæ, quæ nempe tempora Apocalyptica ab origine & quaſi ab ovo relegat, eſt cum ratione velle inſanire, ut mox pluribus oſtendetur.

Quinimo illud prælium commiſſum & abſolutum fuit in ictu oculi, ut poſtea demonſtrabitur: At templi cõmenſuratio non eſt facta in ictu oculi.

Septimus Synchroniſmus, qui & ultimus partis primæ, Septem phialarum & Beſtiæ Babyloníſque ad occaſum vergentium, eſt veriſſimus & certiſſimus: ac proinde progredior ad Synchroniſmos partis Secundæ, initio ſumpto ab examine Præloquii quod illi præmittitur.

Strictura in partem Secundam.

IN Præloquio partis Secundæ inepta eſt illa totius Apocalypſeos in duas partes principales partitio: quarum prior ſit Sigillorum, in iiſque Tubarum; poſterior τῦ Βιβλαρίδιυ ſeu Libri aperti, à verſu octavo capitis decimi uſque ad finem libri: quæ omnium errorum mihi videtur eſſe præcipuum fundamentum. Ineptam eam voco, & reprobandam puto ob ſequentes rationes.

Primò, quia confundit finem unius prophetiæ cum principio alterius. Finis prophetiæ Sigillorum eſt in Turba illa palmifera gaudentium; utpote quæ ipſo Synchroniſtâ teſte incidat in Tubam noviſſimam. Nè verò vel tantillum dubitaremus in Turba illa gaudentium eſſe finem Sigillorum, ſtatim poſt eam fit mentio filentii in cœlo facti quaſi mediâ horâ: quâ profectò nihil aliud ſignificatur, quàm Joannem à viſionibus præcedentis prophetiæ ad medium horæ quieviſſe; ac proinde eam abſolutam eſſe. Ergò hic finis unius prophetiæ principium alterius eſt in Tuba prima, quæ clangere cœpit ſtatim poſt ignem è cœlo in terram miſſum, Apoc. 8. 5. qui certè nullus eſt alius quàm de quo ipſe Chriſtus dixerat Luc. 12. 49. Ignem veni mittere in terram, & quid volo niſi ut ardeat? Nè verò hîc etiam hæſitaremus in Tuba prima initium eſſe novæ prophetiæ, præmittitur ei viſio præparatoria poſt factum in cœlo ſilentium: hîc itaque principium alterius prophetiæ, quæ tamen cum fine præcedentis hâc partitione confunditur.

Secundò, quia diſcerpit membra unius ejuſdémque prophetiæ arctiſſimè cohærentia: nemo enim dubitat in Tubis recto ordine continuari unam eandémque prophetiam; ſic ut ibi deſinat quinta ubi incipit ſexta, & ſexta ibi deſinat ubi incipit ſeptima. At hæc partitio finem ſextæ Tubæ divellit ab ipſius principio, & ſic divellit, ut ex fine Tubæ ſextæ conſtituat novam prophetiam, quæ altiùs aſſurgat quàm Tuba prima, imò originem ſuam trahat à Sigillo primo; principium enim ſextæ Tubæ fuit in fine capitis noni, & illius finis incidit in principium capitis undecimi: quod tamen (ut dixi) fingitur eſſe initium novæ prophetiæ, quæ inchoatur à prima temporis Apocalyptici periodo.

Tertiò, quia commiſcet duas ad minimum integras prophetias toto cœlo à ſe invicem diſtinctas: Nam certum eſt prophetiam Libri aperti terminari cum fine Tubæ ſeptimæ, quæ eſt noviſſima: Nec minùs certum eſt prophetiam de Muliere parturiente eſſe novam prophetiam, ut quâ muliere nihil prius & antiquius habeat Apocalypſis, quemadmodum fatetur ipſe Synchroniſta: Quomodo ergò hæc eadem eſt cum prophetia Libri aperti? Fuerunt qui ſibi perſuaderent Tubas prodire ex ſinu Sigilli ſeptimi; ſed quando perveniunt ad caput duodecimum, coguntur agnoſcere initium novæ prophetiæ. Invenias ergò aliquos qui totam Apocalypſin dividunt in duas partes principales: ſed, qui poſteriorem partem inchoat à principio capitis undecimi, invenias neminem.

Profectò Mulier parturiens cap. 12. eſt Synagoga Judaica, quæ patrem habet Jacobum, qui aſſimilatur Soli; matrem Rachaelem, quæ comparatur Lunæ; & deſcendit à duodecim Patriarchis, qui ſimiles eſſe dicuntur duodecim ſtellis: gravida illa fuit ab ipſis diebus Joannis, & clamavit parturiens, & cruciabatur ut pareret, poſtquam templum eorum & urbs funditus à Romanis fuere everſa; quemadmodum id ipſa Synagoga confitetur ſub hac eadem Allegoria, Eſa. 26. 17. Sicut quæ concepit, cùm appropinquaverit ad partum, dolens clamat in doloribus ſuis; ſic facti ſumus à facie tua, Domine.

Nondum tamen ipsa peperit, sed inopinatus aderit illius partus in finali Judæorum conversione; cujus mentio fit apud eundem prophetam, Es. 66. 7, 8. Antequam parturiret, peperit; antequam veniret partus ejus, peperit masculinum.—quia parturivit & peperit Sion filios suos. Esse enim hunc partum ultimi temporis apparet ex Joanne, qui hunc partum immediatè docet præcedere fugam Mulieris in desertum, quæ incidit in novissima tempora Tubæ sextæ, Apoc. 12. 6. cum Apoc. 11. 3. collatis. Hinc Micheas de eodem partu verba faciens, eundem expressè refert ad tempora novissima, cap. 5. 3. Propter hoc dabit eos, viz. Judæos in manibus hostium suorum, usque ad tempus in quo parturiens pariet; & reliquiæ fratrum ejus revertentur ad filios Israel. Sic enim judico superiores prophetas interpretandos esse, ex collatione eorundem cum Apocalypsi, quæ Clavis est omnis Scripturæ propheticæ. Atque hinc apparet dictam prophetiam de Muliere parturiente provehi ad caput & originem periodi Apocalypticæ; ac proinde in ea inchoari novam prophetiam.

Redeo ad rem ipsam. Præmissâ hâc partitione, affirmat Synchronista posteriorem Apocalypseos partem, quæ est τὸ Βιβλαριδίου seu Libri aperti, ab eodem temporis Apocalyptici principio exordiri unde prior illa quæ est Sigillorum, & illius tempora relegere à versu octavo capitis decimi usque ad finem. Verùm & ista omnia pro libitu conficta & prorsus absurda sunt. Septem sigilla fuerunt aperta; clanxerunt quinque Tubæ, sexta clangorem inchoavit; descenditur ad illius finem, quem proximè excipit septima; & in fine Tubæ sextæ inchoabitur nova prophetia, quæ originem ducat ab ipso Sigillo primo. Quis credet istis, nisi cui libitum est posteriora prioribus & summa imis miscere? Et quomodo superiora tempora releguntur à versu octavo capitis decimi, cùm ab illo versu usque ad finem illius capitis nulla omnino tempora legantur? Quæ verò tempora sequuntur in principio capitis undecimi, aut tempora sunt finis Tubæ sextæ, aut tempora illius nulla sunt. Attamen recapitulationem illam temporum putat Synchronista indicari transitione istâ, v. 11. cap. 10. Oportet te iterum (πάλιν) prophetare. Sed longè aliud est iterum prophetare; aliud iterum prophetare eadem, aut ab eodem exorsa temporis principio. Hæc duo multùm differunt. Ego hoc dictum fuisse existimo Joanni in typum rei hoc tempore eventuræ; quòd nempe Ecclesia nunc ante exitum Tubæ sextæ sit reformanda, & de novo prophetatura, tum contra, tum apud populos multos: qua in re mihi assentientem habeo doctissimum Paræum. Joannes, inquit, non tam in sua, quàm in omnium præconum veritatis qui sub finem Tubæ sextæ futuri erant persona Librum devorare, iterúmque prophetare, jubetur. Et est sensus, oportere ut ubi Antichristus satis sævierit, prophetia adversus eum restituatur.

Tandem relabitur Synchronista ad bimembrem suam partitionem, eámque confirmari opinatur ex eo, quòd hîc idem sit prophetiæ initium quod fuit prophetiæ de septem Ecclesiis, item de septem Sigillis: quas nemo dubitat esse novas prophetias. Sunt autem hæc initia visionis quidem de Septem Ecclesiis cap. 1. 10. Audivi vocem magnam à tergo tanquam tubæ dicentis. Prophetiæ autem Sigillorum cap. 4. 1. Et vox prima quam audivi, tanquam tubæ loquentis mecum. Denique Prophetiæ Βιβλαριδίου cap. 10. 8. Et vox quam audieram è cœlo (scilicet tanquam tubæ loquentis) rursum loquebatur mecum. Verùm hæc posterior vox non eadem est cum prima illa, cùm hoc nomine non indigitetur: nec dicitur audita fuisse instar tubæ loquentis; sed vox fuit proximè è cœlo audita, vers. 4. ejusdem capitis, Audivi vocem de cœlo dicentem mihi, Signa quæ locuta sunt septem tonitrua, & nè scribas ea. Eadem ergò vox quæ v. 4. vetuerat scribere voces, nunc v. 8. jubet devorare libellum & prophetare, ut bene monet Paræus. Nolo tamen hac de re acriùs cum quoquam contendere. Dato itaque eandem esse vocem cum illa illa priore, non tamen indè sequetur, Quia aliàs alibi inchoavit novam prophetiam, ideo id quoque hoc loco fecisse. Certiora sunt indicia novæ prophetiæ, ut, quòd singulæ aut inchoentur novâ visione, aut terminentur mentione secundi adventûs: quæ indicia sunt rerum, non aucupia verborum.

Visio Ecclesiarum terminatur mentione novissimæ cœnæ, Apoc. 3. 20. quæ cœna est secundi adventûs, Apoc. 19. 9. Visio Sigillorum terminatur mentione Turbæ palmiferæ gaudentium, quæ incidit in novissimam Tubam visionis Tubarum, quam Paulus esse docet tubam secundi advemtûs, 1 Cor. 15. 52. Visio Mulieris terminatur mentione Messis, Apoc. 14. 15. quam ipse Christus interpretatur consummationem seculi, Matt. 13. 39. Visio Phialarum terminatur interitu Babylonis, Apoc. 16. 19. quæ incidit in secundum adventum, Apoc. 16. 14, 15. Eodem termino clauditur visio Meretricis, Apoc. 19. 2, 3, 4. Visio denique Christi vincentis clauditur mentione universalis Resurrectionis, & duplicis novæ Hierosolymæ. Septem itaque erant Visiones, tanquam totidem totius Apocalypseos partes principales. Sed hæc sufficiant ad Præloquium: venio ad ipsos Synchronismos partis secundæ.

Synchronismum primum appellat cardinem Synchronismorum; ego verò eundem voco cardinem vanitatum: adeò nihil est in eo veri, nihil certi. Synchronismum esse vult Sigilli septimi quoad sex priores Tubas, cum Bestia Septicipite, Bicorni, cæterísque contemporantibus. Sed jam antea demonstravi sex Tubas non pertinere ad Sigillum septimum; demonstravi insuper Bestiam Bicornem Bestiæ Septicipiti & cæteris non in omnibus nec ad amussim contemporare. Nunc demonstrabo initium Bestiæ Septicipitis non contemporare cum initio Sigilli septimi, quod præcipuum est hujus Synchronismi fundamentum everſum ire. Bestia Septiceps est ipsissimum regnum Antichristi, sub novissimo, i. e. septimo, suo capite. Atqui Antichristus demum in lucem producitur sub Tuba sexta, Apoc. 11. 7. vel (quod ego malim) sub Tuba quinta, Apoc. 9. 11. ubi Angelum abyssi eundem esse puto cum Bestia ascensura ex abysso, Apoc. 11. 7. Et proculdubio est Antichristus, cùm vocetur nomine Antichristi in Græca Ecclesia recepto, Ἀπολλύων, vel ὑὸς ἀπωλείας, 2 Thessal. 2. 3. Hebraïcè autem nomen habet ABADU, Servus ille κατ' ἐξοχὴν sic dictus, i. e. Servus servorum. Sic enim Hebræus & Syrus legunt. Quòd si quis malit legere cum correctioribus exemplaribus Græcis Abbadon, hoc idem significat quod Papa-Dominus: quam lectionem etiam retinuit vulgatus Latinus. Rectiùs itaque Bestia Septiceps contemporabit cum Tuba quinta. Sigillum quintum tempus est persecutionis Sanctorum, ut certum est ex illis verbis, Donec compleantur conservi eorum——qui interficiendi sunt sicut & illi, Apoc. 6. 11. Atqui hoc proprium munus est Bestiæ: ipsa itaque rectiùs dicetur contemporare cum Sigillo quinto.

Initium septimi Sigilli est in obsignatione Cœtûs illius virginalis cap. 7. ipso Synchronistâ confitente: atqui obsignatio illa sequitur illustrem Domini adventum, qui describitur Sigillo sexto, & in quem incidit Bestiæ interitus, ut apparet ex collatione Apoc. 6. 15, 16, 17. cum Apoc. 16. 14, 15, 16. Impossibile itaque est Bestiam Septicipitem contemporare cum initio Sigilli septimi.

At (inquit ille) Cœtûs illius obsignationem suprà ostendi contemporare ad amussim cum Bestia Septicipite, parte primâ, Synchronismo quarto. Respondeo; Contrarium liquet ex nostra ad eundem censura. Quod porrò existimet obsignationem illam factam esse, nè grassantibus in orbe Tubarum calamitatibus electi Dei servi extinguerentur; gratis fingitur sine ullo fundamento: obsignationem illam dico factam esse ad novas nuptias Agni in illustri Domini adventu celebrandas, ut manifestum ex hujusce loci collatione cum 4 Esdræ 2. 38. Videte numerum signatorum in convivio Domini; ad quem hîc certus est respectus. Scio Librum istum esse Apocryphum; sed poteſt liber Apocryphus interdum continere quaſdam antiquas & veras narrationes.

Denique falſum eſt, obſignatione illâ turbari non interrumpendam Sigillorum ſeriem: ipſe enim Synchroniſta fatetur illam pertinere ad finem Sigilli ſexti, ſive ad initium ſeptimi; & meritò, quia expreſsè dicitur Apoc. 7. 1. Μετὰ ταῦτα, id eſt, poſt hæc, nempe, quæ acciderunt Sigillo ſexto. Ego judico obſignationem virginum & Turbam palmiferam gaudentium eſſe totum myſterium Sigilli ſeptimi, quod demum narratur apertum fuiſſe initio cap. 8. cùm capite ſeptimo præmiſſum ſit illius myſterium; quemadmodum primum Væ demum narratur præteriiſſe poſt præmiſſam illius calamitatem, Apoc. 9. 12.

Sic ergò corruit omnium ſequentium Synchroniſmorum fundamentum, eorum nempe qui ex primo iſto deducuntur: quos tamen etiam examinabo, nè quis queratur aliquid à me præteritum eſſe aut neglectum.

Synchroniſmum ſecundum ait eſſe contemporantium Atrii interioris & Prælii Draconis & Michaelis de puerperio cum ſex primis Sigillis. Atqui dimenſuratio Templi (ſic enim loqui malim, quia Textus expreſsè illius meminit) tempore prior eſt prælio Draconis, ut viſum ſuprà Synchroniſmo ſexto, parte primâ; & neutrum contemporat cum ſex primis Sigillis. Non dimenſuratio Templi; quia jubetur Joannes Templum metiri ſub finem Tubæ ſextæ, Apoc. 11. 1. Jam verò finem Tubæ ſextæ contemporare cum Sigillo primo quis dixerit? Non Prælium Draconis; quia illud commiſſum & abſolutum fuit breviſſimo temporis ſpatio, puta in momento, ictu oculi. Nam ſtatim fuit commiſſum poſt raptum partum, & abſolutum fuit ante fugam Mulieris in deſertum; Apoc. 12. 13, 14. At Mulier ſtatim & immediatè poſt raptum partum fugere debuit in deſertum, Apoc. 12. 5, 6. Itaque tantummodo momento perduravit. Quomodo ergò potuit contemporare cum ſex primis Sigillis?

Accedo ad Synchroniſmum tertium, Phialarum cum Tuba ſexta. Dicendum erat, ni fallor, cum initio Tubæ ſeptimæ: nam Tubâ ſeptima eſt Tuba noviſſima; ſeptem autem Phialæ continent noviſſimas calamitates, Apoc. 15. 1. pertinent ergò ad Tubam noviſſimam: Tuba etiam ſeptima eſt Tuba conſummationis, quia ſub ea conſummabitur myſterium Dei, Apoc. 10. 7. ſeptem autem Phialæ ſunt plagæ conſummationis, utpote in quibus conſummetur ira Dei, Apoc. 15. 1. pertinent ergò ad Tubam ſeptimam. Sed hæc parùm ad rem.

Regnum verò Beſtiæ ſub ſexta Tuba labefactari cœpiſſe, neſcio unde eruat Synchroniſta. Finita quidem tunc fuit poteſtas illa quadraginta duorum menſium; ſed illa non fuit ſimplex poteſtas dominandi, ſed dominandi pro libitu: nec ſimplex fuit poteſtas vincendi Sanctos, ſed perſecutionis noviſſimæ; ut ſuprà à nobis fuit oſtenſum.

Synchroniſmum quartum, Mille annorum ligati Draconis, ſeu Satanæ, cum Tuba ſeptima, ſeu excidio Beſtiæ, non poſſum non laudare, cùm ſit veriſſimus & certiſſimus. Argumenta tamen validiora & magìs cogentia ad illius confirmationem proferri deſiderarem. Certè Draco etiam fuit ligatus toto tempore parturitionis Mulieris, cùm toto illo tempore ſteterit ante Mulierem, ut, cùm peperiſſet, filium ejus devoraret, Apoc. 12. 4. neque ligatus fuit poſt partum ejus; cùm ab illo tempore è cœlo fuerit projectus, & graſſatus fuerit in terra & mari, Apoc. 12. 12. ſic ut Mulierem ſit perſecutus, & ſemen ejus Muliere latitante in deſerto, Apoc. 12. 16, 17. ac conſpiraverit ad Sanctorum internecionem cum beſtia maris, dando ei omnem ſuam poteſtatem; unde ſimul cum ipſo ſpatio quadraginta duorum menſium & ultrà adoratur, Apoc. 12. 18. & 13. 3, 4. Non ità diu poſt finitos illos menſes Draco cum Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta ac Regibus totius terræ congregatur in prælium, Apoc. 16. 14. tandem in illo prælio Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta victi mittuntur in ſtagnum ignis, Apoc. 19. 20. & Draco ligatur in Abyſſo mille annis, Apoc. 20. 2, 3. Mille itaque anni ligationis Satana inchoandi ſunt ab excidio Beſtiæ.

in

Ligatur Satanas, nè ſeduceret ampliùs gentes, Apoc. 20. 3. nempe eâ ſeductione cujus ſtatim facta erat mentio, quem proximè ſecutum eſt Beſtiæ excidium, Apoc. 19. 20. Ergò Ligatio inchoanda eſt à Beſtiæ excidio. Ligatur Satanas, ut per mille annos regnent illi qui Beſtiam adorare noluerint, Apoc. 20. 4. Inchoanda itaque Ligatio ab excidio Beſtiæ: nam uſque ad excidium ipſius ſemper fuerunt aliqui qui Beſtiam noluerint adorare, & ideo fuerunt occiſi. Ligatur denique Satanas, ut poſt mille annos illos ſolvatur, & conjiciatur in ſtagnum ignis, in quem jam antea conjecti erant Beſtia & Pſeudopropheta, Apoc. 20. 10. Sic enim legendum eſſe patet, non tantùm ex Græcis exemplaribus, ſed etiam ex interpretibus Hebræo & Syro. Ergò ligatus fuit poſt illorum excidium, quod incidit in Tubam noviſſimam.

Sequitur Synchroniſmus quintus, Mille annorum regni Chriſti auguſti & ſeptimæ Tubæ ſeu intervalli ab excidio Beſtiæ: quem non ſolùm laudo, ſed ſimul etiam approbo ferè omnia & ſingula quæ ad illius confirmationem dicuntur: nullus enim dubito quin ad ſingulare illud & auguſtum Chriſti regnum pertinent quæ dicuntur Apoc. 11. 15, 16, 17. & Apoc. 19. 6, 16. & in illo regno proculdubio eſt conſummatio myſterii Dei per prophetas evangelizati, quam ſub Septimæ tubæ clangorem Angelus Apoc. 10. futuram prædixerat; quando nec Beſtiæ menſes, nec Teſtium lugentium dies, neque omnino aliquid de periodo temporis temporum & dimidii temporis ſupererit amplius, planè juxta quod Danieli prædictum fuit c. 7. v. 25, 26, 27. & c. 12. v. 7.

Sextus Synchroniſmus eſt Novæ Hieruſalem Agni ſponſæ cum ſeptima Tuba ſeu intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ: cui non poſſum non ſuffragari: hâc tamen lege, ut nova illa Hieroſolyma ſponſa Agni, de qua Apoc. 21. verſ. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. diſtinguatur à nova illa Hieroſolyma Agni uxore, cujus deſcriptio ſequitur eodem capite, Apoc. 21. verſ. 9, 10, &c. uſque ad finem libri. Rationes hujus diſtinctionis dedi in notationibus meis proœmialibus ad Viſionem ultimam. Prior illa nova Hieroſolyma eſt uxor ſponſi, quæ ſe præparavit Apoc. 19. 6, 7. item civitas illa dilecta, Apoc. 20. 9. non autem poſterior.

Tandem dilabor ad Synchroniſmum ultimum, qui eſt Turbæ palmiferæ innumerabilium ovantium (Apoc. 7.) cum Tuba ſeptima ſeu intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ: in cujus confirmationem illud in primis probo, quòd Turba illa palmifera ſtatuantur eſſe cives novæ Jeruſalem. De ambobus enim dicitur, quòd non eſurient neque ſitient ampliùs, &c. quia Agnus paſcit eos, & ducit ad vivos fontes aquarum; quódque abſterſurus ſit Deus omnem lacrymam ab oculis eorum.

Itaque de quatuor poſtremis Synchroniſmis Deo meo gratias ago, quòd virum hunc doctiſſimum mihi habeo in illis aſſentientem; qui oculos mentis utriuſque noſtrûm magìs & magìs velit retegere, ut propiùs intueamur mirabilia ejus.

EPOCHA APOCALYPSEΩS.

QUam nobis exhibet Synchroniſta Epocham Apocalypſeωs, prorſus incerta eſt & vana; ut quæ vanis & incertis Synchroniſmorum fundamentis innititur, quæ ferè omnia ſuo loco ſunt protrita. Vult duas eſſe totius Apocalypſeωs partes principales: quarum prior ſit Sigillorum, in iiſque Tubarum; altera poſterior Βιβλαριδιου, à verſu octavo capitis decimi uſque ad finem libri. quam partitionem in primis perſtrinximus ad partis ſecundæ prælequium.

Vult

Vult Tubas prodire ex ſinu ſeptimi Sigilli: quod falſum eſſe docuimus in Stricturis ad Prægnita partis primæ. Vult Turbam palmiferam ovantium capitis ſeptimi, quæ narratur ante clangorem Tubæ primæ, incidere in Tubam noviſſimam, quæ demum ſequitur cap. 11. Quæ Synchroniſtæ non poteſt non eſſe horrenda prædictionum confuſio. Vult prophetium Libri aperti, quæ pertinet ad clangorem Tubæ ſextæ, & cujus initium eſt à commenſuratione Templi, Apoc. 10. & 11. eſſe novum exordium totius Apocalypſeos: quod nemini unquam venit in mentem; quódque ſuprà à nobis abunde refutatum. Vult novum etiam exordium eſſe totius Apocalypſeos in Prælio Draconis cap. 12. Quin ergò nobis faciat partes tres totius Apocalypſeos principales, & non duas tantúm. Vult Prælium illud Draconis contemporare ſex prioribus Sigillis: quod demonſtravimus in unico temporis momento, in ictu oculi, abſolutum fuiſſe. Vult quadraginta duos illos menſes eſſe totum tempus ſex Tubarum: cùm tempora ſint finis Tubæ ſextæ, aut nulla ſunt illius tempora. Ità nihil eſt certi in hac Epocha Apocalypſeos, niſi quòd ferè in finem Apocalypſeos rejiciat Turbam palmiferam ovantium capitis ſeptimi, Myſterium conſummandum Tubæ noviſſimæ, Mille annos ligationis Satanæ & regni Sanctorum, Novam Hieroſolymam Agni ſponſam: quæ ego non dubito ad amuſſim contemporare. Hîc itaque pedem figam, & finem faciam Strictu-rarum mearum.

Quæſtio nobiliſſima, & ad intelligentiam ſuperiorum Prophetarum atque ipſius Apocalypſeôs apprimè neceſſaria,

De

Temporibus ac momentis Secundi Adventûs.

IN ſecundo Chriſti Adventu videtur conſiderandus eſſe longiſſimus quidem temporis tractus, quemadmodum in Adventu ejus primo: ut probari poſſe videtur ex ſequentibus Sacræ Scripturæ teſtimoniis.

Primò, ex Eſaiæ 34. 8. & 63. 4. ubi tempus ſecundi adventûs appellatur dies ultionis Domini, annus retributionum judicii Sion. Et certum eſt in eo reſpectum haberi ad veteris Teſtamenti Jubilæum. Tempus itaque erit ad minimum unius anni: alioqui Synecdoche partis eſſet de nihilo. Idem propheta, Eſa. 65. 17. meminit novi cœli & novæ terræ, quæ in ſecundum Domini adventum rejiciuntur, 2 Pet. 3. 13. & in illis neceſſariò conſiderandus eſt longiſſimus quidem temporis tractus, propter illud quod apud Prophetam ſequitur, Non erit ibi puer infans aut ſenex qui non impleat dies ſuos: nam puer infans centum annorum morietur, & peccator centum annorum maledictus erit.

Secundò, ex Luc. 17. 22. Venient dies quando deſideretis videre unum dierum, ſive unum ex diebus, Filii hominis, & non videbitis. Quod intelligendum eſſe de diebus ſecundi adventûs rectè ſtatuit gloſſa ordinaria ex Beda. Id enim apparet ex duobus. Primò, quia dies illi intelliguntur quos conabuntur oſtendere Pſeudoprophetæ dicendo, Ecce hîc, Ecce illic, verſ. 23. Secundò, cundò, quia dies illi intelliguntur qui glorioſi futuri ſunt & illuſtres, ſicut fulgur coruſcans de ſub cœlo, v.24. qui dies ſunt, non præteriti adventûs primi, ſed futuri adventûs ſecundi. Profectò fruſtrà diſcipuli deſiderarent dies præteritos, qui certi erant de futuris, quos præ foribus ſemper adeſſe putabant, & cervicibus ſuis imminere.

Tertiò, ex Act. 3. 20, 21. ubi tempus ſecundi adventûs appellatur in plurali tempora refrigerii, & tempora reſtitutionis omnium, de quibus locuti ſunt omnes prophetæ. Velle autem id accipere de temporibus æternis, eſt cum ratione velle inſanire; cùm de talibus temporibus Propheta non ſint locuti, ut conſtat liquidò ex verſ. 22, 23. Ipſum audietis juxta omnia quæcunque locutus fuerit vobis: Et omnis anima quæ non audiverit illum, exterminabitur de plebe. quæ prophetia eſt de finali Judæorum converſione.

Quartò, ex Act. 15. 16, 17. ubi docetur, Tabernaculum David, ſive regnum Iſraelis, reſtituendum eſſe in Domini reditu, & omnes Gentes eſſe ad illud aggregandas; quod certè brevi temporis ſpatio non perficietur: eſſe enim ibi ſermonem de ſecundo Domini reditu apparet potiſſimùm ex duobus argumentis. Primò, quia reditus ille futurus dicitur poſt primam vocationem Gentium: Viſitavit primùm ſumere populum ex Gentibus;——ſicut ſcriptum eſt, Poſtea revertar. Item, Ut requirant eum cæteræ Gentes, ſuper quas invocatum eſt nomen meum: nempe jam antea in prima Gentium vocatione, quam ſecutura eſt vocatio univerſalis. Secundò, quia ipſe Dominus promiſſam regni Iſraelis reſtitutionem paſſim rejicit in tempora ſecundi adventûs, ut videre eſt Matt. 10. 23. & 23. 37, 38. Lucæ 21. 28, 31. Act. 1. 6, 7.

Quintò, ex Rom. 11. 26, 27. Omnis Iſrael ſalvus fiet, ſicut ſcriptum eſt, Veniet Redemptor ex Sion: quibus verbis docetur noviſſimam Judæorum ſalutem, ſive redemptionem, incidere in ſecundum Domini adventum. Atqui eadem illa Scriptura in eodem illo Domini adventu, verſu ſtatim ſequenti, mentionem facit pangendi novi fœderis cum illis quod ad minimum duraturum eſt per tres generationes. Eſa. 59. 21. Hoc fœdus meum cum eis; Verbum & Spiritus non recedent de ore tuo, & de ore ſeminis tui, & de ore ſeminis ſeminis tui, à modò uſque in ſempiternum.

Sextò, ex Matt. 12. 32. ubi docetur Meſſiæ ſeculum eſſe duplex, unum præſens, alterum futurum; & in utrumque incidere remiſſionem peccatorum propriè dictam. Non remittetur ei neque in hoc ſeculo, neque in futuro. Neque enim, ut rectè Auguſtinus, lib. 21. De civ. Dei, cap. 24. de quibuſdam veraciter diceretur, quòd non iis remittatur neque in hoc ſeculo, neque in futuro, niſi eſſent quibus, etſi non in iſto, tamen remittetur in futuro: ubi vim faciunt verba iſta, etſi non in iſto, nè quis id de ſola remiſſionis patefactione interpretetur.

Septimò, ex 2 Pet. 3. 8. ubi de die Judicii loquens & perditione impiorum hominum, ait, quòd unus dies apud Dominum ſicut mille anni: nè quis putaret tempus ſecundi adventûs nimis breve eſſe ad judicandum & perdendum impios, eò quòd in Scripturis vocetur unus dies. Et ſic verba interpretatus eſt Auguſtinus, vel quiſquis ille author eſt Sermonum de Sanctis, qui Auguſtino attribuuntur. Nec immeritò. Stultum enim eſt cogitare velle unum diem naturalem, vel artificialem, eſſe apud Deum ſicut mille annos. Ad tempus verò quod anteceſſurum eſt Judicium pertinent verba ſequentia, Et mille anni ſicut dies unus: nè quis putaret tempus Judicii nimis diu tardari, ſi per mille annos & plures differatur: Deus enim tempus mille annorum unum diem vocat in Scripturis. His poſtremis verbis Propheta quoque uſus eſt, Pſal. 90. 4. de toto vitæ noſtræ tempore: quæ licèt per mille annos duraret, attamen apud Deum eſſet breviſſima, qui tempus mille annorum vocat unum diem.

Octavò,

Octavò, ex Heb. 3. 7, 8, 9. ubi docet, Diem terminatum esse apud Davidem in voce Hodie, qui futurus sit populo Dei novus Sabbatismus; non quidem æternus, sed temporalis; utpote in quem solùm quadret illa commonefactio Davidis, Hodie si vocem ejus audieritis, nolite obdurare corda vestra.

Nonò, ex fine Apoc. 19. collato cum principio Apoc. 20. Nam in fine Apoc. 19. describitur secundus Domini adventus, ut manifestum est ex tribus. Primò, ex illis, Reget eas in virga ferrea: quod Joannes futurum prædixit in secundo adventu, Apoc. 2. 27. Secundò, ex istis, Reges terræ & exercitus eorum congregatos ad faciendum prælium: quod prælium est faciendum in secundo Domini adventu; utpote futurum in die illo magno omnipotentis Dei, ad quem venturus est Dominus sicut fur, Apoc. 16. 14, 15. Denique ex ultimis illis verbis, Vivi missi sunt hi duo in stagnum ignis: quibus indicatur Bestiæ Romanæ, id est, ipsius Antichristi, interitus; quem ipse Paulus rejicit in secundum Domini adventum, 2 Thess. 2. 8. ubi illud quoque notandum, Et spiritu oris sui interficiet impium: quod prorsus idem est cum isto, & cæteri occisi sunt in gladio oris sui, Apoc. 19. 21. Atqui certissimum est in illo adventu numerandos esse mille istos annos pacis & regni sanctorum qui sequuntur, Apoc. 20. 4.

Denique, ex Apoc. 20. 8, 9. collato cum Ezech. 39. 9, 13. ubi rejicit Joannes in secundum Domini adventum Gogi & Magogi interitum; post quem tamen Ezechiel docet numerandos esse ad minimum septem annos, & totidem menses certissimè finiendos. Ergò secundus Domini adventus complectitur longissimum aliquem temporis tractum. Tale quid * Beza suspicatus est de secundo Domini adventu, qui eundem putat inchoatum fuisse à promulgato inter Gentes Evangelio: at nos eum rectiùs putamus inchoandum ab interitu Antichristi, sive excidio Bestiæ.

* Notat. in Luc. 17.

JOSE-

JOSEPHI MEDI
Reſponſio ad
DANIELIS LAWENI
STRICTURAS
IN CLAVEM APOCALYPTICAM.

NON videtur, Clariſſime Domine, A. Lawenus veſter aut meum in Clave Apocalyptica propoſitum, aut quibus eam ſubnixam eſſe volui fundamentis, ſatis attendiſſe: alioquin non putâſſet argumentis ex interpretationum pharetra depromptis me ceſſurum. Quorſum enim, obſecro, me iſtiuſmodi telis oppugnare ſatageret, qui ipſe interpretationem nullam præſuppono? imò nec iſtiuſmodi ſive præjudiciis ſive hypotheſibus ullis in hoc negotio locum eſſe debere contendo. Sed hâc ejus παρρησία nimiâ in præſenti omiſsâ, (qua de aliàs paſſim erit monendi occaſio) accedo ad Cenſuram ipſam, & primò Generalem.

Ad Cenſuram Generalem.

QUatuor enim ait in toto meo Diſcurſu præſupponi quæ cenſuram merentur.

Primò, quòd Liber ille clauſus & obſignatus ſit ipſe Liber Apocalypſeως. Miror unde hoc colligat. Num ex iſtis precatiunculæ meæ verbis, Qui ſolus dignus eras Librum hunc accipere & aperire? At alluſio eſſe potuit, non ſententiæ argumentum. Certè hypotheſis non fuit. Rem ipſam quod attinet, ego Librum illum obſignatum Sigillorum librum eſſe puto, Apocalypſeως non puto. Sed eſto me putâſſe; non tamen huic fundamento quidquam Synchroniſmorum meorum ſuperſtruxi. Nec certè ſi Apocalypſis nihil aliud ſit quàm compendium quoddam & comportatio veterum prophetiarum quæ adhuc implendæ poſt Chriſti adventum ſupererant, (quæ ipſius Laweni ſententia eſt) adeò multùm intererit an quis Librum obſignatum, cum eo, Librum veterum Prophetarum eſſe dicat, an, cum aliis, Librum Apocalypſeως. Sed hanc opinionem in notationibus ſuis procœmialibus in Apocalypſin ut erroneam validiſſimis argumentis ſe confodiſſe refert: mihi verò, qui legerim, nè veriſimilibus quidem id feciſſe videtur. Judicet alius.

Secundò, ait à me præſupponi, nullas fieri futurorum prædictiones ante reſerationem Sigilli primi. Ego verò hoc nuſquam præſuppono, imò contrarium potiùs præ ſe ferunt verba mea in * præloquio Partis ſecundæ, lin. 8. Quid, quòd ibidem nè ſeptem quidem Eccleſiarum Viſionem negavi futurorum prophetiam eſſe, ſed in medio reliqui, nec quid de eo me interponere velle dixi?

[* Hujus editionis pag. 528.]

Sed (ut sententiam meam aperiam) ità quidem sentio; Saltem nihil esse prophetiæ in capitibus istis quarto & quinto Sigillorum reseratione antiquius, quódve altiùs ratione rei gerendæ ascendat: & hoc quidem ad institutum meum satis erat; nec id puto Dominum Lawenum negaturum. Addo ampliùs, Nec esse Visionem ibidem exhibitam rei futuræ prophetiam, sed prophetiæ exhibendæ apparatum. Utut enim in Cantico Presbyterorum & Animalium inseratur aliquid de re futura; Visionem tamen ipsam Prophetiam esse de futuris, id verò non magis indè sequi, quàm eandem esse historiam de præteritis, ex eo quòd in eodem Cantico verba illa, Occisus es & redemisti nos Deo per sanguinem tuum, de præterito loquantur. non enim si quid in visione aliqua incidenter dicatur aut cantetur, statim illud τὸ πρᾶγμα visionis est. Sed in quarto capite (inquit) futura prædicuntur, quia verba illa, Dederint, procident, & adorabunt, &c. sint futuri temporis, Græcè δώσουσι, πεσοῦνται, προσκυνήσουσι. Respondeo, Futurum in Hebraismo (ejus autem notione passim utitur Apostolus) significare actum solitum vel debitum; ità ut hoc loco Joannes referat non quidem quid tum factum sit, (ut à nonnullis exponitur) sed quid Animalibus & Presbyteris istis ex officio pro re nata faciendum esset, quódque ipse postmodum in sequela Visionum semel atque iterum ab iisdem factum vidit.

Tertiò, ait me præsupponere Septem Tubas esse Visum Sigilli septimi: hoc enim vult, cùm ait me præsupponere Tubas necessariam habere connexionem cum Sigillo septimo. Et hoc quidem verissimè dixit, me præsupponere. Præsuppono autem, & quidni præsupponerem? Annon Grammaticum contextûs sensum, quo vix alius est in Apocalypsi de rerum narratarum serie clarior & luculentior, necesse fuit præsupponi? Ad præcedentium Sigillorum omnium apertionem Visum aliquod subjicitur rem sigillo significatam exhibens. Ad apertionem primi, Aspexi, inquit, & ecce Equus albus, &c. Ad apertionem secundi, Prodiit Equus rufus, &c. Ad apertionem tertii, Aspexi, inquit, & ecce Equus niger, &c. & sic in quarto, quinto, & sexto. Quis igitur pari ratione non credat, quod Septimi sigilli resignationi subjicitur esse ejus Sigilli Visum? Quomodo absurdum non est affirmare, solius Sigilli septimi aut Visum nullum esse, aut ejus descriptionem Sigilli apertioni præmitti, præter omnium Sigillorum, imò Tubarum & Phialarum, morem? Cùm aperuisset, inquit, Sigillum septimum, factum est silentium in cælo quasi per semihoram: & vidi septem Angelos stantes in conspectu Dei, & datæ sunt illis septem Tubæ. Aut hîc clarum est Rem Sigilli septimi describi; aut omnino fatendum nihil esse in hoc libro de ordine certi, sed quidvis cuivis pro libitu præponendum & postponendum, nullâ sensûs Grammatici ratione habitâ. Hoc viderunt ex veteribus Andreas & Aretas; ex Pontificiis Lyranus, Aureolus, Ribera, Alcazar, Viega, Cornelius à Lapide; ex nostris Junius, Grasserus, Brightmannus, Napierus, Reverendissimus Episcopus Aberdonensis, Clarissimus Alstedius: Qui omnes pro concesso habent, Rem seu Visum Sigilli septimi esse mysterium Tubarum. Nec crediderim quemquam interpretum id unquam negaturum fuisse, nisi in Visionum dispositione magis ad apparentem nescio quam interpretationis concinnitatem, quàm ad naturalem & simplicem Textûs sacri mentem, respexissent.

At hæc dispositio, inquit, absurda est, ex ipsius Synchronistæ hypothesi; utpote cui Turba Palmifera (cap. 7.) incidat in Tubam noviſsimam; quomodo ergò cùm ea connectuntur sex Tubæ priores? quod tamen necesse est fieri, si, &c. At verò Synchronista nusquam connectit Turbam palmiferam cum prioribus sex Tubis. Fallitur Lawenus si me Cœtum centum & quadraginta quatuor mille obsignatorum, & Turbam palmiferam innumerabilium gaudentium, pro iisdem dem habere putat. Diverſa ſunt & diverſorum temporum. Quæ quidem junctim totum Sigilli ſeptimi, id eſt Tubarum, intervallum pervadunt: ſeorſim verò Cœtus obſignatorum cum ſex primis Tubis, Turba palmifera cum Tuba ſeptima συγχρονίζει. Inſpice ſodes Schematiſmum meum.

At impoßibilis eſt. Quid ità verò? Quia Sigillum ſextum Tempus eſt ſecundi adventûs. At Tubæ ſaltem ſex priores præcedunt adventum Chriſti. Hoc ſcilicet eſt (quod dixi) Viſionum ordinationem ex privata interpretatione ſuſpendere: Ego verò pernego Sigillum ſextum eſſe Tempus ſecundi adventûs. Neque hujuſmodi interpretamentum ex verbis illis * ὅτι ἦλθεν ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ μεγάλη τῆς ὀργῆς αὐτῶ, aut ex prognoſticis illis Matth. 24. 29. exſculpi poteſt: non ex appellatione Diei magnæ; eam enim integram habes Zeph. 1. 14. de clade Judææ uſurpatam, ἐγγὺς ἡμέρα Κυρίου ἡ μεγάλη· & verſ. 15. ἡμέρα ὀργῆς ἡ ἡμέρα ἐκείνη. Alibi quoque ſimilis eſt apud Prophetas de Judiciis particularibus diei Domini uſurpatio: ut Iſa. 13. 13. Dies iræ furoris Domini, de onere Babylonis; Jer. 46. 10. de clade Ægyptiorum, Dies ille Domini Dei exercituum, dies ultionis. Quod verò hic urget de geminato articulo ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ μεγάλη, nullius eſt ponderis; fit enim ex conſuetudine linguæ cùm adjectivum poſtponitur: ἡ μεγάλη ἡμέρα, καὶ ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ μεγάλη, tantundem valent. Accedit quòd apud Zephaniam quoque in Hebræo geminetur articulus היום ההוא, quaſi ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ ἐκείνη· quod Græci reſpuunt. Nec in cætera hujus Sigilli deſcriptione omnino quicquam eſt quod non aliis, citra magnum illum Univerſalis Judicii diem, rerum converſionibus & ruinis deſcribendis à Prophetis jamdudum adhibitum fuerit. Communes ſunt hæ magnarum calamitatum & horridiorum cladium imagines Orienti uſitatæ, ut noſtris quoque Poëtis ſua ſunt ſchemata, ſuæ picturæ. Videamus de ſingulis.

* Apocal. 6. 17.

Druſius ad cap. 1. Joelis. Dies Domini: genus loquendi ferenſe; ut ſi dicas, Judicium Domini: quomodo Apoſt. Diem humanum dixit pro Judicium humanum. 1 Cor. 4. 3.

Ecce, (inquit c. 6. v. 12.) Terræ motus magnus factus eſt, Græcè σεισμὸς, id eſt, Cœli terræque motus. Terræ motus autem hujuſmodi (teſte Apoſtolo Heb. 12. de loco Haggæi, c. 2. v. 6, 7. Adhuc ſemel, & ego commovebo cœlum & terram) denotat τὴν σαλευομένων τὼ μετάθεσιν, mutationem eorum quæ commoventur. Idem nos de hoc Cœli terræq; motu in Apocalypſi putemus. Sequitur, Et Sol factus eſt niger ut ſaccus cilicinus, & Luna facta eſt ut ſanguis, id eſt, per ellipſin adjectivi, rubicunda ut ſanguis. Periphraſis autem eſt deliquii Luminarium, ubi Sol ater apparere ſoleat, Luna verò rubicunda: cui planè geminum eſt illud Iſa. c. 13. v. 10. de vindicta Babylonis, Obſcurabitur Sol in exortu ſuo, & Luna non ſplendere faciet lumen ſuum; LXX. καὶ ἡ σελήνη οὐ δώσει φῶς αὐτῆς, ut Matth. 24. 29. Adde Ezech. 32. 7. de clade Pharaonis, Et operiam cœlos, & nigreſcere faciam ſtellas ejus, Solem nube tegam, & Luna non dabit lumen ſuum, &c. Item Joel. 2. 10. de horrenda Judææ vaſtatione ab exercitu locuſtarum Aquilonarium, A facie ejus, inquit, contremuit terra, moti ſunt cœli: Sol & Luna obtenebrati ſunt, & ſtellæ retraxerunt ſplendorem ſuum. Sed ohe! jam ſatis eſt. Vide tamen Jer. 4. 23, 24, &c. de excidio Judææ; ubi omnia in antiquum Chaos rediiſſe putares.

Verſ. 13, 14. Et ſtellæ cœli ceciderunt in terram, ſicut ficus abjicit groſſos ſuos cùm vento magno concutitur. Et cœlum abſceßit ſicut liber convolutus; vel Cœlum evanuit, &c. id eſt, Stellæ cœli diſparuêre quemadmodum literæ evaneſcunt libro (veterum more) convoluto. Ellipſis enim eſt utrobique prioris ſubſtantivi Hebraiſmo familiaris, ut Deut. 20. 19. 2 Reg. 18. 31. & alibi paſſim: ità ut hoc de cœli diſparitione, & illud de ſtellarum caſu, mutuò ſeſe explicent. Integer autem locus deſumptus eſt ex Iſ. 34. 4. ubi eâdem planè imagine, ſed inverſo ordine, depingit Spiritus ſanctus cladem Idumææ: Convolventur, inquit, ſicut liber, cœli, & totus exercitus eorum (id eſt, ſtellæ) decidet ut folium è vite, & ut deciduus groſſulus è ficu. Cujus ſententiam aliquantò clariorem reddere voluit Spiritus Apocalypticus duplici verborum additamento; illinc τῇ ἀποχωρίδῃ, hinc ἀπὸ μεγάλου ἀνέμου σεομένη. Porrò de eadem clade Edomitica haud mitioribus quàm Isaias circumstantiis agunt Obadias; Jer. c. 49. à vers. 7. ad 22; Ezech. c. 35. per tot. & 25. vers. 12. Quod idcirco moneo, nè quis hunc quoque locum, cum mysticorum sensuum admiratoribus, ad magnum illum Universalis Judicii diem detorqueat.

Omnes montes & insulæ è suis locis emotæ sunt; scilicet, ut in terræ motibus fieri nonnunquam contigit. De montibus autem similem imaginem vide Jer. 4. 24. Ezek. 38. 20.

Restant vers. 15, & 16. Reges terræ & magnates, &c. absconderunt se in speluncis & petris montium; dixerúntque montibus & petris, Cadite super nos, & abscondite nos à facie sedentis super thronum, & ab ira Agni. Fœda imago est quà fugientium & latitantium, quà præ rerum suarum desperatione vitæ tædentium: cui similem habes de clade Hierosolymorum Luc. 23. 30. item Hos. 10. 8. de clade Samariæ ejúsque idolorum; sed integram Isa. 2. 18, 19. Hæc autem paulò fusiùs ostendere visum fuit, nè Dominus Lawenus me absque ratione negâsse putaret Sigillum sextum esse Tempus secundi adventûs: cujus verò temporis, & cujusmodi rerum conversionibus & ruinis applicandum sit, non est hîc dicendi locus. Pergo ad cætera.

Quartò, Hypothesibus meis annumerat, quòd Quadraginta duo illi menses sint tota duratio sex Tubarum. At hæc Hypothesis non est, sed conclusio ex præmissis Synchronismis necessariò sequens. At (inquit) menses isti rejiciuntur in finem sextæ Tubæ, Apoc. 11. 2. Nego: non est caput undecimum pars visionis Tubæ sextæ, sed nova prophetia, ut postea videbitur. Sed certum est (inquit) Menses illos propriè & secundùm literam accipiendos esse de mensibus dierum, non annorum; proindéque istis temporum angustiis sex Tubarum intervallum includi non posse. Magnum verò postulatum: miror illud doctissimo viro certum esse, quod à plerisque nostrorum non modò negari, sed & magno studio impugnari noverit. Hoccine autem pro concesso sumendum fuit? Mihi contrà inter alia illud argumento est, Menses istos secundùm literam accipi non posse, quòd Bestia, cujus duratio sint, Cœtui centum quadraginta quatuor mille obsignatorum, Cœtus autem obsignatorum sex primis Tubis contemporet; Tubarum verò res tantillo tempore decurri non posse. Adhæc, si tres isti dies & dimidium mortis Testium, quæ pars sunt dierum 1260, seu mensium 42, literaliter accipi nequeant; tum neque dies 1260, seu menses 42, sic accipi debent. At tres istos dies & dimidium diei literaliter accipi non posse, patet ex iis quæ tunc gerenda prædicuntur. Quis enim credat tridui & dimidii diei spatiolum, aut famæ necis Testium per orbem disseminandæ, aut legatis cum muneribus ultro citróque inter gentes mittendis, sufficere? imò nè parandis quidem muneribus sufficeret. Adde quòd dimidium diei, seu horæ duodecim, si literaliter accipias, actionibus hujusmodi determinandis prorsus ineptum sit: non enim ad horas istiusmodi res observari solent, quinimo ad menses, saltem ad dies integros.

Responsio ad Censuram specialem, & primò, Ad Censuram Synchronismi I.

AD primum Synchronismum, Mulieris in Eremo agentis, Bestiæ Septicipitis instauratæ, Atrii calcati, & Testium Prophetantium in sacco, primùm illud notat, Bestiam diu fuisse Septicipitem antequam fuit instaurata, ac proinde non bene hîc conjungi tanquam Synchrona. Putat scilicet me nomine Bestiæ Septicipitis Bestiam sub novissimo tantùm seu septimo capite agentem intellexisse. In quo fallitur. Ego enim Bestiam Septicipitem vocavi διαχριτικῶς Bestiam illam primò descriptam, quocunque statu; quia cum tot capitibus eam Spiritus ubique, etiam sub sexto capite, videndam exhibuerit. Quamvis enim non simul, sed ordine & deinceps, Capita vices suas egissent, tamen Bestia ipsa una eadémque censetur omni statu. Addidi autem instauratam, ut novissimum ejus statum designem; nè quis me cum Bestia simpliciter, & omni statu, Synchronismum hîc astruere velle existimet, sed tantùm novissimo. Sed nè sic quidem in tuto res est. Nam porrò inquit Bestiam etiam aliquandiu sub septimo illo & novissimo capite grassatam esse antequam plagam gladii accepit, ex eâque denuo revixit. Ad hæc, Menses quadraginta duos nec esse totam durationem regni Bestiæ instauratæ, sed sævissimæ & novissimæ persecutionis. Et hîc quidem sibi nudè affirmanti credi postulat, argumentum enim nullum affert.

Ego verò contrà assero nullum alium Bestiæ Septicipitis statum cap. 13. describi quàm instaurationis; essèque eum statum integrum Bestiæ capitis novissimi. Quicquid enim mali Bestia fecisse dicitur, quicquid cultûs & adorationis eidem ab incolis terræ delatum est, id omne post instaurationem ipsius seu plagæ curationem factum legitur: Et vidi, inquit, unum ex capitibus ejus ὡς ἐσφαγμένην εἰς θάνατον, quasi lethaliter occisum fuisset; (nempe non nunc vidente Joanne, sed ante hunc exortum suum) sed plaga ejus sanata fuit: (nimirum statim ab exortu suo, aut in ipso) & admirans universa terra secuta est Bestiam, (nempe jam sanatam,) & adorârunt Draconem, &c. Túncque datum est ei os loquens grandia, & blasphemias, &c. & aperuit os suum adversus Deum, &c. Omnia hæc post sanationem facta sunt; sed ante sanationem nihil est quod fecisse legitur, nec ei quicquam honoris à Gentibus delatum. Fuit igitur instauratio ista Bestiæ novissimi capitis (quo eam statu Joannes è mari emergentem vidit) non fatum aliquod posterius, sed ipsa nativitas. A reliquorum enim capitum singulis ad caput sequens sine plaga transitum est. Atqui in transitu à sexto ad novissimum, lethali vulnere decubuit Bestia; quo eam vulnere sauciam (id est, sexto capite vulneratam) Joannes è mari emergentem vidit: non vidit eam cùm vulneraretur; siquidem τὸ ὡς ἐσφαγμένην sensu plusquam perfecti accipiendum est, quemadmodum suprà c. 5. v. 6. Vidit in medio Presbyterorum & Animalium Agnum stantem ὡς ἐσφαγμένον, quasi mactatus fuisset, non eo tunc vidente mactatum. Hic sensus simplicissimus est, quem litera & ordo contextûs ultro suppeditat; à quo temerè recedendum non est, ubi nec ratio nec necessitas ulla ad id compellit. Frustrà igitur est Dominus Lawenus, dum Bestiæ instaurationem unáq; menses illos quadraginta duos ad supremam & novissimam Bestiæ persecutionem rejiciat; nisi eódem quoq; rejicere velit Bestiæ adorationem, grandiloquentiam, blasphemiam, & (ut verbo dicam) omnia in universum Bestiæ facinora; sicq; Bestiam nobis cudet Antichristianam, cujus per tot ſecula nulla prædicantur facta, nulla perſecutio. Sed nihil agens nè cogitari quidem poteſt quòd ſit. Sed, quod ferè prætermiſeram, De Menſibus Beſtiæ in noviſſimam ejus perſecutionem rejiciendis lectionem Complutenſem ſibi favere putat; quia ſcilicet, pro poteſtatem faciendi menſes quadraginta duos, legit poteſtatem bellum faciendi. Hoc verò ut neutiquam ei patrocinatur, (cùm totum Beſtiæ dominium non aliud ſit quàm quoddam contra Sanctos bellum;) ità cùm neque interpres Latinus neque Syrus eam vocem agnoſcant, ad hæc, cùm ex quindecim Stephani exemplaribus duo tantùm eam habuerint, omnino in eam ſententiam devenio, à Sciolo aliquo additam eſſe, qui vim verbi ποιεῖν vivendi & durandi ſignificatione cum nominibus temporis ignoraverit. De qua vide Act. 15. 33. 2 Cor. 11. 25. Jac. 4. 13.

De Beſtia & Muliere.

HUic Synchroniſmo ſpeciatim opponit, Inſtaurationem Beſtiæ initium quidem ſumere cum initio peregrinationis Mulieris in deſerto, ipſam tamen longiùs perdurare. Sed ſi eadem ſint & æqualia tempora Mulieris & tempora Beſtiæ, ut ipſe quidem fatetur; quî fieri poſſit ut quæ eodem tempore incipiant, non etiam ſimul deſinant, fateor me non capere. Sanè apud Mathematicos magnitudines æquales ſunt etiam congruæ, id eſt, prima primis, media mediis, extrema extremis reſpondent.

De Atrio Exteriori à Gentibus calcato.

A*Trium à Gentibus calcatum eſſe ſe neſcire*, ait, unde hauſerit Synchroniſta, cùm Apoc. 11. tantùm dicatur illud Gentibus datum eſſe. Dicam unde hauſerim. Putabam Atrium exterius & Civitatem ſanctam ſeſe mutuò in hac Viſione explicare: quia nimirum Atrium exterius locus fuit ubi Civitas ſancta conveniret, proindéque dictum Atrium Iſraelis. Imò in deſerto, unicum tantùm Atrium habente Tabernaculo, (quò non niſi Sacerdotibus & Levitis ordinariè ingredi fas erat) Atrium exterius nullum erat præter caſtra Iſraelis ceu Civitatem ſanctam. Accepi igitur acſi ſcriptum fuiſſet, Atrium quod extra Templum eſt nè metiaris; nam datum eſt Gentibus, & calcabunt illud menſibus quadraginta duobus. Nam Enallage Subſtantivi pro Relativo non infrequens eſt, tum in hoc libro, tum alibi; nempe aut Subſtantivum quod præceſſit repetendo, aut ejus Synonymum loco Relativi ſubſtituendo: cujus exemplum vide Act. 25. 21. Et ſanè quid aliud eſſe dicemus Gentibus dari, hoc eſt, occupandi poteſtatem fieri, quàm calcari? & quid tandem calcarent Gentes niſi id quod datum fuerat? Adeò ut hæ quoq; voces non minùs quàm Atrii & Civitatis ſanctæ mutuò ſeſe explicare videantur.

Sed ut adhuc magis vapulem, addit præterea, Atrium hoc exterius apud Joannem non eſſe, quod ego ſentio, Atrium Iſraelis, ſed Atrium Gentium; Atrium verò Iſraelis ſub illis verbis intelligi, ET ADORANTES IN EO. Sed hîc mirum eſt quàm fallitur. Nuſquam enim in tota Scriptura Atrium illud Gentium (quod prophanum erat, non ſacrum) Atrii exterioris nomine intelligitur; ſed Atrium Iſraelis, id eſt, populi Iſraelitici. Neque populus in eo Atrio adoratum veniebat ubi altare ſitum erat, ſed Sacerdotes & Levitæ: quod eum Druſius docere potuit ad hunc locum. Res ſic ſe habet.

Τὸ Ἱερὸν (quo nomine univerſum Templi ædificium complector) gemino diſcri-discriminabatur Atrio: uno interiori, in quo Templum ipsum (Ναὸς) cum Altari holocausti situm fuerat, patebátque solis Sacerdotibus & Levitis; altero exteriori, quod Atrium magnum dicitur 2 Paral. 4. 9. Ezechieli plusquam duodecies חצר החיצונה, id est, Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν seu ἐξωτέρα. Hoc Israelitarum erat seu populi Israelitici, ideóque Israelis Atrium nonnullis dictum; quamvis alioquin speciatim sic vocabatur ea hujus Atrii pars quæ virorum esset. Prius Atrium nomine Templi & Θυσιαστήριον à Joanne circumscribitur: ubi Θυσιαστήριον non Altare tantùm holocausti, quod inibi situm erat, sed totum Altaris, id est, Sacrificii locum designat; ut ex illis verbis colligi potest, καὶ προσκυνοῦντες ἐν αὐτῷ, id est, ἐν τῷ θυσιαστηρίῳ. Quomodo & Θυσιαστήριον sumitur cap. 14. vers. 18. & cap. 16, 17. Vide Bezam. Unde Lexicon vetus, Θυσιαστήριον, Altarium, Sacrarium. Posterius Atrium appellatur Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν τοῦ Ναοῦ, id est, per ellipsin prioris Substantivi Hebraismo non ignotam, ἡ ἔξωθεν τῆς αὐλῆς τοῦ Ναοῦ, Atrium quod est extra Templum, καὶ τὸ Θυσιαστήριον seu Altarium; in quo cùm Gentes præter jus & fas admissi stabularentur, nequaquam mensurari, sed ejici jubetur & pro prophano haberi. Duobus hisce Atriis (quorum & non plurium * Scriptura meminit) posterioribus seculis, in Templo nimirum Herodiano, tertium additum fuit, quod Gentium & immundorum dicebatur; sed pro sacro non habitum. unde in columnis ibi positis inscriptum fuit tum Græcis tum Latinis literis, (Josepho teste) μὴ δεῖν ἀλλόφυλον ἐντὸς τοῦ ἁγίου παρίναι, In Atrium sanctum alienigenam transire non debere. De Bell. Jud. l. 6. c. 6. Gr. ιδ'.

* Vid. 2 Paral. 33. 5.

De Bestia & duobus Testibus.

PRophetia Testium, inquit, licèt initium sumat cum instauratione Bestiæ, non tamen cum eadem terminatur. Hoc ego tantundem intelligo, quantum illud de Bestia & Muliere. Nam si dies 1260 initium sumant cum mensibus 42, quî fieri potest ut non simul terminentur? si simul, ergò cum exitu Tubæ sextæ aut ineunte septima; nec enim ulteriùs prorogari potest Testium prophetia.

Ad Censuram Synchronismi II.

BEstia Bicornis, inquit, ortu posterior est Bestiâ Septicipite. Fateor, quà Septiceps est; non quà Decemcornupeta. neque ego hîc Bestiam Bicornem cum Septicipite compono alio quàm instaurationis seu capitis novissimi statu. In transitu à sexto capite ad novissimum lethali vulnere decubuit Bestia, ut jam antea dixi; quo vulnere omnino periisset, nisi medicam ei manum commodè adhibuisset Pseudopropheta. Hoc autem statu (Instaurationis nimirum) fatetur Lawenus Bestiam Bicornem Septicipiti coævam esse. Ait enim, Nata demum videtur circa instaurationem Bestiæ prioris, utpote quæ fecerit adorari Bestiam primam, cujus curata est plaga. Hoc cùm ipse dixerit, non video cur me reprehendat quòd Bestiam Bicornem Septicipitis (instauratæ nimirum) conditorem seu instauratorem vocaverim. Annon qui de novo adorari fecit, post potestatem ex lethali plaga intercisam aut collapsam, instaurare censendus est? At, inquit, Bestia illa prior dicitur. Scilicet, non temporis, sed narrationis ordine. Nullum enim hîc Bestiæ Septicipitis statum agnosco à Joanne visum, præterquam instaurationis. At opus illud instaurationis, inquit, Draconi tribuitur, non Pseudoprophetæ. Respondeo; Cessit quidem Draco potestatem suam Bestiæ; sed eandem dem Bestiæ conciliavit Pseudopropheta, tum cùm orbis incolis persuaserit ut facerent Imaginem Bestiæ vulneratæ, Imaginem (ut videtur) ejus statûs quo plagam acceperat; quâ imagine factâ, Bestia illa pridem sauciata revixit. Sic enim referri & exponi possunt verba καὶ ἔζησε v. 14. quamvis etiam non incommodè referri possunt ad descriptionem Bestiæ priùs factam, eo sensu acsi diceretur Joannis personâ, ut facerent imaginem Bestiæ, Bestiæ nimirum illi quam ego sauciatam denuóque sanatam me vidisse dixi.

Ità enim sentio, Joannem utramque Bestiam simul emergentem vidisse; hanc ex mari, illam ex terra: priùs autem ejus quæ ex mari capite sauciato ascenderat historiam describere, deinde ejus quæ ex terra. Nam quæ simul gesta sunt, simul tamen narrari non potuerint, sed seorsim & deinceps. Primò igitur Septicipitis sanatæ tyrannidem & blasphemias recensere: postea ut ei vulneratæ Bicornis medicam manum adhibuerit, populos in obsequium ejus flexit, eíque potestatem conciliavit cujus ipsa præfecturam gereret, cæteráque quæ fecit in conspectu ejus.

Ad Censuram Appendicis de alternatione nominum Bestiæ, Imaginis Bestiæ, & Pseudoprophetæ.

JAM Appendix illa de alternatione nominum non somnium fuit, sed conjectura probabilibus argumentis subnixa. Ejus duæ quasi partes. Una, Imaginem quæ dicitur Bestia esse ipsam Bestiam septicipitem sub instaurationis statu. Altera, ubicunque Bestia cum Imagine Bestiæ conjunctim legitur, ibi Bestiæ nomine non Decemcornupetam, sed Bicornem intelligi. De primo, Quòd dixi, Imaginem Bestiæ esse ipsam Bestiam septicipitem sub instaurationis statu; eo sensu dixi quo dici solet Anima cujusque est quisque. Ità enim etiamnum vigilans sentio, Imaginem illam esse (non, quod Lawenus vult, Idolum magicum, sed) Bestiæ instauratæ formam, juxta quam instaurari dicitur. Bestia scilicet novissimi capitis, Pseudopropheta auspice, facta est Imago Bestiæ sexto capite mactatæ, id est, Draconis septicipitis, qui idcirco quasi revixisse dicitur. Esse enim Draconem septicipitem (septicipitem dico, non simplicem) sexti capitis Bestiam, ex eo liquere potest, quòd eidem novissimi seu septimi capitis Bestia in eodem throno proximè successerit. Sic enim colligo; Draco thronum suum cessit Bestiæ capitis novissimi; ergò decessor ejus fuit, seu penultimi capitis Bestia. Hujus imaginem (Draconissmum, si libet, voca; aut quid si Dæmonolatriam?) novissimi quoque capitis Bestiæ, Bicornis iste Draconiloquus adeò insculpi curavit, ut qui eam adoraverit, Draconem pridem debellatum quasi de novo adorâsse dicatur.

Bestia septimi capitis est imago Bestiæ sexto capite mactatæ, vel imaginem gerit, &c.

Sanè citra Imaginem istam (juxta quam Bestiam adorabant ii quorum nomina non sunt scripta in libro vitæ Agni) Bestiam adorare (quo sensu hîc dicitur) non magis impium fuisset, quàm cuivis alii potestati mundanæ morem gerere. Hoc autem ostendo; quia Bestiam adorare ex Hebraismi & Orientis usu nihil aliud est quàm eidem subjici: id quod ex eo apparet, quòd verbo Adorandi ἐξηγητικῶς subjungitur vers. 4. Et adorârunt Bestiam, dicentes, Quis similis Bestiæ? & quis potis est belligerare cum ea? Bestiam igitur adorare est Bestiæ se dedere tanquam potentiori, & cui nemo sit resistendo & belligerando. Quo eodem sensu terra ipsa, non modò incolæ ejus, Bestiam adorare dicitur vers. 12. id est, ei subjici: Καὶ ἐποίει (inquit) τὴν γῆν καὶ τοὺς ἐν αὐτῇ κατοικοῦντας ἵνα προσκυνήσωσι, &c. De hac notione verbi προσκυνεῖν, vide Gen. 27. 29. & cap. 37. 7. & cap. 49. 8. item Isa. 45. 14. At Bestiæ juxta imaginem suam subjici, quà Draconem septicipitem referat, id id verò in Deum blaſphemum eſt & impium. Unde qui ſic Beſtiam adorant, in Beſtiam adorando Draconem adorare dicuntur, verſ. 3, 4.

Ad alteram Appendicis partem venio. Dixi, Ubicunque Beſtia & Imago ejus tanquam jugales audiuntur, ibi Beſtiæ nomine Bicornem intelligi. De hoc fatebor ingenuè meipſum jamdudum dubitare cœpiſſe, ex quo obſervaverim copulationem iſtam, Beſtiam & Imaginem ejus, per figuram Ἓν διὰ δυοῖν exponi poſſe, quaſi Beſtiam in imagine, vel juxta imaginem ejus, vel quid ſimile: quod tamen alium forſan non moviſſet.

Utut ſit, in neutrô videtur Lawenus argumentis meis ſatisfeciſſe. Ad id quod de Imagine Beſtiæ adduxi, Dici eam facere ut quicunque non adorârint Imaginem Beſtiæ (id eſt, ſeipſam) occidantur, id verò alterutrius Beſtiæ opus videri; reſpondit, Imagini Beſtiæ adſcribi quod Pſeudopropheta fecit Imaginis illius author, Metonymiâ effectûs. Mira verò Metonymia! quâ actio agentis circa objectum tribuatur objecto in ſeipſum; cujuſmodi credo Metonymiæ exemplum nullum dari poſſe. Scio quidem effecto nonnunquam tribui actionem cauſæ principalis in objectum ab utroque diverſum; ſed non cùm effectum ipſum actionis objectum fuerit. Porrò huic reſponſo præſidium quærit in Editione Complutenſi, quæ unà cum Andrea (diceret Areta) legit Καὶ ποιεῖ, & facit, nempe Beſtia Bicornis. Sed dixerim lectionem hanc corruptam videri, & fortaſſe Aretæ ævo natales ſuos debere. R. Stephanus non annotavit, quia, ut conjicere eſt, in nullo ſuorum codicum reperit. Aut conjunctionem Καὶ ante verbum λαλήσῃ pro depravatæ lectionis argumento habuit, ut quæ in ſequenti membro poſtulare videatur ἐν ποιήσῃ.

Quod dixi, Ubi Beſtia cum Pſeudopropheta ſimul adſit, ibi Imaginem Beſtiæ non comparere; opponit Apoc. 19. 20. ubi ſimul comparent Beſtia, Imago Beſtiæ, atque Pſeudopropheta; ut ibi Beſtiæ nomine Pſeudopropheta intelligi nequeat. Reſpondeo, In eodem quidem verſu comparere, ſed combinatione & ſententiis diverſis. Prima combinatio eſt Beſtiæ & Pſeudoprophetæ illis verbis, Et comprehenſa eſt Beſtia & cum ea Pſeudopropheta. Secunda eſt Beſtiæ & Imaginis ejus, ubi dicitur, Seduxit eos qui acceperant characterem Beſtiæ, & adoraverant Imaginem ejus. Poſſum igitur affirmare primâ combinatione Beſtiam dici Septicipitem Beſtiam, ſecundâ verò Bicornem. Quòd verò paulò pòſt obtendat, Adorationem ſoli Beſtiæ Septicipiti, non Bicorni competere, utpote de qua illud ſolummodo dicatur, quòd fecit adorari Beſtiam Septicipitem; reſpondeo, De Bicorni Beſtia & illud quoque dici, quòd exerceat omnem ἐξουσίαν Beſtiæ Septicipitis in conſpectu ejus; hujus autem ἐξουσίας partem, vel præcipuam, eſſe adorationem accipere, ut apparet v. 7, 8. Præterea, cùm Beſtiam adorare nihil aliud ſit quàm homines ſeſe imperio ejus ſubjicere; conſtat Beſtiam abſque adoratione Beſtiam eſſe non poſſe.

Quod porrò ait ad tertium meum argumentum, Nomen numerúmque beſtiæ Beſtiæ Septicipitis eſſe, non Bicornis; novit doctiſſimus Vir, illis contrarium videri qui ſolam Beſtiam Bicornem pro Antichriſto habent, Beſtiam autem primam pro Imperio Romano Ethnico: quibuſcum tamen ego de interpretatione non ſentio.

Denique falſum eſſe ait (quod mihi etiam in hac diſſertatione excidit) Beſtiam Septicipitem reſtitutam totam ſe arbitrio Pſeudopropheta tanquam ſupremi Domini regendam permittere. Ego verò id ipſum verbis illis innui puto quibus dicitur, eam omnem poteſtatem Beſtiæ prioris exercere in conſpectu ejus. Sed hæc omnia interpretatione multò magis clareſcerent, niſi quòd ab ea, juxta inſtituti mei legem, hîc prorſus abſtinendum ſit.

Ad

Ad Censuram Synchronismi III.

TErtius Synchronismus, inquit, MERETRICIS ET BESTIÆ SEPTICIPITIS DECEMCORNUPETÆ, castigatione indiget; quia Mulier meretrix, id est, Urbs Roma, jam tempore Joannis exstabat, quando Bestia Septiceps capitis novissimi adhuc futura erat.

Respondeo; Mulier quidem Joannis ævo fuit, & ante Joannis ævum, eadémque toto illo tempore Bestiæ regina; sed Meretrix non fuit Mulier nisi Bestiâ demum novissimi capitis agente vicem. Siquidem Meretricis nomine Scriptura Mœcham intelligit; jam Mœcha non est nisi quæ fidem conjugalem violaverit. At Civitas illa magna nondum Joannis ævo Christo in manum convenerat, ut Mœcha dici potuerit. Dixi ergò Meretricem, non Mulierem, Bestiæ non Septicipiti simpliciter, sed ei jam Decemcornupetæ contemporare.

Sed suspecta est mihi, inquit, latinia ista, DECEMCORNUPETA; quasi Bestia demum facta esset Decemcornupeta sub septimo, id est, novissimo, ejus capite. Ità est omnino. Pictores quidem hîc pro libitu decem cornua in septem capita distribuunt, aliis singula, aliis pro liberalitate sua bina largientes. At hoc non tantùm inconcinnum est, sed etiam falsum. Joanni enim solum caput septimum, in illa capitum sese invicem scandentium scala situ summum, vice novissimum, cornuum gestamine superbit: id quod sic probatum dabo. Florente capite floreſcunt cornua; quo occidente, etiam cornua indè enascentia occidere necesse est. In primis igitur quinque capitibus hæc cornua inesse non poterant; quia quinque illa capita jam abierant, & unà cum capitum vicibus cornuum quoque vices abiissent: neque in sexto; quoniam eo Joannis ævo regnante, cornuum tamen tempus nondum advenerat. Relinquuntur igitur capiti novissimo.

At, inquit Lawenus, Verba Apocalypseôs clarè & disertè docent, decem illa cornua ipsis temporibus Joannis exstitisse. Imò contrarium docent clarissimè & disertissimè. Decem cornua, inquit Angelus, sunt decem reges qui regnum nondum acceperunt. [SUNT] autem in hujusmodi sententiis copulativè sumitur, non ὑπαρκτικῶς, quod Logici nôrunt. Alioquin concludendum quoque esset, Omnes septem reges Joannis temporibus exstitisse, quia de septem quoque capitibus dicitur, Septem capita sunt septem reges, Βασιλεῖς ἑπτά εἰσι.

Sed & ab eventu sententiæ adversanti præsidium quærit: Certum enim est, inquit, ex historiis imperium Romanum, dum hæc scriberet Joannes, ex decem regnis sive regalibus provinciis tanquam partibus constitisse. Imò certum est, si Straboni fides, (qui solus hîc laudari solet, quémque Lawenus hujus rei authorem laudat) Imperium Romanum eo seculo non in decem tantùm, sed in viginti provincias divisum fuisse; quarum nempe decem Imperator sumebat sibi, alteras decem populo Rom. tribuebat. Inspiciat Strabonem ipsum, & de numero provinciarum, & quæ fuerint; ut videat quàm non nimis tutum sit alienis oculis fidere.

Ad Censuram Synchronismi IV.

SYnchronismum CENTUM QUADRAGINTA QUATUOR MILLE VIRGINUM CUM MERETRICE BABYLONICA ET BESTIA eodem vitio laborare ait: Quia Cœtus centum quadraginta quatuor mille virginum in solidum non contemporat Meretrici & Bestiæ, sed temporibus

earum

earum poſtremis. Reſpondeo; Cœtus Virgineus in ſolidum contemporat Meretrici, non Mulieri. Neque, quod vult Lawenus, exſuperat Beſtiæ regnum, ſed ut cum eo cœpit, ità quoq; (quod ſtatum illum obſignationis attinet) cum eodem deſinit, migrátque poſtmodum in ſtatum novum Turbæ Palmiferæ. Quæ nimirum eſt maſſa illa numeroſa Agni poſt devictam Beſtiam ſequacium; cujus reſpectu Cœtus ille centum quadraginta quatuor mille ſub Beſtiæ adhuc blaſphemantis tyrannide Agno adhærentium, Primitiæ tantùm dicebantur. Sed video Dominum Lawenum duas iſtas Viſiones hîc & ubique confundere; quas tamen diverſas eſſe conſtat & diverſorum temporum. Cœtus enim Virginum numeratus eſt; Turba Palmifera innumerabilis: Ille ſub Beſtia rerum potiunte gemit; hæc poſt Beſtiam occiſam ovat; Hi ſunt, inquit, qui venerunt de tribulatione magna, id eſt, de tyrannide Beſtiæ Sanctos tribulantis. Unde illis ſigillo proſpectum fuit nè læderentur; iſtis obſignatione iſtiuſmodi nihil opus erat. Nec ſi fortè perſonæ ipſæ in utroque ſtatu aliquatenus eædem ſint, proinde diverſi rerum ſtatus confundendi ſunt. Eccleſia ſemper una eſt, ſed fortunâ & conditione pro temporum ſtatu diſſimilis. Quæ diverſæ Eccleſiæ, ut ità dicam, facies diverſis viſionibus exhibentur.

Ad Cenſuram Synchroniſmi V.

Quintus Synchroniſmus, inquit, DE GENERALI ANTEDICTORUM SYNCHRONISMO, potuiſſet omitti. Fateor. Sed poteſt etiam retineri, & ſuum uſum mihi habere viſum, ut tot Synchronizantium vaticiniorum ſyſtema uno intuitu exhibeatur. Præterea non eſt, quod ait, nuda præcedentium Synchroniſmorum repetitio. Nihil enim adhuc de Meretricis cum Muliere Eremitica & Teſtibus, aut de Cœtu Virgineo cum iiſdem, Synchroniſmo dictum fuit. Nec pari ratione duo ſequentes Synchroniſmi repeti potuiſſent, cùm illi nequaquam contemporent; ut proinde quod ſcitè à ſe dictum putat de octavo Synchroniſmo, ut non urbanè admodum, ità nec verè dixerit.

Ad Cenſuram Synchroniſmi VI.

Peccat, inquit, ἀωρολογία verborum, quia Apocalypſis expreſsè non meminerit Atrii menſurabilis. Quid ſi expreſsè non meminerit? num ideo eſt ἀωρολογία? ſed maluit retineri nomen expreſſum TEMPLI MENSURABILIS. At hoc non ſuffeciſſet; namque etiam metiri jubetur θυσιαστήριον καὶ τοὺς προσκυνοῦντας ἐν αὐτῷ. Hæc ego omnia uno illo Atrii interioris nomine complecti volui, cùm illud iſtâ verborum periphraſi deſignari non dubitârim. At Atrium interius, inquit, eſt Atrium Iſraelis. Fallitur, ut jam antè oſtendi.

Porrò, ait peccare hunc Synchroniſmum confuſione temporum. Licèt enim ex eo quòd ambo ſint antecedanea contemporaneorum, illud ſequatur, Prælium Draconis incidere in tempus Templi menſurabilis; Templum tamen non priùs & citiùs menſuratum fuiſſe quàm Prælium illud commiſſum fuerit, eo argumento probari nequit. Fateor. Neque id in Clave mea celavi. Inſpice ſodes p. * 10. l. 20. At ex eo quòd ſint proxima antecedentia contemporaneorum, ſequitur ea communem exitûs ſui terminum ſortiri. Quòd verò ut in fine, ſic etiam initio concurrant, alio argumento, eóque mihi ſat veriſimili, aſtruere conatus ſum. Cujus quidem fundamentum de initio Prophetiæ repetitæ hîc inſaniæ deputat Cenſor, & paulò pòſt ſe refutaturum pollicetur. Ibi igitur reſponſum habebit.

[* Hujus edit. p. 526.]

Quin-

Quinimo, inquit, Prælium illud Draconis commissum & absolutum fuit in ictu oculi; ideóque cum Templi dimensuratione, utpote continui temporis prophetiâ, contemporare nequit. Respondeo; Etsi in toto hoc negotio ab interpretatione Vaticiniorum abstinuerim; tamen necesse fuit sensum aliquem Grammaticum præsupponi, & pro fundamento rebus demonstrandis substerni. Ex hac autem Objectione demum perspicio me non satìs cautè locutum esse. Draconis insidias & dimicationem pro iisdem habui; Dominus Lawenus distinguit. Utut sit, ad rem ipsam parùm interest. Intelligo enim Draconis molitionem (ità posthac vocabo) durante Puerperio, quicquid tandem fuerit, sive Prælium, sive aliud. Hanc, puto, non est dicturus in ictu oculi peractam. Non enim potest, nisi etiam Puerperium momentaneum dicat. Denique, si saltem Puerperii cum Atrio mensurabili Synchronismum mihi concesserit, de Dracone non pugnabo. Neque certè eum hîc alio argumento impugnat (dum dimensurationis initium puerperii multò recentius asserit) quàm ex privatæ interpretationis hypothesi; cui ut respondeam non est opus.

De Septimo Synchronismo mihi assentitur. Pergo igitur ad Stricturas ejus in Partem Secundam.

Responsio ad Stricturas in Partem Secundam.

HIC à Præloquio meo incipit; quod miror admodum cur tantopere exagitet, innocuum certè & nihil mali meritum. Neque enim mihi animus fuit in eo demonstrare quicquam, imò nec fundamentum substernere Synchronismis mox demonstrandis: sed tantummodo Lectorem præmonere quid, singulis Visionibus juxta mox futuras Synchronismorum ἀποδείξεις ritè dispositis, tum ipse observaverim, tum ille observare poterit; nimirum Intervallum seu periodum Apocalypticam bis tantùm integrè percurri, primùm Prophetiâ Sigillorum, secundò eâ quæ à Libro aperto incipit; atque eâ ratione Apocalypsin indè à capite quarto ad finem in duas Prophetias principales dispertiri. Dixi Prophetias, non Visiones. Sciebam Visiones esse plures, sed ex iis non nisi duo Prophetiarum syntagmata confieri, quibus periodus Apocalyptica integrè percurratur. Id verò est quod affirmavi, atque etiamnum affirmo. Quid peccavi? numquid affirmabit Lawenus, pluries, id est, septies, periodum Apocalypticam percurri? Haud facilè credo. An negabit Partitionem istiusmodi ex Synchronismis meis secuturam? Non potest. At ego hoc solùm in Præloquio meo volui. Ergò cum larvis hîc pugnat, & potuit omni labori isti peperciſſe. Nam si Synchronismos meos refutâsset, Partitio hæc bimembris Visionum Apocalypticarum per se concidisset; utpote quæ ex Synchronismis istis exstructa est, non verò iis pro fundamento subsstrata. Sed voluit fortè hanc Præloquii mei flagellationem vice præloquii esse ad Stricturas sequentes.

Videamus igitur quomodo Partitionem meam destruat. Primò, (inquit) confundit finem unius Prophetiæ cum principio alterius. Intelligit, ni fallor, finem Prophetiæ consummantis. Alioquin enim vitiosum non est, fini unius Prophetiæ continuari principium alterius. Ità Visioni Draconis rufi-Septicipitis finienti continuatur Visio Bestiæ marinæ redintegratæ: Visionem Phialarum vult Lawenus concatenari fini Tubæ sextæ. Sed visioni consummanti (ità voco quæ finem periodi Apocalypticæ attingit) fateor non posse aliam Visionem continuari. Sed inquit, Partitione meâ continuari initium initium prophetiæ Tubarum cum fine prophetiæ Sigillorum, prophetiæ consummantis, nempe cum fine Sigilli septimi. Ego verò illud nego, & aio prophetiam Tubarum esse ipsummet Sigillum septimum, ideóque à me nec confundi nec continuari cum fine Sigilli septimi, sed, ut æquum erat, conjungi cum fine sexti. At, inquit, Finis prophetiæ Sigillorum est in Turba Palmifera, idque fatente meipso. Respondeo; Aliud est, esse finem prophetiæ Sigillorum contemporando, aliud, (ut ità loquar) exhibendo. Fateor prophetiâ Obsignatorum & succedaneâ prophetiâ Palmiferorum (quas Lawenus malè confundit) totum Sigilli septimi intervallum percurri contemporando: sed in illis exhiberi visionem Sigilli septimi, id verò pernego. Visio Sigilli septimi ea demum est quam exhibet apertio Sigilli septimi; Visio, inquam, Tubarum, ut suprà ostendi. Visio autem gemina illa Obsignatorum & Palmiferorum est Visio interposita in usum characteris; quò scilicet sciremus secuturas post Βιβλαριδίου comestionem Visiones reliquas cum Sigillorum prophetia aptè connectere; ut monui Synchron. I. Part. II.

Quod porrò ait de Silentio illo semihoræ ad initium prophetiæ Tubarum, seu apertionem Sigilli septimi, esse illud novæ prophetiæ indicium; gratis dicit, nec ad rem quicquam facit. Neque enim ego negârim visionem Tubarum esse novam prophetiam, & à præcedentibus Sigillis diversam; sed esse prophetiam de novo repetitam, illud verò est quod inficias eo: ideóque novitate suâ non obstante, aio præcedentibus Sigillis ratione rei gerendæ continuandam esse. Id quod Alstedius minimè dubitavit, qui tamen de numero Visionum Apocalypticarum juxtà cum Laweno sentit. Sed unum est quod non capio. Silentio semihoræ ait nihil aliud significari quàm Joannem à visionibus præcedentis prophetiæ ad medium horæ quievisse. Quid hoc est? an igitur Joannes videndo aut audiendo sonitum fecit? Hoc aio me non capere.

Sed quoniam tantum causæ suæ præsidium in hoc Silentio Lawenus ponit; videamus annon ea sit Silentii hujus mens, quæ commentum illud de Tubarum prophetia à Sigillis abjungenda nedum juvet, sed penitus destruet, cui ille astruendo servire putet. Notum est in sacris ubivis ferè Gentium, Silentium de religione fuisse. Favere linguis dicebant. Id à populo Dei observatum tum cùm Incensum fieret. Dum enim sacrificia offerrentur, Templum canticis, tubis aliísque instrumentis musicis personabat, 2 Chron. 29. 25, &c. At tempore Incensi omnia silebant, & populus tacitè secum precabatur, Luc. 1. 10. Huc igitur alludsum esse videtur, dum, Angelo ad Altare aureum sacra facturo, factum esse dicitur in cœlo Silentium ad semihoram, id est, toto tempore Incensi. Ità quoque apud veteres mos erat, teste Servio, ut lumine incenso silentium præberetur.

Quod denique addit Lawenus de Igne è cœlo in terram missо, eundem esse de quo Salvator dixerat Luc. 12.49. interpretamentum est, ideóque ab hac dissertatione alienum. Atque ità ab hoc ariete Partitio mea firma manet & inconcussa. Videamus an non eâdem quoque facilitate eorum qui supersunt impetum sustinere possit.

Secundò, inquit, Partitio hæc discerpit membra unius ejusdémque Prophetiæ arctissimè inter se cohærentia; nempe finem Tubæ sextæ divellit ab ipsius principio. Respondeo, Peti principium. Tantùm enim abest ut aut Libri comestio aut Templi mensuratio sit pars Tubæ sextæ, ut ad eam nullo prorsus modo pertineant. Quid enim? an quicquid narrandi ordine sequitur, statim pars est ejus quod præcessit? Cur non igitur septem tonitruum voces etiam pars essent Tubæ sextæ? quod tamen negat. Quod propiùs illius Tubæ clangorem excepit, eò non pertinebit; & pertinebit, imò pars erit, quod remotius est? Quis hîc discerpit membra unius ejusdémque Prophetiæ? Egóne, an Lawenus?

Tertiò, inquit, Commiscet hæc Partitio duas ad minimum integras prophetias toto cœlo à se invicem distinctas: Nempe prophetiam Libri aperti, & de Muliere parturiente; quoniam hanc illius partem facit. Hæc enim, ni fallor, est quam intelligit commistio prophetiarum; cùm me prophetiam de Muliere parturiente eandem facere dicit cum prophetia Libri aperti. Ego verò, ut jam antè monui, prophetiam Libri aperti voco, non unicam aliquam Visionem, sed totum illud Visionum Syntagma quas Joannes vidit, postquam ei, libro devorato, dictum fuerit, Oportet te iterum prophetare, &c. Annon autem hujus Syntagmatis seu Prophetiæ iteratæ pars est Visio Mulieris parturientis? Ipsum Lawenum appello in notationibus suis procœmialibus in Visionem quartam Apocalypt. Certum est, inquit, hanc Visionem (de Muliere parturiente, Bestia marina, & CXLIV Mille obsignatorum) partem quoque esse illius prophetiæ de qua Joanni dictum fuit, Oportet te iterum prophetare gentibus, populis, ac linguis, & Regibus multis. Hæc sunt ipsissima Laweni verba; si modò is sit (quod audio) qui se Theocritum Justum appellat. Quomodo tunc certum erat, quod nunc pro errore manifestario traducit? Adeóne cùm duo affirment idem, non est idem? Aut valdè fallor, aut hic vir doctus præ nimio stringendi calore sui oblitus est. At, inquit, certum est, prophetiam Libri aperti terminari cum fine Tubæ septimæ; prophetiam verò de Muliere parturiente, quæ hanc sequitur, prophetiam planè novam esse, quâ nihil antiquius habet Apocalypsis. Quomodo igitur hæc pars erit Libri aperti? Hoc scil. argumento suam meámque sententiam labefactatum it. Sed respondeo pro meipso & pro Theocrito Justo; omnino facillimé. Prophetia enim Libri aperti non est una aliqua prophetia continua, sed multarum, ut dixi, Visionum, partim continuantium, partim contemporantium, Systema; quarum una sola, id est, prima, totum intervallum Apocalypticum pervadit, reliquæ huic tanquam partes contemporantes annectuntur. Ità Visio de Muliere parturiente pars est prophetiæ Libri aperti, non continua, sed primæ Visioni (quæ in communem illam Tubæ novissimæ catastrophen desinit) contemporanea & parallela.

Quæ porrò subjungit de interpretatione Visionis de Puerperio, Mulierem parturientem esse Synagogam Judaicam, quæ patrem habuit Jacobum, qui assimilatur Soli; matrem Rachaelem, quæ comparatur Lunæ, &c. ut nimirum demonstret Visionem istam provehi ad caput & originem periodi Apocalypticæ, ac proinde in ea novam prophetiam inchoari: hæc (inquam) & similia sicco pede pertranseo; cùm, ut sæpe jam monui, nullus sit in hoc examine id genus interpretamentis locus concedendus.

Absolutâ interpretatione Puerperii, redit ad rem ipsam; & solito commotior, quasi stimulum alicunde sensisset, acerrimè invehitur in id quod bimembri meæ Partitioni subjunxerim, nempe posteriorem Apocalypseos partem, quæ est τῶ Βιβλαριδίῳ, ab eodem temporis seu periodi Apocalypticæ principio exordiri unde prior illa quæ est Sigillorum. Hîc qui Visionem Tubarum, ad septimi Sigilli apertionem exhibitam, ad primi Sigilli initium retraxit, & Sigillorum tramitem relegere fecit, mihi tamen pro immani crimine impingit, quòd post finitam sextæ Tubæ descriptionem, (nam uniuscujusque Tubæ, ut dixi, visum tantùm unicum est) póstque septimæ Tubæ præconium disertè exhibitum de consummatione mysterii Dei tum futura, postquam etiam septem tonitrua voces suas edidissent, quas ipse ad septimam Tubam pertinere affirmat, voluerim tamen ex sequentibus Novæ prophetiæ initium facere; cùm illud non modò ex Synchronismorum meorum syntaxi necessariò secuturum advertissem, verùm eódem etiam præter opinionem facere viderem verba illa longè disertissima, Oportet te iterum prophetare populis & gentibus & linguis & regibus multis. Ille sibi Silentium semihoræ sine ratione aut exemplo interpretanti credi postulat, quòd fit novæ

& re-

& repetitæ prophetiæ indicium; mihi Spiritui Sancto id disertis & perspicuis verbis affirmanti credere non licet. Sed plus ego, Lawene, hujusmodi verborum aucupiis (sic enim vocas) fido, quàm cujusvis hominum interpretamentis, nisi ea quoque verba perspicuè consentientia habuerint: Ut omnino frustrà sis, qui mihi hîc pro verbis clarissimis Δεῖ σε πάλιν προφητεῦσαι interpretationem maximè dubiam & incertam (alius violentam dixerit) obtruseris.

Ad objectum de currente adhuc, nec dum absolutâ, sextæ Tubæ descriptione, respondeo, Finem Tubæ sextæ esse ad finem capitis noni, nec ultrà protendi visionem ejus: nam unicum esse cuique Tubæ visum, sicut & Sigillis & Phialis; non duo vel plura. Deinde primam partem capitis decimi ad septimam Tubam pertinere; quod ipse, quod ad septem tonitrua, non diffitetur, & Angeli verba manifesta sunt. Quod reliquum est hujus capitis cum capite sequente ad novam prophetiam pertinere, monente id ipsum Spiritu Sancto. Ità prophetiam Sigillorum & Tubarum propriè & reâpse claudi magno illo Angeli tonitruum de tempore ad clangorem Tubæ septimæ finiendo, & mysterio Dei consummando, præconio. Sed quoniam Mysterium illud communius foret, tum hujus tum alterius Prophetiæ catastrophe, tum maximè ut sciretur quâ demum ratione sequens Prophetia cum hac Tubarum connectenda esset; ideo clangoris ipsiusmet de præsenti exhibitionem & evolutionem pleniorem ab Angelo eousque suspensam, donec & altera Prophetia, primâ suâ visione ad idem temporis Apocalyptici momentum provectâ, tanquam limes Synchronisticus & communis utriusque prophetiæ exitus interfereretur. Dicam (si possim) planiùs, quoniam video me à Domino Laweno non intelligi. Utraque Prophetia tam Sigillorum quàm Βιβλιαριδίου uno eodémque rerum exitu clauditur, quem exhibet Tuba novissima. Cui indicando, Spiritus Sanctus, Tubæ septimæ mysterio suo loco in Tubarum serie, quantum tunc satis erat, designato, clangorem ipsum distulit, donec ad novam Βιβλιαριδίου prophetiam transitione factâ, primam ipsius Visionem (stadio Apocalyptico similiter emenso) ad eundem rerum exitum provexisset. Túncque Mysterium illud Tubæ septimæ, utriusque Prophetiæ clausula communis, in priori Prophetia de genere tantùm promulgatum, hîc, clangore edito, pleniùs evolvitur: ídque commodissimè; cùm alioquin, absque utriusque Prophetiæ prægnitione, quod ab utraque pendebat intelligi non potuisset.

Et profectò ni hæc Spiritûs Sancti mens fuisset, nec juramentum de septimæ Tubæ clangore & mysterio eò loci inseruisset, nec verba statim Joanni de prophetia repetenda feciſſet. Quorsum enim hæc, nisi ut duplici isto indicio certos nos faceret de fine prophetiæ Tubarum illic indubiè statuendo; non obstante quod postmodum de clangore Tubæ septimæ novæ isti prophetiæ interserendum esset? Ego tamen (ut quod initio dixi iterum repetam) nihilominus hujusmodi discursibus bimembrem meam Partitionem non superstruxi, neque in Præloquio meo tanquam fundamentum proposui; sed solummodo monui eam consectarium fore Synchronismorum mox demonstrandorum, eíque apprimè convenire Angeli verba, & Visionem cap. 10. exhibitam. Nisi igitur quos demonstravi Synchronismos istiusmodi Partitionem conficiant, causam non dico quin prorsus eliminetur.

Postremùm addidi & illud Lectoris animadversione non indignum fore; Ad utriusque istarum, perinde atque primæ omnium Visionis de septem Ecclesiis, quasi trium integrarum Prophetiarum, initia singula voce tanquam Tubæ de cœlo loquentis proclamari, &c. Hîc mihi opponit Lawenus multò certiora novæ prophetiæ indicia, ut quòd singulæ aut inchoentur novâ visione, aut terminentur mentione secundi adventûs. Sed annon quæ ego attuli sunt novarum Visionum initia? aut dicat quo tandem signo internoscatur novæ Visionis exordium; præsertim si illud Δεῖ σε πάλιν προφητεῦσαι pro hujusmodi signo non habendum sit. Sed vult, ni fallor, eam Visionem pro nova habendam esse quam proximè præcessit mentio secundi adventûs. Neque hujus notæ tribunal Partitio mea recusabit. Quid enim? annon Angeli septem tonitruum præconium de consummatione Mysterii Dei (quod Libri comestionem præcessit) ad secundum adventum pertingit? Sed quorsum hæc omnia? non enim hîc de novæ Visionis aut prophetiæ cujuslibet initio quæritur; sed de initio prophetiæ repetitæ. Num ubicunque mentio secundi adventûs præcessit, ibi initium est prophetiæ repetitæ, id est, quæ eundem tramitem propheticum à capite remeat? Non credo. At de ejusmodi initio inter nos agitur. Interim ut non diffiteor secundum adventum, si dextrè accipiatur, esse certissimum indicium prophetiæ consummantis; eóque visionem quæ sequitur ejusmodi esse, quæ priori continuari non possit: ità nego hunc adventum pro unico visionis novæ secuturæ indicio habendum esse. Nego item cujusvis interpretamentum pro secundi adventûs argumento admittendum. Mihi quidem persuasissimum est Sigillum sextum non esse de secundo adventu; & novit Dominus Lawenus me non paucos suffragatores habere, & in eorum numero esse Andream Cæsarienſem: nihil tamen ei superstruo, quia interpretamentum est; ideóque negari possit nisi aliunde firmetur. Et Messem illam c. 14. v. 15. esse secundum Christi adventum, quo argumento negantem convinceret? Nam alia quoque est Salvatoris Messis præter consummationem seculi: Messis, inquit, multa, operarii verò pauci. Imò si Messis c. 14. sit consummatio seculi; quid tandem erit Vindemia, quæ Messem sequitur? Eadem quoque de Cœna dici possunt c. 3. 20. nec ignorat Dominus Lawenus hæc ab aliis aliter interpretata esse. Unicum illud de Universali Resurrectione & Judicio c. 20. clarum & disertum est, ideóque indubium. Videt igitur Dominus Lawenus quàm hujusmodi argumenta imbellia sint. Interim ego non nego Septem esse in Apocalypsi Visiones insigniores, fortè etiam plures: neque hoc bimembrem meam divisionem quatit, ut quæ aliò spectavit; neque Visiones distinxit, sed syntagmata Visionum.

Ad Censuram Synchronismi I.

Sigilli septimi, quod ad priores sex Tubas, cum Bestia Septicipite, Bicorni, cæterisque contemporantibus.

IN hujus demonstratione Lawenus totus interpretationum præjudiciis occæcatus nihil omnino veri cernere potuit. Adjuvabo igitur, si possum, admoto lumine. Summa demonstrationis hæc fuit, quà de initio, quà de fine.

De initio sic. Cùm Cœtus obsignatorum, tanquam Bestiæ regnantis ἀντίψυχον, Bestiæ contemporet, idémque Cœtus obsignatorum contemporet initio Sigilli septimi seu Tubarum; sequitur Bestiam quoque contemporare initio Sigilli septimi seu Tubarum.

De fine autem sic. Cùm Testium in sacco lugentium dies 1260. finiantur ad exitum Tubæ 6. seu ineunte septimâ; ibidem quoque Bestiæ menses 42 finiri necesse est; & per consequens illam Bestiæ tyrannidem intra sex primarum Tubarum ambitum contineri.

Fatetur Lawenus Cœtum obsignatorum contemporare Sigillo septimo; vult enim obsignationem illam esse totum Sigilli istius mysterium: quod quidem nimium est, sed indè sumo quantum mihi satis est, nempe Cœtum illum Sigillum sextum proximè sequi, atq; ità inire cum septimo. Hoc autem posito, nulla ei ampliùs elabendi copia supereſt, nisi aut negando septem

Tubas

Tubas Rem esse Sigilli septimi, aut Cœtum Virgineum cum Bestia (semper Bestiam novissimi capitis intelligo) in solidum contemporare. Illud jam ostensum est in Textu disertissimè haberi, neque in re tam manifesta ut cedam ullis unquam fidiculis extorquebit. Alterum de Cœtûs Virginei & Bestiæ in solidum contemporatione, quoniam eam in Clave mea non satis ab omni parte munitam dedi, jam porrò firmiùs demonstrabo, quà de imitio, quà de fine. Nam de contemporatione simpliciter dubium non est.

Initialem igitur contemporationem sic ostendo. Cœtus iste Virgineus (prout nuda ejus descriptio cap. 14. attento Lectori fidem faciat) copiæ sunt sanctorum militum in Agni fide (tum cùm cæteri orbis incolæ desertores & transfugæ Bestiæ characterem accepissent) firmiter permanentium: unde ut olim prisco ritu milites stigmate aliquo notari, & Imperatoris sui nomine inscribi, ità isti Agni & Patris nominibus in fronte scribuntur; imò cap. 13. v. 8. in Agni quoque codice ceu matriculâ exstare dicuntur. Hi nimirum sunt Sancti isti quibuscum belligerat Bestia, quíque soli ex omnibus orbis incolis ipsam adorare abnuerint. Necesse est igitur eosdem Bestianis coævos esse, quandoquidem incesta Bestícolarum coitio eodem tempore illibatum Agnisequorum cœtum necessario discrimine progenuerit.

Secundò, Si Cœtus Virgineus cum Bestia initio non contemporet, aut Bestia antiquior est, aut recentior. Utramcunque dixeris, illud absurdi sequetur, ut aut Cœtus aut Bestia nimiùm dissimilibus rerum statibus contemporet. Si enim Cœtum dixeris Bestiâ antiquiorem, illud sequetur, ut Cœtus partim Bestiæ decemcornupetæ, partim verò Puerperio & Draconi rufo contemporet. Nam quod ultra Bestiæ exortum ascendit, illud necessariò in Draconis & Puerperii tempora impingit; ut quæ nempe Bestiæ exortus continuò secutus est. At quî tam uniformis prophetia tam dissimilibus rerum statibus aptabitur? quæ ἀντιστοιχίας ratio tam dissimili paralleliſmo constabit?

Sin Cœtum Bestiâ recentiorem dixeris, sequetur ut Bestia partim sex primis Sigillis, (eorum nempe ultimis) partim verò septem Tubarum, Sigillo dissimilis proculdubio rei, contemporet; ubi eadem planè absurditatis ratio rem omnem circumspicienti apparebit.

Initialem contemporationem firmavi: restat de finali; quæ non modò, ut prior, ex ἀντιστοιχίας ratione, sed porrò ex eo ostenditur, quòd utriusque, tam Bestiæ tyrannidis quàm Cœtûs virginei, limes sit Turba Palmifera. Bestiæ, quia de Palmiferis dicitur, Hi sunt qui venerunt ex tribulatione magna: quâ verò tribulatione, nisi Bestiæ Sanctos tribulantis? ergò Bestiæ tyrannidem à tergo relinquunt. Cœtûs virginei, quia eum Turba Palmifera continuò sequitur; sicut ipse Cœtus secutus est Tubam sextam: id quod ex eadem utrobique transitione Μετὰ ταῦτα εἶδον manifestum est, vel ipsò Laweno judice.

Potest & hæc finalis contemporatio sic demonstrari: Quia utriusque limes est exitus Tubæ sextæ; Bestiæ, ut ex cap. undecimo ostensum est Synchron. I. § 2. part. I. Cœtûs, quia eum excipit Turba Palmifera, quæ contemporat Tubæ septimæ.

Atque hinc, credo, apparet Synchronismum Sigilli septimi, quod ad priores sex Tubas, cum Bestia septicipite novissimi capitis cæterisque contemporantibus non esse (quod acerbiusculè dixit) cardinem vanitatum, sed istiusmodi censuram fuisse omnino vanam.

Ad objecta non opus est ut respondeam, cùm nihil novi præter interpretamenta afferat; ut de Antichristo sub Tuba quinta primùm in lucem prodeunte, utpote Angelo illo Abyssi, Apollyone & Abaddonte; proindéque minimè, quod ego vellem, cum ipso Tubarum clangore nato. Item de Cœtu obsignatorum demum post illustrem Domini adventum (Sigillum sextum esse vuls) exhibendo. Hæc igitur omnia (utut argutum illud ſit de Abbadonte quaſi אב אדון Pater Dominus) uno ſpiritu difflabo, ſcilicet negando. Quorſum enim aliter refutarem quæ & aliena ſunt & ſolido fundamento carent?

Illud tamen unum præterire non debeo, quòd Obſignationem eam centum quadraginta quatuor mille cap. 7. factam eſſe dicat ad novas nuptias Agni in illuſtri Domini adventu celebrandas; idque manifeſtum eſſe ex collatione cum 4. Eſd. 2. 38. me verò perſtringat, eò quòd exiſtimârim illam factam eſſe, nè graſſantibus in orbe Tubarum calamitatibus electi Dei ſervi extinguerentur. Sed inſpice (ſodes) textum, Lawene. Annon Angelus illic ab ortu Solis clamavit ad Angelos quibus datum eſt lædere terram & mare, dicendo, Nè ladite terram, neque mare, neque arbores, quoadusque obſignaverimus ſervos Dei noſtri in frontibus ſuis? Sintne calamitates illæ Tubarum nécne, haud multùm laboro. At de calamitatibus, quæcunque tandem ſint, orbi ſuperventuris, electis Dei ſervis (quibus omnia in bonum cedere debeant) omnino hîc caveri dico. De nuptiis verò planè nihil audio. Imò qui Tubarum Synchroniſmum, & quod porrò in eandem omnino rem ad Tubam quintam habetur c. 9. v. 4. conſideraverit, calamitates quæ à Tubis ſunt in hunc cenſum venire haud gravatè mihi conceſſurus eſt.

Ad Cenſuram Synchroniſmi II.

Contemporantium Viſionum Atrii interioris & Prælii Draconis & Michaelis de Puerperio cum ſex primis Sigillis.

NEutrum horum, inquit, neque Templi ſive Atrii interioris menſuratio, neque Prælium Draconis cum Michaele, cum ſex primis Sigillis contemporet. Non dimenſuratio Templi, (quomodo loqui malit) quia jubetur Joannes Templum & Altare metiri ſub finem Tubæ ſextæ. Non Prælium Draconis, quia illud in ictu oculi commiſſum & abſolutum fuit.

Ad primum reſpondeo; Licèt poſt Tubæ ſextæ hiſtoriam Joannes jubeatur metiri Templum, hanc tamen dimenſurationem ad Tubam ſextam non magis pertinere quàm ad ſeptimam; quia illius quoque præconium & ſeptem tonitruum, quæ eódem pertinent, voces eandem dimenſurationem æquè præceſſerint. Ratio eſt, quia (ut in ſuperioribus dixi) abruptâ poſt verſ. 7. Sigillorum & Tubarum, id eſt, totius Libri ſigillati, tractatione, deinceps ad novam prophetiam, Libri nimirum aperti, tranſitus fiat.

Ad ſecundum dico, Prælii Draconis appellatione intellexiſſe me totam Draconis molitionem durante Puerperio, quam non credo eum dicturum in ictu oculi peractam fuiſſe. Putabam enim illâ Draconis & Michaelis dimicatione deſcribi inſidiarum iſtarum ſtatum, quomodóque factum ſit ut machinatio illa Draconis adverſus Mulierem parturientem incaſſum cederet; quia nempe Michaelem adverſarium toto tempore expertus eſt. Sanè eódem cum Viſione Puerperii pertinere ex eo cenſebam, quòd utriuſque rem geſtam continuò ſecuta eſt Mulieris fuga in eremum. Ità tunc ſenſi. Jam objectione iſtâ cautior factus locutionem corrigo, & Draconis non Prælium, ſed Molimen, vocabo; ſed tamen mentem cur mutem nondum video. Si poſthac videro, gratias de hoc monitu Laweno debebo. Utut res ſe habet, ſítne Prælium illud Draconis ejuſdem adverſus Mulierem parturientem Molitio nécne, à qua eam Michael liberavit, certè cum ea molitione contemporabit. Valde enim infirmum eſt, quia Prælii iſtius deſcriptio narrandi ordine ſequatur Mulieris partum, fugam verò ejuſdem idem tempore antecedat, ex eo cum Laweno concludere velle, illud momento tantùm durâſſe, quaſi utrique utrique interjectum. Cur enim non potiùs cum Puerperio contemporaret, quocum exitum communem ſortitur? Pugnatur in cœlo, dejicitur Draco, cantatur ὠδὴ νικίων, Draco dejectus iraſcitur, perſequitur Mulierem, illa in eremum fugit. Omnia hæc in momento fugæ facta ſunt? Annon dum adhuc parturiret? nam ſtatim à partu fugit in eremum.

Ad Cenſuram Synchroniſmi III.

Phialarum cum Tuba ſexta.

SYnchroniſmum Phialarum cum Tuba ſexta non quidem in ſolidum, ſed ex parte tantùm, aſtruxi; idque quia viderim Beſtiæ dominatum ante ſeptimæ clangorem haud parùm labefactari cœpiſſe. At quo loco Tubarum initium Phialarum præcisè ſtatuendum ſit, id nullo charactere eruere potui. De fine hoc certum mihi viſum, Phialam ſaltem noviſſimam ad noviſſimam Tubam pertinere.

Quid ad hæc Dominus Lawenus? Finitio, inquit, menſium quadraginta duorum ad ſextæ Tubæ exitum non arguit tum labefactatam fuiſſe dominationem Beſtiæ. Quid ità? quia (inquit) poteſtas quadraginta duorum menſium non eſt ſimplex poteſtas dominandi, (rectiùs fortè dixiſſet exſiſtendi) ſed dominandi pro libitu, & noviſſimæ perſecutionis. Eſto. Annon igitur ſi Beſtia ab hac poteſtate ceciderit, imperium ejus meritò labefactari cenſebitur? Quod verò ait, menſes quadraginta duos non eſſe totius dominationis Beſtiæ ſub ſtatu noviſſimo, ſed ſolummodo noviſſimæ perſecutionis, id à me ſuprà refutatum eſt. Neque hîc multùm intereſt ſive ità ſit, ſive aliter. Namque etiam noviſſimæ, ut dixi, dominationis ſeu perſecutionis finitio non poteſt non eſſe magna poteſtatis Beſtianæ labefactatio. Interim omnimodam Beſtiæ abolitionem egomet ad ineuntem Tubæ ſeptimæ clangorem tum hîc tum in confirmatione Synchroniſmi primi hujus Partis expreſsè retuli.

Ad Cenſuram quatuor poſtremorum Synchroniſmorum.

1.

Mille annorum ligati Draconis, ſeu Satanæ, cum Tuba ſeptima, ſeu intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ.

2.

Mille Annorum Regni Chriſti Auguſti & ſeptimæ Tubæ, ſeu intervalli ab excidio Beſtiæ.

3.

Novæ Hieruſalem Agni ſponſæ cum ſeptima Tuba, ſeu intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ.

4.

Turbæ Palmiferæ innumerabilium gaudentium cum Tuba ſeptima, ſeu intervallo ab excidio Beſtiæ.

DE quatuor poſtremis iſtis Synchroniſmis ait ſe prorſus mecum ſentire; de quo certè eſt quod mihi gratuler, cùm ſint omnium παραδόξοτατοι. In reliquorum pleriſque, quòd à communi interpretum tramite haud ità longè recedant, complures ſuffragatores habeo; in iſtis pauciſſimos: ut omnino jam æquiori animo feram doctiſſimum virum à me in reliquis diſſentientem, quòd iſtis ſaltem album calculum adjecerit. Deum verò Optimum Maximum veneror, ut utrique noſtrûm ad veritatem ejus cernendam oculos, magìs magíſque deterſis præjudiciis, aperiat.

Ad Cenſuram de Epocha Apocalypſeôs.

IN hac Cenſura pleraque, ut mihi videntur, ſunt planè ἀπροσδιόνυσα, ut ſanè neſciam an mentem meam de Epocha intellexerit. Utut ſit, errorum meorum, quos putat, catalogum texit; quos ego, ni fallor, ſuis locis oſtendi errores non eſſe, ſed veritatem veriſſimam. Nimirum 1. Septem Tubas eſſe τὸ πεῶγμα Sigilli ſeptimi. 2. Menſes XLII eſſe totam durationem Beſtiæ ſub capite noviſſimo, ſeu ſtatu inſtaurationis; ideóque literaliter accipi non poſſe. 3. Decem Beſtiæ cornua eſſe ſeptimi ſeu noviſſimi capitis propria, juxta illud cap. 17. 12. Decem cornua ſunt decem Reges, qui ſub ſexto capite regnum nondum acceperant. 4. Cœtum Virgineum ſuccedere Sigillo ſexto, eundémque contemporare Beſtiæ ſtatui noviſſimo. Hæc ſi obtinuero, reliqua haud ægrè ſequentur. Illud tamen mirari ſubit, cur Synchroniſmum Turbæ Palmiferæ cum Tuba ſeptima hîc erroribus meis annumeret, quem in proximè præcedente cenſura mihi aſſenſus erat. Dicámne eſſe ἁμάρτημα μνημονικόν? Sed jam ſuperſedeo, & Domino Laweno de Stricturis ſuis gratias ago. Quibus etſi non eò adductus ſim ut ſententiam mutem; fateor tamen me hâc velitatione, dum mentis aciem, ut ſolet, ad ſingula paulò acriùs intendo, non parùm profeciſſe.

Utque ei de nobiliſſima illa Quæſtione per appendicem tractata, De Magno illo Secundi Adventûs die, non unius aut paucorum dierum naturalium anguſtiis arctando, ſed de longiori multò quàm putatur temporis tractu accipiendo, gratiam referam, ipſe quoque Specimen aliquod meum non abſimile, jampridem cum amicis quibuſdam communicatum, de Interpretatione Tubæ Septimæ, cæteríſque contemporantibus rerum mirabilium Viſionibus, adjicere non gravabor.

[Hanc Interpretationem Tubæ Septimæ vide ſuprà in Comment. Apocalypt. pag. 661, &c.
TUBAM SEPTIMAM cum tota ΧΙΛΙΕΤΗΡΙΔΙ, &c.]

LUDOVICI DE DIEU Epiſtola

ad D. GUIL. BOSWELL,

Complectens

Animadverſiones nonnullas in Clavem & Comment. Apocalypt.

Ampliſſime atque Ornatiſſime Vir,

Tandem ad te redit tuus Medus, ob cujus conceſſum hactenus uſum ingentes beneficæ tuæ humanitati gratias ago: quòd tamdiu apud me hæſerit, meæ fuit negligentiæ; quam ut benignè condones etiam atque etiam rogo. Prodit ſcriptum Authorem non tantùm diligentiſſimum ſed & doctiſſimum, rerum divinarum cognitione largiter perfuſum, & omnis politioris literaturæ ornamentis inſtructiſſimum. Reperio autem in Schedis meis paucula jamdudum cùm primùm legendum dediſſes à me obſervata, de quibus, humanitate tuâ provocatus, agere tecum audebo; eâ tamen lege, ut ſi majoribus diſtractum gravent, negligere per me liceat.

Dicit in Clavi pag. * 6. ſub finem, Ubi cum Beſtia imaginem Beſtiæ componi videas, (ut cap. 14, v. 9, 11. cap. 15. 2. cap. 16. 2. cap. 19. 20. & 20. 4.) iſthîc per Beſtiam Pſeudoprophetam intelligendum eſſe, per Imaginem verò ejus Beſtiam Decemcornupetam ſeu Septemcipitem reſtitutam. At repugnare videtur verſus 14. cap. 13. ubi Beſtia bicornis ſive Pſeudopropheta dicitur λέγειν τοῖς κατοικοῦσιν ὅτι τῆς γῆς, ποιῆσαι εἰκόνα τῷ θηρίῳ ὃ ἔχει τὴν πληγὴν τῆς μαχαίρας, καὶ ἔζησε. Si enim imago eſſet Beſtiæ bicornis imago, dicendum fuerat ποιῆσαι εἰκόνα αὐτῷ, ut facerent imaginem ſibi. At jam jubet Beſtia bicornis fieri imaginem Beſtiæ, alteri nimirum à ſe. Cui verò? Sequitur, quæ habet plagam gladii, & revixit, id eſt Beſtiæ Decemcornupetæ reſtitutæ. Agnoſco quidem eum pag. * 205. illud [καὶ ἔζησε] aliter conſtruere, quaſi non ſint verba Pſeudoprophetæ, ſed Angeli, referentis Beſtiam iſtam caſam per novam hanc imaginis ſtructuram revixiſſe. Sed repono; Antequam ulla imaginis fieret mentio, jam antè dictam fuiſſe ſanatam è plaga, v. 3, & 12. Nec dubium videri quin Beſtia hæc Decemcornupeta, quæ ab initio capitis hucuſque fuit deſcripta, fuerit Imperium Romanum reſtitutum. Cùm ergò huic Beſtiæ imaginem fieri jubet, reſtitutæ jubet fieri: & ſi hæc imago Beſtiæ eſt ipſa Decemcornupeta, non ſatìs commodè videtur jam injungi incolis terræ ut eam faciant, quandoquidem jam antè eam è mari aſcendiſſe viderat. Satìs hæc ſunt intricata, explicatiora tamen fortaſſis futura, ſi mentem doctiſſimi viri pleniùs perſpectam haberemus.

[* Hujus edit. pag. 524. lin. 2.]

[* Hujus edit. pag. 630.]

Parte 1. De Sigillis * pag. 6. ſuſpicari ſe ait, Apoc. 4. ubi de Mari vitreo agitur, alludi ad labrum non Solomonis, quod æneum, ſed Moſaicum, quod ex ſpeculari quadam materia, videlicet ex ſpeculis mulierum, conflatum fuiſſe perhibetur, hibetur, Exod. 38. 8. Fateor ex materia speculari, at nullo modo vitreâ, sed æneâ. Moses enim allato loco expressè dicit, ויעש את הכיור נחשת, Et fecit labrum æneum. At, quid ergò est quod additur de speculis mulierum? Respondeo, fuisse specula merè ænea, sed ex ære adeò polito, ut species incidentes aptè recipere & reddere posset: planè ut Ezech. 1. 7. facies animalium dicuntur נוצצים כעין נחשת קלל, micantes aut scintillantes instar superficiei æris politi.

[* Hujus edit. pag. 543.]

[* Hujus edit. p. 544.] Ibid. pag. * 8. ait Apocal. 4. 6. verba illa [ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ θρόνου, καὶ ἐν κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου] exponenda per ἐν διὰ δυοῖν, quasi nimirum dictum fuisset, ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ κύκλου (id est, περιβόλου) τοῦ θρόνου. Quæ sanè dura videtur expositio; mollior futura, si legeretur ἐν μέσῳ καὶ κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου. At cùm expressè & distinctè bis exprimatur vox θρόνου, consultò innui videtur, medium ejus distinguendum ab ejus ambitu. Deinde, ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ κύκλου (seu περιβόλου) τοῦ θρόνου distributivè sumere, quasi sensus esset, In medio uniuscujusque quadranguli quod est intra ambitum throni, adeóq; quatuor media pro numero quadrangulorum statuere, id magis etiam durum. Velim itaque verba Joannis κατὰ πόδα accipere, nempe vidisse eum quatuor animalia duobus in locis, primùm in medio throni, deinde in ambitu ejusdem. Quod ad ea quæ viderit in ambitu throni, rectè docet Vir doctissimus, alludi ad quatuor Animalia vexillis Israeliticis olim impressa, secundùm quæ castrametabantur circumcirca Levitas; & mediantibus Levitis circumcirca Tabernaculum. Sed quò referemus eadem 4 Animalia in medio throni seu tabernaculi? ad locum Ezech. 1. 10. ubi Prophetam 4 ista Animalia vidisse intra, non extra, Templum, patet ex Ezech. 10. v. 3, 4, 5. collatis cum v. 14, ubi 4 rotæ depinguntur 4 vultibus 4 ista Animalia repræsentantibus: nisi quòd pro פני שור vultu Bovis, qui memoratur Ezech. 1. 10. hîc sit פני כרוב vultus Cherub. Quæ collatio (ut obiter hoc injiciamus) suspicionem injicit, כרוב Cherub significare Bovem, à Chaldaico Syriacóque כרב Cherub, aravit; Boves enim arationi adhibebantur. Nisi fortè Hebræi firma sententiæ suæ fulcra habeant, cùm Cherubim imagines fuisse statuunt formâ humanâ, & quidem puerorum. Quod enim compositum esse volunt ex כ similitudinis, & Chaldaico רבי puer, puerile est & frivolum. Imò si forma Cherub fuit humana, duæ rotæ habuerint formam eandem, Ezech. 10. 14. cùm tamen quaternæ dicuntur habuisse quaternos vultus, & vultus Cherub expressè distinguatur à vultu hominis. Quicquid sit, pulchrum mihi & magni solatii esse videtur, quatuor Animalia, quæ universum Ecclesiæ corpus designant, non circa thronum tantùm, sed & in ipso ejus medio conspecta fuisse. Etsi enim ratione externi ministerii à 24 senioribus erga corpus fidelium administrati sint tantùm in ambitu throni, imò in ambitu ipsorum seniorum; ratione tamen communionis cum Christo, qui throno ipse insidet, rectè & ipsi intra thronum constituuntur, & per 4 Cherubinorum facies intra tabernaculum coram Deo consistentium repræsentantur.

[* Hujus edit. p. 564.] Pag. * 56. Pro eo quod nunc Amos. 9. 12. in Textu Hebræo habetur, למען יורשו את שארית אדום, olim scriptum lectum videri ait aliter, addítque ex Hebraica lectione quæ nunc obtinet. Alitérne igitur Scriptura Hebraica nunc habet quàm olim? Absit. Si enim ubicunque LXX Interpretes à verbis Textûs Hebraici abeunt, aliter olim scriptum lectum fuisse dicendum est, hui quàm incertum & infinitis in locis immutatum habemus Verbum Dei! Nec legerunt LXX אל pro את: Nomen enim Dei non exprimunt, quod Jacobus ad supplendum sensum addidit. Quomodo autem locus Prophetæ cum verbis Jacobi conciliari possit, in Notis nostris in Acta Apostolorum, quæ lucem nondum viderunt, sententiam nostram sic dicimus; Verba Prophetæ verti solere, Ut possideant reliquias Edom, & omnes Gentes, &c. Hanc versionem difficillimam mihi videri quæ cum loco Actorum concilietur; facilem autem, si את non accusandi, sed, ut alibi sæpe faciendum, nomi- nominandi casu accipiatur, ac vertamus, Ut possideant (nempe restauratum tabernaculum Davidis, de quo versu præcedenti) reliquiæ Edom, & omnes Gentes super quas invocatum fuerit nomen meum. Nec dubium mihi est quin sic acceperint LXX Interpretes: transferunt enim ὅπως ἐκζητήσωσιν οἱ κατάλοιποι τῶν ἀνθρώπων, καὶ πάντα τὰ ἔθνη, &c. Ut requirant cæteri hominum, & omnes Gentes, &c. quæ verba nullum habent sensum, nisi subintelligas quidnam sint requisituri, nempe id quod jamjam dixerat, dirutum instauratumque tabernaculum Davidis; pro quo Jacobus non malè substituit τὸν Κύριον: sive enim eos instauratum tabernaculum, sive istius tabernaculi instauratorem Dominum requirere dicas, idem dicis. Adde, quòd tabernaculum istud non propter ipsum, sed propter Dominum, essent requisituræ Gentes. Indagandum hîc quoque cur pro ירשו possideant, dixerint LXX ἐκζητήσωσιν, requirant. An quòd sive ex incuria, sive ob exemplar minùs accuratè exaratum, legerint וידרשו? Sic existimatur vulgò, nec repugnamus; licet tamen aliud conjectare. Tenendum, apud omnes ferme Orientales verba quæ significant esse, sæpe etiam significare fieri, id est, moveri ad esse: ut פתח aperire & solvere, quia Solutio motus est ad Apertionem; קנה possidere & emere, quia Emptio est motus ad Possessionem; aliâque sexcenta: sic ירש non tantùm est possidere, sed etiam movere se ad possidendum. Exemplum sit illud Deut. 2. 24. החל רש והתגר בו מלחמה, Incipe, posside, (id est, possessionem adi) & confli*g*e cum eo bello: non poterant incipere actu possidere, antequam conflixissent & superâssent hostem. Sensus ergò est, Incipe adire possessionem. Et clariùs etiam v. 31. החל רש לרשת את ארצו, quæ si vertas cum Pagnino, Incipe possidere, ut possideas terram ejus, Tautologia mera est: nequaquam verò si vertas, Incipe adire possessionem. Ità & hoc loco, למען ירשו, Ut possideant, non tam ipsam possessionem, quàm possidendi studium, denotare existimârunt LXX, quod requirendi verbo satis feliciter expressêrunt. Neque mirum, quòd שְׁאֵרִית אֱדוֹם verterint οἱ καταλοιποι τῶν ἀνθρώπων. Fortassis enim legerunt אָדָם; aut potiùs, ut alibi sæpe, hîc quoque Edom latiùs quàm de propriè sic dicto populo accipiendum sunt arbitrati. Sicut enim duorum Rebeccæ filiorum minimus Jacob Ecclesiam, maximus natu Esau sive Edom omnes reliquos homines ab Ecclesia alienos adumbrabat: quamobrem in scriptis Rabbinorum Imperium Romanum, præsertim cùm longè latéque per universum ferè Orbem pateret, מַלְכוּת אֱדוֹם, regnum Edom fuit nuncupatum, atque etiamnum per בְּנֵי אֱדוֹם, filios Edom, Christiani omnes ipsis intelliguntur. Cùm ergò hîc à Propheta Tabernaculo Davidis, id est, Reipublicæ Israelis, opponantur reliquiæ Edom; satis commodè per eos reliquos homines intellexerunt. Quod autem diximus, את interdum nominativo inservire, si quis fortassis id post verba Passiva fateatur, alibi verò neget, videat loca 2. Reg. 9. 25. Nehem. 9. 32. 1 Sam. 17. 34. 2 Reg. 6. 5. Ezech. 43. 7. Jer. 33. 5. ubi cum verbis Neutris construitur: est & ubi cum Transitivis, ut Nehem. 9. 34. Jer. 38. 16. Ezech. 39. 14. Ità tam Hebræa quàm Græca satis apertè indicant anticipatam Gentium conversionem, quæ Judæorum restaurationem antecedere debeat; quod voluit Vir doctissimus.

Pag. * 132. Certum ait esse, Candelabra non Prophetas, sed Ecclesias denotare: Secùs mihi isthoc loco videtur. Eâdem enim Metonymiâ quâ duo Prophetæ duæ Oleæ vocantur, quia oleum salutis subministrant, duo quoque Candelabra rectè vocantur, quia lucem Evangelii gestantes eam ad alios diffundunt. Nec obstat quòd Apoc. 1. 20. Septem Candelabra exponantur per 7 Ecclesias; diversâ enim ratione & Ecclesiæ & Ministris eadem vox tribui potest: ut & aliâ notione Apoc. 2. 5. Movebo candelabrum tuum, dicitur de ademptione puræ prædicationis Evangelii. [* Hujus edit. p. 599.]

Pag. * 187. versus 2 & 3 cap. 13 ex mente Syri sic conjungit, Tradidit ei Draco vires suas, & thronum suum, & potestatem magnam, & unum ex capitibus [* Hujus edit. p. 622.]

pitibus ſuis lethali plagâ ſauciatum, &c. Ubi unum ex capitibus ſauciatum in Accuſat. caſu accipitur: quod Syra conſtructio, niſi fallor, non patitur. Sic enim formâ Emphaticâ dicendum fuerat נכיסא איז, at forma ſimplex נכיס poſtulat ſubintelligi verbum ſubſtantivum, & unum ex capitibus ejus (erat) quaſi mactatum ad mortem.

[* Hujus edit. pag. 650.]

Pag. * 252. Armageddon cum Druſio vult eſſe quaſi חרמא גדון excidium exercitûs eorum. Druſius ſcripſit, non גדון (id enim nihil ſignificat) ſed גדהון, ubi הון eſt Affixum Chaldaicum. Verùm גד pro turma ſive exercitu Chaldæis non uſurpatur, ſed pro fortuna. Itaque veriſimile non eſt vocem hanc compoſitam eſſe ex Chaldaico חרמא, Hebræo גד, & rurſus Chaldaico affixo הון. Nos reſolvimus in הַר מָגֵד דון, Montem gloriæ vel glorioſum judica: aut in עַר מָגֵד דון, Hoſtem glorioſum judica. Arabibus מגד in genere gloriam ſignificat; ut & verbum סגד, glorioſus fuit, unde apud Hebræos מָגֵד res quævis præſtantiſſima & laudatiſſima, non tantùm in genere fructuum, ſed & auri, argenti, veſtium, cæterarúmque rerum quæ laudari ſolent. Ità ſenſus erit, cladem inimicorum Eccleſiæ futuram in tali loco, cui nomen pii precibus ſuis facient, dicentes, Montem (vel Hoſtem) glorioſum judica, Domine. Vel ſi דון pro infinitivo accipiamus, & hoc pro nomine, ad verbum erit, Mons gloriæ judicii, id eſt, mons glorioſi judicii. Sic intelligitur Mons Sion, & Synecdochicè Terra ſancta; quod laudo.

Plura non addo, Vir ampliſſime, nè prolixior quàm par eſt, humanitate tuâ, quâ literarum mearum alloquium benignè admittis, abuti videar, & in ſalutare illud monitum quod vulgatiſſimo & eleganti proverbio apud Arabes circumfertur peccare, אכל כאן העבך משפה נא כלה כלה, id eſt, Cùm fuerit amicus tuus Mel, nè comedito eum totum. Non poſſum tamen quin quid de hoc ſcripto ſentiam paucis exponam. Synchroniſmos Viſionum acutiſſimè inventos miror, cóſque ſic enucleatos & elucidatos video, ut an quid hactenus in eo genere luculentius prodierit meritò dubitem. Neque me in Viſionibus Apocalypticis uſque adeò hactenus verſatum agnoſco, ut pleriſque doctiſſimi Viri aſſertionibus refragari aut velim aut poſſim; attamen neque aſſenſum facilè præbeo, cùm non ſatis plenè omnia perviderim, & in abſtruſis iſtis rebus multa conjecturis potiùs quàm ſolidâ & perſpectâ veritate niti videantur.

Ad ſententiam certè Chiliaſtarum ut accedam induci nondum poſſum. Judæos ad fidem Chriſti aliquando convertendos, atque id tempus mundo feliciſſimum, imò ζωὴν ἐκ νεκρῶν vitam ex mortuis, futurum firmâ fide amplector: Sed Judæos & Iſraelitas in terram Canaan eſſe revocandos, Indè Diem Judicii eſſe inchoandum, Particularem tum fore quorundam reſurrectionem, Illuſtrem tum fore Domini ἐν πυρὶ φλογὸς ἐπιφάνειαν, Ibi novum Chriſti regnum oriturum & per mille annos duraturum, cujus ſedes in Terra Canaan ſit futura, actum altâ pace & tranquillitate Eccleſiam per totidem annos fruituram, aliáque ejus ſententiæ ſimilia, nondum mihi perſuaderi poſſunt. Nec tamen damno qui iſta diſputant modeſtè & diſquirunt; quippe qui beatum me cenſebo, ſi in felicia iſta tempora incidere detur: beatiorem tamen, ſi afflictionibus Chriſti in his terris conformi, gloriæ quoque ipſius in cælis conformem fieri detur. Multa habeo quæ adverſus ſententiam iſtam opponam: ſed jamdudum te immanis hæc Epiſtolæ prolixitas laſſat, & à melioribus negotiis importunè avocat.

Reſtat, Vir Ampliſſime, ut ad Sereniſſimum Regem tuum profecturo ducem Deum ac reducem precer, qui te & Regiæ Majeſtati gratum ſiſtat, & familiæ deinde tuæ ac nobis ſoſpitem reſtituat. Ego interim cum candidiſſimo atque integerrimo tuo meoque Goffo me oblectabo, cui novum erga literas Hebræas animum ſumenti meam rurſus operam addixi. Dignus eſt piorum doctorúmque omnium, atque adeò tuo præſertim, qui utrâque parte excellis, amore, futurus aliquando veſtra in patria & veritatis columen & eruditionis exemplar. Plura dicere vetat noſter candor. Ego mihi amicitiam ejus magnopere gra-tulor, vel eo potiſsimùm nomine, quòd per eum tuæ Amplitudini non innoteſcere modò, ſed & charus reddi potuerim. Nihil unquam magìs in votis habui quàm piis ac doctis probari; qui ſi iidem & Magnates ſint; cùm tria illa rarò in una morentur ſede, in tè autem disjungi noluerint, ingratus forem niſi id mihi auſpicatum dicerem. Vale, Vir Ampliſsime, Reipublicæ veſtræ & noſtræ, tuis & nobis diu multúmque incolumis, méque ſemper amore tuo dignare. Datum Lugduno-Batavorum, 25. Febr. Anno 1634.

tulor

Amplitudini tuæ devotiſſimus,
Ludovicus de Dieu.

JOS. MEDI Reſponſio ad Animadverſiones LUDOVICI De DIEU.

Reverende & Clariſsime Vir,

QUas mecum communicavit Nobiliſſimus & ampliſſimus Eques, mihíque amiciſſimus, D^s. G. B. Animadverſiones tuas in Clavem meam Commentationéſque Apocalypticas, adeò mihi gratæ acceptæque fuerunt, ut diutiùs ferendum non putaverim nullum te earum exemplar mancupio poſſidere. Mitto igitur hoc quod vides honoris & amicitiæ pignus: quod tametſi tardiuſculum ſit, (tantam enim fore apud vos exemplarium penuriam nunquam ſuſpicatus ſum) ſpero tamen te nihilominus pro humanitate tua non dedignaturum.

Ego ſanè ex eruditiſſimis Animadverſionibus tuis profeciſſe me non diffitebor; imprimis ex eo quod mones de verbis iſtis, cap. 4. [ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ θρόνου, καὶ κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου] non per ἐν δεξιᾷ δυοῖν, ut ego volebam, verùm rectiùs ὑπὸ πόδα intelligendis. Lectis enim quæ ex Ezechiele ibi doctè annotâſti, inopinato lumine mentem meam perfundi ſenſi, ſtatímque in eam ſententiam conceſſiſſe, Sellam cui Deus inſidebat abſque dubio quatuor Animalibus geſtatam fuiſſe, quorum ſingula, poſterioribus intrò latentibus, in ὁμοιοδῆ ſibi in circuitu Throni Animalia ora ſua obverterent; quemadmodum apud Ezechielem, divinum Numen legimus Cherubinis quadruplici eorundem Animalium vultu conſpicuis ſubvectum fuiſſe. Atque hoc illud eſſe quod Joannes de Theatro Apocalyptico refert, non ſolùm in Throni circuitu, ſed etiam in medio Throni, quatuor iſta Animalia conſpecta ſibi fuiſſe. Gaviſus igitur ſum admodum, à duriori iſta expoſitione mea me tam inſperatò liberatum, de quo (ut verum fatear) ſcrupulus aliquis mihi ſemper inhæſerat: Eo enim ingenio ſum, (delicatulo, an moroſo?) ut niſi ubi interpretatio commodè & abſque ſalebris eat, nunquam mihi ſatisfacere ſoleam. Porrò quod hîc addis de בקר Ezech. 10.14. ſignificante Bovem à Chaldaico Syriacóque בקר aravit; de hoc quoque monito gratias tibi debeo maximas, & magnopere confirmatum vellem.

At verò quod Clav. p.* 6. de Beſtia & Imagine ejus affirmo, ubicunque eæ jugales eant ſive invicem componantur, ibi Beſtiæ nomine Pſeudoprophetam indigitari, Imaginis autem Beſtiam Decemcornupetam; id tibi ex cap. 13. [* Hujus edit. p. 524 ad fin.]

dubium videri ais, & omnino intricatum, explicatius tamen fortassis futurum si mentem meam pleniùs perspectam haberes. Ego igitur sic ampliùs declaro mentem meam; Me dictum illud meum non ultrà extendi voluisse quàm ad loca ubi copulatio ista occurrat, τῷ Θηρίῳ καὶ εἰκόνι αὐτοῦ. Ibi enim Genitivum αὐτοῦ activè, non passivè capiendum; ut sit sensus, Imago quam fieri curavit Bestia, quæque in dominio ejus sit, פסלו, non autem quæ repræsentet Bestiam. Quemadmodum nimirum si Michæ Idolum diceretur ἡ εἰκὼν αὐτοῦ, i. γλυπτὸν, ut sanè dicitur, Judic. 18. 31. aut Nebuchadnezzaris Colossus (quo forsan hìc alludum est) εἰκὼν Ναβυχοδονοσόρου· útque צלמיכם τὰς εἰκόνας seu τοὺς τύπους ὑμῶν, Spir. Sanctus exponit (Amos. 5. 26. Act. 7. 43.) τοὺς τύπους οὓς ἐποιήσατε ὑμῖν. Quod nisi admittatur, extra caput 13, ubi primò in scenam prodit, nunquam iterum Pseudoprophetæ in tota Apocalypsi Bestia vocabitur: quod mihi non sit verisimile, Sp. Sanctum nomen quo primò eum produceret atque describeret nunquam postea adhibiturum.

Attamen alibi, ubi Copulatio ista quam dixi τῷ Θηρίῳ καὶ εἰκόνι αὐτοῦ minimè reperitur, ut cap. 13, libens agnosco (neque unquam aliter vel per somnium mihi sentire contigit) eandem Imaginem Bestiæ quoque primæ seu Decemcornupetæ Imaginem dici; atque hìc quidem sensu passivo, & similitudinis intuitu; id est, Imaginem quâ Bestia repræsentetur, imò quâ ipsa seipsam, sed alio atque alio statu, repræsentet. Quod ut rectè intelligatur, duplex Bestiæ Decemcornupetæ status discernendus est: unus in quo plagam accepit, (hic Imperii Romani Ethnici, seu à Dracone insessi, status fuit;) alter post plagæ curationem, quo Pseudoprophetæ imperio, religioso nomine, subdita est. Posterior hic status est qui prioris Imago audit; cujus nempe effigiem adeò ad vivum exprimat, ut in eo prior iste status, vel Bestia priore isto statu, omnimodo revixisse videatur.

Atque hinc statim colligere licet, Imaginem istam non Decemcornupetæ restitutæ Imaginem dicendam esse, sed Decemcornupetæ cæsæ; restitutæ verò formam quatenus restituta est. Quod verò opponis de Bestiæ curatione ab initio capitis memoratâ, antequam ulla Imaginis mentio facta sit, non video cur me à sententia mea depellere debeat, cùm illud non in eadem ejusdem Bestiæ historia fiat, sed in diversis visionibus Bestiarum diversarum: quarum quidem una, septem capitibus & decem cornibus insignis, plagæ quam acceperat curationem adepta est; altera verò emplastrum edocuit quo curatio illa facta est. Quæ duo, utut simul eodémque tempore gesta sint, simul tamen narrari non potuerint, eò quòd diversarum Bestiarum essent, quarum suum cuique seorsim attribui oportebat. Quare & illud hìc notandum venit, Apostolum, cùm in secundæ Bestiæ descriptione mentionem inferat τοῦ Θηρίου τοῦ πρώτου, οὗ ἐθεραπεύθη ἡ πληγὴ τοῦ θανάτου αὐτοῦ, non ad tempus rei gestæ, sed ad narrationis ordinem respexisse.

[*Huj. edit. p. 543.] Atque hæc de Bestiis. Sed de Mari quoque Vitreo (* p. 6. Com. de Sigill.) dicendum est aliquid, quòd aliorsum ibi sententiam meam accipis. Neque enim ego isthìc dico, eo non ad Labrum Solomonis, quod æneum, sed ad Mosaicum, quod ex speculari quadam materia conflatum fuit, alludi, quasi Mosaicum non fuerit æneum, cùm id Textus apertè dicat: imò expresè scripsi, Mare istud vitreum Labrum illud immane in Templo Solomonis, Mare nuncupatum, repræsentâsse, quamvis illud æneum fuit, nostrum verò ex vitrea pellucidâque materia: unde fortasse (nempe ob formam istam pellucidam) alludi simul ad vetustius illud Mosaici Tabernaculi labrum suspicari quis possit, quòd illud similiter ex speculari quadam materia conflatum fuisse perhibetur.

Ad reliquas Animadversiones tuas, quæ ferè ad linguarum Orientalium (quarum tu verè Oraculum es) judicium spectent, nimis insciriam meam & temeritatem proderem siquid tibi reponerem, Súsque, quod aiunt, cum Minerva

Minerva in arenam deſcenderem. Ut enim in Hebraicis modicum fortè poſſim, reliquarum peritiam non habeo: præterea is ſum qui multò magìs aliorum judicia audire malim quàm mea præfractè defendere. Interim facere non poſſum quin unum hoc porrò adjiciam; Me nullam adhuc cauſam videre potuiſſe, cur magìs in Veteri Teſtamento * variantem lectionem, admittere reformidem quàm in Novo; aut cur ubi Apoſtoli & Evangeliſtæ lectionem quam ſecuti ſunt LXX (nam aliter eos alicubi legiſſe quàm nos hodie non eſt dubitandum) calculo ſuo comprobâſſe videantur, illos Duces ſequi perinde tutum non eſſet ac Maſorethas.

* Conferatur Hymnus Davidis noviſſimus 2 Sam. 22. cum eodem Pſ. 18. Hiſtoria excidii Hieroſolymitani 2 Reg. à v. 18. cap. 24. ad finem c. 25. cum eadem hiſtoria Jer. 52. Legatio Merodach Baladan 2 Reg. c. 20. com. 12, 13, &c. cum eadem Eſai. 39. 2 Sam. 21. 19. cum 1 Par. 20. 5.

Ut ſiquis, exempli gratia, pro וַתְּהִי יראתם Eſai. 29. 13. legendum cenſeat וַיִּרְאוּ יראתם, καὶ μάτην σέβονταί με, ex Matth. 15. aut pro בְּעָלְתִּי בם, Jer. 31. 32. נִבְעַלְתִּי בם, i. ἠμέλησα αὐτῶν (ſeu ἐβδέλυξα) juxtà allegationem Apoſtoli ad Hebræos, cap. 8. 9. aut pro פְּרִים שִׂפְתֵינוּ, Hoſ. 14. 3. ſublata ἀνωμαλίᾳ conſtr. פְּרִי מִשְׂפָתֵינוּ, καρπὸν χειλέων ἡμῶν, ex cap. 13. verſ. 15. ejuſdem Epiſtolæ. Non video, inquam, cur in S. Scripturam ſacrilegus audire mereretur, qui ſic ex ipſa Scriptura S. de meliore ejus lectione pronunciaverit: cùm præſertim Spiritum Sanctum alicubi obſervare ſit criſin manifeſtiùs exercentem, aliámque à recepta lectionem præferentem, etiam ubi LXX verſioni cum hodiernis exemplaribus Hebraicis ad amuſſim convenit. Locus eſt Matth. 27. commate 9, & 10. Καὶ ἔλαβον τὰ τριάκοντα ἀργύρια (τὴν τιμὴν τοῦ τετιμημένου ὃν ἐτιμήσαντο ἀπὸ υἱῶν Ἰσραὴλ,) Καὶ ἔδωκαν αὐτὰ εἰς τὸν ἀγρὸν τοῦ κεραμέως, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος. Aut enim nimiùm fallor, aut Evangeliſta hoc loco apud Prophetam in Hebræo legendum innuit כְּרָת יהוה pro eo quod in noſtris codicibus eſt בֵּית יהוה. Quorſum enim alioquin Textum ità clauderet, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος, & interim nullam τοῦ οἴκου τοῦ Κυρίου mentionem faceret? Imò verò ſuſpicari quis poſſit, etiam Spiritum S. tria iſta Prophetæ capita, 9, 10, 11. genuino ſuo Authori vendicare voluiſſe: Pluſcula enim in iis ſunt quæ, ſi quis attentè conſideret, non tam Zachariæ ætati convenire videantur quàm Jeremiæ: ſed quoniam forſan à Zacharia poſt captivitatem reperta, ejúſque teſtimonio & fide primùm Eccleſiæ commendata, indè factum ut Prophetiis ejus adjungerentur.

Ego verò is non ſum qui harum quidquam temerè & ſolus affirmare velim: quinimo conjecturas haſce meas virorum doctorum, & tuo inprimis, Vir eximie, judicio ſubjectas volo.

Plura non addo, niſi hoc ſolum; Unà cum libello meo ad te venire exemplar Epiſtolæ ad Amicum, quâ ſententiam meam de Millenario paulò pleniùs aperio: in quam me nullâ animi levitate aut ſtudio præpoſtero delapſum credas velim; ſed poſtquam alia omnia fruſtrà tentâſſem, tandem rei ipſius claritudine perſtrictum paradoxo ſuccubuiſſe. Deus te, Vir clariſſime, diu incolumem ſervet Eccleſiæ & Reipublicæ literariæ bono. Ità vovet, &c.

June 4. 1634. J. M.

JOSEPHI MEDI Epistola ad Amicum De Resurrectione Prima & Millennio Apocalyptico.

C. Consocie,

QUæso te ut Amico tuo hisce verbis rescribas: Me, quamvis, Epistolâ ejus perlectâ, sententiam meam deponere non possim, multas tamen & graves causas habere cur nolim de ea cum quoquam scripto agere; in privato colloquio non recusaturum, sit modò Vir eruditus & candidi moderatíque ingenii quocum mihi congrediendum sit. In rebus enim dubiæ & ambiguæ interpretationis me in universum à collationibus quæ scripto fiant abhorrere, propter multa eáque gravia incommoda; quantò magìs in re nova & paradoxa, ubi necesse fuerit plurima, ad sententiæ meæ quà explicationem quà defensionem, proferri quæ chartæ committere nollem?

In Commentationibus meis Apocalypticis nihil de statu Regni Millenarii particulatim, vel (ut ità loquar) modatim, sive quod Mundum ipsum, sive Sanctos tum resurrecturos attinet, disseruisse; hæc omnia in medio reliquisse, generali explicatione contentum fuisse, ídque consultò & de industria. Priùs enim me virorum doctorum judicia auditurum, firmitérne demonstratum putent Regnum illud (qualecunque tandem sit) adhuc exspectandum esse, & quidem in secundo Christi adventu, & post excidium Antichristi, quàm de modo & qualitate Regni & resurgentium conditione conjecturas meas expromam. Frustrà enim de modo rei inquirere, aut edoceri eum, cui nondum rem ipsam, cui cuimodo sit, unquam fore persuasum est. Hanc habeat detrectatæ Collationis causam, quippe neque fructuosæ, neque periculo suo carituræ.

Nè tamen postulatis ejus me difficilem nimis & inexorabilem præbere videar, si eum nullo prorsus responso, pro meliori sententiæ meæ intellectione, impertirem; hæc eum scire velle.

1. Nunquam mihi in mentem venisse, ut sententiam meam de Resurrectione prima aut loco isti cap. 11. v. 18. aut cap. 14. v. 13. superstruerem, aut indè probari posse existimarem. Fundamentum sententiæ meæ de duabus Resurrectionibus in unico & solo capite 20. repositum habere: cui duo illa loca cap. 11. & 14. interpretando conformia reddidisse, aut quomodo saltem conformari possint uno & altero verbo indicâsse; neque quid amplius ibi propositum mihi habuisse.

2. Insuper in eodem illo capite 20. fundamentum opinionis meæ, de Regno apparitionis Christi Millenario, quod quidem Millennii durationem attinet, solo & unico collocare: quod verò rem ipsam attinet, (Regnum nempe Sanctorum in terris post excidium Antichristi & Christi adventum in nubibus futurum) id ex reliquis Scripturis istis quas cum Millennii vaticinio comparaverim satìs evidenter & firmiter demonstratum esse existimare: Neque justè eum exigere, ut ex omnibus istis locis ipsius Millennii durationem evincerem: hoc enim perinde esse ac si ab eo qui Hominem peccati apud Paulum eundem cum Bestia Apocalyptica affirmaret, exigeret aliquis ut ex loco Pauli ostenderet eum mensibus 42. dominaturum, alioquin fidem non facturum.

3. Porrò

3. Porrò aliorsum & præter mentem meam acceptum esse, quod p.* 245. de interpretatione verborum Pauli [Mortui in Christo resurgent primi] ex Tertulliano notaverim; quasi nempe illud pro mea ipsius sententia laudâssem, quod duntaxat similis similium verborum interpretationis meæ illustrandæ causâ fecerim: interim causas habuisse cur ibi judicium meum interponere noluerim. [* Hujus edit. p. 647.]

4. Quod autem ad rem ipsam attinet, me in eam sententiam maximè propendere (idque præcipuè Pauli authoritate, 1 Thess. cap. 4. motum) * omnes justos intra Millennium Regni resurrecturos; sed ordine quodam, &, ut Apostolus loquitur, 1 Cor. 15. 23. ἕκαστον ἐν τῷ ἰδίῳ τάγματι primos quidem, idque in ipso Millennii initio, Martyres, deinde & reliquos justos qui Bestiæ morem non gesserint, alios citiùs, alios tardiùs, prout Deo βραβευτῇ visum: hâncque dici Resurrectionem primam, & Luc. 14. 14. Resurrectionem Justorum. Postea verò, decurso Millennio, etiam impios resurrecturos, unáque extremum & universale Judicium peractum iri; impiis in lacum ignis & sulphuris unà cum Diabolo detrudendis, Sanctis verò in cœlestes mansiones subvectis, cum Christo æternùm victuris. Utut sit, ex veteribus fuisse qui haud dissimiliter de ordine Resurrectionis sentirent, ex locis aliquot Tertulliani colligo; ut ex * Sic Iren. l. 5. c. 32. lin. 5.

Lib. 3. adversus Marcionem, cap. 24. Post cujus (scil. Regni) Mille annos, intra quam ætatem concluditur Sanctorum Resurrectio, pro meritis maturiùs vel tardiùs resurgentium, &c.

Item de Anima, cap. 35.——Et Judex te tradat Angelo executionis, & ille te in carcerem mandet Infernum, unde non dimittaris, nisi modico quoque delicto morâ * Resurrectionis expenso. * Huc respiccre videtur & illud Cypriani Epist. 52. Aliud esse pendere in die Judicii ad sententiam Domini, aliud statim à Domino coronari. Agit verò, nisi admodum fallor, de prærogativa Martyrum, &c. Et illud Irenæi, lib. 1. c. 2. Christum in suo de cœlis adventu, τοῖς δικαίοις καὶ τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ τετηρηκόσι, τοῖς μὲν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, τοῖς δὲ ἐκ μετανοίας, ζωὴν χαρισάμενον, ἀφθαρσίαν δωρησάμενος. Μετάνοια enim hîc propæna posita videtur, non virtute: Quam pœnam in Mora Resurrectionis constituit Tertull.

Et cap. 58. In summa, cùm carcerem illum quem Evangelium demonstrat Inferos intelligimus, & novissimum quadrantem modicum quodque delictum morâ Resurrectionis illic luendum interpretemur; nemo dubitabit animam aliquid pensare penès inferos, salvâ Resurrectionis plenitudine per carnem quoque.

Frustrà igitur sunt Pontificii, qui hîc se Purgatorium suum reperisse gloriantur.

5. Nusquam dicere Apostolum, Resurrectionem Mortuorum, (ut vir doctus objicit) sed Mutationem Vivorum in ictu oculi & momento peragendam esse.

6. Ἀνασταίχιαν illam Mortis secundæ & Resurrectionis primæ (quam tantopere urget) fallacem esse, neque ullo firmo fundamento subnixam; præsertim cùm nomenclatura illa Mortis secundæ non à Spiritu S. aut Joanne primùm usurpata, sed ex Magistrorum Judaicorum usu desumpta sit, (ut in * Targum videre est,) sic nimirum ab illis nuncupatæ, quòd eâ Impii qui à mortuis resurrexerint quasi secundò morituri sint. Accedit & illud, quòd Mors secunda corporum non minùs quàm animarum sit: ideóque, etiam hypothesi illâ concessâ, non satis tamen commodè probari indè posse Resurrectionem primam non esse corporalem. Sed quorsum de Ἀνασταίχια, eâque dubiâ & incertâ, satagitur, cùm Συσταίχια, eáque manifesta, ad manum sit? Annon enim Resurrectio prima & Resurrectio secunda σύσταιχα sunt? Cur igitur hinc non majori verisimilitudine argumentari mihi liceret, Cùm Resurrectio secunda corporalis sit, ideo similiter primam quoque corporalem esse? Adde vim locutionis adversativæ: Anima, inquit, eorum qui securi * Deut. 33. 6. Psal. 49. 11. Esai. 65. 6, & 15.

percuſsi ſunt propter teſtimonium Jeſu & verbum Dei, &c. revixerunt, & regnârunt cum Chriſto mille iſtis annis: reliqui verò mortuorum non revixerunt donec conſummarentur mille anni. Quis hinc non ſtatim colligit, revictionem ſeu Reſurrectionem utramque uniuſmodi eſſe? Annon id poſtulare videtur locutionis iſtiuſmodi adverſativæ uſus.

7. Quod porrò de Animarum vocabulo ingerit, tanquam magìs (ſi litera urgeatur) pro ſententia Græcorum, de Animarum Martyrum prærogativa ante diem Judicii, quàm pro mea opinatione faceret; id infirmum mihi videri; cùm notiùs ſit quàm ut probatione egeat, Animas in Sacris literis non tantùm Perſonas denotare, ſed & Cadavera*: quod quàm aptè huic Apocalypſeos loco conveniat, ipſum latere non poſſe.

* Ut Pſ. 16. 10. Act. 2. 31. Ezek. 44. 25. apud Lxx. Levit. 19. 28. & alibi. Adde Apoc. 6. 9. Addit quidam Eccleſ. 16. ult.

8. Ad hæc ſciat, (ut de Juſtis reſurrecturis deinceps ſecuro ſit animo) eos qui Millennii dogma ritè & ἀρχαϊκῶς, nec perperàm, tuentur, ſic ſtatuere; Sanctos, qui primâ Reſurrectione reſurrexerint, vitam beatam, cœleſtem, Angelicam, & omnino qualis filios reſurrectionis deceat, per mille annos in terris acturos; neque ab hoſtibus illis quos iterum ſolvendus Diabolus concitabit quicquam detrimenti paſſuros, quippe qui in ipſo conatu στομαχίας & obſidendi Civitatem dilectam de cœlo ſtatim perdendi ſint. Reliquorum verò orbis incolarum, qui in lumine Sanctæ Civitatis ambulabunt, diverſam fore conditionem.

9. Præterea Ἀποκατάſασιν iſtam πάντων, Act. 3. 21. ſeu Reſtitutionem Mundi à ſervitute corruptionis in libertatem gloriæ filiorum Dei, Rom. 8. 21. inituram cum Reſurrectione prima. Sed quò abeo? Conſilii mei memor, Scripturariâ iſthac cymbulâ altiùs non penetrabo in hoc mare.

a Auth. Qu. & Reſp. ad Orth. qu. 30. Ἀνάſασιν indigitat τὴ καιρὸν τ τῦ κόσμυ ἀνακτίσεως.

10. Unum tamen & alterum adhuc reſtat, de quo monendus eſt vir doctus: Me non duos, (ut putat) ſed unicum tantùm Chriſti adventum exſpectandum credere; eum nimirum quo vivos & mortuos judicaturus ſit ὃν τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ αὐτῦ· ſed tum adventum iſtum, tum Judicium, in mille annos extractum iri.

11. Porrò, aliud eſſe Regnum quo Chriſtus in Sanctis ſuis regnat, aliud quo Sancti regnabunt cum Chriſto. Verum quidem eſſe, Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum jam indè à primo ſuo adventu regnum inchoâſſe, illúdque regnum Eccleſiam eſſe. Interim & illud haud minùs certum eſſe, Regnum aliquod in Scripturis promitti adventûs ſecundi proprium, quod & Regnum κατ' ἐξοχὴν dicitur, adhúcque implendum ſupereſt. Ut Dan. 7. 14. Luc. 19. 11, 15. & cap. 21. 31. 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. 2 Tim. 4. 1. ubi ἡ ἐπιφάνεια αὐτῦ non eſt, ut vult vir doctus, ἐπιφάνεια τ βασιλείας, ſed ἐπιφάνεια τ Χριſτῦ· neque unquam aliter ea vox in tota Scriptura quàm ad Chriſti adventum ſignificandum adhibetur. Jam & illud ab Apoſtolo, 1 Cor. 15. teſtatum habemus, poſt Judicium & Reſurrectionem plenè peractam, Chriſtum regnum ſuum traditurum Patri, ut ipſe ſit omnia in omnibus. Ex his duobus quid ſequatur, viris piis & veritatis divinæ ſtudio ſeriò flagrantibus perpendendum relinquo.

b Huc pertinet illud Auth. Qu. & Reſp. ad Orth. qu. 120. Βασιλείαν δὲ τῦ θεῦ οἶδεν ἡ θεία γραφὴ ὀνομάζειν, ὅ πῶ ἀνάſασιν ἁπλῶς, ἀλλὰ πῶ μὴ πῶ ἀνάſασιν ἀποκατάſασιν, ἐν ᾗ τίνες κολαζομένων τε καὶ δοξαζομένων ἡ διαίρεσις.

12. Denique pro colophone & illud ſciat, Me verba illa * Petri [Unus dies apud Dominum ſicut mille anni] pro tarditatis à Deo amovendæ argumento nullatenus habere; ſed pro declaratione nomenclaturæ Diei Judicii, quæ proximè præceſſit: Nè centum quidem annorum millia apud Deum plus eſſe quàm unus Dies. Atqui de mora æſtimatione noſtrî cauſantur Irriſores, non Dei. Quæ igitur hæc calumniæ depulſio eſſet? De tarditate verò primùm ſequenti verſu agere incipit Apoſtolus, ejúſque culpam ſic à Deo depellere; Moram ſcilicet adventûs Domini non eſſe tarditati ejus in implendis promiſſis, ſed longanimitati, deputandam.

* 2 Pet. 3. 8.

Ex his vir doctus haud difficulter colligat ſolutiones meas ad pleraſque objectiones ſuas. J. M.

D E

DE GOGO & MAGOGO
in Apocalypſi Conjectura.

Apocalypſis Codex eſt Fatorum Eccleſiæ Gentium, non Judæorum. Habent enim Judæi de ſuo Prophetiarum ſatis in Veteri Teſtamento, neque noſtrâ ullatenus opus habent; ſuis ad omnem Gentis ſuæ ſortem, bonam malámve, depingendam abundè ſuffecturis.

Rem verò de Apocalypſi ità ſe habere, teſtatur

Primò, Theatri Apocalyptici hypotypoſis, quæ quatuor Animalibus, verſus totidem cœli plagas, circa thronum Dei diſpoſitis, exhibet Eccleſiam Chriſti, ambitu ſuo Gentes in quatuor mundi cardinibus complectentem; tanquam ſcilicet Viſionum omnium ibidem ſpectandarum ſubjectum.

Secundò, Eódem (ni fallor) faciunt Angeli verba ad Joannem, cap. 10. 11. Oportet te iterum prophetare ὅτι λαοῖς καὶ ἔθνεσι καὶ γλώσσαις καὶ βασιλεῦσι πολλοῖς.

Tertiò, Sed omnium maximè illud confirmat Parabolarum Symbolorúmque Propheticorum in hoc Libro indoles atque ingenium; in quibus nempe paſſim obſervare licet, Judæos ſive Synagogam Iſraeliticam perſonam veræ Chriſti Eccleſiæ ex Gentibus ſurrogatæ ſuſtinere, Gentes contrà typum Idololatrarum, ejuſdémque Eccleſiæ hoſtium; totâ nimirum parabolâ ex ſtatu rerum ſub Veteri Teſtamento mutuatâ, in quo veri Dei cultus apud unum Iſraelem viguit, Gentes verò reliquæ Idolis & Deaſtris in univerſum inſervierint. Atqui in ea Prophetia ubi Gens Iſraelitica alienam perſonam ſuſtinet, ibi ſuam ipſius geſtare nullo modo verifimile eſt; quandoquidem illud fieri nequit, quin totius Parabolæ ratio conturbaretur. Hinc adeò fit ut tantillum in hac Prophetia reperire ſit quod rem Judaicam privatim ſpectet; nempe illa ſolummodo quæ cum fatis Eccleſiæ Gentium colligata atque implicita eatenus præteriri non potuerint. Id quod tum præcipuè uſu venit, cùm, Sacri hujus Dramatis Cataſtrophe appetente, eò rem fatorum ſeries deduxerit, ut uterque populus in unum ovile coaleſcat. Neque tamen ubi vel ſic de Judæis aliquid intervenire contigerit, eos aut habitu aut nomine ſuo Gentilitio produci cernes, verùm aliunde adſcito charactere (Regum urpote Orientis, aut Sponſæ Agni) deſignari; quoniam nempe Gentis Judaicæ perſona in alterius (ut dictum eſt) populi parabolam conceſſerat.

Verùm ſi populus populi, hoſtes quoque hoſtium imaginem portare conſentaneum eſt, ut ità parabola undiquaque ſibi conſtet. Hinc igitur Ægyptus & Babylon Apocalypticæ non ſunt Iſraelitarum Babylon & Ægyptus, ſed hoſtes Eccleſiæ Gentium (quæ figuratur Iſraele) inſtar illius Babylonis & Ægypti.

Pari ratione Gog & Magog Apocalypſeos non ſunt Ezechielis Gog de terra Magog, caput Meſhec & Tubal, privatus Iſraelitarum hoſtis, (Hic enim ex partibus Septentrionis prodit, noſter ex quatuor angulis terræ; Hic ſub initium inſtaurationis Iſraeliticæ, noſter poſt mille annos Regni Sanctorum inſtaurationem Hieruſalem ſubſecuturi;) ſed Gogus alius, hoſtis Eccleſiæ Gentium in unum jamdiu cum Judæis ovile coactæ, quíque Secundam Reſurrectionem proximè anteceſſurus ſit, ut ille Ezechielis Primam: quippe utrâque Reſurrectione (unde typi & antitypi convenientia) Gogum ſuum & Magogum prodromum habiturâ; illâ Scythicum illum & Aquilonarem, hâc verò myſticum ſeu (utì Spiritus Sanctus loquitur, cùm ſimiliter Urbi magnæ * Sodoma & Ægypti cognomentum detulit) πνευματικῶς καλέμενον. Huic interpretationi firmandæ eſt quòd τὸν Γὼγ καὶ τὸν Μαγὼγ in verbis Apoſtoli non ſubjecti, ſed appoſiti locum faciunt, per quod Gentes iſtæ quatuor cardinum per modum ἐξηγήσεως declarentûr; tum quòd Μαγὼγ hîc terram ſeu locum denotare, ſicuti apud Ezechielem, non ſinat articulus; Exibit, inquit, (cùm conſummati fuerint mille anni) Satanas ut ſeducat τὰ ἔθνη τὰ ἐν ταῖς τέσσαρσι γωνίαις τῆς γῆς, τὸν Γὼγ καὶ τὸν Μαγώγ. Hic τὸν Γὼγ καὶ τὸν Μαγὼγ per modum appoſiti & ἐπεξηγήσεως adhibentur, quaſi dicere voluiſſet τὰ ἔθνη, &c. ἃ πνευματικῶς καλεῖται Γὼγ καὶ Μαγὼγ, prout interpretati ſumus.

* Cap. 11. 8.

Ex quo autem hominum genere Hoſtis hic noviſſimus proditurus ſit, utrùm ex Gentilium reliquiis quos Diluvium ignis ſub Reſurrectionem primam non inundaverit; an verò ex Gentibus profeſſione Chriſtianis, quæ iniquè ferentes ſe Sanctâ Civitate excluſas, neque pari cum beatis illius Civibus ſorte frui, (invidentiæ fomitem exſtimulante Satanâ) vi eam occupare conabuntur; non perinde facile fuerit ſtatuere. Poſterius ſi ſequamur, haud parvis urgebimur incommodis. Prius igitur probo; nempe Exercitum hunc venturum ex Gentibus in oppoſito nobis Hemiſphærio degentibus, quas Deus Opt. Max. occulto ſuo judicio, maximam partem nunquam ſit Evangelii ſui lumine perfuſurus. Noſtri verò Hemiſphærii orbem, quem Oceanus ambitu ſuo circumſcribit, quíque ſolus Antiquis creditus eſt humani generis domicilium, in quo primus homo conditus, & initio plantatus Paradiſus, in quo quatuor illa ſumma Imperia (Prophetiarum baſis) conſtituta, in cujus umbilico Chriſtus incarnatus, paſſus & à mortuis excitatus, in quo ſolo Apoſtoli & eorum diſcipuli prædicârunt, in quo Eccleſia tanto temporis ſpatio hoſpitata eſt, cujus finibus Judæorum illa per omnes Gentes diſperſio concluditur, cæteráque Prophetarum oracula adimpleta; hoc inquam terræ Hemiſphærium univerſum & ſolum promiſſæ inſtaurationis particeps, Sanctorum παρεμβολὴν, & beati illius Regni ſedem futurum: quicquid verò extra hoc Gentium eſt (locis nimirum ubi Inferorum ſedem collocavit * Antiquitas) ad poſtremum Chriſti triumphum, igne cœlitùs perdendas, juſto, licèt ignoto nobis, judicio reſervatum iri.

Ἡ σύμπασα οἰκουμένη μία νήσός ἐστιν, ἣν ὁ τῆς Ἀτλαντικῆς καλουμένης θαλάσσης περιῤῥεομένη. Ariſt. de Mundo cap. 3.

* Conſule R. Epiſcopum Armach. Reſponſ. ad Jeſuitam, p. 337, 338, 339, &c.

Dum enim contextûs verba ſcrupuloſiùs examino, quatuor in illis animadverto diſtinctè mentionem fieri. 1. Civitatis dilectæ, 2. Sanctorum παρεμβολῆς, 3. Ὃ πλάτος τῆς γῆς, & 4. Gentium quæ, ex quatuor mundi angulis venientes, in circuitu ejus aſcenſionem facerent Sanctorum παρεμβολὴν circumdaturæ.

Cap. 10. Verſ. 8, 9. Ἐξελεύσεται (inquit) ὁ Σατανᾶς πλανῆσαι τὰ ἔθνη τὰ ἐν ταῖς τέσσαρσι γωνίαις τῆς γῆς, τὸν Γὼγ καὶ τὸν Μαγὼγ, συναγαγεῖν αὐτοὺς εἰς πόλεμον, ὧν ὁ ἀριθμὸς ὡς ἡ ἄμμος τῆς θαλάσσης. Καὶ ἀνέβησαν ἐπὶ τὸ πλάτος τῆς γῆς, καὶ ἐκύκλωσαν τὴν παρεμβολὴν τῶν ἁγίων καὶ τὴν πόλιν τὴν ἠγαπημένην, &c.

Civitas dilecta eſt nova Jeruſalem, beati illius Regni Metropolis futura: Sanctorum παρεμβολὴ, Gentes Salvatorum in luce ejus ambulaturæ. Digito enim hæc vox ad caſtrametationem Iſraeliticam in eremo intendit. Nempe ut illic, Tabernaculo Dei cum Sacerdotibus & Levitis in medio poſito, circùm caſtrametabantur Tribus Iſraelis; ità hic novæ Jeruſalem, Templo Dei œcumenico, cum Regiis ſuis Sacerdotibus, in orbis noſtri meditullio ſitæ, undique circumfuſæ habitabunt Gentes quas in populum ſibi Deus adoptatum ibit.

Tertium,

Tertium, τὸ πλάτ☉ τῆς γῆς, eſt terrarum illa amplitudo quam nobis Oceanus (ὃς περιωμαίνει γαίης πρὶ πέρματα κύκλον) ambitu ſuo circumſcribit; verbo, Hemiſphærii noſtratis orbis: ad cujus minimùm fines Regnum Chriſti protenſum iri, teſtantur Prophetarum oracula. Dominabitur à mari Pſalm. 72. 8. uſque ad mare, & à flumine ad terminos Orbis. Item, Dedi te in lucem Gen- Iſai. 49. 6. tium, ut ſis ſalus mea uſque ad extremum terræ. & alia his ſimilia. Adeò ut non poſſit de beati hujus Regni amplitudine quid tam minutum cogitari, quod non orbis noſtri fines ambitu ſuo complexum eat.

In hoc terræ πλάτ☉, finito Millenario, aſcenſuræ dicuntur Gentes quæ ſunt in quatuor angulis terræ, eædémque coronâ cincturæ παρεμβολὴν τῶν ἁγίων inibi conſtitutam. Ex aſcenſione diſco foris aliunde veniſſe, adeóque non intra, ſed extra τὸ πλάτ☉ ſedes habuiſſe: Ἐκ τῆς κυκλώσεως verò, ſeu circumſeßione, ſedes illas ità comparatas, ut non ab hac aut illa ſolummodo plaga, verùm ab omni, τὸ πλάτ☉ invadere poſſint. Quorum utrumque in Orbis Americani, Arctici & Antarctici incolas competere, nemini rei Geographicæ perito ignotum eſt. Nam cùm oppoſiti nobis Hemiſphærii habitatores ſint, ſitum ità comparatum habent, ut commodè orbem noſtrum, trajecto è regione cujuſque Oceano, coronâ cingere poſſint.

Conſpirationem, inquies, audio planè ſtupendam, tot Gentium, tot Populorum tanto à ſe invicem locorum intervallo diſſitorum, quibúſque tam vaſto mari ad noſtrum Orbem tranſituris emenſo opus erit. Expeditionem ſimilem nullam ab omni ævo viderit mundus; non igitur abſque ingentis alicujus, & quod naturam humanam potenter commovere natum eſt, boni propoſita ſpe unquam proculdubio ſuſcipiendam. Atqui illud quid tandem futurum eſſe dicemus tantarum illecebrarum bonum? Quid verò aliud quàm ut tam beati ſoli cœlíque, támque invidendæ felicitatis orbem, ſuæ (ſi Diis placet, & Satanam ipſis pollicitaturum credibile eſt) poteſtatis facerent, in eodem beatè victuri, & (quod uni illi Orbi datum fortaſſe rebuntur) à morte revicturi. Sanè antiquum obtinebit Satanas; ſimili enim artificio primos humani generis parentes olim in exitium præcipitavit, ab eodem in hoc noviſſimo ſolertiæ & nequitiæ ſuæ ſpecimine nequaquam receſſurus.

Atque hæc ſententiæ meæ ſumma eſt; cujus penès viros doctos & hujuſmodi myſteriorum callentes judicium eſto.

Unum adhuc adjiciam. Si verum ſit quod Fullerus noſter argumentis nonnullis probare contendit, Nationes Americanas Magogiticæ gentis colonias eſſe, ob brevem Oceani in Scythicis iſtis oris trajectum, (alibi vaſtum nimis & immenſum) non eſſe quòd quis de Gogi & Magogi nominibus ampliùs litem moveat, aut hac de cauſa cum Ezechielis Gogo Apocalypticum confundat. Vid. eum Miſcell. Sacr. lib. 2. cap. 4. in fine.

Soli Deo gloria.

DE

De Regno Ἐπιφανείας Chriſti accipiendum illud Apoſtoli ad Hebræos cap. 2. verſ. 5.

Οὐ γὰρ Ἀγγέλοις ὑπέταξε τὴν Οἰκουμένην τὴν μέλλουσαν, περὶ ἧς λαλοῦμεν.

Οἰκουμένη enim Terra eſt, non Cælum. At ubi (inquies) de hac Οἰκουμένῃ? in præcedentibus locutus eſt Apoſtolus, ut dicat περὶ ἧς λαλοῦμεν? Aio ab iſtis verbis verſûs 6. cap. 1. Ὅταν δὲ πάλιν εἰσαγάγῃ τὸν πρωτότοκον εἰς τὴν Οἰκουμένην, λέγει, &c. id eſt, Cùm verò ITERUM introduxerit primogenitum [ſuum] in Orbem terræ, dicit, &c. Quæ enim exinde ex Libro Pſalmorum ad finem uſque capitis citantur, [de Adoratione Angelorum, de Sceptro rectitudinis Dei, de Innovatione mundi, de hoſtium ſub pedibus conculcatione*] omnia, ſi Apoſtolo credimus, ad Secundum Chriſti Adventum referenda ſunt. Admonitio autem, quæ quatuor primis verſiculis Capitis ſecundi hæc excipit, per parentheſin eſt legenda. Verſu demum quinto ad propoſitum redit Apoſtolus, & prolixiùs exſequitur quæ de Humanæ Naturæ ſupra Angelos prærogativa diſſerverat.

* Non enim tam ſeſſio ad dextram Dei, quàm plena & omnimoda ſubjugatio & conculcatio hoſtium in ea allegatione attenditur; quæ demum in Secundo adventu adimplenda eſt.

Non Angelis (inquit) ſubjecit τὴν Οἰκουμένην ἣν μέλλουσαν, de qua loquimur; ſed [ei de quo] alicubi teſtatus eſt Pſalmographus dicens, Domine, quid eſt homo, quòd memor es ejus; aut filius hominis, quòd viſitas eum? Modico minorem Angelis feciſti eum, gloriâ & honore coronâſti eum, &c. Et paulò pòſt, Qui verò modico minor Angelis factus eſt Jeſus, (id eſt, factus homo, qui naturâ Angelicâ modico inferior eſt) videmus, propter mortis perpeſſionem, gloriâ & honore coronatum. Confer Phil. 2. v. 7, 8, 9. Atque hæc, ni fallor, mens Apoſtoli.

Mirabiliter autem noſtri verſum illum ſextum capitis primi transferunt, ut Primo Chriſti adventui accommodent; trajiciendo nimirum particulam πάλιν, acſi ſcriptum eſſet, πάλιν δ ὅταν εἰσαγάγῃ, cùm ſcriptum ſit, Ὅταν δὲ πάλιν εἰσαγάγῃ, &c. Cujuſmodi trajectionis exemplum nuſquam uſpiam oſtendi poteſt: Et præterea verbum εἰσαγάγῃ (præterquam quòd cum πάλιν conjungatur) Futuri ſignificationem habeat, cùm ſit Aoriſtus ſecundus Subjunctivi.

Porrò notandum Pſal. 97. (unde teſtimonium illud de Angelis Chriſtum in Secundo adventu adoraturis deſumptum eſt) tam apud LXX quàm Vulgatum Interpretem hujuſmodi Epigraphe prænotatum eſſe; τῷ Δαβὶδ, ὅτε ἡ γῆ αὐτοῦ κατῴκισται, Pſalmus David, quando terra ei reſtituta eſt. Quid hoc rei eſſe dicemus? An Pſalmus quo David Meſſiam in Reſurrectione celebrabit? An quem cecinit poſtquam ab Abſolomo filio pulſus, Regno reſtitutus eſt? In Hebræo hodierno Pſalmus ἀνεπίγραφος eſt. Sed LXX aut in ſuis exemplaribus reperîſſe, aut ex Traditione mutuatos addidiſſe, vix dubitandum eſt; ut & alios alicubi Pſalmorum titulos, qui nunc in Hebræo non exſtant.

In verſione igitur Anglica verſ. 6. pro [And AGAIN, when he bringeth in the firſt-begotten into the world] corrige [And when when he bringeth AGAIN the first-begotten into the world, or, shall bring,] &c.

Sic v. 8. pro [unto the Son] malim [of the Son] ut antè verſ. 7. [of the Angels] nam * eadem ſunt verba.

* πρὸς τὸς Ἀγγέλους, πρὸς τὸν υἱόν.

Pro ὡσεὶ περιβόλαιον ἑλίξεις verſ. 12, ut & apud LXX, ſunt qui legendum exiſtiment ἀλλάξεις, facili mutatione. Et ità habet Textus Hebraicus in Pſalmo 102. 27. תַּחֲלִיפֵם, & Latina Vulgata Verſio utrobique mutabis eos. Ità quoque in Pſalmo legit Irenæus lib. 4. cap. 6. Neque ab interprete eſſe, Latinam Vulgatam imitante, conferenti apparebit. Eandem lectionem ſequitur Tertullianus adverſus Hermogenem c. 34. ſed ex Vulgata.

Juſtinus Martyr Dialogo cum Tryphone pag. 340. Edit. Pariſ. Οὗτος γάρ ἐστιν ἀφ' οὗ καὶ τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ τὴν γῆν, καὶ δι' οὗ ὁ πατὴρ μέλλει καινουργεῖν· οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ ὢν Ἱερουσαλὴμ αἰώνιον φῶς λάμπειν μέλλων, i. e. Hic etenim eſt (Jeſum intelligit) à quo & cælum & terram factam ſcimus, & per quem & cælum & terram Pater innovabit. Hic eſt qui in Jeruſalem ut lux reſplendeat ſempiterna faciet. Reſpicit Eſai. 60. 19. cap. 65. 17. Apoc. 21. v. 1, 23. Ex hoc dicto lucem facias Apoſtolo capite hoc primo ad Hebræos verſ. 2, & 12.

Origenes contra Celſum lib. 3. p. 179. Gr. Οὐκ ἀρνήμεθα τὸ καθάρσιον πῦρ, καὶ τὴν τῷ κόσμῳ φθορὰν, ὅτε καθαιρήσει τὴς κακίας καὶ ἀνακαινώσει τὸ παντός. Interpres hîc non bonâ fide egit.

R. David Kimchi in 56. cap. Eſaiæ, verſ. 6. Obſervatio Sabbati יְסוֹד גָּדוֹל magnum eſt fundamentum in fide Dei; quoniam Sabbatum non obſervabit, niſi qui confiteatur שֶׁהָעוֹלָם מְחֻדָּשׁ Mundum renovatum iri, quódque eum renovaturus ſit qui creaverit ipſum ex nihilo, & non eſt alius præter eum: Quaſi diceret, eum qui Sabbatum dierum obſervârit, eo ipſo teſtari ſe credere Sabbatum Magnum, quo Deus Mundum renovaturus ſit.

Locum Eſaiæ 66. à verſu quinto ad Regnum Chriſti in Secundo Adventu pertinere, teſtatur Juſtinus Martyr Dial. cum Tryph. p. 312. In quibus verbis (dictum Eſaiæ locum laudat) ἐστὶ τὸ μυστήριον πάλιν τῆς ἡμετέρας ἀναστάσεως ἡμῶν, (id eſt, reſurrectionis noſtræ) καὶ ἁπλῶς πάντων τῶν τὸν Χριστὸν ἐν ΙΕΡΟΥΣΑΛΗΜ φανησεσθαι προσδοκώντων, καὶ δι' ἔργων εὐαρεστεῖν αὐτῷ σπουδαζόντων· id eſt, & omnino omnium qui Chriſtum in Jeruſalem appariturum exſpectent, & operibus bonis ei placere ſtudeant.

Ejuſdem Vaticinium cap. 45. à verſu 14 & deinceps, in eodem Adventu implendum teſtatur Apoſtolus, Ad Romanos cap. 14. v. 11, 12. Omnes enim (inquit) ſtabimus ante Tribunal Chriſti. Scriptum eſt enim (nempe in hoc Eſaiæ vaticinio) Vivo ego, dicit Dominus, quoniam mihi flectetur omne genu, & omnis lingua confitebitur Deo. Ità enim unuſquiſque noſtrûm pro ſe rationem reddet Deo. Sic ille. Quòd ſi hæc Prophetiæ pars in Secundo Chriſti adventu, in die nimirum Judicii, adimplenda reſtet, etiam reliqua eódem pertinere neceſſe eſt. Eſt autem Prophetiæ initium hujuſmodi, Sic dicit Dominus, Labor Ægypti, & negotiatio Chus & Sabæorum, VIRORUM MENSURÆ, (i. MERCATORUM, גַּבְרִין דְּסַחֲרָא ſic Targum, quòd menſuris utantur; non, MEN OF STATURE) ad Te (O tu Captiva, vel O Civitas mea) tranſibunt, & Tui erunt, poſt Te ambulabunt, in compedibus tranſibunt, ad Te incurvabunt ſe, Te deprecabuntur dicentes, Tantùm in te Deus eſt, & non eſt alius præter ipſum Deus.

In Hebræo enim omnia hæc pronomina ſunt generis fœminini; quare ad ad Cyrum referri nequeunt, ſed ad Jeruſalem Captivam, de qua in verſu præcedenti mentionem habuit, quémque ad majorem rei evidentiam ſic verterem; Ego ſuſcitavi eum (Cyrum) in juſtitia, & omnes vias ejus dirigam. Ipſe ædificabit Civitatem meam, & Captivam meam [גלותי] dimittet, idque ſine pretio & munere, dicit Dominus exercituum. Tunc ſequuntur verba quæ paulò antè recitavi, Sic dicit Dominus, Labor Ægypti, &c. quaſi diceret, Parùm eſt quòd reædificaberis & remitteris; imò verò Magna te, ô Captiva mea, ô Civitas mea, manet olim felicitas, &c. Obſervandum eſt enim Dominum indè à fine verſûs undecimi reſpondere quaſi interrogationi de Fatis filiorum ſuorum; juxta quod præmiſit, Ventura interrogate me de filiis meis, & de operibus manuum mearum præcipite mihi, nempe ut narrem vobis quæ futura ſint.

Ejuſdem Vaticinium de Reſurrectione prima, cap. 26. verſ. 19.

Vivent mortui tui, cadavera mea [נִבְלָתִי] reſurgent, (diſtributivè enim ſumendum נבלתי arguit adjunctum verbum pluralis numeri יקומו) Cadavera autem mea, i. quæ pro nomine meo occubuerunt.

R. Solomon, Vivent illi qui propter te mortui ſunt, (vult enim Prophetam hîc alloqui Dominum) יצא דבר מלך וגו׳ Exivit decretum Regium à facie tua, dicendo, CADAVERA MEA RESURGENT, cadavera populi mei, quorum ceciderunt oſſa pro me, illis erit reſurrectio. Hoc per antitheſin reſpondet ei quod ſuprà ſcriptum eſt, * REPHAIM NON RESURGENT, hi verò reſurgent. Sic ille. Rephaim autem de improbis interpretatur, שרופו ידיהם מתורה qui remittunt manus ſuas de Lege; eos in Seculo futuro reſurrecturos negat.

* Verſ. 14.

LXX locum ſic reddiderunt, Ἀναστήσονται οἱ νεκροὶ, καὶ ἐγερθήσονται οἱ ἐν τοῖς μνημείοις, Surgent mortui, & excitabuntur qui in monumentis. Hieron. Vivent mortui tui, interfecti mei reſurgent.

Veteres Judæos oraculum hoc de Reſurrectione mortuorum interpretatos eſſe, liquet ex eo quod refertur in Gemara Sanhedrin cap. 11. Interrogârunt Sadducæi R. Gamalielem, undenam probaret Deum mortuos vivificaturum. Dixit illis מן התורה Ex Lege, ומן הנביאים Ex Prophetis, ומן הכתובים Ex Hagiographis. Ex Lege, Deuter. 31. 16. Ex Prophetis, Eſai. 26. 19. Ex Hagiographis, Cant. 7. 9.

De Reſurrectione quoque mortuorum exponunt Irenæus lib. 5. cap. 15, & cap. 34. (& hîc quidem diſertè de Reſurrectione juſtorum) Tertullianus lib. de Reſurrectione cap. 31. Hieronymus & Cyrillus, Auguſtinus lib. 20. de Civitate Dei; imò, qui cum Apoſtolis vixit, Clemens Romanus, in Epiſtola genuina ad Corinthios diu deſiderata, & ſuperiore anno in lucem edita, pag. 65.

Deſcriptio Novæ Jeruſalem Apoc. 21, à verſ. 23. ad finem, tota deſumpta eſt ex cap. 60. Eſaiæ, verſibus 19. | 3. 11. | 11. 5. 6. 9. | 21. collat. cum verſ. 1. cap. 52.

Pro-

Prophetia TOBIÆ Moribundi, DE Duplici Judæorum Captivitate, ET Statu Noviſſimo:

Prout habetur in Exemplari Hebràico, non illo Munſteri, ex verſionibus Græca & Latina (ut nimis planum eſt) attemperato & confiſto; ſed Conſtantinopolitano illo vetuſto & puriſſimè Ἑβραΐζοντι, à Paulo Fagio in lucem edito, eóque (ut conſtat) ex Originali Chaldæo (unde & noſtræ editiones binæ prodiere) omnium fideliſſimè, nempe Judæi alicujus, iſtius Dialecti peritiſſimi, manu, jam olim expreſſo.

ET factum eſt, cùm ſenuiſſet Tobias, ut vocaret filium ſuum Tobiam, unà cum ſex filiis qui nati ſunt ei, ac diceret ei, Fili mi, nôſti quòd ſenio confectus ſum: Cave itaque poſt obitum meum nè diutiùs maneas Ninive: certum enim & clarum eſt tibi, fore ut confirmetur Prophetia Jonæ Prophetæ.

Quare accipe filios tuos & quæcunque habes, & vade in terram Medorum; ibi enim erit Pax ad tempus conſtitutum.

Reſpondet cap. 14. in noſtrù, indè à verſu 3. ad finem verſûs 7. in Græco 9.

* Cæterùm reliqui fratres noſtri Iſraelitæ, qui ſunt in Jeruſalem, omnes migrabunt in exſilium; & (α) Jeruſalem in acervos erit, & Mons Domûs in excelſa ſylvæ, manebítque deſolata ad modicum tempus.

* Hebr. וּשְׁאָר אַחֵינוּ יִשְׂרָאֵל אֲשֶׁר בִּירוּשָׁלִַם כֻּלָּם יֵצְאוּ בִּגְלוּת וִירוּשָׁלִַם לְעִיִּים תִּהְיֶה וְהַר הַבַּיִת לְבָמוֹת יַעַר וְתִהְיֶה שוֹמֵמָה זְמַן מְעָט

Tunc autem aſcendent filii Iſrael, & readificabunt eam, ſimul & Templum; attamen non juxta priorem ſtructuram: manebúntque ibi diebus multis, (β) donec impleatur ſeries quædam ſecularis.

וְאַחַר יַעֲלוּ בְנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל וְיִבְנוּ אוֹתָהּ וְאֶת הַבַּיִת אֲבָל לֹא כְּבִנְיָן רִאשׁוֹן וְיַעַמְדוּ שָׁם יָמִים רַבִּים לְפִי מְלֹאת עוֹלָם אֶחָד

(γ) Tum iterum exibunt in captivitatem longè maximam: verùm Deus Sanctus Benedictus recordabitur eorum, & congregabit eos à quatuor plagis mundi.

וְשׁוּב יֵצְאוּ בְּגָלוּת רַב וְגָדוֹל וְהַקָּדוֹשׁ בָּרוּךְ הוּא יִזְכּוֹר אוֹתָם וְיַקְבְּצֵם מֵאַרְבַּע כַּנְפוֹת הָאָרֶץ

Tum reſtaurabitur Jeruſalem Civitas ſancta, ſtructurâ pulchrâ & præclarâ; nec non & Templum ipſum exſtruetur ſtructurâ celebri, ſtructurâ quæ non deſtruetur, nec diruetur in ſeculum, & in ſecula ſeculorum, quemadmodum dixerunt Prophetæ.

וְחַבְנָה יְרוּשָׁלַם בְּנִין נָאֶה וגו׳

Tunc convertentur Gentes iſtæ ad colendum Dominum, projiciéntque ſculptilia Deorum ſuorum, dabúntque laudem & confeſſionem Nomini ejus magno.

Exaltabitur quoque cornu populi ſui coram omnibus gentibus; & celebrabunt ac glorificabunt Nomen ejus magnum omne ſemen Iſrael. Tunc gaudebunt omnes ſervi ejus, qui ſerviunt ei in veritate; lætabuntur & exſultabunt omnes qui faciunt juſtitiam & pietatem.

Annotationes in Prophetiam Tobiæ.

(α) ITA enim eisdémque verbis jam prophetaverat Michah, sub initium Ezechiæ, quo tempore Tobias in captivitatem abducebatur. Vid. Jerem. 26. 18. Mich. 3. 12.

(β) In Græco, ἕως πληρωθῶσι καιροὶ τοῦ αἰῶνος, i. donec impleantur tempestates seculi. Quæ verba Nostrates mirificè verterunt. Vide obsecro.

(γ) Verba ista [Et iterum exibunt in captivitatem longè maximam] in Græco interprete, sive casu, sive consilio, prætermissa sunt; sed hiatu nimis manifesto. Quo nimirum effectum est, ut cum proximè præcedentibus sequentia omnino non cohæreant, in quibus scilicet narretur reditus & restauratio à captivitate aliqua à priori diversa, cujus tamen nulla mentio præmissa est. Lege amabò & fatebere.

Suspicor autem consultò hanc clausulam expunctam, quia cum sententia Chiliastarum facere videbatur, statuendo illa quæ à Prophetis dicuntur de glorioſa instauratione Jerusalem & Gentium conversione tunc futura, non ante novissimum Judæorum reditum impletum iri. Unde Hieronymus eadem de causa non solùm hanc clausulam, sed duos integros paragraphos hoc loco omisit, ut ità quod sequitur, de Gentibus ad Dominum convertendis, præsenti earum vocationi in solidum vendicaret. Quàm perfunctoriè autem Hieronymus in ista versione sua egit, quantúmque fidei ei tribuendum sit, ex Prologo quem ipse versioni suæ præfixit Lector facilè æstimare potest. Quia vicina est (inquit) Chaldæorum lingua sermoni Hebraico, utriusque linguæ peritissimum loquacem reperiens, unius diei laborem arripui; & quicquid ille mihi Hebraicis verbis expressit, hoc ego accito notario sermonibus Latinis exposui.

Παρα-

Παραλειπόμενα.

REMAINES
On ſome Paſſages in the APOCALYPSE.

CHAP. I.

General Conſiderations concerning the Order and Connexion of the Apocalyptical Viſions.

In a Letter to Mr. Wood of Lenton in Lincolnſhire, by way of Anſwer to his.

I.

THE Apocalypſe conſidered onely according to the naked Letter, as if it were a Hiſtory and no Prophecy, hath marks and ſigns ſufficient inſerted by the Holy Spirit, whereby the Order, Synchroniſm and Sequele of all the Viſions therein contained may be found out and demonſtrated, without ſuppoſal of any Interpretation whatſoever.

II.

This Order and Synchroniſm thus found and demonſtrated (as it were) by argumenta intrinſeca, is the firſt thing to be done, and forelayd as a Foundation, Ground, and onely ſafe Rule of Interpretation; and not Interpretation to be made the Ground and Rule of it.

III.

If the Order, Method and Connexion of the Viſions be framed and grounded upon ſuppoſed Interpretation; then muſt all Proofs out of that Book needs be founded upon begged principles and humane conjectures: But on the contrary, if the Order be firſt fixed and ſettled out of the indubitate Characters of the letter of the Text, and afterward the Interpretation guided, framed and directed by that Order; then will the variety of Expoſitions be drawn into a very narrow compaſs, and Proofs taken from this Book be evident and infallible, and able to convince the Gain-ſayers.

IV.

This is that Method which I endeavoured to repreſent in my Scheme, and demonſtrate in the Tractate annexed. In which therefore all Interpretation is ſet apart and (as it were) diſclaimed, and all the Reaſons founded upon the bare letter of the Text, taking no notice at all of any Event or Interpretation whatſoever, but leaving all at full liberty: only reſerved, that the Order and Synchroniſm which I repreſent out of the Text be no way violated thereby; and ſo let the Interpretation be what it may be.

V.

I dare not be confident that this Order and Series which I have deduced and repreſented is in no part thereof faulty and ſwerving: howſoever for the main I am well perſwaded, and think that if not this, yet ſomething like it, ought to be thought on. But he that ſhall eſpie the errours of mine, I deſire him to ſhew me them by ſuch Arguments only as my ſelf make my grounds, namely, from the Characters which the letter of the Text affordeth, and not from Interpretation; becauſe Interpretation (as I ſaid) is to be fitted unto the Order, and not the Order to follow it.

VI.

But for example ſake, yield me a while that this which I have exhibited is indeed the true Repreſentation of the Order and Connexion of the Apocalyptical Viſions: See then how admirable the uſe thereof will be for Interpretation. For if we can once be aſſured of the meaning of ſome one principal Viſion, how evident then and ruled will the way be from it to find and diſcover the reſt? Will it not be like a Mariner's Card to guide our way in this myſticall Sea? For example, Are we aſſured what the Prophecie of the Whore of Babylon means? (For here, here, I ſay, we muſt firſt pitch; and therefore (mark it) the Angel himſelf of purpoſe expounds this Viſion only of all the Viſions this Book or Scheme repreſenteth:) Do we know then what this meaneth? If we do, then behold the Scheme, and ſee there what will follow; viz.

1. That all the Viſions contemporating with Babylon's times muſt be expounded of ſuch things only as belong to the times of Babylon's whoring.

2. All Viſions preceding muſt be interpreted of things foregoing it.

3. All Viſions following, of things to be after it, &c. Verbum intelligenti ſat eſt. What a number of ambiguities, uncertainties, and varieties of interpretation will this cut off and ſtrike dead at a blow? It would be as fetters and cords to hold in, yea, as a ginne to intangle, our deſultorious and ſhifting Interpreters, eſpecially our Adverſaries, who do ſúſque déque miſcere omnia.

The Conſideration of theſe things will make the Apocalypſe to appear for the frame and quality thereof the admirableſt Prophecy in Scripture: And as much as the divine Revelation of Spiritual Truths in the New Teſtament ſurpaſſes the Old for evidence and clearneſs; ſo the Prophetical part of the New for the fabrick & ſureneſs of the grounds for Interpretation exceeds all the Prophecies of the Old.

CHAP. II.

Particular Conſiderations for the underſtanding of the * Scheme, &c.

* See the Scheme at pag. 536.

I.

OMitting the Viſion of The ſeven Churches, which is not generally granted to be a Prophecie: The whole Prophetical part of the Apocalypſe following conſiſts of Two main Prophecies; both of them beginning their race at the ſame Epocha or Terminus à quo of time, and concluding together likewiſe at the ſame Goal or Terminus ad quem; that is, they begin ab iiſdem carceribus, (as we ſpeak) and run ad eandem metam. The firſt of theſe is Prophetia Sigillorum, The Prophecie of the Seals, reaching from the 4. Chap. untill almoſt the end of the 10. which is repreſented in the upper-half of the Scheme. The ſecond is Prophetia Libri, The Book-Prophecie, beginning at the 8. verſ. of the 10. Chap. and reaching to the end of the Book;

Book; which is repreſented in the lower or under-half of the Scheme. So that the Book of The Revelation might fitly have been divided into two Tomes, and the ſecond Tome to have begun at the 8. verſ. of the 10. Chap. at theſe words, And the voice which I heard from Heaven (viz. chap. 4. 1.) ſpake unto me again, (i. e. begun anew) and ſaid, Take the Book——And I took the Book——And he ſaid unto me, Thou muſt propheſie again (that is, begin a new Prophecie ab ovo.) Conſider it.

Certainly ſuch a diviſion would be moſt eaſie for interpretation, if alſo every ſeveral Viſion in each Tome was caſt into a ſeveral Chapter or Section. And it cannot be denied but the diviſion of Chapters, eſpecially in the New Teſt. being but of humane inſtitution, is ſometimes ſo ill ordered, that it doth much prejudice the Reader in underſtanding the meaning of the Holy Ghoſt.

II.

That the Times of the Inner Court begin with the Beginning of the Seals.

Now if this ſecond Prophecie do begin ab ovo, from the ſame Beginning of time whence the Seals began, (and without doubt the Seals begin at the Beginning of the Apocalypticall time) and runs over anew thoſe times which the Seals before traced, till it concludes with them; will not then this reaſoning be very reaſonable? viz. If the whole Prophecie of the * Book comprehends the whole time of the Prophecie of the Seals, then the Beginning of the Prophecie of the Book begins at the Beginning of the Times of the Seals. But the Beginning of the Prophecie of the Book, in the Text, is The ſurveying of the two Courts of the Temple; the firſt Court meaſured, the ſecond uncapable of meaſure: One of theſe two then muſt begin at the Beginning where the Seals began. But the ſecond Court cannot; for it ſynchroniſeth with the Times of the Beaſt; Ergo the former muſt: that is, The Inward Court, (within which the Temple it ſelf ſtood) being capable of the Divine meaſure, muſt note ſome condition of things and times which forewent and preceded the Riſing of the Beaſt and the Treading down of the ſecond and outward Court by the Gentiles. And is there not as much need and uſe of a meaſure to diſtinguiſh of the different States of the Viſible Church in the diverſe Times and Ages thereof, as of the differing Members of one and the ſame time? Conſider it. And this granted will open a door for diſcovery of farre more admirable matter then doth the confounding of both Courts into one Time. I confeſs I was once wonderfully pleaſed with that Opinion, and Forbes his pretty expoſition thereof gave me much contentment: But now at length the Law of Synchroniſtical neceſſity hath beat me from it, and ſhewed me (as I think) a farr more evident, unforced and uſefull Expoſition. As for the ſtate of the true Church in the times of Apoſtaſie, we have three Prophecies:

1. The Woman in the wilderneſs.
2. The two Witneſſes in mourning.
3. The Virgin-company of the Sealed ones.

And therefore that of the meaſured Court may be ſpared for another uſe.

* Βιβλαριδίου.

Aliter.

If any part of the Book-prophecie begin at the Beginning of Apocalyptical time, where the Seals began; then certainly the Firſt entrance thereinto (viz. the meaſuring of the Inward or Temple-Court) ſhould have a ſhare in this privilege of Firſtſhip. But that ſome of the ſequent Viſions of this Second Prophecie do begin at the Beginning of Apocalyptical Time it is evident; namely (of the Second Viſion hereof, Chap. 12.) The Twelve-ſtarry crowned Woman crying in travail, and but then a bringing forth; and the red Seven-headed Dragon watching to devour her Child as ſoon as it was born. Was not this at the Beginning thereof? Ergò, ut ſuprá.

III.

The Connexion of the Beginning of the Times of the Beaſt with the Beginning of the Seventh or Trumpet-Seal, from the then Sealing of the 144000, chap. 7. and the Connexion of the End of the Times of the Beaſt with the End of the Sixth Trumpet, from the then Finiſhing of the 1260 days of the Contemporary Prophecy of the Witneſſes, chap. 11. Theſe, I ſay, concern me near, and are the two Hindges whereby the Book-prophecy is hung (as it were a door) upon the Prophecy of the Seals, without which there would be no ground in the Text ro connect them. If theſe therefore be wrung from me, the whole Scheme is diſſolved and broken, and (that which is worſe) cannot again be reſtored.

The latter Connexion or Hindge I think you grant me, unleſs your Tenet of the Vials do any way impeach it. Howſoever you deny not the Finiſhing of the 42 moneths poteſtas agendi at the expiring of the Sixth Trumpet, and by conſequent you yield according to expreſs Text that the Beaſt muſt be well forward in his Downfall and Ruine by that time. The ground of the difference between us is, That I would have the Vials to comprehend all the degrees of the Beaſt's Ruine, and therefore inevitably begin them before the Seventh Trumpet; You would have the Vials to be but ſome of the degrees of the Beaſt's downfall, and therefore have liberty to begin them after the Seventh Trumpet hath ſounded.

But for the Firſt Hindge of Connexion by the Sealing of the 144000, ch. 7. you ſeem to make moſt ſcruple; where nevertheleſs I obſerve that you grant the thing I ſeek for [viz. That the Times of the Beaſt begin with the Beginning of the Trumpet-Seal.] But you queſtion my Ground and Character. But unleſs this be the Character and ſo intended, there will be none found at all: Which I deſire you to conſider together with my Grounds, as followeth in brief.

The Synchroniſme of the Beginning of the Times of the Beaſt with the Beginning of the Seventh Seal or Seal of Trumpets.

The Sealing of the 144000 follows immediately upon the Sixth Seal, and therefore begins with and is coincident with the Seventh; becauſe the Seals follow one another without interruption of time. But the 144000 Sealed ones are one of the Beaſt's contemporaries, chap. 14. Therefore the Beaſt alſo and all under his times muſt contemporate with the Seventh Seal.

That the Sealing of the 144000 ſucceeds upon the expiring of the Sixth Seal; 1. The Tranſition ſhews, Μετὰ τοῦτο εἶδον, After theſe things I ſaw: which I never find uſed but when that which follows in the Narration, follows alſo in order of time. 2. No other reaſon can be given why otherwiſe the Courſe of the Seals ſhould be ſo interrupted and diſturbed by an interlaced Viſion, and in that place rather then any other. For if this Viſion concern all the Seven Seals, why was it not deferred till they were finiſhed, as is the uſual method elſewhere? If it concerned only Six Seals, it were ſomething; but the Turba palmifera (the Palm-bearing multitude, ch. 7. 9.) ſhews it is extended to the End of the Trumpets, &c. Laſtly, What need had there been for this Viſion to have been at all mentioned among the Seals, were it not intended for a Character of Connexion of the two Prophecies, not elſe poſſible to be connected, but left in a wandring uncertainty?

IV.

IV.

Whether the Dragon with Seven heads and the Dragon ſimply mentioned in Chap. 12. be the ſame.

The Seven-headed Dragon in the 3. ver. and the Dragon ſimplie mentioned in the 4. v. are both one: for the words run thus, v. 3. And there appeared a great red Dragon having ſeven heads and ten horns.——v. 4. And his tail drew the third part of the ſtarres.——And the Dragon ſtood before the Woman which was ready to be delivered, &c.

The ſame event ſucceeds upon the Battel of Michael with the Dragon ſimply ſo called, which follows upon the attempt of the Seven-headed Dragon to devour the Woman's Child; to wit, The flight of the Woman into the wilderneſs, v. 6, & 14.

What if the one (the Seven-headed,) be Satan in concreto, as he poſſeſſed the Seven-headed Empire, as it were the Soul of that bloudy Body; and the other which fights with Michael, the ſame Satan ſtill, but in abſtracto? The firſt, Satan viſible, perſecuting the Church; the ſecond, Satan inviſible, fighting with the inviſible Michael; and yet the time of both the ſame, and ſo the ſame event conſequent to both?

Another Probleme concerning Michael.

If this Michael in the Revelation be the ſame with that in Daniel, who ſhould it then be? If Chriſt be this Michael, why then ſaith Chriſt, *Dan.*10. 13. Michael one of the chief Princes came to help me? and v. 21. None holdeth with me in theſe things but Michael your Prince? For that it is Chriſt which here ſpeaks, will appear by comparing his deſcription in the 5, & 6. verſes of that Chap. with Revel. 1. 13. Compare alſo Dan. 12. 6, & 7. with Rev. 10. ab initio ad v. 7.

Napier would have Michael to be the Holy Ghoſt; which if it be admitted, then thoſe chief Princes, whereof Michael is ſaid to be one, will be the Perſons of the Trinity. May this ſtand? or will it help the conceit of the ancient Chiliaſts for Regnum Spiritûs? But Napier thought not of any ſuch matter.

V.

Of the Sealing of the 144000 mentioned in Ch. 7.

In anſwer to a letter from the ſame Friend.

The ſealing of 144000, Chap. 7. after the 6. Seal was opened, ſeems not to be Narratio de præterito, but Cautio de futuro; not a Narration of what had paſſed under the 6 Seals, but a Caution againſt a danger to come under the 7. For the ſeventh Seal coming then to be opened, and being a Seal of deſtructions, leſt the Servants of God might utterly be extinguiſhed in thoſe calamitous ruines and horrible mutations by the ſeven Trumpets, they are in this manner ſecured by the Seal of providence and protection. 'Tis true, the Servants of God were in being before this Time; but not ſealed with this Seal of protection until thoſe calamities fell upon the world from which they were to be protected. So Ezek. 9. The faithfull Iſraelites there and then ſealed and marked in their foreheads, were in Jeruſalem before that time of their marking; but not ſealed and marked, but when deſtruction and (as it is there called) the ſlaughter-weapon came upon the Land, from which the ſealing was to ſecure them. Reade the Chapter, where in ver. 6. the words are, Slay utterly old and young,——but come not near any upon whom is the mark. Juſt ſo here, Chap. 7. v. 3 Hurt not the earth, neither the ſea, nor the trees, till we have ſealed the Servants of God in their foreheads.

The words which begin the 7. Chap. confirm this order, Μετὰ ταῦτα εἶδον, After theſe things I ſaw: which manner of Tranſition I obſerve never to be uſed but when that which follows it is in time after that which went before. After the Viſion of the preſent ſtate of the Seven Churches, the Seals are for the future, Chap. 4. v. 1. After the ſix Seals, the 144000, Chap. 7. v. 1. After the 144000, the Turba Palmifera, v. 9. After Babylon's riding the Beaſt, Babylon's ruine, Chap. 18. v. 1. After Babylon's ruine, the Lamb's wedding, Chap. 19. v. 1. By this obſervation may be underſtood that Μετὰ ταῦτα, Chap. 15. v. 5. For there ends the General deſcription of the Seven Vials: after whoſe performance the Temple of the Tabernacle of the Teſtimony was opened. That which follows in the remainder of that Chapter and the next, is not a continuance, but a return to a Particular deſcription of every Angel's performance, which before was named but in general.

VI.

That the powring out of the Seven Vials begins before the Seventh Trumpet.

* Chap. 15. & Chap. 16. The Seven Vials appear by the *Text to be the ſeven degrees of the ruine of the Beaſt: therefore they muſt begin when the Beaſt begins to fall. Now the Beaſt is to be very farr ſpent, yea even deſperately gone to ruine, before the ſeventh Angel ſoundeth: ſee Chap. 11. 7. uſque ad 15. For the Witneſſes by that time ſhall finiſh their Sack-cloth-Teſtimony, and conſequently the Beaſt's poteſtas agendi expire; becauſe his time and that of the Witneſſes is the ſame.

More particularly: Before the ſeventh Angel ſoundeth, the ſlain Witneſſes revive and ſtand upon their feet; the party of the Beaſt is terrified with it: preſently the Witneſſes are exalted on high. A great Earthquake ſhakes the Beaſt's dominion, ſo that the Δίκατον of the City (perhaps the Deanrie or Decarchie of Rome) falleth thereby. A ſlaughter is made, and the whole remnant affrighted. By this time, and not till now, the ſixth Trumpet expireth, and the ſeventh Angel ſoundeth, v. 14, & 15. This made me place all the Vials ſave the laſt within the time of the ſixth Trumpet: But the ſeventh and laſt Vial I make coincident with the ſeventh Trumpet, as you may ſee in the Scheme. For the finiſhing Vial muſt needs belong to the finiſhing Trumpet. As for the reſt, five of them at leaſt muſt be poured out before the Beaſt can be in that deſperate caſe before deſcribed: For his Kingdom was not full of darkneſs*, untill the fifth Vial was poured out. * Chap. 16. 10.

For the placing of the Vials all within the ſeventh Trumpet, there can be no Argument drawn from the letter of the Text. The only reaſon which might ſeem to perſwade it is a ſuppoſed conveniency of proportion, That as the ſeventh Seal contains ſeven Trumpets, ſo ſhould the ſeventh Trumpet contain ſeven Vials. But it ſhould be conſidered that the Viſion of the Vials is a part of the Book-prophecie, and not of the Prophecie of the Seals: Which two Prophecies are alwaies diſtinctly carried; ſo that in the Book-prophecie there is no relation expreſſed to the Seals, ſave only for connexion ſake in the firſt Viſion, Chap. 11. which the Holy Ghoſt for that purpoſe throws like a Weaver's ſhuttle quite through the warp of the Seals: and therefore in the Scheme I expreſs it throughout in red ink, that it might be diſtinctly diſcerned. But after this knitting and jointing them once by the ſixth Trumpet's finiſhing, and the ſeventh's ſounding, there is no relation expreſſed afterward. So likewiſe in the Prophecie of the Seals, that of the Book

Book is but once referred to, viz. by the 144000 ſealed ones and their conſequent in the 7. Chap. and that alſo of purpoſe to ſhew the connexion of that Viſion of the Book with the joint which begins the ſeven Trumpets.

If the ſeventh Trumpet muſt needs contain Sevens, it ſhould be rather the ſeven Thunders which we reade to have roared after the ſixth Trumpet was expired, Chap. 10. But theſe were not to be written, nor like to be known till they be heard.

J. M.

CHAP. III.

Mr. Mede's Defence of his own, and Anſwer to certain Objections of a Friend.

In anſwer to Mr. Wood's letter of April 29. 1624.

I.

An obſervable Agreement between the Vials and Trumpets.

FOR the extending the Phyſical Analogy* obſerved in the Vials to a ſutable expoſition in the Trumpets, it follows neceſſarily. And for mine own part, I had firſt obſerved it in the Trumpets; and obſerving the Event in Story to be anſwerable there, I transferred the like unto the Vials afterward. For I ſuppoſed the Trumpets to import the ſeven-fold Ruine of the Romane State, as the Vials did the Ruine of the Antichriſtian Beaſt which aroſe out of the Imperial diſſolution. That as the Antichriſtian Beaſt is an Image of the Cæſarean Empire, in the faſhion of its power and Regiment: ſo ſhould alſo the Ruine thereof in the Vials carry a ſemblance of the Ruine of that other in the Trumpets; that it might be a true Image not onely of the Empire ſtanding when it ſtands, but of it falling when it was diſſolving. And this I took to be the true cauſe of ſuch agreement between the Vials and Trumpets.

* What's meant by Sun, Moon and Starrs, Heaven and Earth and Sea, &c. ſee in the Author's Comment upon Apocal. 16. where is mention of the Vials, and Chap. 8. where is mention of the Trumpets. See alſo Chap. 6. v. 12, 13, &c.

II.

Of the Inner Court which John was bid to meaſure, & its Order and Connexion with the other Prophecies: and That the Times of the Inner and Outer Courts are not coincident.

For the fetching of the Prophecie of the Inner Court as high as the Beginning of the Seals, my Argument was not, Some part of the Book-prophecie beginneth there, Ergo, this or that doth. In this largeneſs I confeſs it were Sophiſtical indeed. But I reaſoned thus; Some part of the Book-prophecie beginneth there, Ergo, the Firſt doth: yet I grant it follows not by Apodictical neceſſity, but it may perſwade morally as a probability. For why ſhould not the Holy Ghoſt, beginning a new Prophecie, be deemed to begin firſt with that Viſion thereof which fetcheth his beginning higheſt? Which will be the more perſwaſible if you conſider, that this is one of the moſt methodical Books in Scripture. But if the Beginning of the Inner Court be coincident, and no higher then that of the Outward Court, it muſt then follow even by that little you yield me, That the Viſion of the 12. Chap. fetches his Beginning higher then it. For the Woman's Child-bearing, her Travail, her Delivery, with the Seven-headed Dragon's Attempt and the Battel of Michael, you grant, and the Text evinceth, to be elder and before the Woman's abode in the Wilderneſs: But the Woman's abode in the Wilderneſs, the XLII months of the Beaſt, and the XLII. months of the Outer Court

Court begin altogether and at the ſame time: Therefore that which is elder to any one of them, is elder to every one of them. Why therefore ſhould not the Book-prophecie have begun rather with this of the eldeſt beginning, unleſs that that wherewith it begun did fetch its Beginning as high as it?

All this notwithſtanding I confeſs ingenuouſly, that your exceptions do ſo farr weaken my Argument, that it appears not to be of ſo ſufficient ſtrength as may force aſſent. But that which is enough to ſtagger a man in his own Tenet, is not alone ſufficient to cauſe him to embrace the contrary; unleſs the Arguments ſhewn for that part do appear of more force and probability then himſelf grounded upon. Otherwiſe a man may reply as he in Terence did to the Lawyers, Probè feciſtis, multò ſum incertior quàm dudum. Beſides, a Probability ſtands in place of a Demonſtration, till a greater Probability can be brought to ſhoulder it out. Let me therefore acquaint you a little what ſcruples ariſe in me when I conſider your Argument for the contrary.

You ſay, S. John ſurveyed both the Courts together. For the meaſuring of the one, and leaving the other unmeaſured, were at one time: Ergò, the things ſignified by them both fall alſo under one time.

Reſp. 1. Here I conſider firſt, when a Repreſentation is made not by Motion or Action, but by a ſtanding Type or Picture, (ſuch as is the Fabrick of the Temple) though the parts may be viewed all at one time, yet may the thing ſignified by them be of differing times: for in this caſe Order of place uſeth to ſignifie ſucceſſion of time. For example, The Scheme I ſent you may be comprehended at one view; and yet the parts according to their order of place do repreſent priority and poſteriority of times. The Monarchical Image in Daniel was not by piece-meal, but all at once, preſented to Nebuchadnezzar's view; and yet the four metalled parts thereof were Types of four, not coincident, but ſucceſſive Kingdoms. So the ſeven Heads of the Whore-ridden Beaſt in this Prophecie, though ſeen at once, ſignified nevertheleſs Things not at once, but ſome paſt, ſome preſent, ſome to come; five Kings fallen, the ſixth preſent, and ſeventh to come.

In the Temple it ſelf, the Firſt Tabernacle, or Holy Place, was a Type of the Oeconomy of Redemption in the Church Militant; and the Second Tabernacle, or the Holy of Holies, of the Church Triumphant in the Heavens. So S. Paul to the Hebrews makes the firſt Tabernacle the Type of the Body of Chriſt, wherein being incarnate he ſuffered here below, and through which as through a Firſt Tabernacle he entred within the Veil, the Holieſt Heavens, there to make interceſſion for us. Was there not here a priority and poſteriority of times? Why may not then the two Courts of the Temple be Types alſo of ſucceſſive times, though S. John viewed them at one time?

Indeed where the Repreſentation conſiſts in Motion and Action, I grant the caſe is otherwiſe: for here things done together in Viſion are to be expounded of things to be performed together in ſignification. But the example we have in hand is not of that ſort: For the eſſence of the Type here conſiſts not in what S. John himſelf did, but in that which was preſented to S. John in Viſion; namely, the Frame of the Temple with his two Courts: the Firſt, ſuch as might be meaſured with divine meaſure; the Second, ſuch as could not be meaſured therewith, being poſſeſſed and troden down by the Gentiles. As for S. John's acts hereabouts, they are no other then ſuch as whereby he was to inform himſelf concerning that which was ſhewed unto him. Neither is this the only place where S. John is bidden doe ſomething for his information and ſurvey of the Viſion ſhewed him:

him: Vide cap. 7. v. 13, 14. cap. 10. v. 4. cap. 14. v. 13. cap. 19. v. 9.

*Reſp.*2. Secondly, Neither were the Acts whereby the Apoſtle ſurveyed the two Courts, either one Act or two Acts at one and the ſame time, but ſeveral Acts at ſeveral and ſucceſſive times. For firſt, the Text expreſſeth no more but what the Angel bade S. John doe, and not what S. John did. Now it will not follow that that which was comprehended in one bidding was therefore done at one time: For that may be bidden with one Act of bidding which will require two or three acts in performing, and thoſe too ſuch as cannot be done at one time. But perhaps you ſuppoſe there was but one onely Act commanded, to wit, to meaſure the Inner and not the Outer. Indeed if it were ſo, then it muſt needs be of one time: For if there be nothing here but the Doing of a thing in one place, and not doing it in another, it cannot poſſibly be of diverſe times, becauſe every poſitive implies his negative, and goes together with it. But if the words of the Text be conſidered, there will be found more in them then ſo, howſoever our Tranſlation obſcures it.

For firſt, I conceive not S. John's ſurvey of the two Courts to be an Act of mere Separation, but rather of Examination, as the nature of meaſuring importeth. Again, there is more to be done to the Second Court then only Not meaſuring it; that were but doing nothing to it: for the words of the Text are not, Leave out, (if thereby you underſtand a pretermiſſion only) but Ἔκβαλε ἔξω, i. e. Caſt it out: the Vulgar hath Ejice foràs; and Beza, though himſelf tranſlates Exclude, yet confeſſeth it is ad verbum, Ejice forás. So that here we ſee a poſitive act commanded, and not a pretermiſſion onely; and our Tranſlatours when they turned it [Leave out,] expreſſed rather what themſelves conceived, then what the words ſignified.

This conſidered, I underſtand it thus; That in this ſurvey S. John was firſt to examine the Inner Court, which by its conformity to the Divine meaſure which he was to apply thereto he ſhould find to be Sacred. That done, he was then in the next place to ſurvey the Outer Court; which becauſe he ſhould find poſſeſſed by the Gentiles, and therefore not capable of the Divine meaſure, he was to caſt out, that is, excommunicate, and pronounce unſacred and polluted. See Ezek. 44. 6, 7, 8. The ſumme of all this diſcourſe is in a word, That howſoever I conceive the Object of this Viſion to conſiſt indeed in the Repreſentation of the Temple with his Courts, and not in the Acts of S. John informing himſelf about them; yet will neither of them both inferre a Coincidence of time, but rather a Succeſſion of the things ſignified by them.

III.

The myſtery of both Courts explained.

Now what material and profitable conſequent for the Interpretation would enſue upon this Order, which you ſay you ſee not, if you will promiſe not to object it to me as a breach of mine own Tenet, (as you threaten at the very mention) I will, if I can, tell you: Not to make it the ground of my Order, for which you ſee I bring other Arguments, but to counterpoiſe your affection (if it be any) to that other expoſition, which may otherwiſe, though unperceived, ſecretly make the balance of aſſent to propend one way more then another. If therefore the foreſaid Order may be granted, the Interpretation will be as followeth.

1. The Inner Court meaſured by the Divine Reed is the Viſible Church in its primitive purity, whenas yet Chriſtian worſhip was unprophaned and anſwerable to the Divine rule revealed from above: which ſtate contains the whole time of Perſecution under the Ethnick Emperours; the Altar in this Court moſt fitly inſinuating the continual Sacrifice of Martyrdom during the moſt part thereof.

2. The

2. The Second or Outer Court repreſents the ſtate of Apoſtaſie under the Man of ſin, when the Viſible Church being poſſeſſed by Idolaters, became in the publick worſhip ſo inconformable and unapt for Divine meaſure, that it was to be caſt out, and accounted not as Chriſtian and Sacred, but prophane and polluted.

3. By the Time expreſſed for the prophanation of the Outer Court, we may gather the Time implied for the laſting of the purity of the Inner Court; and that in this manner.

4. It is demonſtrated by Villalpandus out of Ezekiel's meaſures, That the largeneſs of the Outer Court was ſuch, that it contained the Inner Court three times and a half in quantity: Ergò, the Time of XLII. months, which the Holy Ghoſt allots to the Outer Court, ſhould likewiſe contain the Times of the Inner Court thrice and a half: But if this be ſo, then the Time allotted to the Inner Court is XII months, becauſe the XLII months of the Outer contains it thrice and a half. Or thus, The Time allotted to the prophanation of the Outer Court is three years and a half; Ergò, the Time implied for the meaſured Purity of the Inner or Firſt Court muſt be One year, if the Times hold the ſame proportion each to other which the largeneſs of the Courts did.

5. Now a year or twelve months is 360 daies, according to the Chaldean count of * months; and if you adde the 5. dies Emboliſmales, which they added alwaies to the end of their year, (though they were reckoned in no month) it will be 365 daies: which daies Prophetically taken will inform us, That the Viſible Church continued in the Primitive Purity of Chriſtian Worſhip, anſwerable to the Divine meaſure, the ſpace of 360 or 365 years. And is it not a matter of conſequent to know as well how long the Church continued pure and regular in Chriſtian Worſhip, as how long it was to be prophaned afterward by Gentilizing Idolatry? Nay ſhall I tell you a ſtranger conceit? Was it not this which the Devil harped upon, when (as S. Auſtin reports)* he made his Oracles to give out, That the Chriſtian Religion ſhould laſt but 365 years, (for ſo long, forſooth, Peter had inchanted the world to adore Jeſus of Nazareth) but after this time once finiſhed it ſhould be extirpated by the Gentiles? How think you? doth not ſome body elſe ſtudy Prophecies as well as we? But I hope we ſhall underſtand them better: For the Devil was deceived in expecting a Total ruine of Chriſtian Religion, and his malice made him forget what Chriſt ſaid to Peter, That the Gates of Hell ſhould not prevail againſt his Church. And yet S.* Auſtin tells us that he gained ſo much by this device, that many of the Gentiles would not be gotten to turn Chriſtians till this time were expired, and that they ſaw their hopes fruſtrate.

* 30 Daies to every Month.

* Lib. 18. de Civit. Dei, c. 53, 54. i. e. penultimo & ultimo.

* Ibidem c. 54. ſub finem.

IV.

From what Epocha are the 360 or 365 years of the Churche's Primitive purity to be reckoned?

But from what Epocha of time ſhould this 360 or 365 years be reckoned?

An. Chriſti

Reſp. There can be but four Epocha's; viz.

1. 1. Chriſt's Birth.
2. 33. 2. Chriſt's Paſſion, Anno 33.
3. 70. 3. The Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, An. 70.
4. 94. 4. The Time of the Revelation of this Prophecie to S. John, Anno 94.

Let

Let us try from them all, and ſee how it will ſucceed. By the Firſt we have the time when the Chriſtian worſhip began firſt to ſwerve from his wonted correſpondency to the Divine meaſure, viz. An. Chriſti, 360*. All our Divines confeſs that about this time, and not till this, began the Idolatry of Reliques and Saint-worſhip firſt to enter. By the two next Periods, An. 393* and 430*, you have the degrees how Apoſtaſie palpably increaſed. By the laſt Period (from the time this Prophecy was given) Anno 454*, you ſhall ſee the Time when the meaſured Church together with the Weſtern Empire * quite expired, and from that time forward was to be reckoned as prophane and polluted.

* * * * If you will count the Emboliſm of 5 daies, then add 5 years more to each of them.

* For Genſericus took Rome the year after; nor was there any afterward that may be truly accounted Emperour, though ſome Tyrants ſcuffled for that name ſome few years after.

Obſerve one thing more. That according to this reckoning the Oecumenical Council of Nice will fall within the compaſs of the firſt Period, before the Church yet ſwerved, the Council of Conſtantinople within the ſecond, the Council of Epheſus in the end of the third, the Council of Chalcedon in the end of the fourth and laſt Period. Thus farr we profeſs our ſubſcription to the deciſions of Oecumenical Councils; but after this time, Ejice foràs, Caſt it out; it is no longer meaſured, therefore take heed of meaſuring by it. And all this is as evident in Story as any expoſition of this Book whatſoever. I do but briefly point out what I have thought much more of, and could perhaps ſet forth more accurately, but that I account all this and the reſt as vain, if the Order I ground upon appear not well founded upon the Text it ſelf.

Thus have I dilated ſomewhat largely upon this point, becauſe I deſired fully at once to repreſent my conceit unto you, and will not hereafter ſay any more of it pro or contra, but leave that which hath been communicated by us both to be at leiſure conſidered by both, till God ſhall to either of us reveal what we may reſolve to be his Truth.

[In the Author's Manuſcript here follows the Ichnography of the Temple and its Courts; the ſame with that in his Comment. Apocal. cap. 11. verſ. 2, 3. which the Reader may there view.]

You ſee here the Ichnography and Platform of the Temple's Fabrick. The whole building, Courts and all is called in Scripture Ἱερόν. The Temple it ſelf (which was not open as the Courts, but covered) is called Ναός. Hence you never reade that Chriſt or his Diſciples came into or taught in the Ναὸς, but in the Ἱερὸν, namely in the Outer Court where the multitude aſſembled to pray. This Outer Court was a moſt ſtately Building with Columns and Cloiſters round about, and alſo within divided as it were into Partitions with ſtately Rows of Pillars.

S. John ſeems by Θυσιαστήριον to mean the whole Sacrificing-place, and not onely the Altar ſpecially ſo called (viz. whereon the Sacrifice was laid,) as may appear by the words which follow [And thoſe that worſhip therein.] The Outer Court he calls Αὐλὴ ἡ ἔξωθεν τοῦ Ναοῦ The Court without the Temple; becauſe the Ναὸς or Temple ſtood not in this, but in the other Court, which was alſo the Place or Court of Sacrifice.

J. M.

CHAP. IV.

Mr. Mede's further clearing and vindication of ſome paſſages in the foregoing Paper; with ſome Obſervations concerning the 7 Thunders contemporary with the 7. Trumpet, as alſo concerning that in Dan. 12. 7, 11, 12-----and that in Apocal. 11. 19. & chap. 15. 5, 8.

Retegat Deus oculos utriuſque noſtrûm, ut intueamur mirabilia ejus.

M^r Wood,

I Received your laſt; doubt not but with like acceptance I did the former, which I not onely keep, but uſe to reade over a 5 or 6 times at the leaſt: and though I always aſſent not, yet I am always better'd by them, either to ſtrengthen what I found weaker then I took it to be, or to learn to expreſs my ſelf with more caution and perſpicuity then (as I perceived by their Objections) I had done; or oftentimes they miniſter the occaſion of ſome new Notion which before I thought not on.

But for anſwer to your laſt, I know not well how to deal; for that (unleſs I miſconceive you) all is grounded upon a miſtake almoſt total of my meaning. It may be I have committed ſome fault in my expreſſion, and I muſt therefore deſire you to amend my defect therein with a ſecond reading of that Letter, if it be worthy for you to take ſo much pains. In the mean time I ſuppoſe you miſtake me in theſe particulars following.

1. Firſt, You ſuppoſe that I oppoſe the Temple (Ναὸς) to the Courts: whereas I oppoſe the Courts one to the other, viz. the Inner Court (wherein the Temple and the Altar ſtood, and where the Prieſts and Levites onely worſhipped) to the Outer Court, whither every body came.

2. You ſuppoſe that in my Interpretation I oppoſe the Inviſible or latent Church to the Viſible and apparent: whereas I oppoſe the Primitive Viſible Church, which was pure, to the After-Viſible Church, which was corrupt. For both the Courts, both Inner and Outer, were ſub dio, open and uncovered, and therefore both ſignify A Patent and Open Church, that is a Viſible one.

3. You ſuppoſe (if I underſtand you) that when I ſay Meaſured Church, I mean Actively, as though the Angel continually were meaſuring the Church during the Six Seals: whereas I mean Paſſively, that the Church during that time was meaſured, that is pure, conformable and keeping meaſure, even in the Outward Viſible Forme, which afterward it did not.

4. You ſuppoſe I make the Temple with its Courts a Type of the whole body of the Church partly Viſible, partly Inviſible at the ſame time: whereas I mean of the Viſible Church onely, and that conſidered as Succeſſive according to the diverſe times thereof.

Concerning the reſt of your Letter, I have no time to anſwer as I would; onely in brief I ſay thus much.

1. That concerning the Thunders of the 7. Seal, 7. Trumpet and 7. Vial, I cannot yet conceive your meaning. For I acknowledge no other Seventh Seal but the Seven Trumpets; and cannot underſtand how any thing of the Seventh Vial ſhould concern the preſent times, ſince you make all the Vials yet to come: nor how any thing of the opening of the Seventh Seal ſhould concern the times which are now, ſeeing the greater part of the Seventh Seal (viz. 6 Trumpets thereof) is already paſt. Indeed the 7 Thunders after the 6. Trumpet may be, if not preſent, yet very near, if we could underſtand them.

2. Concerning the Time, Times and half a Time, and the 1290 and 1335 days, days, in the 12. of Daniel, I labour not to reconcile them; becauſe I ſuppoſe they are diverſe Times, and of diverſe Subjects, and of a diverſe beginning and ending. Namely the Time, Times and half a Time are of the Tyranny of the little Horn with eyes and a mouth ſpeaking great things, &c. Dan. 7. 20, 25. at the expiring of whoſe blaſphemous Tyranny the ſcattering of the Holy people and the great Myſtery ſhall be finiſhed (Dan. 12. 17.) But the 1290 and 1335 days are the times of ſealing and cloſing up of the knowledge of theſe Wonders, to be at length diſcloſed and revealed at the expiration of * theſe times.

3. I cannot yet conceive how the Opening of the Temple in the 7. Trumpet (Apocal. 11. 19.) makes any thing for proof of the Contemporation of the Two Courts, or for the underſtanding what is meant by meaſuring or unmeaſuring them. For our Queſtion (N. B.) is about Courts, and not the Temple, howſoever the Angel deſcribes the Inner Court by the Temple, Altar and Prieſts-worſhippers therein, which are the Contents thereof. But this Opening of the Temple at the Seventh Trumpet, that the Ark of the Teſtimony might be ſeen, ſhould I think rather be compared (as a Synchroniſtical Character) with the 5. verſe of the 15. Chap. where in the end of the General deſcription of the Vials, as a conſequent of their pouring out, it is ſaid that the Temple of the Tabernacle of the Teſtimony was opened. And verſ. 8. in the entrance of the Particular deſcription of the Vials begun in the former verſe, it is anſwerably ſaid, that the Temple was filled with ſmoke from the glory of God, and from his power, and no man was able to enter into the Temple till the ſeven Plagues of the ſeven Angels were fulfilled: as if then this ſmoke or cloud ſhould be removed, & the Temple thereby become open to be ſeen and entred into. Which ſhould come to paſs at the blaſt of the Seventh Trumpet.

In all which there ſeems to be an Alluſion to Solomon's feaſt of Seven days dedication of the Temple (2 Chron. 7. 8.) during which the Cloud of the glory of the Lord filled the Temple, (not the * Courts) ſo that the Prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter by reaſon of the Cloud, 2 Chron. 5. 13. nor enter thereinto, chap. 7. 1, 2. So the pouring out of the ſeven Vials may ſeem as it were a Dedication of the Church of Chriſt, after it had been ſo long prophaned by Antichriſt; till the finiſhing of which Dedication the Nation of Prieſts or Prieſtly nation of Iſrael cannot enter, nor the Ark of the Teſtimony be revealed unto them. Conſider Exod. 40. verſ. 36, & 37. Conſider alſo what happened there at the Dedication of the Tabernacle, verſ. 34, 35.

Thus with my prayers, and beſt remembrance to your ſelf——I reſt and am Your aſſured friend, Chriſt's-Coll. Jul. 12. 1624. Joſeph Mede.

* Of the beginning and ending of theſe days, ſee the Author's elaborate Diſcourſe toward the end of this Third Book, De Numeris Danielis, &c.

* For Solomon prayed before the Altar at that time, and bleſſed the Congregation which ſtood in the Outward Court 2 Chron. 6. verſ. 12, & 3. and they ſacrificed that day and all the time of the Feaſt, viz. in the Courts, though the Prieſts could not enter the Covered Temple for the glory of the Lord which filled it.

CHAP. V.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Wood's ſpecial accommodation of the four firſt Trumpets, in Chap. 8. of the Apocalypſe.

Mr. Wood,

IF I miſtake not your meaning, your accommodation of the Trumpets appears to me very much intangled in the point of Time: for it makes the three firſt Trumpets to begin at the ſame inſtant, and all to be concluded within the ſixth Seal: nay, if the ſixth Seal be the wounding of the Romane Sovereignty by the Barbarians, * they will begin before it. For the Council of Nice wherein Arrius (whom you make the * falling Starre) was condemned, and where Contention among Church-men (your firſt Trumpet) burſt forth, and Ambition (your ſecond Trumpet) was broached; this Council was held An. 325. within two years after Conſtantine was ſole Emperour. But the wounding of the Empire by the Barbarous Nations (your ſixth Seal) began not till after Julian 365. and you make not the main ſtroke thereof till 410. by which times the Arrian Hereſie was well cooled. For it cannot be ſaid that the Barbarous Nations defaced the Romane Majeſty in the days of Conſtantine, who was a glorious and (when he once reigned alone) a moſt peaceful Emperour. And for Diocletian that bloudy Perſecutor before him, he was a moſt powerfull and victorious Emperour, in whoſe time the Romane Empire was more dreadfull to the Neighbours then it had been many years, yea almoſt Ages, before.

* Viz. the Trumpets.
* Chap. 8. 10.

I obſerve alſo a further confuſion of the three Trumpets among themſelves: For Arrius, whom you make the falling Starre in chief, and ſo the Head of your third Trumpet, will in time rather challenge to be the firſt of the three: for the Arrian hereſie began before, and occaſioned the calling of, the Council of Nice, where you firſt begin that Contention and Ambition which you make the firſt and ſecond Trumpet.

I had rather therefore yet continue my opinion, That the great Earthquake of the Sixth Seal ſhould be that inteſtine change of the Romane State begun with Conſtantine, and fully ſettled with the death of Julian: For an Earthquake implies not a Deſtruction, but an extraordinary Alteration and change of the face of things; as an Earthquake changeth the poſture of the Earth by depreſſing Hills and exalting Vallies, turning the chanels and courſe of Rivers, and ſuch like. And was not here the whole Politick Government as well as the Religion altered, the Imperial Seat removed, the Diſtribution of Provinces & Offices new moulded? &c. And though Chriſtian Religion be of it ſelf a perfection, yet the introducing thereof turned the former ſtate of the Empire topſy turvy; when the low and trampled Vallies aroſe into Mountains, and the haughty Mountains were laid as low as the Vallies. How many Hills and Iſlands were by this means diſplaced? And if the Roman Gods be any of the Stars or Hills here mentioned, we need not go farther for an Expoſition of this Earthquake and the ſhock it cauſed in the world.

Now if this be granted to be the right accommodation of the Sixth Seal, then will the Trumpets of the Seventh follow in their due Order, according to that Expoſition of the four firſt Trumpets which you related even now as your Friend's, who yet is farre from deſerving & acknowledging that Deſcription you there give him.

F. M.

CHAP. VI.

See before in Chap. 2. Sect. 6.

Mr. Mede's Anſwers to thoſe 3 Arguments of Mr. Wood endeavouring to prove That the Vials are immediate Conſequents of the Seventh Trumpet.

Mr. WOOD. 1. UNto the Seventh Trumpet is attributed the laſt of the three great Woes Chap. 8. 13. & Chap. 11. 14. But in the Seventh Trumpet's effect there is no other Woe deſcribed but what follows in the pouring out of the Vials. Ergo, the Vials muſt needs be that Woe, Woe, and immediately poured out upon the blaſt, which the Tranſition Chap. 11.14. calls for—The third Woe cometh quickly, viz. with the blaſt in the next words.

Mr. MEDE. This Reaſon methinks were ſatisfied if only the laſt Vial fell within the ſeventh Trumpet: For the third Woe I take to be that Battel of the Great Day of God Almighty under the ſeventh Vial; which therefore I grant to be concurrent with the Beginning of the blaſt of the ſeventh Trumpet not yet blown. But the other Vials I ſee no reaſon why they may not be referred to thoſe Beginnings of the Ruine of the Beaſt and exaltation of the Undefiled Church deſcribed chap. 11.v.11,12,13. which is before the ſecond Woe or ſixth Trumpet be expired.

Mr. WOOD. 2. The Temple is not open in Heaven untill the ſeventh Trumpet blow, Chap. 11. 19. Now the Angels which poure out the Vials come out of the Temple which was opened in heaven. Ergo, the pouring out of the Vials muſt needs follow the blaſt of the 7 Trumpet Chap. 15.5,6. Which place ſhews that the 7 Angels come forth of the opened Temple.

Mr. MEDE. It is true that the Temple is not opened in heaven till the ſeventh Trumpet ſoundeth. But I think alſo that it ſhall not be opened till the ſeven Plagues of the ſeven Angels be fulfilled: For is it not expreſly ſaid ſo, chap. 15. 8. And the Temple was filled with ſmoke from the glory of God and from his power, and no man was able to enter into the Temple till the ſeven Plagues of the ſeven Angels were fulfilled? So I underſtand it as having reference by way of Antitheſis to that in the 5. verſe.—The Temple of the Tabernacle of Teſtimony in heaven was opened, viz. when the Angels had done their Execution, and the Harpers ended their Song of Deliverance. Wherefore I grant not that the ſeven Angels came forth of the open Temple; but ſuppoſe thoſe five firſt verſes of that Chapter to be a general Deſcription of the Vials, with the ſtate of the Church under them newly waſhed in the glaſſy Laver of the Temple, and yet ſtanding upon the brink or brims thereof, chaunting a Song of another Exodus like that of Iſrael; with the concluſion whereof the Temple of the Tabernacle of the Teſtimony in heaven is opened, that thoſe might enter which before could not. In the following Verſes, beginning, And the ſeven Angels came out, &c. the Apoſtle reſumes the Viſion ab ovo, and makes a more particular Deſcription of the ſeven Angels Executions which before he but generally touched; but now tells their attire, whence they had their Vials, and what was every one's Plague in particular, to the end of the next Chapter; which is therefore ill ſevered from the three laſt Verſes of this 15. Chapter. And note that the Complutenſis Editio reads not the ſixth verſe of this Chap. And the ſeven Angels came out of the Temple; but, ὁκ τῦ ὐρανῦ, out of Heaven.

Mr. WOOD. 3. *Theſe ſeven Angels (Chap.15.1.) are ſaid to bring the ſeven laſt plagues, wherein the whole wrath of God is accompliſhed; which is nothing but the branching out of the third Woe, and therefore after, though under, the laſt Vial.*

Mr. MEDE. The Vials, as I take it, are called the ſeven laſt Plagues, in reference only to the ſeven Trumpets*, which are the ſeven firſt Plagues; the firſt ruining the old Beaſt, the laſt deſtroying the new which is riſen out of his Ruines. * See before in Chap. 3. Sect. 1.

CHAP. VII.

The Virgin-Company of the 144 thouſand Sealed ones, deſcribed in Chap. 14. of the Apocalypſe, briefly interpreted.

THis Viſion of the Sealed Ones I begin and end with the Times of the Beaſt, taking them for the ſame with thoſe whoſe Sealing began with the beginning of the * Seventh or Trumpet-Seal; with which Seal I alſo begin the Times of the Beaſt, ſuppoſing that Sealing there was purpoſely interlaced to be compared with the Viſion here, that thereby we might know in what part of the Seals to fix the Beginning of the Beaſt: to which no Character of the whole Book will direct us, but only the Parallel of the Sealed Number beginning and contemporary with the ſeventh Seal (chap. 7.) and here again reiterated, as beginning and contemporary alſo with the Beaſt.

* Chap. 7.

For the Accommodation, I underſtand it to be A Deſcription of the Faithfull and Undefiled Company of Chriſt under the polluted times of the Antichriſtian Beaſt next before mentioned. And they are deſcribed, 1. By their Head, the true Lamb Chriſt Jeſus, and not he that had Horns like a Lamb, but ſpake like the Dragon. 2. By their Place, which was even Mount Sion, that elevated and conſpicuous part of the World, where men viſibly profeſſed the Name of Chriſt, and where his Apoſtles had once founded him that Temple which now Antichriſt uſurped. Nor were theſe Faithfull Ones tied to any one part of this Mountain above other, (as the falſe Prophet's Followers are to their Cathedra Petri) but they follow the Lamb whitherſoever he goeth. 3. By their Worſhip in praying and praiſing God, wherein they were undefiled Virgins, not polluting themſelves with the Mother (or Metropolis) of Fornications, though their Religious Song ſeemed a new one, and was ſuch as none could ſing but themſelves.

This is the General deſcription of their ſtate during the whole time. After which followeth that which paſſed between them and the Followers of the Beaſt in their later time; which is twofold: 1. Preaching and Admonition under three Angels; 2. The Acts of Execution, which are two: The one of an Harveſt, wherein Chriſt their Maſter and Lord of the Harveſt ſends forth Labourers into his overgrown Field, and reaps it: which I underſtand of the preſent Reformation, wherein our Lord hath gathered his Wheat out of that Field of Weeds, and bound it together in new-erected Churches. Next after this Harveſt comes the Vintage, an Execution of Vengeance, as ſoon as the Grapes are once bloud-ripe. This Execution is yet to come, though it ſeems not farre off: For the Reapers bring little Wheat home of late; whereby it ſhould ſeem that Harveſt is in a manner done, and the time of Vintage a-coming. This is the ſumme of what I have as yet conceived of this Viſion.

Moreover, ſuppoſing this Vintage to be yet to come, I am much inclined to think that * this 1600 furlongs without the City ſhould be a Deſignation of Peter's Patrimony or the Demeaſns of the Church, which in the longeſt extent thereof from the Walls of Rome to the River Po is exactly 1600 furlongs, or 200 Italian miles: whereby it is probable that the Pope's own Territories, Stato della Chieſa, may prove the Cock-pit of this Execution, whither Chriſt as into a Wine-preſs will from all parts gather the bloudy Grapes when he means to tread them.

* Verſ. 20.

J. M.

CHAP.

CHAP. VIII.

Mr. Mede's Anſwers to ſeveral Enquiries about ſome difficult paſſages in the Apocalypſe.

Sr. I Will make no full Reply to your ſorrowfull beginning, leſt I ſhould revive your grief, and make your wound to bleed afreſh: Onely I will deſire the Almighty to continue that patient ſubmiſſion unto his Will which I doubt not but he hath given you, and make this your loſs in the fleſh your advancement in the Spirit.

Your Letters and Book found me in * Suffolk at S^r Martin Stutvill's. I thank you for communicating your elaborate Meditations, to which and your Letter I would have made a large Reply had I been at home, and not a non-reſident from my Study, and hourly moleſted with ſuch occaſions of interturbation as the place and ſolemnity brings. * Decemb. 27.

Enquiry I.

Concerning the four Wights, Revel. 4. 6,&c.

This attendance upon the Throne of God by the 24 Elders and the 4 Animalia or living creatures is a Repreſentation of his pitching in the Wilderneſs, in the midſt of the Levites, and the 4 Standards of the Congregation having for their Enſigns (as the Jews ſay by ancient Tradition) a Lion, a Bullock, a Man, an Eagle. For the manner of their encamping was this. 1. In the midſt was the Tabernacle or Throne of God. 2. Round about the Tabernacle and next unto it pitched the Prieſts and Levites. Then 3^ly. the Body of the Congregation divided into 4 Standards and placed about the Tabernacle, Eaſt, Weſt, North and South. Three Tribes went to a Standard, which were called by the name of the chiefeſt Tribe. The firſt on the Eaſt-ſide of the Tabernacle was the Standard of Judah, which contained Iſſachar and Zebulon, and had for the Enſign a Lion. The ſecond on the Weſt was the Standard of Ephraim, containing Manaſſe and Benjamin, and had for the Enſign an Oxe or Bullock. On the South was the Standard of Reuben, comprehending Gad and Simeon, and had for their Enſign a Man. On the North-ſide pitched the Standard of Dan, with whom encamped Aſher and Naphthali, and had for their Enſign an Eagle. All this you ſhall find Numb. ch. 1. ch 2. ch. 3. ſaving the ſpecification of the Enſigns, which is from the Jews Tradition, the Text only ſaying they had * Enſigns, but expreſſes not what they were. And marvel not that S. John ſhould here allude unto a Tradition of the Jews; for elſewhere in this Book he alludes to their Cuſtoms and borrows their Phraſes; as in that of [a] walking in white garments, and in the phraſe [b] of the Second death, a ſpeech no where elſe in Scripture, but frequent in the Targum and in the Jewiſh Doctors. * Num. 2. 2.

[a] Ch. 3. 4. & ch. 6.11. & ch. 7.13.
[b] Ch. 2. 11. & ch. 20. 6,14. & ch. 21. 8.

And that this Tradition hath ſome warrant, ſome which I have met with-all in my ſearch would prove out of the 68, or, according to the Vulgar, 67 Pſalm, verſ. 11. Thus the 8. verſ. begins, O God, when thou wenteſt forth before thy people, when thou didſt march through the wilderneſs; The earth ſhook, the heavens alſo dropped at the preſence of God: even Sinai it ſelf was moved at the preſence of God, the God of Iſrael. Thou, O God, didſt ſend a plentiful rain, whereby thou didſt confirm thine inheritance when it was weary. Verſ. 11. * Animalia tua habitabant in ea, Thy living Creatures dwelt therein, namely in thine inheritance. And this is expreſs according to the Hebrew, חיתך ישבו בה: for חיה ſignifies properly Animal, and ſometimes * The Lxx. have Τὰ ζῶά σου.

Armentum, whence we borrow that Metaphorical tranſlation, to turn it, Thy Congregation, and by inheritance to underſtand Canaan; whereas the people of God were uſually *ſo called, and that part of the Pſalm ſeems to ſpeak of what God did in the Wilderneſs, and not in Canaan: Which being not underſtood, made the Vulgar to be corrupted by turning the Præter-imperfect-tenſe into the Future, as verſ. 10. Segregabis for Segregabas, and verſ. 11. Habitabunt for Habitabant, contrary to the Hebrew, which reads in the Præter-perfect tenſe יָשְׁבוּ have dwelt.

*Iſrael is often in the Pſal. and elſewhere in Scripture called God's inheritance.

But above all, thoſe four Faces of the four Cherubins which drew the Chariot of God in Ezekiel ſeem to have reference to ſome ſuch matter. I ſay four Faces, not four Heads, as ſome take it; for the Cherubins had but one Head each of them, on the four ſides of which Head were the likeneſs of four Faces, to ſignify that he that rode in the Chariot was the Lord of the four Standards of the Tribes of Iſrael. Even as Kings horſes carry upon them the Armes of their Maſter, as ours of England, Scotland, France and Ireland. And if you conſider to what part of the Heaven Ezekiel looked when he ſaw this Viſion, you will find theſe Faces turned to ſuch quarters of the Heaven as were aſſigned to the Enſigns they reſemble, as the Lion's face Eaſtward, the Bullock's Weſtward, &c.

If all this be true, you ſee what reaſon I have to make S. John's 4 Animalia to be the Body of the Congregation, as anſwering to the 4 Standards of the Congregation of Iſrael; and the 24 Elders to be the Paſtors, as anſwering to the Levites and Prieſts divided into 24 Courſes; their * Crowns and * Seats being diſtinctive, to expreſs their preeminence above the Congregation: For though the Body of the People be a Society of Kings and Prieſts, yet this is no note diſtinctive nor comparative, but common both to Paſtors and People.

* Verſ. 4.

Enquiry II.

Concerning the Beginning of the times of Antichriſt in the Scheme, and the meaning of the 7 Trumpets.

The Beginning of the Apoſtolical times was knit to the Beginning of the Seventh or Trumpet-Seal by the Characters of the Text. If therefore the interpretation of the fifth Trumpet of the Riſe of the Pope cannot ſtand with this connexion, it muſt be rejected as untrue, as I verily believe it is. For (as I have heretofore intimated) I could never believe, no not before I thought of any Synchroniſm, that the Trumpets concerned any riſing of the Beaſt, but that they were Warlike alarms ſounding to the Ruine of the Romane ſtate. The Firſt brings forth that terrible bloudy and furious ſtorm of the Northern Nations pouring in upon the Empire, and harrying, burning and ſpoiling it, eſpecially in the Weſt, almoſt 15 years together without intermiſſion. The Second the bloudy rending in pieces of the Roman Juriſdiction in the Weſt, and ſharing it among the barbarous Nations, who divided the Lion's skin amongſt them, erecting that * plurality of Kingdoms fore-propheſied of by Daniel and S. John. The Third Trumpet brings Lapſus Heſperi, the Fall of the Occidental Starr, or utter extinction of the Weſtern Caſar. The Fourth the aboliſhing of the whole Romane Majeſty in the Weſt in their Senate, Conſuls and Preſidents; the Sun and Moon in thoſe parts having no light remaining.

* Ten Kingdoms.

Theſe Four Trumpets (as you well obſerve) made way for the Riſing of Antichriſt, but it was by taking that out of the way which hindred (2 Theſſ. 2.) and by wounding the Beaſt, that he by the cure thereof might make a new one (Apocal. 13.) But withall he ſlowed no time: For as ſoon as the Empire's pire began to crack, he began to advance; and for every degree of the Empire's falling mounted a degree of riſing. And his age and time is to be reckoned not from his maturity, but from his birth; as we reckon a man's age not from the time he came to man's eſtate, but from the time he was firſt editus in lucem.

The firſt Four Trumpets were ſmaller ones, and more particularly concerned the Weſt: but the Three remaining are more general and terrible, and therefore called WOES. The Fifth is that darkening cloud of the Saracen Locuſts, who out of Arabia not onely overwhelmed with their innumerable troups the greateſt part of the Empire, even Italy it ſelf, but eclipſed the Light of Chriſtianity with an abominable ſeduction. The Sixth Trumpet is the inundation of the Turks from Euphrates, who were firſt mercenaries to the Saracen Empire; which when they had ruined, they overwhelmed and deſtroyed utterly the Greek Empire and part of the Weſtern Kingdoms, for Idolatry. The Seventh Trumpet is yet to come at the Battel of Armageddon, which ſhall give an end to the Antichriſtian Sovereignty, and finiſh the Romane times.

Theſe Expoſitions, you ſee, are homogeneal and fitting the name of Trumpets: But to make ſome of them Warlike invaſions and others to be Hereſies, is to bring things of too-differing a nature under one name.

Enquiry III.

Concerning the Slaughter of the Witneſſes.

I willingly grant that the Slaughter of the Witneſſes is not yet accompliſhed for the main, though perhaps there have been ſome Præludiums of it in particular Churches. So you ſee I did your Opinion no wrong Concerning the not fulfilling of the Vials, though I began them before the Seventh Trumpet ſoundeth. For if the Witneſſes be not yet ſlain, the Sixth Trumpet is not yet paſt, and the Vials may yet begin under the times thereof, and be in a great part poured out before it end. I am glad to hear you reade the words of the Text (Apocal. 11.7.) When they were about to finiſh their teſtimony; for ſo ſhould ὅταν τελέσωσι be turned, whereas our Tranſlation puts it in the Præter-perfect tenſe, which cannot ſtand. Τελέσωσι is the firſt Aoriſt Subjunctive, and every Grammarian knows that the Aoriſts Subjunctive ſupply the place of the Future which the Subjunctive wanteth; and our Tranſlation turned the ſame tenſe futurely and the ſame word, Apocal. 10, verſ. 7.

Enquiry IV.

Of the Demi-Cæſar, and the Seventh and Eighth Head of the Beaſt.

I never thought the Demi-Cæſar to be an Horn, but an Head: and Mr Brightman's expoſition of the Ten Horns for ſo many ſucceſſive Chriſtian Emperors I could never ſufficiently wonder at, it being not onely in it ſelf harſh, but offering extreme violence both to the Text and Story, and contrarying without cauſe a fundamental Expoſition received from utmoſt Antiquity, viz. That thoſe Ten Horns ſhould be a plurality of Kingdoms whereinto the ruined Empire ſhould be divided, and all of them ſubmit themſelves under the Authority of Antichriſt. I could ſhew that in the beginning theſe Kingdoms were juſt Ten, neither more nor leſs, and I could name the Kings which reigned in them when they firſt filled that number of Ten. According to the inconſtancy of humane things they have ſince changed in their number, ſometimes more and ſometimes leſs, by unions and diſu-diſunions, and yet often jumped in their alterations upon that number.

Vide Comments. Apocal. ad cap. 8. verſ. 8.

When I ſpeak of the Demi-Cæſar of Rome, you muſt not underſtand me of the Germane Emperour, which I grant to be no other but one of the Ten Horns, which the Pope hath dignified with the Cæſarean name, 350 years after the Weſtern Cæſar was extinguiſhed: And the Kingdom of the Franks had been a Kingdom 380 years before the Pope honoured Charlemain the King thereof with the Imperial title, for his good ſervice againſt the Lombards in his quarrel. The Demi-Cæſar therefore which we have to deal with is the Latin or Weſtern Emperour which reigned after the Diviſion of the Empire into Eaſt and Weſt, under which the old Rome was Lady but of one half of the Provinces which ſhe once had, the reſt being taken from her, and given to Byzantium together with the title of Nova Roma. This Half-Cæſar of Rome after the laſt Diviſion under Honorius and Arcadius continued about 60 years, or not much more; which is the cauſe why S. John ſaies, it ſhould continue but a ſhort ſpace, Chap. 17. 10.

Now to underſtand the Queſtion about the Seventh and Eighth Head of the Beaſt, &c. theſe grounds muſt be lay'd and granted.

1. The Heads of the Beaſt are to be conceived as climbing one above another, and the Ten Horns to grow upon the laſt or uppermoſt Head.

2. The Heads of the Beaſt are indeed but Seven and no more, as appears in the Viſions both of the 13. and 17. Chapters; and though S. John ſpeak of an Eighth King in the interpretation, yet he had but Seven Heads in all in the Viſion. And therefore that which he calls an Eighth can be indeed but the Seventh, and termed an Eighth for ſome accidental reſpect onely.

3. The Whore rides the Beaſt under his laſt Head onely, which is the Head which wears the Ten Horns: For whileſt the other Heads were in their courſe, ſhe was Ethnica, not yet adultera.

Enquiry V.

How is the Laſt Head, though indeed but the Seventh, yet in ſome ſort an Eighth?

1. In reſpect of the Sixth Head, the Cæſars, which though indeed but One, yet for ſome accidental reſpect may be accounted Two, Cæſars and Demi-Cæſars; for eſſence the ſame, but for extent and ſome manner of government * differing. Now if the Sixth Head be reckoned for Two, the Seventh will be an Eighth, and yet but one of the Seven.

2. The Laſt Head is for the beginning but a Seventh, becauſe it immediately ſucceeded the Sixth, viz. of the Cæſars: But for its continuance and ending it is an Eighth, becauſe it outlived a Seventh, namely that of the * Demi-Cæſars. For the Papal Sovereignty began with and as ſoon as the Demi-Cæſars, and ſo it was a Seventh as well as they: But they continued but a ſhort time, and the Papal outlived and ſucceeded them, and ſo was an Eighth à parte poſt, though but a Seventh à parte ante.

* The Cæſars were Pontifices maximi as well as Auguſti, and received the Pontifical Stole at their inauguration; yea Conſtantine and his ſons received the Stole and bore the Title, though they executed not the Office: Gratian was the firſt that refuſed both.

* The Demi-Cæſars kept their Court at Ravenna, never at Rome.

Theſe I take to be the true Reaſons why the latmoſt Head is counted both a Seventh and an Eighth, though in truth it be but the Seventh according to the Viſion, and accidentally termed an Eighth in the interpretation. You know Mr. Brightman makes Two States of the Antichriſtian Beaſt, the Firſt wherein he was born and preſently wounded to death, the Second wherein he revived: in reſpect of the Firſt he is the Seventh, in reſpect of the laſt the Eighth. But this will not agree with Story, the Popedom receiving no ſuch wound as he ſpeaks of: The wound was the Empire's and not the Popedom's, and made for him, not againſt him. It would have been better to have made the Two States, the one of his Spiritual Sovereignty, and the other of his Temporal joyned unto it in ordine ad Spiritualia.

tual

Forbes makes that Kingdom of the Oſtrogoths in Italy to be the Seventh, (but the Demi-Cæſars had been better) and the Popedom in reſpect of it to be the Eighth in order, but in the nature of the government to be one of the Seven, that is like unto the Cæſarean or Sixth. But I ſee not how the Kings of the Goths can be taken for Roman Cæſars or Kings; and beſides by this means the Beaſt would have Eight Heads really differing, whereas the Viſion ſhews us but Seven.

Enquiry VI.

Concerning the Numbers of Years, Months and Days in the Apocalypſe.

That theſe Numbers ſhould be taken definitely, there can be no better Arguments brought then thoſe you have in your Tractate. If you deſire to hear them in my form, I would order the matter thus.

1. That the Numbers are to be taken definitely.

2. That thoſe of Months and Days are to be expounded not Literally, but Prophetically.

That theſe Numbers ſhould be certain and definite, is proved,

1. Becauſe all Numbers of Times in Prophecy throughout the reſt of the Scripture are ſuch. 120 years warning of the Floud, Gen. 6. 430 years of the Peregrination, Exod. 12. The 40 years travail in the Wilderneſs according to the 40 days ſpent in ſpying the Land, Numb. 14. The 65 years by the end of which Ephraim ſhould ceaſe to be a Kingdom, Iſai. 7. 8. Ezekiel's 390 days from the Apoſtaſy of Jeroboam to the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Nebuchadnezar, ch. 4. Nebuchadnezar's 7 times, that is 7 years, beſtial melancholy, Dan. 4. The 70 years captivity. Daniel's 70 weeks which the Jewiſh ſtate ſhould continue after its Reſtauration, chap. 9. The 2300 evenings and mornings allotted to the Calamity under Antiochus, from the beginning of the Tranſgreſſion of deſolation unto the time the Temple was cleanſed, chap. 8. Why ſhould the Prophetical numbers of Times in the Revelation be onely indefinite? Should not the Prophecies under the Goſpel be as perſpicuous and determinate as thoſe under the Law?

The Numbers of Times in Dan. 12. have alſo been taken definitely by thoſe who yet differ about their Epocha.

2. The Scriptures uſe no Numbers indefinitely but ſuch as the Uſe of ſpeech in the language of the people had made ſuch. For the Scripture ſpeaks according to the language of men, and uſeth ſuch Figures as they uſed. Now in the Hebrew tongue Seven and Ten were by uſe of ſpeech made of indefinite ſignification, as Seven times and Ten times for Oftentimes; as alſo Thouſand thouſands and Myriads of myriads when they would expreſs an innumerable company. The Latin and Greek have likewiſe their peculiar Numbers which Uſe of ſpeech hath made liable to indefiniteneſs: as the firſt, Sexcenti; the latter, Χίλιοι χιλιάκις mille millies, when they expreſs a great number indefinitely. And to uſe any other Number indefinitely but ſuch as the Uſe of ſpeech had inured to that ſenſe, would ſeem a great abſurdity.

3. Compound Numbers are never taken indefinitely either in Latin, Greek or Hebrew. Compound Numbers I mean thoſe which are compounded of Unites, Tens and Hundreds, &c. Thoſe which are of heterogeneal parts; ſuch as 42, the number of Months in the Apocalypſe; 1260, the number of Days; Three times and a half, which is a number of Fraction; Let it be ſhewn that ſuch Numbers as theſe were of indefinite uſe. For as the Scriptures

Scriptures uſe words in that ſignification wherein men uſed them; ſo ſpake they in thoſe figures of ſpeech which men uſed, and that in thoſe words which they had inured thereto.

The Second thing is, That theſe Numbers of Times, half-times, of Months and of Days in the Revelation, are not to be interpreted Literally, but Prophetically; not for ſingle years, ſingle months and ſingle days, but for Anni annorum, Menſes & Dies annales; Days for Years, and Months for Months of Years. * Which appears 1. Becauſe the things reported to fall out in them require a longer time then 3 ſingle years and an half; viz. Ten Kingdoms to be founded at the ſame time with the Beaſt, who ſhould firſt ſubmit themſelves unto him, and after revolt from him; to have power over all Nations, tongues and people; to make warr with the Saints and overcome them; and ſuch like. 2. Becauſe the King, Seigniory or Sovereignty next before this, under which the * Whore rides the Beaſt, is ſaid in reſpect thereof to continue but a ſhort ſpace; which implies that that which follows ſhould continue a long time.

* This is more fully demonſtrated in the next Chapter.

* Roma meretrix rides the Beaſt under his laſt Head.

Thus I have confuſedly and in haſt anſwered all you propounded in your Letter. If you reply, I will deal but with one point at once in my after-anſwers. So I ſhall, by contriving my meditations into a more exact and perſpicuous expreſſion, both ſave a labour which obſcurity often occaſioneth, and anſwer with eaſe, whatſoever buſineſs attends me.

J. M.

CHAP. IX.

Five Reaſons clearly demonſtrating That the Antichriſtian or Apoſtatical times are more then Three ſingle years and an half.

1. BEcauſe impoſſible ſo many things, and of ſuch quality as are to be performed in this time, ſhould be done in Three ſingle years and an half. As 1. Ten Kingdoms founded at the ſame hour with the Beaſt, (chap. 17.) 2. Peoples and multitudes of Nations and tongues to ſerve and obey him, (chap. 13.) 3. To make warr with the Saints and overcome them, ibid. 4. To cauſe all that dwel upon the earth to worſhip him, ibid. 5. Babylon to ride the Beaſt ſo long, that all Nations ſhall drink the wine of her fornication, all Kings of the Earth commit fornication with her, (chap. 17, & 18.) 6. The Merchants, and all thoſe that had ſhips in the Sea, to grow rich by trading with her, (chap. 18.) Theſe things ſhould ask more then three years work or four either.

2. Becauſe that King, State of Government, Sovereignty, Seigniory (or what you will) of the Beaſt, under which the Whore ſhould ride him, followeth immediately upon a former which in compariſon is ſaid to continue but a ſhort ſpace, Revel. 17. 10. But if the Antichriſtian ſtate ſhall continue but three years and a half literally taken; how ſhort muſt the time of that foregoing King or Sovereignty be, which ſhould occaſion the Holy Ghoſt to inſert ſo ſingular a note of the difference thereof from that which followed, That it ſhould continue but a ſhort ſpace? Doth not this imply that the next State (wherein the Whore ſhould ride the Beaſt) was to continue a long ſpace?

3. Becauſe if the 1260. daies of the Witneſſes (which begin and end with the Time of Antichriſt) be literally to be taken, then muſt their three daies and an half, wherein they lie ſlain by the Beaſt (Chap. 11. 9.) be ſo taken taken alſo: But how is it poſſible the nations and people of the earth ſhould make feaſts, ſend gifts and preſents one unto another in three daies and an half? how ſhould the Half day be a competent time to diſtinguiſh or limit any of the Actions there mentioned? If the Holy Ghoſt had meant nothing but daies, would he have been ſo preciſe for half a day?

4. Becauſe Six of the Trumpets and the things which they bring to paſs, by neceſſity of contemporation are included in the compaſs of the Antichriſtian time; Two whereof by the expreſs times mentioned in them (in the Fifth of * five months, in the Sixth of * 13.) take up a year and a half, that is near half the time: Which though far too little (if literally taken) for the great things propheſied in them, yet what time will they leave for the Four other Trumpets, and for the Seven Vials, which all are poured out upon the Beaſt, and afore his times are finiſhed? What time alone will the Sixth Vial require for preparing the way of the Kings of the Eaſt, for the frogs to go forth unto the Kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battel of that great day of God Almighty, &c? * Chap. 9. v. 5. * Verſ. 15.

5. Laſtly, from the Event. If Antichriſt's times laſt no longer then is ſuppoſed, then either are they paſt long ago, or that Sixth Roman Head, which in S. John's time was, is yet ſtill in being. But that cannot be, when neither Greek nor Latin Cæſar are now remaining. If any ſay, the Latin Cæſar yet remains in the Germane Empire, as that which ſucceeded unto it; I demand, What ſucceſſion can that be where was near 350 years interruption, a longer time then ſome famous Monarchies have had for their whole continuance? If the Cæſarean State may revive and continue the ſame after ſo many years interregnum, how ſhall we ever know when it is dead for adoe, and the time come that Antichriſt ſhould be looked for? Beſides, if the Times of Antichriſt be ſo ſhort, and therefore yet to come, (as they muſt be, unleſs they be longer,) then are we yet under the Times of the Red Dragon, and all the Trumpets yet to come. Let it be ſhewn how this can be. If it appear we are not under thoſe times of the Dragon, then none of the Revelation is yet fulfilled.

Object. But what example elſewhere in Scripture of Daies ſignifying Years?

Anſw. Daniel's ſeventy weeks. But you will ſay, the Etymologie of the Hebrew word שָׁבוּעַ is as appliable to Sevens of Years as Sevens of Daies; and therefore this inſtance proves not. I anſwer, The queſtion lies not in the Etymologie, but the uſe, wherein שָׁבוּעַ alwaies ſignifies Sevens of Daies, and never Sevens of Years; whereſoever it is abſolutely put, it means of Daies, is no where uſed of Years.

Object. But in the tenth of Daniel we finde, as it were for diſtinction ſake, Weeks of Daies; which intimates there are Weeks of Years, which the uſe of the word might indifferently ſignifie.

Anſwer. It is ill tranſlated; the Vulgar is better, which hath Daies of Weeks, Lugebam trium hebdomadarum diebus; meaning, that Daniel faſted and did eat no meat in the day-time for three weeks together, or ſome ſuch like ſenſe. Gen. 29. 27, The Week which Laban would have Jacob fulfil before he gave him Rachel, was not the Seven years ſervice, but the Seven daies of Leah's wedding-feaſt, as the * Targum tranſlates, and the Vulgar, Imple hebdomadam dierum hujus copulæ; nor can it be otherwiſe by the age of Rachel's children. * Targum Hieroſolym. & Targum Jonathanis.

Secondly, Let it be ſhewn in all the Prophecy of Daniel, (or, for ought I know, in any other of the Prophets) where times of things propheſied expreſſed by daies are not to be underſtood of years: For when the Angel means daies in Daniel, he expreſſeth it therefore not by daies (for ſo it were עֶרֶב בֹּקֶר* doubtful) but by * evenings and mornings, chap. 8. 14. where he ſpeaks of the time of the perſecution of Antiochus.

* This is the Author's own Argument to what follows.

A brief Demonſtration and (as * I conceive) unanſwerable of the Contemporation of the four Timed Prophecies in the Apocalypſe: viz. Of the Gentiles treading down the Court and Holy City 42 months; Of the Witneſſes preaching in Sackcloth 1260 daies; Of the Beaſt's power of doing 42 months; Of the Apoſtolical Woman's continuance in the Wilderneſs a Time, Times and half a Time, expreſſed alſo by 1260 daies.

1. The Times of the Beaſt and of the Witneſſes come out together, viz. at the end of the Sixth Trumpet (Chap. 11.) Ergò, being equal times they muſt needs begin together, and ſo contemporate throughout.

2. The Times of the Beaſt and of the Woman's being in the Wilderneſs have the ſame Epocha and beginning, namely the dethroning and vanquiſhing of the Red Dragon (Chap. 12.) Ergò, being equal times they muſt alſo have the ſame ending.

3. The Times of the treading down the Court and Holy City by the Gentiles and of the Sackcloth-prophecy of the Witneſſes are concurrent by the plain conſtruction of the Text, which gives them to propheſy all that heavy time. Beſides, when the Witneſſes have finiſhed, we find the Gentiles angry, as being driven from their poſſeſſion in the Temple, Chap. 11. verſ. 18.

F. M.

CHAP. X.

A Diſcourſe of the Beginning and Ending of the 42 months, or 1260. daies, (Rev. 11. 2, 3.) wherein Alſtedius his Four Epocha's are examined.

SIR,

I Waved not the Queſtion of the Ending of the XLII months more then that of their Beginning; for as I deſigned their Beginning in a latitude, ſo by conſequent I do their Ending. If they begin between the years 365 and 455, they muſt end between the years 1625 and 1715. Onely I refuſed preciſely to determine the year of their ending, which for ſome reaſons I ſuppoſed ſhould not certainly be known till the Event ſhould make it manifeſt; according as was not the preciſe Beginning of the LXX years of the Babyloniſh captivity, till the Event diſcovered it by their Ending. For when the articuli are more then one to begin at, who can determine at which God will reckon the beginning, and conſequently at what preciſe year ſhall be the ending? Yet as God accompted the LXX years of the Babyloniſh captivity from a remarkable moment of that latitude of time the Jews were entring into: ſo I believe the ſame All-wiſe God will do the period of the XLII months, from ſome remarkable moment in the latitude of their beginning. Howſoever, becauſe ſuch remarkable moments or terms are more then one, all that we can ſay is, That it ſhall be from ſome one of them, and it may be from ſome one we obſerve not, God in his wiſdom (till he ſees fit) veiling it from our eyes.

For Alſtedius, I will ingenuouſly confeſs, I had never obſerved thoſe paſſages of his Chronology you acquaint me with, as having never been nor yet am owner of that Book, though I think I want few of his other Writings, tings, in which I have met with many paſſages tending to the ſame purpoſe with theſe of his Chronology, here and there ſcattered, but no where ſo fully and ex propoſito. I ſought up and down for the Book, and ſome two days ſince I got a ſight of it ſo long as to reade the pages you quote, and no longer: yet becauſe you deſire my judgment of the Years he ſetteth down, I will anſwer ſomething for your ſatisfaction; and firſt lay the ground to examine them by. (viz.)

The Holy Ghoſt reckoneth the Epocha or Beginning of Antichriſt and his Apoſtatical times from the taking of that which hindred out of the way, that is, the then-reigning Imperial Sovereignty of Rome, 2 Theſſ. 2. 6, 7, 8. or, as S. John expreſſeth it, from the deadly wounding of the Head or Sovereignty of the Roman Beaſt, which in his time ruled; or the ſhivering of the Empire into a plurality of Kingdoms upon that deadly wounding, Apoc. 13. 3. with chap. 17. 12. When that great City ſhould ceaſe to be the lap of that Sovereignty which the Cæſars once held over the Nations, and many new upſtart Kings ſhould appear in the place and territory of that once One Empire; then ſhould the Times of Apoſtaſy with that wicked One make their entrance. Therefore as the Epocha or beginning of the Apoſtatical times in a latitude is to be fetched from that deadly blow or downfall of the Cæſarean head in a latitude: ſo he that would conjecturally point out any preciſe year where to begin thoſe times, muſt doe it from ſome remarkable ſtep or degree of the Cæſarean blow or downfall in the ſame latitude. Where note further, that the Cæſarean blow or downfall may be accompted double. Firſt, Religious and Sacred, as he was Draconicola, by a diſmounting and dethroning of the Dragon which actuated and enlived him: Secondly, Politicall, by the ruine of his State and Majeſty. Some of the places I now quoted may ſeem more to reſpect the one, ſome more the other. Antichriſt, we ſee, hath cured them both; the Firſt by a new Idolatry, the Second by his uſurped Tyranny.

Let us examine Alſtedius his Four Epocha's according to this ground.

The firſt is Anno Chriſti 362. which was ill pitched, it being the very time of the Dragon's recovery of the Imperial Throne under Julian, not any moment or ſtep of his diſmounting; and the Empire flouriſhing under one Monarch, not falling or diſhivering. Nor is his Reaſon good, Becauſe then began the perſecution of Julian; for that argues that the Dragon was not yet down: Nor the other, Becauſe of the Schiſmatical contention of the Roman Popes; for what reaſon can there be why the Schiſm of the Popes ſhould be the Epocha of their dominion, and of the times of Apoſtaſy under them? Beſides, the Event ſhews this was no Epocha of the 42 months, for then the expiration of them ſhould have appeared Anno 1622. by ſome mortal blow to the Antichriſtian ſtate; but it proved contrary. Alſtedius addeth the three years and an half of the Slaughter of the Witneſſes to the end thereof, hoping they ſhould have revived Anno 1625. but, alas! they did not. He that would chuſe an Epocha about Julian's time, might with much more probability have pitched upon 365; becauſe then upon Julian's death the Dragon was dethroned again from the Imperial rule, never to recover it any more: howſoever the Draconical or Ethnick worſhip, which Julian had reſtored, was publickly exerciſed by allowance of the ſucceeding Emperors, (though Chriſtians) and not put down for many years after. Wherefore the Event hath made manifeſt that God would none of this Epocha, elſe ſhould we have ſeen ſome tokens of it ere this time.

The next is Anno 376. from whence the 42 months would expire 1636. This hath more probability then any other he hath named; becauſe the year 376 was the beginning of the Reign of the Emperour Gratian, who firſt of all the Chriſtian Emperors renounced the great Pontificality long annexed to the Imperial dignity, and refuſed the Pontifical Stole, when it was tendred him according to the cuſtome by the Collegium Pontificum, ſaying it was unlawfull for a Chriſtian; whereas all the former Chriſtian Emperours (mirabile dictu) had admitted it, being inſtalled and inſtyled ſtill Pontifices Maximi, and according to that office ordered all buſineſs concerning the Ethnick ceremonies by their deputies. So long therefore as the Emperours were ſtill the Dragon's Pontifices, he had yet ſome title, at leaſt ſome titular dignity, in the Roman Sovereignty; and the loſing thereof may be reckoned a remarkable ſtep of his diſmounting and downfall: and ſo no marvel if he might then be brought to go ſeek out ſome other Pontifex to undertake his ſervice. But the doubt will be here, whether it were this year wherein Gratian rejected the Pontificality, or ſome other; for the year is not yet ſet down in Story: only it may moſt probably be thought to be the firſt year of his Reign à morte Patris, for he was created Auguſtus in his Father's life-time. Secondly, In the ſame year 376 the Goths entred the Empire; and ſo the foundation was laid alſo of the Political downfall of the ſame. But what Alſtedius his Reaſons be to pitch upon that Epocha I know not; he ſeems for this and the reſt of his Chronology to rely upon Aſtrological grounds from the great Conjunction. But though I believe theſe rarer Conjunctions may fit and diſpoſe the Bodies of men for ſome ſuch work as God will doe by them; yet I think them not ſufficient to determine times; eſpecially ſeeing they have no influence upon Polities and States directly, and quà talia, but only make ſome extraordinary impreſſions upon the Bodies of particular men born under them, which being many, when they come to years, may cauſe a predominancy of ſome ſingular diſpoſition in their lives, fit for ſuch alterations and changes as God ſhall direct and lead them to.

His third Epocha is 382. which would bring out the 42 months Anno 1642. Of this I ſee no reaſon he gives but Aſtrological, the inſufficiency whereof for that purpoſe I have already ſhewed. He might with greater probability have pitched upon 394. when was that famous battel and victory of Theodoſius againſt Eugenius and Arbogaſtes coming with a mighty Army to reſtore Ethniciſme, which Theodoſius had utterly aboliſhed, and after which Ethniciſme never made head any more in the Empire: This therefore might be reckoned for another remarkable moment of the Dragon's downfall. Or he might have pitched upon the year 410. the time when Alaricus took and ſacked Rome the Lady of the world; a moſt remarkable moment of the Politicall ruine of the Ceſarean Sovereignty. The former of theſe Epocha's would bring out the 42 months Anno 1654. the latter, 1670. But all theſe things depend upon the Divine will, In cujus manu ſunt tempora & opportunitates.

His laſt Epocha is 433. from which the 42 months would expire Anno 1693. For this Epocha of his I finde no reaſon but à poſteriori, drawn from the expiring of Daniel's numbers, Dan. 12. 11, 12. which he addeth one upon the head of another, and ſo makes 2625 to the End of the World, which reckoned from the deſtruction of Jeruſalem will come out Anno Chriſti 2694. from which he takes away for the Regnum Sanctorum 1000 years; ſo there remain but 1694: at which time the 42 months of Antichriſt muſt be finiſhed, becauſe then the 1000 years of Chriſt's Reign begin. Now if the 42 months end then, they began about 433.

This is the ſum of that Computation. But for my part, I think the meaning of thoſe days in Daniel to be to another purpoſe then to deſign the End of the World.

Secondly,

Secondly, That they are not to be reckoned one upon the head of another, but both from one and the ſame beginning.

Thirdly, That their Epocha is not the Deſtruction of Jer. ſalem by Titus, but that Prophanation of the Temple by Antiochus Epiphanes, which the Angel but newly mentioned in the ſame Viſion; whereas that of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus was in a Viſion ſome years before, and not like to be referred hereunto, and that which was ſo newly * mentioned, iiſdem verbis, in the ſame Viſion overſlipped. Yet I am not of Junius his minde neither, who would have them taken for bare days, and determinated in the perſecution of Antiochus: I ſuppoſe them Prophetical days, that is, ſo many years, and their times already expired. But I have no time to enter into this diſpute.

* Compare Chap. 11. 31. & Chap. 12. 11.

The 42 months extend to the burning and ſacking of Babylon; not to the extinguiſhing of Antichriſt, which ſhall be ſome while after, as appears Revel. 19. The reaſon of the limitation concealed. If I ſeem to incline to ſome moments rather then other, yet would I ſtill be conſtrued according to my firſt proteſtation againſt preciſe determination of Years in this buſineſs.

J. M.

CHAP. XI.

A brief Diſcourſe of the Thouſand years mentioned in Revelation 20. With ſome reflexions upon Euſebius & S. Hierom.

TOuching the Queſtion of the Thouſand years, you may ſee I have demonſtrated them to follow the Times of the Beaſt and of the falſe-Prophet, and conſequently the Times of Antichriſt. And if the Apocalypſe be Canonical Scripture, it muſt needs be granted there is ſuch a time to come; or we muſt deny either Rome, which now is, to be Babylon, or the Beaſt to be Antichriſt or Antichriſtendome: which thoſe who oppoſed the ancient Chiliaſts found ſo neceſſary, as forced them (having no other way to avoid their Adverſaries) directly to deny the Apocalypſe to be Scripture; nor was it re-admitted till they thought they had found ſome commodious interpretation of the 1000 years. And yet the Apocalypſe hath more Humane (not to ſpeak of Divine) authority then any other Book of the New Teſtament beſides, even from the time it was firſt delivered. But we ſee what the zeal of oppoſition can doe.

This Dogma of the 1000 years Regnum was the General opinion of all Orthodox Chriſtians in the Age immediately following the Apoſtles, if Juſtin Martyr ſay true; and none known to deny it then but Hereticks, which denied the Reſurrection, and held that the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, was not the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. This was the reaſon why Irenæus maintained it in his book Contra omnes Hæreſes, and Tertullian againſt the Marcionites.

Euſebius, who found out one * Gaius to father it upon Cerinthus, deſerves no credit; he was a party, and one of thoſe which did his beſt to undermine the authority of the Apocalypſe. Nor did any know of any ſuch Gaius but from his relation: And if there were any ſuch, he ſhould ſeem to be one of the Hereticks called Alogi, who denied both S. John's Goſpel and Apocalypſe, as is teſtified in Epiphanius; and their time jumps with the Age which Euſebius aſſigns to Gaius. Yet I deny not but ſome might maintain very carnal and intolerable conceits about this Regnum of a thouſand years, as the Mahumetans do about their Paradiſe: But theſe are not to be imputed unto thoſe Primitive Fathers and Orthodox Chriſtians.

* See in Book IV. the words of Gaius out of Euſebius, with the Author's Animadverſions.

S. Hierom was a chief Champion to cry down this Opinion, and (according to his wont) a moſt unequal relator of the Opinion of his Adverſaries. What credit he deſerves in this may appear by ſome Fragments of thoſe Authors ſtill remaining, whom he charged with an Opinion directly contrary to that which they expreſſely affirmed. And yet when he had ſtated it ſo as it muſt needs be Hereſie and Blaſphemy whoſoever ſhould hold it, he is found to ſay he durſt not damn it, becauſe multi virorum Eccleſiaſticorum & Martyrum iſta dixerunt, (Comment. in Jerem. 19. 10.) many Eccleſiaſtical perſons and Martyrs affirm'd the ſame.

In a word, I cannot chuſe but agree ſo farre with them, That theſe 1000 years are yet to come: This I hold with Alſtedius. But what ſhall be the modus and condition of that Kingdom, that is, what it means, it may be I have ſome ſingular conceit differing from them both; I am ſure from Alſtedius, Piſcator, and others of that opinion. But I were better ſpeak nothing thereof then too little; and to ſpeak fully would require in a manner the Interpretation of the whole Apocalypſe. In a word, I will reveal thus much, viz. That the Seventh Trumpet and the Thouſand years contained therein is that Magnus dies Domini, and Magnus dies Judicii, or Dies magni Judicii, The Great Day of the Lord, The Great Day of Judgment, The Day of the Great Judgment, ſo much celebrated amongſt the Jews in all their Writings, and from them taken up by our Saviour and his Apoſtles. Not a Day of a few hours, as we commonly ſuppoſe, but continuatum multorum annorum intervallum, a continued ſpace of many Years, wherein Chriſt ſhall deſtroy all his Enemies, and at length Death it ſelf; beginning with Antichriſt, by his revelation from heaven in flaming fire, and ending with the Univerſal Reſurrection: during which ſpace of time ſhall be the Kingdom of the Saints in the New Jeruſalem. This I can affirm with the moſt, That Antichriſt ſhall not be finally deſtroyed till the Day of Chriſt's appearing unto Judgment; and yet not fall into that which ſome charge the Chiliaſts with, That this Reign ſhould be after the Day of Judgment. For I give a third time, in or durante magno Die Judicii, in or during the Great Day of Judgment.

J. M.

CHAP. XII.

A Cenſure by way of Correction returned to a Friend concerning an Expoſition of his, of the 20. Chapter of the Apocalypſe, ſomewhat exorbitant.

This was wrote before his Comment on the Apocal. & ſo were the other Tracts in theſe Remains, except that in Chap. 9. be of a later date.

1. THat the Reign of Chriſt here deſcribed is after the Times of Antichriſt (if either the Beaſt or the Falſe-prophet be he) is apparent without interpretation; both becauſe all thoſe Times the old Dragon Satan was not tied up, but at liberty to ſeduce the Nations; and becauſe (verſ. 4.) one ſort of thoſe who ſhould reign with Chriſt a thouſand years are ſaid to be ſuch as had not worſhipped the Beaſt, neither his Image, nor had received his mark upon their foreheads or in their hands: which neceſſarily preſuppoſeth The Beaſt, His Image and Marking to have already been.

2. What the Quality of this Reign ſhould be, which is ſo ſingularly differenced from the Reign of Chriſt hitherto, is neither eaſy nor ſafe to determine, termine, farther then, That it ſhould be the Reign of our Saviour's Victory over his Enemies, wherein Satan being bound up from deceiving the Nations any more, till the time of this Reign be fulfilled, the Church ſhould conſequently enjoy a moſt bliſsfull peace and happy ſecurity from the heretical Apoſtaſies and calamitous ſufferings of former times. But here (if any where) the known ſhipwrecks of thoſe who have been too venturous ſhould make us moſt wary and carefull, that we admit nothing into our imaginations which may croſs or impeach any Catholick Tenet of the Chriſtian Faith: as alſo to beware of groſs and carnal conceits of an Epicurean happineſs misbeſeeming the Spiritual purity of Saints. If we conceit any Delicia, let them be Spirituales, which S. Auſtine confeſſeth to be Opinio tolerabilis, & ſe hoc opinatum fuiſſe aliquando, (Lib. 20. De Civit. Dei, cap. 7.) a tolerable Opinion, and that he alſo was ſometime of the ſame judgment.

3. The Preſence of Chriſt in this Kingdome ſhall no doubt be glorious and evident: yet I dare not ſo much as imagine (which ſome Ancients ſeem to have thought) that it ſhould be a Viſible Converſe upon earth. For the Kingdome of Chriſt ever hath been and ſhall be Regnum Cœlorum, A Kingdom whoſe Throne and Kingly Reſidence is in Heaven. There he was inſtalled when he ſate down on the right hand of the Majeſty on high, Heb. 1. and there, as in his proper Temple, is continually to appear in the preſence of his Father, to make interceſſion for us, Rom. 8. 34. with Heb. 9. 24. Yet may we grant he ſhall appear and be viſibly revealed from Heaven, eſpecially for the Calling and gathering of his ancient People, for whom in the days of old he did ſo many wonders. This S. John in this Book, as our Saviour in the Goſpel, ſeems to intimate by joyning thoſe two Prophetical paſſages of Daniel and Zachary in one expreſſion, Behold he cometh in the clouds, and every eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him. The firſt part (which our Saviour expreſſes more fully by the Sign of the Son of Man coming in the clouds of Heaven, &c.) is Daniel's in a Viſion of this Kingdom we ſpeak of. Behold (ſaith he) one like the Son of Man came with the clouds of Heaven — And there was given him Dominion, and Glory, and a Kingdom, that all People, Nations and Languages ſhould ſerve him. The other part is out of Zachary propheſying of the Re-calling of the Jews; And I will pour upon the houſe of David and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem the ſpirit of grace and ſupplication, and they ſhall look upon me whom they have pierced: Though theſe words of Zachary are not in our Saviour's expreſſion, but in ſtead thereof that which immediately follows after them, That all the Tribes of the Earth (or Land) ſhould mourn. Now I cannot underſtand how theſe two Prophetical paſſages ſhould not have the ſame meaning when our Saviour and his Apoſtle alledge them joyned, which they have in their own Authors expreſſed apart? or being expreſſed together as one, ſhould not be fulfilled at once? By ſuch a miraculous apparition of Chriſt from Heaven was S. Paul converted: And I hope it is no Hereſie to think, That the whole Nation of the Jews, thoſe Zelots againſt Chriſt, may be converted by as ſtrange a means as was that one Zelot of their Nation.

See in Book V. the Author's ſhort Tract ſtyled The Myſtery of S. Paul's Converſion, or, The Type of the Calling of the Jews.

4. Thoſe who ſhall be Partakers of this Kingdom are deſcribed to be of two ſorts: 1. The deceaſed Martyrs, who (as farre as I can yet underſtand it) ſhall reſume their Bodies and reign in Heaven; 2. ſuch of the Living as have not worſhipped the Beaſt, nor his Image, neither have received his mark, &c. theſe ſhall reign on Earth. For ſo I conſtrue the words; I ſaw the Souls of them that were beheaded for the witneſs of Jeſus and for the Word of God, and (ſubaudi, I ſaw) thoſe which had not worſhipped the Beaſt, nor his Image, nor had received his mark upon their foreheads or in their hands; and they lived (that is, the Martyrs) and reigned (that is, both of them) with Chriſt a thouſand years.

5. Under the Second ſort of thoſe Reigners, together with the Virgin-Chriſtians of the Gentiles, (who are the Surrogate Iſrael) I would in a particular reſpect underſtand the Nation of the Jews then converted to the Faith of Chriſt; who coming in toward the end of the day, may above all others be ſaid to be Thoſe who had not worſhipped the Beaſt, neither his Image, nor had received his mark upon their foreheads or in their hands; which moſt of the Chriſtian Gentiles had done; and therefore at the time of their cleanſing (Chap. 15. ver. 2.) are rather deſcribed, Thoſe that had gotten the victory over the Beaſt, and over his Image, and over his mark, and over the number of his Name.

6. The Riſing of the Martyrs is that which is called the Firſt Reſurrection, being, as it ſeems, a prerogative to their ſufferings above the reſt of the Dead; who as they ſuffered with Chriſt in the time of his patience, ſo ſhould they be glorified with him in the Reign of his Victory before the Univerſal Reſurrection of all. Bleſſed and Holy are they who have part in the Firſt Reſurrection, for on them the Second death hath no power; namely, becauſe they are not in Via, but in Patria; being a prerogative, as I underſtand it, of this Firſt ſort of Reigners onely, and not of the Second. Thus I yet admit the Firſt Reſurrection to be * Corporal as well as the Second, though I confeſs I have much ſtriven againſt it; and if the Text would admit another ſenſe leſs free of Paradox, I had yet rather liſten unto it: but I find it not. Howſoever, to grant a Particular Reſurrection before the General, is againſt no Article of Faith: For the Goſpel tells us, Matt. 27. v. 52, 53. that at our Saviour's Reſurrection, The graves were opened, and many bodies of the Saints which ſlept aroſe, and went into the holy City and appeared unto many. Neither was the number of them a ſmall number, if we may credit the Fathers or the moſt ancient Records of Chriſtian Tradition: For of this was that famous ſaying, * That Chriſt deſcended alone, but aſcended with a multitude; which is found in the heads of the Sermon of Thaddeus, as they are reported by Euſebius out of the Syriack Records of the City of Edeſſa, (Lib. 1. cap. ult.) in Ignatius's Epiſtle to the Trallians, and in the Diſputation of * Macarius Biſhop of Jeruſalem, in the firſt General Council of Nice, alſo in Cyrill's Catechiſm. Nay this Cyrill of Jeruſalem, Chryſoſtome, and others, ſuppoſe this Reſurrection to have been common to all the Saints that died before our Saviour (See the Biſhop of Meath, De Limbo Patrum.) Howſoever it be, it holds no unfit proportion with this ſuppoſed of the Martyrs. And how it doth more impeach any Article of our Faith to think that may be of the Martyrs which we believe of the Patriarchs, I yet ſee not.

* See in Book IV. the Author's 2. Letter to D. Meddus, where this is largely treated of. See alſo above in this Book in the Appendix to the Apocal. his Epiſt. ad Amicum, De Reſurrectione Prima, &c.

* Κατέβη μόνος, ἀνέβη δὲ μετὰ πολλῶν ὄχλων.

* Vid. Act. Concil. Niceni apud Gelaſ. Cyzicen. l. 1. c. 23. al. 24.

7. The Second Reſurrection to be after the End of the 1000 years, Juſtin Martyr, by way of diſtinction, calleth Τὴν καθολικὴν καὶ αἰωνίαν ὁμοθυμαδὸν ἅμα πάντων ἀνάστασιν, the Eternal and Univerſal Reſurrection of all together; namely, in reſpect of the former which was Particular, and but of ſome. And that it is common both to the Godly and to the Wicked, and not of the Wicked only, may appear, in that there are two Books opened for the Dead, (ver. 12.) whereof one is the Book of Life; which argues two ſorts of Dead to be judged. Nor can I imagine how it can be otherwiſe, unleſs all the Juſt which live during the 1000 years be ſuppoſed to be immortal; which is a Paradox I dare not admit, underſtanding, not that all the Individuals, but that the Body of the Church here on Earth ſhould ſucceſſively Reign with Chriſt her Lord 1000 years. Beſides, the attempt of the the Nations after the Devil's looſing argues a State ſubject to mutability. As for thoſe words of v. 14. which ſeem to intimate no other Dead then judged but the Wicked, becauſe it's ſaid, That Death and Hades were caſt into the lake of fire, which is the Second Death; I ſuppoſe nothing elſe is meant thereby, but that Death was now quite vanquiſhed, and that there ſhould be no more Death of Body or Separation of Soul, but onely the Second Death: As if it had been ſaid, Death and Hades are now confined only to the Lake of Fire, which is the Second Death; but the former Death of Bodies in the Grave, and the State of ſeparate Souls in * Hades was no more.

8. For Gog and Magog, who after Satan's looſing and before the laſt Reſurrection ſhall gather together againſt the Camp of the Saints and the Beloved City, it cannot be literally underſtood of the Nations ſo called in the Old Teſtament. For there Gog the Prince, with the People of Magog come out of the North-parts where the poſterity of Magog was ſeated. But Gog and Magog here are ſaid to be Nations which are in the four quarters of the Earth. As therefore the Apocalyptical Babylon is not Babylon in Chaldæa, but a Counter-type thereof, moſt like for Univerſal Ambition and Metropolitanſhip of Spiritual Fornication: ſo this Apocalyptical Gog and Magog is not the Gog and Magog of the North, but a Counter-type of them, which ſhould after the ſame manner attempt againſt the Beloved City then, which the Scythian Gog and Magog (I mean the Turk) doth againſt the Church of the Gentiles now, and ſhould before his laſt Ruine attempt againſt Iſrael at their return. And if there ever be an Antichriſt, ſuch as the Fathers deſcribe, now will be the moſt likely time for him, when the Devil is looſe but for a little ſeaſon.

* Hades is properly the place of Separate Souls, whether good or bad, after death.

F. M.

A PARAPHRASE AND EXPOSITION Of the PROPHECIE OF S^t. PETER, Concerning

The Day of Chriſt's Second Coming;

DESCRIBED
In the Third CHAPTER of his Second EPISTLE.

AS ALSO
How the CONFLAGRATION, or Deſtruction of the WORLD by FIRE, (whereof S. Peter ſpeaks,) and eſpecially of the Heavens, is to be underſtood.

BY
JOSEPH MEDE, B.D. ſometime Fellow of Chriſt's College in Cambridge.

The Fourth Edition, corrected in ſundry places, and enlarged with ſome Additional Obſervations out of the Author's own Manuſcripts.

LONDON,
Printed for R. Royſton, Book-ſeller to His moſt Sacred MAJESTY. MDCLXIII.

A

Paraphraſe and Expoſition

OF THE

PROPHECIE

of S. PETER,

Concerning The Day of Chriſt's Second Coming; Deſcribed in the Third CHAPTER of the Second EPISTLE.

Verſes 1, 2.

SAint Peter exhorts the believing Jews, unto whom he writes, to be mindfull of the words of the holy Prophets, [a] Eſay, Daniel and Malachi, concerning the coming of Chriſt to Judgment, and the Reſtauration then promiſed; it being alſo confirmed by the Apoſtles of our Lord and Saviour.

Note. [a] If that which S. Peter here deſcribeth were foretold by the old Prophets, then muſt S. Peter be ſo expounded, as it may be ſhewn in them and agree with them.

Verſes 3,4. For howſoever it were then believed both by Jews and Chriſtianed Gentiles; yet in [a] the laſt days ſhould come thoſe who, walking after their own deſires, (or humours) ſhould deny and deride the expectation of any ſuch [b] promiſe of the Day of Chriſt, ſaying, Where is the [c] promiſe of his coming? Where is the New heaven and New earth you talk of?

Notes. [a] This ἔσχατον τῶν ἡμερῶν, or laſt days, ſhould ſeem to be the time of the Churche's Apoſtaſie under Antichriſt, according to that of S. Paul, 1 Tim. 4. 1. In the latter times ſome ſhall depart from the Faith, giving heed to ſpirits of errour and doctrines of Damons. For as the times of the fourth and laſt of Daniel's Kingdoms were the laſt times in general, during which Chriſt was to come and found his Church and Kingdom: ſo the latter times of the Fourth Kingdom, being that period of a Time, times and half a time wherein the wicked Horn ſhould domineer, are the latmoſt times of the laſt times, or laſt times in ſpecial.

[b c] I take Promiſe here for Res promiſſa the thing promiſed; the Antitheſis implying that to be the meaning, viz. The ſcoffers ſay, Where is the Promiſe of his coming? Nevertheleſs we look for a New heaven and New earth, according to his Promiſe.

But here is ſomewhat (Reader) in the application wherein thou maiſt erre; but be not thou uncharitable in thy cenſure, nor think I am. For although the crying down and condemning of the opinion of the Chiliaſts will be found to be near upon the beginning of the times of the Antichriſtian Apoſtaſie, (which I ſuppoſe to be called the laſt times ;) and that the utter burying of that Opinion falls within theſe times: yet thou muſt know, 1. That there is not the like reaſon of the firſt Authors of crying down a Truth, and of thoſe who led by their authority take it afterward, without further examination, for an Errour. 2. To ſcoff is one thing, and barely not to believe is another. 3. 'Tis one thing to deny a promiſe ſimply, and another to deny or queſtion the manner thereof; as alſo to reject a Truth ſincerely propounded, and when it is intangled with errours; as that of the later Chiliaſts may ſeem to have been.

Verſ. 4. pars altera. The reaſon of this their unbelief being, becauſe they imagine there hath never yet ſince the creation of the World been any example of ſuch a deſtruction and change enſuing it as this at the coming of Chriſt ſhould be. For ſince the Fathers fell aſleep, (ſay they) even ſince Adam died, all things have continued as they were from the beginning of the creation. Therefore the expectation of any ſuch change of the World and the ſtate of things therein (as is ſuppoſed) is vain and frivolous, and never to be fulfilled.

Note. As touching the Jews, and the impeachment of this Opinion amongſt them in the latter times, I find amongſt the Doctors of the Gemara or Gloſs of their Talmud (which was finiſhed about 500 years after Chriſt) a Tenet of one R. Samuel's, אין בין העולם הזה לימות המשיח אלא שעבוד מלכיות בלבד: "That there was to "be no difference between the preſent ſtate of the world and the "daies of Meſſiah, but in reſpect of the bondage under the Kingdoms "of the Gentiles onely; thereby oppoſing the more ancient opinion and tradition of the Renovation of the World. After this time there appears to have been amongſt the Jews a Sect of the followers of the opinion of this R. Samuel, which at length was greatly advanced by the authority of that learned Maimonides, who having drunk too deep of the Philoſophie of Ariſtotle, (wherein he was admirably skilful) became a champion againſt the opinion of the world's renovation to be in the daies of Meſſiah; and that upon this ground, Quòd mundus retinet & ſequitur conſuetudinem ſuam: which ſaying he aſcribeth to ſome other Rabbins of the ſame opinion before him, which for the ſenſe and meaning is the ſelf-ſame with that here of the ſcoffers, All things (ſay they) continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

* Gem. Sanhedrin cap. 11.

Nevertheleſs Aben Ezra, who lived not long after Maimonides, maintained ſtill (as alſo others did) the contrary; and there are extant certain Diſcourſes and Tractates amongſt them purpoſely written of this Argument, and confuting the opinion of R. Moſes ben Maiemon and his followers; as one called שמים חדשים Cœli novi, proving the neceſſity of the Renovation of the World, and directed againſt cap. 29. lib. 2. of Maimonides his More Nebochim. Another by R. Iſaac Abarbinel, called מפעלות אלהים, Opera Dei, (out of Pſal. 66. 5.) wherein all the arguments brought againſt the Renovation are confuted. And no doubt there are more of the like nature, which we know not of.

Verſes 5, 6. But thoſe who ſuppoſe this, (οἱ θέλοντες) that there hath never yet any ſuch deſtruction and change befallen the creation, and thence conclude there is no ſuch nor ſhall ever be, they weigh and conſider not the univerſal Deluge in the time of Noah (when the curſe laid upon the creature for man's ſin firſt ſolemnly took place) brought, as a like deſtruction, ſo a like change, upon the world for the degeneration of the creature, as this at the the ſecond coming of Chriſt ſhall be for the reſtauration and renovation of the ſame in the day of the glorious liberty of the children of God. For the heavens were of old, and the globe of the earth, conſiſting partly [ἐξ ὕδατος] of water, (viz. that of the Great deep) and partly (a) [δι' ὕδατος] amongſt water, to wit, the clouds and floud-gates of heaven hanging about it; all framed by the word of God: By which waters [δι' ὧν ὑδάτων] the world which then was, being overwhelmed with water, periſhed; as it is written, Gen. 7. 11, &c. In the 600. year of Noah's life, in the ſecond month, the 17. day of the month, were all the Fountains of the Great deep broken up, and the Floud-gates (or Cataracts) of heaven were opened: and ver. 18. And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth——and 21. And all fleſh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattel, and of beaſt, and of every creeping thing, and every man.

Note. [a] Διὰ ſometimes ſignifies inter, amongſt, or in the midſt of, as if it were * διὰ μέσου. So Herodotus, διὰ νήσων, inter inſulas. Howſoever we render the Prepoſition, I ſuppoſe S. Peter by his δι' ὕδατος means the ſuperiour water, which together with that of the Sea or Great deep concurred to the drowning of the World, as appears by the place of Geneſis alledged.

* 2 Tim. 2. 23. Διὰ μαρτύρων πολλῶν, inter multos teſtes. Vide Notas B.

Verſ. 7. But the heavens and the earth (that is, the World) which is now, by the ſame word are kept in ſtore, reſerved unto (a) fire at the Day of Judgement and perdition of ungodly men; according to the prophecie of Daniel c. 7. v. 10, 11. who ſaw a fiery ſtream iſſuing and coming forth before the Judge of the world, and the body of the fourth Beaſt burned therewith: And of Eſay (ch. 66. 15, 16.) who ſaith of that day, That the Lord ſhall come with fire, and with his chariots like a whirlwind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebukes with flames of fire: And that by fire and by his ſword, (i. e. by his ſword of fire, ἐν διὰ δυοῖν) the Lord would plead with all fleſh, and the ſlain of the Lord ſhall be many (b). So alſo Mal. 4. 1. That the great and terrible day ſhall burn as an oven, and all the proud and all that doe wickedly ſhall be ſtubble, which at the coming of that day ſhall be burnt up.

Notes. [a] From this proportion which the Judgement to come by Fire hath unto that which was by Water in the Deluge, Irenæus calls it Diluvium ignis, Lib. 5. cap. 29. juxta Edit. Fevardentii.

[b] It may be it is of this day the ſame Prophet Eſay alſo ſpeaks chap. 9. 5. where he ſaith, The battel of the Meſſiah ſhould not be as the battel of the warriour, with confuſed noiſe, and garments rolled in blood; but with burning and fuel of fire. For the old Prophets (for the moſt part) ſpeak of the coming of Chriſt indefinitely and in general, without that diſtinction of Firſt and Second coming, which the Goſpel out of Daniel hath more clearly taught us. And ſo conſequently they ſpake of the things to be at Chriſt's coming indefinitely and altogether, which we, who are now more fully informed by the revelation of the Goſpel of a twofold coming, muſt apply each of them to its proper time: thoſe things which befit the ſtate of his Firſt coming, unto it; and ſuch things as befit the ſtate of his Second coming, unto his Second; and what befits Both alike, may be applied unto Both.

Verſ. 8. But whereas I mentioned (ſaith S. Peter) the Day of Judgement, leſt ye might miſtake it for a ſhort day, or a day of a few hours, I would not, beloved, have you ignorant, that One day with the Lord is as a thouſand years, and a thouſand years as one day (a).

Note. [a] Thus I expound theſe words by way of a preoccupation or premunition; becauſe they are the formal words of the Jewiſh Doctors when they ſpeak of the Day of Judgement, or Day of Chriſt, as S. Peter here doth, viz. יום אחד ה"קבה אלף שנים, una dies Dei Sancti Benedicti ſunt mille anni. And though they uſe to quote that of the ninetieth Pſalm, (Mille anni in oculis tuis ſicut dies heſternus) for confirmation thereof; yet are not thoſe words formally in the Pſalm. So that S. Peter in this paſſage ſeems rather to have had reſpect to that common ſaying of the Jews in this argument, then to the words of the Pſalm; where the words [One day with the Lord is as a thouſand years] are not, though the latter part of the ſentence [A thouſand years as one day] may allude thither; as the * Jews alſo were wont to bring it for a confirmation of the former.

* Trad. R. Ketina in Gemara Sanhedrin. Midraſch tehillim ſuper Pſ. 90.

2. Theſe words are commonly taken as an argument why God ſhould not be thought ſlack in his promiſe (which follows in the next verſe:) But the firſt Fathers took it otherwiſe; and beſides, it proves it not: For the queſtion is not, whether the time be long or ſhort in reſpect of God, but whether it be long or ſhort in reſpect of us; otherwiſe not onely a thouſand, but an 100 thouſand years are in the eyes of God no more then one day is to us, and ſo it would not ſeem long to God, if the Day of Judgement ſhould be deferred till then.

3. Let the judicious conſider it, whether this paſſage ſo prone to be taken in the expoſition I have given, yea and alledged to that purpoſe, were not ſome part of a motive to the zelotical Anti-chiliaſts (whereof Euſebius, whom we truſt, was none of the leaſt) to be ſo willing and ready to queſtion the authority of this Epiſtle, as they did alſo at the ſame time of the Apocalypſe. The pretence againſt this Epiſtle was, becauſe it wanted the teſtimony of allegation by the firſt Fathers. But [Dies Domini ſicut mille anni] quoted both by Juſtin Martyr and Irenæus, is not out of the ninetieth Pſalm, as they took for granted, (for there are no ſuch words) but out of this Epiſtle of Peter, who applies it to the Day of Judgement, which he calleth ἡμέρα Κυρίου, the Day of the Lord. Conſider it.

Verſe 9. And though this Day be long deferred, yet is not the Lord ſlack concerning his promiſe (as ſome men account ſlackneſs, as if he had alter'd his purpoſe, or meant never to perform it;) but the cauſe of this delay is his long-ſuffering towards us (a) of the ſeed of Iſrael, not willing that any ſhould periſh at that day, but that our whole Nation ſhould come unto repentance, (b) which, if that Day ſhould ſurpriſe them in their unbelief, muſt inevitably periſh with the reſt of the enemies of Chriſt.

Notes. [a] S. Peter ſpeaks and writes in this Epiſtle to his brethren the Jews, as appears by the firſt verſe of this chapter.

[b] Therefore the ſame S. Peter in his firſt publick Sermon to his Nation in the Temple, after the ſending of the Holy Ghoſt, (Act. 3.19, &c.) exhorts them to repent and be converted εἰς τὸ ἐξαλειφθῆναι τὰς ἁμαρτίας ὑμῶν, for the waſhing away of their ſins, That ſo (ὅπως ἂν) thoſe times of refreſhing and reſtitution of all things, which God had ſpoken by the mouth of all his holy Prophets, might come; which till then were to be ſuſpended.

Object. But God could have haſtened the Jews converſion, if it had pleaſed him.

Reſp. But it ſtood not with the œconomie of his Juſtice, when the Jews had had rejected Christ, their expiation, to grant them this grace, until they should have fulfilled a time of penance for all the sins of their Nation, even from the first time they were a people until the last destruction of Jerusalem. For since they would none of their pardon and atonement, Christ, (with respect unto whose coming God had so long spared them; for all their expiation by Sacrifice looked unto him) God would not bate them an ace of the judgement they had merited, but would visit all the former sins of their Nation upon them, from the golden Calf, until their crucifying and finall rejecting of their Messiah.

Verse 10. But as for the manner of the coming of this great Day of the Lord, it shall be suddenly and unawares, as a thief in the night, in which she (a) heavens with a crackling noise of fire shall pass away, and the στοιχεῖα (a) or host of them shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also and the works therein shall be burned.

Note. [a] What these heavens are, and why I render στοιχεῖα the host of them, and how this Conflagration is to be understood, I will shew when I have done my Paraphrase.

Vers. 11, 12. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godlines, to make our selves fire-proof, and such as may abide the day of refining? As namely becometh those who by faith look for and hasten the coming of the Day of the Lord, wherein the heavens being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the host of them melt with fervent heat. For our life and conversation ought to be sutable to our faith, and we are so to walk as if that were always present which by faith we look for.

Vers. 13. But this Conflagration ended, (whatsoever those Scoffers say who question the promise of Christ's second coming) we look, according to his promise, Isa. 65. 17. & 66. 22. for a New heaven and a New earth, (that is, a new and refined state of the World) wherein righteousness shall dwell, according as the same Prophet saith, chap. 60. 20, 21. The Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended; Thy people also shall be all righteous, they shall inherit the land (or earth) for ever.

Vers. 14, 15, 16. Wherefore, beloved, (seeing that ye look for such things at his coming) be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless; and account the long-suffering of God in the delay thereof to be for salvation. Even as our beloved Paul also, (one of the Apostles of our Lord, who confirmeth these words of the holy Prophets) according to the wisdom given unto him, hath written unto you, enforcing the like exhortation unto holiness of life, from this our faith and expectation of the Lord Jesus his appearing to judgement, which we now make unto you; viz. Heb. 12. 14, 28, 29. As also in all his Epistles, speaking in them of these things, viz. Rom. 2. 4, 5, 6, 7. | 1 Cor. 1. 7, 8. & 3. 13. | 2 Cor. 5. 9, 10, 11. initio, & 7. 1. | Phil. 1. 10. & 2. 15, 16. also 3. 20. | Coloss. 3. 4, 5. | 1 Thess. 2. 12. & 3. 13. denique 5. 23. | 2 Thes. 1. 8, &c. 1 Tim. 6. 14, 15. | Tit. 2. 12, 13.

Vers. 16. Ἐν οἷς, Amongst which things concerning the Second coming of Christ are some things hard to be conceived, which those which are unlearned and not well setled in the Faith, like unto these Scoffers, stumble at, as they do at other Scriptures, taking occasion thereby to stagger and doubt of the truth of God; so perverting the Scriptures from their right end, by making them the means of their own destruction, which were given by God as a means whereby they might believe and be saved.

How this Conflagration of the World whereof S. PETER ſpeaks, and eſpecially of the Heavens, is to be underſtood.

FOR reſolution of this Queſtion, I muſt premiſe ſome things, to make the way thereto the more eaſie.

1. That in the old Hebrew language, wherein the Scripture ſpeaks, there is no one word to expreſs that Compages of the ſuperiour and inferiour bodies, which we call Mundus, but thoſe two words, Heaven and Earth, שמים וארץ joyned and put together, onely: So that when S. Peter ſaith, The World which then was periſhed by water; but the Heavens and the Earth which are now, are reſerved to fire, he might as well have ſaid, according to his meaning, The Heavens and the Earth which then were periſhed by water; as the World that now is ſhall by fire. For the words Heaven and Earth joyned imply no more in the one (according to the Scripture's notion) then the ſingle word Mundus or World doth in the other, being applied to the hiſtory of the great Deluge: As alſo a New heaven and a New earth is the ſame notion with that in our expreſſion, when we ſay, a New world, that is to ſay, Nova rerum facies, nova rerum conditio; which we otherwiſe apply to very ſmall and even particular and domeſtical changes, when we ſay, Here is a new World; which the Hebrew would or might expreſs, Here is a new Heaven and a new Earth.

2. That it is not like that any other World, or Heaven and Earth, ſhall periſh by Fire, then ſuch a one as heretofore periſhed by Water: For ſo the Antitheſis imports, viz. The World, or Heaven and Earth, which then was, periſhed by water; the Heaven and Earth which now is, is reſerved for a deſtruction by fire. Now the World which periſhed by water was no other then the ſublunary World; the Heaven whereof is that which we call Aire, but the Scriptures Heaven: which ſublunary Heaven, together with the Earth, was marred by that general Deluge; and the creatures belonging to them both either wholly deſtroyed, or marvellouſly corrupted from that they were before. Such a World therefore, and no other Heaven and Earth, ſhall undergoe this ſecond deluge of Fire for reſtauration, which before ſuffered the deluge of Water for corruption.

3. Obſerve alſo, for the better underſtanding of S. Peter's meaning, That the word Στοιχεῖα, which we in this place are wont to turn Elements, is not like to be underſtood in the notion of the Greek Philoſophy, whoſe terms and notions the Scripture uſeth not; but otherwiſe divideth the World. Nay further, in this place it cannot be ſo underſtood; for that the Hebrew diviſion of the World into Heaven and Earth is here expreſſed, and theſe Στοιχεῖα diſtinguiſhed from them both. But when the whole World is divided into Heaven and Earth, εἰς τὸ ἄνω καὶ τὸ κάτω, by Earth is meant the Earthen Globe, which S. Peter ſaith is ἐξ ὕδατος καὶ, and ſo the Water and Earth are both included in the ſole name of Earth: in Heaven the Air is included. Thus three of the Philoſophical Elements are beſtowed. The fourth is the Fire: but this is that which is to burn the στοιχεῖα, and ſo none of the στοιχεῖα to be burnt. And if any of theſe Elements could be exempted from this diviſion into Heaven and Earth beſides the Fire, as namely the Air; yet could not that, nor any one of them alone, alone, be στοιχεῖα in S. Peter: for στοιχεῖα notes more then one.

It muſt needs therefore be that Στοιχεῖα here meaneth ſomething elſe. Let us ſee if we can find out what it is. Mark then S. Peter's order, οἱ οὐρανοὶ καὶ στοιχεῖα, then γῆ καὶ τὰ ἐν αὐτῇ ἔργα. By which correſpondence it ſhould ſeem that Στοιχεῖα ſhould be ſome furniture belonging to Cælum, as τὰ ἔργα are the buildings and whole furniture of Creatures belonging to Terra; which furniture of both, but eſpecially that of the Heaven, the Scripture calls צבאם the hoſt of them, Gen. 2. 1. The heavens and the earth were finiſhed, וכל צבאם and all the hoſt of them; LXX. ὁ κόσμος αὐτῶν· Vulg. Ornatus eorum. Nay, ſeeing the whole World is nothing elſe but the Heaven and the Earth, and what is contained in them, (i. e.) exercitus eorum; and ſeeing Heaven and Earth are both here diſtinctly named, and τὰ ἔργα put for the hoſt of the Earth; it muſt needs be that στοιχεῖα, named as a diſtinct thing from all three, ſhould note the hoſt of heaven: and ſo the meaning of S. Peter ſhould be, when he ſaith οἱ οὐρανοὶ καὶ στοιχεῖα, as if he had ſaid, οἱ οὐρανοὶ καὶ στοιχεῖα τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, the heavens and the hoſt thereof; or, τὰ ἐν αὐτῷ στοιχεῖα, as he ſaies, γῆ καὶ ἐν αὐτῇ ἔργα, the Earth and the works therein.

But how, will ſome man ſay, ſhould στοιχεῖα come to have this notion? I anſwer thus, The Hebrew verb צבא ſignifieth, in ordine militari ſto, incedo, and ſo anſwers to the Greek verb στείχω, which is expounded ἐν τάξει παραγίνομαι, i. e. in ordine militari incedo: Vide Scap. ex Etymolog. Accordingly the LXX render the Hebrew צבא παρατάσσομαι, i.e. in procinctu ſto, inſtructâ acie ſto. Now if the verb צבא ſignifie the ſame with the Greek στείχω, why may not the Hebrew Noun צבא (which we turn exercitus) be rendred στοιχεῖον, the Helleniſts, or Greekiſh Jews, as in other words, ſo here, following the Etymologie from στείχω, and having an eye more to their own native language then to the uſe of Greece? It would be long to ſhew in how many words they, and the Greek Scriptures written according to their Dialect, uſe notions which the Greeks uſed not; namely, reſpecting ſome conformity or other in their own tongue. The works of the learned in ſacred Criticiſm are of late full of ſuch obſervations, whereby many difficulties and obſcurities in Scripture become clear and eaſie. Nevertheleſs the Gentile Greeks themſelves uſe Στίχος and Στοῖχος (which come of the ſame verb στείχω) in the ſame ſenſe we plead for, viz. for ordo militaris, Military array: Why may not then the Helleniſts (ſo the * Greek Jews are called) doe the ſame with Στοιχεῖον, being for the Etymology every way as fit, ſeeing alſo they are otherwiſe wont to permute ſignifications from vicinity of ſound?

* See the Syriack, Act 9. 29. where Ἑλληνιστὰς are turned Judæi qui loquebantur Græcè.

For a further confirmation of this notion of Στοιχεῖον I contend for, I wil adde what I have met with to that purpoſe. Schickardus, a learned profeſſor of the Oriental tongues at Tubing, in his Bechinath happeruſchim, pag. 44. hath diſcovered out of Ramban's, or R. Moſes ben Nachman's Preface in Peruſche hattorah, two paſſages taken out of the Chaldee copy of the Wiſdom of Solomon, which that Rabbi had ſeen; whereby the ſaid Schickardus proveth againſt S. Jerome, that the Greek is not the Original, but was tranſlated out of Chaldee. The paſſages which this Ramban quoteth thence are chap. 7. v. 5, 6, 7, and part of the 8. and again, v. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. In the laſt of which quotations, becauſe there is in the Greek ἐνέργειαν στοιχείων, I greedily looked what word in the Chaldee anſwered here to στοιχείων, which I found to be מזלותא, which thoſe who have skil know to ſignifie the Planets, 12 Signs or Conſtellations of Heaven, as being the ſame with the Hebrew * מזלות. Στοιχεῖα therefore here are Starrs and Planets; which I ſhall not need prove to be the hoſt of the Ethereal heaven: yea and perhaps

* I have ſince looked in the Preface of Ramban, where I found thoſe Chaldee paſſages mentioned, which the Rabbi tranſlates into Hebrew: and for the Chaldee which anſwereth to ἐνέργειαν στοιχείων, he renders מעשה מזלות perhaps too מולות and מולתא are derived of the verb אול ire, as στοιχεῖον is of στείχω.

Now we know the Scriptures make three heavens: 1. The Air, or Sublunary heaven; 2. The Ethereal, or ſtarry heaven; 3. The heaven of Glory, or Empyreal heaven. Every of theſe heavens have their hoſt or army. The hoſt of the heaven of Glory or the third heaven are the Angels and bleſſed Spirits: The hoſt of the Ethereal heaven are the Stars and Planets: The hoſt of the Aereal or Sublunary heaven are either viſible, as the Clouds of Heaven (νεφέλαι τοῦ οὐρανοῦ) and other Meteors, as alſo the reſt of the creatures manſioning therein, as the Fowls of heaven (πετεινὰ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ) or inviſible, viz. the wicked Spirits and Devils, whoſe Prince, Satan, is called the Prince of the power of the Air, Eph. 2.2. and his hoſt κοσμοκράτορες, rulers of the world, that is, of the Sublunary world; and τὰ πνευματικὰ τῆς πονηρίας ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, wicked ſpirits in heavenly places, namely in the loweſt or ſublunary heavens, Eph. 6. 12. And whether S. Paul Gal. 4. 8, 9. and Col. 2. 8, &c. includes not ſome of thoſe under his στοιχεῖα τοῦ κόσμου, I cannot affirm: let the Learned further conſider it, when namely he ſpeaks to and of Gentiles, and not Jews.

HAVING hitherto prepar'd the way, let us now come cloſer home to S. Peter, whoſe words evidently import that ſome of theſe Heavens, or all of them, ſhall ſuffer a Conflagration at the Day of Chriſt. Not all of them; for who ever put the Empyreal heaven in that reckoning? And for the Ethereal heaven, he that conſidereth both the ſupereminent nature and immenſity thereof, and of thoſe innumerable bodies therein, in regard of which the whole Sublunary world is but a point or centre; and that it no way can be proved that ever thoſe bodies received any curſe for mans ſin, or contagion by the world's deluge, or that any enemies of God dwell in them to pollute them; he that conſidereth this, will not eaſily be induced to believe that the Fire of the day of Judgement ſhould burn them. It remaineth therefore that the Sublunary heavens onely with their στοιχεῖα are to be the ſubject of this Conflagration.

Theſe Heavens, ſaith S. Peter, λυθήσονται, i. e. ſolventur, ſhall be diſſolved, and their στοιχεῖα ſhall melt with fervent heat. 'Tis a Metaphor taken from the refining of metalls, quæ igne ſolvuntur ut purificentur, which are melted in order to their purifying and refining. So that οἱ οὐρανοὶ πυρούμενοι λυθήσονται, is as much as Cæli igne adhibito conflabuntur. This to be the meaning of λυθήσονται appears, becauſe S. Peter himſelf interprets ſolvi to be liquefieri. For having in the tenth verſe ſaid, στοιχεῖα λυθήσονται, i. e. ſhall be diſſolved, he in the twelfth verſe repeating it ſays, στοιχεῖα τακήσεται, i. e. ſhall melt: Now melting is for refining and purifying. Nor is the word πυρούμενοι averſe from this notion, the LXX uſing πυρόω for the Hebrew צרף, as in the Pſalms more then once: The words of the Lord are as refined or tried ſilver, LXX. ἀργύριον πεπυρωμένον, Pſal. 12. and ſo elſewhere. But when the Sublunary heaven ſhall be thus refined, even the Ethereal lights of the Stars, of the Sun and Moon, &c. will appear to thoſe on earth much more glorious then now they do, as ſending their rayes through a purer Medium; ſo that all the world to us-ward ſhall be as it were renewed.

As for παρελεύσονται (or paſſing away) verſe 10. it is an Hebraiſm, ſignifying any change or going of a thing from the ſtate wherein it was, and anſwers to the verb חלף, which ſignifieth both tranſire and mutari, as עבר alſo in Chaldaiſm doth. And Schindler notes, that Pſal. 102. the Arabick for יחלפו, mutabuntur, hath יתעברון, tranſibunt. In the twelfth verſe it is expounded by λυθήσονται: but λυθήσονται, I have already ſhewed, is commuted with τακήσονται. They therefore all three of them ſignifie one and the ſame thing:

thing: and I ſee no reaſon why we ſhould imagine a greater emphaſis in παρελεύσονται for an utter abolition in the deſtruction by fire, then was before implied in ἀπώλοντο, when he ſpake of the deſtruction by water: ὁ τότε κόσμος (ſaith he) ὕδατι κατακλυσθεὶς ἀπώλετο, verſ. 6.

But what ſhall become of the inviſible hoſt, which I named as part of the στοιχεῖα of this Sublunary heaven, viz. thoſe πνευματικὰ τῆς πονηρίας, the army of wicked and unclean ſpirits? ſhall the Fire of the laſt Judgment touch theſe? I anſwer; Though the operation of the Fire ſhall not be upon them to burn them, yet ſhall they alſo ſuffer by this fiery judgment, being thereby to be exiled and dejected from thoſe high manſions, and beſtowed in ſome lower place. For ſo that of Jude ſeems to imply; The Angels (ſaith he) which kept not their firſt eſtate, but left their own (or proper) habitation, he hath reſerved to [be bound with] everlaſting chains of darkneſs, at the Judgment of the great Day. Vide Piſcat. in hunc locum.

And this ſeems to me to be the moſt literal and unforced expoſition of this deſcription of S. Peter, of the Heaven and Earth's conflagration at the Day of Chriſt, and ſo to be preferred before any other.

BUT if a Prophetical ſtrain or Scheme may be here admitted, there is another way of explication, which yet in the concluſion will come to the ſame purpoſe the former did, although the way thereto be not the ſame. And certainly our Saviour in the Goſpel deſcribing the coming of this Day, uſeth a Prophetical expreſſion: The Sun (ſaith he) ſhall be darkned, and the Moon ſhall not give her light, and the Stars ſhall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven ſhall be ſhaken. For if this be taken literally, whither ſhall the Stars fall from heaven, which are either as big, or many times bigger then the globe of the earth? where ſhall there be room for them? If ſuch a Scheme then be ſuppoſed in S. Peter's deſcription, the explication may be after this manner.

Mundus, or the World, (to omit other particular acceptions) is, according to the Scripture's uſe, either Mundus continens, or Mundus contentus, (give me leave to uſe theſe terms for diſtinction ſake.) By Mundus continens I mean the Compages and frame of the Phyſical heaven and earth, wherein the reſt of the creatures are contained: by Mundus contentus, the ſtate or body of the inhabitants and Kingdoms of the earth. Now to whatſoever the notion of Mundus is appliable, there is alſo ſuppoſed to be an Heaven and Earth, as being the names & parts whereby the Scriptures expreſs the World. The Heaven then of this Political world is the Sovereignty or Sovereign part thereof; whoſe Hoſt and Stars are the powers ruling that world: In the higheſt place Gods and Idols; next, Kings, Princes, Peers, Counſellours, Magiſtrates, and other ſuch Lights ſhining in that Firmament. And at ſuch a meaning and no other (it being an Oriental notion) may aim (for ought I can ſee) that ſuppoſed faſtuous ſtyle of Sapores King of Perſia to Conſtantius the Emperour, Rex Regum Sapores, frater Solis & Lunæ, particeps (i. e. ſocius) Siderum, Conſtantio fratri ſalutem. But to go on: The Earth is the Peaſantry or vulgus hominum, together with the terreſtrial creatures ſerving the uſe of man.

Of ſuch a Heaven and Earth as this is the Lord ſpeaks [in the Prophecie of Haggai, Chap. 2. v. 6, 7. Yet once, it is a little while, and I will ſhake the heavens and the earth, both the ſea and the dry land; And I will ſhake all Nations, and the deſire of all Nations ſhall come. And again v. 21, 22. I will ſhake the heavens and the earth; And I will overthrow the throne of Kingdoms, and I will deſtroy the ſtrength of the Kingdoms of the Heathen, &c. Of ſuch a Heaven and Earth ſpeaks Jeremy, Chap. 4. 23. I beheld the earth, and it was without form and void, (תֹהוּ וָבֹהוּ) and the heavens, and they

they had no light: viz. as if the World were turn'd into the old Chaos again, Gen. 1. See the reſt which follows. Of ſuch Heavens and an Earth ſpeaks the Lord in Iſaiah chap. 51. 15, 16. namely of the heavens and earth of the world or ſtate of Iſrael: I am (ſaith he) the Lord thy God, who divided the ſea (to wit, the Red ſea) when the waters thereof roared; the Lord of Hoſts is his name: And put my Words (i. e. my Law) in thy mouth, and covered thee in the ſhadow of my hand, (i. e. protected thee in thy march to Canaan, &c.) that I might plant the Heavens, and lay the foundations of the Earth, (i. e. make thee a State, and build thee into a Political World) and ſay unto Sion, Thou art my people. Of ſuch a kind of heaven ſpeaks the ſame Prophet, chap. 34. 2, 4, 5. The indignation of the Lord is upon all Nations, and his fury upon all their Armies, &c. And all the hoſt of Heaven ſhall be diſſolved, and the Heavens ſhall be rolled together as a ſcroll; and all their hoſt ſhall fall down, as the leaf falleth off from the Vine, and as a falling figge from the figge-tree. For my ſword ſhall be bathed in Heaven: behold it ſhall come down upon Idumæa, &c. See the reſt, and know that this deſtruction of Edom is propheſied of in no leſs Hyperbolical a ſtrain by Obadiah, and Jeremy c. 49. from v. 7, to 22. Ezek. 35. tot. & 25. 12. which I note, leſt any man wondring at the Hyperbole of this of Eſay, ſhould think it appliable only to the Day of Judgment. And that ſuch Schemes as theſe were uſual to the Nations of the Orient, may appear not only by the Chymical Philoſophy derived thence, (which makes Heaven and Earth and Stars in every thing) but from the teſtimony of Moſes Maimonides, who (More Nebochim par. 2. c. 29.) affirms, that the Arabians in his time in their vulgar ſpeech, when they would expreſs that a man was fallen into ſome great calamity or adverſity, uſed to ſay, Cælum ejus ſuper terram ejus cecidit. No queſtion theſe ſchemes were as familiar to them as our Poets ſtrains and expreſſions are to us, though of another genius: Ours are borrowed from fables, ſtories, perſons, places; theirs were from the frame of the World, the Sun, Moon, Stars and Elements, &c.

Compare Lam. 2. 1.

If ſuch a notion of Cælum and Terra may have place in this place of Peter, (and why may he not, uttering a Prophecie, borrow a Prophetical ſtrain?) it may eaſily appear what Heaven and Earth the Fire at Chriſt's ſecond coming ſhall burn up and conſume, viz. the Heaven and Earth of the contained world, ſuch as thoſe which the former judgment by water overwhelmed and deſtroyed; the world of wicked ſtates and men, high ones and low ones, Princes and peaſants, man and beaſt; according to that twice-repeated paſſage, Iſa. 2. 11, 17. (which the ancient Jews interpreted of the day of Judgment,) The loftineſs of man ſhall be bowed down, and the haughtineſs of men ſhall be made low, and the Lord alone ſhall be exalted in that day: And the Idols (theſe are part of the hoſt of the Heaven we ſpeak of) he ſhall utterly aboliſh. And of ſuch Heavens and στοιχεῖα as theſe, it mattereth not though we underſtand an abſolute deſtruction, (viz. of ſo much as ſhall be burned) as was in the Deluge of Noah: and ſo likewiſe of the Earth and works thereof. But whereas by the univerſal Deluge, though only the Mundus contentus periſhed, yet nevertheleſs the Mundus continens was therewith corrupted and depraved; in the deſtruction by Fire it ſhall be otherwiſe; for the world of wicked ones being deſtroyed, the Heaven and Earth which contained them ſhall be purged and refined for the righteous to dwell therein. This Expoſition I put but in the ſecond place, becauſe where the proper ſenſe of the letter may be kept, I prefer it before any other.

To conclude, if any there yet be whom neither of the former expoſitions can ſatisfie, but will needs have the fire and burning here ſpoken of to be that whereby the World is to be utterly annihilated; I could anſwer, That the Day of Judgment is a thouſand years, and this Fire, though it be to be ὃν ἐκείνῃ ἡμέρᾳ, in that day, yet ſhall it not be in the beginning, but end thereof: The beginning being but a deſtruction of the enemies of Chriſt and the Kingdom of Satan, and then a reſtauration; the end, a deſtruction of the whole creature it ſelf by utter annihilation: and then S. Peter's words, ver. 13. to be conſtrued after this manner, That howſoever the Heavens and the Earth ſhall at length be diſſolved by fire, nevertheleſs before that ſhall be, we look for a New heaven and a New earth (i. e. a new world or reſtauration) to precede this abolition; according to his promiſe, Iſa. 65. 17. & 66. 22.

that

But ſuch an expoſition, methinks, would not ſuit ſo well with that which I take to be S. Peter's chiefeſt ſcope in this paſſage, nor with the words of the holy Prophets he pointeth at, which ſeem to ſpeak only of a Fire which ſhould precede a reſtauration, and not of that which ſhould cauſe an utter abolition of the world.

And as concerning ſuch an utter abolition of the whole frame of heaven and earth after the Oeconomy of the redemption and victory of Chriſt ſhall be finiſhed, it ſeemeth to me a myſtery which hath no bottom. Howſoever I am not perſwaded this place of S. Peter ſhould mean any ſuch thing. Thoſe paſſages, Job 14. 12. and Apoc. 20. 11. may ſeem to be of more moment. And if any ſuch annihilation ſhall be, it ſtands more with reaſon it ſhould be by the immediate power of God, without the inſtrument of any creature, then by Fire; and that he who at firſt brought it out of nothing without any creature's help, ſhould reduce it again to nothing without the help of any creature.

Δόξα τῷ Θεῷ παντοκράτορι.

A Collection of ſome paſſages in the ancient Fathers, ſhewing that by Στοιχεῖα are meant the Hoſt and Furniture of Heaven, &c.

IUSTINUS M. Apol. 1. pro Chriſtianis, ſtatim ab initio, Ὁ Θεὸς τὸν πάντα κόσμον ποιήσας, καὶ τὰ ὕδατα ἀνθρώποις ὑποτάξας, καὶ τὰ ἐρήνια ΣΤΟΙΧΕΙΑ εἰς αὔξησιν καρπῶν καὶ ὡρῶν μεταβολὰς [Sic leg. non μεταβολαῖς] κοσμήσας, &c. Interpres non intellexit.

Ità accipit THEODORETUS Στοιχεῖα ad Galat. cap. 4.

Apud THEOPHILUM Antiochenum Luminaria & Aſtra veniunt nomine Στοιχείων. Lib. 1.——Τῷ ἡλίῳ ἐλαχίστῳ ὄντι στοιχείῳ.——Et paulò pòſt——στοιχείων τὸν εὔτακτον δρόμον. Lib. 2. Τετάρτῃ ἡμέρᾳ ἐγένοντο φωστῆρες. Ἐπειδὰν ὁ Θεὸς προγνώσεις ὧν ἐποίησε τὰς φλυαρίας τῶν μεταιῶν φιλοσόφων, ὅτι ἔμελλον λέγειν ἀπὸ τῶν στοιχείων εἶναι τὰ ὅλα τῆς γῆς φυόμενα, &c. Ideo προηλθέστερα γέγονεν τὰ φυτὰ καὶ τὰ σπέρματα τῶν στοιχείων. Ibid.——Nec ſolùm idolorum cultum * Lex Divina inhibet, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῖς στοιχείοις, ἡλίῳ, σελήνῃ, ἢ τοῖς λοιποῖς ἄστροις προσκυνεῖν. Vide & quæ ſequuntur. * Reſpicit Deut. 4. 19. & 17. 3.

In Epiſtola POLYCRATIS (Epiſcopi Epheſini) apud Euſebium lib. 3. cap. 25. de obitu Philippi & Joannis.——Καὶ γὰρ καὶ ἐν τῇ τῶν Ἀσίαν μεγάλα μεγάλα Στοιχεῖα κεκοίμηται, ἅτινα ἀναστήσεται τῇ ἑβδόμῃ ἡμέρᾳ τῆς παρουσίας τοῦ Κυρίου——μεγάλα στοιχεῖα. Verte jam Magna luminaria.

AUTHOR Quæſtionum ad Antiochum inter opera Athanaſii, Quæſt. 37. (vel 16.) Solem στοιχεῖον nuncupat.——Ἐκ τοῦ λαμπροτέρου στοιχείου (Solem intelligit) τὸν πῦρ πάντων στοιχείων [ὑπέρλαμπρον] Θεὸν γεραίροντες.

De voce Elementi, vide CYPRIANUM in Exhort. ad Martyr. cap. 1.

F. M.

Of the FIRE at Chriſt's Second Coming.

An Extract of Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. N. E. relating to ſome Paſſages in this Treatiſe upon 2 Pet. 3.

2 Theſ. 1. 8. —CHriſt our Lord ſhall come, when the Beatum Millennium is to begin, ἐν πυρὶ φλογὸς, in flaming fire; by the Divine and miraculous efficacy whereof the World that now is ſhall be refined, and delivered from the bondage of corruption which came upon it for the ſin of Man.

This Fire of Chriſt's coming, and no other, was that Ignis purgatorius which ſome of thoſe firſt Fathers harped on: namely, they ſuppoſed this Divine Fire ſhould ſtretch even to the Souls of the dead; and that ſuch as had departed out of this life not fully purged of ſin by Repentance here, ſhould not be found Fire-proof at that day, but be refined cum mora & dolore before their reſurrection. See that of Cyprian Epiſt. 52. Aliud eſt ad veniam ſtare, aliud ad gloriam pervenire; aliud miſſum in carcerem non exire indè donec ſolvat noviſſimum quadrantem, aliud ſtatim fidei & virtutis accipere mercedem; aliud pro peccatis longo dolore cruciatum emundari & purgari diu igne, aliud pendere in Die Judicii ad ſententiam Domini, aliud ſtatim à Domino coronari. Compare that of Irenæus lib. 1. c. 2.——Chriſtum in ſuo de cœlis adventu τοῖς δικαίοις καὶ τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ τετηρηκόσι, τοῖς μὲν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, τοῖς δὲ ἐκ * μετανοίας ζωὴν χαρισάμενον δωρήσασθαι——This conceit ſure had its ground from that of Paul, 1 Cor. 3. 13. The day (viz. of Judgment) ſhall declare, [what is combuſtible in our works] becauſe it ſhall be revealed by fire; and the fire ſhall try every mans work, of what ſort it is: and upon that exhortation of Peter, 2 Pet. 3. 14. Yet did they, at leaſt ſome of them, expect another fire at the end of the thouſand years for the deſtruction of Gog and Magog, &c.——

* Μετάνοια hîc pro pœna poſita videtur, non virtute; quam pœnam in mora reſurrectionis conſtituit Tertul.

F. M.

Some

Some Excerpta out of the Fathers concerning the Renovation of the World.

Tertullianus lib. 3. adverſus Marcionem, cap. 24.

NAm & confitemur in terra nobis Regnum repromiſſum; ſed ante cælum, ſed alio ſtatu; utpote poſt Reſurrectionem in Mille annos, in civitate divini operis Hieruſalem cælo delata, quam & Apoſtolus Matrem noſtram ſurſum deſignat, & politeuma noſtrum, id eſt, municipatum, in cælis eſſe pronuncians, alicui utique cæleſti civitati eam deputat. Hanc & Ezechiel novit, & Apoſtolus Joannes vidit——Hanc dicimus excipiendis reſurrectione ſanctis, & refovendis omnium bonorum utique Spiritualium copiâ in compenſationem eorum quæ in ſeculo vel deſeximus vel amiſimus, à Deo proſpectam. Siquidem & juſtum & Deo dignum, illic quoque exſultare famulos ejus, ubi ſunt & afflicti in nomine ipſius. Hæc ratio Regni cæleſtis. [N. B. Sic vocat quod in terris futurum aſſerit, utpote de cœlo ſive cœlitus; vel in quo cœleſtis & Angelica vivetur vita.]

Poſt cujus Mille annos, intra quam ætatem concluditur ſanctorum Reſurrectio, pro meritis maturiùs vel tardiùs reſurgentium, tunc & mundi deſtructione & Judicii conflagratione commiſſâ, demutati in atomo in Angelicam ſubſtantiam, (ſcilicet per illud incorruptelæ ſuperindumentum) transferemur in cæleſte Regnum.——

In the Former of theſe teſtimonies we have Tertullian's authority for the applying of Ezekiel's Temple to the New Jeruſalem: In the latter, for the time of the world's conflagration and its deſtruction, Tertullian differs from the reſt, I am ſure from Irenæus. Unleſs by judicii conflagratio (Vide enim de Spectaculis c. 30.) he meaneth that of Gog and Magog, Apocal. 20. 9. But I think he doth not.

Idem, de Reſurrectione Carnis, cap. 25.

Etiam in [a] Apocalypſi Joannis ordo temporum ſternitur, quem Martyrum quoque animæ ſub altari ultionem & judicium flagitantes ſuſtinere didicerunt; ut priùs & orbis de [b] pateris Angelorum plagas ſuas ebibat, & proſtituta illa [c] Civitas à decem Regibus dignos exitus referat, & [d] beſtia Antichriſtus cum ſuo Pſeudopropheta certamen Eccleſiæ Dei inferat, atque ita Diabolo in [e] abyſſum interim relegato, Primæ Reſurrectionis prærogativa de ſoliis ordinetur; dehinc & igni dato, univerſalis Reſurrectionis cenſura de libris judicetur.

a Apocal. 6.
b Ap. 15. & 16.
c Ap. 17.
d Ap. 19.
e Ap. 20.

Idem, adverſus Hermogenem, cap. 11.

——Imò & judicium fruſtrà conſtituit Deus, in juſtitia utique puniturus, quibus contra malum finis, cùm præſes ejus Diabolus abierit in [a] ignem quem præparavit illi Deus & Angelis ejus, priùs in puteum abyſſi relegatus; cùm [b] Revelatio filiorum Dei redemerit conditionem (id eſt, creaturam) à malo, utique vanitati ſubjectam; cùm reſtitutâ innocentiâ & integritate conditionis [c] pecora condixerint beſtiis, & parvuli de ſerpentibus luſerint; cùm [d] Pater filio poſuerit inimicos ſub pedes, utique operarios mali.

a Ap. 20.
b Rom. 8.
c Iſa. 11.
d 1 Cor. 15.

Origenes contra Celſum, lib. 3.

Οὐκ ἀρνέμεθα τὸ καθάρσιον πῦρ, καὶ τὴν τῦ κόσμυ φθορὰν, ὅτι καθαιρίσει τ κακίας καὶ ἀνακαινώσεως τῦ παντός. Interpres hîc non bonâ fide egit.

Idem in Jerem. Hom. 13. Siquis ſervaverit lavacrum Spiritûs Sancti, (i. e. ut paulò antè innuerat, qui ſanctus eſt, neque poſt fidem & magiſterium Dei rurſum ad ſcelera converſus eſt, qui mortale peccatum non commiſerit) iſte in Reſurrectionis Primæ parte communicat. Siquis verò in ſecunda Reſurrectione ſervatur, iſte peccator eſt, qui ignis indiget baptiſmo, &c. [alludit ad illud Mat. 3. 11.] Quamobrem cùm talia poſt mortem nobis reſidere videamus, Scripturas diligenter ſimul recitantes reponamus eas in cordibus noſtris, & juxta earum vivere præcepta nitamur; ut ante exceſſionis diem (ſi fieri poteſt) peccatorum ſordibus [ſic vocat leviora peccata, ſeu paſſiones animæ, ut paulò antè] emundati, cum ſanctis valeamus aſſumi in Chriſto Jeſu, [an non reſpicit, 1 Theſ. 4. 16, 17 ?] cui eſt gloria & imperium in ſeculâ ſeculorum. Amen.

Quamvis non dubito quin Hieronymus (qui in Prol. ad Orig. homil. in Ezech. fatetur ſe vertiſſe 14 Origenis homilias in Jerem.) hîc Origenis ſententiam nonnihil immutando emolliverit; tamen ſatis adhuc remanet quo Origenes cum Millenariis ſenſiſſe arguatur.

Martyrio coronatus eſt ad extremum noviſſimæ perſecutionis; vel, ut alii, ſub Decio & Valeriano.* Petav.

* Methodius Olympi Lyciæ, deinde Tyri, Epiſcopus, in libro de Reſurrectione contra Origenem apud Epiphanium (Hæreſ. 74.) interloquente Procl.

Et verò Ταραχθήσεσθε τ κλίσιν, ὥσπερ τεθνηξομένοις καὶ τ ὀκπύρωσιν, ἵνα ἀνακλιθῇ, οὐ μὲν ἀπολεῖσθε παρὸ σοκπλέον, ὅπως οἱ ἀνακαινοποιηθέντες ἐν ἀνακαινοποιηθέντι κόσμῳ, ἄγυφτοι λύπης καὶ οἰκήσωμεν, &c.

F. M.

THE

THE APOSTASY OF THE LATTER TIMES;

OR THE GENTILES THEOLOGY OF DÆMONS

Revived in the LATTER TIMES amongst Christians, in Worshipping of Angels, Deifying and Invocating of Saints, Adoring of Reliques, Bowing down to Images and Crosses, &c.

All Which,
Together with the Original and Progress of this Grand Apostasy,
Are Represented
In several DISCOURSES upon 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2, &c.

Howbeit the Spirit speaketh expressely, That in the Latter times some shall revolt from the Faith, attending to erroneous Spirits and Doctrines of Dæmons, Through the hypocrisy of Liars, having seared consciences, Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats.

BY JOSEPH MEDE, B.D. sometime Fellow of Christ's College in Cambridge.

The Fourth Edition, enlarged and corrected in sundry places according to the Author's own Manuscript.

LONDON,
Printed for R. Royston, Book-seller to His most Sacred MAJESTY. MDCLXIII.

THE APOSTASY OF THE LATTER TIMES.

A Treatiſe on 1 Timothy Chap. 4. Verſe 1, 2, &c.

Τὸ δὲ Πνεῦμα ῥητῶς λέγει, ὅτι ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς ἀποστήσονταί τινες τῆς πίστεως, προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, καὶ διδασκαλίαις δαιμονίων, Ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, κεκαυτηριασμένων τὴν ἰδίαν συνείδησιν, Κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, &c.

Which I conceive may be thus Tranſlated,

Howbeit the Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly, That in the latter times ſome ſhall revolt from the Faith, attending to erroneous Spirits and * Doctrines of Dæmons,

Through the hypocriſie of Liars, having ſeared conſciences,

Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abſtain from meats, &c.

* Doctrinis Dæmonum.

CHAP. I.

The dependance of the Text upon the laſt verſe in the foregoing Chapter. Why in the Deſcription of the Myſtery of Godlineſs thoſe words [Aſſumed into Glory] are ſet laſt. A view of the ſeveral parts of the Text, containing the Method and Order of the inſuing Diſcourſe. The Author's 3 Reaſons for his rendring the Text differently from the Common Tranſlation.

THE WORDS I have read are a Prophecie of a Revolt of Chriſtians from the Great Myſterie of Chriſtian Worſhip, deſcribed in the laſt verſe of the former Chapter, which according to the diviſion of the Ancients ſhould be the firſt of this: For that laſt Verſe, together with the firſt ſix Verſes of this and half the ſeventh verſe, make the ſeventh Title or main Section of this Epiſtle, expreſſed in the Edition of Robert Stephen; and ſo are ſuppoſed, from the grounds of that diviſion, to belong all to one argument. The Words therefore of my Text depend upon the laſt of the former Chapter, as the ſecond part of a Diſcrete propoſition: That howſoever the Μυστήριον Εὐσεβείας the Myſtery of Chriſtian Religion, which is, God manifeſted in the Fleſh, juſtified in the Spirit, ſeen of Angels, and aſſumed into Glory; though this Myſtery was a great one, and at that time preached and believed in the world: Nevertheleſs the Spirit [τὸ δὲ Πνεῦμα] ſpeaketh expreſly, That in the latter times there ſhall be a revolt or departing from this Faith; though not in all parts of it, yet from a main and fundamental part thereof, namely, The aſſumption of this God and Man to the Throne of Glory and incommunicable Majeſty in Heaven, whereby he hath a

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Name given him above every Name, and whereof no creature in Heaven or in Earth can be capable. Which connexion is the reaſon why the Apoſtle putteth this Aſſumption into Glory in the laſt place of his deſcription, which ſhould elſe in the true order have followed the words juſtified in the Spirit, and been before preached unto the Gentiles and believed on in the world. But it is the * method of the Scripture ſometimes to tranſlate the proper order, and to mention that in the laſt place whereunto it is to joyn, and from whence it is to infer the next words that follow after. And unleſs this reaſon be allowed here, there will hardly be found any other reaſon of this miſplacing. But more of this ſhall be both ſpoken and made better to appear hereafter.

* See this proved in Chap. VII. of this Treatiſe.

I come now more near to my Text; the words whereof I divide into two parts: Firſt, A Deſcription of this ſolemn Apoſtaſie, in the firſt verſe, Secondly, The Manner or Means whereby it was to come to paſs, in the following verſes, viz. Through the hypocriſie of Liars, who had ſeared conſciences, forbade to marry, and (bade) to abſtain from meats.

1. For the Deſcription of the Apoſtaſie it ſelf, we ſhall finde it firſt Generally and Indefinitely expreſſed both in the word Ἀποστήσονται they ſhall apoſtatize or revolt, and in the next προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις ſhall attend to erroneous Doctrines, or Doctrines of errour. Then Particularly, 1. What theſe erroneous Doctrines ſhould be for the kind or quality; namely, new Doctrines of Dæmons, or a new Idolatry. 2. The Perſons who ſhould thus apoſtatize; not all, but TINE'Σ SOME. 3. The Time when it ſhould be; Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς In the latter times. 4. The Proof or warrant of this Prophecie; it is that which the Spirit hath elſe-where long agoe foretold ῥητῶς in the written word, verbatim, totidem verbis, or in expreſs words.

2. For the ſecond part, viz. The Means; Conſider 1. The Manner or Method uſed, viz. By lying hypocriſie or hypocriticall lying. 2. The quality and deſcription of the Authors and furtherers thereof, they ſhould be ſuch as had their conſciences ſeared, who forbade marriage and meats.

Where, before I goe any further, I muſt give an account of thus tranſlating theſe latter words which I make the ſecond part, becauſe they are commonly tranſlated otherwiſe, viz. intranſitively, as referring the words of the two laſt verſes to the perſons mentioned in the firſt, viz. thoſe Some who ſhould apoſtatize and give heed to erroneous ſpirits and Doctrines of Devils, as they uſually tranſlate it: So that the words of the ſecond and third verſes ſhould be the expreſſion by particulars of that which was before generally comprized under erroneous ſpirits and doctrines of Devils, which ſhould conſiſt partly in forbidding lawfull marriage, and partly in commanding abſtinence from meats.

But this interpretation ſeems very unlikely. For firſt, ſince S. Paul intendeth here to deſcribe that great Apoſtaſie of the viſible Chriſtian Church, as is evident by the pointing out of the time, Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς In the latter times; who can believe that he who aimeth at this would inſtance only in the ſmaller and almoſt circumſtantial Errours, omitting the main and fundamental, which the Scripture elſewhere telleth us ſhould be Idolatry or Spiritual fornication? Secondly, As for Errours about Marriage and Meats, they were not proper to the laſt times, but found more or leſs in the Apoſtles own times; as may be gathered by ſome paſſages of their Epiſtles: Why ſhould then our Apoſtle, here ſpeaking of the Apoſtaſie of the latter times, inſtance only in thoſe things which the firſt times in ſome meaſure were never free from? Laſtly, (which I take alone to be ſufficient) The Syntax of the words will not bear it to have them ſo tranſlated: For the perſons in the firſt verſe, τινὲς προσέχοντες, are expreſſed in caſu recto, whereas whereas the perſons in the verſes following, ψευδολόγων, κεκαυτηριασμένων, κωλυόντων, are in the genitive: now by what Syntax can theſe be conſtrued intranſitively? how will τινὲς, &c. agree with ψευδολόγων, &c. without breach of Grammar unſampled in our Apoſtle's Epiſtles? If any ſay, they may be referred then and agree with Δαιμονίων· that indeed would be a ſtrange ſenſe, and nothing to their purpoſe, to ſay that Devils lie, have ſeared conſciences, and forbid marriage and meats. But to conſtrue it tranſitively, and to make all theſe genitive caſes to be governed by Ἐν ὑποκρίσει, and take the prepoſition Ἐν to ſignifie * Cauſam or Modum actionis, as is moſt uſual in Scripture; this, as it keepeth the Syntax true, ſo I hope to make it appear hereafter to be the very meaning, and the Event moſt anſwerable thereunto, when you ſhall hear proved out of ſtory, That the Apoſtaſie of the viſible Church came in by lying wonders and all deceivableneſs of unrighteouſneſs, managed by thoſe who either profeſſed or doted upon Monaſticall hypocriſie; the affectation and errours whereof at length ſurpriſing the body of the Church, is that which S. Paul, 2 Theſſ. 2. 10. calls not the Apoſtaſie it ſelf, but A not-love of the Truth, for which God gave them over to ſtrong deluſions, that they might believe a lye. But this is out of * its place; only I have anticipated thus much, leſt you ſhould be too long in ſuſpence of the grounds of this novelty in tranſlating. And yet this difficulty concerning the Syntax hath ſtumbled many of our latter Interpreters, as amongſt others Beza, who ſolves it only by ſaying, That the Apoſtle more regarded the matter then the conſtruction; which for my part I cannot believe.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* Hyperius ſo expounds it in his Comm. on this Epiſtle.

* See this further treated of in Part 2. Chap. 1.

CHAP. II.

Ἀποστασία in the Scripture imports Revolt or Rebellion. That Idolatry is ſuch, proved from ſeveral paſſages in Scripture. By Spirits in the Text are meant Doctrines. Διδασκαλίαι Δαιμονίων are to be taken Paſſively, viz. for Doctrines concerning Dæmons. Several inſtances of the like form of ſpeech in Scripture.

I Return now unto the Firſt part of my Text, The Deſcription of that ſolemn Apoſtaſie; where I will conſider the five parts or points thereof as I have propounded them, though it be not according to the order of the words. And firſt in the more general expreſſion, as I called it, in the words Ἀποστήσονταί τινες πίστεως, & προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, Ἀποστήσονται is as much as to ſay, They ſhall make an Apoſtaſie: Now Ἀποστασία in the Scripture's uſe, when it looks towards a perſon, ſignifies a Revolt or Rebellion; when towards God, a ſpiritual Revolt from God or Rebellion againſt Divine Majeſty, whether Total, or by Idolatry and ſerving other Gods. For the Seventy, whence the New Teſtament borrows the uſe of ſpeech, uſually tranſlates by this word the verb סָרַר to rebell, and סֶרֶר Rebellion; both which when they have reference to a ſpiritual Sovereignty, mean nought elſe but Idolatry and ſerving of other Gods: as may appear, Joſuah 22. 19. where the Iſraelites ſuppoſing their brethren the Reubenites and Gadites, in building another Altar upon the banks of Jordan, had meant to have forſaken the Lord and ſerved other Gods, they ſaid unto them, תִּמְרְדוּ you have rebelled againſt the Lord, and preſently, Rebell not againſt the Lord, nor rebell againſt us; where the Seventy hath Ἀπὸ τοῦ Κυρίου μὴ ἀποστάται γενήσθε, καὶ ἀφ' ἡμῶν μὴ ἀποστῆτε· and in verſ. 22. מְרִי Rebellion is tranſlated Ἀποστασία, in the words, The Lord God of gods he knoweth if it be in rebellion or in tranſgreſſion againſt the Lord. Alſo Numb. 14. verſ. 9. when the people would have renounced the Lord upon the report of the Spies, Joſuah and Caleb ſpake unto them, ſaying, אַל תִּמְרְדוּ, Rebel ye not; where the Seventy hath ἀπὸ τοῦ Κυρίου μὴ ἀποστάται γίνεσθε, Be not Apoſtates from the Lord. So Nehem. 9. 26. in that repentant confeſſion which the Levites make of the Idolatry of their Nation, They were diſobedient, ſay they, וַיִּמְרְדוּ and rebelled againſt thee: where the Seventy hath ἠλλαξαν καὶ ἀπέστησαν ἀπὸ σοῦ. And Daniel in the like confeſſion, Chap. 9. verſ. 9. מָרַדְנוּ, the Seventy, ἀπέστημεν we have rebelled againſt him. So the Idolatry of Ahaz, 2 Chron. 28. and Chap. 29. is by the ſame Interpreters called ἀποστασία αὐτοῦ, and he ἀπέστη ἀποστάσει ἀπὸ τοῦ Κυρίου revolted greatly from the Lord.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

I will not trouble you with the places where מָרַד tranſlated ἀφίστημι is uſed for Treaſon and Rebellion againſt earthly Princes, which are many. It is ſufficient to gather from what we have quoted, That Apoſtaſie having reference to a Sovereignty and Lordſhip, betokens a withdrawing of ſervice and ſubjection there-from; which, if the Sovereignty and Majeſty be Divine, is done by * Idolatry and ſervice of other Gods, as well as if the Majeſty of the true God were renounced altogether. The uſe of the New Teſtament is anſwerable. Hebr. 3. 12. Take heed leſt there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, ἐν τῷ ἀποστῆναι in departing from the living God. And, which is more near to our purpoſe, S. Paul in his 2 Theſ. 2. 3. means no other thing in his Prophecie of the man of ſin by Ἀποστασία then Chriſtian Idolatry; Ἐὰν μὴ ἔλθῃ ἡ ἀποστασία (Syr. מרדותא) πρῶτον, Unleſs that Apoſtaſie come firſt, that is, Unleſs there be a breach of Allegiance and Faith given unto Chriſt, by Idolatry under Antichriſt. The like therefore I conclude to be intended in my Text by ἀποστήσονται τῆς πίστεως, namely, That in the latter times men ſhould break their Oath of fidelity to Chriſt that in and through him alone they ſhould approch and worſhip the Divine Majeſty. And ſo hath the uſe of the word Ἀποστασία taught us ſomething, or at leaſt it hath wrought an indefinite ſuſpicion of what ſhould befall Chriſtians in the latter times. Howſoever we are yet in ſuſpence whether this departing from Chriſt and the Myſtery of Godlineſs ſhould be Total, in not acknowledging him at all, or whether Heretical, in ſerving others beſides him. For the Jews we know, when they forſook the Lord moſt, yet did not forſake him altogether; but their Apoſtaſie was in not ſerving him only and alone, but others beſides him, as Calves, the Hoſt of Heaven, and Baalim.

* Hence the phraſe in Scripture Fornicari à Deo, To apoſtatize from God by ſpiritual fornication: vide Pſal. 73. Hoſ. 9. & ch. 4. Ezek. 23. See Concord. Kirch.

LET us therefore ſee if the next general words will afford us yet further information, viz. Προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις attending to erroneous ſpirits, or, as ſome reade, πνεύμασι πλάνης ſpirits of errour. It would be unprofitable and tedious to tell here of the diverſe uſe of this word Spirit in Scripture. Some take it in this place for Doctors of ſpiritual things, and ſo πνεύματα πλάνα, or, as ſome reade, πλάνης, ſhould be Doctors of errours.

טעותא & טעות i. e. πλάνη, Chaldæis & Targumiſtis eſt Idolum: & טעאן πλανᾶδες, eſt Idola colere & ſcortari. Rom. 1. 27. 2 Theſ. 2. 11. 2 Pet. 2. 18.

But I had rather take Spirits in this place for Doctrines themſelves; For ſo Divines obſerve it to be uſed, 1 Joh. 4. 1. μὴ παντὶ πνεύματι πιστεύετε, Believe not every ſpirit, i. e. every doctrine, ἀλλὰ δοκιμάζετε τὰ πνεύματα, but try the ſpirits, εἰ ἐκ τοῦ Θεοῦ ἐστιν, if they be of God; ὅτι πολλοὶ ψευδοπροφῆται ἐξεληλύθασιν εἰς τὸν κόσμον, becauſe many falſe Prophets are gone out into the world: and ſo onward in that Chapter, πνεῦμα τοῦ Ἀντιχρίστου the ſpirit of Antichriſt ſignifies the falſe doctrine of Antichriſt. So if this ſenſe be admitted, we are ſomething leſs in ſuſpence then we were, and may gueſs that this Revolt ſhould not be Total, but Heretical: For we ſhall not eaſily find the word Spirit to be otherwiſe uſed but either for the Doctrines or Doctors of Chriſtianity, or for Hereſies under the ſame. It ſeems therefore to be ſome revolt from Chriſt by Idolatry, even in thoſe who would ſeem to worſhip him.

ſenſe

But ſuppoſe it be ſo, yet ſtill are we in ſuſpence what theſe Erroneous and Idolatrous Doctrines might be: For Idolatry, as we may ſee in the Jewiſh Apoſtaſies, was of diverſe kinds, as worſhipping the Hoſt of Heaven, Baalims, and the Gentiles other things beſides them. But we ſhall not be long in doubt, the next words will clear the caſe, and tell us they ſhall be Διδασκαλίαι ΔΑΙΜΟΝΙΩΝ Doctrines of Dæmons: not which Dæmons or Devils are authors of (though that be true) as if the Genitive caſe were active; but Doctrines concerning Dæmons, the Genitive caſe Δαιμονίων being here to be taken paſſively for the object of theſe doctrines; as in Hebr. 6. 2. we have διδαχὴ βαπτισμῶν doctrines of Baptiſms, and doctrines of laying on of hands, of the reſurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgement, that is, doctrines about and concerning all theſe. And the ſame uſe may elſewhere be found even with the word Doctrine: as Acts 13. 12. διδαχὴ τοῦ Κυρίου the doctrine of the Lord, that is, concerning him. So Titus 2. 10. διδασκαλία τοῦ Σωτῆρος ἡμῶν Θεοῦ, the doctrine of God our Saviour. And Gal. 2. 20. we have πίστις τοῦ υἱοῦ τοῦ Θεοῦ, the * faith of the Son of God, that is, concerning him. Semblably in my Text, Διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων are Doctrines of Dæmons or Doctrinæ Deaſtrorum; that is, The Gentiles idolatrous Theology of Dæmons ſhould be revived among Chriſtians. For I take the word Δαιμόνιον or Δαίμων (for all is one) not in that worſt ſenſe (which no Author but the Scripture uſeth) but in the better or more indifferent ſenſe, as it was ſuppoſed and taken among the Theologiſts and Philoſophers of the Gentiles, and as it is alſo ſometimes taken in Scripture, as I ſhall ſhew in due time.

Διδασκαλία ματαίων. Jer. 10. 8.

* So πίστις τοῦ ὀνόματος αὐτοῦ Act. 3. 16. Phil. 3. 9. πίστις Χριστοῦ· and πίστις ἀληθείας 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. Conſider them.

CHAP. III.

Dæmons (according to the Theology of the Gentiles) were 1. for their Nature and Degree a middle ſort of Divine Powers between the Sovereign Gods and mortal Men. 2. For their Office they were ſuppoſed to be Mediators and Agents between the Celeſtial Gods and Men. This proved from Plato, Plutarch, Apuleius, Celſus in Origen, and S. Auſtin. The Doctrine of the Mediation of Dæmons glanced at and reproved by the Apoſtle, Coloſſ. 2. The diſtinction of Sovereign Gods and Dæmons proved out of the Old Teſtament, and elegantly alluded to in the New, 1 Cor. 8.

MEAN-while let us firſt ſee what the Gentiles and their Theologiſts underſtood by Dæmons: which when you have heard, I doubt not but you will confeſs the Deifying and worſhipping of Saints and Angels, with other parts of their Idolatry which doe this, to be as lively an image of the Doctrine of Dæmons as could poſſibly be expreſſed; and ſuch an one as whereby the Apoſtaſie of the latter times is as by a character diſtinguiſhed from from the Heresies, false doctrines and corruptions of all other times whatsoever.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Dæmons in the Gentiles Theology were Deastri or an inferiour sort of Deified Powers, as a middle between the Sovereign Gods and mortal men. So saies Plato in Symposio, Πᾶν τὸ Δαιμόνιον μεταξύ ἐστι Θεοῦ τε καὶ θνητοῦ. So say all the Platonists, and well-nigh all other Sects of Philosophers; I am sure the most do; for it is a very ancient doctrine, insomuch that Plutarch (De defectu Oraculorum) fetcheth this distinction between Θεοὶ, i. e. Sovereign Gods, and Dæmons, as far as the antiquity of Zoroaster: Ἐμοὶ δὲ δοκοῦσι πλείονας λῦσαι καὶ μείζονας ἀπορίας οἱ τὸ Δαιμόνων γένος ἐν μέσῳ θεῶν καὶ ἀνθρώπων, καὶ τρόπον τινὰ τὴν κοινωνίαν ἡμῶν συνάγον εἰς ταυτὸ καὶ συνάπτον ἐξευρόντες· εἴτε Μάγων τῶν τε περὶ Ζωροάστρην ὁ λόγος ἐστὶν, εἴτε Θρᾳκίων ἀπ' Ὀρφέως, εἶτ' Αἰγύπτιος, ἢ Φρύγιος, &c. They seem to me (saith he) to have solved great and difficult doubts, who have placed the Dæmons between the Gods and Men, and found out what in some sort uniteth and joyneth us with them: whether this be the doctrine of the Magi and Zoroaster, or the Thracian derived from Orpheus, or the Ægyptian, or Phrygian, &c. The Sovereign or Higheſt Gods, which amongst them were properly called Θεοὶ, were those whom they supposed to be in the Heavens, yea in the Sun, Moon and Stars; whence they called them Dii Superi, Dii Cœlestes, whom they affirmed to have neither beginning nor ending: as Apuleius speaks de Dæmonio Socratis, Immortales, sine ullo vel fine vel exordio, sed prorsus à retro æviterni. And because they dwelt in the heavenly Lights, as it were Souls in Bodies, Plato thinks the name Θεοὶ first came quasi ἀεὶ ἰόντα δρόμῳ καὶ θέοντα, of the everlasting running and unceſſant motion of the heavenly bodies: Plat. in Cratylo.

Now these Sovereign and Celestial Gods they supposed so sublime and pure, as might not be prophaned with approch of earthly things, or with the care and managing of mortal mens busineſſes; and therefore they bring in that Middle sort of Divine Powers which they call Δαίμονες or Δαιμόνια, Dæmons, to be as Mediatours and Agents between the Sovereign Gods and mortal men. Thus saith Plato in his Sympoſium, Θεὸς ἀνθρώπῳ οὐ μίγνυται, ἀλλὰ διὰ Δαιμονίων πᾶσά ἐστιν ἡ ὁμιλία καὶ ἡ διάλεκτος Θεοῖς πρὸς ἀνθρώπους· God is not approched by men, but all the commerce and intercourſe between Gods and men is performed by the mediations of Dæmons. Will you see the particulars? Τὸ Δαιμόνιόν (saith he) ἐστιν ἑρμηνεῦον καὶ διαπορθμεῦον θεοῖς τὰ παρ' ἀνθρώπων, καὶ ἀνθρώποις τὰ παρὰ θεῶν, τῇ μὲν τὰς δεήσεις καὶ θυσίας, τῇ δὲ τὰς ἐπιτάξεις καὶ ἀμοιβὰς τῶν θυσιῶν· Dæmons are reporters and carriers from men to the Gods, and again from the Gods to men; of the ſupplications and prayers of the one, and of the injunctions and rewards of devotion from the other. And Apuleius in the place fore-quoted describes them, Mediæ potestates, per quas & desideria noſtra & merita ad Deos commeant; inter terricolas cœlicoláſque vectores, hinc precum, indè donorum; qui ultro citróque portant, hinc petitiones, indè ſuppetias: ſeu quidam utrinque interpretes & ſalutigeri; Dæmons are middle Powers, by whom both our deſires and merits paſs unto the Gods; they are carriers between men on earth and the Gods in heaven, hence of prayers, thence of gifts; they bring to and fro, hence petitions, thence ſupplies: or they are certain interpreters on both ſides and bearers of ſalutations. For, saith he, Neque enim pro majeſtate Deûm Cœleſtium fuerit hæc curare, It beſeems not the majeſty of the Sovereign Gods to manage theſe things of themſelves. Whence it is that Celſus in Origen terms his Dæmons ταξιάρχας τοῦ ὅλου παντὸς Θεοῦ, καὶ ὑπάρχους, καὶ στρατηγοὺς, καὶ ὑπηρέτας, &c. l. 8. contra Celſum, pag. 940. The Peers, Preſidents, Lieutenants and Officers of the moſt high God; who being neglected can doe as much much hurt as the Peers and Officers of the Perſian or Roman Kings. Where note by the way, that Celſus, as ſome others did, acknowledges but one Sovereign God. The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

By reaſon of this Office of mediation, Plutarch (in his De defect. Orac.) calls the Order of Dæmons ἡ ἑρμηνευτικὴν καὶ διακονικὴν φύσιν, alſo ὑπηρέτας καὶ γραμματεῖς, ὄπιστόπους ἱερῶν καὶ μυστηρίων, &c. agreeable to the doctrine of Plato, the Order of Agents and Miniſters, &c. To ſtay no longer here, take the Summe of all in the words of Apuleius in the Book forenamed: Cuncta Cæleſtium voluntate, numine & authoritate fiunt, ſed Dæmonum obſequio, operâ & miniſterio; All things are done by the will, power and authority of the Celeſtial Gods; but withall by the ſervice and miniſtery of the Dæmons. And if I ſhould bring all which I might to this purpoſe, I ſhould be too tedious. Porphyrius in Euſebius, and Plutarch, skilful men in this kind of Philoſophy, will ſatisfie them fully to whom this is not ſufficient. This was the Oecumenical Philoſophy of the Apoſtles times and of the times long before them. Thales, Pythagoras, all the Academicks and Stoicks, and not many to be excepted, unleſs the Epicures, taught this Divinity. He that had rather reade a Father of the Church, let him but turn over the eighth and ninth Books of S. Auſtin de Civ. Dei: the eighteenth Chapter of the former Book having this Title, Qualis ſit Religio in qua docetur quòd homines, ut commendentur Diis, bonis Dæmonibus uti debeant Advocatis; What a Religion is it that teacheth men to uſe good Dæmons for their Advocates to commend them to the Gods? the one and twentieth Chapter this, An Dæmonibus nuntiis & interpretibus Dii utantur; Whether the Gods do uſe Dæmons for their meſſengers and Interpreters. And of the ninth Chapter of the ninth Book the Title is this, An amicitia Cæleſtium Deorum per interceſſionem Dæmonum poſſit homini provideri; Whether the friendſhip and favour of the Celeſtial Gods may be procured men by the interceſſion of Dæmons: and of the ſeventeenth Chapter this, Ad conſequendam vitam beatam non tali mediatore indigere hominem qualis eſt Dæmon, ſed tali qualis eſt unus Chriſtus; To the attaining of a bleſſed life, man hath no need of a Dæmon for his mediator, but of Chriſt alone. The reading of which Titles alone were ſufficient to ſhew what was the ſuppoſed Office of the Dæmons among the Gentiles.

This Philoſophy therefore ſo general was that, without doubt, whereof S. Paul admoniſheth the Coloſſians to take heed leſt they were ſpoiled with the vain deceit thereof, as being after the traditions of men, and rudiments of the world, and not after Chriſt. 2 Col. 8. For ſome Chriſtians even then under a pretence of humility, of not approching too nearly and too boldly to God, would have brought in the worſhipping of Angels in ſtead of this of Dæmons: but S. Paul tells them, That as in Chriſt dwelleth the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily, Verſ. 9. ſo that he needed no collegues of mediation; ſo alſo were they compleat in him, and needed therefore no Agents beſides him. Let no man therefore (ſaith he) beguile you of your reward through humility, and worſhipping of Angels, intruding into thoſe things which he hath not ſeen, and not holding the head, &c. Verſ. 18.

Neither is the Holy Scripture ignorant of this diſtinction of Sovereign Gods and Dæmons: The firſt whereof, the Celeſtial and Sovereign Gods, whether viſible or inviſible, it calls צבא השמים the Hoſt of heaven; the other ſort it ſtyleth by the name of Baalim, that is, Domini or Lords. And Manaſſeh that King of Idolaters was compleat for both of them: So we reade 2 Chron. 33. 3. that he reared up Altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worſhipped all the Hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them. And 2 King. 23. 5. that good Joſiah is ſaid to have put down the Idolatrous Prieſts

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Priests which burnt incense to Baal, to the Sun, and to the Moon, and to the Planets, and to all the Host of heaven. And 2 Kings 17. 16. the Israelites are said to have worshipped all the Host of heaven, and to have served Baal. Now that these Baalims were no other then Dæmon-gods appears by their* cutting and launcing themselves, who worshipped them, 1 King. 18. For these Tragick ceremonies are counted by those who treat about these mysteries as certain characters of Dæmons. But this you shall have further confirmed in due place, where the arguments may be better understood.

* For cutting and launcing were Funeral rites, as appears Levit. 21. 5. and chap. 19. 28. and Deut. 14. 1. Jer. 48, 37. and chapt. 16. 6. and therefore retained in this Funeral worship (as they call it) of those that were Deified after death. Quare, Did not God forbid his people this Rite, because abused to Dæmon-Idolatry? yet did some transgress it, as Jer. 41. 5. Moses, body therefore hidden. I may adde to this observation, That for this cause the Scripture calls those false Gods, עֲצַבִּים, which signifies as it were Θεοὶ ἀλυπήτοι Such as had been sorrowed for, such as were mourned for as being dead. (The word עָצַב is used of David's mourning for Absalom.) Quare, whether עֲצַבִּים signifies so properly the Images, as the supposed Gods themselves. See Psal. 106. 36, 37. where עֲצַבִּים are explained to be שֵׁדִים Devils. See Esay 48. 5. where עָצַב is distinguished from graven and molten-Images. Where the word seems otherwise, it may be taken Metonymicè. Hence Hosea 13. 2. may be thus interpreted, They have made molten Images of their silver, which are according to their understanding, עֲצַבִּים, informed, as they supposed, with those mourned-for-ones.

That these Baalim were the Deified souls of the dead, is manifest from divers places of Scripture. Numb. 25. 2, 3. The Midianites called the people to the sacrifices of their Gods, and the people did eat. And Israel joyned himself to Baal-Peor. But Psal. 106 28. it is said, They joyned themselves unto Baal-Peor, and ate the sacrifices of the dead. Deut. 32. 17. In the prophetical Song of Israel's Apostasie, They sacrificed unto Dæmons, not to God; to Gods whom they knew not, to new ones that came newly up, whom their Fathers feared not. The Seventy Δαιμονίοις. Heb. לַשֵּׁדִים. Vide Isai. 65 4. Idololatræ in sepulchris. Item. cap. 8. vers. 19. Pro vivis ad mortuos. Loc. Isa. 8. 19. Targ. vertit, Nonne hæc via est populorum colentium Idola? Unusquisq; populus ab Idolo suo requirit, vivi à mortuis. LXX sic; ἢ οὐκ ἔστιν θεὸς ἀντὶ θεοῦ ἐκζητῆσαι; τί ἐκζητήσουσι περὶ τῶν ζώντων τοὺς νεκρούς; Loc. Isa 65. 3, 4. Targ. sic; In hortis sacrificant Idolis, & olent aromata super lateres. 4. Qui habitant in domibus quæ ædificantur de pulvere sepulchrorum, & cum cadaveribus filiorum hominum morantur. LXX, αὐτοὶ θυσιάζουσιν ἐν κήποις, καὶ θυμιῶσιν ἐπὶ τοῖς πλίνθοις τοῖς Δαιμονίοις ἃ οὐκ ἔστι. Ἐν τοῖς μνήμασι καὶ ἐν τοῖς σπηλαίοις κοιμῶνται διὰ ἐνύπνια. Videatur etiam Isa. 26. 14. Targum in locum. Multa huc adduci possunt de Gigantibus רְפָאִים, quorum Moses meminit. Quin & Hieronymus in hunc locum Isaiæ, per Dominos alienos in vers. 13. intelligit Idola & falsos Deos; per Gigantes & mortuos in vers. 14. Simulachra ipsique assistentes Dæmones.

This distinction also of Sovereign Gods and Dæmons I suppose our Apostle alludes to 1 Cor. 8. 5, 6. where he saith, Though there be that are called Gods, whether in heaven or in earth; as there be Θεοὶ πολλοὶ Gods many, (that is, Dii Cœlestes, Sovereign Deities) καὶ κύριοι πολλοὶ and Lords many, (that is, Δαίμονες ἔγχθονιοι, Dæmons Presidents of earthly things:) Yet to us Christians there is but εἷς Θεὸς one Sovereign God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we to him, (that is, to whom, as Supreme, we are to direct all our services;) and but εἷς Κύριος one Lord Jesus Christ, (in stead of their many Mediators and Dæmons,) δι' οὗ τὰ πάντα, καὶ ἡμεῖς δι' αὐτοῦ, by whom are all things which come from the Father to us, and through whom alone we find access unto him. The allusion, methinks, is passing elegant, and such as I think cannot be well understood without this distinction of Superiour and Inferiour Deities in the Theology of the Gentiles; they having a plurality in both sorts, and we Christians but one in each, as our Apostle affirmeth. There wants but onely the name of Dæmons, in stead of which the Apostle puts Lords, and that for the honour of Christ, of whom he was to infer εἷς Κύριος one Lord, the Name of Christ being not to be polluted with the appellation of an Idol: for his Apodosis must have been otherwise εἷς Δαίμων, one Dæmon. Or it may be he alludes unto the Hebrew name Baalim, which signifies Lords; and those Lords, as I told you, were nothing else but Dæmons: For thus would S. Paul speak in the Hebrew tongue, There are אֱלֹהִים רַבִּים and בְּעָלִים רַבִּים, many Gods and many Lords.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

The Gentiles Doctrine concerning the Original of Dæmons, viz. That they were the Souls of men Deified or Canonized after death. This proved out of Hesiod, Plato, Trismegist, Philo Byblius the translator of Sanchuniathon, Plutarch, Tully. Baal or Bel or Belus the first Deified King: Hence Dæmons are called in Scripture Baalim. Dæmons and Heroes how they differ. Dæmons called by the Romans Penates, Lares, as also Dii Animales Soul-Gods. Another and an higher kind of Dæmons, such as never dwelt in Bodies: These answer to Angels, as the other (viz. the Soul-Dæmons) answer to Saints.

AND thus have I shewed you (though but briefly, in regard of the abundance the argument would afford) the Nature and Office of these Dæmons according to the Doctrine of the Gentiles. I come now unto another part of this Doctrine, which concerns the Original of Dæmons, whom you shall finde to be the Deified Souls of men after death. For the Canonizing of the Souls of deceased Worthies is not now first devised among Christians, but was an Idolatrous trick even from the days of the elder world; so that the Devil, when he brought in this Apostatical doctrine amongst Christians, swerved but little from his ancient method of seducing mankind.

Idololatria parentationis est species. Tertul. de Spectaculis, cap. 12.

Let Hesiod speak in the first place, as being of the most known the most ancient. He tells us that when those happie men of the First and Golden age of the world were departed this life, great Jupiter promoted them to be Dæmons, that is, Keepers and Protectors or Patrons of earthly mortals, and Overseers of their good and evil works, Givers of riches, &c. and this, saith he, is the Kingly Royalty given them. But hear his own words;

Αὐτὰρ ἐπεὶ τὸ μὲν τόδε γένος κατὰ γαῖα κάλυψεν,
Τοὶ μὲν ΔΑΙΜΟΝΕΣ ἐσθλοὶ Διὸς μεγάλου διὰ βουλὰς,
Ἐσθλοὶ, ὀπιχθόνιοι, φύλακες θνητῶν ἀνθρώπων,
Οἱ ῥα φυλάσσουσί δίκας καὶ ἐργα κακὰ,
Ἠέρα ἑσσάμενοι, πάντη φοιτῶντες ἐπ' αἶαν,
Πλουτοδόται· καὶ τὸ γέρας Βασιλήϊον ἔσχον.

And hence it is that Oenomaus, quoted by Eusebius, calleth these Dæmongods Ἡσιόδειοι θεοὶ Hesiod's gods.

The next shall be Plato, who in his Cratylus sayes, That Hesiod and a great number of the rest of the Poets speak excellently, when they affirm that Good men when they die attain great honour and dignity, and become Δαίμονες, which is (saith he) as much to say as Δαήμονες καὶ φρόνιμοι, that is, Wise ones; for Wise ones (saith he) are only Good ones, and all Good ones are of Hesiod's Golden generation.

The same Plato Lib. 5. de Repub. would have all those who die valiantly in the field to be accounted of the Golden kind, and Δαίμονας effici, to be made Dæmons, and the Oracle to be consulted how they should be buried and honoured, and accordingly ever afterwards ὡς δαιμόνων ὕπο θεραπευομὲν τε καὶ περισυνήσομεν αὐτῶν τὰς ταφὰς, i. e. their Sepulchres to be served and adored as the Sepulchres of Dæmons. In like manner should be done unto all who in their life-time excelled in vertue, whether they died through age or otherwise. This place Eusebius quotes (Lib. 13. Præp. Evang.) to parallel with it the then harmless practice of Christians, in honouring the memory of Martyrs, by holding their assemblies at their Sepulchres; to the end that he might shew the Gentiles, that Christians also honoured their Worthies in the worthiest fashion. But it had been well if in the next Ages after, this custome of Christians (then but resembling) had not proved the very same Doctrine of Dæmons which the Gentiles practised.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

But I goe on, and my next Author shall be Hermes Trismegistus, whose antiquity is said to be very near the time of Moses. I will translate you his words out of his Asclepius which Apuleius made Latine. There having named Æsculapius, Osiris, and his Grandfather Hermes, who were (as he saith) worshipped for Dæmons in his own time, he addes further, That the Ægyptians call them (namely the Dæmons) Sancta animalia, and that amongst them (namely the Ægyptians) per singulas Civitates coli eorum animas, quorum sunt consecratæ virtutes, Through every city their Souls are worshipped, whose Vertues are deified. And here note by the way, that some are of opinion that the Ægyptian Serapis, whose Idol had a bushel upon his head, was Joseph, whose Soul the Ægyptians had canonized for a Dæmon after his death.

Philo Byblius, the translator of Sanchuniathon that ancient Phœnician Historian, who lived before the times of Troy, and wrote the Acts of Moses and the Jews (saith Eusebius) very agreeably to the Scripture, and (saith he) learned his Story of Jerom-baal a Priest of the God JEVO; Philo Byblius (I say) in a Preface to his Translation of this Author, setteth down what he had observed and learned out of the same Story, and might serve to help their understanding who should reade it: namely, That all the Barbarians, chiefly the Phœnicians and Ægyptians, of whom the rest had it, accounted of those for Dii Maximi, who had found out any thing profitable for the life of men, or had deserved well of any Nation; and that they worshipped these as Gods, erecting Statues, Images and Temples unto them. And more especially they gave the Names of their Kings (as to the Elements of the world, so also) to these their reputed Gods: for they esteemed the natural Deities of the Sun, Moon and Planets, and those which are in these, to be only and properly Gods: so that they had two sorts of Gods; some were Immortals, and others were Mortals.

Præpar. Evang. lib. 1. cap. 9.

Thus saith Philo Byblius out of the Phœnician History. From which Testimony we may borrow some more light concerning those Baalims in Scripture. * For Baal or Belus, whose worship Jezabel, the daughter of Ithobaal King of Tyre, brought into Israel, was a deified Phœnician King of that name, as Virgil will tell us in that verse concerning the Phœnician Queen Dido,

Implevítque mero pateram, quam Belus & omnes
A Belo soliti ———

* Hieron. in cap. 23. Ezech. Idolum autem Baal sive Bel, Assyriorũ religio est, consecrata à Nino Beli filio in honorem patris. Idem in Hos. cap. 2. Ninus in tantum pervenit gloriam, ut patrem suum Belum referret in Deum, qui Hebraicè dicitur בֵּל, & in multis Prophetis, maximéque in Daniele; & juxta Theodotionem sub Idolo Babylonis hoc appellatur nomine: Hunc Sidonii & Phœnices appellant בַּעַל.

Nay Baal, or in the Chaldee Dialect Bel, (for all is one) was the first King of Babel after Nimrod; and the first * (as is written) that ever was deified and reputed a God after death; whence afterward they called all other Dæmons Baalim: even as because the first Roman Emperour was called called Cæsar, thence were all the Emperours after him styled Cæsares. And it may be this is part of that which Philo Byblius out of Sanchuniathon would tell us; That the Barbarians, especially the Phœnicians, &c. gave names from their Kings to such as were canonized after death: For so we see here that the Babylonians, and the neighbouring Countries, which spake the Hebrew tongue or some Dialect thereof, called all Dæmons Baalim, of the first Dæmon or deified King in the world, Baal or Belus. For at that time when Belus reigned in Babel, was Phœnicia with the neighbour people under the Kingdom of Babel: Whence may seem also to have come their community of language and ceremonies. And here note a wonderfull mystery, That old Babel, the first Pattern in the world of ambitious Dominion, was also the Foundress of Idols *, and the Mother of the fornication and abominations of the earth.

* Eusebii Chron. Chronicon Alexandrin. seu Fasti Siculi. Hieron. paulò post locum proximè citatum; Didicimus, inquit, exordium Dæmonis, imò Hominis in Dæmonem consecrati: Omnia enim Idola ex mortuorum errore creverunt. Idem in c. 46. Isa. Quem (i. e. Baal) Græci Belum, Latini Saturnum dicunt; cujus tanta fuit apud veteres religio, ut ei non solùm humanas hostias captivorum ignobiliúmque mortalium, sed & suos liberos immolarent. Cyrillus contra Julianum Lib. 3. versus finem, Primus (inquit) regnavit in Assyriorum terra [ἀνὴρ ἀλάζων καὶ ὑπέροφρυς ἄρα Βῆλος] vir superbus & arrogans Belus, qui & primus hominum dicitur à subditis nomen Deitatis accepisse: Hîc interpres vitiosè transfert Arbelus; & ubi mox sequitur, ἔστι Βῆλος γέγονεν ὁ Νῖνος, Interpres, Arbeli, &c. Lactant. De fals. Relig. c. 23. & ult. originem Idololatriæ ad Belum refert.

* Jer. 50. 38. Isa. 47. 12.

And because we have fallen upon the naming of Dæmons, let us observe another mystery of names, out of Plutarch (De defect. Orac.) which may help us out of, or prevent some difficulties, namely, That Dæmons are sometimes called by the names of those Celestial Gods whose Ministers and Proctors they are, and from whom they receive their power and Divinity: as Apollo's Dæmon, Apollo; Jupiter's Dæmon, Jupiter; and so the rest: ὥ γὰ ἕκας Θ. θεῷ συντετυχῆαι, καὶ παρ' ἕ δυνάμεως καὶ τιμῆς ἔιληχεν, ἀπὸ τύτυ φιλεῖ καλεῖδαι· Like as here among us men, one is called Jovius from Jupiter, another Athenæus from Ἀθηνᾶ, i. Minerva, another Dionysius from Διόνυσ Θ., i. Bacchus, &c. Thus Plutarch; which Cleombrotus there saith he learned of a wonderfull and profound Ægyptian Eremite, who lived about the red Sea, &c. To which is agreeable what Eusebius, Præpar. Evang. lib. 3. cap. 3. quotes out of Diodorus, viz. That the Ægyptians affirmed such as had been great Benefactors where they lived, to be Deified after their death, and some of them ὁμωνύμως ὑπάρχειν τοῖς θεαυίοις, to be called by the very names of the Celestial Gods.

The same Plutarch in the same place doth acquaint us with this pretty conceit, which being to the purpose I will not omit; namely, That the Souls of men took degrees after death: First they commenced Heroes, who were as Probationers to a Dæmonship; then after a time sufficient, Dæmons; and after that, if they deserved well, to a more sublime degree. Howsoever it be, Dæmons and Heroes differed but in more and less antiquity; the more ancient Heroes being called Dæmons, and the younger Dæmons Heroes.

But that we may return again more close to the matter in hand, This order of Dæmons, or * Soul-gods, as I may call them, found place in the Religion of the elder Romans, who called them Penates, * Lares, and Manii Dii; and when once they began to Canonize their deceased Emperours, (which was from the time of Augustus) they called them Divi, which word before that time was more general. Tully in his second Book De Legibus shall be my witness, that his countrey-men acknowledged this distinction of Sovereign Gods and Soul-deified powers; for there you shall finde this Law, Divos, & eos qui Cœlestes semper habiti, colunto: & ollos quos in cœlum merita vocaverint; Let them worship the Gods; both those who were ever accounted Celestial, and those whom their own merits have advanced to heaven. And again, Deorum Manium jura sancta sunto. Hos letho datos Divos habento; Let the Rights of separate Souls be kept unviolable, and let them account the deceased Worthies as Gods. Would God the present Christian Romans had not renewed this Law.

* Dii Animales; de quibus Labeo libros scripserat, in quibus aiebat (verba Servii in Æn. l. 3.) esse quadam sacra quibus Animæ vertantur in Deas, qui appellantur Animales, quòd de Animabus fiant.

* Vid. Lex. Martin. verbo Lar, & quæ habet ex Varrone.

Yea so strongly was this Doctrine embraced amongst the Gentiles, that some of their latter Theologists thought, That even the Souls of wicked men and Tyrants had a power after death, and that of these came mali Dæmones, which hurt men; and yet to these they ordained Temples, and Sacrifices to keep them from hurting them, as well as to the good Dæmons for helping them. But the Ancients gave this honour to the Souls of vertuous men only.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Thus have you heard the Original of Dæmons according to the ancient and general opinion of the Gentiles. But besides these Dæmons, whose Original you have heard, (I mean besides Soul-Dæmons and Canonized mortals) their Theologists bring in another kind of Dæmons more high and sublime, * which never had been the Souls of men, nor ever were linkt to a mortal body, but were from the beginning, or without beginning, always the same. So Apuleius tells us in his De Deo Socratis; Est & superius aliud augustiúsque Dæmonum genus, qui semper à corporis compedibus & nexibus liberi, certis potestatibus procurentur. Ex hac sublimiori Dæmonum copia autumat Plato singulis hominibus in vita agenda testes & custodes singulos additos. This sort of Dæmons doth fitly answer and parallel that sort of spiritual Powers which we call Angels, as the former of Soul-Dæmons doth those which with us are called Saints.

* Plutarch. de defect. Orac. in the person of Ammonius the Philosopher, makes two sorts of Dæmons, αἱ διακριθεῖσαι σώματος, ἢ μὴ μεταλαχοῦσαι τὸ παράπαν ψυχαὶ, Souls separate from Bodies, or such as never dwelt in Bodies at all. Though both these sorts have the name of Dæmons given them in common, yet are those which were the Souls of men otherwhile for distinction sake called Heroes, (Plutarch. de Plac. Philos. Lib. 1. cap. 8.) though some extend not this name in general to all, but only to such as are either of an inferiour rank, or but Novices, not yet promoted to the Office of Dæmons, as Punies not yet called to the Barre.

CHAP. V.

The manner and way of worshipping the Dæmons and retaining their presence, viz. by consecrated Images and Pillars. That Images were as Bodies for Dæmons to animate and dwell in. The worshipping of Images and Columns a piece of the Doctrine of Dæmons. This proved out of Trismegist, Porphyry, Arnobius, Minutius Felix, &c. The worshipping of Dæmons in their Reliques, Shrines and Sepulchres another piece of Dæmon-doctrine. That the Gentiles Temples were nothing but the Sepulchres of dead men. The gross Idolatry of the Ægyptians.

BUT lest I might seem to have no measure in raking up this Ethnical dunghill, I will now leave the Theologie of the Original of Dæmons, and shew you yet another piece of that Doctrine, namely, Concerning the manner how Dæmons were to be worshipped, and as it were brought to the lure of men, when they had occasion of devotion with them: And this was done by sacring of * Images. This you shall hear from an ancient Author and passing skilfull in the mysteries, even Hermes Trismegistus, who in his Asclepius speaketh, in English thus; It is a wonder (saith he) beyond all wonders, (and he saith truly) that man should finde out a way to make Gods: Yet because (saith he) our Forefathers erred much through unbelief concerning Deities, and had small regard of Religion and Divine worship; therefore they devised an art to make Gods, (he meaneth Images:) And because they could not make Souls, (he means to these senseless bodies) therefore they called the Souls of Dæmons and Angels, and put them into their Images and holy Mysteries; by which means alone these Images have power of helping and hurting; which thus incorporated (he saith) are called by the Ægyptians Animalia sancta. And in another place, That kind of Gods (saith he) which men men make, is composed of two natures, of a Divine, (which is first and more sacred) and of that which is amongst men, namely, the matter whereof they are made. The summe of all this Mystery is, That Images were made as Bodies, to be informed with Dæmons as with Souls: For an Image was as a Trap to catch Dæmons, and a device to tie them to a place, and to keep them from flitting.

* Vid. Athanag. Legat. pro Christ. Non desunt qui dicunt μὴ εἶναί τι ἕτερον τρόπον τοῖς θεοῖς ἢ τοῦτον θεοσεβεῖν, non alio modo homines convenire Deos posse, scil. quàm per Simulacra.

The like hath * Eusebius out of Porphyrie, That the Gods did exceedingly delight in consecrated Images, and were circumscribed and enclosed therein as in a sacred place; ἡ ἀφαίρεσις, λέγουσι τὸ κρατοῦν δεῖ γὰρ τὸ θεῖον, and the Image being taken away, that is dissolved which detained the Deity upon earth. This is that which Psellus calleth περιαγίσεις δαιμονίων, the Approchings or Presencings of Dæmons. And Iamblichus termeth these consecrated Idols Ἀγάλματα θείας μετουσίας ἀνάπλεα, Images filled with divine fellowship or with divine society. And our forementioned Hermes calleth them Statuas animatas, sensu & spiritu plenas, animated Statues, full of sense and spirit.

Hence came that answer or defence of the Gentiles, as Arnobius (Lib. 6. adversus Gent.) makes them speak, Neque nos ara, neque auri argentique materias, neque alias quibus signa confiunt, eas esse per se Deos & religiosa decernimus numina; sed eos in his colimus, eósque veneramur quos dedicatio infert sacra, & fabrilibus efficit habitare simulachris: We do not think brass and gold and silver and other materials of Images to be of themselves Gods and holy Powers; but in these we worship and reverence the Gods brought into these Images by sacred dedication, and keeping their residence there. And in another place he makes this Objection for their behalf; An numquid dicitis fortè præsentiam vobis quandam sub his numinum exhiberi simulachris; & quia Deos videri non datum est, eos ità coli, & iis munia officiosa præstari? But you say, perhaps, the Deities present themselves unto you in some sort under these Images; and because the Gods cannot be seen, they are thus worshipped, and have religious service done unto them.

And thus have we seen the ground of the Idolatrous use of Images, and found that the Worship of them also is a Doctrine of Dæmons: For as at first they were ordained for Dæmons; so whatsoever Deity is worshipped in this manner, though it were the true and Sovereign God, is thereby made a Dæmon.

What I say of Images, must be understood also of Pillars or Columns, whereof we reade Levit. 26. 1. Ye shall make no Idols, nor graven Images, nor rear you up a Pillar to bow down unto it. For howsoever Pillars and Images, through some confusion at length surprising the Gentiles superstition, may afterwards seem to be ascribed to other Deities besides Dæmons; yet by original institution they were proper unto Dæmons, and no other. The Sovereign and Celestial Gods, they were worshipped in the Sun, Moon and Stars, where they were supposed to dwell: But Images and Columns were for Dæmons; and if they seemed to be made for any other, Plutarch's Eremite would resolve us, that they were but Dæmons called by the name of some Sovereign Gods whose Agents they were. The truth of this the History of the beginning of Idolatry by Images makes evident. For that Images and Pillars were at first devised and erected to the Honour and Memory of dead men *, this the fourteenth Chapter of the Book of Wisdom will tell us, and that by the vain-glory of men they first entered into the world: no less will the long-continuing custome of the world, using thus to honour not only their dead, but since also the living, be sufficient to perswade the truth. Minutius Felix in his Octavius will put us forth of doubt. Majores nostri (saith he) dum Reges suos colunt religiosè, dum defunctos eos desiderant in Imaginibus videre, dum gestiunt eorum memorias in Statuis detinere; sacra facta sunt, quæ fuerant assumpta solatia: Our Ancestors

Tertul. de Idol. c. 7. Artifices Idolorum Dæmoniis corpora conferre.

* De Præpar. Evangel. l. 5.

* Vide Herod. Clio, c. 35. Persas statuas non erigere, quòd non, ut Græci, sentiunt Deos ἀνθρωποφυεῖς ex hominibus esse ortos; ex opinione Herodoti.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

while they religiously honour their Kings, while they desire after their departure to behold them in their Images, and delight to preserve their memory in Statues; what was at first taken up for their own solace, was at length made a matter of Religion. When therefore those whom they thus honoured and remembred were canonized for Dæmons, then were these Memorials also worshipped for some supposed presence or divine respect of such Dæmons in or to them. The worshipping therefore of Images and Columns is by its original and institution a piece of the Doctrine of Dæmons *; so that whatsoever is thus worshipped, yea the glory of the incorruptible God himself, is thereby changed into a Dæmon.

* Τῷ χάριτι νῷ θεατὸν ᾗ διανοίᾳ τελησθὲν, ὅτε μορφὴν ἐποδεῖ δι' ὧς γνωρισθείη, ὅτε σήμαλ☉ ἀνέχεται, ὡς ἂν εἰκόν☉ ἢ τύπε· ταῦτα δὲ πάντα γίγνεσθαι πρὸς χάειν τῶν καλοιχομένων· ἄνθεωποι γὰρ ἦσαν ἡνίκα ἔζων, σώμαλ☉ μέτοχοι ὄνλες. Constantin. Orat. ad Sanctorum Cœtum, Cap. 4.

THUS much of Images and Idol-Pillars, of the reason of their supposed Divinity, and of the original and first occasion of worshipping them. But yet we have not done, there is another piece of Dæmon-devotion yet behind, namely, The worshipping of Dæmons in their Reliques, Shrines and Sepulchres *; for this was also a part of the Doctrine and Theologie of Dæmons. Plato, whom before we quoted for the Canonizing for Dæmons, of the Ghosts of such as died valiantly in the field, would have their Shrines and Coffins to be worshipped, ὡς Δαιμόνων Σήκας, as the coffins of Dæmons. Hear also what Clemens Alexandrinus speaks of this Dæmon-doctrine, Strom. lib. 6. Διαφέρειν δ' ἐδὲν νομίζυσιν, ἐάν γ' ὦν θεὺς, εἴτε ᾗ ἀγγέλυς τὰς ψυχὰς ταύτας λέγοιμεν, &c. They (that is, the Greeks) are of opinion that it matters not whether we call those Souls (viz. the Dæmons whom they invocate) Gods or Angels. But the more skillfull Theologists place the coffins of the deceased in many of their Temples as so many Statues of the Gods, Δαίμονας μὲν τὰς τότων ψυχὰς καλῦντες, θρησκεύειν δ' θεῖ ἀνθρώπων διδάσκυντες, &c. calling their Souls Dæmons, and withall teaching that they ought to be worshipped by men, as being for the holiness of their lives intrusted by Divine Providence to be employ'd about this earth for the service of men: For they well knew that some Souls were naturally tied to the Body. Out of which words observe, That they supposed the like presence and power of Dæmons at their Coffins and Sepulchres which before we observed and heard of in their Images; as though there always remained some natural tie between the Souls deceased and their Reliques; and therefore they there builded Temples unto them where their bodies and ashes were entombed. And hence it is that the Primitive Fathers which write against the Gentiles do so often upbraid them, That their Temples were nothing else but the Sepulchres of dead men; νεὼς μὲν εὐφήμως ὀνομαζομένυς, (saith Clem. in his Protreptic.) τάφυς δὲ γενομένυς, τυλέσι, τὰς τάφυς νεὼς ἐπικαλυμένυς· They were indeed called by the specious and plausible name of Temples, but were in truth nothing but Sepulchres; that is, the very Sepulchres of dead men were called Temples. He goeth on speaking to the Gentiles; ὑμεῖς δὲ ἀλλὰ καὶ νῦν δεισιδαιμονίας ἀπολάθεσθε, τὰς τάφυς τιμᾶν αἰσχυνόμενοι· Be ye therfore at length perswaded to forget and relinquish your Dæmon-worship, and be ashamed to worship the Sepulchres of dead men. To the like purpose Arnobius l. 6. adverſ. Gent. Quid quòd multa ex his Templa quæ tholis sunt aureis & sublimibus elata fastigiis, autorum conscriptionibus comprobatur contegere cinares atque ossa, & functorum esse corporum sepulturas? Nonne patet & promptum est aut pro Diis immortalibus mortuos vos colere, aut inexpiabilem fieri Numinibus contumeliam, quorum Delubra & Templa mortuorum superlata sunt bustis? Where he tells them, that many of their Temples, famous for their high and golden roofs, were were nothing but the Sepulchres of the deceaſed, covering dead bones and aſhes; and that it was very evident that for the immortal Gods they worſhip'd men that were dead, or that they were guilty of doing an horrible diſhonour to the Gods, whoſe Temples were built over the burying-places of dead men.

* In mortuorum Idolis Dæmonia consistunt. Tertul. de Spectac. 11, 12, 13 ferè totum.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

I might further adde to theſe Oecumenical doctrines of Dæmons that monſtrous one of the Ægyptians, for which their fellow-Gentiles derided them, who worſhipped living brute Beaſts, yea Onions and Garlick, and Water it ſelf, with Divine worſhip, as ſuppoſing ſome Dæmon or other to dwell in them. Such were their Cow-god Apis, and their Bull-god Mnevis, and their Water-god Nilus, which it ſhall be enough to have only named, to make the former complete; and that from it and the reſt of that kinde of abominations we may gather this Concluſion once for all, That ſince the Sovereign and Celeſtial Gods (as you heard before) might not be approched nor polluted by theſe earthly and material things, but kept always immovably, without change of place or preſence, their heavenly ſtations; therefore the adoring or worſhipping of any viſible or material thing for any ſuppoſed preſence or other relation of a divine power therewith, is to be accounted amongſt the Doctrines of Dæmons.

CHAP. VI.

A Recapitulation or Summary of the Doctrines of Dæmons. How the Severals thereof are revived and reſembled in the Apoſtate Chriſtian Church. That the word Δαιμόνιον is ſometime in Scripture taken according to the Theology of the Gentiles, and not always for an Evil Spirit. That it is ſo to be taken in the Text was the judgment of Epiphanius: an obſervable paſſage quoted out of him to this purpoſe.

AND thus have you ſeen the Theology of Dæmons; 1. For their Nature and degree, to have been ſuppoſed by the Gentiles an inferiour and middle ſort of Divine Powers between the Sovereign and Heavenly Gods and mortal men: 2. Their Office, to be as Mediators and Agents between theſe Sovereign Gods and men: 3. Their Original, to be the Deified Souls of worthy men after death; and ſome of an higher degree, which had no beginning, nor ever were impriſoned in mortal bodies: 4. The way to worſhip them, to find and receive benefits from them, namely, by conſecrated Images and Pillars, wherein to have and retain their preſence at devotions to be given them: 5. To adore their Reliques, and to Temple them.

Now therefore judge impartially whether S. Paul's Prophecie be not fulfilled already amongſt Chriſtians, who foretold that the time ſhould come that they ſhould Apoſtatize and revive again Διδασκαλίας δαιμονίων, Doctrines of Dæmons; whether the deifying and worſhipping of Saints and Angels, whether the bowing down to Images, whether of men or other things viſible, breaden Idols, and Croſſes like new Dæmon-Pillars, whether the adoring or templing of Reliques, whether theſe make not as lively an image of the Gentiles Theology of Dæmons [Διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων] as poſſibly could be expreſſed; and whether theſe two words comprehend not the whole pith and marrow of Chriſtian Apoſtaſie, which was to conſiſt in Spiritual fornication or Idolatry, as appears by that name and denomination thereof given by S. John in his Revelation, The Whore of Babylon. Is not ſhe rightly termed the Babyloniſh whore, which hath revived and replanted the Doctrines of

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Dæmons first founded in the ancient Babel? And is not this now fulfilled which S. John foretells us, Apoc. 11. That the second and outmost Court of the Temple (which is the second state of the Christian Church) together with the holy City should be troden down and overtrampled by the Gentiles (that is, overwhelmed with the Gentiles Idolatry) forty two months?

But perhaps I am yet too forward in my Application; some things in our way must first be cleared: For howsoever the resemblance indeed be evident, yet First the Text seems not to intend or mean it, because the word Δαιμόνιον is in the Scripture never taken in the better or indifferent sense, howsoever prophane Authors do so use it, but alwaies in an evil sense, for the Devil or an Evil Spirit. Now the signification of words in Scripture is to be esteemed and taken only according to the Scripture's use, though other Writers use them otherwise. Secondly, For the charge of Idolatry, though much of that wherein we have instanced may be granted to be justly suspected for such indeed, yet nevertheless that whereupon this Application mainly relieth, namely, The praying to Saints glorified, as Mediators and Agents for us with God, should not seem to deserve so foul a name. For suppose it were a needless, yea and a fruitless Ceremony, yet what reason can be given why this should be more tainted with Idolatry, then is the like honour given to Saints and holy men whilst they live on earth, whom then to desire to mediate and pray to God for us was never accounted so much as an unlawful matter? When these two Scruples are answered, I will return to continue my former Application.

To the First therefore, for the use of the word Δαιμόνιον in Scripture, I say, That because those which the Gentiles took for Dæmons and for Deified Souls of their Worthies were indeed no other then Evil Spirits, counterfeiting the Souls of men deceased, and masking themselves under the names of such supposed Dæmons, under that colour to seduce mankind; therefore the Scripture useth the name Dæmons for that they were indeed, and not for what they seemed to be. For no blessed Soul or good Angel would admit any honour which did derogate from the honour of the onely true God who made them: neither do the glorified Saints in heaven, or the blessed Angels, though Apostate Christians now invocate and worship them, accept of this honour, hear their prayers, or condescend to their devotions, by any sign or act whatsoever; but whatsoever is made seem to be done by them, is done by the self-same wicked Spirits which heretofore were masked under the names of Dæmons; and therefore in this regard the one may as well bear the names of Dæmons as the other, and be as likely to be intended by the use of that word.

Secondly, though the Scripture often useth this word in the worst sense, yet follows it not it alwaies should doe so. Because the word Διάβολος it self, which the Scripture hath appropriated to signifie Satan the Prince of hel-hounds, following therein the Seventy, (who first gave it this notion nowhere else sampled in any Greek Author) yet is this word Διάβολος in the New Testament it self, three several times used in the common sense for a Slanderer or False accuser, and that in three several Epistles, in both to Timothy, and that to Titus: And why should the like seem improbable for the word Δαίμων or Δαιμόνιον? Nay, most certain it is so, as I now come to make manifest.

1 Tim. 3. 11.
2 Tim. 3. 3.
Tit. 2. 3.

And that first, Acts 17. 18. where S. Paul our Apostle, having at Athens preached Jesus risen from the dead, the Philosophers thus encountred him, saying, This fellow Δαιμονίων δοκεῖ καταγγελεὺς εἶναι, which we translate, He seemeth to be a setter-forth of strange gods, namely, Dæmon-gods: For hearing of one Jesus after death to become a Lord and Saviour, and

and to be adored with divine worſhip, they took him preſently (according to their own principles in that kind) to be ſome new or forein Dæmon; for ſo it follows in the Text, that they ſaid thus, Becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus and the reſurrection. Upon the ſame ground Celſus in Origen. lib. 8. cont. Celſ. calls the ſame Chriſt our Saviour the Chriſtians Dæmon; for whereas the Chriſtians ſaid, that they without hurt and danger blaſphemed and reproched the Gentiles Gods, Celſus replies, * Nonne vides, bone vir, quòd etiam tuo Dæmoni opponens ſe quiſpiam non ſolùm convitiatur, ſed terrâ marique illum exigit? Do you not ſee (good Sir) that ſome oppoſing your Dæmon, do not onely reproch him, but proclaim him unworthy to be at all in the world? Where Origen anſwers Celſus, (a) Qui nullos ſcit malos Dæmones, neſcio quomodo ſui oblitus, Jeſum vocârit Dæmonem; He that acknowledges no evil Dæmons, I know not how he came to forget himſelf, calling Jeſus a Dæmon. But S. Paul thus charged by the Philoſophers, coming to make his Apology in the Areopagus, retorts their accuſation; Ye men of Athens (ſaith he) I ſee you in all things ὡς Δεισιδαιμονεστέρους too full of Dæmons already. I ſhall not need bring any more amongſt you. (For thus the word Δεισιδαίμων by Etymology ſignifies, a worſhipper of Dæmon-Gods, and was anciently uſed in this ſenſe; and ſo ſhall you find it often in Clemens Alexandrinus his Protrepticon (b), not to ſpeak of others; though afterwards from ſignifying ἡ πρὸς τὸ θεῖον εὐλάβεια, as Budæus ſpeaks, it came to be applied to thoſe who were too preciſe and anxious in their devotions.) But I (ſaith our Apoſtle) preach no new Dæmon unto you, but that Sovereign and Celeſtial God who made the world and all things therein; who being Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not (as your Dæmon-gods do) in Temples made with hands, neither is worſhipped with mens hands, as though he needed any thing, (as you conceive of your Dæmons) ſeeing he giveth to all life and breath, and all things: This God I preach unto you. And this place I take to be ſo unanſwerable for the indifferent and common acception of the word Δαιμόνιον, that I care not now though the reſt ſhould fail me: but let us ſee what they are.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* Οὐχ ὁρᾷς ὅτι, ὦ βέλτιστε, ὅτι καὶ ὁ σὸν δαίμονα κατατάς τις οὐ βλασφημεῖ μόνον, ἀλλὰ καὶ πάσης γῆς καὶ θαλάττης ἐκκηρύττει; a Κατὰ δὲ Κέλσον μηδὲν ἐμφήναντα περὶ φαύλων δαιμόνων, ἢ οἶδ' ὅπως ὀπλαθόμενον ἑαυτὸν, δαίμων ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἴρηται.

b Et Strom. l. 7. p. 504. Δεισιδαίμων, ὁ δεδιὼς τὰ δαιμόνια. Lactant. l. 4. Inſtit. Divin. ait, Superſtitioſi vocantur aut ii qui ſuperſtitem memoriam defunctorum colunt, aut qui parentibus ſuis ſuperſtites, celebrant Imagines eorum domi, tanquam Deos Penates. Nam qui novos ſibi ritus aſſumebant, ut Deorum vice mortuos honorarent, quos ex hominibus in cœlum receptos putabant, hos Superſtitioſos vocabant: Eos verò qui publicos & antiquos Deos colerent, Religioſos nominabant; unde Virgilius, Vana ſuperſtitio veterúmque ignara Deorum. Martin. Lex. quem ulteriùs vide.

In Revel. 9. 13, &c. the ſixth Trumpet from Euphrates brings an huge army upon the Chriſtian world, which deſtroyeth a third part of men; and yet thoſe which remained repented not of thoſe ſins (verſ. 20.) for which theſe plagues came upon the earth, viz. That they ſhould not worſhip Δαιμόνια and Idols of gold, ſilver, and braſs, and ſtone, and of wood, which can neither ſee, nor hear, nor walk. Is not this a Comment upon the Apoſtle's Prophecy in my Text? The time which it concerns muſt needs fall in the laſt times; for it is the laſt Trumpet ſave one. The place muſt be the Roman Empire, or Chriſtian world; for that is the Stage of all the Seals and Trumpets: And how could it be otherwiſe, ſeeing S. John at Pathmos ſaw them coming from the great River Euphrates? whatſoever comes from thence, muſt needs fall upon the Territory of the Roman Empire. To hold you no longer, the beſt Expounders make it the Ottoman or Turkiſh invaſion, which hath ſwallowed ſo great a part of Chriſtendom. But what people are they who in the Roman Territory do in theſe latter times worſhip Idols of gold, ſilver, braſs, and ſtone, and wood? Are they Ethnicks? there is none ſuch. Are they Jews? they cannot endure the ſight of them. Are they Mahumetans? nay, they abhorre it alſo. Then muſt they needs be Chriſtians;

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Christians; and then must Christians too worship Δαιμόνια; for both are spoken of the same men. But what Christians do, or ever did worship Devils formerly? But Damon-gods (alas!) they do and long have done. Here therefore Δαιμόνιον is again taken in the common and Philosophical sense, or at least, which is all one, for Evil Spirits worshipped under the names of Damons and deceased Souls.

Besides my Text, there is but one place more in all the Epistles of S. Paul where the word Δαιμόνιον is used, namely 1 Cor. 10. 21. where if there be any allusion to the Gentiles conceit of Damons, then all the places of S. Paul's Epistles are bending that way. But some there are, saith Stephen in his Thesaurus, who think the Apostle in his Ποτήριον Δαιμονίων, or Cup of Damons, alludes unto that poculum ἀγαθῦ Δαίμονος used amongst the Gentiles. And further to strengthen this conceit of the Apostle's Allusion to the Heathenish notion of *Damons, the words of the former verse make much; For the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice (saith he) to Damons, and not to God. Now this was the very Tenet of the Gentiles, That the Sovereign and Celestial Gods were to be worshipped onely purâ mente, and with hymns and praises, and that Sacrifices were only for Damon. Vid. Porphyr. in Euseb. Præp. Evang. Herm. Trismeg. in Asclepio, Apuleium de Damonio Socratis. He therefore who had given his faith to that Εἷς Κύριος One Lord, to the ὁ μόνος Δυνάστης onely Potentate, to the Εἷς Μεσίτης, to the one and onely Mediator Jesus Christ, must have no communion, have no part in the service of those many Mediators, Lords or Damon-gods of the Nations; for Christ's Monarchical Mediation excludes all other Mediators and Damons: not that the wooden Idol was ought of it self, but that the Gentiles supposed there dwelt some Damon therein, who received their sacrifices, and to whom they intended their services. Thus may this place be expounded, and so the use of the word Damon in the worst sense or directly for a Devil, will be almost confined to the Gospel; where the subject spoken of being men vexed with Evil spirits, could admit no other sense or use: and yet S. Luke, the best-languaged of the Evangelists, knowing the word to be ambiguous, and therefore as it were to distinguish it once for all, doth the first time he useth it doe it with an explication, Chapter 4. vers. 33. There was (saith he) a man in the Synagogue ἔχων πνεῦμα Δαιμονίου ἀκαθάρτου, having the spirit of an unclean Damon.

* See Tertul. De Spectac. cap. 13.

Thus much of the word Damonium Δαιμόνιον in Scripture; whereby I hope it appears, that this place of my Text is not the onely place where the word is used according to the notion of the Gentiles and their Theologists.

But you will say, Did any of the Fathers or Ancients expound it thus in this place? If they had done so, the Mystery of iniquity could never have taken such footing; which because it was to come according to divine disposition, what wonder then if this were hidden from their eyes? Howsoever, it may seem that God left not his spirit without a witness: For, as I take it, Epiphanius, one of the most zealous of the Fathers of his time against Saint-worship then peeping, took διδασκαλία Δαιμονίων in my Text for a Doctrine of worshipping dead men. You may reade him in the seventy eighth Heresie towards the conclusion, where, upon occasion of some who made a Goddess of the blessed Virgin, and offered a cake unto her as the Queen of Heaven, he quotes this place of my Text concerning them, saying, πλεονασταί γὰρ καὶ ὅτι τέτυς ὅ, Ἀποστάσονταί τινες τῆς ὑγιοῦς διδασκαλίας, προσέχοντες μύθοις καὶ διδασκαλίαις Δαιμονίων· ἔσονται γὰρ, φησὶ, ΝΕΚΡΟΙΣ λατρεύοντες, ὡς καὶ ἐν τῷ Ἰσραὴλ ἐσεβάσθησαν· which in English sounds thus,

That

That also of the Apostle is fulfilled of these; Some shall apostatize from the sound Doctrine, giving heed to Fables and Doctrines of Damons; for (saith he) they shall be worshippers of Dead men, as they were worshipped in Israel. Are not these last words for an Exposition of διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων? But what (will you say) doth he mean by the Dead worshipped in Israel? I suppose he means their Baalim, who (as is already shewed) were nothing else but Damons or Deified Ghosts of men deceased: yet he brings in two examples besides; one of the Sichemites in his time, who had a Goddess or Damoness under the name of Jephtah's daughter; another of the Ægyptians, who worshipped Thermutis, that daughter of Pharaoh which brought up Moses. Some, as Beza, would have these words of Epiphanius to be a part of the Text it self in some copy which he used. But how is that likely, when no other Father once mentions any such reading? Nay it appears moreover, that Epiphanius intended to explain the words as he quoteth them, as he doth πίστις the Faith by ὑγιὴς διδασκαλία the sound Doctrine, and πνεύματα πλάνης erroneous spirits by μῦθοι Fables, and so προσέχοντες διδασκαλίαις Δαιμονίων giving heed to Doctrines of Damons by λατρεύοντες τοῖς νεκροῖς worshipping Dead men. Otherwise we must say he used either a very corrupt copy, or quoted very carelessly. But grant that Epiphanius read so: Either this reading was true, and so I have enough; because then the Apostle with his ἔστιν γὰρ, &c. should expound himself by δαιμόνια to mean the Deifying of the dead: Or it was not the original reading, but added by some or other for explication sake; and so it will follow, that those who did it made no question but that the words there contained some such thing as worshipping of the dead. Therefore take it which way you will, it will follow, that some such matter as we speak of was in times past supposed to be in this Text and Prophecy.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

CHAP. VII.

Why those words in the description of the Mystery of Godliness [Received into Glory] are set last. That praying to Saints glorified, as Mediators and Agents for us with God, is Idolatry. For the proof of this several Grounds are laid down. To be prayed to in Heaven, and to present our Devotions to God, and to deal as an Agent and Mediatour between us and him, is a Prerogative appropriate to Christ, a Flower of his Glory and Exaltation to sit at God's Right hand, a Royalty incommunicable to any other. That none but Christ our High Priest is to be an Agent for us with God in the Heavens, was figured under the Law, in that the High priest alone had to doe in the Most holy place, and there was to be Agent for the people. That though Christ in regard of his Person was capable of this Godlike Glory and Royalty, yet it was the Will of God that he should purchase it by suffering an unimitable Death. This proved from several Testimonies of Scripture. Saint-worship is a denial of Christ's Prerogative. Bread-worship in the Eucharist to what kind of Idolatry it may be reduced. How Saint-worship crept into the Church.

NOW I come to the Second point, to maintain and prove That praying to Saints glorified, as Mediators and Agents for us with God, is justly charged with Idolatry. For this is the hinge whereupon not the Application onely of my Text, but the Interpretation thereof, chiefly turneth. For this is that which I told you in the beginning, that my Text depended pended upon the laſt words of the former chapter and verſe, Received into glory; which were therefore, out of their due order, put in the laſt place, becauſe my Text was immediately to be inferred upon them. The like miſplacing, and for the like reaſon, ſee * Heb. 12. 23. where, in a catalogue or recenſion of the parts of the Church, Chriſt the Head, and the ſprinkling of his bloud, is mentioned in the laſt place, and after the ſpirits of juſt men, becauſe the next verſes are continued upon this ſprinkling of Chriſt's bloud: Ye are come to the general aſſembly, and Church of the firſt-born, which are written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of juſt men made perfect, And to Jeſus the Mediator of the new Covenant, and to the bloud of ſprinkling, which ſpeaketh better things then that of Abel: whereas the right order ſhould have been, Firſt, God the Judge of all; ſecondly, Chriſt the Mediator of the new Covenant; and thirdly, in the laſt place, the Spirits of juſt men made perfect. Agreeably therefore to this dependance of my Text I am to ſhew, That the Invocation of Saints glorified implies an Apoſtaſie from Chriſt, and a denial of his Glory and Majeſty whereunto he is inſtalled by his Aſſumption into heaven, to ſit at the right hand of God. Which before I doe, I muſt premiſe ſome General grounds, which are as followeth.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* See alſo Apocal. chap. 1. ver. 5. where Chriſt is named after the ſeven Spirits for the like reaſon.

Firſt, That as God is moſt One, and without all Multiplicity; ſo muſt the Honour and Service which is given unto him have no Communicability. Iſa. 42. 8. I am the Lord, that is my name, and my glory will I not give unto another, nor my praiſe to graven Images: For the One-moſt God muſt have an One-moſt ſervice. Therefore in that Action whereof God is the Object, nothing muſt be an Object but God. Or, in the Scripture phraſe, thus, In thoſe actions which look towards the Face of God, nothing may come between, whoſe Face ſuch Actions may look upon beſides him; whether by way of Subordination to him, or Repreſentation of him: For I am the Lord thy God (ſaith he) Thou ſhalt have no other Gods עַל־פָּנָי before my face.

Secondly, This Face of God is not onely the Object of his Perſon, but alſo the Place of his preſence, where his Glory is revealed in the heavens, where we ſhall ſee him face to face, 1 Cor. 13. 12. Revel. 22. 4. and where the Angels in heaven behold the Face of the Father which is in heaven, Matth. 18. 10. No Action therefore directed thitherward, that is, to this Face of his revealed preſence and glory, may ſo much as look aſquint upon any other Object, or behold any other Face but the Face of God alone; For we muſt have no other Gods before his Face.

I ſay not, that a man may not turn his Face upon the Face of any other thing when he turns his Face towards the Face of God; for how then ſhould we worſhip him at all, ſeeing which way ſoever we turn us, ſomething will always be before us? But it is not the face of our Bodies, or their poſture, but the Face and poſture of the Act we doe, which muſt not have the face turned upon any thing elſe, when it is directed at the Face of God: namely, That Action in which God is faced, muſt face nothing elſe but God; that is, Where God is the Object, whether in regard of his Perſon, when we pray unto him, or of his Throne of preſence, when we would approch it, or direct our ſupplications towards it, there nothing is to have any reſpect of an Object but God alone. So although when we pray unto God, we turn the face of our Bodies towards Heaven, the Sun, the Moon, and Starrs; yet do we not therefore worſhip the hoſt of heaven, becauſe our Action hath no relation to them as to an Object, but to God alone; and howſoever they are between God and us in place, yet as an Object of our devotion neither they, nor any thing in them, come any way between us and him.

Now for the reaſon (if you ask it) of this Incommunicableneſs of all

Actions

Actions and Services directed to God-ward, you shall have it, Exod. 34. 14. Because the Lord whose name is Jealous, is a Jealous God: Jealous, not only lest he should not be honoured and served as God; but Jealous lest he should not be honoured as One God: For as by honouring him we acknowledge him God, so by the Incommunicableness of honour we acknowledge him One God.

For this cause, God being to give us a Mediator, by whom we should have access unto his presence, and whom, without his Jealousie, we might interpose in our devotions and supplications unto himself, or offered at the Throne of his Majesty and Glory in the heavens, provided that admirable Mystery of communicating to the nature of a man born of a woman, the Hypostatical union of the second Person of the Deity; and him, after he had vanquished death, to exalt to sit at his Right hand of Glory and Power in the Heavens, there in his own Presence and Throne to receive our Requests, and to deal as an Agent between us and him.

Thus at length I am arrived at that Port which all this while I made for, viz. to shew, That this Glory of Christ, which is styled His sitting at the Right hand of God, is that Incommunicable Royalty to which of right belongeth in the Presence of God to receive and present our devotions to the Divine Majesty; as in that which now followeth shall appear.

Sessio ad Dextram Dei, To sit at the Right hand of God, is to be installed in God's Throne, or to have a God-like Royalty, which is defined in Scripture ἡ Μεγαλωσυνὴ Χριστοῦ ἐν ὑψηλοῖς, The Majesty of Christ in heaven; whence it is said, Heb. 1. 3. ἐκάθισεν ἐν δεξιᾷ τῆς μεγαλωσυνης ἐν ὑψηλοῖς, He sate down on the Right hand of Majesty on high; and Heb. 8. 1. it is called Δεξιὰ τοῦ θρόνου τῆς μεγαλωσυνης ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, The Right hand of the Throne of the Majesty in the Heavens: It is called also by Christ himself, Mark 14. 62. Δεξιὰ τῆς δυναμεως, Luke 22. 69. Δεξιὰ τῆς δυναμεως τοῦ Θεοῦ, The Right hand of Power, and the Right hand of the Power of God: For as to the Right hand belongs both dignity and strength; so doth this Glory of Christ include both a God-like Sublimity and a God-like Power; the first δεξιὰ τοῦ θρόνου, the second δεξιὰ τῆς δυναμεως. The proper place where the Majestical Glory is revealed, is the Heavens, as may appear almost whersoever this sitting at the Right hand of God is mentioned, Eph. 1. 20. ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις, Colos. 3. 1. ἐν τοῖς ἄνω, Heb. 1. 3. ἐν ὑψηλοῖς, Heb. 7. 26. ὑψηλότερος τῶν οὐρανῶν, 1 Pet. 3. 22. εἰς οὐρανὸν, &c. Heaven, Heavenly places, High places, and the like, being alwaies thereto annexed: and every where appeareth to be a consequent of his Ascension into Heaven, as we say in our Creed, He ascended into Heaven, and sitteth at the Right hand of God; and therefore in the words whereon my Text depends, is expressed by Assumed or Taken up into Glory, ἀνελήφθη ἐν δόξῃ. For as God himself is styled Pater in Cœlis; not because not elsewhere, but because his Glory is there revealed: so Christ sits ad dextram in Cœlis, because there the beams of the Majesty given him by his Father are revealed: whence it comes that his Kingdom is called the Kingdom of heaven, that is, a Kingdom whose King's residence and Kingly Throne are both in Heaven.

This glorious Throne of Majesty, this Sitting at the Right hand of the Power of the Almighty, is a Name incommunicable, an Exaltation whereof no creature in heaven or earth is capable: which is that the Apostle means to tell us, when he saith, Eph. 1. 21. Farre above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not onely in this world, but also in that which is to come; and Phil. 2. 9, 10. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name, (that is, created name) That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, both of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth. Revel. 3. 21. He that overcometh, (ſaith Chriſt) I will give him to ſit with me in my Throne; even as I have overcome, and ſate with my Father in his Throne. Here is mention, we ſee, of two Thrones, of which, my Throne, that is, Chriſt's Throne, is the condition of a glorified man; in this Throne his Saints ſhall ſit with him: But my Father's Throne is the Power of Divine Majeſty, wherein none may ſit but God, and the God-Man Jeſus Chriſt.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Theſe grounds laid, I ſay, That the Honour of being prayed to in Heaven, and before the Throne of preſence, is a Prerogative of Dextra Dei; and to receive our devotions there, a Flower of Chriſt's ſitting at the Right hand of God: as S. Paul, Rom. 8. 34. conjoyns them, ſaying, Who is he that condemneth? It is Chriſt that died, yea rather that is riſen again, who is at the Right hand of God, and who makes interceſſion for us. For by right of this his Exaltation and Majeſty he comes to be a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, as appears Pſalm 110. 1. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, Sit thou on my Right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool; then follow the effects thereof, verſe 4. The Lord hath ſworn, and will not repent, Thou art a Prieſt for ever, after the order of Melchiſedech. And by the ſame right alſo he becomes the Onely and Eternal Prieſt which hath to doe in the moſt Holy place, the Heavens: For as the High Prieſt onely entred the moſt Holy place beyond the veil in the earthly Tabernacle; ſo Chriſt Jeſus, our onely High Prieſt, through his Body, as the firſt Tabernacle, by his own bloud, entred into the ſecond Tabernacle, or Holy place, not made with hands, as was the figure, but into Heaven it ſelf, ἐμφανισθῆναι τῷ προσώπῳ τοῦ Θεοῦ ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν, there to appear in the preſence of God for us. All this you have in the ſame words at large, Heb. 9. 7, 11, 12, 24.

Now in the Tabernacle of this world, as was in the firſt Tabernacle, we may haply find many Prieſts whom to imploy as Agents for us with God: But in the ſecond Tabernacle, which is Heaven, there is but one Agent to be imployed, but one who hath royal commiſſion to deal between God and men, that Angel of the preſence, as Iſaiah calls him, 63. 9. and one onely Mediator, Jeſus Chriſt the Lord of glory, who in this prerogative is above Saints and Angels: For to which of the Saints or Angels ſaid God at any time, Sit on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool? Heb. 1. 4, 9, 13.

Neither will this Demonſtration admit that vulgar Exception to be of any force, namely, That Expiatory mediation, or Meritorious interceſſion in heaven, ſhould indeed appertain to Chriſt alone; but Favourable interceſſion to pray for us, not ſo; and therefore for this we may without derogation to Chriſt ſolicite either Saints or Angels. I could ſay, that this ragge is too-too narrow and ſhort to cover their nakedneſs who lay hold of it; in whoſe Supplications to Saints, and too God to in their names, nothing is more uſual then the expreſs mention of their Merits, Bloud, and Sufferings, as Motives to God to hear them. But we ſhall not need this Anſwer: For we have demonſtrated, that as in the Law none but the High Prieſt alone was to doe office in the Holieſt place; ſo Chriſt Jeſus now is the onely Agent for whatſoever is to be done for us in the holieſt Tabernacle of Heaven. Beſides, we reade that none but the High Prieſt alone was to offer Incenſe, or to incenſe the moſt Holy place when he entred into it: But Incenſe is the Prayers of the Saints, ſent thither from this outward Temple of the militant Church, as the Incenſe in the Law was fetched from without the veil: This therefore none in Heaven but Chriſt alone muſt receive from us, to offer for us. And this is that Angel with the golden Cenſer, Revel. 8. 3. who there offers the Incenſe of the prayers of the Saints there given him to offer upon the Rev. 5. 8. & Chap. 8. 3.

the golden Altar before the Throne; alluding expresly to the golden Altar before the Testimony.

For the fuller understanding and farther confirmation of what hath been spoken, take this also; That notwithstanding the man Christ Jesus in regard of his Person, being God as well as Man, was from his first incarnation capable of this Royalty and Glory; not onely for the incomparable sufficiency of his Person, which by reason of his twofold Nature is alwaies and in all places present both with God and men, and so at one instant able and ready at every need to present to the one what he should receive from the other; but chiefly and most of all, for that by being very God himself, his Father's jealousie (which could never have brooked the communication of this Glory to any other which should not have been the self-same with himself) was by this condition of his Person prevented and secured:

Nevertheless and notwithstanding all this capability of his Person, it was the will of his Father, in the dispensation of the Mystery of our redemption, not to conferre it upon him, but as purchased and attained by suffering and undergoing of that Death which no creature in heaven or in earth was able to undergoe but himself; being a suffering of a Death, whereby Death it self was overcome and vanquished; to the end that none by death save Jesus Christ alone might be ever thought or deemed capable of the like Glory and Sublimity, but that it might appear for ever to be a peculiar right to him.

And this, I think, is not onely agreeable to the tenour of Scripture, but expres Scripture it self. Heb. 2.9,10. But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower then the Angels, by the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour. For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons to glory, to make the Captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings. Phil. 2. 8. And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross; and v. 9, 10. Wherefore God hath also highly exalted him, and given him a name above every name, That at the name of Jesus every knee shall bow. Heb. 10.12. But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, for ever sate down on the Right hand of God. Rom. 14.9. For to this end Christ both died, rose and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living. See besides, Acts 5. 30, 31. Rom. 8. 34. Ephes. 1. 20. 1 Pet. 1. 11.

Lastly, for that particular parcel of this Glory of Christ, viz. To be that onely Name in which we are to ask at the hands of God whatsoever we have to ask; is not this also ascribed and annexed to his triumph over death? John 14.12,13. I goe unto my Father, (viz. through death;) And whatsoever ye ask in my name, that will I doe. John 16. 16, and 23. A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again a little while, and ye shall see me; because I goe to my Father. And in that day (when I am gone to my Father) ye shall ask me nothing. Verily, verily I say unto you, whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you. Verse 24. Hitherto ye have asked nothing in my name ask, and ye shall receive. Heb. 7.25, 26. Wherefore he is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him; seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them. For such an High Priest became us ——who is made higher then the heavens.

How is it then that some extenuate that kind of Saint-worship, wherein Prayers are not made unto them directly, but God is prayed to in their names & for their mediation sake to grant our requests? Is it not a denial of Christ's Prerogative, to ascribe unto any other, for any respect of glory or nearness to God after death or otherwise, that whereof he alone is infeoffed by his unimitable Death, triumphant Resurrection & glorious Ascension? Certainly that which he holds by incommunicable title is it ſelf alſo incommunicable.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

To conclude therefore with the words of S. Paul, 1 Tim. 2. 5. There is but one God, and own Mediator between God and men, the man Chriſt Jeſus: As God is one, ſo is the Mediator one; for it is a God-like Royalty, and therefore can belong but to one. There is but one God in Heaven, without any other Gods ſubordinate to him; therefore but one Mediator there, without any other Mediators beſides him. As for the Angels and bleſſed Saints, they have indeed a light of Glory too; but they are but as leſſer Lights in that heaven of heavens. And therefore as where the Sun ſhines, the leſſer Stars of heaven, though Stars, give not their light to us: ſo where this glorious Sun Chriſt Jeſus continually ſhineth by his preſence, ſitting at the Right hand of God, there the Glory of the Saints and Angels is not ſufficient to make them capable of any Flower of that Divine honour which is God-like, and ſo appropriate to Chriſt by right of his heavenly exaltation in the Throne of Majeſty. Whatſoever Spirit ſaith otherwiſe, ὃ κρατεῖ τὴν κεφαλήν, holds not the head; but is a Chriſt-apoſtate-ſpirit, which denies the Faith of Chriſt's Aſſumption into Glory, and revives the Doctrines of Dæmons.

Coloſſ. 2. 19.

The way being now cleared, I may (I hope) ſafely reſume my Application which I have already given ſome taſte of, That this Doctrine of Dæmons comprehends in moſt expreſs manner the whole Idolatry of the Myſtery of iniquity, the Deifying and invocating of Saints and Angels, the bowing down to Images, the worſhipping of Croſſes as new-Idol columns, the adoring and templing of Reliques, the worſhipping of any other Viſible thing upon ſuppoſal of any Divinity therein. What copy was ever ſo like the ſample, as all this to the Doctrines of Dæmons? And for the Idolatry of the Euchariſt or Bread-worſhip, though it may be reduced to Image-worſhip, as being the adoration of a Sign or Symbole; yet let it be conſidered whether for the quality thereof it may not be taken rather for an Idolatry of Reliques, the Body and Bloud of Chriſt in the Sacrament being the Myſtical Reliques which he left us, as Monuments of his death till he come. Whichſoever it be, I muſt confeſs it hath a ſtrain above the Abominations of the Gentiles, who though they ſuppoſed ſome preſence of their Dæmons in their Images and Reliques, yet were they never ſo blockiſh, as to think their Images and Reliques to be tranſubſtantiated into Dæmons.

But to come to the main again: I will confeſs for my ſelf, that I cannot think of this Dæmon-reſemblance without admiration; nor do I believe that you will hear without ſome aſtoniſhment that which I am now to add further; That the advancers of Saint-worſhip in the beginning, did not only ſee it, but even gloried (ſed gloriatione non bonâ) that they had a thing in Chriſtian practice ſo like the Doctrines of Dæmons. We heard before, that Plato in his Reſpub. would have the Souls of ſuch as died valiantly in battel to be accounted for Dæmons after death, and their Sepulchres and Coffins to be ſerved and adored as the Sepulchres of Dæmons. Euſebius lib. 13. Præpar. Evangel. cap. 11. quoting this place, adds with it, Ταῦτα ἁρμόζει δὴ τῷ πρὸς θεοφιλῶν πλούτῳ, ὡς γοῦν τὰ ἀληθοῦς εὐσεβείας, οὐκ ἂν ἁμάρτοις εἰπών, προσλαμβάνεσθαι, These things do beſit at (or after) the deceaſe of the Favourites of God, whom if thou ſhalt affirm to be taken for the Champions of the true Religion, thou ſhalt not ſay amiſs: ὅθεν καὶ ὅτι τοὺς τάφους αὐτῶν ἔθος ἡμῖν παρεῖναι, καὶ τὰς εὐχὰς πρὸς ταύτοις ποιεῖσθαι, τιμᾷν τε τὰς μακαρίας αὐτῶν ψυχάς, whence it is our cuſtome to goe unto their Tombs, and to make our prayers at them, and to honour their bleſſed Souls. The purpoſe of Euſebius here was to ſhew (as a preparation to draw men to Chriſtianity) how well the preſent uſe of Chriſtians in honouring the memories of their Martyrs, by keeping their aſſemblies at their Sepulchres, did agree with that of the Gentiles

Gentiles (ſo much commended by Plato) in honouring their champions and worthies for Dæmons after death. But, alas! in the next Age after it proved too-too like it indeed: For theſe eare-rings which the Chriſtians had borrowed or ſtolen from the Gentiles at their coming out of Ægypt preſently became a golden calf, as ſoon as the woman (the Church) came into the wilderneſs; yea and Aaron the Prieſt had a foul part in it too.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Reade the eighth Book of Theodoret De curandis Græcorum affectionibus, whoſe Title is De Martyribus; or in the mean time take theſe few paſſages thereof. Thus he ſpeaks, having quoted that paſſage of Heſiod for Dæmons, commended by Plato; [a] If then the Poet [Heſiod] calls good men, after their deceaſe, the Guardians and Preſervers or Deliverers of mortal men from all evil; and accordingly the beſt of Philoſophers, in confirmation of the Poet's ſaying, would have their Sepulchres to be ſerved and honoured: I beſeech you, Sirs, (he ſpeaks to the Greeks) why do you find ſuch fault with what we doe? For, ſuch as were eminent for Piety and Religion, and for the ſake thereof ſuffered death, we alſo call Preſervers and Phyſicians: in no wiſe do we term them Dæmons, (God forbid we ſhould ever fall into ſuch a deſperate madneſs) but the hearty friends and ſervants of God——

[a] Εἰ τοίνυν καὶ ὁ ποιητὴς καὶ ἀλεξικάκους καὶ φύλακας θνητῶν ἀνθρώπων τοὺς ἄνωθεν βεβιωκότας, εἶτα τελευτήσαντας, προσηγόρευσεν· ἐμέμψατο δὲ τοῦ ποιητοῦ τὸν λόγον καὶ φιλοσόφων ὁ ἄριστος, καὶ χρῆναι ἔφη καὶ θεραπεύειν τόπων καὶ περισκωπεῖν τὰς θήκας· τί δῆτα μέμφεσθε τοῖς παρ' ἡμῶν γινομένοις, ὦ βέλτιστοι; τοὺς γὰρ ἐν εὐσεβείᾳ λαμπρανθέντας, καὶ ὑπὲρ ταύτης τὴν σφαγὴν δεξαμένους, ἀλεξικάκους ἡμεῖς καὶ ἰατροὺς ὀνομάζομεν, δαίμονας καλεῖν οὔπω λυττήσαιμεν· ἀλλὰ θεοῦ φίλους καὶ εὐνοῦς θεράποντας——

[b] That the Souls of holy men, even when they are out of the Body, are in a capacity of taking care of mens affairs, Plato affirms in the eleventh Book of his Laws——

[b] Ὅτι καὶ ἐπιμελεῖσθαι τῶν ἀνθρωπίνων πραγμάτων αἱ τῶν ὁσίων ψυχαὶ καὶ τὸ σωματικὸν ἐκτὸς γενόμεναι, ὁ Πλάτων καὶ τοῦτο ἐν τῷ ἑνδεκάτῳ τῶν Νόμων ἐδίδαξε——

[c] The Philoſopher (you ſee) bids men believe even the vulgar reports [that is, the relations and ſtories which are commonly talk'd of concerning the care which deceaſed Souls have of men:] But you do not only disbelieve us, and are utterly unwilling to hearken to the loud voice of the Events or Effects themſelves——

[c] Ἀλλ' ὁ μὲν φιλόσοφος κελεύει καὶ ταῖς φήμαις πιστεύειν· ὑμεῖς δὲ οὐ μόνον ἡμῖν ἀπιστεῖτε, καὶ τῶν πραγμάτων φωνῆς βοώσης ἐπαΐειν οὐ βούλεσθε——

[d] ——The Martyrs Temples are frequently to be ſeen, famous for their beauty and greatneſs——

[d] ——Οἱ δὲ τῶν μαρτύρων σηκοὶ λαμπροὶ καὶ περίβλεπτοι καὶ μεγέθει διαπρεπεῖς——

[e] ——They that are in health pray for the continuance thereof; and they that have been long ſick pray for recovery: the barren alſo pray for children——And they that are to take a long journey deſire them [viz. the Martyrs] to be their Companions, or rather their Guides, in the journey——

[e] ——Οἱ μὲν ὑγιαίνοντες αἰτοῦσι τὴν ὑγείας τὴν φυλακήν· οἱ δὲ τινι νόσῳ παλαίοντες, τὴν τῶν παθημάτων ἀπαλλαγήν· αἰτοῦσι δὲ καὶ ἄγονοι παῖδας——καὶ οἱ μὲν εἰς τινα ἀποδημίαν στελλόμενοι, λιπαροῦσι τοὺς ξυνοδοιπόρους γενέσθαι, καὶ τῆς ὁδοῦ ἡγεμόνας——

[f] ——Not going to them as Gods, but making application to them as to Divine men and Agents for them with God.

[f] ——οὐχ ὡς θεοῖς [αὐτοῖς] προσιόντες, ἀλλ' ὡς θείοις ἀνθρώποις ἀντιβολοῦντες, καὶ γενέσθαι πρεσβευτὰς ὑπὲρ σφῶν παρακαλοῦντες.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

g Now that they who made faithfull prayers, have obtained their petitions, clearly appears by the Preſents and Gifts brought by the Votaries as ſo many gratefull acknowledgments of their recovery. Accordingly ſome do preſent (to be hung up in the Church) the Effigies of Eyes, others of Hands; and theſe made of Gold or of Silver—— g Ὅτι δὲ τυγχάνουσιν ὧνπερ αἰτοῦσιν οἱ πιστῶς ἐπαγγέλλονται, ἀναφανδὸν μαρτυρεῖ τὰ τούτων ἀναθήματα, ἢ ἰατρεῖαν δηλοῦντα. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ὀφθαλμῶν, ἄλλοι δὲ χειρῶν προσφέρουσιν ἐκτυπώματα· καὶ οἱ μὲν ἐκ χρυσοῦ, ἱο. δὲ ἐξ ἀργύρου πεποιημένα——

h ——Nay the Martyrs have utterly aboliſht and wip'd out of the minds of men the memory of thoſe who were called Gods——

h——καὶ γὰρ αὐτῶν τῶν καλουμένων θεῶν ἢ μνήμην ἐκ τῶν ἀνθρώπων ἐξήλειψαν διανοίας——

i ——Our Lord God hath brought his Dead (viz. the Martyrs) into the room and place (the Temples) of your Gods, whom he hath ſent packing, and hath given their honour to his Martyrs. For inſtead of the Feaſts of Jupiter and Bacchus are now celebrated the Feſtivals of Peter and Paul, and Thomas and Sergius, &c. and other holy Martyrs——

i——τοὺς γὰρ οἰκείους νεκροὺς ὁ δεσπότης ἀνεισωζε τοῖς ὑμετέροις θεοῖς, καὶ τοὺς μὲν φρύδας ἀπέφηνε, τούτοις δὲ τὰ ἐκείνων ἀπένειμε γέρα· ἀντὶ γὰρ τῶν Βακχίων καὶ Διονυσίων, Πέτρε καὶ Παύλε, καὶ Θωμᾶ καὶ Σεργίε, &c. καὶ τῶν ἄλλων μαρτύρων ἐπιτελοῦνται δημοδοινίαι—— k ——Wherefore ſince you ſee there is ſo much advantage by honouring the Martyrs, be perſwaded, I beſeech you, to flee from the error of Dæmons; and making uſe of the Martyrs as ſo many Lights and Guides, follow the way which leads directly to God, &c.

k——Ὁρῶντες τοίνυν τὸ τῶν μαρτύρων τιμῆς τὸ ὠφέλιμον, φεύγετε, ὦ φίλοι, τῶν Δαιμόνων τὸν πλάνον· καὶ τούτοις φωσφόροις καὶ ποδηγοῖς κεχρημένοι, τὴν πρὸς τὸν Θεὸν ἄγουσαν πορείαν ὁδεύσατε, &c.

Now judge whether Διδασκαλία Δαιμονίων hath hitherto been fitly applied or not: I will goe on.

CHAP. VIII.

That Idolatry is the main Character of the Churche's Apoſtaſy, proved by Three Arguments.

HAVING therefore by ſo many Arguments made apparent (as I hope) what I endeavoured to prove; I deſire we may obſerve, among ſo many Corruptions both now and heretofore overwhelming the Church of Chriſt, what that is wherein the Holy Ghoſt placeth the Eſſence, and accounteth as the very Soul of the Great Apoſtaſie under the Man of ſin, and would have us to make the Pole-ſtarre of our diſcovery thereof. Not every Errour, not every Hereſie, how foul ſoever; but Διδασκαλία Δαιμονίων, Idolatry and Spiritual fornication. As for other Hereſies, though accompanying this, yet are they but accidental, and not of the Eſſence of the Great Apoſtaſie which was to come. Even as Whores are ſeldom without other foul faults, which yet are no parts of whoredom: ſo hath the Spiritual whore many other Hereſies, but her Whoredom is only Idolatry and the Doctrine of Dæmons.

Neither is Hereſie of it ſelf, no, though damnable Hereſie, a character whereby the Great Apoſtaſie can be known from other Sects and Blaſphemies.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

phemies. Foul Hereſies were in the firſt Ages of the Church, yet Antichriſt and his time were neither of them yet come. When his time approched nearer, the Arrians, Macedonians, Neſtorians, Eutychians, were abominable Hereticks; and the Arrians poſſeſſed for a time the face of the viſible Church; yet was not theirs the ſolemn Apoſtaſie looked for.

But Idolatry or Spiritual whoredom, which in that ſtorm the Devil was a working, this is the only character and note whereby the Apoſtaſie under the Man of ſin is diſcovered and diſtinguiſhed from all other Blaſphemies, Sects and Hereſies of what age or time ſoever.

1 Theſ. 1. 9. Converſion to Chriſtianity is deſcribed, A turning from Idols to ſerve the true and living God, and to wait for his Son Jeſus Chriſt; therefore Apoſtaſie therefrom is a return to Idols from the living and true God and his Son Jeſus Chriſt.

Which that I may not ſeem to ground only upon the expoſition of my Text, which whatſoever the probability thereof be, may yet be thought alone too weak to ſupport the weight of ſo main a Concluſion; I deſire you to take theſe Arguments for a full confirmation thereof: ſome of them have already been intimated, but now all are muſtred up together.

1. That Babylon is intituled in the Revelation of S. John, not the Liar of Babylon, nor the Tyrant of Babylon, nor the Heretick of Babylon, nor the Murthereſs of Babylon, but the Whore of Babylon, yea that Great Whore, and the Mother of the fornications and abominations of the earth. Doth not God (think we) give the name as he accounts the nature? Or is there any one will deny that this Babylon is that Myſtery of iniquity which our Apoſtle ſo calleth, as being in oppoſition to the great Μυστήριον εὐσεβείας Myſtery of true worſhip and Religion? If any ſhould, Μυστήριον Βαβυλῶν Myſtery Babylon, in her forehead, would help to reclaim him. And what Whore is that with whom the Kings and Nations and Kingdoms of the earth commit fornication? can it be any other but a ſpiritual Whore? Without queſtion therefore S. John means no other thing here then what he foretold in the eleventh chapter, That the Second and outmoſt court of the Temple, (which is the Second ſtate of the Chriſtian Church) together with the holy City ſhould be troden down and overtrampled by the Gentiles forty two months, that is, overwhelmed with the Idolatry of the Gentiles, which is διδασκαλία δαιμονίων, as long as power ſhall be given to the Beaſt to make warre with the Saints, as long as the Witneſſes muſt wear ſackcloth, and the Woman which eſcaped the fury of the Ethnicall Dragon be fed in the wilderneſs.

2. S. Paul tells us, that the Great Apoſtaſie ſhould enter by ſtrong deluſions, by ſigns and lying wonders: Conſider then what Corruptions of the Chriſtian Faith were thus uſhered in. To begin with the beginning and Firſt Corruption of that kind. Invocation of Saints, with the Adoration of their Shrines and Reliques, how were theſe advanced in the Church? was it not by Miraculous cures of the ſick, healing of the lame, reſtoring of the blinde, yea raiſing of the dead (as ſeemed) by the only touch and aire ſometimes of the Shrines and Reliques of Souls deceaſed? was it not ſtill confirmed by ſtrange Apparitions and other means wonderfull to hear, for diſcovery of Bones and Reliques unknown and forgotten, yea of men whoſe names they had never heard of before? and, which I ſhall ſhew better hereafter, no ſuch experience for three hundred years together obſerved in the Church, untill the fatal and fixed time began to enter. The worſhipping of Images (the Second, for time, of the Churche's Fornications) was not this alſo allured and at length fully ratified by like Signs and Miracles ſhewed upon thoſe who approched them in their devotions? Reade the Legend, and ſee what ſtore there is of ſtrong deluſions and lying wonders. That which for time came in laſt, but deſerves a place among the foremoſt, I mean the Idolatry of the Maſſe and Adoration of the Breaden God, ſearch and ſee if it alſo be not thus attended.

2 Theſ. 2. 9, &c.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

If all this be true, then would I know what Doctrine of theirs beſides was inſtalled with theſe ſolemnities. There is but one only left for exception, and that is Purgatory: But what if all the deluſions of Purgatory, with all the Apparitions of Purgatorian Ghoſts, were but an indirect device of Satan, aiming partly to advance the Maſſe into an Idol by the miraculous efficacy (as the Ghoſts forſooth report) of the oblation thereof for them; partly to inſtall the Son of perdition (a Dæmon I yet ſpake not of, and yet a Dæmon) to ſit as God in the Temple and Throne of Chriſt, with the keys of * Apocal. 1. 18. * Hades and death, to deliver them? What ſtronger preſumption can there be of this then the Event, and that the errour of Purgatory had ſo long been working before the Devil ſeemed to know how to make this uſe of it, which at length he ſpied out and plied luſtily with Signs and Wonders? If all this be true, then it follows ſtill that it is Spiritual fornication which the Holy Ghoſt in Scripture intendeth, and the event hath marked out for the Soul of Antichriſtian abomination and impiety. But of the matter of Miracles and lying wonders more in the Second part of my Text, which is the proper place thereof.

3. And laſtly, The Great Apoſtaſie is a thing proper to ὕστεροι καιροὶ the Latter times; (which I will ſhew, when I come at it, to be the laſt times of the Fourth Kingdom of Daniel, Dan. 7. 25. & alibi.) But amongſt all other Corruptions, only the Spiritual fornication of the Church and Spouſe of Chriſt will be found proper to theſe times.

CHAP. IX.

Two Exceptions againſt the foregoing Aſſertion. Except. I. That Idolatry ſhould rather be laid upon the Pagans. This anſwered, and proved, That Pagan Idolatry is not here meant, nor can the Saracen or Turk be the Antichriſt meant in Scripture. Except. II. That Antichriſtianiſm cannot be charged upon thoſe that acknowledge the true God and Chriſt. The Anſwer to this, wherein is interwoven the Author's ſerious & patheticall Expoſtulation with the Church of Rome. That Antichriſt is a Counter-Chriſt, and his Coming a Counter-reſemblance of the Coming of Chriſt; ſhew'd in ſeveral particulars.

BUT you will ſay, if Idolatry and Spiritual fornication be the matter, why ſhould not this rather be laid upon Paynims and Turks and Saracens, who acknowledge not Chriſt, rather then upon Chriſtians, who do?

I anſwer, S. Paul and S. John propheſied of a thing to come, not of that which was in being when they propheſied. But Ethnical and Paynim Idolatry at that time overwhelmed the whole earth, yea and perſecuted and made warre with the Saints, and no time hath yet been when this Idolatry was not to be found. It muſt needs be then ſome other Whoredom (for Whoredom it was to be) which was propheſied of to come.

In Saracen. Frid. Sylburgii (citante Martinio p. 1903. Lex.) Οἱ Σαρρακηνοὶ μέχρι τ῀ Ἡρακλείᾳ τ῀ βασιλέως χρόνων εἰδωλολάτρουν περσικυνοῦντες τὴ Ἐωσφόρῳ ἄστρῳ, καὶ τῇ Ἀφροδίτῃ, ἣν δὴ καὶ ΧΑΒΑΡ τῇ ἑαυτῶν ἐπονομάζουσι γλώττῃ. δηλοῖ δὲ ἡ λέξις αὕτη τὸν μεγάλην.

Again, neither Saracen nor Turk (the greateſt unchriſtian States ſince Chriſt) neither of theſe, I ſay, can be the Antichriſt we ſpeak of; nor their Blaſphemy that Myſtery of iniquity foretold by the Apoſtles and Prophets.

For

For there are two unqueſtionable Characters of that Myſtery, which will neither of them, without doubt not both of them, agree to Turk or Saracen; namely, Firſt, That it ſhould ſit in the Great City, which in S. John's time reigned over the nations of the earth: Secondly, That it ſhould be an Apoſtaſie from the Chriſtian faith once embraced. But the Turk, whatſoever he be, is no Apoſtate, being of a Nation which never was Chriſtian: Nor was the ſeat of the Saracen Empire, whilſt it ſtood, either in the Old or New Rome, or near unto either: For I would ſeem to yield for this time, that New Rome or Conſtantinople would ſerve the turn; though I am far enough from believing it. Nor will I allege, that Mahomet himſelf and his Nation were both Paynims when they began their blaſphemie; for you would tell me that Sergius the Monk taught him to make the Alcoran. Nor will I queſtion now whether the Chriſtian or the Mahumetan be the greater Idolater; though the doubt might ſoon be reſolved, ſeeing it is well known that the Mahumetans worſhip no Images. But I have alleged nothing but what is without exception, that both thoſe Characters I ſpake of cannot be applied either to Turk or Saracen, though I believe that neither can be. When I ſpake of Paynims and Mahumetans, I would have you remember that there were ſome blaſphemous Sects in the firſt Ages of the Church, which are no more to be accounted of as Chriſtians then Mahumetans and Paynims are; nay Mahumetaniſm is nearer Chriſtianity then many of them were: For amongſt whom the Chriſtians Deity is not received and worſhipped, thoſe, though they ſpring up in imitation of Chriſtianity, I account but new Paynim-blaſphemies, and not Chriſtian hereſies. Such were the Cerinthians*, Marcionites, Saturnians, Valentinians, and Manichees, &c. which neither profeſſed the ſame Deity, nor acknowledged that Divine Word which we Chriſtians do: whereas yet the Mahumetans worſhip the ſame God with Jews and Chriſtians, God the Creator of Heaven and Earth, the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob; howſoever they conceive otherwiſe of his Nature and Properties then Chriſtians do. But this by the way, leſt it might put a rub in our diſcourſe of Spiritual fornication.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Mahomet in Alcorano inducit Deum ad ſe ità loquentem: Pauper fuiſti & ditavi te; Idolis ſerviſti, & vocavi te, Henten. in Præfat. ad Aretham in Apocal. Mahomet was a Paynim, neither circumciſed as the other Arabians were, nor baptized till he begun his falſe Prophecy; when Abdalla the Jew did the one unto him, and Sergius the Monk conferred the other.

* Tertul. in his De Reſurrectione Carnis calls theſe Hereticks, Alterius divinitatis Haretici.

But you will ſtill allege for her behalf who ſeems all this while to be charged, That Antichriſt and the Man of ſin is ſet forth in Scripture as the moſt hatefull and execrable thing that can be in the eyes of God Almighty: But how can ſuch a thing be ſaid, and comparatively to be, where the true God, with Chriſt his Son, God and man, are in any ſort acknowledged and worſhipped?

Lord! that the whole ſtrain of Scripture, in the Prophets eſpecially, and the example of the Church of Iſrael, ſhould not cure this web, and take this filme from the eyes of men! Doth not the Lord ſay of Iſrael, that he had choſen them to be a ſpecial people to himſelf, above all people that are upon the face of the earth? Deut. 7. 6. You only have I known (ſaith he) of all the families of the earth, Amos 3. 2. And is not Chriſt the Lord of Chriſtians? and is not the Church his Spouſe? τὸ μυστήριον τοῦτο μέγα ἐστὶ, ſaith S. Paul, Epheſ. 5. 32. This is a great Myſtery. No marvel then where this Myſtery is not conſidered, if the Myſtery of iniquity be not underſtood.

Alas poor Church of Iſrael! thy caſe it ſeems ſhould have been a very hard one, for what Nation in the world ever ſuffered ſo much rebuke, ſo many plagues, ſo much wrath, as thou haſt done? Yet couldſt thou ſay for thy ſelf, thou never forſookeſt the true God altogether, but waſt ſtill called by his Name; only thou wouldeſt fain worſhip him in Calves and Images, as other Nations, thy neighbours, did their Gods; thou wouldeſt needs follow follow the faſhion, and this was thine errour. Thou never meanteſt to caſt off thy Jehovah altogether, but ſtill wouldſt have him to be thy God, and thy ſelf to be his people; yet thou tookeſt this liberty, to have other Gods beſides the Lord thy God, viz. thy Baalims and Dæmon-Gods of other Nations about thee; and yet hopedſt that Jehovah the God of heaven, thy only Sovereign God, would not be offended thereat, ſince thou retainedſt him ſtill in chief place and honour with thee.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Why was thy God then ſo unkind and cruel unto thee, to call thee Whore, and Proſtitute Whore, ſo often? all his Prophets continually baiting thee with that ſo foul and odious a name of abominable Harlot? Why did he ſcatter thee, and even cart thee naked among the Nations, afore his jealouſie would be ſatisfied? For it ſeems he is far more indulgent to his Second wife, the Church of the Gentiles: for ſhe worſhips her God in Images and Crucifixes, yea calls a piece of Bread her Lord and her God, and yet ſaith, he is no whit jealous of her, but well pleaſed. She, though eſpouſed to Chriſt Jeſus, the Son of the living God, as her ſole Mediator and Interceſſor in the preſence of God his Father, yet thinks ſhe may fall down to Saints and Angels, yea to as many Images of them as ever the Jews had of their Baalims, or the Gentiles of their Dæmons. And yet, forſooth, becauſe ſhe makes her Lord the chiefeſt ſtill in the honour of her affection, and uſes the reſt of her Lovers no farther then ſhe may ſtill yield the firſt and chief place to him, ſhe verily ſuppoſes he is no whit offended with her: whereas Iſrael ſhould have been called a Whore a thouſand times over for as little as this; yea and like enough to have been carted too, and her noſe ſlit (Ezek. 23. 25.) long before this time.

Nay, but ſhe wipes her mouth, and asks why her Lord ſhould be angry; for ſhe calls him ſtill her Lord, and acknowledges and profeſſeth him ſtill to be her Husband. If he hath a mind to be angry with any, let him go to the Turks, Tartars and other Mahumetans, or to the Paynims, who will not acknowledge him at all to be their Lord, though he hath offered himſelf, and perhaps wooed ſome of them; but they would none of him, but have married themſelves to other husbands: here, if he will be jealous, is matter for his jealouſie.

Hieron. in ca. 43. Ezek. Ego hoc arbitror, quòd non polluat nomen Domini, niſi ille qui viſus eſt nomini ejus credere: Et quomodo tollit membra Chriſti, & facit membra meretricis, qui priùs Chriſto credidit; ſic ille polluit nomen Domini, qui priùs nominis ejus fidem ſuſcoperit.

But thou Chriſt-apoſtaticall Strumpet, knoweſt thou not the firſt Commandment of thy Chriſtian Decalogue to be, Thou ſhalt have no other Chriſts but me? What doeſt thou then with ſo many Chriſtlings? Knoweſt thou not that an Husband is more grieved and diſhonoured by his Wife's adultery, then if any other women whatſoever, yea ſuppoſe his kinſwomen and daughters, ſhould play the harlots?

What are Turks, Tartars, or any other unbelieving Nation under Heaven, unto thy Lord and Saviour? are they not all as Strangers to him, and he to them? But as for thee, he had choſen thee out of many Nations to eſpouſe thee to himſelf; ſo that thou mayeſt ſay with Iſrael, Iſa. 63. 19. We are thine; but as for them, thou never bareſt rule over them, they were not called by thy Name. But to thee (to uſe the words of Ezechiel, chap. 16. v. 8, &c.) He ſware an oath, and entered into a covenant with thee, and thou becameſt his, and wert called, and wilt ſtill be called by his name. Thee he waſhed with water, yea, throughly waſhed thee from the pollution of thy birth, and anointed thee with oyle. Thou waſt decked with gold and ſilver, and thy rayment was of fine linen, and ſilk, and broidered work; thou didſt eat fine flour, and honey, and oyle, and waſt exceeding beautiful, and didſt proſper into a Kingdom. And thy renown went forth among the Heathen for thy beauty; for it was perfect through the comelineſſe which the Lord thy God had put upon thee. But thou didſt truſt in thine own beauty, and playedſt the Harlot becauſe cauſe of thy renown, and pouredſt out thy fornications upon every one that paſſed by. And of thy garments thou didſt take, and deckedſt thy high places with divers colours, and playedſt the Harlot thereupon. Thou haſt alſo taken thy fair jewels of thy Lord's gold, and of thy Lord's ſilver, which he had given thee, and madeſt to thy ſelf Images of men, and didſt commit whoredom with them; And tookeſt thy broidered garments, and coveredſt them: and thou haſt ſet the Lord's oyl and his incenſe before them, &c. The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Judge now between the Lord and his people, ye that have Wives, give ſentence ye Husbands, whether of the two in queſtion hath moſt diſhonoured our Lord and Saviour; which of the two is moſt like to fret him, and kindle the coals of fury and jealouſie: Thoſe who never were in covenant with him, nor yet are called by his name; or whether his Spouſe, his darling and beloved one, to whom he was betrothed and married. Judge according to the manner of Wedlock, and the notorious precedent of Iſrael. He that is a Father (we ſay) is beſt able to underſtand the love of a Father, and therefore God's love to his children: For the like reaſon, he that is an Husband is ſenſible of the jealouſie of an Husband, and ſo of the caſe of Chriſt with his unfaithful and treacherous Spouſe the Chriſtian Jezabel.

The deciſion and ſumme of all is this, That the Whoredom of the Church of God is a Spiritual Adultery; and therefore between the Idolatry of Chriſtians and that of Infidels and Paynims is as much difference, in God's eſteem, as is between Adultery and ſimple Fornication. The one, as equal to Murther, was in the Law puniſhed with death; the other with a much lighter puniſhment. Whence in Ezechiel (in whoſe words I have been ſo long) Chapter 16. verſe 38. God ſaith to Jeruſalem for their Idolatry, that he would judge her as women that break wedlock and ſhed blood are judged: he would give her blood in fury and jealouſie. And this was the reſolution of God himſelf againſt Iſrael, Amos 3. 1, 2. Hear this word that the LORD hath ſpoken againſt you, O children of Iſrael, ſaying, You onely have I known of all the families of the earth; therefore will I puniſh you for all your iniquities. And the ſame will be the judgement of the Chriſtian Jezabel (howſoever Paynims and Infidels ſpeed) when Great Babylon ſhall come in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceneſs of his wrath. Apocal. 16. 19.

This I would have well conſidered and weighed by thoſe whom the Mahumetan blaſphemy hath ſo dazeled, that they can hardly believe that ſo hated and execrable a name as that of Babylon ſhould belong unto any other, unleſs there be yet to come ſome other like barbarous Tyrant and ſeducer after them. The cauſe of which errour is, That men have fancied another manner of Antichriſt then the Holy Ghoſt meant of, and placed their eyes farre wide of the ground of God's hatred, and of the nature of that Myſtery of Abomination. But Iſrael's Apoſtaſie, God's Jealouſie, and their unparallel'd Puniſhment therefore, ſuch as no Nation in the World, how Idolatrous ſoever, endured beſides themſelves, are in this caſe the onely Pole-ſtarre to direct us.

But even this miſtake, which is and hath been of the Myſtery of iniquity, is it ſelf a kind of Myſtery, or not without one: For Antichriſt is a Counter-Chriſt, and therefore his Coming to be a Counter-reſemblance of the Coming of Chriſt.

Chriſt was both to come, and accordingly; looked for in the Laſt times, that is, in the time of the Fourth Kingdom of Daniel: So Antichriſt and his Myſtery of impiety was to be ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, in the Latter times of thoſe Laſt times, that is (as I ſhall better ſhew hereafter) in the Laſt times or Laſt Scene (as I may ſo ſpeak) of the Fourth Kingdom of Daniel.

When

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

When Chriſt came the Sceptre was to depart from Judah, and that Commonwealth to be diſſolved: So when Antichriſt was to come, the Roman Empire was to fall, and He that hindered was to be taken out of the way, 2 Theſſal. 2. 7.

The Jews expected Chriſt to come when he did come, and yet knew him not when he was come; becauſe they had fanſied the manner and quality of his coming like ſome temporal Monarch, with armed power, to ſubdue the earth before him: So the Chriſtians, God's ſecond Iſrael, looked the coming of Antichriſt ſhould be at that time when he came indeed, and yet they knew him not when he was come; becauſe they had fanſied his coming as of ſome barbarous Tyrant, who ſhould with armed power not only perſecute and deſtroy the Church of Chriſt, but almoſt the World; that is, they looked for ſuch an Antichriſt as the Jews looked for a Chriſt.

Wherefore as Chriſt came unto his own, and his own received him not; ſo Antichriſt came upon thoſe who were not his own, and yet they eſchewed him not: But yet as ſome Jews (though few) knew Chriſt when he came, and received him; ſo did ſome Chriſtians (though but few) keep themſelves from the pollution of Antichriſt.

Laſtly, as the Jews ere long ſhall acknowledge and run unto him, whom they pierced as not knowing him: So hath the Chriſtian Church, for a great part, diſcovered that Son of perdition, whom a long time they had ignorantly worſhipped, becauſe they knew him not. O the depth of the riches both of the wiſdom and knowledge of GOD! how unſearchable are his judgements, and his ways paſt finding out!

But for our part, ſeeing our caſe is ſo like unto that of the Jews, let their lamentable and woful error, in miſtaking their Meſſiah by wrongly fanſying him, be a warning and caveat unto us, that we likewiſe upon like conceits and prejudice miſtake and miſdeem not the Man of ſin.

TINEΣ, SOME.

CHAP. IX.

The Second Particular in the Deſcription of the Great Apoſtaſy, viz. The Perſons apoſtatizing, expreſt by TINEΣ SOME. The Great Apoſtaſy was to be a General one. That the word [TINEΣ SOME] doth not always imply a Few or a Small number, proved by ſeveral paſſages in Scripture. The true Church of Chriſt was never wholly extinguiſht. Wherein we and the Papiſts differ about the Churche's Viſibility. In what reſpects our Church was Viſible, and in what it was Inviſible under the Apoſtaſie and Reign of Antichriſt. This further cleared by the parallel ſtate of the Iſraelitiſh Church under the Apoſtaſy of Iſrael.

NOW I come unto the Second point expreſſed in this Deſcription of the Great Apoſtaſie, namely, The Perſons Revolters; They ſhould not be all, but TINEΣ SOME. Τινὲς ἀποστήσονται, Some ſhall apoſtatize. Some, that is, not (as we in our Engliſh do often uſe it) a Few; but Some, that is, not All; yet Some, that is, So many, as that the whole viſible Church ſhould be ſaid thereof to be Apoſtatized; So many as ſhould like a Cloud over-ſpread the face of the Chriſtian Firmament, in ſuch ſort as the Starrs and Lights therein ſhould not eaſily be diſcerned. For the Great Defection

Defection ſo much propheſied of was to be a Solemn and General one; ſuch a one as wherein the chieſeſt of the Churches, honoured as a Mother in Iſrael, ſhould become a Babyloniſh Whore, a Mother of Harlots and of the abominations of the Earth, Revelat. 17. ſuch a one as whereby the Outmoſt Court of the Temple of God ſhould not onely be prophaned, but troden down by Gentiliſme, Revelat. 11. ſuch a one as the World is ſaid to wonder after the Beaſt, and to worſhip him; and ſuch a one as ſhould not onely make warre with the Saints, but overcome them, Revelat. 13. Otherwiſe, if our Apoſtle here, and S. John there, ſhould mean no more but the Errours of ſome particular ones, and their Revolt from the Faith of the Church, they ſhould make either no Prophecy at all, or at the beſt but a needleſs one.

For who knows not that in S. Paul's, S. John's, and the Apoſtles own times, were many Hereſies and Hereticks grown up as weeds in the wheatfield of Chriſt? but as yet the wheat overtopped them, and the viſible body of the Church diſclaimed them. If theſe had been the worſt the Church ſhould look for, the Apoſtles ſhould ſeem to propheſie of things preſent, and not as they do of things to come; yea and more then this, they ſhould foretell of a thing as proper and peculiar to the Laſt times, which was no Novelty in their own times.

We muſt take notice therefore that the Apoſtaſy and Corruption of Faith ſo much propheſied of, was another manner of one then that which was ſo frequent in thoſe firſt times; ſuch a kind of one as ſhould not be diſclaimed by the Viſible body of the Church, but ſhould ſurpriſe, eclipſe and overcloud the beautiful face thereof: which manner of Defection never had been before, nor ſhould the like be after it.

Now that the word TINE'Σ or SOME uſeth in Scripture to imply no ſmall number, but onely ſerves to intimate an exception of ſome particulars, though there were but two or three to be excepted, I will make manifeſt by a few examples, leſt our Engliſh uſe might deceive us.

Firſt, John 6.60. Many of the Diſciples, (ſaith the Text) when they heard this, ſaid, This is an hard ſaying; and verſ. 66. Many of his Diſciples from that time went back, and walked no more with him: Nevertheleſs concerning theſe many Chriſt himſelf ſaith, v. 64. Ἀλλ' εἰσὶν ἐξ ὑμῶν τινες, But there are Some of you which believe not: Here we ſee that Some is a great many. So Rom. 11.17. S. Paul there ſaith of the rejection of the Jews, Some of the branches are broken off: Now what a Some this was appears in the ſame Chapter, v. 32. when he ſaith, God hath included them ALL in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon ALL. But to ſeek no further, the 1 Cor. 10. will ſtore us with examples: as v. 7. Neither be ye Idolaters, καθώς τινες αὐτῶν, as Some of them were; this was a great Some, for Moſes ſaith of it, Exodus 32.3. And ALL the people brake off their golden Eare-rings, and brought them to Aaron. In v. 8. Neither let us commit fornication, as Some of them; which were ſo many, Num. 25.4. that the Lord ſaid to Moſes, Take ALL the heads of the people, and hang them up before the Lord, that the fierce anger of the Lord may be turned away from Iſrael; and v. 3. it is ſaid in general, And Iſrael joyned himſelf to Baal-Peor. Again in the ſame Chap. v. 9. it is ſaid, Neither let us tempt Chriſt, as Some of them alſo tempted, and were deſtroyed of Serpents; and verſe 10. Neither murmure, as Some of them alſo murmured: this Some was a great Some indeed, even all the people, ſave Moſes, Joſhua and Caleb; whereof is ſaid, Numb. 14.1. And ALL the Congregation lifted up their voice and wept; and v. 2. And ALL the Children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron; and the WHOLE Congregation ſaid unto them, Would God that we had died, &c. wherefore they were as largely puniſhed, all of them dying in the wilderneſs, Joſhua and Caleb excepted. Theſe places of many will suffice, to shew that the word [SOME] in my Text intends not to extenuate the number of Apostates, as implying they should be but Few; but onely shews they should not be All: For where the Apostates are but five, Some, there Some also are not Apostates, but excepted from the common Defection, wherewith the rest were miserably overwhelmed.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

The Observation therefore which this TINES SOME affords us is, That the true Church of Christ was never wholy extinguished, nor the light of his Gospel ever quite put out, no, not in the greatest darkness that ever was to overwhelm it. By the true Church of Christ I understand That holy Society and Company of Believers, which as they accord and are joyned together in one common Faith of all Divine Truths needful to Salvation, so are they also free from the fellowship of such enormous abominations and mortal errours as destroy and overturn it. This is that Society whereof, by the grace of Almighty God, we glory to be the members; This that Society which in the Primitive times grew and flourished; This that Society which (when the times foretold of the Churche's Eclipse came, and the Great Apostasie had overspred the face thereof) was indeed much impaired, indangered and obscured, but never was totally extinguished, but continued even under the Jurisdiction of the Man of sin, yea in Babylon it self where he had this Throne: For doth not Christ at length say, Apoc. 18.4. Come out of her my people? How could they come out thence, unless they had been there? Or how should Antichrist sit in the Temple of God, 2 Thess. 2.4. unless God's Temple were even there where Antichrist sate? As a few living embers in a heap of dying ashes; As a little Wheat in a field overgrown with weeds; As the Lights of the heaven in a firmament overcast with clouds; As a little pure Gold in a great mass of dross and mixed metall: Such was the faithful Company of Christ in the Apostate body of Christendom, the * Virgin-Church in the midst of Babylon.

* Apoc. 14.4.

But, will our Adversaries say, This is not sufficient to make you the true Church of Christ, because some of you have alwaies been; but you must prove also that you have alwaies visibly been: For the true Catholick Church must not only never have been interrupted or extinguished, but it must have been a Society visibly known unto the world, and not as Embers in the ashes, but as a burning and shining Flame.

But this Objection deserves no answering; because our Adversaries (howsoever they would dissemble it) do but play upon the present advantage which they think their own Church hath in this point above ours: Otherwise, when they forget the contention they have with us, and are in a calmer mood, they can be pleased to deliver other doctrine, which if they would be so ingenuous as alwaies to remember, we needed not such a stir about the point of the Churche's Visibility. For the difference between them and us hereabout is not so great as they would make it seem. They themselves, and the Fathers also, teach, That when Antichrist cometh, the Visibility of the Church shall be eclipsed: nay they affirm more then we usually in that case require; For then, they say, the use of the Sacraments shall cease; no Eucharist, no Mass, no publick Assemblies, yea all Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction shall be extinguished. But here lies all the difference; They hold the glorious Visibility of the true Church to have continued from the beginning unto this present, and the overshadowing of the Light and Eclipse of the glory thereof under Antichrist to be yet to come: We on the contrary maintain, the clouding of the Churche's Visibility under the Man of sin to have been already, and some part of the Visible splendor thereof to be yet to come: Both agreeing in this, that in the fatal Apostasy the Churche's Visibility and Glory should cease: but we say, That time hath been already; they they ſay, It is yet to come: we ſay, That time of darkneſs was to continue many ages; they ſay, When it comes, it ſhall laſt but three ſingle years and a half. Seeing therefore the whole Controverſie lies in the point of Time, Whether the Churche's fatal Apoſtaſie be already paſt or yet to come; it would be much the ſhorter and quicker courſe for both them and us to decide this Controverſie, To examine the condition and quality of both Religions by the Holy Scripture, where we have alſo, as S. Peter ſpeaks, a moſt ſure word of Prophecie, whereunto we ſhall doe well if we take heed, as to a light ſhining in a dark place.

Now though this Anſwer be ſufficient enough for the Objection of our Adverſaries; yet for the better underſtanding and clearer inſight into the matter queſtioned, we will further conſider, Whether and in what manner or meaſure our Church may be ſaid to have been Viſible during the prevailing Apoſtaſie, and in what reſpect again it was not Viſible; and in both agreeable to the State of the true Church under the frequent Apoſtaſies of Iſrael.

Firſt therefore, we muſt know that by A Viſible Chriſtian Society in this Queſtion is meant A Society or Company of Chriſtian Believers joyned together in one external Fellowſhip and Communion of the ſame publick Profeſſion and Rule of Faith, uſe of Sacraments, and Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction; For theſe make the outward form, and as it were ſhape of the Church, whereby this Society is diſcernable from other Societies of men: So that a Society by this outſide ſevered and diſtinguiſhed from other Societies, is a Society viſible and conſpicuous to other Societies of men.

The Queſtion therefore is, Whether that holy Society of Believers before mentioned, who accorded together in one Common Faith with us of all Divine Truths needful to Salvation, and kept themſelves free from ſuch enormous abominations and mortal errours, which we now diſclaim, as utterly annihilating that Common Faith, Whether ſuch a Society as this has been in all Ages, joyned and diſtinguiſhed by ſuch a common out-ſide from other Companies, either of men in general, or Chriſtians in ſpecial; or in ſhorter, and perhaps plainer, terms thus, Whether the Society of men of our Chriſtian belief hath in all ages been for the out-ſide a diſtinct Eccleſiaſtical Corporation from other Societies of men.

My Anſwer is, That for the Firſt Ages it was ſo; not only thus Viſible, but eaſily diſcernable from all other Societies of men whatſoever: But afterward, when the Great Apoſtaſie we ſpeak of ſurprized and deformed the beautiful Spouſe of Chriſt, then was not that Virgin-Company of Saints, our Mother, a diſtinct external Society from the reſt of Chriſtendom; but a Part, yea and the onely found Part, of that External and Viſible Body whereof our Adverſaries boaſt their predeceſſors to have been members. For howſoever this our Virgin-Mother, for the inward and inviſible communion of her ſincere and unſtained Faith, were a diſtinct and ſevered Company from the reſt with whom ſhe lived; yet, for the Common Principles of the Chriſtian Faith ſtill acknowledged in that corrupt body of Chriſtendom, ſhe retained communion with them, and for the moſt part of that time of darkneſs continued an External part of the ſame Viſible Body with the reſt in groſs call'd Chriſtians; as being begotten by the ſame Sacrament of Baptiſm (as the Iſraelites in the like caſe of Circumciſion) taught in ſome part by the ſame Word and Paſtours ſtill continued amongſt them, and ſubmitting to the ſame Juriſdiction and Government, ſo farre as theſe or any of theſe had yet ſome ſoundneſs remaining in them. But for the reſt which was not compatible with her ſincere and unſtained Faith, and which annihilated, in thoſe it ſurpriſed, even thoſe Common Grounds of Chriſtianity otherwise outwardly professed; she with her children either wisely avoided all communion with it, or if they could not, then patiently suffered for their conscience sake under the hands of Tyrants, called Christians; until that Tyranny growing insupportable, and that mortal contagion unavoidable, it pleased God, lest we might have been as Sodom and Gomorrah, to begin to call us thence at the time appointed unto a greater Liberty, as we see this day.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

As therefore when a little Gold is mixed with a great quantity of base and counterfeit metall, so that of both is made but one mass or lump, each metall, we know, still retains its nature diverse from the other, and yet outwardly and visibly is not to be discerned the one from the other; but both are seen together as they are outwardly one, but cannot be distinguished by the eye as they are diverse and several; the Gold is Visible as it is one mass, and under the same outside and figure with the rest, yet it is truly Invisible as it is diverse from the rest: but when the Refiner comes and severs them, then will each metall appear in his own colours, and put on his own outside, and so become Visible apart from the rest: Such is the case here, and such was the State and Condition of the Church in the prevailing and great Apostasie; the purer metall of the Visible Christian Body was not outwardly discernable from the base and counterfeit, while one outside covered them, and so much the rather, because the Apostate part in a great proportion exceeding the sound, made it imperceptible: but when the time of Refining came, then was our Church not first founded in the true Faith, (God forbid) but a Part of the Christian Body newly refined from such Corruptions as time had gathered; even as Gold refined begins not then first to be Gold, though it begin but then to be refined Gold.

WHATSOEVER we have hitherto spoken of the State of the true Believers under the Apostasie of Antichrist, is the same which befell the true Israelites in the Apostasie of Israel. And doth not S. Peter intimate that the Apostasie which should betide Christians should be like to that which we reade to have befallen Israel, 2 Pet. 2. 1? There were (saith he) False Prophets also among the people, (i. e. Israelites) even as there shall be False teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable Heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them. If the Apostasie of Christians were to be of the same stamp with that of Israel, and the Heresies brought into Christendom by the false Doctors of Babylon, like unto those wherewith the false Prophets of Israel infected and poisoned the ancient people of God; surely we cannot find a better Pattern whereby to know what was the state and condition of the unstained Christian Believers under the Apostasie of the Man of sin, then that which was of the true Israelites under the Apostasie of Israel. For the right understanding whereof, we must alwaies remember that the Israelitish Church did at no time altogether renounce the true and living God, not in their worst times; but in their own conceit and profession they acknowledged him still, and were called his people, and he their God, though they worshipped others beside him: So Christians in their Apostasy neither did nor were to make an absolute Apostasie from God the Father and Christ their Redeemer, but in an outward profession still to acknowledge him, and to be called Christians; though by their Idolatry and spiritual whoredoms they indeed denied the Lord that bought them, (i.e.) whom they profest to be their Redeemer; just as Israel for the like is said to have forsaken the Lord their God that brought them out of the Land of Ægypt. Here therefore the case of both is alike; let us also see the rest.

You ask, Where was the true Church we speak of in Antichrist's time? I ask likewise, Where was the Company of true worshippers in Ahab's time?

was

was it not so covered and scattered under the Apostate Israelites, that Elias himself, who was one of it, could scarce find it? I have been very jealous (saith he) for the Lord God of hosts; because the children of Israel have forsaken thy Covenant, thrown down thy Altars, and slain thy Prophets with the sword; and I, even I alone am left, and they seek my life to take it away, 1 Kings 19. 14. Yet the Lord tells him, vers. 18. I have yet left me seven thousand in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him. Yet I trow these seven thousand were not outwardly severed from the rest of Israel, but remained still external members of the same Visible body with them. But you will except, that the true and unstained Church in Judah was still visible and apparent. I ask you then, Where was the Company of the true worshippers of Jehovah in Manasses time, the worst time of all other? when the ten Tribes were carried captive, and but Judah and Benjamin onely left; and they, as far as the eye of man can see, wholly and generally fallen from the Lord their God to all manner of Idols and Idolatries, like unto the abominations of the heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel: when in the Temple it self, the only place where the true God was legally to be worshipt, were Idolatrous Altars erected, even in the House whereof the Lord had said, In this House and in Jerusalem will I put my name for ever; even in this House, this holy House, were Idols and graven Images erected, and in both Courts thereof Altars to Baalim, the Sun, the Moon, and the whole host of heaven, the like whereof never had been untill that time. Besides, who is able to name the man for almost fifty years together that remained a Faithful servant and True worshipper of the Living God in the midst of this hideous profanation? Nor is it easie to be conceived, how it was possible all that time to offer any Legal sacrifice without Idolatry, when God's own Temple and House was made a den of Idols; nay his Altar, the only Altar of Israel, destroyed, to make room for Altars erected to Idols; as may be gathered 2 Chron. 33. 15, 16. Where was the true Church of Israel now? or had the Lord no Church at all? Yes certainly, he had a Church, and a Company which defiled not their garments; a Company (I say,) but not visibly distinguished from the rest of their Nation, but hidden as it were in the midst of that Apostate body, and yet known together with the rest to be Israelites and people of Jehovah; but known to God alone and themselves to be true Israelites and faithful servants to Jehovah their God. And that such a Company there was, and a strong party too, though not seen, appeared presently upon the death of Manasses and his wicked son, when Josiah began to reign at eight years of age. For they then prevailed even in the Court it self, and so brought up the King, that even while he was yet young, in the eighth year of his reign, he began to seek after the God of David his father, and in the twelfth year to make a publick and powerful Reformation, such as the like was never done before him. Could all this have been done so soon, and by a King so young in years, and to carry all before it like a torrent, unless there had been a strong party, which now having a King for them, began quickly to shew themselves and to sway the State, though before they were hardly to be seen?

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

2 Chron. 33.

2 Chron. 34.

When therefore our Adversaries ask us where our Church was before Luther, we see by this what we have to answer.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς.

CHAP. XI.

The Third Particular, or The Time of the Apoſtaſy. That the Laſt Times in Scripture ſignifie either a Continuation of Time, or an End of Time. That the Laſt Times ſimply and in general are the Times of Chriſtianity; the Laſt Times in ſpecial and comparatively, or the Latter Times of the Laſt Times, are the Times of the Apoſtaſy under Antichriſt. That the Times are ſet out to us to be as Marks to inform us when the Things to fall out in them ſhould come to paſs; and not the Things intended for ſigns to know the Times by. This Obſervation illuſtrated from Dan. 8.

OF the two firſt Particulars of the Four, whereby the Great Apoſtaſy of Chriſtian Believers is here decypher'ed, I have ſpoken ſufficiently; viz. Firſt, for the Quality and kind thereof, it ſhould be a new Doctrine of Dæmons: Secondly, that for the Perſons revolting, they ſhould not be All, but Some. Now I am to ſpeak of the Third, The Time when, Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, In the Latter Times.

For the eaſier underſtanding whereof, we muſt know that ſpeeches of Laſt Times in Scripture mean ſometimes a Continuation or Length of time; ſometimes an End of time.

A Continuation of time I mean, as when we ſay that Winter is the Laſt time or ſeaſon of the year, or old age the Latter time of life; neither of them being the very End, but a ſpace of time next the end; which therefore, in reſpect of ſome whole Syſteme of time, whereof it is the Laſt part, is truly termed the Laſt time thereof. Man's life is a Syſteme of divers ages, the Laſt ſpace whereof is the Laſt time of life. The Year is a Syſteme of four ſeaſons, and therefore the Laſt ſeaſon thereof, Winter, may be called the Laſt time of the year. But by an End of time, I mean the very expiring of time, as the Laſt day of December is the End or Laſt time of the year; the moment when a man dies is the Laſt time, that is, the End of his life.

Now in the New Teſtament, when by mention of Laſt time is meant an End or Terminus temporis, I obſerve it to be expreſt in the Singular number; as Ἐσχάτη ἡμέρα the Laſt day, being four times mentioned in the ſixth of John, and once in the eleventh, is in every one of them meant of the Day of the Reſurrection at the End of the world. I will raiſe him up, ſaith our Saviour, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ, in the laſt day, John 6. 39, 40, 44, 54. And Martha of her brother Lazarus, I know (ſaith ſhe) he ſhall riſe again in the Reſurrection, ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ, at the Laſt day, John 11. 24. So 1 Pet. 1. 5. ἐσχατῷ καιρῷ, the laſt time, is uſed in the ſelf-ſame ſenſe, being ſpoken of the incorruptible inheritance reſerved in heaven, and to be revealed (ſaith the Apoſtle) ἐν καιρῷ ἐσχάτῳ, in the Laſt time. In all which is meant the End of the world. But in 1 John 2. 18. we have ἐσχάτη ὥρα, the Laſt hour, Little children, it is the Laſt hour; where no doubt he meaneth an End of ſome time, but not the End of the world, which was then farre off; but an End of their time to whom he then wrote his Epiſtle, (that is,) an End of the Jewiſh State and Religion, which was then at the very door: which Expoſition I will make more plain hereafter.

But when a Continuation or Longer ſpace of time is ſignified, then I find the Plural number to be uſed; as 1 Pet. 1. 20. of the Incarnation of Chriſt it is ſaid, that he was fore-ordained before the foundation of the world, but was made made manifeſt ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν χρόνων in the Laſt times, which times have continued theſe 1600 years at the leaſt. So Heb. 1. 2. God (ſaith S. Paul) ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῶν ἡμερῶν in theſe Laſt days hath ſpoken unto us by his Son. And 2 Tim. 3. 1. This know alſo, Ὅτι ἐν ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις that in the Laſt days perilous times ſhall come. Again, Acts 2. 17. In the Laſt days I will pour out of my Spirit upon all fleſh. In the 2 Pet. 3. 3. Ἐπ' ἐσχάτου τῶν ἡμερῶν, In the Laſt days ſhall come ſcoffers. And ſo in my Text, Ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς, In the Latter times ſome ſhall revolt from the Faith, and give heed to Doctrines of Damons.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Whatſoever the validity of this obſervation be, for the reſt I make no queſtion but it will be granted, That ὕστεροι καιροὶ in my Text means ſome Continued ſpace of time, and not Terminus temporis or the very End of time: which therefore preſuppoſed, I approch one ſtep nearer, laying this for a ſecond ground of our diſcovery, That theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter times, whereof S. Paul ſpeaks and means, were Times not then preſent, but afterward to come: For the words of the Text are not a Narration of things preſent, but a Prediction (as I have already admoniſhed) of what ſhould betide the Chriſtian Faith in after-times. Yet notwithſtanding were the Times wherein S. Paul lived, and all the Times of Chriſtianity, the Laſt times, and ſo ſtyled in Scripture even by our Apoſtle himſelf, as by ſome of the forecited examples evidently appeareth. Wherefore it muſt needs follow, that the Times here meant and mentioned in my Text are not the Laſt times in general and ſimply, but the Laſt times in ſpecial and comparatively; that is, the Latter times of the Laſt times: That as the Laſt times in general were the times wherein CHRIST the Sun of Righteouſneſs was to be revealed, and his Kingdom founded in the World; ſo the Latter times of theſe Laſt times ſhould be the times wherein the Apoſtaſie of the Chriſtian Faith ſhould prevail, and that Wicked one uſurp the Throne of Chriſt.

Before therefore that we can know what are the Laſt times comparatively (that is, the Latter times, or the Laſt of the laſt) we muſt firſt underſtand what are the Laſt times ſimply and in general; why ſo called, whence reckoned, and how limited: For then will theſe Latter times in my Text, which are the Laſt part of them, be eaſily found, and in a manner demonſtrated.

As for the Laſt times therefore in general, moſt uſe to deſcribe them only thus, To be the times of the Kingdom of CHRIST, which began at his Paſſion, to continue unto the end of the World; which in reſpect that it ſucceeds the Legal worſhip, and no other ſhall ſucceed it, is therefore the Laſt time. In like manner the ὕστεροι καιροὶ allotted to the Man of ſin are (as I take it) uſually no otherwiſe deſcribed then to be the Times wherein the Apoſtaſie ſhould appear; which in that it ſhould immediately precede the Second coming of CHRIST, is therefore to be eſteemed the Laſt times of all. But theſe deſcriptions are obſcurum per magis obſcurum, they declare an obſcure thing by that which is or was more obſcure then it; and therefore come ſhort of making good the intent of the Holy Ghoſt in his ſo often mention of the Laſt times, eſpecially in the New Teſtament. For the Laſt times or fulneſs of time were both a ground of the Jews expectation of CHRIST when he came, and are without doubt ſo often propounded and alledged by the Apoſtles for a confirmation of the *truth of his coming. But if the Laſt times could not be known but by his coming, how ſhould his coming be known by them? So alſo the Holy Ghoſt in my Text mentions theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter times for an argument or ſign of the Apoſtaſie to fall out therein, or for a note and mark of time wherein we ſhould look for, and therefore as fore-warned beware of being carried away in that Defection.

Targ. Eccleſ. 1. 11. expounds לאחרנה In noviſſimo ביומי מלכא משיחא In diebus Regis Chriſti.

* μαρτύριον ἰδίοις καιροῖς. 1 Tim. 2. 6.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

But if these Times cannot be known nor described any other way then by the Defection to fall out in them, we should be never a whit the nearer, and this mark of time which the Holy Ghost gives us would stand us in no stead at all.

Let us therefore now take this as a Truth to be supposed, That the Times are set out unto us to be as Marks to inform us when that should come to pass which was to fall out in them, and not the Things which were to befall, intended for Signs to know the Times by. And therefore we are not to doubt but that the Holy Ghost hath somewhere else, by some other mark and ground of Computation, made known unto us when to reckon both the Last times, wherein was foretold that Christ should be anointed; and these Latter times of them, when the Christian Apostasie should be revealed: that so we might have a sure belief in the one, and a certain and sufficient mark when to beware of the other.

The Prophanation of the Legal Sanctuary and trampling down the holy people by Antiochus Epiphanes was marked out in Daniel's prophecie by the like circumstance and determination of time, as is this Apostasie here in our Apostle's prediction. Dan. 8. 23. In the latter time, or * latter end of the Kingdom of Græcia, a King of a fierce countenance shall stand up, viz. He who should magnifie himself against the Prince of the Host of Heaven, and take away the daily Sacrifice, &c. as it is in the Vision which was foreshewed of him Verse 10, 11. Where it would be preposterous to think, that this Latter time or End of the Greek Kingdom could not be defined otherwise then by the Event to fall out therein; and not rather conceive that this determination of time, being such as might otherwise well enough be known, was therefore intended for a Character to observe the Event by. For when was this Latter end of the Greeks Kingdom to be taken notice of, but then when they should see that Kingdom begin to be given unto another people; when the Fourth Kingdom, the Romane State, should once begin to incroach upon the Third? especially when they should see the Head-Province thereof, Greece it self, to come under their obedience; when they should see this, then were they to prepare themselves; for the abomination of desolation was now at the door. And surely the Event was most punctual: For this Roman incroachment, having been some 28 years together manifestly attempting and advancing, was at length accomplished, when Æmilius the Consul having quite vanquished Perseus the King of Macedon, all Greece came under the Romane obedience, 166 years before the Birth of Christ: which no sooner was come to pass, but the very self-same year, within less then three moneths after, Antiochus sets up the abomination of desolation in the Temple of Jerusalem. Why should we not then believe that the Holy Ghost intendeth here to give us as sure a Watch-word when to beware of the Man of sin, by this circumstance of Latter times in my Text, as we see he gave the Jews to look for the Persecution and Prophanation by Antiochus?

* באחרית מלכותם LXX. ἐπ' ἐσχάτων τῆς βασιλείας αὐτῶν.

CHAP.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

CHAP. XII.

A more particular account of the Laſt Times in general, and of the Latter Times of the Laſt Times. That the Four Kingdoms of Daniel are the Great Kalendar (as the LXX weeks the leſſer Kalendar) of Times. That the Times of the Fourth or Laſt Kingdom (that is, the Romane) are the Laſt Times meant in Scripture. That the Latter Times of the Laſt Times are the Latter Times of the Fourth Kingdom, wherein the Great Apoſtaſy ſhould prevail.

THEREFORE without any more preambles, I come now directly to reſolve what was before propounded, viz. Firſt, What is meant by LAST TIMES in general, Whence and How we are to reckon them. And then in the Second place, What are theſe Ὕστεροι καιροὶ LATTER TIMES in my Text, which muſt be, as I ſaid before, a Latter part of that general.

For the true Account therefore of Times in Scripture, we muſt have recourſe to that SACRED KALENDAR and GREAT ALMANACK of PROPHECIE, The Four Kingdoms of Daniel, which are A Propheticall Chronology of Times meaſured by the ſucceſſion of Four principal Kingdoms, from the beginning of the Captivity of Iſrael, untill the Myſterie of God ſhould be finiſhed. A courſe of Time during which the Church and Nation of the Jews, together with thoſe whom by occaſion of their unbelief in Chriſt God ſhould ſurrogate in their rooms, was to remain under the bondage of the Gentiles and oppreſſion of Gentiliſme: But theſe Times once finiſhed, all the Kingdoms of this World ſhould become the Kingdoms of our Lord and his CHRIST. And to this Great Kalendar of Times, together with that other, but leſſer, Kalendar of LXX weeks, all mention of Times in Scripture ſeems to have reference.

Now theſe Four Kingdoms (according to the truth infallibly to be demonſtrated, if need were, and agreeable both to the ancient opinion of the [a] Jewiſh Church whom they moſt concerned, and to the moſt ancient and univerſal opinion of [b] Chriſtians derived from the times of the Apoſtles, untill now of late time ſome have queſtioned it), are, 1. The Babylonian, 2. that of the Medes and Perſians, 3. the Greek, 4. the Roman. In which Quaternary of Kingdoms, as the Roman, being the Laſt of the Four, is the Laſt Kingdom; ſo are the Times thereof thoſe Laſt Times we ſeek for; during which times (ſaith Daniel, chap. 2. v. 44.) The God of Heaven ſhall ſet up a Kingdom which ſhall never be deſtroyed, nor left unto another people, but it ſhall break in pieces and conſume all thoſe Kingdoms, and it ſhall ſtand for ever: which is figured by a Stone hewen out of the mountain without hands, before the times of the Image were yet ſpent; which Stone at length ſmote the Image upon his Feet of Iron and Clay, and ſo utterly deſtroyed it; that done, the Stone that ſmote the Image upon the feet became a great Mountain, and filled the whole earth. The meaning of all which is, That in the Laſt times, or under the Times of the Laſt Kingdom (the Romane) ſhould the Kingdom of CHRIST appear in the World, as we ſee it hath done.

And this is that which the Apoſtle ſaith, Hebrews 1. 2. God in theſe Laſt days, or Laſt times, hath ſpoken to us by his Son: and S. Peter 1 Epiſt. 1. 20. that he was fore-ordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifeſted in theſe Laſt times. This is that Fulneſs of time whereof the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Galat. 4. 4. When the Fulneſs of time was come, God ſent forth his Son made of a woman: and Epheſ. chap. 1. v. 9, 10. Having made known to us

[a] Vide Targ. Habac. 3. 17.
[b] Vide Cyril. Hieroſ. κατηχ. ιε'. & Hieronymi locum infrà citatum.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

Adde here that of Christ himself, Mark 1.15. The time is fulfilled, and the Kingdome of God is at hand. Huc quoque pertinet illud, 1 Tim. 2. 6. μαρτύριον καιροῖς ἰδίοις.

us the mystery of his will——That in the dispensation of the Fulness of times he might gather together in one all things in Christ. Agreeable unto all which is that Hebrews 9. 26. Christ hath once appeared, ἐπὶ συντελείᾳ τῶν αἰώνων, in the end of times, or ages, to put away sin by the Sacrifice of himself: Where these Last times, Fulness of time, and Conclusion of ages, are nothing else but the Times of the Fourth Kingdom, whose Times are the Last period of Daniel's Four, the Fulness of the Propheticall Chronology, and Conclusion of the sacred Kalendar. During these Times Christ was looked for, and accordingly came, and reigned; whose Kingdome shall at length abolish the brittle remainder of this Romish State, according to the other part of the Prophecie, when the Fulness of the Gentiles shall come in, and our Lord subdue all his enemies under his feet, and at the last even Death it self.

HAVING thus found What Times are termed the Last times in general, let us now see if we can discover which are the Latter Times of these Last times, or the Latter times in special, which are those ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter Times in my Text: which will not be hard to doe. For if the Last Times in general are all the Times of the Fourth Kingdom, then must our Latter Times, as a part thereof, needs be the Latter times of that Kingdom. Let us therefore again to our Propheticall Kalendar, and survey Daniel's description of the Fourth or Roman Kingdom, as it is Chapter 7 from verse 19. where we shall soon finde the Latter times thereof to be that Period of a * Time, Times and half a Time, during which that prodigious Horn with eyes like a man, and a mouth speaking great things, should make warre with the Saints, prevail against them, and wear them out, and think to change times and laws, untill the judgement should sit, and his dominion be taken away; and in him that long-lived Beast finally be destroyed, and his body given to the burning flame, verse 11. For this Hornish Sovereignty is the Last Scene of that long Tragedy, and the Conclusion of the Fourth Beast; and therefore the times thereof are those ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter times, whereof the Spirit spake expressly, that in them there should be an Apostasie from the Christian Faith.

* καιρὸς, καιροὶ, καὶ ἥμισυ καιροῦ.

CHAP. XIII.

Two Enquiries concerning the Latter Times. I. What durance they are to be of. Answ. That the Times of the Antichristian State are to last 42 months or 1260 dayes. That hereby cannot be meant three single years and an half, proved by several particulars. Enquiry II. When they begin. Answ. That they take their beginning from the mortal wound of the Imperial Sovereignty of Rome, or the ruine of the Roman Empire. This proved from the Apocalypse, and 2 Thessal. 2. where by the τὸ κατέχον the Fathers generally understand the Roman Empire. The same further proved from Dan. 7. That by the little Horn is meant Antichrist or The man of sin (and not Antiochus Epiphanes) was the judgement of the most ancient Fathers.

CONcerning these Times thus found, we will now further enquire, First, What durance they may be of; Secondly, When they take beginning, and by what mark their beginning may be known.

For the First, we will make no question but these are the self-same Times whereof S. John speaks, telling us That the Church should be in the wilderness a Time, Times, and half a Time; the same with those XLII moneths wherein wherein S. John's reſtored Beaſt ſhould domineer, and play the ſelf-ſame recks which Daniel's Horniſh Tyrant doth; the ſame time with thoſe XLII moneths during which the Church is troden down of the Gentiles; laſtly, the ſame time with 1260 days, during which the Witneſſes of Chriſt prophe-ſied in ſackcloth. For a Time, Times, and half a Time, or a Year, two Years, and a half, are XLII moneths; and XLII moneths make 1260 days. If therefore we can finde the continuance and beginning of any of theſe, we have found the continuance and beginning of them all.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

For the Duration and Length of them, they muſt imply ſome definite time, becauſe the Scripture follows that uſe of ſpeech, and uſeth no number indefinitely, but thoſe which the uſe of ſpeech had made ſuch, as 7. 10. 1000. But mixt and compound numbers, as theſe are, viz. 3½. 42. 1260. are neither in the Hebrew, nor I think in any other tongue, uſed indefinitely.

Of this ſee The Remains, chap. 8. pag. 741.

Our Adverſaries would have them literally underſtood for Three ſingle years and a half, as though it were an Hiſtory, and not a Prophecie: But beſides the uſe of Prophecie to reckon Days for Years, I think it would trouble any man to conceive how ſo many things as ſhould be performed in this time ſhould be done in Three ſingle years and a half. * 1. Ten Kingdoms founded at the ſame time with the Beaſt. 2. Peoples, and multitudes of Nations and Tongues to ſerve and obey him. 3. To make warre with the Saints and overcome them. 4. To cauſe all that dwell upon the Earth to worſhip him. 5. Babylon to ride the Beaſt ſo long, that all Nations ſhall drink of the wine of her fornication, all the Kings of the earth commit fornication with her, yea the Merchants and all thoſe that had ſhips in the Sea to grow rich by trading with her. Methinks all theſe things ſhould ask much more then Three years work or Four either. To which I adde moreover, that that King, State of Government, Sovereignty, or Seigniory, or what you will, of the Beaſt, under which the Whore ſhould ride him, followeth immediately upon a former which in compariſon is ſaid to continue but a ſhort ſpace, Rev. 17. 10. But if the Antichriſtian State ſhall continue but Three years and a half literally taken, how ſhort muſt the time of that foregoing King or Sovereignty be, which ſhould occaſion the Holy Ghoſt to inſert ſo ſingular a note of the difference thereof from that which followed, That it ſhould continue but a ſhort ſpace? Doth not this imply, that the next State (wherein the Whore ſhould ride the Beaſt) was to continue a long ſpace? Therefore Three years and a half Hiſtorically taken cannot be the Time of the Churche's Apoſtaſie and the Antichriſtian Sovereignty of Rome: and if it cannot be taken Hiſtorically, it muſt be taken Prophetically, every Day for a Year; and ſo 1260 days counted ſo many years ſhews the extent of theſe ὑστεροι καιροὶ to be 1260 years.

* See this more fully treated of in The Remains, chap. 9 pag. 742.

NOW for the Second thing propoſed, The Beginning of theſe ὑστεροι καιροὶ Latter Times; S. John tells us in the Revelation, That his Blaſphemous Beaſt of 42 moneths continuance ſhould ſucceed upon the mortal wound of the Cæſarean or Imperial Sovereignty of Rome; and Apocal. 17. the Idolatrous Beaſt which carries the great Whore upon his back, ſhould have a Plurality of Kings ſtart up at the ſame time with him, who ſhould agree to ſubmit their power and kingdom unto this Whore-ridden Beaſt. And would not he alſo in the ſame Chapter have us take notice, That the Antichriſtian State of the Beaſt which was to come ſhould be the next to that of the Cæſars which then reigned? For the Angel there tells him, That that State of the Beaſt wherein the Whore ſhould ride him, which then was not in being, but ſhould afterward aſcend out of the bottomleſs pit and goe into perdition, that this State or Head of the Beaſt ſhould ſucceed ſo immediately upon the Sixth State or Head (viz. the Cæſarean ſarean then reigning) that howſoever for ſome reſpect it might be called an Eighth, yet ſhould it in very deed be but the Seventh. For how could it be otherwiſe, when the Beaſt in the Viſion hath but Seven heads and no more? Vide ver. 8, 10, 11. Agreeable to this is S. Paul's Epocha, 2 Theſ. 2. 7. who tells us, that as ſoon as the Imperial Sovereignty of Rome, which then hindred, ſhould be taken out of the way, then ſhould that Wicked one be revealed. [a] Thus the Fathers generally expound it. Hence was that cuſtome in the Church, in the moſt ancient times of it, to pray in their Liturgy for the laſting of the Roman Empire; that ſo Antichriſt might be long a coming. Tertul. Apol. cap. 32, & 39. Ad Scap. cap. 2. Upon this ground S. Jerome, when he heard of the taking of Rome by Alaricus the Goth, preſently expected the coming of Antichriſt, Ad Gerontiam de Monogamia; Qui tenebat, (ſaith he) de medio fit, & non intelligimus Antichriſtum appropinquare: He who hindered, is taken out of the way; and we conſider not that Antichriſt is at hand. Idem Præfat. in Lib. 8. Comment. in Ezek. Paſcitur animus, & obliviſcitur ſeculi calamitatum, quod in extremo fine jam poſitum congemiſcit & parturit, donec qui tenet, de medio fiat, & pedes ſtatuæ quondam ferreæ fragilitate digitorum fictilium conterantur: Cadit mundus, & Cervix erecta non flectitur, &c. My mind is [b] refreſht, and for the preſent forgets the wofull calamities that this laſt Age labours with, groning and travailing in pain, till he who hinders, be taken out of the way, and the feet of the [c] iron Statue be broken to pieces by reaſon of the brittleneſs of the clayie toes. The world goes to ruine, and yet the haughty neck does not bend, &c. Thus he. Poſtquam clariſſimum terrarum omnium Lumen extinctum eſt, imò Romani Imperii truncatum caput, & in una urbe totus orbis interiit——After that the moſt glorious light in all the world was put out, and the Head of the Roman Empire was cut off, & ſo the whole world was deſtroy'd in the deſtruction of that one City——as he elſewhere deplores that wofull calamity, Præf. in Lib. 1. Comment. in Ezec. Anſwerable to that which S. John told us; Daniel's Kalendar alſo informs us, That the Horniſh Tyrant, who was to act the ὕστεροι καιροὶ, ſhould then begin to appear, when Ten Kings ſhould ariſe in the Fourth Kingdom. For the Ten Horns which at the laſt he eſpied upon the Beaſt's head, and obſerved a little Horn with eyes and a mouth to ſpring up amongſt them, and diſplant Three of them, chap. 7. v. 8. the Angel v. 24. expounds to be Ten Kings which ſhould ariſe out of that Kingdom, and another (to wit Antichriſt) ſhould ariſe [d] behind them (ſo it [e] ſhould be tranſlated, as the Septuagint doth ὀπίσω αὐτῶν) which ſhould be diverſe from the firſt (that is, a King of another nature) and ſhould bring down or [f] humble three Kings, and play thoſe recks which follow in the Text. Thus the Fathers univerſally and from the utmoſt antiquity expound this Scripture. Juſtin Martyr Dialog. cum Tryphone takes it as granted, that this Horn is ὁ τῆς ἀποστασίας ἄνθρωπος that man of Apoſtaſy, ὃς ἄνομα τολμήσῃ εἰς ἡμᾶς τοὺς Χριστιανοὺς, that would attempt all the miſchief imaginable againſt us Chriſtians. Irenæus, ſcholar to Polycarp, l. 5. c. 21. alii 25. ſaith, Daniel noviſſimi Regni finem reſpiciens, id eſt, noviſſimos decem Reges, in quos dividendum regnum illorum, ſuper quos Filius perditionis veniet, Cornua dicit decem naſci Beſtiæ, &c. The prophet Daniel eying the end of the Fourth or Laſt Kingdome, that is, thoſe Ten Kings into whom their Kingdom ſhould be divided, and upon whom the Son of Perdition ſhould come, [viz. the Little Horn that ſhould domineer and overtop them] ſaith (chap. 7.) that the Beaſt had Ten Horns grow out of his Head, & that there came up among them another little Horn, and that before this Horn Three of the firſt Horns were pluck'd up by the roots. Yea a little after he tells us, that S. John in his Ten Kings which ſhould receive their King-

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

[a] Tertul. de Reſurrect. c. 24. Ambroſ. comment. in hunc locum. Hieron. qu. 11. ad Algaſiam, & Præfat. in l. 8. comment. in Ezek. Chryſoſt. comment. in hunc locum. Aug. lib. 20. cap. 19. de Civ. Dei, ſed non tam aſſeveranter ut cæteri. Cyrillus Hieroſolym. κατηχ. ιε'.

[b] He ſpeaks before of his Studies and Book-labours, whereby his mind was relieved and diverted from the afflictive remembrance of thoſe ſad times.

[c] By the Feet of the Statue, (in Dan. 2.) part of iron and part of clay, is meant the Roman Empire.

[d] Chald. אחריהון ישתפיל שפל

[e] Vid. Gen. 22. 13. Exod. 14. 19. bis. 2 Chron. 13. 13. Joſ. 8. 2. 2 Kings 9. 18. Ezech 3. 12.

[f] Vulg. humiliabit. LXX ταπεινώσει. Irenæus, deminorabit, vel (ut in alio exemplari) dehonorabit. Vatab. opprimet. Fun. deprimet.

Kingdoms at one hour with the Beaſt, expounds this of Daniel; Manifeſtius adhuc de noviſſimo tempore, & de his qui ſunt in eo decem Regibus, in quos dividetur quod nunc regnat Imperium, ſignificavit Joannes Domini diſcipulus in Apocalypſi, ediſſerens quæ fuerint decem cornua quæ à Daniele viſa ſunt, &c. What was before propheſied concerning the Laſt Times, and the Ten Kings therein, amongſt whom the Empire that now reignes ſhould be divided, John, the diſciple of our Lord, hath more clearly expreſt in his Apocalypſe, where he tells what thoſe Ten Horns were which Daniel ſaw, viz. Ten Kings, which had received no Kingdom as yet, but were to receive power as Kings one hour with the Beaſt: Chap. 17.12. Nay S. Jerome, in his Comment upon this ſeventh chapter of Daniel, will give us to underſtand that all the Eccleſiaſticall Writers delivered this to be the true expoſition: For having there confuted Porphyrie, who, to derogate from the divinity of this Prophecie, would have it meant of Antiochus Epiphanes, and therefore written when the Event was paſt, he concludeth thus; Ergo dicamus, quod omnes Scriptores Eccleſiaſtici tradiderunt, In conſummatione mundi, quando regnum deſtruendum eſt Romanorum, decem futuros reges, qui orbem Romanum inter ſe dividant, & undecimum ſurrecturum eſſe Regem parvulum, qui tres reges de decem regibus ſuperaturus ſit, in quo totus Satanas habitaturus ſit corporaliter: Let us therefore affirm, agreeably to the concurrent judgment of all Eccleſiaſtical Writers, That in the conſummation of the world, when the Roman Empire is to be deſtroyed, there ſhall ariſe Ten Kings who ſhall ſhare the Roman world among themſelves, and that an Eleventh King (the little Horn in *Dan.*7.) ſhall ariſe, who ſhall ſubdue Three of thoſe Ten Kings; in which little Horniſh Tyrant Satan ſhall dwell entirely and bodily. Who theſe three Kings were which this Horn diſplanted to make himſelf elbow-room, you ſhall hear more anon. But I will not conceal that I have heard of another Expoſition, which fits our turn for the Beginning of the Apoſtaſie no leſs then that of the Fathers; namely, That by Ten Kingdoms may be meant the full Plurality of the Roman Provinces, ſo much whereof as Three is of Ten ſhould have the Imperial power rooted out of them, and fall under the Dominion of the Antichriſtian Horn, who ſhould act the Sovereignty of the Latter times or the laſt Sovereignty of that Kingdom. Now it is moſt true, that the Pope's Patriarchdom in the Weſt holds juſt that ſcantling of the ancient Territory of the Roman Empire; which a man may judge by his eyes or compaſſes in a Map: and yet I preferre the other Expoſition before it.

To come to an iſſue: It is apparent by all that hath been ſaid, that theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter times, with that wicked Sovereignty which ſhould domineer in them, were to take beginning from the wound, the fall, the ruine, the rending in pieces or rooting up of the Imperial Sovereignty of the City of Rome. When that City ſhould ceaſe to be the Lap of that Sovereignty which the Cæſars once held over the Nations, and many new upſtart Kings ſhould appear in the place and Territory of that once-one Empire; then ſhould the Apoſtaſie be ſeen, and the Latter times with that Wicked one make their entrance. Now in what Age this fell out, I think no man can be ignorant who hath but a little skill in Hiſtory.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

CHAP. XIV.

That we are not to reckon the Latter Times, or the Times of the Empire's ruine and the Apostasy attending, from the full height thereof: This illustrated from other Computations in Scripture. The Three main Degrees of the Roman Empire's Ruine. Who are those 3 Kings whom the Little Horn (or Antichrist) is said (in Dan. 7.) to have displanted or depress, to advance himself. About what time Saint-worship began in the Church. That we are not too curiously to enquire from which of the 3 degrees of the Empire's ruine the Apostaticall or Latter Times take their beginning.

BUT you will say, The Imperial Sovereignty of Old Rome fell not all at once, but had divers steps and degrees of Ruine; so that the doubt will be notwithstanding, from which of these steps of the Fall thereof these Latter times must be reckoned.

I answer, From any of them. For as the Imperial Sovereignty fell by degrees, so the Apostasie under the lattermost Sovereignty grew up also by degrees; and for every degree which the ruinous Empire decayed, was the rising Son of perdition a degree advanced. Secondly, All the main and evident degrees of the Empire's ruine fell in the compass of an Age; and the knowledge and observation of that Age only within which the Times of this Fall are comprehended, was sufficient both to warn them who then lived that that which should come was then a coming, and to inform us who now live that it is already come.

Now which were these main and evident degrees of the Empire's falling, and at what time, I will tell you as soon as I have removed an usual mistake in this business, which is to reckon the times of the Empire's ruine, and so likewise of the Apostasie attending it, only from the ἀκμὴ or full height thereof. But this is too much against Reason, and not agreeable to the course we otherwise use in the like. For as when we reckon the Age of a man, we reckon not from the time since he came to mans estate, but from the time of his birth: so should we doe here for the Times of the Man of sin. I say not, we should begin to count his Age from his conception, for that we use not in other things; but from the time he was first editus in lucem, when he first began to appear in the world: and so likewise the Fall of the Empire and the Apostasie, not from the time they were consummate, but from the time they first evidently appeared. As therefore I hold their opinion the best, and most agreeable to truth, who begin the 70 years of the Jewish captivity in Babylon, not from the consummation thereof under Zedekiah, when the City and Temple were utterly rased, for that is impossible, (there being not * 60 years in all between the nineteenth of Nebuchadnezzar and the last of Cyrus) but from the beginning thereof under Jehojakim eighteen years before, or at the most but from Jehojachin: So are these ὕστεροι καιροὶ of the Romane State to begin when the Empire first began to fall, and not when it was utterly rooted up. Take for another example the computation of the Time allotted to the Calamity of the Jews under Antiochus; which I the rather alledge, becaus he is commonly counted for a Type of Antichrist: The beginning of that 2300 evenings and mornings, or six years and somewhat more then a quarter, which that Calamity was to continue, from the beginning thereof untill the Temple should again be cleansed, Dan. 8. 13, 14.

* As infallibly appears in that long-wanting Mathematicall Canon of Ptolemy, now of late brought to light out of one of our own Libraries.

was

was not to be reckoned from the height thereof, when the daily Sacrifice should be taken away, (for thence it is but three years, 1 Mac. 1. 54, &c. with ch. 4. 52.) but from the beginning of the Tranſgreſſion which occaſioned this deſolation, and is deſcribed 1 Mac. 1. 11, &c. So likewiſe the End of the Kingdom of the Greeks, wherein this Calamity was to happen, is not to be counted only then when Æmilius the Conſul had quite finiſhed the conqueſt of Macedon, (for this points out only the height of that calamity) but from the beginning of that laſt fatal * Warre which put an end to that Kingdom; which was about ſome three years and an half before, and jumps with the beginning of the Tranſgreſſion of deſolation, as the finiſhing of the Conqueſt doth with the taking away of the daily ſacrifice.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* Bellum Macedonicum ſecundum.

But leaving this, let us return again and ſee which were thoſe main and evident degrees of the Empire's downfall, and when they befell; which I ſuppoſe may not unfitly be ſampled by thoſe of the Babyloniſh captivity.

As therefore the Babyloniſh captivity had Three ſteps or degrees, the firſt in the daies of Jehojakim, when Daniel went captive; the ſecond under Jehojachin or Jechonias, when Ezechiel went captive; the laſt under Zedekiah, when the Temple and City were wholly raſed and conſumed: So (omitting the Political change under Conſtantine) the chief and principal moments of the Ruine of the Empire by the ſword (and by the ſword the Beaſt had his deadly wound, Apocal. 13. 14.) may fitly be reduced unto Three.

1. The Firſt was preſently after the death of Julian, the laſt of Heathen Emperours, about the year 365, ominouſly marked with that univerſal, ſtupendious and never-but-then ſampled Earthquake, (a) whereby the waters of the Sea were rolled out of their chanels, and left ſhips hanging upon the tops of houſes. From this time forwards all the Nations on every ſide ſeem as it were with one conſent to have conſpired the Ruine of the Empire. (b) Now that terrible and fatal ſtorm of the Nations of the North, Almanes, Sarmatians, Quades, Picts, Scots and Saxons, eſpecially the Goths, began to break in upon it; almoſt without intermiſſion harrying, burning, waſting, deſtroying the moſt part of the provinces thereof almoſt for (c) 45. yeares together. And to mend the matter, the Goths ſoon after their coming were admitted as Inhabitants, and diſperſed as free Denizons into the bowels and heart of the Empire, advanced to be Commanders, and bore the greateſt ſway in their Armies. (d) By which fatal errour the Empire received her bane, and the Romans were no longer maſters of their own ſtrength, which they quickly and often repented; but even that coſt them dear, when they had indeed eyes to ſee it, but never ability to mend it. This was the Firſt degree of the Empire's ruine.

(a) Ammian. Marcel. lib. 26. c. 31. Horrendi tremores per omnem orbis ambitum graſſati ſunt ſubitò, quales nec fabulæ nec veridicæ nobis antiquitates exponunt, &c. Hieron. in vita Hilarionis.

(b) Hoc tempore velut per univerſum Orbem Romanum canentibus bucinis, excita gentes ſæviſſimæ, limites ſibi proximos perſultabant: Gallias Rhætiáſque ſimul Alemanni populabantur; Sarmatæ Pannonias & Quadi; Picti, Saxones & Scoti; & Attacotti Britannos ærumnis vexavere continuis; Thracias diripiebant prædatorii globi Gothorum, &c. Ammian. ibid. cap. 10.

(c) Hier. Ep. 3. Ante annum 400. viginti & eo amplius anni ſunt, cùm inter Conſtantinopolin & Alpes Julias quotidie Romanus ſanguis effunditur. Scythiam, Thraciam, Macedoniam, Daciam, Dardaniam, Theſſaliam, Achaiam, Epiros, Dalmatiam, cunctáſque Pannonias Gothus, Sarmata, Quadus, Alanus, Hunni, Vandali, Marcomanni vaſtant, rapiunt: Romanus Orbis ruit. Quid putas nunc animi habere Corinthios, Athenienſes, Lacedæmonios, Arcadas, cunctámque Græciam, quibus imperant Barbari? (d) Syneſius Orat. ad Arcadium Auguſt. Quomodo enim ferre poſſumus partes viriles in noſtra Republica alienorum & externorum eſſe, & fortiſſimum Imperium concedere aliis bellicæ gloriæ principatum? Neque enim dubitandum eſt fore, ut illi aliquando armis inſtructi hominum urbanorum ſe Dominos eſſe velint. Quod priuſquam eveniat, revocandi ſunt nobis Romanorum animi, & ità aſſuefaciendi, ut ipſi ſuo Marte vincere & poſſint & velint: nec omnino ſocietatem cum Barbaris ineant, ſed eos omnes deſpiciant, omníque loco funditus pellant. Primùm igitur Magiſtratu ejiciantur, & procul à Curiæ honoribus arceantur, quibus per ſummum dedecus ea obvenerunt quæ diu apud Romanos habitarſunt, & reipſa fuerunt apud eos honeſtiſſima. Nam & Deam Themidem, quæ Senatui, & Bellonam, quæ Exercitui paſcit, obvelare ſe arbitror, cùm cernant hominem penulâ ſcorteâ indutum ducem eſſe chlamydatorium, & villoſam penulam exuentem togam ſumere, & de ſumma rerum cum Romano Magiſtratu conſulere, prope ipſum Conſulem ſedentem, longè poſt eum ſedentibus iis quibus bonos ille jure optimo debebatur. Paulò poſt, Apud nos Exercitus magni ſunt, noſtríſque ſervis Scythis ſanguine conjuncti, junctí, qui neſcio quo infeliçi fato in Romanum Imperium irrueruntꝫ illi ſuos duces habent magnæ authoritatis viros non ſolùm apud eos ipſos, ſed etiam apud nos: quod malum noſtra dedit ſocordia nobis—Paulò pòſt de Theodoſio, Ille ſupplicantes (ſcil. Gothos) erexit, & belli ſocios aſcivit, & civitate donavit, & omnium bonorum participes fecit, & partem Romani agri iis attribuit. At illi, quòd pater ſuus mitem ſe iis præbuit, nos in hunc uſque diem deridentꝫ Sed id primus fecerat * Valens, Anno 374. de quo ſic Paulus Diaconus Hiſt. Miſcell. lib. 12. cap. 14. Hunnos Gothi tranſito Danubio fugientes, à Valente ſine ulla fœderis pactione ſuſcepti ſunt, qui tribuit eis terras Thraciarum ad habitandum, arbitratus præparatum ſolatium ab eis habere contra omnes Barbaros: hac pro re Milites de cætero negligebat, & eos qui dudum contra hoſtes elaboraverant, Imperator deſpiciebat, &c.—— Hæc ergo fuit initium, ut in illo tempore Romana Reſpublica calamitatibus ſubderetur. Barbari namque cùm Thraciæ tenuiſſent, licenter Romanorum vaſtabant provincias, &c.

* Vide Socratem lib. 4 c. 27.

2. The Second was about the year 410, when Alaricus the Goth ſacked Rome it ſelf, the proud Lady of the world; when, as S. Jerome ſaith, Capiebatur urbs quæ totum cepit orbem, imò fame periit antequam gladio, & vix pauci qui caperentur inventi ſunt; The City which had conquered the whole world was it ſelf taken, being undone by famine before it was by the ſword, inſomuch that there were but few left to be taken priſoners. And from this very year the Plurality of Kings foretold of began to come upon the ſtage; Five or Six new Kingdomes preſently appearing within the Territories of the Empire: Of the Goths, of the Burgundians, and, though ſomewhat later, of the Franks in Gallia; of the Suevians and Alans and of the Vandals in Spain; and, as Sigonius thinks, of the Hunnes in Pannonia; certainly they could not be much later then this very year. But this number of Kings we will leave till they be better increaſed, as continually they did. And thus you ſee the Second degree of the ruine of the Empire.

3. The Third was about the year 455, preſently upon the death of the third Valentinian, the laſt (as Sleidan well obſerved) of the Emperors of the Weſt, and conſequently of the ancient Rome; then when Genſericus the Vandal took the City now the ſecond time, fired it, & ſpoiled it of all the goodly and glorious ornaments which Alaricus had ſpared, amongſt which were the golden and ſilver veſſels of the Temple of Jeruſalem, * brought thither by Titus: All which, with an innumerable multitude of Roman captives, he carried away with him. Now was the Prediction, which Varro reports that Vettius Valens the Augur made of 12 Vulturs to Romulus the Founder, That his City ſhould continue 1200 years, fulfilled, and thoſe years newly expired: And, which is more to be heeded, now was the Plurality of Kings lately riſen in the ancient Territory of the Empire, as Daniel and S. John had propheſied, increaſed unto the full number of Ten; which, together with the Provinces wherein they were ſeated, and the Names of the Kings which reigned the next year after the City was taken, are theſe which follow.

* Paulus Diaconus Hiſt. Miſc. prout ex codice Palatino edidit Janus Gruterus, Quatuordecim intervim dies ſecurâ & liberâ direptione omnibus opibus ſuis & miraculis Roma vacuata eſt; in quibus erant Eccleſiaſtica κειμήλια tota ex auro & lapidibus pretioſis ornata, & vaſa Hebraica quæ Titus Veſpaſiani filius poſt captivitatem Hieroſolymitarum Romam deduxerat: multâque millia captivorum——cum Regina Eudoxia, quæ Genſericum ad hoc facinus invitaverat, duabuſque ejus filiabus, Carthaginem abducta ſunt.

ANNO

ANNO DOMINI 456.

	Kingdoms of the	Provinces.	Names of the Kings reigning.	Somewhat of their changes.
1	Britons.	In Britain.	Vortimer.
2	Saxons.		Hengist.
3	Franks.	In Gallia.	Childerick.	*An.*526. This Kingdom of the Burgundians was subdued by the Franks: But to fill up the number, that of the Ostrogoths became 2, by the coming of the Longobards into Pannonia the same time.
4	Burgundians.		Gunderick.
5	Wisigothes.	In the South of Gallia between the Rhene, Loyr and the Sea; and Part of Spain.	Theodorick II.
6	Swevians and Alanes.	Spain in Gallitia and Portugal.	Riciarius.
7	Vandals.	In Africk, but first in Spain.	Gensericus.
8	Almanes.	Germany in Rhetia, between the Rhene, &c.	Sumanus.	This Kingdom became one with a part of the Kingdom of the Heruli, 475. during their short reign in Italy.
9	Ostrogothes, whom the Longobards succeeded.	In Pannonia, where they subdued the Hunnes, and not long after propagated their Kingdom into Italy.	Theodemir.	The Longobards succeeded the Ostrogoths first in Pannonia, upon the death of Theodorick of *Verona An.*526. Then in Italy, called in by Narses discontented, soon after he had destroyed the kingdom of the Goths.
10	Greeks.	In the residue of the Empire.	Marcianus.	Ancient Rome's Empire finished, that of the Greeks is but one of the Kingdoms whereinto it was divided.

Thus was the Empire divided and shared Anno 456. the year after Rome was sacked by Genserico, and the offspring of these Nations, through many alterations, (partly by the inconstancy of humane things, unions and disunions, partly by the further enlargement of the Christian Faith) are the body of most of the Kingdoms and States of Christendom at this day. Three of these Kings, saith * Daniel, should the Antichristian Horn depress and displant, to advance himself; which Three are those whose Dominions extended into Italy, and so stood in his light.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

* Chap. 7. Vers. 8, & 24.

1. That of the Greeks, whose Emperour, Leo Isaurus, for the quarrel of Images, he excommunicated, and revolted his subjects of Italy from their allegiance.

2. That of the Longobards, (successours of the Ostrogoths) whose Kingdom he caused (by the aid of the Franks) to be wholly ruined, thereby to get the Exarchate of Ravenna (which since their revolt from the Greeks they were seized on) for a Patrimony to S. Peter.

3. The last was the Kingdom of the Franks it self, continued in the Empire of Germany, whose Emperours from the day of Henry the Fourth he excommunicated, deposed and trampled under his feet, and never suffered them to live in rest, till he made them not only quit their interest in Election of Popes and Investitures of Bishops, but that remainder of Jurisdiction in Italy, wherewith, together with the dignity of the Roman name, he had once infeoffed their Predecessors.

These are the Kings, by displanting or (as the Vulgar hath) by humbling of whom the Pope got elbow-room by degrees, and advanced himself to the height of Temporal Majesty and absolute Greatness, which made him so terrible in the world.

This Third blow therefore I suppose is to be counted the Last of the Ruine of the Empire, the Imperial power of the ancient Rome (until the Pope some 345 years after revived the name) henceforth ceasing. For as for those who yet some twenty years after our date scuffled for that Name, one of them deposing another, they were indeed but shadows of Cæsars, and as it were struglings with the pangs of death, until with Augustulus it gave up the ghost. Yea it is to be observed, that two of them, Avitus (the very next) and Glycerius, being deposed from the Empire, were made Bishops, the one of Placentia or Piacenza, the other of * Portus; as a sign perhaps that the Emperour of Rome henceforth should be a Bishop, and a Bishop the Emperour.

* Salona Jornandes, quem vide cum Paulo Diacono.

To conclude therefore with the application of our Apostle's Prediction: Whether the Christian Apostasie in worshipping new Dæmon-Gods began not with the First of these degrees, notably increased with the Second, and was established by the Last, I leave you to judge, when you shall have surveyed the Monuments and Records of those times.

It is commonly and truly affirmed by our Eccleſiastical * Antiquaries, That before the year 360 there is no word to be found of the Invocation of Saints glorified, or Worshipping their Reliques; to which I adde, no not of any Miracles done by them: But presently after that year, when our first date of the Empire's ruine began, search and you shall find. I spare to name the Authors, not willing to discover the nakedness of the Fathers: But whose reads them, will admire to see so truly verified what the Spirit foretold should be ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς in the latter times. And to make an end; If any shall think this Speculation of Times to be a needless curiosity, I desire him to remember how our Saviour reproved the Jews for neglect hereof, Matt. 16. 3. O ye Hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the skie, but can ye not discern the signs of the times? or as S. Luke 12. 56. How is it that ye do not discern this Time? They through neglecting the Signs of the Times, when Christ came, received him not: How many through ignorance of

* Vide Can. 9. Concil. Laodicen. An. 364. Θεομιμίας ἕνεκα.

these theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter Times, when the Apoſtaſie hath appeared, eſchewed it not?

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

From which of theſe Three Beginnings of the Apoſtatical Times, or whether from ſome other moment within or between them, the Almighty will reckon that his Computation of theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ, which ended ſhall finiſh the days of the Man of ſin, I curiouſly enquire not, but leave unto him who is Lord of times and ſeaſons: Nor do I think that the Jews themſelves could certainly tell from which of their Three Captivities to begin that reckoning of LXX years, whoſe end ſhould bring their return from Babylon, until the Event aſſured them thereof.

AN APPENDIX.

CHAP. XV.

That Daniel's 70 Weeks are a leſſer Kalendar of Times. That in reference to theſe Weeks muſt thoſe Phraſes in the Epiſtles to the converted Jews, [viz. The Laſt Hour or Time, The End of all things, The Day approching, &c.] be expounded of the End of the Jewiſh State and Service at the expiring of the 70 Weeks. That the Apoſtles were not ſo miſtaken as to believe the End of the World ſhould be in their days, proved againſt Baronius and other Romaniſts.

I SHOULD now preſently come to ſpeak of the Fourth particular which I obſerved in this Verſe: But becauſe in this Diſcourſe of Times, beſides the Great Kalendar of Times I ſo much ſpake of, there was ſome mention of a Leſſer Kalendar, viz. of Daniel's 70 weeks, give me leave to note ſome places of Scripture which I ſuppoſe to have reference thereto, for the better clearing not only of our former Diſcourſe, but of ſome ſcruples that might trouble our minds, when mention is made of an End then ſuppoſed near, though the World hath ſo many hundred years ſince continued, and no end thereof is yet come.

Know therefore that theſe 70 weeks of Daniel are a Little Provincial Kalendar, containing the time that the Legal worſhip and Jewiſh ſtate was to continue from the re-building of the Sanctuary under Darius Nothus untill the final deſtruction thereof, when the Kalendar ſhould expire: Within the ſpace whereof their Commonwealth and City ſhould be reſtored, and 62 weeks after that the Meſſias be ſlain for ſin, and at the end of the whole 70 their City and Temple again deſtroyed and their Commonwealth utterly diſſolved. To theſe Weeks therefore, whoſe computation ſo eſpecially concerns the Jews, is reference made in thoſe Epiſtles which are written to the Chriſtian Churches of that Nation, whether living in Jewry, or abroad diſperſed. Such is S. Paul's Epiſtle to the Hebrews; both S. Peter's to thoſe of the Diſperſion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia and Bithynia; the Epiſtle of S. James to the twelve Tribes; and likewiſe the Firſt Epiſtle of S. John, which though the Salutation expreſſeth not, as in the former, yet may appear both becauſe Peter, James and John were all three Apoſtles of the Circumciſion, and from that paſſage Chap. 2. verſe 2. CHRIST JESUS is the propitiation for our ſins; and not for ours only, but for the ſins of the whole world: that is, not for the ſins of us only who are

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Jews, but for the ſins of the Gentiles alſo. And doth not the name of General or Catholick Epiſtle given unto this, as well as to thoſe of S. James and Peter, imply thus much? For it cannot be thus called, becauſe written to all Chriſtians indefinitely and generally, ſince the contrary expreſly appears in the former; but becauſe this as well as the reſt was written to thoſe of the Circumciſion, who were not a people confined to any one certain City or Region, but diſperſed through every Nation; as we reade in the Acts Chapter 2. verſ. 5, &c. that at the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, when the Holy Ghoſt came down upon the Apoſtles, There were ſojourning at Jeruſalem Jews, devout men, out of every Nation under Heaven; Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and the dwellers in Meſopotamia, Judæa and Cappadocia, Pontus and Aſia, and ſtrangers of Rome, Jews and Proſelytes, (that is, Jews by race, and Jews by Religion,) &c. For we muſt not miſtake thoſe there numbred to be Gentiles, but Iſraelites*, both of the Ten Tribes captivated by Shalmaneſer, and the other Two; ſome of whom never returned from Babylon, but lived ſtill in Meſopotamia: but of thoſe who returned, great multitudes were diſperſed afterwards in Ægypt, Libya, and many other Provinces, before the time of our Saviour's appearing in the fleſh. So that the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion had their Province for largeneſs not much inferiour to thoſe of the Gentiles.

* See this fully proved in Book I. Diſcourſe XX.

But I come to note the places I ſpake of. And firſt out of the forenamed Epiſtle of S. John; where from that prediction of our Saviour's in the Goſpel, that the ariſing of falſe Prophets ſhould be one of the near ſigns of the nigh-approching End of the Jewiſh State, the Apoſtle thus referrs unto it, Chap. 2. verſe 18. Little children, this is ἐσχάτη ὥρα the Laſt hour: and as ye have heard that Antichriſt ſhall come, even now there are many Antichriſts; whereby we know that it is the Laſt time. Here by the Laſt time I ſuppoſe no other thing to be meant but the near expiring of Daniel's 70. weeks, and with it the approching End of the Jewiſh Commonwealth: and why might not this Epiſtle be written in the Laſt week, at the beginning whereof Jeſus Ananiæ began that woful cry, Wo unto Jeruſalem and the Temple! Joſeph. l. 7. Belli Judaici. By πολλοὶ Ἀντίχριστοι many Antichriſts, are meant no other but falſe Prophets or Counter-prophets to the Great Prophet, pretending an Unction and Commiſſion from Heaven (as he had) to teach the world ſome new revelation and doctrine. For the name Chriſt implies the Unction of Prophecy as well as the Unction of a Kingdom, and accordingly the name Antichriſt: and therefore the Syriack here turns it משיחא נגדא Falſe Chriſts, that is, ſuch as ſhould falſely pretend ſome extraordinary Unction of Prophecie like unto him. And the coming of ſuch as theſe our Saviour in S. Matthew's Goſpel (a Goſpel for the Hebrews) makes one of the Laſt ſigns uſhering the deſtruction of Jeruſalem: And if the harmony of this Prophecy in the three Evangeliſts be well conſidered, there was no more to come but the compaſſing of Jeruſalem with armies. Well therefore might S. John, when he ſaw ſo many Anti-prophets ſpring up, ſay, Hereby we know that it is the laſt time.

Again, becauſe the Deſolation of the Jewiſh State and Temple would be a great confirmation of the Chriſtian Faith; therefore the believing Jews, whom nothing could ſo much ſtagger as the ſtanding glory of that Temple and Religion, are encouraged by the nearneſs of that time of expectation when ſo great a confirmation of their Faith of the Meſſias already come ſhould appear. Hebrews 10. 23, 25. Let us hold faſt the profeſſion of our Faith without wavering—and ſo much the more, as ye ſee the Day approching; namely, that day when you ſhall be ſufficiently confirmed. So I take the 35 and 37 Verſes of the ſame Chapter, Caſt not away your confidence, which hath hath great recompence of reward: For ye have need of patience——For yet a little while, and he that ſhall come will come, and will not tarry. What [He] is this, but even He of whom Daniel ſays, The people of the Prince that ſhall come, ſhall deſtroy the City and the Sanctuary? Dan.9.26. For even as the deſtruction of Papal Rome would be a great confirmation of the Reformed Chriſtian who hath forſaken the Communion of that Religion, the continuance and ſuppoſed ſtability of the glory thereof being that wherewith their Proctors endeavour moſt to ſhake and ſtagger us: So was the deſtruction of the Jewiſh State and Temple to be unto thoſe Jews who had withdrawn themſelves from that Body and Religion whereof they once had been, to embrace the new Faith of the Meſſiah preached by the Apoſtles. For if at the end of the 70 weeks approching the Legal Sanctuary were raſed, and the Jewiſh State diſſolved, then would it be apparent indeed, That Meſſiah was already come and ſlain for ſin; becauſe this was infallibly to come to paſs within the compaſs and before the expiration of thoſe 70 weeks or 490 years allotted for the laſt continuance of that City and Sanctuary, when it ſhould be reſtored after the captivity of Babylon. Not without cauſe therefore doth S. Peter in his ſecond *Epiſtle ſay to the Chriſtian Jews, We have a more ſure word of prophecy, whereunto ye doe well that ye take heed, as unto a light ſhining in a dark place, untill the day dawn and the day-ſtar ariſe in your hearts. Yea and beſides, Becauſe Jeſus as well as Daniel had propheſied of the approching deſolation of that City and Temple, mentioning all the Signs that were to uſher it; if the Event when time came ſhould fall out accordingly, then muſt Jeſus of Nazareth, who foretold the foregoing Signs thereof, be approved as a true Prophet, by whom of a truth the Lord had ſpoken. Now for the laſt place that I mean to alledge; Becauſe the fall and ſhock of that State might ſhake the whole Nation whereſoever diſperſed, unleſs God ſpared the Chriſtians, and made them alone happy in that wofull day; or rather becauſe Chriſt had foretold that one of the next fore-runners thereof ſhould be a general perſecution of Chriſtians, as it happened under Nero; therefore the remembrance of the End of theſe 70 weeks ſo near the expiring was a good caution to all the Chriſtian Jews to watch and pray. To this ſenſe therefore I take that of Peter, 1 Pet. 4. 7. Πάντων δὲ τὸ τέλος ἤγγικε, The End of all approacheth; Be ye therefore ſober, and watch unto prayer: that is, The End of all your Commonwealth, Legal worſhip, Temple and Service, is now within a few years; Be ye therefore ſober, and watch unto prayer, that ye may be the more happy in that day of vengeance and wrath upon our Nation. Neither need we wonder that this Deſolation ſhould be called the End; for our Saviour himſelf taught them ſo to ſpeak in his Prophecy concerning it, as may appear if we conſider that Antitheſis in S. Luke, chap. 21. 9. Ye ſhall hear of warrs and commotions——but the End is not by and by. Ver. 20. But when ye ſhall ſee Jeruſalem encompaſſed with armies, then know that the Deſolation thereof is nigh.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* Chap. 1. 19.

Thus muſt that of S. James in chap. 5. 3. be expounded; and ſo Oecumenius expounds the words, Weep and houl, ye rich men, for the miſeries that ſhall come upon you: ——Ye have heaped up goods for the laſt daies; that is, when the End of your State is a coming, and the Romans ſhall ſpoil you of all. This being ſuppoſed to be the reaſon why many of the Chriſtian Jews ſold their lands, and laid the mony at the Apoſtles feet. Ann. 57. §. 19. Ann. 72. §. 26. Ann. 82. § 3.

AND thus much I thought to add to my former diſcourſe of Latter Times, leſt through ignorance thereof we might incline to that little better then blaſphemous conceit which * Baronius by name and ſome other of Rome's followers have taken up; viz. That the Apoſtles in ſuch like paſſages as we have noted were miſtaken, as believing the End of the World ſhould have been in their own time; God of purpoſe ſo ordering it, to cauſe in them a greater meaſure of zeal and contempt of worldly things. An opinion, I think, not well beſeeming a Chriſtian.

1. For, firſt, whatſoever we imagine the Apoſtles might here conceive in their private opinions as men; yet we muſt know that the Holy Ghoſt, by by whoſe inſtinct they wrote the Scriptures, is the Spirit of truth, and therefore what is there affirmed muſt be true, yea, though the Pen-man himſelf underſtood it not.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

2. It was not poſſible the Apoſtles ſhould expect the End of the world to be in their own time, when they knew ſo many things were to come to paſſe before it as could not be fulfilled in a ſhort time. As 1. The deſolation [a] of Jeruſalem, and that not till the ſeventy weeks were expired. 2. Then the Jews to be [b] carried captives over all Nations, and Jeruſalem to be troden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles ſhould be fulfilled. 3. That in the mean time the Roman Empire muſt be ruined, and [c] that which hindered taken out of the way. 4. That after that was done, [d] the Man of ſin ſhould be revealed, and domineer his time in the Temple and Church of God. 5. After all this, viz. when the [e] fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhould come in, that Iſrael ſhould be received again to mercy. 6. That Chriſt ſhould [f] reign in his Church on earth ſo long till he had put down all rule, all authority and power, and ſubjected all his enemies under his feet, before he ſhould ſubdue the laſt enemy, which is death, and ſurrender his kingdom into the hands of his Father. 7. That the time ſhould be ſo long, that in the laſt days ſhould come Scoffers, ſaying, [g] Where is the promiſe of his coming? How is it poſſible they ſhould imagine the Day of Doom to be ſo near, when all theſe things muſt firſt come to paſſe, and not one of them was yet fulfilled? And how could the expectation of this Day be made a ground of exhortation, and a motive to watchfulneſs and prayer, as though it could ſuddenly and unawares ſurprize them, which had ſo many wonderful alterations to foregoe it, and none of them yet come to paſſe?

[a] Matt. 24. Mark 13. Luke 21. Dan. 9. 24.
[b] Luke 21. 24.
[c] 2 Theſſ. 2. 7.
[d] Ibid. v. 8.
[e] Rom. 11. 25.
[f] 1 Cor. 15. 24, 25. & Hebr. 2. 8.
[g] 2 Pet. 3. 4.

I have ſpoken hitherto of what was revealed to all the Apoſtles in general. But if we take S. John apart from the reſt, and conſider what was afterward revealed to him in Patmos, we ſhall finde in his Apocalyptical Viſion, beſides other times more obſcurely intimated, an expreſs prophecy of no leſs then a thouſand years; which, whatever it mean, cannot be a ſmall time, and muſt be fulfilled in this world, and not in the world to come. Notwithſtanding all this, I make no queſtion but even in the Apoſtles times many of the believing Gentiles, miſtaking the Apoſtles admonitions to the Jews of the End of their State approching, thought the End of the whole world and the Day of the Lord had been alſo near; whom therefore S. Paul 2 Theſſ. 2. beſeeches to be better informed, becauſe that Day ſhould not come untill the Apoſtaſie came firſt, and the Man of ſin were revealed.

Ῥ Η Τ Ω̃ Σ Expreſly, or In expreſs words.

CHAP. XVI.

The Fourth Particular, viz. The Warrant or Proof of this Prophecy. When the Spirit ſpeaks ῥητῶς, and when ἀῤῥήτως. That the Spirit foretold the Great Apoſtaſy ῥητῶς expreſly in Dan. 11. verſ. 36, 37, 38, 39. A View of theſe Verſes in the Hebrew Text, with an exact Tranſlation of them both in Latin and Engliſh. The chief Difficulties in theſe Verſes explained, and incidentally other places of Scripture. The different opinions of Junius and Graſerus about Verſ. 38. The Author's Tranſlation free from the inconveniences of both. A particular Explication of Mahoz and Mahuzzim: That hereby are meant Fortreſſes, Bulwarks, as alſo Protectors, Guardians, Defenders, &c. How fitly this Title is appliable to Angels and Saints, accounted to be ſuch by thoſe that worſhipt them.

NOW

NOW I come to the Fourth particular of this Prophecy, The Warrant or Proof thereof. The Spirit hath foretold it ῥητῶς, or in expreſs words, in ſome place or other of Divine Writ. The Spirit told Peter, Acts 10.19. Behold three men ſeek thee. The Spirit ſaid, Separate Barnabas and Saul, Acts 13. 2. The Spirit forbade S. Paul to preach in Aſia. The Spirit ſaid that the Jews ſhould bind S. Paul at Jeruſalem, Acts 21.11. But in all theſe the Spirit ſpake not ῥητῶς: for theſe things were nowhere written; and therefore what it ſpake, it ſpake ἀῤῥήτως, onely by ſecret Inſtinct or Inſpiration. But that which the Spirit ſpeaks in the Written Word, that it ſpeaks ῥητῶς, verbatim, Expreſly. If therefore concerning this Apoſtaſie of Chriſtian believers to be in the Latter times, the Spirit ſpeaketh ῥητῶς, then is it to be found ſomewhere in the Old Teſtament: for there alone the Spirit could be ſaid to ſpeak ῥητῶς or verbatim, in the Apoſtles time. Having therefore ſo good a hint given us, let us ſee if we can finde where the Spirit ſpeaketh of this matter ſo expreſly.

There are three main things in this our Apoſtle's Prediction whereof I finde the Spirit to have ſpoken ῥητῶς or in expreſs words, and that in the Prophecy of Daniel. 1. Of theſe Laſt or Latter times. 2. Of the new worſhip of Dæmons in them. 3. Of a Prohibition of marriage to accompany them. As for the firſt of theſe, the ὕστεροι καιροὶ Latter times, Daniel, as you heard before, expreſly names them, Καιρὸς, καιροὶ, καὶ ἥμισυ καιροῦ, A time, times, and half a time; being thoſe Laſt times of the Laſt Kingdom, wherein the Horniſh Tyrant ſhould make warre with the Saints, and prevail againſt them. For the ſecond, A worſhip of new Dæmons or Demi-gods with the profeſſion of the Name of Chriſt; you will perhaps think it ſtrange if I ſhould ſhew it ῥητῶς. But if I do; it was the Appendix of hindering or debarring marriage, mentioned in the next verſes, which as a thred led me the way to the end of the eleventh chapter of Daniel, where I found it; and in a place too very ſuſpicious, being taken, I think, by almoſt all the Ancients for a Prophecy of Antichriſt; yea and ſo expounded by the greateſt part of our own, though with much variety of reading and application. But hear the words themſelves in the 36, 37, 38, 39. verſes of that eleventh chapter of Daniel, tranſlated, as I think, ῥητῶς, verbatim, without any wreſting or ſtraining the Hebrew text: They are a Deſcription of the Laſt or Roman Kingdom, and the ſeveral ſtates thereof, Conquering Nations, Perſecuting Chriſtians, Falſe-worſhipping Chriſt. The words are theſe.

Daniel Chap. 11. Verſ. 36, 37, 38, 39.

36. Then a King ſhall doe according to his will, and ſhall exalt and magnifie himſelf above every God. Yea againſt the God of Gods ſhall he ſpeak marvellous things; and ſhall proſper untill the Indignation be accompliſhed: for the determined time ſhall be fulfilled.	36. Tunc faciet pro libitu ſuo Rex, & extollet ac magnificabit ſeipſum ſupra omnem Deum. Etiam contra Deum Deorum loquetur ſtupenda; proficiétq; donec conſummata fuerit Indignatio: nam ſtatutum perficietur.	וְעָשָׂה כִרְצֹנוֹ הַמֶּלֶךְ וְיִתְרוֹמֵם וְיִתְגַּדֵּל עַל כָּל אֵל וְעַל אֵל אֵלִים יְדַבֵּר נִפְלָאוֹת וְהִצְלִיחַ עַד כָּלָה זַעַם כִּי נֶחֱרָצָה נֶעֱשָׂתָה

37. Then

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

37. Then he ſhall not regard the Gods of his Anceſtors, nor ſhall he regard the Deſire of women, no nor any God: but he ſhall magnifie himſelf above all.

38. For to [or together with] God, in his ſeat, he ſhall honour Mahuzzims: even together with that God whom his Anceſtours knew not, ſhall he honour [them] with gold, and with ſilver, and with precious ſtones, and with pleaſant things.

39. And he ſhall make the Holds of the Mahuzzims withall (or joyntly) to the Forein God; whom acknowledging, he ſhall encreaſe with honour; and ſhall cauſe them to rule over many, and ſhall diſtribute the earth for a reward.

37. Tunc ad Deos Majorum ſuorum non attendet; nec ad Deſiderium mulierum, nec ad ullum Numen attendet: ſed ſupra omne ſe magnificabit.

38. Nam ad [vel juxta] Deum, Mahuzzimos in ſede ejus honorabit; ſcilicet ad Deum quem non agnoverunt Majores ejus, honorabit [eos] auro, & argento, & lapidibus pretioſis, & rebus deſideratiſſimis.

39. Et faciet munimenta Mahuzzimorum unà Deo peregrino [ſeu exotico;] quem agnoſcendo, multiplicabit honore; & dominari faciet eos in multos, terrámque partietur in mercedem.

וְעַל אֱלֹהֵי אֲבוֹתָיו
לֹא יָבִין וְעַל
חֶמְדַּת נָשִׁים וְעַל
כָּל אֱלוֹהַּ לֹא יָבִין
כִּי עַל כֹּל יִתְגַּדָּל׃

וֵאלֹהַּ מָעֻזִּים עַל
כַּנּוֹ יְכַבֵּד וֵאלֹהַּ
אֲשֶׁר לֹא יְדָעוּהוּ
אֲבוֹתָיו יְכַבֵּד בְּזָהָב
וּבְכֶסֶף וּבְאֶבֶן יְקָרָה
וּבַחֲמֻדוֹת׃

וְעָשָׂה לְמִבְצְרֵי
מָעֻזִּים עִם אֵלוֹהַּ
נֵכָר אֲשֶׁר הַכִּיר
יַרְבֶּה כָּבוֹד
וְהִמְשִׁילָם בָּרַבִּים
וְאַדָּמָה יְחַלֵּק
בְּמָחִיר׃

1. Now for the underſtanding of this Prophecy, we muſt take notice, that the Prophet Daniel at the beginning of theſe verſes leaves off the Greek Kingdome with Antiochus, (of whom he was ſpeaking before) and falls about the Roman: the reaſon being, becauſe after Antiochus (in whoſe time Macedonia, whence that Kingdom ſprung, with all the reſt of Greece came under the Roman obedience,) the Third Kingdom comes no more in the holy reckoning; Daniel himſelf calling the time of Antiochus his reign, the latter end of the Greek kingdome, chap. 8. 23. and, as I take it, he intimates the ſame in this chapter in the verſe immediately fore-going theſe we have now to deal withall: From thence forward therefore the Roman ſucceeds in the account of the Great Kalendar of Times.

2. Under the name King we muſt underſtand the whole Roman State, under what kind of Government ſoever. For the Hebrews uſe King for Kingdom, and Kingdom for any Government, State or Polity in the world. For the Devil in the Goſpel is ſaid to have ſhewn Chriſt all the Kingdoms of the world, Monarchies, Ariſtocracies, Democracies, or what other kind ſoever.

3. Where it is ſaid, that this King ſhould exalt himſelf above every God, nothing is thereby meant but the greatneſs and generality of his conqueſts and prevailings. And the reaſon of that phraſe or manner of ſpeech ſhould ſeem to be, Becauſe in the times of Paganiſm every City and Countrey was ſuppoſed to have their proper and peculiar Gods, which were deemed as their Guardians and Protectors: Whence in the Scripture, according to the language of that time, we may obſerve a threefold uſe of ſpeech.

Firſt, The Nations themſelves are expreſſed and implied under the names of their Gods. The Iſraelites were called The people of Jehovah. So are the Moabites the people of Chemoſh, Numb. 21. 29. The Lord threatned, Deut. 4. 28. & 28. 36, & 64. Jer. 16. 13. to ſcatter Iſrael among the nations, from one end of the earth even to another, and that there they ſhould ſerve ſerve other Gods day and night; Gods, the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, which neither they nor their Fathers had known: that is, they ſhould ſerve them, not Religiouſly, but Politically, inaſmuch as they were to become Slaves and Vaſſals to * Idolatrous Nations; even ſuch Idolaters as neither they nor their Fathers had ever heard of. For as for a Religious ſervice of Idols, the Jews were never ſo free as in their captivity, as we ſee by experience at this day: but with the ſervice of bondage they may be ſaid Politically to have been the Vaſſals of Idols, as being in bondage to the ſervants of other Gods. As a Chriſtian taken by the Turk may in the like ſenſe be ſaid to come in bondage, and be a Slave to Mahomet: For a Slave to the Servants is in a ſenſe Servant to their Maſter. Let it alſo be conſidered whether that of David, 1 Sam. 26. 19. be not to be expounded according to this notion, They have driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, ſaying, Goe ſerve other Gods; that is, baniſhed me into a Nation of another Religion.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

* So Targum Onkelos and Jonathan both render it expreſly, Servire populis פלחי טעותא ſervientibus Idolis, Deut. 28. 36, 64. alſo c. 4. 28. necnon Targum Jonathan, Jer. 16. 13. 1 Sam. 26. 19. that is, in all the places forecited.

Secondly, The exploits of the Nations are ſaid to be done by their Gods, even as we by like privilege of ſpeech aſcribe unto our Kings what is done by the People under them. Thus 2 Chron. 28. 23. the Gods of Damaſcus are ſaid to have ſmote Ahaz; He ſacrificed to the Gods of Damaſcus that ſmote him: and he ſaid, Becauſe the Gods of Syria help them, therefore will I ſacrifice to them, that they may help me. Jer. 51. 44. it is ſaid of the Dominion of Babylon, That the Nations flowed together unto Bel, and that he had ſwallowed up their wealth, which the Lord threatned there to bring forth again out of his mouth.

Thirdly, and that moſt frequently of all others, What is attempted againſt the Nations, is ſaid to be attempted againſt their Gods: Even as Generals bear the name not only of the exploits, but alſo of the diſadvantages of the Armies led by them; ſo here the Gods are ſaid to receive the affronts, defeatures and diſcomfitures given to the People under their patronage. * Rabſhakeh vaunts in his Maſter's name, 2 Kings 18. 33. Hath any of the Gods of the Nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the King of Aſſyria? where are the Gods of Hamath, and of Arpad? where are the Gods of Sepharvaim? Iſay 46. 1, 2. propheſieth thus of the taking of Babylon by Cyrus; Bel boweth down, Nebo ſtoopeth——they could not deliver the burthen, but they themſelves are gone into captivity. In the like ſtrain propheſieth Jeremy, chap. 50. 2. Babylon is taken, Bel is confounded, Merodach is broken in pieces, her Idols are confounded, &c. And again, Jer. 51. 44. I will puniſh Bel in Babylon, and I will bring out of his mouth that which he hath ſwallowed up, and the Nations ſhall not flow together any more unto him: yea the wall of Babylon ſhall fall. The ſame Prophet ſaith of Moab's captivity, chap. 48. 7. Thou ſhalt be taken, and Chemoſh ſhall goe into captivity with his Prieſts and his Princes together. Moab likewiſe in his affronts and deriſion of Iſrael is * ſaid to have magnified himſelf againſt the Lord. According to which manner of ſpeech the ſucceſs and prevailing of the Roman in the advancing his Dominion and ſubduing every Nation under him, is here expreſſed by his exalting and magnifying himſelf above every God. This I ſuppoſe to be the ground of that manner of ſpeech; though if any had rather, as others do, take Gods here for the Kings and Potentates of the earth, it will I confeſs come all to one purpoſe.

* 2 Sam. 7. 23. God is ſaid to have redeemed Iſrael from Egypt, from the Nations and their Gods. See Tremel. who turns it more to our purpoſe.

* Verſ. 26, & 42.

4. By the Gods of their Anceſtors, whom the Roman State ſhould at length caſhier and caſt off, are meant all the Pagan Deities and Heathen Gods which were worſhipped in that Empire.

5. By the Deſire of Women, which the Roman alſo at that time ſhould not regard as he was wont, is meant Deſire of wiving, or Deſire of having Women for the society of life, conjugal affection, which is expressed Gen. 2. 24. to be such a desire for which a man shall leave father and mother, and cleave to his wife, and they shall be both one flesh. And it might have been translated in this place, Desire of wives, as well as Desire of women; for there is no other word used in the Original for Wives above once or twice in the whole Scripture, but this נָשִׁים which is here turned women. With the like use of the word Desire, the Spouse in the Canticles, chap. 7. 10. expresseth her wel-beloved to be her Husband: I am my wel-beloved's (saith she) and his Desire is towards me; that is, He is my Husband: for so twice before she expressed her self, chap. 2. 16. My beloved is mine, and I am his; and chap. 6.3. I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine. So Ezek. 24.16. the Lord threatning to take away Ezekiel's wife, saith, Behold I take away from thee the Desire of thine eyes מַחְמַד עֵינֶיךָ, and afterward ver. 18. it followeth, And at even my wife died. Yea, the Roman language it self is not unacquainted with this speech: Cicero ad uxorem, En mea lux, meum desiderium. This Desire of women and married life the Roman should discountenance, when he shook off the Gods of his Ancestors.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

(a) See the oration of Licinius to his Souldiers, Euseb. de vita Constantin. lib. 2. c. 5.

(b) Syr. אלהא נוכריא. The Altar he there speaks of in his defence was inscribed Θεῷ Ἀγνώστῳ καὶ Ξένῳ, which God (saith he) I preach unto you.

(c) Roma cùm penè omnibus dominaretur Gentibus, omnium Gentium serviebat erroribus; & magnam sibi videbatur assumpsisse Religionem, quia nullam respuebat falsitatem. Leo Mag. in Ser. 1. in nat. Apost. Petri & Pauli. Hîc confutandi Dæmonum cultus, hîc omnium sacrificiorum impietas destruenda, ubi diligentissimâ Superstitione habeatur collectum, quicquid usquam fuerat vanis erroribus institutum. Id. ib.

6. By the Strange and Forein God whom the Roman should at length acknowledge, is meant (a) Christ. For though to the Jew every Strange and Forein God were a False God; yet to the Gentiles, who worshipped none but Idols, the Forein God was the True: Therefore the Philosophers at Athens, when S. Paul preached Christ unto them, said, He preached (b) Ξένων Δαιμόνιον a Forein God. The want of which consideration hath much obscured this prophecy; this Forein God being still supposed to be a False God; when to those who worshipped all kinds of False Gods, as the (c) Roman did, a Forein God, whom their Fathers knew not, must needs be the True.

7. Where it is said, With this Forein God he shall honour Mahuzzims, these Mahuzzims or Maüzzims are these Damons we seek for, whom the Roman should worship with Christ whom he should embrace. For Mahuzzim are Protectores Dii, (such as Saints and Angels are supposed to be) as I shall shew by and by; where though I may be new for the particular, yet for the general I shall agree well enough with the Fathers, who constantly thought that under these Mahuzzim was some Idol meant which Antichrist should worship, and many of our time have taken it for the Masse.

But I must first say something of the translation of this 38. verse, and then will come to the signification of this word Mahuzzim.

For the first; Whereas the Preposition ל in לֵאלֹהַּ is usually neglected, and the words אֱלֹהַּ and מָעֻזִּים God and Mahuzzim construed together as one thing, viz. God Mahuzzim, or, as some, The God of Forces; I express the Preposition ל, and construe God and Mahuzzim apart as Two; viz. To, or, Together with, God he shall honour Mahuzzims, &c. Ad (vel juxta) Deum Mahuzzimos honorabit, &c. For the preposition ל is made of אֶל, and signifies the same with it, namely an Addition or Adjoyning of things, Ad, Juxta, Apud, and עַל super, propter, &c. To, Besides, and *Together with; as Lev. 18.18. Thou shalt not take a wife to her sister, אֶל אֲחֹתָהּ, that is, together with her sister. By this means the controversie betwixt Junius and Graserus is taken away: For Junius, as should seem, seeing no reason why the Preposition ל should be neglected, and that by so doing the Verb נִבַּר was made irregularly and against use to govern a Dative case, he expresses the Preposition by Quod ad or Quod attinet ad, (that is) As concerning. But the words God and Mahuzzim he sundreth not, but turneth them as in statu constructo, viz. The God of Mights or Forces; understanding thereby the True and Almighty God himself. Against which Graserus excepts, 1. That to render the Preposition ל Ad [As concerning] savours of a Latinism rather then of an Hebraism.

2. That

* See this use of ל Ezra 1. 5. לְכֹל, Vulg. & Angl. with. Lev. 16.21. לְכָל חַטֹּאתָם Vulg. atque, LXX καὶ. Num. 33. 2. לְמַסְּעֵיהֶם, LXX καὶ. chap. 32.33. לְטָרְיָה, LXX καὶ, Vulg. cùm, Angl. with.

2. That he doth as good as ſtrike out the diſtinctive Accent [a] Athnach [∧] which is a Colon; inaſmuch as he makes the ſentence being a full member to be imperfect and defective; and yet would ſeem to ſtand in awe of that ſmaller diſtinction Zakeph-katon [:] over the word מָעֻזִּים Mahuzzim, which yet ſtands there, as [b] elſewhere, but for a Nota bene. 3. That to expound God Mahuzzim to be the True God, againſt the conſent not only of Jews, who ever take it for ſome Idol or other, but of the ancient Chriſtian writers, who underſtand by it ſome Idol of Antichriſt, yea ſome the Devil himſelf, and of many of our own, who take it for the Idol of the Maſſe, and ſome otherwiſe, yet for an Idol-deity; To expound this of the True and Almighty God without example in Scripture, Graſerus thinks not tolerable. Wherefore himſelf had rather yield the conſtruction of the verb כבד to be irregular, (Junius himſelf having admitted it in the next member of the verſe) and to ſuppoſe it to be a myſticall Soleciſm, the Spirit intending by the Anomaly and incongruity of the Syntax to ſignifie an Anomaly and incongruity of Religion. But theſe inconveniences on both ſides, as farre as I can ſee, are wholly avoided by that Tranſlation we have given; whereof let the Reader judge.

I come now to unfold the ſignification of the word Mahuzzim; (a word which the moſt Tranſlations retain, the Septuagint calling it Μαωζείμ, S. Jerome or the Vulgar Latine Maozim, the Geneva and others Maüzzim.) This מָעֻזִּים Mahuzzim, I ſay, is in the Plural number; the ſingular is מָעוֹז Mahoz, which in the abſtract ſignifies ſometimes Strength, ſometimes a Fortreſs or Bulwark, of עָזַז Robuſtus fuit: But the Hebrews uſe Abſtracts for Concretes. Examples are many in the Old Teſtament, as Juſtitia pro Juſtis, Captivity for Captives, &c. In the New Teſtament, Principalities, Powers and Dominions, for Princes, Potentates and Dominators. So Mahoz, Strength or a Fortreſs, for him that ſtrengthens or fortifies, that is a Protector, Defender, Guardian, Helper. Wherefore the Septuagint five times in the Pſalms render the word מָעוֹז Mahoz ὑπερασπιστὴς; and the Vulgar Latine as often Protector: the places are theſe. Pſal. 27. 1. The Lord is מָעוֹז חַיַּי the Protector of my life, of whom ſhould I be afraid? Pſal. 28. 8. The Lord is their ſtrength, and he is מָעוֹז יְשׁוּעוֹת Mahoz Jeſhuoth, the Mahoz of ſalvations * of his anointed: where the Septuagint hath ὑπερασπιστὴς τῶν σωτηριῶν, the Vulgar, Protector ſalvationum. Pſal. 31. 3. Bow down thine eare to me, deliver me ſpeedily, be thou unto me לְצוּר מָעוֹז for a Rock Mahoz; Septuagint, εἰς Θεὸν ὑπερασπιστὴν, Vulg. in Deum Protectorem. Again verſe 5. Pull me out of the net that they have laid privily for me, כִּי אַתָּה מָעוּזִּי ki atta Mahuzzi, for thou art my Protector; the Septuagint, ὑπερασπιστής μου, the Vulgar, Protector. Pſal. 37. 39. The ſalvation of the righteous is from the Lord, he is מָעוּזָּם Mahuzam, their Mahoz in the time of trouble, and the Lord ſhall help them and deliver them from the wicked, &c. where the Septuagint and the Vulgar render as before ὑπερασπιστὴς and Protector. How think you now? Are not Saints and Angels worſhipped as Mahuzzims? True Chriſtians have with David, in the Pſalms before quoted, one Mahoz, Jehovah Mahoz, that is, Chriſt; but Apoſtate Chriſtians have their many Mahuzzims. O would they worſhipped only מָעוֹז יְשׁוּעוֹת that Mahoz of ſalvations, as you heard David even now call him, Pſal. 28. You may if you pleaſe compare with theſe places of the Pſalms that in the firſt verſe of this eleventh of Daniel, where the Angel ſaith he ſtood in the firſt year of Darius the Mede to confirm and be a Mahoz to him, וְלְמָעוֹז לוֹ, which we tranſlate, to ſtrengthen him: By which we may ſee how fitly this name may be applied to Angels, and ſo to Saints ſuppoſed in helping, protecting and aſſiſting to be like them.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

[a] under the verb וְכִבֵּד verſ. 38.

[b] vid. ver. 42. of this ch. over מִצְרַיִם, and verſ. 3. of the next chap. over הַמַּשְׂכִּילִים, where it is impoſſible it ſhould diſtinguiſh, and ſo elſewhere.

* Some render it not of, but, is his Anointed or Meſſiah, that is, Meſſiah is Mahoz Jeſhuoth.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

Thus you ſee the concrete ſenſe of Mahoz for an Helper, Protector and Defender, is not new. But what if we take the word paſſively, Force and Strength, for Fortes and Strong ones? Will not then the valiant Martyrs and Champions of the Faith well bear the name of Mahuzzims? And theſe are they whom, at the firſt, Chriſtians worſhipped only in this ſort, as an honour peculiarly due unto their Sufferings.

Moreover, that you may not think this word and the notion thereof improper to be given unto a Deity, obſerve that the true God is called צור a Rock ſeven times Deut. 32. which the Vulgar turns as often Deus; yea in the ſame place Falſe gods are called alſo צור, or Rocks: ver. 31. Their Rock (that is, the Gentiles Rock) is not as our Rock, even our enemies themſelves being Judges; and ver. 37. Where are their Gods, (that is, Baalim) their Rock in whom they truſted, which did eat the fat of their ſacrifices? &c. The like you ſhall finde in * Hannah's Song, and other places of Scripture. See now the parity. The True God is called a Rock; Baalim and Falſe Gods are alſo Rocks: The True God, or Chriſt himſelf, is often by David call'd Mahoz; why may not then Falſe Gods, or Plurality of Chriſts, be called Mahuzzim? Rock and Fortreſs are not words of ſo great difference.

* 1 Sam. 2. 2.

Thus having cleared the chiefeſt difficulties in the Text, and made the way ſmooth, let us reade over the words again, and apply the Interpretation unto them.

CHAP. XVII.

A particular explication (by way of Paraphraſe) of the forementioned Prophecy in Dan. 11. This further illuſtrated by ſeverall Obſervations, wherein the Events are repreſented as exactly ſutable and appliable to Daniel's Prophecy. That at the beginning of Saint-worſhip in the Church, Saints and their Reliques were called Bulwarks, Fortreſſes, Walls, Towers, Guardians, Protectors, &c. according to the native ſignification of the word uſed by Daniel, Mahuzzim. A brief explication of the following verſes in Dan. 11. viz. verſ. 40, 41, 42, 43.

Dan. 11. Verſe 36. THen a King ſhall doe according to his will, and ſhall exalt or magnifie himſelf above every God;

36. THat is, Toward the end of the Reign of Antiochus Epiphanes *, the Roman ſhall prevail, and ſet up the Fourth Kingdom, making himſelf Maſter of the Kingdom of Macedon, and advancing himſelf from this time forward by continuall conqueſts, ſhall Lord it over every King and Nation;

* See the notice hereof at that time taken by the Jews, 1 Macc. 8. à princip. ad v. 13. incluſivé.

Yea againſt the God of Gods ſhall he ſpeak marvellous things; and ſhall proſper, untill the Indignation be accompliſhed: For the determined time ſhall be fulfilled.

Yea Chriſt, the God of Gods and King of the Kings of the earth, (who in thoſe times ſhould appear in the world) the Roman ſhall mock, blaſpheme, and crucifie, and by moſt bloudy Edicts ſhall perſecute and maſſacre his ſervants the Chriſtians; and yet ſhall proſper in his Empire, untill theſe outragious times be ended, that is, untill the daies of Conſtantine: For the time God hath appointed muſt be fulfilled.

Verſe

Verſe 37. Then he ſhall not regard the Gods of his Anceſtors, nor ſhall he regard the Deſire of Women, no nor any God: but he ſhall magnifie himſelf above all.

37. When that appointed time for the date of his proſperity comes to its period, and the time of the ruine and change of his Dominion draws near; then this Roman State ſhall caſhier and forſake the Idols and Falſe Gods whom their Fathers worſhipped, and ſhall acknowledge Chriſt, a God whom their Fathers knew not. At that time the Deſire of Women and married life ſhall be diſcountenanced, and ſhall not be of that account and regard it had been; but, contrary to the long-continued cuſtome of the Romans, ſingle life ſhall be honoured and privileged above it: yea and ſoon after the Roman ſhall bear himſelf ſo as if he regarded not any God, and with Antichriſtian pride ſhall magnifie himſelf over all.

Verſe 38. For to (or together with) God in his ſeat he ſhall honour Mahuzzims; even together with that God whom his Anceſtors knew not, ſhall he honour [them] with gold, and with ſilver, and with precious ſtones, and with pleaſant things.

38. That is, Together with the Chriſtian God, who is a jealous God and to be worſhipped alone, he ſhall worſhip Mahuzzims even in his ſeat and Temple; even with the forein God, whom his Anceſtors acknowledged not, ſhall he honour Mahuzzims with gold and ſilver, and with precious ſtones, and with pleaſant things.

Verſe 39. And he ſhall make the Holds of the Mahuzzims withall (or joyntly) to the Forein God; whom acknowledging, he ſhall encreaſe with honour: and he ſhall cauſe them to rule over many, and ſhall diſtribute the earth for a reward.

39. And though the Chriſtian God, whom he ſhall profeſs to acknowledge and worſhip, can endure no Compeers, yet ſhall he conſecrate his Temples and Monaſteries (Eccleſiaſticall Holds) joyntly to the Chriſtian God and to his Mahuzzims, Deo & Sanctis: yea he ſhall diſtribute the earth among his Mahuzzims, ſo that beſide ſeverall patrimonies which in every Countrey he ſhall allot them, he ſhall ſhare whole Kingdoms and Provinces among them: Saint George ſhall have England, Saint Andrew Scotland, Saint Denis France, Saint James Spain, Saint Mark Venice, &c. and bear rule as Preſidents and Patrons of their ſeverall Countries.

Thus we ſee how ῥητῶς, how expreſſely the Spirit foretold That the Roman Empire, having rejected the multitude of Gods and Dæmons worſhipped by their Anceſtors, and betaken themſelves to that One and Only God which their Fathers knew not, ſhould nevertheleſs depart from this their Faith, and revive again the old Theology of Dæmons by a new Superinduction of Mahuzzims.

Now although this Prophecy thus applied be ſo evident, that the only pointing at the Event were able almoſt to convince the Reader; yet that we may yet the more admire the Truth of God in the contemplation of an Event ſo ſutable, I will adde theſe following Obſervations concerning it.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART I.

1.

First, That agreeably with the date of the Holy Ghost, the Roman Historians themselves have observed and marked out that time of their prevailing against Macedonia (which I said was accomplished toward the end of the reign of Antiochus Epiphanes) for the beginning of their Dominion over the world. Lucius Florus, lib. 2. cap. 7. Cedente Hannibale, præmium victoriæ Africa fuit, & secutus Africam terrarum orbis. Post Carthaginem vinci neminem puduit; secutæ sunt statim Africam Gentes, Macedonia, Græcia, Syria, cæteráque omnia, quodam quasi æstu & torrente fortunæ: Sed primi omnium Macedones, affectator quondam imperii populus. Hannibal being worsted, Africa became the reward of the victory, and after Africa the whole world also. None thought it a shame to be overcome, after Carthage was. Macedonia, Greece, Syria and all other Nations, as if carried with a certain current and torrent of Fortune, did soon follow Africa: But the first who followed were the Macedonians, a people that sometime affected the Empire of the World. In Velleius Paterculus lib. 1. cap. 6. is an Annotation out of one Æmilius Sura, in these words; Æmilius Sura de annis populi Romani. Assyrii principes omnium Gentium rerum potiti sunt, deinde Medi, postea Persæ, deinde Macedones; exinde duobus regibus, Philippo & Antiocho, qui à Macedonibus oriundi erant, haud multò post Carthaginem subactam, devictis, summa Imperii ad Populum Romanum pervenit. Inter hoc tempus & initium Nini Regis Assyriorum, qui Princeps rerum potitus, intersunt anni MDCCCC XCV. The Assyrians had the Sovereign dominion the first of all Nations, then the Medes and Persians; after them the Macedonians: afterwards those two Kings, Philip and Antiochus, being overcome, and that a little after that Carthage was subdued, the Imperial Power came to the Romans. Between which time and the beginning of the Reign of Ninus the first Assyrian King there are one thousand nine hundred ninety five years. Here the time of the Romans prevailings against the Macedonian Kings is made the beginning of their Empire; even as Daniel also beginneth the Roman account from thence: but with this difference, that whereas Æmilius Sura seems to reckon from the beginning of those prevailings in the victories against Philip, Daniel counts from the victory against Perseus his son, when that Conquest was now perfected, and Macedonia brought into a Province; which happened (as I have already said) the same year that Antiochus Epiphanes prophaned the Temple of Jerusalem.

Vid. etiam 1 Macc. cap. 8.

2.

Tertull. Apologet. l. 1. c. 24. Tot igitur sacrilegia Romanorum, quot trophæa; tot de Diis, quot de Gentibus triumphi; tot manubiæ, quot manent adhuc Simulachra captivorum Deorum.

That no Kingdom in the world, that we know of, could more literally be said in their conquests to exalt and magnifie themselves above every God, then the Roman; in respect of a solemn custome they used in their wars, by a certain charm to call out the gods from any City when they besieged it. The form whereof Macrobius gives us l. 3. Saturn. c. 8. as he found it in Sammonicus Serenus his fifth Book of hidden secrets; namely this.——If it be a God, if it be a Goddess that hath the People and City of Carthage in protection; And thou especially, whosoever thou art, the Patron of this City and people, I pray and beseech, and with your leave require you to abandon the People and City of Carthage, to forsake the places, Temples, Ceremonies, and Enclosures of their City, to go away from them, and to strike fear, terrour and astonishment into that People and City; and having left it, to come to Rome to me and mine; and that our Cities, Places, Temples, Ceremonies, be more acceptable and better liked of you; that you would take the charge of me, of the People of Rome and of my souldiers, so as we may know and understand it. If you doe so, I vow to build you Temples, and to appoint solemn sports for you.

That

3.

That Conſtantine, the firſt Emperour under whom that State forſook the Gods of their Forefathers and became Chriſtian, together with this alteration abrogated thoſe ancient Roman Laws, Julia and Papia, wherein the Deſire of women and married life was ſo much privileged and encouraged, and ſingle and unmarried life diſadvantaged. Hear it in the words of Sozomen, lib. 1. cap. 9. Hiſt. Eccleſiaſt. There was (ſaith he) an ancient Law among the Romans, forbidding thoſe who after five and twenty years old were unmarried, to enjoy the like privileges with married ones; and beſides many other things, that they ſhould have no benefit by Teſtaments and Legacies, unleſs they were next of kindred: and thoſe who had no children to have half their goods confiſcated. Wherefore the Emperour ſeeing thoſe who for God's ſake were addicted to chaſtity and virginity, to be for this cauſe in a worſt condition; he accounted it a folly for men to goe about to increaſe their kind with ſuch carefulneſs and diligence, whenas Nature, according to Divine moderation, continually receives as well diminution as increaſe. Therefore he publiſhed a Law to the people, That both thoſe who lived a ſingle life, and thoſe who had no children, ſhould enjoy the like privileges with others: yea he enacted, that thoſe who lived in chaſtity and virginity ſhould be privileged above them; enabling both ſexes, though under years, to make Teſtaments, contrary to the accuſtomed politie of the Romans. This alteration of the Roman Law by Conſtantine, Euſebius alſo witneſſeth lib. 4. cap. 26. de vita Conſtantini: and again cap. 28. where he ſaith, That above all he honoured moſt thoſe that had conſecrated their lives to divine Philoſophy; he means a monaſtical life; and therefore he almoſt adored the moſt holy company of perpetual Virgins. That which the Father had thus enacted, the Sons alſo ſeconded, and ſome of the following Emperours, by new Edicts, till there was no relique left of thoſe ancient privileges wherewith married men had been reſpected; which Procopius ſaith (how rightly I examine not) was the cauſe of the ruine of that Empire, which was ſo much enfeebled and weakned through the neglect of procreation of children, that it was not able to match the numerous armies of the barbarous nations. This was the firſt ſtep of the diſregard of marriage and the Deſire of wiving; which was not an abſolute prohibition, but a diſcouragement. But no ſooner had the Roman Biſhop and his Clergy got the power into their hands, but it grew to an abſolute prohibition, not for Monks only, but for the whole Clergy: which was the higheſt diſreſpect that could be to that which God had made honourable among all men.

4.

Laſtly, It is a thing not to be paſſed by without admiration, That the Fathers and others, even at the beginning of Saint-worſhip, by I know not what fatal inſtinct, uſed to call Saints and their Reliques, Towers, Walls, Bulwarks, Fortreſſes, that is, מעזים Mahuzzim, in the prime and native ſignification.

Baſil in his Oration upon the Fourty Martyrs, whoſe Reliques were diſperſed over all the Countries thereabouts, ſpeaks in this manner; Theſe are thoſe who having taken poſſeſſion of our Country, as certain conjoyned TOWERS, ΠΥΡΓΟΙ τινὲς συνεχεῖς, ſecure it from the incurſions of Enemies. The ſame Baſil concludes his Oration upon Mamas the Martyr in this manner; That God who hath gathered us together in this place, and diſpoſes of what is to come, keep us ſafe from hurt, and ſecure us from the ravenous Wolf, and preſerve ſtedfaſt this Church of Cæſarea, being guarded with the mighty TOWERS of Martyrs, φρουρουμένην τοῖς μεγάλοις ΠΥΡΓΟΙΣ τῶν μαρτύρων.

Chryſoſtome in his 32. Homily upon the Epiſtle to the Romans, ſpeaking of the Reliques of Peter and Paul, This Corps (ſaith he, meaning of Paul) fortifies this City of Rome more ſtrongly then any TOWER, or then ten thouſand RAMPIRES, as alſo doth the Corps of Peter, παντὸς ΠΥΡΓΟΥ καὶ μυρίων ΠΕΡΙΒΟΛΩΝ ἀσφαλέστερον, &c. Are not theſe ſtrong Mahuzzims?

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

The like whereunto is that of Venantius Fortunatus a Chriſtian Poet, not much above an age younger then Chryſoſtome.

A facie hoſtili duo PROPUGNACULA præſunt,
Quos Fidei TURRES Urbs caput Orbis habet.

The Faith's two TOWR'S in Lady Rome do lie,
Two BULWARKS ſtrong againſt the Enemy.

At the ſame thing aims Gregory, lib. 7. Ep. 23. ad Ruſticianam Patriciam, entreating her to come to Rome: Si gladios Italiæ & bella formidetis, &c. If you fear the ſwords (ſaith he) and wars of Italy, you ought attentively to conſider how great the PROTECTION of Bleſſed Peter, the Prince of the Apoſtles, is in this City; wherein without any great number of people, without the aid of ſouldiers, we have been ſo many years in the midſt of ſwords by God's providence ſafely preſerved from all hurt.

But to return again to S. Chryſoſtome, who in his Homily upon the Egyptian Martyrs, Hom. 70. ad populum Antiochenum, ſpeaks after this manner: Thoſe Saints bodies (ſaith he) ΤΕΙΧΙΖΕΙ FORTIFY our City more ſtrongly then an IMPREGNABLE WALL OF ADAMANT; and, as certain high ROCKS hanging on every ſide, repell not only the aſſaults of thoſe Enemies which are ſenſible and ſeen with the eye, but alſo overthrow and defeat the ambuſcadoes of Inviſible Fiends, and all the Stratagems of the Devil. Here you ſee are Mahazzims too.

So long before, in the days of Conſtantine, James Biſhop of Niſibis, renowned for Holineſs, was, according to order given by Conſtantine in his life-time, (ſaith Gennadius) buried within the walls of that City, being a Frontier of the Empire, ob cuſtodiam viz. Civitatis. Gennad. de Vir. illuſtr. cap. 6.

Evagrius lib. 1. c. 13. tells us, That the Antiochians offered up a ſupplication to the Emperour Leo the firſt, about the year 460, for the keeping of the Corps of holy Simeon, ſurnamed Stylita or the Pillariſt, in this form; Becauſe our City hath no wall, (for it had been demoliſhed in a fury) therefore we brought hither this moſt holy Body, that it might be to us ΤΕΙΧΟΣ καὶ ΟΧΥΡΩΜΑ A WALL and A FORTRESSE, which would be in Hebrew לשור ולמעוז Leſhur vlemahoz.

S. Hilary alſo will tell us, That neither the GUARDS of Saints nor [Angelorum munitiones] the BULWARKS of Angels are wanting to thoſe who are willing to ſtand. Here Angels are Mahuzzim, as Saints were in the former.

The Greeks at this day, in their Preces Horariæ, thus invocate the Bleſſed Virgin; O thou Virgin mother of God, thou impregnable WALL, thou FORTRESSE of Salvation [מעוז ישועות Pſal. 28.] we call upon thee, that thou wouldeſt fruſtrate the purpoſes of our Enemies, and be a FENCE to this City: thus they goe on, calling her The Hope, Safeguard, and Sanctuary of Chriſtians. Here is מעוז מעזים Mahoz Mahuzzim, a ſtrong Mahoz indeed.

To conclude, The Titles of Protectors, Guardians and Defenders, which is the ſignification of Mahuzzim when a Perſon is meant, as they are more frequent, ſo are they no leſs ancient. Greg. Nyſſen. in his third Oration upon the the fourty Martyrs, calls them Δορυφόροι καὶ Ὑπερασπισταὶ, Guarders and Protectors. Eucherius his S. Gervaſe, the perpetual [Propugnator] Protectour of the faithful. Theodoret. lib. 8. de curandis Græcorum affectionibus, calls the holy Martyrs Guardians of Cities, Lieutenants of places, Captains of men, Princes, Champions, and Guardians, by whom diſaſters are turned from us, and thoſe which come from Devils debarred and driven away.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART I.

I might here adde ſomething alſo concerning Images, whoſe worſhip is another part of the Doctrine of Dæmons, and ſhew how well the name Mahuzzim would befit them, which the Iconomachical Council of Conſtantinople calls ſo unluckily Δαιμονικὰ ὀχυρώματα the Fortreſſes or Mahuzzim of the Devil. And perhaps the nine and thirtieth verſe in the fore-alledged Prophecy might be yet more literally tranſlated, if the word עשׂה facere were taken in a religious ſenſe; And he ſhall [doe unto, or] offer unto the holds of Mahuzzim, together with the forein God, &c. that is, he ſhall doe religious ſervice to the Images of Saints together with Chriſt. I might alſo put you in mind of the term of Munimentum given to the Croſs, and that ſo uſual Latin phraſe of Munire ſigno Crucis, to fortifie (that is, to ſign) with the ſign of the Croſſe: But I will not engage my ſelf too farre in theſe Grammatical Speculations.

But Conſtantinus Manaſſes the Greek Hiſtorian, inveighing againſt Leo Iſaurus for demoliſhing Images, calls them Turres atque Munitiones religioſi cultûs.

As for the following verſes of this Prophecie, if any deſire to know it, they may, as I think, be interpreted and applied thus.

Ver. 40. And at the time of the End [that is, in the Romans ὕστερον καιρὸν or Latter times] ſhall the King of the South (that is, the Saracen) puſh at him, and the King of the North (the Turk) ſhall come againſt him (to wit, the Saracen) like a whirlwind, with chariots and with horſemen, and with many ſhips, and he ſhall enter into the Countries, and ſhall overflow and paſſe over.

Ver. 41. He ſhall enter alſo into the glorious Land (Paleſtine) and many ſhall be overthrown; but theſe ſhall eſcape out of his hand, Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon; that is, the Inhabitants of Arabia Petræa, which were never yet Provincials of the Turkiſh Empire; yea with ſome of them he is fain to be at a Penſion for the ſafer paſſage of his Caravans.

Ver. 42. He (the Turk) ſhall ſtretch forth his hand alſo upon the Countries [of thoſe parts,] and the Land of Egypt (though it ſhould hold out long under the Mamalukes, even till the year 1517) ſhall not eſcape.

Ver. 43. But he ſhall have power over the treaſures of gold and ſilver and all the precious things of Egypt; and the Libyans and the Cuſhites (that is, the neighbouring Nations, whether of Africk or Libya, as thoſe of Algiers, &c. or of the Arabians in Scripture called Cuſhim) ſhall be at his ſteps, that is, at his devotion.

That which * remains, as I ſuppoſe, is not yet fulfilled, and therefore I leave it: Time will make it manifeſt.

* See in Book IV. an explication of the remaining Verſes, as alſo a larger explication of the foregoing.

PART

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

PART II.

Vers. 2. Ἐν ὑποκρίσει Ψευδολόγων, κεκαυτηριασμένων τὴν ἰδίαν συνείδησιν,

Through the hypocrisie [or feigning] of Liers, of those who have their conscience seared,

Vers. 3. Κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων ἃ ὁ Θεὸς ἔκτισεν εἰς μετάληψιν μετ' εὐχαριστίας τοῖς πιστοῖς καὶ ἐπεγνωκόσι τὴν ἀλήθειαν.

Of those who forbid to marry, and command to abstain from meats which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

CHAP. I.

The Author's three Reasons for his Translating the Text differently from the Common Versions. That the Preposition [Ἐν] in the Text signifies Through or By. Other places of Scripture where it signifies likewise Causam or Modum actionis.

OF the First Part of this Prophecie, being a Description of the Condition of that Solemn Defection which was to come, I have spoken hitherto. I come now to the Second Part of my Division, The quality of the Persons, and the Means whereby it was to enter and be advanced, which is set forth in the Verses now read; which though you may find by others otherwise translated, yet I hope the Translation which I have propounded, if the judicious Reader please to examine it, will approve it self not only not to be an enforced one, but such as salves that incongruity of Construction which the other could not avoid. For it is usually translated intransitively, with reference to the Persons expressed in the former verse, viz. That they should speak lies in hypocrisie, having their conscience seared with an hot iron, and forbidding marriage, and commanding to abstain from meats: So as that which in the former verse is named Doctrines of Devils, should only mean that in general terms, which in these Verses is particularly instanced to be Doctrines of prohibiting marriage, and abstaining from meats, as two branches of that Devilish doctrine; for so Calvin, Melanchthon and some others seem to expound it.

But why this Interpretation should not be the most likely, my first Reason is,

1. Because it makes S. Paul, who speaks of that Great Apostasie of Christians which was to be in the Latter Times, to instance onely in the smaller and (if I may so say) almost circumstantial errours; and to omit the main and principal, which the Scripture elsewhere tells us should be Idolatry or Spiritual fornication. Who can believe that he would so balk the substance, and name only that which in comparison is but an Appendix thereto?

2. He propheſies here in expres words of such things as were to come ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς in the Latter times: But Errours about Marriage and Meats

Meats were no novelty in the Apoſtles own times, as the diligent Reader may eaſily collect out of their Epiſtles; which makes it improbable he would ſpecifie the Apoſtaſie of the latter times in theſe alone.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

3. But my laſt Reaſon, whereunto I think I may truſt, is, That the Syntax of the words in the Greek is uncapable of ſuch an intranſitive conſtruction, and conſequently of the ſenſe depending thereon. For the Perſons intimated in the former verſe are expreſſed in caſu recto, as τινὲς προσέχοντες: but the Perſons intended here we find in the Genitive, ψευδολόγων, κεκαυτηριασμένων, κωλυόντων, which I cannot ſee how they can agree with τινὲς and προσέχοντες, after the manner of intranſitive conſtruction, without breach of Grammatical congruity not elſewhere ſampled in our Apoſtle's Epiſtles. Indeed they would agree with Δαιμονίων, but that would be a harſh ſenſe every way: for either we muſt ſay (as ſome do) that by Devils are meant Deviliſh men or men led by the Devil, which is an hard ſignification; or elſe it would be a ſtranger ſenſe, and I think not over-pliable to the uſual expoſition, to ſay That Devils ſhould lie, have ſeared conſciences, and forbid marriage or meats: So that Beza, with others, had rather confeſs a breach of Syntax, then incurre the inconvenience of ſuch a forced ſenſe: Major eſt habita (ſaith he) ſententiæ quàm conſtructionis ratio; The Apoſtle heeded more the matter then he did the Grammar.

But what needs this, ſo long as there is a better way to ſalve it? namely, to conſtrue the words tranſitively, making all theſe Genitive caſes to be governed of Ἐν ὑποκρίσει: as ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, by or through the feigning of liers; ἐν ὑποκρίσει κεκαυτηριασμένων, through the feigning of thoſe who had their conſciences ſeared; and ſo forward. Which conſtruction is obſerved and followed by Andreas Hyperius, one of our reformed Writers, who tranſlates, Per ſimulationem falſiloquorum, &c. and expounds it, de modo quo fallent Spiritus Impoſtores; fallunt per ſimulationem ſeu hypocriſin falſiloquorum, &c. and I believe that * many others have ſo taken it; for our late tranſlations are indifferent to be taken either way. Howſoever it be, I ſee no way but this to keep the Syntax true and even, and wholly to avoid the fore-mentioned inconveniences: which as it is eaſie and obvious, and not ſtrained, ſo I hope to let you ſee the Event to have been moſt anſwerable thereunto; That this was the Manner, and this the Means, this the Quality of the Perſons whereby the Doctrine of Dæmons was firſt brought in, advanced and maintained in the Church, viz. Through the hypocriſie, feigning, craft, or counterfeiting of thoſe who told lies, of thoſe who had their conſciences ſeared, &c.

* So Caſtellio ſeems to underſtand it, tranſlating Per ſimulationem hominum falſiloquorum.

As for the uſe of the Prepoſition (Ἐν) to ſignifie cauſam, inſtrumentum, or modum actionis, he that is not a ſtranger in the Scripture, knows it to be moſt frequent, the Greek Text borrowing it from the uſe of the Hebrew Prepoſition בְּ which the Hebrews call העור ב, as when it ſignifies In, הכלי ב (i.) Subjecti. But two or three examples will not doe amiſs. Matth. 5. 13. If the ſalt hath loſt its ſavour, ἐν τίνι ἁλισθήσεται; wherewith ſhall it be ſalted? Act. 17. 31. Becauſe God hath appointed a day in which he will judge the world in righteouſneſs, ἐν ἀνδρὶ ᾧ ὥρισε by the man whom he hath ordained. 2 Pet. 3. 1. I ſtirre up your pure minds ἐν ὑπομνήσει by way of remembrance. Tit. 1. 9. That he may be able ἐν διδασκαλίᾳ ὑγιαινούσῃ by ſound doctrine to exhort and convince the gainſayers. And moſt naturally to the buſineſs we have in hand, 2 Theſſ. 2. 9, 10. of the Man of ſin, Whoſe coming (ſaith the Apoſtle) is after the working of Satan ἐν πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ σημείοις καὶ τέρασι ψεύδους, καὶ ἐν πάσῃ ἀπάτῃ τῆς ἀδικίας, with all power, and ſigns, and lying wonders, (or through them) and through all deceivableneſs of unrighteouſneſs, &c. So in my Text, ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, &c. through the hypocriſie of Liers, &c.

Vide etiam Eph. 4. 14.

CHAP.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

CHAP. II.

The words of the Text explained. That for the Character or Quality of the Perſons that made way for, or brought in the Great Apoſtaſy, ſome were Liers, ſome had ſeared Conſciences, ſome forbade Marriage and Meats; others were guilty of all theſe imputations. What is meant by The Hypocriſie of Liers: That this appeared in 3 things; 1 Lies of Miracles, 2. Fabulous Legends, 3. Counterfeit Writings under the name of Antiquity. That Lies of Miracles appear'd in 1. Their Forgery, 2. Illuſion, 3. Miſapplication. What is meant by Having ſeared Conſciences. That the ſtrange and indecent Tales wherewith the Legends and the like Writings are ſtuft, argue thoſe that did either vent or believe them, to be men of ſeared (that is, hard and unfeeling) conſciences. Some Inſtances of the indecency of thoſe Stories.

NOW for the unfolding of the words, this muſt firſt be obſerved in general, That they are not to be ſo underſtood, as if thoſe who are the bringers in and advancers of the Doctrine of Dæmons ſhould every one of them be guilty of all the ſeveral imputations in this Deſcription: but they are to be conſtrued rather as an Aſyndeton, by underſtanding the *Conjunction, as if it had been uttered thus; Through the hypocriſie of Liers, and, Through the hypocriſy of men of ſeared conſciences, and laſtly, By the hypocriſie of thoſe who forbid marriage and meats; or thus; Through the hypocriſie, partly of Liers, partly of men of ſeared conſciences, partly of thoſe who forbid marriage and command to abſtain from meats: that ſo though many were guilty of all, yet ſome may be exempt from ſome; as namely ſome might be guilty of the laſt note, of forbidding marriage and abſtaining from meats, and yet free of the former, of being counterfeit Liers and men of ſeared Conſciences: which I ſpeak for reverence of ſome of the Ancients, who though otherwiſe holy men, yet cannot be acquitted from all the imputations here mentioned, nor altogether excuſed from having an hand, through the Fate of the times wherein they lived, in laying the ground-work whereon ſoon after the Great Apoſtaſie was builded.

* In omni diſtributione omitti copulativa videtur, vix apponi. Linacr. Nonne ſic etiam in Græcis?

This therefore being remembred, I come now to the unfolding of them in ſeveral: and firſt of the firſt, The hypocriſie of Liers, ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων. The word ὑπόκρισις ſignifies diſſimulation, a feigning, counterfeiting, a ſemblance and ſhew of that which is not ſo indeed as it ſeemeth. And this word we muſt repeat ἀπὸ κοινοῦ, as belonging in common to the reſt which follows: For all ſhould be counterfeit; Lying ſhould carry the counterfeit of Truth, the ſeared Conſcience a ſemblance of Devotion, the Reſtraint of Marriage ſhould be but a ſhew of Chaſtity, and Abſtaining from meats a falſe appearance of Abſtinence. For the Perſons of whom they are ſpoken, ſhould either make a ſhew of what themſelves knew was not; or that which they thought they had, ſhould be no better then a falſe ſhew and counterfeit of that they took it for. The Vulgar Latine in Mark 12.15. and the Syriack in the ſame place, turn the word Hypocriſie, verſutia, dolus, craft and ſubtilty; which ſenſe, if need were, would not be denied admittance here. But I return to ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων, The hypocriſie of Liers; which I conceive to be the ſame and no other then that which our Apoſtle ſpeaks in the ſame caſe, 2 Theſſ. 2. where he tells us, That the coming of the Man of ſin and the Apoſtaſy attending him ſhould be after the working of Satan, with all power, and ſigns, and lying wonders, and with all deceivableneſs of unrighteouſneſs, or unrighteous and ungodly deceiving; and that

God

God ſhould ſend them ſtrong deluſions, that they might believe a lie, &c. Yea ſome of this, and of that which follows in that place, may extend alſo to the reſt which follows in my Text; howſoever the moſt thereof, as you hear, doth moſt evidently expound this ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων, this Hypocriſie of Liers.

Now according to the Event, this Hypocriſie of Liers doth appear in three things: 1. Lies of Miracles; 2. Fabulous Legends of the Acts of Saints and Sufferings of Martyrs; 3. Counterfeit Writings under the name of the beſt and firſt Antiquity.

Lies of Miracles will diſplay their Hypocriſie in three particulars: 1. Forgery, 2. Illuſion, 3. Miſapplication.

1. Forgery of Miracles never done; as were the reports of wondrous Dreams and Viſions, which had no other credit but the Author's honeſty: or miraculous Cures, by the power and Reliques of Saints deceaſed; as when thoſe who never were blind, made others believe they had newly received ſight.

2. Illuſion; when though ſomething were done, yet it was but a ſeeming and a counterfeit only of a miraculous work; indeed ſome jugling trick of the Devil or his inſtruments.

Author Oper. imperf. in Matt. Hom. 49. Donec fuit vocatio ad fidem ex infidelitate, fecerunt ſigna & ſervi Chriſti, quia ſigna divinæ vocationis teſtimonia ſunt, &c. Ceſſante autem vocatione incipiet ſeductio revocans homines à fide ad infidelitatem. Incipiente ergò ſeductione tradenda ſunt ſeductionis adjutoria Diabolo, i. e. poteſtas faciendorum ſignorum, &c.

3. Laſtly, Miſapplication: either when that was attributed to a Divine power, which was nothing but ἐνέργεια τοῦ Σατανᾶ the work and operation of the Devil; or when it was interpreted or abuſed to invite and confirm men in ſome Idolatrous errour, as it happened in the Miracles at the Shrines and Sepulchres of the holy Martyrs, which were interpreted to be for confirmation of the opinion of their Power, Preſence, and notice of humane affairs after death, and to warrant and encourage men to have recourſe unto them by prayer and invocation, as unto Mediatours, and to give that honour unto their Reliques which was due unto God alone. The like is to be ſaid of the Miracles of Images and of the Hoſt; which though they ſmelt ſtrong of Forgery or Illuſion, were ſuppoſed by a divine diſpoſition to be wrought for the like end and purpoſe. All which was ἐνέργεια πλάνης, the power of ſeduction or ſtrong deluſion, to make the world believe a Lie, as S. Paul ſpeaks 2 Theſſ. 2. 11.

Concerning the Hypocriſie of fabulous Legend-writers of the Acts of Saints and Martyrs, you know what it means; as alſo the laſt which was named, Counterfeit Authors under the name of Antiquity, as approving thoſe Errors which Latter times deviſed: I ſhall not need here to uſe any further explication. And thus you ſee what is comprehended under ὑποκρισις ψευδολόγων, the hypocriſie, counterfeiting or feigning of Liers.

I ſhould now come to diſplay the truth of this particular of this Prophecie in the Event: But I will firſt unfold the next imputation, ὑποκρισις κεκαυτηριασμένων, the hypocriſie of thoſe who have their conſcience ſeared; which though it might be exemplified in other things, yet I mean to inſtance only in that afore-mentioned, and ſo muſt give you the ſtory of both together.

Ἐν ὑποκρίσει κεκαυτηριασμένων τὴν ἰδίαν συνείδησιν, Through the hypocriſie of thoſe who have ſeared conſciences. For ἐν ὑποκρίσει, as I ſaid before, is to be repeated ἀπὸ κοινοῦ. Καυτήριον ſignifies both the place ſeared, and the mark printed by the ſearing with an hot iron. Καυτηριάζειν is to cauterize, to ſear with an hot iron, or cut off with ſearing, as Chirurgeons do rotten members: now that which is ſeared becomes more hard and brawny, and so more dull, and not so sensible in feeling as otherwise. In this sense κεκαυτηριασμένοι τὴν ἰδίαν συνείδησιν signifies those who have a hard and a brawny Conscience, which hath no feeling in it: In the other sense, as καυτηριάζειν is to cut off by searing, it must signifie those who have no conscience left. There is not much difference; but I follow the first, a hard and unfeeling Conscience. And whether those ψευδολόγοι whereof we spake before (to use no other instances) were not of such metall for their conscience, I think no man can deny.

Who could have coined, or who could have believed such monstrous stuffe as the Legends are stored with, but such as were cauterized? If they had had any feeling or tenderness, not only of Conscience but even of Sense, they could never have believed or vented such stuffe as there is. As that the Virgin Mary should draw out her breasts, and milk in I know not what Clerk's mouth. That she played the Mid-wife to an Abbess got with child by her Cater, and sent the Bastard by two Angels to a certain Eremite to be brought up. Idem ibid. c. 86. That she came and lay the first night in the midst between a certain Bridegroom and his Bride. Idem lib. 7. cap. 87.

Vincent. Histor. lib. 7. c. 84.

Cæsarius in his seventh book, chap. 34. reports, That the Virgin Mary for twelve whole years together did supply the place of a certain Nun called Beatrice, while the Nun lay in the Stews, till at length returning, she freed the Virgin from standing Sentinel any longer. And lib. 7. cap. 33. That she said to a certain Souldier, I will be thy wife, come and kiss me; and made him doe so. That she took a Monk about the neck and kissed him.

In an Italian book, called The Miracles of the Blessed Virgin, printed at Milane 1547. A certain Abbess being great with child, the holy Virgin willing to cover her crime, did in her stead present her self before the Bishop in form of an Abbess, and shewed by ocular demonstration that she was not with child. Fasciculus temporum, written many years agoe, tells that Saint Gingolf's wife used to sing with her lower mouth, because she scoffed at her husband's Miracles.

But that which Joannes de Nicol. in his Reformed Spaniard tells, that he read taken out of Trithemius, is the more worthy to be remembred, as being a principal Motive in his Conversion, who was till then extremely addicted to the Idol-worship of the Blessed Virgin; which was much cooled, when he read That she came into the chamber of Frier Allen, (a Dominican that made her Rosary,) made a ring of her own hair, wherewith she espoused her self unto him, kissed him, let him handle her breasts, and conversed as familiarly with him as a Bride is wont with her Bridegroom. Whether think you not that these fellows were seared in their conscience? what block could have been more senseless? Melchior Canus, speaking of the Golden Legend, as they call it, a Book fraught with such stuffe as you have heard, methinks almost expresses the meaning of a cauterized conscience: Hanc homo scripsit (saith he) ferrei oris & plumbei cordis, a fellow of an iron mouth and leaden heart; as if he had said, κεκαυτηριασμένου τὴν ἰδίαν συνείδησιν of a brawny and unfeeling conscience.

CHAP.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

CHAP. III.

That the Worſhip of Saints and their Reliques was brought in and promoted by the Hypocriſie of Liers, or by Lying Miracles. No mention of Miracles done by the Bodies or Reliques of Martyrs in the firſt 300 years after Chriſt: Nor was the Mediation of Martyrs believed in the firſt Ages of the Church. That the Gentiles Idolatry of Dæmons was advanced by Lying Miracles, proved out of Euſebius, Tertullian, and Chryſoſtom.

BUT now I come to ſhew how this Prediction of our Apoſtle hath been accompliſhed; How ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων, The couſenage and feigning of Liers was the Means whereby the Doctrine of Dæmons was advanced in the Church; I mean the Deifying and worſhipping of Saints and Angels, the adoring and templing of Reliques, the bowing down to Images, the worſhipping of Croſſes as new Idol-columns, the worſhipping of the breaden God or any other viſible thing whatſoever upon ſuppoſal of any Divinity therein: all which I have proved to be nothing elſe but the Gentiles Idolatrous Theologie of Dæmons revived among Chriſtians,

The firſt of theſe, The Deifying and invocating of Saints and adoring Reliques, is the moſt ancient for time of all the reſt, and began to appear in the Church preſently after the death of Julian the Apoſtate, who was the laſt Ethnical Emperour. The grounds and occaſions whereof were moſt ſtrange reports of Wonders ſhewed upon thoſe who approched the Shrines of Martyrs, and prayed at their Memories and Sepulchres; Devils charmed, Diſeaſes cured, the Blind ſaw, the Lame walked, yea the Dead revived, and other the like: which the Doctors of thoſe times for the moſt part avouched to be done by the power and prayers of the glorified Martyrs, and by the notice they took of mens devotions at their Sepulchres; though at the beginning thoſe devotions were directed to God alone, and ſuch places only choſen for the ſtirring up of zeal and fervour by the memory of thoſe bleſſed and glorious Champions of Chriſt. But whiles the world ſtood in admiration, and the moſt eſteemed of theſe Wonders as of the glorious beams of the triumph of Chriſt; they were ſoon perſwaded to call upon them as Patrons and Mediatours, whoſe power with God, and notice of things done upon earth, they thought that theſe Signs and Miracles approved.

Thus the Reliques of Martyrs beginning to be eſteemed above the richeſt Jewels, for the ſuppoſed virtue even of the very aire of them, were wonderfully ſought after as ſome divine Elixer ſovereign both to * Body and Soul. Whereupon another Scene of Wonders entred, namely, of Viſions and Revelations, wonderful and admirable, for the diſcovery of the Sepulchres and aſhes of Martyrs which were quite forgotten, yea of ſome whoſe names and memories till then no man had ever heard of; as S. Ambroſe's Gervaſius and Protaſius. Thus in every corner of the Chriſtian world were new Martyrs bones ever and anon diſcovered, whoſe verity again miraculous effects and cures ſeemed to approve; and therefore were diverſly diſperſed, and glorioufly templed and enſhrined.

All theſe things happened in that one Age, and were come to this height in leſs then a 100 years. But here is the wonder moſt of all to be wondred at, That none of theſe miraculous Signs were ever heard of in the Church for the firſt 300 years after Chriſt, until about the year 360, after that the Empire under Conſtantine and his ſons having publickly embraced the Chriſtian Faith, the Church had peace, and the Bodies of the deſpiſed

* Hilary l. ad Conſtantium intimates miraculous cures by the Reliques of Martyrs to have been as ancient as his time, yea as the time of the Churche's peace. Plus crudelitati veſtræ, Nero, Deci, Maximiane, debemus: Diabolum enim per vos vicimus. Sanctus ubique beatorum Martyrum ſanguis exceptus eſt; dum in his Dæmones mugiunt, dum ægritudines depelluntur, &c. At iu (id eſt, Conſtanti) omnium crudelitatum crudeliſſime damno majore in nos, & veniâ minore, deſævis, &c.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

deſpiſed Martyrs, ſuch as could be found, were now beſtowed in moſt magnificent Temples, and there glorioufly enſhrined. And yet had the Chriſtians long before uſed * to keep their Aſſemblies at the Cœmeteries and Monuments of their Martyrs: How came it to paſs that no ſuch virtue of their bones and aſhes, no ſuch teſtimonies of their power after death, were diſcovered until now?

* See Clem. Con. fol. 106.

Babylas his bones were the firſt, that all my ſearch can find, which charmed the Devil of Daphne, Apollo Daphnæus, when Julian the Apoſtate offered ſo many ſacrifices to make him ſpeak; and being asked why he was ſo mute, forſooth the corps of Babylas the Martyr, buried near the Temple in * Daphne, ſtopped his wind-pipe. I fear, I fear here was ſome Hypocriſie in this buſineſs, and the Devil had ſome feat to play: the very name of Babylas is enough to breed jealouſie, it is an ominous name, the name Babylas: yea and this happened too at Antioch, where Babylas was Biſhop and Martyr in the perſecution of Decius. Would it not doe the Devil good, there to begin his Myſtery, where the Chriſtian name was firſt given to the followers of Chriſt? Howſoever this was then far otherwiſe conſtrued, and a conceit quickly taken, that other Martyrs bones might upon trial be found as terrible to the Devil as thoſe of Babylas; which was no ſooner tried, but experience preſently verified it with improvement, as you heard before: So that all the world rung ſo with Wonders done by Martyrs, that even holy men, who at the firſt ſuſpected, were at length ſurpriſed and carried away with the power of deluſion.

* A delicate Suburbs of Antioch.

Beſides the ſilence of all undoubted * Antiquity of any ſuch Sepulchral wonders to have happened in the former Ages, the very manner of ſpeech which the Fathers living in this miraculous age uſed when they ſpake of theſe things, will argue they were then accounted novelties, and not as continued from the Apoſtles times. Chryſoſtome, in his Oration contra Gentiles, of the buſineſs of Babylas ſpeaks thus; Εἴ τις ἀπιστεῖ τοῖς ὑπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων γεγενημένοις, τὰ παρόντα θεωρῶν παυέσθω τῆς ἀναισχυντίας· If any man believes not thoſe things which are ſaid to be done by the Apoſtles, let him now beholding the preſent deſiſt from his impudency. Ambroſ. Epiſt. ad ſororem Marcellinam, relating of a piece of the Speech he made upon the tranſlation of the Bodies of Gervaſius and Protaſius, and the miracles then ſhewed, Reparata (ſaith he) vetuſti temporis miracula cernitis, You ſee the miracles of ancient times (he means the times of Chriſt and his Apoſtles) renewed. S. Auguſt. Lib. de civ. Dei 22. cap. 8. in a diſcourſe of the Miracles of that time, ſaith, We made an order to have Bills given out of ſuch Miracles as were done, when we ſaw the wonders of ancient times renewed in ours: Id namque fieri voluimus, cùm videremus antiquis ſimilia divinarum ſigna virtutum etiam noſtris temporibus frequentari, & ea non debere multorum notitia deperire.

* Adde, That no ſuch thing could be, ſo long as they uſed to pray for Martyrs as well as others of the dead. See Clem. and others.

But, alas! now began the ὕστεροι καιροὶ or Latter times; this was the fatal time, and thus the Chriſtian Apoſtaſie was to be uſhered. If they had known this, it would have turned their joyous ſhoutings and triumphs at theſe things into mourning. The End which theſe Signs and Wonders aimed at, and at length brought to paſs, ſhould have made them remember that warning which was given the ancient people of God, Deut. 13. If there ariſe among you a Prophet, or a Dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a ſign or a wonder; And the ſign or wonder come to paſſe, whereof he ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Let us goe after other Gods and ſerve them: Thou ſhalt not hearken unto the words of that Prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: For the Lord your God proveth you, to know whether you love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your ſoul.

But

But why should I goe any further before I tell you, that even in this also the Idolatry of Saint-worship was a true counterfeit of the Gentiles Idolatry of Dæmons? Did not Dæmon-worship enter after the same manner? was it not first insinuated, and at length established, by signs and wonders of the very self-same kind and fashion? Listen what Eusebius will tell us in his fifth book de Præparat. Evangel. chap. 2. (according to the Greek edition of Rob. Stephen) When (saith he) those wicked spirits (as he proved them to be which were worshipped under the names of Dæmons) saw mankind brought off to a Deifying of the Dead, (he means by erecting Statues, and ordaining Ceremonies and Sacrifices for their memorials) ἐγλύθεν ἐφεδροι καὶ συνεργοὶ τῆ πλάνης παρῆσαν, they insinuated themselves, and helped forward their errour—κινήσεσί τισι τῶν ξοάνων ἃ δὴ ὅτι τιμῆ τῆς κατοιχομένων ἀνδρῶν πρὸς τῆς παλαιῶν ἀφιέρωται, by certain motions of the Statues which anciently were consecrated to the honour of the deceased; as also ταῖς διὰ χρησμῶν φαντασίαις θεραπείαις τε σωμάτων, by ostentation of Oracles and cures of diseases, whereby they drave the superstitious headlong, sometimes to take them to be some heavenly Powers and Gods indeed, and sometimes to be τὰς τῶν πεθεοποιημένων Ἡρώων ψυχὰς the Souls of their deified worthies—And so (saith he) the earth-neighbouring Dæmons, which are those Princes of the Air, those Spiritualities of wickedness, and Ringleaders of all evil, were on all hands accounted for great Gods; ἥ τε τῶν πάλαι νεκρῶν μνήμη τῆς μείζονος ἠξιοῦτο θεραπείας, and the memory of the Ancients deceased was thought worthy to be celebrated with a greater service: the features of whose Bodies the Images dedicated in every City seemed to represent; but the Souls of them and those Divine and Incorporeal powers οἱ φαῦλοι Δαίμονες καθυπεκρινοῦντο διὰ πολλῆς τῆς τερατουργίας, the wicked Dæmons counterfeited by working many Miracles.

In which respect διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, though the Genitive case were taken actively, would signifie the Idolatry of Saint-worship, viz. the worship of the dead, which the Devils are wont thus to counterfeit.

Hear Tertullian also speak in his Apology to the Gentiles, cap. 21. in fine. Quærite ergò, si vera est ista Divinitas Christi: si est ea quâ cognitâ ad bonum quis reformetur, sequitur ut falsa renuntietur; compertâ imprimis illâ omni ratione, quæ delitescens sub nominibus & Imaginibus Mortuorum, quibusdam Signis & Miraculis & Oraculis fidem Divinitatis operatur: Search therefore whether this Deity of Christ be true (or not.) If it be that by the knowledge whereof a man shall be reformed to good, it follows then that the false be renounced; especially that whole mystery (he means of the Gentiles Idolatry and Dæmon-worship) being discovered, which under the names and Images of the Dead, through Signs, Miracles and Oracles, obtaineth an opinion of Divinity.

Chrysostome shall conclude, who in his Oration in Judaizantes saith, That the Dæmons of the Gentiles wrought Miracles for the confirmation of Paganism, καὶ γὰρ ἐκεῖνοι πολλὰ πολλάκις διὰ τῆς αὐτῆς τέχνης νοσήματα ἀπήλασαν, καὶ πρὸς ὑγίειαν τοὺς κάμνοντας ἐπανήγαγον. τί οὖν, κοινωνῆσαι δεῖ τῆς ἀσεβείας διὰ τοῦτο; μὴ γένοιτο· For (saith he) they oftentimes by their skill cured diseases, and restored to health those that were sick: what, should we therefore partake with them in their impiety because of this? God forbid. Then he adds out of Moses, Deut. 13. that which we even now quoted; which had it been as well applied to the Miracles amongst Christians present as it was to those of the Gentiles past, perhaps he that spoke it would have questioned something which he inclined to believe.

(Savil. Tom 6. p. 375.) aliis Hom. prim. adverſ. Judæos.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

CHAP. IV.

That Saint-worſhip was advanced by Fabulous Legends. This proved from the acknowledged deſign of the Latine Legends, as alſo of that Greek Legender Simeon Metaphraſtes; particularly his fabulous Narrations concerning Anaſtaſia, S. Barbara, S. Blaſius, S. Catharine, S. Margaret, &c.

THE Second Particular I named of ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων the Hypocriſy or Feigning of Liers, was Fabulous Legends of the Acts of Saints and Martyrs. This was alſo another means to advance the Doctrines of Dæmons. For the true Acts and Stories of the Martyrs being extinguiſhed for the moſt part by the bloudy Edict of Diocletian, they now began to ſupply again that loſs, by collecting ſuch Tales as were then current of them, and adding thereto ſuch Miracles as were fabled of them after death; faſhioned all to the beſt advantage of what they meant to promote in the Church, and was already on foot in the ſame. Such was that wherewith the good Father Greg. Nazianzen was abuſed in his Funeral Oration upon Cyprian, and many others of the Greek Church; That Cyprian, even that great Cyprian, who was both Citizen and Biſhop of Carthage in the reign of Decius, (for of him Gregory ſpeaketh expreſly) being formerly a Conjurer, and falling in love with a Chriſtian Virgin Juſtina, ſome ſay of Antioch, whenas by wooing and ordinary means he could not win her unto his will, he went about to prevail with Magical ſpells and Conjurations: which the Damoſel perceiving, ſhe having recourſe to God, fell to work againſt him with Prayer and Faſting, and in her devotions alſo beſought the Virgin Mary to ſuccour her a Virgin in that jeopardy: By which means Cyprian's Magical inchantments were fruſtrated, and he convinced thereby, became a Chriſtian. All which * Baronius himſelf confeſſes to be a Fable; as well he might, it being unknown both to Pontius his Deacon, who lived with him and wrote his life, and to the Weſtern and African Churches where he lived and died, who knew (and who could know better?) that he was in his Paganiſm not a Magician, but a Profeſſour of Oratory at Carthage, (far enough from Antioch) and converted by one Cæcilius. Nevertheleſs we have cauſe to think that this Tale, together with other the like, ſerved not a little for the advancement of the Myſtery of Dæmons in the Eaſtern Churches; when we ſee our Adverſaries ſo willing to have that paſſage (as ſeems by their often alledging it) of calling upon the Bleſſed Virgin to be authentical, notwithſtanding they know (which the Greeks ſo well could not, he being a Latine Biſhop) that the whole Story muſt needs be a Fable.

A Fable concerning the means of Cyprian's converſion.

* An. 250. §. 5.

Of this ſtamp are the well-known Legends of our Latine Churches, which almoſt all of them drive principally at this mark; it being alſo the ordinary concluſion of their Tales, (ſure of our Engliſh) that ſince God hath done thus and thus by this holy Martyr, or ſith God hath by ſuch Miracles honoured this Martyr, let us pray unto him, that by his Merits and Interceſſion we may obtain ſalvation. Nor is it a late device: Greg. Turonenſis above a thouſand years ago, in his two Books De Miraculis Martyrum, as his fabulous Narrations (which yet many of them he referrs to others before him) are excellently well framed for the promotion of Saint-worſhip; ſo in the concluſions of them he plainly confeſſes that that was his aim, ſhutting up his firſt Book thus; Unde oportet & nos eorum Patrocinia expetere, ut eorum mereamur Suffragiis, vel quod noſtris digni non ſumus meritis obtinere, eorum poſſumus Interceſſionibus adipiſci, &c. It behoves us therefore to deſire the Patronage

This Gregory of Tours died Anno 596.

Patronage of the Martyrs, that ſo we may merit through their Suffrages, and by their Interceſsions obtain that which we are not worthy of upon the account of our own Merits. His ſecond thus; Ergò his miraculis Lector intendens intelligat, non aliter niſi Martyrum reliquorúmque amicorum Dei adjutoriis ſe poſſe ſalvari, &c. And therefore let the Reader, well conſidering theſe Miracles, underſtand that there is no poſsibility for him to be ſaved but by the help of Martyrs and other friends of God.

But among the Greeks Simeon Metaphraſtes hath a ſtrain beyond us all, who feigns prayers for many of his Martyrs, wherein they deſire of God, that whoſoever ſhould pray unto him in their names, or have recourſe to their Sepulchres when they were glorified, might obtain whatſoever they asked, yea remiſſion of ſins it ſelf. Which becauſe it is ſo ſingular a Counterfeit of a lying Greek, I ſhall not doe amiſs to inſert the particulars, together with ſomething about the occaſion and time of this device.

But I find now the ſame in the Aurea Legenda of all the following Martyrs, ſave the firſt, which is not there, & S. Barbara is but the Appendix.

In the Martyrdom of Anaſtaſia, a Roman Virgin, under Diocletian, he tells us, if we be ſo wiſe as to believe it,

"That at the time of her ſuffering, when ſhe had, as was fit, given thanks "unto God, and prayed for the happy accompliſhment of her Martyrdom, "and afterward made ſuit for thoſe who being ſick ſhould have recourſe "unto her, (to wit after death) ſhe heard a voice from heaven certifying, "that what ſhe had asked was granted her.

Saint Barbara, a Virgin of Heliopolis, martyred under Maximianus, he makes, under the Executioner's hand, to pray in this manner:

And thou, O King (God,) now hear my prayer, That whoſoever ſhall remember thy name, and (this) my conflict, no peſtilent diſeaſe may enter upon his houſe, nor any other of thoſe evils which may bring damage or troubles to the bodies of men.——She had no ſooner ſpoken, ſaith he, but a voice was miraculouſly heard from heaven, calling her and her fellow-Martyr Julian to the heavenly places, and promiſing alſo that thoſe things which ſhe had asked ſhould be accompliſhed.

In Saint Blaſius (who ſuffered, ſaith Baronius, under Licinius) our Simeon tells us,

That when a woman came unto him to cure her ſon, who had a fiſh-bone ſticking in his throat, he prayed in this manner: Thou, O Saviour, who haſt been ready to help thoſe who called upon thee in truth, hear my prayer, and by thy inviſible power take out the bone which ſticks in this child, and cure him: And whenſoever hereafter the like ſhall befall men, children, or beaſts, if any one then ſhall remember my name, ſaying, O Lord, haſten thy help through the interceſſion of thy ſervant Blaſius, do thou cure him ſpeedily, to the honour and glory of thy holy Name.

Again he tells us, That while they were carrying him before the Preſident, he reſtored to a poor widow a Hog, her only Hog, which a Wolf had taken away from her. And whenas afterward, in ſign of thankfulneſs, ſhe brought the Hog's head and feet boiled to the Martyr in priſon, he bleſſing her, ſpake in this manner; Woman, in this Habit celebrate my Memorial, and no good thing ſhall ever be wanting in thine houſe from my God: yea and if any other, imitating thee, ſhall in like manner celebrate my Memorial, he ſhall receive an everlaſting gift from my God, and a bleſſing all the daies of his life.

When he comes to ſuffer, he makes him pray to God thus: Hear me thy Servant; and whoſoever ſhall have recourſe to this thine Altar, (he means himſelf) and whoſoever ſhall have ſwallowed a bone or prickle, or be vexed with any diſeaſe, or be in affliction or neceſsity of perſecution, Grant, Lord, to every one his heart's deſire, as thou art gracious and mercifull; for thou art to be glorified now and evermore.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

When he had thus prayed (ſaith he) Chriſt deſcended from heaven as a cloud, and overſhadowed him: and our Saviour ſaid unto him, O my beloved Champion, I will not only doe this, but that alſo which thou didſt requeſt for the widow; and I will bleſs alſo every houſe which ſhall celebrate thy memory, and I will fill their ſtore-houſes with all good things, for this thy glorious Confeſsion and thy faith which thou haſt in me.

Saint Catharine, whom he calls Ægatharina, a Martyr of Alexandria under Maximianus, he makes to pray thus at her Martyrdome:

Grant unto thoſe, O Lord, who through me ſhall call upon thy holy Name, ſuch their requeſts as are profitable for them; that in all things thy wondrous works may be praiſed now and evermore.

But above all the reſt, Marina's prayer, whom we Latines call Saint Margaret, is compleat and for the purpoſe: ſhe ſuffered under Diocletian, and thus ſhe prayed, if you dare believe Simeon.

*And now, O Lord my God, whoſoever for thy ſake ſhall worſhip this Tabernacle of my Body, which hath fought for thee, and whoſoever ſhall build an Oratory in the name of thy handmaid, and ſhall therein offer unto thee ſpirituall ſacrifices, oblations and prayers, and all thoſe who ſhall faithfully * deſcribe this my conflict of Martyrdome, and ſhall reade and remember the name of thy handmaid; Give unto them, moſt holy Lord, who art a lover of the good and a friend of Souls, remiſsion of ſins; and grant them propitiation and mercy, according to the meaſure of their faith; and let not the revenging hand come near them, nor the evil of Famine, nor the curſe of Peſtilence, nor any grievous ſcourge; nor let any other incurable deſtruction either of Body or Soul betide them. And to all thoſe who ſhall in faith and truth adhere to my houſe* (her Oratory or Chappell) or unto my name, and ſhall unto thee, O Lord, offer glory and praiſe and a ſacrifice in remembrance of thine Handmaid, and ſhall ask ſalvation and mercy through me; Grant them, O Lord, abundant ſtore of all good things: for thou alone art good and gracious, and the giver of all good things for ever and ever. Amen.

* O happy Simeon!

While ſhe was thus * praying with her ſelf (ſaith Simeon) behold there was a great earthquake, &c. yea and the Lord himſelf, with a multitude and hoſt of holy Angels ſtanding by her, in ſuch ſort as was perceptible to the underſtanding, ſaid, Be of good chear, Marina, and fear not, for I have heard thy prayers, and have fulfilled, and will in due time fulfill whatſoever thou haſt asked, even as thou haſt asked it.

* If ſhe prayed this prayer with her ſelf, by what revelation was it made known to others?

Thus ſaith Simeon; who nevertheleſs in the very entrance to this his tale of Marina or Margaret, complains much, forſooth, that not a few of theſe Narrations of the Acts of Martyrs were at the beginning forged, yea profaned (as he ſaith more truly then he was aware of) evidentiſsimis Dæmoniorum doctrinis. Beſides, he calls I know not what Narration of this Virgin's Martyrdom, in that ſort corrupted, Dictio Dæmoniaca: but for his own part, he would reject all counterfeit fables, and tell us nothing but the very truth. Which how honeſtly he hath performed, and what touchſtone he uſed, let the Reader judge. * Baronius I am ſure is quite aſhamed of him, who though he can be ſometimes content to trade with not much better ware, yet this of Simeon's he ſuppoſes will need very much waſhing and cleanſing before it be merchantable.

* In notis ad Martyrologium Roman. Jul. 13.

CHAP.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

CHAP. V.

An uſefull Digreſſion concerning the time when Simeon Metaphraſtes lived, and the occaſion of his writing. That his living within the time of the great Oppoſition againſt Saint-worſhip moved him to deviſe ſuch Stories as made for the credit and advantage of that Cauſe then in danger. A brief hiſtoricall account (even out of the Records left by the Adverſaries) of the great Oppoſition in the Greek and Eaſtern Churches againſt worſhipping of Images and of Saints: When it began, how long it laſted, and under what Emperours. Of the Great Council held at Conſtantinople under Conſtantinus Copronymus againſt Idolatry. An attempt to foiſt in two Canons in favour of Saint-worſhip fruſtrated. Several Slanders and Calumnies faſtened upon the Council and the Emperour by the idolatrous faction. The Originall of theſe Slanders: That they were notorious Lies, proved from the Decrees of the Council.

BUT for the better underſtanding of this myſtery of iniquitie, and what neceſſity there was of ſuch deſperate ſhifts when time was; ye ſhall know that this ſuperſtitious Simeon lived towards the end of that time of great and long Oppoſition againſt Idolatry in the Greek and Eaſtern Churches, by divers Emperours with the greateſt part of their Biſhops, Peers, and People, laſting from about the year of our Lord 720 till after 840, that is 120 years: which was not againſt Images only, though they bare the name; but the Worſhip of Saints and their Reliques: The ſtate whereof it ſhall not be amiſs to repreſent out of ſuch Records of Antiquity as our Adverſaries themſelves have been pleaſed to leave us; if it be but for their ſake who ſo often ask us whether there were ever any of our Religion before Luther. Let us therefore hear what Writers of their own Sect, ſuch as then lived and were eye-witneſſes, will tell us.

Leo Iſaurus (ſaith Theophanes, Miſcell. lib. 21. cap. 23.) erred not only about the * reſpective adoration of venerable Images, but about the Interceſſion of the moſt chaſt Mother of God, and all the Saints, whoſe Reliques alſo the moſt wicked man abominated, like unto his maſters the Mahumetans.

* σχετικὴν τῶν σεπτῶν εἰκόνων προσκύνησιν.

This was the firſt of thoſe Emperours: the next was Conſtantinus, whom they ſurnamed Copronymus, of whom the ſame Author (ibid. c. ult.) ſpeaks as followeth: This pernicious, (ſaith he) inhumane and barbarous Emperour, abuſing his authority tyrannically, and not uſing it lawfully, at the very beginning made an Apoſtaſie from God and his undefiled Mother and all his Saints.

Again, lib. 22. cap. 42. upon the twenty ſixth year of his reign:

He ſhewed himſelf wicked, beyond the frenzie of the Mahumetans, to all that were Orthodox (ſo he calls Idolaters) under his Empire, Biſhops, Monks, Lay-men and other his ſubjects; every where, as well by writing as by ſpeech, baniſhing, as unprofitable, the Interceſſions of the holy Virgin and Mother of God and of all the Saints, (through which all ſuccour is conveyed unto us) and cauſing their holy Reliques to be rejected and deſpiſed: And if the Reliques of any notable Saint, ſoveraign both to body and Soul, were known to lie any where, and were, as the manner is, honoured by thoſe which were religious; preſently he threatned ſuch as theſe with death, as wicked doers, or elſe with proſcriptions, baniſhment, and torture. As for the Reliques acceptable to God, and eſteemed by the poſſeſſours as a treaſure, they were taken from them, from thence forward to be made hatefull things.

Again, cap. 48. of the next year:

If

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

If one getting a fall, or being in pain, chanced to utter the usuall language of Christians, saying, O Mother of God, help me; or were found keeping Vigils, &c. he was adjudged as the Emperour's enemy, and styled Immemorabilis, Unworthy of memory: This was a title of infamy.

Again, cap. 54. Anno regni 31.

If one were found to have a Relique but to keep, (that is, though he worshipped it not) yet nevertheless did Lichanodraco (the Emperour's President) burn it, and punish him that had it as a wicked doer. Thus farre Theophanes.

Habetur in operibus Damasceni auctis, interprete Jacobo Billio, ex Reginæ matris bibliotheca; & apud Surium, Tom. 6. Nov. 28.

Hear now what the Author of the Acts of Monk Stephen, whom the same Emperour made one of their Martyrs for patronizing Idols, can tell us: Hear what he saith of the great Council of Constantinople, held in this Emperour's reign against Images.

O Christ, how should I not admire thy lenity!—To that height did those most impudent tongues yet further break out, that they were not afraid to utter that monstrous and impious speech, viz. That the very Virgin-Mother of God her self was now after her death unavailable, and no use to be made of her, nor could she help or protect any one.

The same Author thus deplores the state of those times, abusing the words of Psalm 79.

O God, the heathen are come into thine Inheritance; thy holy Temple have they defiled, and made Hierusalem an heap of stones: The dead Bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat to the fowls of the aire, and the flesh of thy Saints unto the beasts of the earth; that is, (saith he) the venerable and sacred Reliques of the Martyrs, quas partim igni, partim mari, partim denique (ô facinus orbi universo damnum ferens!) præcipitiis tradiderunt; which they cast partly into the fire, partly into the water, and (O villanous act whereby the whole world is damnified!) partly threw down into precipices.

There is nothing yet in these relations will doe any man hurt by ingendring a misconceit, especially if he remember the tale is told by malicious Adversaries, that counterfeit Reliques were plentifull in those dayes as well as now, and that Hezekiah brake in pieces the brazen Serpent, made by God's own commandment, a holy monument and a type of Christ, when it was once abused to Idolatry.

After the death of this Emperour Cōnstantine, and his son who reigned not long after him, the Idolatrous faction, under Constantine his nephew and the Queen-mother Irene, again for some years prevailed; and that so farre, as to pack a Council, called the second of Nice, the Bishop of Rome having a main stroke therein; whereby the former Council of Constantinople was condemned, and the worship of Images again established. But Leo Armenius coming to the Empire, the Orthodox part again prevailed, as before they had done, during the reign of three Emperours more. The last Emperour of the Opposers of Idols was Theophilus; the last Patriarch John. And that to the very end the Idolatry of Saint-worship was opposed more or less, as well as that of Images, may be gathered out of that

* Habetur apud Baron. an. 842. §. 28.

* Ἐπινίκιον, or Song of Triumph, which the Greeks used to sing every first Sunday in Lent, for a memoriall of their last and final conquest of the Opposers of Images, ever since that time; where in the Hymn of Theodorus Ode 8. I find this verse, Τὰ ἱερὰ τῶν ἁγίων λείψανα, καὶ τὰς εἰκόνας αὐτῶν, Λῆξις ὁ δεινὸς ἅμα τῷ Ἰωάννῃ, ἐδ' ὅλως προσυνεῖδεν, ἔφασκον ἀνόμως οἱ ἀρνηταὶ τὴν εὐσέβειαν· (that is,) The sacred Reliques of the Saints, and their Images, were not at all to be worshipped, said most wickedly the renouncers of piety, the barbarous Lezich and John. This John is that Patriarch of of Conſtantinople which I ſaid was the laſt of the Oppoſers of Idols, and is often mentioned in this Song; as is alſo Lezich, but what he was is uncertain.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

But this whole ſtory being delivered unto us only by profeſt enemies, if they ſhould faſten no worſe calumnies upon the oppoſite ſide then yet you have heard, you would think perhaps that the Patrons of Idols then were farre more ingenuous to their Adverſaries then we find their Succeſſours now. Hear therefore ſomething of this kind alſo, that you may ſee, as they agreed with us in the ſame profeſſion againſt Idols, ſo did they alſo in ſuffering the like ſlanderous lies from their Adverſaries. In diſcourſing whereof I ſhall be nearer to ὑποκρισις ψευδολόγων then I was before.

In that great Council of 338 Biſhops, held at Conſtantinople againſt Idols, under Conſtantinus Copronymus, were, by ſome that wiſhed well to Saint-worſhip, though they conſented againſt Images, theſe two Canons inſerted into the firſt draught of the Definition of the Synod; 1. If any one ſhould not confeſs the holy and ever-Virgin Mary, truly and properly Deipara, (the Mother of God) to be higher then any viſible or inviſible creature, and with a ſincere faith implores not her interceſſion, Let him be Anathema. 2. If any one ſhall not confeſs all the Saints which have been from the beginning of the world untill now—to be honourable before God both in Soul and body; or ſhall not intreat their prayers—Let him be Anathema: which, when the Definition came to be read in the Council, the prevailing part of the Fathers cauſed to be blotted out*: whereupon that ſlander, faſtned on them by their enemies, may ſeem to have taken the firſt hint; as if forſooth by their rejecting theſe two foiſted Canons, they had therefore denied whatſoever was contained in them; as That the Virgin Mary was Deipara the Mother of God, or That the Saints were to be honoured ſo much as with that honourable title of Saints.

* μὴ προσδέχεσθαι αὐτοῖς ταῦτα, καὶ τὰς περὶ ἁγίων ἐυπρεπῶς δεκτὰς τῷ θεῷ προσαγωγὴν ἀποβάλοντες, λοιδοροῦντες ταύτην ἐν τοῖδε τοῖς συγγράμμασιν· καὶ γὰρ ἴσασι πάντες, ſaith the Conſuter. Conc. Nic 2. Act. 6. Tom. 6.

For Cedrenus would make us believe, That this Emperour Conſtantine publiſhed a general law, διαμὸν καθολικὸν, that none of the Servants of God ſhould in any wiſe be called Saints: yea, that ſuch of their Reliques as were found, ſhould be deſpiſed, and their Interceſſion not to be prayed for; becauſe, ſaid he, they can avail nothing. The prophane wretch added (ſaith the ſame Author) Let no man pray for the Interceſſion, no not of Mary, for ſhe can doe him no good; ἀλλὰ μηδὲ Θεοτόκον αὐτὴν ὀνομάζεσθαι, moreover that ſhe ſhould not be called Deipara, that is, the Mother of God. Then he tells us, that he compared the Bleſſed Virgin, after ſhe was delivered of Chriſt, to a purſe emptied of the gold that was once in it. The ſame with Cedrenus, almoſt word for word, hath Suidas; ſo that the one may ſeem to have been tranſcribed out of the other.

But Theoſterictus, one who lived at the ſame time, (whereas Cedrenus was more then 240 years after) ſeems much more ingenuous: For in his funerall Oration upon Nicetas, a Confeſſour of * thoſe times, whoſe Diſciple he was, relating otherwiſe the ſame things which Cedrenus and Suidas do, yet when he comes to the ſtory of the purſe, he brings in the Emperor expreſly calling the Virgin Mary Deipara; but finds fault that he would not vouchſafe her the name Saint. Ita Deiparens Maria (* ſaith he) (neque enim Sanctam dignabatur nominare illam (ſaith Theoſterictus) indignus ille) quo tempore Chriſtum in ſe habebat, valde honoranda illa erat; ex quo autem tempore illum peperit, nihil differebat à reliquis.

Apud Surium Apr. 3. Tom. 2.

* Under Leo Armenius.

* Viz. The Emperour.

Indeed it ſeems that at the wiping out of thoſe fore-mentioned Canons, there paſſed ſomething in the Council (as is wont in ſuch diſputes) concerning an indifference or lawfulneſs in ordinary ſpeech to mention ſuch places as were dedicated to the memory of Saints, without the addition of the name Saint. For I find that Stephen the Monk, (afterward forſooth a Martyr) at what time the Emperour ſent ſome of the Biſhops and others unto unto him, to require his subscription to the Decree of the Council, thus expostulates with them; Did ye not (saith he) discard this adjective Saint from all the Just, from all the Apostles, from the Prophets, Martyrs and other godly men? For it was bravely decreed by you, That when any one were going to any of these, and were asked whither he went, he should answer, To the Apostles, To the forty Martyrs; or being asked whence he came, he should in like manner say, From the Temple of the Martyr Theodore, From the Temple of the Martyr George.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

But Theostrictus tells the same thing of the Emperour Constantine himself. Sanctos Martyres, (saith he) quantum in ipso erat, honore privavit, cùm praeceperit non esse illos Sanctos appellandos, sed simpliciter nominari Apostolos, quadraginta Martyres, Theodorum, Georgium, & alios similiter: He deprived, as much as in him lay, the holy Martyrs of honour, in that he commanded they should not be styled Saints, but simply named The Apostles, The forty Martyrs, Theodore, George, &c. Whereby it appears, that this Law (whatsoever it was which these Authors charge the Emperour with) was something that proceeded from the Council it self, as Monk Stephen even now charged them. Besides, that it was something only about the calling of Places dedicated to Saints, though our Authors (as Calumniators use) tell it of Saints at large. Lastly, that it seems to have grown upon some question, how farre and in what kind Saints were to be honoured, which was occasioned by the wiping out of those Canons afore-mentioned.

Joannes Curopalata and Cedrenus relate, That Michael Balbus, the last save one of the Emperours that opposed Idols, ἐθέσπισε μή τινι τῶν γεγραμμένων εἰκόνων, κἂν τῳ γεγράφθαι τύχοιεν, τὸ [ΑΓΙΟΣ] φωνὴν ἐγχαράττεσθαι, ordained that the word [Saint] should not be set upon any Images whereso-ever they were painted. For this was (and as some say * is yet) the fashion of the Greeks, to adde the names of the Saints to the Images which are to represent them. Now if any such thing as this were done or discoursed of in the dayes of Constantinus, whom they call Copronymus, you may easily guess what fuell it might adde to the fire of that slander we speak of.

* Possevinus in sua Moscovia.

But why should we trouble our selves any longer to find out the Original of that which we are certain was a notorious lie? For it is apparent in the Definition of the Council it self which is thus calumniously charged, that they both give the Title of Saints often to the Apostles, Fathers and others, and of Deipara to the Blessed Virgin. I shall not need to recount every place where they give the Title of Saint to particulars; hear but what they say in general: Sancti qui Deo placuerunt, & ab ipso sunt τῷ ἀξιώματι τῆς ἁγιότητος dignitate Sanctitatis honorati, vivunt semper Deo, licèt hinc migraverunt; The Saints which pleased God, and are by him honoured with the dignity of Saintship, though they be departed hence, yet to God they alwayes live. Again, Nefas est Christianis, Δαιμονολατρῶν ἐθνῶν, Daemonum cultricum Gentium moribus uti, & Sanctos qui tali & tantâ gratiâ resplendebunt (sc. conregnare cum Christo, & judicare orbem terrarum, & conformes fieri gloriæ ipsius) in ingloria & mortua materia καθυβρίζειν contumeliâ afficere; It is unlawfull for Christians to use the fashions of the Gentiles which worshipped Daemons or Devils, and in a base and liveless matter (they mean Images) to dishonour the Saints, which shall one day shine in such and so great grace and glory, viz. to reign with Christ, and to judge the world, and to be made like to his glory, as they said a little before. Concil. Nicen. 2. Act. 6. Tom. 4.

As for the other part of the Calumny, about styling the Virgin Mary Deipara, hear not only what they practised, but what they expresly decreed (ibid. Tom.

Tom. 6.) Εἴ τις οὐχ ὁμολογεῖ Θεὸν εἶ) κατ' ἀλήθειαν τὸν Ἐμμανουὴλ, καὶ διὰ τοῦτο Θεοτόκον εἶ) τὴν ἁγίαν παρθένον—Ἀνάθεμα· If any shall not confess God to be truly Emmanuel, and therefore the holy Virgin to be Deipara the Mother of God—Let him be Anathema. Here the Blessed Virgin hath both the name of Saint (ἁγία) and Θεοτόκος Mother of God given her. All this you shall find in the sixth Act of the Idolatrous Council of Nice, where the Enemies, whilest they would confute the Definition of the Synod at Constantinople, have preserved it, which else had utterly perished, as the Acts thereof have done.

Now judge whether Constantine and his Council were guilty or not of what the Idolatrous Faction charged them with. But we may wonder the less at this notorious impudency of lying companions, seeing we have experience of the like calumnies fastened upon our selves this day, though there be so many thousand eyes and ears, and writings too, which confute them.

AND thus you have seen what manner of Times they were about the end of which our Simeon Metaphrastes lived. Was it not high time, think you, for him and those hands to which he was beholden, (for I will not charge him with all) to ply the old craft, and re-enforce the Legends with new Lies, when the credit of Saint-worship lay thus a bleeding? It is not credible they would be so much wanting to themselves. And it is as apparent that those Tales of the new strain, which we had out of Simeon, were coined in this age, and not before: For if any such thing had been known or delivered from elder times, how came it to pass no notice thereof was given us by any Writer of Ecclesiastical story, by any Father, by any Compiler or forger of Martyrs Lives and Miracles, till now? Certainly so miraculous and wonderfull things as Voices from heaven, and Christ descending thence in a cloud, and the like, had been worth the telling. But, alas! they could tell us but little of these Martyrs, save only the names and time of their suffering. And thus I end my Digression, which yet I hope hath not been altogether impertinent to the present argument.

CHAP. VI.

That Saint-worship was promoted by Counterfeit Writings under the name of Antiquity. That Image-worship and the Idolatry of the Masse-God were advanced by the Hypocrisy of Liers: This illustrated from several fabulous Narrations. A foul Story made use of by the second Council of Nice in the behalf of Image-worship.

THE last particular of ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων, The Hypocrisie of Liers, I made to be Counterfeit Writings under the names of the first and best Antiquity; S. Peter's Liturgy, The Liturgy of S. James, of Matthew, of Mark, The Apostles Council at Antioch; Foisted works under the names of Justin, Origen, Cyprian, Athanasius and others. Through which we need not doubt but the Doctrine of Damons was promoted, when we see some not ashamed still to maintain it by these counterfeit authorities.

Thus you see how the first-born and the most ancient part of the Doctrine of Damons, the Deifying of Saints and Martyrs, was advanced by the Hypocrisy of Liers. The same you shall find to have been verified also in the advancing of the next-born Damon-changeling, Image-worship, and of the third, the Idolatry of the Masse-God; all brought in and established by the means and wayes aforenamed. I need not ſpend time in hiſtorical allegations, they are well enough known; and Primum in unoquoque genere eſt menſura conſequentium; by that I ſpake of the firſt, you may judge of thoſe which follow: yet for Images, I will tell you a Story or two for a taſt.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

Bale our Countrey-man (Script. Illuſt. Britan. Cent. 1. c. 91, 99.) relates, that about the year 712 one Egwin of Worceſter publiſhed in writing certain Revelations, yea expreſs Viſions he had ſeen, wherein he was enjoyned to ſet up in his Dioceſe of Worceſter the Image of the Bleſſed Virgin for the people to worſhip; which Pope Conſtantine the firſt having made him confirm by oath, not only ratified by his Bull, but cauſed Brithwald the Archbiſhop to hold a Council of the whole Clergy at London to commend them to the people.

Concil. Nic. 2. Act. 4. In that Idolatrous Council of the ſecond of Nice, one of their proofs, among many other the like, for worſhipping of Images, is a tale (quoted out of I know not what Sophronius) of a certain Recluſe, who uſing to worſhip an Image of the Virgin Mary holding Chriſt in her armes, had been a long time tempted by the Devil to fornication; whereat on a time the old man being much aggrieved, the Devil viſibly appearing told him in plain termes (but under an oath of ſecrecy) that he would never ceaſe to vex him, untill he left worſhipping the Image of the Bleſſed Virgin. The Monk, notwithſtanding the Devil had made him ſwear by the moſt High he ſhould tell no body, yet acquaints one Abbot Theodore with the buſineſs; who not only allows of his perjury in revealing it, but gives him this ghoſtly reſolution, Συμφέρει δέ σοι μὴ καταλιπεῖν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ταύτην πορνεῖον εἰς ὃ μὴ εἰσέλθῃς, ἢ ἵνα ἀρνήσῃ τὸ προσκυνεῖν τὸν Κύριον ἡμῶν καὶ Θεὸν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν μετὰ τῆς ἰδίας ἁγνῆς μητρὸς ἐν εἰκόνι· It were better he frequented all the Stews in the City, then not to worſhip Chriſt and his Mother in an Image. I am afraid ſome of this Monk's ſucceſſours ſtill obſerve this wholeſome counſell.

I muſt tell you alſo ſome of the Miracles and Lies for laying the foundation of Tranſubſtantiation, and thence advancing the Idol of the Maſſe. "A certain Monk reports that he ſaw Jeſus Chriſt in form of a Child ſit-"ting upon the Altar. Another ſaith, yea more then one, That Witikind "King of the Saxons entring diſguiſed into a Church, and diligently obſer-"ving the Chriſtians faſhion of receiving the Communion, ſaw them put a "little pretty ſmiling boy into their mouths. Theſe wonders and other the like of apparitions of fleſh and bloud began not till about the end of the eight-hundredth year. But that they might ſeem ancienter, Simeon Metaphraſtes hath a forged Legend of Arſenius the Eremite; and ſome body counterfeited the life of S. Baſil, under the name of Amphilochius his companion, which now they begin to be aſhamed of. And for fear the people might ſuſpect that theſe were Illuſions, they keep yet ſome of the fleſh and bloud which was thus tranſubſtantiated, for a monument, in many Churches. To theſe apparitions, to make all compleat, they tell us of "a hive of Bees "ſeen in Saint Gervais his Monaſtery in Paris, which built a Chappell of "Wax in honour of the Hoſt, which ſome body put into their hive; and "a miracle of an Aſſe that left his provender to worſhip the Hoſt; and many other the like. But I have ſtayed too long amongſt them, and therefore let here be the concluſion of ὑπόκρισις ψευδολόγων, that we may paſs on to that is yet behind.

E

Ἐν ὑποκρίσει κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, * ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, &c.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

CHAP. VII.

That by these two Characters [Forbidding marriage and commanding to abstain from meats] are chiefly decyphered Monks and Friers. That Prohibition of Marriage and Abstaining from meats are inseparable characters of Monastick profession. That the Renouncing of possessions or the having no propriety in any thing (another Principle in Monkery) may be included under the Abstaining from meats. That the word Βρώματα (translated Meats) implies all things needfull for maintenance of life, proved from severall places of Scripture.

I Come now unto the last particular of the Description of the Means whereby the Doctrine of Dæmons was to be advanced, viz. Through the Hypocrisie of such as forbid marriage, and command to abstain from meats. Who are these? The wonderfull correspondence of the Event makes me verily believe that the Holy Ghost intended here (at least chiefly) to decypher unto us Monks and Doctors of Monkery, by two such marks as are the chief points and grounds of that Singularity of life. For Prohibition of marriage and Difference of meats are inseparable Characters of Monasticall profession, and therefore common to all that crew of Hypocrites, whether Solivagant Eremites, or Anchorites which live alone, or Cœnobites which live in society. And if we take them joyned together, as our Apostle doth, I think they can befit no other kind of men by way of Rule and Precept but these alone. 'Tis true, all Antichrist's Priests are forbidden marriage generally and absolutely; but meats they are not, but only upon certain dayes and times: which is not their case alone, but the people also partake with them in the like restraint. But Monks are bound by the vowed Rule of their profession to abstain from both absolutely and perpetually. Concerning the first hear S. Chrysostome speak (Hom. 7. in Matth.) Nobis & Monachis (saith he) omnia mandata Legis sunt communia πλὴν τοῦ γάμου All the Commandments of God's Law are common to us with Monks, besides Marriage. Wherefore in the Council of Chalcedon is an expres's Canon, cap. 16. Ut nec Deo dicata Virgo nec Monachus nubant, That no Nun or Monk should marry, (i.e.) they might not forsake their profession.

For the second, the Abstaining from meats, S. Bennet can tell us best, who is the Father and founder of wel-nigh all the Monks of the West. His Rule, which they all bind themselves to observe, saith, A carnibus omnes abstineant, Let all abstain from flesh. Again, Carnium etiam quadrupedum omnino ab omnibus abstineatur comestio, Let all abstain together from the eating of flesh even of four-footed beasts. Hence is that Decree of Bishop Fructuosus in Gratian, Dist. 5. Carnem cuiquam Monacho nec gustandi nec sumendi est concessa licentia, No Monk hath leave granted him to take or so much as to tast a piece of flesh. And these were the two principal observations of the first Monks, before they came to be gathered into a Society of a common life under certain set Rules. Paulus Thebæus, the first pattern of this kind of life, abstained (as from Marriage, whereof there is no question, so) from all meats save bread and dates. Anthony the next ate nought but bread and salt, and both drank no other drink but water. Epiphanius in his Anchorato tells us of differing observations in this kind: Some ate no flesh, but fish; some neither of both, but only fruits and herbs; some ate flying creatures, but abstained from all besides.

* Vide Opus Hierarchicum seu Cosmam Megalianum in Timoth. ubi ex Homero οἶνον ᾧ οὖλον ἔδοντες. Odyss. υ'—οἴνοιό τε πνομένοιο Καὶ σίτου— Vid. etiam Oecumen. Concil. Eliberitan. c. 33. Placuit in totum prohibere Episc. Presb. Diaconibus & Subdiaconibus —abstinere se à conjugibus suis, &c.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

But if you will take Meats in this place in a larger sense, you shall have a full Definition of Monkery, and take in that other Monastical principle of Renouncing possessions, and having no propriety in any thing, which they account the Second fundamental principle, next to the Vow of chastity or single life. Now may not Βρώματα, Meats, be expounded in this sense? We know the word [Bread] in Scripture signifies all things needfull for maintenance of life, omnia vitæ subsidia; and therefore we ask them all in the Lord's prayer under that name, Give us this day our daily bread. Mark the words of David to Ziba, 2 Sam. 9. 10. Thou and thy sons and thy servants shall till the land for him, (Mephibosheth) and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy Master's son may have לֶחֶם Food to eat. Here Bread or Food is taken for Mephibosheth's whole maintenance, the whole profit of the Lands which Ziba tills. Matth. 10. 9, 10. Provide neither gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses, Nor scrip for your journey, neither two coats, nor shoes, nor yet staves; for the workman is worthy τ τροφῆς αὐτῦ of his meat. Here gold, silver, brass, clothes and staves and all come under τροφὴ, that is, meat. In stead whereof S. Luke chap. 10. vers. 7. putteth τῦ μισθῦ αὐτῦ, his hire. Prov. 30. 8. Agur saith, Give me neither poverty nor riches: Feed me with Food convenient for me, לֶחֶם חֻקִּי. By all which appears, that Food and Meat in Scripture is often taken for τὴ ἐπιδεια τῦ σώματος, as S. James speaks (chap. 2. vers. 16.) for all provision of things for the use of the body and this life; maintenance, revenue, estate, possession. Why may not then Abstaining from meats in this Prophecie mean or include Abstaining from possessions, Votum paupertatis the Vow of Poverty and Renouncing of the world, as the Hypocrites call it? to which the following words [εἰς μετάλημψιν] are every way as pliable as to the stricter sense, and may be read thus, [which God hath created to be injoyed with thanksgiving of them which, &c.] Let us hear S. Bennet's Rule speak for all. Nemo aliquid proprium habeat, nullam omnino rem, neque codicem, neque tabulas, neque graphiarium, sed nihil omnino: Let no man have any thing proper or as his owne, no kind of thing, neither book, nor writings, nor Inkhorn, nor any thing at all. And those who had once imposed upon themselves this law, were prohibited for ever to return to the world again. Monachis non licere ad seculum redire, saith the Canon of a great Council. Hear a Story out of S. Hierome, Epist. ad Eustochium. A certain Monk being dead, was found to have been so good a husband as to have had lying by him an hundred Solidi, which he had gotten by weaving of linen; hereupon great doubt there was what it should be done withall, whether given to the poor, to the Church, or to what use. But Pambo, Isidorus, and the other Fathers (of the Monks) laying their heads together, decreed it should be buried with him, with this blessing, Pecunia tua sit tecum in perditionem, Thy money perish together with thee. The like sentence gave Gregory the Great against Justus a Monk for the like fault, Dial. l. 4. c. 55.

I conclude therefore, That these words are a Description of Monkery by such notes as are fundamental, which way soever we take them; either containing Single life and Discrimen ciborum the Differencing of meats; or the two Vows of Chastity and Poverty; or all three of them, Chastity, Poverty, and Abstaining from meats. As for that other Vow of Obedience, it was not from the beginning, nor common to all; not to Eremites and Anchorites, but such as lived in common under an Head. And these are the men through whose Hypocrisie and by whose means the Doctrine of Dæmons should be brought in and advanced among Christians in the Latter times.

CHAP.

CHAP. VIII.

That Monaſtick life and Saint-worſhip began much about the ſame time. That Monks and Friers (chiefly intended in the Text by the κωλύοντες γαμεῖν, &c.) were the main authors and advancers of Saint-worſhip, proved from the Teſtimonies of Chemnitius, S. Auſtine, Gregory of Tours, as alſo Eunapius a Gentile Writer. That Monks and Friers were the Ringleaders and chief advancers of Image-worſhip, appears in that (during the Iconomachicall Controverſy in the Eaſt) the greateſt part of the Storm fell upon thoſe of the Monaſtick profeſſion. That the Idolatry of the Maſſe-God was promoted by the ſame perſons.

NOW let us ſee and behold with admiration the truth of this part alſo of this Prophecie. Where firſt obſerve that this Singular kinde of life began even juſt at the time when the Doctrine of Damons was to enter. For Paulus Thebæus and Anthony, the firſt patterns thereof, died, the former in the reign of Conſtantine, the latter a little before the year 360, whence, or near unto which, we began our reckoning before of the firſt entrance of Saint-worſhip into the Church. About that time Monks till then having been confined to Ægypt, Hilarion brought them into Syria, and preſently S. Baſil gave them a certain rule to live together in form of a Polity, and with the aſſiſtance of his brother Gregory Nyſſen and Gregory Nazianzen (who all entred this new kinde of life) diſperſed them over all Aſia and Greece: whoſe encreaſe was ſo wonderfull, that almoſt in an inſtant they filled the World; and their eſteem was ſo great, that there was ſcarce a man of note but took upon him this kinde of life.

Though therefore it be moſt true that our Apoſtle's prophecie will be verified, which ſoever of the two, either ſuch as themſelves entred the Reſtraint of a Monaſtick life, or thoſe who approved, taught and maintained the holineſs of that Profeſſion, (as the reſt did) were the Ringleaders and Foſter-fathers of this Defection; (for both come within the verge of ſuch as forbid marriage and command to abſtain from meats) yet we will not content ourſelves with ſo looſe an application, but ſee what an hand Monks and Friers themſelves (chiefly I ſuppoſe intended by the Holy Ghoſt) had in this buſineſs.

And firſt in the firſt Doctrine of Damons, Adoring of Reliques and Invocation of Saints: Where that which I firſt ſpeak of ſhall be in the words of Chemnitius, leſt ſome more tender of the honour of our Fathers upon earth, then of the glory of our Father in heaven, might take exception. Hear therefore not me, but Chemnitius in his Examen Concilii Tridentini: About the year of our Lord 370, per Baſilium, Nyſſenum & Nazianzenum, in publicos Eccleſiæ conventus, occaſione orationum Panegyricarum (Invocatio Sanctorum) invehi incepit, eodem tempore cùm ab iiſdem authoribus Monachatus ex Ægypto & Syria in Graciam introduceretur. Et videtur (ſaith he) hæc ſive portio, ſive Appendix Monachatûs fuiſſe. By Baſil, Nyſſen and Nazianzen, upon occaſion of Panegyricall orations, Invocation of Saints began to be brought into the publick Aſſemblies of the Church, at the ſame time when by the ſame Authors the profeſſion of Monaſticall life was brought out of Ægypt and Syria into Greece: and it ſeems (ſaith he) that this was either a part, or an appurtenance of Monkery, &c. Again, ſpeaking of S. Ambroſe when he had once turned Monk, howſoever he was before, Non tamen nego (inquit) Ambroſium tandem cùm Monachatum à Baſilio mutuò ſumpſiſſet, etiam ad Invocationem Sanctorum inclinare cœpiſſe, ut patet ex libro De viduis: I deny not (saith he) but Ambrose at length, when he had once borrowed Monkery from Basil, began also to incline to the Invocation of Saints, as appears in his book De viduis. Thus Chemnitius.

The Apostasy of the latter Times PART II.

And that you may yet further see how operative Monks were in this business, hear S. Augustine De opere Monachorum, cap. 28. Tam multos hypocritas sub habitu Monachorum usquequaquam dispersit (Satan,) circumeuntes provincias, nusquam missos, nusquam fixos, nusquam stantes, nusquam sedentes. Alii membra Martyrum (si tamen Martyrum) venditant—& omnes petunt, omnes exigunt aut sumptus lucrosæ egestatis, aut simulatæ pretium sanctitatis: The Devil (saith he) hath dispersed in every corner such a crew of Hypocrites under the habit of Monks, gadding about every Countrey, sent no whither, staying no where, every where restless, whether sitting or standing: Some sell the limbs of Martyrs, (if so be of Martyrs;) and all are asking, all exacting either the expences of a gainfull poverty, or the hire of a counterfeit sanctity. These were those surely which occasioned that Rescript of Theodosius the Emperour, Nemo Martyrem distrahat, nemo mercetur; Let no man sell, let no man buy a Martyr: whereby we may gather what honesty was like to be used amongst them. We know,

Laudat venales qui vult extrudere merces,

Merchants use to commend their commodities. Gregory of Tours, who lived and died somewhat before the year 600, tells us this, Monachos quosdam Romam venisse, ac prope Templum Pauli corpora quædam noctu effodisse; qui comprehensi fassi sunt in Græciam se ea pro Sanctorum reliquiis portaturos fuisse: That certain Monks came to Rome, and near unto S. Paul's Church in the night-time digged up certain bodies; who being apprehended, confessed they meant to have carried them into Greece for Reliques of Saints. The same Author, l. 9. c. 6. Hist. Franc. relates a Story of another counterfeit, a Monk, who pretended to come out of Spain with Martyrs Reliques; but being discovered, they were found to be Roots of certain Herbs, Bones of Mice, and such like stuffe: and he tells us there were many such seducers which deluded the people. And he said true, there were many indeed, and many more then Gregory took for such, even those he took for honest men. For though it must not be denied but God had some of this Order which were holy men and unfeignedly mortified, notwithstanding their errour in thinking God was pleased with that singularity of life; yet must it be confessed that the greater part were no better then Hypocrites and Counterfeits, and that the lamentable Defection of the Christian Church chiefly proceeded from and was fostered by men of that profession, as in part we have heard already.

And if you can with patience hear him speak, I will adde the testimony of Eunapius Sardianus, a Pagan Writer, who lived in the days of Theodosius the first, about the year 400. In the life of Ædesius, most bitterly inveighing against the Christians for demolishing that renowned Temple of Serapis at Alexandria in Egypt, he speaks in this manner: When they had done, (saith he) they brought into the holy Places τὺς καλυμένυς Μοναχὺς those which they call Monks; Men indeed for shape, but living like Swine, and openly committing innumerable villanies not to be named; who yet took it for a piece of Religion thus to despise the Divinity (he means of Serapis:) For then (saith he) whosoever wore a black coat, and would demean himself absurdly in publick, got a tyrannicall authoritie: To such an opinion of vertue had that sort of men attained. These Monks also they placed at Canopus, in stead of the intelligible Gods, to worship Slaves and those of no good conditions; thus bringing a bond of Religion upon men. For having pondered the bones and skuls of such as had been condemned of many crimes, and punished by a legal course of Justice, they made Gods of them, prostrating themselves unto them, them, and thinking themſelves the better for being polluted with Sepulchres: They called them forſooth Martyrs, and ſome Deacons, yea and Solicitors of their prayers with the Gods; being indeed but perfidious Slaves, who had been well baſted with the whip, and carried the ſcarrs of their lewdneſs upon their bodies: And yet ſuch Gods as theſe the Earth brings forth.

Thus the wretched caitiffe and damned dog blaſphemes the Saints and Servants of Chriſt, who loved not their lives unto death, the duſt of whoſe feet he was not worthy to lick up. Yet may we make a ſhift to gather hence what manner of offices Monks were then buſied in. And if Baronius took leave to uſe his teſtimony for the antiquity of Saint-worſhip, why may not I with the like liberty alledge it, to ſhew that Monks and Friers were Ring-leaders therein?

BUT when the Idolatry of Image-worſhip came to be added to that of Saints, whether Monks and Friers were not the chief ſticklers therein, judge, when you ſhall hear how it fared with them in that great Oppoſition againſt Idols in the Eaſt.

Of Leo Iſaurus, the firſt of thoſe Emperours that oppoſed Images, we have this in general out of the Greek Menology; That he raged moſt cruelly againſt Biſhops and Monks which maintained the worſhip of Images; and that he burnt a whole Cloiſter of ſuch kinde of people in their Monaſtery, together with a famous Library, and all their furniture.

But Conſtantine his ſon made a worſe fray amongſt them. For the Author of the Acts of Monk Stephen tells us, That he being reproved and convicted for what he had done (viz. againſt Images) by the religious and worthie profeſſors of Monaſticall life, he raiſed an implacable war againſt them, calling that noble Habit σκοτίας ἔνδυμα the veſture of darkneſs, and the Monks themſelves ἀμνημονεύτους, that is, unworthy of memory, and beſides terming them all Idolaters for the worſhipping of venerable Images.

The ſame is confirmed by Theoſterictus, another Author of that time, who ſaith, That the whole aime and ſtudy of this Emperour was to extinguiſh and root out the Order of Monks.

And for particulars, hear what Theophanes (himſelf a Monk, and a little ſindged too in this flame, before it ended) will inform us.

In the one and twentieth year of his reign he cauſed (ſaith he) Andreas Calybites, a worthy Monk, who reproved him for his impiety, (in demoliſhing Images) to be ſcourged till he died. Lib. 22. cap. 30. Hiſt. miſcell.

In the five & twentieth year of his reign he cauſed Monk Stephen to be dragged by the heels in the ſtreets, till being rent in pieces, he died; both for the aforeſaid offence, & becauſe he drew & perſwaded many to a Monaſticall life. Ibid. cap. 39.

The ſame year the Emperour (ſaith he) diſgraced and diſhonoured the Monaſticall Habit, publickly commanding every Monk to lead a woman by the hand, and ſo to march through the Hippodrome, all the people abuſing them and ſpitting upon them. Ibid. cap. 40.

In the ſeven and twentieth year (he ſaith) the Monaſteries partly he deſtroyed to the very foundations, partly beſtowed them upon his Captains and Souldiers. Ibid. cap. 49.

In the ſame year; when he could not draw Peter a Metra, a famous Stylite or Pillar-Monk, unto his opinions, he cauſed him likewiſe to be dragged by the heels, and his body caſt out into the ſtreets. Ibid. cap. 48.

In his thirtieth year, his Prætor or Deputy Lichanodraco gathered all the Monks in his Juriſdiction together, and commanded them to obey the Emperour, to put on a white coat, and to marry wives inſtantly, or to have their eyes put out, and be ſent into exile. Ibid. cap. 52. So the Emperour, when he would have Conſtantine the Patriarch abjure Monkery, he made him (ſaith the ſame Authour) eat fleſh. Lib. eod. cap. 29.

The Apoſtaſy of the latter Times PART II.

In the one and thirtieth year the ſame Lichanodraco ſold all the Monaſteries both of men and women in his Juriſdiction, and ſent the money to the Emperour. If he found any one to have a Relique of any Saint in keeping, he burnt it, and puniſhed him that had it. He ſlew the Monks, ſome with ſtripes, ſome with the ſword; and left not a man, where he had to doe, that wore a Monaſticall Habit: whereupon the Emperour wrote thus unto him, Ὅτι εὗρόν σε ἄνδρα κατὰ τὴν καρδίαν μου, ὃς ποιεῖς πάντα τὰ θελήματά μου· I have found thee a man after mine own heart, who fulfilleſt my whole will. Thus much of Conſtantine.

The like reports Cedrenus of Michael Balbus, That he abominated Monks, and diverſly afflicted them, ordaining one puniſhment after another againſt them. As alſo of Theophilus the laſt Emperour that oppoſed Images: Theophilus (ſaith he) ordained ἀβάτους πρεῖναι τὰς πόλεις τοῖς μοναχοῖς, that no Monks ſhould have acceſs unto the Cities, and that they ſhould by all means be baniſhed; μᾶλλον δὲ μηδὲ κατὰ χώραν ὀφθῆναι τολμᾶν, & not ſo much as dare to be ſeen in the Countrey: and that he cauſed the Monaſteries and places of holy retirement to become common & ſecular habitations. What the reaſon was, we may learn by that the ſame Author tells us: Of thoſe (ſaith he) which reprehended the Emperour, the Abramite Monks were the chief; who freely adventuring into his preſence, did demonſtrate That Monaſticall life was not an invention of yeſterday or the other day, but an ancient & primitive inſtitution; and That holy Images were familiar in the Apoſtles times, and that S. Luke painted an Image of the Bleſſed Virgin, &c. But it ſeems the Emperour was not convinced by their demonſtrations; for this their boldneſs coſt them full dear, as our Author relates.

By this time I know you underſtand what the matter was that this Image-ſtorm fell ſo heavily upon the heads of Monks and Friers; and yet notwithſtanding all this, they at length prevailed, and carried the day (ſo God would have it) for their Idols. For another Theophanes, whom they call the Presbyter, a Writer alſo of his time, tells, That Theophilus being dead, Theodora the Empreſs, (whilſt ſhe reigned in the minority of Michael her ſon) when ſhe meant to reſtore Image-worſhip which had been baniſhed now the ſecond time, ever ſince Leo Armenius, Re cum illis communicatâ qui erant in magiſtratu & dignitate conſtituti, accerſit cum ipſis eos qui inter Monachos præſtabant, & de Imaginum inſtauratione quæſtionem proponit. Cúmque idem omnes conſentientes comperiſſet, diuturnóque ejus rei deſiderio teneri, atque animo excruciari propter Religionis in hac re mutationem, poſtulat ut ſe etiam Patrum authoritatibus ad veritatem confirmarent quas variis in libris inveniſſent; mandavítque quo in loco Palatii præfinito Cœtus Eccleſiaſticus univerſus cogeretur, & ad populum ea de re verba faceret, &c. that is, When ſhe had acquainted the Magiſtrates and thoſe that were in authority therewith, together with them ſhe ſent for the chiefeſt of the Monks, and propounded to them the queſtion concerning the reſtoring of Images: whom when ſhe found all men for the purpoſe, yea very eager in the buſineſs, ſhe called a Synod, whereby Idolatry was again publickly erected in the Greek Church, 120 years after it firſt began to be purged thereof by Leo Iſaurus the Emperour.

Apud Baron. An. 842. §. 12.

For the Idolatry of the Maſſe-God, which was not in uſe, at the ſooneſt, till a thouſand years after Chriſt, (when the opinion of Tranſubſtantiation had gotten ſufficient ſtrength) we ſhall not need trouble our ſelves much to ſhew that Monks and Friers were the Authors and Advancers thereof, ſince by that time theſe kinde of men were become the only Maſters of Divinity; and therefore we need not doubt but what was then broached in the Church came out of their ſhops. Judge now, by what you have heard, how truly this Prophecie of S. Paul is fulfilled, who told us That the Doctrines of Damons ſhould be brought into the Church Ἐν ὑποκρίσει κωλυόντων γαμεῖν, καὶ ἀπέχεσθαι βρωμάτων, Through the hypocriſie of thoſe who forbid to marry, and command to abſtain from meats.

THREE

THREE

TREATISES

Upon ſome obſcure Paſſages

IN

DANIEL.

I. DANIEL'S Weeks explained, chap. 9. 24, &c.

II. Regnum Romanum eſt Regnum quartum Danielis, cap. 2. 40, &c. cap. 7. 7, &c.

III. Revelatio Antichriſti, ſeu De numeris Danielis MCCXC, MCCCXXXV. cap. 12. 11, 12.

BY

JOSEPH MEDE, B.D. ſometime Fellow of Chriſt's College in Cambridge.

LONDON,
Printed for R. Royſton, Book-ſeller to His moſt Sacred MAJESTY. MDCLXIII.

DANIEL'S

WEEKS.

DANIEL 9. 24, &c.

THE WEEKS of Daniel are a Divine Chronology of the Time which the Sanctuary, with the Legal Service, ſhould continue, when it ſhould be reſtored after the Captivity of Babylon. During which time alſo the City of Jeruſalem it ſelf ſhould be re-inhabited, and the walls thereof re-builded; and ſome LXII Weeks after that began to be, ſhould Meſſiah the Redeemer be anointed, yea and cut off and rejected of his own: For which, when the whole Lxx Weeks (the time allotted) ſhould expire, their Sanctuary and City ſhould again be raſed, and their Commonwealth utterly diſſolved.

VERSE 24.

Seventy Weeks are allotted for thy people, and for thy Holy City, to finiſh tranſgreſſion, and make an end of ſins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlaſting righteouſneſs, and to fulfill Viſion and Prophecy, and to anoint the MOST HOLY.

Seventy weeks are determined or allotted.] That is, The Holy City ſhall again be reſtored, and Lxx weeks of years are allotted and limited for the continuance thereof, and thy people with it: and that for this end, that during the ſtanding thereof, the Meſſiah, according to Viſion and Prophecy, may come to expiate ſin, and be anointed in his Kingdom.

The word חָתַךְ, here tranſlated determined or allotted, ſignifies properly to be cut or cut out, and ſo may ſeem to imply ſuch a ſenſe, as if the Angel had ſaid to Daniel, Howſoever your Bondage and Captivity under the Gentiles ſhall not altogether ceaſe, until that ſucceſſion of Kingdoms which I before ſhewed thee be quite finiſhed; yet ſhall God, for the accompliſhing his Promiſe concerning the Meſſiah, as it were cut out of that long Term a certain limited Time, during which the Captivity of Judah and Jeruſalem being interrupted, the Holy City and Commonwealth in ſome meaſure ſhall again be reſtored, and ſo continue till Lxx Weeks of years be finiſhed.

Here I diſtinguiſh the Beginning of the Times of the Holy City from the beginning of Jeruſalem. For the Holy City is ſo called of the Temple as the principal part; and therefore the Time of the reſtitution thereof to be reckoned from the Time the Temple was builded: But by Jeruſalem is underſtood (as appears in the next verſe) the external buildings and walls of the City, which were not reſtored till ſome time after the Temple and Sanctuary was finiſhed.

As for the impletion, all are now agreed, that the Beginning of theſe Weeks is to be reckoned from ſome Reſtoring either of the Temple, and that that in the ſecond, third, or ſixth year of the Reign of ſome Darius; or of the City, in the ſeventh or twentieth year of ſome Artaxerxes, Kings of Perſia. But it cannot be from Darius the Firſt ſurnamed Hyſtaſpis; for then they would come out long before the Birth of Chriſt. Nor from the Firſt Artaxerxes ſurnamed Longimanus; for he was an hinderer of the work of the Temple, and forbade the building thereof, Ezra cap. 4. à verſ. 11. ad finem. Nor from the Second Artaxerxes ſurnamed Mnemon; for ſo they would far over-reach the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem. Therefore it remains that they be counted from Darius the Second ſurnamed Nothus; in the ſecond year of whoſe reign the work of the Temple, after a long interruption, began to revive, Ezr. 4. v. 24. Hag. c. 1, & 2. Zachar. c. 1, &c. and in the ſixth year of his reign was finiſhed, Ezra 6. ver. 15.

Secondly, Theſe Lxx Weeks are the Time allotted for the continuance of the Holy City, and therefore muſt they laſt as long as it laſted, and end with the end thereof. But this cannot be, unleſs we fix their Epocha in the beginning of Darius Nothus. Ergo.

Which in the event is moſt true. For from the third year of Darius Nothus, when the work of the Temple (by the incitement of Haggai and Zachary renewed the year before) was now confirmed by a new Edict from the King to be finiſhed, unto the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus, are exactly 490. years, that is, Lxx Weeks of years fully compleat.

Artaxerxes Longimanus died (ſaith Diodorus li. 11.) Olymp. 88. 4. that is—	An. Olympiadico	352,	Menſ. Novembri, or thereabout, for Winter was entred. Thucyd. lib. 4.
Ergo, Xerxes (who reigned next after him one year, ex eod.) dying—	An. Olympiadico	353,	Menſ. Nov.
Sogdianus alſo, who ſucceeded Xerxes, reigning but ſeven Months, Darius Nothus his Ann. 1. begins—	An. Olymp. eodem,		M. Maio.
Annus 2.	Anno Olympiad. 354,		M. Maio.
Annus 3.	Anno Olympiad. 355,		M. Maio.

In this third year of the King, and at the end of this Olympiadical year, in the beginning of Auguſt (as may be ſuppoſed) came forth the Edict of Darius, ſome ten months after Zorobabel and Joſhua had begun to renew the work the year before, Hag. 1. 14, 15. And ſo much time (half thereof being Winter) may well be allowed for their enemies to hear of the work, to goe ſee and doe their beſt to hinder it; when they could not, to write and ſend unto the King, the ſearching of the Rolls, and obtaining a new Edict.

The

The Deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus, I take as granted,	Anno Olymp. 845 finiente, 846 ineunte.
The Edict of Darius, as is ſhewed,	Anno Olymp. 355 finiente, 356 ineunte.
Diſtantia	490	490

The account by years of Nabonaſſar, ex Canone Ptolemæi Aſtronomico.

The laſt year, or year of Nero's death (June 9.) in Ptolemie's Canon anſwers to An. 815 Nabonaſſ. Ergo, the year of Jeruſalem's Deſolation (2 years after) is concurrent with———	An. 817 Nabonaſſ.	finiendus in Auguſto.
The firſt of Darius Nothus, in Canone Ptolemæi, anſwers An. 325 Nabonaſſ. Ergo, the third year of Darius is concurrent with———	An. 327 Nabonaſſ.	ordiendus à Decembri præcedent.
Differentia	490

Notwithſtanding all this, I had rather begin the Accompt from the ſixth year of Darius, in the month Adar, when the Temple was quite finiſhed, (for then it firſt began to continue, and not till then,) although the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem will then fall out three years and an half ſooner, namely, when the laſt week is but half run out. And what if it do? The Angel, as I conceive, tells us ſo much in the laſt verſe, when he ſays, That in the midſt of a Week the Sacrifice and Oblation ſhould ceaſe, and the City be made deſolate. But how will the Prophecy be made good, if the Seventieth Week be not compleat? I anſwer, It ſhould be obſerved (though it uſeth not to be) that the Angel reckons not by ſingle years, but by Weeks. If he had ſaid, there ſhould be 490 years to the Excidium of Jeruſalem; then indeed to make good the prediction, the City and Sanctuary muſt have been deſtroyed the laſt year. But when he ſays, there ſhall be Lxx Weeks allotted for the continuance of the Holy City, it is enough if it be made deſolate in the ſeventieth week. For if thoſe who reckon by years, when the year deſigned anſwers the Event, will not ſtand upon the compleatneſs of months and days; nor thoſe who reckon any thing by days, upon the compleatneſs of hours and minutes: no more in the Angel's reckoning here by weeks, if ſo the number of the weeks be compleat, are the parts of a week to be exacted.

The Temple was now finiſhed in 4 years; which argues it was well forwarded before, and much I ſuppoſe in the days of liberty under Darius Hyſtaſpis: For I take him to be that Darius mentioned Ezra 4. 5. and never to have hindred the building, but permitted the Jews to go on as their poverty would ſuffer them, which was but ſlowly.

The time of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as before	An. Olymp. 845. Menſ. 6. Auguſt.
If the third of Darius began about May or June, Anno Olymp. 355. then the ſixth year of his reign begins in May or June, An. 358. But the latter part thereof in February or Adar, when the Temple was finiſhed, falls in	An. Olymp. 359. Menſ. 12. Feb. or Adar.
Diſtantia	Anni 486. Menſ. 6.
That is juſt	69 Weeks and an half.

The Accompt by years of Nabonaſſar.

The time of the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as before	Anno 817. Nabonaſſ. Menſ. 6.
If the third year of Darius Nothus were for the firſt and greateſt part concurrent with An. 327. Nabonaſſ. as is afore ſhewed; then his ſixth year (in like manner for the firſt and greateſt part) muſt concur with An. 330. But the head of the Nabonaſſarean year being then about the 5th of December, the latter end of this ſixth year in Adar or February will fall in	Anno 331. Nabonaſſ. Menſ. 12.
Diſtantia	Anni 486. Menſes 6.

VERSE

VERSE 25.

Alſo know and underſtand, that from the going forth of the Commandment to cauſe to Return and to Build Jeruſalem, unto MESSIAH the PRINCE, ſhall be Sevens of Weeks; even threeſcore and two Weeks the Street ſhall be built again and the Wall, even in a ſtreight of times.

FROM the going out of the Commandment] I take not this Epocha to be that of the whole Lxx Weeks, but a ſecond Root of another and leſſer period of time comprehended in them; whoſe Beginning was to be after the Lxx were begun, and the end before they ſhould be ended. The Root of this ſecond Computation is deſcribed to be a time when two things ſhould be done: A Commandment ſhould goe forth both to cauſe to Return and alſo to Build, not the Temple, (for that ſhould be done before) nor ſome few houſes onely, but the whole Area or Street, and the Walls of Jeruſalem, which ſhould then be re-edified, though in a ſtreight of Times; that is, it ſhould be ſuch a time, when a Commiſſion to cauſe the people to return and re-inhabite ſhould be ſeconded with another, to build the Wall of Jeruſalem, and the Plot within the Wall. For by חָרוּץ here I underſtand properly that Circuit bounding out the limits of the City, whereon the Wall was builded, and anciently uſed to be marked out with a Plough earing a furrow round about. By רְחוֹב, which implies a broad place, I underſtand the Area or Plot of ground within, whereon the houſes were to be builded. From ſuch an Epocha, and a Commiſſion thus characterized as ye have heard, muſt this ſecond Computation be reckoned.

Unto MESSIAH the PRINCE] That is, unto Χριστὸς Βασιλεὺς, Luke 23. 2. Mark 15. 32. or Χριστὸς Κύριος, as the Angel ſtyles him Luke 2. 11. There is no expoſition, no interpretation of any paſſage in this Prophecy could ſeem ſo harſh, but I would be content to admit it, rather then yield that by MESSIAH the PRINCE here named ſhould be meant any other then CHRIST our LORD and Redeemer. For I am perſwaded that the Church of Iſrael in the Goſpel (and from them the Apoſtles took it) had no other place of Scripture, whence they did or could aſcribe the Name of Chriſt and Meſſiah unto him they looked for, but only from this of Daniel. For there is no other Prophecy in all the Old Teſtament beſides this where that Name is directly given him, but only by way of Type.

Shall be Sevens of weeks; even LXII weeks] The numeral word שָׁבֻעָה I have here tranſlated diſtributively, underſtanding by שָׁבֻעִים Hebdomadæ ſeptenæ, that is, many ſeven Weeks, or, as our Engliſh handſomely expreſſeth, Sevens of Weeks: the ſenſe to be as if the Angel had ſaid; As the whole time limited for the continuance of the Holy City from the firſt beginning to the laſt ending conſiſteth of many Sevens of Weeks, viz. Lxx Weeks: ſo from this after-Epocha here mentioned unto MESSIAH ſhould be likewiſe Sevens of Weeks, (plures ſeptenniorum hebdomades) even Sixty two Weeks of years. For as in Lxx are ten Sevens of Weeks, ſo in Lxii are nine times ſeven wanting one; and that little want makes no matter, there being eight whole ſevens beſides in that number, and you ſhall ſee in that which follows examples of the like. The Hebrews want thoſe numbers which the Grammarians call Diſtributive or Diviſive, Terni, quaterni, quini, ſeni, ſepteni, &c. which they moſt-what ſupply by repetition, as שבעה שבעה ſeptem ſeptem, but not alwaies; as may appear 2 Sam. 18. 4. And all the people came out למאות ולאלפים ad centum & millia, i. centeni & milleni, by hundreds and by thouſands. 1 Kings 18. 4. Obadiah hid the Prophets of the LORD חמשים איש במערה quinquaginta viros in ſpelunca, id eſt, quinquagenos, by fifty in a Cave. Gen. 6. 19. Of all fleſh thou ſhalt bring into the Ark שנים duo, i. e. bina, Twoes; and therefore afterward Ch. 7. verſ. 9. it is doubled שנים שנים two and two: yet of clean Beaſts, whereof he was to take ſeven, there is an odd one. To theſe I adde Ezra 1. v. 9, &c. This is the number of the veſſels, (to wit, of the Houſe of the LORD which Cyrus by the hand of Mithredath numbred unto Sheſhbazzar Prince of Judah) thirty Chargers of gold, a thouſand Chargers of ſilver, twenty nine knives, thirty Baſins of gold, ſilver Baſins of a ſecond ſort four hundred and ten, and other veſſels אלף (not mille, a thouſand, but millena, Tremell. per millia) Thouſands, to wit, almoſt three thouſand wanting but one hundred. Otherwiſe if we tranſlate it as a Cardinal number [a thouſand] the Summe will far exceed the Parts. For it follows in the next words, All the Veſſels of gold and of ſilver were 5400. But unleſs the laſt number be taken

* 30 diviſivè, the particulars * make but 2500 wanting one. Nor do I ſee 1000 how this difficulty would otherwiſe be ſolved.
29 Now whether theſe examples be ſufficient to make probable the Tranſ-
30 lation which I have given, I will not affirm; let others judge: I propound 410 it to the conſideration of the learned who can doe it, without whoſe ap-
1000 probation I ſhall not ſatisfie my ſelf. Yet thus much I am ſure of; that if 2499 this שָׁבֻעִים שִׁבְעָה, which we are wont to tranſlate Seven weeks, could be well beſtowed, the chiefeſt difficulty were taken from this Prophecy. For the Threeſcore and two Weeks alone counted from the Epocha here named, ſo well befits the diſtance from thence to CHRIST, that the Event ſeemeth to argue that they ſhould be there fixed, and not reckoned from any other Beginning.

Moreover that שָׁבֻעִים שִׁבְעָה ſhould be a general expreſſion of what in the LXII Weeks is after more particularly determined, may ſeem probable for theſe reaſons. 1. Becauſe the Angel aſcribes no proper Event unto them; but having preſently named the LXII Weeks, makes no farther reckoning of thoſe other, but follows and dwells upon theſe only, as though the other were implied and contained in them. 2. Thoſe who count them for XLIX years, and continue the LXII Weeks from the end of them to make up LXIX Weeks in all, can give no ſufficient reaſon why they ſhould be thus ſeparated and divided aſunder. For that which the followers of Funccius (who reckon from Artaxerxes Longimanus) aſſign to be done in ſeven Weeks of years (to wit, that during all that time Jeruſalem with the reſt of the Cities of Judah were building and repairing) is grounded neither upon Scripture nor other Story, but pure and mere conjecture. Scaliger finds (Nehem. Chap. 13. ver. 6.) that Nehemiah returned again to Artaxerxes his Court in the 32 year of his reign, and thence ſuppoſeth that the Building of the City, about which he was ſent, was finiſhed but the year before, and that to be the determination of thoſe Seven Weeks; there being then 49. years expired from the time the LXX began at the Building of the Temple under Darius Nothus. But to make this good, he is fain to raiſe the Epocha of the LXX ſo high in the reign of Darius, that they end before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. Beſides, he ſeems not to be aware that theſe Seven Weeks are by the Text to be counted from a time when a Commiſſion came out to cauſe to return and to build build Jeruſalem, and not from the time of building the Temple. Nor does it follow, Nehemiah ſtaid ſo long there, therefore the City was till then in building: Nay, what if the Text, rightly conſtrued, imports not that Nehemiah in the 32 year of Artaxerxes returned to the Court, but rather, that obtaining new leave of the King, he came then to Jeruſalem the ſecond time, whence he had been long abſent? For the particle כי Chap. 13. ver. 6. ſeems not to be taken rationally for [Quia,] but diſcretively for אם כי, id eſt, [Sed, But] as Ezra 4. 3. 2 Sam. 16. 18. Gen. 45. 8. and ſo that Text of Nehemiah to be read after this ſenſe, And in all this time (ſaith he) I was not there; But in the 32 year of Artaxerxes, &c. I came to the King, that is, into his preſence, to ask new leave; which after a little waiting he obtained. Nor is it very credible that the time he firſt ſet the King, Chap. 2. verſ. 6. ſhould be twelve years.

If therefore שָׁבֻעִים שִׁבְעָה be granted to be a general expreſſion of what the Lxii Weeks more particularly determine, the way whereby it may be tranſlated to ſuch a ſenſe is as I have before repreſented: yet is it not the only one; I can adde two ways more. As firſt this; שבעה Seven uſeth, we know, to be taken indefinitely for plurimi, multoties, &c. Thus שבעים שבעה would without any anomaly or novelty at all ſignifie indefinitely [Many Weeks,] if it might ſeem probable, that in a paſſage of reckoning by definite numbers ſome numeral word may be taken indefinitely. The ſenſe would be all one with that I have followed, viz. As the whole time limited for the continuance of the Holy City conſiſted of many Weeks, even Lxx Weeks; ſo alſo this leſſer period contained therein, from the Epocha mentioned unto MESSIAH, ſhall be a time of many Weeks, even Lxii Weeks. Another way, were it not ſomewhat harſh, might be this; The Hebrew Nouns of Cardinal numbers do ſometimes ſubſtantivare, ſignifying their numbers in abſtracto, like thoſe Greek Numerals Monas, Dyas, Trias, Tetras, Hebdomas. So Gen. chap. 7. 10. chap. 8. 12. we have שבעת ימים & שבעת הימים, i. Hebdomas dierum: Exo. 34. 28. עשרת הדברים, Decas verborum, Decalogus: Gen. 17. 12. בן-שמנת ימים, Filius ogdoadis dierum: Joſhua 14. 2. תשערת המטות, Novenarius or Enneas tribuum. If they be Subſtantives in ſtatu conſtructo, were they not or may they not be ſo in abſoluto? In the third Chapter and 19. ver. of Daniel שבעה in abſoluto ſeems to be a Subſtantive having an Adjective joyned with it, חַד שִׁבְעָה, which we tranſlate [one ſeven times.] If this therefore may be admitted, שָׁבֻעִים שִׁבְעָה in our Text of Daniel will ſound per Ellipſin conjunctionis, Hebdomades & Hebdomas, Weeks and a Week; the ſenſe being all one with the former, ſaving that one Week is implied as ſingular from the reſt, which may be that which the Angel afterward mentions ver. 27. If it were pointed שִׁבְעִים שִׁבְעָה, as by the conſonants it might be, there would be no great queſtion but it might be tranſlated Weeks and a Week.

Whereſoever beſides in Scripture ſeven Weeks are mentioned, the words are,
שבע שבעות or שבעה
שבעות

But if שָׁבֻעִים שִׁבְעָה muſt needs import ſome limited time of 49. years, I would rather chuſe to count the Lxii Weeks from the ſame Epocha with them under Artaxerxes Mnemon, then from the end of them, and yet leave as probable a conjecture to be made of what was done in them, as thoſe who follow Funccius from the other Artaxerxes do uſe to give.

I have ſometimes conſidered whether, if it be tranſlated Seven Weeks, thoſe Seven Weeks might not be applied as rotundus numerus to thoſe Fifty and two days, Nehem. 6. 15. where it is ſaid, So the Wall was finiſhed in the 25th day of the Month Elul, in fifty two days; ſomewhat more indeed then Seven Weeks, yet ſhort of Seven and an half, and ſo not regarded in accompt by Weeks. If this could be, then the reaſon of the Angel's diviſion ſion of weeks into 7 and 62 would be, becauſe of diverſe kindes of Weeks underſtood; the firſt of days, wherein the Wall of Jeruſalem ſhould be finiſhed, the ſecond of years, from thence unto the Meſſiah. If it ſeem impoſſible or unlikely that the Wall of the City ſhould be repaired in ſo ſhort a time, and therefore thoſe words (according to Junius) to be meant of ſetting up the doors and bars only: I could ſay, firſt, that the Wall was not new builded from the foundations, but repaired upon the old ruines; ſecondly, the ſpeedy diſpatch thereof was taken for a wonder, even by the Jews Enemies, who thereupon (ſaith the Text) perceived it was the hand of their God. So that, were there no worſe ſcruple then this, it were eaſily anſwered; nor would examples * be wanting to parallel with it, ſuch as might make it ſeem at leaſt poſſible. As that ſtrange and ſpeedy building of the Walls of Athens by Themiſtocles, after that Xerxes had demoliſhed them, reported by Diodor. Sic. lib. 11. Yea, to come more near to the thing in queſtion, Joſephus, l. 6. c. 13. De Bell. Jud. tells us, That Titus, dividing the work amongſt his Army, begirt Jeruſalem in three days ſpace with a Wall of thirty nine Furlongs, and thirteen Bulwarks, to hinder the Jews excurſions from within and all relief from without. What the materials were I know not, but he ſayes it was a thing beyond all belief, and might have ſeemed to be a work of ſome Moneths. But leaving this digreſſion, let us ſee the Computation and Impletion of our Lxii Weeks.

* That renowned Palace and Court of Nebuchadnezzar, within which were thoſe Penſiles Horti, was finiſhed (ſaith Joſephus) in fifteen dayes. Antiq. Judaic. li. 10. c. 11. in the Latine c. 13.

The Computation and Impletion of the LXII Weeks.

FROM the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes Mnemon, when Ezra had Commiſſion to cauſe to Return and carry with him as many of the Jews as would to Jeruſalem, Ezra c. 7. ver. 7, & 13: And from the twentieth year of the ſame Artaxerxes, when Nehemiah obtained leave to build Jeruſalem the City of his Fathers Sepulchres, Nehem. 2: From both theſe Commiſſions, though thirteen years diſtant the one from the other, are by divine diſpoſition unto MESSIAH the PRINCE threeſcore and two Weeks, from the firſt of Solar, from the latter of Lunar years. For Lxii weeks, or 434 Lunar years, are leſs then ſo many Solar, as much as is between the ſeventh and twentieth of Artaxerxes. Which admirable concordance I cannot impute to chance, but aſcribe to Divine providence ſo ordering it of purpoſe, that theſe two Epocha's and Commiſſions, To cauſe to Return, and, To build Jeruſalem, might be as one and the ſame. And as the Lunar year is contained within the Solar, and by it ordered and directed; ſo is the Period here from Nehemiah's Commiſſion to Build the City contained and reduced to that from Ezra's Commiſſion to cauſe the people to return.

In the laſt of theſe Weeks according to prediction was Chriſt our Lord anointed. In the beginning whereof exactly, between the firſt and ſecond Paſſeover after his Baptiſm, (when his Harbinger John had now finiſhed his Meſſage, and was caſt in Priſon; a time preciſely and purpoſely noted in the Evangelical Story) he firſt began to preach in Galilee the Goſpel of the Kingdom, ordained his Apoſtles, and proclaimed himſelf to be the MESSIAH. After John was put in Priſon, ſaith Mark, 1. 14, 15. Jeſus came into Galilee, preaching the Goſpel of the Kingdom of God, And ſaying, Πεπλήρωται ὁ καιρὸς, The time is fulfilled, (i. the laſt week of the ſixty two weeks is come) and the Kingdom of God is at hand. From that time (ſaith Matthew, c. 4. 17.) Jeſus began to preach, and to ſay, Repent, for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand. This was that day whereof Chriſt himſelf ſaid at Nazareth, that that Scripture was fulfilled, The Spirit of the Lord

Wherefore I would take that Joh. 3. from the 13. ver. to the 21. to be the Evangeliſt's own words interpoſed, and not the words of Chriſt to Nicodemus.

Lord is upon me, becauſe he hath anointed me to preach the Goſpel to the poor, &c. and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord, Luk. 4. 18, 19. This the time and place, whence S. Peter reckoned the beginning of Chriſt's Prophecy in his Sermon to Cornelius; That word (ſaith he) which was publiſhed throughout all Judæa, and began from Galilee, after the Baptiſm which John preached, &c. Acts 10. 37.

In the third year of this Week (two years and an half after he began his Prophecy, and three years and an half after his Baptiſm) being made our Prieſt, he offered himſelf upon the Croſs a Sacrifice for ſin, was dead, buried, and roſe again; then aſcended up into heaven to be inſtalled, and to ſit at the right hand of God, from thenceforth to reign untill he hath put all his Enemies under his feet. But you will ſay, This was all performed four years before the 434 years (which is ſixty two Weeks of years) were expired. I anſwer as before; The Angel reckons not by ſingle years, but by Weeks, the laſt whereof ſhould be Meßiah's Week, as we have ſhewed it to have been. If the Angel had ſaid, There ſhall be 434 years unto MESSIAH; then, to make good the prediction, MESSIAH muſt have been anointed the laſt year. But when he ſayes, There ſhall be Sixty two Weeks unto MESSIAH; it is ſufficient he was anointed the laſt Week. But how this Week will at length be compleat, we ſhall ſee in the next verſe. But firſt let us demonſtrate our Computation.

Ezra's Commiſſion.

Darius Nothus died (ſaith Diodor. lib. 13.) in the ſame year, but a little while after the Compoſition of the Peloponneſian war, (which was in May) Olymp. 93. 4. that is—— } An. Olymp. 372. finiente.

Ergo,

The firſt of Artaxerxes begins about Auguſt, and concurres with—— } An. Olymp. 373.

The ſeventh of Artaxerxes with—— } An. Olymp. 379.

N. B. If Artaxerxes had began before Auguſt, the number or date of his reign muſt have altered either in or between the firſt and fifth Moneth; but they are both of one year, Ezra 7. as alſo the firſt and the ninth, Nehem. c. 1. c. 2.

Chriſt's Prophecy.

Chriſt our Lord was Baptized Anno Olympiadico 805 ineunte, about the Feaſt of Expiation, in the ſeventh Month Tiſri, ſix Months after John began to baptize, and in that year natural and political, which began in the 15 of Tiberius towards ending, but was the 16 when he was baptized. For John, I ſuppoſe, began to preach and baptize in the firſt Month Niſan, (when the Summer was before him, and not when the Winter was to enter) in the 15 year of Tiberius, which ended Auguſt following. Now John's impriſonment was a year after the Baptiſm of Chriſt, namely, between the firſt and ſecond Paſſeover after it, as is clear and evident by the Evangelicall Story, John c. 2. 23. c. 3. 22. & Chap. 4. The Beginning therefore of Christ's Prophecy, which began at the imprisonment of John, Mark 1. 14. was Anno Olymp. 806. about the end (I suppose) of the same Month Tisri or September.

The beginning of Christ's Prophecy	An. Olymp. 806. Mens. 7.
The Time of Ezra's Commission	An. Olymp. 379. Mens. 7.
Differentia	An. 427. M. 0. 61. weeks compleat.

From hence Mens. 7. begins the last week: wherefore the Passion of Christ, at the Passeover, Mens. 1. firmly fixed by Chronologicall Characters in the 19 of Tiberius, Anno Olymp. 808. Æræ Christian. 33. (that is, agreeable to the received Tradition, but three year and an half after his Baptism) will fall to be in the third year of the week; which is wholly to be compleat, Ann. Æræ Christ. 37. when the 813 Ann. Olymp. shall be begun and current in Septemb.

VERSE 26.

And after the threescore and two Weeks shall MESSIAH be cut off, and [they] none of his: Wherefore the Prince's people to come shall destroy the City and the Sanctuary, and the end thereof shall be with a floud, and unto the end of War desolations are determined.

AND after the threescore and two Weeks shall, &c.] That is, When the Threescore and two Weeks aforesaid shall expire and be fully compleat, (for so the word [after] supposes they must be) MESSIAH shall be cut off, not only from the living, by the death he should suffer upon the Crosse, (for that was a little before) but from being any longer the King and Priest of that People; they refusing Him to be theirs, and he casting off them from being His, which is the meaning of the words following וְאֵין לוֹ, And they none of his: For יִהְיֶה is to be understood, that so the conjunction Vau may couple similia tempora, וְאֵין לוֹ יִהְיֶה עַמּוֹ Et non erit ei populus ejus, or וְאֵין לוֹ יִהְיֶה, And they shall be none of His. And for the Verb כָּרַת, that it signifies not only a cutting off from life, but also from reigning as a King, or from being a Priest; see for the first, 1 Kings c. 2. ver. 4. & chap. 9. ver. 5. 2 Chron. ch. 7. ver. 18. Jer. 33. 17. לֹא יִכָּרֵת לְדָוִד, &c. There shall not be cut off to David a man to sit upon the throne of the House of Israel: All which have reference to 2 Sam. c. 7. ver. 16. For the second, cutting off from the Priesthood, 1 Sam. 2. 33. to Eli, And the man of thine whom I shall not cut off from mine Altar. Jer. 33. 18. Neither of the Priests the Levites יִכָּרֵת shall a man be cut off before me, to offer burnt-offerings, &c. and to doe Sacrifice continually.

The

The Computation and Impletion.

From the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes Mnemon, at the time of the Commiſſion granted to Ezra, (Anno Olympiad. 379. as is already ſhewed) unto the fourth year after Chriſt's Aſcenſion (Anno Olymp. 813. Æræ Chriſtianæ Dionyſiacæ 37.) are LXII weeks of years, or 434 years fully compleat and expired. The next year after was Chriſt divorced and cut off from the Jews, and they לא לו caſt off from being His people; which may appear thus.

Anno Æræ Chriſtian. 33. Chriſt ſuffered upon the Croſs, roſe from the dead, and aſcended into heaven. The Holy Ghoſt deſcended at Pentecoſt, 3000 converted, more added; the Apoſtles forbidden, but ceaſe not to preach Jeſus Chriſt. So this year ends about September.

I begin and end theſe years in Tiſri, or September, that ſo they may agree with that time of the Commiſſion granted to Ezra, which I before ſuppoſed to have been about that month.

Anno Æræ Chriſtian. 34. The number of Diſciples much increaſed: Deacons choſen, and Steven one of them. Act. 6. 1, 2, 3, &c.

Anno Æræ Chriſtian. 35. Steven doth great wonders and miracles. The Word of God and the number of Diſciples increaſeth ſo, that a great company of the Prieſts were obedient unto the Faith. The Elders and people rage, and about the end of the year was Steven martyred. Act. c. 6. ver. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. chap. 7. ver. 1. ad finem.

Anno Æræ Chriſtian. 36. Great perſecution againſt the Church at Jeruſalem. Saul makes havock, Act. c. 8. whereupon the Diſciples were ſcattered through the Regions of Judæa and Samaria, every where preaching the Goſpel, ver. 4, 5. Of whoſe ſucceſs the Apoſtles being informed, ſend Peter and John to Samaria, to lay hands on the new converts, ver. 14, &c. which done, and by the way preaching the Goſpel in the villages of Samaria, they returned again to Jeruſalem, v. 25.

Anno Æræ Chriſtian. 37. Thoſe which were ſcattered upon the perſecution of Steven proceed further, and travelled as far as Phœnice, Cyprus and Antioch, having by the way preached the Goſpel to the Jews at Damaſcus (how came they there elſe?) Chap. 11. Which Saul hearing of, gets letters thither, to bring thoſe he ſhould finde there of that way unto Jeruſalem. But in his journey himſelf was miraculouſly converted and baptized, &c. Peter in the mean time was gone again from Jeruſalem by Lydda unto Joppa, where he remained all this year at the houſe of Simon the Tanner.

The next year after (Anno Æræ Chriſtianæ 38. Anno Olympiadico 813.) (according as was foretold, That after threeſcore and two Weeks were ended, MESSIAH ſhould be cut off, and they none of his) when Chriſt had now one whole Week of years tendred himſelf unto his own people, and they not only refuſed him, but firſt by crucifying the Lord himſelf, and after that by perſecuting his Meſſengers ſent unto them, had made themſelves unworthy of everlaſting life; Peter was taught by viſion, that the Goſpel of the Kingdom ſhould be preached unto the Gentiles, and accordingly ſent to preach it to Cornelius a Centurion turion of the Italian band, Acts 10. And here begins the Epocha of the Rejection of Iſrael, and the Calling of the Gentiles, which S. Paul ſpeaks ſo much of Rom. 11.

True it is, the cutting off of Chriſt by death was before the laſt week was compleat; but the cutting him off from being King and Prieſt of the Jews was not until after it was ended. Or if this cutting off here mentioned may not be extended to any other cutting off then by Death, yet the other part of the copulative ſenſe, וְאֵין לוֹ [And they ſhall be none of His,] was not fulfilled untill the whole Week was ended.

Wherefore the PRINCE'S people to come, &c.] עַם נָגִיד הַבָּא, Populus MESSIÆ venturus, i. futurus, The people that ſhould be the People of Meſſiah the Prince, when Iſrael was rejected: ſo the Hebrews call Seculum futurum עוֹלָם הַבָּא; whence Mark 10. ver. 30. Luke 18. 30. Αἰὼν ὁ ἐρχόμενος. Eph. 2. 7. Ἐν τοῖς αἰῶσι ἐπερχομένοις. According to which notion, Apoc. 1. 4. ὁ ὢν, καὶ ὁ ἦν, καὶ ὁ Ἐρχόμενος. Vid. Pſal. 71. 18. Eſay 27. 6. Eſay 44. 7. וְאֹתִיּוֹת וַאֲשֶׁר תָּבֹאנָה, Vulgat. ventura & quæ futura ſunt. Thus I conſtrue the Text, and underſtand by Populus Principis futurus, the people of the Roman Empire, where Chriſt was principally to have his Church and Kingdom whilſt Iſrael ſhould be rejected. Cornelius therefore the firſt Gentile converted was a Roman Centurion. S. Paul, who is called the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, went not beyond the bounds of this Empire. This was that Οἰκουμένη whereof Chriſt ſaid, Matth. 24. 14. That before the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem the Goſpel ſhould be preached ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Οἰκουμένῃ in all the world; as Auguſtus is ſaid Luke 2. 1. to have taxed Πᾶσαν τὴν Οἰκυμένην, according as the Romans themſelves uſed to call it Imperium Orbis Terrarum, &c. Antichriſt, who was to ſit in the Temple or Church of Chriſt, ſits in the midſt of this Empire: whence it appears that the Church which Chriſt ſhould have * after Iſrael diſclaimed him, ſhould chiefly be in it. This People therefore, which was in Iſrael's ſtead to be the People of Meſſiah the Prince, ſhould deſtroy the City and Sanctuary with ſuch a Deſtruction as ſhould like a Floud overwhelm the whole Nation, and as an unreſiſtible torrent break down and waſh all away before it. All which we know they did.

* Whileſt.

And unto the end of Warre Deſolations are determined] That is, Untill the end of the Fourth Kingdom of the Gentiles, whoſe laſt period is that Time, Times and half a Time, whereof it is ſaid Dan. 7. ver. 21, 25. that Antichriſt the eyed and mouthed Horn ſhould make War with the Saints, and prevail againſt them; and they ſhall be given into his hand untill a Time and Times and half a Time: Untill the end of this War the Jewiſh Deſolations are determined. But of this more in the next.

VERSE

VERSE 27.

Neverthelesſs he ſhall confirm a covenant with Many one week: and in half a week, being * a Deſolator, he ſhall cauſe the Sacrifice and oblation to ceaſe, and that being over a wing of Abominations, and untill the finall time (even that which is determined) it ſhall continue upon the deſolate.

* Or, making deſolation, &c.

HERE the Angel tells us what ſhould be done in the laſt Week, both of the firſt Computation and of the ſecond, that is, the laſt of the LXX, and the laſt of the LXII. And of this firſt, as coming firſt in time.

Neverthelesſs (ſaith he) he ſhall confirm a Covenant with Many one Week] That is, Though the Body of the Jewiſh Nation ſhould be caſt off, and be לוֹ אֵין None of the people of the MESSIAH; yet for one whole week he ſhould offer himſelf unto them, and gather many of them into the Covenant of the Goſpel: And this Week was the laſt Week of the Threeſcore and two Weeks, which (as I ſhewed before) was wholly ſpent in preaching to thoſe of the Circumciſion. This therefore is as it were a Prolepſis, leſt Daniel might think that none of his people ſhould enter into the Covenant under Meſſiah. Theſe Many therefore are that Remnant whereof S. Paul ſpeaks Rom. 11. That, though Iſrael were caſt off, yet was there A Remnant according to the election of grace; and therefore he limits the hardneſs happened unto Iſrael, by Ἀπὸ μέρους, as not being univerſal.

And in half a Week, being a Deſolator, he ſhall cauſe the Sacrifice and offering to ceaſe] A Deſolator, מְשֹׁמֵם, a word which otherwiſe much troubleth the Tranſlator; but being thus made a ſuppoſitum or Nominative caſe to the verb יַשְׁבִּית, (which hath no other near it) it both much clears the ſenſe, and retains its propriety of ſignification. Nor is the poſtpoſition of the Nominative caſe to the Verb againſt the uſe of the tongue; nor the trajection here ſo great, but the Latine will admit the ſame order of the words, viz. Et abolebit ſacrificium & munus, atque erit ſuper alam abominationum Deſolator: or, Et abolebit ſacrificium & munus, qui erit ſuper alam abominationum, Deſolator. Howſoever the Tranſlation be, this Week the Angel now ſpeaks of is the laſt of the Seventy, which ſhould be but half run out when the Temple and City ſhould be deſtroyed and the Legal ſervice made to ceaſe. For if we reckon (as I think we ſhould) the Seventy Weeks from the ſixth year of Darius Nothus, (when the Temple was finiſhed) the Deſtruction thereof by Titus will fall out (as is ſhewed) in the midſt of the laſt Week; the whole half thereof, from the beginning till then, having been ſpent in warlike preparations and exploits, which ended with the burning and deſolation both of City and Sanctuary.

Of thoſe who end the Seventieth Week compleatly with the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, ſome ſeem ſo to underſtand this firſt part of the verſe, as if the one Week here mentioned were the laſt of the Seventy, and the confirmation of the Covenant to be therein to reſpect only the firſt half thereof, wherein Chriſt made good his Covenant of preſervation to the believing Jews, namely, (as I would explain it) by ſending Ceſtius Gallus Preſident of Syria, in the middle or fourth year of the laſt Week, about ſeven days to environ Jeruſalem with an Army, for to be that ſign and watch-word menti-

mentioned in the Goſpel of the near approching Deſolation thereof, Luke 21. 20. that ſo thoſe which were in Judæa being warned might flee into the Mountains (of Arabia Petræa to Pella,) and deliver themſelves from thoſe days of vengeance and wrath upon their people: and in the other half of the Week which remained, he ſhould cauſe the ſacrifice and offering to ceaſe, by ſending Veſpaſian with that ſecond and fatal Army which ſhould bring thoſe wofull and vengefull Deſolations upon them.

As for the phraſe of Confirming a Covenant, (if the reſt ſuted well) it would be no ſtraining to interpret it to be meant of preſervation and exemption from a common calamity: For we have the like ſpeech *Gen.*6.17, 18. where God having ſaid to Noah, that he would deſtroy by the Floud every thing that breathed upon the earth; addeth, But with thee will I eſtabliſh my Covenant; and thou ſhalt come into the Ark, thou, and thy ſons, and thy wife, and thy ſons wives with thee, &c. Thus much of the Week and Half Week: But for the Deſolator who ſhould cauſe the ſacrifice and oblation to ceaſe, whether and how it may be applied to Meſſiah himſelf, or otherwiſe conſtrued, we ſhall better underſtand when the next is expounded.

And that [being] over a wing of Abominations] וְעַל כְּנַף שִׁקּוּצִים, I think literally rendred, as was the former. If any man would alſo have the order of the words preciſely kept, and therefore מְשֹׁמֵם, i. Deſolator, to keep his ſtation here, as in the Hebrew, he may render the words thus, He ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and oblation to ceaſe, וְעַל כְּנַף שִׁקּוּצִים מְשֹׁמֵם, And [commanding] over a Wing of Abominations [be] a Deſolator or make Deſolation; The ſenſe is yet the ſame: Or thus, And over a Wing of Abominations [ſhall he be] who makes Deſolation: All of them requiring nothing elſe but that ſo common Ellipſis of the Verb Subſtantive, which in ſome expreſſions of this language is perpetuall. Now for the conſtruing and expounding this and the reſt which remains of this verſe, I have always in mine eye that part of the Prophecy of our Saviour in the Goſpel, Matt. 24. 15. Mark 13.14. where he ſo expreſly referrs to this of Daniel, with an unwonted caveat not to paſſe it over ſlightly, Let him (ſaith he) that readeth, underſtand: which admonition as it implies the ſpecial need we have of our Saviour's Key to unlock it; ſo it may ſeem to intimate that neither the Septuagint before, nor the ordinary conſtruction of their Rabbies then, had hit the meaning of this Scripture. Wherefore S. Luke relates not here (as Matthew and Mark do) our Saviour's words verbatim, but exegetically, of ſet purpoſe (ſo I am perſwaded) expounding this place of Daniel, as will appear by that which follows.

* Auth. oper. imperf. in Matth. Hom. 49. initio hanc expoſitionem ad Petrum refert. Hoc & Petrus apud Clementem exponit.
* Verſ. 20.

Over a Wing of Abominations] * That is, An Army of Idolatrous Gentiles. Even the ſelf-ſame which S. Luke ſaith Chap. 21. 24. Jeruſalem ſhall be troden down of the Gentiles; who alſo expoundeth Wing by Armies, putting in ſtead of thoſe words of our Saviour, [When ye ſhall ſee the Abomination of Deſolation ſpoken of by Daniel the Prophet, ſtand in the holy place] theſe, * When ye ſhall ſee Jeruſalem compaſſed with Armies; and in both it follows, Then let them which be in Judæa flee into the mountains. The word כְּנַף Wing is of the Verb כָּנַף, (but once found in the Hebrew Scripture) which ſignifies according to the Chaldee and Arabick To gather together; beſides, in the Arabick, circundare, to environ or compaſs about: Both ſignifications ſute well to an Army, and the latter, that which beleguers and begirds a City or Fort beſieged. Had S. Luke any reference to this, when he ſpeaks of Jeruſalem compaſſed with an Army? The Metaphor alſo of a Wing leans moſt this way, whether we conſider their figure and motion being ſtretched out, or their poſture when Birds of rapine ſit couring over their prey. I will not ſay the Roman Eagle was here aimed aimed at, though כָּנָף is uſed not onely for Ala a Wing, but for Alatum & Volatile a Fowl or Winged Creature. It is ſufficient that neither the nature nor name of a Wing is ſtrange or unaccuſtomed to an Army. But how (will you ſay) will an Army of Abominations be made an Army of Gentiles? I anſwer, The Scripture in many places calleth Idols by the name of Abominations, that is, שקוצים, & תועבות. So the Egyptian Idols (Exod. 8. ver. 26, &c.) are called the Abomination of the Egyptians. Ezek. 7. 20. the Jews are ſaid to have made the Images of their Abominations, תּוֹעֲבוֹת; Jer. 7. 30. to have ſet up שִׁקּוּצִים, that is, their Idols in the Houſe of the Lord. So 2 Kings 23. 13. Aſhtoreth is called שִׁקֻּץ the Abomination of the Sidonians; Chemoſh שִׁקֻּץ, the Abomination of the Moabites; but Milchom תּוֹעֲבָה the Abomination of the Children of Ammon. Wherefore 1 Kings 11. 5, 7. שקוץ is by the Seventy thrice tranſlated Εἴδωλον Idol.

This being a thing manifeſt, we are to obſerve further, That the Scripture uſeth alſo to expreſs and imply under the names of the Gods the Nations themſelves which worſhipped them. The Lord threatned to ſcatter Iſrael among the Nations, and that there they ſhould ſerve other Gods day and night, Gods, the works of mens hands, wood and ſtone, which neither they nor their Fathers had known: that is, they ſhould ſerve them not religiouſly, but politically, inaſmuch as they were to become Slaves and Vaſſals to Idolatrous Nations, even ſuch Idolaters as neither they nor their Fathers had ever heard of. Let it alſo be conſidered whether that of David, 1 Sam. 26. 19. be not to be expounded after the ſame Trope: They have (ſaith he) driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, ſaying, Go ſerve other Gods; that is, They have driven me to ſerve a Nation of another Religion. Yea, Ezra 9. 14. fitly to our purpoſe, the Strangers with whom the people of Iſrael had contracted affinity are called expreſly עַמֵּי הַתּוֹעֲבוֹת the people of Abominations, which the Seventy render Λαοὶ τῶν γαιῶν, the people of the Lands, that is, Gentiles. And where we reade in the firſt verſe, The people of Iſrael, &c. have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the Lands according to their Abominations, &c. it is the ſame phraſe with that of Moſes, Cattel after their kind, creeping things after their kind, that is, the ſeveral kinds of cattel and of creeping things; ſo the people of the Lands according to their Abominations, is the ſeveral kinds of Idolaters of the Lands about them. And thus we have ſhewed that כנף שקוצים the Wing of Abominations is as much as כנף עמי שקוצים an Armie of people of Abominations, that is, of Gentiles and Worſhippers of Idols.

Deuter. 4. 28. ch. 28. 64 Jer. 16. 13.

But who is this Deſolater, or Maker of Deſolations, who ſhould command over this Wing of Abominations, and bring theſe Gentiles againſt the Holy City? I anſwer, The words in the Original ſtand indifferent to be applied either to the Roman General, or Meßiah; but I could not render them ſo indifferently: For if I render them, And in half a Week a Deſolater ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and offering to ceaſe, and that (being) over a Wing of Abominations, or, Over a Wing of Abominations (ſhall he be) who makes deſolation; this Deſolater would then ſeem to be ſome other then Meßiah, that is the Roman General. But render them as I do, And making deſolation (or being a Deſolater) he ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and offering to ceaſe, and that, &c. or, He ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and offering to ceaſe, and [commanding] over a Wing of Abominations, be a Deſolater; either way of theſe they will have reference to MESSIAH the Prince, who is the Perſon meant in the words immediately before, [He ſhall confirm a Covenant with many one Week.] And this I moſt incline to, that ſo the Perſon ſpoken of may be the ſame throughout: and a reaſon alſo appears of that additament, That this Deſolater ſhould be over an Army of Abominations: For if a Forein General were onely meant, what needed this Addition? what other Army could ſuch a one lead but Gentiles? But that Meſsiah himſelf ſhould command over an Army of Idolaters, this needed a ſpecial intimation.

And ſurely the Roman Army, though an Army of Abominations, was in this ſervice the Army of Meſsiah. So the Parable aiming at this Prophecy tells us Matt. 22. 7. When the King heard how ſpitefully they entreated his Meſſengers who came to tell them the Wedding, whereunto they had been bidden, was ready, He was wroth, (ſaith the Text) and ſent forth HIS Armies, and deſtroyed thoſe Murtherers, and burnt up their City. Whence it is, that the coming of this deſolating Army of the Romans is Verſ. 1. called the coming of Chriſt, James 5. Weep and houl ye rich men (he wri-Verſ. 3. teth to Jews) for the miſeries that ſhall come upon you —— for you have heaped up goods for the Laſt days; that is, (according to Oecumenius) when the End of your State is a coming, and the Romans ſhall ſpoil you of all: which is expreſſed in the ſeventh verſe by Chriſt's coming, Be ye patient (ſaith he) untill the coming of the Lord, (he ſpeaks to the believing Jews whom the reſt perſecuted;) and in the next, Stabliſh your hearts, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh: He meaneth (ſaith Oecumenius) ἡ Ῥωμαϊκὴν ἔφοδον, καὶ τὴν ἐκ τούτων αἰχμαλωσίαν τῶν Ἰουδαίων, the expedition of the Romans, and their carrying away the Jews * captives into all Nations. So he takes that of John, ch. 21. 22. If I will that he ſtay till I come, that is (ſaith he) ἕως τῆς ἁλώσεως Ἱερουσαλὴμ, till the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem: and proves that this Coming of Chriſt is ἡ τῆς Ἱερουσαλὴμ παρουσία θρία, the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, by that of Malachi Chap. 3. 1, 2. Behold, the Lord ſhall come, and who ſhall abide the day of his coming? And thus would I underſtand that Heb. 10. 37. For yet a little while, and He that ſhall come will come, and will not tarry. Meſsiah therefore himſelf ſeems to be that Deſolater here meant, who ſhould command over an Army of Abominations when he came to deſtroy the City and the Sanctuary.

* Luke 21. 24.

Thus it appears our Saviour's citation in the Goſpel is not of the very words of Daniel in this paſſage, but of the ſenſe onely ſummarily expreſſed; and that Βδέλυγμα ἐρημώσεως is to be expounded שקוץ אשר משמם עליו, Βδέλυγμα ἐφ' ᾧ ἔσται ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἐρήμωσιν, The Abomination, or Abominable Army, over which he ſhould be who ſhould make deſolation. As for the Seventy, or whoſoever elſe (for S. Hierome doubts) tranſlated this Book, if their Tranſlation here were originally as we now have it, and not tranſlated thither out of our Saviour's words in the Goſpel, they ſeem to have accommodated the place, though of unlike conſtruction and circumſtance of ſenſe, unto two other places, Chap. 11. 31. Chap. 12. 11. where ſome ſuch kind of Abomination is mentioned, and likewiſe the participles מְשֹׁמֵם & שֹׁמֵם: But in all three of them, not well underſtanding what ſubject theſe participles included, they contented themſelves onely to expreſs by ἐρήμωσις or ἀφανισμὸς a general relation of deſolation in the abſtract, which might be diverſly interpretable, otherwiſe it is not poſſible by any alteration of the points to expreſs their Tranſlation verbatim out of this place, unleſs שִׁקּוּצִים were in ſtatu conſtructo, as it is not.

And untill the final time (even that which is determined) it ſhall continue upon the deſolate] Here I have choſen to tranſlate the verb יִתַּךְ continue, as the Targum renders it Jer. c. 7. 20. & c. 42. 18. and the Vulgar here perſeverabit, as a Metaphorical ſignification taken from a continued pouring of water. It is the Feminine Gender, and therefore to be referred to a Feminine ſuppoſitum, which I take to be כָּנָף Ala. This wing of Abo- minations, that is, metonymicè, the Deſolation wrought by it, or forein poſſeſſion brought in by it, ſhould continue upon the Deſolate until the final time which was determined ſhould be accompliſhed. Or thoſe Gentile people of the Roman Empire, by whom Jeruſalem was deſtroyed, ſhould continue their dominion and poſſeſſion, either of the place or deſolate inhabitants once thereof, until that final time be accompliſhed. Whether this or that ſutes beſt, the meaning in S. Luke's language is thus expreſſed; The Jews ſhall be carried captive over all Nations, and Jeruſalem troden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled: that is, (as was ſaid before) until the Monarchies of the Gentiles ſhould be finiſhed. For, theſe times of the Gentiles are that laſt period of the Fourth Kingdom propheſied *of, a Time, Times and half a Time; at the end whereof the Angel ſwears unto Daniel, chap. 12. 7. That God ſhould accompliſh to ſcatter the power of the Holy People. This is that Fulneſs of the Gentiles, which being come, S. Paul tells us, The Deliverer ſhall come out of Sion, and all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved. And the Angel in Apoc. 10. 6. renews the ſame oath to S. John, which he ſware before to Daniel, That when theſe Times (N. B.) ſhould end and be no longer, the myſtery of God ſhould be finiſhed, as he had declared to his ſervants the Prophets. Amen.

minations

Luke 21. 24.

*Dan. 7.

Rom. 11. 26.

APPENDIX.

ALthough I think that preciſeneſs of days is not to be much ſtood upon, when the Events and their Times do in the whole anſwer to Prediction: yet have I been ſo curious as to enquire whether the Deſolation of the City and Sanctuary (to be in the middle of the Seventieth Week) were fulfilled to a very day or not. And, as I think, I have ſo found it, very near, if not altogether.

For Anno Judaico 3344. Æræ mundi Scaligerianæ 3533. (the year the Temple was finiſhed) Neomenia Tiſri, according to the Jews Calendar, fell upon the 9 of September Calendarii Juliani, Feriâ 1. Cyclo Solis 12. Literâ Dominic. G.

Ergò Neomenia Adar was Feb. 4. Fer. 2. Cyclo Solis 13. Literâ Dominicali F. So the 3 of Adar (the day whereon the Temple was finiſhed, Ezra 6. 15.) will be the 6 of February. From whence to the 8. of Auguſt (whereon the Temple was fired, and two days after conſumed) are excluſive 182 days, that is, half a year ad unguem.

But this year (according to the Judaical Calendar) was Annus Emboliſmæus, and ſo had two Adars; which of them the Scripture meaneth is doubtful. But the Neomenia of the ſecond Adar was March 5. Feria 4. So the 3 day of this Adar was the 7. of March: From whence to the 8. of September (the day whereon the City was fired) are excluſive 184 days, which is a day or two too much. But it is more then probable that the Jewiſh Calendar was not in Darius his time ſo exact, nor the Moon's motion ſo well known, but the New Moon might ſometimes anticipate the beginning of their Months a day or two.

Howſoever thoſe who begin their reckoning from the 2 year of Darius, as Scaliger doth, cannot from the 24. day of the 6th Month (Sept. 16.) (which the Prophet Haggai names, chap. 1. v. ult. for the day whereon the work began) ſhew their compleat Seventy Weeks ſo exactly terminated upon any Event remarkable during the whole time of the War. For as for the deſtruction of Jeruſalem it ſelf, they come not near it by whole years.

Of the Opinion of Funccius.

FUNCCIUS his computation of the Lxx Weeks from the ſeventh of Artaxerxes Longimanus (whence to Chriſt's Paſſion he findes juſt 490 years) hath three great and unavoidable inconveniences.

1. That it ends the 70 Weeks (which by the Text were allotted for the Holy City) long before the Times of the Holy City were fulfilled.

2. That this Artaxerxes might not be Artaxerxes the Hinderer of the Building of the Temple, but that ſecond Artaxerxes that gave Commiſſion to Ezra and Nehemiah, they are fain to beſtow the names of Ahaſuerus and Artaxerxes mentioned Ezra 4, upon Cambyſes and the counterfeit Taniox-arces or Smerdis (whom others call Sphendates) the Magus, without any ground in Scripture or prophane Hiſtory, nay, againſt probability. For if Ahaſuerus be Cambyſes (as by order he ſhould be) and Artaxerxes be Smerdis the Magus, how will that buſineſs in the days of Artaxerxes, Ezra 4. 7. befit the 7 Months reign of Smerdis? Or if prepoſterouſly (as ſome will have it) Ahaſuerus be that Smerdis, what needed the Holy Ghoſt ſo preciſely to mention the * Beginning of his reign, if he reigned but ſeven Months in all? Secondly, Neither Cambyſes nor Smerdis can be Ahaſuerus. For Ahaſuerus, Eſther 3. 7. (and why ſhould we feign any other Ahaſuerus of Perſia then the Scripture deſcribeth, and ſo diligently diſtinguiſheth from Ahaſuerus the Mede, as if there had been then no other? Eſther 1. 1.) reigned at leaſt twelve years, whereas Cambyſes reigned but ſeven years, and Smerdis but ſo many months.

* בתחלת מלכותו Ezra 4. 6.

3. They cannot ſhew how 69 Weeks, or 62 Weeks added to 7 Weeks, (for they have no other way) are determined upon Meſſiah the Prince; ſince they out-reach his Nativity, and end 7 years before his Paſſion (which was in the 19.) and therefore three years at leaſt before John's Baptiſm, which was in the 15 of Tiberius. Wherefore neither beginning nor ending, neither part nor whole of the ſixtie and ninth Week can point us out any time of the manifeſtation of Meſſiah.

REGNUM ROMANUM
E S T
REGNUM QUARTUM DANIELIS.

Regnum hîc intelligo, non pro eorum ſenſu qui diverſas Rerumpublicarum formas diverſis vocabulis diſtinxere; ſed notione priſcâ, cui & ſacri codicis ſtylus aſſuevit, quâque non Unius duntaxat imperium, ſed & Optimatum ſtatus, & Populi dominatio comprehenditur. Nam apud priſca ſecula quoſvis Rerumpublicarum Summates, quâcunque regiminis formâ, Reges nuncupârunt, ſive Uni fuerint & Monarchæ, ſive Plures ejuſdem poteſtatis conſortes ſummæ rerum præfuiſſent. De Gentium uſu ſi quis indicium aliquod aut exemplum requiſierit, Homerum adeat, cujus ut alia præteream, qui mihi nuperrimè legenti occurrebat locus non gravabor adducere. Is verò eſt Odyſſ.6. ubi de Alcinoo Rege ad Procerum concilium eunte, Egredicbatur, inquit,

——μετὰ κλειτὺς Βασιλῆας
Ἐς βυλὴν, ἵνα μιν κάλεον Φαίηκες ἀγαυοὶ,

Ad Inclytos Reges, ad Concilium, quò ipſum vocârunt Phæaces Generoſi. Audi hîc Procerum Senatum Regum cognomine inſignitum; ut non immeritò Cyneas Pyrrhi Legatus (teſte Plutarcho) hero ſuo retuliſſe fertur, Senatum Romanum multorum Regum conſeſſum ſibi viſum eſſe, Βασιλέων πολλῶν συνέδριον.

Sed profanorum Scriptorum teſtimonia conquirant alii; Nos in argumento ſacro Sacræ Scripturæ uſum videamus. Et primò quidem animadverſione dignus mihi videtur Abimelechi ſermo ad Sechemitas, Jud. cap. 9. verſ. 2. eos quaſi ab Optimatum imperio in hunc modum diſſuadentis; Utrùm, inquit, melius eſt vobis, An ut Regnum habeant in vos ſeptuaginta viri, omnes filii Jerubbaalis; an verò ut Regnum habeat in vos vir unus? Philiſtæorum quoque Regimen Ariſtocraticum fuit, & penes quinque Satrapas, qui à civitatibus ſuis nominantur, Joſ. 13. 3. Azzathæus, Aſdodæus, Aſcalonæus, Gathæus, & Ekronæus; quorum tamen Gathæus Satrapa, ad quem David confugit, in primo libro Sam. cap. 21. מֶלֶךְ גַּת Rex Gathi vel Rex Gathæus non ſemel * dicitur, cùm ad id uſque temporis Regni rationem minimè mutatam fuiſſe tam frequens quinque iſtarum Satrapiarum mentio indicat. Mitto quòd Urbium ſingularum Rectores & quaſi Conſules etiam alibi Reges nominari videntur. Mitto quòd omnes in univerſum Orbis terrarum Politiæ, ut alibi, ità Matthæi 4. verſ. 8. Βασιλεῖαι manifeſtè nuncupentur, cùm Diabolus Chriſtum Servatorem tentaturus, ei in montem ſublimem aſſumpto oſtendiſſe legitur omnia mundi Regna & gloriam eorum. Magis prope ad rem noſtram facit, quòd Joannis in Apocalypſi Septem Beſtiæ Romanæ Capita (in quibus Conſules, Tribuni, Decemviri, Dictatores, Pontifices) totidem Reges interpretatur Angelus, (hoc eſt) tot Summates, penes quos vicibus ſuis Majeſtas erat Regnantis Populi Romani. Quapropter etiam Daniel Quarto Regno, quod hoc ipſum Romanum eſſe contendo, plures Reges ſeu Regias poteſtates attribuit, quando iſtius Regni deſcriptioni ſubjicit, In diebus (inquit) iſtorum Regum ſuſcitabit

* Et quatuor reliqui Jer. 25. verſ. 20. כָּל־מַלְכֵי אֶרֶץ פּוּ׃

Deus cæli Regnum quod in ſecula non deſtruetur: hoc eſt, temporibus Reipublicæ iſtius multiregiæ ſuſcitabitur Regnum Chriſti in ſecula duraturum.

Sciendum igitur eſt ſtatum Romanum, capitibus utcunque varium admodum, corpore tamen unum fuiſſe. Atque ut Daniel, propter multiformem capitum varietatem, Quartam hanc Beſtiam nulli in terris Beſtiæ aſſimilare potuit; ità neque unitas Regni Romani ex capitibus æſtimari poteſt aut debet, ſed ex unitate populi regnantis ſuper orbem terrarum. Civitas enim una eadémq; ſub tam multiformi Majeſtate regnabat ſuper populos terræ, ut Joannes loquitur, unde Caput orbis & Urbs orbis Domina audiebat. Atq; ex iſtis facile cernere eſt, quàm malè obtinuit uſus, ut quatuor iſta Danielis Regna quatuor Monarchiæ nuncuparentur. Ut enim de Romano taceam, de quo nunc lis eſt; certum eſt Græcorum Regnum, de quo nemo dubitat quin Danielis Regnis accenſeri debeat, poſt Alexandrum ampliùs Monarchiam non fuiſſe, ſed in plures Reges diſpertitum.

Cap. 7.

Dixi ſatìs quid Regnum mihi ſit, & quid Romanum.

Sequitur jam ut Danielis Regna, quid ſint, cúrque ità nominentur, breviter oſtendam. Danielis igitur Regna dico quatuor iſta Regna, ſeu Regnorum ſeriem, quam primò ex Nebuchadnezaris Babylonii ſomnio de ſtatua quadruplicis materiæ Daniel divinitus edoctus expoſuit, Dan. cap. 2. de iiſdémque poſtea Daniel ipſe quatuor Beſtiarum ſibi oblatâ viſione pleniùs ab Angelo eruditus eſt, Dan. cap. 7.

Eſt autem Quaternio iſte Regnorum Danielis (quod imprimis obſervari velim) Chronologia quædam Prophetica, non tam Annorum quàm Regnorum intervallis diſtincta, ubi Regnorum in præcipua orbis terrarum parte, ſimul Eccleſiam & populum Dei complexa, ſibi invicem ſuccedentium ſerie, monſtratur tempus quo Chriſti Regnum à tot ſeculis promiſſum & primùm * inchoandum ſit, idémque demum certis temporibus * conſummandum.

* A & Ω.

Et primum quidem Vaticinium, quod Imaginis eſt ſive Statuæ, utrumque Regni Chriſti momentum deſignat, tam inchoandi, quàm olim conſummandi: Alterum verò, quod quatuor Beſtiarum viſo adumbratur, ad alterum tantùm illius momentum intendit, quando, omnibus hoſtibus devictis, univerſa mundi Regna Chriſti imperio & legibus ſubjicientur; Oportet enim eum Regnare (teſte Apoſtolo) uſque quò omnes inimicos ſuppoſuerit pedibus ſuis, 1 Cor. 15. 25.

A.

Hujus autem Prophetiarum harum in meta intuenda diſcriminis ea ratio eſt, quòd utrumque illud Regni Chriſti momentum non conſummandi tantummodo, ſed etiam inchoandi, & hujus quidem ad ſolas Gentes, pertinebat, id quod rejectione & obduratione Judæorum indè ab initio Chriſtianiſmi huc uſque ſatìs ab eventu comprobatum eſt.

Hinc igitur quæ Nebuchadnezari, homini ſcilicet Gentili, viſio oblata eſt, ea utrumq; deſignabat Regni Chriſti momentum. At verò ad Judæos alterum duntaxat momentum (quo conſummandum eſt Regnum Chriſtianum) pertinebat. Nam Hieroſolyma calcabitur à Gentibus donec impleantur tempora Gentium, Luc. 21. verſ. 24. & occupavit eos ira εἰς τέλος, 1 Theſſ. cap. 2. verſ. 16. Quando verò plenitudo Gentium introierit, tunc totus Iſrael ſalvabitur, ad Rom. c. 11. v. 25, 26. Idcirco quæ Danieli ipſi homini Judæo viſio oſtenſa, illud tantùm Regni Chriſti momentum, quaſi in hujus rei Myſterium, ſpectare debuit.

Ω.

Jam ex his quæ dicta ſunt ratio quoque elucet, quare ex omnibus mundi Regnis quatuor hæc ſola ſelegit Spiritus Sanctus, quorum fata tam inſigni ornaret Prophetiâ; nempe quia ex his ſolis inter omnia mundi Regna Periodus temporum ejuſmodi contexi potuit, quæ rectâ ſerie & ordinatâ ſucceſſione perduceret ad tempora & momenta Regni Chriſti. Non verò quia

quia nulla iſtis paria Imperia, forſan & aliquibus majora, per omnia ſecula orbis viſurus eſſet. Nam neque Saracenorum olim, neque hodie Turcarum, neque Tartarorum Regna ditionis amplitudine Perſico aut Græco, puto nec Aſſyrio, quicquam concedunt; imò, ni fallor, excedunt. Fatendum eſt nihilominus unumquodque ex quatuor iſtis Regnis, vel quod minimum eſt, ità eſſe comparatum, ut meritò ſummis & præcipuis Orbis terrarum Imperiis annumeranda ſint; ut quorum omnium poteſtas non unius populi ambitu, ſed plurimarum Gentium & Nationum Imperio terminaretur; unde ſtatua Nebuchadnezari oſtenſa ampla, excellenti ſplendore & terribili formâ deſcribitur, & Danieli Beſtiæ quatuor magnæ è mari aſcendentes apparuere.

His ità ad Problematis intellectum expoſitis, venio ad Argumenta quibus firmiſſimè me aſſertum ire confido, Regnum Romanum eſſe quartum Regnum Danielis. Et primum quidem ſic habet.

Argumentum I.

Quo rerum potiente Chriſti Regnum jam olim cœptum eſt, illud eſt quartum Regnum Danielis: At Regno Romano rerum potiente Chriſti Regnum cœpit: Ergó.

Major ex Daniele conſtat, qui quarto Regno in ſtatua Nebuchadnezaris deſcripto ſubdit, In diebus autem Regum iſtorum ſuſcitabit Deus Cæli Regnum quod in ſecula non deſtruetur, neq; populo alieno relinquetur. In diebus Regum iſtorum, vel, ad verbum, In diebus illorum Regum illorum, id eſt, quarti Regni temporibus, quod, ut dixi, multiregium erat futurum: vel, ſi cui hoc minùs placuerit, Temporibus Regum iſtorum, hoc eſt, conſtante adhuc, & nondum abſolutâ aut peractâ, quatuor iſtorum Regum ſeu Regnorum ſerie. Alterutra interpretatio neceſſaria eſt, & utrâvis idem planè obtinebo, Chriſti Regnum ſuſcitatum iri aliquo ex quatuor iſtis Regno nondum elapſo, ſed adhuc rerum potiente: illud verò cùm Tertium certum eſt non fuiſſe, neceſſariò Quartum erit. Id quod adhuc evidentiùs ex Somnio ipſo confirmatur. Regnum enim Chriſti (Daniele interprete) eſt Lapis iſte exciſus ſine manibus, (id eſt, ſine ope humana) qui Imaginem percuſſurus erat ad pedes ipſius ferreos & luteos, adeóque comminueret illos ut locus iis non eſt inventus amplius, cap. 2. verſ. 34, 35. At verò quî potuit Lapis Imaginem percutere ad pedes, niſi ſaltem pedes iſti manſiſſent adhuc cùm Lapis è monte exſcindebatur?

Minor quoque, Romanis imperantibus (non Græcis aut Perſis) cœpiſſe Regnum Chriſti, non minùs eſt manifeſta. Quid enim? Annon naſcente Chriſto tota Terra cenſebatur ab Auguſto? & non tantùm Judæi, ſed & Joſeph ipſe cum Sponſa Maria, Luc. 2? Annon eodem prodente decimo quinto Tiberii Cæſaris, Baptiſmus & initium prædicationis Jeſu Chriſti? Et quid voluit vox illa Chriſti, Date Cæſari quæ ſunt Cæſaris? Quid illa Judæorum Chriſtum Regem reſpuentium, Non habemus Regem niſi Cæſarem? niſi ut ſciamus Romanos ſolos, non verò Græcos aut alios, tunc rerum potitos. Item--Paſſus ſub Pontio Pilato Præſide Rom.

Et priuſquam hinc abeam, facere non poſſum quin admoneam, hoc, de quo loquimur, tempus illud eſſe de quo Paulus ad Hebr. 1. 2. ait, Deum ULTIMIS DIEBUS locutum eſſe nobis in Filio; itémque ad Galatas cap. 4. 4. Poſtquam venit PLENITUDO TEMPORIS, emiſiſſe Deum filium ſuum, factum è Muliere; denique ad Eph. 1. verſ. 10. notum feciſſe nobis Deum Myſterium voluntatis ſuæ, ut in diſpenſatione PLE-

NITUDINIS TEMPORUM omnia in Chriſto recolligeret tum quæ in cœlis ſunt, tum quæ in terra: Nimirum ἔσχατοι iſti χρόνοι, illud πλήρωμα τῶν χρόνων, & πλήρωμα τῶν καιρῶν nihil aliud in N. T. deſignant quàm ultimi Regni tempora in hac ſerie Danielis; tum quòd hujus Regni tempora Quaternionis iſtius revera ſunt ultima tempora; tum quòd Regno hoc ultimo Quaternio Propheticus plenitudinem ſuam ſortitur, ſeu plenum numerum.

Item 1 Cor. 10. 11. Εἰς οὓς τὰ τέλη τῶν αἰώνων κατήντησεν.

Item Heb. 9. 26. Νυνὶ δὲ ἅπαξ (ἐπὶ συντελείᾳ τῶν αἰώνων—At συντέλεια τῶν αἰώνων Matth. 24. item 28. & c. 13. aliud eſt, viz. Finis durationis mundi, vel Finis hujus ſeculi in quo verſamur, non ſcculorum de quibus Daniel.

Argumentum II.

Quo demum abſoluto & abolito conſummabitur Regnum Chriſti, illud eſt quartum Regnum Danielis: At Regno Romano ſemel exacto & abolito conſummabitur Regnum Chriſti: Ergó.

Majoris veritas evidentiſſima eſt ex utraque Danielis Prophetia. De Somnio Nebuchadnezaris: * Vidiſti (inquit) uſquedum exciſus eſt Lapis ſine manibus, & percuſſit Imaginem ſuper pedes ipſius ferreos & luteos, ut comminueret eos. Ità abſtulit ea ventus, & nullus locus inventus eſt eis. LAPIS autem qui percuſſerat Imaginem effectus eſt MONS magnus adeò ut impleret totam terram. Hoc eſt, ipſo Daniele interprete, In diebus Regni quarti ſuſcitabit Deus cœli REGNUM (hic eſt Lapis iſte è Monte exciſus) quod in ſecula non deſtruetur, quódque populo alteri non relinquetur, (ut prioribus ſcilicet Regnis factum eſt:) ſed comminuet & conſumet omnia iſta Regna; ipſum autem ſtabit in ſecula: Hoc eſt, Lapis Regni Chriſti jam à pluribus ſeculis ex Monte hujus Mundi exciſus, tandem cùm tempus à Deo decretum advenerit, exterminatis, & abolitis penitus, quæ huc uſque vigent, Imaginis hujus partibus noviſſimis, ſeu poſtremis; Ipſe, qui hucuſque Lapis duntaxat fuerat, & quidem offenſionis, tunc evadet in Montem Ingentem, implebítque totum terrarum orbem.

* Cap. 2. v. 34, 35.

Altera verò Prophetia, quâ Quaternio iſte Regnorum quatuor Beſtiarum viſione adumbratur, hujus rei demonſtrationem ſuppeditat planè invictam. Nam ibi de quartæ Beſtiæ ſeu Regni quarti poſtrema Dynaſtia, quæ ſub Cornu iſto monſtroſo futura erat, cui & Oculi erant & Os loquens grandia, de hoc, inquam, cornu affirmatur, quòd Bellum cum Sanctis geſturum erat, eíſque prævaliturum; Uſquedum veniret Antiquus dierum, & judicium daretur Sanctis excelſorum, tempúſque veniret quo Regnum poſſiderent Sancti: id eſt, ut ſtatim ſubdit, donec Regnum Dominatúſque & Amplitudo Regnorum ſub toto cœlo dabitur populo Sanctorum excelſorum; cujus Regnum erit perpetuum, & omnia Dominia ei ſervient & auſcultabunt. Dan. 7. 20, 21, 22, 27. Potuítne quidquam apertiùs dici, quo probetur ultimi Regni dynaſtiam ultimam eouſque permanſuram, donec hæc omnia de Regno Sanctorum, quodcunque illud ſit, compleantur?

Jam de Minore propoſitione, quòd ſcilicet Romano Regno ſemel exacto & abolito conſummabitur Regnum Chriſti, ex N. Teſt. facilis eſt probatio. Nam ab abolitione Antichriſti conſummabitur Regnum Chriſti: Ità Paulus 2 Theſſ. 2. 8. Et revelabitur Sceleratus ille, quem Dominus abſumet Spiritu oris ſui, & abolebit ſplendore adventûs ſui; vel, (ut Syrus) interficiet eum Revelatione adventûs ſui. Ità quoque ex Apocalypſi conſtat ad ſeptimæ, id eſt, ultimæ, Tubæ clangorem permanſurum Antichriſtum; quâ ſemel clangente, fiunt voces in cœlo magnæ, Facta ſunt Regna mundi Domini noſtri & Chriſti ejus, qui regnabit in ſecula ſeculorum: id quod Angelus his verbis paulò antè prædixerat clangente Tubâ ſeptimâ, conſummatum iri Myſterium Dei, ſicut annunciavit ſervis ſuis Prophetis, c. 10. v. 7. cum c. 11. v. 15. At verò Antichriſtus exoriturus erat ex Imperio Romano, Romano, ejúſque pars futura. Paulus 2 Theſſ. 2. 7. Jam peragitur Myſterium Iniquitatis, tantùm qui nunc detinet [detinebit] uſquedum è medio ſublatus fuerit, (id eſt, Romæ Imperator) & tunc revelabitur Sceleratus ille. Et Joannes apertiſſimè Apoc. 16. affirmat futurum Antichriſtum unum ex ſeptem capitibus ſepticipitis Beſtiæ, cui Urbs illa magna inſidebat, quæ (Joannis ſcilicet ævo) Regnum habebat ſuper Reges terræ. Si jam Urbs illa Roma ſit, *Beſtiá*que iſta Romanum Regnum, quod apud omnes, (credo) ſaltem veteres, in confeſſo eſt, erit tunc Antichriſtus, utpote caput iſtius Beſtiæ poſtremum, pars Regni Romani; Ergóque Regnum Romanum durabit ad conſummationem Regni Chriſti, quò præter hoc nullum quod in Serie Danielis ſucceſſionem habere poteſt pertinget unquam. Id quod Sole meridiano clarius eſt. Imò (ut hoc tanquam ſuperpondium adjiciam) Antichriſtus iſte Novi Teſtamenti ipſiſſimum eſt Cornu monſtroſum Danielis, penes quod ut Ille ultimam quartæ ſuæ Beſtiæ Dynaſtiam prædixit futuram, ità quoque Joannes ſub Antichriſto ſuo ſive Pſeudopropheta ultimam Regni Romani Scenam peragendam eſſe. Quódque de cornu ſuo prodigioſo Daniel, Gerebat bellum cum Sanctis, & prævalebat iis, cap. 7. verſ. 21. idem Joannes de ſuo Monſtro, Datum eſt ei (inquit) bellum gerere cum Sanctis, & eos vincere, Apoc. 13. 7. Daniel cornu ſuo attribuit Os loquens GRANDIA, & quòd verba adverſus Excelſum loqueretur, & Sanctos ejus contereret, cap. 7. verſ. 8, 11, 20, 25. Idipſum Joannes de ſuo perdito refert; Datum eſt ei os loquens magna & Blaſphemias, & aperuit os ſuum ad Blaſphemandum adverſus Deum, ut conviciis afficeret Tabernaculum ejus, & eos qui in cœlo habitant, cap. 13. verſ. 5, 6. Ex ungue Leonem, quod dici ſolet. Neque mores tantùm, ſed & tempus Tyrannidis ad amuſſim convenit. Quod enim Daniel de Cornu portentoſo, Tradentur (inquit) Sancti in manum ejus uſque ad tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis; idipſum Joannes de ſanato iſto & redivivo Beſtiæ Romanæ Capite; Data eſt (inquit) illi poteſtas agendi (ſeu, ut nonnulla exemplaria habent, bellum gerendi) menſes quadraginta duos, verſ. 5. cap. 13. Annon menſes XLII ſunt tres anni cum dimidio, id eſt, Tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis? Ecce autem capite præcedente verſ. 14, non rem tantùm, ſed & ipſa verba Danielis: Mulier, (inquit) id eſt Eccleſia, regnante Antichriſto fugit à conſpectu Serpentis in deſertum, ubi aleretur per tempus, tempora, & dimidium temporis. Verſ. 25.

Idem ergò prorſus eſt Danielicæ Beſtiæ cornu prodigioſum cum Antichriſto Joannis in Apocalypſi. Et quoniam utrumque duraturum ſit ad conſummationem Regni Chriſti, ſequitur Regnum Romanum, cujus pars poſtrema eſt Antichriſtus, eſſe ipſiſſimum quartum Regnum Danielis, cujus itidem pars extrema eſt illa prodigioſi Cornu Dynaſtia. Fruſtrà enim ſunt qui Cornu iſtud aliud à Beſtia, è cujus capite enaſcitur & pars eſt, Regnum eſſe volunt. Cornua enim poteſtates tantùm, Beſtiæ verò Regna diſtinguunt.

Argumentum III.

Quod occupavit Regnum Tertium, eidémque ſucceſſit, eſt Quartum Regnum Danielis: At Regnum Romanum occupavit Regnum Tertium, (nempe Græcorum) eidémque ſucceſſit: Ergó.

De Majore nullus dubitandi locus, quin illud quartum fuerit quod tertium proximè ſecutum eſt, eidémque ſucceſſerit. De Minore itidem patet ex Hiſtoria, Quicquid eouſque reſtabat de ditione Regni Græcorum, id omne Romanis armis & Imperio ceſſiſſe. Prædixerat autem Daniel Regnum num Græcorum à primi Regis Alexandri morte finibus ſuis diminutum iri, neque eâ ditionis amplitudine Regnaturos ſucceſſores ejus atque ipſe iis reliquerat. Verba ſunt cap. 8. v. 22. Effracto Hirci cornu magno, (qui eodem interprete eſt primus Rex Græciæ) quatuor Cornua pro illo, hoc eſt, inquit, quatuor Regna ex [ea] gente aſſurrectura ſunt; ſed non cum robore illius. Item cap. 11. v. 4. Frangetur Regnum ejus, (nempe Regis Potentis Alexandri) & dividetur in quatuor partes cæli; ſed non poſteritati ejus, neque ſecundùm Dominatum ejus quo dominatus fuerat. Et hoc innuere volebam, eo quod dixi, quicquid eouſque reſtabat de ditione Regni Græcorum: nequis fortè (quod non neminem feciſſe ſcio) requirat ut ad Indos uſque propagetur Imperium Romanum, quartum Regnum alioquin non futurum.

Illa autem Regni Græcorum per Romanos occupatio ineunda eſt à morte Antiochi Epiphanis, quando, Perſeo ultimo Rege Macedonum ab Æmilio Conſule devicto, Macedonia primarium Regni Græcanici caput in Provinciam redacta eſt, atque ità cum reliqua ferè Græcia in Imperii Romani Jura conceſſit: nec indè quieverunt Romani, donec, continuis quaſi victoriis uſi, reliqua, ſive capita ſive cornua, penitus ſubegerant. Ab hac igitur Græciæ occupatione putandum eſt initium Regni quarti, non ab ultima, quæ Ægypti fuit, devictâ Cleopatrâ. Nam ubi Regnum Græcanicum primùm exortum eſt, ibi fatum quoque ſuum & excidium accepiſſe æquum eſt exiſtimare. Unde videmus Prophetam nuſquam Regnum Græcorum, quamvis de Regibus ejus ſingillatim egerat, ultra Antiochum Epiphanem produxiſſe: quia nimirum ab eo tempore Romanus ordinem ſuum capeſſebat in Quaternione Prophetico; atque idcirco qui ſecuti ſunt Aſiæ aut Ægypti Reges, eorum rationem in hac Regia Chronologia deinceps non habendam eſſe. Imò, quod obſervari volo in ipſo Propheræ textu, Tyrannis Antiochi expreſsè ſtatuitur in fine Regni Græcorum, c. 8. v. 23. בְּאַחֲרִית מַלְכוּתָם, In fine Regni ipſorum (id eſt Græcorum) exſurget Rex durus facie, & intelligens ænigmata, &c. Is, ſcilicet, de quo in viſione dicit, quòd uſque ad Principem exercitûs cæleſtis magnificaret ſe, & jugem cultum tolleret, & abjiceret habitaculum Sanctuarii illius, &c. v. 11.

Vide Lactant. lib. 7. cap. 15. Sublatâ Carthagine, quæ tam diu æmula Romani Imperii fuit, manus ſuas in totum orbem terrâ marique porrexit, &c.

Et hucuſque quidem Argumentum hoc mihi optimè proceſſit, nec uſquam impingere viſum eſt. Non eſt tamen diffitendum habuiſſe olim Porphyrium, & habere etiam qui noſtro primùm ævo contra totius Eccleſiæ indè ab initio per tot ſecula conſenſum opinionem Porphyrianam ab inferis revocârunt, quod diſputationi huic opponant: Græcorum nimirum Regnum non unum, ſed duo eſſe Regna; Alterum ipſius Alexandri, quod tertium eſt in Quaternione prophetico; Alterum ſucceſſorum ejus, quod quartum eſt & ultimum Regnum Danielis. Regnum igitur Romanum, tanquam fabulâ jam tranſactâ ſuperveniens, ab hoc numero penitus excludendum eſſe.

Contra hanc interpretationem ſic inſurgo. Quod unicâ Beſtiâ adumbratum eſt, id unicum eſt Regnum, & non duo Regna, ſcilicet alioquin unica Beſtia eſſet duæ Beſtiæ; quod ab omni ratione alienum eſt. Jam verò omne Regnum Græcorum, tam Alexandri quàm ſucceſſorum ejus, unicâ Beſtiâ adumbratur. Ergò, &c. Minorem leges apud Danielem cap. 8. verſ. 20, 21, 22. Aries (inquit Angelus) bicornis quem vidiſti, ſunt Reges Mediæ & Perſiæ: Hircus autem ille villoſus eſt Rex Græciæ; cornu autem magnum interjectum oculis ejus eſt Rex PRIMUS. (Audin' hîc Regem primum? at Rex primus & Reges ſecundi non de diverſis dici poſſunt Regnis, ſed uno eodémque.) Pergit; Atque hoc effracto, quòd conſurgent quatuor pro illo, quatuor Regna ex gente ſunt aſſurrectura, ſed non cum robore illius. Hîc clariſſimum eſt Alexandrum cum ſucceſſoribus ſuis fuiſſe unius ejuſdémque Hirci cornua; ideóque unius Regni poteſtates. Ecquis jam dixerit Beſtiam & cornua ejus eſſe duas Beſtias? Me judice, ipſe merebitur illis annumerari, nè tertia deſit Beſtia.

dixerit

At, inquient, potuit Propheta aut Spiritus Sanctus, quod hîc unum facit Regnum, ideóque unâ figurat Beſtiâ, alibi tamen pro arbitrio duo facere, & duabus adumbrare Beſtiis. Sed reſpondeo, Non arbitrii res eſt, ſed veritatis, ut unum ſit duo & duo unum: neque Deus poteſt efficere ut cornu cornu ſit & nihilominus Beſtia. Unitas Regni in ipſa rei veritate poſita eſt, à ſigno non pendet. Si igitur hoc verum eſt, unicum eſſe Regnum, & non duo, tum falſum erit duo eſſe Regna, & non unum; ut qui alterutrum affirmaverit, alterum ſine mendacio affirmare nequit. Et quorſum quæſo Prophetia, quæ duo in principio Regna repræſentâſſet, poſtea in unum confunderet? Nam ſi omnino id factum fuiſſet, non ſine ratione factum fuiſſe credendum eſt. Taceo quòd in ipſa quatuor Beſtiarum viſione, quò adverſarii dum effugium parant reſpiciunt, Tertia Beſtia Pardo ſimilis, quæ ipſis fatentibus ad Regnum Græcorum aliquatenus pertinet, & alas quatuor in dorſo habet, itémque capita quatuor; quæ, quid (quæſo) aliud ſunt, ſaltem capita, quàm quatuor Regni iſtius Satrapiæ, in quas poſt mortem primi Regis diſſipatum erat? Num hîc quoque dicere audent, quatuor Pardi capita eſſe aliam & diverſam à Pardo Beſtiam? Cap. 7.

His denique omnibus illud tanquam Palmarium adjungam, quod jam in ſuperioribus demonſtravi, nimirum quarto Regno adhuc ſuperſtite exoriturum eſſe Regnum Chriſti, à quo tandem in pedibus ſuis fictilibus percutiendum ſit, & penitus abolendum. At verò quicquid erat Regni Græcorum, diu ante natum, nedum regnantem Chriſtum, penitus eſt extinctum; ut ibi quoque probatum eſt.

Quoniam autem ſententiæ hujus authores Prodigioſum quartæ Beſtiæ cornu exponunt de Antiocho Epiphane, (neque enim de ullo alio exponere potuerint, omnes licèt ingenii nervos intenderint) ſcire pervelim, quomodo ſic viſioni Propheticæ ſua conſtabit Veritas, quæ non tantùm ex viſione ipſa facilè colligitur, ſed interpretatione Angeli expreſsè diſertis verbis affirmatur, Cornu iſtud bellum geſturum cum Sanctis, iiſque pravaliturum, uſquedum venerat Antiquus dierum, & judicium daretur Sanctis, & tempus veniret quo Regnum poſſiderent Sancti. Namque Antiochus iſte Epiphanes mortuus eſt annis quatuor minùs ducentis ante paſſionem Chriſti, id eſt, multò pluribus quàm Regnum Græcorum duraverat à morte Alexandri ad eundem Antiochum Epiphanem. Hoccine eſt bellum cum Sanctis gerere uſquedum veniret Antiquus dierum, & regnum Sanctorum conſtitueret? Sed jam manum de tabula: & quamvis longè plura adferri poſſunt, hæc tamen ſufficient Quæſtioni tum explicandæ tum demonſtrandæ.

REVE-

REVELATIO ANTICHRISTI,

Sive

De Numeris DANIELIS, Mccxc, Mcccxxxv. Cap. 12. vers. 11, 12.

Quò spectent; Eousque nempe Mysterium Extremorum Temporum, ejúsque qui tunc rerum potiretur, clausum & obsignatum fore; deinceps resignatum iri.

VT hoc adstruam; primò submovendum est præjudicium sententiæ Broughtoni, Junii & sequacium, qui hosce Numeros calamitatis Antiochianæ angustiis includere, ejusdémque terminos & metas, nec aliud quidquam, designare volunt. Quod ut absque omni contextûs fundamento faciunt, (neque enim illic scopus iste vel uno verbulo innuitur) ità tam manifestè contra historiæ reíque gestæ fidem, ut mihi non exiguam admirationem habeat, tot illius sententiæ admiratores fautoréque hactenus reperiri potuisse.

Priorem enim Numerum, dierum 1290, à pollutione Templi ad Diploma illud ἀὐτονομίας Judæis 2. Mac. 11. 27. concessum supputant. Alterum verò, dierum 1335, ab eodem principio ad ipsius Epiphanis mortem.

Sed rem gestam omnimodo pervertunt, & bis falluntur insigniter. Nam primò, Diploma illud datum est non ab Epiphane, sed ab Eupatore filio post mortem Patris, nedum, ut isti statuunt, ante mortem ejus. Vide locum Maccab. Deinde, à Pollutione Templi, neque ad Antiochi mortem, neque ad Diploma ἀὐτονομίας interceserunt plusquam triennium, & quatuor ad summum menses, id est, non ampliùs diebus 1200; quod hâc ratione ostenditur.

Repurgatio Templi facta est tribus à Pollutione annis exquisitè evolutis, anno utique Regni Græcorum 148, die 25 mensis Casleu, qui, Josepho teste, (nec dubitationi locus est) respondet Appellæo Macedonum. Videsis 1. Macc. 4. 52. Joseph. Antiq. lib. 12. cap. 11.

Huic Antiochum Epiphanem non quatuor ampliùs mensibus supervixisse constat; cùm nempe eodem anno (putà ab Autumno incipiendo) mense Xanthico fato jam concessisset, rerúmque potiretur Eupator filius; utpote à quo, illo mense, die 15, ἀὐτονομίας diploma (in quo de Patris sui morte testatur) Judæis indultum fuerat. Vide 2. Macc. 11. v. 23, 33. Atqui in anno Macedonico sive Syro-Græcorum Xanthicus mensis ab Appellæo sive Casleu consecutione quartus est. Ecce enim mensium Macedonicorum seriem ab Autumno.

1. Hyperberetæus.
2. Dius.
3. APPELLÆUS. Heb. Casleu.
4. Audynæus.
5. Peritius.
6. Dystrus.
7. XANTHICUS. Heb. Nisan.
8. Artemisius.
9. Dæsius.
10. Panemus.
11. Lous.
12. Gorpiæus.

Ergò

Ergò Antiochus Epiphanes Repurgationi Templi ultra quartum menſem non fuit ſuperſtes.

Ut autem fons erroris obſtruatur, quo factum eſt ut Antiocho Epiphani vita adhuc ulteriùs prorogaretur, illud mentè probè tenendum eſt, Annos Græcorum ſive Seleucidarum, quibus Author primi Libri Maccabæorum utitur, Judæorum more, inchoari à Verno menſe Xanthico ſive Niſan; Annos autem Alexandræos, quibus utitur Author ſecundi Libri Maccabæorum, (Alexandrinus ipſe) inire ab Autumno ſequenti, id eſt, ab Hyperberetæo. Hinc factum eſt, ut cùm anni prioris Libri ſex menſium intervallo poſterioris antevertant initium, neceſſe fuerit, quoties res geſta in æſtivalem anni ſemeſtrem inciderit, ut Liber poſterior priori annos uno minùs numeret; quod illis qui rem non ſatis attendiſſent fraudi fuit. Nam alioquin diligenter conferenti, illud de diverſo anni initio indubium erit. Vide Petavium Rationarii Temporum Parte ſecundâ Lib. 3. c. 13. pag. 219. qui accuratè confert. Conſule quoque Sethum Calviſium Iſagog. Chronolog. c. 43.

Quare cùm 2. Maccab. 11. 23, 33. Antiochus mortuus habeatur Anno Græcorum 148. in primo autem cap. 6. 16. anno 149. illud neceſſariò colligitur, eum menſe Xanthico ineunte mortem obiiſſe. Neque enim citiùs potuit, cùm nondum Annus 149. Græcorum à Vere incepiſſet; neque ſeriùs, cùm quindecimo Xanthici Filius, eo jam mortuo, Reſcriptum Judæis dediſſet. Imò & illud quoque ſponte ſequitur, non dies 45, prout ſententiæ Funianæ adſtipulatores ſibi perſuadent, ſed 13 tantùm, aut 14 ad ſummum, inter Antiochi mortem & Reſcriptum ἀὐτονομίας intercedere potuiſſe; ità ut eò jam gemini hujus numeri* interſtitium accommodari non poſſit.

* Scilicet Differentia inter 1290 & 1335.

Ut hæc omnia clarè & citra difficultatem cognoſcantur; Quinquennalis intervalli ſeriem, diſpoſitis continuè cujuſque Anni, tum à Vere tum ab Autumno inchoati, menſibus, (adſcriptis quoque ſuis locis quæ huc conducant eventibus) ob oculos tibi (Lector) ponendam duxi; ut ipſe rem totam viſu dijudices.

Anni Græcorum à Vere 1. Mac.		Anni Græcorum ab Autumno 2. Maccab.
	XANTHICUS
	Artemisius
	Dæsius
	Panemus
	Lous
	Gorpiæus
145	HYPERBERETÆUS
	Dius
	APPELLÆUS Casleu	Templum profan. 1 Macc. 1. 54.
	Audynæus
	Peritius
	Dystrus
	XANTHICUS	145
	Artemisius
	Dæsius
	Panemus
	Lous
	Gorpiæus
146	HYPERBERETÆUS
	Dius
	APPELLÆUS	Primus Annus Templ. prof. exit.
	Audynæus
	Peritius
	Dystrus
	XANTHICUS
	———	146
	———
	———
	———
	———
	HYPERBERETÆUS
147	———
	APPELLÆUS	Secundus Annus Templ. profan. exit.
	———
	———
	———	147

Anni Græcorum à Vere 1 Mac.		Anni Græcorum ab Autumno 2. Maccab.
	XANTHICUS
	———
	———
	———
	———
	———
148	HYPERBER.
	———
	APPELLÆUS	Templum Repurgatũ. 1. Mac. 4. 52.
	———
	———
	———	148
	XANTHICUS	Antiochi Epiphanis mors; & Diplom. αὐτονομίας per Eupat. eod. mense. 1. Macc. 6. 16. 2 Macc. 11. 33.
	———
	———
	———
	———
	———
149	HYPERBER.
	———
	APPELLÆUS
	———
	———
	———
	XANTHICUS	149
	———	Intra hoc semestre Eupator cum exercitu Hierosolymam venit contra Judam: sed paulò pòst pacem fecit. 1. Maccab. 6. 20. 2. Maccab. 13. 1.
	———
	———
	———
	———
150	HYPERBER.
	———
	APPELLÆUS
	———
	———
	———	150

Ex iſtis jam ſatìs liquere arbitror geminum hunc Numerum (quæcunque tandem ejus mens ſit dicenda) cladi Religionis Judaicæ per Antiochum Epiphanem nullo modo adaptari poſſe. Quid igitur hîc reſtat quàm ut Diebus iſtis (prout alibi ſolet) Annos totidem ſignificari putemus? Neque ad triennalis quadriennalíſve paulò minùs intervalli, quinimo ad longinqui temporis eventum aliquem (quicquid tandem id fuerit) exitu ſuo deſignandum pertinere.

Illud Judæi animadvertentes, tot annos (de initio tamen numerationis incerti) ad Meſſiæ ſui adventum (quod unicè in votis habent) fluxuros arbitrati ſunt; non hodie ſolùm, ſed jam à multis retro ſeculis: unde factum, ut re temere in calculum datâ, aliquoties vanâ ſpe deluſi ſint, imò bis Pſeudo-chriſtorum laqueis irretiti.

Anno enim quinto Imperii Leonis (ait Theophanes Author Lib. 21. Hiſtor. miſcel. cap. 16.) id eſt, Anno Æræ Chriſtianæ 720. apparuit quidam Syrus Pſeudo-chriſtus, & ſeduxit Hebræos, dicens ſe eſſe Chriſtum. Credibile eſt huic impoſturæ captatam occaſionem ex calculo horumce Danielis Dierum, ab excidio Hieroſolymitano ſub Rege Zedechia; à quo ad Annum Chriſti 705 fluxerunt Anni 1290. Aberratum eſt in Computo annis quindecim, quod leviuſculum eſt.

Iterum tempore Maimonidis circa annum Chriſti 1130. exortus eſt alius Pſeudo-meſſias ſeu Meſſiæ Prodromus, David El-David dictus, quem Rex Perſarum decollari fecit. Supputârunt dies Danelis à profanatione Antiochi; unde ad Chriſti annum 1123. ſunt itidem anni 1290. neque hîc multùm in calculo, licèt in re ipsâ nimiùm, aberratum fuit. Vide Epiſt. Maimonidis apud Buxtorf. in fine Theſauri Gram. & Helvicum.

Simili fundamento innixus videtur R. Abraham, qui Meſſiæ adventum prædixiſſe fertur in Annum Chriſti 1466. ducto videlicet poſteriori numero prophetico ab Anno Chriſti 131, quo Adrianus in loco ubi Templum Domini ſteterat βδέλυγμα ἐρημώσεως, putà Delubrum Jovi Capitolino, exſtruxit. Indè enim ad annum Chriſti 1466. numerantur ad amuſſim anni 1335. Sed nullus tunc, quod ſciam, apparuit qui ſe pro Meſſia venditaret.

Ex Chriſtianis autem quotquot de Annis cenſent, non Diebus, iis ferè in eo cum Judæis convenit, quòd ut illi Numeros hoſce ad Primum Chriſti adventum, ità iſti ſaniore fide ad Secundum referunt; vel (quod non multùm intereſt) ad Judæorum collectionem, quam ipſi quoque Judæi ſperant, ſed in Epocha ſtatuenda omnino laborant; imò quædam hîc ſupponunt neque Textui neque Rationi ſatìs congrua. Sed qui ſententias eorum particulariùs ſcire volet, ex ipſis petat. Mihi eas ultrà referendi non eſt animus, ut nec refellendi.

Quin meam quoque ſymbolam in numerum interpretationum conferre liceat, quam virorum doctorum judiciis lubens ſubmittam.

Sic igitur ſtatuo: Eventum quem geminus iſte Numerus exitu ſuo deſignat, nec eſſe Adventum Chriſti, nec Reſtaurationem Iſraelis; quinimo Vaticinii de temporibus quarti Regni noviſſimis, ſeu Antichriſti, (quo Angelus Dan. 12. 6. קֵץ הַפְּלָאוֹת finem mirabilium retulerat) Reſignationem; eouſque, putà quid illis occultaretur, quóve pertinerent, etiam cùm impleri cœperint, ignorandis. Hunc eſſe Numerorum iſtorum ſcopum, fidem tibi faciet Angeli & Danielis hoc capite Dialogus; quem ſic ex Textu repræſento, intellectu ſanè perfacilem, modò illud ex capite ſeptimo memineris, Quartæ Beſtiæ, ſeu Regni, tempora extrema ſeu noviſſima eſſe intervallum illud TEMPORIS, TEMPORUM, ET DIMIDII TEMPORIS Cornu oculato attributum: de quo item Regno Cornúque Angelus iterum poſt Epiphanis hiſtoriam (quâcum Scriptura Regnum tertium ſemper terminare * ſolet) ſuperiore capite finiente diſſerverat; ut ità nimirum temporis rerúmque geſtarum ſeriem à Perſica Monarchia, unde inceperat, inceperat, ad Resurrectionem usque & Secundum Christi adventum perduceret. Sed ausculta Dialogum.

* Vid. Dan. 8. 23. Nempe quia tunc Regnum quartum ſeu Romanum evehi cœpit, ſubjugatâ ſibi Macedoniâ Regni tertii capite.

ANG. Tu verò, Daniel, claude verba, & obsigna librum usque ad tempus FINIS; tum autem discurrent multi, & crescet scientia.

DAN. At quousque erit FINIS iste rerum mirabilium quem indigitas?

ANG. Quoad Tempus, Tempora, & Dimidium Temporis, (id est, quoad erunt Regni Quarti tempora illa extrema, jam antea tibi à me indicata, quæ sunt Tempus illud FINIS quod tibi inculco:) utique cùm consummata fuerit dispersio manûs populi sancti, (quod nempe ad finem illorum temporum futurum est) consummabuntur universa ista.

DAN. Ah! Domine mi, nihilo magìs intelligo. Audio quidem nomenclaturam Novissimorum temporum: Sed quid sibi velit nomenclatura isthæc, adhuc juxtà cum ignarissimis scio. Dic igitur mihi, quæso, explicatè, quid sit Res ista Novissimorum temporum; Temporis, Temporum, & Dimidii Temporis. סוֹף אַחֲרִית אֵלֶּה

ANG. Abi, Daniel, quoniam res ista clausa est & obsignata usque ad Tempus ipsum FINIS. Tunc purificabunt se, dealbabuntúrque, & conflabuntur multi; Et impiè quidem agent impiè, neque intelliget Impiorum quisquam; sed Sapientes [rem hanc] intelligent.

A tempore verò quo ablatum erit juge sacrificium, positáque Abominatio desolationis, (illa scilicet quam tibi paulò antè exposui) erunt [ad tempus reserandi mysteria] Dies 1290. Beatus qui exspectat & pertingit ad Dies 1335.

Tu verò abi usque ad FINEM; nam quiesces & stabis in sorte tua in Fine dierum, id est, in Fine temporum istorum novissimorum, quando scilicet multos è dormientibus in pulvere terræ experrectos iri * modò audivisti.

* Vers. 2.

De Epocha Numerorum.

CAlculi Prophetici scopo sic ostenso & perspecto, Epochæ quoque illius fœneremur lucem, vel potiùs reddamus à Spiritu Sancto accensam; eâ constitutâ & firmatâ, postea complementi Prophetiæ historiam exhibituri.

Epocha igitur Calculi Prophetici, juxta characterem ab Angelo datum, est Templi Hierosolymitani ab Antiocho Epiphane profanatio; & quidem convenientissimè, ut ità Typus Antichristi ad Antichristi manifestationem nos manuducat. De ea enim profanatione Angelus in hoc ipso Vaticinio paulò antè egerat, nec aliam hîc Ablationem jugûs sacrificii & Abominationem desolationis, sed eampse quam ibi descripserat, intelligi debere, arguunt primò verba utrobique eadem. וּמֵעֵת הוּסַר הַתָּמִיד וְלִתֵּת שִׁקּוּץ שֹׁמֵם hîc Dan. 12, 11. וְהֵסִירוּ הַתָּמִיד וְנָתְנוּ הַשִּׁקּוּץ מְשֹׁמֵם illic Dan. 11, 31. Atqui ultima desolatio Hierosolymorum ad finem LXX Hebdomadum, quam nonnulli volunt Angelum sibi Epocham Numerationis hîc statuere, secùs aliísque verbis prædicitur. Deinde, quòd à ratione prorsus alienum sit, neque cordato cuiquam, saltem qui rem expenderit, probabile videbitur, Angelum, Ablationis jugis sacrificii, & Abominationis desolationis, tanquam rei Prophetæ, quocum verba faciebat, jam notæ, mentione factâ, non ad eam respicere quam paulò antè (continuatâ adhuc oratione) descripserat; verùm eâ transultâ, ad aliam, de qua ante * triennium scilicet eidem vaticinatus fuerat. Cui, inquam, hoc ut verisimile persuadebitur? Hoc igitur fixum ratúmque esto, Calculi Prophetici Epocham esse Profanationem Epiphanianam. Atque que hinc mihi, Lector, Demonſtratio conſurgit hujuſcemodi: Si Profanatio Epiphaniana ſit hujus Numerationis Epocha, ea verò non poſſit (ut oſtenſum eſt) Cladis iſtius durationi applicari; neceſſariò ſequitur Dies hîc in Annos convertendos, & de longinqui temporis Eventu aliquo capiendos eſſe. Qui quàm probè & ad amuſſim Prædictioni reſpondeat, jam faxo intelligas.

* Nempe anno primo Darii Medi, cùm præsens Angeli colloquium (in quo de Abominatione Epiphaniana inter alia agit) habitum sit anno tertio Cyri.

De Eventu.

PRIOR numerus à Profanatione Epiphaniana numeratus exit ad Annum Domini 1123.

POSTERIOR ad Annum Domini 1168.

Sed cùm Peccatum illud deſolationis (הַפֶּשַׁע שֹׁמֵם ut appellatur Dan. 8. 13.) ultra ſexennium duraverit; haud incommodè à ſingulis ejus Annis duci poteſt Calculi prophetici initium, atque ad totidem annos in exitu terminari. Anni autem quos jam poſui à medio Sexennii numerantur, quando Fuge ſacrificium ſublatum eſt, Anno ante Æram Chriſtianam 167.

Fama πρόδρομος Oraculi implendi.

ANno 1106 (inquit Urſpergenſis apud Baronium) Paſchalis Papa ordinavit profectionem——in Galliam Ciſalpinam, ubi & Concilium celebrandum menſe Octobri indixit——Dum in itinere poſitus Florentiam perveniſſet, de ADVENTU ANTICHRISTI proximè futuro ſparſam famam inveniens, Florentiæ ſubſtitit: Cùm verò audiſſet quæ ferrentur, ut nullius fidei & authoritatis aſſertionem contempſit, & cœptum iter eſt proſecutus.

Addit Baronius, fuiſſe opinionem non vulgarium virorum, Antichriſtum iſto ſeculo fore revelandum, & inter alios Norberti, viri temporis iſtius famâ celeberrimi; de quo ità Bernardus Ep. 56. ad Gaufridum Carnotenſem Epiſcopum.

Cùm (inquit) ante hos paucos dies ejus faciem videre, & de cæleſti fiſtula, ore videlicet ipſius, plurima haurire meruerim; hoc tamen ab ipſo non audivi (ſcilicet iturum eum Hieroſolymam:) verùm de Antichriſto cùm inquirerem quid ſentiret; durante adhuc eâ quæ nunc eſt generatione revelandum illum eſſe, certiſſimè ſe ſcire proteſtatus eſt. At cùm eandem certitudinem unde haberet ſciſcitanti mihi exponere vellet; audito quod reſpondit, non me illud pro certo credere debere putavi. Ad ſummam tamen hoc aſſeruit, non viſurum ſe mortem, niſi priùs videat generalem in Eccleſia perſecutionem.

Sabellicus Enneadis nonæ lib. 4. Prodigia per id tempus (id eſt ſub Paſchali ſecundo) aliquot apparuerunt: Mare vicenis paſſibus, alii centenis ſcribunt, præter ſolitum littora inundavit; apparuit & Cometes miræ magnitudinis. His fortaſſe prodigiis motus affirmare non dubitavit Fluentinus Antiſtes, eſſe Antichriſtum natum. Quâ prædicatione Paſchalis motus, in Hetruriam profectus, conventúq; ſuper ea re Florentiæ habito, cùm appareret hominem nullâ aliâ ratione ſubnixum, quàm ut alicujus magnæ rei author videretur, ejuſmodi prædicatione uſum; tantùm admonuit ut temerario incepto deſiſteret. Recognovit indè Paſchalis in Ciſalpina & Comata Gallia Eccleſiarum ſtatum.

Platina rem ſic narrat. Poſtquam de Cometa dixerat qui tunc temporis apparuit, eum Paſchalem tanquam rem naturalem neglexiſſe, ſubdit, Verùm cùm intellexiſſet Florentinum Epiſcopum affirmare ſolitum Antichriſtum natum eſſe, eò ſtatim proficiſcitur; concilióque habito, re ipsâ admodum diſcuſsâ, cùm levitate quadam, ut alicujus magnæ rei author videretur, motum Epiſcopum cerneret, hominem verbis caſtigatum dimittit; atque indè in Ciſalpinam proficiſcitur.

Omnino existimo Famam hanc eo præcipuè subnixam fundamento, quòd vidissent Calculum Danielis pro annis computatum tum propemodum elapsum fuisse. Cùm igitur Episcopus iste Fluentinus seu Florentinus priorem periodum fortè observâsset intra vicennium aut circiter evolutum iri, porrò putaret Antichristum non nisi ætate jam maturâ revelandum, & adultum ad bellum contra Sanctos proditurum; ideo eum affirmavit jam tum natum esse, minimè verò (ut perperàm Centuriatores acceperunt) jam tum in Ecclesia dominari. Nondum enim Romanum Pontificem esse magnum illum & ὑπέρτατον dictum Antichristum vel Florentinus Antistes, vel alii suspicati sunt; sed alium Triennalem & Semestrem exspectabant.

Natam verò hanc Famam, ut dixi, ex supputatione Dierum Danielis, quasi ad Antichristi adventum deducentium, (nempe prioris Calculi, nam Secundum fortasse ad extremum Judicium retulerint) mihi, ut faciliùs credam, suadet non absimile conamen Gualteri Bruti nostratis, qui diu postea, circa annum viz. 1390, eampse rationem allegaverit revelati suo tempore in Britannia Antichristi, in * Tractatu quem ea de re exhibuit Episcopo Herefordensi. Sed Epocham statuit in Excidio Hierosolymitano, ut ità exitum suo & Wickleffi ævo accommodaret. Quidni credam idem aliis, longè ante Brutum natum, in mentem venire potuisse; præsertim cùm Epochæ verisimilioris ab Antiocho periodus ab exitu suo haud multùm abesset? Præterea Cometa appareret, & alia prodigia humanis mentibus commovendis nata: Fortè enim natum putaverint Antichristum eo temporis momento quo Cometa apparuisset; sicut Magi Christum apparente Stellâ. Sed paulò diutiùs Fama nos detinuit, jam Eventum referemus.

* Habetur in Foxi Martyrologio, ad Annum 1391. sub Rich. 2.

Eventus ad exitum prioris periodi 1290. Annis Christi 1120, 1121, 1123, &c.

ANno Domini 1120. Indictione Rom. LIV. post biennium ineunte, quorundam Fidelium nomine emissus est Tractatus de Antichristo, annum quo primùm in lucem prodiit quasi de industria in fronte præferens, hisce verbis, Qual cosa sia l' Antichrist, en datte de l' an Mille cent & vigint; unà cum Symbolo tali, * Sicut fumus præcedit ignem, victoriam pugna; sic & gloriam Christi tentatio Antichristi.

* In Opere imperfecto in Matt. Hom. 49. ad vers. 27. cap. 24.

In hoc Libro admonentur Fideles "Antichristum illum magnum jamdudum venisse, frustrà adhuc exspectari, esse jam Dei permissione ætate provectum:

"Præsentem Rei Ecclesiasticæ Statum Pseudoprophetarum regimine & "mendaciorum ministris constantem, unà cum populis ei in errore subditis:

"Qui utrâque potestate armati, aliisque omnibus ad Errorem fundandum "latéque provehendum præsidiis instructi, sub specioso Sponsæ Christi ti"tulo, cultûsque & sanctimoniæ Christianæ larva, viam Salutis per Chri"stum mundo annunciatam fraudulentis erroribus & damnationis doctrinis "oppugnent; Christi meritis, gratiæ & officio mediatorio derogent; uni "Deóque Christóque debita, sibi, creaturis, hominúmque operibus adscri"bant; Sanctos Sanctásque Numinum vice colant, Reliquiis Imaginibús"que divinam venerationem deferant; Eucharistiam pro Deo, ipsóque "Jesu Christo, adorent; verbo, Christianitatis titulo reipsâ Idololatriam "exerceant; denique, in Dei amantes & vera Christi membra odiis & per"secutionibus sæviant.

"Hunc hominum Statum (non singularem hominem) esse Antichristum, "Meretricem Babylonicam, quartam Bestiam Danielis, (nempe in statu

"ejus

"ejus noviſſimo, ut dictum eſt) Hominem illum peccati, & Filium perditio-
"nis, qui extollitur ſuper omnem Deum, ità ut in Templo Dei, id eſt,
"Eccleſia, ſedeat, oſtendens ſe tanquam ſit Deus; qui jam venit in omni
"genere ſeductionis & mendacii in iis qui pereunt.

"Quapropter ſe ab hoc Iniquitatis Myſterio, ſicut mandavit Deus, ſe-
"ceſſionem facere tam intrinſecè quàm extrinſecè; hortaríque omnes, "quibus Deus Opt. Max. eandem veritatem revelaverit, ut idem ſecum
"facerent; Civitatíque Sanctæ Jeruſalem, veritati Chriſti, & Sponſæ
"ipſius perpuſillæ ſeſe adjungerent.

"Quem in finem ſe jam mundo notum facere qualis ſit ipſorum Cœtus,
"& quas habuerint ſeceſſionis ſuæ cauſas.

Hæc Scripti illius ſumma eſt, quod Dei providentiâ ad noſtra uſque tempora ſervârant Reliquiæ Waldenſium Alpinorum, à quibus acceptum typis non ità pridem vulgavit ex antiquo Manuſcripto Joannes Paulus Perrin in * Hiſt. Waldenſ. & Albigenſ. Gallica. Videſis eum, Lib. 1. cap. 7. & Parte tertiâ, (quæ de Doctrina & Diſciplina Waldenſium agit) Lib. 30.

* Quam Anglicè vertit Samſon Lennardus, Anno 1624.

Atque hoc fuit ſeceſſionis Piorum à Romana Eccleſia initium; neque ante hoc tempus quicquam ex omni Chriſtianorum memoria auditum fuiſſe crediderim de Papatu magno illo & κατ' ἐξοχὴν dicto Antichriſto, neque alium exſpectandum eſſe.

Quæ tamen ſententia ab hoc tempore in plurimorum animis gliſcere, atq; indies magis magíſque invaleſcere cœpit.

Nam quod unicum hîc excipi poteſt de Hildebrando, in quem aliquot antè annis hujus nominis jaciebantur contumeliæ, id aſſertionem meam non labefactat: Siquidem in perſonam illius eæ dirigebantur, & aliam ob cauſam, ſdque ab illis qui Romanæ Eccleſiæ cultum & dogmata nondum improbârunt; propterea non alio cenſu habendæ quàm pro parabolicè & κατ' αὔξησιν dictis, Declamatorum more.

Sed enim fuiſſe hoc tempore Cœtum aliquem qui à Romana Eccleſia ſeceſſionem fecerat, & ſeorſim conventus ageret, id porrò ex Bernardo colligitur Serm. 65. & 66. in Cantica Cantic. ubi in vulpeculas quaſdam declamitat vineam Eccleſiæ demolientes. Quos tamen (inquit) ſi fidem interroges, nihil Chriſtianius; ſi converſationem, nihil irreprehenſibilius; & quæ loquuntur, factis probant: præterea jactare ſe eſſe ſucceſſores Apoſtolorum, & Apoſtolicos nominare. Lege (Lector) ſi lubet; contuliſſe non pœnitebit.

Affingit quidem ille ex auditu vulpeculis iſtis errores aliquot Manichæorum de prohibitione conjugii & interdictione ciborum; ut facilè hinc agnoſcas Waldenſium progenitores, quibus & ſimiles Manichæiſmi affícti ſunt; ſed falsò, ut luculenter oſtendit Reverendiſſimus & omnis Antiquitatis Eccleſiaſticæ peritiſſimus Archiepiſcopus Armachanus. Quin & omnis ævi experientia teſtatur, etiam noſtri, quàm parùm fidei in hujuſmodi criminationibus adverſario tribuendum ſit. Hoc tamen eò à me dictum putari nolim, quaſi Segreges iſtos omni prorſus erroris labe expertes crederem. Nihil opus eſt. Quippe in eo non vertitur res quam adſtructam velim. Ultro igitur dare non verebor, præ* ἀμαρτίᾳ τῆς ἀνθρωπίνης (ut eſt hominum ingenium) cùm iſtos, tum poſtea Waldenſes & Albigenſes (quidni & noſtros?) in nonnullis tam quæ ad dogmata, quàm quæ ad mores ſpectent, (quæ tamen eſſentiam Fidei Chriſtianæ non lædant) ab errore excuſari non poſſe nec debere. Hoc tamen non prohibere aſſero quò minùs fuerint Cœtus ille Jeſu Chriſti electus, vocatus, & fidelis. In hoc enim Religionis examine illud nos (ut opinor) ſentire decet, Veros & legitimos Dei cultores non ex omnimoda erroris, etiam non-fundamentalis, immu-

* exceſſu tractionis in contrariam partem.

Apoc. 17. 14.

nitate censendos esse, quinimo ex puritate cultûs & immunitate ab Idololatria. Qui sic comparati, Deo Patri, per Jesum Christum Filium Mediatorem, sincerè placere studeant, ei gratos esse & acceptos. Quis enim mihi præstabit, septem illa millia qui tempore Eliæ Baali genua non flexerant, quósque Deus sibi superfuisse testatur, ab omni errore graviore fuisse immunes? aut Ecclesiam Judaicam aliquot ante Christum seculis, quâ parte sinceriſſima fuit, pluribus de Religione erroribus non laborâsse?

Eventus ad exitum Posterioris Periodi 1335. Annis Christi 1166, 1167, 1168, 1169, &c.

INter Annum Christi 1160 & 1170, (nam quo præcisè anno inter Scriptores non convenit) quodam quasi Antichristi jam patefacti classico excitati, magnus hominum numerus, alii Waldenses ab Authore Waldo, alii Albigenses, alii aliis dicti nominibus, ab Ecclesia Romana secessionem fecerunt; Eam esse Babylonem illam Apocalypticam, Matrem scortationum & abominationum terræ, mirabili planè consensu & constantiâ denunciantes. In quos ingens statim persecutio exorta est, imò integri exercitus adversùs eos ducti; tantáque strages (priusquam cessatum est) edita, ut per Galliam solam, si Paulus Perionius in ejus Belli historia rectè calculum inierit, occisa sint ad DECIES CENTENA hominum MILLIA: Sed Beati mortui qui in Domino moriuntur; ámodo dicit Spiritus, Apoc. 14. 13. Id quod & Angelus hîc apud Danielem spectâsse videtur, cùm dixerat, Beatus qui exspectat & pertingit ad Dies Mcccxxxv: nisi illud fortè potiùs ad illustriorem Antichristi patefactionem tunc futuram referendum, quâ beatus esset cui eam videre contigisset. Utcunque, hi fuerunt isti, de quibus ibidem Angelus, purificandi, dealbandi & conflandi; quósque sapientiæ & in Dei mysteriis perspicaciæ testimonio exornat. Hostes autem illorum, Impii isti, qui impiè agerent, nec intelligerent.

Cur Deus voluerit isto potiùs quàm alio seculo Antichristum primitùs revelandum?

1. QUia tum ad ἀκμὴν suam perveniret, eóque omnes Antichristi characteres pleniſſimè repræsentaturus, ut clariùs cerni cognoscíque potuerit, sicut Sol Meridie.

2. Quia seculo isto in neminem alium suspicio Antichristi cadere potuerit; quippe Imperio Saracenico tum ad occasum & ruinam indies præcipitante, Ottomanico nondum cœpto.

3. Quia Deus hâc ratione fidelibus suis prospectum voluit, nè persecutioni Antichristi tum præ foribus exsistenti animis fracti succumberent; sed omnino persuasum haberent, se esse Sanctos illos à Bestia vincendos, Apoc. 13. proindéque rabiem ejus hâc consolatione freti animosè contemnerent.

Quare

Quare Spiritus hujuſcemodi Numerorum periodos hîc aſſumpſerit, qui neque ad Septenarios neque ad ullam omnino Numeri perfectionem revocari poßint?

R. QUia tempus quo Res accideret ad Fatum Romanum ſpectans deſignaturus, ad eam temporis putandi rationem ſeſe accommodare voluit, quâ ſoli Romani (& quidem temporibus iſtis noviſſimis) uſuri eſſent, tum in Imperatorum ſuorum Conſtitutionibus & Edictis, tum in Pontificum Decretis ſubnotandis; Epochæ nimirum Indictionum. Utriuſq; enim periodi Angelicæ, ab Anno Profanationis Epiphanianæ putatæ, exitus concurrit cum initio ſeu primo Anno Indictionis Romanæ: Siquidem Annus Chriſti 1123. primus eſt Indictionis Romanæ LIV, Annus item 1168. annus primus eſt Indictionis LVII. Quæ enim inter utrumque Numerum differentia eſt annorum, ſeu dierum annalium, 45, ea tres Indictiones (15 ſcilicet Annorum in orbem recurrentium periodos) ad unguem comprehendit. Quæ omnia caſu contigiſſe quis facilè crediderit; & non potiùs Spiritum Sanctum deditâ operâ iſtiuſmodi Numerorum periodis uſum, ut ad initia Indictionum Romanarum collinearet, quibus futurum eſſet ut Prophetia reſignaretur?

Indictio Romana eſt quindecim annorum ſpatium.

Idem enim hoc facto mihi innuere videtur acſi dixiſſet, Primam hujus Myſterii reſerationem futuram ad Indictionem Romanam LIV, cujus Annus primus eſſet à profanatione Epiphaniana 1290^us. Beatum verò qui exſpectaret & pertingeret ad Indictionem Quinquageſimam, cujus Annus primus eſſet à profanatione Epiphaniana 1335^us. Indictionem autem eam aſſumpſit, non quæ magnam partem jam præteriiſſet, ſed quam Eventus primùm integram amplexu ſuo occuparet; ut Applicatio, quam ſuprà ex hiſtoria rei geſtæ dedimus, conſideranti manifeſtum faciet. Neque ſanè Res ipſa, ſiquis ad rationem & indolem ejus bene attenderit, ejuſmodi eſt, cujus Initii obſervationem uni alicui anno commodè alligaveris; ſed quæ annorum aliquot ſpatiolum requirat. Huic igitur rei, temporis per Indictiones deſignatione, ſapientiſſimè proſpectum erit.

CONSECTARIA.

DATA, quam hucuſque aſtruere conati ſumus, de mente hujus Vaticinii hypotheſi, Tria magni momenti Πορίσματα conſequuntur.

1. Patrum authoritatem in negotio Antichriſti & noviſſimorum temporum (utut in aliis multum iis tribuendum ſit) omnino nullam eſſe: utpote quorum ætate Myſterium iſtud juxta Angeli prophetiam adhuc clauſum & obſignatum foret: non igitur eſſe cur hîc Patrum opinationibus tantopere moveamur, ut multi ſolent.

2. Si Antichriſtus Seculo iſto XII revelandus erat; Ergò jam venerit, ipſiſſimúſque eſt qui tunc revelatus fuerat, non alius.

3. Waldenſes, Albigenſes, ſimiléſque cæteros tunc temporis à Romana Eccleſia

Ecclesia Segreges, tot adversariorum suorum præjudiciis gravatos, quibusdam etiam è nostris, nimiùm hâc parte credulis, de Schismate si non Hæresi suspectos, hujusmodi calumniarum de Spiritûs Sancti sententia absolvendos esse, próque legitimis Dei Patris per Jesum Christum cultoribus, quibus utique sapere & intelligere solis, in tam caliginoso (heu!) Ecclesiæ statu, datum fuit, hujus Scripturæ vi agnoscendos.

[In the following Book are several Epistles explaining other difficult passages in Daniel: particularly in the Author's Second Letter to Mr. Haines is inserted a Treatise intituled, The purport of the Four Kingdoms in Daniel, or The A.B.C. of Prophecy; and another in his first Letter to Dr. Meddus, viz. The Description of the Great Day of Judgement, Dan. 7.]

The End of the Third Book.

The Fourth Book
OF
THE WORKS
OF
The Pious and Profoundly-Learned
JOSEPH MEDE, B.D.
SOMETIME
Fellow of Chriſt's College in CAMBRIDGE.

CONTAINING HIS EPISTLES,
BEING
ANSWERS to divers LETTERS
of Learned Men.

Corrected and enlarged with the Additions of ſeveral EPISTLES.

Eccleſiaſtic. 14.
Bleſſed is the man that doth meditate good things in wiſedom, and that reaſoneth of holy things by his underſtanding.

LONDON, Printed for R. Royſton.

The Fourth Book

of

THE WORKS

of

The Pious and Profoundly-Learned

JOSEPH MEDE, B.D.

Fellow of Christ's College in CAMBRIDGE.

HIS EPISTLES,

AND

ANSWERS to divers LETTERS

of Learned Men.

Corrected and enlarged with the Additions of former EPISTLES.

Useful Truths, &c.

Helpful is the man that useth good things in reason, and that reproveth ill-ship things by his ready tending.

LONDON: Printed for R. Royston.

THE CONTENTS OF THE FOURTH BOOK.

EPIST. I. A Letter from the Fellows of Trinity College near Dublin, desiring him to accept the Provostship of their College. p. 893

EPIST. II. Mr. Mede's Answer, excusing his refusal thereof. pag. 894.

EPIST. III. Mr. Mede's Letter to Archbishop Usher, acknowledging his favours and encouragements in his Apocalyptical studies, with his judgement of a Lutheran's Treatise De rebus in Novissimo die eventuris. pag. 894

EPIST. IV. Another Letter to the Archbishop, touching the Chronology of the Samaritan Pentateuch. pag. 896

EPIST. V. Mr. Hayn's first Letter to Mr. Mede, touching several passages in Daniel and the Revelation. pag. 897

EPIST. VI. Mr. Mede's Answer. pag. 899

EPIST. VII. Mr. Hayn's second Letter about the same. pag. 902

EPIST. VIII. Mr. Mede's Answer, wherein is inserted The Purport of the Four Kingdoms in Daniel, or The A. B. C. of Prophecie. pag. 907

EPIST. IX. Mr. Hayn's third Letter about the former Subject. pag. 911

EPIST. X. Mr. Mede's Answer. pag. 915

EPIST. XI. Mr. Hayn's fourth Letter. pag. 917

EPIST. XII. Mr. Mede's large Answer. pag. 919

EPIST. XIII. Dr. Twisse's first Letter, touching the 1000 years Regnum Christi, the Clades Testium, and the Jews Conversion. pag. 927

EPIST. XIV. Mr. Mede's Answer. pag. 928

EPIST. XV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Dr. Meddus, containing The Description of the great Day of Judgement. pag. 932.

EPIST. XVI. Dr. Twisse's second Letter, by way of Reply. pag. 935

EPIST. XVII. Mr. Mede's Answer, more fully treating of the manner of the Jews Conversion. pag. 936

EPIST. XVIII. Mr. Mason's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the Millenaries. pag. 940

EPIST. XIX. Dr. Potter's Letter of the same. pag. 941

EPIST. XX. Mr. Mede's Letter to Dr. Meddus, proving the First Resurrection (Revel. 20.) to be meant literally, &c. pag. 942

EPIST. XXI. Dr. Meddus his Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Dr. Twisse's Answers to 9 Quære's about Regnum Sanctorum. p. 946

EPIST. XXII. Mr. Mede's Answer to the Tenth Quære. pag. 949

EPIST. XXIII. Dr. Twisse's third Letter, containing 3 Quære's about some obscure passages in Daniel. pag. 951

EPIST. XXIV. Mr. Mede's Answer thereunto. pag. 953

EPIST. XXV. Mr. Mede's fuller Answer to one of the 3 Quære's. pag. 956

EPIST. XXVI. Mr. Burnet's Letter to Mr. Mede, about the Provostship of Trin. College in Ireland. pag. 957

EPIST. XXVII & XXVIII. Two Letters from Dr. Ames touching Lawenus his Censure of Clavis Apocal. and Mr. Mede's Defence. pag. 958

EPIST. XXIX. Mr. Mede's Letter to Archbiſhop Uſher, excuſing his refuſing the Provoſtſhip of Trin. Coll. with an account of Lawenus his Strictures upon his Clavis. pag. 959

EPIST. XXX. Archbiſhop Uſher's Letter to Mr. Mede touching his Comment on the Apocalyps, &c. pag. 960

EPIST. XXXI. Mr. Mede's Letter touching ſome corruptions crept into the Hebrew Text. pag. 961

EPIST. XXXII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Osbourn's Quære's touching ſome paſſages in Daniel and the Apocalyps. pag. 964

EPIST. XXXIII. Sr W. Boſwell's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching ſome of his Books ſent him. pag. 966

EPIST. XXXIV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Haydock, applauding his ingenious conceit of the Form of the Seven-ſealed Book in Apocal. 5. pag. 968

EPIST. XXXV & XXXVI. Two Letters from Sr W. Boſwell to Mr. Mede, touching his Book ſent to Lud. de Dieu. pag. 969, 970

EPIST. XXXVII. & XXXVIII. Two Letters from Monſieur Teſtard and Mr. Brooks, touching Mr. Mede's Writings. pag. 971

EPIST. XXXIX. Monſieur Teſtard's Letter to Mr Mede, touching the Number 666. p. 972

EPIST. XL. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. pag. 974

EPIST. XLI. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's Enquiries touching the meaning of Ezek. 38. 17. and Dan. 11. 35, 36. pag. 975

EPIST. XLII. Dr. Twiſſe's 4. Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring his opinion of the Engliſh Plantations in America. pag. 978

EPIST. XLIII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer thereunto, as alſo touching our Saviour's proof of the Reſurrection from Exod. 3. 6. pag. 980

EPIST. XLIV. Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, intimating a Learned man of Leiden his judgement of his Clavis Apocal. pag. 984

EPIST. XLV. Mr. Mede's modeſt Anſwer, excuſing himſelf and his Book. pag. 984

EPIST. XLVI. Mr. Dury's Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring his advice about the beſt Method of endeavouring Peace amongſt the Proteſtant Churches. pag. 985

EPIST. XLVII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. pag. 986

EPIST. XLVIII. Lud. de Dieu's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the various Readings in the Hebrew Text. pag. 987

EPIST. XLIX. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. pag. 990

EPIST. L. Dr. Twiſſe's 5. Letter to Mr. Mede, applauding his Notions about the firſt peopling of America, and his proof of the Reſurrection from Exod. 3. 6. with a Poſtſcript touching Mr. Selden. pag. 991

EPIST. LI. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to the Poſtſcript. His Anſwer to an Exception concerning the State of the Millennial felicity. Lactantius and others vindicated from the Antichiliaſts. Why Hierom was afraid to mention Juſtin Martyr. pag. 994

EPIST. LII. Mr. Mede's Letter containing ſome paſſages out of the Nicene Council and K. Edward's Catechiſm touching the Kingdom of Chriſt. pag. 997

EPIST. LIII. Dr. Twiſſe's 6. Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring him to impart his Notions about Ezekiel's Temple and ſome obſcure paſſages in Dan. 11. pag. 998

EPIST. LIV. Mr. Mede's Anſwer; together with ſome paſſages out of Tertullian and King Edward's Catechiſm touching Regnum Chriſti, &c. pag. 999

EPIST. LV. Dr. Twiſſe's 7. Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring to know his thoughts touching Genuflexio verſus Altare. pag. 1002

EPIST.

EPIST. LVI. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. His freedom from ſelf-ends in all his opinions. pag. 1003
EPIST. LVII. Dr. Twiſſe's 8. Letter, by way of Reply. pag. 1005
EPIST. LVIII. Mr. Mede's large Anſwer touching Holineſs of Churches, &c. with a Caveat to the Reformed Churches. pag. 1009
EPIST. LIX. Dr. Twiſſe's 9. Letter to Mr. Mede, about the 7 Lamps in Zach. 4. pag. 1018
EPIST. LX. Dr. Twiſſe's 10. Letter about the ſame, and the Pluſcula in Zach. 9. 10. 11. pag. 1019
EPIST. LXI. Mr. Mede's Anſwer about the 7 Lamps in Zach. 4. and the Pluſcula in Zach. 9. 10. 11. pag. 1021
EPIST. LXII. Dr. Twiſſe's 11. Letter, about Mr. Mede's Diſcourſe De Numeris Danielis. pag. 1024
EPIST. LXIII. Mr. Eſtwick's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the Millennium. pag. 1025
EPIST. LXIV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, vindicating Lactantius about the Millennium, and proving Cyprian to be for the ſame Opinion: with ſome reflexions upon Hierom. pag. 1025
EPIST. LXV. Dr. Twiſſe's 12. Letter of Quære's touching the antiquity of Synagogues and of Even-ſong, and the meaning of ſome difficult places of Scripture. pag. 1027
EPIST. LXVI. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to the Quare's. pag. 1028
EPIST. LXVII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, touching the Gothick Liturgy. pag. 1032
EPIST. LXVIII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. E. more fully treating of the Gothick Liturgy, &c. pag. 1033
EPIST. LXIX. Another Letter in anſwer to ſeveral Quare's of Mr. Eſtwick's. pag. 1034
EPIST. LXX. Dr. Twiſſ's 13. Letter to Mr. Mede, expoſtulating with him about Ceremonies, &c. pag. 1036
EPIST. LXXI. Mr. Mede's large Anſwer; together with his judgement of Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe touching the Number 666. pag. 1039
EPIST. LXXII. Dr. Twiſſe's 14. Letter, touching Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe of 666. pag. 1045
EPIST. LXXIII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. pag. 1046
EPIST. LXXIV. Dr. Twiſſe's 15. Letter, about Mr. Potter's Book, and the Holineſs of Places. His reflexions upon a paſſage in Mr. Mede's Inſcription of his Diſcourſe upon 1 Cor. 11. 22. with an Extract of Mr. Potter's Letter about 666. pag. 1048 & 1050
EPIST. LXXV. Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's and Mr. Potter's Letters. His vindication of that paſſage in the foreſaid Inſcription, and of that Maxime, Eadem eſt ratio Loci & Temporis. Of Τεμένος and Ναὸς, &c. pag. 1052
EPIST. LXXVI. Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Dr. Alting's Cenſure of Dr. Field's opinion. pag. 1057
EPIST. LXXVII. Mr. Mede's vindication of Dr. Field: In what ſenſe the Roman and Greek Church may be ſaid not to have erred in primariis Fidei articulis. pag. 1058
EPIST. LXXVIII. Mr. Dury's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the manner of his treating with the Batavian Churches. pag. 1059
EPIST. LXXIX. Mr. Mede's Anſwer. pag. 1060
EPIST. LXXX. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, ſhewing his Reaſons why he refuſed to declare himſelf concerning the Acta Lipſiaca. pag. 1061
EPIST. LXXXI. Mr. Dury's Letter to Mr. Mede, repreſenting the Heads of his Deſign for a Pacification amongſt Proteſtants. pag. 1062
EPIST. LXXXII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer,

ſwer, and Advice thereupon. pag. 1064

EPIST. LXXXIII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, touching 2 ſorts of Fundamental Articles. pag. 1065

EPIST. LXXXIV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. expreſſing his opinion touching Mr. Streſo's diſtinguiſhing of 3 ſorts of Fundamentals. pag. 1067

EPIST. LXXXV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. ſhewing that a Fundamental Confeſſion ſhould be ſhort, eaſy and evident. pag. 1069

EPIST. LXXXVI. & LXXXVII. Mr. Mede's Letters to Mr. H. touching the defining of Fundamental Articles. pag. 1070

EPIST. LXXXVIII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. adviſing how a Fundamental Confeſſion ſhould be framed. pag. 1072

EPIST. LXXXIX. Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, for a ſight of his Papers about the Millennium. pag. 1073

EPIST. XC. Mr. Mede's Anſwer, with his judgement upon a Paper arguing from ſome Politick Conſiderations againſt the compoſing a Fundamental Confeſſion. pag. 1074

EPIST. XCI. Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe of 666. pag. 1075

EPIST. XCII. Mr. Mede's Anſwer, expreſſing his high eſteem of that Diſcourſe. pag. 1076

EPIST. XCIII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. containing his Cenſure of Grebner's Prophecy in Trinity Coll. Cambr. pag. 1077

EPIST. XCIV. Mr Hartlib's Reply, thanking him for that Cenſure. pag. 1078

EPIST. XCV. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. touching the Number 25, the Root of the Beaſt's Number 666. with his judgement of an Analytical Table of the Apocalyps. pag. 1079

EPIST. XCVI. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. H. modeſtly excuſing his own abilities, and intimating what cauſe he had to decline coming forth in print: with his Obſervation touching the Latitude of Rome. pag. 1080

EPIST. XCVII. Mr. Mede's Letter to a Friend, touching ſome Papers of his printed without his privity. pag. 1081

EPIST. XCVIII. Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, touching ſome Socinian Tenets; with his reſentment of the difficulties the Deſign for Peace among Proteſtants met with. pag. 1082

THE

THE FOURTH BOOK;

CONTAINING

Mr. MEDE's

EPISTLES:

BEING

ANSWERS to divers LETTERS OF Learned Men.

EPISTLE I.

The Fellows of Trinity College near Dublin, their Letter to Mr. Mede, desiring him to accept of the Provostship of their College.

Worthy Sir,

THE vacancy of the place of Provost of this College, happening by the death of our late Governour Sir William Temple, hath drawn us the Fellows of the same to seek abroad for a Successor, on whom that place might be conferred: among many whom we have had recommended unto us, especially by the Lord Primate of Ireland, your worthy self is one. Upon which consideration, being of all other the weightiest, we have fixed our resolutions upon your person, and have accordingly settled the Election. And howsoever we are as yet ignorant of your intentions, as unacquainted with your person; yet the hope of your acceptance is so much advanced by the Lord Primate his confidence of the same, as we conceive you will not expect we should use many words to that purpose. A long-continued uncertainty in your determinations will (as matters now stand) be a means to lay us open to many disadvantages, which we hope you will stop by your freely accepting of what we so freely tender unto you. What the Affairs are that require your speedy settlement in the Government, we refer to the Relation of Mr. Temple and Mr. Lloyd, two of the senior Fellows, to whom you may give credit as our Agents, whose Commission is from us, and Imployments in the behalf of our College have our approbation. And thus ceasing to be further troublesome unto you, we commit you to the protection of the Almighty, ever resting

Your assured Friends,

Trinity College,
March 15.
1626.

Jo. Brodley, Jo. Wigget,
Jo. Johnson, Nath. Linch.
Edw. Parry, Ranulph. Adams.

Epistle II.

Mr. Mede's Answer to the foregoing Letter.

Worthy Gentlemen,

YOur love and good opinion of me, a person so unknown unto you, hath so far obliged me to your Society, that I confess an Answer by Letter is no way sufficient to acknowledge it: Yet both the great difference accompanying your Election, with such inconveniences as I saw must needs have followed thereupon, besides the consciousness of mine own disabilities and infirmities, which gave me just cause to suspect I should not satisfie that expectation which would be of a Stranger in such a place, hath deterred me from accepting that honour which was by you so lovingly conferred upon me: which therefore I must, and do fully and freely resign into your hands, hoping that God will direct you in the choice of some other, both more able and worthy to take that charge upon him. Howbeit, as I shall never forget this so undeserved a favour, so will I ever account my self to have that relation to your Society, which shall bind me as affectionately to love and pray for the prosperity thereof, as if I were a Member; and, if God should ever give me opportunity, no less to endeavour the same. In the mean time I heartily desire Almighty God to bless you, and will ever remain

Your obliged Friend,

Christ's Coll. 10 April, 1627.

Joseph Mede.

Epistle III.

Jos. Medi Epistola ad R. Ja. Usserium, Archiepisc. Armachanum.

This Epistle contains the Author's thankful acknowledgement of the L. Primate's favours and encouragement in his Apocalyptical studies, as also his judgement of the Lutheran's Treatise De rebus in Novissimo die eventuris. Of which see also Epist. XX.

Reverende Primas,

EX nuperrimis Domini Loei ad Capellum nostrum literis, haud mediocri cum animi molestia intellexi, quos numero Apocalyptico septem ad R. D. tuam in Hiberniam transmiseram Libellos, in itinere Dublinum & Droghedam inter deperiisse. Hem, itáne eos in fraterculorum Hibernorum, quibus minimè laboraveram aut sumptus feceram, manus deveniisse? Ut ut sit, jacturam istam, Reverende Antistes, quantum possum, nunc resarcio, missis, numero quidem propter inopiam meam paucioribus, sed paris omnino meæ in R. Paternitatem tuam, tot mihi nominibus honorandam, observantiæ & officii testibus. Unum autem me malè habet, quòd cui præcipuè atque inprimis debueram hoc quicquid sit literarii muneris, ei jam, malo infortunio meo, postremo ferè omnium obveniat quod destinaveram. Tu enim, Reverende Præsul, primus mihi ad hæc ulteriùs excolenda stimulus. Tu torpentem tem animum alloquio, comitate, & plauſu tuo excitâſti. Imò, quod nunquam mihi niſi cum gratiſſimi animi ſignificatione memorandum eſt, Tu illuſtri illâ tuâ ad Collegii Dublinienſis Præpoſituram commendatio effeciſti, ut nullius antea neque meriti neque exiſtimationis homuncio, exinde tamen aliquid eſſe videar ab æſtimatione Veſtra. Quidni igitur ægerrimè feram, tam ſerò ad Te perventuram eſſe hanc qualemcunque officii mei & devotionis teſſeram?

Huic igitur malo ſive infortunii, ſive culpæ fuerit, aliquatenus ut medicer, conſultum fore putabam ſi Auctariolum aliquod Libellulis hiſce meis adjungerem, Diſſertatiunculam de gemina illa apud Danielem periodo Dierum, c. 12. v. 11, 12. præterea Specimen interpretationis Millennii Apocalyptici, à reliquo ſimilium Speciminum corpore reſectum. Nam rogatu, ſeu magis inſtantiâ amicorum, quibus inſtitutum meum in Libellulo meo præter omnem opinionem placuit, factum eſt, ut ſpecimina quædam exinde concinnaverim Interpretationum Apocalypticarum ad amuſſim Clavis Apocalypticæ. In quibus quæ de ſeptima Tuba ejúſque mille annis diſſeruerim, limatiſſimo judicio tuo, R.P. eâ quâ par eſt humilitate ſubjicio. De quo etiam quid paulò pòſt mihi acciderit apud Paternitatem tuam tacere non poſſum; nimirum vixdum me hæc conſcripſiſſe, atq; cum amicis de iiſdem contuliſſe, cùm ecce in Catalogo Francofurtenſi, propter tumultus bellicos & marinorum itinerum pericula poſt quadrimeſtre demum ad nos allato, Libellum deprehendo hoc titulo, Veroſimilia Hiſtorico-Prophetica De rebus in noviſſimo die eventuris, è ſacris utriuſque Teſtamenti Oraculis collecta, pio & accurato ſtudio cujuſdam ἀγαπητοῦ Θ. τὴν ἐπιφάνειαν τοῦ Κυρίου. Protinus animum meum ſuſpicio inceſſit (quam poſtea veram comperi) de Millennio Apocalyptico agi. Proinde Bibliopolis noſtris id negotii dedi, ut omni ſtudio Librum iſtum perquirerent. Duo tantùm aut tria exemplaria Londinum advecta ſunt. Unum ego nactus ſum. Author Lutheranus eſt, ſed Anonymus; vir quidem, ut videtur, doctus &, quod in iſtius ſectæ homine rarum, permodeſtus. Haud temere ſuſpicatus ſum de argumento; nam eandem planè tuetur de Die ſuo Noviſſimo ſententiam quam ego de Die Judicii conceperam. Ut Libro perlecto non mediocriter in ſententia mea confirmatus ſim, tum propter hoc ipſum, tum quòd multa Scripturæ loca in eo reperi adeò ad meam mentem interpretata, ut conſenſionem in talibus à communi ſententia abeuntibus oppidò mirarer. Vides, Reverende Præſul, quò me rapit Contemplatiunculæ meæ nimium fortaſſe ſtudium, ut etiam tibi hiſce narrandis importunus ſim. Sed ultrà Paternitatem tuam à gravioribus tuis meditationibus non diſtinebo. Deus te, Reverendiſſime ac Illuſtriſſime Domine, quàm diutiſſimè incolumem & ſuperſtitem velit Eccleſiæ & Patriæ tuæ bono.

E Collegio Chriſti,
24 Aprilis
An. 1628.

Reverendiſſimæ Paternitatis tuæ ſtudioſiſſimus,

Joſephus Medus.

Epistle IV.

Mr. Mede's Second Letter to Archbiſhop Uſher touching the Millennium, and the Chronology of the Samaritan Pentateuch, &c.

My Reverend Lord,

HAving underſtood by Mr Lowe's Letter to Mr Chappel, that my* Books were loſt between Dublin and Droghedah, as they were coming to your Lordſhip; I preſumed a ſecond time to obtrude upon your Grace three or four more of them: howſoever the worth were not ſuch that the firſt loſs was much material. I ſent with them a Letter, and a *Speculation or two with it, which yet, through ſome defect in ſending, I fear wil come after them. I beſeech your Lordſhip pardon me, if I have offended (as I am afraid I have) either againſt diſcretion or good manners: For I confeſs I have been ſince ſomewhat jealous, that the Books I firſt ſent were not ſo loſt, but that they were found again: which if they were, how can I but bluſh to think, that I have with ſuch either ſhew of ſelf-love or unmannerly importunity again troubled your Lordſhip with them, who ſhould not have preſumed at the firſt to have offered any more then one? But my confidence is in your Grace's experienced humanity to accept any thing in good part from a Scholar's hand, though perhaps accompanied with ſome melancholick vanity.

* He means his Clavis Apocalyptica, ſeven Copies whereof he ſent into Ireland.

* viz. Diſſert. De numeris Dan. cap. 10, 11, 12. & Specimen interpret. Millen. Apocalypt.

My Lord, I ſent in the Letter I mention the laſt Paragraph or piece of ſome Specimina Interpretationum Apocalypticarum, namely, that which concerned the Millennium. Whereto I added, for further probability of my Conceit, ſomewhat more out of my Adverſaria, and in ſpecial that one of Carpentarius's Com. in Alcinoum Platonis p. 322. Septimum Millenarium ab univerſa Cabbaliſtarum Schola vocari* MAGNUM DIEM JUDICII. Wherein I had no intent or thought, nor yet have, to avow that old conceit of the Chiliaſts, That the World ſhould as it were labour 6000 years, and in the Seventh thouſand ſhould be that glorious Sabbath of the Reign of Chriſt, (I inclined to think it much nearer:) But onely to ſhew how fitly in the Hebrew notion, not onely a long time of ſome Years and Ages, but even this very time of a Thouſand years, might be ſtyled a Day. Howbeit I deſire your Lordſhip to give me leave (if but for your recreation) to relate the event of a piece of my Curioſity ſince that time; the rather, becauſe the means thereof is beholding to your Grace.

* That the Seventh Millenary is by the whole School of the Cabbaliſts call'd The Great Day of Judgement.

I chanced to light upon Mr Selden's Marmora Arundelliana, and found therein, together with an honorable and deſerved mention of your Grace's name, the Chronologie of your Samaritan Pentateuch, publiſhed to the view of the whole world. I had thereby opportunity to take more curious notice thereof then I had done when your Lordſhip was in England; and obſerved, that it much more exceeded the Jewiſh in the Genealogie of the Patriarchs after the floud, then it came ſhort in thoſe before it. It came therefore into my mind to try how near the 6000 years of the world would be by that computation: I found it would be Anno Æræ Chriſtianæ 1736, which is juſt the very year when the 1260 years of the Beaſt's reign will expire, if it be reckoned from the Depoſition of Auguſtulus the laſt Roman Emperour.

Depoſitio

Depoſitio Auguſtuli Anno Æræ Chriſt.	476
Anni Regni Beſtiæ	1260
Sum.	1736
A Condito Mundo ad Æram Chriſt. juxta Scaligeram	3949
Adde quadriennium quo idem anticipat initium Nebuchadnezzaris, nam in cæteris nihil muto	4
Exceſſus Chronologiæ Samaritanæ ſupra Judaicam	311
Ità à conditò Mundo ad Æram Chriſt. erunt Ann.	4264
Adde annos Æræ Chriſt. quando exibunt Tempora Beſtiæ ſeu Ἀποστασίας, ſi ducantur à depoſitione Auguſtuli	1736
Sum.	6000

I began here to conſider, whether this difference of the Account of the years of the world were not ordered by a ſpecial diſpoſition of Providence, to fruſtrate our Curioſity in ſearching the time of the Day of Judgement.

My Lord, I would trouble your Lordſhip with a Conceit or two more, if I had time. As that I conceive Nebuchadnezzar's dream, Dan. 2. to have been ſome years before he ſought for the interpretation, which was the reaſon he had forgotten it: the words in ver. 29. רַעְיוֹנֶךָ סְלִיקוֹ may be taken for the dream, and may be well ſo conſtrued, viz. That his dream came upon him, or came into his mind. Alſo that the 40 years, Ezek. 4.6. ſhould be the time of Manaſſes Idolatry, for which God threatens ſo often that he would deſtroy that Kingdom. But Mr Provoſt will not ſtay for me. I beſeech the Almighty long to bleſs your Grace, and grant you life: and thus I end with my humble Service, and am

Chriſt's Coll. 22 May, 1628.

Your Lordſhip's moſt ready to be commanded,

Joſeph Mede.

Epistle V.

Mr Hayn his Firſt Letter to Mr Mede, about ſeveral paſſages in Daniel and the Revelation.

SALUTEM in CHRISTO.

Worthy and Learned Sir,

Some kind friend have lately imparted to me your Synchroniſms of the Apocalyps printed, and ſome other written paſſages on Daniel's times and other parts of Scripture. The world muſt needs give good entertainment to your painful and learned labours, who have undertaken paths troden by few, with much care of ſure footing, eſpecially in your Synchroniſms: Yet ſee how it falls out (as in this kind it cannot be avoided) in all things you ſhall not find aſſent. For my part I know well quàm ſit mihi curta ſupellex; yet partly that I may be better inſtructed my ſelf, partly to give you occaſion of further clearing the Truth, I have ſent here included ſome Poſitions, with Arguments confirming them, contrary to ſome of your Tenets; deſiring your favourable interpretation of my meaning, and your Anſwer at your beſt leiſure: and aſſuring you that I doe this not contradicendi ſtudio, ſed amore veritatis indagandæ, and minding (if you encourage me thereto) to ſhew hereafter my Reaſons of ſome diſſent in other matters, I commend you and your ſtudies to God's bleſſing, and reſt

From Chriſts-pariſh in London, June 5. 1629.

Your very loving Friend,
Tho. Hayn.

I. Posit. DAniel ſhews not the Roman Monarchie's perſecution of the Church, and the Fall of the ſame Monarchy.

Argum. 1. If the Romans perſecution of the Saints and the Fall of the Romans were not revealed till Chriſt revealed them to John in the Apocalyps, then Daniel revealed them not. But the Romans perſecution of the Saints and their Fall were not revealed till Chriſt revealed them to John in the Apocalyps. Ergò Daniel revealed them not.

The Major Propoſition is evident. The Minor is thus proved.

The Romans perſecution of the Saints and their Fall are revealed in the little Book, Apoc. 5. &c. by opening ſeven Seals and blowing ſeven Trumpets, all concerning ſeven-headed Rome: and none was able to open the Seals of this Book till Chriſt opened them to John. Ergò the Romans perſecution and Fall were revealed to none till Chriſt revealed them to John.

The former part of the Antecedent is granted by the general conſent of Interpreters on the Apocalyps. The latter part is clear in the Text, Apocal. 5. None was able to open the Book, none in heaven, or earth, or under the earth. Now if Daniel had ſhewed theſe perſecutions, Paul, who delivered to his hearers all the counſel of God, could have opened theſe alſo: But Apocal. 5. denies that he could, or that any man elſe could.

Argum. 2. The perſecutions of Chriſt's eternal Kingdom mentioned in Dan. 2. 44. & Chap. 7. 26, 27. and frequently in the New Teſtament, are not propheſied of in Daniel. But the perſecutions brought by the Romans on the Church are againſt Chriſt's eternal Kingdom, to be preached over the world after Chriſt. Ergò the perſecutions brought by the Romans on the Church or eternal Kingdom of Chriſt are not ſpoken of in Daniel.

The Minor Propoſition is clear. The Major is confirmed by all ſpeeches of that eternal Kingdom in Daniel. The Stone which became a Mountain is not battered, nor the Mountain any way aſſailed, Chap. 2. The eternal Kingdom breaks the former Kingdoms; but it ſelf is not broken, Chap. 2. 44. When the four Beaſts Chap. 7. are deſtroyed, then comes the Son of man in the clouds, and receives the eternal Kingdom, which John Baptiſt, Chriſt himſelf, and the Apoſtles preached. There alſo is no perſecution of this Kingdom mentioned, Chap. 7. 13, 14. nor Verſe 27, &c. The Battel againſt the Saints, Verſe 21. and the conſuming of them, Verſe 25. concerns the Saints before the ſetting up of Chriſt's Kingdom over all the world; as the endeavour to alter [a] Times and [b] Laws plainly ſhews. Antiochus Epiphanes was the man that attempted this.

[a] namely ſuch as Moſes Law had preſcribed for their Feaſts and Solemnities.
[b] namely them of old about Sacrificing and Circumciſion, &c.

II. Posit. The fourth Beaſt, Dan. 7. is not able ſufficiently to expreſs the Roman Empire; and therefore it expreſſeth it not.

Argum.

Argum. That which is but sufficiently expressed by all the four Beasts, or the chief parts of all four, cannot be sufficiently expressed by one of the four alone, namely the fourth. But the Roman Empire is but sufficiently expressed by all the four Beasts, Dan. 7. or the chief parts of them. Ergò the Roman Empire cannot be sufficiently expressed by the fourth Beast alone.

The Major is evident. The Minor is thus confirmed.

If the Roman Empire, Apoc 13. be resembled by a Beast which is composed of all Daniel's four Beasts, Dan. 7. or the chief parts of the four, then it is but sufficiently expressed by them all. But the Roman Empire, Apoc. 13. is resembled by a Beast which is composed of all Daniel's four Beasts, &c. Dan. 7. Ergò the Roman Empire, &c.

The Major is proved thus.

Either the Major is true, or else the Composition taken from the three former Beasts and their chief parts is needless. But it is not needless, for God hath nothing needless in his Word. Ergò the Major is true.

The Minor is proved thus.

That the Roman Empire is expressed by a Beast composed of all Daniel's four Beasts, Dan. 7. or the chief parts of them, is plain thus.

It is like a Leopard.	It hath 7 heads.	The Leopard	1.
It hath a Lion's mouth.		The Lion	1.
A Bear's pawes.	So had the four Beasts in Daniel.	The Bear	1.
The 10 horns of the 4. Beast.		The Last Beast	4.
			In all 7 heads.

It blasphemes, hath large authority, warrs against the Saints, overcomes and prospers. Therefore it is composed and is extracted out of the 4 Beasts, Dan. 7.

Epistle VI.

Mr Mede's Answer to Mr Hayn's First Letter about several passages in Daniel and the Revelation.

SIR,

THE last week I could not get any time to answer your Letter, and therefore I thought good to make use of your indulgence, that I should answer at my best leisure. And though I have not now that leisure I expected, yet I will not frustrate you any longer. What passages of mine you should have seen upon Daniel's times, I cannot imagine; for I remember not to have done any thing directly upon that Prophecie, but only occasionally in some Discourses upon other places of Scripture: whether any body hath extracted those parcels from their body, I cannot tell, but wish they had not, lest I may have wrong by being mistaken.

For your Two Positions about the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel, your Grounds do as much mistake as contradict my Tenets. And therefore I shall either answer or decline your Arguments by setting down my own opinion in these following Theses.

1. The Roman Empire to be the Fourth Kingdom of Daniel, was believed by the Church of Israel both before and in our Saviour's time; received by the Disciples of the Apostles, and the whole Christian Church for the first 400 years, without any known contradiction. And I confess, having ſo good ground in Scripture, it is with me tantùm non Articulus fidei, little leſſe then an Article of faith.

2. I acknowledge alſo the ſubject of the Apocalyptical Viſions to be Fata Imperii Romani poſt primum Chriſti adventum uſque ad ſecundum ſuperfuturi, "The Fates of the Roman Empire, which after the firſt coming of Chriſt was ſtill to continue in being even till the ſecond. And this I affirm, the Roman Kingdom was revealed unto Daniel, but not according to that diſtinct ſucceſſion of things and ſpecification of the Fates thereof (which was firſt made known unto S. John,) but onely in general and in imagine confuſa, not to be explicated but by Chriſt himſelf. I ſay, the Roman Kingdom was revealed to Daniel in general, but the order of the times thereof, and the ſeries rerum gerundarum or courſe of things to be acted therein, not until the Revelation unto S. John.

3. Nor is it ſtrange or unwonted, that a thing may be revealed in general, and yet moſt of the particulars concerning the ſame to be unknown and ſealed. The calling of the Gentiles, or the Kingdom of Chriſt among the Gentiles, by way of ſurrogation to the Jews, was revealed unto S. Peter and the reſt of the Apoſtles; but the particular Fates and States of that Kingdom were never known till Chriſt revealed them to S. John in the Apocalyptical Viſions. The like I ſay of the Fourth or Roman Kingdome; the general revelation whereof could not but be before the opening of the ſealed Book in the Apocalyps, ſince it had then been ſo long a time in the world, as it was grown paſt the ἀκμὴ, and had fulfilled what it was to fulfil upon Daniel's people.

4. As for the Perſecutions of the Church, I deny the argument either of the Seals or Trumpets to be the Roman perſecutions of Chriſt's Kingdom, or that any of them have reference to perſecutions ſave the Fifth Seal only; or that any thing contained in them was made known to Daniel, ſave the Cataſtrophe onely repreſented in the laſt Trumpet, which the Angelus tonitruum proclaims there to be Conſummatio Myſterii Dei, prout annunciavit ſervis ſuis Prophetis, The finiſhing of the Myſtery of God, as he hath declared to his ſervants the Prophets; and therefore cannot be denied to have been both foretold and expected for the general, although not for the Manner, Time, and Order in ſerie rerum gerundarum, till now.

Revel. 10. 7.

5. Howſoever my Tenet here be, yet your Aſſertion, That the Romans perſecution was revealed to none till Chriſt revealed it to John, cannot ſtand, unleſs you deny the coming of the man of ſin (who is a limb of that Kingdom) to be any part of the Churche's afflictions: For this was revealed unto S. Paul, both for the quality and the fall thereof, viz. That Chriſt ſhould deſtroy it ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆ παρουσίας αὐτοῦ· which I make no doubt but S. Paul learned out of the ſeventh of Daniel, where that ruffling Horn alſo is not deſtroyed until the Son of man comes in the clouds of heaven, to receive that Univerſal Kingdom which ſhall never ſuffer perſecution.

2 Theſ. 2. 8.

6. But whereas you ſay, that the ruffling Horn of the Fourth Beaſt is Antiochus Epiphanes; I demonſtrate the contrary by this one Argument.

The ruffling Horn reigns until the Ancient of daies comes in fiery flames to deſtroy him, and to give judgement unto the Saints of the moſt High; and until the time comes that the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom, viz. until the Son of man comes in the clouds of heaven, to receive a Kingdom wherein all Nations, People and Languages ſhould ſerve and obey him, Daniel 7. verſes 9, 10, 11, 13. expounded, ver. 22, 26, &c. But Antiochus Epiphanes reigned not until this time, (for he died 160 years and more before the Birth of Chriſt, and almoſt 200 years before his Aſcenſion; the leaſt of which numbers is a longer ſpace of time then was from the death of Alexander under unto Antiochus.) Ergò Antiochus Epiphanes is not that ruffling Horn.

The changing of Times and Laws (whereby the power of this Horn is deſcribed) is an Oriental phraſe to expreſſe poteſtatem αὐτοκρατορικήν. Nor are Times here to be taken in ſo abſtract a notion, but concretely for ſtatus rerum tempora variantium, or Res quibus variatur ſtatus temporum, as are mutationes Rerumpub. & regiminis rerum; Times, for things done in time, whereby the Times are altered; ſuch as are the alterations of States and Governments: According to which notion, Dan. 2. 21. it is ſaid of God, that he changeth times and ſeaſons, he removeth Kings and ſetteth up Kings; and 1 Chron. 29. 30. that the Acts of David were written in the Books of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad, the Seers, with all his reign, and his might, and the times that went over him, and over Iſrael, and over all the Kingdoms of the Countries. And whether the Pope (if, I ſay, he is that Horn) took not upon him a power of changing ſuch Times as theſe, I ſhall not need to tell you. And yet take Times in your own Notion, and it would make a ſhift to fit him as well as Antiochus.

To your Second Poſition.

The proof of your Second Poſition, That the Fourth Beaſt, Dan. 7. is not able ſufficiently to expreſſe the Roman Empire, is in the maineſt part Petitio principii, wherein that is taken for granted which is in queſtion: For you take for granted, that the Type of the Roman Empire in the Apocalyps borrows his Ten horns from Daniel's fourth Beaſt, as a diſtinct Beaſt from it: But I ſay, he borrows them not, they are his own proper and native horns; Daniel's Beaſt and he being one and the ſame Beaſt. I grant that the Apocalyptical Beaſt for the ſhape of his body is beholding to Daniel's three firſt Beaſts, but that he borroweth any from the fourth, I deny. Nor do Horns, more or fewer, diſtinguiſh the Species of a Beaſt: For in the Apocalyps there is a Lamb with ſeven horns, and a Lamb with two horns, and yet for kind a Lamb ſtill: So Daniel's He-goat had firſt one horn, and afterward four horns, and yet the ſame Goat ſtill, &c.

The correſpondence in number of the ſeveral Heads of Daniel's four Beaſts put together, with the ſeven heads of the Apocalyptical Beaſt, is but caſual: Neither can it be proved that the Fourth of Daniel's Beaſts had but one head, as is here to be ſuppoſed: for the third Beaſt hath the four heads, and the other three but one apiece. For the mentioning of the Head which bore the ten horns in the ſingular number, Verſe 20. proves no more it had but one head, then the mentioning of mouth likewiſe in the ſingular number, Apoc. 13. ver. 2, 5, 6. proves the Apocalyptical Beaſt had but one mouth. For indeed the Ten horns were all upon one head, as well in the Apocalyptical Beaſt (viz. upon the ſeventh or uppermoſt head) as in Daniel's Beaſt; and the mouth of the Apocalyptical Beaſt was the mouth alſo of the ſeventh head, to act the ſtate of which head S. John ſaw him riſe out of the Sea*, &c. * Revel. 13. 1.

And whereas you ſpeak of an inſufficient expreſſion of the Roman Empire by Daniel's Fourth Beaſt; you may perceive by that I have ſaid before, that it would well enough agree with my Principles to grant it; my Tenet being, That the Fourth Beaſt ſhould not be ſo diſtinctly with all accoutrements revealed unto Daniel as it was unto S. John, becauſe the ſpecification of the ſeveral States and Fates thereof was yet ſealed and unrevealed. And the third Kingdom was not ſo diſtinctly revealed to Daniel in the Leopard, Chap. 7. as it was two years after to the ſame Daniel in the great He-goat, Chap. 8. &c. The diſpenſation of God in theſe Revelations is to be meaſured according to his pleaſure and the uſe of the Church, &c.

But

But it is now three a clock, and I have no more time. I had much rather confer of these things by word of mouth, wherein perhaps I could give better satisfaction. Conference by writing is wont to multiply it self into so much paper, as takes away a great deal of my time, and gives me no leisure to perfect that whereby I might perhaps prevent a great part of the Objections which now are made. Thus hoping you will accept this tumultuary Answer, I rest, commending your Studies and endeavours to the Divine Blessing.

Your loving Friend,

Christ's College,
June 17. 1629.

Joseph Meáe.

Epistle VII.

Mr Hayn's Second Letter to Mr Mede, about several Prophetical passages in Daniel and the Revelation.

To the First Thesis.

Before Christ's time all the East (as Tacitus saith,) expected a King to rule over all the world: whence could this be, but from the expectation of the Jews of the Kingdom which was to spread over all the world after the ruine of the fourth Beast in Daniel; and that they now saw the divided Kingdom of the Greeks after Antiochus Epiphanes his time decaying, and likely to be extinguished?

And in Christ's time the faithful, (the rest were blind guides not to be followed) believing Christ and the Apostles preaching the coming of the Kingdom of God, against which Hell gates should not prevail, must necessarily conceive that the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel was at the last cast, and therefore understand the Fourth Kingdom to be the parted Greeks lately expiring in Cleopatra, her Brother Ptolemy, or others, and not the Roman still flourishing, and not likely yet to fall: For the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel was to fall before the setting up of the everlasting Kingdom of Christ. And if in Christ's time the faithful did conceive thus of the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel; then succeeding Ages to those Primitive times, so long as they retained a right judgement, were of the same mind.

The Jews in after-times went about to perswade that the Romans (calling them Edom also) were the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel, because they might be thought to hold aright that Messias was not yet come, who should be the Stone falling on the toes of the Fourth Kingdom. Eusebius and some others have fallen into this trap set by Jews. Seeing it is a course to harden Jews against the true Messias already come, we shall doe well to avoid it.

Object. If you demand, Why then did not Christ and the Apostles use this Argument to prove him the true Messias?

Answ. In effect they did. They preached that the Kingdom of God was at hand: the coming whereof implies the Fall of the Fourth Kingdom; and that was then ocular, and to be understood of the Successours of Antiochus falling, not of the Romans flourishing. And seeing that in the preaching of Christ's Kingdom it was to be taught, that his Kingdom was not of this world, (at which point the Jews stumbled) Christ's main Argument was, The works which I doe, they testify of me.

To the Second Thesis.

You affirm that the Roman Kingdom was revealed to Daniel in imagine confusa confuſa, but explicated to John by ſpecification of the Fates and the order rerum gerundarum.

This cannot ſtand good.

For the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel is more particularly and diſtinctly ſet down then any of the other Three. And if the other Three be not revealed in imagine confuſa, but fully enough for the ſpecification of their Fates and the order of their acts; then much more the Fourth Kingdom, which is farr more amply in types and explication ſet out in Daniel.

Then, ſecondly, It cannot be ſaid to be ſet down in imagine confuſa; for it is orderly and in ſpecial manner handled: Firſt, for the Original; It riſes out of the Sea. Then for the power; It is ſtrong as iron, able to break in pieces and ſubdue all, Dan. 2. 40. It is fearful, very ſtrong, and hath ten horns. It hath iron teeth, and nails of braſs. In concluſion, It hath one little horn, that pulls away three of the former ten; It hath ten Kings, and one unlike the reſt; It in the end ſhall be partly ſtrong as Iron, partly weak as Clay. For the ſtirrs it ſhould make, and the perſecution brought on the Church thereby; It ſubdued and did break in pieces all things, as iron bruiſeth and breaketh all, Dan. 2. 40. It devours and breaks in pieces, and ſtamps the reſidue under feet, Dan. 7. 7. As the ten horns doe miſchief, ſo eſpecially the little horn which made warr with the Saints, and prevailed againſt them, and conſumed them: It waxed great even to the hoſt of heaven, and caſt ſome of the hoſt and the ſtarrs to the ground, and ſtamped on them, Chap. 8. 10. It thought to alter times and laws, Chap. 7. 25. Then alſo (as you hold in your Explication of Dan. 11. verſe 36. and after) the Roman Kingdom is there propheſied of, that he ſhould conquer Macedon, and every King and Nation ſhould perſecute, mock, and crucify Chriſt, and perſecute Chriſtians till Conſtantine's times. Then the Pope ſhould ariſe worſhipping Dæmonia, and countenancing ſingle life, ſhall not regard any God, but magnify himſelf above all; In the Seat and Temple of God, ſhould worſhip Mahuzzims with gold and with ſilver and precious ſtones, and diſtribute the earth among his Mahuzzims; deal with Saracens and Turks, enter into Palæſtine, &c. Chap. 11. Then for the blaſphemy of this Kingdom, mention is made of the mouth ſpeaking preſumptuous things, Chap. 7. 8. ſpeaking againſt the moſt High, Verſe 25. and ſpeaking marvellous things againſt the God of Gods, Chap. 11. 36. —The Fall alſo of this Kingdom is plainly expreſſed, Chap. 2. 34, & 45. & Chap. 7. 11, & 26. by being broken in pieces, and blown as chaffe, by being deſtroyed and given to the fire, by periſhing unto the end. Laſtly, the time of this Fourth Kingdom's domineering, or at leaſt of the chief violence of it, is expreſſed, A time, times, and half a time, anſwerable to the time of the woman's keeping from the Serpent, Apoc. 12. 14. Then the time of taking away the daily ſacrifice continues 2300. days.

Thus it is evident how particularly Daniel hath laid open the Original, the Acts, the Sufferings, and Fall of the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel. And yet I have not brought all particulars. Hence it is manifeſt that this cannot be a general decyphering of the Roman Kingdom, but a particular deſcription of ſome other Kingdom which fell before Chriſt's time.

Here now if you ſhall object that the Beaſt, Dan. 7. doth ſhew the very ſame kingdom that is ſet out Apocal. 13. becauſe in Original, and Power, and Perſecution, and Fall, and Time, it ſo much agrees with the ſame: Object.

I anſwer, That God is unchangeable, and inflicts puniſhments alike on ſinners alike, and expreſſes after-matters by words uſed in narrations of former matters of like nature; which much helps our weakneſs for underſtanding of theſe depths. And therefore the Apocalyps is as it were made up with the Alluſions, Metaphors, and Formulæ loquendi of the Books of the Old Teſtament: Anſw.

ment: yet do not almoſt all the Viſions of the Apocalyps (as one unjuſtly judges) handle imprimis Res Judæorum, but Res Chriſtianorum in the words of former Prophets: So we may expreſs a matter that Tully never dreamed of in Tullie's Phraſes and Metaphors.

Then theſe Beaſts as they agree in many things, ſo they differ in many; in Heads, Mouth, Paws, in one little Horn, &c. but eſpecially that the Beaſt, Dan. 7. is deſtroyed before the ſetting up of Chriſt's Kingdom over all the earth.

To the Third THESIS.

I deny not but that a matter may be revealed in general, and yet the particulars ſealed. So all the Perſecutions of the Church are told in this, I will put enmity between thy ſeed and her ſeed: the particulars then ſealed are opened in the whole Bible. But you ſee above, that the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel is particularly deſcribed, and therefore that deſcription cannot be a general revealing of the Roman Empire: Eſpecially ſeeing we are told that the Lamb ſlain was the revealer of them, and none before. We have alſo general Prophecies of the Romans perſecuting Chriſt and his Church: as that Pſal. 2. Why do the heathen rage? and that Dan. 9. Meſſiah ſhall be ſlain, and Jeruſalem ruinated: But the Roman Kingdom is there in no ſhape or form pictured. Some other Prophecies in general Terms there may be of the Roman Empire, the particulars whereof (as you well ſay) are ſhewed to John; ſo that Daniel's Fourth Kingdome particularly deſcribed cannot belong to them. Daniel's Book begins with Babel's waſting the City Jeruſalem, and ends with the utter overthrow of the City and Temple by the Romans. After Jeruſalem's overthrow in Domitian's time, Chriſt reveals to John what ſhould befall to the Church to the end of the world: and here the Romans are fully and plainly painted out to us.——Here you object,

Object. But the Roman power had been long in the world, and was now paſt the ἀκμὴ, and had fulfilled what it was to fulfil on Daniel's people.

Anſw. I anſwer, God in his Book deigns not to meddle with the actions of Kingdoms, otherwiſe then as they perſecute his people, or favour them, or are inſtruments to puniſh them, or are puniſhed for perſecuting them. The Babylonians and Nebuchadnezzar did worthy deeds before the firſt Captivity of Judah, which God paſſes over, and begins the count of Nebuchadnezzar's reign from the firſt Captivity. Cyrus and Darius were of good years when they overthrew Babel, and had not ſpent their former years idlely: their reign alſo is counted by God but from the overthrow of Babel and rule over the Jews. So what the Romans firſt did in Italy, afterward againſt Neighbour-nations, and then in divers parts more remote, God paſſes over, and onely foretells what they were to doe againſt the Jews falling from God, and how to kill the Meſſiah, Dan. 9. And then in Apocal. what they were to doe againſt his Church, or ſuffer for afflicting his Church.

Nor had the Romans fulfilled what they were to fulfil on the Jews, Daniel's people, before the revelation to John: For ever ſince the overthrow of Jeruſalem, the Jews have been ſcattered and oppreſſed by the power and laws of Rome in divers parts of Europe and elſewhere.

To the Fourth THESIS.

I wrote (or elſe it was lapſus pennæ) that the opening of ſeven Seals, and blowing ſeven Trumpets, were concerning Seven-headed Rome; that is, as either it perſecuted the Saints, or was plagued for perſecuting them: which I know you will grant. The perſecution of the Saints of God is plain in other parts of the Revelation. Now ſeeing Daniel in all ſpeeches of the everlaſting Kingdom never mentions any perſecutors of it, and their carriages and falls, but the perſecutions of Daniel's people the Jews, and not the Chriſtian Church;

Church; it seems evident to me, that he meddles not with the Roman Empire's doings after the destruction of Jerusalem, or the Pope's doings long after.

The consummatio Mysterii Dei, prout annunciavit servis suis Prophetis, The finishing of the Mystery of God, as he hath shewn to his servants the Prophets, proves not that the Roman matters were foretold to the ancient Prophets. The words Apocal. 10. 7. are, ὁ εὐηγγελίσατο τοὺς δούλους αὐτοῦ τοὺς προφήτας· which construction intimates the glad tidings of the Gospel since Christ, brought to the present Prophets or Preachers of the times from Christ: so the speech of God's Servants the Prophets is understood Rev. 22. 9.

To the Fifth Thesis.

The Romans persecuting the Christian Church was revealed to none till Christ revealed them to John, namely, so as that the Romans were plainly decyphered, and by evident marks distinguished to be the Nation spoken of. The coming of false Prophets was foretold Matt. 24. the Man of Sin and his consuming, 2 Thess. 2. but there was nothing to shew of what People and Nation and City he should be. What knowledge soever Paul had of these things concerning Rome's persecution of the Church, he may well be said to have it by Revelation from Christ, Gal. 1. 12. the opener of this little Book. There is no circumstance of the ruffling Horn Dan. 7. which could teach Paul that the Romans were the Fourth Beast, Daniel 7. for any thing that I know.

Coming in the Clouds, Dan. 7. is not to the last Judgement at Doomsday, but Christ's coming to take the Kingdom which he preached to be at hand, of all power being given to him. The phrase of coming in the Clouds is borrowed from the Cloud in the Wilderness, and God's presence in the Cloud on the Tabernacle often; intimating God's defence and direction of his Church. See Isa. 4. 5. most pertinent to this sense. The heathen have the like phrase. Iliad. ε'. God is present to Diomedes, ——νεφέλῃ εἰλυμένος ὤμους· and Virg. 7. Æn.

Pater omnipotens——radiis ardentem lucis & auro
Ipse manu quatiens ostendit ab æthere nubem:

When Jupiter came to assist Æneas now to settle in Italy.

It is not said of the Universal Kingdom in Daniel, that it should never suffer persecution; but that it never should be destroyed: because 'tis built on the Rock Christ, no power shall prevail against it. That it should never be destroyed, implies that it should be impugned: But how in these later Times, John in the Apocalyps shews from Christ.

To the Sixth Thesis.

I answer to the Assumption, That Antiochus Epiphanes, whom God suffered much to prevail against the Jews, reigned till God came to destroy him by his own hand, as unresistible as fire: For destruction by fire in Scripture is an high Metaphor, and expresseth often unresistible destruction. After Epiphanes's death, (who was the last hot persecutor) God gave often victory to the Jews against the Greeks; which verifies that in the Greeks which was typed in the Feet, part of Iron, to break the Jews, part of Clay, not able to harm others or defend themselves. And so much the weaker were those Feet, because the Iron and Clay could not be mixt together to strengthen each other. God now shewed himself favourable to the Jews, and gave judgement or defence to them, partly by their own valour, partly by the Romans interposing themselves as friends. Now the Throne of the Ancient of days was set, and the Jews had defence (till Christ's time) from the weak Greeks.

And now the Romans having an inch given them, take an ell, and usurp authority over the Jews; and with them kill Christ the Messiah. But Christ overcame death, and had all power in heaven and in earth given him, Matth. 28.

This his Kingdom we acknowledge in our prayers, and the Church celebrates, Apocal. 5. by the voice of all such as were made Priests and Kings to reign on the earth, even such as were gathered out of all nations, tongues and kindreds.

That which you adde about Times put for Things done in time, is very true for the signification of the Phrase when it comes alone in diverse places: But here changing of Times and Laws goe together. Antiochus Epiphanes his dealings wonderfully agree to this. 1 Mac. 1. 42. He would make every one leave his Laws. He forbids burnt-offering and sacrifice, Verse 45. He commands the Books of the Law to be burnt, Verse 56, 57. He slew the Jews for circumcising their children, Verse 60. He puts down their Laws, 2 Macc. 4. 10. & 6. 1, 2. He uses threats and cruelty, then flattery, to make them forsake the Law, 2 Macc. 7. All these stirrs grew from the Greeks attempting to make them leave their Lawes, 1 Macc. 6. 59. Then Epiphanes his attempt to alter Times is clear in his command to put down the Sabbaths and Feasts, and his making them to keep Bacchus Feasts, 2 Mac. 6. 7.

To the Seventh THESIS.

The Fourth Beast, Dan. 7. and the First Beast, Revel. 13. are not one and the same: They differ much in shape of body, and in their acts, and in their falls and plagues. Besides, that in the Apocal. is made as it were of all the four in Daniel, and is so described as if it came in stead, and was comparable to them all; as indeed it was.

Horns, more or less, distinguish not a Beast. That infirms not what I said. By the way onely I here observe, That the Beast with seven horns was a Lamb indeed, that is Christ. The Beast Apocal. 13. with two horns, had these two horns like a Lamb's, but in truth he might be a Wolf.

Seeing it is not said that Daniel's Fourth Beast had four heads, (therein I mistook in my former writing) it is to be presumed he had but one, as Beasts usually have no more; except in Vision, for expression of some special matter, more heads be attributed to them. The Third Beast, Dan. 7. had four heads. The number of which four heads, with the three heads of the other three Beasts, fits so well with John's Beast, besides the resemblance to the Lion, Bear, Leopard, that I believe it cannot be casual, especially seeing it is in God's Booke.

Concerning that you say of Mouth put singularly, I answer, that the Beast Apocal. 13. had seven heads with names of blasphemy: This will imply that each had a mouth, and that a blasphemous mouth, which is more. Besides, the very nomination of head implies a mouth, and seven heads, seven mouths. And whereas there is mention of a mouth given the Beast Verse 5. methinks that should intimate the extremity of blasphemy proceeding from the seventh head beyond all the rest.

Whereas you say the third Kingdom in Dan. was not so distinctly revealed Chap. 7. as afterwards Chap. 8. That is true. And further I adde, That in Visions and Prophecies God hath spoken πολυμερῶς, and revealed things to come by parts; so that several Visions or Prophecies laid together make up the whole. In each of Daniel's Visions something is passed over to be supplied by the rest. In the second Chapter there is nothing to type Alexander's four chief Captains, nor is it told what people should be trode on by the Iron legs. In Chap. 7. the Exposition of the three former kingdoms is very brief, the Exposition of the fourth very large. The weakness of Antiochus his Successors is unexpressed. In Chap. 8. nine of the horns coming out of Alexander's Captains are passed over, and the little Horn fully set out. The Kingdom of Christ over all Nations is not spoken of at all. These things things thus passed over, are supplied by the rest. So it is in the Revelation: The afflicting of God's Church is diversly expressed, and the afflicters thereof, and the afflicted by them. So that no one Vision, but the several Visions laid together, do give us a perfect and whole delineation of what was to come from that time to the end of the World.

EPISTLE VIII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Mr. Hayn's Second Letter, about several passages in Daniel and the Revelation.

SIR,

I Received yours at the Commencement: wherein I found, if I should answer to every part, I should have as many Questions to dispute as I sent you Theses: The experience of which multiplications in that kind makes me so backward in Collations by writing. So that I can with much more patience endure to be contradicted, then be drawn to make Reply. But all this time, the truth is, I had no leisure, nor yet have, and am presently also to go into the Country, where I shall stay some weeks, and have no opportunity to write. That I might not therefore in the mean time seem too much to neglect you, I have caused a Scholar of yours to write out something I had by me in a Paper long agoe written, wherein you may further see my Opinion, and some part of the grounds thereof.

When I return, and have more leisure, I shall answer to what I find Principal in your Replies; but not to what is Circumstantial: for so the business would grow too tedious for my pen. In the mean time I would desire you to believe that I have read the most that hath or can be said for that Opinion, either by the chief Patrons thereof, Broughton and Junius, or their followers, Polanus, Piscator, D^r Willet; and that whilst I was yet free, and first began with these kind of studies; and yet found nothing that could in the least measure perswade me to be of their mind: And I see now that the modern Writers, and even some of their Scholars, return to the ancient opinion, and forsake their Masters in this point. This I speak, not to boast of my reading in this controversie, but to shorten your Discourses which you may send hereafter; you shall need but touch, and spare the labour of so much enlargement. But a word or two to your Reply.

Whereas you say, The ground of the expectation of the coming of Christ when he came, was the Fall or expiration of the Fourth Kingdom; I utterly deny it. The ground was the near expiration of Daniel's 70 weeks, concurring with the ἀκμὴ of the Fourth Kingdom, the Roman; during which his Kingdom was to be first revealed, and at the end of which consummated. Besides, I acknowledge no place, in this account of Kingdoms, for the Greeks after Antiochus Epiphanes, when the Holy Ghost expresly placeth the end of that Kingdom; much less will admit Cleopatra to prolong it, and that too after the Romans had subdued Judæa.

You mistake my Answer, That the Roman or Fourth Kingdom was revealed to Daniel in imagine confusa. For I meant it neither absolutely, as if it had no distinction in its description, nor in comparison with the former Three, then which in that place it is more particular and distinct. But I meant it was in imagine confusa, in respect of those distinct States and times thereof which were revealed unto S. John, and not unto Daniel: that it was confused in comparison of that which was more particular of the same subject: As is Daniel's description of the second and third Beast in the seventh Chapter, compared with that more particular description of the same in the eighth and eleventh Chapters.

Whereas you say, The Jews since Christ brought in this opinion of the Roman to be the Fourth Kingdom, that so they might the better maintain their expectation of Messiah yet to come, because that Kingdom was yet in being; I say, it was affirmed by whosoever first affirmed it without all ground, authority, or probability; the contrary also being easie to be proved, viz. That the Jews were of this opinion before our Saviour came; as appears in Jonathan ben Uziel, the Chaldee Paraphrast, and by the fourth Book of Esdras, which, whatsoever the authority thereof be, is sufficient to prove this, being written by a Jew, (for it is, saith Picus, the first of their seventy Books of Cabbala) and before our Saviour's coming, as appears by many passages of Messiah expected, and yet to appear within four hundred years after that supposed time of Esdras. Certainly he that wrote it meant no hurt to Christians; as will easily appear to him that reads it, and finds the Name Jesus, and so often mention of the Son of God. Which I note, in case you should rather think it written after Christ. If it were, it was certainly by a Christian. The ancient mention thereof is by Clemens Alexandrinus Anno 200. though I know some body affirms the first mention thereof is by S. Ambrose, two hundred years after; sed fallitur. Yet I take not the Book to be Canonical Scripture.

As for the Christian Doctors, it is well known that both Justin Martyr (within 30 years of S. John's death) and Irenæus were of this opinion, and knew no other amongst Christians; and yet they both lived and conversed with the Apostles immediate Disciples, and the latter of them brought up at Polycarpus's feet, who was S. John's Disciple, and could relate to Irenæus (as himself saith) what S. John was wont to doe and speak. Therefore Eusebius was not worth the naming, as caught with this trap; seeing it cannot be proved that ever any Christian before him or after him, till after S. Hierom's time, held the contrary; and then too was soon checked, and not heard of again till the last Seculum.

But as for the opinion you would perswade to, it was first broached by Porphyrie, an enemy of Christ, to the end he might prove the Prophecy of Daniel counterfeit, and written about the time of the Maccabees, soon after the death of Antiochus Epiphanes, and so propheſied nothing but ab eventu, as meaning by the Fourth Kingdom the Seleucidæ, &c. not the Roman. See S. Hierome upon those Chapters of Daniel 7. & 11. and you will admire the Expositions and Evasions of Porphyrie should be the same almost, yea in circumstances, with those of Junius, &c. But S. Hierome in his time knew no Christian that had been of that opinion. Let any man shew as much for what you affirm of the Jews, as insinuators of this opinion in præjudicium fidei Christianæ.

The Purport of the Four Kingdoms in DANIEL: or The A. B. C. of Prophecie.

THE FOUR KINGDOMS in Daniel are twice revealed: First, to Nebuchadnezzar, in a glorious Image of Four sundry Metalls; secondly, to Daniel himself, in a Vision of Four diverse Beasts arising out of the Sea. The intent of both is by that succession of Kingdoms to point out the time of the Kingdom of Christ, which no other Kingdom should succeed or destroy.

Nebu-

Nebuchadnezzar's Image Daniel 2.

Nebuchadnezzar's Image points out Two States of the Kingdom of Chriſt. The Firſt to be while thoſe times of the Kingdoms of the Gentiles yet laſted, typified by a Stone hewen out of a Mountain without hands, the Monarchical Statue yet ſtanding upon his feet. The Second not to be until the utter deſtruction and diſſipation of the Image, when the Stone having ſmote it upon the feet, ſhould grow into a great Mountain, which ſhould fill the whole earth. The Firſt may be called, for diſtinction ſake, Regnum Lapidis, the Kingdom of the Stone; which is the State of Chriſt's Kingdom which hitherto hath been: The other, Regnum Montis, the Kingdom of the Mountain, (that is, of the Stone grown into a Mountain, &c.) which is the State of his Kingdom which hereafter ſhall be. The Intervallum between theſe two, from the time the Stone was firſt hewen out (that is, the Kingdom of Chriſt was firſt advanced) until the time it becomes a Mountain (that is, when the Myſterie of God ſhall be finiſhed) is the Subject of the Apocalyptical Viſions. Rev. 10. 7.

Note here, firſt, That the Stone is expounded by Daniel to be that laſting Kingdom which the God of Heaven ſhould ſet up. Secondly, That the Stone was hewen out of the Mountain before it ſmote the Image upon the feet, and conſequently before the Image was diſſipated; and therefore that the Kingdom typified by the Stone, while it remained a Stone, muſt needs be within the times of thoſe Monarchies, that is, before the laſt of them (viz. the Roman) ſhould expire: Wherefore Daniel interprets, Ver. 44. That in the daies of theſe Kingdoms (not after them, but while ſome of them were yet in being) the God of heaven ſhould ſet up a Kingdom which ſhould never be deſtroyed, nor left (as they were) to another people; but ſhould break in pieces and conſume all thoſe Kingdoms, and it ſelf ſhould ſtand for ever. And all this he ſpeaks as the Interpretation of the Stone; Foraſmuch (ſaith he) as thou ſaweſt that a Stone was cut out of a Mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the braſs, the clay, the ſilver, and the gold. Here make the full point; For theſe words belong not to that which follows (as our Bibles by miſ-diſtinguiſhing ſeem to refer them,) but to that which went before of their Interpretation. But the Stone's becoming a Mountain he expounds not, but leaves to be gathered by what he had already expounded.

Daniel's Viſion of Four Beaſts, Dan. 7.

The ſame Kingdoms of the Gentiles are typified here which were in the former of Nebuchadnezzar's Image; namely, the Babylonian, Perſian, Greek, and Roman. Onely Nebuchadnezzar's Image pointed out both States of Chriſt's Kingdom, firſt Lapidis, then Montis: But Daniel's Viſion of Four Beaſts omits the firſt, (which was to be while the Fourth Beaſt yet lived) and deſigns the laſt onely, when that ruffling Horn's time being finiſhed, and the Beaſt deſtroyed, The Ancient of daies gives the Son of man a Kingdom, wherein all nations, tongues and people ſhould ſerve and obey him, Dan. 7. 13.

The Reaſon: Nebuchadnezzar, a Gentile, was a Type of the Gentiles, who were to have their part in both eſtates of Chriſt's Kingdom; wherefore both are ſhewn him. Daniel, a Jew, was a Type of the Jews, whoſe nation ſhould have no ſhare in the firſt, but onely in the laſt, and therefore the laſt is onely ſhewn him.

This Univerſal Kingdom of the Son of man revealed in the clouds of heaven, which Daniel here ſaw, and which the Angel expounds to be the Kingdom of the Saints of the moſt High, is the ſame with that voiced in the Apocalyps, upon the ſound of the ſeventh Trumpet, All the Kingdoms of the World are become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of his Chriſt. Compare them. Rev. 11. 15.

Whence it will follow, That thoſe finiſhing times of the Fourth Beaſt, called a Time, Times, and half a Time, during which that wicked Horn ſhould domineer and ruffle it among his ten Kings, are the ſelf-ſame Time which the Angel in S. John forewarneth ſhould be no longer, as ſoon as the ſeventh Angel began to ſound, Chap. 10. 6.

The ſelf-ſame Times, whoſe finiſhing the ſame Angel ſwears unto Daniel (in the ſame form and geſture he doth to S. John) ſhould be the period of thoſe wondrous afflictions of the Church, and of the ſcattering of the power of the holy people, Dan. 12. 7.

And conſequently, thoſe very Times of the Gentiles whereof our Saviour ſpeaks, Luk. 21. 24. that the treading down of Jeruſalem and diſperſion of the Jews ſhould laſt untill the Times of the Gentiles were finiſhed: Even the ſame Times whereof Tobit harped, Chap. ult. That notwithſtanding Judah ſhould again after a while return and build a ſecond Temple, yet ſhould not the Univerſal reſtitution be, nor Iſrael return from all places of their Captivity, ἕως πληρωθῶσι καιροὶ τοῦ αἰῶνος.

Laſtly, the ſame Times with S. John's Apocalyptical Times of the renewed Beaſt's blaſphemous reign, and profanation of the Temple and City of God forty two months, or 1260. days: Foraſmuch as the ſame Kingdom of our Lord Chriſt is the immediate and common conſequent to them all.

Compare them.

When Daniel's times are done, the Son of man comes in the clouds of heaven, to receive the Empire of all the Kingdoms of the world, Dan. 7. 14.

When S. Luke's times of the Gentiles are finiſhed, * then ſhall be Signs in the Sun and Moon; the Son of man comes alſo in the clouds of heaven, ver. 27. the redemption of Iſrael, ver. 28. and the Kingdom of God is at hand, ver. 31.

* For καὶ ἔσται, v. 25. is, Then ſhall be Signs: So the Hebrews uſe that copulative, and the Greek Teſtament with them.

When S. John's Apocalyptical Beaſt's forty two months reign, with the Witneſſes 1260. daies mourning, determine; the Ark of the Covenant is ſeen in heaven, and all the Kingdoms of the world become the Kingdoms of our Lord and his Chriſt, Apocal. 11. 15. ad finem.

An Appendix.

The Firſt coming of Chriſt was to be while the Fourth Kingdom was yet in being; his Second, when it ſhould end. The hewing of the Stone out of the mountain, (which is the rearing of the Kingdom of Chriſt) was before it ſmote the Image upon the feet, and upon the deſtruction thereof became ſo great a Mountain as filled the whole earth. Therefore the hewing out of this Stone was while this Image was yet in being.

Daniel himſelf interprets the Stone to be the Kingdom of Chriſt, (not Chriſt himſelf) and ſaies that the God of heaven ſhould ſet it up in the daies of thoſe Kings, or Kingdoms, that is, adhuc currente horum Regum periodo, vel diebus Tetrarchiæ hujus nondum expletis, whileſt the daies of thoſe Kingdoms of the Gentiles yet laſted, or before they expired; namely, whileſt the laſt of thoſe Kingdoms was ſtill current and in being. He that ſhall here expound [in the daies] to mean [after the daies] ſhall give me leave not to believe him, unleſs alſo he can perſwade me, that the Stone which ſmote the Image was hewed out of the mountain after the Image was daſhed in pieces and vaniſhed.

The Jews in our Saviour's time expected the Meſſiah's coming before the times of the Fourth Kingdom expired. For they looked it ſhould be deſtroyed by him after he was come, and then the Kingdom reſtored to Iſrael. According to that of Dan. 7. when the Beaſt ſhould be ſlain and his body deſtroyed, the Kingdom ſhould be given to the people of the Saints of the moſt High. Onely they thought not the diſtance between the firſt coming of Chriſt and his deſtruction of the Fourth Beaſt to be ſo long. Whence was that queſtion of the Apoſtles to our Saviour at his Aſcenſion, Wilt thou now reſtore the Kingdom to Iſrael? Acts 1.

was

But I am gone much further then ever I intended, and therefore will here make an end. I make queſtion whether you can reade my ſcribling: If you can, I hope you will excuſe my haſt. And ſo I commend you to the divine protection, and am

Your loving Friend,

Chriſt's College,
July 22. Joſeph Meáe.

EPISTLE IX.

Mr Hayn's Third Letter to Mr Mede, about ſeveral paſſages in Daniel and the Revelation.

SIR,

I Confeſs that conference by writing multiplies words, by giving more ſcope to deliberation; and may juſtly make you backward to Collations in this kind: But the diſquiſition and finding of truth countervails all; then which I ſeek nothing more by this my pains. To that part of your anſwer received July 22. I have incloſed a Reply; and expect the reſt of your Anſwer formerly intended, when you ſhould return to Cambridge: And now to this preſent Reply as your occaſions will permit. Such Writings as I have ſeen of yours teſtifie to me both your plentiful reading, and diligent obſervation of matters moſt remarkable therein; as alſo (I am perſwaded) in this Argument: Yet cannot all that yet you have ſaid drive me from my hold. I reverence the Learned on both ſides, and will ever give them all due reſpect; and will not be found to ſtand ſingle in any opinion. But the perſons of men ſhall not ſway me againſt the native light of the ſacred Text, which I know makes for me. If Alſted and ſome others have left their Maſters in ſome of theſe points; I think we ſhall find others, (as Glaſſius*) of equal judgement to* Alſted, to run this way. But 'tis to be conſidered herein, not ſo much Qui dicunt pro aut contra, as Quid dicunt. And therefore I will not put into the ſcales mens Authority, but their Reaſons: And hope that after your peruſal of this preſent Reply, you will be more inclinable to a different judgement from ſome of your former Tenets. And thus leaving you to the protection and direction of the God of truth, I reſt,

Octob. 8. 1629. from Chriſt's Hoſpital, London. Your very loving Friend, Tho. Hayne.

THE ground of the expectation of the coming of Chriſt and his Kingdom, was (ſay you) the near expiration of Daniel's Seventy weeks.

The expectation of Simeon, Anna, and others, of the Magi, and them of the East, was ſeventy years before the end of Daniel's Seventy weeks, according to your opinion. For you hold that the Seventy weeks end at Jeruſalem's overthrow, which was after Chriſt's Birth ſeventy years. Therefore it could not be any mark for the looking for of Chriſt. 2. At the end of the Seventy weeks, according to your judgement, the City and Sanctuary was to be deſtroyed, ſacrifice ended, and deſolation brought on the Jews: Therefore the Seventy weeks (according to your Tenet) is a mark of other matters, not of Chriſt's or the Repl.

Saints Kingdom, but rather of Veſpaſian's, as Joſephus ſaith, which enſued juſt upon the end of the Seventy weeks.

Bell. Jud. 7. 12.

But in truth Daniel's Seventy weeks end at Chriſt's death: and ſeeing Chriſt was expected to be King of the Jews, all that truly kept account of the Seventy weeks, might rightly conceive that Chriſt about thirty years before the expiration of the Seventy weeks ſhould be born; and ſo about thirty years old, (which are years fit for publick charge) ſhould enter upon that Kingdom. Of this reaſon I forbore to write formerly, becauſe I ſaw that we ſhould differ about the beginning and end of Daniel's Seventy weeks, which would bring on a new controverſie between us.

That Chriſt's Kingdom was (as you affirm) to be revealed in the ἀκμὴ of the Fourth Kingdom, I ſee no Text that proves it; nor that Chriſt's Kingdom ſhould be conſummated at the end of the Roman Kingdom. At the end of the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel it was to begin, Chap. 7. And that it was perfected in Chriſt Jeſus is evident; for he overcame the Devil, Death, Hell, and all; and teaches that all power is given him in heaven and earth, that all things bow to him, and that he led captivity captive. Further, I have good ground for to ſay, that the extirpation of the Fourth Kingdom was one ſure mark of Chriſt's coming, and his Kingdom: for that onely is the mark of the ſame, Chap. 2. and 7. where that Kingdom is mentioned.

You will not admit the Greeks any Rule after Antiochus Epiph. death, becauſe the Holy Ghoſt ends their Kingdom in him.

I ſay the Holy Ghoſt ends the domineering violence and perſecution of the Saints in him; but there were to be clayie feet after him. Stories ſhew that many Kings of the Greeks ruled after him; and in the end Cleopatra, a woman (as Joſephus ſaith) of chief Nobility in thoſe times: even Cæſar at firſt umpired between her and her brother, in matters of difference between them. She had the revenue of Jericho and Arabia, and other parts; ſhe killed all her kindred that might ſtand in her way, and deſired Antonie to doe the like by them of chief bloud in Syria, that ſhe in right of the Greeks might have all. She, with the reſt after Epiphanes, were ſufficient to expreſſe the clayie legs. And that Rule is ſufficient, and all that I ſtand for.

Joſeph. 15. 5. Xiphil.

Joſeph. Bell. 1. 13.

Beſides, the Stone as cut out (not as growing to a Mountain) is to fall on the toes: So that if by the legs the Romans be underſtood, Chriſt was not to come in their ἀκμὴ, but at their fall. Evident it is that Chriſt's Kingdom took place (as frequent mention of it in the New Teſtament ſhews) at his firſt coming, and ſo began at the beginning of the Roman perſecutions, not at the ἀκμὴ of them; they were abundant and manifold afterward. The ἀκμὴ of their Empire hath nothing to doe here.

You hold ſtill that the Roman Kingdom was revealed to Daniel, but not according to the diſtinct Fates and Times, as to John. I ſhewed that the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel was revealed to him moſt diſtinctly, for the original, proceeding, ſtrength, acts, perſecution, ſufferings, fall: All the ſame are revealed to John about the Roman Kingdom. Now if they ſhould both ſpeak of the Roman Kingdom but in theſe points; how could it be true in John, that this Book was opened by none (as you limit it, according to the diſtinct Fates) before by Chriſt? Therefore the limitation propounded by you cannot hold.

I ſay not that the Jews after the Apoſtles times brought in or invented the opinion, That the Romans were Daniel's Fourth Kingdom, but that they endeavoured to perſwade it; whoever were the brochers of it, Jonathan Ben Uziel, or any other, ſurely ſome of their ſtamp. And the rather they then did and now do perſwade to it, becauſe ſome Chriſtians by aſſenting to them give them advantage therein.

If Porphyrie, an enemy to Chriſtians, overcome by the evidence of truth, con- confeſſed it; that is a greater confirmation of the truth. The Devil confeſſed Chriſt to be the Son of the living God; though the Devil be a lier commonly, yet now he ſpake that which was moſt true. Beſides, in S. Jerome it appears, that Porphyrie was not alone in that opinion: but that divers others held the ſame. And in the eleventh chapter S. Jerome goes along with Porphyrie in moſt things; but addeth this, That Antichriſt and his doings were there typed. And in points in which S. Jerome croſſeth Porphyrie, his arguments are ſometimes but his own bare aſſertion, ſometimes weak. If you pleaſe to ſet the beſt edge on them that may be, we will try them. And Porphyrie had Suctorius his Author. S. Jer. in Dan. c. 11.

To the writing in a different hand.

You hold Chriſt's Kingdom to be double; First, Regnum Lapidis, while the times of the Four Kingdoms laſted.

I ſay, it cannot be in the time of the three former Kingdoms; for it was preached by Chriſt and the Apoſtles to be at hand in the time of the Romans: Antiochus Epiphanes his time, whom you make the laſt of the Greeks, being paſt well-near, or full hundreds of years before. Beſides, I object, That if Chriſt's Kingdom be ſet up in the Fourth Kingdom's time, it muſt be ſet up in the three formers time alſo. For it confounded the gold, ſilver, braſſe, iron, as well as fell on the clayie legs. Again, if you make the Stone to continue a Stone from Chriſt's time till ours, and ſome years after (God knows how long) to ſmite the feet of the Image; you will make the legs and feet of the Image above 1600 years long, three times and more as long as all the body.

The Second Kingdom of Chriſt you hold to be Regnum montis, that ſhall fill the whole earth, to ariſe when the Image ſhall be utterly deſtroyed. 1. I ſay, This diviſion of Chriſt's Kingdom is no where in Scripture plainly expreſſed, though this Kingdom be moſt frequently handled. If ſuch a thing had been, it would in one place or other, in the various handling of it, have been plainly taught. 2. The Stone ſpreads it ſelf over the whole earth preſently; Their ſound is gone into all lands: There were at Pentecoſt devout men of all nations under heaven, who (the Spirit inabling them extraordinarily) might carry the Goſpel into all parts.

The Myſterie you ſpeak of, I conceive not: I am ſure of this, That the Stone, Ch. 2. which became a Mountain, is the ſame with Chriſt and his Kingdom, Chap. 7. Nor do I conceive how Nebuchadnezzar is a Type of the Gentiles, or Daniel of the Jews: But I am ſure that the Jews in good meaſure had part in Regno Lapidis, as you call it: For the Apoſtles and many other Chriſtians were Jews, and Paul is told that (not many Thouſands onely, as ſome Tranſlations have it, but) many Myriads of Jews believed, Act. 21. 20. Therefore you hold amiß, that the Jews had not part in Regno Lapidis.

The Univerſal Kingdom of Chriſt (ſay you) is the ſame in Daniel and the Apocalyps. This is moſt true. Further, I ſay this was begun by Chriſt, when he ſaith, All power is given to me, &c. go teach and baptize all nations: and ſo Chriſt wills that out of all nations ſubjects ſhould be gathered to him. Καὶ τοῦτο εἰ μὴ πανταχοῦ κατέσκευε, ἀλλὰ τόγε βέλτιστα τῆς πολιτείας ἕξει. Iſocrat. And if in nations where the Goſpel was preached many aſſented not, Chriſt told us that alſo, Many be called, few choſen.

So then that which you hold will follow, doth not follow, ſeeing that the ground-work of it is not ſound; eſpecially ſeeing the Univerſal Kingdom of a Thouſand years (by Juſtin Martyr held, but then contradicted, as he ſaith; and had he ſeen what the length of time ſince hath given us to ſee, he would, I am perſwaded, have been of another mind) and the Arguments for it, though brought in ſcores, will prove but light, if they come to examination. Alſted.

To the Appendix.

The Firſt coming of Chriſt (ſay you) was while the Fourth Kingdom in Daniel

was

was yet in being; becauſe the Stone was hewen out of the mountain before it ſmote the Image on the feet.

But I ſay, the whole Image was ſtanding in the Viſion while the Stone was cut out. So by the ſame reaſon, the firſt coming of Chriſt, and the raiſing of his Kingdom, ſhould be during the times of the Kingdoms of the whole Image; for the Stone, as it fell on the feet, ſo it brake all to pieces, the iron, braſs, clay, ſilver, gold. The truth is, that Chriſt's coming and kingdom was at the end of the Image, and ruine of the four Beaſts; yet did the Stone, that is Chriſt (ſo Juſt. Mart. and others take it) as he was God, deſtroy them all by his Inſtruments; that is, Babel by the Medes and Perſians, and thoſe by the Greeks; the Greeks by their own diſcords, and by judgement given to the Saints in the Maccabees times, and the Romans interpoſing as friends and aſſociates, not as chief parties.

And for any ſound reaſon that I know we have to the contrary, we may ſay, that the Stone was cut out of the mountain after the ruine of the whole Image, in the fulfilling of the Viſion, though not in Daniel's ſight of it. For you will grant, that it was cut out after the fall of the three former kingdoms, and yet did break the gold, ſilver and braſs, by his inſtruments, and ſo might alſo break the iron and clay, though it roſe after the fall of the Fourth Kingdom. The reaſon is alike of both; for as it is ſaid to fall on the toes of the one, ſo alſo it is ſaid to break the reſt.

Object. In the daies of thoſe kings, or kingdoms, Dan. 2. This is the great argument againſt me.

Anſw. To it I anſwer, That if the words be taken in their ſtrict force, they intimate the daies of Babel, Perſians, and Greeks alſo (and not of the Fourth Kingdom onely:) which you will not grant. And if בְּ ſignifie after the daies of ſome of thoſe Kingdoms, (as you cannot but grant) why not of the reſt alſo? Beſides, you know the Hebrew particles be exceeding various in their ſignification; and hardly any particle more then this. Again, the force of it muſt be ſometimes (after:) See Exod. 2. 11. and v. 23. eſpecially, בַּיָּמִים הָרַבִּים הָהֵם וַיָּמָת מֶלֶךְ after many daies, or in proceſs of time: But (in many daies the king died) cannot ſtand good. Let it not then ſeem ſtrange that בְּ may ſignifie after.

The Jews expected aright, in the time of Chriſt's preaching, the Kingdom promiſed in Daniel, becauſe the 70. weeks were within two or three years at an end, and the Greeks ruinated; but their error was, that they expected that Chriſt ſhould have a Terrene kingdom: And if any conceived that Chriſt in his own perſon ſhould overthrow outwardly the Fourth Kingdom, therein they erred: For Chriſt tells them plainly, that his Kingdom is not of this world, (which Solomon found a map of vanity) that the Kingdom of God is within them: A Kingdom far beyond all Promiſes in phraſes of an outward Kingdom. If they had known as much as we, (thanks be to God) doubtleſs they would have thought the time long, that Chriſt ſhould then be come, and now 1629. years after, the Beaſt not yet deſtroyed, nor the Kingdom reſtored; and that the Fourth Beaſt ſhould have thrice as much time as the other three Beaſts, according to your Tenet.

Not the Phariſees onely, Luke 17. 20. but the Apoſtles, Acts 1. 6. enquire about the reſtoring of the Kingdom to Iſrael. This was becauſe they ſaw the fourth Beaſt ſlain and deſtroyed; namely, the Greeks; for the Romans now flouriſhed. It may be, that the not conceiving how the Saints could have a kingdom, and the Romans not be ſubdued, might make ſome of them ſtagger, and be in doubt whether the Romans were not the Fourth. Chriſt's anſwers laid together might have made them ſee the Spiritual Kingdom, and lay hold of that, and not expect a Terrene.

Octob. 8. 1629.

Mr. Mede's

Epistle X.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Hayn's Third Letter, about ſeveral paſſages in Daniel and the Revelation.

SIR,

I Received yours not till yeſterday: whereby I perceive you have more confidence to convince me by this kind of diſcourſing, then I have you: For I confeſs freely, I find you ſo well ſettled in your opinion, that I have no hope to alter you; and yet nevertheleſs am as ſtrongly perſwaded of the truth of my own Tenet, notwithſtanding all you have ſaid, as ever I was before we began; and for all this, am as willing to embrace Truth, where I ſee evidence for it, as moſt men; ſo far as I can judge of my ſelf by experience of my alteration in ſome points formerly embraced. Thus much I anſwer to the cloſe of your Letter, where you ſay, you hope that by the peruſal of your Reply I will be more inclinable to a different judgement from my former Tenets.

M^r. Hayn, though I can reaſonably well perſwade my ſelf of many things I believe; yet had I never ſo much confidence in me, as to be able to perſwade another of a contrary judgement, if he were once ſtudied and ſettled therein; which made me ſo unwilling at the firſt to enter the Liſts with you in this kind, where I could expect no other fruit but the loſs of much time and pains to no purpoſe. The wit of man is able, where it is perſwaded, to find ſhifts and anſwers until the day of Doom; as appears in ſo differing opinions held amongſt Chriſtians, with ſo much and ſo endleſs pertinacity on both ſides. It is ſufficient therefore for a man to propound his Opinion with the ſtrongeſt evidence and arguments he can, and ſo leave it. Truth will be juſtified of her children. But of theſe reciprocations of diſcourſe in writing, wherein you place ſo much benefit for diſcovery of Truth, I have often heard and ſeen Truth loſt thereby, but ſeldom or never found.

I find by your laſt Reply, that you and I differ ſo far, and in ſo many Principles needful for the diſcovery of the truth of this Queſtion, that all the time I have for my private ſtudies would be wholly taken up in attending this diſpute, if I ſhould go on ſtill therewith. I have had ſome experience once before, that it is a tenacious piece where it hath taken hold. I would not be entangled again; and therefore deſire, with your good leave, to give it over, till opportunity of meeting together, where I ſhould be able to talk with far more eaſe then I can write. I profeſs unto you, I contemn not your diſcourſes, but do diligently and apud conſcientiam meam weigh your arguments, howſoever it comes to paſſe I am not perſwaded by them. But I cannot find time for ſuch a Collation; and beſides, am unwilling to put all in writing which I would utter in a private and perſonal diſcourſe. I will ſay a word or two to your laſt, but without expectation you ſhould reply again.

1. The opinion of the 70 weeks expiration is not mine, but Scaliger's, and divers other learned mens, and amongſt the reſt Junius's, who otherwiſe for the Monarchies is yours. For my ſelf, howſoever in the 70 weeks I have yet followed Scaliger, yet I had a private way to make the 62 weeks to point out our Saviour's Baptiſm. Howſoever, for the Jews expectation of Meſſiah, it was enough to know in what age he was to come, though not preciſely the year.

2. I ſhall never believe but all thoſe places of the Son of man's coming and appearing in the clouds of heaven, mentioned in the Goſpels and in the Apocal.

Apocal. 1. 7. are the ſame with that coming of the Son of man in the clouds propheſied by Daniel at the extinction of the Fourth Beaſt, Ch. 7. and that the Holy Ghoſt in the New Teſtament hath reference thither, both for words and meaning. If this be ſo, you know what follows.

3. I ſay not, the Greeks ruled not after Antiochus Epiphanes, but that the Holy Ghoſt accounts that Kingdom no longer in the Monarchical reckoning, and ſo follows the ſtory of their Kings no further then Epiphanes; from thenceforth the Roman, having now conquered Greece, was to take place.

4. I deny not, but firmly believe, that Chriſt's Kingdom took place at his Firſt coming, But I utterly deny that to be the Kingdom our Saviour propheſies of Luk. 21. 31. and anſwerably in the other Goſpels; or that whereof S. Paul ſpeaks 2 Tim. 4. 1. I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt who ſhall judge the quick and dead, at his appearing and his kingdom; or that foretold in the Apocalyps to be when the ſeventh Trumpet ſhall ſound; and the like places.

5. Unleſs it can be ſhewn me, That the ſix Seals, ſeven Trumpets, ſeven Vials, the treading down of the Temple, two Witneſſes, their ſlaughter and reſurrection, the red Dragon's perſecution, &c. were in ſpecie revealed to Daniel; I will ſtill hold thoſe Fates of the Roman Kingdom were ſealed, and not revealed to Daniel, though the Roman Monarchy were revealed to him.

6. The ancient Jews did, but the latter Jews hold not the Roman to be the Fourth Kingdom, but the Mahumetan and the Roman to be a continuation of the third.

7. What I alleged of Porphyrie for yours, was to ſhew the injuſtice of your diſparaging mine, as being held by Jews, who yet when they firſt held it, were the only people of God, and Cuſtodes oraculorum Dei: If Porphyrie might ſee a Truth, why not much more they?

8. I never meant to ſay, That the Kingdom of Chriſt ſhould appear whilſt all the Monarchies were yet ſtanding, but before the times of that ſucceſſion of Monarchies ſhould expire: Which is true, if it appeared onely in the laſt Monarchy. The confounding of the Gold, Silver, Braſs and Iron, in the deſtruction of the Image, is either the τὸ πρέπον typi (for the parts of the Image could not ſucceed in time, as the Kingdoms ſignified by them could, and ſo all muſt be broken together:) or becauſe the ſecond kingdom poſſeſſed the firſt, the third the ſecond, the fourth the third; the laſt is repreſented as containing all the reſt, &c.

9. The Duration of the Four Kingdoms holds no proportion with the parts of the Image typifying them, and therefore the continuance of the Fourth Kingdom makes the legs of the Image neither longer nor ſhorter.

10. I wonder you ſhould ſay, there is no Second Kingdom of Chriſt (which I had rather call the Second State of his Kingdom) mentioned in Scripture. Conſider the places I point to in the fourth Paragraph, and adde to them Luke 17. 20, &c. where our Saviour being asked of the Phariſees concerning the Kingdom of God, tells them, that he muſt firſt be rejected of that Nation, and that the coming thereof ſhould be as in the days of Noah, &c.

11. The Myſtery you ſay you conceive not (in the piece written with another hand) is that Myſtery which the Apoſtle ſaies was not known till the preaching of the Goſpel; namely, That the Jews ſhould be rejected, and the Gentiles ſurrogated in their ſtead. Nor did I ſay (as you miſtake) that the Jews had no part in the Firſt ſtate of Chriſt's kingdom, but that their Nation had not; by which I meant nothing elſe, but that their Nation was rejected. Doth not our Saviour expreſly ſay, that he ſhould

ſhould be rejected of that Nation, Luk. 17.25? It mattereth not though many of their Nation received him, ſeeing the Body of their Nation acknowledged him not. This is plain enough: I ſhall not need put you in mind of S. Paul's diſcourſe of the caſting off of the Jews, though then there were ſo many particular Jews believing in him, as I believe never were ſince.

12. I believe not that ever the Goſpel of Chriſt was preached all over the world; no more then I believe that Auguſtus Cæſar taxed the whole world, becauſe it is ſaid he taxed πᾶσαν τὴν οἰκυμένην. For in the ſtyle of thoſe times the Roman Empire was called Οἰκυμένη, as appears in the Greek Hiſtorians; and the Latine call it Imperium Orbis terrarum. Vid. Dan. Weeks. Dan. 9. v. 26.

13. Daniel himſelf interpreteth the Stone to be a Kingdom which the God of heaven ſhould ſet up in the daies of thoſe Kingdoms: and therefore it cannot be the Kingdom of Chriſt as God coeternal with his Father; but the Kingdom of Chriſt as ἀνθρωπος, which began not before he was incarnate. In the daies of theſe Kingdoms (ſaith he) (that is, whilſt ſome of them were yet in being) the God of heaven ſhall ſet up a Kingdom which ſhould never be deſtroyed, nor left (as the former ſhould) to another people; but ſhould break in pieces, and conſume all thoſe Kingdoms, and it ſelf ſhould ſtand for ever. Foraſmuch (ſaith he) as thou ſaweſt a Stone was cut out of a mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the braſs, the clay, the ſilver, and the gold. Here make the full point; for theſe words belong not to that which follows, (as our miſ-diſtinction in the verſes ſeems to refer them) but to that which went before of their interpretation. See the ſame reference of [Foraſmuch] in the 40 and 41 verſes.

14. I will not now diſpute of the prepoſition ב, though I had enough to ſay againſt you; but I ſay, that the words [In the daies of thoſe Kings] are much more likely to be conſtrued by Ellipſis particulæ partitivæ, uſual in the Hebrew and Chaldee, quaſi, In the daies of ſome one of thoſe Kings, viz. the laſt of them. So Jephtah is ſaid to have been buried * in the cities of Gilead; that is, in ſome one of them, &c. * Jud. 12. 7.

There be ſome other paſſages not ſo principal, though I diſſent from you in them, which I omit, as I deſire to do this whole Diſputation. That I had reſerved to have anſwered in your former Reply, was to that of the Ruffling Horn, which by the expreſs * words of the Angel was to laſt untill the time came the Saints ſhould poſſeſſe the Kingdom, that is, until the Son of man came in the clouds of heaven to take a Kingdom; (for this is the Angel's expoſition of that part of the Viſion) and therefore it could not be Antiochus Epiphanes. Your Anſwer to this ſeemed very unſufficient; I deſire you to weigh it better: and I make an end. * Dan. 7. 21.

Yours,

October 13.

J. M.

EPISTLE XI.

Mr Hayn's Fourth Letter to Mr Mede, about ſeveral paſſages in Daniel and the Revelation.

1. SCaliger's or Junius his Opinion prevail not ſo much as ſhould their Reaſons.

God had told the Jews plainly the year, and by types the time of the year, when Meſſias ſhould work their redemption: So that it was not enough to know in what age it ſhould be.

2. The coming of the Son of man is to his Kingdom on earth, on which the Scripture runs abundantly, Dan. 2. & 7. Apoc. 1. 7. Luk. 17. 20. and was to be before that generation paſſed, Matt. 24. 34. And within that ſpace of time he came on Jeruſalem, as the Floud on the old world. There ſhall be a Second coming of Chriſt, namely, to Judgement: And then he ſhall give up his Kingdom here to the Father. Yet ſhall this Kingdom here and that in Heaven be one and the ſame, conſiſt of the ſame men or ſubjects, and have the ſame bent to the honour of God.

3. The Greeks Rule after Antiochus Epiphanes was ſufficient to expreſs the clayie legs; that is enough for me; and the clayie legs are part of the Fourth Monarchy. The Romans were the Jews friends full many ſcores of years after Epiphanes his time: Their war againſt God's people is that for which God paints them out as Beaſts. And though the Romans conquered Macedon long before Chriſt's coming, yet both Julius Cæſar and Antonie let Cleopatra hold her due of what Rule ſhe had, and were but ſticklers, not oppoſites, at firſt.

4. If Chriſt's Kingdom took place at his firſt coming; the ſame is one, and but one, and that everlaſting.

5. The ſeven Trumpets, ſeven Vials, two Witneſſes, &c. ſhew a new matter, not particulars of the Fourth Kingdom particularized before in Daniel.

6. The late Jews (God enlighten them) ſhift abundantly; and the ancient both before and after their deſertion did but groap in darkneſs.

7. Yet both the late and old Jews, and Porphyrie too, ſaw ſome truth; who can deny it?

8. The Text ſaith, In the daies of thoſe Kingdoms, ſay you; as if it were in all of them; and the Stone confounds all. Why ſhould we allow τὸ μετὰ τοῦτο typi?

9. You deny the duration of the Fourth Kingdom to hold proportion with the parts of the Image: I affirm it; my reaſon is, If the Three former do, then the Fourth alſo.

10. I know there is a Second coming of Chriſt, that at the day of Judgement: But the Kingdom once begun is one, for it is everlaſting. If there were two Kingdoms, the one muſt end, the other begin.

Though there be degrees in the progreſs of Chriſt's Kingdom, in regard of the world's indiſpoſition to ſubmit to it; yet de jure all is Chriſt's at his Aſcenſion.

11. The Myſtery which now you ſpeak of I acknowledge, and bleſſe God for it; namely, of the calling of the Gentiles. The Jews Rejection alſo is plain in the time of the Goſpel, yet was a remnant of their Nation ſaved. And what more were the elect out of other Nations? few to the many.

12. Though de facto the Goſpel was not preached to all the world then, yet ſee mentem Legiſlatoris, the mind of the Law-giver, Go preach to all Nations.

13. Chriſt is the Stone: what is ſaid of him in many things, is and may be ſaid of them of his Kingdom; He bruiſes with a rod of iron, Pſ. 2. ſo do his ſervants, Rev. 2. 27. He the Stone, and his kingdom and people here, doe the ſame thing.

14. For ל the Prepoſition, the authority I brought was ſound and good. That about Jephtah is (though I uſe not to be ſudden in this kind) ill tranſlated. I wiſh time would have given me leave to have conferred with Books and men about it. I pray you think of it. Were it not better, Gideon was buried by the cities of Gilead; namely, the men of them all much honouring him, joyned in ſolemnizing his burial?

15. Not

15. Not the ruffling Horn (as you call it) but the body of the Beast, Dan. 7. 11. continued till the Son of man came. Now the Body of the Beast hornless may express the same, or be correspondent to the clayie legs; and thus the answer is home in this particular also. Much more I could have said, but must here make an end, and leave you to God, whom I pray to keep us in his truth.

Octob. 16.
1629.

Epistle XII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Mr. Hayn's Fourth Letter, about several passages in Daniel and the Revelation.

NOW I have obtained a Release, that you might not think I shook off this Collation out of Pride or Contempt, but to avoid too great a diversion from other Meditations, I will adde this more then I meant to have done; the rather because I discovered by your last somewhat more of your Opinion in one principal particular then I knew before; and also because I find you presume of another piece as solid and well-grounded, because in my last I made no Answer to it, though I intimated I had sufficient, if need were, to say against it. My end is, that you might see I maintain not an Opinion out of mere pertinacy, but that I have Reasons sufficient to perswade my self, though you never met with a man (whatsoever you supposed of me) of less confidence to perswade others then when you met with me. I have a conceit that some opinions be in a sort Fatal to some men, and therefore I can with much patience endure a man to be contrary-minded, and have little or no edge to contend with one I think perswaded, unless it were in something that merely concerned him in state of salvation. But I come to the matter.

1. You seem to grant me, That the coming of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven, &c. mentioned in Daniel, and that coming of his in the Clouds of heaven in the Gospel, Matt. 24. 30. & ch. 26. 64. Mark 13. 26. & ch. 14. 62. Luke 21. 27. and in the Apocalyps chap. 1. 7. are one and the same. But you apply them all to Christ's coming to the destruction of Jerusalem, because our Saviour saith in that Prophecy of his, That that generation should not pass till all things, then prophesied, should be fulfilled. I answer, first, While you endeavour in this manner to establish a ground for the First coming of Christ, you bereave the Church of those principal passages of Scripture whereon she hath always grounded her faith of the Second coming. Secondly, You ground all this upon the ambiguity of the word Generation, whereas γενεὰ signifies not onely ætas, but gens, natio, progenies, and so ought to be here taken; viz. Gens Judæorum non interibit, usque dum omnia hæc implentur, The nation of the Jews should not perish, till all these things were fulfilled. For so signifies παρέλθῃ in the Hebrew notion, as you may see even in the verse following, ὁ οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ γῆ παρελεύσονται. By virtue of which Amen, verse 34. Ἀμὴν, Verily I say unto you, the Jewish Nation, even to the wonder and astonishment of all who consider it, remains a distinct people in so long and tedious a Captivity, and after so many wonderful changes as have befallen the Nations where they live. According to that of Jeremy, Chap. 31. 35, 36. (whither this passage seems to have re- Matt. 24. 34.

ference) Thus ſaith the Lord, which giveth the Sun for a light by day, and the ordinances of the Moon and of the Starrs for a light by night, which divideth the Sea when the waves thereof roar: If thoſe ordinances depart from before me, ſaith the Lord, then the ſeed of Iſrael alſo ſhall ceaſe from being a nation before me for ever. S. Chryſoſtome among the ancients, and Flacius Illyricus (a man well skill'd in the ſtyle of Scripture) among the moderns, and thoſe who follow them, might have admoniſhed others to take the word Γενεὰ in this acception, rather then by turning it ætas or ſeculum, to put this Prophecy in little-eaſe, and the whole harmony of Scripture out of frame, by I know not what confuſed interpretation. S. Chryſoſtome applies it to Gens Chriſtiana or fidelium, which he calls ἡ γενεὰ ζητόντων τὸν Κύριον, Generatio quærentium Dominum. Others have other accommodations, but ſtill under this notion I ſpeak of. I preferre, as I ſaid, Gens Judæorum; for what Reaſons, nihil nunc attinet dicere. No man can deny but this is one of the native notions of γενεὰ, yea and ſo taken in the Goſpels: as in the foregoing Chapter, Matth. 23.36. Verily I ſay unto you, all theſe things ſhall come ἐπὶ τὴν γενεὰν ταύτην, upon this nation. So Beza renders it twice in the parallel place, Luke 11.50,51. and ſeven times in this Goſpel. Again, Luke 17.25. The Son of man muſt be firſt rejected ἀπὸ τῆς γενεᾶς ταύτης· Beza, à gente iſta. The LXX. renders by this word עַם populus, מִשְׁפָּחָה familia, תּוֹלְדוֹת progenies, patria. See Gen. 25.13. & ch. 43.7. Num. 10.30, &c. I ſuppoſe here is enough for the ſignification of a word. So then your Argument thence is nothing.

3. Beſides, to interpret this coming of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven, and his kingdom then, of his coming to the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, is contrary to the context of our Saviour's Prophecy: For the coming of Chriſt to deſtroy Jeruſalem was the beginning and cauſe of that great and long Tribulation of that people: but the coming and appearing of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven, is expreſly ſaid ſhould be after it, Immediately after the days of that Tribulation, &c. Matt. 24.29. Mark 13.24. For this great Tribulation, ſuch as never Nation ſuffered, is not to be confined to their calamity at the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, but extends to the whole time of their captivity and diſperſion from that time unto this preſent not yet ended: wherefore S. Luke, who is wont to be an Expoſitor of our Saviour's words, puts in ſtead of thoſe words of great tribulation, theſe of parallel ſenſe to them, There ſhall be great diſtreſſe in the land, and wrath upon this people, Luke 21.23. And they ſhall fall by the edge of the ſword, and ſhall be led away captive into all nations, and Jeruſalem ſhall be troden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled, v.24. And as the other Evangeliſts ſay, After that tribulation ended; ſo he, After, or when theſe times of the Gentiles are fulfilled, then ſhall be ſigns in the Sun and Moon, and then they ſhall ſee the Son of man coming in a cloud; &c. For the Copulative Καὶ verſe 25. [Καὶ ἔσται σημεῖα, &c.] is to be taken after the Hebrew manner ordinativè, for tum, deinde, which you know is frequent in Scripture, Then ſhall be ſigns.

And I make no queſtion but theſe Times of the Gentiles, with which the Jews Tribulation ſhall end, are either the Times of the Four Monarchies in general, (that is, the Times of that propheſied Dominion of the Gentiles) or, which is all one in event, thoſe laſt Times of the Fourth Kingdom of A Time, Times, and half a Time, at the fulfilling whereof Daniel propheſies of the ſame appearing and coming of the Son of man in the clouds of heaven, which S. Luke doth here. For if the immediate conſequent be the ſame, how can the Times which immediately precede but be the ſame Times alſo? This is my opinion, which I intimated once before; but you rejected it it as groundleſs then, and I know your Tenet cannot admit it now: Quiſque abundet ſuo ſenſu: therefore I'le contend no more about it.

2. But let the Kingdom of the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven, whereof Daniel ſpeaks, be as you would have it; That Kingdom of his firſt coming, whether beginning at his Aſcenſion, or manifeſting it ſelf at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, (for one of them it muſt be, but) let it be which it will; I ſay, for all this, there is yet ſufficient left to overthrow your Tenet of the Fourth Kingdom. For that Kingdom at the Son of mans coming in the clouds of heaven ſhewn to Daniel, is expounded by Daniel in his repetition to be the Kingdom of the Saints of the moſt High. If this be not evident by the context, I utterly deſpair ever to underſtand prophecie by any light of the letter: I muſt take it therefore for granted, whether you grant it me or not, That that Kingdom at the Son of mans coming in the clouds of heaven, in the Viſion, is that which Daniel in his repetition, and the Angel calls the Kingdom of the Saints of the moſt High, in his interpretation; and therefore being the ſame, muſt begin at the ſame time, which you ſay was at our Saviour's firſt coming, namely from the time of his Aſcenſion. This therefore forelaid, I argue thus.

The ruffling Horn perſecutes the Saints until the time came that the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom, Chap. 7. v. 22.

But Antiochus Epiphanes perſecuted not until the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom, which was at the Son of mans coming in the clouds of heaven. Ergo.

For if he perſecuted till then, he with his Time, Times, and half a Time, muſt continue till Chriſt's Aſcenſion at the neareſt; but he was dead two hundred years before. It will not ſerve your turn here, to fly to the Kingdom of Chriſt as he is God; for the Kingdom here ſpoken of is the Kingdom of the Son of man, and a Kingdom which begins in time. Nor mattereth it how the Greek Kingdom after Antiochus may ſeem to befit the Clayie legs, unleſs you make the little Horn to be thoſe Clayie legs. But you muſt ſhew how the little Horn, if it be Epiphanes, lived and perſecuted until the time came that the Saints poſſeſſed the kingdom. Will you expound [until the time came] until ſome two hundred years before the time came? I know not how you can evade here, unleſs, as Porphyrie did, you will make the Kingdom of the Saints here mentioned to be the Kingdom of the Maccabees, and ſo the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven, (whereof it is an expoſition) to be Judas Maccabæus, or Joannes Hircanus, or ſome other of thoſe Haſmoneans. If you anſwer thus, you muſt not think it ſtrange if I am loth to be perſwaded to your opinion, who reading that Prophecy, cannot be perſwaded but the little Horn is the laſt limme of the Fourth Beaſt, whoſe part once acted, the Beaſt's glaſs is run, and his time of deſtruction come. Or who can believe but he is to be deſtroyed at that time of Judgement, when the Son of man ſhall appear in the clouds of heaven? Though you ſay you ſee no evidence for it, yet I cannot be perſwaded but this Scripture was it out of which S. Paul learned to confute the Theſſalonians cauſeleſs fear of the day of Chriſt's coming to Judgement to be near at hand: when he tells them, that that day ſhould not come, until the man of ſin were firſt revealed, and had acted his part; foraſmuch as Chriſt was to aboliſh him by the ἐπιφάνεια of his coming: For ſo Daniel had taught him, that the wicked Horn's reign ſhould conclude the Fourth Kingdom, and the Son of man ſhould aboliſh him at his coming in the clouds of heaven; and therefore could not that coming of his be until the wicked Horn ſhould 2 Theſſ. 2. 3.

be revealed, and reign the time appointed him. This I am ſure, that this Prophecy of Daniel was the Womb whence the Jewiſh Doctors derived that Term of יום דין Dies judicii & יום דינא רבא magnus dies judicii, becauſe that coming of Meſſiah is thrice ſo deſcribed in this place of Daniel; verſe 10, 22, 26. whence even at this day they look not for Meſſiah until Magnus dies judicii, the great day of Judgement. Our Saviour and his Apoſtles received this term of Dies Judicii from them, and approve it by uſing it. But it is farre more frequent in the Chaldee Paraphraſe and other writings of theirs, thenin the New Teſtament. Nor can I believe but our Saviour and his Apoſtles, uſing this phraſe, meant to approve the ground of Scripture whence they deduced it: Eſpecially our Saviour ſo often expreſſing his Second coming by theſe words of Daniel, coming in the clouds of heaven: which the Elders and Prieſts hearing our Saviour apply to himſelf when they arraigned him, they rent their clothes as at Blaſphemy: whence it appears they took it for no ſmall and ordinary Character of power, not appliable to Judas Maccabaus or his ſucceſſors.

I know the ſame Phraſes may be uſed to expreſs like matters of diverſe and ſundry times; but here is not only Identity of phraſes, but, together with the ſame phraſes, the ſame frame of things with their circumſtances, and thoſe ſuch as are not appliable to many times. And though I am not of the ſame mind with Theocritus Juſtus, (his name is Daniel Lawenus*) to draw all the Apocalyps to the Jews, upon no other ground but communion of phraſes; yet I know nevertheleſs, that to compare Scripture with Scripture is none of the leaſt helps to underſtand Scripture.

* I have had good occaſion to know his name, and ſome of his notions too.

3. I have dwelt all this while upon the Second Viſion of Kingdoms, I come now τὸ δεύτερον, to ſay ſomewhat of the Firſt, *Dan.*2. v. 44. ובְיוֹמֵיהוֹן דִּי מַלְכְוָא And in the days of theſe Kings or Kingdoms; that is, ſay I, during the days of thoſe Kingdoms, while the days of this Dominion of the Gentiles yet laſted, before theſe days of their dominion ended. I lay the Emphaſis upon days. But here you ſtumble, and make inference as if I had ſaid, or the Prophet either, In or during all the days of thoſe Kingdoms, or during the days of all thoſe Kingdoms, Babylonian, Perſian, and Greek, as well as Roman. I cannot but marvel to ſee you make ſo ſtrange of an expreſſion not only frequent in Scripture, but common and uſual in every language. If I ſhould ſay, ſuch or ſuch a thing was done in the days of the Saxon, or in the days of the Britiſh Kings; would you inferre or underſtand me, as if I meant in all the days of thoſe Kings, or in the days of all thoſe Kings, or ſome of them onely? If I ſhould ſay ſuch a thing was done in the days of Popery, muſt I needs mean all the days of Popery, or ſome part of them onely, and ſo no more but while thoſe days were yet in being? It is ſaid, Ruth 1. 1. It came to paſſe in THE DAYS when the Judges ruled, that there was a famine in the land. I hope this famine was but in ſome part of thoſe days, or in the days of ſome of thoſe Judges, not all of them. It is an expreſſion Elliptical, if you will, but yet moſt ordinary. Judg. 15. 20. Samſon judged Iſrael in the days of the Philiſtines twenty years: but the Philiſtines days were forty years: ſo he judged but in the latter part of them. 2 Sam. 21. 1. There was a famine in the days of David 3 years. Vide Ezra 4. 7. Eſay 7. 1. Jer. 23. 6. So Matth. 2. 1. In the days of Herod the King, Jeſus was born in Bethlehem; that is, in the latter end, or about the laſt two years of his reign. So [In the days of thoſe Kingdoms of the Gentiles] is, during them and in the latter part of them, as the nature of the thing ſpoken of ſufficiently argues, which was to deſtroy the laſt Kingdom, which had deſtroyed and ſwallowed the former three: I mean the ſecond ſwallowed or poſſeſſed the firſt, the third the ſecond, the fourth the third; and ſo in a ſenſe, by the deſtruction of the fourth, the Stone deſtroyeth all the reſt as contained therein: For the Stone ſmites neither the Golden part, nor the Silver, nor the Braſs immediately, but onely the feet of Iron and Clay; and yet by that blow was the Braſs, the Silver and the Gold deſtroyed alſo, inaſmuch as they all came by ſucceſſion to the Iron. I added beſides in my laſt, that the diſſipation of the Gold, Silver and Braſs, together with the Iron, might be τὸ πρέπον typi (not περὶ τὸν, as you change it,) becauſe the parts of the Image in the Type could not ſucceed one another in time as the Kingdoms ſignified by them did; and ſo the Image appeared to be diſſipated all at once in Viſion, though the Kingdoms were not ſo, ſave onely in the ſenſe before named.

the

I added one thing more, which came then to mind when I ſaw you urge ſo hard upon all the four Kings; That Kings might be taken Elliptically alſo, as well as days, (though that of days be indefinite rather) viz. In the days of thoſe Kingdoms, that is, ſome one of them. I gave for an example of ſuch an Ellipſis that of Jephtah, Judg. 12. 7. And Jephtah was buried in the Cities of Gilead, that is, one of them. Here you ſollicite the interpretation as not right, you would have בְּעָרֵי גִלְעָד in the Cities of Gilead to be, By the inhabitants of the Cities of Gilead: But beſides that you cannot ſhew any where in Scripture בְּעָרֵי ſo uſed, the verſes following would check ſuch an interpretation, where three more Judges are named, with the time of their rule and places of their burial, as Jephtah was; which is ſufficient, I think, to perſwade that Jephtah's place of burial was named likewiſe, and not meant the perſons who buried him. But why ſhould you labour to win this one place from me, who quoted it not as if there were no more, but as that which was moſt preſent to my memory? For the thing it ſelf, it is a ruled caſe amongſt the Grammarians, that you may not think I deviſed it for an Evaſion. I have obſerved many Examples thereof, which I know not now where to find; only there comes one to mind like that of Jephtah, 2 Chron. 35. 24. where it is ſaid, that Joſiah was buried בְּקִבְרוֹת אֲבוֹתָיו in the Sepulchers of his fathers, which we tranſlate [one of the Sepulchers.] But in the mean time, till your own obſervation ſhall furniſh you with more Examples, I will exſcribe ſuch as my Grammarian affords me. * Pſal. 1. 3. Erit ſicut arbor plantata עַל פַּלְגֵי־מָיִם ad rivos aquarum, h. e. juxta Aben Ezram, עַל אַחַד פַּלְגֵי מַיִם ad aliquem riverum aquæ. Jon. 1. 5. Et Jonas deſcendit ad latera Navis, h. e. ad unum è lateribus. Zach. 9. 9. Et ſuper pullum natum aſinarum, h. e. בֶּן אֲתוֹן pullo ex una aſinarum. Yea and with a numeral word, 1 Sam. 18. 21. בִּשְׁתַּיִם תִּתְחַתֵּן בִּי הַיּוֹם per duas affinitate conjunges te mecum hodie, h. e. בַּאַחַת מִשְׁתַּיִם per alteram è duabus. Et ſic Targum, בְּחָדָא מִתְּרֵין. Hujus generis ſunt, Latrones exprobraverunt ei, Matt. 27. 44. i. alteruter è latronibus, ut exponitur, Luc. 23. 39. Item ſcriptum eſt in Prophetis, Joan. 6. 45. h. e. in aliquo Prophetarum. I ſuppoſe theſe will be ſufficient to induce you to let Jephtah's bones reſt in one of the Cities of Gilead.

Thus much of my Interpretation, now of yours. You would have, In the days of thoſe Kingdoms, to be expounded, After the days of them; and becauſe I anſwered it not, but onely rejected it in my laſt, you ſuppoſe the authority you brought therefore was ſound and good. I now anſwer therefore, and ſay firſt, That beſides that it is contrary to the native property of the prepoſition בְּ ſo to be interpreted, (it being decurtate of בֵּין inter) ſo the Examples you bring are farre enough from proving it. Let us examine them. The firſt is, Exod. 2. 11. And it came to paſſe בַּיָּמִים הָהֵם in thoſe days when Moſes was grown, &c. I ſay, יָמִים [Days] here are the days of the Ægyptian bondage and ſervitude. What ſhall we doe with [After] here?

* Pſ. 1. 3. By the rivers of waters, that is, by ſome one of the rivers. Jon. 1. 5. to the ſides of the ſhip, that is, to one of the ſides. Zach. 9. 9. upon the foal of aſſes, that is, of one of the aſſes. 1 Sam. 18. 21. by two, that is, by one of the two. Matt. 27. 44. the thieves, that is, one of the thieves, as 'tis expounded Luk. 23. 39. John 6. 45. It is written in the prophets, that is, in one of the Prophets.

here? The next is in the ſame Chap. verſe 23. בִּימֵים הָרַבִּים הָהֵם, that is, when thoſe days of Ægyptian ſervitude had now continued long, and were not yet ended, &c. You ſee here is no need of any After, and you cannot deny but it may be thus expounded. If it may, I will never make an Anomaly of ſignification, where the natural and uſual will ſerve turn. Secondly, Could it be ſhewed that ל ſometimes ſignified [After,] yet in this place the nature of the thing ſpoken of will not admit that ſignification. The Stone hewen out of the mountain is interpreted by Daniel to be a Kingdom which ſhould begin in time, that is, the Kingdom of Chriſt Ἀνάθρωπος. not that he hath as coeternal with his Father, which hath no beginning. This Kingdom of Chriſt ſhould ſmite the Fourth Kingdom, and at length deſtroy it; therefore this Kingdom muſt needs be whilſt the Fourth Monarchy was yet in being, and not begin after it: For how can that which comes after ſmite that which before had ceaſed to be? or how can that which was not till after, deſtroy that which was deſtroyed before it ſelf was? Therefore the nature of the Subject will not admit ל to be here taken for [After,] but requires it ſhould be maintained in its proper and natural ſignification.

4. That I may therefore gather all this Controverſie into a ſhort ſumme, I find your Tenet to ſtand charged with three not tolerable Inconveniences of interpretation. The one in the firſt Viſion, where you interpret, In the days of thoſe Kingdoms, to be After the days of them: where the matter ſpoken of will no ways bear it, though the Prepoſition would. The ſecond in the ſecond Viſion, where you will be forced to interpret, until the time came the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom, until ſome 200 years before that time. A third is, That you are forced, for making good your Expoſition of the Kingdoms, to deprive the Church of thoſe principal paſſages of Scripture whereon ſhe hath always grounded her faith of the Second coming of Chriſt. If I found mine charged with any one ſuch, I ſhould begin to miſdoubt the truth thereof. I might adde a fourth, That beſides all theſe, you forſake that Expoſition and Application of theſe Kingdoms which the Church hath univerſally followed from her infancy. And who can eaſily be perſwaded that the Doctors of the Church immediately following the Apoſtles, and while ſome of the Apoſtles diſciples were yet living, ſhould be ignorant of the meaning of ſo main a Prophecie, whereupon depended the demonſtration of the verity of Chriſt's coming; and that too whilſt thoſe diſputes were ſtill hot between the Jews and Chriſtians? The Fathers are to be conſidered here not in reſpect of greater learning or infallibility of Spirit then ours, but as Teſtes & Cuſtodes doctrinæ primitus acceptæ*; becauſe it cannot be preſumed they could be ignorant of it, being ſo near, or would change it, being ſo pious and good.

*Witneſſes and Keepers of the primitive Doctrine.

Now the inducements which ſhould perſwade an Opinion burthened with ſuch inconveniences had need be very powerful. But when I examine every thing, I find the main and onely pillar which you ſuppoſe will bear up your building againſt all aſſaults whatſoever, to be but a weak one, namely, That nothing was revealed to Daniel which was contained in S. John's ſealed Book; becauſe none could open that Book but Chriſt, and he opened it not till his Revelation ſhewed to John. That there is a flaw in this illation is apparent, becauſe there are two main and principal matters of the argument of that Book which cannot be denied to have been revealed before, namely of Antichriſt's perſecution, and of the Second coming of Chriſt to judgement: the firſt whereof was revealed to S. Paul (though out of another Book;) the other is plentifully revealed throughout the New Teſtament, before S. John ſaw his Viſions. I anſwered therefore before, and anſwer ſtill,

That

That the Subject matter of the Apocalyptical Book is not that which was never in no ſort revealed before, but never in that order, form and particularity of Fates, Acts and Circumſtances, wherein it was revealed then. The ſubject of that Prophetical hiſtory is the Roman Empire, together with the Church or Kingdom of Chriſt contained therein: the one is equally the ſubject thereof as well as the other. Now it is not denied but the Church or Kingdom of Chriſt was revealed before, both for the Being, Quality, Fate, and Prevailing, not to the Apoſtles onely, but to Daniel alſo: why not then the Roman Empire? In the ſame ſenſe wherein that which concerned the one was revealed before, or remained ſealed till now, in that ſenſe was that revealed or ſealed till now which concerned the other. Here you brought a Catalogue of divers particulars concerning the Fourth Monarchy revealed to Daniel; but to what purpoſe I cannot deviſe, unleſs you could prove there were no other particulars of Succeſſion, Fates and Acts, which were ſtill to remain ſealed until the Lamb ſhould reveal them to S. John. For I affirmed not, that no particulars of the Roman Kingdom were revealed to Daniel; but that not thoſe which were now firſt revealed to S. John: As, namely, none of the Acts and Fates of this Fourth Kingdom were particularized to Daniel; but thoſe of the latter end of it only, when the Horn was to rule the reſt, which concerned the former part of his time, were repreſented to him onely in general & in imagine confuſa; the more ample and large decyphering thereof being deferred till Chriſt himſelf ſhould come and unfold all unto S. John, when alſo Daniel's moſt particular part was yet to be revealed much more particularly in the Metropolis, quality of Blaſphemy, degrees and manner of deſtruction. That which I have ſaid of the Roman Empire, partly revealed and partly ſealed, muſt be accommodated alſo to the hiſtory of the Church or Kingdom of Chriſt, the other part of the ſubject of this Apocalyptical Book; which though it were in ſome degree revealed before, yet never in ſuch order and ſpecification of Fates and Circumſtances as now. The conſideration of the one will eaſily clear the ſcruple you make concerning the other. And for concluſion, you muſt remember that I yield you all this time your ſenſe of the ſealing and unſealing the Apocalyptical Book, which you know ſome interpret to a farre other purpoſe.

I have a little time, and paper enough left: I will look over your Papers, and anſwer ſuch particulars more as I think need anſwering.

1. I know not what it is you contend for about the Two States of Chriſt's Kingdom. If you grant the Kingdom of Chriſt at his Second coming ſhall be of a different ſtate from that of his Firſt, you grant as much as ſerves my turn; and the Kingdom is neither more nor leſs eternal, becauſe ſome State thereof is not eternal. An infant when it comes to be adultus is the ſame numero ſtill; but the ſtature is not the ſame, but diverſe.

2. You affirm the duration of the Fourth Kingdom holds proportion with the legs, becauſe the three former do with their parts. If they do, tell me how your Third Kingdom of Alexander and his progeny, which laſted but 18 years, holds proportion with the belly of the Image: I think it will be but a girt belly. The Perſian Monarchy, repreſented by breaſt and arms, laſted about 200 years, that is, ten or eleven times as long as your Third Kingdom did. If this proportion holds in this Image, the breaſt and arms muſt be ten or eleven times as long as the belly. And if you reade belly and thighs, the proportion will be a great deal worſe: For I ſuppoſe you make your Fourth Kingdom 280 years long: the ſame proportion therefore which 280 hath to 18, your legs muſt have to the belly and thighs, that is, quindecupla.

3. What-

3. Whatſoever time of Meßiah's appearing Almighty God pointed out by Daniel's 70 weeks, yet I believe not that any Jew before the Event could infallibly deſign the time without ſome latitude; becauſe they could not know infallibly where to pitch the head of their account, until the Event diſcovered it: yet in ſome latitude they might. I think we have as good skil in that computation as the Jews could have, and yet you ſee we yet vary about it after ſo many hundred years. And if your ſelf in this difference follow M^r Broughton's way, you may as ſoon perſwade me there is no Sun in heaven, as make me believe it. And though it mattereth not much what I think or think not, yet in this I dare ſay that all the Learned men of note in Chriſtendom are of my mind. And for my part, I cannot but think it a prodigium that any man ſhould think otherwiſe, and I ſuppoſe your ſelf are ſo farre of my judgement.

4. If you make the Fourth Beaſt hornleß before his deſtruction, you will make Daniel both at oddes with himſelf and the Angel his interpreter. If the Horn continue until the Ancient of days comes to give Judgement to the Saints of the moſt High, and until the time came that the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom, verſe 22. or if he continue until the Judgement ſit, and they take away his dominion, and the Kingdom be given to the people of the Saints of the moſt High, verſe 26, 27. how was he Hornleß when the Ancient of days ſat in judgement to deſtroy him, and give his body to the burning flame? This I ſhould have taken notice of in another place, but I then forgat it; yet I ſaid there that which was ſufficient to overthrow it. I would not have ſuch an Evaſion in my Opinion.

5. Though all the Four Kingdoms have reſpect to the Jews, as thoſe who were all that time to be in bondage under them; yet it doth not follow that the beginning of each Kingdom ſhould be counted from the time they were firſt poſſeſſed of Palæſtine, but from the time the Caput regni ſhould be given unto the people which were next to ſucceed. Nor is that Obſervation ſolid, That thoſe Kingdoms were called Beaſts, for the beaſtly uſage of God's people: the word חַיָּה, Heb. חַיָּה, ſignifies naturally Animal. And you will not, I know, ſay ſo of the quatuor Animalia in the * Apocalyps, though we tranſlate them alſo four Beaſts. The congregation of Iſrael, as we tranſlate it, Pſ. 68. 10. is called חַיָּה. And if חַיָּה ſignifies Cœtus & Caterva, that notion may be applied to Kingdoms and States alſo: So the type is ſo much the more conciſe, by reaſon of the ambiguity of the word in thoſe languages. But whether it be this or that, I affirm nothing, nor is it much to the purpoſe either way.

* Chap. 4.

And thus I think I have not left any thing of moment unanſwered. I had no other end in all this, but to let you ſee I have ſufficient grounds to be perſwaded of my Tenet, and to be averſe from yours. Whether others can be perſwaded by them or not, that I know not; nor do I arrogate ſo much ability to my ſelf, as to perſwade others what I am perſwaded of my ſelf. There is more goes to perſwaſion then Reaſons or Demonſtrations, and that is not in my power. I deſire not you ſhould make any Reply, but the contrary; for I am now reſolved to anſwer no more, whatſoever you ſhould ſend. You know as much of my Opinion, and my grounds for the ſame, as I would deſire of any mans; and I think I perfectly underſtand yours, and where your chief ſtrength lies. Why ſhould then either of us both ſpend our time any further to no purpoſe? Thus deſiring the Father of lights to guide us in the way of Truth, and to open our eyes to ſee where we ſee not, I reſt and remain ſtill

Chriſt's College,
Octob. 21.

Your very loving Friend,
Joſeph Mede.

Dr.

Epistle XIII.

Dr Twiſſe's Firſt Letter to Mr Mede.

Good Mr. Mede,

Amongſt many fruits of my acquaintance with Dr. Meddus, this hath been one of the chiefeſt, that he hath brought me acquainted with your ſelf, though not de facie, yet de meditationibus, and that in the opening of Myſteries. I was ſo happy as to light upon two Copies of your Clavis Apocalyptica, thereby to gratify both my ſelf and my friend: I was beholden to Dr. Meddus for the one, and to Mr. Briggs for the other. Since that I have ſeen divers Manuſcript pieces of yours, whereof I make precious accompt. Your diſtinction of Fata Imperii, & Fata Eccleſiæ, the one contained in the Seals, the other in * Βιβλαρίδιῳ, doth exceedingly affect me, as a Key of great uſe for the opening of theſe Myſteries. Your interpretation of the Seals proceeds, in my judgement, with great evidence of illuſtration. And in the laſt place, your Expoſition of the Trumpets hath taken me quite off from the Vulgar opinion that formerly hath been ſo common. For all which I moſt heartily thank you. And did it become me to profeſs ſo much, who am nothing worth, I ſhould be apt to ſay, you are as dear in my affection as to any friend you have. I beſeech you goe on to perfect the good work you have begun in the Revelation, and in other myſterious paſſages; for the clearing whereof I well perceive, by the bleſſing of God, you have attained to a very ſingular faculty. I ſeem to diſcern a providence of God in cauſing the opinion of a Thouſand years Regnum Sanctorum to be blaſted as an Errour by the cenſure paſſed upon the Chiliaſts, to take men off from fixing their thoughts too much on that in thoſe days, when the accompliſhment was ſo far removed; but with purpoſe to revive it in a more ſeaſonable time, when Antichriſt's kingdom ſhould draw near to an end.

* the little Book. Revel. 10.

Concerning which I have ſomething to propoſe, in ſearching after more particular ſatisfaction. But I know not whether yet I may be ſo bold with you; and beſides, I fear to divert you from your ſo weighty and ſo profitable ſtudies: yet they are ſuch, as withall I have thought with my ſelf of accommodating an Anſwer. But though my heart ſerve me not to communicate them to you at this time; yet ſurely I ſhall make them known to Doctor Meddus. A friend of mine alſo hath this day given into my hands certain Diſputations upon divers myſterious points in Daniel and the Revelation. In one of them he diſputes of this Thouſand years Regnum Sanctorum with variety of Reaſons pro & con; but inclining rather to the contrary. A very ingenuous man he is, and a great ſtudent in Mr. Brightman. If I may have liberty to communicate theſe things unto you, and that it might be without offence to your more weighty ſtudies, I would ſo uſe this liberty, as not to nouriſh my ſelf in idleneſs, but withall to imploy my ſelf in anſwering whatſoever I find therein to the contrary.

At this time give me leave to propoſe to your conſideration, Whether that fear of a παραλεθρία almoſt of our Proteſtant profeſſion may not be avoided; and the three daies and an half, Rev. 11. not ſignifie a ſpace of time ſucceeding the continuance of thoſe Witneſſes, but intermixed with it. My Reaſon is this; The two Witneſſes ſignifie all the Witneſſes giving teſtimony to God's truth, not contemporating, but ſucceeding one another for many generations; againſt all which the Beaſt warred, and prevailed againſt ſome in one age, ſome in another. Every ones Teſtimony ſeems to be finiſhed in his death. And as long as Antichriſt reigneth, God hath his Witneſſes in ſome place or other pro-

pheſying

phesying in sackcloth. But this I submit to your better judgement. I shall heartily desire God to bless your labours; and at this time, desiring to be commended unto your love, I rest, Newbury, Nov. 2.

1629.

Yours in all truth of hearty affection,

William Twisse.

I would intreat you to take into your consideration one thing more. S. Paul writes, Rom. 11. that the conversion of the Jews shall be by way of provocation from the Gentiles; Whether this provocation doth not imply some great Prosperity wherewith God shall bless his Christian Church; and what in this kind comparable to the ruine of Antichrist, and the consequents thereof?

Epistle XIV.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse's First Letter, concerning the 1000. years Regnum Christi, as also of the Clades Testium, and of the Jews Conversion.

Worthy Sir,

THat any man so learned and judicious as I have heard your self to be should conceive any Meditations of mine worthy not onely of approbation, but of so much affection, I must ascribe it (if they be but in any degree such as you make them) to God's goodness towards me, who hath in any sort enabled me to endeavour ought whereby I might not live in the world altogether unprofitably. I know and am conscious of mine own weakness and insufficiency in many points of knowledge which others have: yet if this one thing be my Talent, though but a single one, I have sufficient wherefore continually to thank the Almighty, and to beseech him that my husbanding thereof may be, by his gracious instinct, such as may be some occasion of further light to others, in some manner of recompence of what I have and still daily do receive from others.

But whatsoever my Speculations be, this I am sure of, that I am not a little obliged to your self, for your so kind and affectionate entertainment of them, as rests not in them only, but extends even to the person of the Author, otherwise utterly unknown unto you. Wherefore, for my part, if I should not reciprocally answer you, I should shew my self of too unworthy a disposition.

As for my Interpretation of the Seals and Trumpets, where I leave others and take a way of mine own, I doe it to maintain an Uniformity of notion in the Prophetical Schemes and Allegories throughout the Scripture; which I am perswaded were once no less familiar and usual to the Nations of the Orient, then our poetical Schemes and Pictures are to us.

And the onely way for us to learn the meaning of them is, by finding out that Uniformity I speak of, by comparing the several applications of them together, and such other helps as remain unto us. But whether some of the Interpretations usually given of the Seals and Trumpets will abide this Touch-stone, your self, I know, can judge. Such voluntary Interpretations may delight the Fancy, and commend the Wit of their Author; but they will will not satisfie him that cannot think any mans Wit a footing firm enough to rest his Faith upon.

FOR the Thousand years Regnum Christi, it was time for it to be silent under Regnum Antichristi; and the Reign of the Martyrs in the first Resurrection to be cried down, when Antichrist was blasphemously to advance them before-hand to a Reign derogatory to the glory of Christ their Lord, to be as compeers with him in the office of his Mediation, and partakers of the honour and worship which was due to him alone.

I speak not here altogether at random: For after the opinion of the Chiliasts was cried down, (when the sentence of Damasus had once given it the deadly blow) they fell to expound this Reign of the Martyrs, in the twentieth of the Apocalyps, of the Idolatrous reign of them, which themselves had then devised, by occasion of those signs and wonders said then to be wrought by the power of the Martyrs upon such as touched their Reliques and approched their Sepulchres.

Two of the ancientest Commentators extant after the Chiliasts opinion became silent, are Andreas Cæsariensis and Aretas, in whom you shall find what I say, even totidem verbis. The words of Andreas are these; Καὶ εἶδον τὰς ψυχὰς τῶν πεπελεκισμένων, &c. Quin reliquis quoq; sanctis Martyribus, qui pro Christo mortem perpessi sunt, neq; mysticæ Bestiæ, qui Diabolus est, characterem, hoc est, imaginem Apostasiæ ipsius, susceperunt, judicandi potestas data est, per quam Dæmones, ut ob oculos videmus, judicare non desinunt, [δαίμονας μέχρι τοῦ νῦν (ὡς ἐῴμεν) κρίνουσι] usque ad præsentis seculi consummationem cum Christo glorificati, à piis rursum Regibus fidelibúsque Principibus adorati, [ὑπὸ βασιλέων εὐσεβῶν καὶ ἀρχόντων πιστῶν προσκυνούμενοι] & divinâ denique virtute contra omnem corporum morbum fraudémque & vim Dæmonum conspicuè donati. Aretas almost in the same words: Ex quo igitur (inquit) neque capti sunt hi (scil. decollati isti) neque per impudentiam, neque per opera mala insigniti, meritò cum Christo & vixerunt & regnârunt, ídque usque ad consummationem. Quemadmodum videmus etiam sub fidelibus Regibus atque Principibus, dum adorantur, contra omnem etiam corporis infirmitatem ac Dæmonum energiam ostendunt datam sibi à Deo gratiam. Nam quia (inquit) non adorârunt Bestiam, neque imaginem ejus; idcirco etiam vixerunt, id est, vivorum opera præstiterunt, miraculorum videlicet patrationem. Vixit Andreas circa annum Christi 500.

Yet even S. Augustine and Primasius applied this Prophecy of the Martyrs, (though not to the adoration of them, yet) to that preeminence of honour then given them in the Assemblies of Christians, and their power of working miracles after death. Vid. de Civit. Dei lib. 20. cap. 9. cum cap. 9. lib. 22.

And if with Mr. Brightman and others we begin the Thousand years from Constantine, there is no place of Scripture for a Papist to urge for Saint-worship like unto this, because the time will fit so just; For it began much about that time, though the Papist had rather have it thought to be ab initio, which Andreas notwithstanding expresly denies: Etenim (saith he) quæ nunc per experientiam rerúmque eventum videntur Sanctorum miracula, meritorúmque præmia, quando Evangelistæ Joanni hæc patefiebant adhuc futura erant.

I shall be glad to see your Quære's and Answers to them: But before I received yours, I had written to Doctor Meddus, that my thoughts would be diverted, and my time taken up about some other business between this and Christmas; whereupon he transcribed them not. My brains are so narrow, that I can tend and minde but one thing at once, whatsoever it be; and therefore I must desire my friends to bear with that imperfection, as also with my slowness, even when I go about any thing, especially to write and digest.

CONCERNING your Quære of the Clades Testium, I cannot see how it can be referred to any other time then to about the end of their 1260 daies mourning-prophecy; because that which immediately follows their reviving, after 3 daies and a half lying dead, is not appliable to any other time save that only: as namely, so great an Exaltation as is implied by * ascending up to heaven in a cloud; such a great * Earthquake or commotion as should be at the same hour, whereby the Throne of the Beast should be so much shaken; and lastly, the expiring at the same time of the * second Woe, or sixth Trumpet. These are not appliable to any time save the times of the Beast's declining and period, and consequently to the end of the 1260 daies of the Witnesses wearing sackcloth; and should fall out when they were now putting off their sackcloth, and when some of them had done it already: For so the word is to be turned, * When they were now about to finish their prophecy or daies of sack-cloth, &c. Besides, it suits with the method of Divine Providence; God Almighty having ever used to usher in any great Exaltation of his Saints with some desperate Extremity and Calamity immediately foregoing it: Whence is that Theological proverb, Cùm duplicantur lateres, tunc venit Moses. When was David in a more desperate distress, then when he was instantly to be exalted to the Throne of Judah, namely, at the burning of Ziklag? what a streight were Moses and the children of Israel brought into a little before Pharaoh and his host were to be drowned in the Red sea? The most grievous, extreme and dangerous persecution that ever the Church felt, was then when Christianity was ready to be exalted unto the Throne of the Empire; I mean that of Diocletian.

* Revel 11. vers. 12.
* Vers. 13.
* Vers. 14.
* Vers. 7. ὅταν τελέσωσι.

Moreover, there is a Sin whereof the whole body of the Reformation is notoriously guilty; which nevertheless is accounted no Sin, and yet such an one, as I know not whether God ever passed by without some visible and remarkable judgement. This seems to call for a scourge before Antichrist shall go down: And that may be, as far as I know, this feared Clades Testium. I will not name it, because it is invidious, and I am not willing to be drawn to say so much for the probability thereof in this case as perhaps I could.

But to speak somewhat more particularly of this Clades; I know not whether it should immediately precede the pouring out of the fifth Vial, or the fourth. If we were secure of the present dangers and fears, I should incline most to think it should precede the fifth Vial, in respect of that fall of * δέκατον τῆς πόλεως, which instantly ensues the Witnesses reviving. Secondly, The time of three daies and a half is the time during which the Witnesses should lie for dead, without appearance of life or motion; not the time wherein they should be dying or killing; for that may be much longer, and grow also by degrees, (as also the natural Body of man sometimes dies so, the feet first, and so upward.) The three daies and a half are not to be reckoned therefore (as seems to me) untill all should be dead, and no motion of life any more appear. Thirdly, I conceive not this Clades to be such as should extinguish the persons or whole materials (as I may so speak) of the Reformed Churches, but the publick Fabrick of the Reformation, for joy whereof the Witnesses were about to finish their time of mourning. For that the party of men remaining of that dissolved building of Reformation should be great, (though they lay as dead) may be gathered by the strength they should in so short a time, as after three years and a half, recover, to the no small terrour of the Beast which slew them, &c.

* Vers. 13.

It

It would make ſomewhat perhaps for underſtanding the degree of this Clades, if we could certainly tell what were that * πλατεία τῆς πόλεως, wherein the Witneſſes ſhould lie for dead; and whether thoſe of the * nations, tongues and people, which ſhould hinder the putting of them into graves, were friends or foes. They may ſeem to be friends: for if they had been once buried, there would have been but ſmall hope of ſo ſoon a reviving again and ſtanding upon their feet. You know what the Phariſees ſaid, when they would have our Saviour made ſure for riſing again the third day.

* Verſ. 8.
* Verſ. 9.

By the way, becauſe you uſe in your Letter the word πανωλεθρία, I ſuppoſe your copy of my Specimina is miſdiſtinguiſhed: For I referred not that word to the Calamity of the Witneſſes, but to * Gentium, id eſt, Idololatrarum in Eccleſiæ atrio ſtabulantium: So there ſhould be a comma at πανωλεθρίαν.

* Verſ. 2.

FOR your ſecond Quære, of the Provocation of the Jews by the Gentiles: Methinks that which was to be unto the Jew as a Provocation to Jealouſie, is expreſſed by S. Paul to be that * Salvation which was then come unto the Gentiles, and not any other thing yet to come; as alſo the ſame Apoſtle ſaith, he uſed to magnifie and inculcate ſo much his Title of Apoſtle of the Gentiles to the ſame end. And if the Proſperity of the Chriſtian Religion would have done it, by comparing it with their miſery; there hath been already ſufficient in that reſpect to have moved them to jealouſie ere this.

* Rom. 11. 11.

For my part, I incline to think that no ſuch thing will provoke them; but that they ſhall be called by * Viſion and Voice from Heaven, as S. Paul was; and that that place of Zach. chap. 12. verſ. 10. They ſhall ſee him whom they have pierced, and that of Matth. 23. verſe 39. Ye ſhall not ſee me henceforth, till you ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, ſeems to imply ſome ſuch matter. They will never believe that Chriſt reigns at the right hand of God, untill they ſee him. It muſt be an invincible evidence which muſt convert them after ſo many hundred years ſettled obſtinacy. But this I ſpeak of the body of the Nation; there may be ſome Præludia of ſome particulars converted upon other motives, as a forerunner of the great and main Converſion.

* See this more fully treated of in Ep. XVII. See alſo in Book V. a Tract ſtyled The Myſtery of S. Paul's Converſion.

I pray conſider ſeriouſly that pattern of S. Paul's Converſion, ſo differing from all other mens that ever were, and how fitly his condition before it reſembles that of the Jews in their bitter obſtinacy againſt Chriſt and Chriſtians. Why did Chriſt vouchſafe ſo ſtrange a call to that man above other men? was it not a pledge or pattern of ſomething that ſhould be vouchſafed his Nation? I know not whether S. Paul's meaning, but I am ſure his words, 1 Tim. 1. verſe 16. may be applied to what I mean. But all this I write tumultuouſly and in ſome other diſtractions, and therefore I would not have you heed it further then to conſider of it at your more quiet meditations. Nihil affirmo, ſed propono.

I had thought, when I began, to propound ſomething to your further meditations out of the ſeventh of Daniel: But you ſee I am grown paſt a Letter, and can ſcarce any longer make my Characters legible; and therefore here, with my beſt reſpect to your ſelf, I end, deſiring God to enlighten us daily more and more in the knowledge of his Truth: and ſo I remain

Chriſt's College,
Nov. 11. 1629.

Yours to be commanded in all the duties of Friendſhip,

Joſeph Mede.

Epistle XV.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Meddus, touching the Day of Judgement.

Worthy Sir,

I Have now found ſome little time to make ſome kind of Anſwer to your Letter of the laſt week ſave one. You deſire me to point out the particulars wherein I differ from that Lutheran: But this I cannot doe without making a cenſure of the whole Diſcourſe, which would ask me ſome labour, and beſides I have not now the Book by me. But by the way, the Stationer which told me he had ſix of them, was deceived: Indeed he had ſix Books, which he thought to be the ſame, but four of them were Diſcourſes of Law, by ſome error ſorted together with them.

You ſecondly deſire me to point out the places of the Old and New Teſtament appliable to my Tenet of the Day of Judgement: Where I underſtand not well whether you mean of the Regnum to be then, or of the acception of the word [Day] for a long ſpace of time, even of a thouſand years. But I ſuppoſe you mean the former, to which therefore I will ſay ſomething, the rather becauſe I know you will communicate it to Doctor Twiſſe, to whom I had intended ſome ſuch thing in my Letter I ſent by you to him: but time would not ſuffer me to write it then, having ſpent both it and my paper in other diſcourſes before I was aware. That which I have to ſay is this.

The Deſcription of the Great Day of Judgement, Dan. 7.

THE Mother-Text of Scripture whence the Church of the Jews grounded the name and expectation of the Great Day of Judgement, with the circumſtances thereto belonging, and whereunto almoſt all the deſcriptions and expreſſions thereof in the New Teſtament have reference, is that Viſion in the ſeventh of Daniel, of a Seſſion of Judgement when the Fourth Beaſt came to be deſtroyed: Where this great Aſſiſes is repreſented after the manner of the great Synedrion or Conſiſtory of Iſrael; wherein the Pater Judicii had his Aſſeſſores, ſitting upon Seats placed Semicirclewiſe before him, from his right hand to his left. I beheld (ſaith Daniel, verſe 9.) till the * Thrones or Seats were pitched down, (namely, for the Senators to ſit upon; not thrown down, as we of late have it:) and the Ancient of days (Pater conſiſtorii) did ſit, &c. And, ſubaudi I beheld, till the Judgement was ſet, (that is, the whole Sanhedrim) and the books were opened, &c.

* Vulgar. Lat. Donec throni poſiti ſunt; LXX. & Theodotion, ἕως ὅτι θρόνοι ἐτέθησαν. Chald. עד דיו כרסין רמין & ſic רמה uſurpatum de Solio invenias apud Chald. Paraph. Jer. 1. v. 15. וירמון ubi in Hebræo eſt ונתנו. Septuag. καθῆσαι.

Here we ſee both the form of Judgement delineated, and the name of Judgement expreſſed; which is afterwards yet twice more repeated: Firſt, in the amplification of the tyranny of the wicked Horn, verſe 21, 22. which is ſaid continued till the Ancient of days came, and JUDGEMENT was given to the Saints of the moſt High; i. Poteſtas judicandi ipſis facta. And the third time in the Angel's interpretation, verſe 26. But the JUDGEMENT ſhall ſit, and they ſhall take away his dominion to conſume and deſtroy it to the end. Where obſerve alſo that caſes of Dominion, of Blaſphemie and Apoſtaſie, and the like, belonged to the juriſdiction of the great Sanhedrim.

From this deſcription it came that the Jews gave it the name of יום דין and יום דינא רבא The Day of Judgement and the Day of the Great Judgement; ment; whence in the Epiſtle of S. Jude, verſe 6. it is called κρίσις μεγάλης ἡμέρας, the Judgement of the Great Day.

From the ſame deſcription they learned that the deſtruction then to be ſhould be by fire, becauſe it is ſaid verſe 9. His throne was a fiery flame, and his wheels burning fire. A fiery ſtream iſſued and came forth before him: and verſe 11. The Beaſt was ſlain, and his body deſtroyed and given to the burning flame.

From the ſame fountain are derived thoſe expreſſions in the Goſpel, where this Day is intimated or deſcribed; The Son of man ſhall come in the clouds of heaven. The Son of man ſhall come in the glory of his Father with his holy Angels: Foraſmuch as it is ſaid here, * Thouſand thouſands miniſtred unto him, &c. and that Daniel ſaw * One like the Son of man coming with the clouds of Heaven, and he came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him, (or placed him) near him, &c. * Verſ. 10. * Verſ. 13.

Hence S. Paul learned that the Saints ſhould judge the world, becauſe it is ſaid, that many Thrones were ſet, and verſe 22. by way of Expoſition, that Judgement was given to the Saints of the moſt High. 1 Cor. 6. 2.

Hence the ſame Apoſtle learned to confute the falſe fear of the Theſſalonians, that the day of Chriſt's ſecond coming was then at hand; Becauſe that day could not be till the Man of Sin were firſt come, and ſhould have reigned his time appointed: Foraſmuch as Daniel had foretold it ſhould be ſo, and that his deſtruction ſhould be at the Son of mans appearing in the clouds; whoſe appearing therefore was not to be till then. This is ἐπιφάνεια τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ in S. Paul; whom the Lord (ſaith he) ſhall deſtroy at the ἐπιφάνεια of his coming. Daniel's wicked Horn, or Beaſt acting in the wicked Horn, is S. Paul's Man of Sin, as the Church from her Infancie interpreted it. 2 Theſſ. ch. 2. verſ. 2, 3.

But to go on: While this Judgement ſits, and when it had deſtroyed the Fourth Beaſt, the Son of man which comes in the clouds receives dominion, and glory, and a Kingdom, that all people, nations and languages ſhould ſerve and obey him, verſe 14. which Kingdom is thrice explained afterwards to be the Kingdom of the Saints of the moſt High, verſe 18. Theſe four Beaſts (ſaith the Angel) are four Kingdoms which ſhall ariſe. But (viz. when they have finiſhed their courſe) the Saints of the moſt High ſhall take the Kingdom, &c. Again, verſe 22. The wicked Horn prevailed, untill the time came that the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom. Again, verſe 27. When the fourth Beaſt, reigning in the wicked Horn, was deſtroyed, the Kingdom and dominion, and the greatneſs of the Kingdom under the whole heaven, is given to the people of the Saints of the moſt High, &c.

Theſe Grounds being laid, I argue as followeth:

The Kingdom of the Son of man and of the Saints of the moſt High in Daniel begins when the Great Judgement ſits.

The Kingdom in the Apocalyps, wherein the Saints reign with Chriſt a thouſand years, is the ſame with the Kingdom of the Son of man and Saints of the moſt High in Daniel.

Ergo, It alſo begins at the Great Judgement.

That the Kingdom in Daniel and that of a 1000 years in the Apocalyps are one and the ſame Kingdom, appears thus:

Firſt, Becauſe they begin ab eodem termino, namely, at the deſtruction of the Fourth Beaſt: That in Daniel, when the Beaſt (then ruling in the wicked Horn) was ſlain, and his body deſtroyed and given to the burning flame, Dan. 7. verſe 11, 22, 27. That in the Apocalyps, when the Beaſt and the falſe Prophet (the wicked Horn in Daniel) were taken, and both caſt alive into a lake of fire burning with brimſtone, Apoc. 19. ver. 20, 21, &c.

Secondly, Becauſe S. John begins the Regnum of a thouſand years from the ſame Seſſion of Judgement deſcribed in Daniel; as appears by his parallel expreſſion borrowed from thence.

Daniel ſayes, Chap. 7.

V. 9. I beheld till the Thrones were pitched down —— and the Judgement (i. Judges) ſat.

22. And Judgement was given to the Saints of the moſt High.

And the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom; viz. with the Son of Man who came in the clouds.

S. John ſayes, Chap. 20.

V. 4. I ſaw Thrones, and they ſat upon them.

And Judgement was given unto them.

And the Saints lived and reigned with Chriſt a thouſand years.

Now if this be ſufficiently proved, That the thouſand years begin with the Day of Judgement; it will appear further out of the Apocalyps, that the Judgement is not conſummate till they be ended: For Gog and Magog's deſtruction and the univerſal Reſurrection is not till then: Therefore the whole thouſand years is included in the Day of Judgement.

Conſectarium de Interpretatione aliorum Scripturæ locorum huc pertinentium.

Hence it will follow, That whatſoever Scripture ſpeaks of a Kingdom of Chriſt to be at his Second appearing or at the deſtruction of Antichriſt, it muſt needs be the ſame which Daniel ſaw ſhould be at that time, and ſo conſequently be the Kingdom of a thouſand years which the Apocalyps includes between the beginning and conſummation of the Great Judgement.

Ergo, That in Luke 17. from verſe 20. to the end.

And that in Luke 19. from the 11. verſe to the 15. incluſively.

And that in Luke 21. verſe 31. When ye ſee theſe things come to paſs, know that the Kingdome of God is at hand. See what went before, viz. The Son of man's coming in a cloud with power and great glory; borrowed from Daniel.

And that in 2 Tim. 4. 1. I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom.

By theſe we may underſtand the reſt; taking this for a ſure ground, That this expreſſion of [The Son of man's coming in the clouds of heaven] ſo often inculcated in the New Teſtament, is taken from and hath reference to the Prophecie of Daniel, being no where elſe found in the Old Teſtament. As our Saviour alſo calls himſelf ſo frequently [The Son of man,] becauſe Daniel ſo called him in that Viſion of the Great Judgement, and that we might look for the accompliſhment of what is there propheſied of in him. It was not in vain, that when our Saviour quoted the Prophecie of Daniel, he added, He that readeth him, let him underſtand. Certainly the great myſtery of Chriſt is chiefly and moſt diſtinctly revealed in that Book; which God the Father of lights ſo enable us with his Spirit, that we may underſtand to his glory and our own comfort. Amen.

I pray compare this with the Paper I ſent you of the Four Monarchies, which I called * The A. B. C. of Prophecie; and with the latter end of my Specimina de mille annis; and with my Interpretation of Præconium Tubæ VII. You ſhall find the grounds of all this in them.

* See Epiſtle VIII.

I have no copy of this I now ſend: I would deſire you when you are weary with reading it, to ſend me it again, that I may get it tranſcribed, to ſave me a labour another time, when ſome other friend ſhall make a Quære to like purpoſe. I find ever and anon inconvenience for want of ſuch a proviſion.

vision. I will send you it again presently. Before Christmass will be time enough. I desire to be remembred to Master Doctor Twisse; to whose Letter I shall make some Answer when I get some leisure; now I have none.

Chr. Coll. Nov. 25. 1629. Yours, Joseph Mede.

Epistle XVI.

Dr. Twisse his Second Letter to Mr. Mede.

Worthy Sir,

I Pray forgive me this once in interrupting your more momentous meditations. Thankfulness urgeth me to express that your Letter is a Jewel unto me; making me partaker of such fruits, and giving me interest in such affections. I profess you have strange conceits, I mean for the worthiness of them; they possess me with admiration: especially that touching the manner of the Jews Conversion. Those passages of Scripture, and the reference of them which you make, I do consider with Reverence; and the particular relation S. Paul makes of himself, as first tasting of that Grace, in reference to the like which were to succeed: had he made mention of the miraculous operation in his Conversion, as he doth of God's Long-suffering and Patience, the Congruity had been absolute. Yet I seem to discern something whereby that may be argued also to be implied, for otherwise in likelihood he was not the first.

Yet to object, (for your Ingenuity I perceive gives me leave,) S. Paul was a particular person, and then travelling on the way: The Conversion we speak of is of a Nation, and that wonderfully dispersed in the world; the like manner of Christ's appearing unto whom for their Conversion is hard to conceive. And besides, I seem to conceive evidence from 2 Cor. 3. 15, 16. that their Conversion shall be wrought from amongst themselves by reading Moses and the Prophets: for it is the veil laid before their Hearts which hinders them from discerning the end of the Law, which is Christ; which veil shall be taken away, and being taken away they shall be turned unto Christ. Yet I confess the Text saith not, when the veil is taken away, they shall be turned to the Lord; but rather, when they shall be turned to the Lord, the veil shall be taken away. Yet again so it is said, Luk. 7. 47. that many sins were forgiven her, for she loved much; yet by the scope of the Parable there proposed, the formal truth appears to be this, She loved much, for many sins were forgiven her. So here it may be argued, that the taking away of their veil is the cause of their turning to the Lord: for the position of the veil is that which hinders them from discerning him; therefore the removing of the veil is the making way for the discerning of him by that in Moses. Yet I seem to see how this may be answered; The veil hinders from discerning him in the Law of Moses: but if God be pleased to manifest his Son by sight, the veil can no way hinder that. And why may not the like miraculous favour be shewed to them as well as to S. Paul; their obstinacy being greater, and sealed with greater blasphemies then his was? May it not be said that therefore this Apparition was made to S. Paul, that he might have Apostolical authority independent on men, as well as the rest of the Apostles? And cannot the spirit of illumination clear all, and that from Moses, as well as it did in the heart of the Gentiles, who had not so much as Moses to direct them?

As for Provocation; how can Salvation on the Gentiles part be it unto the Jews, seeing the Jews (such is their blindness) cannot acknowledge any such condition of the Gentiles? Yet I confess the judgement of flesh and bloud may teach them, that the Gentiles becoming Christians are turned to the worship of the God of Abraham, as appears by their embracing of the Old Testament as the Word of God: yet this hitherunto hath nothing moved them; yet a time may come it may, and the Prosperity of our Church also. And it is said, that they shall obtain mercy by the mercy shewed unto us, Rom. 11. 31.

As for the black time to be expected; if so, it seems to be wondrous great, if not greater then all that went before. For the time hath been, the strong man hath so far possessed the House of God in peace, that scarce here and there a Witness hath been found openly to contest against him in this or that particular: And the days of the persecution of the Waldenses were wonderfull heavy times: And we have seen many black days for many years. And if it be so, as I doubt it is too probable, and most congruous to God's course indeed in the exaltation of his Church, I doubt it will concern our England most: yet God grant we may be of the number of those that suffer, that within three days and a half we may be raised and reign with Christ at his coming.

But will you not make us acquainted with that Sin you intimate that cries for vengeance? we are loth to adventure our conjectures, but we dare promise to joyn in mourning for it. But I heartily thank you for all, and particularly for that Speculation of the untimely advancing of the Martyrs to a Reign derogatory to the Mediation of our Lord; a bitter fruit of too irregular animosity against the Chiliasts, and of very ponderous consideration in this case. I have done, with some sorrow for putting out of your mind better thoughts: I assure you the place you are pleased to afford me in your good affections I esteem as a part of the best happiness I enjoy in friends, and heartily wish I may not be unworthy of it. I heartily commend your self and your precious studies to the Blessing of God, and rest,

Newbury, Nov. 16. 1629.

Yours in all true Affection,

Will. Twisse.

Epistle XVII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Doctor Twisse his Second Letter, concerning the two Warrs of the Beast against the Witnesses, as also of the manner of the Jews Conversion.

SIR,

I Owe an answer to your Letter, though I can scarce find time to attend it. Some I have now gotten, and therefore desire you to vouchsafe to reade and accept these few lines.

The Apocalyps mentions two Wars of the Beast: one to be in medio Testium luctu, during the time of the Witnesses mourning-prophecy; another when the Witnesses began to make an end of mourning. The first, while the Court of the Temple was wholly troden down and prophaned by the Gentiles: the latter, when it began to be purged, and so the cause of the Witnesses mourning to be removed. In these two Wars we may observe in the description these differences. First, The intermedium bellum is said to be against the whole Body of the Saints, Chap. 13. ver. 7. And it was given given unto him to make war with the Saints, and overcome them: But the Bellum noviſſimum or laſt War is againſt the Prophets or Witneſſes only: The Beaſt which aſcends out of the bottomleſs pit ſhall make war with the Witneſſes, and overcome and kill them, Chap. 11. v. 7. This difference is remarkable and to be conſidered for the better underſtanding of this laſt War, and how it differs from that formerly againſt the Waldenſes, &c. Secondly, In the former his prevailing and ſucceſs is abſolute, ſo that all kindreds, tongues and nations ſubmit unto him, and worſhip him, Chap. 13. v. 7, 8. But in the latter ſome of the people * [ὁκ ἐκ τ. λαῶν, &c.] and of the kindreds and tongues and nations ſhall be an obſtacle to the perfecting and ſecuring his victory, as not ſuffering him when he ſhall have ſlain the Witneſſes to bury them and make them ſure, in hope to recover them. Thirdly, The firſt prevailed many ages; this latter but three days and an half. Adde, if you will, (though it be included in the former) the firſt advanced his Dominion to that height it came to; this latter ſhall occaſion his utter ruine and downfall. * Chap. 11. 9.

Theſe differences I thought good to propound to your conſideration, to intimate that the ſcantling of this laſt War cannot be well taken from that againſt the Waldenſes and Albigenſes, &c. as being to be of another kind; namely, an extermination of the Reformed Paſtours out of their places and Churches, and not a general extermination of the Body of the Reformed people, which are too many to be dealt with according to former violence, and ſhall remain to terrifie the Beaſt, and revenge the Clades of their Prophets before almoſt they ſhall have done rejoycing over them.

FOR my conceit of the manner of the Jews Converſion; though it often ſolicits me to give credence to it, as beſt becoming the greateſt work that ever God yet did for that people, for whom in former times he ſhewed ſo many wonders: yet I will ingenuouſly confeſs, the grounds I have hitherto found ſeem not to my ſelf ſufficient to build a firm aſſent upon; but only by a kind of concinnity induce to a pleaſing, but a wavering, conjecture. And therefore it were to little purpoſe to contend much for that wherein my ſelf have no ſufficient confidence. I uſe to object to my ſelf, That the Appearing of Chriſt in heaven belongs to the time of his Second coming: But the Jews muſt be converted before then, leſt they all ſhould periſh amongſt the enemies of his Kingdom, whereof they would be the principal. I ſalve it with a ſuppoſition of ſome latitude in that Appearance, as being firſt to be uſhered with ſome preparation or præludium towards the Jewiſh Nation, before his great and univerſal Appearing to the whole world to Judgement. So Ceſtius Gallus, the Preſident of Syria, compaſſed Jeruſalem with an Army, by way of anticipation, three years before the final and fatal ſiege by Veſpaſian, to be for a warning to the believing Jews, to flee into the mountains of Arabia, according to our Saviour's ſign given them, Luke 21. ver. 20.

For ſtrengthening of ſuch a ſuppoſition, methinks I diſcern in S. Matthew, (the Hebrew Evangeliſt) Chap. 24. v. 30. two ſuch Appearances intimated: The one in the words, Then ſhall appear the ſign of the Son of man in heaven, and all the Tribes of the earth ſhall mourn, (out of Zach. 12. v. 10, 11, 12.) The other in the words following, And they ſhall ſee the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory, (out of Dan. 7.) But here I find a rub, which I cannot yet get over: For this appearing of the ſign of the Son of man in heaven, as well as his coming in the clouds with great glory, is ſaid to be * immediately after the tribulation of thoſe days; that is, (as I am wont to expound it) ſoon after the long tribulation of the Jewiſh Nation ſhall be ended: But their tribulation ſhall not * Matth. 24. 29.

end

end till they be converted: Ergo their Conversion must needs precede the sign of the Son of man in heaven there mentioned. Here I stick.

But your Objections I think I could answer thus. As first, to that of the Jews Conversion to be wrought by the taking away the veil from their hearts, 2 Cor. 3. I could answer, That that is the Internal cause of their Conversion, or, if you will, the act of the Spirit of God illuminating and converting them; as he that takes away the film from the eyes of him that sees not, or the hood from him that is hood-winkt, does by that act make him see: But I speak of the External cause or means of the Jews Conversion, such as in the ordinary administration of God is the preaching of the Word; but extraordinarily may be by Miracle, as was in the Conversion of Paul, who nevertheless had the Mosaical veil taken from his heart, as well as the rest of his Nation when they are converted shall have.

But by the way, because you mention that place Luk. 7. 47. give me leave to adde, That ὅτι signifies in Scripture not only * Quia or quoniam, but also the redditive thereto, which is * Ideo, propterea; because namely the Hebrew particle כִּי, to which ὅτι answers, signifies both: as appears Psal. 116. v. 10. compared with 2 Cor. 4. 13. ubi כִּי in Hebræo à Paulo exponitur διό. And Gen. 22. 17. item Eccles. 8. 6. See our English. In both which places כִּי is both the causal Quoniam, and the redditive thereto Ideo. Now the Scripture is wont to extend the Greek words it useth unto the full notion of the Hebrew or Chaldee to which they answer, (as may be proved by many Examples) though in the Greeks use they signified not so. This Dialect is called Lingua Hellenistica, (spoken by the Hellenists or Greekish Jews which lived dispersed under the Greek Empire) whose property is to accommodate verba Græca notioni Orientis: But no such ground can be shewn (I think) for ὅτε quando, to signifie the redditive tunc.

* Because.
* Therefore.

To your other Objection, How such a Vision could be manifested to the Jews dispersed in several parts of the world; I could answer, That a Vision or Apparition in Heaven may be seen to the greatest part of the world at the same time (as Stars and Comets are:) how else shall the Appearing of our Saviour in the clouds of Heaven, at his coming to Judgement, be seen at once to so many Nations of the world?

Or, I could say, This apparition might be vouchsafed to some chief ones of them, whom God should chuse; and they, as witnesses, make it known to the rest.

But here is one thing more considerable from the miraculous Conversion of S. Paul, upon supposal that that of the Jews may be like it; viz. That though many were present with S. Paul at that time, yet none saw the apparition of Christ, nor heard him speak, but Paul alone, for whose sake he appeared. The rest saw indeed a strange light, and heard the voice of Paul replying and answering, but they heard not the voice, nor saw any that spake unto him; which therefore made them astonished. Compare Acts 9. 7. (where it is said, They heard Paul's voice) with Acts 22. 9. (where it is said, They heard not the voice of him that spake unto him.) And take heed here of some of our English Bibles, which have put in a [not] where it should not be, as they have done the like in other places. Fie upon such careless Printers. But to the matter; What if the like may be at the Jews Conversion, to wit, that they alone shall see and hear the voice of Christ, but none of the Gentiles amongst whom they dwell, though perhaps some strange light for a testimony may at that instant surprise the whole world, to the astonishment of the Nations therein? Consider that of Matt. 24. 27. and the places of the other Evangelists answering thereto.

And what if the Jews upon such an apparition may have, as S. Paul had, an Ananias too, or (as they expect) an Elias, to instruct them? So you know know the ancient Chriſtian Church believed, from Mal. 4. 5. Matt. 17. 11. Ecclus. 48. 10. For though the Fathers as well as the Jews might erre concerning the perſon and circumſtances of this Elias, yet it follows not preſently but the ſubſtance of the opinion might be true. But I will not diſcover all my roving Speculations, unleſs I had better ground for them; leſt perhaps I ſhould make you more then wonder at me. Howſoever it be, I ſuppoſe it is no ſin to conceive magnificè and πρεπόντως of ſo great a work of God towards a people for whom he hath formerly ſhewed ſo many wonders; eſpecially this being to be the greateſt work of mercy and wonder that ever he did for them, far beyond the bringing them forth of Egypt and leading them in the wilderneſs, &c. Conſider it.

Beſides, it may be there is a precedent already extant: Sure I am, when I had entertained this conceit into my meditation, I was led by I know not what providence (as I was ſearching ſome other matter) to find an Hiſtory of the greateſt multitude of Jews that ever, I think, were converted ſince the Apoſtles times, to have been convinced by ſuch a miraculous apparition in every reſpect as I had apprehended.

A remarkable ſtory of a great converſion of Jews wrought by Chriſt's apparition and voice from heaven.

The Story (if it be true) happened about ſome 570 years after Chriſt, in the daies of Juſtinus the Greek Emperour, (though Bigneus puts it a hundred years before) in the kingdom of the Omerites (ſome write Homerites) in Arabia Felix: where the Jews in thoſe parts (being a ſtrong party) had challenged to a publick Diſputation a Chriſtian City and Kingdom in that Tract, upon condition that if they could not convince the Chriſtians by ſtrength of Reaſon and Scripture, they would become Chriſtians; if they could, they required the Chriſtians ſhould turn Jews.

The Diſputation was performed for three daies together ſub dio, in a full aſſembly of the King, his Peers and people, between Gregentius Biſhop of Tephra, and Herbanus champion for the Jews who were there aſſembled with him. The third day Herbanus required, to end the controverſie, that if Jeſus of Nazareth were indeed living and reigning in Heaven, and if thoſe who worſhipped him had any power with him, that he would upon their prayers manifeſt himſelf from Heaven, and they would then believe in him. Thereupon all the multitude of Jews cried out in deriſion, Oſtende nobis Chriſtum tuum. Va! quia ſiemus Chriſtiani, &c.

The concluſion was, that Chriſt Jeſus, after a dreadfull Thunder and Lightning, appeared from Heaven with beams of glory, walking upon a purple cloud, with a Sword in his hand, and a Diadem of ineſtimable beauty upon his head, and over the Aſſembly uttered a voice, Appareo vobis in oculis veſtris ego crucifixus à Patribus veſtris. Which having ſpoken, the cloud took him preſently out of their ſight. The Chriſtians ſhouted, Domine, miſerere; the Jews were all ſtricken blinde, and received not their ſight till they were all baptized.

This Story (whereof I tell you but the brief) hath been long unknown to theſe Weſtern parts, and was brought in our time from the Eaſtern among divers other Greek Manuſcripts, and publiſhed in Greek and Latine by Nicolaus Gulonius in octavo, under the name of Gregentii Archiepiſcopi Tephrenſis Diſputatio cum Herbano Judæo. The beginning is imperfect: In the end is the Story I have related. I have ſeen and uſed that Book, but could not be owner of it. But the Latine tranſlation is inſerted into the Bibliotheca Patrum of the edition of Colen, in the fifth Tome, pag. 919. which if you reade, I could wiſh you would joyn with it the Story of the Martyrium Omeritarum publiſhed by Baronius out of a Vatican Manuſcript, in his ſixth Seculum about the middle. It is worthy your reading, and ſuppoſed to have happened a little before this Converſion of the Jews I ſpeak of;

of: which Baronius nevertheleſs then knew not of, as being publiſhed after he had written that Tome. The Perſecution was raiſed by Dunaan a Jew, who had gotten the Kingdom of the Omerites, and meant to extinguiſh the Chriſtian City and Dition of Nargan, which was ſubject, as many other ſmall Reguli were, to that Kingdom, &c.

If this Story be true, it makes much for a probability of ſuch a conjecture for the future. If it be counterfeit, at leaſt it argues that ſome, many ages ago, thought ſuch a mean not unlikely: For Poets themſelves are wont to feign Veriſimilia. So howſoever, I am not the firſt that thought of ſuch a matter.

That which you ſay of S. Paul's miraculous Converſion, that by it he had Apoſtolical authority immediate and independent, as having his Miſſion from Heaven, and not from Men; I acknowledge it. But that this ſhould be the only end of his ſo being converted, I ſuppoſe it is not neceſſary. For it might have pleaſed God to have converted him by an ordinary mean, and yet have given him a Miſſion for his Apoſtleſhip by an immediate and extraordinary way. The immediateneſs of Apoſtolical Miſſion depended not upon ſuch a miraculous Converſion, though it pleaſed God at one and the ſame time, by one and the ſame miraculous manifeſtation, both to convert him to the Faith of Chriſt, and ſend him to be an Apoſtle to the Gentiles.

But it is now time to give over. I have been tedious and troubleſome, I know, and perhaps not well buſied in ſpending ſo many words and paper about a wavering and uncertain Speculation. But becauſe in my firſt Letter I had unawares diſcovered my fancy, I was ſomewhat ſolicitous till I had more fully explained my ſelf, leſt I might ſeem to believe much upon very little reaſon, or be ſuppoſed to be more confident in this conceit then I am. But he that ſeeks for that which is yet to finde, muſt be poring as well where it is not as where it is. God Almighty, the Father of Lights, direct us in the ſearch of his Truth, and give us grace, when we finde it, to uſe it to his Glory and our own Salvation. To whoſe protection I commend your ſelf, not forgetting my beſt reſpect, who am Chriſt's Coll. Decemb. 2. 1629.

Your aſſured Friend, Joſ. Mede.

I ſhall bid you farewell for this year, and write ſhorter Letters the next, that ſo I may hold out. I have made a ſaltus in my Meditations by theſe Diſcourſes of the Great Day. I am not come to it yet: I have much to think of, and bring to more perfection, which is preceding to it; The Witneſſes, Dragon, Beaſt, &c.

Epistle XVIII.

Mr. Maſon's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the Millenaries.

Good Mr. Mede;

I Think my ſelf much indebted unto you, that you do ſo freely communicate unto me your learned Writings. I wiſh I had been more converſant in ſtudies of this nature, that I might in ſome ſort be able to talk with you in your own language. But you have had the happineſs to follow theſe ſtudies with good leiſure and much opportunity; and I (to ſay nothing of other wants) have have been hindred both with buſineſſes of my place and weakneſs of my body, that I have ſcarce had time to think on any thing but what hath been neceſſary for my preſent imployment; and ſo it happeneth to me in my ſtudies as to poor men in getting of their living, we have nothing but from hand to mouth. The conſciouſneſs of theſe wants maketh me to write ſo ſeldom and ſo ſlightly: Elſe, if I had any thing in my thoughts that might be fit for your reading, I would be as free in communicating my ſtudies with you as you are in imparting yours unto me; eſpecially in this buſineſs, wherein you have travelled with ſuch ſucceſs. I only now can ſay, that I wiſh I may ſee the full finiſhing of your intended Work, and ſo do others abroad alſo: but yet I had rather ſtay your leiſure, till you have concocted all according to your minde, then to haſten you forward before the time. Dr. Potter hath read your former Papers, which you committed to Mr. D. and by occaſion thereof hath proceeded to reade others of the ſame argument; which when I underſtood, I deſired him to peruſe two Writings of Dr. Gerhard of the ſame Argument, both purpoſely intended againſt the Millenaries: the one is in the ſecond part of his Diſputationes Theologicæ, Diſp. 3. de novis Fanaticis; the other in the ninth Tome of his Common Places, Loc. de Conſummatione ſeculi, cap. 7. p. 442, &c. Upon the reading of thoſe Treatiſes he ſent a Letter expreſſing his minde and judgement concerning them, which I received this evening: And becauſe I know you deſire to hear the opinion of Learned men, I have ſent down incloſed herein ſo much of his Letter as concerneth that buſineſs. Which I did the rather alſo, becauſe I ſuppoſe this may give you occaſion to anſwer ſuch grounds as Gerhard hath laid to the contrary. Perhaps, if you conſider him well, you may finde a tacit Anſwer to that which you object againſt S. Hierome, for laying an imputation on the Millenaries, as if they dreamed of Earthly Pleaſures in this Kingdom of our Lord; for he ſaith that (as Dr. Gerhard thinks) of the Cerinthians and Jews, not of the ancient Fathers; how truly, I leave it to your conſideration and judgement. In the Margin of your Notes on Juſtin Martyr I noted a place to the ſame purpoſe in Lactantius: It is in black lead, and may eaſily be wiped out, if it be nothing to your purpoſe. Dr. Potter ſignified in a former Letter, that he had a purpoſe to write to you; perhaps he is not yet ready for that which he meaneth to ſay: but if he ſend his Letter this way, I will take care to ſend it down by your Carrier. In the mean while, and ever, I commend you and your ſtudies to the Bleſſing of the Almighty; and ſo for this time I leave you.

S. Andrew's Underſhaft,
Decemb. 10. 1629.

Your ever aſſured Friend,

Henry Maſon.

EPISTLE XIX.

Dr. Potter his Letter to Mr. Maſon, touching the Millenaries.

Good Mr. Maſon,

I Have read thoſe two large and learned Diſcourſes of Gerhard againſt the Millenaries, and finde him (as his wont is) to be very diligent both in recounting the Opinions of other men and in the eſtabliſhing of his own. By him I ſee, the conceit is ancient among our later Writers, and favoured by many ignorant and fanatical ſpirits; which I confeſs caſts much envy upon the Conjecture. But yet methinks, Firſt, the conſent of ſo many great and worthy

Lights of the ancient Primitive Church doth more honour and countenance the Opinion, then it can be disgraced or obscured by these late blind abettors. Secondly, The Anabaptists and their fellows are confident, where Mr. Mede doth but modestly conjecture; and that, Thirdly, upon other and better grounds then their dreaming doting heads ever thought of. Lastly, The Devil himself may sometime speak truth, and so may his disciples, with an ill intention, or at hazard;

Πολλάκι τοι καὶ μωρὸς ἀνὴρ μάλα καίριον εἶπε.

I suppose no Learned man or Christian can deny that the Nation of the Jews shall be once hereafter called by God's mercy to the Faith, and that their general Conversion will bring with it a great and glorious alteration in the Church; and therefore that Kingdom of our Lord upon earth, howsoever in some circumstances it may not answer our hopes, (which may be ungrounded and deceived) yet for substance it seems an indisputable Truth. But Prophecies are Mysteries till their accomplishment; let us therefore leave them to God and to Posterity: ——Θεῷ δὲ γένασι κεῖται. I have received Philostratus and Origen, &c.

C. P.

[The 3 Epistolary Discourses (without date) which followed here in the former Edition, are now more fitly placed in Book III. pag. 742, &c. where the like argument is treated of.]

Epistle XX.

Mr. Mede's Second Letter to Dr. Meddus, containing four grounds why the First Resurrection, Revel. 20. is to be taken literally; with some other Observations concerning the difference between the State of the new Jerusalem and the State of the Nations walking in the light thereof: as also concerning the time of the Regnum Christi.

Worthy Sir,

I Sent the fourth sheet I promised to the Bury-Carrier yesterday, with a note therein, promising to make some Answer to your Quære to day, to be delivered to the Carrier as he passed through Newmarket, but some 4 or 5 miles from the place where I am. When I had thus done, some hour or two after I received a transcript of another of yours dated August 14, of the confirmation of the taking of Wesel —— But to the Quære, which I must answer but briefly, till I have a better and more free occasion to enlarge upon particulars. The full resolving thereof depends upon so large an explication of the Oeconomy of God in the restitution of Mankind as cannot be comprised in a Letter. And I am somewhat unwilling to discover what I think, unless I could doe it fully; which made me abstain in my Specimina from any explication of that First Resurrection, save to name it only.

But howsoever when at first I perceived that Millennium to be a State of the Church consequent to the times of the Beast, I was averse from the proper acception of that Resurrection, taking it for a rising of the Church from a dead estate; as being loth to admit too many Paradoxes at once: yet afterward afterward more seriously considering and weighing all things, I found no ground or footing for any sense but the Literal.

For first, I cannot be perswaded to forsake the proper and usual import- 1.
ment of Scripture-language, where neither the insinuation of the Text it self, nor manifest tokens of Allegory, nor the necessity and nature of the things spoken of (which will bear no other sense) do warrant it. For to doe so, were to lose all footing of Divine testimony, and in stead of Scripture to believe mine own imaginations. Now the 20th of the Apocalyps, of all the Narrations of that Book, seems to be the most plain and simple, most free of Allegory and of the involution of Prophetical figures; only here and there sprinkled with such Metaphors as the use of speech makes equipollent to vulgar expressions, or the former Narrations in that Book had made to be as words personal or proper names are in the plainest histories; as Old Serpent, Beast, &c. How can a man then in so plain and simple a narration take a passage of so plain and ordinarily-expressed words (as those about the First Resurrection are) in any other sense then the usual and Literal?

Secondly, Howsoever the word Resurrection by it self might seem am- 2.
biguous, yet in a sentence composed in this manner [viz. Of the dead, those which were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, &c. lived again when the thousand years began; but the rest of the dead lived not again till the thousand years were ended] it would be a most harsh and violent interpretation to say that [Dead,] and consequently [Living again from the dead,] should not utrobique be taken in the same meaning: For such a speech in ordinary construction implies, That some of the dead lived again in the beginning of the thousand years, in that sense the rest should live again at the end of the thousand years; and è contrà, In what manner the rest of the dead should live again at the end of the thousand years, in that manner those who were beheaded for Jesus lived again in the beginning of the thousand years; which living again of those some is called the First Resurrection.

Thirdly, Though the ancient Jews (whilest they were yet the Church 3. of God) had no distinct knowledge of such an order in the Resurrection as First and Second, but only of the Resurrection in gross and general, to be in die Judicii magni; yet they looked for such a Resurrection, wherein those that rose again should reign some time * upon earth, as appeareth, Wisd. 3. from the first to the eighth verse inclusivè; where it is expressely said, That the Souls of the Righteous which were departed should in the time of their visitation shine, and that they should judge the nations, and have dominion over the people, and their Lord should reign for ever. See the place and consider it. This opinion is here and there also dispersed in the Chaldee Paraphrase and in the Talmud, as of ancient Tradition; and is the opinion of the Jews at this day, who as they look not for the Kingdom of their Messiah untill Dies Judicii magni, so they expect that their forefathers (at least such as were just and holy) should rise at the beginning of the same, and reign in the land of Israel with their off-spring under Messiah. I can hardly believe that all this smoke of Tradition could arise but from some fire of Truth anciently made known unto them. Besides, why should the holy Ghost in this point speak so like them, unless he would induce us mutatis mutandis to mean with them? In fine, the Second and Universal Resurrection with the State of the Saints after it, now so clearly revealed in Christianity, seems to have been less known to the ancient Church of the Jews then the First and the State to accompany it.

* according to that, Apocal. 5. 10. We shall reign on the earth.

* N. B.

Lastly, This was the Opinion of the whole Orthodox Christian Church 4. in the Age immediately following the death of S. John, (when yet Polycarp and many of the Apoſtles Diſciples were living) as * Juſtin Martyr expreſly affirmeth; whoſe paſſage to that purpoſe, when I return again to Cambridge, I will ſend you, illuſtrated with ſome * Notes, and the reading in one place reſtored from a corruption crept thereinto by fraud or otherwiſe. A teſtimony abſolute, without all compariſon, to perſwade ſuch as rely upon Authority and Antiquity. It is to be admired, that an Opinion once ſo generally received in the Church ſhould ever have been cried down and buried. But thoſe Times which extinguiſhed this brought other Alterations into the Church beſides this; Et quidem ſic fieri oportuit.

* See Book III. pag. 664.

I will ſay ſomething more, obſerved perhaps by few of thoſe which have knowledge enough of the reſt; namely, That this Opinion of the First Reſurrection was the true ground and mother of prayers for the dead, ſo anciently received in the Church, which were then conceived after this manner, Ut partem haberent in Reſurrectione prima. See Tertullian, who firſt mentions them. The reaſon was, becauſe this having part in Reſurrectione prima was not to be common to all, but to be a priviledge of ſome, namely, of Martyrs, and Confeſſors equipollent to them, if God ſo would accept them. Moreover, the belief of this Prerogative of Martyrs in Reſurrectione prima was that which made the Chriſtians of thoſe times ſo joyouſly deſirous of Martyrdom. Theſe things will perhaps ſeem ſtrange, but they will be found true, if duly examined.

See in Book III. pag. 710. Epiſt. ad Amicum de Reſurrectione prima.

Thus I have diſcovered my opinion of the thing which I ſuppoſe the Scripture hath revealed ſhall be: But de modo how it ſhall be I would willingly abſtain from determining. We muſt be content to be ignorant of the manner of things, which for the matter we are bound to believe. Too much adventuring here, without a ſure guide, may be dangerous, and breed intolerable fancies, as it did among ſome in thoſe ancient times; which occaſioned, as may ſeem, the death and burial of the main Opinion it ſelf ſo generally at firſt believed.

Yet thus much I conceive the Text ſeems to imply, That theſe Saints of the Firſt Reſurrection ſhould reign here on earth in the New Jeruſalem in a ſtate of beatitude and glory, partaking of Divine preſence and Viſion of Chriſt their King; as it were in an Heaven upon earth, or new Paradiſe immutable, unchangeable, &c.

Secondly, That, for the better underſtanding of this Myſterie, we muſt diſtinguiſh between the State of the New Jeruſalem and State of the Nations which ſhall walk in the light thereof; they ſhall not be both one, but much differing. Therefore what is ſpoken particularly of the New Jeruſalem, muſt not be applied to the whole Church which then ſhall be: New Jeruſalem is not the whole Church, but the Metropolis thereof and of the New world. The State of the Nations which ſhall walk in her light, though happy and glorious, yet ſhall be changeable, as appears by the commotion of the Nations ſeduced at the end of the Thouſand years. But the State of thoſe who dwell in the New Jeruſalem ſhall be extra omnem mutationis aleam; Bleſſed are thoſe who have part in the Firſt Reſurrection, for on them the Second Death hath no power.

I differ therefore from Piſcator, and agree with Alſtedius, That the Saints of the Firſt Reſurrection ſhould reign on Earth during the Millennium, and not in Heaven.

I differ from both, in that I make this State of the Church to belong to Secundus Adventus Chriſti or Dies Judicii magni, when Chriſt ſhall appear in the clouds of Heaven to deſtroy all the profeſſed enemies of his Church and Kingdom, and deliver the creature from that bondage of corruption brought upon it for the ſin of man: Whereas they make it to precede the Day

Day of Judgement and Second coming. Though this Notion may seem to make but little alteration of the thing believed; yet it is of no small moment to facilitate the understanding of Scripture, and puts upon the thing it self another nature then is conceived by those who apprehend it otherwise. In a word, Ours conceive this State to be ante Diem Judicii: Others (though wrongfully) suppose the ancient Chiliasts to have held it to be post Diem Judicii. But the truth is, it is neither before nor after, but ipsa Dies Judicii, ipsum tempus Secundæ apparitionis Christi. And it is to be remembred here, that the Jews, who gave this time the name of יום דין The Day of Judgement, and from whom our Saviour and his Apostles took it, never understood thereby but a Time of many years continuance, yea some (mirabile dictu) of a thousand years: and the name of יום דין The Day of Judgement is more frequent in their Writings then in the New Testament it self. It is mentioned I know not how many times in the Chaldee Paraphrase of that little Book of Ecclesiastes. The word [Day] is in the Hebrew notion used ordinarily for tempus, yea longissimum: as in the Prophets, for the seventy years Captivity; for the time of their great and long Captivity; for the time of their pilgrimage in the wilderness, Psal. 95. according to the LXX. and S. Paul's translation Hebr. 3. The day of temptation in the wilderness, when your Fathers tempted me, and proved me, and saw my works forty years. See the thirteenth verse of that chapter, where a Day includes every day. So should Day be taken in the Lord's Prayer, for the time of this our life. Compare it with S. Luke, whose words are, Give us every day our daily bread. See the longest day of all days, in the last words of S. Peter's last Epistle, in the Greek and Latine; (for our English obscures it with a general expression) It is ἡμέρα αἰῶνος, dies æternitatis.

That the word [Day] in Scripture sometimes implies a long time or many years.

There came forth that year I conceived my Specimina of that Millennium, a Discourse by a Lutheran with this Title, Vero-similia historico-Prophetica de Rebus in novissimo die eventuris, pio studio cujusdam ἀγαπώντος καὶ ἐπιφάνειαν τοῦ Κυρίου. He conceals his name; it is a little, but elaborate, Discourse. He hath the same notion of Dies novissimus which I had of Dies Judicii. I found with no little admiration a great part of my private Speculations of this matter in that Tractate. Spying it in the Catalogue, and guessing what it meant by the Title, I laid for it at London: There came but two, I got them both, one for a friend, another for my self. I have used means for more Copies, but they cannot, say the Merchants, be heard of. Mine is now lent away; when I can recover it, I will send it you. Thus I take my leave, lest I seal too late. God keep us.

Dalham-Hall,
Aug. 18.

Yours,

Jos. Mede.

Post-script.

Now I have done, I repent me of so tumultuary and confused a Discourse of so great a Mysterie, wherein so much is wanting to give it light and evidence. I must desire you therefore to keep it to your self, and to pardon the fault you have been an occasion of in putting me upon it.

Epistle XXI.

Dr. Meddus his Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Dr. Twiſſe's Anſwers to nine Quære's about Regnum Sanctorum.

Worthy Sir, and my dear Friend,

THis hath been unto me no pleaſant time, being much weakened by this moneths bleeding and a pain in my right arm. I have done with the Lutheran; though doing all with my own hand, I have been longer about it then Dr. Twiſſe was, having the help of divers hands. I now ſend it back with many thanks. You may remember in the beginning of November I ſent you a Letter from Dr. Twiſſe, when I wrote he had beſides ſome * Quære's to have propoſed unto you concerning the thouſand years Regnum Sanctorum; but he durſt not be ſo bold, yet left it free unto me to doe as I thought good: But then propounding other things, and being loth eſpecially to hinder you in the going forward as with another part of the Revelation, ſo with the clearing of 2 Pet. c. 3. And beſides, your inhibition was then a command unto me, to make no more demands till after theſe late Holy-daies. But now, in hope of your favourable bearing with me, I ſhall adventure to make his Quære's and Anſwers known unto you: yet with this caution, that neither they, nor your judgement or cenſure of the Lutheran Book, (which I once deſired) may retard your other meditations; nor to give anſwer thereunto but at your beſt leiſure and conveniency. Now to the Quære's and Anſwers.

* See Dr. Twiſſe his Firſt Letter to Mr. Mede.

Quære 1. As concerning the perſons to be raiſed, which are expreſſed Rev. 20. 4. to be only Martyrs; and Piſcator will have it proceed only of ſuch: Now this is very ſtrange, conſidering that undoubtedly ſome never ſuffering Martyrdom have been as great in the favour of God as any Martyrs; as Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, and the Virgin Mary.

Anſw. This may be helped two waies. Firſt, by ſuch an interpretation of Martyrdom as may be extended much further then to the ſuffering of death for the teſtimony of Chriſt. Secondly, by comparing this of Rev. 20. 4. with other places, as namely with Rev. 5. 10. & 11. 18. where the ſame grace is extended to them that fear God's Name, to ſmall and great.

Object. But then here followeth a contrary inconvenience, that ſo it ſhall be extended unto all.

Anſw. Yet it is not ſaid, To all that fear God's Name.

Quære 2. Concerning the Communion between the Saints raiſed from their graves, and the people then living and remaining on the earth, called the nations that are ſaved, that is, from the fire, whereby the earth and the works thereof ſhall be burned, 2 Pet. 3. 10. Alſtedius will have the Saints raiſed to be Doctors of the Church, taking no notice of any diſtinction of male and female; though of both Sexes there have been both Saints and Martyrs. Rev. 21. 24. it is ſaid, that the nations ſhall walk in the light of new Jeruſalem; and if the Saints ſhall reign over the Nations, there muſt be a Communion, ſuch as is between Governours and perſons governed. And this Government ſhall be undoubtedly in reference to the Worſhip of God. Now conſider,

1. What Communion can ſuch Bodies as ours have with glorified bodies, conſidering that when Moſes came down from the Mount, his countenance did ſo ſhine that the Iſraelites could not endure to look him in the face?

Anſw. Firſt, This glorious luſtre may be qualified ſo far as to be without offence.

Secondly,

Secondly, The world being reſtored, why may not the mortal Bodies of men be ſomething altered alſo? Surely God can proportion it. It ſeems very inconvenient they ſhould be naked; neither can we deviſe in any congruity a glorified Body ſhould be covered: What raiment were any fit covering for ſuch? Neither is it congruous their glory ſhould be covered, as Moſes's face was with a Veil.

2. Whether ſhall the Bodies of the Saints raiſed be covered or naked?

Anſ. As Angels appeared, their faces ſhining like lightning, and their raiment white as ſnow, (which aſpect, terrible at the firſt, by familiar converſation might prove not terrible;) ſo Light may be as a garment to the Saints raiſed.

3. Whether Chriſt and the Saints raiſed ſhall eat and drink. One Mr. Wood, a Miniſter in Lincolnſhire, maintains they ſhall, (as I have heard from a noble perſon) and for his opinion allegeth that of our Saviour, I will not from henceforth drink of the fruit of the vine, untill that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God, Mar. 14. 25. Adde to this Luk. 14. 15. One ſitting at table with Chriſt ſaid, Bleſſed is he that eateth bread in the Kingdom of God. This he meant (as did all the Jews) of the Kingdom of the Meſſias on earth; which opinion our Saviour doth no where correct. Otherwiſe what uſe will they have of the Reſtauration of the world? Yet this is very hard to concoct, 1. That Chriſt and his Saints all glorified ſhould come from Heaven, to eat and drink on earth; which comes near to the vile opinion of Cerinthus, that for a 1000 years God's Saints ſhould live on earth in carnal pleaſures. 2. In this caſe it ſeems their Bodies ſhould be expoſed to excrements, which is not to be endured in Bodies glorified.

Anſ. 1. No more then our Saviour's was after his Reſurrection; or Angels, who ſometimes did eat with the Patriarchs.

Anſ. 2. If ſo, yet not for neceſſity, much leſs for ſatisfaction to the fleſh; but for other reaſons, as Chriſt did eat with his Apoſtles after his Reſurrection.

Quære 3. Then there will be no place for ſuch deſires, as to be diſſolved and to be with Chriſt, Philip. 1. 23. and to be removed out of the body, and to dwell with the Lord, 2 Cor. 5. 8. For then to be diſſolved will be to be abſent from the Lord, and to dwell in the body will be to be preſent with the Lord.

Anſ. 1. Though death will not then be comfortable in this reſpect, yet it may in other reſpects, as it brings freedom from ſeducing, which afterwards ſhall be incident to Gog and Magog.

Anſ. 2. As Methuſelah lived above 900 years a little before the Floud; ſo in the Reſtauration of the world why may not men live a 1000 years? I ſpeak not of the Saints raiſed, but of thoſe that ſhall walk in the light of new Jeruſalem.*

Quære 4. Chriſt's Kingdom ſhall have no end, Luke 1. 33. Dan. 7. 14. But this Kingdom of Chriſt ſhall laſt but a 1000. years, and then Gog and Magog ſhall prevail ſo far, as not only to invade all the Nations that walk in the light of new Jeruſalem, but even to beſiege the beloved City, that is, new Jeruſalem it ſelf, Rev. 20.

Anſw. 1. But not prevail over new Jeruſalem, but be forthwith conſumed with fire: and then Chriſt's Kingdom continuing ſtill ſhall be tranſlated from earth to Heaven.

Anſw. 2. Chriſt's Kingdom ſhall ſucceed other kingdoms, but no kingdom ſhall ſucceed this; and in that reſpect it is ſaid to be everlaſting: But Chriſt muſt reſign his Kingdom to his Father, that God may be all in all. 1 Cor. 15.

Quære 5. Chriſt's coming is not till the reſtoring of all things, Acts 3. 21. But the reſtoring of all things followeth after the conſumption of Gog and Magog,

* [In a MS. of Dr. Twiſſe there is a third Anſwer added in the Margin; but whether it was added in the Paper of his Anſwers ſent by Dr. Meddus to Mr. Mede appears not. Anſw. 3. It appears by Eſa. 65. 20. that they who are found alive at Chriſt's coming ſhall be obnoxious unto death; but after death they ſhall riſe ere the 1000 years be expired, and reign with Chriſt.]

Magog, Rev. 20. 11. and Rev. 21. 1. Ergò Chriſt's coming ſhall not be till after Gog and Magog's ruine; Ergò not a 1000 years before.

Anſw. It is ſaid, that before his face that ſate upon the throne, heaven and earth fled away, &c. But it is not ſaid, that then it began to fly away, to wit, after the deſtruction of Gog and Magog.

Quære 6. 'Tis very ſtrange that Gog and Magog ſhould adventure to beſiege new Jeruſalem; the Devil and his Angels might as well adventure to beſiege Heaven.

Anſw. True, if Gog and Magog knew the condition of new Jeruſalem ſo well as the Devil and his Angels know the condition of Heaven.

Quære 7. Shall all that oppoſe Chriſt's truth be conſumed with fire at that day? Conſider, Paul oppoſed the Goſpel for a while, yet was a choſen veſſel of God; and many that do not oppoſe, may yet be reprobates.

Anſw. 1. Yet at that day all ſuch to whom the Lord coming in flaming fire ſhall render vengeance for not obeying the Goſpel of Chriſt Jeſus, 2 Theſſ. 1. 8. ſhall be none of God's Elect.

Anſw. 2. But ſome of God's Elect perhaps may be converted that very day.

Quære 8. What ſhall become of Infants found alive at that day, not only of God's children, but of others alſo?

Anſw. 1. If conſumed in the ſame fire with their ungodly parents, this will be no more ſtrange then that which fell out in the conflagration of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Anſw. 2. Yet they may be of the number of thoſe that eſcape, if ſo it pleaſe God; and hereunto, to wit, that it ſhould ſo pleaſe God, I ſhould rather incline.

Quære 9. From heaven we look for a Saviour that ſhall transform our vile bodies, and make them like unto his glorious body, Phil. 3. ult. Ergò at Chriſt's coming all the Saints that remain alive ſhall be ſo transformed.

Anſw. So they ſhall before that Day of Judgement ends; for it continueth a 1000 years.

1 Theſſ. 4. Quære 10. They that then are found alive ſhall be caught up in the aire, and ever be with the Lord; I mean the godly: But if there ſhall be a 1000 years reign on earth, what need they be caught up in the aire? and how ever be with the Lord from thenceforth, if they and their poſterity after them continue for the ſpace of a 1000 years ſubject to mortality?

Theſe were his Ten Quare's, and Anſwers unto Nine of them; with which Contemplations (he wrote) his heart ſerv'd him not to acquaint you, or to intreat your judgement in the way of correction or confirmation and addition, but left it unto me. The Father of lights illuminate our hearts with all ſaving light to his Glory, the good of his people, and our own comforts in Chriſt Jeſus. So I reſt,

6 Jan. 1629. Yours ever,

Sam. Meddus.

EPISTLE

EPISTLE XXII.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to the Tenth Quære, about the 1000 years Regnum Sanctorum.

SIR,

BY reaſon of this late indiſpoſition I was not fit for any matter of ſtudy till yeſterday: howſoever, I conſidered then Dr. T. his Anſwers to the Objections, and applaud them, finding through them all a right and dexterous apprehenſion of the thing queſtioned, which many are very uncapable to conceive. But becauſe he leaves the laſt unanſwered, I ſuppoſe it was tacitely reſerved to me for Tithe, himſelf having anſwered Nine. I will therefore, as well as I can, propound what I had before conceived might be anſwered to ſuch an Objection; wherein you ſhall alſo perceive in part wherein I differ from the Lutheran.

1. Therefore, It is not needfull that the Reſurrection of thoſe which ſlept in Chriſt, and the Rapture of thoſe which ſhall be left alive together with them into the Aire, ſhould be at one and the ſame time: For the words * πρῶτον and ἔπειτα, firſt and then or afterwards, may admit a great diſtance of time, as 1 Cor. 15. 23. Everyone (or, all mankinde) ſhall riſe in their order, Chriſt the firſt-fruits (that is, firſt,) ἔπειτα afterwards they that are Chriſt's, at his coming. Here ἔπειτα, afterwards, notes a diſtance of time of above a thouſand and a half of years, as we finde by experience. Suppoſe therefore this Rapture of the Saints into the Aire be to tranſlate them to Heaven; yet it might be conſtrued thus, The dead in Chriſt (that is, for Chriſt, namely, the Martyrs) ſhall riſe firſt; afterwards, ἔπειτα, (viz. a thouſand years after) we which are alive and remain ſhall together with them be caught up in the clouds, and meet the Lord in the Aire, and ſo (from thenceforth) we ſhall ever be with the Lord. Thus Tertullian ſeems to underſtand it, who interprets νεκροὶ ἐν Χριστῷ, or as it is in ver. 14. κοιμηθέντες διὰ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, of Martyrs; namely, ſuch as die propter Chriſtum, for Chriſt, by means of Chriſt, through Chriſt, for Chriſt's ſake; taking ἐν as noting the cauſe or means of their death. So Piſcator expounds the like ſpeech, Apoc. 14. 13. Bleſſed are the dead which die ἐν Κυρίῳ, id eſt, propter Dominum, for the Lord; Beza, qui Domini causâ moriuntur, which die for the Lord's ſake.

* 1 Theſſ. 4. verſ. 16, 17.

2. If thus to reſtrain νεκροὶ ἐν Χριστῷ, or κοιμηθέντες διὰ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, ſeem not ſo fully to anſwer the Apoſtle's ſcope and intention, which ſeems to be a general conſolation to all that die in the faith, a fruition of Chriſt: then may we give it the largeſt ſenſe, and yet ſay, That it is not needfull that the Reſurrection of thoſe which died in Chriſt ſhould be all at once or altogether; but the Martyrs firſt, in the Firſt reſurrection; then (after an appointed time) the reſt of the dead in the Laſt reſurrection; afterward, when the Reſurrection ſhall be thus compleat, thoſe which remain alive at Chriſt's coming ſhall together with thoſe which are riſen be caught up into the clouds, to meet the Lord in the Aire, and from thenceforth be eternally with him. And ſo the reaſon why thoſe which Chriſt found alive at his coming were not inſtantly tranſlated ſhould be in part, that they might not prevent the dead, but be conſummate with them.

3. Both theſe Interpretations ſuppoſe the Rapture of the Saints into the Clouds to be for their preſent tranſlation into Heaven. But ſuppoſe that be be not the meaning of it; for the words, if we weigh them well, ſeem to imply it to be for another end, namely, To doe honour unto their Lord and King at his return, and to attend upon him when he comes to judge the World: Thoſe (ſaith the Text) which ſleep in Jeſus, will God bring with him; he ſaith not, carry away with him. Again, They and thoſe which are alive ſhall be caught up together in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the Aire; to meet the Lord's coming hither to Judgement; not to follow him returning hence, the Judgement being finiſhed. Beſides, it is to be noted, that although in the Hebrew notion the Aire be comprehended under the name of Heaven, yet would not the Apoſtle here uſe the word Heaven, but the word [Aire,] as it were to avoid the ambiguity, leſt we might interpret it of our tranſlation into Heaven.

If this be the meaning, then are thoſe words [We ſhall ever be with the Lord] thus to be interpreted; After this our gathering together unto Chriſt at his coming, (ſo the Apoſtle calls this Rapture, 2 *Theſſ.*2.1.) we ſhall from henceforth never loſe his preſence, but alwaies enjoy it, partly on earth, during his reign of a 1000 years, and partly in Heaven, when we ſhall be tranſlated thither. For it cannot be concluded, becauſe the Text ſaith, the Saints after their rapture on high ſhould thenceforth be ever with the Lord; Ergò, they ſhall from thenceforth be in Heaven; for no Heaven is here mentioned. If they muſt needs be with Chriſt there where they are to meet him, it would rather follow, they ſhould be ever with him in the Aire, then in Heaven; which I ſuppoſe none will admit. And otherwiſe the Text will afford no more for Heaven then it will for Earth; nay, the words [he ſhall bring them with him] make moſt for the latter.

4. I will adde this more, namely, what may be conceived to be the cauſe of this Rapture of the Saints on high to meet the Lord in the Clouds, rather then to wait his coming to the Earth. What if it be, that they may be preſerved during the Conflagration of the earth and the works thereof, 2 Pet. 3. 10. that as Noah and his family were preſerved from the Deluge by being lift up above the waters in the Ark; ſo ſhould the Saints at the Conflagration be lift up in the Clouds unto their Ark, Chriſt, to be preſerved there from the deluge of fire, wherein the wicked ſhall be conſumed? There is a Tradition of the Jews ſounding this way, which they aſcribe unto one Elias a Jewiſh Doctor, whoſe is that * Tradition of the duration of the World, and well known among Divines, Duo millia Inane, duo millia Lex, duo millia dies Meſſiæ; viz. Sex mille annos duraturus eſt Mundus. He lived under the ſecond Temple about the firſt times of the Greek Monarchy; ſo that it is no device of any latter Rabbies, but a Tradition anciently received amongſt them whilſt they were yet the Church of God. I will tranſcribe it, becauſe it hath ſomething remarkable concerning the 1000 years: It ſounds thus.

* In Gemara Abodah Zarah, c. 1.

Traditio domûs Eliæ. Juſti quos reſuſcitabit Deus non redigentur iterum in pulverem. (He means of the Firſt and Particular Reſurrection before the General, which the Jews acknowledge and talk much of. See Wiſdom, chap. 3. ab initio ad finem v. 8.) Si quæras autem, Mille annis iſtis quibus Deus Sanctus Benedictus renovaturus eſt mundum ſuum (de quibus dicitur, Et exaltabitur Dominus ſolus in die illo, Eſ. 2. 11.) quid juſtis futurum ſit; ſciendum, quòd Deus Sanctus Benedictus dabit illis alas quaſi aquilarum, ut volent ſuper facie aquarum: unde dicitur (Pſal. 46. 3.) Propterea non timebimus cùm * mutabitur terra. At fortè (inquies) erit ipſis dolori ſeu afflictioni. Sed occurrit illud (Eſa.40.31.) Exſpectantibus Dominum innovabuntur vires, efferentur alâ inſtar aquilarum. The Hebrew words are in Gemara Sanhedrin, תני דבית אליהו צדיקים שעתיד הקדוש ברוך הוא להחיותן

* בהמיר mutabitur, though we here tranſlate it, be moved, movebitur.

להחיותן אינן חוזרין לעפרם ואם תאמר אותן אותן אלף שנים שעתיד הקדוש ברוך הוא לחדש בהן את עלמו שנאמר ונשגב ה' לבדו ביום ההוא וגו׳ מה הן עושין וגו׳ The Tradition of the houſe of Elias. The juſt whom God ſhall raiſe up (viz. in the Firſt Reſurrection) ſhall not be turned again to duſt. Now if you aſk, How it ſhall be with the juſt in thoſe Thouſand years wherein the Holy Bleſſed God ſhall renew his world, whereof it is ſaid (Eſa. 2. 11.) And the Lord alone ſhall be exalted in that day; you muſt know, that the Holy Bleſſed God will give them the wings as it were of Eagles, to fly upon the face of the waters: whence it is ſaid (Pſal. 46. 3.) Therefore ſhall we not fear, when the Earth ſhall be changed. But perhaps you will ſay, it ſhall be a pain and affliction to them. Not at all, for it is ſaid (Eſa. 40. 31.) They that wait upon the Lord, ſhall renew their ſtrength, they ſhall mount up with wings as Eagles.

I have no more left. Mr. Doctor may adde this to my Placita Judæorum. Thus with my beſt reſpects to your ſelf and him, I reſt, Yours, &c.

F. M.

Poſt-ſcript.

Adde unto this that of our Saviour, Where the body is, there ſhall the Eagles be gathered together.

[The Latine Epiſtle that followed here in the former Edition is now placed in Book III. page 710. it being a Supplement to the foregoing Anſwer there to Lud. de Dieu.]

Epistle XXIII.

Dr. Twiſſe his Third Letter to Mr. Mede, touching ſome obſcure paſſages in Daniel.

Worthy Sir,

I Am ſorry you are offended to have thoſe your learned Diſcuſſions of that difficult place in Daniel, touching the LXX weeks, communicated. I confeſs I travell'd not a little for the gaining of them; firſt at Oxford, where I firſt diſcovered ſome track of them; then at London, by my good friend Dr. Meddus his means, firſt with Mr. Maſon my good friend and ancient acquaintance, then with Mr. D. What account ſoever you make of them, I aſſure you I ſhall make never a whit the leſs reckoning of your learned pains. Good reaſon your account ſhould proceed according to the exactneſs of your own judgement in theſe Studies; but to me truly they are rare notions: The rather, becauſe I perceive your care is equal in maintaining congruity both with the Hebrew Text, and with the computation of years upon ſuch grounds as the world affords. Yet as in the courſe of your contemplations you ſhall light upon any further or fuller ſatisfaction, I ſhould think my ſelf very happy to have my deſire ſatisfied in being made partaker of them; and of the opinion of that moſt reverend Prelate Dr. Uſher, the Lord Primate of Armagh, concerning the ſame, which you gain'd of him by conference. Otherwiſe I ſhall bethink my ſelf of a courſe to obtain it from himſelf, which I conceive to be very poſſible more ways then one.

I deſi-

I deſired by Dr. Meddus to obtain your interpretation of three particulars in Daniel. Dan. 7. 12. As concerning the reſt of the Beaſts, they had their dominion taken away; yet their lives were prolonged for a ſeaſon and time. Conradus Graſerus, in his Hiſtoria Antichriſti, ſeems to interpret it of the laſting of each of the three firſt national Monarchies, after the death of each firſt Monarch; which in my judgement is as appliable to the fourth Beaſt as to the three firſt. The other is, Dan. 7. 8. touching the little Horn, before whom there were three of the firſt horns plucked up: which Graſerus applies to Mahomet, and his rending of three Provinces from the Roman Monarchy, namely, Syria, Egypt, and Africa. I had rather underſtand it of Antichriſt, as Moulin doth. But whether it be of Provinces rent from the Empire by Antichriſt, or by others about his riſing, and what they are, I am to ſeek. And of the reconciling of this with that Rev. 17. 12. where it is ſaid, that the ten horns are ten kings, which receive power as kings one hour with the Beaſt. Good Sir, pardon my over-great boldneſs.

I have ſent my Copie of your Paraphraſe of the laſt of Peter, and your Diſcourſe of that Fiery judgement, to be conſidered of as you think good, and according to your motion. When Peter ſaith, His beloved brother Paul in all his Epiſtles ſpeaks ἐν αὐταῖς περὶ τούτων, he addeth, * ἐν οἷς are ſome things δυσνόητα· not ἐν αἷς, though ſome few Copies reade ἐν αἷς, as Beza obſerveth; yet little reaſon that ſhould carry it. Hemingius reads ἐν οἷς, and for the perverting of thoſe things, gives inſtance in the Millenaries. But if the embracing of that opinion from a Text of Scripture were the corrupting of it, were not Peter himſelf far more liable thereunto in this Epiſtle then Paul? I know ſome to the contrary have obſerved ſomething in Paul againſt the opinion of the Thouſand years Regnum Sanctorum, as namely Piſcator: I have heard of no writer that from Paul's Text hath pleaded for it. I looked you would have noted ſomething concerning ἡμέρα αἰῶνος, which to my judgement ſeems a ſingular phraſe.

* See this [ἐν οἷς] explained by the Author in his Paraphr. on 2 Pet. 3. verſ. 16. The explication of which verſe was written by Mr. Mede in Dr. Twiſſe's Manuſcript, & not extant in the former Editions. See Book III. pag. 757.

I will obſerve carefully to retain your LXX Weeks by me without communicating them to any. As for Doctor Potter, he hath ſeen, upon my knowledge, your Specimina upon the Seals and Trumpets, as alſo your Generals, and, if I be not deceived, that of Regnum Lapidis and Regnum Montis in Daniel. The reſt I will communicate unto him very ſhortly; as Placita Judæorum, and your Notes upon Juſtine, or what elſe ſoever you ſhall deſire, either to him or any other; and that in your own Name, that he may know your good affection towards him, by your deſire to gratifie him in ſuch ſpeciall pieces of no vulgar contemplation. I deſire to commend your ſelf and worthy ſtudies to the bleſſing of God, and reſt,

Newbury, March 5. 1629.

Your very loving Friend much obliged,

W. Twiſſe.

EPISTLE

EPISTLE XXIV.

Mr. Mede's Third Letter to Dr. Meddus, touching the explanation of ſome obſcure paſſages in Daniel, mentioned in the foregoing Letter of Dr. Twiſſe.

SIR,

I Have nothing upon the ſeventh of Daniel but what you have ſeen in thoſe two Diſcourſes, viz. * The purport of the four Kingdoms in Daniel; and ſecondly, * The Deſcription of the Great Day of Judgement, Dan. 7. Both which I ſent you written with my own hand, to be communicated to Dr. Twiſſe; and the latter being ſent me back to take a Copy for my ſelf, I returned it again unto you.

* See Epiſt. VIII.
* See Epiſt. XV.

As for thoſe three Chapters of the Apocalyps, I have not yet done a word; and ſee ſo much buſineſs now coming upon me, that I know not when I ſhall begin. For I can doe nothing in thoſe things but in ſilence, and ſecurity of not being diſtracted. In the mean time I muſt deſire my friends to content themſelves with thoſe ſhort Specimina concerning thoſe Chapters which they had at the beginning of my communication of my Meditations on theſe things. And it may be, if I had not communicated them to ſo many till they had been more full and perfect, I had been ere this time more forward then I am.

Concerning your three Queſtions, I have choſen to make anſwer to them this Feſtival-week; not knowing after it be paſt when I ſhall have ſo much leiſure again. And firſt I will begin with the two laſt.

Queſt. 1. If the Horn with eyes and mouth, ſpeaking words againſt the moſt High, &c. in Daniel, or the fourth Beaſt ruling in that Horn, be the ſame with S. John's Beſtia noviſſimi capitis; and conſequently the ten Horns, amongſt which that Horn ruled, the ſame Kingdoms which S. John ſaw typed by the like number of Horns; as the Church from her infancy believed: how can S. John, who ſaith, * that his ten Kings receive their kingdoms at the ſame time or hour with his Beaſt, be reconciled with Daniel, who * ſaith, the wicked Horn roſe up after them?

* Revel. 17.
* Dan. 7. 24.

Reſp. I tranſlate not אַחֲרֵיהֶן in Dan. 7. 24. After them, but, Behind them, as the Greek doth, ὀπίσω αὐτῶν: and take the meaning implied to be, that the ten Kings were not aware of the growing up of the little Horn, till it overtopped them. The learned in the Tongues know that אַחַר & אַחֲרֵי ſignifie as well * Behind in place, as After in time; and the firſt as often and frequently every whit as the latter: So alſo Poſt in Latine is indifferently either Loci or Temporis. The tranſlation cannot be excepted againſt, as either new or ſtrained: The ſenſe is obvious and moſt agreeable to the event; and ſo we ſhall not need ſeek any other way to avoid the appearance of contradiction. Otherwiſe it were not impoſſible to expound [After them] to be in order of number, and not in order of time, which we in Engliſh would expreſs, And another ſhall riſe up beſides them, that is, beſides the ten, and ſo make the eleventh. But we ſhall not need ſo harſh and unuſual a way. Beſides, it might be granted, that the little Horn, in reſpect of his ἀκμὴ and height of dominion, was after the ten Kings, though his beginning were at the ſame time when they began.

* Vid. Gen. 22. 13. Exod. 14. 19. Joſh. 8. 2. 2 Kings 9. 18. 2 Chron. 13. 13. Ezek. 3. 12. & alibi.

Queſt. 2. What were thoſe three Kings which the little Horn is ſaid to have diſplanted, (Dan. 7. 8.) or, as the Angel interprets, (v. 24.)

brought down or humbled, יַהְשְׁפִּיל à שפל, which the Vulgar turns humiliabit; the Greek ταπεινώσει· Irenæus, deminorabit, vel (ut in alio exemplari) dehonorabit; Vatablus, opprimet; Junius, deprimet?

Reſp. In my larger interpretations of the Trumpets (in Rev. 8.) you have at the end of the ſecond Trumpet a * Table of Ten Kings or Kingdoms whereinto the Roman Empire was divided about Anno 456 and forward: The offſpring of which Nations, through many alterations, (partly by the inconſtancy of humane things, partly occaſioned by the further enlargement of the Chriſtian Faith) are the body of moſt of the Kingdoms and States of Chriſtendom at this day. Look upon the Table, and then I anſwer you thus.

* See Book III. pag. 577. & pag. 815.

The three Kings which Daniel ſaith the Antichriſtian Horn * ſhould depreſs and diſplant, to advance himſelf, were thoſe whoſe Dominions extended into Italy, and ſo ſtood in his light.

* In another Letter of Mr. Mede's, written to Mr. Tho. Johnſon, of Rochdale in Lancaſhire, Novemb. 9. 1636. (where much of this Letter is tranſcribed, in anſwer to the like Doubt) is this added [The Antichriſtian Horn with eies and mouth, that is, qui cùm revera Cornu tantùm ſit, pro Capite tamen ſeſe gerit, cujus eſt proprium os & oculos habere.]

* In the Letter to Mr. T. J. this is added, [now after the diviſion and dilaceration of the Empire, but one of the Kingdoms. * [The Horn]

Firſt, That of the Greeks *, whoſe Emperour Leo Iſaurus, for the quarrel of Image-worſhip, * he excommunicated, and made his ſubjects of Italy revolt from their allegeance.

Secondly, That of the Longobards, (ſucceſſors to the Oſtrogoths) whoſe Kingdom he cauſed by the aid of the Franks to be wholly ruined and extirpated, thereby to get the Exarchate of Ravenna (which ſince the revolt from the Greeks the Longobards were ſeiſed on) for a Patrimony to S. Peter.

Thirdly, The laſt was the Kingdom of the Franks it ſelf, continued in the Empire of Germany; whoſe Emperours from the days of Henry the fourth * he excommunicated, depoſed and trampled under his feet, and never ſuffered to live in reſt, till he made them not onely to quit their intereſt in the Election of Popes and Inveſtitures of Biſhops, but that remainder alſo of Juriſdiction in Italy, wherewith together with the Roman name he had once infeoffed * their Predeceſſors.

* [this proud domineering Horn]

* [and inveſted]

Theſe were the Kings by diſplanting or (as the Vulgar hath) humbling of whom the Pope got elbow-room by degrees, and advanced himſelf to that height of Temporal Majeſty and abſolute greatneſs, which made him ſo terrible in the world. See in the Table 3, 9, 10.

In the forementioned Letter to Mr. T. J. upon the ſame argument, there is this additional Obſervation.

"[And here note, it is one thing for the Ten Kings to give their power "and authority unto the Beaſt capitis noviſſimi, (as S. John ſpeaks Rev. "17.) that is, voluntarily to ſubject themſelves and yield homage to him as "their Head and Principal, and another thing for the ſame Beaſt or Anti-"chriſtian Horn to diſplant, depreſs or humble them. The firſt ſhould be "common to all the Ten, (as was revealed to S. John:) the latter pro-"per to Three of them, (as was ſhewed to Daniel.) For obſerve, that as "in the Hiſtory of our Saviour's Acts penned by the four Evangeliſts one "relates that which another omits, and è contra; ſo is it in theſe Prophe-"tical deſcriptions of the Fourth Beaſt by Daniel and John.]

Queſt. 3. How thoſe words in Dan. 7. ver. 12. are to be interpreted and applied, viz. As concerning the reſt of the Beaſts, they had their dominion taken away; yet their lives were prolonged for a ſeaſon and time.

Reſp. Before I anſwer, it muſt be known and remembred, that for that [As concerning] there is nothing in the Original but the Copulative Vau, which which, as the ſenſe requires, is to be tranſlated not onely copulatively, but disjunctivè, adverſativè, cauſaliter, ordinativè, and ſometimes as a particle of ſimilitude, and the like; it being of it ſelf as a Materia prima. In the latter part of this ſentence it is tranſlated adverſativè, viz. Yet, [Yet their lives, &c.] for which in the Original is nothing but the ſame Conjunction Vau.

This premiſed, I anſwer,

First, If Beaſts here be meant of the * three firſt Beaſts, it is to be taken by way of a Parentheſis, implying a tacite anſwer to a queſtion: For Daniel having ſpoken ſo largely of the deſtruction of the Fourth Beaſt, and nothing of the other, it might be asked, Yea, but what became of the former three? He anſwers, As concerning them alſo, they had their dominion taken away; but their lives were prolonged for a time and a ſeaſon; that is, they reigned their time, and then had their dominion taken away. And thus our Tranſlators ſeem to have underſtood it, and accordingly to have fitted their tranſlation, by turning Vau [As concerning.] This is an eaſie and ſmooth interpretation, nor do I ſee any ſufficient reaſon why it ſhould not ſatisfie. * Verſ. 4, 5, 6.

Secondly, But ſome of the Hebrew Commenters underſtand not Beaſts here of the three Beaſts forementioned, but of other Beaſts, that is, other States and Kingdoms then reigning in the world, at what time the fourth Beaſt ſhould be deſtroyed; That theſe alſo, as well as the Fourth Beaſt and his limmes, ſhould have their Kingdoms taken away, though not at the ſame inſtant, yet ſome time after. And ſo Vau ſhall not need be tranſlated [As concerning,] but [Alſo;] Alſo the reſt of the Beaſts, &c. As for the word Beaſts to be taken here for other Kingdoms as well as the Four great ones, it needs make no ſcruple. For we ſhall find it ſo in the next Chapter, where it is ſaid of the Medo-Perſian Ram (verſe 4.) that no Beaſts might ſtand before him, that is, no State or Kingdom was able to reſiſt his power: So here may The reſt of the Beaſts be the States and Kingdoms contemporary with the fourth Beaſt. And this interpretation would found well with the words of S. John in the end of the 19. Chapter, where it being ſaid that the Beaſt and falſe Prophet were caſt into the fire (as Daniel ſaith of his fourth Beaſt, chap. 7. v. 11.) it followeth, And the remnant were ſlain with the ſword of him that ſate upon the horſe, &c. as if he had meant to expreſs this of Daniel, And the reſt of the Beaſts had their dominion taken away, &c. But the difficulty then will be, how the latter part of the words ſhould be taken, viz. Yet (or And, or But) their lives were prolonged for a ſeaſon and time. The Rabbins take it for ſome ſeaſon and time after the fourth Beaſt was deſtroyed; and R. Solomon, at the time of the warre of Gog and Magog, which they look for ſoon after their reſtitution, upon the deſtruction of the fourth Beaſt. But whether can this ſtand with S. Paul's aſſertion, that the fourth Beaſt terminating in the Man of ſin ſhall be deſtroyed at the ἐπιφάνεια or appearing of Chriſt's coming? How ſhould any Beaſts lives be prolonged for a ſeaſon and time after that coming? Or ſhould we expound this ſeaſon and time of a thouſand year after, when the laſt and final execution of Chriſt upon his enemies is to be? But Daniel ſeems to joyn the appearance of Chriſt in the clouds to receive a Kingdom, with this deſtruction of the reſt of the Beaſts together with the fourth Beaſt, and ſo not to admit of ſuch a diſtance. Let others judge.

Thirdly, But I will not conceal that I have ſuſpected there might poſſibly be a third Interpretation farre differing from them both, and which would make the Viſion fully to agree with the Angel's interpretation:

But the words then muſt be conſtrued much otherwiſe then they uſe to be. viz. Daniel in the former verſe mentioning preciſely the Body of the Beaſt to be given to the flames, it ſhould follow thus; And as the Body was burned and deſtroyed, ſo the reſt of the Beaſt (viz. the ten Horns and ruffling Horn) had their dominion (at the ſame time the Body was burned) taken away; and prolongation of life was given them for a ſeaſon and time, viz. until I ſaw one like to the Son of man coming in the clouds, &c. that is, they reigned till the Son of man came in the clouds, &c. The reaſon why I thought of this Interpretation is, becauſe the word which we tranſlate here plurally, is, as it is pointed in the Original, of the ſingular number, namely חַיְתָא; whereas if it were the plural, it ſhould be חַיְתָא; for that, ſay the Chaldee Grammarians, is the difference between the ſingular and the plural Emphatick, that the one hath Scheva [:] in the penultima, the other hath Camets [ָ] And ſo we render חַיְתָא with Scheva in this Chap. ſingularly [Beaſt,] twice in the following verſes of this Chap. viz. verſe 19, & 23. The reaſon which moved the Interpreters to tranſlate it here plurally was, becauſe the Affixes following are all plural, [their dominion, their lives.] But this may be becauſe that remainder of the Beaſt under the Horns conſiſted of many Kingdoms, and in that reſpect the dominion and duration thereof is expreſſed with plural Affixes, as of many.

March 31. Yours,

Joſeph Mede.

Poſt-ſcript.

My paper ſtreightens me and my time; and I have been a 3. or 4. times troubled while I was writing this laſt way of Interpretation; which made me ſo blurr and blot, and ſcarce know what I did. I ſhould elſe have expreſſed my ſelf more plainly and fully.

Epistle XXV.

A more diſtinct and perſpicuous expreſsion of the laſt of thoſe three ways to interpret that twelfth verſe of Dan. 7.

I Confeſs my skill in the Chaldee is no more but Grammatical, yet thus much a little ſmattering in Grammar could teach me; and ſo made me ſeek in what ſenſe it might be tranſlated ſingularly, notwithſtanding the plural Affixes following it, and what this reſt or remainder of the Beaſt (if it be ſo turned) might be.

Firſt, I obſerved that in the deſtruction of the Fourth Beaſt immediately before mentioned, the Body of the Beaſt was preciſely and particularly named; whereby I began to conceive the Remainder here ſpoken of might be the Beaſt's Horns, that is, the eyed and mouthed Horn with that Decarchy of Horns ſubject to him, which the Holy Ghoſt would tell us was deſtroyed at the ſame time, and together with the Body of the Beaſt: And ſo the Text to be conſtrued thus, The Body of the Beaſt was deſtroyed, and given to the burning flame; And the reſt of the Beaſt alſo (viz. the Horns) had their dominion taken away, after that a continuance of life had been given them for a ſeaſon and a time. Thus interpreted, it would anſwer to that part of the Angel's interpretation, verſe 25. which ſaith, that the State of the the Beaſt under the wicked Horn's dominion ſhould laſt a time, and times, and half a time; whereunto otherwiſe there will be nothing anſwering in the Viſion.

Secondly, The Kingdom of the Son of man immediately following the expiration of this ſeaſon and time in the Viſion, would anſwer to that in the Interpretation, verſe 22. The Horn prevailed againſt the Saints, until the Ancient of days came and the Saints poſſeſſed the Kingdom.

Thirdly, It is certain that the Seſſion of Judgement deſcribed in the Viſion ſate to deſtroy the wicked Horn; for ſo ſaith the Angel, verſe 26. But the Judgement ſhall ſit, and they ſhall take away his dominion: And Daniel himſelf in the Viſion expected to ſee that in ſpecial; for as ſoon as the Bench was ſet, and the Books were opened, verſe 10. I beheld then, (ſaith he, verſe 11.) becauſe of the voice of the great words which the Horn ſpake, viz. he looked what would become of the Horn. Something then ſhould ſeem to follow in ſpecial concerning it, elſe Daniel was fruſtrate of his looking: But what follows? I beheld untill the Beaſt was ſlain; This is ſomething, but general onely: And his Body deſtroyed; This indeed is ſpecial, but not that which Daniel looked after: For how would theſe hang together, [I looked to ſee what would become of the Beaſt's horn, and, I ſaw his Body deſtroyed?] ſhould it not ſeem rather to follow, to anſwer Daniel's looking, And the reſt of the Beaſt alſo, that is, not the Body only or people of the Beaſt's dominion were deſtroyed, but the Horns alſo, with their Captain-horn who ſpake the big words, (that is, the State then domineering) had their dominion taken away after they had enjoyed it a ſeaſon and a time?

Laſtly, Thoſe words of the Angel's interpretation, verſe 26. The Judgement ſhall ſit, and take away his dominion, (that is, the Horn's dominion) ſeem to have reference to that paſſage in the Viſion which ſaith in the ſame words, that the reſt of the Beaſt had their dominion taken away. The reaſon of the plural Affixe's anſwering to a ſingular Antecedent being, becauſe this reſt of the Beaſt had in it a plurality of Kingdoms, according to the rule of the Grammarians, That a ſingular Antecedent to be taken collectively or diſtributively, may have a plural number anſwer to it. This was my adventure.

J. M.

[This and the two ſhort Letters that follow, though written at ſome diſtance of time, are in this (as in the former) Edition joyned together, as being preparatory to the better underſtanding of the large Letter immediately following.]

Epistle XXVI.

M^r. Burnet's Letter to M^r. Mede, touching the Provoſtſhip of Trinity College near Dublin.

SIR,

I Am bold to write unto you, though a ſtranger, to certifie you that I hear Dr. Bedle, Provoſt of Trinity College in Ireland, is choſen Biſhop of Kilmore in Ireland, which is valued worth 600 l. per annum, appointed thereto by the King; howbeit ſome time will be ere he leave the College: in the mean ſpace I am bold to intreat your Anſwer, to know if you will accept the place of Provoſt if you be choſen thereto, as you were wrote to by my Lord Primate formerly before Mr. Bedle went. I am now writing to my Lord Primate an Anſwer of Letters this day I received from him, and do certify him of this accident; for it was but this week that the King granted it, and no Letter is yet gone over. I ſent the Book you ſent me long ſince to my Lord Primate. I dwell at the ſign of the Golden fleece in Lombard-ſtreet, and ſhall expect your Anſwer next return; and ſo I commend you to God Almighty, reſting

London, April 12.

Your loving Friend,

Francis Burnet.

Epistle XXVII.

Dr. Ames his Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Lawenus his Cenſure of his Clavis Apocalyptica.

Good Mr. Mede,

I Shewed your Clavis to one much given unto thoſe Studies, and deſired his cenſure; which having at length received, I ſend herewith unto you, deſiring from you to receive what you think fit to be oppoſed: You ſhall perceive his full meaning out of the printed Treatiſe adjoined. He ſeemeth to me to carry all to the Jews, upon no other grounds then communion of Phraſes. Thus with hearty ſalutations to you and Mr. Chappel, I reſt

Franeker, Oct. 11.

Your loving Friend,

W. Ames.

Epistle XXVIII.

A Second Letter from Dr. Ames, touching Mr. Mede's Defence.

SIR,

YOur Anſwer to Lawenus I have received, (that you be no longer in ſuſpence) and like ſo well, that I ſhall long to ſee more of your Notions in that kind: yet methinks that Millenary ſtate ſpoken of may well be underſtood of the Church raiſed from a dead condition, and ſo continued for that ſpace. We have here no News but of Silva-Ducis ſtreightly and hopefully beſieged by our Army; the Enemy (as it ſeemeth) not being in caſe to bring an Army into the field. Thus with ſalutations to your ſelf, Mr. Chappel, &c. I reſt

Franeker, May 27.

Your loving Friend,

W. Ames.

Mr. Mede

Epistle XXIX.

Mr. Mede his Third Letter to Archbiſhop Uſher, excuſing his unwillingneſs to accept the Provoſtſhip of Trinity College in Ireland: containing alſo an account of Lawenus his Animadverſions upon his Clavis, and his Anſwer; together with his Explication of Ezek. 4. 6, &c.

Right Reverend and my moſt Honoured Lord,

I Make no queſtion but your College is farre better provided of a Provoſt then it would have been of me, who never could perſwade my ſelf I was fit to be the Head and Governour of the onely Seminary of a Kingdom. And therefore though my name were the Second time brought upon the Stage, yet was it without conſent or privity of mine. Indeed a Propoſition was made unto me upon M^r. Bedle's preferment (and before the news thereof was ſent to him) whether I would accept the place, in caſe I were again choſen thereto. Unto which becauſe I anſwered not by a direct and categorical denial, but onely alleged divers reaſons, both from mine own unfitneſs in divers reſpects, and other circumſtances which might and did deterre me therefrom, leaving them who made the motion to inferre the concluſion; it pleaſed ſome (to whom I am yet beholden for their affection) ſo to interpret it, as if in modeſty onely I had by ſuch a kind of anſwer concealed my willingneſs: which as ſoon as I underſtood, and that ſome (Sir Nathaniel Rich by name) endeavoured upon the motion of ſome others to procure me to be named by his Majeſty, I preſently took him off, and that ſo effectually as he ſtirred no more; though perhaps I was not a little blamed by ſome of my friends for ſo doing. But enough of this.

For my Clavis, I am afraid that Reverend Archbiſhop your Lordſhip nameth values it farre more then it deſerveth; though it may be ſomething I have by God's goodneſs diſcovered toward the better underſtanding of that Book; which if I have, the praiſe be to God alone, to whom it is onely due.

But I cannot imagine what thoſe Additions thereto ſhould be, which your Lordſhip ſaith you received out of the North of Ireland. I ſent a Copy or two to Franeker to Doctor Ames; he ſends one of them to Daniel Lawenus, an ancient Student in thoſe parts in that Prophecie, (whoſe Apparatus to a bigger volume of many years ſtudy was printed the ſame year,) deſiring his cenſure of it. He finding it not to ſute with his Notions, wrote preſently Strictura in Clavem Apocalypticam, not knowing my name, but calling me Synchroniſta; and ſometimes ſeemed to be very angry in his confutation of me, though he agreed with me in the maineſt Paradox of all. He ſends it to Doctor Ames, as I ſuppoſe not intending me. But the Doctor diſpatcheth it to me, together with his printed Book, for my better underſtanding his meaning; deſires to receive again from me what I thought fit to oppoſe by way of defence. Thus unwittingly I made my ſelf work, yet ſuch as in the doing I at length found ſome benefit by, having my torpid thoughts revived and quickned, and the ſecond time more able to wield any notions then they were at the beginning. But I ſhould admire if your Lordſhip had ſeen a Copy of this. For beſides that I ſent into Friſeland, I conceive not how any other ſhould get abroad, having, as I thought, kept mine own Copy private in my ſtudy.

That touching the years of Iſrael and Judah, I know not what it ſhould be, unleſs that the 40. years of Judah's ſin, for which the * Prophet lay ſo many days upon his right ſide, were the years of Manaſſes Idolatry, to which the Scripture particularly aſcribes their captivity, 2 Kings 24. 3. & ch. 23. 26. Jer. 15. 4. Which I thought had been a novelty, and cried εὕρηκα· but ſince I find it to be the opinion of R. Kimchi, whom I ſuppoſe alſo the firſt authour thereof. * Salianus addes Hieronymus (not Joſephus) de Prado, & Funccius; but I never looked them. It was but a conjecture, which, had it been new, I conceived would not have been altogether unacceptable to your Lordſhip, whom yet far be it from me to teach or inform, but only to be better inſtructed or confirmed by your Lordſhip's profounder judgement.

* Ezek. 4. 6.

* Annal. Eccleſ. Tom. 4.

Preſently after my Clavis was printed, I drew, at the intreaty of ſome friends, Specimina Interpretationum Apocalypticarum ad amuſim Clavis Apocalyptica; which finding beyond my expectation or merit to be accepted, I have ſince gone more largly through ſome part thereof, as The Deſcription of the Theatrum Apocalypticum, chap. 4. The 6 Seales and 7 Trumpets unto the 11. Chapter: The reſt is yet but Specimina, as it was in the beginning; the laſt Chapter whereof I once ſent your Lordſhip, namely de Millennio. But could I have gotten an orthographicall Scribe, I would have ſent your Lordſhip all ere this, both Specimina and the larger Expoſitions upon the firſt half. But I had no ſuch of mine own, and thoſe who have are not ſo kinde as to lend them for any hire. And for my ſelf, I ſhould never get through that which is mine own, without everlaſting mending, blurring, and pauſing at every ſentence to alter it. I am exceedingly ſorry for the death of Buxtorf and Amama, eſpecially the latter, as being but now in flore, and one that had a natural genius to inlighten the Text of Scripture, and to find the notion of the Sacred language.

If Ireland will not ſpend the remainder of my Pamphlets, if your Lordſhip have opportunity to ſend them, I ſhall willingly entertain them again, their fellows being all gone.

Thus with my moſt humble Service remembred to your gracious Lordſhip, deſiring the God of Heaven to bleſs and preſerve your Grace, I reſt, and am

Chriſt's Colledge,
May 4. 1630.

Your Lordſhip's, moſt ready to be commanded,

Joſeph Mede.

EPISTLE XXX.

My Lord of Armagh his Letter to Mr. Mede, commending his Comment on the Apocalyps and his learned Conjectures upon the Succeſſion of the Babylonian Kings in Beroſus, &c.

Worthy Sir,

I Received long ſince your moſt accurate Explication of the principal Chapters of the Revelation, together with your learned Conjectures upon the ſucceſſion of the Babylonian Kings recorded in the fragments of Beroſus and Megaſthenes.

ſthenes. I cannot ſufficiently commend either the one or the other; but acknowledge my ſelf to have learned from you in both what otherwiſe would never have come into my minde. I am now in hand with a Treatiſe De Britannicarum Eccleſiarum Primordiis, ſetting down as much as may be found in the Manuſcripts that remain of our Nation touching that Argument. I have entred alſo upon the Determination of the Controverſies which concern the Chronologie of the Sacred Scripture: wherein I ſhall in many places need your help. I deſire to hear from you of the ſtate of things there: and ſo recommending all your godly ſtudies and endeavours unto the bleſſing of our good God, evermore reſt

Armagh, Auguſt 10. 1632.

Your moſt aſſured loving Friend,

Ja. Armachanus.

EPISTLE XXXI.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to a Doubt touching ſome Variations between the Hebrew Text and the Helleniſts, and ſome ſmaller corruption crept into the Hebrew copies.

I Have heard alleged; If any corruption had crept into the Hebrew Text at or before our Saviour's time, the holy Apoſtles and Penmen of the New Teſtament would have reſtored it, or ſomewhere intimated it. But what if they did ſo, and yet we had rather follow the Maſorites then them?

Matt. 15. 9. out of Eſay 29. 13.

Μάτην δὲ σέβονταί με, διδάσκοντες ἐντάλματα ἀνθρώπων.

The Hebrew Text reads now

וַתְּהִי יִרְאָתָם אֹתִי מִצְוַת אֲנָשִׁים מְלֻמָּדָה

Where אך μάτην an emphatical word appears not.

But the Lxx. and S. Matthew with them, וַתְּהוּ יִרְאָתָם אֹתִי מִצְוֹת אֲנָשִׁים מְלֻמָּדָה or מְלַמְּדִים docentium or edocta hominum mandata mei reverentia ſed fruſtrà eorum

i. ſed fuit cultus eorum erga me mandatum hominum edoctum or edoctus.

i. Fruſtrà verò reverentur me mandata hominum docentes: viz. referring Docentium to יִרְאָתָם fruſtrà reverentia eorum mei qui docent mandata hominum.

See תהו in the ſame Prophet for fruſtrà, cap. 45. 9. ibid. verſibus 18, 19. item cap. 49. 4.

The Maſorites might have pointed it וַתְּהוּ, as they do often elſewhere, Fod for Vau; yea in the Chaldee תְּהִי is the ſame with תְּהוּ.

Alſo מְלֻמָּדָה may be pointed מְלַמְּדָה. Then it would be, Fruſtrà cultus eorum mei mandata hominum docens, and never a letter altered but Fod into Vau.

It is to be noted that the Prophet calls Idols and Idol-worſhip often in this book תהו, i. Vanity.

Acts 15. 17. out of Amos 9. 12.

Ὅπως ἂν ἐκζητήσωσιν οἱ κατάλοιποι τῶν ἀνθρώπων τὸν Κύριον, &c.

The

The Hebrew now reads marvellous differingly,

לְמַעַן יִירְשׁוּ אֶת־שְׁאֵרִית אֱדוֹם

"Οπως ἂν κατακληρονομήσωσι τὸ κατάλοιπον τῆς Ἰδουμαίας, ut poſſideant reſiduum Edom.

But the Lxx. reade, and the Apoſtles ratifie it,

לְמַעַן יִדְרְשׁוּ אֵל שְׁאֵרִית אָדָם

Ut requirant Deum (vel Dominum) reliqui hominum.

For the Lxx. often tranſlate אֵל by Κύριος, more then 40. times, אֱלֹהִים above an 100.

Heb. 8. 9. out of Ierem. 31. 32.

——ὅτι αὐτοὶ οὐκ ἐνέμειναν ἐν τῇ διαθήκῃ μου, κἀγὼ ἠμέλησα αὐτῶν, λέγει Κύριος.

The Hebrew hath now in place of ἠμέλησα αὐτῶν, בָּעַלְתִּי בָם, which is κατεκυρίευσα αὐτῶν, a clean contrary ſenſe, and inconſequent to what goes before. I know how it is wont to be ſalved.

But did not the Lxx, and the Apoſtle with them, reade נָעַלְתִּי בָם, which without any more adoe is ἠμέλησα or ἀφέσπκα αὐτῶν, or ἐβδελύξα αὐτούς, and makes the ſenſe coherent with what went before? ב and ג differ not very much. See the ſame conſtruction of נעל in the ſame Prophet, chap. 14. 15.

But in theſe and other ſuch, it may be ſaid, the Apoſtles accommodated to the capacity of the times, and ſo followed the LXX as a known and received Tranſlation, but not either to correct the then-Hebrew reading by it, or preſer that of the Helleniſts before it.

But what will they ſay, if ſometimes the Apoſtles follow a reading differing both from the Septuagint and Hebrew, even where the LXX and Hebrew exactly agree together?

Matth. 27. 9, 10. out of Zach. 11. 13.

Τότε ἐπληρώθη τὸ ῥηθὲν διὰ Ἰερεμίου τοῦ Προφήτου, λέγοντος, Καὶ ἔλαβον τὰ τριάκοντα ἀργύρια (τὴν τιμὴν τοῦ τετιμημένου, ὃν ἐτιμήσαντο ἀπὸ υἱῶν Ἰσραὴλ) καὶ ἔδωκαν αὐτὰ εἰς τὸν ἀγρὸν τοῦ κεραμέως, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος.

The words included in the parentheſis are a brief comprehenſion of what went before, and interlaced only for explication ſake. So that the words quoted out of the Prophet directly are only theſe:

Καὶ ἔλαβον τὰ τριάκοντα ἀργύρια, καὶ ἔδωκαν αὐτὰ εἰς τὸν ἀγρὸν τοῦ κεραμέως, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος.

But firſt, there are no ſuch words in Jeremy; that which ſounds like them is in Zachary.

Secondly, the Hebrew in Zachary, and the LXX agreeing with it, have ſomething which S. Matthew hath not, and S. Matthew again ſomething which neither of them have.

Hebr.	LXX.
וָאֶקְחָה שְׁלֹשִׁים הַכֶּסֶף וָאַשְׁלִיךְ אֹתוֹ בֵּית יְהוָה אֶל־הַיּוֹצֵר	Καὶ ἔλαβον τὰς τριάκοντα ἀργυρίους, καὶ ἐνέβαλον αὐτὰς εἰς τὸν οἶκον Κυρίου εἰς τὸ χωνευτήριον.

Matth.

Καὶ ἔλαβον τὰ τριάκοντα ἀργύρια, καὶ ἔδωκαν αὐτὰ εἰς τὸν ἀγρὸν τοῦ κεραμέως, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος.

Here the Hebrew hath בֵּית יְהוָה, the LXX, οἶκος Κύριου, which S. Matthew hath not.

On

On the other ſide, S. Matthew hath καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος, which neither Hebrew nor LXX have. Beſides, the Seventie's Greek here differs almoſt every word from S. Matthew's.

This difficult piece may, I think, be made eaſie after the manner following.

Firſt, it may ſeem the Evangeliſt would inform us, that thoſe latter chapters aſcribed to Zachary, (viz. the 9, 10, 11, &c.) are indeed the Prophecies of Jeremy, and that the Jews had not rightly attributed them. Certainly, if a man weighs the Contents of ſome of them, they ſhould in likelihood be of an elder date then the time of Zachary; namely, before the captivity: For the ſubjects of ſome of them were ſcarce in being after that time. And the Chapter out of which S. Matthew quotes, may ſeem to have ſomewhat much unſutable with Zacharie's time; as, a Prophecy of the deſtruction of the Temple, then when he was to encourage them to build it: and how doth the ſixth verſe of that Chapter ſuit with his time? There is no Scripture ſaith they are Zacharie's, but there is Scripture ſaith they are Jeremie's, as this of the Evangeliſt. As for their being joyned to the Prophecies of Zachary, that proves no more they are his, then the like adjoyning of Agur's Proverbs to Solomon's proves they are therefore Solomon's; or that all the Pſalms are David's, becauſe joyned in one Volume with David's Pſalms. Hoc primum. See alſo chap. 5. 11.

Secondly, Ἔλαβον here in S. Matthew is the firſt perſon ſingular, not the third plural, as we are wont to tranſlate it: For it anſwers to וָאֶקְחָה in the Hebrew. The ſame perſon and number muſt alſo ἔδωκαν be, whether the ν be paragogical, or an ancient ſlip of the Scribe. For the Syriack tranſlates it dedi, and in the Hebrew it anſwers to אֲשַׁלֵּיךְ. All this to be ſo the words following evince, viz. καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος. How will it cohere elſe? They gave, &c. as the Lord commanded me. Muſt it not needs be, I gave? &c.

Thirdly, the Evangeliſt for בֵּית יְהוָה would, as ſhould ſeem, have us reade בֵּרַת יְהוָה, which is, ad verbum, κατὰ πρόσταγμα, or κατὰ σύνταγμα Κυρίου, or, as S. Matthew more freely tranſlates, καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος. See בִּרַת Eſther, chap. 1. v. 8, 15, &c. בִּית often in that Book. If it be conſidered how aukwardly thoſe words בֵּית יְהוָה ſtand in that ſentence, and how diſturb'd they make the Syntax, it will breed ſuſpicio mendi. And if one of the Apoſtles of our Lord play here the Critick, it is no ſin to follow him, ſay the Maſorites what they will.

---

2 Reg. 20. 12, &c. Eſay, chap. 39. tot. are but two Copies of the ſame hiſtory, yet are there two or three differences, queſtionleſs from the hand of the Scribe; as

	2 Reg. 20.	Eſay 39.
Ver. 12.	בְּרוֹאֵךְ בַּלְאָדָן	מְרוֹדַךְ בַּלְאֲדָן	Ver. 1.
13.	וַיִּשְׁמַע	וַיִּשְׁמַח	2.
12.	חִזְקִיָּהוּ	וַיְחַזֵּק	1.

In the reſt is no tittle difference throughout.

If it be apparent one letter is changed for another here, why may it not be in other places?

I durſt ſhew no ſuch conceits as theſe, but to ſo great an Antiquary as your Lordſhip, to whom the poſſibility of corruption by writing is ſo well known, or rather the impoſſibility of the contrary. Who knows what time will diſcover, cùm Elias venerit?

EPISTLE

Epistle XXXII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Mr. Osbourn's Quæres, touching some passages in Daniel and the Revelation.

Qu. 1. WHether Daniel and the Revelation are Prophecies transfused into one another, or that Daniel reaches no farther then the destruction of Jerusalem.

Answ. I conceive Daniel to be Apocalypsis contracta, and the Apocalyps Daniel explicate, in that where both treat about the same subject; namely, what was revealed to Daniel concerning the Fourth Kingdom but summatim and in gross, is shewed to S. John particulatim, with the distinction and order of the several Fates and Circumstances which were to betide and accompany the same. And that therefore Daniel's Prophecie is not terminated with the First, but reacheth to the Second coming of Christ; as appears by the description of that glorious coming, and the great Judgement, *Dan.*7. and his prophecie of the Resurrection, Chap. 12. This hath been the constant Tradition of the Church from the Apostles days to this last Seculum, and was of the Church of the Jews before and at our Saviour's time. And if the Apostles had ever taught the Church otherwise, it could never so timely, so wholly, so generally have been forgotten.

Quest. 2. How was the Book of Apocalyptical predictions sealed untill the Lamb opened it, Apoc. 5. if Daniel and the other Prophets wrote any thing of them?

Answ. Whatsoever the meaning be of that sealing and unsealing the Apocalyptical Book, it cannot be so far urged, as to infer the Contents thereof were in no wise revealed untill that unsealing; that is, untill S. John saw his Revelation. For the contrary is apparent; First, of the Day of Judgement, and Resurrection at Christ's glorious coming in the clouds; which is the main But and scope of the Apocalyps, and yet was foretold by Daniel or some other of the Prophets: or else upon what Scripture did the Church of the Jews found their faith concerning both? Secondly, The Reign of Antichrist, which should precede that glorious coming, is no small part of the argument of the Apocalyps; yet was that revealed before S. John saw his Visions; if you will not grant to and by Daniel, yet you must by S. Paul, 2 Thess. 2. which was at least 40 years before the Apocalyps was given. But he that considers S. Paul well will finde, that he borrowed that piece and the ground of his Demonstration from Daniel; of which more by and by.

In a word, The Fourth Kingdom and that tyrannical Dominion which should foregoe the Son of mans coming in the clouds of heaven, was revealed summatim & in genere before S. John's Visions; but the series rerum gerendarum therein from the First to that Second and glorious appearing of Christ, particulatim & in specie, was never revealed or unsealed till then.

Quest. 3. All things go round: That which is, is that which was, and that which shall be: What therefore though the expressions in S. John be the same with those in Daniel? yet may the times and things propheſied of not be the same.

Answ. 'Tis true, all things goe round, and the course of Divine government runs in a circle or repetition of the same things: So that the Fates and Sequels of things foretold in the Prophets may be again and again repeated, and the Prophecies of them as it were often fulfilled; namely, by way of Analogy,

Analogy, but not of Propriety. But whither tends this? I ſuppoſe to make the ruffling Horn in Daniel and S. John's blaſpheming Beaſt to be diverſe, though the expreſſion and deſcription be the ſame. If this be it, I meet with it thus: The Viſion of the Son of mans coming in the clouds of heaven, Dan. 7. is in propriety the Second and Glorious coming of Chriſt; as appears by that coming ſo often deſcribed from thence in the New Teſtament, and our Saviour's uſing of the title of the Son of man with reference * thereto, as who, though now he appeared in humility, yet was the ſame which one day (as Daniel propheſied) ſhould appear ſo glorioufly. [Vid. Matth. 26. 64. Mark 14. 62, &c. Adhibe John 12. 34, &c.]

* For no where elſe is Meſſiah ſo termed, but there.

But if this be ſo, then that Dominion which Daniel ſaw immediately to precede this coming, muſt be in propriety that Tyranny of the wicked one, which ſhould precede that Second and Glorious coming of Chriſt. Ergo, not the Tyranny of Antiochus Epiphanes, but of Antichriſt. And upon this ground did S. Paul build that Demonſtration of his, 2 Theſſ. 2. That the Day of the Lord could not be at hand; to wit, becauſe the Kingdom of that wicked one (which Daniel had foretold he ſhould aboliſh at the appearance of his coming) was not yet in the world.

Queſt. 4. Whether Nebuchadnezzar's Image contained more Kingdoms then were then in the world, or whereof himſelf was Maſter.

Anſw. More Kingdoms then were then in the world, I ſee no reaſon why it might not; nay why it ſhould not: For it was a Viſion of Kingdoms that were to be אחרי דנה afterward (verſ. 29, & 45.) and the Kingdom of Chriſt one amongſt them: Yet was Rome a Kingdom then as well as Macedon or Perſia.

Contain more Kingdoms then were comprehended in the Provinces he was Maſter of, I am ſure it did; namely, that of Macedon, no part of which, neither of the reſt of Greece, was ever ſubject to the Babylonian Monarchy; nor any more, but ſome of their Colonies on the Aſian ſhore to the Perſian. Nor is this ſo ſtrange, ſince the form and ſhape of the Image conſiſts not in the identity of place and bounds of Dominion, (though for a great and the principalleſt part it were the ſame) but in the order of ſucceſſion which each Kingdom was to have to that which went before it; namely one of them ſhould ſubdue and inherit another, till a fifth Kingdom came, which ſhould never be ſubdued or deſtroyed, nor left (as the reſt were) to another people.

Queſt. 5. Whether Daniel's Viſions (there where the Angel expoundeth them) be ſo myſtical, as not in propriety expounded by the Angel.

Anſw. I underſtand the Interpretation of every Viſion according to the propriety of the Letter, and not to be a new Allegory needing another myſtical interpretation: yet for all this I ſee no more neceſſity why the Roman Kingdom ſhould be deſcribed (if Daniel any where deſcribes it) from its ſituation to the Weſt, (as thoſe of the Seleucidæ and Lagidæ are by North and South,) then the Perſian is by the Eaſt. For the Holy Ghoſt chuſeth ſuch Characters for diſtinction as he liſteth, nor is tied to one way of characterizing, but doth it variouſly. Beſides that Character of Weſt-ſituation being common to the third kingdom, and anticipated in the viſion thereof, chap. 8. 5. could not diſtinguiſh the fourth from it.

Queſt. 6. Whether Daniel underſtood not his own Viſions; eſpecially when the Angel told him the אמת, as in that from the tenth Chapter to the end.

Anſw. 'Tis one thing to underſtand the Interpretation of a Viſion, another to underſtand the Application of the Interpretation; namely, to what times and places it belongeth. Where the Angel gave Daniel the Interpretation or meaning of the ſimilitude of any Viſion, I doubt not but he underſtood what ſuch ſimilitude meant, as that by Beaſts were meant Kingdoms, by Horns Kings, and the like. But the Application of the Interpretation (unleſs where the Angel ſometimes applied it) I believe he underſtood not, eſpecially in the laſt Viſion, where himſelf ſays ſo: I heard, ſaith he, but I underſtood not. And no marvel, for the Angel tells him, Thoſe words were cloſed up and ſealed, till the time of the end. And it is to be obſerved, that in that laſt Prophecie the Viſion is not deſcribed, but the משא or Interpretation onely reported. The Viſion out of the laſt verſe of the tenth Chapter may ſeem to have been ſome Book or Writing, which either conveniently could not, or the Holy Ghoſt thought not fit to deſcribe.

Decemb. 17. 1632.

Joſ. Mede.

Epistle XXXIII.

Sir William Boſwell's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching ſome of his Books ſent him.

Good Mr. Mede,

I Know the judgement and current of the world is for preſent thanks upon kindneſs; Non me qui cætera vincit Impetus. Above four months ſince (with Letters from Mr. P. full of your and his Affection) I received four Copies of your Comment upon the Apocalyps: a large time to make accompts and acknowledgement; true, but both are ſo much the riper and better ſeaſoned. My thanks I ſhall ever be renewing. Your Books I ſent, one to Domenico Molins, a moſt learned, noble Gentleman of Venice: Another, by my Lord Ambaſſadour Anſtruther, and his Chaplain (one Mr. Johnſon) an honeſt learned friend of mine, into Germany. The third I beſtowed upon Dr. Rivet (long and lately Profeſſor of Divinity in Leyden, now Tutor to the Prince of Aurange his Son,) whoſe name and extraordinary worth you know by his works. The fourth I ſend to Scholars and acquaintance here. Some Animadverſions I am promiſed, which I forbear to touch at preſent. In general, it is commended for a modeſt, diſcreet, learned, regular, and of all in that liſt moſt verifiable, diſcovery; if you forbear your Millenarian Fancy. Copies are very much ſought; and certainly theſe parts would have taken off above two hundred, if ſent at firſt. It is an errour and fault in our Printers, Viſum non fieri extramittendo. In a word, you have ſet their teeth on edge: and I am preſſed by many to procure them ſight of all other things you have written; by name, your large notes upon διδασκαλίαις δαιμονίων, ad 1 Tim. 4. 1. they will come very ſeaſonably; becauſe there is in hand (ſince, and by order of the Synod of Dort) a new Tranſlation of the Bible into Dutch, with Marginal Annotations at large, to be printed in a folio Copy, wherein the Tranſlators (underſtanding Engliſh perfectly) acknowledge the uſe and excellency of our laſt and authentick Engliſh Tranſlation. Dan. Heinſius likewiſe tells me by Letter, that he is upon the New Teſtament; in what manner I ſhall know at meeting. I finde the Zone here for Eccleſiaſtick Affairs temperate at preſent and quiet, though now and then producing Capreas ſaltantes, and ſuch trifling Meteors which buſy natures will be raiſing; as if to keep within the liſts of obedience, and to doe their work plainly and quietly, were but a Dulman's part.——Sic volvere Parcas! The Treaty between theſe United and the other Catholick Provinces is ſlow-footed, & inter futura

futura contingentiſſima. —— Si quid in hac ſcena ſcire aves, aut aliud quicquam à vetere veróque amico velis, fac ſciam. For I ſhall ever love Joſeph Mede as an honeſt old friend, and think upon him tanquam Academiam in Academia, being his moſt affectionate to ſerve him,

Hague $\frac{11}{21}$ Maii, 1363.

William Boſwell.

An Advertiſement.

THat the Reader may the better underſtand the occaſion and purport of the following Epiſtle, he is to know that after Mr. Mede had publiſhed his Clavis and Commentary upon the Apocalyps, Mr. Haydock of Salisbury, an aged Gentleman, acquainted him with ſome Objections he had againſt the form of the Seven-ſealed Book expreſſed in his * Apocalyptick Scheme, viz. 1. That the ancient form of Books was in ſeveral ſheets of Parchment, faſtened at one end only, and ſo rolled up together. (Hence thoſe expreßions in Pſal. 40. 7. Hebr. 10. 7. & Luke 4. 17.) 2. That the form of the Seven-ſealed Book (Apocal. 5.) ought to be ſuch as might ſatisfy the Lamb's intention, which had an eye unto Prius and Poſterius in regard of the ſequel of the inſuing Hiſtory: For that part which belongs to the Firſt Seal ought to be viewed before the Second or the reſt were opened; whereas in the form of the modern Books (according to which form Mr. Mede had deſcribed the Seven-ſealed Book in his Scheme) no uſe can be made of any part or leaf in the Book, until all the Seven Seals be opened. But in the form of the Roll, when every part or leaf hath its ſeveral Label inſerted in its proper diſtance, with a Seal and ſeveral impreſſion of Emblematical Signature, each ſeveral leaf being taken and unſealed in order, the ſeveral matter therein contained will appear, and no more of any of the reſt till they be opened in order.

* See the Scheme in pag. 536. of this Edition.

Thus farr Mr. Haydock. The tranſcript of his Letter (for the Original could not be met with) being imperfect, was not fit to be printed. He alſo acquainted Mr. Mede in his Letter with a purpoſe he had to repreſent in lively Pictures the Apocalyptick Viſions, and ſent him the Pictures of the Cherubins done by himſelf, for a Specimen of his skill in that Art, wherein he had exerciſed himſelf for many years, having in his younger days tranſlated out of Italian and publiſhed the works of Jo. Paolo Lomazzo concerning The Art of Painting.

The form of the Book ſealed with ſeven Seals, and of the Book unſealed, according to Mr. Haydock's opinion, is repreſented in the following page.

Epistle XXXIV.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Haydock, wiſhing him to perfect his deſign of repreſenting the Apocalyptick Viſions in lively Pictures, and applauding his ingenious obſervation upon the form of the Seven-ſealed Book.

Humaniſſime & Cultiſſime Vir,

ACcepi literas tuas benevolentiâ & humanitate plenas, in quibus & favorem meum ambis, hominis ſcilicet nihili, nedum (ut tu * putas) papali neſcio quo faſtigio digni. Sed ut cætera quàm nihil ſum ſciam probè; non ſum tamen tam ab humanitate procul, ut animo tam in me propenſo par pari reddere neſciam. Et verò tu abunde meritus es ut tibi faveam, qui ſic ultro compellas & amicitiam defers. De libello meo quod attinet, ſi quid exinde fructûs vel ad te vel ad alios redierit, Deo Opt. Max. in ſolidum ſit gloria: Ejus enim ſolius eſt quicquid eſt boni; meum nihil præter imbecillitatem & ignorantiam. Illud autem vehementer doleo, quòd te priùs non noviſſem quàm Opuſculum illud meum in lucem ediderim; ſanè multò ornatius operâ tuâ prodiiſſet——Cherubinorum quadriformium Iconas, quas miſiſti longè elegantiſſimas & novo artificio viſendas, ſumma cum animi voluptate contemplor; neque ſatis pro merito ſuo laudare aut (quod potiùs nullâ in talibus facultate præditum fari decet) admirari poſſum. Utinam totius Confeſſûs Apocalyptici typum eâdem manu delineatum aliquando videre liceat. Sanè nuſquam donum tibi à Deo collatum

* erras.

latum ſanctiùs collocaveris, quàm in diviniſſimæ iſtius Prophetiæ typis ad vivum delineandis.

Cylindri tui Sigilliferi ingenioſa obſervatio eſt, & quæ priùs mihi (licèt ſæpiuſcule ea de re cogitanti) in mentem non venerat; imò, an omnino talis Voluminis forma, in qua uniuſcujuſque Sigilli reſeratio novam ordine ſcripturam legentium oculis ſubjiceret, dari poſſit, addubitaverim. De re verò ipſa adhuc incertus ſum quid ſtatuerem. Aliquando in ea ſententia fui, Viſiones iſtas Sigillares, non literarum notis in volumine ſcriptas, ſed Iconibus quibuſdam depictas ſub Sigillorum tegellis latuiſſe; iiſque reſeratis, viſui (non ad legendum, ſed contemplandum) ordine quamque ſuo patuiſſe; atque ad hanc mentem verba iſta ad Joannem, Ἔρχου καὶ βλέπε, haud ineptè accommodari poſſe. Poſtea animadverti hanc opinationem meam Narrationi Apocalypticæ univerſæ non convenire; utpote cùm in Sigillo quinto & ſexto oratio rei viſæ tribuatur: præterea in Sigillo ſeptimo Tubarum viſa non ſimul & eodem tempore exhiberi, ſed ordine & ſucceſſivè in aſpectum produci, obſervaverim. Ad hæc apparatum clangori prævium ità deſcribi, ut non nudis rerum viſarum *Iconibus in Volumine, quocunque tandem id fiat modo, depictis, nec nudâ earundem ſcripturâ, ſed omnino repræſentatione extrinſecâ rem geſtam fuiſſe fateri oporteat. * Iconiſmis.

Tandem igitur, quoniam inconcinnum nimis videbatur ſolâ repræſentatione extrinſecâ rem peractam affirmare, nihil prorſus conferente Libro, in eam ſententiam prolapſus ſum, Utrumque conjungendum eſſe, dicendúmq;, Singula quidem Vaticinia in Volumine, ſive Signis & Iconiſmis, ſive literis, deſcripta & exarata fuiſſe; ea verò Joanni, cæteríſque cœleſtis Dramatis ſpectatoribus, non aliter quàm repræſentatione forinſecâ recitationis viam explente propalam fuiſſe facta: Scilicet eodem ferè modo ac in Dramatis noſtris Academicis fieri amat, ubi actoribus cum libris adſtent monitores. Cùm enim neque Agnus ipſe è libro recitaret quidquam, neque Apoſtolus tam propinquus ei adeſſet (ſtabat enim Agnus juxta ſeſſorem Throni) ut è reſignantis manu legere potuerit; neceſſe eſt eum hâc (quam dixi) ratione ſingula percepiſſe.

Haſce meditationes meas ut apud te expromerem effecit humanitas tua: jam deſino plura. Deum verò Opt. Max. veneror, ut felicem tibi ſenectutem, vitam longiorem & beatæ illius prodromam largiatur.

Jan. 20. 163¾

Tui ſtudiorúmque tuorum pro merito æſtimator,

J. M.

Epistle XXXV.

Sir William Boſwell's Second Letter to M^r. Mede, touching his Book ſent to Ludovicus de Dieu.

Good Mr. Mede,

I Am ſure long ere this by my Brother T. B. you have underſtood (which you ſhall by this preſent) that your Letters of 15 March, 13 May, 9, 11, 16 June, with Letters and a Book incloſed to Ludovicus de Dieu, came ſafely to my hands in London; as his unto him from you ſince my return hither. For this laſt week he was Preſident of a Provincial Synod held de decennio in decennium by the Miniſters of Holland, in this Town; ſo as I delivered the token of your love with my own hand into his, but in ſo buſie a time I could not expect an Anſwer, or other then thanks, which he prayed me to render in abundance, for the ſpecial honour you had done him thereby. Divers other Letters Reſponſory to Beverovicius have been long expected; but Salmaſius delay in his (wherein he would omit nothing ſet or fallen from the Ancients, eſpecially Philoſophers, to that purpoſe) hath caſt all other mens arrier, whom I ſhould be as glad to ſee, becauſe together with their learning I ſhould, how well they had learned tenere modum; for ought I know a moſt neceſſary part of Scholarſhip and Philoſophy. It grieved me not a little that I could not ſee you in England, but in recompence I hope now and then to ſee your countenance and affection in black and white: for which you ſhall have returns from this place of all ſorts it yields, and you affect, when I know what will be moſt welcome, being evermore

Hague 25. July 1634.

Your moſt aſſured and ancient friend,

William Boſwell.

Epistle XXXVI.

A Third Letter from Sir William Boſwell to Mr. Mede, touching his Book ſent to Ludovicus de Dieu.

Good Mr. Mede,

What entertainment your Letters and Book found with Ludovicus de Dieu you will ſee ere long by his own in anſwer, his time hitherto having been taken up by being Preſident in a Provincial Synod of Holland, and publiſhing his Annotations upon the Acts of the Apoſtles. It was ſufficient for me to receive many thanks for the conveiance, and that which was better, (better then Muſick) to hear innumerable commendations of ſo near a Friend, though I knew them due; for 'tis no ſmall pleaſure to ſee debts paid, where we think our ſelves to have Intereſt. At my coming laſt into England I lay above three weeks wind-bound in the Briel, where I enjoyed the company of the Miniſter, Authour of the incloſed, which I have gained by my acquaintance; and ſend it, for your affection to the Argument, by this bearer, ſon of Deſiderius Heraldus, (whoſe works and worth you know of old) that you may for the Father's and my ſake give him now and then conference and advice about ſuch ſtudies as he purſues, wherein himſelf will open his own mind. It will be a great kindneſs if Doctor Ward, whom I pray ſalute from me, will give him countenance and acceſs at his times of leiſure; which you may procure, and thereby oblige both him and me, and his Father my old and ſingular friend. You may ſee by this, and that title, how glad I ſhould be to meet opportunities of doing any thing for your ſelf, that might aſſure you with what truth and readineſs of ſerving you I ſhall ever be

Your moſt affectionate Friend as of old,

Hague, Sept. 1634.

William Boſwell.

The

[The 2 Diſcourſes that followed here in the former Edition (viz. A Letter containing Lud. de Dieu's Animadverſions upon Clavis Apocalyptica, and Mr. Mede's Letter in Anſwer thereunto) are now more fitly placed among other Diſcourſes upon the Apocalyps, in Book III. pag. 703. &c.]

EPISTLE XXXVII.

Monſieur Teſtard his Letter to Mr Brooks, about his tranſlating Mr. Mede's Clavis Apocal. into French: as alſo concerning the Number of the Beaſt's Name.

SIR,

I Have tranſlated into French, that I might communicate it to divers friends, the Book you ſent upon the Revelation, which ſeems to me worthy admiration, and full of comfort to thoſe that expect the conſolation of Iſrael. I deſire earneſtly (if it may be obtained) the opinion of the Author touching a conceit came into my mind whilſt I was reading the Book; particularly that which he remarks upon the number of 144000, and upon 666, the name of the Pſeudoprophetical Beaſt, with the Reaſon he gives of the compoſition of the name, all of 6: which is, That the number of 666 ariſeth from the multiplication of 3 Unites joyned together, making up the number of III. That theſe three Unites ſet forth the three Offices of Chriſt, which pertain to him incommunicably, and diſtributively, and conjointly conſidered. All which the Pſeudoprophetical Beaſt uſurps conjointly: in which conſiſts particularly his Antichriſtianiſm. And this multiplication produceth the number of 666; as alſo the multiplication of 12 by 12, which is the Apoſtolical number, produceth the 144000. That for this reaſon the number of 666 is called the number of a man, in the ſingular number, becauſe it is in one onely man; whereas the number of 144000 is a number of men, in the plural number, and drawn from the number of men. If the Author hath ſet forth any other Treatiſes, I deſire earneſtly you would ſend them to me.

From Bloys in France,
June 1634. P. Teſtard.

EPISTLE XXXVIII.

Mr. Brook's Letter to a Friend.

DOE me the favour as to requeſt Mr. Mede to give ſome ſatisfaction to the requeſt of this Gentleman, my eſpecial friend, and to ſuffer ſome Manuſcripts which he hath not yet publiſhed to be copied out to be ſent him, either in Latine or Engliſh. I will ſatisfy his pains that ſhall undertake it; with promiſe that nothing ſhall be communicated but to private friends.

Your aſſured Friend,

Weſtminſter, 23. Feb.
1634. Joh. Brooks.

Epistle XXXIX.

Reverendo & Doctiſſimo Viro, D. D. Mede, Paulus Teſtardus S. P. D.

This Latine Epiſtle is of the ſame import with Epiſtle XXXVII.

Quantâ me lætitiâ totum perfuderint, Vir Reverende & Doctiſſime, quas ab ampliſſimo Viro D. Joh. Brooks accepi literas, quæ ſingularem tuam erga me non modò immeritum, ſed & ignotum, humanitatem teſtantur, deſunt mihi verba & voces quibus ſignificem; vix profectò eam capit animus. Etenim non modò eæ mihi exhibuerunt quæ in mei gratiam dignatus es de myſterio Numeri Nominis Beſtiæ ſcripto explicare, ſed etiam de optatiſſimi ad tuam Dignitatem acceſſûs facultate mihi per eum facta certum fecerunt. Iſto, V. R. & D. tanquam ſalvo conductu ſecurus, non diutiùs hæſi quin ad te iſtas tranſmitterem, quibus & gratias quantas poſſum maximas R. tuæ pro eximio iſto beneficio referrem primùm, ut ex animo referò; tum & Quæſtionis quæ ad te perlata fuit occaſione deſcriptâ, rem ipſam & genuinam meam mentem ampliùs aperirem, quod ſic cum bona D. T. venia facio. Præteriit jam ferè triennium ex quo D. Brooks cum quibuſdam Anglicè ſcriptis libris Clavim tuam Apocalypticam cum Commentariis pro liberali ſuo erga me affectu miſit. Opus ſine nomine, ſed invitante materiâ & mittentis commendatione, ſtatim perlegi; deinde ſæpius, ſuaviter trahente Rationum tuarum pondere, atque induſtriæ expoſitionis elegantiâ & concinnitate, relegi, non tantùm Dei donum in te ſæpius miratus, ſed & aliquid tibi aſſidenti (ut loqueris alicubi) revelatum, addam & extra ordinem, facilè perſuaſus. Dicam verbo; Nihil unquam mihi viſum in Apocalypſin, non dicam quod cum Clavi tua & Expoſitione æquandum veniat, ſed quod ad eas propè accedat. Atque (ut ità ſumus naturâ comparati, ut ejus boni cujus nos maximè oblectat fruitio cognitionem cum aliis facilè communicemus, nec verò duntaxat cognitionem Bonorum ſpiritualium & ſalutarium, ſed ipſam etiam (tanta eſt eorum præſtantia) fruitionem) horas aliquot, quando ſivit perpetuus muneris mihi à Deo miſericorditer demandati labor, verſioni Scripti tui in linguam Gallicam impendi, ut pretioſiſſimi iſtius ac divini theſauri fruendi copiam amicis meis facerem, &, ſi ſine eorum quibus ſine ſumma neceſſitate diſplicere eſt nefas offenſa licuiſſet, Publico etiam Verſionem typis vulgandam curando, ſuaviſſimam utpote proculdubio futuram conſolationem iis omnibus qui Iſraelis Dei, ut ſcitè vocas, ſubrogati conſolationem exſpectant, Regnúmq; illud Chriſti Septimæ Tubæ deinceps æquè βιαστὰ ἁρπάσουσι. Poſſúmque procul adulationis arte D. T. ſincerè profiteri, animum meum ſingulis tuis Expoſitionibus tam plenum præbuiſſe aſſenſum, quàm præberi poteſt ab eo qui non cæco impetu, ſed ratione, ducitur, atque in re, ut agnoſcis ipſe, non parùm difficili: Ipſámque adeò rationem quam reddis Numeri nominis Beſtiæ Bicornis viſam mihi convenientiſſimam. Nec enim quisquam in Literis meis ad D. Brooks, tanquam illud Expoſitioni tuæ adverſum putarem, proponere unquam mihi fuit animus; ſed quod maximè ei congruum meditanti mihi, meo quidem judicio, occurrerat. Nempe ſic animum ſubierat ejuſmodi conjectura: Quandoquidem 144000 ſignatorum Agni numerus numeri cujuſdam, nempe 12, multiplicati per ſeipſum fœtus eſt; Numerum etiam nominis Beſtiæ adverſæ, 666, numeri alicujus multiplicati fœtum pariter eſſe. Ideóque cùm Beſtiæ iſtius forma, quatenus eſt Antichriſtus, & cornua habet ſimilia Agni, (ſc. profeſſione & uſurpatione tenùs) mihi videatur eſſe in Chriſti munerum, quæ tria ſunt, Sacerdotale, Propheticum, Regium, diſtincta, ſed conjuncta ſubjecto, & Poteſtatis ſingula indiviſibilis, atque (detur venia verbo) verbo) immultiplicabilis, ſacrilegâ aſſumptione; Arte Arithmeticâ quæſivi an fortè ex tribus Unitatibus collateraliter diſpoſitis, per Senarium multiplicatâ Triade, mihi prodiret numerus 666. ſtatimque prodeuntem inveni. Hoc verò inventum quia mihi videbatur & à reipſa & à ratione tua non abſonum, D. Brooks per literas anno præterito indicavi, ſimul eum obnixè rogans, quando jam Nomen tuum ex cujuſdam, ni fallor, Jonſtoni, libello, ut Clavis Apocalypticæ iſtius Authoris, innotuerat, ut, ſi fieri poſſet, & tuum de eo judicium, & Scripta alia tua ſiquæ exſtarent de quacunque materia poſſem per eum habere. Verùm longè aliam (quod aut expreſſionis meæ, aut fortè tantùm Scriptionis vitio libenter tribuo) ad te perveniſſe meam Quæſtionem jam intelligo, Vir R. & D. ex titulo quem Scripto tuo doctiſſimo præfixiſti; in quo non vulgarem certè humanitatem prodis, qui me indoctum ſanè Doctiſſimi titulo, ut alibi etiam, dignaris ornare; cujus à me tantum abeſſe meritum lubens agnoſco, quantum adeſt mihi fervens tui cum ſumma eximiæ tuæ Doctrinæ admiratione ſtudium, & humillimi atque devotiſſimi Diſcipuli ac Servi tui placet, ſi mihi concedas, elogium. Facit hoc, R. & D. Vir, ut, impellente D. Brooks, cujus ut Mediatoris ope apud te utor, de Clementia tua non parùm ſperans ipſe tibi de novo mentem meam Theſibus aliquot aperiam, idque non ſimpliciter, ut primùm D. Brooks indicâram, ſed habitâ Scripti tui, ut videbit R. T. ratione; eo fine, ut ſolidiſſimi & acerrimi tui judicii de invento meo genuino cenſuram, ſi R. T. placet, per eundem Mediatorem accipiam. Quam ſi dederis, & libertatem meam æqui bonique pro humanitate tua conſulueris, me magìs ac magìs devinctum ac devotum habebis. Vale, Vir Reverende & Doctiſſime. Deus te Reipublicæ, Eccleſiæ, Scholæ diu ſervet incolumem. Dat. Blæſis pridie Cal. Jul. 1635.

De Numero Nominis Beſtiæ.

Numerus Nominis Beſtiæ commodiſſimè quidem è radice Senario eruendus videtur propter Imaginem Beſtiæ in 6. Capite.

Verùm & ſimul ex unitatum Triade, utpote per Senarium multiplicata, ad hunc modum III. videtur eruendus.

$$\frac{6.}{666.}$$

Nam Numerus Nominis Beſtiæ cùm ſit ἀνλιςοιχ. numero 144000 ſignatorum Agni, qui ex certi numeri, nempe 12, per certum numerum, nempe 12, multiplicatione oritur; videtur ideo & ex certi numeri per certum numerum multiplicatione deducendus. Fit autem tantùm ex multiplicatione Triadis Unitatum, multiplicante Senario, numerus iſte nominis Beſtiæ 666.

Res verò ipſa favet. Nam Beſtia cornua etiam habet Agni ſimilia, hoc eſt, ſibi tribuit poteſtatem Agni, quæ triplex eſt, Sacerdotalis, Prophetica, Regia, unitatúmque Triadem facit, ſiquidem & diſtinctæ ſunt, & conjunctæ ſubjecto, & unaquæque immultiplicabilis. Nam quòd duo cornua repræſentantur, id fit propter convenientiam Typi. Et certè non tantùm in eo forma Beſtiæ ponitur, quòd loquitur ut Draco, Idololatrias nempe & lanienas Sanctorum; ſed etiam in eo quòd habet cornua Agni ſimilia.

Unde non obſtat huic conjecturæ quòd nomen Antichriſti ſit Eccleſiaſticæ inſtitutionis, quatenus Beſtiam ſignificat; nam non nititur ea hoc nomine, ſed dicto Apocalyptico, Cornua habebat Agni ſimilia.

Nec item obſtat quòd numeri ſignatorum Agni ab eo tantùm petatur ratio quod eis reverâ competit, nam carent hi fraude & dolo; at Beſtia à fraude & dolo etiam deſcribitur, nempe quòd cùm loquatur ut Draco, Cornua tamen habet habet Agni ſimilia: Poteſtatem ſcilicet ſimilem jactat, imò ipſam Poteſtatem, quantum in ea eſt, uſurpat.

Denique cum Draconiſmum miſceat Chriſtianiſmo Beſtia quatenus eſt iſta Beſtia, utrumque numero nominis ejus ſignificari par eſſe videtur.

EPISTLE XL.

Reverendo & Clariſſimo viro Domino Paulo Teſtardo, Eccleſiæ quæ eſt Blæſis reformatæ Paſtori vigilantiſſimo.

Reverende & clariſſime Vir,

This Letter contains Mr. Mede's thanks returned to M. Teſtard for his great reſpects, withall his reaſons why he cannot concur with him in his notions about the Number of the Beaſt's name.

ACcepi literas tuas benevolentiâ & humanitate plenas, à Domino Brokæo mihi tranſmiſſas: in quibus non ingratum fuit intellexiſſe, tenuem meam opellam viris, qualis tu es, doctis ulla ex parte adlibuiſſe. Domi certè minùs propitiam quàm apud exteros fortunam eſt experta. Id quod ego quidem facilè animo præſagiebam; ſed amicis quibuſcum eam communicaveram, editionem, ut ſolet, importunè flagitantibus, fidem facere non potui: donec eventus tandem docuit, me, hâc ſaltem parte, vatem non omnino vanum fuiſſe. Hoc ideo te celatum nolui, ut indè pro prudentia tua judicium faceres, quantopere meâ interſit, nè ipſe in novam libelli mei apud exteros editionem, ſive ſuâ ſive alienâ linguâ, conſentirem; cui domi nedum ulteriori editione, ſed & hujus diſtractione publicâ, à ſuperioribus interdictum ſit, ſolâ communicatione privatâ mihi permiſſâ.

Interim majorem in modum me tibi obſtrictum fateor, cui tantopere placuerim, ut illum non ſolùm iteratò legere, ſed in eo transferendo tantum laboris & tædii devorare non dedignareris. Neſciebam antea quicquam meum tanti pretii fuiſſe; certè mihi ipſi non eſt viſum. Sin quid ex eo fructûs vel ad te vel ad alios redierit, Deo Opt. Max. in ſolidum ſit gloria. Ejus enim ſolius eſt quicquid eſt boni; meum nihil præter imbecillitatem & ignorantiam.

Ad quæſitum tuum quod attinet; equidem agnoſco me mentem tuam antea, ſive meâ ſive aliorum culpâ, minimè aſſecutum eſſe. Jam verò eâ perceptâ, utut primo aſpectu nonnihil concinnitate ſuâ adblandiebatur; tamen penitiùs introſpicienti quò minùs adhuc tibi plenè accederem illud obſtaculo fuit: Quòd tametſi veriſſimum ſit, Radium ſenarium, niſi cum alio numero multiplicatum, Beſtiæ numerum non redditurum; tamen animadverto, ſi tres iſtæ Unitates, quas huic rei adhibes, valore ſimplo, & non, juxta locorum ſeriem, multiplo accipiantur, factum ex datis non fore, ut tu ſupponis, Sexcenta ſexaginta ſex, ſed tantùm Octodecim. Quippe quia, ſi data Unitatum Trias cum Senario compoſita Sexcenta ſexaginta ſex conficere debeat, Unitates iſtas omnino pro CXI. numero, non verò pro ſimplis unitatibus, reputandas eſſe: Alioquin enim tres iſtos Senarios ex iis factos non niſi pro ſimplis quoque Senariis habendos.

Hic ſcrupulus ſi eximi potuiſſet, reliqua quæ adduxerim tanti fortè futura non eſſent quò minùs δόγμα tuum calculo meo comprobarem: præſertim ſi uſquam in S. Scriptura (quod tamen non memini) officia illa Chriſti Triade ſignarentur. Alioquin enim ad S S. Trinitatem potiùs retulerim; cujus nempe cum cultu Beſtiæ ſexti capitis dæmonolatriam Pſeudoprophetæ nefario temperamento commiſcuit. Neque enim prorſus abſque ſuſpi-cione ſum, poſſe in numero iſto Trium Unitatum aliquid myſterii latere quod mihi nondum eruere datum eſt.

cione

Hæc habui, Vir Doctiſſime, quæ ad Quæſitum tuum reſponderem. Fecit autem tua erga Scriptum meum benignitas & affectus, ut alias quaſdam chartulas meas, Domini Brokæi rogatu, tecum communicare non dubitârim. Harum unâ myſterium calculi iſtius Angelici apud Danielem, cap. 12. com. 11, 12. jam ante ſeptennium veſtigare ſum conatus; quouſque verò aſſecutus ſum, necdum ſcio. Alteris duabus (Epiſtolâ ad Amicum*, & * Conjecturâ de Gogo & Magogo Apocalyptico) ſententiam meam de beato Millennio paulò pleniùs aperio. Plura non addo, niſi ut ſanctiſſimis tuis ſtudiis faveat benigniſſimus Deus, &c.

* Vid. pag. 710.
* Vid. pag. 713.

Menſe Januario,
Anno 163⅝.

Joſ. Medus.

Epistle XLI.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to ſome Enquiries of Dr. Twiſſe, touching the meaning of Ezekiel 38. 17. and Daniel 11. 35, 36.

Worthy Sir,

When I received your laſt, I was full of buſineſs, and therefore deferred my anſwer thereto till ſome time of better leiſure and freedom; which now I have attained. But for that of yours which in particular concerns my ſelf, I will ſay only this, that my friends conceive me to be a man of far greater abilities then I am. Believe me, I am far unfit for ſuch undertakings as they think me. Ingenium habeo tardum & cunctabundum: and though perhaps my Fancy be a little pregnant for notions, yet for expreſſion I am very unready, and write nothing either in Latin or Engliſh without much pains and difficulty. Such a diſpoſition is not fit for the warres, but for peaceable and retired meditations. Beſides, for the introducing and perſuading a new and unfrequented Truth, the choice of a ſeaſonable time is half the work; without which a man ſhall ſooner damnify then promote it. We ſee it by experience, what a wound ſometimes a Truth gets by an error in this kind. If the time therefore be not ſeaſonable and likely, private communication and inſinuation is moſt ſafe; publick avouching is dangerous, even to the Cauſe it ſelf, leſt it be condemned before it be underſtood, and ſo never fecible again till that generation be gathered to their fathers, if then. A Truth therefore not yet admitted muſt be urged very warily and tenderly, for fear of incurring ſuch a dangerous prejudice by an overpotent oppoſition. For the ſons of men are untoward creatures, that talk much of Reaſon, but commonly ſtear by another Compaſs, as of Paſſion, Faction, or Affection, &c.

I thank God for that portion of knowledge he hath been pleaſed hitherto to give me in theſe Myſteries, and the opportunity he hath vouchſafed me to make it known to others ſo far as I have done. I deſerved neither of them: and for the latter, never intended it; but was catcht as it were at a running pull. If it be his pleaſure I ſhall proceed further, he will afford me thoſe opportunities and inducements which yet I find not. And thus much for that matter.

Now for the reſt, I perceive what it is that moſt pincheth you in the Millenarian Millenarian Prophecy; to wit, that of Gog and Magog. Wherefore I send you enclosed herewith my * Conjecture thereof. How you will approve it, I know not. Howsoever you may gather thereby, and by what I formerly sent you, my whole conceit of that Mystery, and that my thoughts are still, now and then, reflecting upon their accustomed subject.

* Which I desire, when you have used it, to send me back again.

Ezek. 38. 17. explained.

AS for your Quære about the meaning of that Ezek. 38. 17. Thus saith the Lord; Art not thou he of whom I have spoken in old time by my servants the Prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days many years, that I would bring thee against them? I suppose you would know by what Prophets, and where any such Enemy as that Gog, was prophesied of before Ezekiel.

I answer, by Esay, chap. 27. 1. with the two last verses of the foregoing Chapter: by Jeremy, chap. 30. 23, 24. by Joel, chap. 3. 1, &c. by Micah, chap. 5. vers. 5, 6, 9, 15. In all which places is mention of some terrible Enemy which should come against Israel at the time of their Return, whom the Lord should destroy with a hideous and dreadfull slaughter.

* Ezek. 38. 2.

This Enemy is that Army of * Gog of the land of Magog, chief Prince of Meshech and Tubal, of which Ezekiel prophesieth; formerly mentioned by the Prophets which were before him; but never so punctually and particularly described by the place of his habitation, nation and name, as by him. The nearest unto him comes Micah, who prophesies of him under the name of the Assyrian, a Nation to the Northward; And He (that is, the Ruler to come forth of Bethlehem) shall be the peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land, &c. Not as though this should be his Original Nation, but as the Province from whence he should fall into the Land of Israel. For the Prince of Magog and Tubal cannot come into the Land of Israel, till he be first master of the Land of Ashur, which lies between them. And the Prophet describes him by this Name, rather then by that of his own Nation, because the Name of Ashur was at that time so terrible to the Jews, and the Invasion of Salmanasser and Sennacherib still fresh in their minds: and perhaps those Nations were then at the devotion of the Assyrian, and no smal part of his Army; as they used to be of the Saracens, when they ruled in those parts. Howsoever by this name he pointed to a Northern Enemy, whatsoever the Nation should be that should then Empire it in those parts, as the Assyrian did when he prophesied. For Assyria is described by that situation, Esay 14. 31. Jer. 1. 13. and ch. 4. 6. Zachary 2. 6. and I believe our Geographical Tables are not so true and exact herein as they should be, in that they place Saroh (as they say Assyria is now called) too much to the Eastward.

Micah 5.

Dan. 11. 35, 36. explained.

I see I have some room left for another Observation concerning Daniel XI. in which one of your Letters intimated some difficulty of Exposition. It may be I shall speak that which may ease you. Howsoever, it is this.

All the Ancients referr that from vers. 36. and forward to the Fourth Monarchy, especially to Antichrist, in whose reign that Monarchy should conclude. And good reason; for the Resurrection of the dead and Judgement comes in at the end thereof, Dan. 12. 2, 3. but thither no Kingdom reaches but the Fourth. 'Tis a dangerous evasion to turn this Prophecy of the Resurrection of the dead (which is the most evident and expres in all the Old Testament, and that whereon the Jewish Church built her faith and hope of the Life of the world to come) into an Allegory, as some of those are forced to doe who interpret all of Antiochus Epiphanes.

The stumbling-block which hath diverted so many of ours in this last Seculum to depart from the ancient and Catholick Exposition, seems to me to be chiefly, because there appears no apparent Transition in the Text from from the Prophecy of Antiochus to this we ſpeak of, but it coheres as a continued Narration to the end.

Now the cauſe of this obſcurity I take to be a miſdiſtinguiſhing of the Text, which referrs ſome words to the former verſe which ſhould be the beginning of this 36. theſe namely, כִּי עוֹד לַמּוֹעֵד. For if theſe words be referred to that which follows, the Tranſition will be evident enough, in this manner.

35. And ſome of them of underſtanding ſhall fall, to try them, and to purge, and to make them white, even to the time of the * end.

36. FOR YET at the time appointed, a King ſhall doe according to his will, and ſhall exalt and magnify himſelf above every God; yea he ſhall ſpeak marvellous things againſt the God of Gods, and ſhall proſper untill the Indignation be accompliſhed, &c.

* Namely, of the end of the Greek Monarchy, which in the holy account is not extended beyond Antiochus Epiphanes.

For underſtanding of this we muſt know, that after the death of Antiochus Epiphanes the Third Kingdome comes no more in the holy reckoning, none of the Greek Kings after him being at all propheſied of; yea Daniel himſelf calling the time of Antiochus his reign The Latter end of the Greek Kingdom, chap. 8. 23. The reaſon of this is, becauſe during the reign of Antiochus, Macedonia (whence that Kingdom ſprung) with all the reſt of Greece, came under the Roman obedience. From thence therefore the Holy Ghoſt begins the Riſe of the Fourth Kingdom; yea the Roman Hiſtorians themſelves mark out that time for the Riſe of their Empire. Lucius Florus, lib. 2. cap. 7. Cedente Annibale, præmium victoriæ Africa fuit, & ſecutus Africam terrarum orbis. Poſt Carthaginem vinci neminem puduit: Secutæ ſunt Africam Gentes, Macedonia, Græcia, Syria, cæteráque omnia, quodam quaſi æſtu & torrente fortunæ: Sed primi omnium Macedones, affectator quondam Imperii populus. Item Velleius Paterculus, lib. 1. cap. 6. ex quodam Æmilio Sura de annis populi Romani hæc habet: Aſſyrii * principes omnium Gentium rerum potiti ſunt; deinde Medi, poſtea Perſæ, deinde Macedones: Exinde duobus Regibus, Philippo & Antiocho, (qui à Macedonibus oriundi erant) haud multò poſt Carthaginem ſubactam, devictis, ſumma Imperii ad populum Romanum pervenit. Compare 1. Maccab. c. 8.

* i. primi

The meaning then of thoſe words of Daniel——[even to the time of the end] is, That the perſecution he deſcribeth ſhould be terminated with the end of the Third Kingdom. For from thenceforth another King [the Roman] ſhould prevail, and advance himſelf over all.

Under the name of King we muſt underſtand the whole Roman State under what kind of Government ſoever. For the Hebrews uſe King for Kingdom, and Kingdom for any Government, State or Politie in the world. See but Matth. 4. 8.

By exalting and magnifying himſelf above every God, nothing elſe is meant but the greatneſs and generality of his conqueſts and prevailings: the reaſon of that expreſſion being, Becauſe in the times of Paganiſm every City and Country had their proper and peculiar Gods which were deemed as their Guardians and Protectors. Hence ſometimes the Nations themſelves are expreſſed by the Name of their Gods: The people of Jehovah, that is, Iſrael; The people of Chemoſh, Numb. 21. 29. that is, Moab. Ità accipe Deut. 4. 28. and chap. 28. 64. Jer. 16. 13. 1 Sam. 26. 19. Sometimes the Exploits of the Nations are ſaid to be done by their Gods; as we, by like priviledge of ſpeech, aſcribe unto our Kings what is done by the People under them. See 2 Chron. 28. 23. Jerem. 51. 44. Thirdly, and moſt frequently, What is attempted againſt the Nations, is ſaid to be done againſt their Gods; as we are wont in like manner to ſay, when an Army is overthrown or overmaſtered, that ſuch a General is beaten or vanquiſhed.

See this, 2 Kings 18.33. Iſay 46.1,2. Jerem. 50.2. and ch. 51.44. and ch. 48.7. Compare 2 Sam. 7. 23. So here the ſucceſs and prevailing of the Roman, in the advancing his dominion & ſubduing every Nation under him, is expreſſed by exalting and magnifying himſelf above every God *. But if any had rather here take Gods for Kings and Potentates, let them.

* Non cæditur populus, uſquedum cædatur princeps ejus in excelſo. R. Sol. ad Eſaiæ 34. 5.

I have now no more room left: therefore with my beſt reſpect I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. Jan. 31. 163⅘.

Yours, J. M.

Epistle XLII.

Dr. Twiſſe his Fourth Letter to Mr. Mede, approving his conjectures touching Gog and Magog, and deſiring his opinion of the Engliſh Plantations in America.

Good Mr. Mede,

I Muſt begin with apologizing for my ſelf: I had purpoſed to return your Diſcourſe the next week after I received it, that being of ſo precious a nature you might have it with the ſooneſt. But I had ſo much to write upon that occaſion, and withall many other Letters to diſpatch the ſame week, that I deferred it to the next. Then I was put off by an unhappy accident: For a Scholar living with me got it over night to peruſe, and the next morning, upon a ſudden motion, obſerving the fair weather, took the opportunity to ride to London, without thinking of your Paper, neither was it in my memory to call for it. So that till the week following I could not recover it. ——Now I have returned it, and I truſt it ſhall come ſafe unto your hands. Now touching your Letters, I profeſs a truth, I was ſo far from taking any the leaſt offence that I heard not from you ſo ſoon, that (believe it, Sir) I blam'd my ſelf for making ſo bold with you, ſtill putting you upon new matters; though when a vein is once found of gold or ſilver, it makes a man hungry and greedy to purſue it; and the Kingdom of the Saints goes beyond all Mines and Treaſures. O how have you bleſſed me, and ſtill continue to bleſs me with your Papers! I proteſt unto you, your Letters, your Conjectures, your Meditations, are the greateſt Jewels my Studie contains. I approve your Reaſons for not proceeding to publiſh any more at this preſent; but as Mariners provide againſt a ſtorm, ſo may we for a calm. I have heretofore obſerved how, after Civil Wars in Chriſtendom, many excellent things came forth which were ſtudied in the time of Trouble. Did not Cicero the like in times of like condition? I am glad your thoughts reflect (and I hope ever and anon) on the ſame ſubject, that your friends in private may enjoy the benefit of your labours and talents.

See Mr. Mede's Conjecture of Gog and Magog, in Book III. pag. 713.

In the matter of Gog and Magog you have acquainted me with new Myſteries that I never thought of. Yet to one who firſt embraceth your way (ſo I call it, becauſe God hath made you his Miniſter to bring it to light; but I account it the way of Truth, and ſo carried by you, that in no particular I finde juſt cauſe of exception) concerning Regnum Sanctorum, ſuch light you bring to juſtifie your Conjecture, that he will be driven to confeſs that you deliver nothing without fair ground, fair probability, and that in ſuch a degree, that any other way ſeems to me, for the preſent, nothing capable of the like. Your grounds are very fair and clear to every one, but never (I think) taken into conſideration by any before your ſelf, to that end and purpoſe whereunto unto you direct them. You cannot eaſily conceive what content you give me herein, and what refreſhing it is to my ſpirit. Firſt, I perceive that Expedition of Gog againſt the Land of Iſrael is reckoned by you after their calling unto Chriſt, and thereupon poſſeſſing themſelves of the Holy Land, the Prophecies of the Old Teſtament leading thereunto; though Jews in former ages have joyned themſelves with the Chriſtian Churches of the ſame Countrey amongſt whom they converſed. Secondly, Alſo that now you are reſolved concerning the place of New Jeruſalem, namely, the land of Jury. Thirdly, I gueſs alſo, you conceive the deſtruction of Gog and of Antichriſt ſhall be at once by the coming of Chriſt. Fourthly, And that the reſtoring of the Temple in the latter end of Ezechiel, following upon the deſtruction of Gog, is a Type of New Jeruſalem. Fifthly, And that Gog is the Turk. For which light that you have given me in all theſe particulars, I moſt heartily thank you.

NOW, I beſeech you, let me know what your opinion is of our Engliſh Plantations in the New world. Heretofore I have wondered in my thoughts at the Providence of God concerning that world, not diſcovered till this old world of ours is almoſt at an end; and then no footſteps found of the knowledge of the true God, much leſs of Chriſt. And then conſidering our Engliſh Plantations of late, and the opinion of many grave Divines concerning the Goſpel's fleeting Weſtward; ſometimes I have had ſuch thoughts, Why may not that be the place of New Jeruſalem? But you have handſomely and fully clear'd me from ſuch odde conceits. But what? I pray, ſhall our Engliſh there degenerate and joyn themſelves with Gog and Magog? We have heard lately divers ways, that our people there have no hope of the Converſion of the Natives. And the very week after I received your laſt Letter, I ſaw a Letter written from New England, diſcourſing of an impoſſibility of ſubſiſting there; and ſeems to prefer the confeſſion of God's Truth in any condition here in Old England, rather then run over to enjoy their liberty there; yea, and that the Goſpel is like to be more dear in New England then in Old: and laſtly, unleſs they be exceeding carefull, and God wonderfully mercifull, they are like to loſe that life and zeal for God and his Truth in New England which they enjoyed in Old; as whereof they have already woful experience, & many there feel it to their ſmart.

I am aſhamed to urge you unto that which I do extremely deſire, that you would afford me your interpretation of the laſt verſes of Dan. 11. concerning the Fourth Kingdom: For I am confident by that you make of the firſt of them, you have in like manner conſidered it throughout; and your fetching the matter off from Epiphanes and the Greeks to the Fourth Kingdom, gives great light to the whole. Thus over ſhoes, over boots; I am run ſo far in your debt, and withall I am ſo much in love with it, that I care not how deep I plunge my ſelf thereinto. I commend me heartily unto your love, which I prize more then I can expreſs. I ſhall reſt

Newbury, March 2. 1634.

Yours, ever to love and honour you,
W. Twiſſe.

Poſt-ſcript.

I had almoſt forgotten a ſpecial Argument againſt Regnum Sanctorum, whereof I ſhould crave the ſolution; which is this. All the Saints departing this life are with the Lord Chriſt, 2 Cor. 5. 8. If all at his coming be not brought with him, they ſhall be divided from Chriſt, and conſequently in worſe condition then they were before. Though he bring all with him, yet in that Kingdom there may be place for different degrees of glory; and that 1 Cor. 15. Every one in his own order, is applied there only to Chriſt and them that are Chriſt's.

Epistle XLIII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse his Fourth Letter, touching the first Gentile Inhabitants, and the late Christian Plantations, in America: as also touching our Saviour's proof of the Resurrection from Exod. 3. 6. with an Answer to the Objection in the Post-script of the foregoing Letter.

SIR,

Concerning our Plantation in the American world, I wish them as well as any body; though I differ from them far, both in other things, and in the grounds they go upon.

And though there be but little hope of the general Conversion of those Natives in any considerable part of that Continent; yet I suppose it may be a work pleasing to Almighty God and our Blessed Saviour, to affront the Devil with the sound of the Gospel and Cross of Christ in those places where he had thought to have reigned securely and out of the dinne thereof; and though we make no Christians there, yet to bring some thither to disturb and vex him, where he reigned without check.

For that I may reveal my conceit further, though perhaps I cannot prove it, yet I think thus;

That those Countries were first inhabited since our Saviour and his Apostles times, and not before; yea, perhaps, some ages after: there being no signs or footsteps found amongst them, or any Monuments of older habitation, as there is with us.

That the Devil, being impatient of the sound of the Gospel and Cross of Christ in every part of this old world, so that he could in no place be quiet for it, and foreseeing that he was like at length to lose all here, bethought himself to provide him of a seed over which he might reign securely; and in a place, ubi nec Pelopidarum facta neque nomen audiret.

That accordingly he drew a Colony out of some of those barbarous Nations dwelling upon the Northern Ocean, (whither the sound of Christ had not yet come) and promising them by some Oracle to shew them a Country far better then their own, (which he might soon doe) pleasant, large, where never man yet inhabited, he conducted them over those * desart Lands and Islands (which are many in that Sea) by the way of the North into America; which none would ever have gone, had they not first been assured there was a passage that way into a more desirable Countrey. Namely, as when the world apostatized from the Worship of the true God, God called Abram out of Chaldee into the Land of Canaan, of him to raise him a Seed to preserve a light unto his Name: So the Devil, when he saw the world apostatizing from him, laid the foundations of a new Kingdom, by deducting this Colony from the North into America, where since they have increased into an innumerable multitude. And where did the Devil ever reign more absolutely and without controll, since mankind fell first under his clutches? And here it is to be noted, that the story of the Mexican Kingdom (which was not founded above 400 years before ours came thither) relates out of their own memorials and traditions, that they came to that place from the North; whence their God Vitzliliputzli led them, going in an Ark before them: and after divers years travel and many stations (like enough after some generations) they came to the place which the

* The Terra Australis yet incognita might in part be peopled through that fry of Islands lying between it and Camboia in the Oriental Sea. But of that Continent we know nothing, whether it be fully inhabited or not.

the Sign he had given them at their first setting forth pointed out; where they were to finish their travels, build themselves a City, and their God a Temple; which is the place where Mexico was built. Now if the Devil were God's ape in this; why might he not be so likewise in bringing the first Colony of men into that world out of ours? namely, by Oracle, as God did Abraham out of Chaldee, whereto I before resembled it.

But see the hand of Divine Providence. When the off-spring of these Runnagates from the sound of Christ's Gospel had now replenisht that other world, and began to flourish in those two Kingdoms of Peru and Mexico, Christ our Lord sends his Mastives the Spaniards to hunt them out and worry them: Which they did in so hideous a manner, as the like thereunto scarce ever was done since the Sons of Noah came out of the Ark. What an affront to the Devil was this, where he had thought to have reigned securely, and been for ever concealed from the knowledge of the followers of Christ?

Yet the Devil perhaps is less grieved for the loss of his servants by the destroying of them, then he would be to lose them by the saving of them; by which latter way I doubt the Spaniards have despoiled him but of a few. What then if Christ our Lord will give him his second affront with better Christians, which may be more grievous to him then the former? And if Christ shall set him up a light in this manner, to dazle and torment the Devil at his own home, I will hope they shall not so far degenerate (not all of them) as to come in that Army of Gog and Magog against the Kingdom of Christ; but be translated thither before the Devil be loosed, if not presently after his tying up. And whence should those Nations get notice of the glorious happiness of our world, if not by some Christians that had lived among them?

Thus have I told you out my fancy of the Inhabitants of that world: which though it be built upon mere conjectures, and not upon firm grounds; yet may have so much use as to shew a possibility of answering such scruples as are wont to run in mens heads concerning them: which consideration is not always to be despised.

BUT because I see you entertain so favourably my Notions concerning the Kingdom of Christ at his appearing; I will make bold to acquaint you with another Notion which draws deeper (I think) then those you have yet heard.

Our Saviour's proof of the Resurrection from Exodus 3. 6. I am the God of Abraham, &c. explained.

I doubt not but you have felt some scruple (as well as others) at our Saviour's demonstration of the Resurrection in the Gospel, Matth. 22. Mark 12. God said to Moses in the bush, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the dead, but of the living. Ergò Abraham, Isaac and Jacob must one day rise again from the dead. How doth this Conclusion follow? Do not the Spirits of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob yet live? God should then be the God of the living, though their bodies should never rise again. Therefore some Socinians argue from this place, that the Spirits of the Just lie in the sleep of death until the Resurrection. Or might not the Sadducees have replied, the meaning to be of what God had been, not of what he should be? viz. That he was that God who had once chosen their Fathers, and made a Covenant with them; I am the God that brought Abraham out of Chaldee, who appeared to Isaac and Jacob whilest they lived, &c. But how would this then make for the Resurrection? Surely it doth. He that could not erre said it. Let us therefore see how it may.

I say therefore the words must be understood with supply of that they have reference unto; which is the Covenant that the Lord made with Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob; in reſpect whereof he calls himſelf their God. This Covenant was to give unto them and to their ſeed the land wherein they were ſtrangers. [Mark it.] Not to their ſeed or off-ſprings only, but to themſelves. Vide loca. To Abraham, Gen. 13. 15. & ch. 15. 7. & ch. 17. 8. To Iſaac, Gen. 26. 3. To Jacob, Gen. 35. 12. To all three, Exod. 6. 4, 8. Deut. 1. 8. & ch. 11. 21. & ch. 30. 20. If God then make good to Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob this his Covenant, whereby he undertook to be their God, then muſt they needs one day live again to inherit the promiſed Land, which hitherto they have not done. For the God that thus covenanted with them, covenanted not to make his promiſe good to them dead, but living. This is the ſtrength of the Divine argument, and irrefragable; which otherwiſe would not inferre any ſuch Concluſion.

And this to be our Saviour's meaning may appear, in that the Jews at that time uſed from theſe very places thus underſtood to infer the Reſurrection againſt the Sadducees out of the Law. As it is to be ſeen expreſſely of two of them (Exod. 6. 4. Deut. 11. 21.) in the Talmud פֶּרֶק חֶלֶק, ubi in Gemara ſic habetur, Traditio Rab. Simai; Quo loco aſtruit Lex Reſurrectionem mortuorum? Nempe ubi dicitur, Atque etiam conſtabilivi fœdus meum cum ipſis, ut dem ipſis terram Canaan. Non enim dicitur vobis, ſed ipſis.

Exod. 6. 4.

Iterum rogârunt Sadducæi Rabbi Gamalielem, (Præceptor fuit Pauli Apoſtoli) Undenam probaret Deum mortuos reſuſcitaturum. Non quieverunt uſque dum produceret ipſis iſtum verſum, Quam terram juravit Dominus patribus veſtris ſe daturum illis. Hinc conſtat Legem teſtificari Reſurrectionem mortuorum.

Deut. 11. 21.

Note therefore, that when in a two or three of theſe places it is added, and to thy ſeed, or their ſeed after them, the word after is not to be referred to give (as if it were, I will give it to thy ſeed after I have given it to thee;) but to ſeed; as, Thy ſeed after thee, that is, to thy poſterity, their ſeed after them, that is, to their poſterity which ſhould come out of their loyns: For that the off-ſpring is in beginning after to the beginning of the Parent.

To perſwade this conceit by ſtronger teſtimonies then of Rabbins, I pray compare with that which hath been ſaid, the 8, 9, and 10 verſes of Hebrews 11. adding to them the 13, 14, 15 and 16 verſes of the ſame Chapter: In the laſt of which you need not ſtumble at the Epithet, ἐπουρανίου heavenly; becauſe it notes not onely that which is in heaven, but that which is from heaven, de Cælo; as it is ſaid verſe 10. They looked for a City whoſe builder and maker is God. And conſider well the latter part of this 16. verſe with our Saviour's Argument, Compare beſides and conſider that of Zachary's Benedictus, Luc. 1. 72. Ποιῆσαι ἔλεος μετὰ τῶν πατέρων ἡμῶν, καὶ μνησθῆναι διαθήκης ἁγίας αὐτοῦ· which we, for fear of Limbus patrum, tranſlate, To perform the mercy promiſed to our Fathers, &c. But there is no ſuch word as [promiſed] in the original. Ποιῆσαι ἔλεος μετὰ τῶν πατέρων ἡμῶν, is directly, To ſhew mercy, or kindneſs, to our Fathers: For that is the Scripture phraſe, ποιῆσαι ἔλεος μετά τινος, To ſhew benignity unto, or deal kindly with, one. The Fathers then themſelves are the Object of this benignity and favour which is to be by Chriſt; it is to be ſhewn to them. But what is this favour and mercy? the words following will tell us——and to remember his holy Covenant. What was that? To give unto them, even to them in their own perſons, the Land wherein they were ſtrangers, and that by and with that ſeed of theirs wherein all the Nations of the earth were to be bleſſed.

Vid. Luc. 10. 37. In the Old Teſtament paſſim. See Gen. 24. 12, 49. Judg. 1. 24.

Adde laſtly and conſider what may be the meaning of that, Matt. 8. 11. Many ſhall come from the Eaſt and the Weſt, and ſhall ſit down with Abraham, Iſaac

Isaac and Jacob in the Kingdom of heaven; when the children of the Kingdom (that is, the Jews, many of them) shall be cast out into outer darkness, &c.

Now I have done, I am afraid I have not expressed my mind so clearly and evidently as I would. But the Summe of what I would say is this.

God covenanted to give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in their own persons, (as well as to their seed) the Land wherein they were strangers (that is, the Land of Canaan) for an inheritance. But this was not performed to them while they lived; therefore must they one day live again, that they may be partakers of this Promise; and consequently the Saints shall live on earth after their Resurrection.

Mark those words well, The land of thy pilgrimage, The land whereon thy head lies, Gen. 28. The land which thou seest, Gen. 13. and the like. And in S. Paul, The place which he should after receive for an inheritance, Heb. 11.

To your Postscript-Objection, That if the Saints come not all together with Christ, those which are left behind shall be in worse case then they were before: The assoiling thereof depends upon the exact knowledge of the State of the Saints in bliss, and the degrees they are in; which we know not. Who can affirm whether all the Saints now in bliss have the Vision of Christ in his Humanity, or some of them onely? And as for the presence of his Godhead, they may enjoy it in an illustrious manner, though his Humanity be on earth. We must be content in so great a Mystery to be ignorant of something. Deus providebit. For the words * ἐν ἰδίῳ τάγματι, I will not contend for the sense I used them in. They may be understood the other way, so may they be in mine. Quisque fruatur suo judicio. But what say you to that in the end of Daniel, Go thy way, Daniel, till the end be; for thou shalt rest and stand up in thy Lot at the end of days? What is this [in thy Lot?] Is it not, In thy course, or In thy turn? See the Courses or Turns of the Priests and Levites so called, 1 Chron. 24.

* 1 Cor. 15.

For my full interpretation of that part of the 11. of Daniel, I have it in a Treatise upon 1 Tim. 4. which I preached in certain Sermons at S. Marie's before I was so well versed in the Apocalyps or understood the Mystery of the Millennium; and therefore it hath some things in it not so consentaneous to my present opinion either in that or some other things there discoursed. I could * mend the foundation thereof. Notwithstanding these defects I could be willing to let you have a sight of it, if I could send it by a certain hand; but the hand of a Carrier is too contingent to adventure it in: And this to save the labour of writing out that which concerns that Prophecy of Daniel, which would be a little tedious to me.

*Of which this Great Author hath given a Specimen, in his perfecting and more fully expressing such pieces of that Treatise as he had occasion to excerp and make use of in some Writings in this Volume, as the judicious Reader may observe.

Mr. B. at his sending me your last, desired to know my opinion of Gog and Magog in the Apocalyps, whether they were not Hypocrites on the one side within the Church, and open Enemies without on the other. Whereby I gather he is not acquainted with my conceit of the Millennium, and wants the Præcognita. Wherefore it would be a tedious business to go about to inform him by writing. I answered him, My Opinion required many Præcognita, and what it was you could inform him: but I thought it concerned not these times.

Thus with my best respect, and commending your self and all yours to the Blessing of the Almighty, I rest

Your assured Friend,

Christ's Coll. March 23. 163⅓

Joseph Mede.

Epistle XLIV.

M^r. Hartlib's Letter to M^r. Mede, intimating a Learned man of Leiden his judgement of his Book on the Apocalyps.

Worthy Sir,

— Juſt now I received a Letter from a Learned man of Leiden, to whom alſo I ſent your Clavis, who writes thus: Doctiſſimum Commentarium Apocalyp. cœpi legere. Gratulor mihi de talibus ſcriptis, quorum etſi fides non poteſt eſſe nimis certa in omnibus, ſunt tamen quorum nomine maximi æſtimari debent. Nam 1. Non parùm valent contra Atheos, quorum perverſitas priùs concinnis ejuſmodi delectanda, quàm convincentibus expugnanda. 2. Nec minùs ad erigendos eos qui certitudinis de Religione deliquium patiuntur aliquando, qualis nemo non eſt. 3. Nec non ad ſolatium in adverſis. Nihil enim fortiùs ſolatur quàm quod certitudinem de Religione Chriſtiana ex habitu in vivum & vegetum actum excitat: At hoc poteſt Apocalypſeos conſideratio talis. 4. Quantum in eo ſitum ſit ut evincatur Papam eſſe Antichriſtum nemo non novit: At hoc longè fortiùs perſuadetur tali modo quàm per diſputationes; ſaltem diſputationes confirmat. 5. Nè dicam quòd multa Scripturæ dicta in hoc Commentario egregiè explicantur, & hiſtoriæ profanæ ad pium uſum tranſferuntur: quam poſtremam ob cauſam O quàm opto ut lucem videat ejuſdem Authoris Scriptum, quo Originem Pontificiæ Religionis ex Ethniciſmo egregiè demonſtratam intelligo! Et quidem video eum pag. *116. lin. 7. Comment. Apocalyp. tale quid citare. Scribe quæſo an impreſſum. Interim velim. D. Duncus hunc Comment. Apocalyp. conſideret, & judicet, annon ſuum interpretandi modum hic Author accuratiſſimè ſecutus ſit. An igitur audebit dicere hanc Apocalypſeos interpretationem & Analyſin eſſe infallibilem? Thus you ſee how our affections of your worthy labours begin to turn into a true judgement and right value. Yet I ſhould be glad too to ſpend more of my affections upon you in writing oftner, if many other weighty and publick occaſions would give me leave: But I know you will excuſe me, and remain confident that I am always

*[Hujus edit. p. 591.]

6. Martii, 1634.

Your very aſſured and affectionate friend to ſerve you,

Samuel Hartlib.

Epistle XLV.

Mr. Mede's modeſt Anſwer, excuſing himſelf and his Book.

Worthy Mr. Hartlib,

THanks for your good affection, in rejoycing for that you conceive to tend to my honour. Yet I ſee not why I ſhould think much better of my ſelf for it. It is the hap of many a Book that hath no worth in it (as I ſee daily) to finde applauſe and entertainment, when a good Book is often ſcarce taken notice of. Why may not mine then, notwithſtanding all this, this, be of that sort? I confess it is far better accepted then ever I looked for. This is enough. Yet might it be any furtherance but in the smallest degree to draw a Prince to our Religion, I should think then I might have cause of glory. But, alas! I dare not so much as give such a conceit entertainment.

Howsoever, because you send me abroad, and the Book contains a Paradox which is but generally and tenderly touched, and not fully explicated; lest I might be reputed, in this generality, to be of the same Opinion that Piscator and some others are, who avouch a Millennium Regni, as I doe, but not ἀρχαϊκῶς, and so their conceit far differing from mine; I thought not amiss to send you these inclosed Papers, wherein those that shall study that point shall finde my opinion competently explicated; at least so far as may secure them that I cherish no gross and groundless errour. When you have made that use of them you think fit, I would desire you to send me them again, for I have no other Copies, and they are sometimes useful to me in giving satisfaction.

If Mr. Dury hath read my Book, you may communicate them with him; else it will not be to purpose. I would I knew whether he had a Book or not. The Book he sent me down from De Dieu, I have now at length, and but newly, received. I read De Dieu's Letter but this morning, and would have written to Mr. Dury in answer to his kind Letter, but that I am all overwhelmed at present with business and distractions, and am of a disposition that can tend but one thing at once. I pray howsoever remember my service to him: the next week I shall be at leisure I hope to write to him.

For your excusing your seldom saluting me with your Letters, it needs not; I am sensible of the trouble my self, and therefore most ready to hold others excused. Thus my time is spent, and I must to other writing work; So with my best affection I rest

Christ's College
March 11. 1634.

Your assured Friend,

Jos. Mede.

Epistle XLVI.

Joh. Duræi Epistola ad Jos. Medum.

This Letter contains Mr. Dury's great respect to Mr. Mede, and withall sollicits him to impart his thoughts about the best method of pursuing the design for a Pacification amongst the Protestant Reformed Churches.

Gratiam & Pacem.

Cum Lugduno-Batavorum, Clarissime & Doctissime Vir, discessurus valedicerem Rev. Domino De Dieu, quocum mihi à multo tempore notitia intercesserat, Fidei meæ commisit suas hasce in Acta Apostolorum Annotationes vobis tradendas. Gratulatus mihi sum de qualicunque hac occasione ipsi & tibi simul inserviendi; aut saltem testandi erga te præsertim (cujus Pietatem atque Eruditionem meritò omnes piè docti venerantur) studium & affectum meum, quo tuam virtutem prosequor. Hanc igitur scribendi ansam nactus nolui meo voto deesse ampliùs, quo in tuam aliquando irrepere familiaritatem exoptavi. Multa illa & præclara optimorum, & nominatim Domini Hartlibii, de tuis dotibus testimonia, animum meum ad hac vota & desideria inflammarunt. Dabis igitur, Vir eximie, veniam pro tua humanitate meo affectui, cujus impulsu hæc scribo, ut liceat mihi imposterum tuo cultui meæ studia

ſtudia dedicare, & pro re nata te per Literas ſalutare, ſiquid dignum tuâ notitiâ in communibus ſtudiis occurret. Impræſentiarum nihil adhuc ad manum eſt præter hoc Decretum ab Ordinibus Imperii factum in negotio Pacis Eccleſiaſticæ meo rogatu capeſſendo: in illo videre poteris quouſque divina Clementia meis conatibus præter & ultra exſpectationem faverit; atque ut illi mecum eo nomine gratias agas rogo. Quæ reliqua in hoc inſtituto promovendo ſunt, & communicatione digna videbuntur, ſuo tempore ſuggerentur; ut ſiquid ab Eruditione & Prudentia tua accedere poſſit ad hanc cauſam juvandam, id meo quodam jure in Communione Sanctorum poſtulare & impetrare queam. Vale, Vir mihi maximopere colende. Dabam raptim

Londini, 4. Kal. Mart. 163⅞

Veſtræ Pietatis
Obſervantiſſimus,
Johannes Duræus.

Epistle XLVII.

Joſ. Medi Epiſtola ad Joh. Duræum.

This Letter ſignifies Mr. Mede's hearty well-wiſhing to Mr. Dury's Pacifick deſign, but withal intimates his reaſons why he judgeth himſelf not ſo fit and able to ſerve him herein. Thus out of his great modeſty he wrote at firſt to Mr. Dury, but was afterward prevailed with to communicate what he thought moſt adviſeable in this affair; as appears by ſeveral Letters of his in Anſwer to Mr. Dury and Mr. Hartlib, which the Reader will find toward the end of this Fourth Book.

Doctiſſime & Ornatiſſime Vir,

Diutius factum eſt cùm tuas Literas accepi, nec reſpondi: In cauſa fuit, quòd Librum ad me à Clariſſimo viro Domino Lud. De Dieu miſſum Vehicularii incuriâ ante ſuperiorem ſeptimanam non acceperim: tunc autem cùm ſcribendum eſſet, aliis occupationibus & ſcriptiunculis adeò diſtinebar, ut vel tantillum otii & temporis huic officio non ſuppeterit.

Duplici verò beneficio me affecit Vir clariſſimus doctiſſimúſque & omni laude ſuperior Dominus Ludovicus De Dieu; tum quòd eruditiſſimi Libri ſui munere me honorare voluerit; tum quòd unâ eâdémque operâ, quaſi teſſerâ quadam in manus traditâ, mihi ad amicitiam tuam viam patefecerit; Viri, quem verè heroicum illud Religioſæ Pacis procurandæ ſtudium mihi jamdudum & omnibus bonis amabilem reddiderat, Deo quinetiam charum & acceptum. Macte, vir beatiſſime, (talem enim te * Chriſtus ipſe pronunciat) hoc animo, hâc virtute. Utinam autem ità ferret conditio mea, eſſémque porrò ab ingenio & prudentia ſatis inſtructus, ut tibi in tam ſancto munere inſervirem. Nunc verò illud, ultrà quàm voto & commendatione, non licet. Nos enim hîc (ut ſcias) qui inferioris ſubſellii ſumus, ab aliorum pendemus arbitrio, neque ſine illorum nutu aut ductu in talibus quicquam audemus; alioquin factioſi & inordinati ingenii notam incurſuri, nullo, mihi crede, ſiquis eo maculetur, oceano eluendam.

Eſt & aliud offendiculum quod te non celabo, quo Noſtratium quorundam animos, alioquin rectos, deterreri & retardari ſuſpicor, quò minùs voluntatem ſuam tam liberè & apertè in hac cauſa profiteantur: nempe quòd aliorum temeritate, aliorum malitiâ factum animadvertunt, ut quò quis in exteras Eccleſias proniorem ſe oſtendat, eò ſtatim à noſtra habeatur alienior. Audîſti Satanæ Stratagema, quo tam pulchro & pio incepto remoram objicere conatur. Hinc conjice, in ſuffragiis ad rem iſtam colligendis quantâ cautelâ & judicio opus ſit.

Meipſum quod attinet, ſcias velim, me ſummis animi votis Eccleſiarum pacem & concordiam exoptare, tibíque eo nomine & ſanctiſſimis tuis conatibus impensè favere, &, quà licet, promovere velle. Dextram verò amicitiæ (quam tam benignè obtuliſti & viciſſim poſtulas) en tibi eam jam nunc nunc porrigo, inque affectûs mei teſtimonium Scriptum hoc qualecunque meum in Apocalypſin dono mitto; minimè illud ei par quod mihi à doctiſſimo & (quod ex Literis ejus cognovi) amiciſſimo tibi viro ferendum accepiſti: Rogo tamen ut æqui boníque conſuleres, quod ab homine cui anguſta eſt eruditionis ſupellex proficiſci potuit.

* Matth. 5. 9.

Nolim enim te ex Domini Hartlibii & aliorum amicorum de me judiciis, qui ex hoc Scripto (quod immane quanto labore mihi conſtitit) vires meas æſtimant, in errorem abduci. Non ſum profectò quem illi me exiſtimant, ſed in quo omnia mediocria ſunt, nè dicam tenuia; multis eruditionis præſidiis deſtitutum eſſe, præſertim (quod maximè angit) cogitata mentis ſive ſermone, ſive ſcripto apud alios facilè & expeditè proferendi facultatem à natura denegatam habere, ut nullo modo ſim amicorum de me judiciis & exſpectationi reſponſurus, mihi de meipſo crede, nè de novo amico nimiùm fortè ſis tibi gratulaturus.

Plura non addo, niſi ut faveat ſanctiſſimis tuis inceptis benignus Deus, téque diu incolumem ſervet, Eccleſiæ & Reipublicæ Chriſtianæ bono. Ità vovet

E Collegio Chriſti Cantabrig.
18. Martii 163⅘. Nominis tui ſtudioſiſſimus,

Joſ. Medus.

Epistle XLVIII.

Lud. de Dieu Epiſtola ad Joſ. Medum.

This Letter contains Lud. de Dieu his Reply to that one part of Mr. Mede's Letter which treated of ſome various Readings in the Hebrew Text. See that Letter of Mr. Mede's in Book III. pag. 707.

Clariſſime, Doctiſſime atque Ornatiſſime Vir,

Literas tuas 4. Junii præcedentis anni datas, per Nobiliſſimum atque Ampliſſimum Equitem D. Guilielmum Boſwellum jamdudum accepi; ex quibus leviuſculas meas in doctiſſimam tuam Clavem Apocalypticam Animadverſiones communicatas tibi à literatiſſimo viro fuiſſe intelligo. Quod etſi præter mentem meam acciderit, magno tamen meo bono factum, quòd iſthoc pacto aditus mihi ad eruditionem tuam datus ſit. Allubuiſſe tibi mearum Obſervationum aliquid, eſt quod mihi gratuler: quòd alia non ſatìs à me intellecta, aut ſeciùs accepta, illuſtrare ac plana facere dignatus fueris, gratias ago maximas, & acquieſco. Quòd autem nullam adhuc cauſam te videre potuiſſe ais, cur magis in Veteri Teſtamento variantem lectionem admittere pertimeſcas quàm in Novo, examinandum penitiùs videtur. In Vet. Teſtamento unicus fuit populus Judaicus, intra anguſtos terræ Canaan limites concluſus, qui à ſummo Pontifice paucíſque Sacerdotibus pendens, Scripturæ Sacræ & Lectiones & interpretationes accipere ab iis debebat: ibi Scripturam in puritate ſua conſervare & variationem arcere facile fuit; unde & ſummo conſenſu, paucis exceptis apicibus & literis, codices Hebræi conſpirant; adverſus quorum conſenſum variantem lectionem comminiſci, audendum non arbitror. In Novo Teſtamento, ubi, diſperſâ protinus per omnes populos ſalutis doctrinâ, res ſecùs ſe habuit, variari aliquid facile fuit, ut & variantes codices variantes lectiones admittere cogunt.

Tria autem adfers conſideratione digna. Primum eſt, Ipſius Hebræi Textûs lectionem variare: ubi conferri vis hymnum Davidis noviſſimum 2 Sam. 22. cum eodem Pſal. 18. Hiſtoriam excidii Hieroſolymitani 2 Reg. 24. à verſ. 18. ad finem cap. 25. cum eadem hiſtoria Jerem. 52. Legationem Merodach Baladan 2 Reg. 20. verſ. 12, 13, &c. cum eadem Eſa. 39. Item 2 Sam. 21. 19. cum 1 Paral. 20. 5.

Reſpondeo,

Reſpondeo, Plurima in illis locis eſſe quæ invicem collata aliter quidem hîc leguntur quàm illic, ità tamen ut & hîc eodem modo omnes codices legant & illic; & nè Mazorethæ quidem variantes lectiones annotare fuerint auſi. Varietas illa crebrò contingit, ubi de eadem re diverſi authores ſcribunt. Quoties apud Evangeliſtas id videre eſt? ubi eandem hiſtoriam diverſi tractantes addunt, demunt, commutant verba & ſententias, immutant perſonas, tranſponunt ordinem, & alia aliter ſcribunt. Matt. 3. eſt portare calceamenta; Marc. 1. ſolvere corrigiam calceamentorum: illic, baptizabit Spiritu Sancto & igne; hîc, omittitur igne. Quæ Matth. 5. in Beatitudinibus narrantur tertiâ perſonâ à Chriſto dicta, recenſet Lucas ſecundâ perſonâ. Quôdq; Matt. 13. 17. eſt, Multi Prophetæ & juſti; Luc. 10. 24. eſt, Multi Prophetæ & reges. In quibus neque variare lectionem, neque corruptam eſſe hanc aut illam dicet quiſquam; quia diverſitas iſta juſtas ſuas habet cauſas & uſus inſignes. Talia quoque ſunt, quòd 2 Reg. 25. 4. omittantur יִבְרְחוּ וַיֵּצְאוּ מֵהָעִיר quæ Jer. 52. 7. leguntur: Quòd illic ſcribatur נבכדנצר, apud Jerem. נבכדרצר; ut & Eſa. 39. 1. מראדך, quod 2 Reg. 20. 12. eſt בראדך; & 1 Reg. 15. אֲבִים quod 2 Chron. 13. eſt אֲבִיָּה & אֲבִיָּהוּ: facilè enim tempora in nominum propriorum pronunciatione & ſcriptione literam aliquam variant, unde & in Evangeliis eſt, Βεελζεβὲλ, quod in Hebr. eſt בעלזבוב. Et ut quod primo loco ponis potiſſimùm conferam, nempe Pſal. 18. cum 2 Sam. 22. Illic verſ. 1. legitur שְׁאוּל וּמִכַּף, hîc וּמִכַּף. Verſus qui ibi ſecundus eſt, hîc omittitur. Ibi verſ. 3. eſt וּמְפַלְטִי לִי אֱלֹהַי צוּרִי, hîc וּמְפַלְטִי לִי צוּרִי. Ibi deſunt quæ hîc eodem verſu adduntur, מִמְּחָמָס תּוֹשִׁיעֵנִי וּמִנּוֹסִי מֹשִׁיעֵנִי. Ibi verſ. 5. eſt אֲפָפוּנִי מִשְׁבְּרֵי מָוֶת חַבְלֵי מָוֶת, hîc כִּי אֲפָפֻנִי מִשְׁבְּרֵי מָוֶת. Ceſſo, quia plurimæ ejuſmodi ſequuntur mutationes; quæ ſatis evincunt aut Pſalmo Davidis contigiſſe à novo ſcriptore qui libros Regum contexuit quod paſſim orationibus Chriſti in Evangeliis, ubi ab alio Evangeliſta aliis verbis recenſentur; aut ipſummet Davidem, diverſis temporibus egregium hunc hymnum proferentem, conſultò quædam mutâſſe, ut uberior ejus eſſet ſenſus; unde ſanè diverſa codicum lectio, nec ulla aut hîc aut illic depravatio, argui poteſt.

At reſpicis forſitan ea loca ubi aliter ſe habere ט קרי quàm ט כתיב annotârunt Mazorethæ. Reſpondeo, Ipſorum annotationes non indicare quomodo alii codices legerint, ſed quomodo legendum ſit: ideo nunquam duplex, multò minùs triplex, קרי annotatur; & vocales ſemper קרי ט֗, nunquam כתיב ט֗ accommodantur; ut unicam tantùm lectionem rectam eſſe indicarent, quæ ſcilicet קרי ט֗ eſt adaptata. In quo cùm ſenſum ſuum & judicium ſint ſecuti, rejicio paſſim ipſorum lectionem, tanquam aut non neceſſariam, aut inutilem, aut ſuperſtitioſam, aut etiam depravatam, & כתיב ט ſequi amo. Ut in hymno Davidis 2 Sam. 22. 8. ט Ketif poſtulat legi וַיִּתְגַּעַשׁ, ſicut Pſal. 18. quod rectius eſt quàm ט Keri ויתנעש, quod maſcul. gen. non bene conſtruitur cum ſeq. וותרעש הארץ. Verſ. 15. ט Ketif vult legi וַיְהֻמֵּם, ut eſt Pſ. 18. & rectius eſt quàm ט Keri ויהם. Verſ. 33. ט Ketif vult legi וַיִּתֵּר חֻמִּים דַּרְכִּי, ט Keri eſt דרכי, quia nempe ſic legitur Pſ. 18. at cur non eodem jure annotârunt pro וַיִּתֵּר legendum ut in Pſalmo וַיַּחֲז? Jam antè diximus ſtudio mutâſſe nonnulla Prophetam, ut & alia in eodem hoc verſu, & ſuprà verſ. 11. eſt וַיֵּרָא & conſpectus eſt, quum illic ſit וַיֵּדֵא & volavit: hîc verſ. 11. חֲשֹׁרַת מַיִם colligationes aquarum, cùm illic ſit חֶשְׁכַת מַיִם tenebras aquarum. Optimum habet ſenſum דַּרְכּוֹ * Et exſilire facit integrum via ejus, vel & exſilire facit integrum in via ſua, pro בְּדַרְכּוֹ. Indè pendet & alterum verſ. ſeq. מְשַׁוֶּה רַגְלָיו כָּאַיָּלוֹת, ſic habet ט Ketif, pro quo ט Keri רגלי; at rectius eſt prius, ſi in præcedenti legas דרכו, diſponit pedes ejus (nempe integri viri, quem exſilire facit aut expeditum reddit via ejus) ut cervarum. Verſu ult. ט Ketif vult legi מִגְדּוֹל, ſicut Pſ. 18. at Keri eſt מגדול, omnino pravé. Sic in hiſtoria Me-

* Verſ. 35.

rodachi

rodachi 2 Reg. 20. 13. τὸ Ketif eſt וְאֵת בֵּית כֵּלָיו, Keri vult inter ואת & בית legi בל, quia nempe id apud Eſaiam legitur; quid neceſſe? Sic verſ. 18. Ketif eſt יִקָּח accipiet, nempe Rex Babel, optimo ſenſu; at Keri eſt יקחו accipient, quia ſic legitur apud Eſaiam, ſine ulla neceſſitate. 2 Sam. 21. 19. τὸ Ketif vult legi אִישׁ מִדּוֹן vir menſurarum aut extenſionum (eſt enim מדד Arabicè extendere) ſicut in ſing. eſt 1 Par. 20. 6. אִישׁ מִדָּה; at τὸ Keri eſt מדון, quod ſanè multò minùs quadrat. Ibid. verſ. 19. eſt שמעי, volunt legi שמעא, quia ſic eſt in Chronicis; quaſi non ubique nomina propria mutationes tales ſubeant.

Alterum quod ſtatuis eſt, Ubi Apoſtoli & Evangeliſtæ lectionem quam ſecuti ſunt LXX calculo ſuo comprobâſſe videntur, illos duces ſequi perinde tutum eſſe ac Mazorethas, neque ſacrilegum in Scripturam eſſe qui ſic ex ipſa Scriptura & meliore ejus lectione pronunciaverit.

Repeto, Vir Clariſſime, quod dixi, me duces Mazorethas non ſequi, niſi ubi res ipſa cogit, & meliorem lectionem poſtulat. Menda quædam literaria irrepſiſſe in Sacros Codices, ut in alios quoſvis, non nego: Sed quæ ex re ipſa & genio linguæ, etiam ſine Mazorethis, à peritis facilè deprehendi, & dum leguntur emendari poſſint. Ex LXX interpretibus, etiam cùm Apoſtoli & Evangeliſtæ eos ſequuntur, lectionem in qua omnes Hebræi codices conſentiunt ſuſpectam habere & meliorare non auſim. Pſal. 40. 7. legitur אזנים כרית לי LXX σῶμα δὲ κατηρτίσω μοι· ſequitur id Apoſtolus Hebr. 10. an indè colligere licebit veriorem lectionem eſſe גויה הכינות לי ? Pſal. 19. pro קוּם LXX habent φθόγγος ἀῶτῶν· ſequitur Apoſtolus Rom. 10. an propterea verior lectio eſt קוֹלָם ? Eſa. 1. 9. pro שָׂרִיד LXX. habent σπέρμα, quod ſequitur Apoſtolus Rom. 9. an ideo verior lectio eſt זֶרַע ? Multa ſic erunt immutanda, alibi addenda; ut Eſa. 65. 2. legitur אֶל־עַם סוֹרֵר, LXX πρὸς λαὸν ἀπειθοῦντα καὶ ἀντιλέγοντα, ſic & Apoſtolus Rom. 10. 21. addendúmne ergò erit וּמֵרִיב ? Eſt & ubi omittunt aliquid LXX, ut Eſa. 10. 22, 23. quod ſequitur Apoſtolus Rom. 9. 27, 28. Malim cum doctiſſimis multis viris ſentire, Non accuratè admodum & ſollicitè ſpectâſſe ſanctos viros quousque cum Hebraica lectione LXX Interpretes convenirent; ſed vulgatæ & inter Helleniſtas receptæ Verſioni libenter inhæſiſſe, modò ſalvam indè integrámque haberent Spiritûs Sancti mentem.

Tertium quod ſtatuis eſt, Alicubi obſervare eſſe, Spiritum Sanctum criſin manifeſtiùs exercere, aliámque à recepta lectionem præferre, etiam ubi LXX verſioni cum hodiernis exemplaribus Hebraicis ad amuſſim convenit. Locum citas ex Matth. 27. 10. ubi ex καθὰ συνέταξέ μοι Κύριος conjectas innuiſſe Spiritum Sanctum pro בֵּית יְהוָה legendum apud * Prophetam כְּבֵית יְהוָה; quod quidem ego minimè ſentio: Sed cùm apud Prophetam initio verſûs 13. præcedat narratio mandati divini quo juſſit Deus projici argenteos illos ad ſigulum, omiſſâ narratione mandati voluiſſe Evangeliſtam ſubjicere in fine, factum eſſe ſicut mandaverat Dominus. Quòd autem τῷ οἴκῳ τοῦ Κυρίου nullam faciat mentionem, cauſa eſt, quia & apud LXX ea omittitur, qui tamen loco ejus illud καθὰ συνέταξε Κύριος non habent. Retinendum eſt omnino illud בית יהוה, quia circumſtantiam loci continet in quem conjici debebant argentei, in quem & conjectos à Juda eſſe Matthæus docet verſ. 5. Et ſi Theſin illam tuam ſequi liceat, quidni Rom. 10. 9. criſin exercuiſſe dicatur Apoſtolus in illum locum Moſis, Deuter. 32. 21. Ego ad zelum provocabo eos, ut & LXX habent, ſed Paulus citat vos? Aliâ viâ exiſtimo, Vir Clar. ejuſmodi loca eſſe expedienda quàm tantæ libertatis conceſſione. Nolim tamen cuiquam ſententiâ meâ præjudicatum.

* Zach. 11. 13.

Reliquum eſt, Vir amiciſſime, ut ob præclarum tuum munus, quo affectum tuum erga me ingentem maximopere es teſtatus, quàm poſſum maximas agam gratias. Uſus eo eſt per aliquot menſes, & adhuc utitur, Cl. Vir ac Theologiæ hîc Profeſſor D. Antonius Walæus, qui ex Ill. Ord. mandato novæ in linguam vernaculam Novi Teſtamenti tranſlationi cum aliis incumbens, & præ cæteris Apocalypſin notis marginalibus illuſtrandam nactus, operam tuam vehementer laudat, ſibíque ejus uſum gratulatur; quo nomine majores etiam tibi gratias debemus. Accipe jam ἀντίδωρον levidenſe mearum in Acta Apoſtolorum Animadverſionum, tuo δώρῳ nequaquam par, ſed quale ab homine cui anguſta eſt eruditionis ſupellex proficiſci potuit, cui animus melior quàm facultas. Accipit haſce ad te deferendas D. Duræus, Vir omni doctrinæ & virtutum genere ornatiſſimus, nobíſque amiciſſimus, nec cuiquam niſi peſſimo inviſus. Hunc ſi amas, méque cum ipſo in ejuſdem amicitiæ ſocietatem intromittere dignaris, erit utrique cur nobis gratulemur. Faveat ſanctiſſimis tuis laboribus benignus Deus, téque Eccleſiis & Reipub. literariæ diu incolumem conſervet.

Datum Lugd. Batav.
10. Januar. 1635.

Reverentiæ tuæ ſtudioſiſſimus,
Ludovicus de Dieu.

Superſcr.
Clariſſimo, doctrinâ virtutéque ſummo viro, D. Joſepho Medo, amico ac fautori honorando.

Epistle XLIX.

Joſ. Medi Epiſtola ad Lud. de Dieu.

Reverende & Clariſſime Vir,

This Letter returns Mr. Mede's thanks to Lud. de Dieu for the Book he ſent him, viz. his Notes upon the Acts of the Apoſtles; with ſome Obſervations upon the foregoing Reply.

DUplici me beneficio affeciſti; tum quòd Libri tui eruditiſſimi munere me ornare volueris; tum quòd unâ eâdémque operâ, quaſi teſſerâ quadam in manus traditâ, mihi ad Domini Joannis Duræi amicitiam viam pateſeceris, Viri, quem verè heroicum illud Religioſæ pacis procurandæ ſtudium mihi dudum & omnibus bonis amabilem reddiderat; hæc verò occaſio primùm de facie notum, & in interiorem familiaritatem acceptum. Utroque hoc nomine, Vir Clariſſime, gratias tibi ago meritiſſimas; inprimis ob ἀντίδωρον tuum tam præclarum & omnimodâ eruditione refertum, cuſque meum δῶρον (quicquid tu dixeris) nullatenus conferri poteſt: imò videor liberalitate iſthâc meâ omnino fœnus exercuiſſe, & quæſtum feciſſe, ſi fas dicere, improbiſſimum.

De mendis autem & corruptione Textûs Hebraici, non eſt mihi tecum in ea cauſa reciprocandi animus: Fateor enim ultro hîc, ſi uſquam alibi, cautè & religioſè agendum, imò & ſentiendum. Interim tamen mallem mendum alicubi agnoſcere, quàm in inexplicabilem difficultatum Labyrinthum compelli, unde me haud expedirem, niſi abſurdiuſcula quæque & multò minùs veriſimilia (prout nonnunquam ab aliis factum video) comminiſci vellem. Unum tantùm aut alterum in Reſponſione tua notabo. Primum, quòd in collatione hiſtoriæ 2 Reg. 25. cum eadem Jerem. 52. non videris id animadvertiſſe in quod ego animum præcipuè intenderam: nempe capite illo Regum, v. 3. verba nonnulla omiſſa eſſe, ſine quibus hiſtoriæ veritas ſalva eſſe non poteſt; eadem verò ex Jeremia facilè & tutò reſtitui poſſe. Conferamus invicem.

2 Reg.

2 Reg. 25. 3. ſic legitur, בְּתִשְׁעָה לַחֹדֶשׁ וַיֶּחֱזַק הָרָעָב בָּעִיר . . . . . Jer. 52. 6. ſic, בַּחֹדֶשׁ הָרְבִיעִי בְּתִשְׁעָה לַחֹדֶשׁ וַיֶּחֱזַק הָרָעָב בָּעִיר. Quis hîc non videt verba illa [בַּחֹדֶשׁ הָרְבִיעִי] ſine quibus narrationis veritas non conſtat, è contextu Regum excidiſſe? Simile mihi obſervâſſe videor, 1 Paral. 6. 28. in illo, וּבְנֵי שְׁמוּאֵל הַבְּכוֹר וְשֵׁנִי וַאֲבִיָּה. Atqui primogenito Samuelis nomen fuit Joel, non Vaſhni; imò eo nomine memoratur in hoc ipſo capite, non niſi quinque abhinc verſibus. Cenſeo igitur excidiſſe nomen Joel, & olim ſic ſcriptum fuiſſe, וּבְנֵי שְׁמוּאֵל הַבְּכוֹר יוֹאֵל וְשֵׁנִי אֲבִיָּה Et filii Samuelis, primogenitus Joel, & ſecundus Abijah. Lxx certè ſic legerunt, & confirmatur ex 1 Sam. 8. 2. ubi legitur, וַיְהִי שֵׁם־בְּנוֹ הַבְּכוֹר יוֹאֵל וְשֵׁם מִשְׁנֵהוּ אֲבִיָּה. Nè dicam planè abſurdum eſſe, nomen cuique eſſe inditum ex voce cum Vau copulativa præfixa; nam quid quæſo ſignificabit וְשֵׁנִי, quocunque modo tractes, quàm & ſecundus?

Alterum quod notabo eſt, te Textum Lxx. Zach. 11. 13. leviter tantùm inſpexiſſe, ex eo quòd affirmes τὸν οἶκον Κυρίου apud illos non haberi; hánc-que cauſam eſſe cur neque apud Evangeliſtam compareat. At, niſi me quoque fefellerunt oculi, Lxx hîc cum Hebræo habent εἰς τὸν οἶκον τοῦ Κυρίου. Præterea Evangeliſtam hîc Lxx non eſſe ſecutum, argumento eſt, quòd totam pericopen aliis ferè verbis enuntiet.

Hæc ſunt, Vir clariſſime, quæ eruditiſſimis tuis (quas tanquam κειμήλιον aliquod apud me ſervare decrevi) reponenda duxi, nec plura. Deus Opt. Max. eruditiſſimos tuos conatus ad Reipublicæ literariæ emolumentum & nominis ſui gloriam indies magis magíſque provehat, téque quàm diutiſſimè incolumem ſervet. Ità vovet

Claritatis & Virtutis tuæ ſtudioſiſſimus,

Joſ. Medus.

Epistle L.

Dr. Twiſſe's Fifth Letter to Mr. Mede, applauding his Conjecture concerning Gog and Magog, and the firſt peopling of America; as alſo his proof of the Reſurrection from Exod. 3. 6. with a Poſt-ſcript relating partly to a report of Mr. Selden's Cenſure of his Book upon the Apocalyps.

How exceedingly am I beholden unto you; firſt, for your pains in affording me ſo liberal Letters, eſpecially conſidering with what recreation and delight I reade them; but above all for your love in communicating your thoughts? And I dare profeſs, though I have not ſeen your face, (which I heartily deſire at mine houſe; but I will think of preventing that ſuit, and firſt take a time to viſit your ſelf at Cambridge) yet you cannot communicate them to one that holds them more dear. Alas! had it not been for your help, I had been to this day a ſtranger in the myſtery of God; while all my thoughts are emploied in making up the breach which theſe degenerate Times have cauſed in the myſtery of God's grace. But I have a deſire to receive information; and God hath made me capable in ſome meaſure to diſcern the ſtrength of rational diſcourſe, and the congruity of Concluſions with their Premiſſes in any argument. And to profeſs a truth, I did not think the myſteries of God's Providence, ſet down as they are in obſcure Prophecies, had been capable of ſuch evidence of illuſtration as God hath enabled you to bring thereunto, before the Event doth manifeſt them.

I went a little too farre in my laſt; onely that I might not be too immodeſt to create new troubles unto you, by comparing your Book on the Revelation, I gueſſe the deſtruction of Gog is before the ruine of Antichriſt, though perhaps not long; and thereupon will follow that great commotion, Revel. 19. 19. And as for the deſtruction of the Temple after Gog in Ezekiel, whether you think it to have any reference to new Jeruſalem, I know not.

As for your former myſtery concerning Gog; I find it evident, that if Lactantius were now alive, in all likelihood he would goe hand and foot into your opinion. He is clear for the reſervation of ſome Gentes untouched of the fire at Chriſt's coming. This lately I met with all, not in Lactantius himſelf, but in Sixtus Senenſis.

As for the peopling of the New world, I find more in this Letter of yours then formerly I have been acquainted with. Your conceit thereabouts, if I have any judgement, is grave and ponderous; and the particular you touch upon, of Satan's wiſdom imitating the wiſdom of God, doth affect me with admiration. And for matter of fact, the grounds you goe upon, for ought I ſee, are as good as the world can afford. I think it a farre ſafer courſe to entertain your apprehenſions of God's Providence concerning our better Plantations in thoſe parts, then the vain prognoſtications of thoſe who think that likelieſt which pleaſeth them beſt. Were it not for Chriſtians that live amongſt them, they could neither have notice of the glory of new Jeruſalem, nor ever in all likelihood attain either to the Art of Ship-building and Navigation, or Art military, to fit them for ſuch an Expedition as you ſpeak of. And it may ſerve as a chamber to hide many of God's children, till the indignation paſſe over, which haſtens upon us more and more. Call that which you write Fancies, as your modeſty ſuggeſts; I cannot but entertain them as ſage conceits.

As for the place alleged by our Saviour to prove the Reſurrection, [God is not the God of the dead, but of the living] long agoe my brains were exerciſed to make it good, which I did in a Philoſophical way; from the Immortality of Souls concluding the Reſurrection of their Bodies, from that Philoſophical Maxim, Nihil violentum perpetuum; and conſequently the dividing of the Soul from the Body not to continue for ever. I then thought not of the myſtery of God concerning the First Reſurrection, and that of the Juſt onely. And albeit ſome thoughts do ariſe againſt your way therein, upon conſideration that glorified Bodies ſtand in no need of inheritance temporal; and undoubtedly the eating and drinking of Saints in their Reſurrection ſhall be rather to maintain a familiar communion with the * Nations that eſcape, who are to walk in their light, then to ſupply any domeſtical neceſſity of their natures; yet howſoever, the land of Canaan being the place where they ſhall reign as Kings, and the promiſe of God ſo expreſs to Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, not to their ſeed onely; and albeit the ſtate of Grace was a better inheritance then the land of Canaan, yet the ſtate of Glory, reigning with Chriſt, better then that: this makes me highly to reſpect your interpretation. And you back your interpretation with learned Obſervations out of the Rabbins: and the good uſe you make of them makes me the more in love with them; and I am ſorry I have not ſpent more time in them; and it ſtirrs me up ſometimes to recreate my ſelf in the Venice Bibles ſet forth by Buxtorfius, wherein I have been not a little refreſhed with what they write of Balaam's prophecie, and upon Gog in Ezekiel, and how they ſtrain their

* Rev. 21. 24.

wits

wits upon that, [Art thou he of whom I have ſpoken in old time?] R. Solomo fetching it from Eldad and Medad, which made me ſmile; and Kimchi referring it to Ezekiel onely and Zachary: and upon that, Matt. 8. 11. and the like. One Mr. Wood in Lincolnſhire doth vehemently inſiſt for your way, as I have heard from my Lord S. to whom I have lately written pleaſantly, touching upon his counſells for advancing the Plantations of the Weſt, and telling him, that his Lordſhip little thinks that they tend to the promoting of the kingdom of Gog and Magog. For that noble Lord gives me leave to be merry with him; nothing pleaſeth him more then when he finds me free from a dejected Spirit. In his next he gave a touch only thereupon, which was this, that ſurely the Americans were not Gog and Magog. In my next I ſhewed him they could not be the ſame with Gog of the land of Magog in Ezekiel (which was his opinion;) that Gog coming from the North; but theſe from the Eaſt, Weſt, North and South, the four corners of the world. But withall I told his Lordſhip, he was not as yet idoneus Auditor of this myſtery; he muſt firſt be a good Proficient in an inferiour Form, where is read and ſtudied the myſtery of Regnum Chriſti & Sanctorum and the Firſt Reſurrection. Upon this he wrote a larger Letter oppoſing the conceit (I touched upon) of Gog and Magog, though the Millennium of Chriſt's Kingdom were granted; yet not a little againſt that alſo. I anſwered his Letter punctually; but when I had done, I kept that by me, and wrote at large to him concerning Regnum Chriſti, profeſſing my deſire he might not be unacquainted with the Myſtery of God, Rev. 10. 7. according to the true contents thereof, Revel. 11. 15. and ſo proceeded to ſhew unto him what a Myſtery it ſeemed to me at the firſt, and how incredible; though that Revel. 20. 4. was plain enough; but we were willing to project ſome recondite meaning, becauſe the plain ſenſe of the words ſeemed incredible. When I came to underſtand your way, what courſe I took to crave leave to propoſe my Reaſons, in number *ten, to ſend unto you, theſe I ſent to him without any anſwer; which yet he ſhall have, if he require it; not otherwiſe, for I do not affect to cramme any man againſt his appetite. I know he is much taken with Mr. Brightman.

* See Epiſtles XXI. XXII.

As touching my Objection; I know that 1 Cor. 15. Every man in his own order, is more fair for your way then that I propoſed; and to contract it to that which immediately followeth, ſeems to me to infatuate it; eſpecially you having ſo fairly confirmed it out of Daniel, and the Ancients ſtand with you herein. Undoubtedly the enjoying of Chriſt's Godhead is more happineſs then the enjoying of his Manhood; and the ſame joy in enjoying Chriſt the Lord *can maintain in the ſpirits perfected: And why ſhould it be any diſcomfort to me, that Chriſt in his Manhood is gone to ruine Antichriſt, and to reign with his Saints, and that I muſt ſtay till my turn comes to reign with him?

* In the Ms. there ſeems ſome miſtake in the writing.

I have written to Mr. B. in anſwer to his Letter, wherein he made relation of whereabouts he had written to you, and what you anſwered him; whereupon I took occaſion to write unto him, and to acquaint him with the Præcognita you ſpeak of.

In one of your former Letters, you told me of a Chappel-exerciſe you had to communicate unto me, when I returned that of Gog and Magog; which truly I had forgotten in my laſt to entreat: but ſince peruſing your Letters, and lighting upon it, I reſolved the next time I wrote to put you in mind of your promiſe: which whether it be the ſame you have wrote of concerning Dan. 11. I know not.

——I could not neglect to write unto you with the firſt, to acquaint you with my receit of yours, which came to my hands Apr. 4. and to give you many thanks for your love and pains, which I ſhall never requite ſave with love; if that may be a requital, as your acceptance may make it. I commend you from my heart to the Grace of God, and your studies as mine own to the Divine benediction, and rest

Newbury, April 6.
1635.

Yours ever in the Lord extremely obliged,

W. Twisse.

Post-script.

A strange Book came lately to my hands of the variation of the longitude of places on earth by the variation of the Compass, which was formerly supposed to be invariable. That which 54 years since was found to be deg. 11,22 years agoe was found to be but deg. 7, *and the last year but deg.*4. Dr. L. my neighbour desires to be remembred unto you: He told me a story of Mr. Selden, what he delivered to my Lord Herbert concerning you, as namely that you took it unkindly that he would not believe that a Trumpet signified a thousand years. I made answer on your behalf as I thought good.

Epistle LI.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse's Fifth Letter, expressing the great Candour and Freedom of his spirit as to differences in Opinions, and how little affected he was with the report of Mr. Selden's Censure of his Book. An Answer to an Exception concerning the State of the Millennial felicity in Seculo futuro. A vindication of Lactantius and others from the calumnies of some Antichiliasts. The reason why Hierom was afraid to mention Justin Martyr where he speaks of the ancient Chiliasts.

SIR,

SOME business that calls upon me will make me be short at this time. That which I called a Chappel-exercise, was a diverse thing from this I last offered to send you; namely a little thing for understanding S. Paul's allegation out of *Psal.*8. Hebr. 2. concerning the exaltation of the nature of Man, to which God hath subjected τὴν οἰκουμένην τὴν μέλλουσαν. This last is a large Discourse upon 1 *Tim.*4. delivered first at several times by way of Common-places (as we call them) in the College and in certain Sermons at S. Mary's; but at what time my Notions in the Apocalyps were yet but raw, and the Mystery of the Millenary Kingdom not understood. So you will find in it many things not consentaneous to my present notions, and some other things that my maturer thoughts could now correct or wipe out. Well, whatsoever they be, I send you them both. The little one hath another conceit annexed to it, which I was not so well aware of, viz. of Zipporah's circumcising. I would fain, but could not tell how to separate it from the other, unless I should write it out anew, which I had rather then undergo, hazard (as you see) the imputation of Vanity.

For Mr. Selden; he is a Gentleman by whose Writings I have learned much, and make no slight esteem of; but otherwise utterly unknown unto me.

me. I never ſaw him in my life, nor he me; nor was there ever any entercourſe between us, by letter, word, meſſage, or otherwiſe. Nor did I ever hear any Cenſure of his concerning my Book, or any particular therein, till now; much leſs replied to any ſuch thing reported to me, or took it unkindly, as you ſay he told my Lord Herbert. Surely it was but ſome ſcheme of diſcourſe that paſſed from ſome body gratis, when my Book was diſcourſed of: But the author of that ſcheme was more deceived in me then he could have been in any man elſe. There are, I think, few men living who are leſs troubled to ſee others differ in opinion from them then I am (whether it be a Vice or Vertue, I know not:) So far is it from me to take it unkindly that I ſhould not be believed in a Paradox. If any man can patiently ſuffer me to differ from him, it nothing affects me how much or how little they differ from me: Which diſpoſition ſo much the more encreaſeth in me, as I take daily liberty to examine either mine own former perſuaſions or other mens opinions. But if I ſhould go on, I ſhould perhaps diſcover too much my indifferency this way. Let it paſs.

I am no niggard according to my ability to impart what I know; but it is where I find ſome appetite (as you ſay;) otherwiſe my familiareſt friends, ſome of them, are as ignorant of my Notions as any ſtranger: For if they diſcover no ſtomach, I uſe not to examine them, no not to offer them: and it would be in vain, Pauci enim inviti diſcunt.

'Tis true that Glorified bodies have no need of inheritance temporal for their maintenance and nouriſhment; but for their manſion and habitation they have need of a place of abode. The Creatures upon earth were not all made, no not the moſt of them, for mans eating and drinking; but for his glorifying the Wiſdom, Goodneſs and Power of his Creator in the contemplation of them. Such a uſe is not unbefitting the Sons of the Reſurrection. And what uſe ſhould many of them have had but this, if Man had continued in the Integrity of his firſt Creation? Like ſcruples will ariſe in a mans mind concerning the State of Beatitude in the heavenly manſions; as, What ſhould a glorified Soul doe there with a Body and bodily Senſes? What Objects are there to entertain them? Some body, and, if I am not much deceived, our Mr. Perkins, ſomewhere in his Works (I had thought in his Aurea Armilla, but now cannot find it in the Engliſh, nor have I the Latin Copie) moving a queſtion, To what uſe the Renovated Earth after the Laſt Judgement ſhould ſerve; anſwers, For the ſolace of the glorified Saints, who ſhould ſometimes live in Heaven and ſometimes on Earth; alleging for this conceit that in Apocal. 5. 10. Thou haſt made us unto our God Kings and Prieſts, and we ſhall reign on earth. Were it not more agreeable to Reaſon to affirm, That, ſeeing Man conſiſts of two parts, a Body and a Soul, each ſhall have his preeminence in order, in reſpect of the Place of Beatitude; firſt the Body on Earth, then the Soul in Heaven; Earth ſeeming more ſuitable for the entertainment of the one, and Heaven for the other, yet ſo as both of them ſhall be for ever undivided, as in being, ſo in bliſs and fruition of God? The Creature hath been ever ſince the Fall Rom. 8. of Man ſubject to Vanity and the bondage of corruption; that which was made at firſt to glorify its Creator under the dominion of Man, being abuſed to ſin, and made the inſtrument to diſhonour him that made it. Under which bondage (to which it is unwillingly ſubject) it even groaneth and travelleth in pain, expecting one day to be delivered therefrom into the glorious liberty of the children of God. Shall there never then be a Time in which the Creature ſhall ſerve and be uſed to the end for which it was firſt made, namely, to ſerve to ſet forth the Wiſedom, Power and Goodneſs of its Maker, and that too under the dominion of Man, in ſuch a degree and manner as hath never yet been, nor is eaſy by us yet to be conceived? I ſay again, The Creature may ſerve Man for a more noble and divine uſe then for eating and drinking, though I am not able to comprehend and decipher it. Think what the uſe of ſo many Creatures ſhould have been to Man in Paradiſe, when as yet there was no Commiſſion given to eat fleſh, nor had Man need of clothing. Should not Man then firſt have enjoy'd his happineſs in Paradiſe and on Earth, and after a time have been tranſlated into Heaven? Shall not the Soul come down to receive its Body on Earth? If ſo, what abſurdity is it, that it may ſtay a while with it * here, and entertain it ſelf together with it in that beginning of Felicity which the Inſtauration of the Creature may afford them?

* For how ſhould a man interpret that Parable, Luke 19. 11. and ſo forward, with ſatisfaction, and other like paſſages? as Matth. 19. 28. Heb. 11. 8. &c. and that a little before quoted Apocal. 5. 10. And how little footing will be found in the Old Teſt. for the Life to come, unleſs we go this way to work?

There are many Tenets among the Fathers and Schoolmen, Concerning the Day of Judgement and State of the Reſurrection, which moſt men receive without queſtion. Bring them together with that I repreſent unto the Lydius lapis of the Scripture, and try which of the two hath moſt eaſy footing therein.

S. Peter tells us, Acts 3. 21. of an Ἀποκατάστασις πάντων at the Second coming of Chriſt, foretold by the mouth of all the holy Prophets ſince the world began. Try whether you can ſhew any ſuch thing in the Prophets, according to your manner of expoſition.

S. John tells us of a * Myſtery of God to be yet finiſhed which he had declared to his Servants the Prophets. Try how well this will be found, according as ſome interpret them.

* Apocal. 10.

But I never meant to have gone thus deep, when I put pen to paper. Now therefore I end with my beſt reſpect, and prayers to Almighty God to make us capable of that Felicity he hath prepared for ſuch as look for the Coming of the Lord Jeſus, when he ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and to be admired in all them that believe. So I reſt

2 Theſſ. 1. 10.

Chriſt's Coll. April 18. 1635.

Yours to command,

J. Mede.

In that paſſage of Lactantius you mention, you may pleaſe to obſerve how wrongfully the ancient Chiliaſts, and Lactantius by name, are charged to hold, That the Saints which riſe from the dead ſhall marry and get children; whereas he expreſly affirms it of thoſe onely qui erunt in corporibus vivi when Chriſt cometh. Nor did any of the reſt, I mean of the Fathers, Juſtin, Irenaus, Melito, &c. think otherwiſe. You may obſerve alſo that Hierom in ſo many paſſages (wherein he names the Fathers that were Chiliaſts) doth never mention Juſtin Martyr, being afraid, it ſeems, of the Antiquity and Authority of the man.

N. B.

I conceive the meaſuring of the Temple in Ezekiel to have reference to the time of the New Jeruſalem; but how to expound it I know not: And no marvel; for I have read ſome-body of our Writers affirming it was never yet underſtood by any man what it meant, nor could eaſily be divined.

EPISTLE

EPISTLE LII.

This that follows is under the Author's own hand, and was encloſed (its likely) in ſome ſhort Letter to Dr. Twiſſe. What the Letter contain'd appears not, it being not to be found among the MSS. But the Diſcourſe contains ſome Teſtimonies concerning the Kingdom of Chriſt: The firſt taken out of the Form of Eccleſiaſtical Doctrine ſet forth by the Firſt Council of Nice; The other taken out of a Catechiſm ſet forth in K. Edward the Sixth his Reign.

I.

THat great Council of Nice called by Conſtantine, beſides their Definition of Faith and Canons Eccleſiaſtical, ſet forth certain Διατυπώσεις Ἐκκλησιαστικὰς, that is, Forms of Eccleſiaſtical Doctrine, according to which all Teachers in the Church were to frame their Diſcourſe and direct their opinions. Some of theſe Διατυπώσεις or Formulæ doctrinæ Eccleſiaſticæ are recorded by Gelaſius Cyzicenus in his Hiſtoria Actorum Concilii Niceni. Amongſt theſe there is this Formula for the Doctrine of the State of the Reſurrection.

Μικρότερον ὁ κόσμος ἐγένετο διὰ τὴν πρόγνωσιν· προέγνω γὰρ ὁ Θεὸς ὅτι ἁμαρτήσει ὁ ἄνθρωπος· διὰ τοῦτο καινοὺς οὐρανοὺς καὶ καινὴν γῆν προσδοκῶμεν, κατὰ τὰ ἱερὰ γράμματα, φαινομένης ἡμῖν τῆς ἐπιφανείας καὶ βασιλείας τοῦ μεγάλου Θεοῦ καὶ Σωτῆρος ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ· καὶ παραλήψονται τότε, καθά φησι Δανιὴλ, τὴν βασιλείαν, &c. i. e. Minutior (i. vilior ſeu imperfectior) factus eſt Mundus propter præcognitionem: prævideràt enim Deus peccaturum eſſe hominem. Idcirco novos cœlos & novam terram exſpectamus, juxta Sacras literas, quando illuxerit Apparitio & Regnum magni Dei & Salvatoris noſtri Jeſu Chriſti: Et tunc (ut ait [a] Daniel) accipient regnum Sancti Altiſſimi. Et Terra pura, ſancta, terra viventium & non mortuorum, (quam oculis fidei prævidens David, clamat, [b] Credo videre bona Domini in terra viventium) terra manſuetorum & humilium. Beati enim [c] (inquit) mites, quoniam ipſi poſſidebunt terram: Et [d] Propheta, & calcabunt ipſam (ait) pedes manſuetorum & humilium.

Simile quid habet Irenæus lib. 5. c. 36. lin. 6.

[a] cap. 7. 18.

[b] Pſal. 27. 13.

[c] Matt. 5. 5.

[d] Eſai. 26. 6.

1. Judge by this (notwithſtanding 50 years oppoſition) how powerful the Chiliaſtical party yet was at the time of that Council. By ſome of whom if this Formula were not framed and compoſed, yet was it thus moderated as you ſee, that both parties might accept it, Salvâ cuique interpretatione ſuâ, as being delivered in the Terms and Language of Scripture.

2. Judge ſecondly, whether in my Explication of the Millennium I have not kept within the compaſs of this Διατύπωσις, and not ſwerved one jot therefrom.

II.

What do you think the Authour of the Catechiſm ſet forth in K. Edward's time (and by him authorized 20. May in the laſt year of his reign) meant, when he explicates the two firſt Petitions of the Lord's Prayer in this manner? The Dialogue is between Magiſter and Auditor.

Sanctificetur Nomen tuum.

M. Quomodo hoc fit?

A. Dicam: Tum demum hoc fit, cùm omiſſis illis omnibus qui nomen Deorum orum ſortiuntur, ſive in cælo, ſive in terra, ſive in templis variis figuris & imaginibus adorentur, ſolum hunc noſtrum Patrem agnoſcamus, & precemur verum Deum & filium ejus Jeſum Chriſtum quem ipſe miſit, & cum ſolum cum vitæ integritate & innocentia, puris & infucatis precibus ſollicitemus.

M. Rectè quidem dixiſti. Perge quæſo.

A. Secundo loco petimus, ut Adveniat Regnum ejus: Adhuc enim non videmus res omnes Chriſto eſſe ſubjectas: non videmus ut lapis de monte abſciſſus ſit ſine opere humano, qui contrivit & in nihilum redegit Statuam deſcriptam à Daniele: *ut petra ſola, qui eſt Chriſtus, occupet & obtineat totius mundi imperium à Patre conceſſum. Adhuc non eſt occiſus Antichriſtus: quò fit ut nos deſideremus & precemur, ut id tandem aliquando contingat & impleatur; útque ſolus Chriſtus regnet cum ſuis Sanctis, ſecundùm divinas promiſſiones; * útque vivat & dominetur in mundo, juxta Sancti Evangelii decreta, non autem juxta traditiones & leges hominum & voluntatem Tyrannorum mundi.*

* Mark this laſt, I beſeech you, whether he could mean it otherwiſe then on earth.

M. Faxit Deus, ut Regnum ejus adveniat quàm citiſſimé.

I have the Book by me, and have had long. But I ſuppoſe it is known but to a few. In Foxe's Martyrologie you ſhall find in the examination of Maſter Philpot, that the Biſhops, when they came, brought the Catechiſm with them; but what ſpecial relation it had to him, I know not, nor is ought there mentioned about it.

The Kings Letters before it begin thus.

Cum brevis & explicata Catechiſmi ratio, à pio quodam & erudito viro conſcripta, nobis ad cognoſcendum offerretur; ejus pertractationem & diligentem inquiſitionem quibuſdam Epiſcopis & aliis eruditis commiſimus, &c.

J. M.

Epistle LIII.

Dr. Twiſſe's Sixth Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring him to perfect his Comment upon the Apocalyps, and to communicate what Notions he had concerning the Temple in Ezekiel, as alſo upon ſome obſcure paſſages in Dan. 11.

SIR,

This ſixth (as alſo the ſeventh) Letter of Dr. Twiſſe's are not entirely to be found among the Mss, but onely ſome pieces of them: there was in the former Edition ſome confuſion in the printing of them.

——Your love and your worth makes me zealous of your name, and ſo ſhall I ever be. And I willingly profeſs I never expected ſo rational Diſcourſes in the explanation of paſſages ſo myſterious. We are commonly taken with pretty fictions and imaginations, the ground whereof when we come to examine, we find no ſolidity to faſten on. O that my deſires were worthy to be conſidered by you, that you would be pleaſed in your private ſtudies to go on to perfect that you have begun upon the Revelation! To my thinking, by conſidering your Specimina thereon, the three next Chapters, viz. 15, 16, 17. would be ſoon perfected. The touch you give me about repairing of the Temple in Ezekiel doth exceedingly content me, though I am perſwaded you have ſome Notions, general at leaſt, concerning many paſſages therein——In the eleventh of Daniel, that which you apply unto the Turk, I had thought belonged to Antichriſt: *and the * laſt verſe, of* planting his Tabernacles between the ſeas, ſeems to me fairly to ſet forth Rome *and the Throne of the Beaſt therein. And as touching the * tidings* from the Eaſt and North, that troubleſome body, if it be the Turk that is troubled, have you not ſome pro-

* Dan. 11. 45.

* Verſ. 44.

propenſion to apply it to the Jews, after their converſion to Chriſt: Thus I make that ſaying good, Garrit amor & benevolentia, and one thing more, a deſire to ſound you———

W. T.

EPISTLE LIV.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's Sixth Letter, containing ſome Teſtimonies touching Regnum Chriſti and the New Jeruſalem, out of Tertullian and K. Edward's Catechiſm; with ſome general hints concerning Ezekiel's Viſion of the meaſuring of the Temple, and an Explication of Dan. 11. 44, 45.

SIR,

I Am not unwilling to communicate unto you the moſt of my tew, becauſe, I perceive, you make ſome account of them. For in the Un. where I live, I know not a ſecond man that underſtands any thing concerning ſuch Myſteries, nor deſires to be made acquainted with them. I ſpeak not of the Myſtery of the Millennium onely, but of the Myſtery of Iniquity. Concerning which I cannot but exceedingly admire how uncapable men (otherwiſe extraordinarily qualified with gifts, and well-affected too) are found to be——Condemn me not therefore too much, if my edge be not ſo ſharp in this way as you deſire it ſhould be. But let this paſs. You ſhall receive herewith the * Prophecie of Tobie in a paper by it ſelf. And I will adde in this two other. The one, the authority of Tertullian for the applying of Ezekiel's Temple to the New Jeruſalem; the other, another paſſage yet out of K. Edward's Catechiſm, which I had not time to tranſcribe in my laſt.

* which I deſire you to ſend back, when you return my other papers.

Tertullian. lib. 3. adverſus Marcionem c. 24.

*Nam & confitemur in Terra nobis Regnum repromiſſum, ſed ante Cœlum, ſed alio ſtatu; utpote poſt reſurrectionem in Mille annos, in Civitate divini operis Hieruſalem cœlo delata; quam & Apoſtolus Matrem noſtram ſurſum deſignat, & πολίτευμα noſtrum, id eſt, municipatum, in cœlis eſſe pronuntians, alicui utique cœleſti Civitati eam deputat. Hanc & Ezekiel novit, & Apoſtolus Joannes vidit—— Hanc dicimus excipiendis reſurrectione Sanctis, & refovendis omnium bonorum, utique ſpiritualium, copiâ, in compenſationem eorum quæ in ſeculo vel deſpeximus vel amiſimus, à Deo proſpectam. Siquidem & juſtum & Deo dignum, illic quoque exultare famulos ejus, ubi ſunt afflicti in nomine ipſius. Hæc ratio Regni * cæleſtis. Poſt cujus Mille annos, intra quam ætatem concluditur Sanctorum reſurrectio, pro meritis maturiùs vel tardiùs reſurgentium, tunc & mundi deſtructione & Judicii conflagratione commiſſâ, demutati in atomo in Angelicam ſubſtantiam (ſcilicet per illud incorruptelæ ſuperindumentum) transferemur in cœleſte Regnum——*

N. B.

*Sic vocat quod in terris futurum aſſerit, utpote de cœlo ſive cœlitus, vel in quo cœleſti & Angelicâ vivetur vitâ.

In this latter, for the time of the World's Conflagration and its deſtruction, Tertullian differs from the reſt, I am ſure from Irenæus; unleſs by Judicii conflagratio he means that of Gog and Magog, Apocal. 20. 9. But I think he doth *not.

* Vide. n. de Spectaculis, c. 30.

Ex Catechiſmo Edwardico,
De Extremo Judicio.

M. Finem mundi Scriptura ſacra conſummationem & perfectionem Regni ac Myſterii Chriſti, & Renovationem rerum omnium appellat. Sic loquitur Apoſtolus Petrus 2 Ep. cap. 3. Nos cœlos novos & terram novam exſpectamus, juxta promiſſionem Dei, in quibus juſtitia inhabitat. Videtur autem rationi conſentaneum, ut corruptio, mutabilitas & peccatum (quibus ſubjicitur totus mundus) aliquando ceſſarent. Quâ verò tandem viâ aut quibus circumſtantiarum rationibus iſta fient, cupio abs te audire.

46

Aud. Dicam, ut poſſum, eodem Apoſtolo teſte: Cœli procellæ in morem tranſibunt, elementa æſtuantia ſolventur, terráque & quæ in ea ſunt opera exurentur. Quaſi diceret, Mundus (utì in auro fieri videmus) totus igne repurgabitur, atque ad ultimam ſuam perfectionem reducetur, quem minor ille mundus, nimirum homo, imitatus, à corruptione itidem & mutatione liberabitur. Itaque hominis causâ (in cujus gratiam major hic mundus creabatur primùm) renovatus tandem, faciem induet multò cùm jucundiorem, tum pulchriorem.

M. Deinde autem quid ſupereſt?

Aud. Ultimum & generale Judicium. Veniet namque Chriſtus, ad cujus vocem mortui omnes reſurgent, & animâ & corpore integri, atque in throno Majeſtatis ſuæ reſidentem videbit totus mundus: poſt excuſſionem autem conſcientiæ cujuſque, extrema ſententia pronunciabitur. Tunc temporis filii Dei perfectè poſſidebunt Regnum illud immortalitatis & æternæ vitæ, quod illis præparatum fuit ante jacta fundamenta mundi, & regnabunt cum Chriſto in æternum. Impii verò qui non crediderunt abjicientur in ignem æternum, deſtinatum diabolo & angelis ejus.

I ſend you this paſſage, as I did the former, that you might admire with me what this Author meant; whether ſuch expreſſions could fall from him by mere chance, or whether they argue not ſome further notion in this myſtery then was common and ordinary, though thoſe to whom the review and approbation of the Book was committed were not capable to obſerve it.

CONCERNING Ezekiel's Viſion of the meaſuring of the Temple I have no Notions, either general or ſpecial, worth relation. Onely I ſuſpect ſome Myſtery to be in the Numbers, as in the New Jeruſalem in the Apocalyps I obſerve all the Numbers to be 12, or multiplied thereof, with reference, I ſuppoſe, to the 12 Apoſtles. But whether the Number of Ezekiel's meaſures ſhould have reference, I cannot yet ſo well comprehend. I have been ſometimes tampering that way, and methought they ſeemed to ſuit very well with the Name of God יהוה and אלהי, the letters whereof are 3 in each, and the Numbers they ſignifie 1. 5. 6. 10. 30. For theſe are the Numbers or the Radices of the Numbers of nigh all Ezekiel's meaſures. Notwithſtanding I give my ſelf but little ſatisfaction in ſo Cabbaliſtical a conceit. Yet ſeeing the meaſures of the City in Ezekiel (cap. ult. in fine) are diverſe from thoſe of S. John in the Apocalyps; if the Cities be the ſame, the Numbers alſo muſt have ſome identity in a Myſtery which they have not in the Letter; one fitted to the time of the Law, the other to the time of the Goſpel. But he that can tell me how to unfold this Myſtery, ſhall be my Maſter.

י ו ה א
1. 5. 6. 10. 30.

CONCERNING my application of the * King of the South and the King of the North to the Saracen and Turk, who ſhould plunder the Roman Empire in his latter end; 'tis not my conceit alone, but Mr. Brightman's upon that part of Daniel. And 'tis true, which you gueſs, that I incline to apply the King of the North's going forth (upon the tidings from the Eaſt and the North) in a fury to deſtroy, and to that purpoſe to plant the Tabernacles of his palace in the glorious mountain of Holineſs, to the Jews return, and the expedition of Gog and Magog into the Holy land. For צבי and and אֶרֶץ צְבִי, and therefore הַר צְבִי קֹדֶשׁ in this place, is conſtantly in this Book a deſcription of the Holy land. See chap. 8. 9. and this chap. verſ. 16, and 41. The tidings from the Eaſt and North may be that of the return of Judah and Iſrael from thoſe quarters. For Judah was carried captive at the firſt into the Eaſt, and Iſrael by the Aſſyrian into the North, (namely in reſpect of the Holy land) and in thoſe parts the greateſt number of each are diſperſed at this day. Of the reduction of Iſrael from the North, ſee the Prophecies Jer. 16. 14, 15. and chap. 23. 8. alſo chap. 31. 8.

* Dan. 11. 44, 45. explained. See the foregoing verſes explain'd in Book III. p. 831.

Or if this tidings from the North may be ſome other thing, yet that from the Eaſt I may have ſome warrant to apply to the Jews return, from that of the Sixth Vial in the * Apocalyps, where the waters of the great River Euphrates are dried up, to prepare the way of the Kings of the Eaſt. * ch. 16. 12.

If you can digeſt this application of the Kings of the South and North to the Saracen and Turk; I will then deſire you to conſider the notation of the Time when, which (ſaith the Holy Ghoſt, v. 40.) ſhould come to paſſe בְּעֵת קֵץ at the time of the End, that is, of the ὕστεροι καιροὶ of the Roman Kingdom; which what they are you will find in my Diſcourſe upon 1 Tim. 4. And to this you may refer that Queſtion of Daniel in the next chap. verſ. 6. עַד מָתַי קֵץ הַפְּלָאוֹת How long ſhall this latter end of wonderful things be? which the Angel anſwers, For a time, times and a half; referring to his former Viſion thereof chap. 7. 25. Of the ſame Latter times he asketh yet again, verſ. 8. incertus & mirabundus, מָה אַחֲרִית אֵלֶּה Lord! what are theſe ὕστεροι καιροί; which our Tranſlation turns but untowardly. And further then this I cannot go in Daniel. The next is all dark. But it may ſeem the Angel tells the Prophet in thoſe laſt* Numbers when and how long it ſhould be before this Myſtery of the ὕστεροι καιροὶ ſhould be underſtood. For ſo he intimates both verſ. 4. Shut up the words, and ſeal the Book untill the time of the End; and again verſ. 9. The words are cloſed up and ſealed till the time of the End——and then, None of the wicked ſhall underſtand, but the wiſe ſhall underſtand, verſ. 10. Now you know the Myſtery of Antichriſt, whereon the knowledge of theſe ὕστεροι καιροὶ wholly depends, was not diſcovered till a good part of them were run out. What if thoſe Numbers (verſ. 11, 12.) point out that time, counting from the Prophanation of Epiphanes? But I confeſs I know not here which way to take. This I intimate was an old Notion, which I can neither ſatisfie my ſelf in, nor yet meet with another better grounded. * Dan. 12. 11; 12.

Jo. Mede.

[At what time the Author wrote theſe lines, it ſeems he had not perfected his thoughts concerning the meaning of theſe Numbers and the Epocha thereof: but afterwards he wrote an elaborate Diſcourſe expreſſing his laſt and more concocted thoughts concerning this Argument: which the Reader may find in Book III. p. 882.]

EPISTLE LV.

Dr. Twiſſe's Seventh Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring to know his thoughts touching Genuflexio verſus Altare.

Worthy Sir, and my dear Friend,

THeſe are only to give you to underſtand that your Packet is arrived ſafely in my hands; your Letters, your Manuſcripts, two larger upon 1 Tim. 4. and the other of ὑπερι καιρὶ, and a third leſs. Time will not ſerve me to expreſs the content I take in them; the ſatisfaction you give me in your Letters. I am taken with the meditation of the ſlavery of the Creature, ever ſince the Fall of Adam in bondage to them that are ſlaves to ſin; and what that beſpeaks of better times both for the Creature and for us: the paſſages of the Form of Doctrine preſcribed by the Council of Nice; the Catechiſm in K. Edward's days; and the reſt. And like enough the land of Canaan ſhall have preeminence above all the reſt, when it comes to be the Throne of Chriſt's Kingdome, like as it was the glory of all Lands when the children of Iſrael were brought to inherit it.

Your Doctrine of Dæmons (whereof I have taſted, even to the Anſwer of the ſecond Objection, Why invocation of Saints ſhould be made choice of to ſet out Antichriſt thereby, as a principal Character of him,) doth ſo affect me, that withall conſidering theſe degenerate times, I could heartily wiſh you would give way to the printing of it. You know what Spalatenſis mentioneth of one of his Prebends, that ſhould profeſs, if he were ſure Angels heard him, he would uſe that Collect, Angele Dei, qui cuſtos es mei, &c. and who it is that taketh it upon him to have been the man meant, and juſtifies it. When I reade your Diſcourſe of that, Thou ſhalt have no other Gods before my face, it makes me willing to know what you think of Genuflexio verſus Altare, which now grows rife, and begins to challenge ſubſcription thereto as licita; like as genuflexio at the name of Jeſus, as pia ceremonia; and where we ſhall end I know not. I cannot but take notice, as you wiſh me, of the vile depravation of the opinion of the Ancients concerning Millennium. For all theſe I cannot ſufficiently give you thanks, and muſt ſtudy how to expreſs my thankfulneſs. Mr. S. is a man of very good parts, but withall I doubt he hath his vanities as well as other men; for I cannot believe but that Dr. L. related unto me the truth of what he heard——

The beginning of the week hath been a very buſy time with me, and I muſt make haſt, deſiring you may underſtand with the firſt the ſafe landing of your precious commodities —— I nothing doubt but the Lord will perfect the good work he hath begun in you and by you; to whoſe gracious direction I commend all your ways, and ſhall ever reſt

Newbury, May 5. 1635.

Yours in all due reſpects infinitely obliged,

Will. Twiſſe.

EPISTLE

Epistle LVI.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's Queſtion about Genuflexio verſus Altare. His freedom from ſelf-ends in this and all other his opinions.

SIR,

FOR your Queſtion about Genuflexio or Adoratio verſus Altare, I was in ſome pauſe whether to anſwer to it, or to paſſe it by in ſilence. I confeſs I have not been unacquainted with ſpeculations in things of this nature: they were my eldeſt thoughts and ſtudies, full twenty years agoe, and the argument of my Concio ad Clerum* when I commenced Batchelor of Divinity, and before I was any proficient in the Apocalyps. And it may be I have had ſo many Notions that way as would have made another man a Dean or a Prebend or ſomething elſe ere this. But the point of the Pope's being Antichriſt, as a dead fly, marred the ſavour of that ointment. And beſides I am no Practioner nor active, but a Speculator onely: But I am afraid there are others as much in fault, which practiſe before they know. I ſuppoſe you have heard ſomething this way, and thence took occaſion to move this Queſtion to me; which is the reaſon I have told you this long tale by way of Preface, leſt you might think I had (as ſome men uſe to doe) made the bent of the Times the rule of my opinions. But if I did ſo, I ſhould quickly renounce my Tenet of the Apocalyptical Beaſt, which I know few men here ſo hardy with us as to profeſs they believe, yea or would fain do. But alas that I am ſo ill adviſed I cannot doe with all! And I thank God I never made any thing hitherto the caſter of my reſolutions but Reaſon and Evidence, on what ſide ſoever the advantage or diſadvantage fell. Beſides, it fell out happily that the Times, when my thoughts were exerciſed in thoſe Speculations I ſpake of, were times of better awe then now they are; which preſerved me from that immoderation which I ſee divers now run into, whether out of ignorance or ſome other diſtemper I cannot tell. Hæc omnia dixi in anteceſſum: now I will anſwer your Queſtion briefly.

* upon that Text, Sanctuarium meum reveremini, Levit. 19.30. See Book II. p. 507.

1. We muſt diſtinguiſh between Imago, and Locus or Signum præſentiæ. To pray or worſhip toward the Firſt, with reſpect thereto, is Idolatry; but not toward the Second.

2. The Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs bowed and worſhipped the Lord toward the Cloud wherein he manifeſted his preſence; in the Temple toward the Ark and the moſt Holy place as Solium Dei. When they were abſent from it (though in a ſtrange Country) yet they turned themſelves and ſpred out their hands toward it when they prayed, as Daniel in Babel. Ergò, to worſhip toward Locum præſentiæ is no Idolatry: or, if it were, we ſhould commit it as often as we liſt up our hands and eyes to Heaven in our prayers, as to the place of God's ſpecial Preſence: Yet our Saviour taught us to ſay, Pater noſter, qui es in cælis, and to look that way when we prayed.

3. The reaſon of this difference between Imago, and Signum or Locus præſentiæ, in the point of Divine worſhip is this; 'Tis one thing adhibere creaturam in cultu Dei per modum Objecti, another per modum circumſtantiæ Loci aut Situs, or as Inſtrumentum. The Firſt is Idolatry, for God is a jealous God, and cannot endure that the worſhip we give to him ſhould look towards any thing as an Object but Himſelf. But unleſs the Second be lawful, we muſt not look toward any created thing when we pray, not to Heaven, nor turn our ſelves towards the Table where God's bleſſings are when we ſay Grace, or the like; not lawfull to invocate God in his Temple, not lawful to pray unto him with a Book, not uſe the Communion-Table as a place to give praiſe and thanks unto his Name. In all which Res creata adhibetur tantùm either as Circumſtantia cultûs, ubi & quo-versùs, or as Inſtrumentum quo utimur ad invocandum, (as a Prayer-book) but not as Objectum cultûs. But an Image, in the nature of the thing, if it be uſed in Divine worſhip as an Image, cannot but be uſed as an Object, that is as a Repreſentation of the thing worſhipped. For to look to a thing as it is the Repreſentation of the Object whereto we addreſs our Prayers and Services, what is it elſe but to make it Objectum mediatum & relativum? I muſt deſire you to ſupply my meaning where my expreſſion is defective. I ſhould doe better coràm; by pen 'tis tedious to me.

4. Now the ἱερὰ Τράπεζα or Altar (for they are but Synonyma's, as I take it) was ever in our Chriſtian Oratories accounted as Solium Chriſti, as being the place where the Myſteries of his Body and Bloud (the Rites of the New Covenant) are exhibited unto us.

5. All the Prayers and Devotions of the Church were there offered unto God, and no where elſe, for many hundred years, and ſtill are in all the Churches of the Orient, and in the Latine Church their Mattins and Evenſong, if of later ages not at it, yet always near and toward it. Desks for reading prayers is a new device ſince the Reformation, never in the Church before. Whatſoever was ſpoken to God, was ſpoken at the Altar or towards it; whatſoever to the people, out of the Ambo or Pulpit and towards them, as Readings, Sermons. Tertull. Exhort. Caſtit. c. 10. Si ſpiritus apud ſe reus ſit & conſcientia erubeſcit, quomodo audebit orationem dicere ad Altare? An Altar is nothing elſe but a Table to call upon God at; whence the Scripture relates ſo often of Abram and Iſaac, that they built Altars where they came, and there called upon the name of the Lord.

So yet among the Lutherans.

6. If it be lawful to invocate and call upon God at and toward the Altar as Solium præſentiæ; 'tis as lawfull to worſhip him toward it. The ſpecification of Chriſtian worſhip is to adore and invocate the Father through Jeſus Chriſt crucified: why ſhould it not then be comely, when we addreſs our ſelves unto him, to look toward the place where his Paſſion is commemorated and the Rites thereof exhibited? 'Tis but to repreſent that by our poſture which otherwiſe we expreſs by our tongue, when we ſay, Through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

7. 'Tis the faſhion of all Nations and Religions (and ever was) to uſe ſome Reverential geſture when they enter into God's Houſe. Our Saviour, when he ſends forth his diſciples to preach the Goſpel, Matt. 10. ſaith, εἰσερχόμενοι εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν ἀσπάζεσθε αὐτὴν, when ye enter into an Houſe, ſalute the ſame, i. e. (as S. Luke relates it, and the Vulgar and ſome other Copies have in this of Matth.) ſay, εἰρήνη τῷ οἴκῳ τούτῳ. Agreeable whereto is that Cuſtome now almoſt onely retained amongſt a few of the Vulgar to ſay, when they come into an Houſe, God be here. Why ſhould not ſome ſuch Rite be comely, when we come into the Houſe of God?

I am ſorry now that I entered at all into this diſcourſe, for I ſee ſo many things requiſite yet for the underſtanding thereof, (as of the Nature of Temples and their Holineſs, of the Chriſtian Sacrifice ſo much decantated in the ancient Church, of the Lawfulneſs of Rites ordained by men, and the like) that it would require a Volume to give ſatisfaction herein. But you deſired but to know what I thought of Genuflexio versùs Altare, and I think think I have told you; and you ſee hereby what a mungrell I am. I know not how you will like it, I know how full of prejudice in theſe things moſt of our Divines are. But I am verily perſwaded that the Notions of Antiquity hereabout are ſo far from being followed, that they are quite forgotten and unknown.

I will neither trouble you nor my ſelf any longer, but commend you to the Divine protection, and ſo I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. May 13. 1635.

Your loving Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

EPISTLE LVII.

Dr. Twiſſe's Eighth Letter to Mr. Mede, containing his thankful acknowledgments of Mr. Mede's ſingular goodneſs in communicating his Papers, and his high eſteem of them, particularly of his Notions upon διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, &c. as alſo his Obſervations upon Mr. Mede's foregoing Letter, what he approved therein, and what he excepted againſt.

Good Mr. Mede, and my thrice worthy and dear Friend,

I Have at length return'd your Manuſcripts; both the firſt and latter concerning διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, and the ſmaller one containing two Diſcourſes and the *Prophetia Tobiæ expounded in the belly thereof. I am heartily ſorry to hear your Labours upon the Revelation, publiſhed for the common good, and opening ſuch Myſteries unto the world, have put your ſelf to ſo much expence, and found ſo little reward in the world: I proteſt I cannot think of it without diſdain——I have not ſpared to profeſs my indignation thereupon before ſome good friends of quality, and ſhall be ready to doe as much upon every occaſion. But your Reward ſhall be the greater in Heaven.

My motion was not to put you to any expence or care about the buſineſs I wrote of: I nothing doubt but order ſhould be taken to have it done otherwiſe, if you would but give way. But I would not in the leaſt reſpect abuſe your kindneſs, which I account precious as a jewel, by doing ought that might occaſion any diſtaſte in your ſelf upon any proceedings of mine, or others whereunto I ſhould give any occaſion.

Sir, I cannot ſufficiently expreſs my obligation unto your ſelf for your ſingleneſs in communicating ſuch precious commodities. For διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, and the conſtruction of it which you make, I am clearly of your mind; and that Genitivus materiæ is nothing ſtrange, were there no other incongruity of conſtruction in the Text thereby avoided, which yet there is, and that a foul one. The truth is, the phraſe is unqueſtionably uſual, expreſſed of Things; but being expreſſed of Perſons, we being apt to underſtand it of Genitivus Efficientis, that uſe makes the other way ſeem ſtrange, as I found in Dr. S. But ſo much the more it became the Holy Ghoſt to expreſs the Myſtery of Iniquity in a covert manner; not eaſily and at firſt ſight to be diſcovered, but in good time, by ſerious intention and conſideration of all circumſtances, when the Lord thought it moſt ſeaſonable to bring it to light. And bleſſed be God that he hath brought it to light, and that my ſelf have lived to ſee ſuch

* See this in page 719.

Myſteries of iniquity brought to light, and made good by evidence of Scripture, and that ῥητῶς teſtifying ſo much; and that with ſuch evidence, that I know not where to parallel it with the like, all things conſidered.

Long agoe I have entertained an opinion that you are as exact in the right underſtanding of Daniel's Myſteries as of thoſe in the Revelation. I ſaw a touch you gave, in a Letter to Dr. Meddus, of the years mentioned in Daniel 12. by way of paſſing your judgement on ſome parts of Alſtedius his Chronologie: I would you would be pleaſed to impart unto me what you think of the beginning of thoſe times mentioned in Daniel 12. 11, 12. and what remarkable things fell out at the end of each; the rather becauſe I am promiſed ſome notions of Mr. G. your friend thereabouts. I doubt not but you conceive two ſeaſons of the Abomination of deſolation, one before our Saviour's coming in the fleſh, by Antiochus Epiphanes; another which our Saviour himſelf points unto, as to be made by the Romans, which yet Baronius ſaith cannot be meant of that by Titus when he took Jeruſalem, becauſe at that time it was too late to be warned of flying thereupon and ſhifting for themſelves.

Herein you have ſatisfied me already, as anon I obſerve.

Your Chappel-Exerciſes, 1. that of Pſal. 8. of* quelling the enemy and the avenger, 2. the other of * Zipporah's ſpeech, (which I would not for any good you had divided, and kept from me) not onely my ſelf but divers others, as Mr. W. of Dorcheſter and Mr. T. of Sarisbury, and others, all of us have been exceedingly taken with them. And it raiſeth in me ſuſpicions that you have many conceptions of the like nature, for the clearing of divers paſſages of Holy Scripture, and vindicating them from vulgar and erroneous interpretations; and inflames me with a deſire to be partaker of them. I read to them ſomewhat alſo of your Mahuzzims, which not onely raviſhed them, but wrung from them a proteſtation that none but your ſelf could have found that out. But modeſtie pacifies my importunitie, and forbids me to urge you too far, having ſo extraordinary experience of your freeneſs this way. All which I have returned with my beſt care; ſo I truſt they ſhall arrive ſafely in your hands.

* See Book I. Diſcourſe 9.
* See Book I. Diſcourſe 14.

And now taking your laſt Letter into my hands, I find how by occaſion of tidings from the East and from the North you fall upon this very place of Dan. 12. 11, 12. which you acknowledge to be obſcure and dark; yet ſuch light as you meet with you are pleaſed to communicate, wherein I reſt ſatisfied for the preſent, and would not have you trouble your ſelf any more for me thereabouts. I have found ſome working upon Julian's days, when all hope of re-edifying the Temple was taken away; but I find no colour of any Abomination of Deſolation committed there, but rather Abomination of Reſtauration: yet from thence they think may be reckoned a determining of the daily Sacrifice. But all along you carry me with you, and where you make a ſtand, there I make a ſtand. I pitie (I profeſs) your neighbours in Cambridge, that make ſo little uſe of your labours in ſearching thoſe precious Myſteries, eſpecially when our ſelves are fallen upon the latter end of the accompliſhment of them.

In anſwer to my Queſtion, I am glad your reſolution was not to paſs it over in ſilence, and that you open your ſelf in ſuch manner. Whereas you conceive I may perhaps have heard ſomething that way you touch upon; truly I never did, but ſomewhat I have heard another way, which hath made me recount my own fortunes in reſemblance unto yours: For ſometimes I have been cenſured for a Puritan, ſometimes for a good fellow: My preaching as in oppoſition to Popery was opportune to undergoe the one cenſure before perſons Popiſhly affected; and my free converſation in the enjoying of my friends (yet I thank God without all ſcandall) hath expoſed me to the other, and that from the ſame mouths, not judging indifferently, but upon particular, and thoſe unjuſt, diſtaſts practiſing ſing to diſgrace me. I ſee your fortunes have not been much unlike; I truſt we ſhall love mutually ſo much the more.

1. I willingly ſubſcribe to the difference you put between Imago, and Locus or Signum præſentiæ.

2. Both your Rule and Inſtances of worſhipping towards Locum præſentiæ I approve.

3. The reaſon of the difference mentioned between the uſe of a Creature per modum Objecti in Divine worſhip, and the uſe of a Creature per modum Circumſtantiæ, of Place, Poſture or Inſtrument, I find likewiſe no cauſe to diſlike; the Lord having preſcribed the one, not the other, but expreſly forbidden it.

4. That ἱερὰ Τράπεζα or Altar was ever in Chriſtian Oratories accounted as Solium Chriſti, I profeſs ingenuouſly it is a new thing unto me, and moſt willingly do I communicate unto you my thoughts that have had their courſe hereupon. That the Sanctuary at firſt, and Temple afterwards, might well be accounted Solium Dei, I ſee this ground; becauſe the Sanctuary at firſt was made by God's appointment, that he might dwell among them; and ſo the Temple afterwards, and chiefly the Ark there, the Lord being ſaid to dwell between the Cherubins. Now I find not the like ground for the Table of the Lord to be ſo called. 2. If ſo, then the Table, where and when theſe Rites of the New Covenant were firſt inſtituted, was to be ſo accounted as much as any; and that as well in reference to the participation of the Paſchal Lamb that went before, as of the Bread and Wine which followed after. 3. And ſo it ſeems the Table whereon the Jews did eat the Paſchal Lamb was to be ſo accounted. 4. And why not the Altar for the Burnt-offering alſo? 5. And are not the Myſteries of Chriſt's Death, yea and Reſurrection too, repreſented in Baptiſm, as Prudentius calls it Fontis ara, as Mr. S. obſerves?

Yet I doubt not of Chriſt's preſence there to the faithful receiver; ſo he is to every faithful hearer of the Word, and faithful petitioner; God being a Sanctuary unto us in all places whereſoever we come, and accordingly Solium præſentiæ ejus & Chriſti in every place to be found. But as Sacraments are not Sacraments any longer then in the uſe of them; of the ſame condition to my thinking for the preſent ſhould the Lord's Table be conceived. Like as we heard not long ſince D. B. ſhould preach that Temples were holy onely in reſpect of the holy uſe of them; and it was thought he ſhould be called in queſtion for it, but he was not. I confeſs I am no more verſed in things of this nature then as ſome occaſional opportunity doth ſet my thoughts on work. But fearing degenerate times coming on upon us and Superſtition to encreaſe, we may well be the more wary. And we find by experience that albeit when any is urged thereunto, ſometimes it is carried only in the ſtyle of Genuflexio versùs altare, yet in common ſpeech moſt call it Bowing to the Altar. And a Jeſuite ſometimes meeting with a friend of mine (an intelligent Gentleman) at Antwerp, and offering him the kindneſs of having him to the great Church, after he had ſhewed him other things, bringing him up to the high Altar, he pulled out the Pyx from behind the Arras, and ſhewed it him, ſaying, This is the reaſon why we bow to the Altar, otherwiſe (ſaith he) it were Idolatry.

5. As for the Prayers and Devotions of the Church there offered unto God, I find nothing amiß therein, if the place be ſo ordered that it be convenient for the Congregation aſſembled to hear, as it is fit they ſhould. And I find it alledged out of Jewel againſt Harding, Altaria apud veteres non ſemper & ubique in extrema Templorum parte, quam vulgò Chorum vocamus, ſed in medio poſita fuiſſe, and divers Teſtimonies of Antiquity alleged for proof thereof. And therefore that all things may be done to edification, I find it nothing ſtrange that in the Reformation our Fathers in the Church of England, as well as in other Churches, have altered that courſe, when they found how mi- ſerably the Service of God was deformed, Superſtition from ancient times firſt creeping in, and afterwards increaſing more and more; and no great matter where Latin Service was performed, when the people underſtood it not.

Artic. 3. Sect. 26. Hoſpin. de Origine Altarium.

6. I make no queſtion but it is lawful to invocate and call upon God at or towards the Altar: But why the Lord's Table, where the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is adminiſtred, ſhould be called Solium præſentiæ more then the Font where Baptiſm is adminiſtred, or the Pulpit where God ſpeaks unto us, I do not yet find ſufficient reaſon to ſatisfy me. Yet I have heard that one who much furthereth theſe courſes ſhould give us a reaſon thereof, that Hoc eſt Corpus meum is more with him then Hoc eſt Verbum meum. And to my thinking the Table of the Paſchal Lamb might as well be called Solium præſentiæ as the Lord's Table with us.

7. As for the faſhion of all Nations and Religions to uſe ſome Reverential geſtures when they enter into God's Houſe; this openeth a way to a new conſideration and inquiſition, as Whether Bodily Geſture alone be fit to be urged or practiſed in entring into God's Houſe; the outward adoration without the inward, the one without the other, being no better then Hypocriſy. Yet theſe days are full of Formality.

Laſtly, Things lawful in themſelves become unlawful by accident; as when they are ſuperſtitiouſly practiſed, though not by our ſelves, yet by concurring in the ſame act, we may ſcandalize by countenancing the Superſtition of others.

Thus have I taken liberty to communicate my thoughts unto you, to be cenſured by you as you think good; my ſelf but upon the preſent obſervation of times taking it into conſideration. And I willingly profeſs I fear Superſtition hereby will creep on in a conceit as if God were better ſerved by worſhipping him towards the Altar then otherwiſe: the contrary whereunto were it publickly profeſſed, I ſhould be the leſs ſollicited with ſuch fears. Yet am I nothing ſorry, but very glad, that you have entered thus far into this diſcourſe, and for the Notions here mentioned, whereupon I ſhall willingly conferre with other Divines.

For your judgement concerning Ezekiel's Viſion ſo freely communicated, I heartily thank you: That I have your acknowledgement of the obſcurity thereof, gives me much content; yet withall your adventures thereupon, which you are pleaſed to impart, they are as ſparks of light unto me ſhining in a dark place. Your candour throughout works me to think the better of any opinion which you embrace. I profeſs unto you, you make me more and more happy in all your Speculations. I ſhall heartily beg at the Throne of grace for God's bleſſing upon your Studies, and that he will be pleaſed to enlighten you more and more for the opening of theſe heavenly Myſteries, to the comfort of God's Church in theſe uncomfortable days. Hereupon comes to my remembrance what I had almoſt forgotten, though I purpoſed to mention it with the firſt. I was not long ſince reſolved to write unto you, to inquire whether the K. of S. proceedings in Germany might not be the accompliſhment of the Fourth Vial, and that in theſe times we are in a preparation to the Fifth, by the ſlaughtering of the Witneſſes, according to that Expoſition which you give thereof——Sr. N.R. told me moreover that your opinion was, that it ſhould be very Univerſal——The Lord keep you and bleſs you. I ſhall ever remain

Newbury, June 1.
1635.

Your faithful and reſpectful true friend much obliged,

Will. Twiſſe.

EPISTLE

Epistle LVIII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse's Eighth Letter, further explaining himself concerning Holiness of Churches, Altars or Sacred Tables, God's Throne or Place of presence therein, &c. With a Caveat to the Reformed Churches.

SIR,

CConcerning the accomplishment of the Fourth Vial, I shall be then better able to judge, when I see what will be the conclusion of these great Commotions now on foot. If they settle so, as thereby some prop shall be taken away which now upholdeth the Beast, or any further way opened to his downfal then yet hath been, then I shall think it is accomplished; otherwise not. For every Vial must be a degree of the Beast's ruine. Ergò id quo non labefactatur status Bestiæ, Phialæ complementum non erit. Let us expect what this new shock to be given to the H. of A. will come to. If they be once heaved out of the Imperial Throne, or their succession interrupted, I shall believe it is done. Their fall, whensoever it happens, will in all likelihood so shake the Beast, as will drive him into a * Καῦμα or burning-Fever; the raging Symptomes whereof such as stand in his way are like to feel.

* So Hippocrates sometimes calls a burning-Fever, as also πῦρ, otherwise called Καῦσος. Vid. Apocal. 16. 8, 9.

For the other points, of the Holiness of Churches, of Altars or Sacred Tables, of the reverent accommodation in the one at or toward the other; the paths unto them by reason of infrequency and unaccustomedness are so full of checks and impediments, as makes all collation by pen over-tedious and troublesome. For nothing almost can be presupposed by way of Postulatum, but will be questioned. In a discourse ore tenus I could rid my way a great deal better, with much more speed and ease. But in so much Pen-work as this Argument would require, I am not willing to engage my self; and perhaps 'twould not be operæ-pretium. Nevertheless that you might know there is something to be said by way of Answer to your Exceptions, and to give you occasion of further meditation in these things, I thought not good to wave it altogether, till I had let you see a little further into my thoughts and speculations this way before I shut the window. Thus therefore I express them, not following the order of your Letter, but as my mind prompts me.

1. Concerning Holiness of Churches.

This was printed at the end of the Remains upon the Apocalyps, but wanted both the beginning and the latter part of this Letter.

THERE is a Threefold Holiness to be found in Scripture, or, if you will, the word Holiness is there used in a Threefold Notion, which I would distinguish thus. 1 Essential Holiness; 2. Holiness of Integrity; and 3. Relative Holiness.

1. Essential Holiness is that whereof God is called Holy; as Sanctus Israelis, i.e. Israelis Deus, juxta illud 1 Sam. 2. 2. Non est Sanctus sicut Dominus, neque enim est alius præter te, & non est Deus [צור] sicut Deus noster: For this Holiness is God himself, his Essence, his Divine Majestie, whence all other Holiness is derived, not any inherent Attribute differing from him, as in created subjects.

2. Holiness of Integrity is that which the Greeks call Ὁσιότης, the Latines Sanctimonia, and may be described, A state of Righteousness or of pureness and cleanness from sin. This is that Holiness whereof the Apostle speaks Heb. 12. Without Holiness no man shall see God; and whereof we call such as as fear God and eſchew evil, Holy men. Of this kind of Holineſs nothing is capable but reaſonable Creatures, Angels and Men.

3. But there is a third kind of Holineſs, Relative Holineſs, being nothing but a ſtate of Relation of peculiarity to God-ward, either in reſpect of Preſence, or Propriety and Dominion. 1. Of Preſence, when God is peculiarly and in a ſpecial manner preſent; as when he appeared to Moſes in the flaming buſh, Exod. 3. 5. Exue calceamenta tua de pedibus tuis; locus enim in quo ſtas terra ſancta eſt. 2. Of Propriety, when a thing being dedicated or conſecrated to the Divine Majeſty, the propriety thereof becomes ſo his, as it is no longer ours: For thus to be God's, is to be his in a peculiar manner, and not as other things are: For otherwiſe it is true, The whole Earth is the Lord's and the fulneſs thereof, the world and thoſe that dwell therein. Of this Holineſs any thing is capable that is capable of peculiar Relation unto God; Perſons, Places, Times and Things; and is that which the Greek properly calls ἱερόν, the Latine Sacrum: whence we ſay, Loca ſacra, Tempora ſacra, Perſonæ ſacræ, Res ſacræ. Loca ſacra, as the place above-ſaid, where God communicated himſelf to Moſes, as Temples and Churches; in which (N. B.) both theſe relations concurre, both of Divine Preſence and Divine Propriety: (for it is both God's Houſe, as being dedicated to his Name; and the place alſo where God is wont to be preſent with the Sons of Men in his Word and Sacraments.) Tempora ſacra, as the Lord's Day and other holy and Feſtival times. Perſonæ ſacræ, as our Prieſts and Clergy. Res ſacræ, any thing beſides theſe which we offer and dedicate unto God. If any ſhall except that in the Old Teſtament indeed this Holineſs had place, but in the New there is no ſuch thing; I would encounter him thus: If any place under the Goſpel may be more peculiarly the place of Divine Preſence then every place; if any thing under the Goſpel may be more peculiarly God's then every thing; Then hath this kind of Holineſs place in the New Teſtament as well as in the Old: Sed verum prius, Ergò.

Whence Luk. 2. 23. for that in the Law, Whatſoever openeth the Womb is mine, is quoted, Every Male that openeth the Womb ſhall be called Holy unto the Lord.

By this you may judge what I think of D. B. his aſſertion, That Temples were holy onely in the holy uſe of them. If his meaning be, they are holy no longer then during ſuch uſe; would he ſay that Miniſters are ſacred Perſons onely whilſt they are officiating in preaching, praying and celebrating the Sacraments, and at other times nothing differing from Lay-men? would he ſay that the Lord's Day is Holy onely for the time that Divine Service continues, and no longer? Par enim eſt ratio. I confeſs I heard one not long ſince preach ſo in our S. Mary's Pulpit, you may gueſs to what end. But he was not aware that by this aſſertion he blew up the foundation of his own Tenet, concerning the reverence due to Churches and Altars. Eadem enim eſt ratio Loci & Temporis ſacri; quia utrumque ſanctum eſt, neutrum prophanandum, ſed omnino ſanctè habendum eſt, i.e. prout convenit ſanctitati. But it is ordinary with men who make paſſion and ſtudium partium the rule of their Judgements, thus to cut the throats of their own principles.

Here therefore I would deſire you to conſider and weigh this Propoſition, That a Place may be ſaid to be Holy in reſpect of relation to Divine Preſence, not onely where God is in ſuch peculiar manner actually preſent, but where he is wont to be, yea or had wont to be, (therefore Daniel prayed toward Jeruſalem, etiam cùm jam dirutum & concrematum jaceret Templum, neque Arca fœderis ampliùs ibi exſtaret) yea even there where he hath once been in ſome illuſtrious and extraordinary manner. Witneſs Mount Tabor, which onely for the glorious Transfiguration of Chriſt thereon (having never had any other Divine relation) is by S. Peter, 2 Epiſt. 1. 18. termed the Holy Mount: This voice (ſaith he) which came from Heaven, we heard when we were with him ἐν τῷ ὄρει τῷ ἁγίῳ. Be it ſo, ſo, that Sacraments are no longer Sacraments then in the uſe of them; yet are they Holy as long as they are for that uſe.

2. Whether ἡ ἁγία τράπεζα may be rightly called Solium Dei.

I expected no ſcruple at that ſpeech: For if the Holy Table be Sedes corporis & ſanguinis Chriſti, why not Solium Chriſti? what is Solium but Sedes, nempe Regia? And is not the Body of Chriſt βασιλικὸν σῶμα; Hence Antiquity called the Holy Table Ἅγιον ἁγίων, and the place where it ſtood Ἀνάκτορον. The firſt, in that place you mention for Altars ſtanding in the middle of the Quire. It is in a Panegyrick Oration made at the dedication of a ſumptuous and magnificent Church built at Tyre in the days of Conſtantine, (recorded by Euſeb. Hiſt. Eccl. lib. 10. cap. 4. Editione Græco-lat. p. 282, 283.) the ſtructure and garniſhing whereof the Panegyriſt there at large deſcribing, and amongſt the reſt the Seats erected in the Quire for the honour of the Clergy, he adds, καὶ τὸ ἅγιον ἁγίων θυσιαστήριον ἐν μέσῳ θεὶς, [and having placed the moſt Holy Altar in the midſt] ὡς ἂν εἴη τοῖς πολλοῖς ἄβατα, [that it might not be acceſsible to the multitude] τοῖς ἀπὸ ξύλου περιφράγμασι δικτύοις, εἰς ἄκρον ὀντέχνου λεπτουργίας ἐξησκημένοις, ὡς θαυμάσιον τοῖς ὁρῶσι παρέχειν τὴν θέαν, [he compaſſed it about reticulati operis cancellis ex ligno fabricatis, adeò ad ſummum ſolertis artificii elaboratis, ut mirabile intuentibus præbeat ſpectaculum.] That of Ἀνάκτορον, for the place where the Holy Table ſtood, is to be found in Theod. Hiſtor. Eccleſ. lib. 5. cap. 17. in that famous ſtory of Theodoſius and S. Ambroſe, where Theodoſius after his abſolution coming up into the Ἀνάκτορα, and there ſtaying (after he had offered) to receive the holy Euchariſt, (as he uſed to doe at Conſtantinople, for this was at Milane) S. Ambroſe admoniſheth him to go out, ὅτι τὰ ἔνδον, ὦ βασιλεῦ, μόνοις ἔξεστιν ἱερεῦσι βατά· τοῖς δὲ ἄλλοις ἅπασιν ἄδυτά τε καὶ ἄψαυστα· i. Quoniam interiora iſta, ô Imperator, ſolis ſunt Sacerdotibus pervia; reliquis verò omnibus inacceſſa, neque tangenda. Theſe two places I thought not unfit to cite, that it might appear how farre the conceit of the Ancients and ours differ in this point.

3. How in the New Teſtament God or Chriſt our Lord can be ſaid to have his Throne or place of Preſence in our Churches and Oratories, when they are not by Divine (as were the Tabernacle and the Temple in the Old Teſtament) but Humane appointment, and without any ſuch Symbolum as the Ark there was.

I anſwer: To direct or ſet apart a Place for Divine Worſhip and the exerciſe of the Rites of Religion is juris naturæ, and approved by God from the beginning. It began not with that Tabernacle or Temple made by God's ſpecial appointment to Moſes. Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob erected places of Divine Worſhip (whereſoever they came and pitched their Tents) without any ſpecial appointment from God, tanquam nimirum ex recepta conſuetudine generis humani. Noah built an Altar ſo ſoon as he came out of the Ark. Jacob vowed a Place for Divine Worſhip, by the name of God's Houſe, where he would pay the Tithes of all that God ſhould give him. Moſes, Exod. 33. 7. (before the Ark and that glorious Tabernacle were yet made) pitched a Tabernacle for the ſame purpoſe without the Camp, whither every one that ſought the Lord was to goe, and called it אוהל מועד the Tabernacle of meeting, viz. of meeting with God, not of Mens meeting together, as we mean when we turn it, Tabernacle of the Congregation: Of which perhaps more hereafter.

Now for the nature of theſe Places, we can no where learn it better then from from that of the Lord to Moſes, Exod. 20. immediately after he had pronounced the Decalogue from Mount Sinai, where premiſing that they ſhould not make with him (whom they had ſeen talking with them from Heaven) Gods of ſilver and Gods of gold, and that they ſhould make his Altar (namely, whilſt they were there in the Wilderneſs) of earth, and ſacrifice their ſacrifices thereon; he adds, In all places where I record my Name, I will come unto thee, and will bleſs thee. Here is contained the definition of the Place ſet apart for Divine Worſhip. 'Tis the Place where God records his Name and communicates himſelf to men, to bleſs them, Exod. 20. 24. בכל־המקום אשר אזכיר את־שמי, In every place where the Memorial I appoint of my Name ſhall be; or, In every place ſet apart for the Memorial of my name. The Memorial of God's Name is any token or ſymbol whereby he * teſtifies his Covenant, and, as it were, commerceth with Men. And though the Ark were afterward made for this purpoſe, as the ſtanding Memorial of his Name, (and therefore called The Teſtimony and the Ark of the Covenant) yet could not that here be ſpecially pointed at, as which yet was not in being, nor any commandment concerning the making thereof yet heard of. And ſo the words to be taken generally for any; ſuch as were the Sacrifices immediately before mentioned, and the Seat of them the Altar, and therefore may ſeem to be more particularly referred unto: for that theſe were Federal Rites whereby the Name of God was remembred and his Covenant teſtified, may be eaſily proved; whence that which was burned upon the Altar is ſo often called The Memorial: See Levit. chap. 24. 7. & c. 2. c. 5. c. 6. And the Son of Sirach tells us, Eccluſ 45. 16. that Aaron was choſen out of all men living to offer Sacrifices to the Lord, incenſe and a ſweet ſavour for a Memorial, to make reconciliation for his People. Adde, Iſay 66. 3. Qui recordatur thure, quaſi qui benedicat idolo. But I muſt not ſtay too long in this. Now I ask, Did not Chriſt ordain the Holy Euchariſt to be the Memorial of his Name in the New Teſtament? Hoc (ſaith he) eſt corpus meum, ἐγ τοῦτο ποιεῖτε εἰς τὴν ἐμὴν Ἀνάμνησιν. (And there be thoſe that will not ſtick to ſay, That Chriſt is as much preſent here as the Lord was upon the Mercy-ſeat between the Cherubims.) Why ſhould not then the Places appointed for the Station of this Memorial under the Goſpel have ſome ſemblable Sanctity to that where the Name of God was recorded in the Law? And though we be not now tied to one onely Place as under the Law, and that God * hears the faithful prayers of his Servants whereſoever they are made unto him (as alſo he did then;) yet ſhould not the Place of his Memorial be promiſcuous and common, but ſet apart to that ſacred purpoſe.

* I muſt paſſe it by; but ſee Exod. 29. 42. & ch. 30. 36. Num. 17. 4. in which God himſelf gives ratio nominis, The Tabernacle of meeting where I will meet with thee.

You will ſay, This Chriſtian Memorial is not alwaies there preſent, as at leaſt ſome one or other of thoſe in the Law were. I anſwer: It is enough it is wont to be; as the Chair of Eſtate loſeth not its relation and due reſpect though the King be not alwaies there. And remember that the Ark of the Covenant or Teſtimony was not in Jeruſalem when Daniel opened his windows and prayed thitherward; and that it was wanting in the Holy place all the time of the Second Temple, the Seat thereof being onely there. You will ſay, In the Old Teſtament theſe things were appointed by Divine law and commanded; but in the New we find no ſuch thing. I anſwer: In things for which we find no new Rule given in the New Teſtament, there we are referred to the analogy of the Old: witneſs the Apoſtles proofs taken thence for the maintenance of the Miniſtery, 1 Cor. 9. and the like; and the practice of the Church ab initio in Baptizing

Verſ. 23.

Verſ. 24.

* Note that the LXX perpetually render אהל מועד (the Tabernacle of meeting) σκηνὴ μαρτυρίου, the Tabernacle of the Teſtimony, as it is called in the N. T. and ſometimes in the Old, viz. אהל העדות, as the Ark ארון העדות, wherein were the Tables which contained the Articles of the Covenant, and Manna which was the Bread of the Covenant.

* So he hears them whenſoever they are made; yet is there one day in the week ſet apart for his ſolemn worſhip. Eadem eſt ratio Temporis & Loci.

The Jews report the Ark was ſet upon a ſtone placed at the Weſt-end of the moſt Holy place. See Maimon. apud Ainſworth, in v. 10. chap. 17. Num.

tizing Infants, from the analogy of Circumciſion; in hallowing every Firſt day of the Week as one in Seven, from the analogy of the Jewiſh Sabbath. For it is to be ſeriouſly conſidered, That the end of Chriſt's coming into the world was not to give new Laws, but to fulfill the Law already given, and to preach the Goſpel of reconciliation through his Name to thoſe who had tranſgreſſed it: Whence we ſee the Style of the New Teſtament not any where to carry the form of enacting Laws; but ſuch as are there mentioned, to be mentioned only occaſionally by way of allegation, of interpretation, of proof, of exhortation, and not by way of re-enacting.

S. Hierome implies as much in that ſpeech of his, Ut ſciamus traditiones Apoſtolicas ſumptas ex Veteri Teſtamento; quod Aaron & filii ejus & Levita in Templo fuerunt, hoc ſibi Epiſcopi, Presbyteri atque Diaconi vendicant in Eccleſia.

There comes now very fitly into my mind a paſſage of Clemens (a Man of the Apoſtolical Age, whoſe name (S. Paul ſays) was written in the Book of Life) in his genuine Epiſtle ad Corinthios, lately ſet forth, page 52. Πάντα τάξει ποιεῖν ὀφείλομεν ὅσα ὁ δεσπότης ἐπιτελεῖν ἐκέλευσεν, Omnia ritè & ordine facere debemus, quæcunque Dominus peragere nos juſſit. What doth he command? καιρὸς τεταγμένους τάς τε προσφορὰς καὶ λειτουργίας ἐπιτελεῖσθαι, καὶ οὐκ εἰκῇ ἢ ἀτάκτως ἐκέλευσε γίνεσθαι, ἀλλ' ὡρισμένοις καιροῖς καὶ ὥραις· ποῦ τε καὶ διὰ τίνων ἐπιτελεῖσθαι θέλῃ, αὐτὸς ὥρισε τῇ ὑπερτάτῃ αὐτοῦ βουλήσει, i. e. præſtitutis temporibus oblationes & liturgias obire; neque enim temere vel inordinatè voluit iſta fieri, ſed ſtatutis temporibus & horis: UBI etiam & A QUIBUS peragi velit, ipſe excelſiſſimâ ſuâ voluntate definivit. But where hath the Lord defined theſe things, unleſs he hath left us to the analogy of the Old Teſtament?

4. Concerning the Objection of our Saviour's eating the Paſſeover, and firſt Inſtitution of the Holy Supper in a Common place, in an Inne.

Againſt the ſuppoſed Sanctity or Dignity to be aſcribed to the Holy Table or Altar, as the place where the Memorial of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt is repreſented, you object the Table and place of the firſt Inſtitution, which was an ordinary Table and a common Inne; whereby it ſhould ſeem that the Table whereon it was afterwards to be celebrated ſhould no otherwiſe be accounted of. Firſt, I anſwer, It follows not, and that from the parallel of the Inſtitution of the Paſſeover; which though at firſt it were killed in a private houſe, and the bloud ſtricken upon the door-poſts; yet afterwards it might not be ſo, but was to be offered in the place which the Lord ſhould chuſe (Deut. 16. 5, 6.) to place his Name there; according to the Law given for all Offerings and Sacrifices in general, Deut. 12. à verſu 4. ad 14. incluſivè, with a triple inculcation in one continued Series of ſpeech.

This Anſwer ſeems to me ſufficient for the Objection of the firſt Inſtitution. But there is one thing more yet to be conſidered; That there is not the ſame reaſon of the Place where the Sacrifice is ſanctified or offered and the Place where it is eaten. Every Sacrifice was to be offered and ſanctified at the Altar, where the Bloud was ſprinkled and the Memorial burned; but that done, it was eaten in another place: thoſe which were eaten onely by the Prieſts, in the Chambers of the Temple; thoſe which the people were partakers of, (as the Peace-offerings,) out of the Temple. Of this nature was the Paſſeover, the Lamb being firſt to be offered and ſlain in the Temple, and the Bloud ſprinkled on the Altar (according unto the Law, Deut. 16. and the practice, 2 Chron. 35. 1, 2, 6, 10, 11.) that done, to be eaten where they would; provided it were in loco mundo, in a clean place.

And thus was the Paſchal Lamb, whereof our Saviour ate, prepared and ſanctified; yea, by proportion of all other Sacrifices, the Bread and the Wine, whereof the Holy Supper was inſtituted; for they were the Minchah* or Meat and Drink-offering of the Paſſeover, ſuch as all other Sacrifices had annexed unto them. And to what end elſe was the Law ſo ſtrict that they ſhould bring all their Sacrifices and Offerings unto the Place which the Lord ſhould chuſe to put his Name there, but that they might be ſanctified and hallowed at the Lord's Altar, before they feaſted with them? whence perhaps that cuſtome of the ancient Church was derived, to offer the Bread and Wine unto God upon the Holy Table before it was conſecrated to be the Body and Bloud of Chriſt, becauſe they ſuppoſed that at the firſt inſtitution they had been ſo offered at the Altar in the Temple. But as the Jews uſed not to eat their Sacrifices where they offered them; no more did the ancient Chriſtians think themſelves bound to eat the Euchariſt where it was conſecrated; inſomuch that they carried it ſometimes to their houſes, and ordinarily *ſent it to thoſe which were abſent. And if it be well obſerved, in the practice of our own Church there is a difference commonly between the place of conſecration and the place of eating, though both be in the Church.

* That which we uſually in our Tranſlation call Meat-offering, might more fitly be termed Bread-offering, for ſuch it was; and conſider that the Sacrifices being fleſh were not eaten without bread and drink, which therefore were concomitants of them.

* Juſtin in Apolog. 2.

True it is, that at the firſt Inſtitution, though perhaps not the firſt hallowing of the Bread and Wine for the Paſſeover, yet the conſecration thereof to be the Symbols of the Body and Bloud of Chriſt was in a common room, and that out of the neceſſity of the connexion which the materials thereof had with the viands of the Paſſeover. Yet I ſuppoſe not the Houſe to have been of the condition of our Innes, but onely for ſuch Sacred entertainments as this was; of which ſort Jeruſalem muſt needs have had very many, for the accommodation of ſuch as came to feaſt before the Lord, as the whole Nation was to doe three times in a year.

If all that hath been yet ſaid will not ſatisfie this Objection, yet I hope what I ſhall now ſay will doe it fully: What needed there any Altar or Place of relative preſence, where the Son of God, the Heavenly Altar and Holy of Holies, was himſelf preſent in perſon? Is not the Temple of God there where he is? and what Altar was ſo holy as his Sacred hands?

Apoc. 21. 22. Καὶ ναὸν οὐκ εἶδον ἐν αὐτῇ, ναὸς αὐτῶν ἐστὶν ὁ κύριος ὁ θεὸς ὁ παντοκράτωρ καὶ τὸ ἀρνίον.

Matth. 12. 6. τοῦ ἱεροῦ μείζων ἐστὶν ὧδε.

5. Why in the poſture of our adoration of the Divine Majeſtie more reſpect ſhould be had to the Altar or Holy Table, then either to the Font or Pulpit, ſeeing they are alſo Places of God's preſence as well as the other.

Suppoſe they be ſo; yet when there are many, why ſhould not that which hath the principality draw this reſpect unto it? A man is preſent where any part of him is: yet when we ſalute him, or ſpeak unto him, we are wont to direct our ſelves unto his Face, as that wherein his preſence is moſt principal and erected; not to his Backer parts, or to his Shoulders, though the organ of hearing be that way. Perhaps it was this principality which that Doctor (or whatſoever he be whom you mention) intended, when he ſaid that Hoc eſt Corpus meum was more with him then Hoc eſt Verbum meum.

But I think for my part, firſt, that the compariſon of the Pulpit with the Sacraments and their places is heterogeneal. Secondly, that neither the Pulpit nor the Place of the Sacrament of Baptiſm are in this point, or for this purpoſe (we ſpeak of,) of the ſame nature with the Altar.

For it ought to be conſidered (though it be a thing now-a-days in a manner quite forgotten) that the Euchariſt (according to the meaning of the Inſtitution) is the Rite of our addreſs unto God the Father in the New Teſtament, wherewith we come before him, to offer unto his Divine Ma-jeſtie

jeſtie our thankſgivings, ſupplications and praiſes in the Name of his Son Jeſus Chriſt crucified for us: that is, It is not onely a Sacrament, but, as the ancient Church uſed to ſpeak, a Sacrifice alſo. For that Sacrifices were Rites whereby they invocated and called upon God, is a Truth, though perhaps not ſo vulgarly taken notice of, yet undeniable: as on the Gentiles behalf may be ſeen in Homer in divers places where he deſcribes the manner of offering Sacrifices; on the Jews behalf by that ſpeech of Saul, 1 Sam. 13. 12. when Samuel expoſtulating with him for having offered a Burnt-offering, I ſaid, ſaith he, the Philiſtins will come down upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made ſupplication to the Lord. I forced my ſelf therefore and offered a Burnt-offering. See alſo 1 Sam. 7. 8, 9. Ezra 6. 10. Baruch 1. 10, 11. 1 Mac. 12. 11. 2 Chron. 7. 12, & ſequentia. Hence of Abraham and Iſaac it is ſaid when they built Altars, that there they called upon the name of the Lord; but Altars were the place for Sacrifice.

In ſtead therefore of the ſlaughtering of Beaſts, and the Sacrifices offered by fire and incenſe, whereby they called upon the name of God in the Old Teſtament, the Fathers and primitive Chriſtians believed that our Saviour ordained this Sacrament of Bread and Wine, as a Rite whereby to give thanks and make ſupplication to his Father, in his Name, in the New. The myſtery of which Rite they took to be this; That as Chriſt by preſenting his Death and Satisfaction to his Father continually intercedes for us in Heaven; ſo the Church on earth ſemblably approches the Throne of Grace by repreſenting his Death and Paſſion to his Father in theſe holy Myſteries of his Body and Bloud.

Veteres enim (ſaith Caſſander) in hoc myſtico Sacrificio non tam peracta ſemel in Cruce oblationis, (cujus hîc memoria celebratur) quàm perpetui Sacerdotii & jugis Sacrificii quod in cœlis ſempiternus Sacerdos offert, rationem habuerunt; cujus hîc Imago per ſolennes Miniſtrorum preces exprimitur.

This that reverend and learned Divine Mr. Perkins (once Fellow of our Society) ſaw more clearly, or expreſſed more plainly, then any other Reformed Writer that I have yet ſeen, in his Demonſtrat. Problem. titulo de Sacrificio Miſſæ. Veteres (inquit) Cœnam Domini, ſeu totam cœnæ actionem & formulam, vocârunt Sacrificium, tum aliis de cauſis, tum quia eſt commemoratio, adeôque repræſentatio Deo Patri, Sacrificii Chriſti in Cruce immolati. He goes on, Hoc modo (ſaith he) fideles etiam interorandum Chriſtum offerunt Deo Patri victimam, dum ſcilicet mente affectúque ad Sacrificium ejus unicum feruntur, ut Deum ſibi habeant faciántque propitium: that is, What every Chriſtian doth mentally and vocally when he commends his prayers to God the Father, through Jeſus Chriſt, making mention of his Death and Satisfaction, that in the publick and ſolemn ſervice of the Church was done by that Rite which our Saviour ordained to be uſed in commemoration of him; in whoſe Death and Paſſion is founded the New Covenant of God with Men.

For here take notice that all thoſe bloudy Sacrifices of the Law were Federal Rites, or Epulæ fœderales, as the Euchariſt alſo is; namely, that they were Oblations wherein the Offerer (either by himſelf or his proxie the Prieſt) banquetted, or ate and drank, with his God, in token of covenant and reconcilement with him. So that to approch God with this Rite, was to doe it by way of commemoration or renewing of a Covenant with him, and as much as to ſay, Remember thy Covenant; which is the foundation of all Invocation: For what hath Man to doe with God, to beg any favour at his hands, unleſs he be in Covenant with him? Whereby appears the reaſon why Mankind from the beginning of the world uſed to make their addreſs unto their God by this Rite of Sacrificing, viz. Ritu fœderali. And this is that which the ancient Church did, and supposed our Lord intended they should doe, in the holy Eucharist of his Death and Passion; which therefore they called the New or Christian Sacrifice. A definition whereof (as it consists of the Rite and Action both together) may be framed out of those words of Mr. Perkins, An Oblation of Thanksgiving and Prayer to God the Father, through Jesus Christ and his Sacrifice upon the Cross, commemorated and represented in Bread and Wine.

This is a point of great moment and consequent, worthy to be looked farther into by all the Learned of the Reformed Religion; lest whilst we have deservedly abolished that prodigious and blasphemous Sacrifice of the Papists, wherein Christ is again hypostatically offered to his Father, we have not (or but very implicitly and obscurely) reduced that ancient Commemorative Sacrifice of Christians, wherein that one Sacrifice of Christ upon the Cross was continually by that sacred Rite represented and inculcated to his Father, his Father put in mind thereof by those monuments set before him, wherein we also testified our own mindfulness thereof unto his sacred Majesty, that so he would for his sake, according to the tenour of the New Covenant in his Bloud, be favourable and propitious unto us miserable Sinners. But to clear this point, and to remove all scruples, objections and prejudices against it, is not for a Letter, but a Volume. This is enough for the end I intended, which was, to shew how the Eucharist is the Sacrament of our address unto God, and therein of a different nature from Baptism, which is not so, but the Rite onely of our New Birth, whereby we become the Sons of God, and are admitted to be members of his Church; not the Sacrament whereby we exercise the functions of this new life, in worshipping, invocating and glorifying God our Father through Jesus Christ. These premisses considered, the Answer to your demand, Why in the posture of our adoration of the Divine Majestie more respect should be had to the Altar or Holy Table, then either to the Font or Pulpit, is plain and easie; namely, Because Adoration is an act of address and of tender of honour unto God, and therefore most fitly to be performed at or toward the place of our address, which is the Altar, whereat anciently as the Sacrament of the Eucharist, so the whole Devotions of the Church were performed and presented to the Divine Majestie. The Pulpit is the place where God speaks to us, not we to him. The Font the place where he reaches his favour unto us, in accepting us to be his Servants; not where, being initiated, we offer our spiritual sacrifice and service unto him. You must understand me here to speak according to the ancient manner of the Church.

Whereas you seem to question, Whether the Jews had any such respect unto the Altar of Burnt-offering: I answer, they had; for it was so placed, that when they turned and worshipped toward the Mercy-seat, they worshipped toward it also; but the denomination of their posture is from the Ark, as the principal memorial of the Divine presence; yet sometimes from the Altar also, as 1 Kings 8. 22, 31. 2 Chron. 6. 12. Vide & 2 Kings 18. 22. cum locis parallelis, 2 Chron. 32. 12. Isai. 36. 7. Also Ecclus 47. 9. we have Δαβὶδ ἔστησεν ψαλμῳδοὺς κατέναντι τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου, instead of that which is 1 Chron. 16. 4. ἔταξε ἔμπροσθεν τῆς κιβωτοῦ τοῦ Δαβὶδ τοῦ Κυρίου. But the Altar of Incense better befits our Holy Table then the Altar of Burnt-offering, though it may not untruly be affirmed, if rightly taken, that the Sacrament of the Body and Bloud of Christ is to us Christians both Arca fœderis, Incensum & Holocaustum, being the commemoration of him who is all these unto us.

AND thus far I have adventured to discover my thoughts in this nice and doubtful argument, presuming upon the experience I have formerly had of your your judgement, freedom and ability of diſcerning, eſpecially of your affection and good opinion of my ſelf. You may gueſs my thoughts have not been a ſtranger to things of this nature. You will admire perhaps they were no hinderance to my Apocalyptical Speculations, and how I could ſo eaſily, being poſſeſſed with ſuch Tenets, believe the Popedom to be the Beaſt, and Rome the Whore of Babylon; ſeeing in the apprehenſion of the moſt theſe things accord not well together.

But this ſeeming incompetibility will ſoon vaniſh, if you conſider that in all my meditations I make the Apoſtaſy of the Viſible Church to conſiſt, not in Judaiſm, but in Gentiliſm; the conſtant character of the Apocalyptical Allegories warranting and firſt ſuggeſting this conceit, where namely I obſerved Judaiſm to bear the Type of the true Church, and Gentiliſm of the falſe.

Secondly, Altiùs hoc animo meo inſedit, That the Reformed Churches, out of extreme abomination of Idolatry, have, according to the nature of men, incurred ſome guilt before God ἀμετρίᾳ τῆς ἀντιθολικῆς, by taking away the diſtinction almoſt generally between things Sacred and Prophane, and that they ſhall one day ſmart for it. But the prejudices hereabout are ſo great, that I have little hope to perſuade others to my opinion: Yet I could ſay much for it, and if it be well obſerved, the preſent Judgements of God upon the Reformation do inſinuate ſome ſuch thing. Let the godly wiſe conſider it. Divine Judgements have uſually ſome brand or ſtamp upon them, which points at the Sin for which they are inflicted: you may call it a Sin-mark. If the paſſages and ground of the continuance of this German War be well conſidered, would not a man think they ſpake that of the Apoſtle, Thou that hateſt Idols, doſt thou commit Sacrilege? But I dare goe no further; it may be I have ſaid too much already: For I well know, the way that I goe pleaſeth neither party; the one loves not the Pope ſhould be Antichriſt, nor the other to hear that theſe things ſhould not be Popery.

Thus you ſee I have at length brought both ends together, and end where I began. Pardon me this one Letter, and I will trouble you no more with this Theme; your Reply to my ſhort Anſwer to your Quere occaſioned it——

I forget not my beſt reſpect unto your ſelf, nor my prayers to the Almighty for bleſſing to you and yours. Thus I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. July 15.
1635.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

I ſent by Mr. B. 4. or 5. Exerciſes upon paſſages of Scripture; ſuch as I had in ſeparate papers and fit to be communicated. For thoſe that were in Books joyned with other things, I could not; and ſome that were apart, for ſome Reaſons, I would not expoſe to danger of cenſure. I hope thoſe which I ſent are ſafely arrived with you.

Epistle LIX.

Dr. Twiſſe's Ninth Letter to Mr. Mede, thanking him for his pains in the foregoing Letter, and deſiring his reſolution of a Doubt concerning the 7 Lamps ſignifying the 7 Angels in Zach. 4.

Right dear and Right worthy Sir,

I AM ſomewhat of a more chearful ſpirit then when I wrote my *laſt—— I have gotten more liberty of ſpirit to conſider your large Diſcourſe, ſavouring of great Learning, no leſs Judgement, and a diſtinctive Apprehenſion of things of good importance; and that not in my judgement only, but in the judgement of others; though all require ſerious and further conſideration. And for mine own particular, I cannot but reflect upon my ſelf how deeply I am beholden unto you for intruſting me in ſo liberal a manner with theſe your Speculations. We can never offend in putting difference between the Holy and Prophane; neither can we offend in preſenting our ſelves too reverently at the Lord's Table. Never was the Mercy-ſeat ſo well known in the days of the Old Teſtament as in theſe days of the New: We now behold the glory of the Lord with open face; and accordingly our Saviour tells us, the Lord requires the true worſhippers ſhould worſhip him in ſpirit and in truth, in diſtinction from worſhipping him either at Jeruſalem or in the Mount the woman ſpake of: And in this kind of worſhip we cannot exceed. But as for outward Geſtures, I doubt I ſhall prove but a Novice as long as I breath; and we affect not to make oſtentation of our Devotion in the face of the world, the rather becauſe thereby we draw upon our ſelves the cenſure of Hypocriſy; and ſometimes if a man lifts up his Eyes, he is cenſured for a P. and I confeſs there is no outward Geſture of Devotion which may not be as handſomly performed by as carnal an heart as breaths. I am confident you are far from ſtudia partium; ſo ſhould we be all, and be ambitious of nothing but of the love and favour of God, and of our conformity unto him in truth and holineſs. I heartily thank you for all, and particularly for theſe Pieces which now I return. I hope they will arrive ſafely in your hands.

What I wrote the laſt time I have almoſt utterly forgotten, ſaving the clearing of one Objection concerning * the Seven Angels ſtanding before the Throne, repreſented by the Seven Lamps, which I much deſired; it ariſing from the Text it ſelf, the Lamps being maintained by the Oile which drops from the Two Olive-trees, which are interpreted to be Zorobabel and Jeſhua. But I have troubled you ſo much, that I fear the aſperſion of immodeſty in troubling you any further: I cannot ſufficiently expreſs my thankfulneſs for that I have already received. I deſire ever to be found Newbury, July 27. 1635.

Yours in the beſt reſpect,

Will. Twiſſe.

* viz. his Letter of July 21. at what time he was very ſick. The Letter contains his thanks for the foregoing large Letter, and alſo for ſome other Papers Mr. Mede ſent, particularly that about the Sabbath and the Lord's Day, (printed now in Book I. pag. 73.) on which argument he expatiates in that Letter, which need not be printed, there appearing no Anſwer to it among Mr. Mede's MSS.

* He means Mr. Mede's Diſcourſe on Zach. 4. 10. (printed now in Book I. pag. 53.) and his Objection was this, Do not the Olive-trees by the oyl which they drop maintain the Lamps? Yet ſurely they maintain not thoſe Seven Angels, they rather maintain us.

EPISTLE

Epistle LX.

Dr. Twiſſe's Tenth Letter to Mr. Mede, deſiring him to reveal unto him thoſe Pluſcula in Zach. chapters 9, 10, 11. which fit not ſo well Zachary's time as Jeremy's; as alſo to reſolve a Doubt about the 7. Lamps in Zach. 4. with ſome reflexions upon Mr Mede's large Letter about Temples and Altars and the Chriſtian Sacrifice.

Worthy Sir,

Do you not miſs your * Letter ad Ludovicum de Dieu? And do you not find it ſtrange it is not returned with the reſt? I aſſure you, I took no notice of it till Wedneſday laſt, two days after the laſt week's Letter I wrote unto you. In every particular it was welcome unto me, as all yours alwaies are. But your [a] Variæ lectiones concerning the Old Teſtament, and the pregnant evidences thereof which you allege, do aſtoniſh me; and above all, [b] your adventure to vindicate unto Jeremy his own Prophecy, which ſo long hath gone under the name of Zachary. I never was acquainted with any better way of reconciliation then that which Beza mentions, of the likeneſs of abbreviations of each name, which might cauſe a miſtake by the Tranſcribers. O that you would reveal unto me thoſe Pluſcula, which in thoſe three Chapters of Zachary, 9, 10, 11. do more agree (as you obſerve) to the time of Jeremy then to the time of Zachary! Why may you not have a peculiar way alſo to reconcile the Genealogy in the LXX with that in the Hebrew, where Kainan is found in the one, which is not in the other? Thus I make bold to put you to new trouble; but I preſume it is no more trouble to you then the writing; like as that other whereabout I moved you, How the Seven Lamps are maintained by the oyl derived from the two Olive-Trees, if by the Seven Lamps are meant the Seven Angels that ſtand before the Throne of God.

* See this printed in Book III. page 707.

a b. See Book III. page 709. and Book IV. page 963.

Yet have I not done with your large Letter concerning Temples and Altars. Since the writing of my laſt, while I was reading that large Letter of yours to ſome Divines, who were much taken with admiration at the Learning contained therein in an Argument wherein we had been ſo little verſed, I ſay in the reading of it, I obſerved one thing which in all my former readings I took no notice of, and that is in theſe words; This is a point of great moment and conſequent, worthy to be looked into by all the Learned of the Reformed Religion, leſt while we have deſervedly aboliſhed the prodigious and blaſphemous Sacrifice of the Papiſts, wherein Chriſt is again hypoſtatically offered to his Father, we have not (but very implicitely and obſcurely) reduced that ancient Commemorative Sacrifice of Chriſtians, wherein that one Sacrifice of Chriſt upon the Croſs was continually by that ſacred Rite repreſented and inculcated to his Father; his Father put in mind thereof by thoſe monuments ſet before him, wherein we teſtified our own mindfulneſs thereof to his ſacred Majeſty, that ſo he would for his ſake, according to the Tenour of the New Covenant in his Bloud, be favourable and propitious to us miſerable ſinners. In which words, upon better and more ſerious conſideration, I obſerve you acknowlege, 1. A Commemorative Sacrifice of Chriſtians continually performed in ancient times. 2. This hath been miſerably corrupted by the Papiſts, and transformed by the Papiſts into that Service which is called their Maſs in diſtinction from their Mattins. 3. That Proteſtants have juſtly aboliſhed this prodigious and blaſphemous Sacrifice of theirs. 4. But they have not done well, in that they have not reduced that ancient Commemorative Sacrifice of Chriſtians, ſave implicitly and obſcurely.

Now in two things I am to ſeek for the underſtanding of your meaning. 1. How we have reduced it in that implicite and obſcure manner you ſpeak of. 2. How you would have it reduced in conformity to the Ancients, and wherein this Conformity doth conſiſt. I remember what you alledged out of Clemens, of προσφοραὶ καὶ λειτουργίαι, which were to be performed in times preſcribed by Analogy to the courſes of Devotion commanded in the Old Teſtament. Now this I gueſs you deliver not ſo much in reſpect unto the Sabbath-Service, as unto the daily Sacrifice of a Lamb every morning. I imagine you would have the celebration of that Service which we call the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper to be daily; but I preſume not in a private manner, but in the way of a Communion: but unleſs it be twice a day, it is not congruous to the daily Sacrifice which was of a Lamb every evening, as of a Lamb every morning. And then again I find amongſt the Ancients no ſmall difference: For a time it was celebrated in the evening onely, at leaſt in ſome places, and that with ſome difference: for ſome celebrated it after they had eaten; ſome faſted all the day before, that they might come jejuni thereunto. Now I would hear your judgement both of the practice of the Ancients in this particular, wherewith I am not ſo well acquainted. Our Saviour ſaith, Doe this in remembrance of me: this preſcribes nothing concerning the frequency of it. S. Paul adds, This doe, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me: where alſo we find no certain time preſcribed. Act. 2. 42. We reade that they continued in the Apoſtles doctrine and fellowſhip, and breaking of bread, and prayers: here likewiſe is no ſignification that this breaking of bread (which I underſtand of the celebration of that Sacrament) was performed daily. And whereas verſ. 46. it is ſaid, that they continued daily with one accord in the Temple, and breaking bread at home did eat their meat with gladneſs and ſingleneſs of heart; I have conceived it to be ſpoken of refreſhing natural, not Sacramental and Spiritual. And Act. 20. 7. their meetings for breaking of bread ſeem to have been reſtrained to the First day of the week, that being the day of their aſſembling themſelves, as it ſeems by 1 Cor. 16. 2. And Juſtin Martyr makes relation of their Chriſtian meetings when the Sunday comes. 2. I would gladly know how far you think fit that cuſtome of the Ancients you ſpeak of (whatſoever it be) ſhould be reduced, and that clearly, not implicitly and obſcurely. For I aſſure you, I am much to ſeek in the meaning of this; yet I have read in ſome ſort Mornay upon the Maſs, and Biſhop Morton too, and ſomewhat in Baronius concerning this. And I am in doubt whether the Papiſts themſelves, were it not for their Doctrine of Tranſubſtantiation, would not be as much to ſeek herein as we are.

That which you touch concerning the German War, and the Cauſes of it, and the Sin-mark, I willingly profeſs doth make me melancholick; for I cannot but ſympathize with them——Yet although, as I underſtood when I was in the Palatinate, none was more free from ſuch Sacrilegious courſes then the Palatine, not onely Biſhopricks but even Monaſteries continuing there of his Anceſtors foundation; yet have they ſuffered as much as any, both firſt and laſt, if not much more.

In the cloſe of that large Letter of yours you ſignifie that you reſerve one thing, leſt it might undergoe cenſure; which otherwiſe you would communicate. Good Sir, you have no cauſe to diſtruſt my cenſure. I hear by Mr. B. it is concerning Cornelius, whom you take to have been no Proſelyte in any degree; the contrary whereunto ſuppoſed in our Divinity-Schools was one of the firſt things I was acquainted with upon my coming to Oxford; and ſince I find confeſſed by Schindler on the root גור in the interpretation of גרים. Yet I pray let me

ſee

see your Discourse thereon, and let me know how you salve it; for I am confident you are no Arminian. The Text acknowledgeth him to be not only σεβόμενος, but εὐσεβὴς and one of good report amongst all the Jews; and Act. 11. they that opposed Peter's going to him and his are said to be ἐκ τῆς περιτομῆς. I heartily desire to know the most and worst that can be said against any Tenet of mine. I shall be no loser by Truth; & Veritas magna est, & prævalebit against all opposition: For that is from God; Error and Falshood is from the Creature. You may see by this I make you a great, if not the greatest, part of my study; especially considering my infirmity at this time, which requires I should rather be lying upon my Bed then either going or sitting up. Your Answer to these particulars, Zachary in two places, the Prophecy of the * fourth Chapter, and that other of the 9, 10, 11. The sight of Cornelius, and your explicating the Practice of the ancient Churches in their continual celebrating of that Commemorative Sacrifice, in distinction from that which we do implicitly and obscurely, will be a great refreshing to my spirit, and consequently may prove some ease to my bodily infirmity also. And I hope I shall trouble you no more, unless it be to excite you to goe on upon the Revelation. The Lord give a blessing to all your studies, and in good time perfect them to the consolation of his Church in these sorrowful days of Christendom.

* Concerning the 7. Lamps.

Newbury, 3. Aug. 1635.

Your loving friend in the surest bond,

W. Twisse.

Post-script.

It is time to return that of yours ad Ludov. de Dieu, which herewith I do. Mr. B. knows him well, and he desires to be heartily remembred unto you, with many thanks for your kind and free entertainment of him.

Epistle LXI.

Mr. Mede's Answer about the seven Lamps in the Temple, signifying the seven Archangels; as also about the Pluscula in Zach. 9, 10, 11. with an intimation of his purpose to perfect his Discourse on Dan. 12. 11, 12.

THE seven-lamped Candlestick in the Temple before the Veil signified the * seven Archangels which stand before the presence of God.

That in Zachary was but a Vision of that, and chosen there to represent (Synecdochicè) the Throne of God's Majesty, the Temple and his Service therein. The two Olive-branches on each side ministring after an unseen and unusual manner Oyl unto those Lamps, figured Zorobabel and Jeshua, the Prince and High Priest, by whom this Throne of presence had and should be first and last re-erected, and together with the service thereat continued and fully established: But this not by armed might and power, but by the secret way of God's Spirit and Providence working with them, and giving success more then credible to their endeavours; even as these Lamps in the Vision were supplied with Oyl from the two Olive-branches, not according to the wonted, but an extraordinary and imperceptible way.

* See the Discourse about the seven Archangels in Book I. pag. 53.

The

The supplying therefore of Oyl to the Lamps from the two Olive-branches hath no respect or reference to the seven Angels which the Lamps signified, but to the Place pitched for God's presence and service, which the Candlestick in this Vision stood to represent, and so was accordingly accommodated, as the scope of the Vision required; or more briefly thus, The Olive-branches had reference to what the Candlestick stood for in this Vision, not to what it immediately signified in the Temple.

'Tis one thing to set up, maintain, and continue the Type and Symbol which represents; another, the thing thereby represented. Zerubbabel and Jeshua did the one, but not the other; namely, no more then the Priests in their courses in the Temple were wont to doe, who were to renew the Lamps every day morning and evening.

Besides, in Types and Parables non oportet quidlibet in significationem trahi, because some circumstances may be of decorum, and some of necessity. But Lastly, If none of these ways be sufficient to discharge this rub by declining it; then say that Zerubbabel and Jeshua in this Vision, in that work of building the Temple of the Lord and of bringing the people out of captivity, were intended for Types of Christ, according to his twofold Office of Kingdom and Priesthood; from whom, when he should be exalted to the Throne of Divine Majestie and sit at the right hand of God, the seven Archangels were to receive their instructions and commissions (i.e. the Oyl wherewith they burn) as from the Head of the Church; and therefore in the Apocalyps are made to be the Eyes and Horns of the * Lamb, that is, Ministers and Instruments of his jurisdiction, both to see and execute; and that this was mystically implied in this Vision of Zachary. For that these two were Types of Christ, it appears; of Jeshua in chap. 3. of this Prophecie, ver. 8, 9. and chap. 6. ver. 11, 12, &c. Of Zerubbabel, (if not by this Vision, yet) by the last of Haggai in the very end; besides that our Saviour descended from his loyns.

* And what if he be the Stone with the seven eyes in Zach. 3. 9. Dedi coram Josua lapidem, i. e. dedi ei in successorem Pontificatûs, Regem Pontificem?

For אבן signifies in Scripture a King, βασιλεὺς βάσις τοῦ λαοῦ, as appears by Gen. 49. 24. (where Josua is firstly meant, and Ephraim challenged much from the Prophecy, as appears by their ambition) and by Esa. 28. 16. where the Chaldee for אבן hath מלך, but in Genesis they translate to another sense, out of envy to Ephraim.

Concerning the ninth, tenth and eleventh Chapters of Zachary, and what therein befits not so well his time as Jeremie's.

You presse me here to discover my fancie. For the allegations will not be convictive, though of force to incline him who out of that citation in the * Gospel can be pliable to think those Prophecies Jeremie's. For Zachary's no Scripture saith they are, though they are inserted into his volumes. But this proves them no more to be his, then the like doth Agur's Proverbs to be Solomon's, or all the Psalms in the Psalm-Book to be David's. For as for the Titles in the tops of every page, it matters not: it is a later device. The Jews wrote in Rolls or Volumes, and the Title was but once. If ought were added to the Roll, ob similitudinem argumenti or for some other reason, it had a new Title, as that of Agur; or perhaps sometimes none, but was ἀνώνυμον.

* Mat. 27. 9, 10.

Well then, that which I fansy or conceive is,

1. That those Prophecies against Damascus and the Philistins, chap. 9. would better befit Jeremie's time, of their destruction by Nebuchadnezzar, then (if of Zachary's time) by Alexander. See the Prophecie against Damascus, Jer. 49. 23. against the Philistins, chap. 47. 2. and Ezek. 25. 15. For where do we find Damascus destroyed from Zacharie's to our our Saviour's time? For to come under the hands of new Maſters, or ſuffer ſome direption or pillaging, doth not ſeem to ſatisfie the intent of the Prophecie. And for the Philiſtins, though it be true that Alexander deſtroyed Gaza, (becauſe it held out long againſt him, and he was wounded there) yet it appears not that any ſuch deſolation befell Askelon whereby it ſhould not be inhabited, or Aſhdod; nor ſhould they ſeem in Zacharie's time to have ſo well recovered that Clades by Nebuchadnezzar, as to be a ſubject ripe for a new Prophecie to that purpoſe.

2. That of Tyre in the third verſe of that chapter, That ſhe had built her ſelf a ſtrong hold, and heaped up ſilver as the duſt, and fine gold as the mire of the ſtreets, I doubt whether it ſo well befits her that had ſo lately been deſtroyed by Nebuchadnezzar. Sure not ſo well as it would the time of Jeremy. See Ezekiel's Prophecies thereabout, chap. 26, 27, 28. Sed tranſeat.

3. That which moves me more then the reſt is in chap. 11. (whence that in the Goſpel is quoted) which contains a Prophecie of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and a deſcription of the wickedneſs of the Inhabitants, for which God would give them to the ſword, and have no more pity upon them. It is expounded of the deſtruction by Titus; but methinks ſuch a Prophecie was nothing ſeaſonable for Zacharie's time, (when the City yet, for a great part, lay in her ruines, and the Temple had not yet recovered hers) nor agreeable to the ſcope of Zacharie's Commiſſion, who together with his collegue Haggai was ſent to encourage the people lately returned from Captivity, to build their Temple and inſtaurate their Commonwealth. Was this a fit time to foretell the deſtruction of both, whiles they were but yet a building? and by Zachary too, who was to encourage them? would not this better befit the deſolation by Nebuchadnezzar?

I confeſs I am not ſo well skilled as to interpret the particulars thereof, ſuppoſing they be of that time. But you ſee now what thoſe Pluſcula are I fanſy not ſo well to fit Zacharie's time as Jeremy's. Valeant quantum valere poſſint.

'Tis certain that Jeremie's Prophecies are digeſted in no order, but onely as it ſeems they came to light in the Scribe's hands. Hence ſometimes all is ended with Zedekiah; then we are brought back to Jehojakim, then to Zedekiah again, &c. Whereby it ſeems they came not to light to be enrolled ſecundum ordinem temporis, nor all together, but as it happened in ſo diſtracted a time. And why might not ſome not be found till the return from Captivity, and be approved by Zachary, and ſo put to his Volume, according to the time of their finding and approbation by him, and after that ſome other Prophecies yet added of his?

IF you had not put me out by your laſt Letter, (which I received on Friday Aug. 7.) I was looking into an old Notion concerning our old buſineſs of Antichriſt; a Notion which I had long laid aſide, but upon a late occaſion began to take ſome new liking thereunto, ſeeing ſome good uſe thereof: namely, That the Prophecy of Antichriſt, and the ὕστροι καιροὶ wherein he was to reign, ſhould not be underſtood till many hundreds of years after Chriſt, but remain ſealed till the time appointed, viz. ad ſeculum uſque duodecimum. All this by expreſs prophecy; and that therefore the Authority of the Fathers and their opinion concerning this point is of no validity, howſoever it be now come of late among our ſelves to be a main Objection, That the Pope is not He.

The Diſcourſe upon this Notion was ſoon after finiſht by him, as appears by the following Epiſtle. See the Diſcourſe it ſelf in Book III. page 882.

But now I muſt deferr it to more leiſure, ſome other buſineſs coming upon me, and I being unfit for above one thing at once.

There was ſomething I wrote to you once about the * proof of the Reſurrection out of Moſes, and that Demonſtration of our Saviour in the Goſpel;

* See Epiſtle XLIII.

Goſpel; which I never perceived you found leiſure hitherto ſeriouſly to examine and conſider of: yet may it have ſomething conſiderable.

Thus deſiring Almighty God to fill you with all benediction, with my beſt reſpect I take my leave, and am Chriſt's Coll. Auguſt 12. 1635.

Yours,

Joſeph Mede.

Poſtſcript.

My Sizer being not yet come with a candle, I will tranſcribe a paſſage of Euſebius, concerning the Chriſtian Sacrifice, in his De laudibus Conſtantini. He is magnifying the unparallel'd power of our Saviour teſtified by the wonderful change he had then wrought in the world; to which purpoſe with other paſſages he hath this:

* διασώτοις * θυσιαστήρια * ἀφιερώματα

*Quis alius, ſolo noſtro Servatore excepto, * coepulonibus ſuis incruenta & rationalia Sacrificia, precibus & arcanâ θεολογίᾳ peragenda, tradidit? quorum causâ tum * Altaria in toto terrarum orbe conſtituta, tum Eccleſiarum * dedicationes facta. Soliſque omnium moderatori Deo divina Sacrificiorum ſolâ mente & ratione obeundorum miniſteria ab omnibus gentibus exhibita: Sacrificia verò ſanguine, cruore & fumo peragi ſolita, vi quadam occultâ & inviſibili deleta & extincta ſunt.*

Epistle LXII.

Dr. Twiſſe's Eleventh Letter to Mr. Mede, ſignifying his high eſteem of Mr. Mede's Diſcourſe De Numeris Danielis, Chap. 12. 11, 12.

Right dear and my right worthy Friend,

*In this Letter of Mr. Mede's was encloſed his Latine Diſcourſe De Numeris Dan. or Revelatio Antichriſti, which he promiſed to finiſh, in the foregoing Letter.

*T*His day a little before dinner came your * Letter unto me. I have been of late extremely melancholick; your Letters inſpire chearfulneſs into me—How am I beholden unto you for communicating unto me your Treaſures, which I eſteem beyond the Treaſures of the Queen of Sheba! You have heretofore bleſſed me with the Myſteries of [a]Dan. 11. now with the Myſteries of Dan. 12. verſ. 11, 12. The bare diſcovery of others Errors I ſhould eſteem a Jewel, and a preſervative from engaging our ſelves in erroneous ways, which is worſt of all. Better a great deal to content a man's ſelf with Ignorance, ſo to keep himſelf entire for the embracing of Truth, when the time of its nativity is come. But you goe farther, and from the Text it ſelf diſcover whereto thoſe [b]Numbers tend, namely, for the diſcovery of Antichriſt; which gives me wondrous content: and all this you crown with admirable accommodation to the Event—What a gracious God do we ſerve, that hath ſo well provided for us in theſe times and for our conſolation ſo many hundred years agoe; and as he hath reſerved us for theſe times of light, ſo raiſeth up ſome to open theſe Oracles unto us? What ſhould man be the better for that ſweet Dew, Hony I mean, if the Lord had not provided ſuch a Creature as the Bee by natural inſtinct to ſeek after it, and gather it for the uſe of others as well as for themſelves? — I proteſt unto you, if I ſhould lie in priſon all days of my life, next unto the conſolations of God's Spirit your Writings would moſt refreſh me: They do always diſpell melancholy. I deſire no better Preferment then you can perform, and that a See Epiſtle 41. and Apoſtaſy of the latter times, chap. 16, 17.

b viz. 1290 and 1335 in Dan. 12.

that is to be preferred to acquaintance with your Rarities. I make bold to keep your Diſcourſe till the next week, for I cannot let it paſs from me without copying it out. I commend me to your Love, as one of them I hold moſt dear, and ſhall ever from my heart deſire that God will proſper your courſes and ſtudies, and recompenſe you with himſelf, to be your Buckler and exceeding great Reward—I reſt Newbury, Octob. 12.

1635.

Yours ever in the ſureſt bond,

Will. Twiſſe.

Epistle LXIII.

Mr. Eſtwick's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the Millennium.

SIR,

Touching the Opinion of the Millenaries, it was not yet my hap to light of a Book to inform me: You ſhall find me to be a teachable Scholar: only this Mora Reſurrectionis ſeems to be confuted in divers places of the Scripture, where it is ſaid, The dead ſhall be raiſed at the ſound of the laſt Trump; All they that are Chriſt's, at his coming, (1 Cor. 15.23.) in a moment, verſ. 52. and the coming of the Son of man, See Matth. 24. 39. and, excepting one place, I think the Reſurrection is ſaid to be of good and bad together. How theſe and the like Scriptures are to be expounded agreeably to the doctrine of the Millenaries I would willingly know.

Warkton,
Nov. 4.

Yours ever,

N. Eſtwick.

Epistle LXIV.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, vindicating Lactantius about the Millennium, and proving Cyprian to be for the ſame Opinion; with ſome reflexions upon Jerom's want of Candour and Faithfulneſs in relating the opinion of his adverſaries.

This Letter of Mr. Mede's is in anſwer to ſome other Letter of Mr. E. not to the foregoing Letter, the Anſwer to which is not yet come to our hands. Yet to the like Doubts propounded by others, what Mr. Mede anſwered may be ſeen in his Epiſtola ad Amicum, Book III. page 710. and in Book IV. Epiſtle 21, and Epiſtle 66. Sect. 6.

Mr. Eſtwick,

YOU would bring me to expreſs my ſelf de modo, before you were perſuaded de re. But ſoft you there, I like not that Method.

S. Jerom is a man of no faith with me, when he deſcribes the opinion of his Adverſary: which whatſoever it were, he would ſet it forth as odiouſly as poſſible could be. He was a man that cared not what he ſaid, ſo it might diſparage his Adverſary: This appears ſufficiently in the caſes of Vigilantius and Jovinian. Yea but he lived at the ſame time. Anſw. So do we with thoſe we differ from, and yet we ſee the experience daily, that ſcarce any one will relate the opinion of his Adverſary candidly.

Yea but I cannot deny that Lactantius was for ciborum abundantia, gulæque ac ventris ingluvies, & ea quæ ſub ventre ſunt. But what if I can? The words of Lactantius are onely theſe, Lib. 7. cap. 24. Tunc, inquit, qui erunt in corporibus vivi (he ſpeaks of thoſe who ſhall be living at Chriſt's Second coming) non morientur, ſed per eoſdem mille annos infinitam multitudinem generabunt, & erit ſoboles eorum ſancta & Deo chara. Qui autem ab inferis ſuſcitabuntur, (that is, thoſe who ſhall riſe from the dead Reſurrectione primâ) ii præerunt viventibus tanquam Judices. You ſee he puts a difference between thoſe who ſhall be then living and thoſe who ſhall riſe from the dead. The laſt ſhall live vitam cæleſtem & Angelicam, even on earth, without marrying or giving in marriage; but not the firſt. He ſays indeed the one ſhall generare; but of the other only, that præerunt viventibus tanquam Judices; and preſently in the words following deſcribes that Regnum to be the Mille anni cæleſtis Imperii in quo Juſtitia in orbe regnabit. But of gormundizing, ingluvies & gula, I find no word, unleſſe you think it muſt needs follow upon the taking away the curſe of the creature, and the reſtitution thereof to the perfection it loſt through mans ſin. For Lactantius means no more, but that ſuch as then lived ſhould live the life that Adam ſhould have done in Paradiſe, had he not ſinned: but thoſe that ſhould then riſe from the dead ſhould live in a far more Heavenly and Angelical condition, even the life of the Bleſſed Spirits in Heaven. But S. Jerom is wont to relate the opinion, as if thoſe who roſe again ſhould generare, and give themſelves to feaſting and gormundizing.

Beſides, you ſay S. Auſtin intimates that ſome held ſome ſuch carnal Beatitude. I anſwer; So he intimates that ſome did not, and that himſelf was once of that opinion, and that to hold ſo was tolerable: Quæ opinio eſſet utcunque tolerabilis, ſi aliquæ deliciæ ſpiritales in illo Sabbato affuturæ Sanctis per Domini (i. Chriſti) præſentiam crederentur. Nam nos etiam hoc opinati fuimus aliquando. De Civit. Dei, Lib. 20. c. 7.

But where can I ſhew Cyprian to be a Chiliaſt? You ſee it is tedious to anſwer a Queſtion in writing, which may be asked in a few words. Yet I will ſay ſomething: I ſay therefore, he ſhews himſelf plainly a Chiliaſt (to ſuch as know the myſtery of that Opinion) Lib. de Exhortatione Martyrii. In the Preface whereof he ſpeaks thus; Deſiderâſti, Fortunate chariſſime, ut quoniam perſecutionum & preſſurarum pondus incumbit, & in fine atque conſummatione mundi Antichriſti tempus infeſtum appropinquare nunc cœpit, ad præparandas & corroborandas Fratrum mentes de divinis Scripturis hortamenta componerem, quibus milites Chriſti ad cæleſte & ſpiritale certamen animarem. ——paulò pòſt—— Sex millia annorum jam penè complentur —— ——Si imparatum invenerit Diabolus militem Chriſti, &c.

But he that, as you ſee, expected the coming of Antichriſt ſhould be at the end of the ſixth thouſand year, which he ſuppoſed then near at hand, yet thought the world ſhould laſt 7000. viz. a thouſand years after the deſtruction of Antichriſt, ut patet ex iis quæ diſſerit cap. 11. in theſe words, Quid verò in Maccabais ſeptem fratres & natalium pariter & virtutum ſorte conſimiles, Septenarium numerum perfectæ conſummationis implentes? Sic Septem fratres in Martyrio cohærentes, ut primi in diſpoſitione divina Septem dies, annorum Septem millia continentes——ut conſummatio legitima compleatur, &c. This to him that knows Chiliaſm is plain Chiliaſm. Look and compare your Auſtin, cap. 7. lib. 20. de Civit. Dei, from thoſe words, Qui propter hæc hujus Libri verba primam Reſurrectionem, &c. Compare alſo what Cyprian hath in the end of that Book out of the Goſpel, Mark 10. 29, 30. and Apocalyps 20. and you will acknowledge him to be (as he was wont to profeſs himſelf) Tertulliani Diſcipulum.

But

But I muſt not follow you too far in this kind of anſwering: 'tis tedious. I ſend you ſome more Papers, and ſo with my love, I reſt

Chriſt's College,
Novemb. 16.

Yours,

Joſ. Mede.

EPISTLE LXV.

Dr. Twiſſe's Twelfth Letter to Mr. Mede, containing Seven Quære's, relating partly to Jewiſh and Chriſtian Antiquities, and partly to ſome difficult places of Scripture.

Worthy Sir,

I Have been a ſtranger from you too long; I come now to renew my acquaintance. I preſume you are acquainted with Dr. Heylin's Book of the Hiſtory of the Sabbath. Do you know the Author whom he oppoſeth about the Precepts of Noah, for making the Commandment of the Sabbath one of them, though he name him not? Yet the queſtion is not whether it be one of them, but whether not comprehended under one of them. But he allegeth Rambam to the contrary out of Ainſworth. I have read enough in Cocceius to diſcredit Rambam, and I pray let me know whether Aben Ezra upon Exod. 20. on thoſe words [the ſtranger within thy gates] doth not maintain that it was one of them, coupling it with that of * Nakedneſs and Shedding of Bloud. And though you doubted whether Solomon Jarchi on Gen. 26. 5. did deliver that which he doth of שנים two of them as out of his own opinion: yet Dr. Heylin confeſſeth that Abulenſis and Mercerus teſtify that the Rabbines upon that place are of opinion that Abraham kept the Sabbath.

* 2 of the 7 Precepts of Noah. See Book I. page 25.

I pray, what think you both of his and Dr. White's opinion concerning Synagogues, that the Jews had none before the Captivity, and their Inference thereupon, That the Sabbath was nowhere obſerved (ſave in the Temple) by any publick congregation, but onely in private? Dr. Andrews was of another opinion, as hath been ſhewed me in ſome Notes of his; and his ground in my judgement is fair, Levit. 23. 3. The Seventh day is a Sabbath of reſt, an holy Convocation— it is the Sabbath of the Lord in all your dwellings. The holy Convocation here mentioned ſeems to be in reference to all their dwellings: whereas the other Feaſts and holy Convocations belonging thereto were to be celebrated at Jeruſalem. But I have not yet conſulted any Rabbines about this.

Then, I pray, What think you of Dr. Heylin ſaying, That Evening-prayer on the Lord's-day is but a late invention? Yet I find it in the Jewiſh Synagogue and Nocturnæ after Veſpertinæ; like as I find the like in one of Auſtin's Epiſtles de Tempore: and in Caſſian it appears that the Sabbath-Solemnity was not ended untill the time of their Evening-repaſt corporal——

Doth your plough ſtand ſtill in the Revelation and ſuch like paſſages of a myſterious nature? I hope it doth not.

Is not that Matth. 25. ſpoken of the laſt period of the Day of Judgement? It ſeems it is; for the Reſurrection is general both of Sheep and Goats; yet to the Sheep it is ſaid, Receive the Kingdom. Shall they receive a Kingdom when Chriſt reſigns his unto his Father? and in Heaven it ſeems there are none for them to reign over. Or is it a Figure of ſpeech, repreſenting the glory of that State when God becomes all in all, by the greateſt glory that we are acquainted with, which is the glory of a Kingdom?

I pray, what think you of that in Eſa. 66. 23. From Sabbath to Sabbath ſhall all fleſh come to worſhip before me? Shall not the Obſervation of our Chriſtian Sabbath continue, after Chriſt's coming with his Saints, amongſt the Nations that are ſaved from that Deluge of fire (though it be Irenæus his phraſe, yet I learnt it from you) wherewith the Earth and all the works thereof ſhall be burnt up? And if it be urged that by the ſame reaſon the Feſtivities of the New-moons ſhall have their place in Chriſt's Kingdom as well as Sabbaths, and by conſequence the Ceremonies of the Jews be reſtored: I anſwer, It followeth not; the words may be rendred, From month to month, as the Geneva doth. If we reade it, From New-moon, &c. with our laſt Engliſh, yet it is not neceſſary to underſtand it of any peculiar Feſtivity denoted thereby, leaſt of all Jewiſh. And we Chriſtians in Cathedralls, Colleges and great Towns have our Monthly Communions all the year over.

And ſeeing I am upon it, what think you of Matth. 24. 20. Pray that your flight be not in the Winter nor on the Sabbath-day? We know Dr. Andrews B of Wincheſter as well as Mr. Dod apply it to our Chriſtian Sabbath: And to my judgement it is a ſtrange fiction to apply it to unconverted Jews, that our Saviour ſhould ſtirre them up to pray, who ſcorned the Goſpel whereby alone we come acquainted with ſuch an Admonition, and certainly ſcorned Chriſt's Inſtructions: and how can we think that God would hear the prayers of ſuch? and was it fit that our Saviour ſhould lay ſuch a ground for the countenancing of their prayers, yea and their Jewiſh Sabbath too?

And now truly, Sir, there is no Book that I deſire to ſtudy more then your ſelf. I have found great freeneſs and acceptance with you hitherto, I hope I ſhall do ſo ſtill. I heartily deſire God's bleſſing upon your perſon and ſtudies, as upon myſelf and mine. I ſhall ever reſt

Newbury, April 5. 1636.

Yours in my beſt reſpects exceedingly obliged,

Will. Twiſſe.

Epistle LXVI.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's 7 Quære's, viz. about the antiquity of Synagogues among the Jews and of Even-ſong in the Chriſtian Church, as alſo about the meaning of ſome difficult places of Scripture, viz. Matth. 24. 20. Matth. 25. 31, &c. Iſa. 66. 23, &c.

SIR,

I Turned over the leaves both of the Biſhop's and Dr. Heylin's Book, when they came newly out, that I might ſee their Principles and the way they went: further I am not acquainted with them; becauſe I took no pleaſure neither in their Concluſions nor their Grounds, which, if they be urged, would overthrow a great deal more then they are aware of.

1. If there be any ſuch Author the Dr. oppoſeth for affirming the Sabbath to have been comprehended under one of the 7 Commandments of the Sons of Noah, I ſuppoſe it is Godwyn in his Moſes and Aaron, Lib. 1. cap. 3.

2. That

2. That of Aben Ezra upon Exod. 20. 10. seems to me to be very evident for that Opinion. For though it be as much as I can doe to understand a piece of Rabbinism, yet methinks this passage, if it be translated, will sound thus; Ecce non dubium est quin dictio [אַתָּה Tu] comprehendat unumquemque qui est filius præcepti. Idcirco בִּנְךָ וּבִתֶּךָ Filius tuus & Filia tua sunt Parvuli quorum requies est super te, tibique incumbit officium custodiendi eos, nè quicquam faciant quod tibi vetitum sit. Similiter de עַבְדְּךָ וַאֲמָתֶךָ Servo tuo & Ancillâ tuâ; quoniam in potestate tua est, tui est officii custodire eum, neque sinere eum ut serviat alteri. Sin minùs, tu transgredieris præceptum לֹא תַעֲשֶׂה Non facies; quod eò spectat ut quiescat Servus tuus & Ancilla tua perinde ut tu ipse; sicut exposuit Moses Dominus noster viâ quam commemoravi. Et secundùm hunc Doctorem vovebit גֵּר אֲשֶׁר בִּשְׁעָרֶיךָ Peregrinus qui est intra portas tuas, quòd non facturus sit opus in Die Sabbati neq; in Die Expiationum. Propterea scriptum est secundò Peregrinus. Similiter atq; de præcepto Nuditatis, cùm secundùm hunc Doctorem vovebit quòd custoditurus sit præceptum Nuditatis; eodémq; modo de Comestione sanguinis. This Dominus Moses he here cites, I take to be Rabbi Moses Haddarschan, who lived an hundred years before him, and was Master to R. Solomon Jarchi. Maimonides, whom Ainsworth cites for the contrary opinion, and Aben Ezra, were both of an age and contemporaries.

It may be confirmed out of the Acts, where the Σεβόμενοι, who were of the order of those Proselytes of the Gate, are found to frequent the Synagogues diligently every Sabbath-day, as the Jews did. Acts 13. vers. 14, 42, 43. & ch. 17. vers. 1, 4, 17. & ch. 16. 13, 14. & ch. 18. 4.

3. For Synagogues, I am inclined to believe they were before the Captivity, and not first taken up there, as the more common opinion is. But how to evict it against him that shall obstinately maintain the contrary, I confess I know not. That in Act. 15. 21. [Moses ἐκ γενεῶν ἀρχαίων hath in every City them that preach him, being read in the Synagogues every Sabbath-day] will not reach so farre; yet γενεῶν ἀρχαίων is more then ἡμερῶν ἀρχαίων. If I should allege that of Psal. 74. 8. They have burnt up all the Synagogues of God in the land; they would say as Junius doth, that this Psalm was composed under the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes: and indeed that which follows [We see not our signs, there is no more any Prophet, neither any among us that knoweth how long] may seem to argue it cannot be meant of that vastation by Nebuchadnezzar; for then there were both Prophets, and those that knew how long. But if this be granted, there will arise another difficulty, viz. That either this Psalm is no Canonical Scripture, or That some part of the Canonical Scripture was written long after Malachy, when there was no Prophet and the רוּחַ הַקֹּדֶשׁ had ceased. And if this, why not the first Book of Maccabees? There remains but yours Levit. 23. 3. which to me hath appearance of probability; but he that were refractary would pick some hole or other, either in the word translated [Convocation] or in [dwellings,] especially in the first. See Vulgat. and LXX.

But did not the Levites (shall we think) teach the people out of Jerusalem in the places abroad where they dwelt? And did not the people use to resort to such as could teach them, on Sabbath-days and New-moons? What doth that of the Shunamite argue else, 2 Kings 4. 23? where her husband saith unto her, Wherefore wilt thou go to him (the man of God) to day? It is neither New-moon, nor Sabbath. If this; had they not some place where to resort and assemble?

Besides, were there not then Colleges of Prophets and Prophets Sons in Israel? In the same * chapter we shall find they had, and an hundred men in a place, vers. 43. and in chap. 6. initio, that they had Houses where they lived together. Did not the Israelites erect בָּמוֹת and Houses of false worship too many? Could they think of building Places to transgress God's commandment in, and never of Places wherein to be instructed in his

* 2 Kings, c. 4. 4.

Law? But the Scripture is ſilent. I anſwer, If the ſilence of Scripture be an argument ſufficient to conclude againſt matter of Fact in the times preceding, for the uſe whereof we have teſtimony enough in the times following, without any expreſs intimation of Novelty; then muſt we not think that the Jews paid Tithes from Joſhua's time to Hezekiah's, (for there is no tittle intimating they did) nor that ever they kept the year of Jubilee; for where is it mentioned they did? and ſo of other the like.

4. For Even-ſong publick in the Church, there is very little to be produced out of the Monuments remaining of thoſe Firſt Ages. That the Monks uſed it in their Monaſteries, it is granted, becauſe affirmed that it was from their example derived into the Church. That in their private Devotions devout Chriſtians obſerved the ninth hour as well as the firſt, third and ſixth, in thoſe elder times, may be proved out of Tertullian de Jejunio cap. 10. and S. Cyprian de Oratione Dominica. But for Veſpers in ortu Eccleſiæ, neither of them mentions them. Yet Tertullian in his Apology, together with Pliny ad Trajanum, hath antelucani cœtus; and in his Lib. 2. ad Uxorem, cap. 4. Nocturnæ convocationes: But as thoſe ſeem not to have been properly thoſe we call Mattins, ſo neither theſe our Veſpertinæ. And in this inquiſition notice is to be taken, that both Mattins and Even-ſong were diſtinct from the λειτουργία or ſolemn addreſs of the Church to God in the holy Euchariſt, which they termed Sacrificium Chriſtianum. Well, the moſt ancient Teſtimony to be found of Veſpertinæ in cœtu Eccleſiæ is with the Author of the Διαταγαὶ or Διατάξεις τῶν Ἀποστόλων which, though it be an Apocryphal writing and of a falſe inſcription, yet is the moſt ancient Record of Eccleſiaſtical Antiquity, by way of purpoſed Collection, that is at this day extant, and not younger then 200 years after Chriſt at the moſt. The Author, whoſoever he were, ſeeming to have gathered this Rhapſodie out of the Cuſtomes and Ceremonies he found then in uſe in the Churches founded by the Apoſtles; and ſuppoſing them to have been derived from their inſtitution, accordingly fathered them upon them; and where there was any ſingularity or difference, brings in that Apoſtle, whoſe Church he found it in, as ſpeaking in Council, &c. It is put by Euſebius, in his Catalogue of Sacred Books, amongſt the ἀντιλεγόμενα, by the name of Διδαχαὶ τῶν Ἀποστόλων, and is often quoted by Epiphanius by the name we give it.

In this Rhapſody, Lib. 8. cap. 35. is not onely mention, but the Form of Evening Prayer, with the ſolemn diſmiſſing (at the beginning thereof) of the Catechumeni, &c. as at the Euchariſt, aſcribed to James the Brother of our Lord in particular. Whence it may ſeem, according to my former ſuppoſition, not to have been common at firſt to all Churches, but peculiar to that * of Jeruſalem, whereof this James was the firſt Biſhop; whence alſo the Liturgy of that Church (though the greateſt part thereof (as now it is) were afterward at ſeveral times added) bears the name of S. James his Liturgy.

Ἐπεὶ δὲ γενομένης συναθροίσεις τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, ὧν ἐπίσκοπε, καὶ μετὰ τὸ ῥηθῆναι τὸν ὁπλύχνιον ψαλμὸν, πρόσφωνήσει ὁ διάκονος ὑπὲρ τῶν καθημένων, &c. μετὰ δὲ τὸ ἀπολυθῆναι αὐτὰς, ὁ διάκονος τοὺς ἱερεῖς, Ὅσοι πιστοὶ δεηθῶμεν τοῦ Κυρίου. Tunc ſequitur orandi forma.

* Out of conformation to the times of Worſhip and Prayer in the Jewiſh Church, whoſe cuſtome and practice herein gave opportunity and freedom at the beginning to exerciſe the like in the Chriſtian there reſiding; yea even ſometimes in the chambers of the Temple it ſelf, which were wont to be taken up by Fraternities and Companies coming thither to worſhip. But this could not be ſo regularly obſerved among the Gentiles without much difficulty and danger. Conſider Acts 2. 46. with Acts 3. 1. & Ch. 4 3. For the ninth hour anſwers our Evening-prayer, and then began the ἐυχὴ with the Jews.

The next Teſtimony for antiquity is that of the Council of Laodicea, (which, if Baronius his arguments be good, was before the firſt Council of Nice,) the 17. and 18. Canons whereof are, Quòd non oportet ἐν ταῖς συνάξεσι Pſalmos contexere, ſed interjecto inter unumquemque Pſalmum ſpatio Lectio-

Lectionem fieri: The next, Idem miniſterium Precum ſemper & in nonis & veſperis fieri debere; Gr. τὴν αὐτὴν λειτουργίαν τῆς εὐχῶν πάντοτε καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἐννάταις καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἑσπέραις ὀφείλειν γίνεσθαι. Though I cite both Canons, yet I ſuppoſe not the latter to have reference to the former, (for what had the Evening to doe with the Synaxis?) but the meaning to be, that one and the ſame Form of Prayer ſhould be uſed both at the ninth hour and at the Veſpers.

5. Concerning that in Matth. 24. Pray that your flight be not in the Winter, nor on the Sabbath-day, I conceive thus; That the believing and Chriſtian Jews, even the Apoſtles themſelves, were to obſerve the Rites and Ordinances of Moſes (and conſequently that of the Sabbath together with the Lord's-day) untill their Temple and Politie founded and conſtituted by God himſelf ſhould be actually and fully diſſolved. And do we not find they did ſo? yea even S. Paul himſelf, who was ſo great a Vindex of the liberty of the believing Gentiles, that they ſhould be tied no farther then the Σεβόμενοι or Proſelytes of the Gate were. Therefore Acts 21. it is accounted a ſlander or calumnie which was reported of S. Paul, that he ſhould teach the Jews which were among the Gentiles to forſake Moſes, and that they ought not to circumciſe their children nor walk after the cuſtoms. For neither he nor any other of the Apoſtles taught that the Jews ſhould doe ſo, either abroad among the Gentiles, or at home in Judæa. For the Gentiles indeed they did, and S. Paul (whoſe charge they were) more zealouſly then the reſt, that they ſhould have no ſuch impoſed upon them, according to the decree of the Synod, Acts 15. Conſider it with that Story Acts 21. à verſ. 20. & deinceps. This therefore being to be the condition of the believing Jews when their City ſhould be compaſſed with an Army by Ceſtius Gallus, (at which time they were admoniſhed to flee (to ſave themſelves) with all ſpeed into the mountains of Petræa, as ſoon as Ceſtius by withdrawing a little his Army ſhould give them that liberty) our Saviour ſaith here, Pray that your flight be not on the Sabbath-day. For he ſpeaks not of any flight to be when the City ſhould be taken, or when it ſhould be once beſieged by Titus; for both would be too late; but of a warning beleaguering to precede it.

6. Concerning that in Matth. 25. when our Bleſſed Saviour ſhall ſit upon his Throne of Royalty to judge the world; I conceive a Figure to be in that expreſſion of placing the Sheep on his right hand and the Goats on the left, borrowed from the cuſtome of the Jews in their Tribunals, to place ſuch as were to be abſolved on the right hand, where ſtood the Scribe who took the Votes for Abſolution; and thoſe who were to receive the ſentence of Condemnation, on the left hand, where ſtood the Scribe which took the Votes for Condemnation. Such a cuſtom of theirs Druſius in his Notes upon that place obſerves out of Moſes de Kotſi. That therefore nothing elſe is meant thereby, but that our Saviour ſhould diſtinguiſh the world of men into two Orders; one of ſuch as ſhould receive the Sentence of bliſs and Abſolution, the other of ſuch as ſhould receive the Sentence of Condemnation. That he ſhould firſt pronounce the Sentence of Abſolution upon ſuch as are to be abſolved; and that once finiſhed, then to pronounce the Sentence of Condemnation upon ſuch as are to be condemned.

This Sixth Section, containing The deſcription of the great Judgement accorded with Apocal. 20. was in the former edition of Mr. Mede's Epiſtles printed at the end of his Firſt Letter to Dr. Meddus.

Now I ſuppoſe the Sentence of Abſolution ſhall continue all the time of the Firſt Reſurrection, that is, all the Thouſand years long; that, that once ended and finiſhed, (and not before) he ſhall then proceed to pronounce the Sentence of Condemnation upon ſuch as are to be condemned. For ſo the Text ſaith, that he ſhall in the firſt place pronounce the Sentence of bliſs and Abſolution upon thoſe who are to be abſolved; and that done, then come to the Sentence of Condemnation upon thoſe who ſhall be in ſtatu & ordine damnandorum: that is, ſucceſſively and not at one and the ſame time; * though the Scripture here mentions not the Intervallum which ſhall be between the beginning of the one and the other. Thus you ſee, although my plough ſtand ſtill, unleſs ſometimes it joggs me, yet then I am not unwilling to liſten unto it.

* Narrat conjunctim quæ tempore diviſa forent. Necdum enim Agnus Librum futurorum è manu ſedentis ſuper Thronum reſignandum acceperat; quo tempore hæc omnia particulatiùs & diſtinctiùs patefacienda erant.

7. To that in the end of Eſay 66. of Feſtivities in the Kingdom of Chriſt, I anſwer, I ſee no reaſon why the Lord's-day ſhould not be a celebrious Day when the Lord reigneth. Yet I think the expreſſion there is accommodated to the condition and Diurnal of the Church under the Old Teſtament ad captum Auditorum; and no more thereby to be underſtood, but that in that New World not the Jews alone, as then did, but all the Nations ſhould come before the Lord to worſhip him in the frequent Feſtivities then to be, whatſoever they ſhould be.

Thus I have, as well as I could, anſwered your Sabbatical number of Quæres; if not ſo largely and fully as you deſired, it is becauſe there were too many of them for the narrowneſs of my mind to intend at one time——— Thus therefore with my Prayers to the Almighty for the continuance of his bleſſing and favour to you and yours, I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. April 18.
1636.

Your reſpectfull and true Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

EPISTLE LXVII.

Mr. Mede's Second Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, touching the Gothick Liturgy, and the time when the Goths became Chriſtians.

SIR,

The former part of this, (as alſo of the following Letter) contains matter either of News or of private concern.

——THE Gothick Miſſall is that which the Goths in Spain uſed till they received the Romane; which though, as all other Liturgies, it be to be ſuppoſed to have received many alterations and additions in time, yet no doubt may retain ſome ancient paſſages, whereof theſe Prayers pro defunctis may be ſome, either received from the Spaniſh or African Chriſtians, or from the beginning of their Chriſtianity, which was before Chiliaſm was condemned by Damaſus, or they plundered the Romane Empire. For Theophilus Gothorum Epiſcopus was at the Council of Nice. Anno 360. Ulphilus their Biſhop at a Council at Conſtantinople aſſented to the Formula Ariminenſis, from whence the Goths became firſt infected with Arrianiſm. S. Auguſtine de Civitate Dei uſeth this argument of the Goths Chriſtianity, againſt the Gentiles calumny That the Ruine of the Empire was for their rejecting their ancient Gods and receiving the Chriſtian Religion. For they were Chriſtians that took and ſacked Rome, ſaith he, and not Gentiles. Vide——

Thus with my wonted affection and prayers I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. Nov. 9.
1636.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

EPI-

Epistle LXVIII.

Mr. Mede's Third Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, more fully treating of the Gothick Liturgy and a Clauſe therein of Praying for the Dead to have part in the Firſt Reſurrection; with a Paſſage in Methodius touching the Millennium.

Mr. Eſtwick,

——THE body of the Gothiſh Nation, or of one part thereof, had received the Chriſtian Faith before they plundered the Romane Empire; as appeared by Alaricus himſelf, who with his Army ſolemnly obſerved the Chriſtian Rites. Yet ſeems this to have been between the days of Conſtantine and Julian, and not elder. Howſoever, there is no queſtion but there were many Churches among them before, as was in other Nations long before the Faith was publickly received by them. If ſo, then without doubt when the Nation publickly received the Faith, they received likewiſe that Form of Liturgy which had formerly been uſed in their Country by thoſe of the Chriſtian Rite amongſt them: And thence might remain thoſe paſſages of Praying for the Dead to have part in Reſurrectione Prima. Irenæus Lib. 1. cap. 3. edit. Fevardent. Καὶ γὰρ αἱ κατὰ τὸν κόσμον διάλεκτοι ἀνόμοιαι, ἀλλ' ἡ δύναμις τῆς παραδόσεως μία καὶ ἡ αὐτή· καὶ ὅτε αἱ ἐν Γερμανίαις ἱδρυμέναι ἐκκλησίαι ἄλλως πεπιστεύκασιν ἢ ἄλλως παραδεδόασιν, &c. Tertullian Lib. adv. Judæos, where he tells us that Britannorum inacceſſa Romanis loca were Chriſto ſubdita, ſays moreover, that In Sarmatarum & Dacorum & Germanorum & Scytharum & abditarum multarum Gentium & Inſularum nobis ignotarum locis, Chriſti Nomen, qui jam venit, regnat, &c. Why may not the Goths be comprehended under ſome of theſe? As for the Vandals and the reſt of thoſe Northern Nations, I find not that they brought any Signs of Chriſtianity with them when they firſt invaded and ſeated in the Empire, but were altogether Pagans.

As for that Form of Prayer for the Dead, Ut partem haberent in Reſurrectione Prima, I believe it was uſual in thoſe Formulæ for the Dead till Chiliaſm was cried down, and then expunged: namely, that it followed thoſe words (which appear yet in moſt of thoſe Forms) Ut collocet eorum animas Deus in ſinu Abrahæ, unde abeſt dolor & ſuſpirium, as it does in this Gothiſh Miſſal. Whence it is that now in thoſe Forms there appears no Prayer at all for their Reſurrection or Conſummation then; notwithſtanding that in the Protaſis they compellate God with Qui hominem mundi civem mortalem in conſtitutione ſua feciſti, & promiſiſti ei Reſurrectionem. Who can believe that in ſuch Prayers they ſhould not at all pray for the Reſurrection? But that paſſage being it ſeems anciently ſpecificated to Reſurrectio Prima, they thought it ſufficient in after-times to omit it, without ſubſtitution of any other for it: And hence comes that ſilence of the Reſurrection.

But that you may yet ſee my thoughts ſtill now and then reflect upon that Speculation, (which you thought I had forgotten) I will give you a paſſage of Methodius Olympi Lyciæ, deinde Tyri Epiſcopus, and a Martyr ſub Decio, (alii ſub Valeriano,) which paſſage, with a good part of his Dialogue de Reſurrectione contra Origenem, is preſerved by Epiphanius Hæreſ. 74. There Proclus (cui tribuit loquendi partes) ſpeaks in this manner.

Et

* παραχθησεσθαι τὴν κτίσιν.

Et verò * conturbatam iri Creaturam, velut in conflagratione iſta morituram, ut reſtauretur; non tamen extinctum iri exſpectandum: Ut in inſtaurato Mundo ipſimet inſtaurati ac doloris expertes habitemus; juxta illud Pſal. 103. Emittes ſpiritum tuum & creabuntur, & renovabis faciem terræ. Quòd nimirum ambientem Aerem temperatiſſimum deinceps facturus ſit Deus. Cùm enim μετὰ τοῦτον τὸν αἰῶνα Terra adhuc perſeveratura ſit; habitatores in ea futuros omnino neceſſe eſt, qui nec morituri ſunt ampliùs, neq; copulandi nuptiis, aut procreandæ ſoboli operam daturi; ſed Angelorum more ἀμεταβρόφως in immortalitatis ſtatu * optima facturi. Proindéque ſtultum eſt, Quanam vitæ ratione uſura ſunt corpora (in Reſurrectione) quærere, ſi nec Aer, neque Terra, neque quicquam cæterorum ſit ampliùs futurum.

* ἄριστα πράξαντας.

Whether do you not think this man to have been a Chiliaſt? But no man deſires to be acquainted with Notions that way; wherefore then ſhould I goe about to cramme them? I think ſcarce any of you of my acquaintance knows the tenth part of my adventures that way. I can be content to ſatisfie myſelf without troubling others, unleſs I ſee them ſeriouſly deſirous to be informed. But no man I find loves any Speculations but ſuch as he thinks will advance his profitable ends, or advantage his Side or Faction. Mundus amat decipi. But there will be a time one day, when God thinks fit.

Chriſt's Coll. Nov. 15.

J. M.

EPISTLE LXIX.

Mr. Mede's Fourth Letter to Mr. Eſtwick, (with part of another Letter, the beginning whereof is wanting) in anſwer to ſeveral Enquiries.

1. FOR my Paradox of the American World, I could ſay that to make it probable, and ſo much, as would be too tedious to write. For the preſent I will adde this more concerning it, That I believe it was not inhabited in Chriſt's and his Apoſtles times, nor ſome Ages after it; nor are there any veſtigia found therein of any elder habitation thereof. I believe it to have been firſt inhabited ſince the days of Conſtantine, when the Devil ſaw he could no longer reign here without controll and the continual affront of the Goſpel and Croſs of Chriſt. Then he ſought out another World to plant him a Kingdom in, ubi nec Pelopidarum facta neque nomen audiret. Upon this ground may be anſwered many ſcruples concerning that World: as, of Noah's Deluge; of the Creatures there, not found here, where Noah's Ark reſted; of the Apoſtles preaching the Goſpel, why it was contained within our World, and yet ſaid, * The ſound thereof went into the ends of the Earth, &c.

* Rom. 10.

Some of them, you ſay, are converted. But the New-Englanders have not yet converted one; the Spaniards have, but unto Antichriſt, not to Chriſt; and the Story of their Converſion is ſuch, as may make a man juſtly ſuſpect there hath ſcarce yet been ever a true Chriſtian of that race. Yet I ſpeak, in my Conjectura de Gogo & Magogo*, of a General Converſion only, not of a Converſion of ſome few or of ſome ſmal and ſcarce conſiderable part in regard of the Vaſtneſs of the whole.

* See Book III. page 713.

2. To your Caſe of Conſcience I anſwer thus. Though the teaching of a School be in some sort reducible to a Sacred Function, as it may be managed and intended; yet for Titius to leave a Pastoral charge for it, when he hath been once dedicated to that Sacred Office, I hold an inexcusable Sacrilege, unless perhaps in a case of Necessity. I would rather therefore advise the continuance of both, then to forsake the one for the other.

of

3. For that of the Ark of the Covenant, what do you mean? There is nothing more indubitate in Scripture, then that the Ark was under the wings of the Cherubins in the Sanctum Sanctorum or most Holy place; as Exod. 26. 33, 34. 1 Kings 8. 6, &c. and Hebr. 9. Or do you mean (for I have not the Bishop's Book) that it was not there when Hilkiah found the Book of the Law? That place of the Chronicles indeed (if it be rightly translated) should argue it had been taken thence during Manasseh's prophanation of the Temple, and that, it may be, by the true worshippers, (for what fellowship had the Ark of God with Idols?) and so not restored again to his place till Josiah purged the Temple. Or what if Manasseh himself had caused it to be taken thence when he dedicated the Temple to his Idols, lest it might serve them as it once did Dagon? But Tremellius or Junius turns the place otherwise; and yet methinks somewhat forcedly. Videsis. 2 Chron. 34.

4. How often is the Resurrection of the Unjust mentioned in the Epistles, either together with that of the Just, or by it self? And where both are mentioned elsewhere, it is not said, they should be together, though they be mentioned together; for there is difference between mentioning and being. As for the * Last Trump, it proves nothing untill you define what is the First Trump, yea what Trump is. It is no where said, The Resurrection of the dead shall be in a moment; but that * those who are alive shall be changed in a moment. And what though the Resurrection in respect of each Individuum be in a moment? Yet would it not follow that all that rise shall rise in one and the same moment. To that of the * 25 of Matthew you shall have a sufficient answer when you have made progress enough to understand it. (For out of chap. 24. (which you cite) I see not any thing toward your purpose. For those in ver. 39. are not the dead, but the living; nor is the Resurrection at all mentioned in that Chap. but at the most implied onely.) In the mean time I send you the Copie of an * Epistle written once to Mr. Chappel, to satisfie a friend of his who had desired him to know my Answer to certain Quære's and Objections somewhat like those of yours: His Letter being directed to Mr. Chappel, and not to me, I made my Answer accordingly as you see. Keep it clean, and send me it again when you have done with it; and as I see occasion, I may perhaps send you some more of the like Argument.

* 1 Cor. 15. 52.

* Vers. 51, 52.

* See this cleared in Epistle LXVI. Sect. 6.

* This is that Epistola ad Amicum, &c. beginning with C. Consocie. See it printed in Book III. page 710.

5. For reading the Service at the Altar, &c. was it not enough to give you the Premisses, but I must put the Conclusion into your mouth? I adde now, That the Priest or Deacon came down from the Altar to reade the Gospel, unto the Ambo or other eminent place where he might be seen and heard of the people. And in such place were all Lessons of Scripture read whosoever read them, and not at the Altar. The Altar was the place to speak to God at; the Ambo or Pulpit (or such like place) to speak to the People. Besides those Prayers at the Altar, whereto the People were to say Amen, were read in a high distinct and singing tone, which might be heard and understood at great distance of all the people. That submiss reading in Churches sine cantu, which we use now, was not then in use. If it had, it could never have been heard of half the Congregation in so large Churches, and where some stood so far off, as the Catechumeni, Auditores, Pœnitentes, who were to be partakers of the Readings and Sermons, and nothing else, and yet stood ſtood at the remoteſt diſtance from the place both of it and Prayer. I love not to anſwer to things in Hypotheſi, but in Theſi. The world is right on no ſide. Let them look to the hypotheſis whom it concerns. Quo jure ego qui Theſin tantùm defendo, ad hypotheſin præſtandam adigerer?

* viz. The Holy Table, Name and Thing.

6. Concerning the * Book written mediately or immediately by the B. of Lincoln; It is written very ably and with much variety of Learning; and where that Coal lay open to the laſh, (as it did in ſome things very foully) he pays him ſoundly and very magiſterially. Yet I may tell you that in the Diſcourſe concerning the Antiquity of the Name Altar, there is parùm aut nihil ſinceri aut ſani: And though his Adverſary quoted what he never ſeems to have read and examined, and is accordingly (and deſervedly) met withall; yet are there ſuch ſtrange miſtakes, confuſions, concealments and wreſted interpretations of the Anſwerer, that he lies open to the laſh for that part extremely; inſomuch that I believe that part to have been elaborated by another hand, and one that gave more truſt to the opinions of ſome of our Writers then to his own ſearch and judgement.——

But whereas the Coal maintained that Altars had generally and anciently ſtood up againſt the Eaſt-wall, and not in medio τῆ ἀγίᾳ βήματος, (which was a monſtrous and foul error, as I had often told ſome of ours here) you ſhall find him moſt fully and largely confuted; but the place of Socrates as ſtrangely expounded, as the Coal's illation therefrom was moſt illogically and weakly deduced.——

Thus with my wonted affection and prayers I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. March 22.
1637.

Yours,

Joſ. Mede.

Epistle LXX.

Dr. Twiſſe's Thirteenth Letter to Mr. Mede, wherein (after his deſire to know his judgement of Mr. Potter's Book touching the Number of the Beaſt 666) he expoſtulates with him about certain Ceremonies, &c.

Reverend Sir and my worthy Friend,

HAD I ſtay'd longer in Cambridge, you had enjoy'd my company longer, or (to ſpeak more properly) I ſhould have deſired to enjoy your company longer; and it would be very long ere I ſhould be weary of your diſcourſe. I long to hear your judgement of Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe touching the Number of the Beaſt 666. I preſume alſo you know Biſhop Uſher's opinion of Chriſt's Kingdom here on earth; I would gladly know it, and whether he doth retract his former opinion touching the Binding of Satan, which in his Book De ſucceſſione Eccleſiæ he conceives to have been in the days of Conſtantine.

I have returned your Paper, and ſent you a Copie of your own concerning * The Four Monarchies, which you call The A B C of Prophecies. I have ſent you alſo Tilenus his Synod of Dort and Arles reduced to practice, with an Anſwer thereunto. In Oxford it's counted unanſwerable, tranſlated out of French by D. or A. from whom it was ſpred (as I hear) in O. and at firſt fathered upon one of them. But it appears by the Dutch copy and

* See Epiſtle VIII. page 908.

Voetius.

Voetius his answer in Dutch, that Tilenus was the Author. At my coming from Cambridge I found 8 Copies of them sent unto me, and 6 of them I have sent amongst you; for truly I never found better content in any friends then there with you, and with your self amongst the rest. O Mr. Mede! I could willingly spend my days in hanging upon your eares, while you discourse of Antichrist and the accommodation of his Legend to the Pope of Rome, and the Whore of Babylon to Rome it self; though my studies have layn far more in their Writings then in our own Divines, and I was never found to dislike any Opinion of a Papist for the Papist's sake who maintains it, as having profited in Divinity more by their Writings then by our own, always excepting Interpretation of Scripture: How much more to hear you discourse of the glorious Kingdom of Christ here on Earth to begin with the ruine of Antichrist? It may be you do not find many Disciples more docile this way then my self.

But I would intreat you to spare me in the point of Ceremonies; in some particulars whereof you told me once in a * Letter you were no Practitioner; but now I fear by that which I find you are a Promoter of them. In Easter-term last I heard——your good Friend, while he lived, complain not a little of a Sermon of yours which you had then lately preached, and he delivered it with much grief. After Mr. B. wrote unto you of the battel of Armageddon, inquiring whether the time thereof were not already extant, the next Letter I received from him had this passage; "I am verily of Mr. M^{s}. Opinion in this, "that the times wherein we live are the times for the slaughtering of the Wit-"nesses. Whereupon I compared your Letters, and I found that well it might be by your opinion. And if it be so, how sorry should I be to observe that you should have an hand in the slaughtering of them? as namely by promoting of such courses and countenancing them, for not conforming whereunto many are like to be slaughtered, that is, according to your interpretation, turned out of their Places—— And as for outward complements, nothing more pleaseth a natural man in Religious worship, and he finds himself apt enough for it, yea far more apt then he who, knowing and considering that God is a Spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in Spirit, are most careful for the performance thereof; whereupon while their minds are intent, they find themselves not so free for outward complements, the care whereof is apt to cause avocation and disturbance in that Unum necessarium.

* See Epist. LVI.

You bade me stand up at Gloria Patri, and it was in such a note too, that you had the mastery of me I know not how. I profess I little look'd for such Entertainment at your hands. My Wife's father, Dr. M. was Bishop Bilson's Chaplain, and most respected by him of any Chaplain that ever he had, and he a Cathedral-man too; but they could never get him to stand up at Gloria Patri. I living in a Country-Auditory am a mere stranger to such Ceremonies; neither do I know any order of our Church urging thereunto; neither do I know when it began and upon what grounds: it may be it was upon their prevailing against the Arrians; and as the Creed is pronounced standing, so and in the same respect this also; all which is duly to be considered before we come to the practice of it. It is true, we were private, and I was loth to offend you.--In like sort, concerning Bowing towards the Altar, for which it was (as I heard) that you preached, I profess unto you I have hitherto received no satisfaction, and I long to hear of my Lord of Armagh's judgement of the passages between us. And therein I perceive the main thing you reached after was a certain Mystery concerning a Sacrifice, which the Papists have miserably transformed, but in your sense is now-a-days become a Mystery to all the Christian world. And hereupon you touched upon the Judgements of God at this time in Christendom, as if it were for the neglect of that Sacrifice; which while I attended, in the issue came onely to the Sacrilege of these Times. But whether your mea- ning were not, That for God to be robbed of ſuch a Sacrifice was a great Sacrilege, I know not. And by Mr. B. I heard, as from your ſelf, the practice of Biſhop Andrews's Chappel was that which firſt caſt you upon ſuch a way, ſo as from thence to obſerve the courſe and practice of Antiquity. But in my poor judgement it is very ſtrange that a matter of ſuch importance as you ſeem to make it ſhould have ſo little evidence in God's Word and Antiquity, and depend merely upon certain Conjectures. That which you ſtyle your Conjectura de Gogo & Magogo, in my poor judgement, is more rational by far; and yet the matter thereof you know to be very ſtrange, but it prevails very much with me —— That Declaration of the Palſgrave's Churches, ſince I came home, I have ſeen: I remembred your Cenſure of it as a laxe thing: Others paſſe other judgements upon it on my knowledge, and thoſe Divines were accounted in thoſe days as grave and learned Divines as moſt in Chriſtendom. Indeed the matter of Bowing at hearing the name of Jeſus is nothing pleaſing to ſome in theſe times: But how doth B. As. reading in Antiquity ſerve his turn for that? Cornelius à Lapide is a Papiſt and a Jeſuite: he ſaith ad nomen Jeſu in S. Paul is no more then ad Jeſum. I know it is the Father's pleaſure, that as we honour the Father, ſo we ſhould honour the Son, and all the world ſhall never bring me to ſhew more reverence at the hearing of the name of Jeſus then at the hearing of the name Jehovah; and when we are, as we ſhould be, intent upon our religious comportment before God according to the inward adoration in ſpirit, that we ſhould watch when a word comes, to perform outward obeiſance, in my judgement is very ſtrange. And I remember how faintly Mr. H. carries himſelf in this; and others, in pleading for it, moſt of all urge this, that no body is troubled about it: but now more then enough muſt yield or ſuffer —— I never had experience of the practice till now, and that makes me the bolder to write as I do: Yet whatſoever we ſhall be put unto, I am glad that I have ſuch liberty to conferre with you thereabouts. I am lately grown acquainted with my Lord of Armagh, being encouraged to write unto his Grace about the matter of the Sabbath; which I willingly apprehended, and acquainted him with all my Grounds whereupon I proceeded: and he juſtifies them all. I intreated alſo help in Antiquity about the Notion of a Sabbath given to the Lord's-Day; and he profeſt unto me, that he never inclined his mind to obſerve that in all his reading, and added this reaſon, For he never thought to ſee ſuch times as theſe to call into queſtion Whether the Moral Law contains Ten or but Nine Commandments. And Dr. Reynolds being ask'd what he thought of Beza's judgement concerning the Sabbath, made no other anſwer but this, You know the Commandment. Thus have I made bold to write freely as to my dear friend. I doubt not but whenſoever I am put unto it, I ſhall find you the readier to afford me your beſt ſatisfaction; for certainly I will neglect no means to keep me out of the paw of the Lion as well as I can. I commend you to the grace of God, and with many thanks for your love and free communication of precious things I take my leave, ever reſting

Newbury, March 20.
1636.

Yours to love and honour you,

Will. Twiſſe.

EPISTLE

Epistle LXXI.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse's several Expostulations; together with his judgement of Mr. Potter's Discourse touching the Number of the Beast, 666.

Worthy Sir,

I Have received yours, and heartily thank you for the Book you sent me, which I find to be no laxe, but a nervous, close and well-composed Discourse, as written by an abler hand then Voetius or any Dutch-man of them all; yea I believe the ablest in that argument now living.

Concerning Mr. Potter's Discourse, before I tell you my opinion, I find I have some things else to answer, and such as press me so hard as I cannot deny them the first place; especially one of them, which complains much of being mistaken: As that I bad you (hearing Prayers in our Master's Closet) to stand up at Gloria Patri. I'le assure you, you were mistaken. My words were, We stand up, or They stand up, (I know not certainly which,) intending onely to have you take notice of our manners and fashions; as I did also the night before, when they bowed at the name Jesus in the Creed. I confess indeed when I saw you so suddenly to alter your posture, I had some suspicion lest you misunderstood me, and repented me I had spoken, and thought of it sometimes afterward. Yet mine was but doubting: I would yours had been so too. For why would you suppose me to be so uncivil as to speak unto a stranger and my better in degree in such a rude manner, or note as you call it? Surely in this you were to blame. Nay I do not remember that ever I bad any one, little or great, either to stand up at Gloria Patri, or bow at the name Jesus, or to conform to other the like posture, all days of my life; however my opinion hath been concerning them. The plain truth is, I had a desire to have talked with you about these things, and to have acquainted you with something I had that way; which, now I find your mind so averse, I shall never doe. For this end it was that I ever anone put you in mind to observe our postures, and now and then at other times in our discourse touch'd upon something of that kind, to have given occasion of conference about those matters. And the rather I desired it, because I had declared my self so far in my Letters unto you formerly, as I thought might require more to be added to prevent such scruples as might arise from thence. You may remember what hint I gave you in our Gate-house the first night, concerning that place in * Daniel, And he shall think to change Times and Laws, and they shall be given into his hand for a time, times and half a time. I would fain have entred with you upon that Scripture, and told you I had some Notion thereabout which some friends of mine had termed Dog and Cummin-seed, &c.

* Dan. 7. 25.

As for my Sermon at S. Marie's, if I could have enjoyed you privately & sine arbitris, (which I much, but in vain, desired) in all probability you had been (together with some other things) better acquainted with some of the Contents thereof. And as for preaching for Bowing to Altars; if my memory fail me not, the word Altar (unless in citing a place of Scripture) was never mentioned in my whole Discourse. Sure I am, there was no Bowing spoken of, either with respect to it or to the Communion-Table; but onely of Bowing in general without any determination. Besides, that which was spoken was done as it were obiter and in few words, without insisting thereupon, and that too with premised caution; and nothing so much by a great deal, nor ſo punctual, as I had diſcourſed in the ſame place * Sixteen years agoe in a Concio ad Clerum for my Degree upon another Text.

* See this printed in Book II. page 507.

The Text now was that of Solomon, Eccleſ. 5. * Look to thy feet when thou comeſt to the Houſe of God; and be more ready to obey (for ſo I rendred שמע) then to offer the Sacrifice of Fools, &c. The Parts, 1. A Precept of reverent and awful demeanour and accommodation when we come to God's Houſe, in the firſt words. 2. A Caution, not to preferre the ſecondary Service of God before the firſt and principal, in the latter words, Be more ready to obey, &c.

* See this printed in Book II. page 432.

I diſcourſed of the Condition of Places dedicated to Divine worſhip or God's Houſe. 2. What the Ratio was, or wherein conſiſted the ſpecification of the Divine Preſence, when he is ſaid to be in one place more then another. The Precept [Look to thy feet] I underſtood and interpreted as an Alluſion to that Rite of Diſcalceation uſed by the Jews and other Nations of the Orient when they came into Sacred Places, and ſtill to this day continned amongſt them. Concerning which I produced divers Teſtimonies; the ancienteſt that of God to * Moſes in the buſh, and to * Joſhua, together with that Symbole of Pythagoras, Ἀνυπόδητος σὺς καὶ προσκύνει, Diſcalceato pede ſacrificato, adoratóque, &c. Hence I made the ſenſe of theſe words of Solomon to be as if we inflecting them to our manners ſhould ſay, Look unto or Be obſervant of thy Head when thou comeſt into the Houſe of God; meaning that he ſhould put off his Hat, and uſe any other Reverence wont to accompany it as a leading Geſture. For ſo was this Rite of Diſcalceation among the Jews, a leading Ceremony to other Reverential guiſes then uſed; as the putting off of the Hat (in civil uſe) is wont to be with us.

* Exod. 3. 5.
* Joſ. 5. 15.

Hence I inferred, It was not onely lawful, but fit and a Duty commended to us in Scripture, to uſe ſome kind of Reverence, yea ſome Reverential guiſe and geſture, when we come into God's Houſe. Where after a very few words of the thing in general, in the cloſe I had theſe words.

[For, ſhould we come into God's Houſe as we do into a Barn or Stable? It was not good manners once ſo to come into a man's houſe. Therefore our Bleſſed Saviour, when he ſent forth his Diſciples to preach the Goſpel, Matth. 10. would not have them to enter into a man's houſe without ſalutation; Εἰσερχόμενοι εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, (ſaith he) ἀσπάζεσθε αὐτήν, When ye enter into a houſe, ſalute it. Why ſhould we not think it to be a part of Religious manners to doe as much when we come into the Houſe of God? But if any ſhall ask me here, what other Geſture beſides the Uncovering of the Head I would require in this caſe, becauſe I intimated that (even now) to be a leading Geſture; I anſwer, This belongs to the diſcretion of our Superiors and the authority of the Church to appoint, not to me to determine. For here, as in all other Ceremonies, the Church is not tied, but hath liberty to ordain that which ſhe ſhall think moſt ſuitable and agreeable to the time, place and manners of the people where ſhe lives. Yet if I may without offence or preſumption utter what I think, then I ſay, That Adoration or the Bowing of the Body, together with ſome ſhort Ejaculation, (which the Church of Iſrael uſed in her Temple together with Diſcalceation, and which the Chriſtians of the Orient at this day uſe in their Churches, and time out of mind have done ſo) is of all others the moſt ſeemly, ready and fitting to our manners; were it once by uniform order and practice eſtabliſhed: namely, according to that of Pſal. 132. 7. Introibimus in Tabernacula ejus, incurvabimus nos Scabello pedum ejus; or to that of Pſal. 5. 7. I will enter into thine Houſe in the multitude of thy mercies; in thy fear will I worſhip toward thy holy Temple: Which is the Form the Jews uſe

at

at this day at their ingreſs into their Synagogues, and ſo for ought I know might we too]

This was the whole paſſage verbatim as I ſpake it. Whence I paſſed immediately to the Second part of my Text, Be more ready to obey, &c. where my chief Obſervation, wherewith I concluded, was, The Condition of all External Service of God in general, in the eyes of God; which was ſuch as he accepted no otherwiſe then ſecundariò, namely as iſſuing from a Heart reſpectively affected with that Devotion it importeth. That as the Body without the Soul is but a Carkaſs; ſo is all Bodily worſhip wherein the pulſe of the Heart's devotion beats not.

Now, Mr. Doctor, what was there in all this that an honeſt, diſcreet and moderate man, being ſo perſuaded as I am, might not ſpeak? But you will ſay, What need had I to ſay any thing at all? I'le tell you. My opinion in theſe things was well known to many in the Univerſity. Our Pulpit had a long time been inflamed with ſuch Diſcourſes. My obſtinate ſilence, having had more then once opportunity to declare myſelf, and being ſtudied in theſe matters, was imputed to me by ſome to proceed either ex malitioſo affectu toward ſuch as furthered theſe things, or out of too much addiction and tenderneſs to the Puritan faction; which is a crime here, if it be once faſtened upon a man, nullo Oceano eluendum. I thought good therefore to declare my ſelf; which yet I did with that caution and tenderneſs, which might not give any juſt cauſe of offence to thoſe who were contrary-minded; who yet now I perceive deſerved it not, by their over-laviſh report of what was ſpoken.

Beſides I obſerved, both out of Books daily printed and out of ſuch Diſcourſes as I had heard, upon what dangerous Grounds ſome defended theſe things; namely ſuch as would in time inferre the lawfulneſs of Image-worſhip: I thought good therefore in more private Diſcourſes to ſet them upon ſafer Principles, and ſuch as might, if it were poſſible, prevent ſuch an Evil. And in all this why may I not ſay, What have I done? was there not a cauſe?

Yea but I am a great Practiſer and Proſecuter of ſuch ways. Yet for all this I bowed not to the Altar when I came out of S. Mary's Pulpit, as others commonly uſe to doe. I have urged no man at any time to uſe any of theſe Ceremonies, nor conformed my ſelf to any of them, till I ſaw them prevail ſo generally as I ſhould have been accounted ſingular. Our own Chappel is very regular, yet was not any thing introduced by me, but others. I confeſs I had no ſcruple to follow them; beſides I took occaſion by my Chappel-exerciſes to inform them of the nature and grounds of what they practiſed, leſt for want thereof they might cheriſh ſome unſafe conceit. And notwithſtanding I preached for Bowing (as you ſay) to Altars, yet I have not hitherto uſed it my ſelf in our own Chappel, though I ſee ſome others doe it. If I come into other Chappells where it is generally practiſed, I love not to be ſingular where I have no ſcruple.

But you would not have me have any hand in killing the Witneſſes. God forbid I ſhould; I rather endeavour they might not be guilty of their own deaths. And I verily believe the way that many of them goe is much more unlikely to ſave their lives, then mine. I could tell you a great deal here, if I had you privately in my chamber, which I mean not for any mans ſake to commit to paper. Siracuſæ veſtræ capientur, & in pulveré pingitis?

As for Bowing at the name Jeſus, 'tis commanded by our Church. And for myſelf, I hold it not unlawful to adore my Saviour upon any Cue or hint given. Yet could I never believe it to be the meaning of that place

* Chap. 2. 10. of the * Philippians; nor that it can be inferred thence, otherwiſe then by way of a general and indefinite conſequence. I derive it rather from the Cuſtom of the World in ſeveral Religions thus to expreſs ſome kind of Reverence, when that which they acknowledge for their God is named; as we find the Turks doe at this day. Beſides I conceive, to doe this reverence at the name Jeſus onely, is proper to the Latine Church, and it may be of later ſtanding. For, if ſome Greeks have not deceived me, the cuſtome of the Orient is to bow the head not only at the name Jeſus, but at the name Chriſt, and ſometimes (though not ſo frequently) at the name God. And if that were the faſhion of the elder Chriſtianity, that out of S. Hierom would ſound more to the purpoſe, Moris eſt Eccleſiaſtici Chriſto genu flectere. This is all I can ſay to this point, having had fewer Notions thereabout then about any of the reſt.

That the worſhip of the Inward man is that which God principally requires and looks at, I think no Chriſtian man denies. But what then? Doth not our Saviour's rule hold notwithſtanding in ſuch a compariſon, *Ταῦτα ἔδει ποιῆσαι, κἀκεῖνα μὴ ἀφιέναι; And conſider that the Queſtion is not here (as moſt men ſeem to make it) between Inward worſhip and Outward worſhip ſeorſim, (for in ſuch caſe it is plain the Outward is nothing worth) but whether the Inward worſhip together with the Outward may not be more acceptable to God then the Inward alone. As for that ſo commonly objected Scripture in this queſtion, Of worſhipping the Father in ſpirit and truth, as the Characteriſtical difference of the Evangelical worſhip from the Legal; I believe it hath a far different ſenſe from that it is commonly taken to have, and that the Jews in our Saviour's ſenſe worſhipped the Father in ſpirit and truth. But my work grows ſo faſt, that I muſt let it paſs, and be content with that vulgar anſwer, viz. That under the Old Teſtament God was worſhipped in types and figures of things to come: but in the New, men ſhould worſhip the Father in ſpirit and truth, that is, according to the verity of the things preſignified; not that they ſhould worſhip him without all geſtures or poſtures of Body, to which purpoſe it is wont to be alledged.

*Matt. 23. 23.

John 4.

But all this while my mind is upon another matter, which at length I am gotten unto, viz. your ſtrange conſtruction and cenſure of the pains I took in opening my thoughts ſo freely unto you concerning theſe matters of reverential poſture and geſture, in reſpect of that interlaced piece wherein I intimated the Euchariſt to have in it ratio ſacrificii. For

1. Becauſe in the cloſe of my Letter I expreſſed my fear of ſome Judgement to befall the Reformed Churches, becauſe out of the immoderation of their zeal they had in a manner taken away all Difference between * Sacred and Prophane; you will needs ſuſpect I aimed to make the preſent Judgements of God upon Chriſtendom to be for neglect of that Sacrifice which I had ſpoken of: a thing I never thought of, nor thought ſo plain an expreſſion of my meaning could ever have been ſo miſtaken. I pray let me intreat you to reade over thoſe papers once again, and then tell me with whom the fault is. For why? Is not to eſteem the Euchariſt a Sacrament, to account it a Sacred thing, unleſs it be accounted a Sacrifice?

* I meant, Between Sacred Things, Perſons, Times and Places, and Profane. The neglect or violation of the reſpect due to all which may in a large ſenſe be termed Sacrilege. And then conſider whether that of S. Paul [Thou that hateſt Idols, doſt thou commit Sacrilege?] God may not in time upbraid the Reformation with. This was that I reached at.

2. It ſeems ſtrange to you that a matter of ſo great importance, as I ſeem to make this Sacrifice to be, ſhould have ſo little evidence in God's Word and Antiquity, and depend merely upon certain conjectures. As for Scripture, if you mean the name of Sacrifice, neither is the name Sacrament nor Euchariſt (according to our Expoſitions) there to be found; no more then Ὁμοούσιος. Yet may not the thing be? But when you ſpeak of ſo little Evidence to be found in Antiqnity, I cannot but think ſuch an Affirmation far more ſtrange then you can poſſibly my Opinion. For what is there in Chriſtianity for which more Antiquity may be brought then for this? I ſpeak not now of the Fathers meaning, (whether I gueſſed rightly at it or not) but in general of their Notion of a Sacrifice in the Euchariſt. If there be little Antiquity for this, there is no Antiquity for any thing. Euſebius Altkircherus, a Calviniſt, printed Neuſtadii Palatinorum 1584. & 1591. De myſtico & incruento Eccleſiæ Sacrificio, pag. 6. Fuit hæc perpetua ſemper omnium Eccleſiaſticorum Patrum concors & unanimis ſententia, Quòd inſtituta per Chriſtum paſſionis & mortis ſuæ in Sacra Cœna memoria etiam Sacrificii in ſe contineret commendationem. Morton in Epiſt. Dedicator. prefixed to his Book of the Euchariſt, Apud veteres Patres (ut quod res eſt liberè fateamur) de Sacrificio Corporis Chriſti in Euchariſtia incruento frequens eſt mentio, quæ dici vix poteſt quantopere quorundam alioqui doctorum hominum ingenia exercuerit, torſerit, vexaverit; aut è contrà quàm jactanter Pontificii de ea re ſe oſtentent. And that in the Age immediately following the Apoſtles the Euchariſt was generally conceived of under the name and notion of a Sacrifice, (to omit the Teſtimonies of Ignatius and Juſtin Martyr) take onely this of Irenæus Lib. 4. cap. 32. Dominus diſcipulis ſuis dans conſilium primitias Deo offerre ex ſuis creaturis —eum qui ex creatura Panis eſt accepit, & gratias egit dicens, Hoc eſt Corpus meum; & Calicem ſimiliter, qui eſt ex ea creatura quæ eſt ſecundùm nos, ſuum Sanguinem confeſſus eſt: & Novi Teſtamenti novam docuit Oblationem, quam Eccleſia ab Apoſtolis accipiens in univerſo mundo offert Deo, &c. And chap. 34. Igitur Eccleſiæ Oblatio, quam Dominus docuit offerri in univerſo mundo, purum Sacrificium reputatum eſt apud Deum & acceptum eſt ei, &c. The evidence of this was ſuch as forced Hoſpinian (Hiſt. Sacrament. lib. 1. c. 6.) to ſay, Jam tum primo illo ſeculo, viventibus adhuc Apoſtolis, magis huic Sacramento quàm Baptiſmo inſidiari auſus ſit (Dæmon,) & homines à prima illa forma ſenſim abduxit: and Sebaſtianus Francus, Statim poſt Apoſtolos omnia inverſa ſunt— Cœna Domini in Sacrificium transformata eſt.

mation

Now, Sir, if I was loth to paſs ſo harſh a cenſure (as ſome do) upon the firſt Fathers and Church Chriſtian, and could not be perſuaded but that which the Catholick Church from her infancy conceived of the Euchariſt ſhould have ſome truth in it, and accordingly endeavoured to find out that ratio Sacrificii therein, ſuch as might be conſonant both to the Principles of the Reformed Religion and unto the Scripture of the New Teſtament, yea perhaps found therein not quoad rem onely, but quoad nomen alſo; did I merit to be irrided for having found out I know not what Myſtery of a Sacrifice, now-a-days a Myſtery in my ſenſe to all the Chriſtian world? When all men are at a ſeek, and one cries I think I have found it, ſhall he be chidden therefore? Sir, I can remember when you underſtood me more rightly, and interpreted my freedom with much more candour. To tell you true therefore, I am ſomewhat ſuſpicious leſt the aire of Cambridge did you ſome hurt. But let that paſſe——

That which I wrote to you concerning this Myſtery, eſpecially in my Second Reply, was for the moſt part little other then Teſtimony of matter of Fact. If it were falſe, teſtare de mendacio; if true, cur cædor? Yet one thing more; It is no time now to ſlight the Catholick conſent of the Church in her Firſt ages, when Socinianiſm grows ſo faſt upon the rejection thereof; nor to abhor ſo much the notion of a Commemorative Sacrifice in the Euchariſt, when we ſhall meet with thoſe who will deny the Death of Chriſt upon the Croſs to have been a Sacrifice for ſin. Verbum intelligenti. There may be here ſome matter of importance.

Laſtly, You may remember how much I deſired to be ſpared from any farther writing or anſwering upon this argument, becauſe I knew it was a nice and diſpleaſing theme, and ſuch as I ſhould have no thanks for. Now I ſee I am become a Prophet, and that when I looked not for it. And thus I have done with this buſineſs, which hath made me ſo much work.

The Cenſure I gave of the Declaration of the Palſgrave's Churches was not in reſpect of the matter, but the manner of handling, as the term of laxe ſhewed. And before I had ſeen it, I heard that Cenſure given of it by one that wiſhes the Palſgrave's Churches and their Doctrine as well as I know any. If I erred in my judgement, there is an end. I uſe not to be often faulty in raſhneſs that way: And this ſhall teach me to be more wary hereafter. If I had had any ſuſpicion of miſconſtruction, I could in this kind have held my tongue with as much eaſe as any man.

What my Lord of Armagh's opinion is of the Millennium, I know not, ſave onely that I have not obſerved him, neither when I gave him my Synchroniſms, nor in diſcourſe thereabout after he had conſidered them, to diſcover any oppoſition or averſation to the Notion I repreſented thereabout. The like Mr. Wood told me of him, after he had read his papers; nay that he uſed this complement to him at their parting, I hope we ſhall meet together in Reſurrectione prima. But my Lord is a great man, and thinks it not fit (whatſoever his opinion be) to declare himſelf for a Paradox; yet the ſpeeches I obſerved to fall from him were no wiſe diſcouraging. He told me once he had a Brother (ſi bene memini) who would ſay, He could never believe but the 1000 years were ſtill to come.

Now for Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe, I confeſs I came to the reading thereof with as much prejudice as might be, having been cloyed with ſo many vain and fanciful Speculations about that myſtical Number, that I had no ſtomack to any more of them. Which was the reaſon (to tell you true) that I ſhewed no more deſire or eagerneſs to have a ſight of your Exſcript, notwithſtanding your commendations and offer of the ſame. For I was loth to be put to give my Cenſure, which I doubted, according to former experience, muſt be in ſequiorem partem. But when I was a little entered thereinto, and began to perceive the Grounds whereon he meant to build, I found myſelf preſently to alter, and to anticipate in my mind with much content what he aimed at, before I could come to reade it; and longed not a little to find it well proved and to fall out accordingly. That which wone me was the way to reduce Ezekiel's and S. John's ſo differing meaſures of the New Jeruſalem unto the ſame, and ſo as both ſhould allude to the Meaſures of the Jeruſalem that was in being. As ſoon as I found this, I was not a little glad to ſee that made fecible which I before took for deſperate; and as it is ill halting with Criples, I began preſently to wiſh, O that the Number of the Beaſt might have the like ſucceſs for the deſigning of his See of Rome! Concerning which and the complete ἀντιστοιχία of both Numbers when I found ſuch Teſtimonies produced, you may gueſs how I was affected; namely, That if it be not a Truth, (which I was very willing to believe) it is the moſt conſiderable Probability that ever I read in that kind.

And thus with many thanks for your kind communication thereof unto me, even when you had found me not to long for a ſight of it, I commend you and your learned meditations to the Divine bleſſing, and ſo I reſt

Chriſt's Coll.
April 1637.

Yours,
Joſeph Mede.

Diverſum ſentire bonos de rebus iiſdem
Incolumi licuit ſemper amicitiâ.

Euſebius

Euſebius De laudibus Conſtantini, p. 492. Edit. 1612.

Quis (praeter Chriſtum Servatorem) cunctis totius Orbis terrarum incolis, ſeu terrâ ſeu mari illi ſint, praeſcripſerit, ut ſingulis ſeptimanis in unum convenientes Diem Dominicum feſtum celebrarent?

I know not whether the Tractators of this argument have obſerved this paſſage or not. Graeca ſic habent;

Τίς τοῖς τὸ μέγα στοιχεῖον τῆς γῆς οἰκοῦσι, τοῖς τε κατὰ γῆν καὶ τοῖς κατὰ θάλατταν, ἐφ' ἑκάστης ἑβδομάδος, τὴν Κυριακὴν χρηματίζουσαν ἡμέραν, ἑορτὴν ἄγειν ἐπέταττε συνιόντας παραδιδοὺς;

But the Sanctification of Holy Time cannot poſſibly be maintained, unleſs we admit the like for Holy Places, Things, Perſons. All move upon the ſame principles.

See the Vanity of man's life. When I began this Letter, Dr. Whaley, your good and religious Friend, was in health: Before I had finiſhed (intermitting ſome few days) I heard he was fallen ſuddenly ſick, and ſoon after that he was recovering: Now, when I was about to ſeal my Letter, (upon the opportunity of a Friend's going to London) I hear he is departed this life, and the Bells are yet ringing out for him. I expected not to have been the meſſenger of this ill news. May 2. Vale.

Epistle LXXII.

Dr. Twiſſe's Fourteenth Letter to Mr. Mede, touching Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe of the Number of the Beaſt, viz. 666.

Worthy Sir, and my dear Friend,

You have communicated unto me many precious things, which makes me to acknowledge myſelf more indebted to you then to all the men in the world. And the more glad I am when I light upon any thing that is worth your knowledge. This laſt week I received a Letter from Mr. Potter, encloſing two other Letters, one of his own to Dr. Turner in anſwer to another of his; both which I have ſent you. Therein you ſhall ſee how Mr. Potter's diſcovery works already like wax before it ſees the light of the Preſs. I had formerly wrote unto him what your judgement was upon the Abſtract I ſent you, as yourſelf wrote unto me, and as I heard alſo from Mr. Hall. But lately Mr. Hartlib ſent me a Copy of your judgement more full ſince you received the complete Copy, wiſhing me to ſend it over unto Mr. Potter; which I did, and he is glad, as he profeſſeth to me, to hear that you eſteem ſo well of his Interpretation: and over and above addes, that if any man think ſo well of it as to tranſlate it into Latine, he will not be ſorry for it. Nay, he is willing to adde ſomething to it concerning the First Beaſt and the Second Beaſt and the Image of it. He is exceedingly deſirous to know-- his judgement of it, in ſuch ſort that he hath a mind either to write or to goe over unto him. I pray let him have a ſight of it, and entreat him to ſet down his judgement concerning it——Now, Sir, concerning the occaſion of theſe Letters, I will ſhew you what he writes to me.

Mr. Potter had underſtood from Oxford that Dr. T. (who is one of the Mathematick Profeſſors there) had alledged againſt his Book, That the Root of 666 was not 25. but this was by thoſe who told him of it accounted ſo ſlight and untrue an Objection, that Mr. Potter did not regard it. But after this being with——he told him that Dr. T. told the Vicechancellor that Mr. Potter was out in the Mathematical part of it. Hereupon Mr. Potter wrote unto Dr. T. and receiving no Anſwer wrote a ſecond time; thereupon Dr. T. anſwered: which Anſwer of his I here ſend you with Mr. Potter's large Anſwer unto him; wherein you ſhall find not onely the vanity of Dr. T's

Excep-

Exception, but a strange Mystery discovered even to admiration. I have sent you Mr. Potter's own Letter, for fear lest in transcribing I should miss in the calculation of the Numbers. He desires to have the Letters again when we have perused them and transcribed them. I pray return them by Mr. Hartlib —— I commend me heartily to the continuance of your love, and rest

Newbury, April 30.
1638.

Yours ever in true affection and great obligation,

Will. Twisse.

I pray remember my due respect to Dr. Bainbrigge the Master of your House.

Epistle LXXIII.

Mr. Mede's Answer to Dr. Twisse's Fourteenth Letter, touching Mr. Potter's Notions of the Number of the Beast, with some Observations of his own concerning his Book.

Worthy Sir,

I Thank you heartily for Mr. Potter's Letter. I confess I have an especial esteem of his Discourse; but little looked that what I wrote carelessly to Mr. Hartlib demanding my opinion thereof should have come to his hands.

Concerning this Letter; I am persuaded the Doctor's Exception is fully and sufficiently answered, namely, That the Root of a Number ought to consist of Unities of the same denomination with the Unities of the principal whose Root it is; and that if the Unities be of another denomination, it is not the Root of that Number, but of another.

I see also a fair possibility of a discovery of new Mysteries even in the Fractions: but perhaps it will not be so safe to discover them (until they be well armed) unto those who are not well affected to the main. For it is sufficient with a great many to discredit a Tenet, if they can but find any thing not defensible brought toward the maintenance thereof. Verbum sapienti.

I care not if I acquaint you with what came into mind upon my first cursory reading of the Letter; the one an Observation, the other (as I found afterward) a mistake of Mr. Potter's meaning.

1. First, when I read him applying the Fractions $\frac{51}{71}$ to the Latitude of Rome, I called to mind that the old Astronomers and most of our Maps make the * Latitude of Rome to be 41 degrees and about 50 (or 51) minutes. The later Mathematicians promote it some minutes farther Northward: but Rome was big enough, when time was, to bear the difference of a few minutes. And if that which Mr. Gellibrand observed be true, it is possible that the Latitudes of some places may be a little changed since Ptolemy's time, by some motion of the Earth, whatsoever it be. The Mistake was this:

* This he corrects in Epist. LXXV.

2. As I ruminated upon his application of the Denominator of the Fractions 51 to so many Italian miles, (which I well understood not at my first cursory curſory reading) I fell into this conceit, that his meaning had been, that a Degree in a great Circle had contained but 51 Italian miles, (whereas we ſuppoſe 60) and that therefore $\frac{41}{51}$ was as much as 41 fifty one Italian miles, that is, 41 Degrees, a Degree being 51 Italian miles. That which led me into this conceit was his mention of Snellius, who in his Eratoſthenes Batavus, (which I had ſometime look'd upon, but it is many years ſince) as I remembred, made a Degree to contain ſome miles leſs then 60. Whether my memory fails me, I know not; for the Book I never ſaw but once in the Stationer's ſhop. But when I read the Letter the ſecond time with more deliberation, I found his meaning to be, That Rome lay under ſuch a Parallel as whereof every Degree contained 51 Italian miles: but this ſuppoſes, I think, that a Degree of a great Circle ſhould be above 60 Italian miles; which how near or far off it be from Snellius his experimental definition, I know not. My skill in Mathematicks is but little, onely ſo much as makes me able to underſtand a Diſcourſe in that kind. In my younger time I ſtudied the Grounds of thoſe Sciences, but ever ſince neglected them; and therefore if I commit any Soloeciſms in talking of ſuch matters, I muſt be excuſed.

I will adde alſo ſome of my thoughts concerning his Book.

1. That there is no ſuch Argument to prove the Divinity of the Apocalyps, and conſequently to convince an Atheiſt of the Divinity of the whole Scripture, (whereto this Book gives teſtimony) as the ſtrange agreement between Ezekiel's Lineal and S. John's Cubical meaſures of the city Jeruſalem for the compaſſe and Area thereof; both the numbers and denomination of Meaſures being ſo differing as they are, and thoſe of S. John beſides to be derived from 12. How could this be but from Divine inſpiration, when S. John, as the reſt of the Apoſtles, was ἀγράμματος καὶ ἰδιώτης, and far enough from skill in Algebraical ſubtilties?

2. That the Virgin-Company which follow and carry the mark of the Lamb, and the Synagogue of the Beaſt which follow him and receive his mark, are evidently ἀνάστοιχα even ſecundùm literam; beſides, their meaning not obſcure, namely, That the one repreſents the true Church, the other the Anti-church or Church of Antichriſt. If therefore Mr. Potter had fetched the Number of the true Church from this Virgin-Company, perhaps his diſcovery of the Myſtery of the Anti-numerus of the Beaſt would have appeared more evident and convincing. For though the Number of the Wall of the New Jeruſalem import as much as the Number of Chriſt's Church, yet it doth it but remotely, (many things being firſt requiſite to be granted by way of Poſtulata) and therefore obſcurely in compariſon of the Number of the Virgin-Company. I wonder therefore what the reaſon is he never mentions or alludes to this Number throughout the whole Treatiſe: nay he affirms twice that the Number 144 is onely to be found in the 21. chap. of the Apocalyps: Which is true indeed in Unities, but in Thouſands not. Was it the Thouſands that would have troubled him in his way? That Solertia which with ſo much happineſs broke through greater difficulties would ſoon have maſtered this. Or is it ſome interpretation he hath of that Viſion which was not compatible therewith? Thus I muſed and reaſoned with my ſelf.

3. In his anſwering of what might be objected concerning the Root of 666, and in particular when he gives reaſons why the Holy Ghoſt intending the Root 25, amongſt all the Numbers which might have been taken to that purpoſe between 625 and 676, ſhould pitch upon 666 rather then any of the reſt; I ſaw a door open to ſave the life of mine own conceit of that Number; That the Holy Ghoſt would intimate thereby, that the Antichri-

chriſtian State ſhould be an imitation of the Sixth head of the Roman Seven-headed Beaſt, rather then the off-ſpring of the Apoſtles, and therefore made his Number all of Sixes. But the matter is not great whether it be ſaved or not, if a better come in the room of it.

You would have me ſend Mr. Potter's Treatiſe to—'Tis true, he is skilled in Mathematicks, (in which reſpect it may be the—named him) but ſo vehemently prejudiced and profeſſed againſt that Tenet of the Pope being Antichriſt, that it would be to ſmall purpoſe, if he could be gotten to reade it; which I believe he would hardly be. I have no confidence in the ſtrongeſt demonſtration againſt a man that is prejudiced and engaged in the contrary. Nay 'tis ſtrange how unwilling all men are to reade any Diſcourſe this way. I carried Mr. Potter's Book to ſome——oppoſite otherwiſe to —— and no enemies to that Tenet; I commended it, deſired them to peruſe it, told them it was that would pleaſe them, they delighting in Mathematical Speculations, related to them the ſumme of the Contents and Grounds thereof, and whatſoever might allure them; I left it with them a competent time: yet when I went to fetch it and know their opinion, they had not read one leaf thereof, nay gave me leſs hope then that they would then at the firſt; and inſtead thereof made Exceptions againſt ſomething I had told them out of it. What ſhould I hope then of men profeſſedly oppoſite and paſſionate or, if you will, impatient beſides, and ſo leſs tractable? If any man would tell —— of it, and that in ſuch a manner as might work in him a deſire to ſee it, I would be moſt willing to communicate my Copie with him; which I took ſome care to be ſo tranſcribed as might allure a reader, dividing it into certain Sections, and prefixing the Contents of them in the beginning of the Book, with other diſtinctions; but altered nothing in the context of the Author. I cauſed the Figures to be drawn according to art; the hand reaſonable neat, and promiſing no trouble to the Reader, well pointed throughout, &c. By this you may ſee I was willing to have it read.

Thus I have ſcribled ſomewhat with an ill pen and an ill hand: If it be ſuch as you can reade, and will excuſe, it is enough. I ſend back your Letters with thanks. And ſo with my beſt reſpect and prayers, I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. May 23. 1638.

Yours in all friendly affection,

Joſeph Mede.

Epistle LXXIV.

Dr. Twiſſe's Fifteenth Letter to Mr. Mede, about Mr. Potter's Book, and the Holineſs of Times and Places; with ſome reflexions upon a Paſſage in the Inſcription of his Diſcourſe upon 1 Cor. 11. 22. as alſo an Extract of Mr. Potter's Letter relating to ſome paſſages in Mr. Mede's Letter touching the Number 666.

Dear Sir,

I Think my ſelf happy that I am the medius Terminus to convey Paſſages between you and Mr. Potter. I received this Letter from him but on Friday laſt, which here I ſend you encloſed; wherein you will find him to reſt ſatisfied tisfied with that you write concerning—as alſo how well he is ſatisfied with that of yours, having nothing to except againſt ought; but rather you extended that which he delivered ſomewhat farther then he intended it. You ſee he is deſirous to ſee the diviſion of his Book into Sections made by your hands, and marginal Annotations; and what elſe you can hear objected by any againſt it. I pray ſatisfie him as far as it lieth in your power. He is a very meek and ingenuous man; and now you ſee what way lie his ſtudies, I would you would imploy him in ought that you ſhall find needfull; for I find him very deſirous to gratifie any friend: As I wrote to him about ſome things, which what they were I know not; but he hath promiſed to anſwer unto all. He is exceeding ſtudious in his way. But is it not poſſible to get his Book turned into Latine in your Univerſity, eſpecially this Vacation-time, and things ſtanding as they do with you?

I have lately received a * Book from you by the hands of Mr. Hartlib, for which I heartily thank you. The Title you give in your Dedication, Sublati diſcriminis inter ſacrum & profanum Aſſertori eximio, I doubt will doe you wrong with many, and make them to conceive that the ſacrum & profanum you ſpeak of is in your account only in reſpect of Place, and not at all in reſpect of Time. But I know the contrary, which makes me wonder at it the more. I had recourſe unto you about the Holineſs of Places long agoe, merely for information; and I was then as abraſa tabula, apt to receive ought that I ſaw reaſon for. But to this hour I am not ſatisfied, whether the fault be in my Underſtanding, or in my Affections, God knows, or in the inſufficiency of Evidence convincing. And that my Affection ſhould ſway me, I have this reaſon againſt it; I find my ſelf naturally pliable that way which you take, even to ſuperſtition, as now I find, calling my ſelf to examination. And to your interpretation of that in Paul, 1 Cor. 11. 22. I have been very prone; inſomuch that the way others take to the contrary ſeemed to me at firſt ſight wondrous ſtrange, that I underſtood not ſo much as their meaning at the firſt, nor did I come to underſtand what they would, without ſome plodding: and when I did underſtand it, it ſeemed harſh unto me; untill I came to examine what it is to deſpiſe or diſhonour a Place, and compared it with diſhonouring of Days. And ſurely neither Days nor Places are to honoured by us, but God in them: Yet I find a vaſt difference between Time and Place, though you ſometimes ſaid there was the ſame reaſon of both. But I find not the ſame reaſon in the more general notions of them, much leſs in the ſpecial. It is true, natural actions require Time and Place for the performance of them, the unity whereof together with the unity of the Subject neceſſarily concurre to the individuation of them, if I remember aright my old Philoſophy. And the meeting of many about the ſame action requires ſet Times and Places: But by Places you mean Churches, which are not Places natural; the like cannot be ſaid of Times. Then as for the ſpecial conſideration of them; It is apparent that proportion of Time is very momentous for the advancing of Morality and Piety; as by ſetting apart one day in a week for God's publick and ſolemn ſervice, a greater advancing of Piety is made by far then by the ſequeſtring of one day onely in a month or in a year for this: and we find nothing anſwerable hereunto in Place at all, leaſt of all as commanded either by God or man.

* viz. his Diſcourſe about Churches, &c. 1 Cor. 11. 22.

Laſtly, as touching the particularity of Time and Place compared together, will you ſay there is as little evidence for the particular Day to be kept holy to the Lord, as for the particular Place? Sure I am S. Gregorie's is going down, if not altogether down, to be built elſewhere as they think good; we never yet heard the like of the Lord's-Day. Yet I would you could prevail but ſo far with your great Lord, to draw him to be Aſſertor eximius ſublati diſcriminis inter ſacrum & profanum as well in Time as in Place: though I deſpair of ever being brought to acknowledge there is no difference between theſe, leaſt of all to believe that Holineſs of Place is more religiouſly to be obſerved then Holineſs of Time.

But notwithſtanding the difference between us herein, you ſhall always be as dear to me as you have been; and that not as a civil Friend only, but as my Chriſtian Brother too; were our differences in opinion greater then theſe: For I manifeſtly perceive how eaſy a thing it is for good men to take your way about the Holineſs of Place; and hereunto my ſelf have been exceeding prone. But do you think indeed that Naòs was the word of Ignatius? or can you give any inſtance of the like, either in his time, or in an 100 years after him? I wiſh you all happineſs as to my ſelf, and reſt

July 2.
1638.

Yours ever in the Lord much obliged and moſt aſſured,

Will. Twiſſe.

An Extract of the above-mentioned Letter of Mr. Potter to Dr. Twiſſe, neceſſary for the fuller underſtanding of ſome paſſages in Mr. Mede's Letters, &c.

SIR,

—I Should be very glad to hear that my Treatiſe were tranſlated into Latine either by your ſelf or by any other, (if there be any ſuch that would doe it ſo perſpicuouſly as I believe you would) and I ſhould be glad if your ſelf or Mr. Mede would adde his opinion which he mentions in his Letter, why the Number 666 was taken rather then another whoſe Root might alſo have been ſaid to be 25.

That the Number 25 is ſo conſpicuous and remarkable in the Roman Calendar is alſo a thing remarkable and appoſite, and a thing which I did obſerve in a great Roman Calendar in the Library at Oxford, but did not then underſtand the reaſon of it, nor had time, at that inſtant, to ſearch the reaſon why that Number was written in great red Capital figures. I know there are many other things which it hath not been my chance to light upon, which wiſe and learned men, and ſuch as are acquainted with Hiſtories and Antiquities, may and will obſerve to the ſame purpoſe——

I kindly thank you for the ſight of Mr. Mede's Letter: how he came to know that I had his judgement of my Book ſent unto me, I know not; but I hope it ſhall be no hurt either to him or me, but an help and furtherance of the Truth.

My Letter to Dr. T. was written to a profeſſed Mathematician, and multitude of matter forced me to write briefly, and therefore obſcurely; and therefore it is no marvel if my unskilfull and confuſed expreſſions have cauſed ſome things to be miſtaken at the firſt reading. If the Fractions of the Root of 666, being $\frac{41}{111}$, be applicable not onely to the number of Degrees, but alſo to the number of Minutes of the Latitude of Rome, 'tis more then I obſerved, and more then I intended. I thought it a ſufficient exactneſs that 41 is the greateſt number of Degrees of Latitude of that place, being there is no City near it that can ſtand in competition with Rome to be the Seat of Antichriſt. And if that Parallel which is 41 Degrees of Latitude, and that Meridian which is 41 Degrees of Longitude, do croſs and cut each other in any part of S. Peter's Patrimony, or of thoſe Dominions of Italy which are immediately ſubjected to the the Pope and City of Rome, this ſeemeth to me to be in this reſpect a ſufficient manifeſtation of that individual Kingdom and City in which Antichriſt was chiefly to reign and reſide. And thoſe places and Provinces which were not immediately but mediately ruled by him, were at the time of the Council of Trent chiefly confined within that Parallel which is 51 Degrees of Latitude and that Meridian which is 51 Degrees of Longitude. For theſe two Numbers 41 and 51, or rather $\frac{41}{51}$, being conſidered the one as Numerator, the other as Denominator of the ſame Fraction, muſt not be underſtood the one of Degrees and the other of Minutes, but both muſt be applied to diviſions of the ſame denomination, and one be conſidered as part of the other, and the Numerator as the moſt principal part which is chiefly intended.

In the ſecond place, Becauſe this Fraction $\frac{41}{51}$ ſuppoſeth one Integrum to be divided into 51 parts or thereabouts, I therefore obſerved that one Degree of Longitude in that Circle or Parallel under which Rome lieth did contain in Longitude about 51 Italian or Roman miles, and this ſuppoſes one Degree in maximo circulo to be about 68 Italian miles and ſomewhat more; which agrees very well and ſtrangely with that experimental definition of Snellius, lib. 2. Eratoſthen. Bat. cap. 12. where he hath with great evidence of truth and probability defined ambitum terræ in maximo circulo to be 123120000 Roman feet, that is 342000 feet to one Degree, which makes 68 Italian miles and ſomewhat more.

As concerning that which Mr. Mede adds in his Letter about my Book; I do believe that as Daniel underſtood not many Viſions which were ſhewed unto him; ſo neither did S. John underſtand the meaning of the Number of the Beaſt, nor the Meaſures of the New Jeruſalem, when he wrote the Revelation. And the ſtrange and wonderful Wiſedom of God, in diſcovering ſo many, ſo different things concerning Antichriſt by one Number onely, and in laying a foundation for this diſcovery by making the Number 12 remarkable in the Old Teſtament, in reſpect of the City Jeruſalem and the Patriarchs and Tribes, long before our Saviour came in the fleſh, hath been to me a great, if not the greateſt of all external Teſtimonies for the Divinity of the Scriptures; and I doubt not but that it will be ſo to others that do believe it and underſtand it.

I ſhould be glad to hear what thoſe Exceptions were which Mr. Mede writeth that ſome made againſt ſome things which he related out of my Book. I am confident that all material Objections may be fully anſwered. Perhaps that which he mentioneth of the Virgin-Company was one thing which was objected againſt it. To which I anſwer, That it is moſt true, that the Beaſt having two horns like the Lamb is oppoſed to the Lamb, and that the Followers of the Beaſt which receive his Mark are ἀντίτυπα to the Followers of the Lamb: But it is alſo to be obſerved That the Number 666 is not ſaid to be the Number of the Followers of the Beaſt, but of the Beaſt; and it is alſo to be obſerved That the Number 144000 is not ſaid to be the Number of the Lamb, or of that Hierarchy which is moſt appoſitely oppoſed to the Beaſt, but to be the Number of the Followers of the Lamb. Now although the Lamb be properly oppoſed to the Beaſt, and the Followers of the Lamb to the Followers of the Beaſt; yet the Beaſt is not ſo properly oppoſed to the Followers of the Lamb, nor the Lamb to the Followers of the Beaſt; and therefore the Number of the Beaſt is not ſo directly oppoſed to the Number of the Followers of the Lamb, as it is to that Number which typeth out chiefly that Hierarchy of the Lamb which is moſt directly and moſt eminently oppoſed to the Beaſt. Now the Eccleſiaſtical Hierarchy of the Church of Chriſt is chiefly typed out by the Wall of the New Jeruſalem and by the Number 144, and therefore I have ſaid in my Book, That the Number 144 is an Idea (not of the Church in general, although that be alſo true and affir- med in a general ſenſe, but) of the Hierarchy of the Church. Forasmuch therefore as the Number 144 is a type of that which is more properly and directly oppoſed to the Beaſt then the Followers of the Lamb are oppoſed to the Beaſt; I therefore conceive this Number 144 to be more directly and immediately oppoſed to the Number of the Beaſt then the Number 144000, which is a type of the Followers of the Lamb, and therefore muſt be oppoſed, not to the Number of the Beaſt, but rather to the Number of the Followers of the Beaſt. And although there be no ſuch Number expreſſed in the Scriptures, yet if there had been occaſion to expreſs the Anti-numerus to 144000, I believe it would have been ſaid to be 666000: For as the Number of the Lamb's Followers is derived from 144, ſo is 666000 from 666. I have more to ſay of this, but 'tis now time to haſten my Letter.

As for that Copy of my Book which you ſent to my L. S. if you have received it, I deſire you to keep it ſtill in your hands, that it may be a witneſs from whence thoſe divers Copies have proceeded which are now abroad in the world. If any Copy of my Book (having come into ſome malevolent hands) ſhould be corrupted, and have any thing inſerted into it which might be offenſive to the State; then that Copy which you have would acquit me from it—— If you had any Copy which you can ſpare to return unto me, I had rather it were another then the ſame I ſent you: And of all other I ſhould deſire to ſee one that hath Mr. Mede's Notes upon it: it ſhould be ſafely returned again unto you, and I ſhould be thankful to Mr. Mede for any thing which he hath added or illuſtrated or corrected——

I kindly thank you for the ſight of ſuch Papers as I have here returned, and ſhall ſtill reſt

Kilmington, June 27.
1638.

Yours to be commanded, and for your ſincere love and many kindneſſes greatly obliged,

Francis Potter.

EPISTLE LXXV.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Dr. Twiſſe's and Mr. Potter's Letters. His Vindication of that Elogium in the Inſcription of his Diſcourſe upon 1 Cor. 11. 22. [viz. Sublati inter ſacrum & profanum diſcriminis Aſſertori.] His Vindication of that Maxime [Eadem eſt ratio Loci & Temporis] from the Exceptions of Dr. Twiſſe. The word Ναὸς uſed in the firſt 200 years, the name Τράπεζα not found in any Eccleſiaſt. Writing for 200 years. An Objection from the taking down S. Gregorie's Church anſwered.

In the former Edition page (660) was onely printed a piece of this Letter, (which was all that could then be found) or the rude draught of an Anſwer written in haſt upon the backſide of Dr. Twiſſe's Letter. But in this is preſented the whole Letter, as it was perfected by the Author, & copied out of the Original MSS.

Worthy Sir,

I Thank you heartily for communicating Mr. Potter's Letter with me. I underſtand now his reaſon why he took not in the Number of the Virgin-Company to ground his diſcovery of the Myſtery of the Beaſt's Number upon, as by an Anti-numerus of an Anti-company; and I am in ſome degree ſatisfied therewith, yet ſo as I could ſtill wiſh he had made ſome more more use of it in his Argument, and not wholly passed by it with silence. I confess the observation of this supposed defect was mine own, and no bodie's else: For those I related the Contents of his Book unto, had never (I believe) looked so much into the Apocalyps as to be able to make such an Exception, so far as I could discover by their Discourse. Yet how this Number might be taken in, though not as a principal, yet at least to bear a part, I am yet to seek; which before I read his Letter I thought I had not been: now me-thinks I see some possibility onely afar off, and am as one loth to lose it.

The Exceptions I made mention of were not worth specifying, being of the same nature with Dr. T's, viz. want of exactness both in the Root and in the Application. Whereupon I desired them to instance in any one Prophecie in the whole Scripture, which they would affirm and could shew to be more exactly fulfilled then Mr. Potter (if his Authorities were true) had shewn this to be; yea I urged them as far as the Prophecies concerning Christ himself, the time, the place and manner of his Coming; offering to parallel one Evidence and exactness with another. To which I received no other answer, but that they doubted much I would fall short, and that howsoever it was not good to make such Comparisons: wherein, it may be, they said not amiss.

That observation of mine, of Rome's Latitude to be 41 degrees and 51 minutes, was upon the suddain. For looking into Stadius his Catalogus Locorum & Urbium in his Ephemerides, I found the Latitude of Rome to be there 41 degr. 50 min. but in Origanus his Catalogus 42 degr. 4 min. (which is 14 minutes more) in Maginus, as I remember, 42 degr. 2 min. for I have him not in my Study, as I have the other two. I supposed that Stadius had followed Ptolemy; but when I looked some days after, I found in him but 41 degr. 40 min. 'Tis somewhat strange there should be no better agreement, if not of Ptolemy with the Neotericks, yet of the Neotericks with themselves, about so famous a City. But that of Stadius is neareſt the middle between the extremes. Whatsoever it be, I make no account of it: yet I do not very well understand what Mr. P. means in his Letter, when he saith, That both the Numerator 41 and the Denominator 51 must be applied to divisions of the same denomination, and yet the one to be part of the other, &c. But I have no time to consider it.

I doubt that the Meridian of 41 degr. of Longitude and the Parallel of 41 degr. Latitude will not cross each other in any part of S. Peter's Patrimony, nor scarce any where upon Land; whether we count the first Meridian with Ptolemy in the Canaries, or with the later Cosmographers in the Azores; the later accounting 10 degrees more or less then the other: which uncertainty also will make that other Application of the Parallel and Meridian 51 to be the Boundaries of the Papal dominion Eastward and Northward at the time of the Council of Trent, to be obnoxious and unuseful.

Concerning the translating of Mr. Potter's Book into Latine, I could wish it; but I believe you mistake the possibility of getting it done in Cambridge. He that should doe it must have a threefold qualification. 1. He must be ready and master of his Style. 2. He must be one that can understand it. 3. He must be well-affected to the Argument. How hard will it be, think you, to find all these concurrent in the same man here? For my self, I express my self with my pen with as much difficulty, if not more, then I do with my tongue; and so I want the first qualification, though, it may be, not the other two. And for others, I know not any that are able ſo well affected to the Argument, that they would be willing to undertake it: you may imagine divers impediments that way, which I will not name. But were it not fit rather that Oxford, that bred it, ſhould doe this office for it? I think Mr. P. in his Letter gueſſeth aright.

I forgot to anſwer to one thing in Mr. Potter's, namely concerning my Copy of his Book. Mr. Hartlib was earneſt ſome while ſince to borrow it of me, to tranſcribe another conformable to it. I ſtipulated with him not to let it goe out of his houſe. It is a miſtake that I had written any marginal Annotations upon it. I affirmed onely that I had written all his Margins with mine own hand, leſt the alteration of the pages ſhould confound them; onely perhaps I added here and there ſome numeral references in the margin, where the Text referrs to ſomewhat ſpoken of before or to be ſpoken of afterward. That which I did to it was the diſtinguiſhing thereof into 8 Sections, and prefixing in the beginning of the Book the Contents of each of them, ad leniendum tædium Lectoris, and to repreſent unto him the ſumme of the Diſcourſe in a ſhort view. Alſo by breaking of lines I diſtinguiſhed each Section as it were into Paragraphs, &c.

NOW, Sir, for my Book, I ſent it not to you as an Anctoramentum or Preſſe-mony to bind you to be of my opinion; but onely as a teſtimony of that honour I thought I owed you; and yet ſo much the more willingly, becauſe the Argument confirmed ſome grounds of Mr. Potter's, if I am not deceived. It was my New-year's-gift to my Lord's Grace after he had taken me under his name; which ſome Friends informed me was a Ceremony of decorum, that I could not now at the firſt omit, and would ſerve in ſtead of a journey to London to thank his Grace, &c. I had this ready, and ſent it in that name, with the Inſcription you ſee, ſave onely that the words In novi anni auſpicium gratique, &c. now appear not, being thought by ſome fit to be omitted when it was to goe to the preſs: To which honour the Author (if I know his mind) had no ambition it ſhould have been preferred.

Well, but howſoever it came about, you ſay that part of the Elogium in the Inſcription you doubt will doe me wrong, [viz. Sublati inter ſacrum & profanum diſcriminis Aſſertori] although you know the contrary to what they will be ready to conceive thereupon. 'Tis true; there be ſome men that will never find the true ſenſe or reaſon of any thing quod dictum aut factum nollent. I have heard of the conſtructions of my new relation, but God forgive them, I have witneſſes enough, which they are not aware of, of their Unadviſedneſs, that I may give it no worſe term. I am beholden, yea exceedingly beholden to my Lord's Grace for his good opinion of me, (notwithſtanding he well knows that in ſome things I differ from him) and I am bound to acknowledge it; howbeit he yet knows not his Chaplain de facto, nor his Chaplain him. But becauſe there are ſome that forget there is a Ninth Commandment as well as a Second, and have given me cauſe to ſpeak, I would have them know what I now ſay, That I defy them, whoſoever they or he be, that ſays, He is leſs ambitious or leſs diſcontented with his preſent condition then I am, or were when this happened unto me. And this by the way.

I come again to the Elogium; where I am not ſo narrowly pent, that I ſhould be confined to the diſcrimen between ſacrum & profanum in Places onely, to make it true. You may remember that once upon occaſion with you I made 4 ſorts of things Sacred; to wit, 1. Perſonæ ſacræ, 2. Res ſacræ, 3. Locu ſacra; 4. Tempora ſacra. Perſonæ ſacræ, as the Clergy.

Res

Res ſacræ, (ſpecially ſo called) as Bona Eccleſiaſtica, &c. Now I think the world takes notice that my Lord is Aſſertor eximius of the Diſcrimination of the firſt Three from common; and I hope an Inſtance of One particular amongſt Four againſt the other Three doth not make an Indefinite affirmation not true. Beſides, I adde the word [Sublati;] but the Diſcrimination of ſacred Time with us was none of the Sublata, though ſomewhere it be as well as the reſt. And the field of my defence is ſo much the larger, if it be conſidered that one of the three, Res ſacræ, is capable of Subdiviſion. But enough of this, it being no well-becoming Theme to diſpute upon.

I ſaid, there was eadem ratio Loci & Temporis not ἀπλῶς, but eadem ratio Loci & Temporis ſacri; to wit, for the Sanctification (i. e. holy and diſcriminative uſance) due unto them both, and the formal reaſon in reſpect whereof it is due. For the reaſon why a thing is to be Sanctified or Sanctè habendum is, becauſe it is Sanctum or Sacrum: Now whatſoever is appropriate unto God and his Service, is ſuch, whether the determination thereof be by God's own immediate Ordination, or mans Devotion, it is all one in this reſpect, ſo the Appropriation or Dedication thereof be ſuppoſed lawful and agreeable to the Divine will. For this Sanctification we ſpeak of depends not either upon the diſference of the cauſe or manner whereby the thing is conſecrated, nor upon the diverſity of Natural and Artificial being, but upon the Formalis ratio of the Object, becauſe it is Holy or Sacred, therefore to be ſanctified with holy uſance. For to Sanctifie in Scripture is not onely to make holy קִדֵּשׁ, but to doe unto a thing as becometh its holineſs קֹדֶשׁ. Moreover I believe the Sanctification of Place to be intended in the Fourth Commandment as well as that of Time; and that not onely from the Rule obſerved in the interpretation of the reſt of the Commandments, (by one of the kind named to underſtand all the reſt ejuſdem generis) but eſpecially the Lord himſelf hath conjoyned them as pairs, Levit. 19. 30. Keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my Sanctuary. And why not, when they are ſo near a-kin, being both Circumſtances of Action, why may I not then ſay, Quæ Deus conjunxit, nemo ſeparet? And it may be (if it be well looked into) the Sanctification of the Lord's-day might be urged with far more advantage upon the ground I intimate, then upon that other which is ſo much controverted. But it is partialitie that undoes all.

It ſeems by this Objection I have now anſwered, you ſuppoſed the Argument of my Book to be The Reverence of holy Places, which is onely The Antiquity of them.

You ask me if I believe indeed that Ναὸς was Ignatius his word, I ſay, I do, till I hear ſome ſufficient reaſon why I ſhould not. For that of my not being able to give an inſtance of the like either in his time or within 100 years after, ſeems to me to have no force of concluding at all. When I affirmed in my Altare, That the name of Table could not be ſhewed given to that whereon the Euchariſt was celebrated, in any Eccleſiaſtical Writer confeſſed to be genuine, before 200 years after Chriſt; I inferred not therefrom, that therefore the name Table was never uſed all that time, nor, if I had, would you have believed me. And yet to tell you the truth, when I wrote that, I had ſome perſuaſion or ſuſpicion that that Name could not be ſhewed in any Writer for 3 hundred years after Chriſt, but durſt not affirm ſo much as I thought, becauſe I was not ſure of Origen. But when a Friend of mine ſoon after wondred how I durſt avouch in publick a thing ſo incredible, as this to him ſeemed to be; I diſcovered that I had affirmed ſomewhat leſs then I believed, and deſired him to make trial whether he could find it in 300 years or not: wherein when he had ſpent ſome time, he could not. He alledged indeed Cyprian de Cœna Domini; but I told him that was confeſſed of all ſides to be none of his, &c. And now ſee the luck of it; The week before I received yours, a Friend ſhewed me the New Articles of the New Biſhop of Norwich (his Dioceſan,) wherein (beſides ſome other unwonted things which ſome body will ſtartle at) the Biſhop avouches upon the credit of his reading, That the name Table in that ſenſe is never to be found in any Eccleſiaſtical Writer of the firſt 300 years, ſave onely once in an occaſional paſſage of * Dionyſius Areopagita. Now, Sir, what think you of this? Yet you ſee I can ſhew the name Ναὸς oftner then once in thoſe firſt 300 years. Yea if you would grant me that the Author of that Hierarchical Treatiſe (whoſoever he were) lived but within the compaſs of 200 years after Chriſt, I could give you an inſtance both of the name Ναὸς and Ἱερὸν within the time by you limited. For this Dionyſius in his Myſterium Synaxeos deſcribes the Deacons ſtanding παρὰ τῶ ΙΕΡΟΥ̃ πύλας· and in his Theory of the ſame mentions the ſending of the Energumeni (at the time of the Euchariſt) τῶ θείῳ ἔξω ΝΑΟΥ̃. However it be, it follows not, that becauſe I can ſhew it but once within that 200 years, therefore I ſhould believe it was uſed never. Beſides, methinks I obſerve ſome unreaſonableneſs uſed in this kind, viz. Notwithſtanding ſuch paucitie of Monuments remaining unto us of thoſe firſt Ages, upon every unconcluding ſuſpicion to diſcredit thoſe we have, and then when we have done, to require proof that ſuch things were in thoſe times, (which we without proof deny) when thoſe who alone could give teſtimony are diſenabled, and ſometimes for no other reaſon but becauſe they give ſuch teſtimony. Is this dealing reaſonable?

*Eccleſiaſt. Hierarch. cap. 2. De Myſterio Baptiſmi. ὁ Ἱεραρχης τὴν ἱερὸν ἀπαρσάμενος ΤΡΑΠΕΖΑΝ. He adds to this the two places in the New T. and ſo affirms it is found but thrice in all. But for my part I doubt whether Τράπεζα in thoſe places of the N. T. at leaſt both of them, can be evinced to be uſed in that ſenſe, if a man ſhould deny it.

As for the taking down of S. Gregorie's Church; I anſwer, In the Law ſome things Sacred were unalienable even quoad Individuum, (as for example ſuch as were conſecrated by way of חרם. See Levit. 27. 28, 29.) Others were unalienable as touching the kind only, and therefore, if need were, the Individuum might be changed, ſo it were for the better and with the Lord's advantage, which the Law provides ſhould be by adding a fifth part thereunto. See the reſt of the Chapter quoted. But what is this to the deciding of the lawfulneſs or truth of what is in queſtion, to alledge that which men doe? Is not all the world full of Contradictions? I verily believe that even thoſe who are zealous for the Sanctification of the Lord's-day, do in their practice, if not in their Theory too, overthrow the Principles whereupon it ſtands.

I think I have no more to make anſwer to, and I confeſs I have done this not without ſome tediouſneſs. For you muſt pardon me, if, judging as a Stander-by, I am not perſuaded you are by nature ſo prone and pliable, as you think, to the way which you ſay I take.

Yes, I now find one thing more. S. Gregorie's Church, you ſay, is going down, at leaſt is to be built elſewhere; but we never yet heard the like of the Lord's-day. No? but I have, namely, that a great man in the Reformation had once a Conſultation to have tranſlated the Lord's-day unto Thurſday, upon pretence to take away Superſtition, and though that Conſultation ſucceeded not, yet he is known to have been no great friend to the hallowing thereof. How true this is I know not, penes authores fides eſto, but ſuch a thing I have read, I can aſſure you.

Thus

Thus with my heartieſt affection, which I never found my ſelf prone to change for mere difference of Opinion, I commend you and yours to the Divine bleſſing, and am ſtill

Chriſt's Coll. July 21.
1638.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

[The following Letters (though ſome of them are of an ancienter date then ſome of the foregoing Letters) are here placed together, becauſe moſt of them treat of the ſame Arguments, viz. The right Notion of a Fundamental Article, together with The beſt Method of purſuing and procuring Peace amongſt the Proteſtant Reformed Churches.]

EPISTLE LXXVI.

Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, with an Extract of a Letter concerning Dr. Alting's Cenſure of Dr. Field's opinion.

Worthy Sir,

I Cannot but confeſs myſelf much obliged unto you for the Papers which you have been pleaſed to impart unto me. You doe well to help us by a fuller unfolding of thoſe excellent Myſteries which divers will take for Paradoxes.———

But I return to your Letter, and aſſure you that I will have a ſpecial care to ſend back your Papers. In the mean time I pray accept of theſe incloſed, which concern the work of Pacification. Mr. Dury *remembers his reſpects unto you, and will be glad to embrace your Letter when-ever it comes. He hath not yet read your Book, becauſe he can get none for himſelf, the Book becoming now rare every way. When you have done with the Papers, I pray let me have them again; ſome of them I had not leiſure to reade over. The printed Treatiſe I got from beyond the Seas; the * Author of it thus writes unto me:* Adfui Doctori Altingo; Is maximopere optat non præmiſiſſem meo contra Bodſaccum Exercitio iſtud ex Fieldo excerptum. Ratio 1ª, Quia falſa ſunt quæ ille tum de Orientalium hodierna, tum de Occidentalium ante Lutherum Religione refert. 2ª, Quia Lutherani indè capient calumniandi anſam, quaſi Univerſalem aliquam Religionum conciliationem moliamur. Intellexi ſimul hâc occaſione Genevæ imprimi Novum Teſtamentum linguâ Græcâ qualis nunc eſt, adeò ut non tantùm Originale Græcum, ſed & Verſionem Græcam ſimus habituri; quam ad rem 1000 Imperiales Domini Ordines dederunt, ut mittantur Exemplaria in Græciam.

* Caſp. Streſo.

Inter argumenta cur Fieldi ſententiam rejicit eſt, quòd Witebergenſis quidam olim ad Græcum Patriarcham miſerit Confeſſionem Auguſtanam, ut approbaret, ſed illam ut heterodoxam rejeciſſe. Quòd hodiernus Patriarcha alius ſit, id perſonale eſſe, & facilè apparere ex quibus ſcriptis ille hauriat. Sepultus eſt hâc hebdomade noſter Burgerſdicius, &c.

But

But I would fain know your judgement about this Cenſure of Field, it being a thing of very great conſequence. Dr. Alting, I hear, is writing an Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory. Thus expecting your Anſwer, I reſt for ever

London, March 13.
1634.

Your aſſured and affectionate Friend,

Sam. Hartlib.

Epistle LXXVII.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Hartlib, vindicating Dr. Field's Tenet, and ſhewing in what ſenſe it may be ſaid that the Roman and Greek Church have not erred in Primariis & Fundamentalibus Fidei Articulis.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Received not your Packet till yeſterday at dinner-time. I ſend with this incloſed a * Book to Mr. Dury, which I was fain to rob a Friend of, promiſing to give him another as good: but I ſend the Book and this my Letter apart, that the one may bring news of the other, if they ſhould chance not to arrive at your hands together——

* His Clavis and Commentary upon the Apocalyps.

I thank you for Mr. Streſo. Concerning that of Dr. Field, I have hitherto ſubſcribed to it, according as I conceived to be his meaning; though whether the particulars of his narration be every one of them true, I cannot affirm: the moſt, I believe, are. But it is no marvel though ſuch a Tenet make your forein Divines to ſtartle: That notion is almoſt proper to our Engliſh, to maintain that the Roman Church, much more the Greek, erreth not in Primariis & Fundamentalibus Fidei Articulis, becauſe explicitely they profeſſe them, howſoever by their Aſſumenta implicitely and by conſequent they ſubvert them. This your forein Divines, and ſome too of our own, think to be an harſh aſſertion, becauſe they rightly conceive not our meaning: whereof you may be more fully informed by Dr. Crakenthorp againſt Spalato, cap. 47. and by Dr. Potter in his Charity miſtaken. You may remember alſo that Biſhop Davenant (in the Diſcourſe you ſhewed me at London) by the name of Fundamental Articles underſtands the Articles of the Creed of all Chriſtians, and no other. Take notice likewiſe that we ſay the Roman Church and Ours differ not in the Articles we account to be Fundamental: not that we differ not, and mainly too, in thoſe which they account Fundamental: Nor do we ſay but by conſequent they ruine too even thoſe Articles we account Fundamental, though explicitely they profeſs them. In a word, we hold That all the Roman Errors conſiſt in the Aſſumenta they have added to the Foundation, and not in the Foundation itſelf, which they profeſs notwithſtanding.

Beſides that in the main Points of Controverſy between them and us, the Truths we affirm againſt them were heretofore freely maintained in their Church, as for the ſubſtance, from time to time; and though for the moſt part the oppoſite Faction overtopped them, yet were not the Tenets of that Faction made the Tenets of their Church, till the Council of Trent decreed them, and condemned the other.

This is the ſumme of the Tenet of ours. But what do I write of theſe things things in ſo tumultuary a manner? It is a point that requires a man ſhould have his brains at home.

What though the Patriarch Jeremy rejected the Auguſtane Confeſſion for Heterodox, when it was ſent him? It is true, that often one Sect of Religion condemns that in another which itſelf affirms; becauſe it underſtands not its own in anothers terms and after another way. Beſides, though the Patriarch rejected the Confeſſion in groſs, yet it follows not, he rejected it for thoſe Points whereof Dr. Field affirms; but becauſe it condemned likewiſe their Aſſumenta. For it is certain that in the Aſſumentis we differ mainly from them, and they from us.

Now the clock ſtrikes three, I muſt make an end. So with my beſt affection I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. March 18. 1634.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

EPISTLE LXXVIII.

Joan. Duræi Epiſtola ad Joſ. Medum.

Gratiam & Pacem.

This Letter (after thanks to Mr. Mede for his Book upon the Apocalyps, as alſo for his well-wiſhing to the Pacifick deſign among Proteſtants) repreſents Mr. Dury's manner of Addreſs and Treating with the Batavian Churches, and withall deſires Mr. Mede's judgement thereof.

Clariſſime & Doctiſſime Vir,

HUmaniſſimis tuis Literis & præclaro illo, quod amicitiæ mecum initæ pignus eſſe voluiſti, Scripto, cujus priorem ante aliquot annos, poſteriorem nunc primùm video partem, ità animum meum affeciſti, ut ſufficientes neque jam ſcribere, neque poſthac habere gratias queam; quas quia me referre poſſe deſpero, ideo debitorem me tibi agnoſco. Sed ante omnia Candorem tuum exoſculor, quo de tuo erga mea qualiacunque in Pacis cauſa ſtudia affectu certiorem reddis, déque cautela in colligendis Eccleſiaſticæ Pacis ſuffragiis adhibenda prudenter mones: Nihil præter debitum officii erga Superiores reſpectum à quoquam exigendum; Nihil inſciis cujuſque Ordinis Primoribus promiſcuè proponendum; Nihil privatis temerè in publico negotio, nihil extra ordinem aggrediendum. Me quod attinet, ſemper ità cogitavi: attamen neſcio quibus adductus tandem fidiculis hoc in me onus ſuſceperim; aliquid ab aliorum provocatione, aliquid à meâ vel ſimplicitate vel temeritate fateor profectum eſt: certè in hoc mihi Conſcientia præbet teſtimonium, nihil à me hactenus quæſitum quod vel meipſum vel mea, ſed tantùm quod publicum aliorum commodum, ſpectaret. Ab omnium partium legibus & dominio ſolutus, omnium me Servum exhibui quoad potui. Neque mihi aut ab eruditione aut rerum experientia ſingulari animus ad hæc molimina ſatis inſtructus vires & fiduciam ſibi ſumpſit; ſed invictâ potiùs quadam propenſitate delatus eſt in hunc impetum, ut experiretur quid in præjudiciis animorum inter partes tollendis præſtari divinâ benedictione poſſet à privata induſtria, & quid apud alios in tam ſancta cauſa juvanda promptitudinis futurum eſſet. Siquid præter ſpem, non tamen ultra votum accidit. Deo, qui corda hominum regit, & abjectis ſæpe utitur ad gloriæ ſuæ manifeſtationem inſtrumentis, laus tribuenda eſt. De cætero quid imposterum mihi conandum incertus ſum. Extra ſphæram hanc privatæ vocationis Theologicæ me trahi non facilè patiar; atque ideo quoniam res jam paulatim vergit ad publicam tractationem, nihil aliud mihi propono quàm ut propenſam hanc animorum inclinationem in tempus

uſque uſque præſtituti Conventûs fovere annitar, & occaſionibus ſim intentus quibus Belgarum (ſiquidem haberi facilè poteſt) publicus in hoc Concilio conſenſus obtineatur. Vidiſti jam ex narratiuncula à Domino Hartlibio miſſa quid apud Eccleſias Batavicas tranſactum ſit. Tua ſingularis Prudentia & mihi rem gratam & ſuâ humanitate dignam fecerit, ſi non gravetur ſuum de meis illis conatibus judicium exponere; An ſcilicet nimiâ parrheſiâ peccatum non fuerit; Quantum nobis liceat ab illis Eccleſiis exſpectare; & Quâ ratione poſthac, (quoniam de reſponſo Synodico jam ſolicitus ſum) ſive non concedant, ſive concedant meis poſtulatis, cauſa hæc cum illis tractanda eſt. Certum mihi eſt per Dei gratiam nihil agere quod animorum irritationi aut juſtæ ſuſpicioni præbere poſſit occaſionem: Pacis enim ſtudia cum omni lenitate, humilitate & patientiâ pacificè ſunt tractanda: neque privato mihi aut expedire aut licitum eſſe judico, à quoquam efflagitare vel importuniùs extorquere velle quidquam quod non ſuâ ſponte, Conſcientiâ duce, Charitate comite, quilibet præſtare paratus ſit. Hâc lege tecum, Clariſſime & Spectatiſſime Vir, familiariter agam, ut cuique noſtrûm liceat ſuo jure uti, liberè & loqui & tacere. Ità Divinæ gratiæ te tuáque ſtudia animitus commendo. Vale, & favore tuo amplectere illum qui eſt

Weſtmonaſterii, 9 Kal.
April. 1635.

Pietati tuæ addictiſſimus,

Joannes Duræus.

Epistle LXXIX.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer to Mr. Hartlib, excuſing his not giving his judgement of Mr. Dury's manner of Addreſs and Treaties with thoſe of the Batavian Churches.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Received yours on Saturday, with the Copy encloſed, and Mr. Dury's courteous Letter. To which yet I doubt I ſhall make no anſwer, but uſe the liberty he there vouchſafes me; Ut cuique noſtrûm liceat ſuo jure uti, liberè & loqui & tacere: For he deſires me to give my judgement of his manner of Addreſs and Treaties with thoſe of the Batavian Churches; What may be expected from them, and What courſe were beſt to be taken in caſe they grant, or deny. But what were this but for Phormio to teach Hannibal Stratagems of war? Ego verò ità uſu rerum non valeo, ut hoc vel cogitare audeam, nedum ſcribere. For the place I live in, I could perhaps tell ſomething; but the condition of thoſe Churches and their humors I know not farther then by hear-ſay, and much of that too I learned by the Papers you laſt ſent me. And for my part, rebus ſic ſtantibus, I cannot conceive any way better then what Mr. Dury there relates he took; whoſe wiſedom and ability therein I am fitter to receive knowledge and information by, then to cenſure or give direction unto. And in particular methinks the deferring of them to the laſt, and not dealing with them till all other Churches had declared themſelves, will, if any thing, bring them off, at leaſt in ſome degree, to ſhew their concurrence. For in ſuch a caſe Singularity cannot be without a blur; which perhaps they will conſider, though their home-contentions have made them, I believe, reſty enough. But, Lord! is there any hope of a Pacification, whileſt each party party studies to maintain their advantage against the other entire? A Joyner cannot set two pieces of Timber together, without paring something from either. I pray remember me most kindly to Mr. Dury.

I send home herewith the Copy of his Epistle ad Batavos; which I shewed onely to Dr. S. to whom I had communicated the former. Dr. W. and the rest are from home this Easter-time, and I thought not fit to keep it till their return.

And do the affairs in Germany, say you, begin to turn? Lord! what will the Scene be then that is now to come upon the Stage? It is an intricate business, so full of windings and turnings, that no man can yet guess what is the way that Providence aimes at to accomplish its end.——

Thus in haste, with my affection and Prayers, I rest

Christ's College,
April 1. 1635.

Your assured Friend,

Joseph Mede.

Epistle LXXX.

Another Letter of Mr. Mede's to Mr. Hartlib, shewing his Reasons why he refused to declare himself concerning the Acta Lipsiaca.

Worthy Mr. Hartlib,

——IT grieves me not a little, yea perplexes me, to hear that Mr. Dury is come off with no better success from my L.——I am loth malè augurari; but I like it not. I fear it is mali ominis, and that our State and Church have no mind to put their hand to this Work: Deus avertat omen. But our Church, you know, goes upon differing Principles from the rest of the Reformed, and so steers her course by another Rule then they do. We look after the Form, Rites and Discipline of Antiquity, and endeavour to bring our own as near as we can to that Pattern. We suppose the Reformed Churches have departed farther there-from then needed, and so we are not very solicitous to comply with them; yea we are jealous of such of our own as we see over-zealously addicted to them, lest it be a sign they prefer them before their Mother. This, I suppose, you have observ'd, and that this disposition in our Church is of late very much increased. Well then; If this Union sought after be like to further and advantage us in the way we affect, we shall listen to it. If it be like to be prejudicial, as namely to give strength and authority to those amongst us who are enamour'd with the forein Platform, or bring a yoke upon our own by limiting and making us obnoxious; we'l stand aloof and not meddle with it, lest we infringe our liberty. This I have always feared would be no small Remora on our part, and I pray God it may fall out beyond my expectation.——

Now for my self; The Acta Lipsiaca I never saw, nor did I finde the Extract you mentioned in your Letter: I suppose it was forgotten when you seal'd.

But I am afraid you have made Mr. Dury take me for another man then I am: I pray therefore, let him know that I am a private man, one that the Church never took notice of, having no place or dignity in the same, nor any condition or means of living but a poor Fellowship, not known to any of the greater Clergy, nor acquainted with those that are of note in any special manner; in a word, one of the ἐξουθενημένοι ἐν τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ, as * 1 Cor. 6. 4. * S. Paul speaks: and therefore see not how my verdict should be of any moment in this cause.

2. I live in the University, where we move onely ad motum Primi mobilis, and that discretion is expected at our hands, who are of the inferior Orbs, as not to move without our Superiors. If any one transgress this rule, and offer to meddle in ought that concerns the Publick, before the State and those in place declare themselves, he is taken notice of for Factious and a Busie-body; and if he be once thus branded, all the water of the Thames will not wash him clean, if it be objected to his prejudice, though many years after: as we see by daily experience, and of late in the business of —— College, if some body say true. For this cause, I am afraid, Mr. Dury will find our University-men more shy and nice then others, now —— hath refused to declare himself, and —— to give such encouragement to the business as was expected.

3. That for my self, I am so far inclinable to Peace, that I can yield to a Christian Communion at as great a distance of Opinions as any Protestant whatsoever. For I hold Communion is not to be broken but for Fundamentals: of which kind I take none of the differences between the Calvinists and Lutherans to be. Yet am I not so well versed in the subtilties of those Controversies, as I think fit to adventure my judgement to the publick view by an examination and censure of particulars, wherein my unskilfulness would too soon appear. Nor do I think this Union, which every true Christian ought so much to desire, will ever be brought to passe by a full decision of the Controversies; but onely by abating of that vast distance which contention hath made, and approching the differences so near, as either party may be induced to tolerate the other, and acknowledge them for Brethren and Members of the same Body.

To Mr. Dury's request therefore I answer, That if Mr. Dr. Ward here, or Mr. Dr. Potter at Oxford think fit to declare themselves concerning the Acta Lipsiaca, when I have seen either, I shall not be unwilling to give my general suffrage with reference unto theirs. But to goe farther then thus, the Reasons above-mentioned will deter me.

Thus hoping to receive the Extract you mention with your next, and praying Almighty God to remove all obstacles, and to afford Mr. Dury all means of success in this so holy a business, I rest Christ's Coll.

April 9.

Your assured Friend,
Jos. Mede.

Epistle LXXXI.

Joan. Duræi Epistola ad Jos. Medum.

Gratiam & Pacem.

In this Letter Mr. Dury represents the Heads of his design for a Pacification amongst the Protestants, particularly in Germany; and withall intreats Mr. Mede's Advice thereupon.

JAM in procinctu sum, Reverende Vir, ut in Belgium iter faciam. Valedixi Domino Archiepiscopo Cant. & amicis in Aula, & in eo sum ut & cæteris valedicam: Tu mihi prætereundus non eras, cujus non ità pridem humanitatem prolixè expertus sum. Dici non potest quàm grata tuæ apud me hæreat & hærebit conversationis memoria; quoties enim sermonis tui doctissimi, prudentissimi & utilissimi capita apud animum, quod fit multoties, revolvo, volvo, fateor nullam mihi à multis annis horulam tam fructuosè, tam jucundè effluxisse, quàm illa fuit quâ tuo usus sum consortio. Nunc brevibus accipe itineris mei scopum. In Belgio nihil urgebo, nihil instanter affectabo, præter id quod sponte suâ facturi sunt nihil postulabo; id quicquid futurum est in Ecclesiæ Germanicæ commodum convertetur. Sed apud Germanos hæc mihi erunt proposita suasionis & tractationis capita.

1. Decreto ab Ordinibus facto contineri saluberrimum componendis Ecclesiæ dissidiis consilium.

2. Ad hujus Decreti executionem pro virili promovendam omnes & Magistratus & Theologos junctis suffragis, studiis & conatibus, tenerî in conscientia: atque ideo Conventûs indictionem non ulteriùs differendam.

3. In Conventu hoc ad abolitionem Schismatis indicendo opinionum minutias & difficultates Scholasticarum controversiarum spinosas resecandas à Pacis tractatu; neque de aliis capitibus disputandum, sed explicandum quid utrinque receptum & in confesso est.

4. Concordiam in Ecclesiâ Primitivæ Symbolica, & Christianæ Religionis Fundamentali veritate, atque in ea Fraternitatis contesserationem, certis canonibus Ecclesiasticis esse confirmandam.

5. Symbolicam veritatem illam quæ continetur Apostolico, & explicatur Athanasiano Symbolo, & quæ confirmata fuit in Nicæno, Ephesino primo, Constantinopolitano, Chalcedonensi, Milevitano & Arausicano contra Pelagianos Conciliis, quibuscum Confessiones Protestantium & inter se harmonicè & subordinatè cum sacra Scriptura consentiant, per se solam ad animarum salutem sufficere iis qui ex Verbo Dei in Fidei simplicitate illam haurientes, de cætero voluntati ejus sine admixtione cultûs Idololatrici obediunt.

6. Omnes extra hunc Fidei tenorem Scholarum controversias in utramque partem salvâ Charitate inter Doctos agitari; à simplicioribus tutò & utiliter ignorari, atque ideo pro concione nequaquam contentiosè tractari debere: atque hoc Patribus Ecclesiæ Primitivæ in more positum fuisse constat.

7. Causas Schismatum & inextricabilium in Ecclesia Christiana confusionum oriri hoc seculo, partim ex neglectis rerum Fundamentalium & Non-fundamentalium in Fide & Praxi limitibus; partim ex nimis curiosa Mysteriorum perscrutatione, & promiscua privatarum de iis opinionum evulgatione; partim ex spreto Antiquitatis Primævæ de Sacræ Scripturæ sensu judicio; partim ex præposterο & amarulento refutandi potiùs alienam sententiam, quàm inoffenso veritatem ex proprio sensu explicandi studio; partim ex usurpata unius in alterius conscientiam & intellectum tyrannica definiendi potestate & censura; partim ex amissa pristinæ disciplinæ regula; partim denique ex neglectis Sanctæ Communionis officiis, fraternæque Communicationis inter Ecclesias distinctas sopitis super mutua in rebus Spiritualibus ædificatione affectibus. Hinc obortam Opinionum & Rituum omnimodam diversitatem; indè multiformem Ecclesiarum in Fidei fundamento alioquin consentientium faciem emicuisse; hæc rerum imperitis æstimatoribus speciem contrarietatis, atque indè dubitationis, disquisitionis, dissidii & Schismatis ansam præbuisse.

8. Hisce malis remedium hoc tempore calamitoso nullum accommodatius excogitari posse hoc Protestantium præstituto Conventu; cujus effectus hic expetendus est, Ut in Doctrinalibus utrinque concessis Fraternitas, in dubiis & utilibus commoda explicatio, in reliquis sentiendi libertas & tolerantia communibus suffragiis sanciatur; in publico autem Cultu ac Ritibus Ecclesiasticis ea conformitas quæ necessaria ad mutuæ ædificationis & commercii sacri affectus confirmandos videbitur, certis legibus circumscribatur.

Hîc vides institutum meum, cui assequendo licèt me imparem agnoscam, nihil tamen pro tenui virium mearum demenso reliqui faciam ad summum & sincerum conatum. Multum tribuo, idque meritò, tuæ eruditioni, pietati & prudentiæ. Ergò si quid visum fuerit super hisce monere, feceris amico & conservo Christi tui observantissimo rem gratam, & forsan publico non inutilem. Exspecto etiam ut me tuis vel ad Dominum de Dieu, vel alios quosvis, aut literis aut mandatis, si quid nunciandum est, perferendis adhibeas. Si quid autem sequenti Septimanâ huc deferatur quod mihi traditum volueris, præsentem adhuc me, & tuis, Reverende Vir, paratissimum obsequiis invenies. Vale. Dabam Londini, 14. Kalend. Jul. 1635.

Vestræ Rever. Dignitati
omni cultu & obsequio devotus,

Joannes Duræus.

Epistle LXXXII.

Jos. Medi Epistola ad Jo. Duræum.

In this Letter Mr. Mede approves the Heads and method of Mr. Dury's Pacifick design, and advises him to urge men to define the Ratio of a Fundamental Article; but withall intimates the reason why many are and will be averse from thinking of any such Definition.

IMò verò, Reverende & Ornatissime Vir, me potiùs nimiæ & inconsuetæ loquacitatis meæ veniam petere decuit, quàm hanc gratiam à te reportare. Pœnitebat fateor, & pudebat, postquam tu discesseras, & ego me recolueram, dissertationis apud te tam tumultuariæ & nusquam cohærentis. Sed miræ tu humanitatis homo es, qui etiam Amicorum errores & vitia in gratiæ & amoris Argumentum vertis.

Tuas ad Dominum Doctorem Wardum ipse propriis meis manibus reddidi, sed negotiosum reperi, ut solet, Comitiis Academicis instantibus. Has quas vides mitto tuâ curâ ad Dominum Ludovicum de Dieu perferendas, Perlegi & consideravi diligenter Tractationis tuæ futuræ capita & scopum; in quibus omnia mirificè probo, neque in mentem mihi venit quicquam quod addi vellem. Nihil enim desiderari videtur. Et certè non erat ut ab eo qui rerum usum non habet multum exspectes: votum tamen quoddam meum tibi aperiam.

In Articulos Fundamentales optârim equidem fieri posse ut paulò altiùs inquireretur, útque non enumeratione solâ, (quod hucusque factum) sed Rei ipsius definitione aliquid statuatur; quâ nempe ostenderetur, in quo demum Articuli Fundamentalis ratio & natura sita sit. Admodum enim dignum est consideratione, neminem ferè nostrorum reperiri qui hac in parte quidquam decernere ausus fuit, imò nè aggredi quidem: cùm tamen ab ejusmodi aliquo πρώτῳ omne de Articulis Fundamentalibus & Non-fundamentalibus judicium pendere necesse est. Ratio in aperto est; Cavet quisque suæ Sectæ placitis, metuítque nè dogmata sua, hoc pacto è Fundamentalium numero excidisse videantur. Hoc enim partium studiis in religione innatum est, ut dogmata, pro quibus cum parte adversa contendunt, Fundamentalium numero omnino inseri vellent, saltem non ex professo eliminari. Cavent etiam prudentiores, nè mitiori fortè errorum censurâ damnatæ alicui Sectæ aut Hæresi patrocinari aut favere viderentur.

Sed quoniam exigua est spes, fore ut in hac parte quicquam communibus nibus ſuffragiis unquam definiatur; ideo fortè priſcæ Eccleſiæ ejúſque Symbolis acquieſcendum. Certum enim eſt, qui tunc Fundamentalis Articulus non fuerit, neque hodie haberi debere.

Hæc habui, nec quid amplius, Vir Clariſſime, quæ ad tuas reſponderem. Jam illud ſolum reſtat, ut votis te abeuntem proſequar, Deúmq; venerer, ut ſcopo tuo piiſſimo benignus adeſſe velit, te ubicunque terrarum protegat, & conatibus tuis felicem ſucceſſum largiatur. Ità vovet

E Coll. Chriſti, Jun. 24.
1635. Nominis & Virtutis tuæ ſtudioſiſſimus,

Joſ. Medus.

Epistle LXXXIII.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, touching 2 ſorts of Fundamental Articles, viz. Fundamentals of Salvation and Fundamentals of Eccleſiaſtical Communion: His Cenſure of a Book written againſt the Eccleſiaſtical State.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Received your laſt, with the continuation of Mr. Dury's progreſs and ſucceſs. I gave it to reade firſt to ——, then to ſome others of lower rank, laſtly, to——. I know not whom I ſhall communicate it with beſides; yet I'le keep it a week longer to that purpoſe. But I'le tell you, ſo unwilling are ours here to acquaint themſelves with any ſuch buſineſs, that you ſhall ſcarce get them to reade any thing that way without much entreaty. Yea I found — himſelf, when I carried him this, in ſomewhat a like diſpoſition. Fain he would have declined the reading of it; You can tell me (ſaid he) the ſubſtance of it, &c. One Dr. a great Calviniſt for the points of Predeſtination, being ſhewn it by a friend to whom I had lent it, could not be gotten, after he had read a leaf or thereabouts, to reade one jot more, but cried out, It is a thing ſimply impoſſible, and never can or will be—— I know one in the world, otherwiſe a wiſe, diſcreet, underſtanding man, to whom diſcourſing hiſtorically about Mr. Dury's negotiation and hopes, he commended it for a good and pious endeavour: But I pray God (ſaith he) he doth not much hurt, as things now ſtand at this time. He meant, as I ſuppoſed, give advantage to the Arminian party, whereunto he is a great oppoſite. Yea I'le tell you, but ſub ſigillo, that I have heard — himſelf ſay as much heretofore. You ſee how hard it is for men who have once drawn bloud in theſe Controverſies, I mean have publickly engaged and declared themſelves in them, to liſten to any overture of Peace. But enough of this.

You long, you ſay, to hear my Anſwer to the particulars of your Letter. Which do you mean? I ſuppoſe chiefly that of Fundamental Articles. But if ſuch great Prelates and learned Doctors (as you mention) detrect the defining of the Ratio of a Fundamental Article, or deſigning the Number of them, as a matter not onely difficult, but inconvenient and dangerous; Quid ego miſer homuncio facerem? I confeſs I am in part guilty of adviſing Mr. Dury to urge men to think of ſuch a Definition, as a ground to examine the points of difference by, of what nature they are: But I intimated withall how likely they would be to detrect it, and wherefore; namely, leſt by that means they might either declare ſome darling Opinion of their own not to be Fundamental, and thereby prejudice their own cauſe; or elſe exclude out of that number ſome Articles formerly determined by the Church, and ſo incurre a ſuſpicion or be liable to be upbraided with favouring ſome condemned Hereſie.

But what if, to avoid the aforeſaid Inconveniences, we ſhould goe this way to work, Make two ſorts of Fundamental Articles, Fundamentals of Salvation, and Fundamentals of Eccleſiaſtical Communion? one, of ſuch as are neceſſarii cognitu & creditu ad Salutem ſimply and abſolutely, and therefore no Chriſtian ſoul that ſhall be ſaved uncapable to underſtand them; another, of ſuch as are neceſſarii creditu ad Communionem Eccleſiaſticam in regard of the predeciſion of the Church.

The firſt not to be of ſuch Truths as are merely Speculative, and contained onely in the Underſtanding; but of ſuch onely as have a neceſſary influence upon Practice: and not all thoſe neither, but ſuch as have neceſſary influence upon the Act and Function of Chriſtian life, or whereon the Acts without which a Chriſtian lives not neceſſarily depend.

Such, namely, as without the knowledge and belief whereof we can neither invocate the Father aright, nor have that Faith and reliance upon him and his Son our Mediatour Jeſus Chriſt, which is requiſite to Remiſſion of ſins and the hope of the Life to come.

How far this Ratio of a Fundamental Article will ſtretch, I know not; but believe it will fetch in moſt of the Articles of the Apoſtles Creed. And by it alſo thoſe two main Errours of the Socinians, the one denying the Divine Nature, the other the Satisfaction of Chriſt, may be diſcerned to be Fundamental. For without the belief of the firſt, the Divine Majeſty cannot be rightly, that is, incommunicably, worſhipped, ſo as to have no other Gods beſides him: For he that believes not Chriſt to be Conſubſtantial with the Father, and yet honours him with the ſame worſhip, worſhips not the Father incommunicably; which is the Formalis ratio of the worſhip of the true God, from whom we look for eternal Life. And without the belief of the ſecond (the Satisfaction of Chriſt) there can be (I ſuppoſe) no ſaving Faith or reliance upon Chriſt for Forgiveneſs of ſin. After this manner may other Articles be examined. Thus much of the firſt ſort of Fundamental Truths, meaſured by the neceſſitude they have with thoſe Acts which are required to Salvation.

Concerning the ſecond ſort of Fundamentals, viz. neceſſary ad Communionem Eccleſiaſticam; It is not fit that the Church ſhould admit any to her Communion which ſhall profeſſedly deny or refuſe their aſſent to ſuch Catholick Truths as ſhe hath anciently declared, by univerſal Authority, for the Symbol and Badge of ſuch as ſhould have Communion with her.

And this ſort of Articles without doubt fetches a greater compaſs, and comprehends more then the other, as being ordinate and meaſured by another End, to wit, of Diſcipline; and ſo contains not onely ſuch Truths, the knowledge whereof and aſſent whereto is neceſſary unto the being of Chriſtian life, but alſo to the well-being thereof; and therefore not needfull to be underſtood of every one diſtinctly and explicitely, as the former, but implicitely onely and as far as they ſhall be capable or have means to come to the knowledge thereof. This is the Summe of my thoughts concerning Fundamentals: If I have not expreſſed my ſelf ſo dilucidly as I ſhould, I pray help it with ſome intenſion of your conceit in the reading.

For the Book you ſpeak of, I like it not; I knew by hear-ſay much of the Authour and his condition ſome years before the High-Commiſſion took notice notice of him, and wondred he eſcaped ſo long. For in every company he came, he took an intolerable liberty of Invectives and Contumelies againſt the Eccleſiaſtical State, when no occaſion was offered him. Such Books as theſe never did good in our Church, and have been as diſadvantageous to their Party who vent them, as they have been prejudiciall to the common Cauſe. I durſt almoſt affirm, that the alienation which appears in our Church of late from the reſt of the Reformed hath grown for a great part from ſuch intemperancy and indiſcretion as this is, and will be ſtill increaſed more and more, if thoſe who ſeem to be the chief favourers of them goe on in this manner. He hath too ready a faculty in expreſſing himſelf with his pen, unleſs he would employ it better. For who can excuſe him from a malignant diſpoſition towards his own Mother, thus to publiſh her faults in Latine, of purpoſe to diſcover her ſhame to ſtrangers, and to call her Siſters to ſee it, as Cham did his Brothers? Think what kind of crime it is for a man that is Civis and a Member, to traduce the Rulers of his people among foreiners; and what little good affection they are like to expect from ours, who are made partiſans in ſuch a kind.

——Thus with my beſt affection I reſt, and am

Chriſt's Coll.
Febr. 6.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

Epistle LXXXIV.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, expreſſing his Opinion touching Mr. Streſo's Book, and his diſtinguiſhing of Three ſorts of Fundamentals.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Read over your Streſo with ſome attention, and find many learned and conſiderable paſſages and diſcourſes therein: But for my Animaverſions which you look for, it were againſt my Genius; for I am one that had rather give my opinion by much, (though the world hath taught me even there to be ſomewhat nice,) then cenſure another man's. But in general, I conceive his way to be ſomewhat ambiguous and intricate, more then needs.

He diſtinguiſheth Three ſorts of Fundamentals. One he calls Fundamentum ipſum: The other two he meaſures by their relation to it, either à parte Antè, and ſuch he terms Sub-fundamentales; or à parte Pòſt, which may be called Super-fundamentales. The one, of ſuch Truths quæ ſubſternuntur Fundamento; the other, ſuch as follow by immediate conſequence from the ſame. This I take to be the Summe of his opinion.

Now for that which is his Fundamentum ipſum or κατ' ἐξοχὴν, I make no doubt but the acknowledgement of the truth thereof is Fundamental ad Salutem: So I believe alſo are his Ante or Sub-fundamentals; though the moſt of them not proper to Chriſtianity, but common to it with Judaiſm. For the Church of the Goſpel is built or graffed upon the Jewiſh, the common Foundation remaining the ſame in both. But as for the third ſort of Fundamentals, or Super-fundamentals, which he makes ſuch as are by immediate or neceſſary conſequence deducible from the Fundamen- tum Salutis; I make ſome queſtion whether all ſuch are neceſſaria cognitu & creditu ad Salutem ſimply. Firſt, becauſe the neceſſity of ſuch conſequence may not be apprehended by all who hold the Fundamentum. Secondly, becauſe I am not yet perſwaded, that to deny or be ignorant of a Truth which is merely Speculative (ſuch as ſome of theſe Conſequences may be) is damnable; but onely of ſuch Truths, the knowledge and acknowledgement whereof hath neceſſary connexion with ſome practical requiſite unto Salvation; I mean, whereon depends neceſſarily the acquiring of ſome Act neceſſary, or the avoiding of ſome Act repugnant to Salvation.

So that ſtill, it ſeems to me, the readieſt and eaſieſt way for reſolution in this matter is, To enquire and examine what thoſe Acts are wherein conſiſts our Spiritual life, or that Union and Fellowſhip which we have with the Father and his Son our Mediator Jeſus Chriſt. That which is neceſſarium cognitu & creditu unto theſe is Fundamental ad Salutem, i. e. cujus agnitioni Salus tanquam Fundamento innititur: That which is not ſo, is not Fundamental ad Salutem. For example, He that comes unto God (ſaith S. Paul) muſt believe that God is: So likewiſe, He that comes unto Chriſt, or unto the Father by him, (as every one muſt do that will be ſaved) muſt believe that Chriſt is, and that he is conſtituted the Mediator between God and us. He that comes unto and relies upon Chriſt for remiſſion of ſin, muſt believe that Chriſt ſuffered, and was offered a Sacrifice for the ſins of men, and thereby purchaſed that power to conferre Remiſſion unto all that ſhould repent and believe in his Name. He that bids a true farewell to ſin, and ſavingly buckles to the works of a new life, muſt believe there is a life to come, and a Day wherein God by the Man he hath ordained ſhall judge both the quick and dead, and give unto every one according to his works; according to that of S. Paul, Act. 24. 15, 16. I have hope towards God, that there ſhall be a Reſurrection of the dead, both of the juſt and unjuſt. * [For this cauſe] do I exerciſe my ſelf to have always a conſcience void of offence toward God and toward men. According to theſe examples you may examine more.

* So ſhould' Ἐν τούτῳ δὲ be rendred: not In hoc, nor In hac re, as the Vulg. and Eraſmus; nor Interea, with Beza; but, with the Syriack and Arabick, Propterea. ᵗ*Hebraiſmus eſt, ubi* ב in ſæpe valet propter.

The difference between Mr. Streſo's way and mine is this: He meaſures his Fundamentals by their relation to one Fundamentum; I meaſure all by the relation they have to Eternal life, in regard of thoſe Acts and Diſpoſitions whereby we are capable thereof.

Take this Similitude; In a Creature indued with animal life are many Members or Organs, whereof though none can be wanting, hurt or wounded, without ſome deformity, defect or detriment of the whole; yet all are not eſſential unto the Life of the Body, but ſuch onely from whence thoſe Faculties and Functions flow whereon Life neceſſarily depends; ſuch as are Reſpiratio, Nutritio, Guſtus, Tactus, Pulſus, Somnus, and the like: Therefore the Organs whereon theſe depend can neither be wanting, nor notoriouſly hurt or wounded, but the Body preſently dieth. Without Legs, Arms, Tongue, Eyes, Ears, Noſe, a man may live, though a moſt pitiful, ugly and loathſome ſpectacle, and more fit for the Spittle then the publick ſociety of men: But without Head, Heart, Lungs, Stomach, and the like, he cannot; namely becauſe theſe Members, and the ſound and good temper of them in ſome degree, are neceſſary to thoſe Faculties and Functions which are requiſite unto Life. Apply this, and improve it by your Meditation. Vale.

February 27. Yours,

Joſ. Mede.

EPI-

EPISTLE LXXXV.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, touching the Acta Lipſiaca, as alſo touching a Confeſsion of Faith and the way of determining Fundamentals, that it ſhould be ſhort, eaſy and evident.

Worthy Sir,

I Have received the Acta Lipſiaca, but if I could have given you notice in time, I would have ſaved you that labour, and borrowed of Dr. W. for he had promiſed to lend me his. When I had read it over, Lord! me thought, what little differences are theſe to break communion for: viz. for one or two Speculative Subtilties, for ſome Logical or Metaphyſical Notion. So I believe much of theſe diſputes (when the wiſeſt and moderateſt of both ſides have expounded themſelves) is (I will not ſay mere λογομαχία, but) λογικομαχία. ——— For your Extracts, I read them preſently, and laid them by; and to confeſs the truth, ſome buſineſs following preſently took me ſo much up, that I had almoſt forgot I had them, till your admonition put me now in mind of them.

That George Francis his way De gradibus neceſſitatis dogmatum Chriſtianorum, quibus Fidei, Spei & Charitatis officia reguntur, methinks by the Title ſhould come ſomewhat near that I fanſy. 'Tis true that he ſaies, Some men have ſuch an unhappineſs of Logick, that by an affected following their methods and Technological artifices they make things more obſcure and intricate, which in the true uſe of Logick ſhould be made more eaſy and perſpicuous.

I have not yet attentively read Mr. Dury's Conſultation: which I will doe, and then ſend it back: For mens minds here are ſo remote from thoughts of this nature, that it is to little purpoſe to communicate it to many. The way to determine Fundamental Articles muſt be made very ſhort, eaſy and evident; or it will breed as many Controverſies as are about the Points themſelves in queſtion. I can gather that by what I ſometimes meet with. It is not fit that a Confeſſion which concerns all that will be ſaved to know and remember ſhould be any long or tedious Diſcourſe. The Ten Commandments given by God are an Epitome faciendorum; The Lord's Prayer is Summa or Epitome petendorum: According to which Pattern the Confeſſion we ſeek for ſhould be but Summa credendorum.

Thus with my prayers and beſt affection, I reſt

Chriſt's Coll.
July 24.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

EPISTLE

Epistle LXXXVI.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib touching the defining of Fundamental Articles.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Have received yours. It ſeems ſtrange to me that men ſhould hold, that thoſe who erre in Fundamentals cannot be ſaved, and yet maintain it ſcarce poſſible to ſet down the Ratio of a Fundamental Article, or any κριτήριον whereby to know them.

What though Fundamentum & Fundamentalia be Metaphorical terms? yet may they ſoon be turned into proper ones, namely, Articuli cognitu & creditu neceſſarii ad Salutem. Here is no Metaphor: Whether therefore may there any Ratio or κριτήριον be given to diſcern theſe?

I believe not that Canon of the Council of Epheſus intended to preſcribe to any other Council of like Authority, not to explicate or improve the Creed of Nice, as they did that of the Apoſtles; but that no private Biſhop ſhould compoſe any other Formula Fidei, to be a Rule and Symbolum of Communion, then that of Nice.

Thus with my Prayers and beſt affection, I remain

Chriſt's College ult.
Jul. 1637.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

Epistle LXXXVII.

Another Letter more fully treating about the defining the Ratio of Fundamental Articles.

Mr. Hartlib,

YOU wiſh I had declared my ſelf more largely: But what needed it? you had the ſubſtance of all I had to ſay. But if you would have it more fully, then thus.

1. By Fundamental Articles in this inquiry we mean ſuch as are Neceſſarii cognitu & creditu ad Salutem; that is, Fundamenta Salutis, Fundamental to Salvation; not Fundamenta Theologicarum Veritatum, Principles whence Theological Verities are deduced. For theſe, though they may be ſometimes coincident, are not the ſame.

2. What then though the Term Fundamental be Metaphorical and improper? yet we ſee it may eaſily (if we underſtand our own meaning) be expreſſed in clear and proper terms. And therefore this can be no impediment to the finding or defining the Ratio of ſuch Articles, whereby they may be known and diſtinguiſhed from others.

3. And what though the whole Scripture be Fundamentum or Principium Veritatum Theologicarum or Dogmatum Fidei? Yet is not every content in Scripture neceſſary to be known and believed explicitely unto Salvation; and therefore this Notion of Fundamentum nothing to the purpoſe; ſince (as I ſaid) Principia Theologica, or Fundamentalia dogmatum, matum, and Fundamentalia Salutis are not the ſame, but differ formally, though ſome of them may be materially coincident.

4. But the Definition of ſuch Fundamental Articles would be dangerous, inconvenient, and ſubject to much reprehenſion, yea, in reſpect of the diverſity of mens judgements, is in a manner impoſſible. This methinks is very ſtrange, That any who acknowledge there be ſome Truths neceſſary to be known and explicitely believed unto Salvation, ſhould yet deny there can be any Ratio or Character given whereby to know them; yea affirm it to be unſafe to determine any ſuch, if it might be found, or that any enumeration of ſuch Articles ſhould be made. What? Cannot or may not thoſe Truths be defined and known, without an explicite belief whereof we cannot be ſaved? What will follow upon this?

Neither when we ſpeak of defining here, do we mean any ſuch matter as the ἀκρίβεια or exactneſs of a Logical definition, (which might entangle us in School-niceties and janglings,) but any deſcription or deſignation of that Ratio or diſtinguiſhing Character whereby ſuch Truths as are cognitu & creditu neceſſaria ad Salutem might be known from others. And this ſure might be done without any ſuch engagement in Logical ſcrupuloſity.

5. As for the Objection of the Canon of the Oecumenical Council of Epheſus; Certainly that Council never intended to reſtrain the power of any Council or other publick Eccleſiaſtical Authority like it ſelf, but onely private Perſons, from attempting to make any ſuch Creed, Formula, or Confeſſion of Faith, beſides that of Nice. This I ſuppoſe may be gathered from thoſe words, Si Epiſcopi, &c. Si Clerici, &c. Si Laici, &c. and the Cenſure to be laid upon them. Nor does it ſeem ſimply and altogether to forbid them neither, to compoſe any ſuch for private inſtruction or uſe; but only for a publick intent, to be tendered as a Form of Confeſſion of Faith to Pagans or Jews at their Baptiſm, or to Hereticks when they were again received into the Church. Conc. Epheſ. 1 Can. 7.

For why ſhould not the Churches now, as well as then, have the like power, upon the like occaſion, further to explicate or make more explicite the former Symbols of Faith, as the Council of Nice did that of the Apoſtles, yea or any Church or Churches that are or would be of the ſame Communion, to doe it for themſelves? For then we know the Churches were all of one Communion; now they are not, and therefore may provide for themſelves according to their condition.

Beſides, how came the Creed of Athanaſius to be ſince publickly received in the Church, or the Council of Chalcedon, after this of Epheſus, to make a new Expoſition of Faith, (unleſs this Canon were underſtood as aforeſaid,) ſince neither of them are the ſame with that of Nice? Or how could the Reformed Churches make ſuch publick Confeſſions for themſelves as they have done?

Thus I think I have declared my ſelf largely enough now; and perhaps more largely then befitted me, when I conſider to whom it hath reference. But my hope is, you will conceal the Author's name from any man, and not reveal it ſave to Mr. Dury alone. And ſo, with my beſt affection, I remain

Your aſſured Friend, without ſubſcription of my name.

EPI-

Epistle LXXXVIII.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, containing his advice for framing a Fundamental Confeſſion agreeably to the practice of the Ancient Church in compoſing their Creeds or Symbols of Faith.

Mr. Hartlib,

WHen I read over Mr. Dury's Conſultation, (before his Diſcourſe ad Dominum Forbeſium came to my hands) I perceived he aimed at the ſelf-ſame ground for the diſcovery and diſcerning of Fundamental Verities from not-Fundamental that I had formerly done in mine to you, though in a differing way of expreſſion, as men that conceive apart are wont to doe. I made them to be ſuch Truths as have neceſſary influence upon the Acts and Functions of Chriſtian life, or without the explicite knowledge whereof thoſe Acts and Functions cannot be exerciſed. He goes further, and ſpecifies wherein this Chriſtian life conſiſteth: namely, As Natural life conſiſts in the conjunction of the Soul with the Body; ſo doth Spiritual life in the conjunction of Men with God, that is, in being in Covenant with him. All thoſe Verities therefore, the knowledge and belief whereof is neceſſary to the Acts and Functions requiſite to the being and continuation in the Covenant with God in Jeſus Chriſt, are Fundamental Verities, without the explicite knowledge and belief of which a man cannot be ſaved.

But for the framing or compoſing ſuch a Fundamental Confeſſion as is ſought for, let me diſcover my Opinion, Fancy, or whatſoever it be. I obſerve, That the Confeſſions or Creeds of the Ancient Church (which were their Symbols of Communion) were always the former Creeds or Confeſſions enlarged with ſuch further additions or explanations ſubjoyned to the former Articles reſpectively as the Hereſies of the Times made requiſite for the diſtinction of Orthodox Believers. So the Nicene Creed was the Creed of the Apoſtles enlarged in the Articles of the Father and Son, and one or two other. The Creed of Conſtantinople added to the Article of the Holy Ghoſt in that of Nice thoſe words, The Lord and giver of life, who proceedeth from the Father [and the Son,] who with the Father and the Son together is worſhipped and glorified; againſt Macedonius. This is the Creed we ſay at the Communion in our Church. That of Athanaſius yet more enlarges that of Nice, as doth that of Chalcedon alſo the Article of the Son, againſt Eutyches.

Were it not fit therefore that we ſhould tread in their ſteps, and frame our Confeſſion or Symbolum in like manner? to wit, not making the Form of our Confeſſion wholly new, but taking the former Creeds or ſome of them for our ground, to enlarge their Articles with ſuch further additions and explanations as the ſtate of the Times requires; that ſo our Confeſſion might be the Creeds of the Ancient Church ſpecified onely to the preſent condition of the Churches, and no other. Thus we ſhould both teſtifie to the world our communion and agreement with the Ancient Catholick Church, (a matter of no ſmall moment, that we may not ſeem to have made a new Church or Religion, as we are charged,) and yet withall diſtinguiſh our ſelves from the Sects, Hereſies and Apoſtaſies of the Times.

To which end it were fit the words of the Ancient Creeds ſhould be retained as much as could be; and for the more eaſie reception thereof, that the additions and inſertions ſhould be made in the expreſs words of Scripture, as near as the nature of the compoſure would ſuffer it, and not otherwiſe. As for the meaning of them, their application to the ſeveral Articles ticles would ſpecifie it as far as were needful to the end aimed at by ſuch a Confeſſion.

Compare the Creeds of Nice, Athanaſius and Chalcedon with that of the Apoſtles, and you will underſtand my meaning. And conſider that in ſuch a buſineſs as this we muſt not be too much in love with Methods of our own deviſing, (though perhaps they ſeem better,) but follow that which all the Churches will moſt eaſily yield unto, and cannot except againſt. I believe our own (as may by ſome paſſages be already gueſſed) would hardly be brought to ſubſcribe to any other Form then of ſuch a mould.

Take this alſo before I conclude; That my meaning is not, we ſhould doe as the Council of Trent hath done, by adding Twelve more Articles to the Creed: but that our Additions ſhould be inſerted into the ſeveral Articles of the Ancient Creed, as ſubordinate to them, and farther Explanations of them. Which thoſe of Trent indeed could not well doe, thoſe which were added being the moſt of them incompatible and inconſiſtent with the former Articles according to the true and original meaning of the ſame, and therefore not to be incorporated with them.

I ſend you home the Conſultation; I will keep the Diſcurſus a while longer. For Comenius his Præludium I thank you, but I have not had leiſure to conſider ſo much of it as were needful to give a cenſure. I believe ſuch a thing is fecible; but for the way, Hic labor, hoc opus eſt.

So with my beſt affection I reſt

Chriſt's College, Aug. 14. 1637.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

EPISTLE LXXXIX.

Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, for a ſight of his Papers about the Millennium.

Worthy Sir,

——I Had occaſion to exchange ſome Letters of late with Dr. Twiſſe: In his laſt he writes thus unto me; [As for Regnum Sanctorum & Chriſti in terris, Reſurrectio prima, &c. Paſſages there have been between me and Mr. Mede thereabouts, and I am but his Scholar therein: and I know full well, you are ſo well acquainted with him, that you may have any thing from him, who is my Maſter in this. I have yet no liberty to take into conſideration the matter of Fundamentals, neither have I any affection to it, as finding no ſure footing in that argument.] Thus farre he. I pray let me reap the fruit of his confidence in the enjoying of thoſe Papers which have paſſed between you on the fore-mentioned Subject. Truly I ſhall count it a great favour, if you ſhall be pleaſed to communicate them; and having peruſed them, I will be carefull to return them ſafely into your hands with my hearty thanks. Thus craving pardon for my freedom, I take my leave, remaining always, Worthy Sir,

London, Octob. 19. 1637.

Your moſt aſſured and willing Friend to ſerve you,

S. Hartlib.

Epistle XC.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer, with his judgement upon a Diſcourſe arguing from ſome Politick Conſiderations againſt the compoſing a Fundamental Confeſsion.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Anſwered not your firſt Letter, becauſe I had not wherewith to ſatisfie you. For that which Dr. Twiſſe ſays he had of me concerning the Millenary opinion, the grounds and ſtating thereof was only in Letters between him and me, whereof I kept no Copies; and now it would be tedious to me to renew what I then wrote. In conference I could doe it with eaſe, but writing is very tedious to me; and my notions and wit too die preſently, when I intend my mind to expreſs them by writing.

Concerning the Paper you now ſend; what judgement ſhould I give but that I like it not? It ſavours methinks of too much averſeneſs from that buſineſs. I believe you think ſo. The Gentleman (whoſoever he be) ſeems himſelf to be one of thoſe he ſpeaks of, that hath in his eyes to preſerve his own opinions from indemnity: But if every man doe ſo, what hope of conciliation?

Beſides, the matter aimed at in this buſineſs is not that either ſide ſhould preſently relinquiſh their opinions of difference; but onely take notice that, notwithſtanding theſe differences, both ſides do ſo far agree in other Points, that they may and ought to acknowledge each other as Brethren; that ſo their Affections being united, and exaſperation aboliſhed, they might be the better diſpoſed and fitted to judge of the Points of difference between them. And whereas he objects, That ſuch Points being declared not Fundamental, would loſe part of their ſtrength, and be ſhaken, this inconvenience would be recompenſed, in that the Opinions of the oppoſite party will ſuffer as much; and ſo what we loſe at home, we ſhould gain abroad.

Howſoever it ſeems to me no very warrantable policy, That for the better ſtrengthning and propagating a Truth, men ſhould be born in hand that the belief thereof is Fundamental, when it is not; that is, that a Truth ſhould be maintained by a Falſhood. I cannot believe that Truth can be prejudiced by the diſcovery of Truth; but I fear that the maintenance thereof by Fallacy may not end with a bleſſing.

I would know whether the Authour of this Letter thinks that the Lutherans and Calviniſts agree not in ſo much as is neceſſary unto Salvation. If they do, would not a Confeſſion compoſed of ſuch things wherein they agree contain all things neceſſaria cognitu ad Salutem; and yet no neceſſity that this or that particular Tenet ſhould be defined by ſuch Confeſſion to be or not to be Fundamental?

I would know alſo whether he thinks it fit that particular Churches ſhould have particular Confeſſions, whereunto their Members ſhould profeſs their aſſent. If ſo, I would have it conſidered, whether ſome of his Inconveniences be not as incident to ſuch Confeſſions towards the members of a particular Church, as would be from a general Confeſſion towards the members of ſeveral Churches.

All ſuch Inconveniences are per accidens, but the good and benefit is per ſe; yea prevents far greater evils, with which ſuch contingent and caſual Inconveniences may not ſtand in competition. What greater evil can befall befal the Church then Schiſm and breach of Charity between her Members; and the woful effects that do inevitably follow thereof? Shall we then to avoid the leſſer, and ſuch as perhaps may not be, cheriſh the greater, which threaten ruine to the whole Body? that I ſay nothing of the danger of the ſpiritual eſtate of thoſe who are engaged therein, if they are not ſo much as willing to be at Unity. This is a great piece of Practical Divinity, and to be more conſidered then it is.

Moreover it is to be conſidered, that many of the Evils he ſuppoſes would follow of ſuch a Confeſſion are already in being in moſt Churches, whileſt there is no ſuch Confeſſion: Therefore the declining of ſuch a Confeſſion is not the means to avoid them; they will be whether there be any ſuch or not. Thoſe who will ſeek for pretences to doe amiſs, will always find them.

Some of the Evils he alledges are ſuch, as the contrary to what he fears ſeem every whit as like to follow. For why ſhould not ſuch a declaration and limiting of Fundamentals rather introduce a greater liberty and indulgence in particular Churches to think what men liſt in other points, then an oppreſſion or further bondage to be impoſed upon the Members thereof? Yea a Confeſſion cannot deſcend far in particulars, but ſome mens Conſciences or other will be wronged by it: And a man in this caſe ſhould not have reſpect to his own Conſcience onely, but as well to other mens who may ſcruple the contrary to his.

He ſeems to me to confound Points of Faith with matters of Practice and Manners. But the queſtion is not, what is Licitum or Illicitum in Practice, or what is Neceſſarium factu; but what is Neceſſarium credita ad Salutem.

Laſtly, the whole Diſcourſe, methinks, moves rather upon the hindges of Policy then of Divinity; as is too manifeſt in that he would have the forein Churches to labour ſuch a Confeſſion, and ours to lie at the advantage to approve or not to approve it, as we ſhall find it makes for or againſt our particular Tenets.

All this I write tumultuouſly and confuſedly, without order, without deliberation. It is ſufficient if you can gueſs my mind thereby, or get any hint to think more accurately how ſuch Objections are to be anſwered. To ſhew it any body I would not; it is not fit: If any thing be to purpoſe, make it your own. So with my beſt affection I reſt

Chriſt's College,
Jan. 22.

Yours,

J: M.

EPISTLE XCI.

Mr. Hartlib's Letter to Mr. Mede, touching the Manuſcript decyphering the Number of the Beaſt, 666, and other Books newly ſet forth.

Worthy Sir,

I Thank you for your Anſwer and ſolid judgement which you have returned to the encloſed Paper: you need not fear the miſcarrying of theſe your Notions. Mr. Dury will eaſily ſmell them out, though I ſhould convey them in my own name unto him. By theſe enclоſed you will ſee a fuller character of that Gentleman, and what entertainment ſome Extracts out of your Letters concerning Fundamentals have found with Mr. Dury. You do not tell me the name and your opinion concerning the Anonymous Book in folio, called Beſtia Apocalyptica. There is great commendation of a Manuſcript decyphering the Number of the Beaſt, 666. I would fain learn of you wherein the excellency of that Treatiſe principally conſiſteth. I hear Cluverius, a very profound Hiſtorian and Divine of Denmark, hath written an excellent Commentary upon the Revelation, which is not ſuffered to come forth, by reaſon of many Paradoxical paſſages which the Times cannot brook as yet. I make no queſtion you have ſeen a Book which Dr. Brochmand of Denmark hath written, which is not unfit for our Times, wherein he anſwereth the Motives for which the Adminiſtrators of Hall did fall off from Proteſtancy. It was publiſhed Regio juſſu Hafniæ, 1634. One writes that this Book doth anſwer largely many of the particular Arguments which are uſed in Mercy and Truth againſt us, and doth it ſolidly and well in moſt of them. He wiſhes alſo that it were more common amongſt our Court-Divines.——

Return the Copy of the Order of the Knighthood, when you have ſufficiently peruſed it. Thus I reſt

London, Jan. 24. 1637.

Your moſt affectionate and willing Friend to ſerve you,

S. Hartlib.

Epistle XCII.

Mr. Mede's Anſwer, with his judgement of Mr. Potter's Diſcourſe of the Number of the Beaſt, 666.

Worthy Mr. Hartlib,

I Received yours with the Ordo Beatæ Virginis, which with the reſt I will ſend back next week; for now I have no time to make them up.

That Diſcourſe or Tract of the Number of the Beaſt is the happieſt that ever yet came into the world; and ſuch as cannot be read (even of thoſe that perhaps will not believe it) without much admiration. The ground hath been harped on before; namely, That that Number was to be explicated by ſome Ἀντιστοιχία to the Numbers of the Virgin-Company and New Jeruſalem, which types the true and Apoſtolical Church, whoſe Number is always derived from XII. But never did any work this Principle to ſuch a wonderful diſcovery as this Author hath done; namely, to make this Number not onely to ſhew the nature and propeity of that State which was to be the Beaſt, but to deſign the City wherein he ſhould reign, the figure and compaſs thereof, the number of Gates, Cardinal Titles or Churches, S. Peter's Altar, and I know not how many more the like. I read the Book at firſt with as much prejudice againſt ſuch Numerical Speculations as might be, and almoſt againſt my will, having met with ſo much vanity formerly in that kind; but by the time I had done, it left me as much poſſeſſed with admiration as I came to it with prejudice. He meddles with no more of the Apocalyps then what concerns this Number. 'Tis a Mathematical ground he builds upon, and will not be ſo well underſtood by one

one that hath not been a little verſed in Arithmetick, in that part which is called Extraction of Roots.

If the Scrivener, whom I hired to write me out a fair Copy thereof, had not diſappointed me, I could ere this have lent you a Copy, it may be, as good as the Author's; I believe ſomewhat more diſtinct, by ſuch directions as I gave my Scribe. If it were in Latine, it would make ſome of your German Speculatives half wild.

Beſtia Apocalyptica I ſaw and had above a dozen years ſince; but ſome 6 or 7 years after it came firſt out, our London Stationers, to make it the ſecond time a New Book, (becauſe ſome of them lay upon their hands) printed the Title-leaf anew with the then preſent year of our Lord at it, and at Delph, as before. This knaviſh trick I obſerved, and compared the Books at that time. But the Authour I never heard, nor know who it was; but I believe a Laick Gentleman, and ſo I think I have heard.

By your laſt piece, that Divine whoſe it is ſeems not to underſtand what we mean by a Fundamental Confeßion and Fundamental Articles. For he takes them to be ſuch as are inſtar Principiorum, out of which all other Theological Verities or Articles are deducible; wherein he is wide: for the queſtion is of Fundamentalia ad Salutem, i. e. Cognitu & creditu neceſſaria ad Salutem, not of Fundamenta veritatum Theologicarum.

——Thus with my beſt affection, I reſt

Chriſt's College,
Jan. 29. 163⅞. Yours,

J. M.

Epistle XCIII.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, with his Cenſure of Grebner's Prophecy, in a MS. in Trinity College Library in Cambridge.

SIR,

ON Saturday I received yours dated March 14, that is the Wedneſday fortnight before.——

The Prophecy (which I here ſend you again) I would not have you make too much of. It is taken out of Paulus Grebnerus his Prophecies, a Manuſcript in Trinity College Library. It was left them by Dr. Nevil their Maſter, had been preſented it ſeems to Queen Elizabeth, (whom part of his Prophecie concerned) and ſo came to Dr. Nevil's hands, whileſt he was Clerk of the Cloſet to her Majeſty. 'Tis now almoſt 28 years ſince I firſt ſaw and turned it over, the rather becauſe of the fine pictures therein in colours, &c. When the Wars began in Bohemia, (which was eight years after I had firſt ſeen it) remembring ſomething I had ſeen therein, I had a deſire to ſurvey it anew, and borrowed it to my chamber, to ſee if there were any thing therein worth taking notice of. But I found nothing but vanity and fancy, and the whole ſeries thereof and many of the particulars manifeſtly then confuted by the contrary Event; as you may gueſs by this one thing I ſhall tell you.

The beginning or Epocha of his Prophecies he makes from the year 1572. when the new Star appeared in Caſſiopeia, and ends the whole ſeries of his Vexillai (ſo he terms them) at the year 1613. which he ſuppoſed ſhould be The Day of Judgement, having no other ground for the ſame then the Numeral Letters of the Latine word JUDICIUM (as they are all) which makes that Number. What think you now? He propheſied great matters of Henry the IV. of France, (which proved clean contrary,) of Queen Elizabeth and other Princes, which never came to paſſe. I have, I know not how often, to ſatisfy one or other, told them as I now tell you; and yet every five or ſix years it comes up again, as if it had never been diſcredited. Men are prone to believe any thing they would have, and any words that ſeem that way they lay hold on; never regarding though the ground be fooliſh, and the coherence with the reſt repugnant to their conſtruction. I'le tell you what Paul Grebner meant or dream'd by that you ſent me.

Know, he lived in the time of King John of Sweden, who married a Popiſh Lady: This is his Hujus temporis Rex Suecia, (i. ſui temporis) which he ſuppoſed ſhould be invited by the Catholick party to take their part and to invade Denmark, &c.

The Carolus he ſpeaks of was Carolus Sudermanniæ Dux, King John's Brother, with whom he threatens King John, that if he joyned with the Popiſh League, he ſhould leave his Kingdom unto him; who ſhould of Carolus become Carolus Magnus, that is, of a Duke be made a King, and be in reſpect of his Dominions and Conqueſts another Charlemaign of the North: Et ſic (ſaith he) è Carolo Carolus Magnus regnum capeßit, (for ſo it ſhould be read) qui magno ſucceſſu & fortunâ, &c.——

It follows, Deus autem Regis conjugem Papiſticam ex hac vita evocat. This is King John's Wife. What ſhould it mean elſe? This he dream'd ſhould happen to King John aſſoon as he ſhould have declared himſelf for the Popiſh League, and that then preſently Charles his Brother ſhould take the Kingdom, &c.

By this time I doubt not but you underſtand it, and how little they heed Circumſtances and other Connexions who would interpret it of any other Charles. Howſoever Grebner was for a great part deceived concerning even that Charles he meant.——

I think my Letter be now long enough; therefore with Prayers and beſt affection, I reſt

Chriſt's College,
Apr. 3. 1637.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

Poſt-ſcript.

I had written yeſterday, but that partly other writing, partly Moleſti homines robbed me of my time. Would you have me ſend back Mr. Dury's Letter or not? Vale.

EPISTLE XCIV.

Mr. Hartlib's Reply, thanking him for that Cenſure.

Worthy Sir,

I Thank you for your laſt of the third of April. I never made much of Grebner's, or any of thoſe Prophetical fancies. I approve fully of your judgement which you have given upon it. I hope it will work ſome good upon upon those who are used to be carried away with these Dreams. Some weeks agoe worthy Dr. Twisse communicated unto me Mr. Potter's MS. of 666. Certainly our Germans will be wild when they shall see it in a more known language. If you please to let me have your Copy also, I shall take it as a special favour. I am very confidently assured that my Lo. Gr. of Cant. himself hath written a Book in answer to some Popish Points, as it were a second part of Chillingsworth, composed chiefly upon the point of Fundamentals and Non-fundamentals; which Book is almost ready for the Press: onely because in his quotations he hath trusted to his memory, he is revising and examining them, and then it comes forth. In the mean time I rest

London, 6. April 1638.

Your most willing and affectionate Friend to serve you,

S. Hartlib.

EPISTLE XCV.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, concerning the Number 25. the Root of the Beast's Number, viz. 666. with his judgement of an Analytical Table of the Apocalyps which was sent him; his differing from the Author thereof in four particulars.

Worthy Mr. Hartlib,

——CConcerning your Mathematician's Letter about Mr. Potter's interpretation of the Beast's Number, I like his Observation of the Roman Calendar, that of all the Numbers of the Epact they should chuse XXV. for the Æquation with the Golden number; and I think it (as far as I understand it) worthy to be added to the rest of Mr. Potter's of that kind. But that of T. L' 1666, I have known long, but never had any fancy to, and I think it not worthy to come in collation with that of Mr. Potter's. Yet it is pretty, I confess, what your Authour observeth of the Roman Numeral letters CDILMVX, id est, MDCLXVI.

I would willingly send you my Copy of Mr. Potter's Book, but by a sure hand, for the Carrier I dare not trust. It cost me —— to be written out to my mind; besides mine own pains in distinguishing it, and dividing the whole into 8 Sections, and prefixing the Contents of every Section at the beginning, and writing the margins with mine own hand: and therefore I would not willingly lose it. If I light upon a convenient messenger, I shall send it.

The Analytical Table of the Apocalyps, if you had not charged me therewith, I should not have believed it had been still in my hands, for I verily thought I had sent it back long before this, and was a while very much afraid I must have sent you word it was lost: yet at length I found it, and have sent it herewith.

The Authour of the Analytical Table differs from me wholly in the 20. Chapter, and follows Mr. Brightman. What I conceive, you may find in my Commentationes Apocalyptica. My difference will appear by these particulars.

1. I hold but one Millennium, and that to begin at the destruction of the Beast: He holds two, one beginning at Constantine, another at the destruction of the Beast.

2. I deny that Satan was ever yet tied up, much leſs at the time of Conſtantine. 'Tis one thing to be dethroned and thrown down from Heaven, (that was at the time of Conſtantine;) another thing to be bound and cloſe priſoner, and not ſo much as peep out of his dungeon. See my Synchroniſms, Clav. Apocal. Part. 2. Synch. 4. * pag. 22, 23.

* In this edition pag. 531.

3. I take the Reſurrections, both of them, Firſt and Second, to be proper and real; he Metaphorical. 'Tis not ſafe to deprive the Church of thoſe Texts whereon her faith of the Reſurrection is builded. For this interpretation will neceſſarily rob us of that of Daniel Chap. 12. alſo, whereon I believe the Church of the Old Teſtament built her faith of that Article; there being no ſuch evident place beſides in all the Old Teſtament.

4. He ſeems to appropriate the Second Millennium (which I think the onely) to the glory of the Jews onely: I extend it to the whole Catholick Church of the Gentiles, when the Jews ſhall come into the fold; and that the Apocalyps is properly and primarily the Gentiles Prophecy, I mean of the Church of the Gentiles, and of the Jews but by accident and coincidence only. The Jews have prophecies enough of their own in the Old Teſtament.

In my Books and the papers I once ſent you concerning this Point all this is eaſily to be ſeen.——With my beſt and wonted affection I reſt

Chriſt's College,
April 16. 1638.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

Epistle XCVI.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, modeſtly excuſing his own abilities, and intimating what cauſe he had to decline coming forth in print; with his Obſervation touching the Latitude of Rome.

Mr. Hartlib,

TOuching the Letter you ſent me, De neceſſitate Textualis interpretationis S. Scripturæ, I ſo fully agree with the Author in the former part thereof, that I could not have expreſſed mine own thoughts thereabouts in mine own words better then he hath done in his. But for the latter part, alas! it is nothing ſo. I know my ſelf better then any man elſe, and I am conſcious that I am infinitely far from any ſuch ability as he collecteth out of a little diligence perhaps in a Diſcourſe or two. If I have hit upon any Truth, it is wholly to be attributed to my indifferency in ſuch ſearches, to embrace whatſoever I ſhould find, without any regard whether it were for the advantage of one ſide or other, and not to any ability beyond others. Freedom from prejudice, ſtudium partium or deſire to find for this ſide rather then that, (which I confeſs I endeavour as much as I can poſſibly to ſubdue my ſelf unto) is ſufficient with a little diligence to diſcover more then I have yet done, without any ſuch great learning. I confeſs I know my ſelf to have ſo little of that this Gentleman ſuppoſeth me to have, that the very reading thereof hath made me more then half melancholick ever ſince. I am bound to love him, and take it kindly that he hath any good or favourable conceit of me or ought of mine: But no man can make me believe that I have thoſe abilities I have not; yea 'tis ſomewhat burthenſome and unwelcome to me to be thought to have: Ex animo loquor. Yea I am almoſt ſo unchauncharitable as to ſuſpect this is ſome ſtratagem to work me to ſomething I know not what. But let it goe.

I could tell ſome tales of my Altare of another ſtrain, that would make you think I have no great joy to come in publick; as, I think I can ſafely ſay, I did never yet plenâ voluntate, but yielding to other mens importunities or deſires: yet I know not whether I ſhall yet reſt, and keep my thoughts and my ſelf in my Cell. In a word, Mundus amat decipi magis quàm doceri, and will never [illegible]ertain any man well that ſhall deal ingenuouſly with them. He muſt look to have Micaiah's luck: He muſt ſay true, and yet not propheſie againſt Ahab: If he does, he muſt to Pound and to hard meat for it.

For mine to Dr. Twiſſe, there is ſomething wherein I had not fully informed my ſelf, about the Latitude of Rome, as having not Ptolemie by me. I ſaid, the old Aſtronomers made the Latitude thereof 41. 50. minutes; the later promoted it ſome minutes more to the North. When I wrote ſo, I truſted to Jo. Stadius, who makes it ſo; and ſuppoſed he had derived it from thoſe before him. But after looking upon Maginus his Ptolemie, I find that Ptolemie, according to him, makes it but 41. and 40. min. and ſome others and ſome Maps leſs. The ſumme is this; Ptolemie 41. 40. Stadius and others 41. 50. Maginus himſelf 42. 2. Origanus 42. 4. The Middle is about 41. 51. I have no time to enquire further, nor Books at hand. I pray tranſcribe this in yours to Dr. Twiſſe, leſt he ſend my notion or miſtake to Mr. Potter without this correction, though it be not material. For by his words to you I ſuſpect he means to doe it; which occaſioned me to adde this. Thus with my wonted affection I reſt, and am

Chriſt's College,
June 4. 1638.

Yours,

Joſ. Mede.

EPISTLE XCVII.

Mr. Mede's Letter to a worthy Friend, touching ſome Papers of his printed without his privity.

Worthy Sir,

I Thank you very heartily for your Book and kind Letter, as I ſhould have done long agoe for another Book you ſent me. But I have entangled myſelf a long time with ſo much needleſs writing to no purpoſe, as it makes me ſometimes glad of any pretence to be idle, when I ſhould not. For what you ſay of a Scrible, it was I that took order to have ſuch a one ſent to you, not you to me. I'le aſſure you, you have performed more then I durſt have thought of doing, though you pleaſe to profeſs your ſelf my Diſciple. But it is no unwonted thing for Scholars thus to outgoe their Maſters.

There are ſome Papers of mine walking I know not where, concerning Bowing towards the Altar: which were written by way of Anſwer to ſome body (and a man of note) demanding of me what I thought thereof. One was my firſt Anſwer: Another more large, replying to the Exceptions he made againſt that firſt, and the whole opinion and practice, being ſomewhat larger then I uſe to write Letters, and written with ſome intention of mind (after my thoughts that way had been long aſleep.) I by chance kept a copy of it, which how it came to be ſo much diſperſed, I profeſs I know not.

That

That ſo-long-ſince-written Diſcourſe of mine, De Sanctitate Relativa, &c. ſavours too much of my infancy in Divinity, and firſt thoughts, and affectation of ſtyle, ever to ſee the publick light.

And indeed I had reſolved to enjoy my ſelf, and ſuch contentment as I could find in my Cell, and never to have come in print again, either to pleaſe or diſpleaſe any man; but onely to vent ſuch Notions as I had conceived privately by a new way I took of Common-placing, changing my Theme qualibet vice: When now on a ſudden before I was aware, and little expected any ſuch matter, one of my Straglers is perkt into the Preſs, telling the world he was one of thoſe Common-places. What his deſtiny is, I know not; but if it be good, ſome body can ſay, He hath flung many a ſtone in his days, but never hit the mark till now; and that too by mere chance, and not ſo much as intending it.

For writing to Sir W. B. I think it is not Tanti upon this occaſion. 'Tis a Pamphlet, and I had rather it ſhould come to his hands with a kind of neglect on my part, then with too much pomp. But I thank you for what you have done, and for your further offer.

Thus with my beſt affection I commend you to the Divine bleſſing, and am Chriſt's Coll.

July 3.

Your old and aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

Epistle XCVIII.

Mr. Mede's Letter to Mr. Hartlib, touching ſome Socinian Books and Tenets: together with his reſentment of the Difficulties which Mr. Dury's Pacifick Deſign met with, and of the Evil of Prejudice and Studium partium.

Mr. Hartlib,

I Received yours with the Diſcourſe incloſed of Schiſm — That Extract of the Letter to you is but a Symptom of Studium partium; of which kind he that will be an indifferent and moderate man muſt look to ſwallow many: Therefore tranſeat. Onely thus much; To be nearer or further off from the Man of ſin is not (I think) the meaſure of Truth and Falſhood, nor that which would be moſt deſtructive of him always true and warrantable. If it be, there be ſome in the world that would be more Orthodox and Reformed Chriſtians then any of us. The Socinians, you know, deny That Souls live after death, until the Reſurrection; or That Chriſt hath carnem & ſanguinem now in Heaven; both as moſt deſtructive of the idolatrous errours of the Man of ſin: the firſt of Purgatory and Invocation of Saints, (which they ſay can never be ſolidly everted, as long as it is ſuppoſed Souls do live;) the other of Tranſubſtantiation of the Elements of Bread and Wine into the Body and Bloud of Chriſt. Is not this to undermine Antichriſt with a vengeance, as they ſay?

I have not been very obtruſive unto men, to acquaint them with my notions and conceits in that kind, (for ſome of them that are but lately known have lien by me above theſe twenty years, and not ſhewn to any) unleſs they urge me and ask me what is my opinion: and yet my freedom to utter my mind then to ſuch as are prejudiced the contrary way, does neither them nor me any good. Therefore Cupio defungi, if it would be, and to be troubled no more either with Quæſita or Reciprocations in that kind.

to

For the Diſcourſe you ſent me; It proceeds from a diſtinct and rational Head, but I am afraid too much inclined that way that ſome ſtrong and rational wits do. It may be I am deceived. The Concluſions which he aimes at I can more eaſily aſſent to, then to ſome of his Premiſſes. I have yet looked it but once over. But any more free or particular cenſure thereof then what I have already given look not for, leſt I be cenſured my ſelf. 'Tis an Argument wherein a wiſe man will not be too free in diſcovering himſelf pro or con, but reſerved.

Thus with my wonted affection and prayers, I reſt

Chriſt's College,
Aug. 6. 1638.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſ. Mede.

[After this Mr. Mede wrote another Letter (the laſt Letter he wrote to Mr. Hartlib, about a moneth before he died) wherein (beſides matters of News, and his repeating what he had ſaid in the foregoing Letter concerning the great Learning of the Author of that Diſcourſe of Schiſm,) he expreſſeth his reſentment of the Difficulties which Mr. Dury's deſign of Pacification met with, in theſe words.]

——Mr. Dury and ſuch as wiſh well to his buſineſs muſt comfort themſelves as the Husbandman doth, who though he ſees no appearance of his Seed awhile after it is ſown, (eſpecially in dry weather) yet deſpaireth not but as ſoon as the Rain from above ſhall water the ground, to ſee it begin to ſpring up. You ſee what an invincible miſchief Prejudice is and Studium partium; It leaves no place for admiſſion of Truth that brings any diſadvantage to the ſide: That's the Rule which they examine all by: Will ſo many Rents of the Church as we ſee ready to ſink it never make us wiſer?

Thus with my prayers and beſt affection, I reſt

Chriſt's Coll. Auguſt 28.
1638.

Your aſſured Friend,

Joſeph Mede.

The End of the Fourth Book.

The Fifth Book
OF
THE WORKS
OF
The Pious and Profoundly-Learned
JOSEPH MEDE, B. D.
SOMETIME
Fellow of Christ's College in CAMBRIDGE.

CONTAINING FRAGMENTA SACRA, OR MISCELLANIES
OF DIVINITY.

Jo. 6. 12.
Colligite quæ superfuerunt Fragmenta, nè quid pereat.

Chrysost. Homil. in 1 Tim. 5. 23.
Οἱ τὴν μεταλλικὴν ἐψῶντες· οὐχὶ τὰς μάζας τοῦ χρυσίου ἀναιροῦσι, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ μικρὰ ψίγματα μετὰ πολλῆς συλλέγουσι τῆς ἀκριβείας.

LONDON,
Printed for R. Royston, Book-seller to His most Sacred MAJESTY, MDCLXIV.

THE CONTENTS OF THE FIFTH BOOK.

CHAP. I. The disposition of the years of Jehoiakim according to the several Events mentioned in Scripture. pag. 1087

CHAP. II. The Mystery of S. Paul's Conversion: or, The Type of the Calling of the Jews. pag. 1089

CHAP. III. An Answer concerning a Discourse inferring from the Septenary Types of the Old Testament and other Arguments, That the World should last 7000 years, and the Seventh Thousand be that happy and blessed Chiliad. pag. 1091

CHAP. IV. An Explication of Psal. 40. 6. [Mine eares hast thou bored] compared with Hebr. 10. 5. [A body hast thou prepared me.] pag. 1096

CAP. V. D. HIERONYMI Pronunciata de Dogmate MILLENARIORUM, cum Animadversionibus. pag. 1097

CAP. VI. Verba GAII apud EUSEBIUM, Lib. 3. cap. 22. Hist. Eccles. cum Animadversionibus. pag. 1100

CAP. VII. De Nomine Antichristi apud S. Joannem. pag. 1101

CAP. VIII. Placita Doctorum Hebræorum de BABYLONIS seu ROMÆ Excidio. pag. 1103

CAP. IX. Quomodo interpungendum vertendúmque censuerim Com. 35 & 36. cap. 11. Danielis, ut Angeli Prophetantis ibi loci Transitio à Regno tertio ad quartum (puta Romanum) evidenter cerni internoscique possit. Cui additur & sequentium aliquot Commatum versio, unà cum applicatione parallela. pag. 1105

CHAP. X. Short Observations upon some passages in the Apocalyps. pag. 1107

CAP. XI. Commentationes Minores in Apocalypsin. pag. 1110

CHAP. XII. The Brief meaning or Summary Exposition of the Apocalyps. pag. 1121

THE

THE FIFTH BOOK;

CONTAINING

MISCELLANIES.

CHAP. I.

The disposition of the years of Jehoiakim according to the several Events mentioned in Scripture.

Jehoiakimi 1°.

IN the First year of Jehoiakim, as soon as the King of Egypt had made him King, Nebuchadnezzar being sent by his Father yet living, came into the Land to reduce those of Phœnicia and Cœlesyria (which had revolted to the King of Egypt) unto his obedience; wherewith Jehoiakim being affrighted, became his tributary and served him three years. 2 Kings 24. 1.

This was that Expedition whereof Berosus speaks, Lib. 3. rerum Chaldaicarum, citante Josepho: Cùm audivisset Nabuchdonosoris parens Nabopollasarus Satrapam Ægypti & Cœlesyriæ Phœniciæque locis præfectum rebellionem fecisse, nec ipse jam labores ferre posset; traditâ filio Nabuchdonosoro adhuc ætate vigenti parte copiarum, eum misit: & ille cum rebelli prælio congressus, victor evasit, & regionem denuo sub ipsorum potestatem redegit.

And this was that Expedition whereof we reade, 2 Kings 24. 7. That the King of Egypt came not again out of his Land any more: (viz. after he had made Jehoiakim King) For the King of Babel had taken from the River of Egypt unto the River Euphrates all that pertained unto the King of Egypt, viz. Phœnicia, Cœlesyria, &c.

This also was the Expedition whereof the Rechabites speak Jer. 35. 11. When Nebuchadnezzar King of Babel came up into the Land, we said, Come, let us go to Jerusalem for fear of the Army of the Chaldeans: So we dwell at Jerusalem. For this coming of the King of Babel into the Land must either be in the first of Jehoiakim, or in the fourth, or in the last year of his Reign. In the last it could not be; for they speak of it as of a thing a good while past, when Jehoiakim was yet reigning: And the Prophet says he was bidden go to these Rechabites in the Reign of Jehoiakim; where no year being named, it seems to be supposed as a thing happening about the beginning of his Reign, or before Nebuchadnezzar was yet returned home out of those quarters. Nor could it be in the fourth year; for then Nebuchadnezzar besieged and took Jerusalem, Dan. 1. but here he came but into the Land, and the Rechabites were safe in Jerusalem. Therefore it must be in the first.

And from this time to the first year of Darius with Cyrus (that is, to the first of Cyrus his 9* years) are just 70 years; at what time Daniel made his Prayer, as having hoped his people should then have returned from Captivity, Dan. 9. 2, &c. But he anticipated the Epocha which God intended.

* To the first of those years whereof Cyrus reigned 9. Vid. Can. Ptol.

Jehoiakimi 4^to.

In the Fourth year of Jehoiakim, (or Third compleat) which was the first of Nebuchadnezzar, Jehoiakim after three years service, as soon as he heard of the death of Nabopollasar and recalling of Nebuchadnezzar out of those parts, taking courage and rebelling upon the advantage of the time, Nebuchadnezzar returns again, and the first time besieged Jerusalem, took it, carried many of the people captive, and Daniel amongst them, also part of the Vessels of the House of the Lord. This is that Expedition whereof Daniel speaks Chap. 1. And from hence to the first year of Cyrus solus, (that is, of those six * years which he reigned compleat after Darius his death) are 70 years: which was the time when God according to the Prophecy of * Jeremie released their Captivity.

Xenophon Cyropæd.*
2 Chron. 36. 22.
Ezra 1. 1.
* Jer. 25. 12. & 29. 10.
Dan. 9. 2.

Jehoiakimi 5^to.

In the Fifth year of Jehoiakim, in the ninth month, the same month that Nebuchadnezzar had taken and spoiled the City the year before, they proclaimed a publick Fast, Jer. 36. 9. that so by humbling themselves upon the remembrance of the former year's calamity, they might pacifie the farther wrath of God towards them. For the like reason after the destruction of the City they used, even till Zacharie's time, to fast upon the 4. 5. and 10. months (Zacharie 7. 3. and Chap. 8. 19.) because Nebuchadnezzar began that fatal siege in the 10. month, took the City in the 4. burnt it in the 5. Jer. 52. v. 4, 6, 12. and 2 Kings 25. At this Fast Baruch read his Roll.

Jehoiakimi 11^to.

This year the King of Babel sent to Jerusalem to bring Jehoiakim bound in fetters unto Babylon, 2 Chron. 36. 6. But his servants used him in such manner, that he died miserably before he went, and was buried with the burial of an Asse, drawn, and cast forth beyond the Gates of Jerusalem; Jer. 22. 19. Whereupon the people made his son Jehoiachin King; when presently Nebuchadnezzar (who had then accomplished the 7.* year of his reign) came, besieged the City, took and carried the new King Jehoiachin captive, when he had reigned but three months.

*Jer. 52. 28.

Some Objections touching this disposition of Jehoiakim's years.

Obj. Jehoiakim in the 9. month of the 5. year of his Reign was not yet in Captivity, as is plain by Jer. 36. 9. Therefore Nebuchadnezzar had not approched Jerusalem and made a deportation in the 4. year of Jehoiakim.

I answer, it follows not. For the Captivity of Jehoiakim seems not to have been a Captivity of his person, but of his people; and that for these Reasons. First, If Jehoiakim were carried captive either in the 4. or 7. year of his reign, how could he be said to reign 11. years? did he reign whilest he was in Babylon? Secondly, Jehoiakim was buried Sepulturâ asini, protractus & projectus extra portas Jerusalem, Jer. 22. 19. If he died at Jerusalem, how could he be a captive in Babylon? Thirdly, It is no where said that Jehoiakim himself was carried captive: Of his people captived we hear Dan. 1. and of part of the Vessels of the House of God; of his Servitude both first and second, 2 Kings 24. 1, 2.

Obj. But 2 Chron. 36. 6. it is said, that Nebuchadnezzar came up against him, and bound him with fetters to carry him to Babylon.

Ans. True; it appears he meant to have carried him, but not that he performed it. 2. This coming up of the King of Babylon, if we compare it with the Text

Text of the 2 Kings 24. will be his first coming up, when Jehoiakim became his tributary three years. Therefore this coming up and this binding, though joyned in one sentence, was not at the same time.

Obj. But you will say, When then was this binding to have carried him?

Ans. I suppose in the last year of his reign and life; and that his ill usage at that time was the occasion of his so miserable death, before he was yet gone from Jerusalem. And yet perhaps those who came to fetch him went not home empty, but carried those 3023 mentioned Jer. 52.28. though I had rather refer them to Jehoiachin's going, which was immediately.

Object. The first deportation of the Jews was in the 7. of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. 52.28. Therefore not the 4, but the 11. of Jehoiakim's reign.

Ans. Jeremy intended not a rehearsal of all the Captivities, nor of the full number of the captives, as appears by the smalness of the number. It may be those numbers contain men of particular quality, and such as were disposed of in one and the same place. But here I am not resolved.

F. M.

Chap. II.

The Mystery of S^t. Paul's Conversion: or, The Type of the Calling of the Jews.

See this largely treated of in Book IV. Epist. XVII.

1.

PAUL among the sons of men the greatest Zelot of the Law, and Persecutour of the way of Christ.

2.

Paul in the height of this his zeal, and heat of his persecuting fury, found mercy and was converted.

3.

Paul converted by means extraordinary, and for manner strange: not, as were the rest of the Apostles, by the Ministerie of any Teacher upon earth, but by visible Revelation of Christ Jesus in his glory from Heaven; the light whereof suddenly surprising him, he heard the voice of the Lord himself from Heaven saying, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

4. Those

1.

THE Jews among the Nations most obstinate Zelots of Moses, and the most bitter Enemies of the Followers of Christ.

2.

The Jews, though persisting unto the last in their extremity of bitterness and mortal hate to Christians, yet will God have mercy on them, and receive them again to be his People, and be their God.

3.

The Jews not to be converted unto Christ by such means as were the rest of the Nations, by the Ministerie of Preachers sent unto them; but by the Revelation of Christ Jesus in his glory from Heaven, when they shall say, not as when they saw him in his humiliation, Crucifie him, but, Blessed is he that comes in the name of the Lord. Whose coming then shall be as a lightning out of the East, shining into the West; and the sign of the Son of Man shall appear in the clouds of Heaven, and every eye shall see him, even of those which pierced him, and shall lament with the Spirit of grace and supplication, for their so long and so shameful unbelief of their so merciful Redeemer.

Isa. 59. 19. & 4. 5.
Dan. 7. 13.
Zach. 12. 10.
2 Macc. 2. 8.
Matth. 23. 39.
Matth. 24 27, 30.
Revel. 1. 7.

4.

Those who accompanied Paul at the time of this Apparition saw the light only, and were amazed; but Paul alone saw the Lord, and heard the voice which he spake unto him.

5.

Paul no sooner converted, but was immediately inspired with the knowledge of the Mysteries of Christ, without the instruction of any Apostle or Disciple; for he received not the Gospel which he preached of Man, neither was he taught it but by the Revelation of Jesus Christ. He consulteth not with the rest of the Apostles, but after 14 years preaching communicated to them the Gospel which he preached among the Gentiles, who added nothing unto him, but gave him the right hand of fellowship.

* Isa. 54. 13. Jer. 31. 34.

6.

Paul the last called of the Apostles.

7.

Paul once converted, the most zealous and fervent of the Apostles.

* Zach. 8. 3.

8.

Till Paul was converted, the Gospel had small progress amongst the Gentiles; but when he became their Apostle, it went forward wonderfully.

9.

The miracle of S. Paul's Conversion (the person so uncapable, till then a Persecutor and most bitter Enemy of Christians; the manner so wonderful as by an Apparition and Voice from Heaven,) was a most powerful motive to make all those who heard and believed it, Christians; and therefore so often by S. Paul himself repeated.

10.

Paul reproveth Peter, one of the chief

4.

This Revelation of Christ from Heaven like to be most apparent to the Jews in all places where they are dispersed, but not so perhaps to the Gentiles with whom they live. The light of his glorious presence shall be such as the whole world shall take notice of, but those onely to see him and bear his voice who pierced him.

5.

The Jews *together with their miraculous Calling, shall be illuminated also with the * knowledge of the Mysteries of the Christian Faith, even as it is taught in the Reformed Churches, without any Instructers from them or Conference with them; and yet when they shall communicate their Faith each to other, shall find themselves to be of one communion of true belief, and give each other the right hand of fellowship.*

6.

The Jews to be called after all the Nations in orbe Romano, or in the circuit of the Apostle's preaching.

7.

The * Jews once converted, the most zealous and fervent of the Nations.

8.

Till the Calling of the Jews, the general Conversion of the Gentiles not to be expected, but the receiving of Israel shall be the riches of the world, in that by their restitution the whole world shall come unto Christ.

9.

The miracle of the Jews Conversion so much the more powerful to convert the Nations of the world not yet Christians, by how much their opposite disposition is more universally known to the world then was S. Paul's, and by how much the testimony of a whole Nation, living in so distant parts of the world, of so divine a miracle as a Vision and Voice from Heaven, exceeds that of S. Paul, being but one Man.

10.

May not the Jews likewise reprove (if chief Apoſtles, for ſymbolizing with Judaiſm.

(if not more) the Church of Rome, the chief of Chriſtian Churches, for ſymbolizing with Gentiliſm?

S. Paul to Tim. 1 Ep. c. 1. v. 16.

Howbeit for this cauſe I obtained mercy, that in me firſt Jeſus Chriſt might ſhew forth all long-ſuffering, for a Pattern to them which ſhould hereafter believe on him to everlaſting life.

CHAP. III.

Anſwer concerning a Diſcourſe inferring from the Septenary Types of the Old Teſtament and other Arguments, That the World ſhould laſt 7000 years, and the Seventh Thouſand be that happy and bleſſed Chiliad.

I.

THE Millennium of the Reign of Chriſt is that which the Scriptures call The Day of Judgement, the ancient Jews and S. Jude יום דינא רבא Magnus Dies Judicii or Dies Judicii magni. Septimus Millenarius ab univerſa Cabbaliſtarum Schola (ſaith Carpentarius) vocatur Magnus Dies Judicii; Comment. in Alcinoum Platonis, pag. 322. A Day, not (as our languages commonly import) of a few hours, but, according to the Hebrew notion (from whence the name is derived) of many years: For with them Day is Time, and not a ſhort onely, but a long Time. A Day whereof S. Peter ſpeaking, 2 Epiſt. chap. 3. tells the believing Jews his brethren, as ſoon as he had named it, verſ. 8. That he would not have them ignorant, that one Day with the Lord was as a Thouſand years, and a Thouſand years as one Day. This is the Day of the great Aſſiſes beginning with the Seventh Trumpet, Apocal. 11. 15. wherein Chriſt ſhall give reward unto his Servants the Prophets, and to the Saints and them that fear his Name, and ſhall deſtroy them that deſtroy the earth, verſ. 18. The Proceſs of this wonderful Day S. John deſcribes by a twofold Judgement, and a twofold Reſurrection, and the glorious Reign of the Saints between them. The morning Judgement ſhall be of Antichriſt and all his partakers, whom Chriſt ſhall deſtroy at the appearing of his coming, 2 Theſſ. 2. 8. and then ſhall be the firſt and particular Reſurrection. The evening Judgement ſhall be upon the remainder of the living enemies of Chriſt, Gog and Magog, and conclude with the laſt and univerſal Reſurrection of the dead: and ſo the laſt enemy, Death, being now wholly vanquiſhed, he ſhall ſurrender his Kingdom into the hands of his Father, that God may be all in all, 1 Cor. 15. 24, &c.

Nor ought it to ſeem ſtrange, that the name Day ſhould ſignifie ſo long a time as a Thouſand years: The Jews, who firſt impoſed it, underſtood it ſo. And in the end of S. Peter we ſhall find yet a longer Day, even ἡμέρα αἰῶνος, Dies Æternitatis, a Day of Eternity, 2 Pet. 3. 18. The Prophets have many ſuch long Days, when they ſay, In Die illo. Vide. The whole time of Chriſt's firſt coming is called a Day, Joh. 16. 26. 2 Cor. 6. 2. The whole time of the Jews fourty years abode in the wilderneſs is called a Day, Heb. 3. 8, 9. Their firſt Captivity of ſeventy years, a Day: Vide Prophetas. Their laſt and long Captivity, a Day, as Deut. 32. 35. & alibi apud Prophetas. And what if in our daily prayer [Give us this day our daily bread] Day be to be taken for the whole time of our life? For in ſtead of S. Matthew's [This day,] ſpeaking after the Hebrew notion, S. Luke hath in the ſame Petition, καθ' ἡμέραν, that is, every day. So S. Paul, Heb. 3. 13. Exhort one another καθ' ἑκάστην ἡμέραν every day, whileſt it is called To Day. Doth not Day here include many days?

Now if the Thouſand years of the Reign of Chriſt be the Day of Judgement, then it will follow, that though we may know by the fulfilling of things to be fulfilled whether it be nearer or farther off, yet the preciſe time of the coming thereof cannot be known, becauſe it is to come upon the world unawares as a Thief in the night.

II.

Nevertheleſs it is true that the Primitive Fathers (eſpecially thoſe who believed the Chiliad) conceived the World ſhould laſt, and the Church therein labour, 6000 years, and that the Seventh thouſand ſhould be the Day of Judgement, and Sabbath, in which the Saints ſhould reign with Chriſt their Lord.

So Irenæus, Lib. 5. c. 28. Quotquot diebus hic factus eſt mundus, tot & millenis conſummatur ——Si enim Dies Domini quaſi Mille anni, in Sex autem diebus conſummata ſunt quæ facta ſunt; manifeſtum eſt, quoniam conſummatio ipſorum Sextus milleſimus annus eſt.

Idem eodem Libro cap. 30. Cùm vaſtaverit Antichriſtus hic omnia in mundo, regnans annis tribus & menſibus ſex——tunc veniet Dominus de cælis in nubibus in gloria Patris, illum quidem & obedientes ei in ſtagnum ignis mittens, adducens autem juſtis Regni tempora, hoc eſt requietionem (i. Sabbatum,) ſeptimam diem ſanctificatam, & reſtituens Abrahæ promiſſionem hæreditatis, &c.

Juſtinus Martyr, Dialogo cum Tryphone Judæo loquens de Millennio Regni Chriſti, Novimus (inquit) dictum illud, * quòd Dies Domini ſit ſicut mille anni, huc pertinere.

* Intelligit dictum Petri cap. 3. &c.

Cyprianus, Lib. de Exhortatione Martyrii; Primi in diſpoſitione Divina Septem dies, annorum Septem millia continent,——ut conſummatio legitima impleatur.

Lactantius, de Divino præmio Lib. 7. c. 14. Quoniam Sex diebus cuncta Dei opera perfecta ſunt; per ſecula Sex, id eſt, annorum Sex millia, manere in hoc ſtatu mundum neceſſe eſt. Dies enim magnus Dei Mille annorum circulo terminatur.——Et ut Deus Sex illos dies in tantis rebus fabricandis laboravit; ità & religio ejus & veritas in his Sex millibus annorum laborare neceſſe eſt, malitiâ prævalente & dominante. Et rurſus, Quoniam perfectis operibus requievit die Septimo, eúmque benedixit, neceſſe eſt ut in fine Sexti milleſimi anni malitia omnis aboleatur è terra, & regnet annos Mille Juſtitia, ſítque tranquillitas & requies à laboribus quos mundus jamdiu perpeſſus eſt.

III.

The ancient Jews alſo had a Tradition to the ſame purpoſe, as appears by theſe teſtimonies recorded in the Gemara or Gloſſe of their Talmud, Cod. Sanhedrim, cap. Kol Iſrael. For there, concerning that of Eſay chap. 2. [Exaltabitur Dominus ſolus die illo] thus ſpeaks the Talmudical Gloſſe.

Dixit Rabbi Ketina, Sex annorum millibus ſtat Mundus, & uno (Millenario) vaſtabitur; de quo dicitur, ATQUE EXALTABITUR DOMINUS SOLUS DIE ILLO. Note, By Vaſtabitur they mean the Vaſtation of the world by Fire in the Day of Judgement, whereby it ſhall become New, or a New Heaven and New Earth.

Sequitur;

Traditio adſtipulatur R. Ketinæ, (nempe iſta) Sicut ex ſeptenis annis Septimus quiſque Annus Remiſſionis eſt; ità ſeptem millibus annorum mundi, mundi, Septimus Millenarius Millenarius Remissionis erit, ut Dominus solus exaltetur in die illo. Dicitur enim (Psal. 92.) Psalmus & Canticum de Die Sabbati; id est, de eo Die qui totus Quies est. (Note, they understand this Psalm of the Great day of Judgement, and the Sabbath mentioned in the Title, of the great Sabbath of a Thousand years.) Dicitur item (Psal. 90.) Nam mille anni in oculis tuis velut dies hesternus.

Sequitur;

Traditio Domûs Eliæ: Sex mille annos durat mundus; Bis mille annis Inanitas, bis mille annis Lex, deniq; bis mille annis Dies Christi. At verò propter peccata nostra & plurima & enormia, abierunt ex his qui abierunt.* These last words Petrus Galatinus proves to be added to this Tradition by the later Jews. And surely this Elias lived under the second Temple and before the birth of Christ. And though there be no mention here of the Seventh thousand years; yet that this R. Elias acknowledged it as well as the rest, appears by a former place of the same Gemara Talmudica, which is this; Traditio Domûs Eliæ. Justi quos resuscitabit Deus, &c.

* Seu Vastitas; הוהו

[See the rest of this quotation printed in Book IV. Epist. 22. page 950.]

IV.

The concinnity of this conceit hath made me (I confess) sometimes inquisitive, whether it could be brought to accord with the received computation of the Age of the World, and with our experience of the beginning and continuance of the times of Antichrist now revealed. But the obstacle I found was, that I could never perswade my self the times of Antichrist began so late as this conceit and our computation of the World's years imply they should, namely, not till near about the time of Carolus Magnus. Nor can I admit that the 42. months which the Beast is said to continue*, should be reckoned from his ἀκμὴ or ætas adulta, and not from his beginning, as must be here likewise supposed. For as when we reckon the Age of a Man, we reckon not from the time he came to man's estate, or from the time he sued out his livery, but from the time of his birth; so should we doe here for the times of the Man of sin.

* Apocal. 13. 5.

Besides, we ought not (as I take it) to fix our eyes so much upon the Pope's dominion and his improvement thereof, as upon the Apostasie of the Church from the rule of Christian Worship by Spiritual Fornication with Idols; which is the Character the Holy Ghost gives us in the Apocalyps to know the Antichristian State and Times by. Of which estate the Pope or False-prophet was indeed to be the Head, and his See Babylon the Metropolis; but the Body was to be, and so is, Bestia Romana novissimi capitis decem diadematis redimita, the Roman Empire shiver'd into a plurality of Kingdoms, but re-united again under this new Head, and fashioned and renewed by him unto a lively Image of the former Roman Ethnicism, which had but newly received a deadly blow, and been cast down to the ground by the Lamb and his Champions. This new Idolatry or Idolatrous state, this Imaging of the wounded Draconizing Beast, is that treading down or profaning the Court of the Temple of God, Chap. 11. that is, of the visible Worship of Christ in his Church, by a new Gentilism. Unto which the 42 months are attributed as well as to the Beast; and so the beginning of the Times of the one not to be reckoned without or severed from the other. But whosoever shall impartially search into the Stories of the Christian Church, (as all those do not who labour to diminish the antiquity of Antichristianism, rather then to find it) will see her not onely tainted, but even all-over polluted, with Spiritual Fornication with Saints, Angels, Reliques, yea and Images too, hundreds of years before the times of Pepin and Charlemaign: nay the chiefest part of those lying wonders and strong delusions, whereby this impiety and wickedness was advanced, was long long before that time. How can I then believe that the time of the Gentiles profaning God's Houſe, and of the Witneſſes or Prophets mourning for the ſame in ſackcloth, ſhould not begin till about the year 792. whatſoever improvement the Pope's dominion then had?

V.

Finding ſuch an Obſtacle as this, and loth yet utterly and abſolutely to reject this ſo ancient a Tradition, I began to make with my ſelf theſe Quære's. Firſt, Whether it were needful to reckon theſe Thouſands of years compleat, or onely current in the laſt hundred; which want of completion, though unknown to us, might abate ſo much of the full length of 6000 years, as would bring the computation nearer the mark for the beginning and end of the times of the Antichriſtian Beaſt. But finding no grounds to make ſuch a conceit probable, I rejected it as a vain imagination.

But then I made a ſecond Quære of greater moment; namely, Whether the computation of the years of the world before the Promiſe made to Abraham were or could be certainly known or not. For as for the time after the Promiſe, I make no doubt but it may be known, even almoſt to a year.

The occaſion of ſuch a doubt was the great difference which is found between our Hebrew Copies and the Seventy concerning the years of the foreſaid generations: For though it be true or likely that the Seventy, tranſlating in Egypt, voluntarily and of ſet purpoſe increaſed the years of thoſe firſt generations, to make them reach the antiquity of ſome Stories of the Egyptians, and thereby exceeded the Hebrew computation above 1300 years; yet it follows not that all the differences between them and our Hebrew Bibles in the years of thoſe generations ſhould proceed from this fountain, but ſome of them perhaps from the reading of the Copy they uſed. For that there ſhould be differences of reading in the Hebrew Copies of the Old Teſtament, is not a thing to be ſo much ſtartled at as ſome conceive, ſeeing we find many ſuch in the Greek Copies of the New. And how can it be proved that the Church of the Jews had in this particular (eſpecially when Prophecy ceaſed) a greater privilege then we? For as for that admirable Maſorethical method, whereby they are now inviolably preſerved from change, it was deviſed ſince the coming of Chriſt, and applied to one Copy onely, which they eſteemed moſt true and authentical; namely that (as ſome of them ſay) which was written by the great Rabbi Hillel's own hand; and many hundred of years after kept as a Relique: Yet nevertheleſs might ſome other Copies, though in general far inferiour, yet in ſome few particulars have a better and righter reading then it.

3. That moſt Learned Prelate and Mirrour of Biſhops, the Lord Primate of Armagh, could not be at reſt, till by his indefatigable induſtry and no ſmall charges (as ſuch a buſineſs required) he had ſome four years ſince gotten from the remnant of the Samaritans in Paleſtine into a Chriſtian hand that admirable Monument, the Samaritan Pentateuch or Five Books of Moſes; which may be preſumed to be that which they received from the captived ten Tribes, when they firſt learned from them to worſhip the God of Iſrael, 2 King. 17.27. This wondrous and non-paril of Manuſcripts he brought hither to Cambridge amongſt us; and during his ſtay here ſome time, was moſt ready to ſhew it to all Scholars that came unto him; and ſo free in communicating the uſe thereof, that ſome of us had opportunity, by comparing it with our Hebrew Bibles, firſt to pick out the Alphabet, and then to reade therein. It is in the same Hebrew tongue and words (saving the diverse readings) with our Bibles, but written in a strange character, namely the Samaritan, which is supposed to have anciently been the Hebrew, till it was changed by Ezra at the return from Captivity.

ſame

In this Book is found a strange difference in the years of the generations before the birth of Abraham both from the Septuagint and our Hebrew Bibles. Before the Floud, by diminishing the generations of Jared, Methusalah and Lamech, it comes short of us. After the Floud (for the most part agreeing with the Septuagint) it much out-reckons us. To be short, it exceeds in the upshot our Computation 301 years: so that the birth of Christ falls according to it to be Anno Mundi 4254. Agreeable whereto the 6000. year from the Creation would be compleat Anno Christi 1746. and consequently Antichrist's 42 months or 1260 years would begin Anno Christi 486. which is presently after the deposition of Augustulus, in whom the Empire of Western Rome expired. And this comes much nearer the point then 792.

Howbeit, far be it from me to affirm any thing thereof, or of the verity of the Samaritan Computation, or to prefer it in the general before our Hebrew; though some things be found therein which dissolve a knot or two which make our Chronologers at their wits end. As one for example; How Abraham could come into Canaan after the daies of his Father, (as S. Stephen says) and yet be but 75 years old, Gen. 12. 4. whenas his Father Terah lived 205 years, and himself was born in the 70. year of his age, Gen. 11. 26. But the Samaritan saith (chap. 11. 32.) That the daies of Terah were (but) 145 years, which is just; for then Abraham was 75 years old at his Father's death, and Moses and S. Stephen are reconciled; which yet no man can imagine that the Samaritan Scribe ever thought of.

But the thing I aim at in representing these differences, and would propound to the consideration of the pious, sober and judicious, and with due reverence to the Divine Writ, is, Whether there may not be some secret disposition of Divine Providence in this variety of Computation, to * prevent our Curiosity in counting the exact time of the Day of Judgement and second appearing of Christ. And that as the ambitious Tower of Babel was hindered by the Confusion of Languages, so our Curiosity in this particular be not by a like Providence prevented by such a diversity of Computations: For these things concern not matter of Salvation. We know the first Ages of the Church followed the Computation of the Seventy altogether, though it were most wide of truth; and the chiefest Doctors the Church then had, through ignorance of the Hebrew, for a long time knew not, or believed not, there was any other Computation. But for contents of Faith, and the way of Salvation, over such the Providence of God watcheth with a careful eye, though man be heedless, wicked and careless of preserving the integrity of that precious treasure committed to their custody.

* Luther, in c. 11. Genes. Tom. 2. fol. 2: Conjicio Deum certo suo consilio in Abrahamo 60 annos intercidere voluisse, nè ex annorum mundi certa ratione quisquam de fine mundi certi & liquid praedicere præsumeret:

Besides, I nothing doubt, if our Books be in any such particular as we speak of deficient or corrupted, but that the true reading is yet extant in some of the two named, or some other Copy some-where preserved by Divine Providence, though we cannot yet know and discern which those righter readings be. The Jews have a saying, Cùm Elias venerit, dissolvet nodos: And without doubt, when they shall be called, and meet together from all places of the world, (which must be before that great Day cometh) strange things will be discovered, which we little dream of.

Now if any man ask, if such a corruption of Computation be supposed, where it is most like to be: I answer, Not in those generations before the Floud, Floud, (where the Hebrew Computation, being the middle between the exceſs of the Septuagint and defect of the Samaritan, ſeems to be crucified, as our Saviour, between two Thieves) but in the generations immediately after the Floud. 1. Becauſe in thoſe the Seventy and the Samaritan for the moſt part agree; which argues their difference from our Bibles not to have been voluntary. 2. Becauſe S. Luke in the Genealogie of our Saviour inſerts, as the Seventy do, the generation of Cainan immediately after Arphaxad, which our Bibles have not: who knows what it means, or whether it argue not a defect thereabout in the Hebrew Copies? Time may diſcover the meaning thereof. 3. Becauſe Peleg, at whoſe birth the Scripture ſeems to ſay the Earth was divided, was born, according to our Copies, but 101 years after the Floud; which troubles our Chronologers, as ſeeming too ſmall a time for eight perſons to multiply unto ſuch a number as may be preſumed to have been at the building of the Tower of Babel, and at their diſperſion thence; which will be much holpen, if either Cainan be to be inſerted, (to whoſe generation the Septuagint allow 130 years) or if any of the other generations of Arphaxad, Salah and Eber be to be read as both the Septuagint and Samaritan have them.

To conclude, if the years of but three of thoſe generations between the Floud and Abraham, as of Arphaxad, Salah and Nahor, ſhould prove to be as the Septuagint and Samaritan agreeingly reade them, and the generation of Cainan, (mentioned by S. Luke, and four times by the Septuagint) alſo be to be added unto them, the duration of the World hitherto will have been 350 or 360 years more then we count of.

If therefore ſuch Suppoſitions as theſe may be admitted, (which I determine not, but leave to ſuch as are able and fit to judge; Apagite indocti & prophani) then that Tradition of the Seventh Thouſand year to be the Day of Judgement and of the glorious Reign of Chriſt, will (in reſpect of thoſe Septenary Types of the Old Teſtament) have good probability of Truth: Otherwiſe, I cannot ſee how poſſibly it can be admitted.

1 Theſſ. 5. 21.

Omnia probate, quod bonum eſt tenete.

F. M.

Chap. IV.

An Explication of Pſal. 40. 6. [Mine eares haſt thou bored] compared with Hebr. 10. 5. [A body haſt thou prepared me.]

PSalm 40. v. 6, 7. Sacrifice and offering thou wouldſt not have; mine eares haſt thou bored: Burnt-offering and Sin-offering thou haſt not required. Then ſaid I, Lo, I come: in the volume of the Book it is written of me, I delight to doe thy will, O my God.

In which words an alluſion is made to a Cuſtom of the Jews to bore the ears of ſuch as were to be their perpetual Servants, and to enroll their names in a Book, or make ſome Inſtrument of the Covenant. Sacrifice and burnt-offering thou wouldſt not have; but becauſe I am thy vowed Servant, bored with an awl, and enrolled in thy Book, I ſaid, Lo, I come, I delight to doe thy will, O my God.

Theſe

These words of the Psalm are alleged by S. Paul, Heb. 10. But the first of them with a most strange difference. For whereas the Psalmist hath, according to the Hebrew Verity, Sacrifice and burnt-offering thou wouldst not: mine eares thou hast bored or digged, כָּרִיתָ; S. Paul reads, with the LXX, σῶμα κατηρτίσω μοι, A body thou hast prepared or fitted me. What Equipollency can be in sense between these two? This difficulty is so much the more augmented, because most Interpreters make the life of the Quotation to lie in those very words where the difference is, viz. That the words [A body thou hast prepared me] are brought by the Apostle to prove our Saviour's Incarnation; whereunto the words in the Psalm it self, [Mine eares hast thou bored, or digged, or opened] take them how you will, will in no wise suit.

I answer therefore, That the life of the Quotation lies not in the words of difference, nor can do; because this Epistle was written to the Hebrews, and so first in the *Hebrew tongue, where this Translation of the LXX could have no place. And if the life of the Quotation lay here, I cannot see how it can possibly be reconciled. It lies therefore in the words where there is no difference, viz. That Christ was such an High-Priest as came to sanctify us, not with Legal Offerings and Sacrifices, but by his Obedience, in doing like a devoted Servant the will of his Father.

* juxta sentent. Clementis Alex. Euseb. Hieronym. Theodoret. Oecumen. &c.

Thus the allegation will not depend at all upon the words of difference, and so they give us liberty to reconcile them thus: Mine eares thou hast bored (saith the Psalmist,) i. e. Thou hast accepted me for a perpetual Servant, as Masters are wont, according to the Law, to bore such Servants eares as refuse to part from them. Now the LXX, according to whom the Apostle's Epistle readeth, thinking perhaps the meaning of this speech would be obscure to such as knew not that Custom, chose rather to translate it generally, σῶμα δὲ κατηρτίσω μοι, Thou hast fitted my body, viz. to be thy Servant, in such a manner as Servants bodies are wont to be. And so the sense is all one, though not specified to the Jewish Custom of boring the ear with an awl, but left indifferently appliable to the Custom of any Nation in marking and stigmatizing their Servants bodies.

CAP. V.

D. HIERONYMI Pronunciata de Dogmate MILLENARIORUM.

IN cap. 54. Esaiæ, vers. 1. LAUDA vel LÆTARE STERILIS, QUÆ NON PARIS, &c. Hunc locum, inquit, & cætera quæ sequuntur, Judæi & nostri Judaïzantes ad Hierusalem referunt, quam dicunt in Mille annorum regno instaurandam, & eandem esse quæ priùs habuit virum, & postea habere desierit; multòque plures habitura sit filios post repudium, quam priùs habuit sub viro.——Nec mirandum de Judæis, quorum oculi auréque sunt clausæ, si apertam non videant veritatem. De Christianis quid loquar, nescio, qui, dicente Apostolo quæ sunt Allegorica, & ad duo Testamenta, Vetus & Novum, Saram Agárque, referente, Judæis tradunt manus, terrenarum in Mille annis desiderio voluptatum.

Ad vers. 11. Respondeant amatores tantùm occidentis Literæ, & in Mille annis exquisitos cibos gulæ ac luxuriæ præparantes, (quorum Deus venter est, & gloria in confusione eorum; qui post secundum in gloria Salvatoris adventum sperant Nuptias, & parvulos centum annorum, & Circumcisionis injuriam, & Victimarum sanguinem, & perpetuum Sabbatum; qui dicunt cum Iſrael in perverſum modum, Manducemus & bibamus, cras enim regnabimus) quæ ſit iſta cæleſtis Hieruſalem, cui nunc dicitur, ECCE EGO STERNAM PER ORDINEM LAPIDES TUOS, &c.

In cap. 60. verſ. 1. SURGE, ILLUMINARE, &c. Breviter, inquit, perſtringendum eſt quod plurimi de hoc loco ſentiant; ut errore perſpecto, faciliùs poſſimus ſuſcipere veritatem. Judæi & noſtri ſemi-Judæi, qui auream atque gemmatam de cælo exſpectant Hieruſalem, hæc in Mille annorum regno futura contendunt: quando omnes gentes ſervituræ ſunt Iſrael; & cameli Madian & Epha de Saba venientes aurum deferent & thus, &c. —— Hæc illi dicunt qui terrenas deſiderant voluptates, & Uxorum quærunt pulchritudinem ac numerum Liberorum; quorum Deus venter eſt, & gloria in confuſione eorum: quorum qui ſequitur errorem, ſub nomine Chriſtiano Judæorum ſe ſimilem confitetur. Alii autem aſſerunt hæc omnia Judæis carnaliter repromiſſa, ſi eum recepiſſent qui dicit in Evangelio EGO SUM LUX MUNDI—— quem quia non ſuſceperunt, repromiſſiones quoque irritas fieri. —— Vide cætera.

In Procemio in lib. 18. Commentariorum in Eſaiam: Nec ignoro quanta ſit inter homines ſententiarum diverſitas. Non dico de Myſterio Trinitatis, cujus recta confeſſio eſt ignoratio ſcientiæ; ſed de aliis Eccleſiaſticis dogmatibus: de Reſurrectione ſcilicet, & de Animarum & humanæ Carnis ſtatu; de repromiſſionibus futurorum, quomodo debeant accipi; & quâ ratione intelligenda ſit Apocalypſis Joannis: quam ſi juxta literam accipimus, Judaizandum eſt; ſi ſpiritualiter, ut ſcripta eſt, diſſerimus, multorum veterum videremur opinionibus contraire; Latinorum, Tertulliani, Victorini, Lactantii; Græcorum, ut cæteros prætermittam, Irenæi tantùm Lugdunenſis Epiſcopi faciam mentionem, adverſus quem vir Eloquentiſſimus Dionyſius Alexandrinæ Eccleſiæ Pontifex elegantem ſcribit librum, irridens Mille annorum fabulam & auream atque gemmatam Hieruſalem in terris, inſtaurationem Templi, Hoſtiarum ſanguinem, otium Sabbati, Circumciſionis injuriam, Nuptias, Partus, Liberorum educationem, Epularum delicias, & cunctarum gentium Servitutem; rurſúsque Bella, Exercitus, ac Triumphos & ſuperatorum neces, mortémque centenarii peccatoris. Cui duobus voluminibus reſpondet Apollinarius; quem non ſolùm ſuæ Sectæ homines, ſed & noſtrorum, in hac parte duntaxat, plurima ſequitur multitudo: ut præſagâ mente jam cernam quantorum in me rabies concitanda ſit. Quibus non invideo, ſi tantum ament terram, ut in regno Chriſti terrena deſiderent, & poſt ciborum abundantiam gulæque ac ventris ingluviem ea quæ ſub ventre ſunt quærant. De quibus Apoſtolus, ESCÆ, inquit, VENTRI, ET VENTER ESCIS, &c. &, NON EST REGNUM DEI CIBUS ET POTUS: & Chriſtus, ERRATIS NESCIENTES SCRIPTURAS, NEQUE VIRTUTEM DEI. IN RESURRECTIONE ENIM NEQUE NUBENT NEQUE NUBENTUR, SED ERUNT SIMILES ANGELORUM.

In cap. 66. Eſaiæ, verſ. 22. QUIA SICUT COELI NOVI ET TERRA NOVA, &c. Quod aliis verbis in alio Pſalmo dicitur, OMNES GENTES QUAS FECISTI VENIENT ET ADORABUNT IN CONSPECTU TUO, ET GLORIFICABUNT NOMEN TUUM, DOMINE. Menſem ex menſe & Sabbatum ex Sabbato, in quibus veniet omnis caro ut adoret Deum, ridiculè interpretantur XIAIAΣTAI, quos nos dicere poſſumus MILLIARIOS; ut qui in vicino ſunt omni Sabbato veniant in Hieruſalem, qui longiùs per menſes, qui valdè procul per annos ſingulos, hoc eſt, diebus Paſcha ſive Tabernaculorum, juxta illud quod in Zecharia dicitur [cap. 14.] ASCENDENT AB ANNO IN ANNUM, &c.

In Hieremiam, cap. 31. 27. Omnes hujuſmodi repromiſſiones juxta Judæos & noſtros Judaizantes in Mille annorum regno putantur eſſe complenda:

Nos

Nos autem—— in primo adventu Chriſti ſpiritualiter impleta defendimus, & impleta ex parte, non ex toto.

Ibidem ad verſ. 38. Qui Mille annorum in terra Judæa Regnum Chriſti recipiunt, Judæi videlicet & noſtri Judaïzantes, conantur oſtendere turrem Hananeel & portam Anguli, &c.—Et ibi dicunt Sanctuarium Domini, i. e. Templum, eſſe condendum, manſurúmque in perpetuum. Vide cætera.

In cap. 16. Ezech. verſ. 55. ET SOROR TUA SODOMA, &c. Judæi, inter cæteras fabulas & interminabiles genealogias & deliramenta quæ fingunt, etiam hoc ſomniant; In adventu Chriſti ſui, quem nos Antichriſtum ſcimus, & in Mille annorum Regno, Sodomam eſſe reſtituendam in antiquum ſtatum, ità ut ſit quaſi Paradiſus Dei, & quaſi terra Ægypti; & Samariam priſtinam recipere felicitatem, ut de Aſſyriis revertantur in terram Judæam — Hieruſalem quoque tunc fabricandam, &c.—Nos autem perfectam horum ſcientiam Dei judicio relinquentes, imò liquidò confitentes poſt ſecundum adventum Domini Salvatoris nihil humile, nihil futurum eſſe terrenum, ſed regna cæleſtia quæ primùm in Evangelio promittuntur, hoc dicimus, quòd in Eccleſiæ ſtatu cuncta completa ſint & quotidie compleantur, &c.

In cap. 36. Hæc illi (id eſt, Judæi) exſpectant in Mille annorum Regno; quando Civitatem Hieruſalem aſſerunt exſtruendam, & Templum quod in fine hujus voluminis deſcribitur, & rerum omnium felicitatem; quorum nonnulli arbitrantur ſub Zorobabel hæc fuiſſe completa. Sed quomodo ſtare poterit hoc quod dicitur, v. 11. ET HABITARE VOS FACIAM SICUT A PRINCIPIO, &c? Paulò pòſt, Et quia longum eſt nunc adversùm dogma Judaicum, & beatitudinem ventri & gutturi Judaico ſervientem—— in brevi explanatione dicere——Neque enim juxta Judaicas fabulas, quas illi δευτερώσεις appellant, gemmatam & auream de cælo exſpectamus Hieruſalem; nec rurſus paſſuri Circumciſionis injuriam, nec oblaturi taurorum & arietum Victimas, nec Sabbati otio dormiemus. Quod & multi noſtrorum, & præcipuè Tertulliani liber qui inſcribitur de Spe fidelium, & Lactantii Inſtitutionum volumen ſeptimum pollicetur, & Victorini Pictavionenſis Epiſcopi crebræ expoſitiones, & nuper Severus noſter in Dialogo, cui Gallo nomen impoſuit: & ut Græcos nominem, & primum extremúmque conjungam, Irenæus & Apollinarius.

In cap. 37. verſ. 15. in fine. Quòd ſi Judæi & Chriſtiani Judaïzantes hæc ad Mille annorum voluerint referre regnum, neceſſitate cogentur, ut ſuſcipiant omnes qui ſalvi fuerint habitaturos in terra Iſrael, ædificandam Hieruſalem, exſtruendum Templum, cunctas Legis Cæremonias exercendas, obſervandum Sabbatum, accipiendam Circumciſionis injuriam, &c.

In cap. 38. Igitur Judæi & noſtri Judaïzantes putant Gog eſſe gentes Scythicas immanes, &c.—& has poſt Mille annorum Regnum eſſe à Diabolo commovendas, &c.

In cap. 39. Et hæc Judaicæ traditionis hæredes, & diſcipuli interminabilium fabularum, poſt Mille annorum Regnum futura contendunt.

In Micheam cap. 4. Sciendum quoque hoc capitulum, & huic ſimile de Eſaia, Judæos & eorum Erroris hæredes ad Mille annorum referre imperium Chriſti & Sanctorum, &c.

In Zach. c. 14. ad v. 10. IN DIE ILLA, &c. Judæi & Chriſtiani Judaïzantes ultimo ſibi tempore repromittunt, quando rurſum exercenda Circumciſio ſit, & immolandæ Victimæ, & omnia Legis præcepta ſervanda; ut non Judæi Chriſtiani, ſed Chriſtiani Judæi fiant. In die, inquiunt, illa quando Chriſtus in Hieruſalem aureâ & gemmatâ ſederit regnaturus, non erunt Idola, nec Divinitatis cultura diverſa; ſed erit Dominus unus. Paulò pòſt, Hæc Judæi juxta literam ſomniant & noſtri Χιλιασταὶ, qui rurſum audire deſiderant, Creſcite & multiplicamini, &c. At pro vitæ hujus continentia brevíque jejunio, bulbos ſibi, & vulvas, & aves Phaſidis, & attagenem nequaquam Ionicum, ſed Judaicum, repromittunt, &c. Hactenus Hieronymus.

Animadverſiones in D. Hieronymi Pronunciata, &c.

Plura de Hieronymo vide in Lib. III. pag. 748. Lib. IV. Ep. 51. in fine, & Epiſt. 64.

OS Hieronymi! qui Millenariis promiſcuè affinxit Circumciſionis injuriam, Victimarum ſanguinem, cæteráſque Legis Cæremonias poſtliminiò inſtaurandas. Scilicet quæ Judæi, aut fortè ex Judaiſmo Hæretici, de ſuo Millenario ſomniârunt, ille Chriſtianis odiosè impingebat. Sed & tu, Hieronyme, vel teipſo judice, prodis crimination em iſtam falſam eſſe. Sic enim ſcribis in Jeremiam cap. 19. v. 10. Poſt captivitatem quæ ſub Veſpaſiano & Tito, & poſtea accidit ſub Hadriano, uſque ad conſummationem ſeculi Ruinæ Hieruſalem permanſuræ ſunt: quanquam ſibi Judæi auream atq; gemmatam Hieruſalem reſtituendam putent; rurſúſque Victimas & Sacrificia, & Conjugia Sanctorum, & Regnum in terris Domini Salvatoris: quæ licèt non ſequamur, damnare tamen non poſſumus, quia multi virorum Eccleſiaſticorum & Martyrum iſta dixerunt. Unuſquiſque in ſuo ſenſu abundet, & Domini cuncta judicio reſerventur. Hæc verba tua ſunt, Hieronyme. Sed dic ſodes, An viri iſti Eccleſiaſtici & Martyres ſanctiſſimi dixerunt, Circumciſionem & Victimas in Regnoillo Chriſti reſtituendas? Cave dixeris. Aut ſi ità credidiſſe ſcires, annon ſine cunctatione damnares? Sed quòd contrarium docuere, firmari poteſt ex Juſtini Martyris Dialogo cum Tryphone Judæo. Οὐ ἐν τῇ πάλιν παρουσίᾳ μὴ δόξητε λέγειν Ἡσαΐαν, ἢ τοὺς ἄλλους προφήτας, θυσίας ἀφ' αἱμάτων ἢ σπονδῶν ὅτι τὸ θυσιαστήριον ἀναφήσεσθαι, ἀλλὰ ἀληθινὰς καὶ πνευματικὰς αἴνους καὶ εὐχαριστίας. In cujus [Chriſti] ſecundo adventu, nè exiſtimetis Eſaiam aut alios Prophetas admonere, ut Sacrificia ſanguinis aut libationum ſuper altari offerantur, ſed vera atque ſpirituales laudes & gratiarum actiones.

Cap. VI.

Verba Gaii apud Euſebium, Lib. 3. cap. 22. Hiſt. Eccleſ.

Ἀλλὰ καὶ Κήρινθος ὁ δι' Ἀποκαλύψεων, ὡς ὑπὸ Ἀποστόλου μεγάλου γραμμένων, τερατολογίας ἡμῖν ὡς δι' ἀγγέλων αὐτῷ δεδειγμένας ψευδόμενος ἐπεισάγει, λέγων, Μετὰ τὴν ἀνάστασιν ἔσεσθαι τὸ βασίλειον τοῦ Χριστοῦ, καὶ πάλιν ἐπιθυμίαις καὶ ἡδοναῖς ὁ Ἰερουσαλὴμ τῷ σάρκα πολιτευομένῳ δουλεύειν· καὶ ἐχθρὸς ὑπάρχων ταῖς γραφαῖς τοῦ Θεοῦ, ἀριθμὸν χιλιονταετίας ἐν γάμῳ ἑορτῆς, δένδρων πλανᾶν, λέγει γίνεσθαι. Id eſt, Sed & Cerinthus per Apocalypſes, velut à magno Apoſtolo ſcriptas, portentoſa quædam nobis quaſi per Angelos ſibi oſtenſa mentitus, attulit, Regnum Chriſti (ſed βασίλειον Regiam ſignificat) poſt Reſurrectionem terrenum futurum, & carnem noſtram denuo Hieroſolymis concupiſcentiis ac voluptatibus carnis ſervituram dicens: Et cùm inimicus eſſet Scripturis Dei, numerum cujuſdam Millenarii feſti nuptiis deputatum, ſeducere volens, futurum dixit.

Animadverſiones in verba Gaii.

ANnon hinc meritò quis ſuſpicari poſſit Gaium iſtum ex Alogorum hæreticorum numero fuiſſe, quos Epiphanius tradit Dei Λόγον negâſſe, ideóque tam Joannis Evangelium quàm Apocalypſin Cerintho tribuiſſe? Tempus omnino congruit: Theodotus enim Alogorum anteſignanus à Victore Papa de Eccleſia ejectus eſt; Gaius autem iſte floruit ſub Zephyrino, qui Victori proximè ſucceſſit.

Poſſunt

Poſſunt tamen forſan Gaii verba in eum ſenſum accipi, acſi dixiſſet Cerinthum alias neſcio quas Apocalypſes præter unicam illam magno Apoſtolo affinxiſſe, ex quibus probare ſategit homo falſarius Regnum Chriſti poſt reſurrectionem terrenum futurum, in quo homines carnis cupiditatibus & voluptatum carnalium blanditiis inſervirent. Et Χιλιονταετίαν non illum quidem commentum eſſe, ſed docuiſſe eam in nuptiarum feſtis & ſimilibus cupediis conſumptum iri, quaſi Joannes idipſum voluiſſet.

Sed quæcunque fuerit Gaii mens, veriſimile eſt eum de Cerintho falſum fuiſſe. Si enim hæc fuiſſet Cerinthi Hæreſis, quî id ignorare potuerint Juſtinus, Irenæus, Melito, Tertullianus, Hippolytus? quorum Irenæus & Tertullianus Cerinthi hæreſes ex profeſſo enumerârunt: ſed de iſthac altum ſilentium. Unde igitur illud Gaio innotuit?

Videntur nihilominus hæc Gaii, hominis obſcuri, verba Dionyſio Alexandrino, Euſebio, & aliis pluribus, fervente lite cum Millenariis, errandi & de Apocalypſeos authoritate dubitandi occaſionem præbuiſſe.

Cap. VII.

De Nomine Antichriſti apud S. Joannem.

Nomen Antichriſti occurrit in 1 Ep. Joan. cap. 2. verſ. 18. —— καθὼς ἠκούσατε ὅτι ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται, καὶ νῦν Ἀντίχριστοι πολλοὶ γεγόνασιν——verſ. 22. ——οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ὁ ἀρνούμενος τὸν Πατέρα καὶ τὸν Υἱόν. Cap. 4. 3. —Πᾶν πνεῦμα ὃ μὴ ὁμολογεῖ τὸν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, ἐκ τοῦ Θεοῦ οὐκ ἔστι· καὶ τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ τοῦ Ἀντιχρίστου—— 2 Epiſt. verſ. 7. Ὅτι πολλοὶ πλάνοι εἰσῆλθον εἰς τὸν κόσμον, οἱ μὴ ὁμολογοῦντες Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν *ἐρχόμενον ἐν σαρκί. οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ πλάνος καὶ ὁ Ἀντίχριστος.

*to be come, or that is come. That which is here ἐρχόμενον, was before ἐληλυθότα. Ergò ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται (cap. 2. 18.) Antichriſt is come, not, ſhall come.

Loquitur de Simone Mago Archihæretico, & diſcipulis Menandro, Saturnino, Cerintho, &c.

Ignatius ad Trallianos; Φεύγετε——Σίμωνα τὸν πρωτότοκον αὐτοῦ (i.e. τοῦ Διαβόλου) υἱόν, καὶ Μένανδρον, καὶ Βασιλίδην, καὶ ὅλον αὐτοῦ τὸν ὀρυμαγδὸν τῆς κακίας, τοὺς ἀνθρωποπλάνους——φεύγετε καὶ τοὺς ἀκαθάρτους Νικολαΐτας ——φεύγετε καὶ τὰ τοῦ πονηροῦ ἔγγονα Θεόδοτον καὶ Κλεόβουλον, &c.

Juſtinus Martyr (qui ipſe Samaritanus fuit) de Simone, in priore Apologia, Σχεδὸν πάντες μὲν Σαμαρεῖς, ὀλίγοι δέ καὶ ἐν ἄλλοις ἔθνεσιν, ὡς τὸν πρῶτον Θεὸν ἐκεῖνον ὁμολογοῦντες προσκυνοῦσι. Vid. etiam Juſtin. p. 349. in Dial. cum Tryphone.

Irenæus, Lib. 1. c. 20. Simon Samaritanus, ex quo univerſæ hæreſes ſubſtiterunt, &c. Idem, cap. 21. Hujus ſucceſſor Menander, Samarites genere. Idem, c. 22. Ex his Saturninus, qui fuit ab Antiochia, ——& Baſilides occaſionem ſumentes, &c. Simon, & ſucceſſor ejus Menander, uterque affirmavit ſeſe Chriſtum eſſe. Simon, ſe veniſſe de ſupernis, ut ſalutem præſtaret hominibus per ſuam agnitionem; Menander, ſe eſſe virtutem illam primam incognitam, & miſſum ab inviſibilibus Salvatorem pro ſalute hominum—— cap. 21. Uterque negavit Patrem & Filium: Simon, dum affirmaret ſe eſſe qui inter Judæos quaſi Filius apparuerit, in Samaria autem quaſi Pater deſcenderat, reliquis verò Gentibus quaſi Spiritus Sanctus adventaverit, &c. cap. 20. Menander, cùm eadem planè cum Simone docuit.

Simon πάσης μὲν αἱρέσεως εὑρετὴς—πρῶτος ὁ τῆς κακίας δράκων, Cyril. Catech. 6.

Simon negavit Chriſtum in carne veniſſe, cùm dixit, In hominibus apparuiſſe cùm non eſſet Homo, & paſſum in Judæa putatum cùm non eſſet paſſus. Quod & Menandrum affirmâſſe puto.

Saturninus Judæorum Deum unum ex Angelis esse dixit, [non Patrem omnium:] Christum veniſſe ad deſtructionem Judæorum Dei, putativè autem viſum Hominem. Iren. cap. 22. Eadem mentitus est Basilides, c. 23.

Cerinthus negavit Jesum esse Christum: Jesum enim fuisse Joseph & Mariæ filium, post Baptismum descendisse in eum Christum, ab ea principalitate quæ est super omnia, figurâ Columbæ——in fine autem revolâsse iterum Christum de Jesu, & Jesum passum esse & resurrexisse, Christum autem impassibilem perseverâsse. Iren. cap. 25. Negavit etiam Deum Judæorum esse Patrem omnium.

Hippolytus de Consummatione mundi & de Antichristo; Postquam Christus assumptus est ad Patrem, ἀνέκραξάν τινες λέγοντες, Ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ Χριστός, καθὼς ὁ Σίμων ὁ Μάγος, καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ, ὧν ἔτι ἔστι καιρὸς ἄρτι τὸ ὄνόματα μνημονεῦσαι. Vide etiam Oecumenium in 1 Jo. 2. 18, & 22. Clement. Constit. Lib. 6. 10.

De Cerintho.

*Hæres. 28. * Epiphanius ait à Cerintho Seditionem illam motam dicentium Gentes debere circumcidi, &c. contra quam Hæresin Decretum promulgatum est in * Act. Ap. 15. * primo Concilio Hierosolymitano; hoc autem fecisse Cerinthum priusquam in Asia prædicaret prædicationem suam. Hunc esse qui cum aliis seditionem excitavit Hierosolymis, quando Paulus rediit cum Tito. Contra hunc illud à Paulo scriptum 1 ad Cor. de Resurrectione mortuorum, eundémque ex iis unum qui ab Apostolo ψευδαπόστολοι dicti.

Et quidem Cerinthum Hæresin suam prædicâsse ante Excidium Hierosolymitanum vel sic potest probari. Tertullianus de Præscript. adversus Hæreticos, Post hunc (i. e. Carpocratem) Cerinthus Hæreticus erupit similia docens —Hujus Successor Ebion fuit, Cerintho non in omni parte consentiens. Successorem Cerinthi Ebionem vocant etiam Philastrius & Hieronymus adversus Lucifer. Irenæus etiam ordine narrationis Ebionem Cerintho postponit; Eusebius primus præposuit, & posteris imposuit. Jam Ebionem Hæresin suam statim ab Excidio Hierosolymitano spargere cœpisse ex Epiphanio constat, cujus verba sunt, Γέγονε δὲ ἡ ἀρχὴ τούτου μετὰ τὴν πρὸς Ἱεροσολύμων ἅλωσιν, &c. Initium hujus (Ebionis) cœpit post Hierosolymorum captivitatem inter Judæos in Pellam digressos.

Ordo & Succeſſio Hæreſeon.

Ex Ignatio; Simon, Menander, Basilides, Nicolaitæ, Theodorus & Cleobulus.

Constit. Apost. l. 6. cap. 8. Ex Clemente; Simon cum Cleobio, Cerinthus, Marcus, Menander, Basilides, Saturnilus, &c.

Ex Irenæo; Simon, Menander: ex iis Saturninus & Basilides, Carpocrates, Cerinthus, Ebion, Nicolaitæ, Cerdon; ei succeſſit Marcion.

Ex Tertulliano; Simon, post hunc Menander: sequutus est Saturninus; postea Basilides, Nicolaus, Ophitæ, Cainæi, Sethoitæ, Carpocrates; post hunc Cerinthus; hujus Successor Ebion, Valentinus; post hunc Ptolomæus: Valentini sequaces Secundus, Heracleon; post hos Marcus & Colobarsus, Cerdon; post hunc Marcion cum discipulis Lucano & Apelle, Tatianus, Cataphryges.

Eusebius hîc tempora confundit, dum Basilidem & Saturninum, quos συγχρόνους facit, collocat sub temporibus Adriani, itémque Carpocratem, quem, testante Irenæo, eisdem cum illis temporibus vixisse (συγχρονίσαι τούτοις) affirmat. Rectè quidem, si istos tres invicem συγχρόνους dicat; at falsò, si sub Adriano. Quomodo enim Ignatius mentionem faceret Basilidis, si Basilidis Hæresis non innotuisset ante Adriani Imperium, cùm Ignatius Martyrio coronatus sit anno 11 Imperii Trajani? Deinde, si Cerinthus

(Epi-

(Epiphanio teſte) Hæreſin ſuam diſſeminaverit ſuperſtite adhuc Paulo Apoſtolo, id eſt, ante Excidium Hieroſolymitanum, fuerítque idem Carpocratis Succeſſor, (affirmante Tertulliano, & non diffitente, imò innuente, Irenæo ipſo) quomodo etiam Carpocrates cum contemporaneis ſuis Baſilide & Saturnino non fuiſſent etiam ante idem Excidium, non video.

Euſebium igitur hîc rejicio, qui & ipſe lapſus eſt, & poſteris errandi occaſionem dedit, deceptus forſan authoritate Clementis Alexandrini, qui Lib. 7. Stromat. Hæreſeωn authores non vult exſtitiſſe ante Adriani Imperium, ubi & Baſilidem nominat, quem tamen fatetur Glauciam quendam, Petri Interpretem, magiſtrum ſibi adſcripſiſſe. Dixit ibi Clemens quod conſilio ſuo inſerviret: Ego, authoritatibus Ignatii, * Clementis, Irenæi & Tertulliani inter ſe collatis innixus, ſic ſtatuo; Simonem, Menandrum, Saturninum, Baſilidem, Nicolaitas, Carpocratem & Cerinthum (utpote omnes Ebione priores) ante Excidium Hieroſolymorum Hæreſes ſuas diſſeminâſſe, ſuperſtitibus adhuc Apoſtolis Petro & Paulo, ſaltem intra triennium.

* ſcil. Romani.

Senſus igitur Loci Joannis Ep. 1. cap. 2. v. 18, &c. ejuſmodi eſt: De Simone Antichriſto, Satanæ Primogenito & omnium Hæreticorum & Pſeudoprophetarum Coryphæo, jamdudum audiviſtis, ut ad ſeducendum venerit: Nunc autem plures Antichriſtos & Pſeudoprophetas, ſcilicet Menandrum, Saturninum, Baſilidem, Carpocratem & Cerinthum, &c. exortos vidimus: unde jam certò ſcimus Finem Gentis noſtræ & Politiæ Moſaicæ abolitionem inſtare; cùm inter alia ſigna Excidii iſtius appropinquantis hoc etiam Salvator prædixit, Quòd multi Pſeudoprophetæ exorirentur & ſeducerent multos, Matth. 24. 11.

Aliter.

Joannes nomine Antichriſti non tam unum aliquem & ſingularem hominem intelligit, quàm Factionem hæreticam ſeu Pſeudoprophetarum turbam, cujuſmodi plures paulò ante Hieroſolymorum Excidium exſtituros prædixerat Salvator, Matth. 24. 5, 11. unde colligit Joannes finem Politiæ Judaicæ jam, tempore quo Epiſtola iſta prima ſcripta ſit, inſtare, ὅτι Ἀντίχριστοι πολλοὶ γεγόνασιν.

Patet autem Antichriſti nomine Factionem deſignari, cùm ex hoc * loco, ubi ὁ Ἀντίχριστος καὶ πολλοὶ Ἀντίχριστοι ſeſe mutuò explicare videntur, tum maximè ex Ep. 2. verſ. 7. πολλοὶ πλάνοι ἐξῆλθον εἰς τὸν κόσμον, οἱ μὴ ὁμολογοῦντες Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐρχόμενον ἐν σαρκί. οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ πλάνος καὶ ὁ Ἀντίχριστος.

* 1 Jo. 2. 18.

Cap. VIII.

Placita Doctorum Hebræorum de BABYLONIS ſeu ROMÆ Excidio.

Eſai. 21. 11. מַשָּׂא דּוּמָה הוּא אֵרוֹם, inquit R. Solomon Jarchi. משא רומא inquit R. D. Kimchi, (quæ verba Pontificii omittenda curârunt.) Idem Hieronymus in hunc locum & in Prophetam Abdiam annotavit.

In Eſa. 34. 16. Kimchi, Dixit Quærite reſpectu illius viri qui Romæ excidium videre ac intelligere cupit, אומר כנגד מי שיראה בחרבן רומי וידרוש. Iſtas duas voces [בחרבן רומי] Romani editores omiſerunt, ſenſu imperfecto relicto: Et quater in eodem capite pro voce אדום (quâ Romam deſignant Rabbini) ſubſtituitur יון כותית, id eſt, Græcia, Cuthith, in Commentariis Kimchi & Jarchi.

Eſai. 34. 9. יתהפכון נחלחא דרומי לזפתא, Mutabuntur torrentes Romæ in picem. Kimchi hanc expoſitionem Chaldaicam citat & approbat. A Pontificiis tamen editoribus omittitur nomen Romæ, & locus relinquitur ſine ſenſu.

Ex Rabbinorum Commentariis in Eſa. c. 34. & c. 35. Romæ nomen bis obliterârunt ; & pro Edom, nomen Pares, Javan & Cuthith quindecies ſubſtituerunt.

Num. 24. 24. Targum Onkelos, Et naves venientes מֵרוֹמָאֵי à Romanis. Targum Hieroſolym. Legiones multæ מן דרומאי à Romanis. Sed Pontificii Correctores hîc ſubſtituendum curârunt כִּתָּאֵי.

Ex Kimchio in Abdiam nomen Romæ ſæpius deletur : & integra hæc ſententia, עם חרבן ארום תהיה תשועת ישראל, id eſt, Cùm devaſtabitur Roma, erit Iſraeli Redemptio. Præceſſit autem in Kimchio, מה שאמרו הנביאים בחרבן ארום באחרית הימים על רומי אמרו, id eſt, Quicquid dixerunt Prophetæ de deſtructione Edom in poſtremis temporibus, de Roma dixerunt.

David Kimchi in Eſa. 24. פרשה זו עתידה על חרבן ארום ואחר כן וכר תשועה ישראל, id eſt, Iſta Sectio de futuro eſt, agítque de Excidio Edom, & poſtea Iſraelis ſalutis meminit. Quid verò per Edom intelligat, oſtendit in v. 16. ſcribens, Quicunque reſpiciet in deſtructionem Romæ [בחרבן רומי] (quæ verba à Pontificiis editoribus deleta ſunt) inquirat per totum Jehovæ librum.

R. Abraham Sebah in Gen. 1. ait, Currente Sexto annorum mundi millenario Romam evertendam, & Judæos reducendos.

Targum ad Thren. c. 4. v. 22. Et poſtea (poſtquam) complebitur iniquitas tua, cœtus Sion, & (tum) liberaberis per manum Meſſiæ & Eliæ ſacerdotis magni; & non addet ultra Dominus ut tranſmigrare faciat te : & in tempore illo viſitabo iniquitatem tuam, Roma, quæ ædificata es in Italia, & plena turmis de filiis Edom ; & venient Perſæ פרסאי & anguſtiabunt te, &c. פרשאי Equites ſcribendum, non Perſæ.

Idem ad c. 1. v. 22. Ingrediatur in Die Judicii Magni omne malum eorum [Gentium & inimicorum Jeruſalem] quo malignati ſunt mihi [Jeruſalem loquitur] coram te ; & quære occaſiones in eas, ſicut quæſiſti occaſiones contra me propter multitudinem prævaricationum mearum : quia multi ſunt gemitus mei, & cor meum infirmum. Targum hoc compoſitum eſt poſt excidium per Romanos : Nam v. 19. mentio eſt Titi & Veſpaſiani, & machinarum quas exſtruxerunt contra Jeruſalem. Imò cap. 4. 21. Conſtantinopolis.

CAP.

Cap. IX.

Quomodo interpungendum vertendúmque cenſuerim Com: 35 & 36. cap. 11. Danielis, ut Angeli Prophetantis ibi loci Tranſitio à Regno tertio ad quartum (puta Romanum) evidenter cerni internoſcíque poſſit. Cui additur & ſequentium aliquot Commatum verſio, unà cum applicatione parallela.

35. ET ex intelligentibus corruent multi, ad conflandum eos & mundandum, uſque ad tempus finis. (finem puta Regni Græcanici.)

Clauſula perſecutionis Epiphanianæ; quacum utique Regnum Græcanicum, juxta rationes Sp. S. finiſſe cenſetur, neque ultra in * Tetrarchias Prophe- Confer v. 23. c. 8. בְּאַחֲרִית מַלְכוּתָם

* i. Quaternionis Regnorum.

ticæ cenſum venit.

36. Quoniam adhuc ad tempus ſtatutum, faciet pro libitu ſuo [a] REX, ſéque extollet & magnificabit ſuper omnem [b] Deum.

Tranſitio. Simile exemplum Soph Paſuk malè poſitæ vid. Gen. 23. 17. & alibi.

[a] ה Articulus hoc loco non eſt ἀναφορικὸς, ſed, ut alibi nonnunquam ſolet, tantùm certum & eximium quid deſignat. Sic Eſai. 7. 14. הָעַלְמָה.

Characteriſmus Regni quarti ſeu Romani à debellata Macedonia ad exitum Auguſti, Gentes Gentiúmque Deos quaſi æſtu quodam & torrente fortunæ ſibi ſubjugantis. Vide amabò Florum l. 2. c. 7. Patere. l. 1. c. 6. item 1 Macc. c. 8. Phraſin autem ſimilem de ſurgente Monarchia Perſ. cap. 8. 4. de Imperio Græco, cap. 11. 3.

[b] Tropo Prophetico Dii ſubigi & domari dicuntur, cùm ſubiguntur Gentes & Urbes quibus præeſſe putabantur, (vide Eſai. 46. 2. Jer. 50. 2. & 51. 44. item c. 48. 7.) Quemadmodum & vice versâ (quod magis mireris) Diis ſervire (politicè ſcilicet) qui colla Gentibus quorum Dii fuerint ſubmittere coacti ſunt; ut Deut. 4. 28. cum locis parallelis, c. 28. v. 36, 64. Jer. 16. 13. quibuſcum compone 1 Sam. 26. 19. In quæ omnia vide Chaldæum Paraph. Hîc tantùm operæ pretium erit expendere morem Romanis ſolennem, cùm Urbes obſiderent, Deos Deáſve illarum præſides carmine evocandi, ínque ſuas partes, hoſtium tutelâ abjectâ, adigendi. Cujus formulam vide apud Macrob. l. 3. Saturnal. c. 8.

Quinetiam contra Deum Deorum edicet ſtupenda, proficiétque donec conſummata fuerit indignatio: [temporis] quippe deciſio facta eſt.

Characteriſmus ejuſdem ab exitu Auguſti ad abrogatum Gentiliſmum: quo temporis intervallo Chriſtum Deum Deorum in carne apparentem, ſub Pontio Pilato Præſide, cruci affixit, cultoréſque ejus per annos ferme CCC. diris perſecutionibus & lanienis exercuit.

37. Deinde ad Deos Majorum ſuorum non attendet, neque ad deſiderium mulierum: imò ad nullum Numen animum advertet, ſed ſupra omne ſeſe magnificabit.

Characteriſmus ejuſdem Rei Romanæ poſt abdicatam per Conſtantinum M. ejúſque ſucceſſores Religionem Majorum, & ſacra Chriſtiana admiſſa: Ex quo nimirum Cœlibatus, contra priſca Romanorum inſtituta, conjugio anteferri, & privilegiis gaudere cœpit. [Vid. Sozomen. l. 1. c. 9. Euſeb. de Vit. Conſtant. lib. 4. c. 26.] Sed & veri iſtius & unius Dei cultui, cui, ſacris Chriſtianis ſuſceptis in Baptiſmo, ſeſe addixerant, novi Deaſtri & Idola, non modò in eodem Templo, quin & ad unum idémque Altare colendi inſigni cum contumelia ſuperinducti.

38. Nam *[a] unà cum [לְאֵלָה] Mahuzzimos in ſede ipſius honorabit;

* Similem præfixi ל uſum habes Ezra 1. 5. Lev. 16. 21. Numer. 9. 15. 32. 33. 33. 2.

Hi enim ſunt quos hîc Sp. S. Mahuzzimos nuncupat, i. Propugnatores, ſive tutelaria Numina, cujuſmodi Sanctorum defunctorum & Angelorum cum Deo, inquam, quem non agnoverunt Majores ſui, honorabit [eoſdem] auro & argento, & lapidibus pretioſis, & rebus deſiderabilibus.

lorum titulis veneratur Romanus, tanquam Patronos, Protectores, & Mediatores inter Deum & homines. [Vide Comment. meas ad 6. Tub. p. * 114, 115.] Significationi quam dico firmandæ facit, quòd Lxx. in Pſalmis מעוז quinquies ὑπερασπιστὴν vertunt, & Vulgatus toties Protectorem. Videſis loca.

* [Hujus edit. p. 590, 591.]

39. Faciétque Munitiones Mahuzzimorum communes DEI PEREGRINI, quem agnoſcendo honore cumulaturus eſt, * eáſque dominari faciet in multos, terrámque partietur in mercedem.

* Vel eôſque, Mahuzzimos nimirum.

Vel Templa Mahuzzimorum intelligit, in commune Deo (quem abdicatâ Majorum religione aſciverat) & Mahuzzimis dedicanda, juxta formulam Deo & Sancto N. vel N. quorum & Reliquiæ ibi collocari ſolent, (ut nimirum idem ſit cum eo quod præceſſit, Mahuzzimos in ſede ipſius (hoc eſt Dei, quem Majores ejus non agnoverant) honorabit:) Vel fortè Simulacra ſic vocat, quibus ceu loricis & cataphractis induta viſibiliter ſiſtuntur Numina. Talibus ſcil. Romanus, quibus Deaſtros & Mahuzzimos ſuos, etiam Deum ipſum Iſraelis zeloten, quem ſibi colendum ſuſceperat, repræſentaret ſimilitudinibus. Porrò hæc Mahuzzimorum ſuorum Templa, vel Simulacra, vel ipſos, ſi mavis, Mahuzzimos, dominari faciet in multos, terrámque iiſdem partietur in patrimonium & ditionem. Nota res eſt.

40. In tempore autem finis bellabit eum impetet Rex Auſtri: irruétque in eum ut turbo Rex Aquilonis, curribus equitibúſque & claſſibus amplis; ingreſſúsque in regiones inundabit, & tranſibit.

Cæterùm tam nefariæ commixtionis, ínque Deum, conſortii ſimilitudiníſque impatientem, pœnas primò dabit Saracenis ex Auſtro provincias ejus incurſuris, partémque plurimam abrepturis: deinde Turcis, Genti Aquilonari, Saracenos quidem primùm petituris; ſed illorum Imperio everſo, adeò fines ejuſdem Romanos verſus ſupergreſſuris, ut cladem longè omnium quæ unquam fuere graviſſimam latiſſimámque Orbi Romano ſint illaturi, nec, antequam finalis ejuſdem interitus jam præ foribus inſtet, auferendam.

Nota hîc, tempus finis, quo mala iſta ab Auſtro & Aquilone Romano incubitura prædicuntur, eſſe noviſſimam Rei Romanæ periodum, alibi Temporis, temporum & dimidii temporis curriculo definitam; quibus utique Rex iſte tantum nefas in Deum Chriſtianorum, cujus cultum paulò antè ſuſceperat, auderet.

41. Et intrabit in Terram decoris, (i. in terram Sanctam) &c.

Portò, quod momentum Prophetiæ huic interpretandæ maximum confert, nollem Lectoris obſervationem fugiat, nimirum, Quemadmodum Judeis, quibus unicus Deus verus patrius erat, Dii Nationum peregrini audiant; ità contrà, Romanis, falſorum Numinum indè à Gentis primordiis cultoribus, eundem Deum verum peregrinam fuiſſe, & quidem tantùm non unicum & ſolum: quandoquidem, ut Leo Magnus Serm. 1. in Natal. Apoſtol. Petri & Pauli, Roma, cùm penè omnibus dominaretur Gentibus, omnium Gentium ſerviebat erroribus; & magnam ſibi videbatur ſumpſiſſe religionem, quia nullam reſpuebat falſitatem. Ab hac mente eſt illud Philoſophorum, Paulo Chriſtum Athenis Evangelizante, Videtur, inquiunt, peregrinorum Deorum annunciator eſſe. Eodémque ſpectavit Altaris ibidem inſcriptio ab Apoſtolo allegata, Θεῷ ἀγνώστῳ ἢ Ξένῳ. Quid quòd Licinius decretorium illud prælium cum Conſtantino initurus, eidem diſertè exprobret, quòd Patriis inſtitutis violatis, Ξένον τινὰ Θεὸν ſibi colendum aſciviſſet; ſeipſum contrà cum exercitu, Θεὺς πατρίους, ὡς ὂν περιόντων τῶν ἀνίκα δὴν παραλήφασι φασι σέβειν, venerari? Vide orationem Licinii ad milites apud Eusebium lib. 2. c. 5. de vita Constantini, quam se accepisse ait ab iis qui audiverant.

Postremò & illud addo; Arabiæ Petreæ incolas nunquam vel in hunc usque diem à Turca penitus sub jugum missos: imò nonnullis eorum annuum quoddam tributum persolvere perhibetur, nè peregrinatorum turmas, illàc ultrò citróque commeantes, latrociniis suis infestent. Ex quo illud Angeli, v. 41. intelligas, de Edomais, Moabitis & medietate filiorum Ammon Regis Aquilonis manum evasuris.

Cætera quæ sequuntur adhuc implenda restant, idcóque non temere interpretanda.

An Advertisement.

There being scattered here and there in the Author's Adversaria and other MSS. some few Observations and short Notes upon some passages in the Apocalyps, I thought it not amiss to gather up these Fragments and place them in their due order. Some of them are upon those parts of the Apocalyps that the Author did not write upon in his Clavis & Comment. Apocalypt. but would have been farther enlarged and improved, if he had lived to have perfected his Commentary on the remaining Chapters. The Observations in English are set in Chap. X. the Latine ones in Chap. XI. The summary Exposition of the Apocalyps (which makes Chap. XII.) was an entire Tract witten by the Author, though before his Comment on the Apocalyps.

Chap. X.

Short Observations upon some passages in the Apocalyps.

Chap. 1. vers. 11. —— the Seven Churches which are in Asia] If we consider their number, being Seven, which is a number of revolution of times, and therefore in this Book the Seals and Trumpets and Vials also are Seven; or if we consider the choice of the H. Ghost, in that he taketh neither all, no nor the most famous Churches in the world, as Antioch, Alexandria, Rome, and many other, and such no doubt as had need of instruction as well as those here named; If these things be well considered, may it not seem that these Seven Churches, besides their Literal respect, were intended to be as Patterns and Types of the several Ages of the Catholick Church à principio ad finem? that so these Seven Churches should prophetically sample unto us a Seven-fold successive temper and condition of the whole Visible Church according to the several Ages thereof, answering to the Pattern of the Seven Churches here. And if this were granted, viz. That they were intended for so many Patterns of so many States of the Church succeeding in the like order the Churches are named; then surely the First Church (viz. the [a]Ephesian State) must be first, and the Last be the last. As for those between, though there be no Characters to bound them all [b] exactly, yet the mention of false Jews and the Synagogue of Satan, Throne of Satan, Balaam, Jezabel, &c. (Apocal. 2.) in the Five middle ones, will argue that they belong to the times of the Beast and Babylon. And for the Sixth in special, viz. Philadelphia, we have a good character where to place it, viz. partly about the time the Beast is falling, and partly after his destruction, when the New Jerusalem cometh. For Philadelphia is promised that the Synagogue of Satan should bow before her feet, that [a] Ephes. primitivæ Ecclesiæ Typus, plurima fortiter passæ, sed tandem in amore decrescentis, unde Apostasia; 2 Thess. 2. and 1 Tim. 4. 1.

[b] No more have the first 6 Trumpets: onely in gross we know by the Text where the First of them beginneth and where the Sixth endeth.

that ſhe ſhould be preſerved in the general temptation to come upon the whole world, that upon her ſhould be written the name of the New Jeruſalem (Apocal. 3. 9, 10, 12.) If any thinks theſe Seven Churches are to be put into the Scheme, (as being perſuaded they ſerve for Prophecies of things to come as well as Deſcriptions of things preſent) he may eaſily ſupply their want by imagining them in that middle empty ſpace between the Two Prophecies, or might without any great deformity expreſs them by 7 letters, E. S. P. &c.

CHAP. 3. verſ. 21.——I will give him to ſit with me in my Throne, even as I——am ſet down with my Father in his Throne] Here are 2 Thrones mentioned. My Throne, ſaith Chriſt; this is the condition of glorified Saints, who ſit with Chriſt in his Throne: but my Father's (i. e. God's) Throne is the Power of Divine Majeſty; herein none may ſit but God and the God-man Jeſus Chriſt. To be inſtalled in God's Throne, to ſit at God's right hand, is to have a God-like Royalty, ſuch as his Father hath, a Royalty altogether incommunicable, whereof no creature is capable. To receive our devotions in Heaven is a flower of this incommunicable Royalty.

CHAP. 5. verſ. 12: Worthy is the Lamb to receive Power, and Riches, and Wiſedom, and Strength, and Honour, and Bleſſing] The whole Doxology conſiſts in the acknowledgement of theſe three Sovereign Prerogatives of the Divine Majeſty, his Power, his Wiſedom, his Goodneſs. The two firſt, Power and Wiſedom, are expreſs; and Riches and Strength belong to Power: the third (viz. Goodneſs) is implied in Bleſſing or Thankſgiving, which is the Confeſſion of the Divine Goodneſs. Obſerve alſo that theſe words (and thoſe in the parallel place, chap. 4. 11.) are the ſumme and argument of that Hymnology which the Primitive Church uſed at the offering of Bread and Wine for the Euchariſt.

CHAP. 9. verſ. 5.——tormented five months, and verſ. 10.——to hurt men five months] For the clearing of this difficulty, 1. What if theſe Five months are not the whole time of the plague of Locuſts, but the time onely of their tormenting with their tail? Agreeably to this ſuppoſal the Editio Complutenſis followed by Plantine reads not verſ. 10. as we do with the Codex Regius, Καὶ ἔχουσιν οὐρὰς ὁμοίας σκορπίοις, καὶ κέντρα ἦν ἐν ταῖς οὐραῖς αὐτῶν· καὶ ἡ ἐξουσία αὐτῶν ἀδικῆσαι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους μῆνας πέντε· but thus, Καὶ ἔχουσιν οὐρὰς ὁμοίας σκορπίοις, καὶ κέντρα· καὶ ἐν ταῖς οὐραῖς αὐτῶν ἐξουσίαν ἔχουσιν ἀδικῆσαι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους μῆνας πέντε, that is, And they had tails like unto Scorpions, and ſtings: and in their tails they have power to hurt men five months. And what if this then be the meaning of verſ. 5.——They ſhould be tormented five months; and their torment was as the torment of a Scorpion, when he ſtriketh a man, that is, they ſhould be tormented by the tail, as Scorpions torment and ſtrike with their tail?

* the Saracens.

2. What if by the Head of this Army of * Locuſts we underſtand their Foremoſt troups or Vanguard, which infeſted and ſettled in the Eaſtern parts, erecting their chief Caliph at Bagdat or Babylon in Meſopotamia; and by the Tail of this Army their Latter and hindmoſt troups, which encamped Weſtward in Africk and Spain, as the Rere of that great Army who in proceſs of time erected alſo a Caliph at Algier, and from thence after ſome ages invaded Sicily and Italy, which they held even under the Walls of Rome and Pope's noſe, juſt five months or 150 years; during which though they killed not the Beaſt, yet they continually frighted, vexed and tormented him? For it ſhould ſeem that the Holy Ghoſt in this number principally aimed at Italy, once the Seat of the Empire, and now of the Beaſt, whom the Head-troups of theſe Locuſts never came near, but onely their Tail.

Verſ. 20. And the reſt of the men which were not killed by theſe plagues, yet yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship Dæmons, and Idols of gold, and silver, and brasse, and stone, and of wood, which can neither see nor hear nor walk] See this explained in Book III. pag. 783.

CHAP. 10. ver. 11. Thou must prophesy again before many, &c.] These words, Δεῖ σε πάλιν προφητεῦσαι, Thou must prophesy again, (which interpret the Symbolum of the Book-eating, v. 10.) do imply that the Systeme of Visions following do relegere tempus Apocalypticum ab ovo. But if any Vision of that Systeme of Visions do begin at the beginning of the Apocalyptical time or period, (as it is not denied but that of the Puerperium in Chap. 12. doth) there is no reason to think but that the First Vision beginneth there; both because it is the First, and because it is the Summe and Compendium of all that follow after. If then the First Vision after the eating of the Book begin at the beginning of the Apocalyptical period, surely the Measuring of the Temple and Θυσιαστήριον is that which begins there: If the Measuring of the Temple and Θυσιαστήριον begin at the beginning of Apocalyptical time, then this Measuring cannot be contemporary with the Treading down of the Outer Court and the Witnesses prophesying in Sack-cloth; because these contemporate with the Woman in the Wilderness and the XLII months Blasphemy of the Beast, which are granted not to be from the beginning of Apocalyptical time.

CHAP. 11. vers. 2. —— the holy City shall they tread under foot 42 months; and ver. 3. —— my two Witnesses shall prophesy in Sack-cloth * 1260 days; and vers. 9. —— three days and an half (as in chap. 12. 14. — a time and times and half a time)] That by these Numbers are not meant Three single years and an half, see it demonstrated by 5 Reasons, in Book III. pag. 742.

* the same is said of the Woman's being in the Wilderness, ch. 12. 6.

CHAP. 12. vers. 14. And to the Woman were given two Wings of a great Eagle] This alludes unto Exod. 19. 4. where God is said to have born his people upon Eagle's wings, and brought them (out from the Egyptians) unto himself, namely in the Wilderness.

—That she might flie into the Wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished —— from the face of the Serpent] Seeing the whole Apocalyps almost consists of Expressions borrowed from the Types of the Old Testament; why should not this of the Woman's dwelling and being fed in the Wilderness have reference to that of Israel's Mora in deserto, an estate and condition externally better then what they came from in Egypt, but inferiour to that they should in time attain unto? Yea besides this general, the Allusion is most fit for many particular Correspondencies. Moses brought the Israelites out of the Egyptian bondage into the Wilderness, a place where they might worship and sacrifice unto the Lord safely, where the Law was given, Tabernacle built, Ordinances both Sacred and Political enacted, &c. So did Ἀστὸς ὁ μέγας, Great Constantine deliver the Apostolical Woman, and brought her into the like condition, wherein she might worship Christ safely, the Laws of the Church were established, Tabernacles for Christian Worship erected, Tithes and Revenues assigned, &c. And had not this Christian Wilderness a Calf too made of the Ear-rings stoln from the Egyptians? Was there not here found a Korah among the Sons of Levi, with his partakers, * men of renown, to rebell against Moses and Aaron, and to offer strange fire unto the Lord? Was there not here a Balaam to deceive, and a Baal-Peor to be worshipped? Was there not a Marah and a Meribah? Yea, was there not here also as well as there those who brought an evil report upon the Land whither they were to goe? Farther, might not God say of the times of this Christian Wilderness, as he did of the abode of Israel there? Psal. 95. 10. Fourty years long was I grieved, &c. and Amos 5. 25, 26. Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness fourty years,

* Numb. 16.

O houſe of Iſrael? But ye have born the Tabernacle of your Moloch, &c.

CHAP. 17. 14.——and they that are with him are called and choſen and faithful] i. e. The Lamb and thoſe called and elect and choſen ones which are with him ſhall overcome the Beaſt. So I underſtand it. Theſe are that Virgin-Company (Chap. 14.) which follow the Lamb whitherſoever he goeth, and ſhall now accompany him in this Exploit. This therefore will ſerve for a Character Synchroniſtical, That that Virgin-Company continues in time to the end of Babylon and the Beaſt; and for an intimation of whom that Viſion meaneth, viz. ſuch as faithfully adhere unto the Lamb, while the Beaſt reigneth and the reſt of men admire and worſhip him.

CHAP. 19. 15. And out of his mouth goeth a ſharp ſword, that with it he ſhould ſmite the Nations] So it was propheſied of him by Eſay, chap. 11. 4.—that he ſhould ſmite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips ſhould ſlay the wicked: and in 2 Theſſ. 2. 8.——he ſhall conſume that Wicked one (viz. Antichriſt) with the Spirit of his mouth. Chriſt our General nor fights nor conquers by force of Arms, but by the power of his Word and Spirit; He does all nutu & verbo: As it is ſaid (Pſal. 33.) God made the world by his word and by the breath of his mouth; in like manner doth Chriſt overcome his enemies, and enables his Miniſters to overcome them alſo, Verbo & Spiritu oris. Agreeable hereunto is that in Hoſ. 6. 5. I have hewed them by my Prophets, and ſlain them by the words of my mouth.

CHAP. 20. 6. Bleſſed and Holy is he that hath part in the Firſt Reſurrection] What is meant by the Firſt Reſurrection, ſee in The Remains upon the Apocalyps, Book III. pag. 750. and in Book IV. Epiſtle 20.

Verſ. 14. And Death and Hades were caſt into the lake of fire: This is the Second Death] Nothing is hereby meant but that Death was now quite vanquiſhed; and that there ſhould be no more Death of Body or Separation of Soul, but onely the Second Death. As if it had been ſaid, Death and Hades were now confined onely to the lake of fire, which is the Second Death. The Death of Bodies in the grave ſhould be no more, nor the ſtate of Separate Souls in * Hades.

* Hades is the ſtate of Separate Souls, whether good or bad, after death.

CAP. XI.

Commentationes Minores in Apocalypſin.

CAP. 1. verſ. 3. ——Tempus enim propè eſt] i. e. Jam adeſt tempus, quo verba Prophetiæ hujus impleri cœperint, & indies magis magiſque implebuntur.

Verſ. 4.—ab eo qui eſt, & qui erat, & qui venturus eſt, ἀπὸ ὁ ἐρχόμενος] Eadem habentur verba verſ. 8. & cap. 4. 8. cap. 11. 17. Ὁ ἐρχόμενος, Venturus, idem eſt quod ὁ ἐσόμενος, Futurus; ut ex cap. 16. 5. manifeſtum eſt, ὁ ὤν, καὶ ὁ ἦν, καὶ ὁ ἐσόμενος *, uti locum hunc reſtituit Beza ex vetuſto bonæ fidei manuſcripto codice. Seculum Futurum Hebræis eſt עוֹלָם הַבָּא. Unde Marc. 10. 30. Luc. 18. 30. Αἰῶνι ὁ ἐρχομένῳ. Epheſ. 2. 7: Ἐν τοῖς αἰῶσι τοῖς ἐπερχομένοις. Vide Pſal. 71. 18. לְכָל־יָבוֹא, Eſa. 27. 6. הַבָּאִים Venturis ſub. diebus, id eſt, Poſthac, Impoſterum; Eſaiæ 44. 7. וְאוֹתִיּוֹת וַאֲשֶׁר תָּבֹאנָה, Vulgat. Ventura & quæ futura ſunt; Dan. 9. 26. עַם נָגִיד הַבָּא Populus Principis venturus, id eſt, futurus.

* Vulgat. legebat ὅσιος, Sanctus.

Et à ſeptem Spiritibus qui in conſpectu throni ejus ſunt,] Per Spiritus hos intelligit Angelos Aretas in locum, τινὲς τὰ ἑπτὰ πνεύματα τὰς ἐνεργείας τοῦ ἁγίου ὑπολαβον Πνεύματος, δοκιμώτερον δὲ ἀγγέλους παῦτα νοεῖν.

νοῆν. Cornelius à Lapide pro eadem ſententia Junium laudat; ſed fallitur. Fortè Druſium dicturus fuiſſet, nam ille ſic ſentit ad hunc locum, ubi inter alia habet, Septem Archangelos eſſe qui ſtant coram Deo etiam Jonathan prodidit: Sed ubi, non commemorat. Locus eſt Gen. 11. 7. Dixit Dominus Septem Angelis qui ſtant coram eo, Venite nunc, &c. Cum iſtis facit Th. Beza; Quòd (inquit) Septem hos ſpiritus nonnulli pro Spiritu Sancto acceperunt, cujus ſeptiformis (ut loquuntur) ſit gratia, manifeſtè refelli poteſt vel ex eo quod ſcribitur infrà, 5. 6. Et paulò pòſt, Ut nemo de hoc poſſit ambigere, iidem iſti Septem Spiritus infrà, cap. 5. 6. Agni cornua & oculi (id eſt, miniſtri) dicuntur. Accedit, quòd in cap. 8. 2. expreſſè dicuntur Angeli: Vidi, inquit Joannes, τὺς ἑπτὰ ἀγγέλυς, οἱ ἐνώπιον τῦ Θεῦ ἑςήκασι, Septem Angelos qui adſtant coram Deo. Confer cap. 4. 5. ——Septem lampades ante Thronum, quæ ſunt ſeptem Spiritus Dei: Cap. 5. 6. Agnum ſtantem tanquam occiſum, habentem cornua ſeptem, & oculos ſeptem, qui ſunt ſeptem Spiritus Dei, miſſi in omnem terram: & Zach. 4. 10. Septem iſti oculi ſunt Domini, qui diſcurrunt per univerſam terram. Videſis etiam Tobiæ 12. 15. Ego ſum unus ex ſeptem Angelis, qui aſtamus ante Dominum. Cypr. adverſus Judæos, lib. 1. 20. Hilar. in Pſal. 118. vel 119. & Pſal. 129. vel 130. Adde Clem. Alex. lib. 6. Strom. ἑπτὰ μέν εἰσιν οἱ τῷ μεγίςῳ δύναμιν ἔχοντες πεωτόγονοι ἀγγέλων * ἄρχοντες, id est, Septem quidem ſunt quorum eſt maxima potentia, primogeniti Angelorum principes. [Sed de Septem hiſce Angelis fuſiùs diſſeruit Author in peculiari Diatrib. in Zach. 4. 10. Lib. I. p. 53. & Lib. IV. Ep. 61.]

* Dan. 10. 13. שרים הראשנים Principes Primarii.

Verſ. 5. Et à Jeſu Chriſto] Poſtponit hîc Joannes Septem Spiritibus Chriſtum, quia de Chriſto deinceps continuandus erat ſermo; viz. Et à Jeſu Chriſto, qui eſt teſtis fidelis, primogenitus mortuorum, &c. Nempe id Sacris Scriptoribus ſolenne eſt, ut id poſtponant à quo volunt inchoare ſequentia *. Simile videre eſt in Heb. 12. 23. ubi poſt illa [Spiritus juſtorum perfectorum] reperies——N. Teſt. Mediatorem Jeſum & ſanguinem aſperſionis, quia de ſanguine Chriſti continuatur ſermo, ——meliora loquentem quàm [Sanguis] Abelis. Videſis etiam 1 Tim. 3. 16. ubi ἀνελήφθη ἐν δόξῃ ob eandem rationem ultimo loco poni reperies.

* Vide Hieron. ad Matth. 1. 1, 2. —Chriſti, filii Davidis, filii Abraham. Abraham genuit, &c. [Vide Tractatum de Doctrinis Dæmoniorum, 1 Tim. 4: 1. pag. 768.]

Verſ. 13. Vidi in medio ſeptem candelabrorum ſimilem Filio hominis, veſtitum podere, & præcinctum ad mammillas zonâ aureâ] i. e. Amictu & cinctu ſacerdotali ornatum. Ità Irenæus lib. 4. c. 37. pag. 373. edit. Fevard. Confer cap. 15. 6. & Dan. 10. 5. ubi vir quidam dicitur amictus בַּדִּים lineis, ſed cinctus non circa pectus ut Sacerdos, ſed circa lumbos ſeu renes. Martin. Lex. Poderis eſt tunica Sacerdotalis linea corpori adſtricta, uſque ad pedes deſcendens: Hæc vulgò camiſia vocatur ex Iſidoro lib. 19. 21. Legitur ποδήρης Sap. 18. 24. Sirac. 27. 8. & c. 45. 11. LXX hâc voce reddiderunt אפוד Exod. 28. 31. ברים Ezech. 9. 2, 3. מחלצות Zach. 3. 4.

Verſ. 15. Pedes ejus ſimiles aurichalco, ſicut in camino ardenti, & vox ejus tanquam vox aquarum multarum] Hæc deſcriptio perſonæ Filii Dei ex Daniele expreſſa eſt, Dan. 10. 6. Pedes ejus quaſi ſpecies æris candentis, & vox verborum ejus ſicut vox multitudinis. Vox aquarum multarum apud Joannem & Vox multitudinis apud Danielem prorſus ἰσοδυναμοῦσι. Similiter cap. 19. 6. Audivi, inquit Joannes, quaſi vocem turbæ multæ, & ſicut vocem aquarum multarum, &c. [Vide Comment. Apocal. ad cap. 14. 2. pag. 638.]

Cap. 2. verſ. 9. Novi blaſphemiam eorum qui dicunt ſe Judæos eſſe, & non ſunt——ſed mentiuntur, cap. 3. 9.] Per Pſeudo-Judæos hîc intelligendi ſunt Pſeudo-Chriſtiani. Scil. in Apocalypſi paſſim obſervare licet, Judæos ſive Synagogam Iſraeliticam perſonam veræ Chriſti Eccleſiæ ex Gentibus ſurrogatæ ſuſtinere; (Conſule cap. 7. ubi Cœtus Eccleſiæ Chriſtianæ exhibetur typo CXLIV M. ex omnibus tribubus Iſraelis ſignatorum) Gentes contrà typum Idololatrarum ejuſdémque Eccleſiæ hoſtium: totâ nimirum parabolâ ex ſtatu rerum ſub Veteri Teſt. mutuatâ, in quo veri Dei cultus apud unum Iſraelem viguit; Gentes verò reliquæ Idolis & Deaſtris in univerſum inſervierint.

Cap. 3. verſ. 4. Ἔχεις ὀλίγα ὀνόματα] Hîc & Act. 1. 15. ὀνόματα nomina ſunt capita hominum, ſeu ſinguli homines: alibi hoc vocabulum aliâ atque aliâ ſignificatione adhibetur. Plura vide in Comment. Apocal. ad cap. 11. 13. Et occiſa ſunt in terræmotu ὀνόματα ἀνθρώπων nomina hominum ſepties mille.

Verſ. 5. Hic amicietur veſtimentis albis] Vide infrà Commentat. ad cap. 7. 14.

Vide Reſp. ad D. Laweni ſtricturas. Lib. III. pag. 684.

Cap. 4. Verſ. 9, 10. Δώσουσι, πεσοῦνται, προσκυνήσουσι] Futura ex Hebræorum notione denotare ſolent actum vel ſolitum, 1 Sam. 20. 5. יֹאשַׁב; vel debitum, Mal. 2. 7. יִשְׁמְרוּ, 2 Sam. 13. 12. יֵעָשֶׂה.

Verſ. 10. Et adorabant——& conjiciebant coronas ſuas ante thronum] Vide quod de hujuſmodi more apud Gentiles memorat interpres Æſchyli, ad eum locum Septem contra Thebas, πέπλων τε σεφέων——πότε σέφη ῥίψομεν ἢ πέπλους ὅτι γῆς, ἢ νῦν, πραπεῖσαι ὅτι λιταυείαν τὴν περὶ ἡμῶν αὐτῆς τε τῆς πόλεως; Quando in terram conjiciemus coronas aut peplos, niſi nunc, cùm ad preces convertimur & pro nobis & pro urbe?

Cap. 5. verſ. 5. Ἡ ῥίζα Δαβίδ· & cap. 22. 16. ἡ ῥίζα καὶ τὸ γένος τοῦ Δαβίδ] i. e. ὁ ὢν τῆς ῥίζης, ὁ ὢν τοῦ γένους, ὁ ἀπόγονος τοῦ Δαβὶδ, ῥιζογενὴς τοῦ Δαβίδ. Vide Iſai. 11. 1.

Cap. 6. verſ. 9. Vidi ſub Altari animas interfectorum propter verbum Dei] Hîc & in cap. 18. 13. cap. 20. 4. ψυχὴ cadaver ſignificare videtur. Sic & in V. T. ψυχαὶ animas non tantùm Perſonas denotare, ſed & Cadavera, notum eſt. Pſal. 16. 10. Act. 2. 31. Ezech. 44. 25. apud LXX. Levit. 19. 28. & alibi.

Verſ. 11. Et datæ ſunt ſingulis ſtolæ albæ] Vide annot. ad cap. 7. v. 14.

Verſ. 14. Et omnes Montes locis ſuis emoti ſunt] Quære, Annon Montes referri poſſunt ad loca Idolis conſecrata, quæ etiam Excelſa nuncupantur, Ezech. 6. & paſſim in V. Teſt. In Midraſh שיר השירים ſuper illud cap. 2. [Ecce venit ſaliens ſuper Montes, ſaltans ſuper Colles] dicitur, Non ſunt Montes hîc niſi עבודה זרה Idololatria. Pet. Galat. l. 5.

Cap. 7. verſ. 9. Poſthac vidi, & ecce Turba multa, quam numerare nemo poterat, ex omni gente, & populis, & tribubus, & linguis, ſtantes ante Thronum & ante Agnum, amicti veſtibus albis, & palmæ in manibus eorum, &c.] De hac Turba Palmifera vide Tertullianum in Scorpiaco adverſus Gnoſticos, cap. 12.—— Nam & rurſus Innumera multitudo albati & palmis victoriæ inſignes revelantur, ſcilicet de Antichristo triumphales: ſicut unus ex Presbyteris, Hi ſunt qui veniunt ex illa preſſura magna, &c.

Verſ. 14. Et dixit mihi, Hi ſunt qui venerunt ex tribulatione magna, [id eſt, de tyrannide Beſtiæ Sanctos tribulantis] & lavârunt veſtes ſuas & dealbârunt, &c. Et v. 17. Abſterget Deus omnem lacrymam ab oculis eorum] Hiſce facem allucebit illud * Achmetis cap. 231. ex Indorum diſciplina, Siquis ablutis ſordibus veſtes mundas induiſſe ſibi viſus fuerit, omni adflictione, ſolicitudine, morbo liberabitur; próque modo loturæ & ipſarum veſtium ſplendoris, gaudio potietur. Item cap. 232. Siquis viſus ſibi fuerit induiſſe veſtes albas & mundas, pro munditiei & albedinis modo ab omni dolore repurgatur.

* Quid ſentiendum ſit de Oniroscriticis hiſce Vide Comment. Apocal. p. 559.

Verſ. 15. De iſtis qui ſtolis albis amiciebantur dicitur, Ideo ſunt ante Thronum Dei, & colunt eum die ac nocte in Templo ejus; putà ut Sacerdotes. Reſpicitur mos Judæorum in probandis & admittendis Sacerdotibus. Vide Comment. Apoc. in cap. 6. 11. & Maiemonidem in Miſchne lib. 8. tit. Biath Biath hammikdaſch, cap. 6. Adde Talmudis Babylonici cod. Middoth, cap. 5. לשכת הגזית בה היתה סנהדרין גדולה של ישראל יושבת ודנה את חכהונה וכהן שנמצא בו פסול לובש שחורין ומתעטף שחורין ויוצא וחולך לו שלא שנמצא בו פסול לובש לבנים ומתעטף לבנים נכנס ומשמש עם אחיו הכהנים. id eſt, In conclavi cæſi lapidis Synedrium Magnum Iſraelis ſedebat, & judicabat Sacerdotes. Sacerdos in quo inveniretur vitium induebat nigras veſtes, ac nigris involvebat ſe, adeóque egreſſus abibat: Cui verò non inerat vitium, induebat albas veſtes, ac albis ſe involvebat, & ingreſſus miniſtrabat cum Sacerdotibus fratribus ſuis.

Cap. 8. verſ. 11. Et nomen Stellæ dicitur Ἄψινθος. ABSINTHIUM] Cæſar ille Heſperius, fundi Romani calamitas, calamitoſus ipſe & aliis calamitatis author, perpetuis ærumnis ab ipſo ortu ſuo exercitus, quo rerum potiunte Imperium Romanum ruit, propter amaram ſortem Abſinthium meritò dicitur. Solent Hebræis Abſtracta pro Concretis uſurpari; ergò hic Abſinthium dicitur pro Abſinthites, i. e. Vir amaritudinum: ut אִישׁ מַכְאֹבוֹת Vir dolorum, Iſai. 53. 3. Vir doloribus expoſitus. Ezech. 28. 24. Et non erit ultrà domui Iſrael ſpinus dolorificus. LXX. σκόλοψ πικρίας. Vulg. Offendiculum amaritudinis. Targ. מָלַךְ מַבְאִישׁ Rex malefaciens. Βαθύπικρος. Summè amarus. Βαθύπικρον, τὸ, appellatur Abſinthium apud Dioſcoridem, l. 3. c. 26.

Cap. 9. verſ. 10.—κέντρα ὃν ταῖς ὐραῖς αὐτῶν] i. e. in poſtremo agmine. Hebr. זָנָב Cauda, indè זָנַב Decaudare. Joſ. 10. 19. וְזַנְּבֶתֶם אוֹתָם Et decaudabitis eos, id eſt, extremos occidetis. Vulg. Extremos quoſque fugientium cædite. Angl. Smite the hindmoſt of them. Deut. 25. 18. וַיְזַנֵּב Et decaudavit [Amalek,] id eſt, in poſtremo agmine cecîdit [Iſraelitas.] Vulg. extremos agminis tui cecîderit. Angl. Smote the hindmoſt of thee. Cauda Locuſtarum (i. e. Saracenorum) eſt poſtremum earum agmen, longiſſiméque à capite Imperii diſſitum. Caput Imperii in Meſopotamia erat; Cauda igitur in Africa & Hiſpania putanda eſt. Ab hac autem Cauda, id eſt, à Saracenis ex Africa & Hiſpaniâ delatis, mirum in modum afflictæ ſunt Provinciæ quæ Romano Patriarchæ, ut propria ejus Diœceſis, ſuberant.

Præceſſit in eodem verſu, Καὶ ἔχουσιν ὐρὰς ὁμοίας σκορπίοις, καὶ κέντρα· Et habebant caudas ſimiles Scorpionibus, & aculeos] Scilicet Scorpionum aculeus in cauda eſt, utì Plin. l. 11. c. 25. Semper cauda in ictu eſt, nullóq; momento meditari ceſſat, nè quando deſit occaſioni: Ferit & obliquo ictu & inflexo.

Cap. 11. verſ. 15. Et ſeptimus Angelus clanxit] Cùm ſeptem ſacerdotes urbem Jericho ſeptem diebus circumiîſſent portantes buccinas arietinas, diéq; ſeptimo ſeptem vicibus, corruit murus ejus, Joſh. 6. ſic & ad clangorem Tubæ ſeptimæ penitus abolebitur quicquid Beſtiæ ſuperſit. Ut Phiala ſeptima conſummationis phiala eſt, proindéq; effusâ hâc phialâ prodit vox magna è Throno dicens, Γέγονε, cap. 16. 17. & Babylon funditus exſcinditur, v. 19. ità & Tuba ſeptima conſummationis Tuba eſt; quare ad hujus Tubæ clangorem in cœlo acclamatum eſt, Facta ſunt Regna hujus mundi Domini noſtri & Chriſti ejus, & regnabit in ſecula ſeculorum. Deſumpta ſunt ex Dan. 7. Idémque omnino eſt Regnum quod Danieli oſtenſum à fine Monarchiarum futurum. Huc pertinet Prophetia Iſaiæ cap. 45. 23. Per me juravi, &c. quòd mihi curvabitur omne genu, jurabit omnis lingua; nempe in magno illo die Judicii, authore Apoſtolo ad Rom. 14. 11. Unde neceſſe eſt (ſi Apoſtolo fides) reliquam prophetiam de gloria Iſraelis, indè à verſu 14, ad idem tempus pertinere, viz. ad ſecundum Chriſti adventum.

Verſ. 18. Καὶ τὰ ἔθνη ὠργίσθησαν, Et iratæ ſunt Gentes] Exod. 15. 14. in Epinicio, ἤκουσαν ἔθνη καὶ ὠργίσθησαν. Gentes in Apocalypſi ſunt Idololatræ & Pſeudochriſtiani. Vide ſuprà annotat. ad c. 2. 7.

Venit tempus mortuorum, ut judicentur] i. e. Tempus ut judicetur cauſa Martyrum occiſorum propter nomen Jeſu. Apocal. 14. 13. οἱ νεκροὶ οἱ ἐν Κυρίῳ ἀποθνήσκοντες, Martyres ſunt Tertulliano lib. de Anima, c. 55.

Verſ. 19. Tunc apertum eſt Templum Dei in cælo, καὶ ὤφθη ἡ κιβωτὸς τῆς διαθήκης, &c. Et viſa eſt Arca Fœderis, &c.] Annon reſeratio illa Templi in Cœlo, quâ ad ſeptimæ Tubæ clangorem Arca Fœderis ibidem conſpiciatur, fit revelatio Chriſti (cujus illa typus eſt) apparentis in nubibus cæli, ut eum conſpiciant qui transfixerunt, Zach. 12. 10. Matth. 24. 30. Apoc. 1. 7? De quo & illud Matth. 23. 39. Non me videbitis ab hoc tempore, donec dicatis, Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini. [Vide Comment. Apocal. ad c. 14. p. 646.]

Cap. 14. verſ. 8. ὅτι ἐκ τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς πορνείας αὐτῆς πεπότικε πάντα τὰ ἔθνη] Θυμὸς hîc (& cap. 18. 3.) Venenum (non Iram) ſignificat, ex uſu Helleniſtico. Scil. Θυμὸς Helleniſtis eſt Venenum, quia חֵמָה, cui reſpondet, ut Iram, ſic quoque Venenum ſignificat. Iſtiuſmodi exempla Helleniſmi paſſim in S. S. occurrunt, ubi Græca vox reſpondens Hebrææ in una ſignificatione, ad alteram ejuſdem, licèt non ſecundùm idioma Græcum, extenditur. אַחֲרִית & עֵקֶב ſignificant & finem & mercedem; hinc τέλος pro mercede ponitur, Rom. 6. 21. 1 Pet. 1. 9. חַיִל plerumque denotat robur, interdum virtutem; hinc ἀρετὴ pro robore, 2 Pet. 1. 3. חַטָּאָה denotat peccatum, aliquando Sacrificium pro peccato; & ſic ἁμαρτία 2 Cor. 5. 21.

Cap. 15. verſ. 2. Habentes κιθάρας τοῦ Θεοῦ, Citharas Dei] i. e. Sacras, quarum in Templo ſolo uſus. Res enim in Templo gerebatur: ſcilicet victores Beſtiæ dum adhuc increpidine Maris ſeu Labri vitrei inſiſtebant, ὀπτάνιον de Beſtia ſuperata cantillabant, habentes citharas Dei, i. e. ſacras. Sic 1 Chron. 16. 42. כְּלֵי שִׁיר הָאֱלֹהִים Inſtrumenta muſica Dei, eodem planè ſenſu. Nam כְּלֵי שִׁיר conſtruenda ſunt quaſi per Maccaph, ut 2 Chron. 7. 6. כְּלֵי־שִׁיר יְהוָה, & cap. 34. 12. Vide etiam Nehem. 12. 36. Amos 6. 5. Alioquin שִׁיר יְהוָה ſignificat quoque canticum ſacrum & in Templo cani ſolitum. 2. Chron. 29. 27. Pſal. 137. 4.

Verſ. 4. Ὅτι πάντα τὰ ἔθνη ἥξουσι καὶ προσκυνήσουσιν ἐνώπιόν σου· ὅτι τὰ δικαιώματά σου ἐφανερώθησαν] כִּי apud Hebræos aliquando, præſertim cùm geminetur, valet Ideo, nempe ſi prius כִּי cauſale fuerit, vel è contrá. Vid. Gen. 22. 16, 17. Jer. 4. 18. & cap. 29. 15, 16. 2 Reg. 13. 7. Eccleſ. 8. 6. Quidni & ὅτι apud Helleniſtas ſimili modo uſurpetur? Verto igitur, Idcirco omnes Gentes venient & adorabunt coram te, quoniam Jura tua manifeſtata ſunt, nempe Te ſolum colendum eſſe.

Cap. 16. verſ. 8.—Et quartus Angelus effudit phialam ſuam in Solem, & datum eſt ei æſtu affligere homines per ignem. Et æſtuaverunt homines æſtu magno] Apomaſar Apoteleſmate 167. Si quis viſus ſibi fuerit à Sole plurimùm aduſtus, pœnam pro modo uſtionis inveniet.

Verſ. 10. Et factum eſt regnum ejus tenebroſum, ἐσκοτωμένη] Vide Iſai. 8. 22. הִנֵּה צָרָה וַחֲשֵׁכָה, Ecce tribulatio & tenebræ. Jer. 13. 16. יָחְשִׁךְ obtenebrâſſet. Targum habet, ſuper vos tribulatio veniet.

Verſ. 14. De Præparatione ad Phialam ultimam (poſt illa verba, εἰς πόλεμον τῆς Ἡμέρας ἐκείνης τῆς μεγάλης τοῦ Θεοῦ τοῦ παντοκράτορος, ad prælium magni illius Diei Dei omnipotentis) dicitur, Ἰδοὺ, ἔρχομαι ὡς κλέπτης, Ecce venio ſicut fur: Id quod in 2 Ep. Petri c. 3. v. 10. perinde invenire eſt, Ἥξει ἡ ἡμέρα Κυρίου ὡς κλέπτης ἐν νυκτὶ, & apud Paulum in 1 Theſſ. 5. 2. Quare cum DIES JUDICII Phialas proximè excipiat, eaſdémque Regnum Sanctorum per mille annos, (nam poſt exciſum Antichriſtum futurum eſt,) neceſſe eſt per Diem iſtum, continuatum & bene longum tempus intelligi.

Cap. 17. verſ. 1.—δεῦξω σοι τὸ κρῖμα τῆς πόρνης τῆς μεγάλης· Oſtendam dam tibi Scelus Meretricis illius magnæ, i. e. Sceleratam illam Meretricem. Hebraiſmus eſt. Quomodo & * Plautus loquitur, Scelus pueri & Scelus viri, pro puero & viro ſceleſtis. Κρῖμα autem aliquando * Culpam ſignificare annotavit Jo. Cameron in Myrothecio ad illud 1 Tim. 5. 12. ἔχυσαι κρῖμα, nempe culpam quatenus χέσιν habet ad pœnam, i. e. reatum. Cui probando adducit Rom. 5. 16. Ex uno (inquit Apoſtolus) eſt κρῖμα εἰς κατάκριμα· ubi abſurda locutio eſſet, ſiquidem idem eſſet κρῖμα & κατάκριμα. Significat igitur κρῖμα peccatum quo contrahitur reatus. His addo 1 Cor. 11. 29. κρῖμα ἑαυτῷ ἐσθίει καὶ πίνει· idem quod verſu 27. ἔνοχος ἔσται τοῦ σώματος καὶ αἵματος τοῦ Κυρίου. Sic & verſ. 34, ni fallor, ἵνα μὴ εἰς κρῖμα συνέρχησθε. Annon & 1 Tim. 3. 6. κρῖμα ἐμβόλῃ; Expende, erat enim Diaboli crimen Superbia. Junius κρῖμα τῆς πόρνης vertit Damnandam meretricem, per Hypallagen, pro πόρνη μεγάλη ἐν κρίματι. Quid ſi ſenſus ſit, Meretricem illam quam ſuprà audîſti damnationis ream, cap. 14. 8. imò in quam damnationis ſententiam executioni datam vidiſti, capite præcedente?

* in Perſ. & Truculent.

* Sic & משפט non tantùm pœnam, ſed & culpam ſignificat, Ezech. 7. 23.

Verſ. 3. Vidi mulierem Beſtiæ inſidentem, &c.] Mulier Beſtiæ inſidens ſeu inequitans exponitur ab Angelo verſ. 18. πόλις ἡ ἔχουσα βασιλείαν. Hâc notione adhibetur Equitandi verbum, Deut. 32. 13. Iſai. 58. 14. Pſal. 45. 5. Proſperare & equita. LXX. κατευοδοῦ καὶ βασίλευε. Chald. Par. למרכב על כרסי מלכותא, ut equites ſuper thronum regni. Scil. Equo vehi poteſtatis Symbolum eſt, eorúmque qui rerum habenas moderantur, utì ex locis hiſce manifeſtum eſt. Vidi mulierem Beſtiæ inequitantem, id eſt, Romam regno ſeu imperio Romano imperantem.

Verſ. 4. Et mulier erat amicta purpurâ & coccino, & inaurata auro & margaritis, &c.] i. e. Induta erat veſtibus Regiis ornatúque Regio; quippe nequaquam ex vulgo Meretrix, ſed Domina & Regina, i. e. Urbs Imperatrix. Vide Eſther. 8. 15. Mardochæus —fulgebat בלבוש מלכות veſte vel indumento regio, hyacinthino viz. & candido, coronam auream portans in capite, & amictu byſſino & purpurâ, בוץ וארגמן. Videſis Dan. 5. 29. totum verſum. Tunc jubente Rege indutus eſt Daniel purpurâ, & circundata eſt torques aurea collo ejus, & prædicatum eſt de eo, quòd haberet poteſtatem Tertius in regno. Joſephus Antiq. l. 10. c. 12. Publicavit daturum ſe ei στρεπτὸν περιαυχένιον χρύσεον καὶ πορφυρᾶν ἐσθῆτα φορεῖν, ὡς οἱ παῤ Χαλδαίων βασιλεῖς, torquem aureum & purpureæ veſtis uſum, quali Chaldæorum Reges utuntur. In 1 Maccab. 8. 14. de Romanis, Et in omnibus iſtis nemo portabat diadema, nec induebatur purpurâ, ut magnificaretur in ea: & cap. 14. 43. de Simone facto Ethnarchâ, —ὅπως περιβάλληται πορφύραν καὶ χρυσοφορῇ· verſ. 44. οὐκ ἐξέσται οὐδενὶ —καὶ περιβάλλεσθαι πορφύραν, καὶ ἐμπορπᾶσθαι πόρπην χρυσῆν. 2 Maccab. 4. 38. Rex Antiochus Andronicum purpurâ (id eſt, Magiſtratûs inſigni) exutum per totam civitatem jubet circumduci. Et quis neſcit Purpuram quoque apud Romanos Imperatorum & Regum inſigne fuiſſe?

Verſ. 10. Septem Capita Βασιλεῖς ἑπτά εἰσιν Septem ſunt Reges] Non Monarchas ſolùm, ſed Summas Reipublicæ Poteſtates nomine Regum intelligit Scriptura: ut vel ex verſ. 18. hujus capitis colligi poteſt. Urbs (inquit) illa magna, quæ habet Regnum ſuper Reges terræ. Super Reges ſolúm? Imò ſuper omnes Democratias, Optimates, Reſpublicas, Summos Magiſtratus & Poteſtates, ſive jure Hæreditario, ſive Succeſſione, ſive Electione fiant. Exinde quoque colligitur non deſignari ſingulares aliquas perſonas, ſed Ordines & Summa Authoritatis & Potentiæ capita; talibus enim Roma imperabat, non ſingularibus tantùm Regum perſonis. Septem igitur Beſtiæ Romanæ Capita (in quibus Conſules, Tribuni, Decemviri, Dictatores, Pontifices) totidem Reges interpretatur Angelus, i. e. tot Summates, penes quos vicibus ſuis Majeſtas erat regnantis Populi Romani.

Quinque ceciderunt] i. e. Mortui ſunt, obierunt diem ſuum. Sic Gen. 25. 18. de Iſmaele dicitur, Ante omnes fratres ſuos cecidit.

Verſ. 14. Hi cum Agno pugnabunt, & Agnus vincet eos, (quoniam Dominus Dominorum eſt & Rex Regum) & qui cum eo ſunt, Vocati, & Electi, & Fideles] i. e. Agnus, & qui cum eo ſunt, Vocati, Electi & Fideles, vincent decem Reges ſeu Cornua Beſtiæ Babylonicæ: Illa enim de Domino Dominorum & Rege Regum per parentheſin cenſeo legenda.

Verſ. 16. Decem cornua—— odio perſequentur Meretricem] Decem Cornua (ſeu Reges) id eſt, aliqua ex illis. Sic cap. 9. 18. Occiſa fuit [τὸ τρίτον τῶν ἀνθρώπων] tertia pars hominum, id eſt, qui ex tertia illa parte fuerant. Judic. 12. 7. Sepultus eſt Jephte in urbibus Gilead, hoc eſt, aliquâ urbium. 2 Chron. 35. 24. Sepultus eſt Joſias in ſepulchris patrum ſuorum, hoc eſt, uno ſeu aliquo ſepulchrorum. Cujuſmodi Ellipſeos paſſim in Sacris Scripturis occurrunt exempla: Pſal. 1. 3. Zach. 9. 9. 1 Sam. 18. 21. Jon. 1. 5. Matth. 27. 44. Luc. 23. 39. Joan. 6. 45.

* Tertul. adv. Judæos c. 9. Sic & Babylon apud Joannem noſtrum Romanæ Urbis figuram portat, proinde & magna & Regno ſuperbæ & Sanctorum debellatricis. Idem habet l. 3. adv. Marcionem.

Verſ. 18. Mulier quam vidiſti, eſt Urbs illa magna] Sic verſ. 5. Babylon illa magna*, ut & cap. 16. 19. cap. 18. 2, 10, 21. Verſ. 1. hujus cap. Meretrix illa magna, ut & cap. 19. 2. Paſſim in hoc libro Urbs illa magna, cap. 11. 8. cap. 14. 8. c. 16. 19. c. 18. 16, 19, 21. Quocunque enim nomine Roma appellatur, ſemper hoc titulo Magnæ inſignitur. Dicta eſt autem Urbs magna ἡ πόλις ἡ μεγάλη, non tam quantitatis intuitu, quàm quòd aliarum Urbium Caput & Regina eſſet, juxta id quod ſequitur, ἡ ἔχουσα βασιλείαν ὅτι τῶν βασιλέων τῆς γῆς, quæ regnum habet ſuper reges terræ. Apud Athenæum Roma dicitur Ἐπιτομὴ τῆς οἰκουμένης, & paulò pòſt Οὐρανόπολις. Vid. Athenæum lib. 1. Ἐπιλείποι δ' ἂν γε ἡμέρα μία ἐξαριθμέμενον τὰς ἐν τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἠρανοπόλει Ῥώμῃ ἀριθμουμένας πόλεις, ἀλλὰ πᾶσαι αἱ κατὰ τὸν ἐνιαυτὸν ἀριθμούμεναι, διὰ τὸ πλῆθος· Recenſere me conantem quot urbes intra Romæ, Urbis illius Cæleſtis, ambitum contineantur, ob earum multitudinem non unica dies tantùm deficeret, ſed quotquot annum conficiunt. Vide Caſaub. in locum. Ex hiſce aliiſque Romæ appellationibus [viz. apud Cic. Lux orbis terrarum; Mart. Heracl. Ἄστρον τὶ κοινὸν τῆς ὅλης Οἰκουμένης· Jul. Front. Regina & Domina orbis terrarum, &c.] videre eſt quàm meritò dicatur Urbs illa magna, utpote quæ regnum habet ſuper reges terræ.

Cap. 18. verſ. 2, 3. Ἐκραξεν ἐν ἰσχυῖ φωνῇ μεγάλῃ, λέγων, Ἔπεσε Βαβυλὼν—ὅτι ἐκ τοῦ οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς πορνείας αὐτῆς πεπότικε πάντα τὰ ἔθνη] Præco olim edebat cauſam ſupplicii. Inter cædendum, præconem cauſam dicere ſolenne fuit. Vide quæ Pontanus part. 3. p. 183. ex Cujacio habet, iſque ex Ambroſio, Petronio, Suida, Platone, Joſepho. [De duplici Babylonis interitu vid. Comment. Apocal. ad cap. 11. pag. 608.]

Verſ. 23.—ἐν τῇ φαρμακείᾳ σου ἐπλανήθησαν πάντα τὰ ἔθνη] Vox illa φαρμακεία Veneficium, & οἴνου τοῦ θυμοῦ τῆς πορνείας cap. 14. idem deſignant, viz. amatorium virus ſeu philtrum, ſeu ſpiritualis ſcortationis illecebram, ex conſuetudine meretricum philtris amorem conciliantium. Unde Meretrix illa magna dicitur (cap. 17. 4.) tenere poculum aureum in manu ſua plenum immunditiâ ſcortationis ſuæ. Obſervandum porrò, quòd alibi in S. Scr. cum Scortatione jungitur φαρμακεία. 2 Reg. 9. 22. αἱ πορνεῖαι Ἰεζαβὴλ τῆς μητρός σου καὶ τὰ φάρμακα αὐτῆς τὰ πολλά· & Nahum. 3. 4. de Ninive, Propter multitudinem fornicationum meretricis decoræ, ἡγουμένης φαρμάκων בעלת כשפים, vendentis gentes in fornicationibus ſuis, & familias ἐν τοῖς φαρμάκοις αὐτῆς.

Cap. 19. verſ. 4. Amen, Halleluja] Confer 1 Paral. 16. 36. item Nehem. 5. 13. Simile reperitur ad finem Pſal. 106. Benedictus Dominus Deus Iſrael à ſe-

à ſeculo in ſeculum; & dicet omnis populus, Amen, Hallelujah, אָמֵן הַלְלוּיָהּ; uti ad finem Pſal. 41.—וְאָמֵן וְאָמֵן. Obſervandum autem utroque loco, ubi hæc formula adhibetur, geminâ acclamatione benedictionem claudi; Pſal. 41. duplici Amen, hîc τῷ Amen Hallelujah.

Verſ. 7. Quia venerunt nuptiæ Agni, & uxor ejus præparavit ſeipſam] Hæc apparatio Sponſæ quid aliud eſſe videatur quàm illa tot ſeculis exſpectata converſio Iſraelis? Gentes olim & à multis ſeculis Chriſto deſponſatæ fuerunt; Judæi idcirco ſunt qui adhuc Agni Sponſa futuri exſpectantur. Certè Judæi olim (juxta parabolam Matth. 22.) ad nuptias Filii Regis invitati, venire recusârunt; nunc verò tandem prompti & parati accurrent; ἡ γυνὴ αὐτοῦ ἡτοίμασεν ἑαυτήν. Et cap. 21. 2. Ἱερουσαλὴμ καινὴν—ἡτοιμασμένην, ὡς νύμφην κεκοσμημένην τῷ ἀνδρὶ αὐτῆς. Videſis Tertull. adverſ. Marcionem lib. 5. cap. 10. Chriſtus præputiati Sacerdotii Pontifex cognituram ſe quandoque Circumciſionem & Abrahæ gentem, cùm ultimò advenerit, acceptatione & benedictione dignabitur. Vid. & Juſtin. Mart. dial. cum Tryphone Jud. p. 259.

Verſ. 8. Byſſinum enim juſtificationes ſunt Sanctorum] δικαιώματα Juſtificationes, Juſtitiæ, Juſta facta, ſeu Bona opera, Piſcat. Per Byſſinum ſplendorem * Aretas in locum intelligi vult Virtutes. R. D. Kimchi ad Eſa. 65. 13. haud diſſimili notione illud Eccleſ. 9. 8. interpretatur; שלמה אמר בחכמתו בְּכָל־עֵת יִהְיוּ בְגָדֶיךָ לְבָנִים. אלו חשובה ומעשים טובים Solomon dixit pro ſapientia ſua, IN OMNI TEMPORE CANDIDA SINT VESTIMENTA TUA, hoc eſt, Reſipiſcentia & bona opera.

* Τῷ λαμπρῷ διὰ τῦ βυσσίνου δηλωθέντος, τί ἂν ἄλλο ἐννοηθείη, ἢ αἱ ἀρεταί;

Atq; ad iſtum locum Solomonis, R. S. Jarchi, הִתְקֵן עַצְמְךָ בְּכָל שָׁעָה בְּמַעֲשֶׂה טוֹב, Para ſeu orna teipſum quâvis horâ bonis operibus. Atque eodem ſenſu acceptum priſcis interpretibus aſtruit Aben Ezra, nempe de operibus impollutis, שלא יהיו מנאלים.

Verſ. 13. Et veſtitus erat veſte aſpersâ ſanguine] Scil. ſanguine uvarum. Ex myſticis priſcorum Cabaliſtarum propoſitionibus apud Jo. Picum Mirand. Galat. & Reuchlinum una eſt, Veſtimentum Meßiæ rubebit.

Et vocatur nomen ejus VERBUM DEI] i. e. Ipſe eſt Verbum illud Dei. Ex notione Hebræorum, Prophetarum præſertim, vocari idem quandoque valeat quod eſſe vel exſiſtere, ſed eximio quodam modo. Sic Iſai. 9. v. 6. de Chriſto, Vocabitur nomen ejus Admirabilis, Conſiliarius, Deus fortis, Pater futuri ſeculi, Princeps pacis; id eſt, erit hæc omnia. Vide Jer. 23. 6. Zach. 6. 12. Geneſ. 21. 12. In Iſaac vocabitur tibi ſemen, id eſt, erit. Iſa. 56. 7. Domus mea domus orationis יִקָּרֵא vocabitur; pro quo Luc. 19. Domus orationis ἔσται, eſt, erit, habebitur. Simili notione iiſdem Hebræis דבר τὸ ῥῆμα eſt τὸ πρᾶγμα.

Verſ. 15. Is eſt qui calcat torcular vini furoris Dei Omnipotentis] Calcatio vindemialis in Scriptura parabolica cladem atrocem & cruentam denotat. Sic & Meßis nomen ſtragem & excidium. Jer. 51. 33. Joelis 3. 13. * [Vide Comment. Apocalypt. ad cap. 14. verſ. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19.]

* Iſai. 63. 3. Thren. 1. 15. Targum. ecce.

CAP. 20. verſ. 4. Et Sancti vixerunt & regnârunt cum Chriſto mille annis] Aliud eſt Regnum quo Chriſtus in Sanctis ſuis regnat, aliud quo Sancti regnant cum Chriſto. Illud enim toto Beſtiæ tempore fuit, hoc nequaquam. Verum quidem eſt Chriſtum jam indè à primo ſuo adventu Regnum inchoâſſe, illúdque Regnum Eccleſiam eſſe. Interim & illud haud minùs certum eſt, Regnum aliquod in Scripturis promitti Adventûs ſecundi proprium, quod & Regnum κατ' ἐξοχὴν dicitur, adhúcque implendum ſupereſt: ut Dan. 7. 14. Luc. 19. 11, 15. Luc. 21. 31. 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. 2 Tim. 4. 1. Vide Authorem Quæſt. & Reſponſ. ad Orthod. apud Juſtinum Mart. quæſt. 120. Βασιλείαν Θεοῦ οἶδεν ἡ γραφὴ ὀνομάζειν, ὃ τὴν ὲ τῳ ἀνάϛασιν ἁπλῶς, ἀλλὰ τῳ μὴ τῳ ἀνάϛασιν ἀποκατάϛασιν, ὃν ἡ γίνεται κολαζομένων τε καὶ δοξαζομένων ἡ διαίρεσις.

Verſ. 6. Δεύτερ. θάνατ.] Hæc mortis ſecundæ nomenclatura non à Joanne primùm uſurpata, ſed ex Magiſtrorum Judaicorum uſu deſumpta eſt; ſic nimirum ab illis dicta, quòd eâ impii, qui à mortuis reſurrexerint, quaſi ſecundò morituri ſint. In hoc libro quater occurrit δεύτερος θάνατος, cap. 2. 11. hoc cap. 20. 6, 14. cap. 21. 8. Apud Chaldæum Paraph. ſæpius habetur מוֹתָא תִנְיָנָא mors ſecunda: Deut. 33. 6. Vivat Reuben, & non moriatur; Chal. Paraph. addit מותא תנינא morte ſecundâ. Pſal. 49. 11. Quia videt חַכָּמִים יָמוּתוּ quòd ſapientes moriantur; Chald. Par. Quoniam videbit ſapientes improbos, qui moriuntur מיתוּתָא תנינא morte ſecundâ, & adjudicantur Gehennæ. Iſa. 65. 6. pro וְשִׁלַּמְתִּי עַל חֵיקָם & rependam in ſinum eorum, Chald. Par: ſubſtituit, & tradam לְמוֹתָא תִנִינָא morti ſecundæ corpora eorum. Eodem cap. verſ. 15. Occîdet te, Targum addit מותא תנינא morte ſecundâ. Jer. 51. 39, 57. pro וְיָשְׁנוּ שְׁנַת עוֹלָם & dormiant ſomnum ſempiternum, Chald. Par. habet, & morientur מותא תנינא morte ſecundâ. Idem in Iſai. 22. 14.

Verſ. 8. Καὶ ἐξελεύσεται πλανῆσαι τὰ ἔθνη τὰ ἐν ταῖς τέσσαρσι γωνίαις τῆς γῆς, τὸν Γὼγ καὶ τὸν Μαγώγ, &c.] [Videſis Conjecturam de Gogo & Magogo, pag. 713.]

Verſ. 15. Ἐβλήθη εἰς τὴν λίμνην τοῦ πυρὸς] Alibi θεῖον additur, ut cap. 19. 20. εἰς τὴν λίμνην τοῦ πυρὸς τὴν καιομένην ἐν τῷ θείῳ: cap. 21. 8. ἐν τῇ λίμνῃ τῇ καιομένῃ πυρὶ καὶ θείῳ. Reſpicit lacum Sodomiticum ſeu Aſphaltitem tanquam Ignis æterni figuram gerentem. Judæ v. 7. Sicut Sodoma & Gomorrha, & finitimæ civitates, &c. factæ ſunt exemplum, πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκην ὑπέχουσαι, ignis æterni pœnam ſuſtinentes; potiùs, ignis æterni ſimilitudinem ſeu imaginem ſuſtinentes. Nam ſolet δίκην ſignificare inſtar, more, &c. Cúmque Roma ſit Sodoma ſpiritualis, cap. 11: ſimiliter atque illa in lacum ignis & ſulphuris conjicienda eſt, cap. 19. 20. Videtur & cap. 21. 8. ad Sodomæ peccata reſpici, δειλοῖς δὲ καὶ ἀπίστοις καὶ ἐβδελυγμένοις καὶ φονεῦσι καὶ πόρνοις — Τὸ μέρος αὐτῶν ἐν τῇ λίμνῃ τῇ καιομένῃ πυρὶ καὶ θείῳ. Confer 2 Pet. 2. verſ. 6. cum verſ. 9. ὑπόδειγμα μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν — οἶδε Κύριος — ἀδίκους εἰς ἡμέραν κρίσεως κολαζομένους τηρεῖν. De Sodomæ excidio ſermo eſt, poſuiſſe illud Deum ὑπόδειγμα μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν, i. e. κολάσεως μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν — ut qui novit ἀδίκους ἐν ἡμέρᾳ κρίσεως κολαζομένους τηρεῖν.

Cap. 21. verſ. 2. Et vidi civitatem ſanctam, novam Jeruſalem, &c.] Euſebius l. 3. de vita Conſtantini, c. 32. ſatis ineptè opinabatur Templum illud magnificum Servatoris à Conſtantino Hieroſolymis exſtructum, fuiſſe Καινὴν καὶ νέαν Ἱερουσαλὴμ, ἧς πάλαι μάκροι λόγοι μυρία δι' ἐνθέου πνεύματος θεσπίζοντες ἀνόμνυσι, Novam illam Jeruſalem quam tot retro ſeculis Prophetarum oracula prædixerant, &c. Et paulò antè — Ad illud ſalutare Chriſti monumentum (Sepulchrum intelligit) ἡ νία κατεσκεύαζετο Ἱερουσαλὴμ ἀντιπρόσωπος τῇ πάλαι βουμένῃ. Sed miſsâ hâc ineptâ opinione, Nova Jeruſalem eſt civitas quam Abrahamum, Iſaacum & Jacobum exſpectâſſe ſcribit Apoſtolus ad Hebræos, cap. 11. 10. Τὴν τοὺς θεμελίους ἔχουσαν πόλιν, ἧς τεχνίτης καὶ δημιουργὸς ὁ Θεός. [Vide plura de nova Jeruſalem in Clav. Apocal. Part. 2. Synchron. 6, &7.]

Verſ. 10. Et oſtendit mihi Civitatem MAGNAM, ſanctam JERUSALEM. Videſis ſuprà Annot. ad cap. 17. 18. de BABYLONE MAGNA.

* Civitas magna. In tota Apocalypſi, nulli præter Babylonem ſeu Romam urbi * titulus iſte tribuitur, niſi, demum poſt excidium Babylonis, novæ iſti Jeruſalem de cælo deſcenſæ, in cujus lumine deinceps ambularent Gentes.

Verſ. 14. — Nomina duodecim Apoſtolorum Agni] [De numero Duodenario denario vide Comment. Apocal. ad cap. 7. pag. 564. & ad cap. 13. verſ. 17. pag. 634, 635.]

Verſ. 19 Et fundamenta muri Civitatis omni lapide pretioſo ornata] Deſcriptio petita eſt ex Iſai. 54. 12. Sternam carbunculo lapides ejus, (id eſt, pavimentum) fundabo te in ſapphiris, &c.

Verſ. 23. Et Civitas non eget Sole, &c.] Deſcriptio Novæ Jeruſalem, ab hoc verſu ad finem Capitis, tota deſumpta eſt ex Iſaiæ cap. 60.

Apocal. 21.	Iſai. 60.
Verſ. 23. Et civitas non eget Sole neque Lunâ, ut luceant in ea; nam gloria Dei illuminavit eam.	Verſ. 19. Non erit tibi amplius Sol in lucem per diem, nec ſplendor Lunæ illuminabit te; ſed erit tibi Dominus in lucem ſempiternam, & Deus tuus in gloriam tuam.
Verſ. 24. Et ambulabunt Gentes in lumine ejus, & Reges terræ afferent gloriam ſuam & honorem in illam.	Verſ. 3. Et ambulabunt Gentes in lumine tuo, & Reges in ſplendore ortûs tui. Verſ. 11.—ut afferantur ad te opes Gentium, & Reges earum adducantur. Verſ. 10. —& Reges eorum miniſtrabunt tibi.
Verſ. 25. Et portæ ejus non claudentur die.	Verſ. 11. Et aperientur portæ tuæ jugiter, die ac nocte non claudentur.
Verſ. 26. Et afferent gloriam & honorem Gentium in illam.	Verſ. 5. Quoniam ad te converteture multitudo (vel copia) maris, & opes Gentium ad te venient. Verſ. 6.—aurum & thus deferent— Verſ. 9.—argentum eorum & aurum eorum cum eis.
Verſ. 27. Non intrabit in eam quicquam immundum, aut faciens abominationem—	Verſ. 21. Populus tuus omnes juſti: & Cap. 52. 1.—non veniet in te, Jeruſalem Civitas Sancta, incircumciſus & immundus.

Verſ. 24. Καὶ τὰ ἔθνη σωζομένων ἐν τῷ φωτὶ αὐτῆς περιπατήσουσι, &c.] Σώζω & διασώζω apud LXX reſpondent verbo שָׂרִיד reliquus fuit, ſuperſtes fuit, adeò ut non niſi tribus in locis aliter reddatur. Τὰ ἔθνη τῶν σωζομένων ſunt illi ex Gentilium reliquiis quos Diluvium ignis non inundaverit. Vide Iſai. 66. 19. Et mittam ex iis qui ſalvati fuerint (פְּלִיטִים σεσωσμένους) ad gentes Tarſhiſh & Pul— & annunciabunt gloriam meam in Gentibus. Intelliguntur utrobique, ni fallor, qui cladem illam in Chriſti ἐπιφανείᾳ futuram evaſerint, quando venturus eſt ad hoſtes Eccleſiæ ſuæ perdendos. Iſai. 45. 20. Congregamini & venite, & accedite ſimul qui ſalvati eſtis ex Gentibus. [פְּלֵיטֵי הַגּוֹיִם, LXX. Σωζόμενοι ἀπὸ τῶν ἐθνῶν.] Agitur de univerſali vocatione Gentium, ut apparet ex v. 22. Convertimini ad me, & ſalvi eritis, omnes fines terræ: Quia ego Deus, & non eſt alius. V. 23. Mihi curvabitur omne genu, & jurabit omnis lingua, &c.

Verſ. 26. Φέρουσι τὴν δόξαν καὶ τὴν τιμὴν τῶν ἐθνῶν εἰς αὐτήν] Scil. in Novam Jeruſalem. τὴν δόξαν καὶ τὴν τιμὴν, gloriam & honorem, i. e. opes & divitias, munus ſeu honorarium. Quâ mente eſt illud 1 Tim. 5. 17. διπλῆς τιμῆς ἀξιούσθωσαν, duplici honore, i. e. honorario, digni habeantur.

Verſ. 27. Faciens abominationem & mendacium] Similiter v. 8. Idololatræ & mendaces: cap. 22. 15. Idololatræ, & omnis qui amat & facit mendacium. Scil. omnis Idololatra mendax eſt, *cùm pro Deo colat quod non eſt Deus: Unde in hiſce locis [Idololatræ & mendaces, ſeu facientes mendacium] ὁμοπαραλλήλως ſeu tanquam Synonyma poni videntur. Similiter

* Rom. 1. 25. Commutârunt veritatem Dei in mendacium; Idola &c.

Idola dicuntur mendacia. Vide Amos 2. 4. Seduxerunt eos כִּזְבֵיהֶם mendacia ipſorum: Vulgat. Idola. Confer Iſai. 28. 15. Jerem. 16. 19, &c.

* Vide Comment. Apocal. pag. 602, 603.

Cap. 22. v. 2. Ἐν μέσῳ τῆς πλατείας αὐτῆς, καὶ τοῦ ποταμοῦ ἐντεῦθεν καὶ ἐντεῦθεν, ξύλον ζωῆς —] Nequaquam videtur * πλατεῖα hoc loco pro civitatis Foro ſumi, utpote in quo arbores plantari non poterant, cùm ex auro ſolido fuiſſe dicatur, cap. 21. v. 21. At in hujus πλατείας medio ξύλον ζωῆς ποιοῦν καρποὺς δώδεκα naſcitur. Cap. 2. 7. mentio fit τοῦ ξύλου τῆς ζωῆς ὅ ἐστιν ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ παραδείσου τοῦ Θεοῦ. Ergò neceſſe eſt, ſi huc ſpectet deſcriptio, τὸν πλατείαν, de qua hîc ſermo, eſſe ipſam Paradiſum, utpote in cujus quoque medio eſſe dicitur ξύλον ζωῆς Arbor vitæ. Sin hoc fuerit, πλατεῖα pro alveo Fluminis (utì Prov. 8. 26. חוצות, Flumina Targum & Vulg. & Prov. 5. 16. ברחבות, LXX εἰς πλατείας, Vulg. in plateis aquas tuas divide) ſumi nequit, quin potiùs pro patente ſeu lato quodam ſpatio quod Fluvius utrinq; ambiret. Cúmq; unius tantùm Arboris ſit mentio, dici non poteſt eam tum in medio tum utrinq; ad Fluminis ripam creſcere, ſed duntaxat in medio πλατείας. Ut ſenſus ſit, Ἐν μέσῳ τῆς πλατείας αὐτῆς, &c. In medio planitiei ipſius, fluviique planitiem utrinque alluentis (ſeu præterlabentis, ſeu cingentis,) Arbor vitæ, &c. Fuit enim Paradiſus quoque Edenis planities, hinc Euphrate, illinc Tigri intercepta: Vel, In medio Planitiei Flumine utrinque intercepta, Arbor vitæ, &c.

Πλατείας αὐτῆς, & verſ. 3. Θρόνος — τοῦ ἀρνίου ἐν αὐτῇ] Quid ſi hîc genus fœmininum [αὐτῆς & αὐτῇ] uſurpetur abſoluté? Sic Hebræis ſolet, ut neutrum Latinis: ut Pſal. 27. 4. אַחַת Unam petii à Domino, אוֹתָהּ Eam requiram, pro unum, id. Pſal. 118. 23. A Domino מֵאֵת יְהוָה נִפְלָאת facta eſt hæc, הִיא & ea mirabilis, &c. pro factum hoc, &c. LXX. priore loco μίαν, ταύτην· poſteriore αὕτη, θαυμαστή, & ità citatur Matt. 21. 42.

Vel forſan αὐτῆς & αὐτῇ referantur ad intellectum, & ſubintelligatur χώρα vel iſtiuſmodi. Hujuſmodi Enallagen obſervat Buxtorfius Theſ. Gram. pag. 414. ubi etiam commodè affert exemplum de Paradiſo terreſtri, Gen. 2. 15. בְּגַן עֵדֶן לְעָבְדָהּ: Senſu congruit, inquit, pronomen [ה־] non cum antecedente maſculino גַּן, ſed ſynonymo נָוֶה, quod fœmininum. Ego potiùs ſenſu ad אֲדָמָה referrem, quia ſuprà dicebatur v. 5. וְאָדָם אַיִן לַעֲבֹד אֶת הָאֲדָמָה. Ità c. 4. 2. & 11.

Vel αὐτῆς ſumi poteſt demonſtrativè, non relativè, ut ſit Ἐν μέσῳ πλατείας αὐτῆς, In medio ipſius plateæ. Sic αὐτὸς ſumitur Matth. 3. 4. Marc. 12. 36, 37. Rom. 8. 21.

Ξύλον ζωῆς, Arbor Vitæ —— καὶ τὰ φύλλα τοῦ ξύλου εἰς θεραπείαν τῶν ἐθνῶν] De Paradiſo immortalitatis etiam mentio in lib. 4. Eſdræ cap. 7. ver. 53. Quid prodeſt nobis, ſi promiſſum eſt nobis immortale tempus, nos autem mortalia opera egimus? —— Et quoniam repoſita ſunt nobis habitacula ſanitatis & ſecuritatis, nos verò malè converſati ſumus? —— Et quoniam oſtendetur Paradiſus, cujus fructus incorruptus perſeverat, in quo eſt ſecuritas & medela, nos verò non ingrediemur? &c. Simile eſt hîc in Apocalypſi de medela, cùm dicitur, Et folia ligni εἰς θεραπείαν ad medelam Gentium: Ad ſecuritatem pertinet illud in ſequenti verſu, viz.

Verſ. 3. Et omne maledictum non erit ampliùs] Adde Eccleſiaſtic. c. 19. v. 18. Γνῶσις ἐντολῶν Κυρίου παιδεία ζωῆς· οἱ δὲ ποιοῦντες τὰ ἀρεστὰ αὐτῷ ἀθανασίας κλῆρον [id eſt, ξύλον ζωῆς] καρπῶν. Vulgatus non habet.

Verſ. 16. Ἡ ῥίζα καὶ τὸ γένος τοῦ Δαβὶδ] Vide ſuprà annotat. ad cap. 5. verſ. 5.

Verſ. 20. Ἔρχομαι ταχύ, Venio citò] Eadem locutio quæ ſuprà verſ. 7, & 12. cap. 3. 11. cap. 2. 5, 16. Similiter ἔρχομαι ὡς κλέπτης, de phiala ſeptima, cap. 16. 15. Vid. Luc. 18. 8. ἐν τάχει, id eſt, feſtinanter. LXX. reddunt αὐθημερόν. Zeph. 1. 18. Dan. 6. 19. ἐν αὐθημερὸν ἦλθεν. Deut. 16. 3.

16. 3. Σπυδὴ nihil aliud quàm festinatio. LXX. Thren. 4. 6. רֶגַע momentum vertunt σπυδήν. Ναὶ, ἔρχομαι ταχὺ, Ἰδὲ, ἔρχομαι ταχύ· Etiam venio citò, Ecce venio citò. Vulg. in vers. 5. velociter. Benjamin Tudelensis pag. 129. de Judæis in Germania degentibus, Si hospes accedat, eo delectantur, eique convivium dant, dicentes, Lætamini fratres nostri, ישועת השם כהרף עין Nam Dei salus ictum oculi celeritate æquabit.

ΑΝΤΙΣΤΟΙΧΑ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΑ.

Bestia Decemcornupeta, seu Regnum Decacorne Apostaticum. } Regnum Sanctorum.

Pseudo-propheta Ἀριθμὸς, Regni caput. } Christus Agnus ille verus, Rex Regum & Dominus dominantium.

Babylon Meretrix. } Nova Hierusalem.
Scortum Pseudo-prophetæ. } Sponsa Agni.
Metropolis Regni Ἀποστασίας, quâcum fornicantur Reges terræ. } Metropolis Regni Sanctorum, in cujus lumine ambulabunt Gentes.

CHAP. XII.

The Brief Meaning or Summary Exposition of the Apocalyps.

The Stage of the Apocalyptical Visions, Chap. 4.

GOD sitting in Majesty upon the Throne of his Temple, according to the pattern of his ancient encamping with Israel in the Wilderness, [Numb. 1. 52, 53. & ch. 2. 3, &c.] His Throne, the Tabernacle, stood in the midst: Next pitched the Priests and Levites, round about it: Behind them, to the four quarters of Heaven, encamped the four Standards of Israel, three Tribes to a Standard; and each Standard had his Ensign, which though the Scriptures particularly describe not, yet the Jews by ancient Tradition do. The Standard of Judah on the East-side of the Tabernacle had for his Ensign a Lion; the Standard of Ephraim on the West, an Oxe; the Standard of Reuben upon the South, a Man; the Standard of Dan on the North, an Eagle. [See Chazkuni on Numb. 3. Aben Ezra on Numb. 2.] The truth of this Tradition may be confirmed by the Cherubims four Faces * in Ezekiel of the same likeness, signifying that he who rode upon them was Jehovah, the Lord of the four Standards of Israel: where also is easy to be gathered (by the Cherubims and Ezekiel's posture in that Vision) toward which quarter of the Heaven each Face looked. The like Faces, I suppose, the other of the Cherubims had, even those in the Temple. (See Ezek. 41.) Even as the Chariots and Horses of Princes and Potentates carry upon them the Insignia of their Masters atchievements; so do the Cherubims here of the Lord God of Israel. And of these Four Animalia, the Ensigns of the four Standards, some have expounded that of Psal. 68. 11. which Hierom turns juxta Hebraicam veritatem, * Animalia tua habitaverunt in ea, id est, in hæreditate tua. A sense not improbable, the Psalm speaking directly of God's marching

* Not four Heads, as some conceive, but four Faces on one Head; the Man's face being the forward Face.

* The Lxx. τὰ ζῶά σου. Hebr. חיתך.

ing before his people in the wilderneſs: Yet we tranſlate it much otherwiſe.

See now whether God's Seſſion in the Apocalyps be not in every part accommodated to this his Encamping in the Wilderneſs.

* Ch 4. 5. 1. The Throne pitched is the Temple, inſinuated 1. by the * Seven Lamps burning before it, like the Candleſtick of ſo many Lamps in the

* Verſ. 6. Tabernacle: 2. by the * Glaſſy and Cryſtal Sea; not the Ocean, but the great waſhing Laver which in Solomon's Temple was call'd a Sea; but there of braſs, here of more tranſparent metall. And yet ſome alluſion may be unto the Laver in the Tabernacle, which is ſaid Exod. 38. 8. to be made of the Looking-glaſſes of the women which aſſembled at the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation. See the Temple called a Throne, Eſay 6. 1. Jer. 17. 12. Ezek. 43. 7. And ſuch the whole Apocalyps ſuppoſeth the Throne to be in this Seſſion. How come we elſe to have Souls under an Altar, chap. 6. 9. a golden Altar of Incenſe before the Throne, ch. 8. 3. four Horns of the golden Altar before God, ch. 9. 13. the Temple, Courts and Altar to be meaſured, ch. 11. 1. the Ark of the Teſtament ſeen in the Temple, verſ. 19. Angels coming out of the Temple, ch. 14. 15, 17, 18. the Harpers upon the brim of the Glaſſy Sea or Laver, chaunting a *Song of Deliverance from the Beaſt, as being but newly cleanſed, and yet as ſoon as out of the water a-ſinging, when not yet come off from the Laver, ch. 15. 2. Temple of the Tabernacle of the Teſtimony opened in Heaven, verſ. 5. Temple filled with ſmoke from the glory of God, (as the Temple and Tabernacle were at their dedication) verſ. 8. But moſt invincibly manifeſt ch. 16. 17. where a voice comes out of the Temple of Heaven, from the Throne, ſaying, It is done!

* The Song of the Reformed Churches all the time the Vials are pouring upon the Beaſt.

* Verſ. 4. 2. * Round about this Throne and next unto it ſit 24. crowned Presbyters, repreſenting the Paſtors of the Churches, which anſwer to the Prieſts and Levites about the Tabernacle, and their number alludes to their 24. Courſes.

* Verſ. 6. 3. Laſtly and outmoſt we have the * Four Beaſts, ſignifying the Church in the four Quarters of the world, and anſwering to the four Standards of Iſrael, diſtinguiſhed by the ſame Beaſts in their ſeveral Enſigns. Which Beaſts are here ſaid to be in * the midſt of the Throne and round about the Throne, that is, diametrally placed round about the Throne. For ſo muſt ἐν μέσῳ be underſtood, quaſi ἐν διαμέτρῳ: elſe it will make an impoſſible ſenſe.

* See the Author's clearer explication of ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ θρόνου καὶ ἐν κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου, upon Lud. de Dieu's Letter to him, pag. 707.

And ſo will the ſuppoſed Solœciſm in the Greek, verſ. 9 and 10, in the words δώσουσι, ποιοῦσι and προσκυνήσουσι, be avoided, if the words be taken not as a Narration of what S. John ſaw the four Beaſts and the Elders then to doe, but what their Office was to doe, and what they would doe afterward as occaſion required in the progreſs of the Viſions; namely, As often as the four Wights had occaſion to give glory and thanks unto God, the 24 Elders ſhould fall down before him that ſat upon the Throne, &c.

This was the Stage whither S. John was called to be a Spectator, and where and whence he ſaw his Viſions.

The Interpretation of the Seven Seals.

As Daniel in his Prophecy carries the Fates of the Church along with the State of the Empires and Kingdoms under which it lived; ſo doth S. John here: the Firſt Prophecy [The Seals] containing Fata Imperii, what ſhould befall the Empire; the Second [The Book opened] Statum Eccleſiæ, the Fates of the Church, untill both do meet in one in Eccleſia regnante, when all the Kingdoms of the world ſhall become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of his Chriſt.

Fata

Fata Imperii, the argument of the Seals, are the ſucceſſive States and Changes of the Roman Kingdom for the times thereof then yet remaining. The Firſt Six Seals diſtinguiſhing the times preceding its Fall by the Characters of Six predominant Tempers. The Seventh is the Climacterical Seal, ſounding the warlike alarme to the Empire's Ruine by Seven ſucceſſive and languiſhing blows, ſignified by Seven Trumpets.

The Firſt predominant Character which befalls the Empire is of Conqueſt, when Chriſt began to ſubdue the ſubjects thereof by the Sword of the Goſpel: Of which the Firſt Beaſt gives notice, becauſe the Actours, Chriſt and his Apoſtles, came from his Quarter, ab Oriente. SEAL 1. Chap. 6. 2.

Aliter.

If the beginning of the Seals be from the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, then may this Firſt Seal be expounded of Political Conqueſt: Foraſmuch as the Empire, after the death of Nero, being in extreme danger of diſſolution, was again not onely reſtored anew but much enlarged by Veſpaſian, Titus, &c. And ſo the Firſt Beaſt gives notice at the opening thereof, becauſe the Epocha of this conquering State is Excidium Hieroſolymorum, an Oriental action, and therefore of his Quarter.

The Second predominant Temper is of Slaughter and Maſſacres in the Empire; as happened in the Bellum Judaicum under Trajan and Adrian, & poſtea in Bello Marcomannico. The Index is the Second Beaſt; becauſe the firſt of thoſe Emperours which began and managed the Times of this Temper was Trajan, a Spaniard, of the Second Beaſt's Quarter, ab Occidente. SEAL 2. Verſ. 4.

3. The Third State was remarkable for eſtabliſhment of Equity, & procuratio rei frumentariæ & annonariæ in behalf of the City of Rome. The Index when this time began is the Third Beaſt, the firſt of the Emperours of this State belonging to his Quarter; Septimius Severus, Afer, Imperator à meridie. Eutropius, Solus ex omni memoria & antea & poſt ex Africa Imperator. Moſt interpret this Seal of Famine; but Hiſtory affordeth not an Event anſwerable. By Libra therefore I underſtand Æquilibrium Juſtitiæ. Such were the Laws of Severus; Legum conditor longè æquabilium, ſaith Aurelius Victor: and eſpecially of Alexander Mammeæ, who ſo much delighted in that Chriſtian Maxime, Quod tibi fieri non vis, alteri nè feceris. For the prizing of proviſion, in the Text, I underſtand A Chœnix of Wheat and three Chœnixes of Barley for one and the ſame Denier, and a competency of Oil and Wine into the bargain, that is, a compleat ſufficiency for the price of one day's hire; (ſuch was Δηνάριον ιν.) By Chœnix I underſtand Chœnix Syriaca, which is ſaid to contain quatuor cotylas, double to the other Chœnix, which holds but two, and yet is called ἡμερόσποφις. Spartianus de Severo, cap. 8. Rei frumentariæ, quam minimam repererat, ità conſuluit, ut excedens ipſe vitâ ſeptem annorum Canonem populo Romano relinqueret: ità ut quotidiana ſeptuagena quinque millia modiorum expendi poſſent——Olei verò tantum reliquit, ut per quinquennium non ſolùm Urbis uſibus, ſed & totius Italiæ, quæ oleo indigeret, ſufficeret. Herodian: Frumenti ſummam primus adauxit. Lamprid. de Alexandro, Oleum quod Severus populo dederat (quódque Heliogabalus imminuerat) integrum reſtituit, &c. The colour of the Horſe [Black] fits the ſeverity and ſtrictneſs of Juſtice, yea Severus his perſon both for country and quality. Sed non eſt tanti. SEAL 3. Verſ. 5.

The Fourth State was remarkable for concurrence of War, Famine, Peſtilence, (This, for ten years together,) as it is plain in Story. The Index, the Fourth Beaſt: the firſt Emperour of this State, Maximinus Thrax, being of his Quarter, Imperator ab Aquilone. SEAL 4. Verſ. 8.

Thus the firſt Four Seals of the Six, as being of unequal times, and easy for their qualities to be confounded in the accommodation, it pleased the Holy Ghost therefore to distinguish them by their several references to the Four Beasts: but the other Two have no such need; the Character of their qualities will sufficiently serve to sever them.

SEAL 5. Vers. 9. The Fifth State therefore, which we may count from Aurelian, Ann. 270, or 268, (for thereabouts the former ended) unto Constantine, is notable for the Tenth Persecution by Diocletian, the greatest that ever the Ethnick Cæsars raised against the Saints of Christ, in regard whereof the rest were but as Flea-bitings. This is typified by the Cry of the Souls under the Altar, How long, O Lord, Holy and True, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And they had promise of present hearing, as soon as their Fellow-servants, which were yet behind, should come in; which was not to be long after.

SEAL 6. Vers. 12. The Sixth Seal is Terræ-motus, a great Earthquake. That intestine Change of the Roman State begun with Constantine, and was fully settled with the death of Julian, about the year 364. For an Earthquake implies not a Destruction, but an extraordinary Alteration and Change of the face of things: As an Earthquake changeth the positure of the Earth by exalting Valleys and depressing Hills, turning the Chanels and courses of Rivers, and such like. And was there not here the whole Politick Government as well as Religion altered, the Imperial Seat removed, the distribution of Provinces, Offices and Governments new moulded, &c? Was not the former State of the Empire turned topsy-turvy, when the low and trampled Valleys arose into Mountains, and the haughty Mountains were laid as low as the Valleys? And if the Roman Gods be any of the * Starrs or * Hills here mentioned, we need not go farther for an Exposition of this Earthquake and the shock it caused in the world.

* Vers. 13, 14.

The SEVENTH SEAL, or Seven Trumpets.

The * Seventh Seal, or Seal of Trumpets, brings forth the Ruine and miserable Downfall of the Roman State. This is that which the Martyred Saints, in the Fifth Seal, prayed for, How long, O Lord, Holy and True, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood upon this cruel Empire? They were answered, that some more of their Brethren must yet suffer as they had done. When they were once come in, then should the cry of their blood be avenged upon that bloudy State. This now comes to be accomplished. And therefore when the Seventh Seal was opened, and the Trumpets were to sound, Christ, the Angel of the Covenant, offereth Vers. 3. those Prayers of the Martyrs in a golden Censer upon the golden Altar before the Throne, that they might come into remembrance before God. And no sooner was the Incense of their Prayers ascended, but instantly the Seven Angels come forth with their Seven Trumpets to sound alarme for the Empire's Dissolution. For though Josiah were a good King, and made a Reformation, yet must the blood shed by Manasseh needs be avenged upon the Kingdom of Judah. So although the Roman Emperours were now become Christians, yet would not God forget their former slaughters of his Servants, but require their blood at the hands of that Empire.

* Chap. 8. 1.

The Epocha or beginning of these Trumpets was about the year 365. Now Vers. 5. was the Censer, wherein the Martyrs Prayers were offered, thrown down to the Earth; and there were Thundrings and Lightnings and an Earthquake: the meaning whereof may be otherwaies expounded, but was here even literally fulfilled in that stupendious Earthquake described by Ammianus Marcellinus, l. 26. c. 14. Horrendi tremores per omnem Orbis ambitum grassati sunt subitò, quales nec fabula nec veridica nobis antiquitates exponunt.

Paulò

Paulò poſt lucis exortum denſitate præviâ fulgurum acriùs vibratorum tremefacta concutitur omnis terreni ſtabilitas ponderis, &c. Now the Trumpets began to ſound, which Ammianus c. 5. tells ſo happily as if he meant to be an Expoſitour. Hoc tempore (ſaith he) velut per univerſum Orbem Romanum Bellicum canentibus Buccinis, excitæ ſæviſſimæ Gentes limites ſibi proximos perſultabant. Gallias Rhætiásque ſimul Alemanni populabantur, Sarmatæ Pannonias——Thracias diripiebant prædatorii globi Gothorum, &c.

Of theſe Seven Trumpets the firſt Four are leſſer ones, and fall chiefly upon the Weſt, and made way for the riſing of the Antichriſtian State of the Beaſt or Kingdom of the False-Prophet. The laſt Three are greater and more terrible and more laſting, and therefore diſtinguiſhed from the former by the name of WOES, verſ. 13.

The Firſt Trumpet, which lights upon the Earth, was that terrible, furious and bloudy Hail-ſtorm of the Nations of the North, (which Ammianus told us of even now) without intermiſſion harrying, ſpoiling, burning and waſting the inhabitants and Citizens of the Empire, great and ſmall, young and old, from the year 365, almoſt 45 years, but not yet, by ſettling therein, impairing or diminiſhing the Roman Dition. TUBA 1. Verſ. 7.

The Second, which fell upon the Sea, was the bloudy rending and deſtruction of the Amplitude of the Roman Juriſdiction in the Weſt, from the time (viz. Ann. 410.) when Alaricus ſacked Rome; and was occaſioned by the ſwelling and burning ambition of Stilico, who called in the Goths, hoping, when the waters were thus troubled, to have made his Son an Emperour. TUBA 2. Ver. 8.

The Third Trumpet brought Lapſus Heſperi, the fall of the Weſtern Cæſar, which after the death of the third Valentinian, when Genſericus with his Vandals had again ſacked Rome, fell by degrees out of the Orbe of Sovereignty, though blazing a little as a Candle before extinction. By the fall of this Starre the Rivers and Fountains ſuffered, the power of the Roman Preſidents, Miniſters and Courts of Juſtice failing in the Weſt for want of their wonted influence from that Starre, the Weſtern Cæſareate being extinct in Auguſtulus, reſembled, by reaſon of the then bitterneſs and ſorrows, by a falling Starre called Wormwood, verſ. 11. TUBA 3. Verſ. 10.

The Fourth Trumpet brings darkneß upon the Roman Firmament by an Eclipſe of the Sun, Moon and Starrs in the third part thereof; when in the Warrs of the Greek Emperours with the Kings of the Goths in Italy, the remaining light of Rome's Majeſty in the Weſt was quite put out; after the year 542 the long-continued ſucceſſion of the Roman Conſuls ceaſing, the Roman City taken by Totilas, and a third part thereof demoliſhed, and the reſt left for a while memorandum Fortunæ ludibrium, without an inhabitant; and, laſtly, the Oſtrogothiſh Kingdom, which a while, as a blaze, continued the light of the dying Cæſars in Italy, by Narſes utterly extinguiſhed. TUBA 4. Verſ. 12.

WOE, WOE, WOE.

The Fifth Trumpet is the Firſt Woe, and brings the Saracen Locuſts upon the world, proceeding out of the ſmoaky and darkning Seduction of Mahomet, conjured up by the Angel of the bottomleſs pit: who, though a warlike people and well armed, yet had not power to deſtroy either the State of Cæſars in New Rome, or the Papal Principality ſprung out of the Empire's ruine in the Old, but onely Scorpion-like to torment and vex them, as their Tail or hindermoſt Troups out of Africk did Italy and Weſtern Rome 150 years. TUBA 5. Ch. 9. 3. Verſ. 5, 10.

The Sixth Trumpet is the Second Woe, and brings upon the Roman Provinces the barbarous and dreadful Inundation of the Turks, looſing them TUBA 6. Verſ. 14.

* Verſ. 15. from the great River Euphrates, where they had been long before prepared*, and now let goe as a plague for the * Idolatry of Chriſtians; not onely, as the Saracen Locuſts, to plague and torment the Roman State, but in part to utterly * ſlay and deſtroy it, as they have done in the Empire of Greece, which the Saracens had no power to doe.

* Verſ. 20.

* Verſ. 15.

TUBA 7. Ch. 11. 14. The Seventh and Laſt Trumpet is yet to come, the entrance whereof is the Laſt Woe, wherein all the Reliques of the Roman Beaſt, with the laſt Principality of the City of Rome yet ſurviving, ſhall together with the reſt of the enemies of Chriſt be utterly aboliſhed in the Great Day of * Armageddon; that all the Kingdoms of the world may become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of his Chriſt. Ch. 11. 15.

* Ch. 16.

Note, that when the Angel comes at the Seventh Trumpet, becauſe the Event thereof is the common iſſue to * both Prophecies, he therefore ſuſpends it a while, till he hath fetch'd up (Chap. 11.) a tranſcurrent and through-running Viſion of the Second Prophecy unto it, and then joyns them together in one and the ſame cloſe, The Kingdoms of the world are become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of his Chriſt.

* viz. the Prophecie of the Seals, and the Prophecy of the Book opened.

The Second Prophecy, The Opened Book; containing Fata Eccleſiæ.

I.

* Ch. 11. 1. By the * Inmoſt and Meaſured Court of the Temple, I underſtand the Church in her Primitive Purity, whenas yet the Chriſtian Worſhip was unprophaned, and anſwerable to the Divine Rule revealed from above.

* Ch. 12. 7. By the Warre between* Michael and the Dragon about the Woman's manly Off-ſpring contemporary with the Meaſured Court, I underſtand that long and bloudy Combate which Chriſt our Lord, animating with his Spirit his undaunted Souldiers, fought with the Devil poſſeſſing and reigning in the Ethnick Roman State; that is, the Times of the Primitive Perſecution by the Heathen Emperours: a Warre laſting long, and coſting the lives of many a valiant Martyr; yet at 300 years end, when a Chriſtian was inſtalled in the Imperial Throne, the old Dragon was *diſmounted and overthrown, and the Souldiers of Chriſt our Lord prevailed; For * they overcame him by the bloud of the Lamb and by the word of their teſtimony, and loved not their lives unto the death.

* Verſ. 9.

* Verſ. 11.

Note that the Deſcription of this Viſion is double in the Text: 1. more General, The Dragon's endeavour to deſtroy the Woman's Off-ſpring, from ver. 1. to the 7. verſe; 2. more Particular, of his Battel with Michael the Woman's Champion. For that theſe two Deſcriptions are of the ſame thing and ſame time, is manifeſt in that one and the ſame Event [* The Woman's eſcape into the Wilderneſs] is the Conſequent to them both.

* Verſ. 6, & 14.

II.

* Ch. 11. 2. 1. By the Second or * Outward Court trampled by the Gentiles, and not to be meaſured, I underſtand the Apoſtaſy under the Man of Sin, when the Viſible Church, being poſſeſſed by Idolaters and Idolatry like that of the Gentiles, became ſo inconformable and unapt for Divine meaſure, that it was to be caſt out and accounted as prophane and polluted. For the Apoſtaſy of the Church is Ethniciſmus Chriſtianus.

* Verſ. 3. 2. By the Witneſſes in ſack-cloth*, I underſtand the mournfull Prophecy of God's true Miniſters during all that time: who, when toward the end of their days of mourning they ſhould be about to put off their ſack-cloth and leave leave their lamentation, (ſeeing the Truth they witneſſed beginning to take place by publick Reformation) the Beaſt which aſcends out of the Abyſs ſhall ſlay them, and rejoyce over them as dead three days and an half, that is, ſo many years. Vers. 7, 9.

3. By the Woman in the Wilderneſs, (Ch. 12.) I underſtand the condition of the true Church in reſpect of her * Latency and Inviſibility to the eyes of man. As the Iſraelites, when they had eſcaped the rage and gotten out of the reach of the Egyptian Pharaoh, yet lived a long time after, but in a Wilderneſs, an infrequent and barren place, where they could not have lived without being extraordinarily fed with Manna from Heaven: Such was the condition of the Apoſtolical Woman and Church of Chriſt, when ſhe had eſcaped the rage and fury of the Dragon perſecuting in the Seven-headed Empire. * See a farther account of her being in the Wilderneſs, in the Short Obſervations, Chap. 12. & Comment. Apocal. in locum.

4. By the * Virgin-Company of the 144000 Sealed ones, I underſtand the oppoſite State of the unſtained Church unto the Kingdom of Apoſtaſy, in their ſincerity of Service and faithfull adherence to their Lord and Maſter, whilſt the reſt worſhipped the Beaſt and his Image. Theſe are thoſe who, when the Trumpets were to ſound, were ſecured by the * Mark of Divine protection, leſt their Society ſhould have been extinguiſhed in thoſe Calamities which then fell upon the Empire. How could this Holy Company elſe but have periſhed in ſuch Confuſions? In that * place they were repreſented by the Tribes of Iſrael; for the preſent Church of the Gentiles is but Iſrael ſurrogatus, and ſo by God accounted, until the Fulneſs of the Gentiles come in. * Chap. 14. 1. * Ch. 7. 3. * viz. Ch. 7.

5. By the * Seven-headed Ten-horned Beaſt, the Two horned Falſe-Prophet, and * Babylon the Mother of Harlots, I underſtand the State and Kingdome of Apoſtaſy according to three ſubordinate parts thereof, 1. The Body, 2. the Head, 3. the Seat. For Kingdoms, eſpecially of the ancient form, conſiſted of three parts, Regnum, Rex, Metropolis Regni. So in the Kingdom of Apoſtaſy (for ſuch it was to be) are Regnum Apoſtaticum, Rex Apoſtaticus, Metropolis Ἀποστασίας. * Ch. 13 1, 11. * Ch. 17.

The Kingdom of Apoſtaſy was to be the Roman Empire upon a deadly wound of the Cæſarean Sovereignty ſhivered into a Plurality of Kingdoms, yet all joyntly as one Body anew acknowledging the Motherdom of the Roman City. This is that Seven-headed Beaſt with Ten crowned Horns upon the Seventh Head, whereof S. John ſpeaks Chap. 13. whoſe deſcription there I underſtand as if he had ſaid, "I ſaw a Beaſt with Seven "Heads and Ten Horns with Diadems, which, upon the recovery of a deadly "wound in one of his Heads, aroſe out of the Sea, and ſucceeded in the "Throne, Power and Authority of the Dragon; blaſpheming God by "another Idolatrous worſhip, and warring at length againſt his Saints and "overçoming them. This I would call Antichriſtendom.

Rex Apoſtaticus, The King of this Apoſtatical Kingdom is the Two-horned Falſe-Prophet, the Roman Biſhop, who alſo is the Founder thereof, foraſmuch as by lying Signs and Wonders eſtabliſhing a new-coined Idolatry therein, he made it to be a living Reſemblance or Image of the Kingdom of the Cæſars in Ethniciſm when the Dragon ruled. Obſerve here that in Chap. 13. 14. thoſe laſt words [Καὶ ἔζησεν] are not the words of the Beaſt ſpeaking, but of S. John relating the Event of his ſpeech. And ſo the Interpretation will be plain.

The Metropolis of this Kingdom is Myſtical Babylon, that is, the See and City of Rome, of the Spouſe of Chriſt become a Babyloniſh Strumpet. This is the Mother of Harlots, that is, the Metropolis of the Brothel-Cities, and Lady of the Apoſtatical Kingdome, whoſe Kings commit fornication with her. For the Beaſt ſhe rides upon is the new-formed Beaſt which aroſe out of the Sea with Ten crowned Horns; the meaning whereof the Angel here expoundeth, and thereby openeth an entrance to the whole Prophecy, which till now was nothing but an involved Myſtery.

The Whore's Beaſt, Chap. 17.

The Whore's Beaſt is that Kingdom which in S. John's time had Five Succeſſive Heads already paſt, One (that of the Cæſars) in preſent being; but the Laſt, or Seventh, wearing Ten Horns, which was yet to come, was that under which the Whore ſhould ride him. Hence comes the Angel's
* Ch. 17. 8. Riddle, * The Beaſt which was, and is not, and ſhall aſcend out of the bottomleſs pit; The Beaſt that was, and is not, and yet ſhall be, ἢ παρέσται· that is, The Beaſt or State that had then been in the courſe of Five or Six Seals, but in the Seventh was yet to come. Some reade the laſt expreſſion of the Riddle thus, The Beaſt that was, and is not, and yet is; that is, The Beaſt that had already been in the courſe of Five of his Heads, was not then in that State of Sovereignty in which the Whore ſhould ride him; and yet was even then (in S. John's time) in preſent being in the Sixth Head, the Cæſars then reigning.

* Verſ. 9, 10. The * Seven Heads of the Beaſt are by the Angel made a double Type both of the Seven Hills where the Woman ſitteth, and of the Seven Sovereignties with which in a ſucceſſive order the Beaſt ſhould reign. This is a pair of Fetters to tie both Beaſt and Whore to Weſtern Rome. The Seven Sovereignties muſt not be ſeparated from the Seven Hills, nor the Seven Hills from as many Sovereignties. Conſtantinople may have ſo many Hills, but thoſe Hills had never ſo many Sovereignties. In other Cities where the Sovereign Roman Name (or but the Name) hath reigned, are neither ſo many Hills, nor ever were thoſe Seven ſucceeding Sovereignties. By theſe Fetters we ſhall hold this Proteus-like and flitting Beaſt faſt enough.

The Laſt Head of the Beaſt is indeed but the Seventh, (for the Beaſt, we ſee, hath no more Heads then Seven in the Viſion) yet for ſome reſpect is an Eighth, namely, becauſe the Sixth Head, the Sovereignty of Cæſars, (that Head which in S. John's time was) declined at length to a Demi-Cæſar confined to the Weſt, (beginning with Honorius, (or, if you will, ſooner,) till after a ſhort time it failed upon the death of the laſt Valentinian,) which being in ſome ſort diverſe from the former takes the Seventh place, and makes the Falſe-Prophet the Eighth. But being, as in name, ſo in ſubſtance, the ſame Cæſar with the former, the Falſe-Prophet (in whoſe time the Whore rides the Beaſt) is ſtill in order the Seventh. 2. The Falſe-Prophet beginning his dominion as ſoon almoſt (if not altogether) as the Demi-Cæſar, is therefore in order of time the Seventh as well as he. But the Demi-Cæſar being ſoon gone, the Falſe-Prophet ſtill ſurviving, and therefore ſucceeding him, is, in reſpect of that time wherein he outlaſteth him, as it were an Eighth. But whether Eighth or Seventh, he is the Laſt Head this Beaſt ſhall ever wear. When the former Heads failed, the
* Verſ. 11. Beaſt ſtill continued by ſucceſſion of a New: But in this he * goeth into perdition, that is, ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

Object. Yea but when the Roman State was a Red Dragon, it appeared
* Ch. 12. 3. then alſo with * Seven Heads and Ten Horns as well as now.

Anſw. As the Beaſt which carrieth the Whore appeareth with all his
* Ch. 17. 3. * Heads, though Six of them ſhould be paſt before the Whore ſhould ride him: ſo the Red Dragon, which watched the Woman in travail, is repreſented with the whole Roman Cognizance of Heads and Horns, though

the

the Sixth Head onely (the perſecuting Cæſars) were then in courſe when the bloudy Dragon informed it.

The Seven Vials.

The Seven Vials* are the Seven ſeveral and ſucceſſive degrees of the Fall of the Apoſtatical or Pſeudoprophetical Beaſt: ſome whereof are already paſt, (for his Declination and Ruine we ſee is already begun,) ſome are ſtill to come. They are called the * Seven laſt Plagues in reference to the Seven Trumpets which are the Seven firſt Plagues; the firſt ruining the Old Beaſt, the laſt deſtroying the New which is riſen out of his ruine: Which is the reaſon why the Vials are ſo like the Trumpets. For as this Latter Beaſt was faſhioned after the Image of the Former; ſo was it fit his Ruine ſhould carry the reſemblance of the Ruine of it. * Ch. 16. * Ch. 15. 1.

The Kingdom of Chriſt upon the Seventh Trumpet.

That Kingdom of our Lord to follow upon the ſounding of the Seventh Trumpet, at the appearing whereof, in ſeveral Viſions, the Quire of Wights and Elders ſing and worſhip before the Throne, (Ch. 7. 11. Ch. 11. 16. Ch. 19. 4.) what it means and what ſhall be therein, Poſterity will better underſtand. Perhaps we may be as wide of the meaning thereof as our Forefathers were of the State and Condition of the times of Antichriſt. Yet as they in this miſſed not of the main, but erred in the manner and particular Circumſtances,; ſo would it be conſidered whether the conceit the Ancients had of this Regnum Chriſti contains not likewiſe ſome general Truth received from the eldeſt times, though deformed with many erroneous miſconceits and idle, yea ſome not tolerable, fancies.

The End of the Fifth Book.

A TABLE

A

TABLE of Places of Scripture (not onely quoted, but) illuſtrated and explained.

GENESIS.

Chap. 3. 13. And the Lord God ſaid unto the Woman, What is this that thou haſt done? And the Woman ſaid, The Serpent beguiled me, and I did eat. pag. 277

——Verſ. 14. And the Lord God ſaid unto the Serpent, Becauſe thou haſt done this, thou art curſed above all cattel, and above every Beaſt of the field: upon thy belly ſhalt thou goe, and duſt ſhalt thou eat all the days of thy life. pag. 287

——Verſ. 15. And I will put enmity between thee and the Woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed: it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. pag. 295

——Verſ. 16. I will multiply thy ſorrow and thy conception. pag. 201

Chap. 10. 5. By theſe were the Iſles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations. pag. 362 & 369

Chap. 27. 36. —Well may he be called Jacob, for he hath ſupplanted (or, beguiled) me theſe two times. pag. 284, 285

Chap. 28. 16, 17. Surely the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not. How dreadful is this place! it is no other but the Houſe of God, even the gate of Heaven. pag. 436

Chap. 29. 27. Fulfill her week——pag. 743

Chap. 46. 26. All the ſouls that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his loyns. pag. 47.

Chap. 48. 16. The Angel which redeemed me from all evil bleſs the lads, and let my name be named on them—— pag. 7.

Chap. 49. 10. The Scepter ſhall not depart from Judah, nor a Law-giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come, and unto him ſhall the gathering of the people be. pag. 45

EXODUS.

Chap. 1. 5. And all the ſouls that came out of the loyns of Jacob—— pag. 47.

Chap. 3. 5 —— Put off thy ſhoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy ground. pag. 442

Chap. 4. 25. Then Zipporah took a ſharp ſtone, and cut off the foreskin of her Son, and caſt it at his feet, and ſaid, כי חתן דמים אתה לי Sponſus ſanguinum tu mihi es. pag. 69

Chap. 13. 2. Sanctifie unto me all the firſt-born. pag. 512

Chap. 19. 5.—Then ye ſhall be unto me סגלה a peculiar treaſure (LXX. λαὸς περιούσιος a peculiar people) above all people. pag. 168

Chap. 20. 24.—— In all places where I record my Name, I will come unto thee, and bleſs thee. pag. 433

Chap. 29. 42. } אוהל מועד The Taberna-
Chap. 30. 36. } cle of meeting. pag. 436

Chap. 30. 31, 32. This ſhall be an holy anointing Oyl unto me—— It is holy, therefore it ſhall be holy unto you. pag. 8.

LEVITICUS.

Chap. 2. 13.——the Salt of the Covenant of thy God. pag. 471

Chap. 19. 30. Ye ſhall reverence my Sanctuary. pag. 507.

Chap. 25. 3. The land ſhall not be ſold for ever, for the land is mine, for ye are ſtrangers and ſojourners with me. pag. 157

Chap. 27. 26. Onely the firſt-born of the beaſts, which ſhould be the Lord's, no man ſhall ſanctify it; it is the Lord's. pag. 512

NUMBERS.

Chap. 2. 2. Every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch by his own Standard, with the Enſign of their fathers houſe, about the Tabernacle of the congregation ſhall they pitch. pag. 737

Chap. 14. 22. Thoſe men which have ſeen my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egypt and in the wilderneſs, and have tempted me now theſe ten times. pag. 153

Chap. 17. 4. אוהל מועד The Tabernacle of meeting. pag. 436

DEUTERONOMY.

Chap. 4. 28. And there ye ſhall ſerve Gods, the work of mens hands. pag. 871

Chap. 16. 16. Three times in a year ſhall all thy males appear before the Lord thy God, in the place which he ſhall chuſe; in the Feaſt of Unleavened bread, and in the Feaſt of Weeks, and in the Feaſt of Tabernacles: And they ſhall not appear before the Lord empty. pag. 343 & 354

Chap.

Chap. 28.64.——And there thou ſhalt ſerve other Gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known. pag. 822

Chap. 33. 2. The Lord came from Sinai unto them——he came with his holy Myriads, from his right hand went a fiery Law. pag. 437

——Verſ. 8. And of Levi he ſaid, Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one. pag. 264

JOSHUA.

Chap. 5. 15. See Exod. 3. 5.

Chap. 7. 1. Achan——took of the accurſed thing. pag. 152

Chap. 24. 26. And Joſhua took a great Stone, and ſet it up there under the Oak which was by the Sanctuary of the Lord. pag. 85

JUDGES.

Chap. 1. 7. As I have done, ſo hath God requited me. pag. 188.

I SAMUEL.

Chap. 26. 19. They have driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, ſaying, Go ſerve other Gods. pag. 823

II SAMUEL.

Chap. 9. 10. Thou and thy ſons and thy ſervants ſhall till the land for him, and thou ſhalt bring in the fruits, that he may have לחם food to eat. pag. 850

I KINGS.

Chap. 8. 64. The ſame day did the King hallow the middle of the Court that was before the Houſe of the Lord; for there he offered burnt-offerings and meat-offerings. pag. 512

Chap. 11. 4.——And his heart was not שלם perfect with the Lord his God. pag. 235.

Chap. 15. 34.——And he walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin. pag. 320, & 321

II KINGS.

Chap. 25. 3. בתשעה לחדש. pag. 991

I CHRONICLES.

Chap. 16. 42.——Muſical inſtruments of God. pag. 14.

II CHRONICLES.

Chap. 16. 9. The eyes of the Lord run to and fro through the whole Earth, to ſhew themſelves ſtrong in the behalf of them whoſe hearts are perfect towards him. pag. 57

Chap. 20. 21. He appointed Singers unto the Lord, that ſhould praiſe the Beauty of holineſs——and to ſay, Praiſe the Lord, for his mercy endureth for ever. pag. 78

Chap. 22. 3. He walked alſo in the waies of the houſe of Ahab. pag. 321

EZRA.

Chap. 1. 10. Thirty baſons of gold——and other veſſels אלף thouſands. pag. 862

Chap. 2. 63.——Till there roſe up a Prieſt with Urim and Thummim. pag. 272

Chap. 6. 10.——That they may offer Sacrifices of ſweet ſavour unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the King and of his Sons. pag. 482

Chap. 9. 1. The people of Iſrael——have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the lands according to their Abominations. pag. 871

NEHEMIAH.

Chap. 13. 14. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and wipe not out my good deeds that I have done for the Houſe of my God and for the offices thereof. pag. 161

——Verſ. 22. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and ſpare me according to the greatneſs of thy mercy. pag. 161

ESTHER.

Chap. 7. 5. Where is he whoſe heart hath filled him to doe ſo? pag. 150

JOB.

Chap. 26. 5, 6. Gigantes gemunt ſub aquis, & qui habitant cum eis. Nudus eſt Infernus coram illo, & nullum eſt operimentum perditioni. pag. 43.

PSALMS.

Pſal. 1. 1.——that hath not walked in the counſel of the ungodly. pag. 241

Pſal. 8. 2. Out of the mouths of Babes and Sucklings thou haſt ordained ſtrength, becauſe of thine Enemies; that thou mighteſt ſtill the Enemy and Avenger. pag. 48

Pſal. 28. 2——when I lift up my hands toward thy Holy Oracle. pag. 500

Pſal. 37. 21.——but the Righteous ſheweth mercy and giveth: and verſ. 25——Yet have I not ſeen the Righteous forſaken. pag. 105

Pſal. 40. 6. Sacrifice and offering thou didſt not deſire, mine ears haſt thou bored, &c. pag. 1095

Pſal. 44. 16.——By reaſon of the Enemy and Avenger, all this is come upon us. pag. 50

Pſal. 50. 14. Offer unto God praiſe, and pay thy Vows unto the moſt High. pag. 379

——Verſ. 16. Unto the wicked God ſaith, What haſt thou to doe to declare my Statutes, and take my Covenant in thy mouth? pag. 472

Pſal. 51. 16, 17. Thou deſireſt not Sacrifice, elſe would I give it; thou delighteſt not in burnt-offering. The Sacrifices of God are a broken Spirit, &c. pag. 449

Pſal.

Pſal. 68. 9, 10. Thou, O God, didſt ſend a plentiful rain, whereby thou didſt confirm thine inheritance when it was weary. חיתך Animalia tua dwelt therein. pag. 542, & 737
Pſal. 74. 7, 8. They have caſt fire into thy Sanctuary—They have burnt up כל מועדי אל in the land. pag. 90.
Pſal. 89. 18.——The Holy one of Iſrael is our King. pag. 11
Pſal. 104. 4. He maketh his Angels Spirits, his miniſters a flaming fire. pag. 37
——Verſ. 19.—He appointeth the Moon for ſeaſons. pag. 611
Pſal. 110. 3. Thy people in the day of thy power ſhall be a people of free preſents. pag. 150
Pſal. 112. 6—The righteous ſhall be in everlaſting remembrance. pag. 104
Pſal. 116. 13. I will take the cup of Salvation, and call upon the Name of the Lord. pag. 483
Pſal. 132. 7. We will go into his Tabernacle, we will worſhip towards his Footſtool. pag. 500
Pſal. 138. 1, 2.——Before the Gods will I ſing praiſe unto thee. I will worſhip towards thy holy Temple. pag. 501

PROVERBS.

Chap. 4. 23. Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the iſſues of life. pag. 231
Chap. 8. 10. Receive my inſtruction, and not ſilver. pag. 447
Chap. 11. 4.——Righteouſneſs delivereth from death. pag. 105
Chap. 15. 11. Hell and deſtruction are before the Lord—— pag. 43.
Chap. 21. 16. The man that wandreth out of the way of underſtanding, ſhall remain in the Congregation of the dead. pag. 41.
Chap. 30. 8, 9.—Give me neither Poverty nor Riches: feed me with food convenient for me. Leſt I be full and deny thee, and ſay, Who is the Lord? or leſt I be poor, and ſteal, and take the name of my God in vain. pag. 167.

ECCLESIASTES.

Chap. 5. 1. Look to thy foot when thou comeſt to the Houſe of God; and be more ready to obey then to offer the Sacrifice of fools. pag. 432
——Verſ. 4, 5, 6. When thou voweſt a Vow, defer not to pay it, &c. Suffer not thy mouth to cauſe thy fleſh to ſin, neither ſay thou before the Angel, It was an error. pag. 438.
——Verſ. 14.——he begetteth a Son, and there is nothing in his hand. pag. 155

CANTICLES.

Chap. 7. 10. I am my beloved's, and his deſire is towards me. pag. 824

ESAY.

Chap. 2. 2. And it ſhall come to paſs in the laſt days, that the mountain of the Lord's houſe ſhall be eſtabliſhed in the top of the mountains, &c. and all Nations ſhall flow unto it. pag. 182
Chap. 4. 1.——Onely let thy name be called upon us, to take away our reproach. pag. 7
Chap. 6. 1. I ſaw the Lord ſitting upon a Throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the Temple. pag. 437
Chap. 7. 14.—and ſhall call his name Emmanuel. pag. 577
Chap. 8. 12, 13.——Fear ye not their Fear, neither dread ye it. Sanctifie the Lord of hoſts himſelf, and let him be your Fear, and let him be your Dread. pag. 12
Chap. 9. 1. כי לא מועף ונ Quoniam non eſt obſcuratio ei qui anguſtiæ eſt ipſi. pag. 566
——Verſ. 1, 2, 3. As the firſt time he made vile (or debaſed) the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali; ſo in the latter time he ſhall make it glorious. The way of the Sea by Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles, the people that walked in darkneſs have ſeen a great light, &c. Thou haſt multiplied the Nation, and encreaſed the joy thereof. pag. 131, 132, & 566
Verſ. 6.——And his name ſhall be called Wonderful, Counſeller, The mighty God, &c. p. 577
Chap. 11. 15. And the Lord ſhall utterly deſtroy the tongue of the Egyptian Sea, &c. pag. 659
Chap. 17. 7.—to the Holy one of Iſrael. pag. 11
Chap. 19. 5. And the waters ſhall fail from the Sea. pag. 573
Chap. 24. 23. The Moon ſhall be confounded, and the Sun aſhamed, when the Lord of hoſts ſhall reign in mount Sion. pag. 555
Chap. 26. 19. Thy dead men ſhall live, my dead bodies ſhall ariſe. pag. 718
Chap. 30. 31, 33. Through the voice of the Lord ſhall the Aſſyrian be beaten down——For Tophet is ordained of old, yea for the King it is prepared; the pile thereof is fire and much wood, the breath of the Lord like a ſtream of brimſtone doth kindle it. pag. 41
Chap. 40. 15.—He taketh up the Iſles as a very little thing. pag. 364
Chap. 42. 4.——The Iſles ſhall wait for his Law. pag. 365
Chap. 45. 14. The labour of Egypt and merchandiſe of Ethiopia and of the Sabeans, &c. pag. 717
——Verſ. 20. Aſſemble your ſelves and come, draw near together ye that are eſcaped of the Nations. pag. 1119.
Chap. 51. 15, 16. I am the Lord thy God that divided the Sea, whoſe waves roared——And I put my words in thy mouth, and covered thee in the ſhadow of my hand; that I might plant the Heavens and lay the Foundation of the Earth, and ſay unto Sion, Thou art my people. pag. 762, & 556
Chap. 53. 1, 2. Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the Arm of the Lord revealed? For he ſhall grow as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground. pag. 51

Chap.

Chap. 55. 7. Let the wicked forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him—— pag. 240

Chap. 66. 19.——I will ſend thoſe that eſcape of them, unto the Nations——and they ſhall declare my glory among the Gentiles. pag. 1119

——Verſ. 23.—From one New-moon to another, and from one Sabbath to another, ſhall all fleſh come to worſhip before me. pag. 1032

JEREMY.

Chap. 2. 10. Paſs over to the Iſles of Chittim. pag. 365

——Verſ. 11.——my people have changed their Glory. pag. 6

Chap. 8. 20. The harveſt is paſt, the ſummer is ended, and we are not ſaved. pag. 648

Chap. 10. 11. Thus ſhall ye ſay unto them, The Gods that made not the Heavens and the Earth, even they ſhall periſh from the Earth and from under theſe Heavens. pag. 249

Chap. 34. 18, 19. And I will give the men—which have not performed the words of the Covenant which they had made before me, when they cut the calf in twain, and paſſed between the parts thereof——I will give them into the hand of their enemies—— pag. 472

Chap. 35. 6, 7. The Rechabites ſaid, We will drink no wine, for Jonadab the ſon of Rechab our father commanded us, ſaying, Ye ſhall drink no wine,—nor ſhall ye build an houſe,—but dwell in tents, &c. pag. 171

LAMENTATIONS.

Chap. 2. 1.——The Lord hath caſt down the beauty of Iſrael, and remembred not his footſtool in the day of his anger. pag. 500

EZEKIEL.

Chap. 4. 6.——Lie again on thy right ſide, and thou ſhalt bear the iniquity of the houſe of Judah fourty daies. pag. 960

Chap. 20. 20. Hallow my Sabbaths; and they ſhall be a Sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God. pag. 73

Chap. 27. 3. Tyrus——a Merchant of people for many Iſlands. pag. 365

Chap. 38. 17. Art thou he of whom I have ſpoken in old time by my ſervants the Prophets of Iſrael, &c. pag. 976

Chap. 43. 7.——my holy Name ſhall the houſe of Iſrael no more defile——by the Carkaſes of their Kings. pag. 19

DANIEL.

Chap. 2. from verſ. 32. to verſ. 44. pag. 136

——Verſ. 44, 45. In the daies of theſe Kings ſhall the God of heaven ſet up a Kingdome which ſhall never be deſtroied, nor left to another people; but it ſhall break in pieces and conſume all theſe Kingdoms, and it ſelf ſhall ſtand for ever. Foraſmuch as thou ſaweſt that a Stone was cut out of a mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the braſs, &c. pag. 909, 922, 923

Chap. 4. 26.——after that thou ſhalt have known that the Heavens bear rule—— pag. 133

Chap. 7. 3. And four Beaſts came up from the Sea. pag. 562

——Verſ. 9. I beheld till the Throne were pitched down. pag. 932

——Verſ. 10.——the Judgment was ſet. pag. 663, & 932

——Verſ. 11. I beheld then becauſe of the voice of the great words which the Horn ſpake: I beheld till the Beaſt was ſlain, and his body deſtroy'd, and given to the burning flame. pag.

——Verſ. 12. As concerning the reſt of the Beaſts, they had their dominion taken away; yet their lives were prolonged for a ſeaſon and time. pag. 955, 956, 957

——Verſ. 22.——and Judgment was given to the Saints of the moſt High. pag. 663

——Verſ. 24. And the ten Horns are ten Kings, and another ſhall riſe behind them, and he ſhall be diverſe from the firſt, and ſhall depreſs three Kings. pag. 953, 954

——Verſ. 25.—And he ſhall think to change Times and Laws. pag. 901

Chap. 8. 5.—behold, an He-goat came from the Weſt. pag. 588

——Verſ. 23. And in the latter end of the Kingdome of Græcia——a King of a fierce countenance ſhall ſtand up. pag. 806

Chap. 9. 24. Seventy weeks are allotted for thy people and for thy holy City, to finiſh tranſgreſſion, and make an end of ſins, &c. pag. 857

——Verſ. 25. Alſo know and underſtand, that from the going forth of the commandment to cauſe to return and to build Jeruſalem, unto Meſſiah the Prince, ſhall be Sevens of weeks, &c. pag. 861

——Verſ. 26. And after 62 weeks ſhall Meſſiah be cut off, and [they] none of his, &c. pag. 866

——Verſ. 27. Nevertheleſs he ſhall confirm a covenant with many one week, &c. pag. 869

Chap. 10. 2.—I Daniel was mourning שלשה שבעים ימים. pag. 743

——Verſ. 13.——Michael one of the chief Princes came to help me. pag. 56

Chap. 11. V. 36, 37, 38, 39. pag. 821, 822, 826, 827

——Verſ. 41, 42, 43. pag. 831

——Verſ. 44, 45. pag. 1000, 1001

Chap. 12. 11, 12. And from the time that the daily Sacrifice ſhall be taken away——ſhall be 1290 daies. Bleſſed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the 1335 daies. pag. 882

JOEL.

Chap. 2. 17. Let the Prieſts, the Miniſters of the Lord, weep between the Porch and the Altar, &c. pag. 309
——Verſ. 30.——Pillars of ſmoke. pag. 37

AMOS.

Chap. 4. 2. The Lord hath ſworn by his Holineſs. pag. 11
Chap. 8. 7. The Lord hath ſworn by the excellency of Jacob. ibid.

MICAH.

Chap. 5. 5. And he ſhall be the peace, when the Aſſyrian ſhall come into our land, &c. p. 976

ZACHARY.

Chap. 3. 9. For behold, the ſtone that I have laid before Joſhua—— pag. 1022. marg.
Chap. 4. 2, 3.——I looked, and behold a Candleſtick——with ſeven Lamps——and two Olive-trees by it. pag. 1021, 1022
——Verſ. 6. Not by might nor by force, but by my Spirit. pag. 54, 1021
——Verſ. 10.——Theſe Seven are the Eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole Earth. pag. 53
——Verſ. 14.——Theſe are the two anointed ones, that ſtand before the Lord of the whole Earth. pag. 54
Chap. 8. 19. The faſt of the fourth month, and the faſt of the fifth, and the faſt of the tenth. pag. 1088

MALACHI.

Chap. 1. 6, 7.——Ye ſay, Wherein have we polluted thy Name? In that ye ſay, The Table of the Lord is contemptible. And if ye offer the blind for Sacrifice, is it not evil?——Offer it now unto thy Governour, will he be pleaſed with thee? pag. 454
——Verſ. 11.——In every place Incenſe ſhall be offered unto my Name and a pure Offering. pag. 451

TOBIT.

Chap. 14. Verſ. 3. to Verſ. 8. pag. 719

I MACCABEES.

Chap. 14. 5.——an entrance to the Iſles of the Sea. pag. 365

II MACCABEES.

Chap. 4. 38.——he took away Andronicus his purple. pag. 1115

S. MATTHEW.

Chap. 5. 17. Think not that I am come to diſſolve the Law and the Prophets: I am not come to diſſolve, but to fulfill. pag. 15, 16
——Verſ. 19. Whoſoever therefore ſhall break one of the leaſt of theſe Commandments, and ſhall teach men ſo to doe, he ſhall be called the leaſt in the Kingdom of heaven. pag. 16
——Verſ. 23, 24. If thou bring thy Gift to the Altar, and there remembreſt thy brother hath ought againſt thee; Leave thy Gift and go thy way; firſt be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy Gift. pag. 357
Chap. 6. 1. Take heed that ye doe not your Alms before men. pag. 104
——Verſ. 9. Thus therefore pray ye,—— pag. 1
——Hallowed be thy Name. pag. 6
——Verſ. 11. Give us this day our daily bread. pag. 168
——Verſ. 19. Lay not up for your ſelves treaſures upon earth. pag. 448
Chap. 7. 21. Not every one that ſaith unto me, Lord, Lord, ſhall enter into the Kingdom of heaven, &c. pag. 300
Chap. 8. 12. But the Children of the Kingdom ſhall be caſt out into outer darkneſs. pag. 112
——Verſ. 29.——Art thou come hither to torment us before the time? pag. 33
Chap. 10. 41. He that receiveth a Prophet in the name of a Prophet, ſhall receive a Prophet's reward. pag. 109
Chap. 11. 28, 29. Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you reſt. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye ſhall find reſt unto your ſouls. pag. 201.
Chap. 12. 42. The Queen of the South ſhall riſe up ἐν τῇ κρίσει with this generation. pag. 31
Chap. 17. 11. Elias truly ſhall firſt come, and reſtore all things. pag. 128
Chap. 19. 21. If thou wilt be perfect, go ſell that thou haſt, and give it to the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven. pag. 170
——Verſ. 28.——in the regeneration. pag. 110
Chap. 20. 16. So the laſt ſhall be firſt, and the firſt laſt: for many be called, but few choſen. pag. 112
Chap. 22. 32. I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the dead, but of the living. p. 981
Chap. 23. 19.——the Altar that ſanctifies the Gift. pag. 477
——Verſ. 39. Ye ſhall not ſee me henceforth, till ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. pag. 646
Chap. 24. 14. And the Goſpel of the kingdom ſhall be preached in all the world. pag. 868
——and then ſhall the End come. pag. 48
——Verſ. 20. Pray that your flight be not in the winter, nor on the Sabbath-day. pag. 1031

Verſ.

——Verſ. 29. Immediately after the tribulation of thoſe daies ſhall the Sun be darkned, and the Moon ſhall not give her light, and the Stars ſhall fall from heaven. pag. 761, & 920
——Verſ. 34. This generation ſhall not paſs, till all theſe things be fulfilled. pag. 919, 920
Chap. 25. 33, 34. And he ſhall ſet the Sheep on his right hand, but the Goats on the left. Then ſhall the King ſay to them on his right hand, Come ye bleſſed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom, &c. pag. 1031
Chap. 27. 34. They gave him vineger to drink, mingled with gall. pag. 645

S. MARK.

Chap. 1. 14. Now after that John was put in priſon, Jeſus came into Galilee, preaching the Goſpel of the Kingdom of God. pag. 126
——Verſ. 15. And ſaying, The time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand; Repent ye, and believe the Goſpel. pag. 133
Chap. 11. 17. Is it not written, My Houſe ſhall be called a Houſe of Praier to all the Nations? pag. 58
Chap. 15. 23. And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrhe. pag. 645

S. LUKE.

Chap. 1. 28. Hail thou highly-favoured one. pag. 268
——Verſ. 72. To ſhew mercy, or kindneſs, to our Fathers. pag. 982
Chap. 2. 1. ——that all the World ſhould be taxed. pag. 868
——Verſ. 13, 14. And ſuddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly Hoſt, praiſing God, and ſaying, Glory be to God in the higheſt, &c. pag. 116
Chap. 6. 12. ——he continued all night ἐν τῇ προσευχῇ τοῦ Θεοῦ. pag. 88
Chap. 7. 47. Her ſins, which are many, are forgiven; therefore ſhe loved much. pag. 938
Chap. 16. 9. ——Make to your ſelves friends of the Mammon of unrighteouſneſs, &c. pag. 226
Chap. 18. 28. Lo, we have left all, and followed thee. pag. 170
Chap. 21. 24. ——Until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. pag. 873, & 920
——Verſ. 25. Καὶ ἔσται, Then ſhall be Signs, &c. pag. 910, & 920
Chap. 22. 20. This Cup is the New Covenant in my blood—— pag. 473
Chap. 24. 45, 46. Then opened he their underſtanding, that they might underſtand the Scriptures; And ſaid unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Chriſt to ſuffer, and to riſe from the dead the third day. pag. 65

S. JOHN.

Chap. 1. 14. And the Word was made fleſh, and tabernacled in us. pag. 350
Chap. 4. 20. Our Fathers worſhipped in this Mountain. pag. 347
——Verſ. 22. Ye worſhip what ye know not, we worſhip what we know. pag. 64
——Verſ. 23. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worſhippers ſhall worſhip the Father in Spirit and Truth. pag. 61
Chap. 7. 37. ——As the Scripture ſaith, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living water. pag. 82
Chap. 10. 20. He hath a Devil, and is mad. pag. 37
Chap. 12. 28. ——Then came there a voice from heaven—The people therefore that ſtood by, and heard it, ſaid that it thundred. pag. 569
Chap. 17. 17. Sanctifie them unto (or for) thy Truth: thy Word is Truth. pag. 19
——Verſ. 19. And for them I ſanctifie my ſelf, that they might be ſanctified for thy Truth. ibid.
Chap. 18. 36. My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my ſervants fight—— pag. 134
Chap. 21. 22. If I will that he ſtay till I come—— pag. 872

ACTS.

Chap. 2. 5. And there were ſojourning at Jeruſalem Jews, devout men, out of every Nation under heaven. pag. 96
——Verſ. 42. Ἦσαν δὲ προσκαρτεροῦντες τῇ διδαχῇ τῶν Ἀποστόλων, καὶ τῇ κοινωνίᾳ, καὶ τῇ κλάσει τοῦ ἄρτου, καὶ ταῖς προσευχαῖς. pag. 463
——Verſ. 45. See Chap. 4. 34.
——Verſ. 46. And they continuing daily with one accord in the Temple, and breaking bread κατ' οἶκον in the Houſe, ate their meat with gladneſs and ſingleneſs of heart. pag. 409
Chap. 3. 19. Repent and be converted, &c. ὅπως ἄν ——that ſo the times of refreſhing may come. pag. 756
Chap. 4. 34, 35. ——As many as were poſſeſſors of lands or houſes, ſold them, and brought the prices of the things that were ſold, and laid them down at the Apoſtles feet. pag. 170
Chap. 5. 3, 4. And Peter ſaid, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the holy Ghoſt, and to purloin of the price of the land, &c. pag. 150
Chap. 10. 1, 2. There was a certain man in Cæſarea, called Cornelius, a Centurion of the Italian band; a devout man, and one that feared God, &c. pag. 220
Verſ. 4. Thy Praiers and thine Alms are come up for a memorial before God. pag. 219
Chap. 13. 48. ——And there believed as many as were τεταγμένοι to eternal life. pag. 28
Chap. 14. 15. Who in times paſt ſuffered all Nations to walk in their own waies. pag. 641
Chap. 15. 16, 17. After this I will return, and will build again the Tabernacle of David, which is fallen, &c. That the reſidue of men might ſeek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my Name is called. pag. 564

Chap. 16. 13. And on the Sabbath we went out of the city by a river-side, where there was taken (or where was famed) to be a Proseucha. and Vers. 16. It came to pass as we went to the Proseucha. pag. 88

Chap. 17. 4. There associated themselves to Paul and Silas of the worshipping Greeks a great multitude. pag. 25

——Vers. 18.—He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange Gods, because he preached unto them Jesus and the Resurrection. pag. 782

Chap. 18. 22. And he sailed from Ephesus; and when he had landed at Cæsarea, having gone up and saluted the Church, he went down to Antioch. pag. 410

Chap. 24. 16. Ἐν τούτῳ δὲ, For this cause do I exercise my self to have alwaies a conscience void of offence toward God and men. pag. 1068

ROMANS.

Chap. 1. 23. They changed the Glory of the incorruptible God into an Image, &c. pag. 6

——Vers. 25. Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and served the creature παρὰ τὸν κτίσαντα. pag. 64

Chap. 8. 20. For the creature was made subject to vanity——Because the creature it self also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the children of God. pag. 290, & 995

Chap. 9. 1.—my Conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost. pag. 153

Chap. 11. 11, & 15.——Through their fall Salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousie.— For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world—— pag. 563

——Vers. 25.——Untill the fulness of the Gentiles be come in. pag. 262

Chap. 16. 5. Salute the Church at their house. pag. 411

I CORINTHIANS.

Chap. 4. 1. Let a man so account of us as of the Ministers of Christ—— pag. 33

Chap. 8. 5, 6. Though there be that are called Gods, whether in heaven or in earth; as there be Gods many and Lords many: Yet to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we to him; and but one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him. pag. 774

Chap. 9. 14. Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel. pag. 100

——Vers. 23. This I doe for the εὐαγγέλιον, that I might be partaker thereof with you. p. 103

Chap. 10. 3, 4. And they did all eat the same spiritual meat, and did all drink the same spiritual drink; For they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Christ. pag. 325

——Vers. 5. But with many of them God was not well pleased, for they were overthrown in the wilderness. pag. 338

——Vers. 20. The things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to Dæmons, and not to God.——Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Dæmons. pag. 784

——Vers. 21.—Ye cannot be partakers of the Table of the Lord, and the Table of Devils. p. 477

——Vers. 31. Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye doe, doe all to the glory of God. pag. 228

Chap. 11. 5. Every woman praying or propheſying with her head uncovered, dishonoureth her head. pag. 76

——Vers. 10. For this cause ought the woman to have a covering on her head, because of the Angels. pag. 439, 440

——Vers. 16. But if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custome, nor the Churches of God. pag. 80

——Vers. 22. Have ye not houses to eat and drink in? or despise ye the Church of God? p. 405

——Vers. 29.——not differencing the Lord's body. pag. 10

Chap. 13. 5. Charity seeketh not her own. pag. 166

Chap. 15. 23. But every man in his own order: Christ the first-fruits, afterward they that are Christ's, at his coming. pag. 949, & 983

Chap. 16. 19. See Romans 16. 5.

EPHESIANS.

Chap. 2. 2.——the Prince of the power of the Aire. pag. 30, 31

——Vers. 8, 9, 10. By grace ye are saved, through faith—not of works, lest any man should boast. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them. pag. 146, & 303

——Vers. 14.——and hath broken down the partition-wall between us. pag. 26

COLOSSIANS.

Chap. 2. 8, 9. Beware lest any man spoil you through Philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily; and ye are complete in him. pag. 773

Chap. 4. 15. See Romans 16. 5.

I THESSALONIANS.

Chap. 4. 16.——The dead in Christ shall rise first. pag. 647

——Vers. 17, 18. Afterwards we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the Air; and so we shall ever be with the Lord. p. 949, 950

II THESSA-

II Thessalonians.

Chap. 2. 3.——Unless that Apostasie come first. pag. 770
——Vers. 7.—Onely he who now letteth, will lett, until he be taken out of the way. pag. 810
——Vers. 8.—that wicked one whom the Lord shall destroy at the ἐπιφάνεια of his coming. pag. 933

I Timothy.

Chap. 4. 1. Howbeit the Spirit speaketh expresly, That in the latter times some shall revolt from the Faith, attending to erroneous Spirits, and Doctrines of Damons. pag. 767
——Vers. 2. Through the hypocrisie (or feigning) of Liers, having their conscience seared. pag. 832
—Vers. 3. Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats. pag. 849
Chap. 5. 19. Let the Elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour; especially they that labour in the word and doctrine. pag. 91
——Vers. 21.—elect Angels. pag. 56
Chap. 6. 19. Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation—— pag. 106

II Timothy.

Chap. 2. 19. The foundation of God standeth sure, having this Seal, The Lord knoweth them that are his: And, Let every one that nameth the Name of Christ depart from iniquity. pag. 107

Titus.

Chap. 3. 5.—By the washing of Regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost. pag. 81

Philemon.

Vers. 1, 2.—To Philemon our dearly-beloved and fellow-labourer, (And to Apphia our beloved, and Archippus our fellow-souldier) and to the Church at thy house. pag. 411

Hebrews.

Chap. 1. 6. And when he bringeth again the first-begotten into the world—— pag. 716
Chap. 2. 5. For unto the Angels hath he not put in subjection the World to come, whereof we speak. pag. 716
Chap. 9. 5.—the Cherubims of glory. pag. 438
—Vers. 29.—in the end of ages. pag. 808
Chap. 10. 5——a Body hast thou prepared me. pag. 1097
—Vers. 25.—as ye see the Day approching. pag. 818
—Vers. 29.—and hath counted the blood of the Covenant wherewith he was sanctified, a common thing. pag. 9
——Vers. 37. For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry. pag. 819
Chap. 11. 16.——But now they desire a better countrey, that is, an heavenly. pag. 982
Chap. 12. 27. This, Yet once more, signifies the removing of things that are shaken. pag. 221

James.

Chap. 5. 3.—Ye have heaped up goods for the last daies. pag. 819
—Vers. 7, 8.—the coming of the Lord. p. 872

I Peter.

Chap. 3. 14, 15. Fear ye not their Fear, nor be in dread thereof. But sanctifie the Lord God in your heart—— pag. 13
Chap. 4. 7. The End of all approcheth; Be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer. pag. 819
Chap. 5. 13. The Church that is at Babylon saluteth you. pag. 99

II Peter.

Chap. 2. 1. But there were false Prophets among the People, even as there shall be false Teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable Heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them. pag. 313
——Vers. 4. For if God spared not the Angels which sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto Judgment. pag. 30
——Vers. 6.—making them an Ensample unto those that after should live ungodly. pag. 44
Chap. 3. from Vers. 3 to Vers. 16. pag. 753, &c.

I John.

Chap. 1. 9.——he is faithful and just to forgive. pag. 164
Chap. 2. 3. Hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his Commandments. pag. 393
—Vers. 18.—Antichrist—many Antichrists: & Chap. 4. 3. 2. Ep. Ver. 7. pag. 818, & 1101

Jude.

Vers. 6. See 2 Peter, 2. 4.
Vers. 7. πυρὸς αἰωνίου δίκην ὑπέχουσαι. pag. 1118
Vers. 14. ἐν ταῖς ἁγίαις μυριάσιν. pag. 437

Apocalyps.

[Besides several whole Chapters, and parts of Chapters, of the Apocalyps explained from p. 521 to pag. 751, and from pag. 1107 to the end, there are several passages explained in some other Treatises in these Volumes.]

viz.

Chap. 1. 4, 5. Grace be unto you, and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from the ſeven Spirits which are before his throne; and from Jeſus Chriſt.— pag. 55

——Verſ. 6. And hath made us Kings and Prieſts unto God and his Father.— pag. 146

Chap. 5. 1. And I ſaw——a Book——ſealed with ſeven Seals. pag. 969

Chap. 9. 20.——And the reſt of the men——repented not of the works of their hands, that they ſhould not worſhip Dæmons, and Idols of gold and ſilver, and braſs and ſtone, and of wood. pag. 783

Chap. 11. 7.——The Beaſt that aſcends out of the bottomleſs pit ſhall make warre with them, and overcome and kill them. pag. 937

——Verſ. 9. They ſhall ſee their dead bodies three daies and an half. pag. 930

Chap. 13. 7. And it was given unto him to make warre with the Saints, and to overcome them pag. 937

Chap. 15. 2.——having the harps of God. pag. 14

——Verſ. 3. 4. And they ſing the Song of Moſes——and the Song of the Lamb, ſaying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty.——Who ſhall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorifie thy Name? for thou only art holy: therefore all the Nations ſhall come and worſhip before thee, for thy Ordinances are made manifeſt. pag. 13

Chap. 20. 4, 5.——and they lived and reigned with Chriſt a 1000 years. But the reſt of the dead lived not again untill the 1000 years were finiſhed. This is the Firſt reſurrection. p. 943

Chap. 21. 24. And the Nations of them which are ſaved ſhall walk in the light of it. pag. 944

——Verſ. 26. And they ſhall bring the glory and honour of the Nations into it. pag. 95

Places of Scripture differently read, or pointed, from the ordinary Tranſlation.

Gen. 3. 14. Pag. 291
12. 6. p. 85
15. 9. p. 472
49. 10. p. 47
Exod. 4. 25, 26. p. 71
Deut. 33. 2. p. 437
I Chro. 1. 6, 7. p. 372
Ezra 1. 10. p. 862
Nehem. 13. 6. p. 863
Eſth. 7. 5. p. 150
Pſal. 110. 3. ibid.
Prov. 21. 16. p. 42
Eccles. 5. 1. p. 432, 446
Iſa. 9. 1. p. 131, 132, 566
11. 15, 16. p. 659.
Dan. 2. 45. p. 909, 917
7. 9. p. 663, 932
12. p. 955, 956
24. p. 810, 953
9. 25. p. 861
9. 26. p. 866
27. p. 869, &c.
11. 35, 36, 37, 38, 39. p. 821, 822, 977
41, 43. p. 831
12. 8. p. 1001
Mal. 4. 6. p. 128
Tob. 14. 3, &c. p. 719
I. Macc. 12. 31. p. 584
Matt. 11. 25. p. 120
19. 28. p. 110
27. 9. p. 963
Mar. 11. 17. p. 60
Luk. 1. 72. p. 982
6. 12. p. 88
Acts 2. 5. p. 97
42. p. 463
46. p. 409
5. 3. p. 152.
16. 13, 16. p. 88
17. 4. p. 27
24. 16. p. 1068
I. Cor. 15. 41, 42. p. 110
I. Tim. 4. 1, 2, 3. p. 767, 768, 832
Heb. 2. 6, 8. p. 717
II. Pet. 2. 4. p. 31
I. John 2. 18, 22. p. 1101
Jude verſe 6. p. 31
14. p. 437
Rev. 11. 7. p. 600, 930
12. 18. vel 13. 1. p. 522
13. 1, 2, 3. p. 526
14. p. 630
14. 1. p. 636
5. p. 640
8. p. 645
15. 4. p. 13, 1114
17. 8. p. 653

The Second Table, containing
The Authors quoted in this Edition.

A.

A Barbenel
Aben Ezra
Aberdonienſ. Epiſc.
R. Abraham Sebah
Achmetis Oneirocrit.
Acta Pudentis
Acta Stephani monachi apud Damaſcen. & Surium.
Adrichomius
Ælian
Æmilius Sura ap. Paterc.
Æſchines
Æſchyli interpres
Ainſworth
Alcazar
Aldi N. T. Græc.
Alſtedius
S. Ambroſe
Ammianus Marcell.
Andreas Cæſarienſ.
B^p. Andrews
Anonymus ap. Caſſandr.
Apollinarius
Apomaſar
Apuleius
Aretas
Ariſtotle
Arnobius
R. Aſche
Aſterius
S. Athanaſius
Athenæus
Athenagoras
S. Auguſtine
Aulus Gellius
Aurelius Victor
Aureolus
Author imperfecti Operis in Matthæum

B.

B Alduinus
Bale
Balſamon
Baronius
Barthol. Georgivez
S. Baſil
Bede
S. Benedicti Regula
Benjamin Tudelenſ.
S. Bernard
Beroſus ap. Joſeph.
Card. Beſſarion ap. Meurſ.
Beza
Biblioth. Patrum
Bigneus
Biſhop of Meath
Blondus Flavius
Brightman
Broughton
Bucer
Budæus
Busbequius
Buxtorf

C.

C Æſarius
Callimachus
Calvin
Calviſius
Cambden
Camerarius
Cameron
Canon. Apoſtol.
Carmen Argonaut.
Carpentarius in Platon. Alcinoum
Caſaubonus
Caſſander
Caſſianus
Caſtellio
Catalogus Teſt. Verit. per Illyricum
Cato
Cedrenus
Celſus ap. Origen.
Centuriatores
Chalcocondylas
Chald. Paraphr.
Chazkuni Lib. Hebr.
Chemnitii Examen
Chronic. Alexandrin.
Chryſologus
S. Chryſoſtome
Cicero
S. Clemens Alexandr.
S. Clemens Romanus
Cocceius
Codex Complutenſ.
Codex Regius
Concilium: Carthaginenſ. 3. / Chalcedonenſ. / Conſtantinopol. / Eliberitan. / Epheſin. / Gangrenſ.

Concilium { Gangrens. / Hipponens. / Laodicen. / Lateranens. / Nicen. 1. & 2. / Rhemens. / Tridentin.

Constantinus Manasses
Constitut. Apostol.
Continuatio Belli sacri
Cosmas Megalianus
D^r. Crakenthorp
Ctesias
Cujacius
S. Cyprian
—Ejus Vita per Pontium
S. Cyrill. { Alexandr. / Hierosolym.

D.

D Amian. à Goes
B^p. Davenant
De Dieu
Diodorus ap. Euseb.
Diodorus Sic.
Dion
S. Dionys. Areopagita
Dioscorides
Dounam de Antichristo
Drusius
Durant. de Rit. Eccles.

E.

K. E Dward's Catechism
Elias in Tishbi
R. Eliezar
Elmachinus
Ennius
Ephrem Syrus
S. Epiphanius
Erasmus
Erpenius
Euagrius
Eucherius
Eunapius
Eusebius Altkircherus
Eusebius Cæsarien.
Eusebius Pamph.
Eustathius
Eutropius

F.

F Agius Paulus
Fasciculus Temporum
Fasti Siculi
Festus
Flacius Illyricus
Florus
Forbes
Forsterus
Fox Martyrol.
Fructuosi decret. ap. Gratian.
Fulleri Miscell.
Funccius

G.

G Aius ap. Euseb.
Galatinus Petrus
Gelasius Cyzicenus
Gemara Talmud.
Geneva Translat.
Gennadius
Geograph. Arab.
Gerhard
Glassius
Gothofredus in Tertull.
Gotthish Missal
Graserus
Gratian
Gregentii Disput. cum Herbano
S. Greg. { Nazianzen / Nyssen
Gregor. Thaumaturg.
Gregor. Turonens.
Grotius
Gualter. Brutus ap. Fox.

H.

H Einsius
Helvicus
Hemingius
Hentenius
Hermes Trismeg.
Herodian
Herodotus
Hesiod
Hesychius
S. Hierome
S. Hilarie
Hippocrates
Hippolytus
Homer
Homilies
Horace
Hospinian
Hyperius

I.

J Alkut. Lib. Hebr.
Iamblichus
Jeremias Patriarch
B^p. Jewell
S. Ignatius, Antioch. Episc.
Ignatius, Antiochen. Patriarch. ap. Scalig.
Joannes Curopalata
Joannes de Nicol
Jornandes
Josephus
Joseph.

Joseph. Gorionides
Joseph. Vicecomes
Irenæus
Isengrinius Isidorus { Hispalens. / Pelusiot.
Isocrates
Juchasin Lib. Hebr.
R. Juda ap. Drusium
Julius Capitol.
Julius Front.
Junius
Ivo Carnotens.
Justin historic.
Justin Martyr
Juvenal

K.

R.D. Kimchi
Kircheri Concord.

L.

Lactantius
Lampridius
Langus interp. Justin. M.
à Lapide
Latini Interpp. N.T.
Legenda aurea
Leo magnus
R. Levi
Leunclavius
Lexicon vet. Gr. Lat.
Linacer
Lipsius
Liturgia { S. Basilii / S. Chrysost. / S. Clementis / S. Jacobi, Hierosol. / S. Marci, Alexandr.
Lucan
Lucian
Luther
Lutheranus anonym. de Rebus in novis. die
Lyranus

M.

Macrobius
Maginus
Maimonides
Manuscr. Alexandr. in Biblioth. Polyglott.
Martialis
Mart. Heracleot.
Martinii Lexic.
Martyrium Omeritarum ap. Baron.
Martyrolog. Roman.
Masius
Melanchthon
Melchior Canus
Menander ap. Just. M.
Menolog. Græc.
Methodius
Meursius
Micyllus Jacob.
Midrash Tehillin, Lib. Heb.
Mincha Chadascha, Lib. Heb.
Minutius Felix
Miracles of the B. V. in Italian Molinæus de Morte Moses liber
B^p. Morton
Moses Bar-Cephas
R. Moses de Kotsi ap. Drus.
Munster

N.

R.M. Nachmanides
Napier
Nicephorus Callistus
Nicephorus Gregoras
Nicetas

O.

Oecumenius
Oenomaus ap. Euseb.
Onkelos
Optatus Milevit.
Ordo Romanus
Origanus
Origen
Orosius
Ovid

P.

Præus
Paterculus
Paulus Diaconus
Perionius P.
Perkins
Petavius
Petronius
Philastrius
Philo Byblius
Philo Judæus
Philoxeni Glossar.
Picus Mirandula
Pirke Avoth, Lib. Heb.
Piscator
Pius I.
Platina
Plato
Plautus
Pliny

Pliny
Plinius Secundus
Plutarch
Polycrates ap. Euseb.
Pontanus
Porphyrius
Possevinus
Primasius
Procopius
Prudentius
Psellus
Ptolemæus
Ptolemæi Canon
Pythagoras

R.

R Euchlin
Rhodiginus Cæl.
Ribera
Rufinus
Rupertus

S.

R. S Aadias
Sabellicus
Salianus
Samarit. Pentat.
Sammonicus Serenus ap. Macrob.
R. Samuel in Gemara
Sanchuniathon
Sanderus
Scaliger. Joseph.
Scapula
Schickard
Schindler
Scilix ap. Richerium
Sebastianus Francus
Seder Tephilloth Lib. Hebr.
Sedulius
Seldeni Marm. Arund.
Seneca
Septuag. Interpr.
Servius in Virgil.
Sigonius
Simeon Metaphr.
Sixtus Senens.
Sleidan
Snellius
Socrates hist. Eccles.
Solinus
R. Solomon Jarchi
Sozomen
A. Spalatensis
Spartianus
Stadii Ephemeris
Stephanus {Henr. Rob.}
Strabo
Suidas
Sulpitius Severus
Sylburgius
Symbolum {Athanas. Chalcedon. Constantinop. Nicen.}
Symmachus
Synesius
Synodus {Francofurt. Lateran. Trullens. Turonens.}
Syr. Paraphr.

T.

T Acitus
Talmud {Babylon. Hierosolym.}
Talmudici Doctores
Targum {Hierosol. Jonathan}
R. Tedacus Levi
Terence
Tertullian
Thaddei Concio ap. Euseb.
Theocritus Justus Laweni
Theodoret
Theodori Hymnus ap. Baron.
Theodotion
Theophanes
Theophili Alexandr. Edict. ap. Balsam.
Theophilus Antiochenus
Theophylact.
Theosterictus ap. Surium
Thuanus
Thucydides
Tilenus
Tractatus de Antichr. ap. Perrin in Hist. Waldens.
Trebellius Pollio
Tremelius
Trithemius

V.

V Arro
Vatablus
Vedelius
Vegetius
Venantius Fortunatus
Vergerius
Versio Vulgata Lat.
Viega
Villalpandus

Villalpandus
Vincentius hiſtor.
Virgil
Vopiſcus
Uranius ap. Stephan. Byzant.
Urſpergenſis
Uſſerius Armach. Epiſc.

W.

W Aſerus Caſpar
Willet

X.

X Enophon
Xiphiline

Z.

Z Aga Zabo
Zeno Veronenſ.
Zonaras
Zoſimus

The Third Table, containing the Hebrew, Chaldee, and Greek words explained.

The Hebrew and Chaldee words explain'd.

א

אב בית דין The chief of the Sanhedrin. Pag. 273,932
אֵבֶן ſometimes uſed for King. 1022
אבר מן דהבי what. 26
אוֹהֶל מוֹעֵד The Tabernacle of meeting, why ſo called. 436
אוּרִים וְתֻמִּים 271
אז for מֵאז Exod. 4. 26. 71
אַזְכִּיר אֶת שְׁמִי 433
אַחֲרֵי & אָחוֹר ſignify Behind as well as After. 953
אִיֵּי הַגּוֹיִם Gen. 10.5. 363,&c.
אֶל אֲחוֹתָהּ Levit. 18. 18. 824
אֵלָה & אֵלוֹן. 85
אֶרֶץ צְבִי for the land of Canaan. 1001
אִשֶּׁה Fire-offering, what. 387
אָשָׁם Treſpaſs-offering, what. 382

ב

ביד Pag. 155
בְּיוֹמֵיהוֹן דִּי מַלְכַיָּא Dan. 2. 44. 922,&c.
בְּטָרֵי גַלְטָד Jud. 12. 7. 923
בְּרִית A covenant, ſo called from בָּרָה To eat. 470
בָּרַךְ To bleſs, hath a threefold notion in Scripture. 108
בְּרָכָה for a Gift or Preſent. ibid.
בשורה & בסורא ſignify both nuncium & nuncii præmium. 103
בת קול what. 568, 271

ג

גִּדֵּף To reproch or blaſpheme, is put for Idolatry. Pag. 624
גּוֹג אֶרֶץ הַמָּגוֹג Ezek. 38. 2. 374
גֵּחוֹן in Gen. 3. 14. is Breaſt, not Belly. 291,&c.
גרי צדק & גרי בריה, what Proſelytes were ſo called. 25
גרי שער & תושבים Another ſort of Proſelytes. 26

ד

דְּבִיר, the Holy of Holies ſo called. Pag. 500
דָּבָר Word put for Thing. 577
דחילא Fear put for God. 12

ה

הַכְבִּיד Eſai. 9. 1. miſ-tranſlated. Pag. 132
הַמַּשְׂכִּילִים Dan. 12. 3. 113
הַקָּדוֹשׁ how it differs from קֹדֶשׁ. 512,1055
הֶחְקֵל Eſai. 9. 1. miſ-tranſlated. 132

ו

וְאֵין לוֹ Dan. 9. 26. Pag. 866

ז

זֶבַח, The bloudy Sacrifice, how it differs from Mincha. Pag. 382
וגב Joſ. 10. 19. Deuter. 25. 18. 1113

ח

חַג הַקָּצִיר Exod. 23. 16. why Pentecoſt ſo call'd. Pag. 355
חוּץ πλατεῖα. 602
חַטָּאָה Sin-offering, what. 382
חַיִל put for Strength and an Army. 621
חֵיתָהּ יִשְׁבּוּ בָהּ Pſal. 68. 11. 737,926
חָלַף Tranſire & Mutari. 760
חָסִיר uſed actively and paſſively. 268,&c.

חָצֵר

חָצֵר הַחִיצוֹנָה 2 Paralip. 4. 9. Pag. 595
חָרוּץ Dan. 9. 24. 861
חרם. 159
חָרַף To reproch or blaſpheme is put for Idolatry. 624
חֹשֶׁן מִשְׁפָּט Exod. 28. 19. 273
חֲתַן דָּמִים Exod. 4. 25. 70,71

ט

טעות & טעא put for Idolatry. Pag.770

י

יום Day put for a long time. Pag.945,1091
יום דינא רבא. 932
יַיִן חֶמֶר Pſal. 75. 9. 646
יָלַךְ ſignifies both motum à loco and in locum. 441
יַעֲקֹב an heeler: why Jacob ſo called. 284
וְלוֹ יִקְּהַת עַמִּים Gen. 49. 10. 47
ירך the Thigh. To come out of his Thigh, what. ibid.
יָשַׁב ſignif. any Stay in a place. 97

כ

כִּי is both Quoniam and Ideo. Pag.863,1114
כַּלָּה is properly Nurus. 70
כלי שיר האלהים. 14,1114
כנף שקוצים Dan. 9. 27. 870,&c.
כרוב Cherub, whence ſo called. 704
כָּרַת Dan. 9. 26. 866

ל

לֵאלֹהַּ Dan. 11. 38. Pag.824
לא עשה רגליו 2 Sam. 19. 24. 441
לבב תמים & לבב שלם. 235
לַהֲדוֹם רַגְלָיו Pſal. 132. 7. 500
לֵוִי why ſo call'd. 264,&c.
לֶחֶם Bread or Food ſignif. omnia vitæ ſubſidia. 850
לֶחֶם חֻקִּי Prov. 30. 8. 168
לחמא מסתי. ibid.
לכרות ברית percutere fœdus: whence that phraſe. 472
לְמוֹעֲדִים Pſal. 104. 19. 611
לְפָנֵי ἐνώπιον. 629
לשם השמים. 228

מ

מועדי אל Pſal. 74. 7. Pag.90
מוּתָא Death put for the Plague. 552
מותא תנינא The ſecond death, what. 1118
מולתא & מולת. 759
מְחֹקֵק Gen. 49. 10. 46
מחסך עיניך Ezek. 24. 16. 824
מָלְאוּ לִבּוֹ Eſth. 7. 5. 150
ממון שקר. 226
מן Manna. 325
מִנְחָה Meat-offering, what. 382,454
מָעֻזִּים Mahuzzim, Dan. 11. 38. 825
מָרַד To revolt put for Idolatry. 769,&c.
מְשׁוֹמֵם Dan. 9. 27. 869
משפט ſignif. both pœnam & culpam. 1115

נ

נָאַץ To deſpiſe, provoke, blaſpheme, is put for Idolatry. Pag.625
נִבַּלְתִּי Eſai. 26. 19. 718
נֶחֱתָךְ Dan. 9. 24. 857
נָשִׁים Dan. 11. 37. 824

ע

עוֹז Pſal. 8. 2. why render'd αἶνος. Pag.52
עולם הבא 668,&c.868
עוֹלָם 588
עַם נָגִיד הַבָּא Dan. 9. 26. 868
עַם נְדָבוֹת Pſal. 110. 3. 150
עָנָה. 79
עצבים Idols, why ſo called. 774
עקר ſignifies a Foundation, and a Bond, or a Bill of contract. 106
עשה Facere is both to doe, and to ſacrifice. 831

פ

פרקליט Paraclete. Pag.616

צ

צבא (to which anſwers στίχω & στοιχεῖον.) Pag.759
צדקה Almes, why ſo called. 104,&c.
צור Rock, a Title given to God. 826
צר Exod. 4. 25. 69
צרף To melt, and To refine. 760

ק

קדוש Holy, what it imports. Pag.8, &c.
קדם The Eaſt, why Arabia was ſo called. 580
קֹדֶשׁ how it differs from הַקֹּדֶשׁ. 512,1055
קֹדֶשׁ הַחֻלִּים Levit. 19. 24. why the Heave-offering ſo called. 383
קהל רפאים Cœtus Gigantum, why Hell was ſo called. 42
קולות φωναὶ Voices ſignif. Thunder. 568
קטיגור κατήγορος, Apocal. 12. 10. why Satan is ſo call'd. 616
קרבן Corban, what. 382

ר

רחב πλατεῖα & πλάτος. Pag. 603
רחוב Dan. 9. 25. 861
רמה Dan. 7. 9. miſ-tranſlated. 932
רשע. 241

ש

שבוע signif. Sevens of daies, not of years. Pag.743
שבט signif. the Supreme Power. 46
שבעים שבעה Dan. 9. 25. 861
שילה Shiloh, why Christ was so called. 47
שכינה Shechinah, what. 435, &c.
שלום Peace. 122
שלמים Peace-offerings, what. 383
שמים וארץ Heaven and Earth put for the World. 758
שמע To hear, and To obey. 446
שמר רגליך Eccles. 5. 1. 441
שקוצים Idols. 871
שרים הראשונים Dan. 10. 13. 56

ת

תֵּבֵל Οἰκουμένη, the habitable Earth. Pag.261
תועבות Idols. 871
תנופות Wave-offerings, what. 383
תנין a Dragon. 612,613
תרומות Heave-offerings, what. 383,639
תתך Dan. 9. 25. 872

The Greek Words explained.

A.

Ἀβαδδών. Pag.583
Ἄγγελοι ἐκλεκτοί. 56
Ἁγίασμα. 498
Ἅγιον. 8
Ἅγιον βῆμα. 488,498
Ἅγιος. 643
Ἀδύτως διέβαν. 455
Ἅδης. 52
Αἰὼν ὁ ἐρχόμενος. 1110
Αἰώνιον εὐαγγέλιον. 641
Ἀκοιμήτους πέτεται. 326, &c.
Ἀκρωτήριον κεκερασμένον. 645
Ἀκρόασις. 420
Ἀκροποιλεύτια, Ἀκροσίχια. 79, 411
Ἀλήθεια, pro διακονία τῆς ἀληθείας. 19
Ἁμαρτία Peccatum & Sacrif. pro peccato. 1114
Ἀνάθεμα. 159
Ἀνάκλορον. 1011
Ἀντίχριστοι. 1101
Ἀνωτέρα ἐκκλησία. 408
Ἀπάρτι. 646
Ἀπαρχαί. 639
Ἀποστασία, Ἀποστασίαι. 769
Ἀρμαγεδδών. 650,707
Ἀρχάγγελοι. 56
Ἀφαιρέματα, Ἀφορίσματα. 384
Ἄψινθος. 1113

B.

Βασιλεῖς pro quibusvis Summatibus. Pag. 875, 1115
Βδέλυγμα ἐρημώσεως. 872
Βλασφημία. 624,&c.
Βυλὴ θυσιῶν. 494
Βεώματα. 850
Βωμός. 497,&c.

Γ.

Γενεὰ αὕτη ἡ μὴ παρέλθῃ. Pag.919,920
Γερμανία. 373, 377
Γυνὴ περφπλεύσα. 77

Δ.

Δαιμόνια, Δαίμων. Pag. 39, 772, &c.
Δαιμονιζόμενοι. 38, &c.
Δαιμόνιον ἔχει. 39
Δαιμονόλητοι. ibid.
Δεισιδαίμονες. 783
Δίκαιον τῆς πόλεως. 606, &c.
Δεξιὰ δυνάμεως. 787
Δεσμοῖς ἀϊδίοις τετήρηκεν. 31
Δικαστήριον. 549, 1123
Διὰ τὺς Ἀγγέλυς. 439, 440
Δι' ὕδατος. 755
Διάβολος. 782
Διάκονος. 34, 36
Διακρίνειν σῶμα τῦ Κυρίυ. 10, 512
Διδασκαλία δαιμονίων. 771, 781
Δικαιοσύνη pro ἐλεημοσύνη. 104
Δικαιώματα. 13, 1117
Δίκλω πυρὸς αἰωνίυ. 1118
Δόξα. 437
εἰς Δόξαν Θεῦ. 228
Δόξα καὶ τιμή. 1119

Δοχή. 458
Δυνάμις, Exercitus & robur. 621
ὅπῃ τὸ Δῶμα. 408
τὸ Δῶρόν σε. 357, 358

E.

Ἐι μή. Pag.580
Εἰς ὥραν καὶ ἡμέραν. 587
Ἐκ τῆς Εὐαγγελίου ζῆν. 101
Ἐκκλησία pro loco. 405,&c.
Ἐλεημοσύνη. 104,165
Ἐν pro εἰς. 19, 121
Ἐν Κυρίῳ ἀποθνήσκοντες. 647
Ἐν μέσῳ τοῦ θρόνου & ἐν κύκλῳ τοῦ θρόνου. 704,707
Ἐν μέσῳ τ̃ πλατείας αὐτ̃. 1120
Ἐν τῇ ἐξουσίᾳ. 155
Ἐν ὁράσει. 589
Ἐν τοῖς ἐπουρανίοις. 760
Ἐν ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων. 591, 833
Ἐνεργούμενοι. 40
Ἐντεῦθεν καὶ ἐντεῦθεν. 1120
Ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ. 629
Ἐξομολογοῦμαι. 120
Ἔπειλα. 949
Ἐπίσι Ὁ. ἄρι Ὁ. 168
Ἐπουράνι Ὁ. 982
ὁ Ἐρχόμενος. 1110
Ἐσκήνωσεν ἐν ἡμῖν. 350
Ἔπ ἅπαξ. 221
Ἐφάπ ἡμέρα, ὥρα, χρόν Ὁ. 804,818
Ἐφάπαι ἡμέραι. 805
Ἔφαλον τ̃ ἡμερῶν. 753
Εὐαγγέλιον, Bonum nuncium, & boni nuncii præmium. 102,&c.
Εὐαγγέλια, Pl. 102
Εὐδοκία ἐν ἀνθρώποις. 121
Εὐλογεῖν, εἰς Εὐλογίαν. 108
Εὐλογία. 390
Εὐχαριστία. 383,458

Z.

Ζῶα τέσσαρα (Apocal.4.) Pag.926,737

H.

Ἡ ἡμέρα ἡ μεγάλη. Pag.685
Ἡτοίμασεν αὐτὴν ἡ γυνὴ αὐτοῦ. 1117

Θ.

Θάνα Ὁ. pro Peste. Pag.552
Θάνα Ὁ. δεύτερ Ὁ. 1118
Θεμέλι Ὁ. 106,107
Θερίγκ Ὁ. 26
Θυμός. 644
Θυσία. 382,385,458
Θυσία αἰνέσεως. 459,462
Θυσία λογική. 386,387,455
Θυσιαστήριον. 497,505,595
τὸ Θυσιαστήριον ἁγιάζει τὸ δῶρον. 477
τῷ Θυσιαστηρίῳ συμμερίζεσθαι. 101

I.

Ἱερόν. Pag.268,595,1010
Ἱλαστήριον. 434

K.

Καὶ causalis, &c. Pag.119,630. ordinativa. 920
Καὶ τῇ κλάσει τοῦ ἄρτου, καὶ τ̃ προσευχαῖς. 463
Καλλιερεῖν. 466
Καλλαλάγηθι τῷ ἀδελφῷ. 360
Καλήορ Ὁ. 616
Κατοικοῦντες. 97
Καυστήριον, Καυτηριάζειν. 835
Κεχαριτωμένη Ὁ. 268
Κιθάρεσι τῷ Θεῷ. 14, 1114
Κλῆρ Ὁ. 19, 270
Κοινὸν pro ἀκαθάρτον. 9
Κοπιῶντες. 92,93,202
Κορβᾶν. 124
Κρῖμα. 1115
Κρίσις pro ἡμέρα κρίσεως. 31
Κτήνη κοινά. 9
Κυριακά. 20
Κυριακὴ ἡμέρα. 458
Κυριακόν. 416,427

Λ.

Λαπῖν Ὁ. Pag.634
Λειτουργός. 34
Λογεῖον. 271
Λυπήσονται. 760
Λύση. 16

M.

Μακεδονία. Pag.377
Μαμωνᾶ ἀδικίας. 226
Μέθεξις. 420
Μεμνημένοι. 479

Μεσότοιχον τῦ φραγμῦ. 26
Μελάνοια. 139,764
Μελάνοιαι. 450
Μετὰ ταῦτα εἶδον. 724
Μυριάσιν αὐτῦ. 437

N.

Ναοί. Pag.428
Νεκρός. 657
Νῆσ Θ. 364
Νοσφίζεσθαι. 152

O.

Οἱ causaliter. Pag.92
Οἰκεῖν. 97
Οἶκ Θ. Καὶ' οἶκον. 409
καὶ' Οἶκον αὐτῦ ἐκκλησία. 411
Οἰκεμβήν, Ὅλη οἰκεμένη. 868
Οἰκεμένη μέλλουσα. 261,262,716
Οἶν Θ. τῦ θυμῦ. 644,645
Ὀνόματα ἀνθρώπων. 608,609,1112
Ὅπως ἄν. 670
Ὅρκια τάμνειν. 472
Ὁσιότης. 508,1009
Ὅσοι pro οἱ. 28
Ὅταν πλέσωσι. 600,739,930
Ὅταν δὲ πάλιν εἰσαγάγῃ. 716
Ὅτι ideo. 938
Οὐχὶ μένον σοὶ ἔμενε; 154
Οὐχὶ φερνὴν ἐν τῇ σῇ ἐξεσίᾳ ὑπῆρχεν; 154,155

Π.

Παῖδες. Pag. 52
Πάλιν προφητεῦσαι. 527,593,696,1109
Πάνδημ. 622
Πάντων τὸ τέλ Θ. ἤγγικε. 819
Παρὰ τὴ κτίσανλα. 64
Παρεισάξυσι. 316
Παρελεύσονται. 760
Πᾶσι τοῖς ἔθνεσι. 60
Πειράζειν. 153
Περιύσι Θ. λαός. 168
Πλαλεῖα. 602,1120
Πλάσ Θ. τῆς γῆς. 715
Πλήρωμα τῶν χρόνων seu καιρῶν. 878
Πληρῶσαι. 15, 16, 359, 360
Πνεύματα πλάνα. 770
ἐν Πνεύματι καὶ ἀληθείᾳ. 63, 64
Ποδήρης. 1111
Ποιῆσαι, durare. 624
Ποιῆσαι ἔλε Θ. μετά τιν Θ. 982
Πόλις ἡ μεγάλη. 1116
Πρεσβύτεροι. 36, 91, &c.
Πρεσβύτεροι τῆς ἐκκλησίας. 94
Πρόκλαυσις. 420
Προσευχὴ pro Loco orationis. 87, 88
Προσκυνεῖν. 623
Προσφορά. 458
Πυρύμενοι. 760

P.

Ῥαντισμὸς αἵματ Θ. Χριστῦ. Pag. 82
Ῥῆμα pro πρᾶγμα. 577
Ῥίζα Δαβίδ. 1112

Σ.

Σαββάτῳ δευτεροπρώτῳ. Pag.355
Σεβόμενοι. 27
Σειραῖς ζόφυ παρέδωκεν. 31
Σεισμός. 555
Σεμνεῖον. 411
Στοιχεῖα. 758, &c. 763, &c.
Σύγχυσις. 420
Σφάγιον. 382
Σωζομένων ἔθνη. 1119
Σῶμα καταρτίσω μοι. 1097
Σωτήριον. 337

T.

Ταραχθῶσιν. Pag.31
Ταχὺ & ἐν τάχει. 1120
Τέλ Θ. pro mercede. 1114
Τεταγμένοι εἰς ζωὴν αἰώνιον. 28
Τέταρτον τῆς γῆς. 553
Τιμὴ διαλῆ. 94,95
Τινὲς ἀποστάσονται. 798,&c.
Τόποι ἡγιασμένοι. 89
Τόποι θρησκεύσιμοι. 422
Τράπεζα pro Epulo. 491
τὸ Τρίτον ἀνθρώπων. 589

Y.

Ὑπερήτης. Pag.34
Ὑπερῷον. 408,&c.
Ὑπόδειγμα μελλόντων ἀσεβεῖν. 44
Ὑπόπωσις. 420
Ὑστεροὶ καιροί. 804,&c.
ἐν Ὑψίστοις. 119

Φ.

Φαρμακεία. Pag.1116
Φόβ⊙. pro Θεός. 13
Φοβύμυοι ϯ Θεόν. 28
Φωναὶ καὶ βρονταί. 568

X.

Χαμευνία. Pag.311
Χάρις pro Εὐχαριστία. 506
Χάρισμα. 269
Χίδρα. 492
Χοῖνιξ. 549
Χολή. 645
Χόρ⊙. 580

Ψ.

Ψεύδεσθαι τὸ Πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον. Pag.153
Ψυχὴ cadaver. 1112

Ω.

Ὠδῖνες. Pag.612
Ὥρα. 587

The

The Fourth Table, of Things, or the chief Matters contained in this Edition.

A.

Pag.

THE A.B.C. of Prophecie. 908
Abomination of deſolation. 872
Abraham's offering of Iſaac the Key for underſtanding the Sacrifices of the Law. 144,145
Achmetes his Onirocritica, of what uſe towards the clearing of the Prophetick ſtyle. 559, &c.
Adam's Sin was a kind of Sacrilege, 160. Four aggravations of his Sin. 280 Affections. See Paſſions.
Affliction, the fitteſt time to glorify God in. 251
Ahab. The way of Ahab, what. 321
Aire, the manſion of Evil ſpirits. 30, 31
Albigenſes, their Piety and Sufferings. 626, &c. 644, 888, &c.
Almes, no arbitrary thing, 105. why God requires them, 227. they are to be join'd with Prayer, 223. how prevalent they are with God, 226. they are a fit acknowledgement of God's being the Lord and Giver of all, 228, &c. according to our works of Charity and Mercy ſhall be our laſt doom. 104
Alſtedius his 4 Epocha's of the 1260 days (*Apocal.*11.) examined. 744
Altar, the name given to the H. Table by the Ancients, 487. the ſame with Holy Table, 495. the Altar of the true God called Θυσιαςήριον, of an Idol or falſe God, Βωμὸς, 497. anciently but one Altar in a Church and in one Dioceſs, 414. whether it may be called Solium Chriſti, 1011. anciently it was the place where the Prayers of the Church were offered to God. 461, 1004, 1035
America. The firſt Gentile inhabitants and the late Chriſtian plantations there. 980
Ananias, his Sin was Sacrilege, 151. how this Sacrilege is deſcribed, 152. the aggravations of it. 154
Angels. The conceit of Dionyſ. Areopag. of 9 orders, groundleſs, 53. Angels preſent in the Jewiſh Temple and our Churches, 438, &c. their preſence an argument for a reverent behaviour there, 440. where they keep their ſtation, there is God's Shechinah or Special preſence, 436, &c. Angels are in Scripture put for thoſe over whom they preſide, 569, 585, 615, 640, 656. Good Angels not envious at the advancement of mans nature by Chriſt, 117. nor grieve at the good of others. 118
See more in Archangels.
Antiochus Epiphanes not meant by the Little Horn in Daniel, 900, 921. the calamity under him for 2300 evenings and mornings (*Dan.*8.14.) whence it is to be reckoned. 812
Antichriſt meant by the Little Horn in Dan. 810, 879. how he is a Counter-Chriſt, and his Coming a counter-reſemblance of Chriſt's coming, 797, &c. The Saracen and Turk not the Great Antichriſt, 794, &c. who primarily meant by the Antichriſt and the many Antichriſts in S. John's Epiſt. 818, 1101
Apocalyps is Daniel explicate, as Daniel is Apocalypſis contracta, 964. the ſubject matter of it, 925. it contains the Fates of the Church till Chriſt's ſecond Coming, 545, 1122. it is properly the Prophecy of the Church of the Gentiles, 714, 1080. a particular argument for the Divinity of the Apocalyps, 1047. the authority of it doubted of by whom, 747. the admirableſt Prophecy in Scripture. 722
Apoſtaſy implies a Revolt from God and Chriſt by Idolatry, 769. where it was expreſsly foretold in the Old Teſtament, 821. it was to be a General one, 798, &c. but not ſuch an abſolute one as wholly to renounce Chriſt, 795, &c. 802. the 2 main Apoſtaſies of Iſrael in Jeroboam's and Ahab's days deſcribed. 320
The Apoſtles age, when it ended. 458
To appear before the Lord, what, 344. all the Males of the Jews were to appear before the Lord thrice a year, but the Women were exempted, and why. 345
Ara and Altare how they differ. 498
Archangels, their number Seven, proved from Scripture and Tradition, 53, &c. 1111. repreſented by the 7 Lamps in the Temple, 1021, &c. their Office twofold. 56
Aſſurance, not a Cauſe or Inſtrument, but a Conſequent of Juſtification, 401. Obedience is the way to Aſſurance. 402
Aſtrology, the Author's judgement of it. 746

B.

Baalim, what, and whence ſo called. 776, 777
Babel's Tower, the confuſion and number of the Languages there. 368
Babylon (in the Apocalyps) is Rome Pſeudo-Chriſtian, 652, &c. not New Rome or Conſtantinople, 1128. why call'd the Great City, 601, 1116. and the Great Whore, 652, 793. what's meant by her Golden Cup and the Name in her forehead, 654. the twofold ruine of Babylon. 608.
Baptiſme, called by the ancients Signaculum, God's Seal or Mark, 637. from what analogy Water was uſed in Baptiſme to be a ſign of Regeneration or the New birth, 83. that by Water in Baptiſme is figured the H. Spirit, not the Bloud of Chriſt. 81, 82
Baptiſteries were anciently without the Church. 419
Bath Kol, God's Oracle and Anſwer from heaven accompanied with Thunder. 568, &c.
Beaſts in the Prophetick ſtyle ſignify States and Kingdomes, 955. the 7 Heads of the Beaſt have a double ſignification, 653, 1128. the Beaſt with Ten horns, what, 620. the Beaſt with Two horns, what. 628
Blaſphemy is put for Idolatry. 624, 625
To Bleſs hath a threefold notion in Scripture. 108
Bleſſing ſometimes in Scripture ſignifies a Gift or Preſent. ibid.
Body. When a dead Body begins to corrupt. 68
Bread ſignifies ſometimes in Scripture all neceſſaries of life. 850
Breaking of Bread, put for the Communion of the Euchariſt. 409
Breaſt-plate of judgement, why ſo called. 273
The Bride's making herſelf ready for the marriage of the Lamb. 1117
Burnt-offering, what, and why offered daily, 382, 383. it had annexed to it a Meat-offering and Drink-offering, and was accompanied with Peace-offerings. 471

C.

TO be Called is To be. 551, 577
Calling of the Gentiles. See Gentiles.
Canaan, or Paleſtine, divided into three Provinces, 129. its Husbandry and Harveſts, 354. its Breed of Cattel in the Spring and at Autumne, ibid. this Land was promiſed ſed to be given for an inheritance to Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, and not to their Seed onely, 982, &c. a figure of Heaven, 331. the Jews caſt out of their own Land by the Romans, who yet uſed not to carry other Nations captive; what implied thereby. 331

Captivity. The 3 chief Captivities or Diſperſions of the Jews, 97, 98. Three ſteps or degrees of the Babyloniſh Captivity. 813

Catholick Epiſtles. See General Ep.

Cerriti, why mad-men were ſo called. 39

Changing of Times and Laws, what it implies in SS. 901

Cherub and Cherubim, whence ſo called, 704. their forme, 1121. why the Curtains of the Tabernacle and Walls of the Temple were filled with pictures of Cherubims. 438

Chiliaſme. See Millennium.

Chriſt; his ſolemn Preaching began not till John Baptiſt had done his, and why, 126, &c. his Death and Reſurrection foretold in the Law, Prophets and Pſalms, 66, 67. his Univerſal Kingdome and the glorious ſtate of his Church is yet to come, 260, &c. He is to be received whole, not onely as Prieſt, but as King, 400. He is given to us for an Example of life, 210. How he is to be imitated. 211

The Chriſtian Sacrifice. See Sacrifice.

The true Church of Chriſt never wholly extinguiſhed, 800. in what ſenſe it was either Viſible or Inviſible under Antichriſt. 183, 184, 800, &c.

Churches or Places for worſhip in the firſt Century, 410. in the ſecond Cent. 414. in the third, 417. Reaſons to prove this, 424. Objections anſwered from p. 424 to 431. at firſt the ſacred meetings were in ſome Upper-rooms ſet apart for Religious uſes, 408, 410. Salute the Church at his houſe, how to be underſtood, 411, 412. That Chriſtians had ſuch Places for Sacred worſhip, was known to the Gentiles, 422. To erect and ſet apart Places for Divine worſhip, is from the Inſtinct of Nature, 432, &c. A Land without ſuch Places for Religion was counted Unclean, 433. Churches are to be Magnificent and decently adorned. 518, 519

Circumciſion, the Verba ſolennia uſed therein. 70, 71

Clean Heart. See Heart.

Clergy, Clerus, why ſo called, 19, 270. Their obligation to a ſpecial demeanour and differing kind of converſation from the Laiety. 19, 269, 270

Clouds. Chriſt's Coming in the Clouds, whence the phraſe is borrowed. 922, 934, 965

Cœnaculum Sion or Church of Sion, what. 408

Comet, not mention'd in Scripture, but implied in other expreſſions. 37

Coming of Chriſt ſpoken of indefinitely in the Old Teſtament, without that diſtinction of Firſt and Second Coming more clearly expreſſed in the New, 128, 755. His Firſt Coming was at the time prefixed in Dan. 136. His Second Coming ſhall have an Harbinger as well as the Firſt, 127, 128. Whence S. Paul learn'd to confute the Theſſalonians falſe fear of the day of Chriſt's Coming to judgement to be near at hand. 921, 933

Coming of Chriſt ſometimes in Scripture implies the deſtruction of Jeruſalem and the Jewiſh State. 872

Commemoration twofold in the Euchariſt, 474. how this Commemoration is made to God. 479

Competency twofold, 169. a Competency onely is to be prayed for, 173. it is the beſt and ſafeſt condition. 174

Confeſſion of Faith ſhould not be long nor obſcure, 1069. a Fundamental Confeſſion how it may be framed, 1072. Some Politick conſiderations againſt ſuch a Confeſſion examined. 1074. See more in Fundamentals.

Conflagration of the World, whether it implies an utter abolition. 760, 761, 763

Congruity. How the Rule of Congruity is obſerved by God in his dealings with man, 106. How it is the Reaſon and Rule of ſeveral Duties God requires at our hands. 123

Conſcience. A good Conſcience compared to a Feaſt in 3 reſpects, 218. a Seared Conſcience, what, 835, 836. it is the worſt eſtate of the Soul, 217. how God's Law alone binds the Conſcience. 243, 244

Conſecrate. See Dedicate.

Conſtantinople not meant by the myſtical Babylon (in Apocal. 17.) 1128. when and how it was taken by the Turks. 589

Contrition, what; the 2 parts or degrees thereof. 140

Converſion, the parts or degrees thereof. 142

Corban (קרבן) what, 124. more particularly deſcribed with the 2 parts thereof, 382. it was called alſo אשה Iſheh or Fire-offering, 381. the moſt Holy Offering. 382

Cornelius a Proſelyte, and of what ſort of Proſelytes. 220

Covenant twofold, of Works and of Grace, 332, &c. the open and the ſecret or hidden Covenant under the Law, 333. Covenant of Grace the ſame for ſubſtance under the Law and Goſpel. 332, &c.

Covenants. The Univerſal cuſtome of mankind to contract and confirm Covenants by eating and drinking together. 470

Covetous men, their great folly. 177

Council of Conſtantinople endeavoured to be wrong'd by foiſting in 2 Canons for Saint-worſhip, 845. falſely ſaid to be againſt the words [Saint] and [Θεοτόκος] 846, 847. the Firſt Nicene Council's Teſtimony touching the Kingdome of Chriſt, 997. a foul Story made uſe of in the Second Nicene Council in behalf of Image-worſhip, 848. Council of Trent added more Aricles to the Creed. 1073

Courts of the Temple, the Inner and Outer Courts, what they ſignifie, 729, 730. the Times of both not coincident, 727, 728. the Outmoſt Court or Court of the Gentiles. 26

The Creature how ſubject to vanity and bondage, 289, 290, 995. the Creatures were made and are to be uſed not onely for the Service of the Body, but of the Soul. 256, 995

S. Cyprian, a fabulous ſtory touching the manner of his converſion, 840. his opinion about Chiliaſme. 1026

D.

Dæmoniacks were Lunaticks or Mad-men. 38, 39

Dæmons (Δαιμόνια in 1 Tim. 4. 1.) not always taken in Scripture for Evil Spirits, 782, &c. but ſometimes for the Deified Souls of men deceaſed, according to the notion of the Gentiles Theology, 775, &c. Dæmons were ſuppoſed to be a middle ſort of divine Powers, Mediators and Agents between the Gods and men, 772, &c. the ſame with Dii Animales, Penates, Lares, Manii Dii, 777. the way of worſhipping them by Images, Pillars, or Columns, 778, 779. their worſhip promoted by lying miracles, 839. the Gentiles Theology of Dæmons revived and reſembled by an Idolatrous ſort of Chriſtians. 781

Daily Bread, what meant thereby. 112, 168

Dan, why not mentioned among the 12 Tribes (in Apocal. 7.) 564, 565

Daniel's LXX Weeks explained, 857, &c. the purport of them, 857. his Prophecy reaches to Chriſt's Second Coming, 964. whether he underſtood his own Viſions. 965

Day ſignifies ſometimes in Scripture a long time. 112, 945

Days. The 1260 Days (in Apocal. 11.) are to be taken for Years, proved by 5 Reaſons, 742. when they begin and end, 744. the 1290 and 1335 Days (in Dan. 12.) are ſo many Years, 887. Junius and Broughton, who interpret them of ſo many Days, confuted, 882, &c. their Epocha, 886, 747. the purport and ſcope of thoſe 2 Numbers, 885, 1023. the Events anſwerable to the Prophecy, 887, &c. why the fuller Diſcovery of Antichriſt was not to be till toward the end of the Eleventh Century. 890

Dead body. See Body.

Death, what meant by the Second Death. 1118

Dedicate. Things dedicated unto God how unalienable. 157, 158

Deliration, two kinds of it. 38

Devil, why called The Prince of the power of the Air, 30. and The accuſer of the brethren, 616. why he took took the Serpent's ſhape, 281, &c. he aſſaults us where we are weakeſt, 285. That the Devil durſt not blaſpheme God before the Coming of Chriſt, was an ancient Tenet of ſome Fathers. 32

Diluvium ignis (in Irenæus.) 755
Diſcalceation, a Rite uſed at their coming into Sacred Places by the Jews and Mahumetans, 442. and by the Abyſſine Chriſtians. 443 Double honour. See Honour.
Dying unto Sin, what. 139

E.

Eadem eſt ratio Loci & Temporis, vindicated and explain'd. 1055
Eagle the Enſign of the Roman Empire. 618
The Earth is in the Political World (according to the Prophetick ſtyle) the Peaſantry or Vulgus hominum. 761
Earth-quake, what it means in the Prophetick ſtyle. 1124
Eaſt, Churches anciently built towards it, 419. of worſhipping towards it the practice of Antiquity, 505. By the Eaſt is ſometimes in Scripture meant Arabia. 580 Eccleſiaſtical Perſons. See Clergy and Miniſters.
Edom in the Rabbinical Comments is interpreted Rome; with an account of ſome ſuch paſſages expunged by the Romaniſts. 1103, 1104
Elders, Πρεσβύτεροι, the word uſed ſometimes in the Old Teſtament for Civil Magiſtrates, 94. in the New for Church-officers, 91, &c. no ground (in 1 Tim. 5. 17.) for Lay-Elders in the Church, 92, &c. under this name of Elders are ſometimes included Deacons, 93. the 24 Elders (in Apocal. 4.) who meant thereby, and why they are ſaid to be crowned. 544
Elements, why called (in Gal. 4.) weak and beggarly Elements. 332
An Elias to be the harbinger of Chriſt's Second coming. 127, &c.
The Encamping of Iſrael in the wilderneſs deſcribed, and how it is (in Apocal. 4.) alluded to. 1121
Encauſtum, Ink of a purple colour appropriate to the uſe of Kings, &c. 14
End of the world. That the Apoſtles were not ſo miſtaken as to believe it would be in their days, proved againſt Baronius and others. 819, 820
Enemy and Avenger (in Pſal. 8.) meant of the Devil. 50
Envy, the Image of the Devil. 117
Ephraim, why he (and Dan) not mentioned among the 12 Tribes (in Apocal. 7.) 564, 565
Epiphanius his obſervable Gloſs upon Διδασκαλίαι Δαιμονίων (in 1 Tim. 4. 1.) 784
Ethniciſme, when and by what degrees it fell in the Roman Empire. 259
Euchariſt. That Chriſt is offered there not Hypoſtatically, but Commemoratively onely, proved from ancient Liturgies and Fathers, 478, &c. See Chriſtian Sacrifice.
Even-ſong, its antiquity enquired into. 1030

F.

Faith. A threefold Faith, 301. Saving Faith deſcribed, 206, 207. no True Saving Faith that is without fruits of Obedience. 209
Faſt; the chief end thereof is to humble us, 310. Three Ceremonies anciently uſed in Faſting, 311. why the Jews uſed to faſt upon the 4, 5, and 10 moneths. 1088
Fear is ſometimes in Scripture put for God. 12
Feaſts. The 3 ſolemn Feaſts, (viz. the Paſſeover, Pentecoſt and F. of Tabernacles,) 349. That they were both Commemorative and Figurative, 350. the Preſents and Offerings at theſe Feaſts. 354, &c.
Fire-offering, why ſo called. 387
Firſt Sinner in any kind moſt ſeverely puniſhed by God. 158, 159
Fœdus percutere, ferire; whence the phraſe. 472
Fonts. See Baptiſteries.
Food convenient (in Prov. 30.) what meant thereby. 168, 169
Footſtool. God's Footſtool, what. 500
Forgiveneſs of injuries, a moſt proper and peculiar precept of the Goſpel, 360. the neceſſity thereof proved by 4 arguments. 123, &c.
Forme of Prayer. See Prayer.
Fulneſs of the Gentiles, what. 187, 262
Fundamentals, their Ratio and diſtinguiſhing Character fit to be enquired into and ſtated, 1064, 1071. the reaſon why men are ſhy of doing this, 1064, 1066. Lutherans and Calviniſts differ not in Fundamentals, 1062, 1074. and therefore ſhould tolerate each other, 1062, 1074. Two ſorts of Fundamental Articles, viz. Fundamentals of Salvation and Fundamentals of Eccleſiaſtical communion, 1066. a farther explication of Fundamentals of Salvation, 1068. The way of determining Fundamentals ſhould be ſhort, eaſy and evident, 1069. Fundamenta Theologicarum veritatum not the ſame with Fundamenta Salutis. 1070
Furlongs 1600 (in Apocal. 14. 20.) what may ſeem to be meant thereby. 736

G.

Galilee deſcribed, 130. Galilee of the Gentiles, why ſo called, ibid. Galilee the moſt deſpiſed part of Paleſtine, 132. Chriſt's ordinary reſidence was in Galilee, 130. and this was according to Prophecy. 131
Gehenna, when and how it came to ſignify Hell. 41, 42
General, or Catholick, Epiſtles, why ſo called. 818
Gentiles. Calling of the Gentiles twofold, and at diſtant times, 187, 563, &c. their Firſt Calling, 219. they are God's ſurrogated Iſrael, and repreſented (in the Apocalyps) under the notion of Iſraelites or Jews, 563. why the Apoſtles were at firſt ſo ignorant that the Goſpel was to be preached to the Gentiles. 100
Gerizim. The Temple at mount Gerizim built by whom, and why. 64
Glory, when it referrs to God, what it ſignifies, 119. To Glorify or give Glory unto God, what. 120
Goats ſet on Chriſt's left hand, what meant thereby. 1031
God. How the Underſtanding and Will aſcend to God by the Scale of Creatures. 254, 255.
God's Houſe, the condition and property of it, 432, &c. the manner of God's preſence therein, 436, &c. vindicated twice by Chriſt from prophanation. 58
Gods. To ſerve other Gods is ſometimes meant Politically, for being ſervants to ſuch as ſerved them. 823
Gog and Magog in the Apocalyps, his conjecture touching them, 713. not the ſame with Gog in Ezekiel, 751. Where Gog was propheſied of before Ezekiel, 976. why propheſied of by Micah (in chap. 5.) under the name of the Aſſyrian. 976
Goſpel, the deſcription of it, 143. this deſcription explained, 145. the Goſpel's antiquity, 143. the gradual diſcoveries of it under the Old Teſtament, 144. how it includes Repentance. 147
Goths, when they received the Chriſtian Faith. 1032, 1033
Gothick Liturgy, its antiquity. ibid.
Grebner's Prophecy cenſured. 1077
Greek and Eaſtern Churche's oppoſition againſt Image-worſhip and Saint-worſhip, when it began, and how long it laſted. 843, &c.
Greek Kingdome not extended in the holy account beyond Antiochus Epiphanes. 916, 977
Gregentius (a Chriſtian Biſhop) his famous diſpute with Herbanus a Jew, with the iſſue thereof. 939

H.

Hades, the place of ſeparate Souls. 751
Hail, what it ſignifies in the Prophetick ſtyle. 570 Hallowed. See Sanctified.
Harveſt, a twofold ſignification thereof in the Prophets. 647
M. Haydock's ingenious conjecture about the form of the 7-Sealed Book,

Book, applauded by Mr. Medc. 969
Heart. Cleanneſs or Purity of Heart, what, 232. an effectual means to this is the apprehenſion of God's preſence, 234. Loyalty of Heart to God, what. ibid. Perfect Heart, what, 235. Sincerity of Heart, what, 238. Why and how the Heart is to be kept and guarded with all diligence, 231, 236. From the pure and ſincere Heart are the iſſues of Spiritual life, 237. Five iſſues of Spiritual life. 239
Heave-offering (תרומה) deſcribed and diſtinguiſhed. 383,384
Heaven is ſometimes in Scripture put for God, 133. Where in Scripture God was firſt ſtyled The God of Heaven, and why, 117. Heaven, in the Political world what it ſignif. according to the Prophetick ſtyle. 761,762 Heavens. 3 Heavens mentioned in Scripture, 760. the Sublunary Heavens onely ſhall ſuffer in the great Conflagration. ibid.
Hebrew Text of the Old Teſtament, the differences between it and the LXX, the various readings, &c. 961, 987, &c. 990. Lud. de Dieu's judgement of the Keri and Ketiſ. 988, 989
Hell, why called Cœtus Rephaim, 42. and the Lake of fire and brimſtone, 43,44. and Gehenna. 41
Hereſies brought into the Church privily. 316
Hierom his unequal relating the opinions of his adverſaries, 748, 1025, 1100. why he never mentions Juſtin Martyr, where he ſpeaks of the Chiliaſts. 996
High prieſt's going into the moſt Holy place, what it figured. 788 Hills. See Mountains.
Holineſs twofold, 1 Original, Abſolute and Eſſential in God; 2 Derived or Relative in the things which are his, 10, 11. a threefold notion of Holineſs; 1 Eſſential Holineſs, 2 Holineſs of Integrity, 3 Relative Holineſs, 1009. Things relatively holy under the Goſpel, 15, &c. 508. Objections anſwered. 509, &c. See more in Sanctity.
Holy one of Iſrael, why God is ſo called. 11
Holy-days, the obſerving of them not forbidden by the fourth Commandement. 353 Honour ſometimes ſignifies Reward or Maintenance, 94, 95. See Double Honour.
Horn. The Little Horn (in Dan. 7.) is not Antiochus Epiphanes, 900. but Antichriſt, 879. according to the ſenſe of the ancient Fathers, 810. how the Little Horn roſe up behind the Ten Horns. 953
Hoſt of Heaven twofold, 1 Viſible, the Stars; 2 Inviſible, the Angels, 116. The Lord of hoſts, why God is ſo called. 117
Houſe of God. See God's Houſe.
Humility or Lowlineſs deſcribed, 211.
Humbleſt nature and condition fitteſt for Religion. 212
Hyſteropotmi, who. 84

I.

Jacob, the reaſon of his name. 284
Japhet's Sons. 5 Rules to find out their original ſeats after the diſperſion of Babel, 368. 5 other Rules. 370
Javan the father of the Grecians. 371
Idolatry and Sacrilege near allied, 22. the main Character of the Chriſtian Apoſtaſy, 792. the Church of Iſrael idolatrous, though ſhe renounced not altogether the true God, 795, &c. 802. Idolatry is a denying of the Lord that bought them. 323
Idols in Scripture called Lies, 64, 65. and Abominations. 640, 871
Jehoiakim's years diſpoſed according to the Events in Scripture, 1087. Jehoiakim not carried captive into Babylon. 1088
Jeremy's Prophecies not digeſted in order. 1023
Jews had a Second tender of Chriſt, and upon their refuſing it were caſt off, 219. though ſome of them believed, yet the Body or Nation of the Jews rejected Chriſt, and was therefore rejected, 916. the manner and external means of their Converſion to be by Viſion and Voice from Heaven, 931. This argued from the manner of S. Paul's converſion, 931, 1089. and from the ſtory of a miraculous converſion of many Jews, as a Praludium to their General Converſion, 939. why God gave the Jews peculiar Rites and Obſervations. 269
Ignatius his Epiſtles. 415, 416
Images were at firſt made for Damons to dwell in, &c. 778
Image-worſhip brought in and promoted by lying ſtories, 848. the great Oppoſition in the Greek and Eaſtern Churches againſt it, for the ſpace of 120 years. 843, &c.
Impotency pretended doth not excuſe us from our duty. 400
John Baptiſt a forerunner of Chriſt, in his Nativity, Preaching and Suffering. 127
Iſaac a type of Chriſt. 66, 67
Iſlands not taken always in Scripture for Countries encompaſſed by the Sea, 363. Countries divided from the Jews by Sea were called Iſlands, 364, &c. what they ſignify (in the Apocalyps) according to the Prophetick ſtyle. 557
Judgement. The deſcription of the Great Judgement, when Chriſt ſhall ſit on his Throne, 1031. a farther deſcription of the Great Day of Judgement, 932, &c. whence Chriſt and his Apoſtles received that term, 922. the preciſe time thereof not to be known. 1095

K.

Keri and Ketiſ. See Hebrew Text.
King or Kingdom ſometimes in Scripture put for any State or Polity, 822, 875, 1125. Kings of the Eaſt (in Apocal. 16. 12.) who are meant thereby. 659
Kingdome of God or Heaven ſometimes in Scripture ſignifies the Kingdome of Meſſiah, 134. why it is ſo called, 135. whence the Jews gave this term to the Kingdome of Meſſiah, 134. a twofold ſtate of Chriſt's Kingdome, 135. the Firſt ſtate thereof called Regnum Lapidis; the Second, Regnum Montis, 909. the Time deſigned and prefixed for the coming and beginning of Chriſt's Kingdome, 135, &c. it was to be ſet up in the Times of the Fourth Kingdome, 910, 922, &c. That the Kingdome of Chriſt and the Saints (in Dan. 7.) is the ſame with that of a 1000 years (in Apocal. 20.) 933. a twofold Kingdome, one whereby Chriſt reigns in his Saints, the other whereby they reign with him. 712
Kingdomes. 4 Kingdomes (repreſented by Nebuchadnezzar's Image of 4 ſundry metalls, Dan. 2. and by 4 Beaſts, Dan. 7.) the purport of them, 908, &c. why theſe 4 are ſingled out, 876, 878. That the Fourth is the Roman, proved by 3 arguments, from p. 877 to 881. That theſe 4 Kingdomes are a Prophetical Chronology and the Great Kalendar of Times. 807
The Kiſs of Peace, why ſo called. 125
Kiſſing of the Pax, what. ibid.

L.

Lactantius vindicated from the Antichiliaſts. 996, 1026
Lake of fire and brimſtone, why Hell ſo deſcribed. 43, 44
Lamps. That the 7 Lamps in the Temple ſignified the 7 Archangels. 1021
Larvati, why Mad-men ſo called. 39
Laſt hour or time, the End of all, are meant of the End of the Jewiſh ſtate and ſervice, and not of the End of the World. 818, 819
Laſt times, a twofold acception of them in Scripture, 804. That the times of the Fourth Beaſt, or Roman Kingdome, are the Laſt times, 807, &c. their Epocha or beginning, 809. their duration and length. 808
Latter times of the Laſt times are the times of the Apoſtaſy under Antichriſt. 805, 808
Law, may be conſidered either 1 as a Rule, or 2 as a Covenant of works: how Believers are not under the Law, 148. In what reſpects the Law

Law is diſſolved or not diſſolved by Chriſt, 16. How God's Law alone binds the Conſcience. 243,&c.
Lawenus his Stricturæ in Clavem Apocal. 671. the occaſion of his writing them, 959. his way of interpreting the Apocalyps, 922, 958. a full Anſwer to his Stricturæ. 683
Law-giver, why Chriſt ſo called in Geneſ. 49. and what is meant by that phraſe, Law-giver from between his feet. 46 Lay-Elders. See Elders.
Legends. Fabulous Legends their groſſeneſs, and the deſign of them. 836, 840,&c.
Levi, what the name ſignifies, 264. why Levi was choſen for the Prieſthood, 266, 267. why called God's Holy one, 268. his Favoured one. 269
Locuſts, what they ſignify in the Prophetick ſtyle. 579,&c.
Lords-day, why obſerved by Chriſtians, 75. a teſtimony for it out of Euſebius. 1045
Lords-prayer twice delivered by Chriſt, 2. intended not onely for a Pattern, but a Form of Prayer. ibid.
Lord's-ſupper. See Chriſtian Sacrifice.
Lying unto the Holy Ghoſt, what is meant thereby. 153

M.

Magog. See Gog.
Mahuzzim, (in Dan. 11.) the word ſignifies Fortreſſes, Bulwarks, Protectors, Guardians, &c. 825. That Saints and their Reliques were ſo called at the beginning of Saint-worſhip. 829, &c.
Manna, why ſo called, 325. how it differ'd from the Apothecaries or the Arabian Manna, 326. how it was Spiritual Meat and a Type of Chriſt. 327, 328
Mark. To have the Mark of the Beaſt in the right hand or in the forehead (Apocal. 13.) what it means. 633, 636
Marriage, the Roman laws for it diſcountenanced by Conſtantine, 829. Prohibition of Marriage a character of Monaſtick profeſſion. 849
Martyrs, their privilege to riſe firſt, 750, 944, 949. their Reign miſinterpreted to an Idolatrous ſenſe, 929. why Chriſtians anciently kept their aſſemblies at their Monuments, 837. Martyrium Omeriarum. 939
Maſs. Reaſons againſt the lurching Sacrifice of the Maſs, wherein the Prieſt receives alone, 335, 336. In the Maſs the ancient Offering of Praiſe is turned into an Offering of Expiation, 391. How the Oblation of the ancient Church differed from that in the Maſs, 393. The Blaſphemous Oblation in the Maſs juſtly taken away, 477. That the ancient Church never intended any Hypoſtatical oblation of Chriſt. 478,&c.
Meat put in Scripture for all neceſſaries of life, 850. Abſtinence from meats a character of Monaſtick profeſſion. 849
Meekneſs in the Scripture-uſe is of a larger ſignification then in Ethicks. 214
Melancholia and Mania, how they differ. 38
Memorial, why that which was burned upon the Altar was ſo called. 434.
Memorial of God's name, what. 433
Merit, the word abuſed, and in what ſenſe tolerable. 165
Meſſiah the Prince (in Dan. 9.) meant onely of Chriſt. 861
Methodius (Biſhop of Tyre,) a paſſage out of him touching the Millennium. 1033
Michael (in Apocal. 12.) who. 615
Middle eſtate, or a Competency, the beſt and ſafeſt condition. 174
Millennium, or The 1000 years Reign of Chriſt, not to be underſtood in any groſs carnal ſenſe, 749, 1026. to be aſſerted modeſtly and warily, ſo as not to claſh with any Catholick Tenet of the Chriſtian Faith, ibid. to be propounded generally, not particulatim ſeu modatim, 710. a General deſcription of it, 749. no neceſſity of aſſerting Chriſt's viſible converſe upon earth, ibid. this Opinion of Regnum Chriſti & Sanctorum was univerſally held by the whole Orthodox Chriſtian Church in the Age immediately following the Apoſtles, 943, 944. a paſſage out of Juſtin Martyr to this purpoſe vindicated, which had been corrupted, as other paſſages to the like purpoſe were expunged out of Sulpitius Severus, Victorinus Pictav. and others of the ſame judgement, 664, 665. nor was it anciently denied but by Hereticks and ſuch as denied the Apocalyps, 665, 747. Other Teſtimonies for it, as out of the Council of Nice, 997. and a Catechiſm ſet forth in K. Edward the ſixth his Reign, 997, 999. That this Millennium follows upon the expiring of Antichriſt's reign, 748. this clearly proved by the Synchroniſms, 533. That the 1000 years of Satan's being bound began not at Conſtantine, 531, 1080. S. Hierom's miſrepreſentation of the ſenſe of the more ancient Fathers detected. 1100. Doubtfull whether Cerinthus held any part of this Opinion, though in a wrong ſenſe. 1100, 1101
Mincha, what, 454, 1014, in marg. The Purity of the Chriſtian Mincha explain'd in 3 particulars. 455, 456
Miniſter, how the word is ſometimes uſed improperly, 35, 643. Four Soleciſms from the improper uſe thereof, 35. Miniſters are not the peoples Miniſters, but God's, 35. and are maintained out of God's revenue, 101, 456. their maintenance is not of the nature of Alms, 95. To make proviſion for God's Miniſters and Worſhip, a work highly pleaſing to God. 162
Miracles. No noiſe of Miracles done by Reliques of Martyrs in the firſt 300 years after Chriſt, 837, 838. The deſign of the pretended Miracles in after-ages. 840, &c.
Monks and Friers the chief promoters of Saint-worſhip, 852. and of Image-worſhip, 853. The 2 characters of Monaſtick profeſſion, 849. a third character, 850. Monkiſh poverty no point of piety. 169, &c.
Months. The 42 Months (in Apocal. 11. 2. the ſame with 1260 Days in verſ. 3.) are to be taken for Months of years, and are more then 3 ſingle years and an half, 742. their beginning and ending, 744. why the profaning of the holy City by the Gentiles and the continuing of the Beaſt is number'd by Months, (Apocal. 11. 2. ch. 13. 5.) but the Prophecying of the Witneſſes and the Woman's abode in the Wilderneſs, by Days, (ch. 11. 3. ch. 12. 6.) 598, 611
Moſes. The Rites and Ordinances of Moſes obſerved for ſome time after Chriſt's aſcenſion by the Apoſtles and believing Jews. 1031
Mountains and Hills, what they ſignify in the Prophetick ſtyle. 182, 573.
Mountains and Iſlands. 557

N.

Name written in their foreheads, (in Apocal. 14. 1.) what meant thereby. 636
Name of God. Hereby is meant 1 God himſelf. 2 What is his by a peculiar right, 6, 7. God's Name to be called upon a thing, what it imports, 7. God's Name how it is ſanctified or hallowed, 11, 12. how it is profaned or polluted. 18, 19
Names of men (in Apocal. 11. 13.) what. 608
Nations or Gentiles put in the Apocalyps for the Apoſtate or falſe Chriſtians. 713, 1111
Nazarites, their Vow and Law abrogated by the Apoſtles, and therefore no ground for Monkiſh orders. 172
Nebuchadnezzar's Viſion of an Image of Gold, Silver, Braſs and Iron, explained. 136, 909
New Heavens and New Earth, what meant thereby. 758
New Jeruſalem, what meant thereby. 944, 1076, 1118
Nicen Council. See Council.
Noah. The 7 Precepts of the ſons of Noah, 25. theſe Precepts were briefly included in the Apoſtles deciſion at the Council in Jeruſalem (Acts 15.) 221. whether the obſervation of the Sabbath-day was included in any of theſe Precepts, 26. The diviſion of the Earth by Noah's

Sons was not confused, but orderly. 366
Number of the Beast [666.] Why he differs from Monsieur Testard's conjecture about it, 974. Mr Potter's Discourse upon it highly approved by him. 1076
Numbers of Times, when Definite and Indefinite. 741, 809
Numbers Distributive or Divisive wanting in the Hebrew Text, and how supplied. 861, &c.

O.

Obedience to God's Commands the best protection against dangers, 346. a more necessary and acceptable duty then Sacrifice, 446, &c. 3 qualifications of true Obedience; 1 Cordial, 2 Resolved, 3 Universal. 402
Offerings were either Eucharistical, or Euctical and Votal, 380. description of these, 386. They are due to God naturally and perpetually, 381. That they were not Typical and Ceremonial, but Moral in their end and nature, proved by 4 arguments, 384, 385. That they are required of Christians, 388, the 3 degrees or parts thereof. 386
Offerings and Sacrifices wherein they differ. 469
The 2 Olive-branches (in Zech. 4.) explain'd. 1021
Oracles. The Heathen Oracles began to cease at the birth of Christ. 258 Orations, See Proseucha's.

P.

Palestine. See Canaan.
Passions, 4 Rules for the governing of them. 286
S. Paul's Conversion a Type of the calling of the Jews. 1089
Peace on earth (Luke 2.) what is meant thereby. 121, 122
Peace-offerings and other Sacrifices were to be eaten before the third day, and why. 67
Penitents, 5 degrees of them according to the discipline of the ancient Church. 420
Pentecost, why called the Feast of weeks, 349. and of harvest, 355 why the Gospel was first published, and in such a miraculous way, at Pentecost, 99. That those First Converts to the Christian Faith at Pentecost were not Gentiles, but Jews. 96, 97.
Perfect Heart. See Heart.
Perjury upon Theft a more dangerous Sin in the Jewish State. 179
Persecutions. Which were the greatest and longest of the 10 Persecutions. 424
S. Peter, his Second Epistle why and by whom questioned. 756
Pillars and Images, why at first erected. 779
The Pontifical Stole and Title first refused by the Emperour Gratian. 746
Poverty, its dangers and evils. 178
Prayer, why God requires it of us, 227. why not always heard, 224. how God often hears our Prayers, when we think he doth not, 225. A set Form of Prayer proved to be lawfull, 2, 3. Objections against set Forms answered, 4, 5. To be prayed to in heaven, and to present our Prayers to God, is a Right and Privilege proper to Christ, 788. and that Christ purchased it by his death. 789
Presents, The Oriental custome to bring Presents to their Kings. 150
Priesthood why confined to one Tribe onely under the Law. 265, 266
Prophecies so foretell things to come, as yet to instruct the present Church. 380
Prophesying hath a fourfold sense in Scripture, 76. In what sense it is attributed to Women. 77
A Prophet's Reward is a special and eminent Reward. 113
Prophetical Schemes familiar and usuall to the Eastern Nations. 762, 928
Proselytes, two sorts of them, 1 Proselytes of the Covenant or Righteousness, 2 Proselytes of the Gate, 25, 26. these are called (in the Acts) Σεβόμενοι or Worshippers, and sometimes Φοβούμενοι τὸν Θεὸν those that fear God, 27, 28. why there were more of this sort of Proselytes, 28. how these became so ready for the Gospel and Faith of Christ. 29
Proseuchæ or Places of Prayer, their use among the Jews, and how they differed from Synagogues, 86, 87. where they are mentioned in Scripture, 88. their antiquity. 89, 90
Prosperity is apt to make men forget God, 175. the reason of it. 176
Protestants, the way of procuring peace amongst them, 1062 to pag. 1073
Providence. The method of Divine Providence to usher in the Exaltation of his Saints with some great Calamity foregoing it. 930
Psalms. The Book of Psalms contains set Forms of Prayer and Praise. 3
Punishments are either Temporal or Eternal. Eternal are inflicted on the Sinner onely, Temporal either on the Sinner's person or posterity, 189, 190. The End of Temporal punishments, what, 190. why God remits not Temporal punishments here, where the sin is forgiven, ibid. the Ends why God deferrs punishments, 192. God sometimes brands the Punishment with the stamp of the Sin, 288, 1017. Conformity between the Sin and the Punishment in 4 particulars. 193, &c.
Pure Heart. See Heart.
Purity of the Primitive Church, how long it lasted. 730
Purple. Purple colour or To wear Purple was an Imperial or Royal privilege. 14, 1115

R.

THE Rapture of those alive at Christ's Coming, into the Air. 950
Rechabites, what they were, and why they lived in Tents. 171
Reconciliation, the necessity of it before the receiving of the Eucharist. 357, &c.
Regeneration, the 2 parts of it, 138. how figured by Baptism. 83
Reign of Christ. See Millennium.
Religion and Honesty not to be severed. 308
Reliques. See Miracles.
Counterfeit Reliques. 852
Renovation of the World, different opinions of the Jews touching it, 754. and some Excerpta out of the Fathers concerning the same. 765
Rent. A twofold Rent or Tribute owing to God, Tithes and Alms. 228
Repentance, what it is, 138. it implies more then a Sorrow for Sin, 139. the 2 parts of it. ibid.
Rephaim, the Giants or men of the old world. 42, 43
Responsories, their antiquity. 79
Restitution, the necessity of it. 246, 247
Resurrection. Christ's proof of the Resurrection from Exod. 3. 6. explained, 981. On what Text the Jewish Church built her faith of the Resurrection, 976, 1080. How they proved it out of the Law, against the Sadducees, 582, 718. The First Resurrection is to be taken literally, as well as the Second, 711. this farther proved by 4 arguments, 943. the ground of that Prayer for the dead, ut partem habeant in Resurrectione prima, 944, 1033. To grant a Particular Resurrection before the General, is against no article of Faith. 750
Returning to the Lord, what. 245
Revelation. 4 kinds of Divine revelation. 271
Reward. That there are different degrees of Reward in the life to come, proved from Scripture, 110. Objections answered, 111, 112. 'tis lawfull to doe good works intuitu mercedis. 165
Riches, when they are Blessings, when not, 173. their danger, 177. Rich men to defraud the poor, an hainous sin. 180
Righteousness sometimes in Scripture signifies Bounty or Alms. 104
Rivers, what they signify in the Prophetick

Prophetick ſtyle. 569
Rock ſometimes in Scripture put for God, 826. Rock in the wilderneſs how it followed the Iſraelites, 326, 327. how it was a Sign of Chriſt, 329. Two Rocks in the wilderneſs, and which was meant. 326
Rome. See Babylon.
Roman and Greek Church, how they may be ſaid not to erre in fundamentalibus Fidei articulis. 1058
Roman Empire, that it is the Fourth Kingdome in Daniel, proved by 3 arguments, 877, &c. this was alſo believed by the ancient Jews and Fathers, 899. the contrary opinion was firſt broached by Porphyry an Heathen and Enemy of Chriſtianity, 908. the Fates of the Roman Empire not ſo particularly and diſtinctly revealed to Daniel as to S. John, 900, 964. why the ancient Chriſtians prayed for the continuance of the Roman Empire, 810. the 3 main degrees of its Ruine. 812, &c.
Romans, how they charmed or called the Gods from any City, when they beſieged it. 828

S.

Sabbath, why God commanded the Jews to obſerve it, 73, 74. why one day in ſeven, and that the ſeventh day, was to be kept, 74. when that Seventh day began to be kept for a Sabbath by the Jews, 75. The Sabbatical year was ſacred unto God. 160
Sackcloth and Aſhes why uſed in humiliation. 213
Sacrament is a Sign aſſuring, 327. Sacraments, both the old and new, carry in them the image of Chriſt, 329. Jewiſh Sacraments, how they were the ſame with ours, and wherein they differed, 330. what the Jews apprehended to be meant by them, 331. Unworthy receiving of them, twofold, 339. the hainouſneſs and danger thereof, 340, 341. the practice of the ancient Church in the offering of Praiſe and Prayer at the Sacrament, 390, &c.
Sacred Things, 4 kinds of them, and how to be uſed, 19, 20. That to uſe them as becomes things Sacred, opens not a way for Idolatry. 23
Sacrifice defined, 470. How a Sacrifice differs from an Oblation or Offering, 460. The Chriſtian Sacrifice defined, 453. How the Euchariſt is a Sacrifice, 469, 1043. That it is onely a Commemorative Sacrifice, 478, &c. That it is an Oblation, proved from Antiquity, 457, &c. an Oblation of Praiſe and Prayer, 460, &c. That this Oblation is made through Chriſt commemorated in the Bread and Wine, 464, &c. it is Oblatio Fœderalis, 470. and Epulum Fœderale, 473. that herein God was the Convivator, and man the Convivæ, 471, 473. That Bread and Wine were firſt offered to God to agnize him the Lord of the Creature. 473, 474, &c.
Sacrifices under the Law, the ſeveral kinds of them explained, 381, &c. they were Rites of addreſs to God, 464, 482. That they were Fœderal Feaſts wherein God and men did feaſt together in token of amity and friendſhip, proved by 4 arguments, 471, 472. what was God's Meſs or Portion therein, 471. Sacrifices were not appointed in the Law for all kinds of Sins, 449. Sacrifices are in Scripture diſparaged in reſpect of Obedience, as being not required by God antecedently, abſolutely and primarily, 448, 449. The antiquity of Sacrificing. 447
Sacrilege is a Sin againſt God, and a breach of the Firſt Table rather then the Second, 156. the hainouſneſs of this Sin, 158, &c. Examples of the puniſhment thereof, 160. Sacrilege and Idolatry are near allied. 22
Saint-worſhip when it began, 816, 837. it began with Monkery, 851. how it crept unawares into the Church, 790, &c. it was promoted by lying Miracles, 837, &c. by fabulous Legends, 840, &c. by counterfeit Writings, 847. it is derogatory to Chriſt. 788, &c.
Samaritan Pentateuch, wherein it differs from the Hebrew as to Chronology. 1095
Samaritans, their original, 63. their worſhip. 64
Sanctuary at Sichem, what it was. 85, 86
To ſanctify hath a double ſenſe, 1 To conſecrate, 2 To uſe things Sacred as becomes their Sanctity, 10, 512. To Sanctify God and his Name, what. 11, 12, &c.
To be ſanctified, is either 1 To be made holy, or 2 To be uſed as ſuch. 8
Sanctity, the nature or true notion of it is Diſcrimination or Diſtinction from other things by way of preeminence, 8, 9, &c.
Saracens, their ſtrange ſucceſſes, and propagation of Mahometiſme, in a ſhort time. 581
Scepter ſignifies any Power or Majeſty of Government under what name ſoever, 46. when it departed from Judah. 47
Schiſm, the evil and danger of it. 1075
Scripture. The Holy Scripture is not to be kept in an unknown tongue, 253. whether the ſilence of Scripture be an argument ſufficient to conclude againſt matter of fact, 1030. an account of ſome Idioms or Forms of ſpeech in Scripture, 215, and 443, 441, and 483, 380, and 447
Sea, what it ſignifies in the Prophetick ſtyle. 573
The Sealing of the 144000 (in Apocal. 7.) what it means. 725
Seed of the Woman, meant of Chriſt's perſon and Chriſt myſtical. 297, 298
Serpent, why the Devil took this ſhape, 281, &c. the Curſe was pronounced upon both the Serpent and the Devil, 289. what kind of Serpent was accurſed, 290. how God could in juſtice puniſh the brute Serpent, 289. His curſe was, To go upon his Breaſt, and not onely on his Belly, 292, 293. as alſo To feed on duſt, 294. Enmity between Man and the Serpent, 295. The Serpent's Seed meant of the Devil and wicked men, 297. The Serpent's Head or Headſhip is Principatus mortis. 298
Set forms. See Prayer.
Seven Eyes of the Lord are the Seven Archangels. 54, 57
Seven Heads of the Beaſt ſignify both 7 Hills and 7 Succeſſions of different ſorts of Governours. 653
Seven Seals (in Apocal. 6.) what is meant thereby. 546, 1122, &c.
Seven Trumpets. See Trumpets.
Seven Vials. See Vials.
Seventy Weeks. See Daniel's Weeks.
Seventy Years. See Years.
Sheshinah, or God's ſpecial preſence in a place, is where the Angels keep their ſtation. 436, &c.
Sheep ſet at Chriſt's right hand. 1031
Shiloh, the name of Meſſiah, 45. it ſignifies a Peace-maker. 47
Silence in holy offices was a point of Religion. 568
Simeon Metaphraſtes his fabulous Legends, 841, &c. his deſign therein. 843
Sin compared in Scripture to an heavy Burthen, in reſpect of the Weight of Puniſhment and of Loathſomeneſs, 202. the reaſon of Sin's Loathſomeneſs, 204. Conformity between the Sin and Puniſhment in 4 particulars, 193. the hainouſneſs of a Sin to be eſtimated from the heart's election, 445. Commiſſion of one Sin makes way for another, 181. what it is to forſake Sin, 241. Rules to know whether our purpoſe to forſake Sin be real. 204
Sin-offering, what. 382
Sincerity of Heart, what it is, how it may be known and attain'd. 306
Sitting at God's right hand, what it ſignifies, 787. that it is a privilege appropriate to Chriſt. ibid.
Some, Tivès, the word doth not always in Scripture imply a ſmall number. 799
Socinian Tenets cenſured. 1066, 1082
Son of man, whence Chriſt is ſo called. 934, 965
Spirit ſometimes in Scripture ſignifies Doctrine. 770
Spirit and truth. See Worſhip in ſpirit and truth.

A Table of Things contained in this Book.

Spirits Good or Evil, how they appear and converſe with men. 281, 282

Spiritual Bleſſings were veiled in Earthly Promiſes under the Law. 331

Stealing is either by Force or by Fraud, both forbidden in the 8 Commandment, 178. See more in Theft.

Sun, Moon and Stars, what they are (according to the Prophetick ſtyle) in the Political world. 556, 557, 578, 761

Synagogues, how they differ'd from Proſeucha's, 86. their antiquity. 1029

Synchroniſms, what, 521. their uſefulneſs. 536, 721

T.

Tabernacle of meeting, ſo call'd from God's meeting there with men, 436. Feaſt of Tabernacles, wherein it was a Figure of Chriſt, 350. how it was neglected to be kept from Joſua's time to Nehemiah's, 353. what this Omiſſion may ſeem to imply. 354

Table ſometimes in Scripture put for Epulum or the Meat itſelf, 491. Table of the Lord (in 1 Cor. 10.) why ſo called, 477. the name Table not uſed in any Eccleſiaſtical writer before 200 years after Chriſt, 1055. Table and Altar, how they differ, 495. Holy Table, Name and Thing. 1036

Temple. What the Gentiles Notion of a Temple was, 427. why the primitive Chriſtians for the moſt part abſtain'd from the name Temple. 427, 428

Temple at Jeruſalem, its 3 Courts in our Saviour's time, 58, 59. it was the Third or Gentiles Court that was prophaned by the Jews and vindicated by our Saviour, 59, 60. This Temple is called in Scripture God's Throne, 543, 1122. In what reſpects it was a Type of Chriſt. 63, 518, 347, &c.

Temples of the Heathen, why they are ſaid by the ancient Fathers to be nothing elſe but the ſepulchres of dead men. 780

Ten Horns ſignify (in Dan. and the Apocal.) Ten Kingdomes into which the Roman Empire was ſhivered, 815. that they belong to the Seventh or Uppermoſt Head of the Beaſt. 620, 901

Ten Kings. See Ten Horns.

Teraphim, what they were, and how they anſwered to Urim and Thummim. 272

Terumah or Heave-offering defined, 383. the Terumoth or Heave-offerings were either Firſt-fruits, or Tithes, or Free-will-offerings. 387

Theft, in no caſe lawfull, 179. the trial of it in doubtfull caſes was in the Jewiſh Polity by the parties Oath: Hence Perjury and Theft are forbidden together in Scripture. 179

Three Kings whom the Little Horn ſhould depreſs to advance himſelf. 754

Throne. To be taken up to God's Throne, what. 614

Thummim. See Urim.

Thunder. See Bath Kol.

Time, Times, and half a Time, what, 618, 809, 909, &c. Times of the Gentiles, 920. Times put for Things done in time. 901

Tithes. How the queſtion of the due of Tithes is to be ſtated. 156

Tituli, why Houſes and Churches were ſo called. 7, 416

Tobit's prophecy of the Jews Captivity and Reſtauration explain'd. 719

Tranſubſtantiation promoted by lying Miracles. 848

Trees, what they ſignify in the Prophetick ſtyle. 570

Treſpaſs-offering, how it differed from the Sin-offering. 382

Tribes. Why the 12 Tribes are (in Apocal. 7.) reckoned in a different order then elſewhere in Scripture. 565

Tribute. See Rent.

Trumpets. Seven Trumpets, their meaning. 738

Turks, why deſcribed (in Apocal. 9.) by the army of Horſemen. 587

Twelve. Why each of the 24 Courſes or Quires of Singers in the Temple conſiſted of Twelve. 4

Typical ſpeeches often true in the Type and Antitype, 380. when what is attributed to the Type, belongs to the thing typified. 581

V.

Veſpers. See Even-ſong.

Vials. Seven Vials, their meaning, 726, 1129. the agreement between the 7 Vials and 7 Trumpets. 726

Vintage, what it means in the Prophetick ſtyle. 649, &c.

Viſions Apocalyptick whether repreſented in the Seven-ſealed Book to be ſeen or to be read by S. John. 969

An Unrepentant Sinner is an Infidel. 205

Unworthy receiving. See Sacraments.

Vows. The 3 Vows common to all Monks, viz. Vow of Chaſtity, Poverty, and Abſtaining from meats: the Fourth Vow, viz. of Obedience, not common to all, nor ſo old. 850

Urim and Thummim, what they ſignifie, 271. they were a Divine Oracle, 271, 272. the Matter thereof, and the Manner of enquiring thereby, 272, 273, &c. How Urim and Thummin did typify ſomething in Chriſt. 275

W.

Waldenſes. See Albigenſes.

White. To walk in white, To be clothed with white raiment, what meant thereby in the Apocalyps. 1112, 1113

Whore and Whoredome meant (according to the Prophetick ſtyle) of Idolatry, 791, 797. Whore of Babylon in Apocal. 17. why this Viſion onely of all the Apocalyptick Viſions is expounded by the Angel, 537, 722. why ſhe is ſaid to have a golden cup in her hand and her Name written in her forehead. 654

Wilderneſs. Iſrael's being in the Wilderneſs and the Churche's abode in the Wilderneſs compared. 1109

Wing ſignifies (in Dan. 9.) an Army: the fitneſs of the word to ſignify thus, 870. Wing of abominations is an Army of idolatrous Gentiles, ibid. How the Roman Army was the Army of Meſſiah. 872

Witneſſes, why Two and in ſackcloth, 597. the two Wars of the Beaſt againſt them, 936. their Slaughter how far it extends, 930. their Death and Reſurrection how to be underſtood. 601

Women. Why the Corinthian women are reproved for being unveiled or uncovered in the Church, 80. how they are ſaid to propheſy. 77

Works. Good works, 3 qualifications of them, 305, &c. 3 Reaſons for the neceſſity of them, 302, &c. God rewards our Works out of his mercy, not for any merit in them. 164

World. Heaven and Earth put (according to the Hebrew idiom) for World, 758. That the World ſhould laſt 7000 years, and the Seventh Thouſand be the Beatum Millennium, was an ancient Tradition of the Jews, 1091. World ſometimes in Scripture put for the Roman Empire. 868

Worſhip. External worſhip required in the Goſpel, 62. Four Reaſons for it, 444. The Jews worſhipped verſus Locum præſentiæ, 501. That ſuch Worſhipping is not the ſame with worſhipping God by an Image, 502. To worſhip God in ſpirit and truth, what, 62, 63. The Worſhip directed to God is Incommunicable; and why. 786, 787

Y.

Years. That the Antichriſtian Times are more then 3 ſingle Years and an half, proved by 5 Reaſons. 742. The 70 Years Captivity of the Jews in Babylon whence to be reckoned. 812

Z.

Zachary. The 9, 10 and 11 Chapters in his Book ſeem to befit Jeremy's time better. 963, 1022

Zebach or The bloudy Sacrifice defined. 382

Zipporah deferred not the circumciſion of her child out of any averſation of that Rite, 69. her words in Exod. 4. 25. vindicated from the common miſconſtruction. 70, &c.

Addenda.

Addenda.

PAge 947. line 7. after thoſe words [covered or naked] ſhould this be added, which was miſplaced in the Copy: It ſeems very incongruous they ſhould be naked; neither can we deviſe in any congruity a glorified Body ſhould be covered: What raiment were any fit covering for ſuch? Neither is it congruous their glory ſhould be covered, as Moſes his face was with a Veil.

Pag. 1103. at the end of Chap. 7. ſhould this be added which was written by the Author in another paper, but plainly belongs to this Chapter De nomine Antichriſti —— Cæterùm quamvis exiſtimârim Joannem hiſce in locis de Pſeudo-prophetis loqui, qui Chriſti doctrinam corrumperent prope excidium Reipublicæ Judaicæ, (id quod Chriſtus fore prædixit Matth. 24.) tamen poteſt & iſtorum Antichriſtorum doctrinæ ſummula (quâ negatur * Jeſum eſſe Chriſtum) magno iſti Antichriſto accommodari, qui quòd Chriſtunculos (i. e. Sanctos) ſuos inſtar Δαιμόνων ſurrogârit, eo ipſo negat Jeſum eſſe Chriſtum: ſicut qui plures Deos colerent, negant Jehovam eſſe Deum. Etiam ex cap. 5. hujus Epiſt. verſ. 20, 21. tale quid probabiliter colligitur; cùm enim dixerat Joannes de Jeſu Chriſto, Οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ ἀληθινὸς Θεὸς καὶ ζωὴ αἰώνιος, ſtatim ſubjungit, Τεκνία, φυλάξατε ἑαυτοὺς ἀπὸ τῶν εἰδώλων, innuens aliquando fatale futurum ut Chriſtiani loco Chriſti colerent Idola, i.e. falſos Chriſtos & Mediatorculos Sanctos.

* 1 Ep. 2. 22. —— ὁ ἀρνούμενος ὅτι Ἰησοῦς οὐκ ἔστιν ὁ Χριστός ——

Alteranda & Corrigenda.

PAG. 31. lin. 4. reade chains. p. 34. l. 12. r. Acolythes, Lectors. p. 71. l. 14. r. comes. l. 39. for ſo r. to be. p. 110. l. 47. r. followed me, p. 152. l. 29. for. this r. this place. p. 166. l. 13. r. Duty. l. 14. r. tie. p. 180. l. 30. for for r. of. p. 234. l. 1. for his r. this. p. 408. l. 19. for Acts 10. r. Acts 1. p. 485. l. 24. r. μόνῃ. p. 518. l. 31. r. Typicam, p 521. l. 34. for IN TERRA r. INTEREA. p. 589. l. 45. r. Græcos. p. 599. in marg. r. אשר־ירא. p. 635. l. 16. r. Dominum. p. 672. l. 41. r. adverſantium. p. 704. l. 28. r. Cherab, aravit. p. 716. l. 6. r. Οἰκουμένῃ. p. 734. l. 26. r. poſiture. p. 738. l. 40. r. 45 years. p. 746. l. 34. r. Argobaſtus. p. 747. in marg. r. Book V. cap. 6. p. 784. l. 3. r. formally. l. 19. r. Dæmons. p. 792. l. 7. for ἰο r. οἱ. p. 849. l. 38. for together r. altogether. p. 886. l. 39. r. יִלְחֲתוּ. p. 891. l. 22. for Quinquageſimam r. Quinquageſimam ſeptimam. p. 895. l. 3. r. commendatione. p. 896. in marg. r. cap. 12. p. 951. l. 1. dele אוזן. p. 993. l. 3. r. and the like, one Mr. —— l. 26. for Et Terra r. Et erit Terra. p. 1011. l. 4. for Dei r. Chriſti. l. 36. for direct r. erect. p. 1043. l. 10. r. Bp. Morton. p. 1059. l. 41. r. accidit, Deo. p. 1105. l. antepen. for cum r. cum Deo. p. 1123. l. 38. r. ווּ.

A Catalogue of ſeveral Books Printed for Richard Royſton, at the Angel in Ivy-lane, London. Anno Dom. 1665.

Βασιλικα: The Works of King Charles I. with His Life and Martyrdom. Printed in a large Folio with Figures.

Books written by Dr. Hammond.

1. A Paraphraſe and Annotations upon all the Books of the New Teſtament. The ſecond Edition enlarged. fol.

2. A Paraphraſe and Annotations upon the Books of the Pſalms, briefly explaining the difficulties thereof. fol.

3. Of Schiſm. A Defence of the Church of England againſt the Exceptions of the Romaniſts. 12.

4. Paræneſis, or a ſeaſonable Exhortation to all true Sons of the Church of England. in 12.

5. A Collection of ſeveral Replies and Vindications publiſhed of late, moſt of them in defence of the Church of England, now put together in 3 Volumes, Newly publiſhed. in 4°.

6. The Diſpatcher Diſpatch'd, in Anſwer to a Roman Catholick book intitul'd Schiſm Diſpatch'd. in 4°. new.

7. A Review of the Paraphraſe & Annotations on all the Books of the New Teſt. with ſome additions and alterations. in 8°. new.

8. Thirty one Sermons, newly publiſhed. in fol.

9. De Confirmatione, ſive, Benedictione poſt Baptiſmum ſolenni per Impoſitionem Manuum Epiſcopi celebrata.

10. Judgment worthy of God, or an Aſſertion of the Exiſtence and Duration of Hell Torments: to which is annexed the accordance of S. Paul with S. James in the great Point of Faith and Works. new.

Books and Sermons written by J. Taylor, D. D. Lord Biſhop of Down and Conner.

1. Ἐνιαυτὸς, A Courſe of Sermons for all the Sundaies of the year; together with a Diſcourſe of the Divine Inſtitution, Neceſſity, Sacredneſs and Separation of the Office Miniſterial. in fol.

2. The Hiſtory of the Life and Death of the Ever-bleſſed Jeſus Chriſt, the third Edition, in fol.

3. The Rule and Exerciſes of Holy Living. in 8°.

4. The Rule and Exerciſes of Holy Dying. in 8°.

5. The Golden Grove, or A Manual of daily Praiers, fitted to the daies of the Week, together with a ſhort Method of Peace and Holineſs. in 12.

6. A Collection of Polemical and Moral Diſcourſes, newly reprinted. in fol.

7. A Diſcourſe of the Nature, Offices and Meaſure of Friendſhip. in 12. new.

8. A Collection of Offices or Forms of Praier fitted to the needs of all Chriſtians, taken out of the Scriptures and Ancient Liturgies of ſeveral Churches, eſpecially the Greek, together with the Pſalter or Pſalms of David, after the King's Tranſlation. newly publiſhed, in a large Octavo.

9. Ductor Dubitantium, or the Rule of Conſcience, in two Volumes. in fol.

10. The Doctrine and Practice of Repentance, deſcribing the neceſſity of a Strict, a Holy and a Chriſtian Life: Serving as a neceſſary Supplement unto the Rule of Conſcience.

11. Ἑβδομὰς Ἐμβολιμαῖος, a Supplement to the Ἐνιαυτὸς, or Courſe of Sermons for the whole year.; all that have been Preached and Publiſhed ſince the Reſtauration: to which is adjoyned, his Advice to the Clergy of his Dioceſe.

12. The Worthy Communicant, or a Diſcourſe of the Nature, Effects, and Bleſſings conſequent to the worthy receiving of the Lord's Supper. Printed for J. Martin.

13. A Diſcourſe of Confirmation. in 8°. new.

14. A Diſſuaſive from Popery. in 8°. new.

Books written by Tho. Pierce, D. D. Pref. Mag. Col.

1. THE Chriſtian's Reſcue from the grand Error of the Heathen, touching the fatal Neceſſity of all Events, in 7 Books, in 2 Volumes. 4°.

2. The Sinner Impleaded in his own Court: whereunto is added the grand Characteriſtick whereby a Chriſtian is to be known. in 12. newly Printed.

3. The Lifeleſneſs of Life on the hither ſide of Immortality, with a timely Caveat againſt Procraſtination. a Sermon 4°.

4. A Sermon againſt the Papiſts, before the King. in 4°.

Books in fol.

A Commentary upon all the Books of the Old Teſtament, viz.

1. Upon the Pentateuch or five Books of Moſes in one Volume.

2. Upon the Hiſtorical part from Joſhua to Eſther.

3. Upon

3. Upon Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and Solomon's Song.

4. Upon all the Prophets both great and small, in 4 Volumes. By John Mayor. Sold by Richard Royston, at the Angel in Ivy-lane.

ΑΠΟΣΠΑΣΜΑΤΙΑ Sacra, or A Collection of Posthumous Lectures, delivered at S. Paul's and at S. Giles's Church, by the Right Reverend Father in God Lancelot Andrews, Lord Bishop of Winchester.

COENA quasi ΚΟΙΝΗ, or the Common Right to the Lord's Supper asserted, wherein that Question is fully stated, by Sir William Morice, Knight, one of His Majesties most Honourable Privy Councel, and Principal Secretary of State.

The Tears, Sighs, Complaints and Praiers of the Church of England, setting forth her former Constitution, compared with her present Condition, written in the late times of Rebellion and Usurpation, by John Gauden, D.D. Bishop of Worcester.

Books in 4°.

THE Law of Laws, or the excellency of the Civil Law, by Dr. Robert Wiseman. new.

The plain man's Sense exercised to discern both Good and Evil, or a Discovery of the Errors, Heresies and Blasphemies of these times, and the Toleration of them, by Will. Lyford, B.D.

The Magistrates Authority, a Sermon.

His Defence of the Ministry.

Certamen Religiosum, or a Conference betwixt the late King Charles and the Lord Marques of Worcester, concerning Religion, by Chr. Cartwright, B.D.

The Royalists Defence, printed at Oxon.

Bishop Bramhall's Fair Warning against the Scotch Discipline.

Sacro-sancta Regum Majestas, by the Arch-Bishop of Tuam, Printed at Oxon.

Doctor Stuart's Answer to Fountain's Letter.

Doctor Ferne's Sermon at the Isle of Wight.

Episcopacy and Presbytery considered by Dr. Ferne.

Six excellent Sermons by Mr. Willan, Vicar of Hoxne.

The exemplary Lives and Memorable Acts of the 9 most worthy Women of the World, 3 Jews, 3 Gentiles, 3 Christians, by Tho. Heywood.

A Discourse of the State Ecclesiastical.

An expedient for composing Differences in Religion.

The Quakers wild Questions objected against the Ministers of the Gospel and many Sacred Acts and Offices of Religion. By R. Sherlock, B.D. and Minister of the Gospel.

A pathetical Perswasion to pray for the Peace of Jerusalem, by Dr. Griffith.

Sir Robert Philmore's Advertisement touching Witches to the Jury-men of England.

ΕΑΥΤΟΝΤΙΜΟΡΟΥΜΕΝΟΣ, or a Treatise of Self-denial.

The Image unbroken, or a Vindication of His Majesties Book entitled A Pourtraiture of His Sacred Majesty in His Solitudes and Sufferings, by B. Bramhall, in a Reply to Milton.

Certain Sermons and Letters of Defence by Dr. Mayne.

The Shepherds Oracle.
New Distemper.
Loyal Convert.
Solomon's Recantation.
Virgin Widow.
} By Fra. Quarles.

The Dippers Dipt, or the Anabaptists Duck'd & Plung'd over Head and Ears, the seventh Edition, by Daniel Featley, D.D.

Dr. Hammond's Ἐντεύξεων, or Degrees of Ardency in Christ's Praier, defended from the impertinent Cavils of Mr. Jeanes, by William Creed, D.D. Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Oxon.

Rex Theologus, the Preacher's Guard and Guide in his Double Duty of Praier and Preaching, deduced from Scripture, Reason, and the best Examples.

The Works of the Reverend & Learned Mr. John Gregory, late of Christ-Church Oxon, in two parts.

Books in large 8°.

ELenchi Motuum Nuperorum in Anglia Pars 1. & 2. Authore Georgio Bateo, M. D. Regiæ Majestatis Proto-Medico. new.

Nomenclatura Brevis in Usum Scholæ Westmonasterienſis. Corrected and newly reprinted.

The Estate of the Empire, or an Abridgment of the Laws and Government of Germany, faithfully done into English by an eminent person. new.

The Gentleman's Monitor, or A sober Inspection into the Vertues and Vices of Men and Families, with the Authors Application to the Nobles and Gentry of England. new.

A Discourse of Artificial Handsomnes between two Ladies in point of Conscience.

Small 8°.

SEveral Pieces of Mr. Richard Gove, Minister of the Gospel, viz.

1. The Communicants Guide, or Instructions to young and old how they may receive the Lord's Supper worthily.

2. Pious Thoughts vented in pithy Ejaculations. new.

3. The Saints Hony-comb.

The Catechism of the Church of England Paraphrased, by R. Sherlock, D.D. Rector of Winwick. The seventh Edition.

Books in 12.

A Collection of Private Devotions in the practice of the Ancient Church, called the Hours of Praier.

An Appeal to Scripture and Antiquity, in the Questions of 1. The Worship and Invocation of Saints and Angels. 2. The Worship of Images. 3. Justification by and Merit of good Works. 4. Purgatory. 5. Real presence & Half-Communion, against the Romanists. by D. Ferne.

The Doctrine of Irrespective Reprobation Reproved, wherein are all the Antecedent & Consequent Questions, & other Appendant Points Historically & Polemically discussed. By Tilenus Jun.

The End of the CATALOGUE.